PREFACE

This book was begun years ago as an appendix to a history of the Fourth Iowa Cavalry,* but was laid aside partly from want of time to complete it, and partly because it would have made that book too large. But men of the regiment have often urged the completing of the work, and one in particular, widely known and honored among the Veterans of the West for long and substantial labors in their interests, Charles H. Smith, Lieutenant of Company C, finally induced me to take it up again, and he, with the other officers of the Fourth Iowa Cavalry Association (a society formed by the survivors of the regiment), have given much attention to the work during its progress. To him and them the old soldiers and their friends are indebted for any gratification they may feel on reading these records.

The plan of the book is to give the whole military record of each man while a member of the regiment, excepting sick-list and hospital experiences not connected with discharge or death, and excepting individual service without casualty in campaigns, marches, or engagements. The sick-lists were ephemeral papers and could not now be found or justly collated; lists of hospital patients would be incomplete and imperfect, even if all the records were available, as they are not; and in view of the way in which the company records were kept it would be impossible to tell what men took part in any particular action or campaign. When the records were made no one was thinking of the future fame of individuals. It seemed enough to say that the regiment went into action or on a campaign with a given number of officers and men. The killed, wounded, captured, missing would finally be named, but no others.

The history given is that of the original records, supplemented by papers of my own and of other officers and soldiers, all verified with much care. But the great number of errors and contradictions found and traced to explanation makes it probable that many others remain hidden. I can say only that the work is as nearly correct as it could well be made, and certainly more nearly correct than the official records.

The regiment was organized by special authority of the War Department, obtained by the urgent request of Governor Kirkwood and the personal influence of James Harlan, then United States Senator from Iowa. In the early part of the war the War Department was willing to accept only a few regiments of cavalry, and it was felt as a kind of triumph when an order for the raising of this regiment was received.

Its camp was immediately established (October 17, 1861) at Mt. Pleasant, the home of Senator Harlan and of the proposed colonel, and was named Camp Harlan. This was a series of barracks and horse sheds at the western edge of the town, and as the equipping of the regiment was slow, the government finding it exceedingly difficult to obtain even a portion of the vast supplies then required, the camp became winter quarters.

All the original enlistments and nearly all of those of recruits were made "for three years or during the war," but a few recruits sent to the regiment in 1863 and 1864 were enlisted for one year. As given in this roster all enlistments are for three years if not otherwise stated.

The original organization was, or should have been, under G. Os. 15, 25 and 36 of 1861, War Dep. A. G. O., but no definite system prevailed among the mustering officers at that time, and many of their musters were not sustained. Some officers of the regimental staff had to be discharged after a few months under a ruling of the War Department that they were not authorized.

The mustering was begun November 23 and ended December 26, 1861; and the organization was then 1 colonel, 1 lieutenant-colonel, 3 majors, 1 adjutant, 1 quartermaster, 1 surgeon, 1 assistant surgeon, 1 chaplain, 1 sergeant-major, 1 quartermaster-sergeant, 1 commissary-sergeant; in the battalion staff, 3 adjutants, 3 quartermasters, 3 sergeant-majors, 3 quartermaster-sergeants, 3 commissary-sergeants, 3 hospital-stewards, 3 saddler-sergeants and 3 veterinary-sergeants; and 12 companies, containing each 1 captain, 1 first lieutenant, 1 second lieutenant, 1 first sergeant, 1 quartermaster-sergeant, 1 commissary-sergeant, 4 sergeants, 8 corporals, 2 buglers, 2 farriers and blacksmiths, 1 saddler, 1 wagoner, and about 80 privates. The companies were divided into three battalions of four companies each, the order being A, G, D, K in the First, C, F, I, L in the Second, and E, H, M, B in the Third, this order being always followed in regimental and battalion formation. The colors were placed on the right of the Second Battalion, and were thus in Company C.

There was a brass band of 1 leader and 16 men, but these were enlisted men in the companies, assigned to duty as musicians.

Later two men were promoted from one of the companies to the Non-commissioned Staff as the principal musicians authorized by G. O. 15, above mentioned, but they were called "Chief Buglers," and acted only as buglers. There was also an enlisted man assigned to duty as Wagon-master of the regiment, as if that were a position of the Non-commissioned Staff.

Then the quartermaster and later the adjutant were mustered out as unauthorized, not being lieutenants of the line assigned to extra duty.

Under an Act of Congress of July 17, 1862, and G. O. 126, War Dep., A. G. O., dated September 6, 1862, all the volunteer cavalry was reorganized. The battalion staff organization was dropped, and the men composing it (including the "Wagon-master") were discharged. The regimental band was also discharged. An adjutant, a quartermaster and a commissary were added to the Field and Staff, and 2 hospital-stewards, 1 saddler-sergeant, and 1 chief farrier to the Non-commissioned Staff, while the chief buglers were dropped. The company non-commissioned officers were increased 1 sergeant and 2 teamsters, but lost the two buglers.* The act of July 17, 1862, had provided for a chief trumpeter to each regiment and a supernumerary second lieutenant to each company, but the War Department did not order them mustered in.

* The men who had been buglers remained, however, and went on blowing just the same, though not recognized officially for some time.

Still other changes were made in the cavalry by G. O. 110, War Dep., A. G. O., of April 29, 1863. Two assistant surgeons were now allowed, the chief farrier was replaced by a veterinary surgeon, and a chief trumpeter was added. In the company the 2 teamsters were dropped (leaving 1 wagoner) and 2 trumpeters were added. This organization continued to the end of the war.

A few other positions, found necessary in practice but not provided for by law, were filled by detail of men from the companies, namely, wagonmaster, armorer, and wardmaster in the hospital.

When the regiment was mustered in it had 1086 officers and men. The long service under unhealthy conditions in Arkansas, immediately followed by the exhausting toil and frequent fighting in the Vicksburg campaign, greatly diminished its numbers, so that in June, 1863, it was not entitled to muster a colonel to fill the vacancy then existing. This difficulty was overcome by the influence of General Sherman, who had taken a special interest in the regiment, and a new colonel was mustered in soon after Vicksburg surrendered.

The diminishing in numbers continued, though not so rapidly after the fall of Vicksburg, until November, 1863. About 500 had then been lost, and the lowest point in numbers in the history of the regiment was reached. In December recruits began to come in, and they were added rapidly until May, 1864, when the highest point was gained, the rolls then containing 1,354 names.

Under a series of general orders of the War Department in the latter part of 1863, a large portion of the soldiers who had served two years reënlisted as Veterans. In the Fourth Iowa a large majority of those who were eligible reënlisted, a proportion which entitled it to be mustered as a Veteran regiment, which was done December 25, 1863. It proved to be one of the first Veteran regiments in the army and the first of the State of Iowa. Those who did not reënlist were discharged in December, 1864, at the end of the three years for which they had been mustered in.

The War Department was continually striving to get more men on the "duty" lists and also to put to service the mob of negroes who followed the camps. One of its devices in this direction was G. O. 323, of September 28, 1863, providing for the enlistment of "Under-Cooks of African Descent," two for each company. All of the companies of this regiment had been using negroes as cooks, but not all now took the trouble to formally enlist them. Many of those who were enlisted soon disappeared, on slight provocation or inducement, and no one cared to pursue them as deserters. Their names, too, were uncertain and usually limited to the single "Tom" or "Abe." So, although those who were enlisted were officially members of the regiment, any record of them would be so far from complete or certain that it has been thought best to omit them all from this roster.

When the war ended and the Confederates had quietly surrendered, not taking to the woods as guerrillas, as was half expected on one side, nor to death in last ditches, as had been promised on the other, the War Department set about reducing the numbers of the army. One of the orders it issued for this purpose was G. O. 77, of April 28, 1865, which directed that "all volunteer soldiers patients in hospitals, except Veteran Volunteers, Veterans of the First Army Corps, and enlisted men of the Veteran Reserve Corps, who require no further medical treatment, be honorably discharged from the service, with immediate payment."

It also directed that "all officers and enlisted men who have been prisoners of war and are now on furlough or at the parade camps, and all recruits in rendezvous except those for the regular army, be likewise honorably discharged."

Another of these orders was G. O. 83, of May 8, 1865, which directed that "all Volunteer soldiers of the cavalry arm whose term of service will expire before October 1, 1865, be mustered out and discharged immediately."

To avoid repeating the terms of these orders in all the cases to which they apply in this roster the hospital patients are reported discharged "as convalescent in [or 'from'] hospital," the prisoners of war "as paroled prisoner of war on furlough," and the third class as "term of enlistment to expire before Oct. 1."

Some of the military departments issued their own orders, designed to carry out these orders of the War Department; in particular the Department of Kentucky issued its G. O. 27, dated May —, 1865, in execution of G. O. 77, above mentioned. As the records of some men mention this G. O. 27, and not G. O. 77, they so appear in the roster.

The discharge of others is, in the records, referred to certain special authority or telegraphic orders received from the War Department direct during the same period. These special orders, however, nearly all prove to be merely supplementary to G. O. 77, and they are mentioned in the roster because given in the records as reasons for discharge.

When the regiment was mustered out many of its men who were in general hospital at different posts, from Iowa to Georgia, from Ohio to Arkansas, were not within the description of G. O. 77. These were entered on the final rolls and nominally mustered out with their several companies; and so they appear in this roster as "mustered out on Co. rolls as absent sick," etc. They are, therefore, counted in the summary as if present at final muster-out and discharge.

Many men served in different ranks and in different places in the regiment. Those whose service was all within one company are mentioned only once, in the highest place held, and the whole record is there given, while the others are named in each company in which they served.

The place-name in italics following the soldier's name is that of the town or county of his residence at the time of his enlistment. In some cases the records do not give the residence, but only the place of enlistment, and I have so indicated.

All places the names of which are not followed by the name of a State or other country are in Iowa. This is, of course, to avoid the otherwise very frequent repetition of the name of the State.

It may be noticed that there is apparent confusion between the titles "wagoner" and "teamster," and "bugler" and "trumpeter." Wagoners and teamsters were in fact the same in duties, and so were buglers and trumpeters; but the several successive orders of the War Department reorganizing the cavalry used these different names, and of course the names stood as ordered until a modifying order was issued.

It ought to be said that the men appearing on company rolls as "deserted" were not always deserters within the usual black meaning of the word. In a few cases in this regiment the crime must have been deliberately intended, but in the most of them the report became necessary under the regulations, which require that a soldier absent without leave be reported as deserted. He may have been originally sent away sick, or on furlough, or under lawful orders; but not returning or having his leave extended, he must in time be accounted for by his company commander. Yet he may have been dead or disabled; sometimes it was found that he had simply enlisted in some other command. Many volunteers had vague or loose conceptions of their position and obligations as soldiers.

The regiment was mustered out at Atlanta, Georgia, all the companies on August 8 and the Field and Staff on August 10, 1865. After a few days required for turning in its horses, arms and equipments, it was moved by rail to Davenport, where it was paid and finally discharged on August 24, 1865.

A list of the engagements of the regiment, excepting minor ones, appears in the history above mentioned, but for convenience of reference from the roster and to make some corrections, another list, reduced and revised, is printed here, immediately following the roster. This list contains only those engagements in which some of the regiment were killed, wounded or captured, the others, though some of them were important, having no necessary connection with a roster.

It had been proposed to have portraits in this book, and some photographs were received; but it was feared that if an effort were made to get pictures of all who were members of the regiment the number might be so large as to make their publication impracticable. It was finally decided to use only the pictures of the officers of the Association of the regiment, before mentioned, one being excepted, however, because it already appears in the book to which this volume is an appendix.

I am indebted to many comrades of the regiment, soldiers as well as officers—so many that they cannot be named here—for information and aid cheerfully given me; and two gentlemen of the Adjutant-General's Office at Des Moines, John L. Hume and

Thomas L. Stephens, have, with much patience and interest, made for me a vast number of special searches of the rolls and records of their office.

And to my wife I owe nearly all the work on the index, as well as constant help in the long and tedious labor of comparing and correcting.

FIELD AND STAFF

When the War Department authorized a fourth regiment of cavalry from Iowa the Governor had already chosen Asbury B. Porter for the Colonel and Mt. Pleasant for the place of rendezvous. It was to be the first camp at Mt. Pleasant, and the town and surrounding country were excited to the deepest interest. The greater part of the Field and Staff and nearly the whole of three companies (C, D, and K), as well as many in other companies, came out of that beautiful little city and its county.

The promise of the Field and Staff was excellent. It was composed of men of the highest standing in their several communities, some of them already experienced in the war. The Colonel, one of the Majors, the Adjutant and others had fought with Lyon at Wilson's Creek; the Lieutenant-Colonel was a brilliant officer of the regular cavalry; and the months spent in camp awaiting equipment offered an unusual opportunity for instruction and preparation.

The Colonel was an expert horseman; he supervised the purchase of the horses of the regiment and personally examined them all. No regiment could have been better mounted.

Changes in the Field and Staff were rapid and numerous after the regiment got into the field. Some were disabled by disease, others discharged because of erroneous muster, others promoted in later regiments, and others dropped under orders reorganizing the cavalry. Within a year of muster-in only 1 officer and 2 non-commissioned officers of the original Field and Staff remained, and its organization had been reduced by law from 44 in number to 19.

The whole number in the Field and Staff during the war (including battalion) was 44 officers and 45 non-commissioned officers, of whom there remained to be mustered out on the last roll 11 officers and 8 non-commissioned officers.

All of the non-commissioned officers reenlisted as Veterans, was originally raised for the Second Iowa Cavalry. It was called the "Sears' Rangers," in honor of E. H. Sears, a highly respected judge and patriotic citizen of Sidney. The men came from Fremont, Page and Mills counties, and were enlisted chiefly by Benjamin Rector, John Guylee, and J. Marshall Rust, all of whom were Methodist "preachers," Rector being also a lawyer. A large part of the men had been, in July, 1861, on an expedition into Missouri, mounted and armed, to quell a "Secessionist" rising there, and they formed this company immediately upon their return.

Under the Governor's orders the men were sworn into the State service, a part at Hawleyville, August 9, and a part at Sidney, August 10, 1861; and all went into camp August 26, near Sidney. On September 5 it set out to join the Second Cavalry at Davenport. The transportation being by farm wagons and saddle-horses, it took ten days to reach Davenport. In the meantime the Second was filled; and the Third, the last cavalry regiment then authorized, was also full.

The company remained in Camp McClellan, near Davenport, one month, until the War Department ordered the raising of the Fourth Cavalry. It at once offered for that regiment and moved to Mt. Pleasant, arriving October 17, 1861; and beginning immediately the construction of Camp Harlan.

It was mustered in November 23, 1861, and assigned to the First Battalion, first company, and to the right of the regimental line.

was composed mostly of men of Delaware county, though many came from Buchanan, Dubuque, Clayton and other counties. It was raised in August, 1861, chiefly by John H. Peters, who became Captain. It was intended for the Second Iowa Cavalry, and went to its rendezvous at Camp McClellan, near Davenport, but, for some reason not now known, did not join that regiment. It remained in Camp McClellan until the Fourth Cavalry was authorized, when it at once offered to join, and moved to Mt. Pleasant, arriving there with Company A, Oct. 17, 1861. As the second company in the regiment it was given the letter "B" and assigned to the Third Battalion and to the left of the regimental line.

It was mustered in Nov. 23, 1861. It had 3 captains, 3 first lieutenants, 5 second lieutenants, 46 non-commissioned officers, and 188 privates; or, deducting for repetitions by promotion in the company and transfer to other companies, it had 7 officers and 155 enlisted men, 162 in all, of whom 92 were original members and 70 recruits.

Its losses from all causes were 91, leaving 73 to be mustered out as a company at the end. Among the losses were 5 killed in action, 1 by accident, 18 died of disease (4 of them prisoners of war), and 19 discharged for disability caused by disease or wounds. It had 18 wounded, 12 captured, and 1 both wounded and captured, in action.

was the first of the companies which were raised directly for the Fourth Cavalry. As soon as Colonel Porter received authority to form the regiment, and partly under his influence, enlistments were made for this company at Mt. Pleasant. A large majority of its members lived in that town and the surrounding country. Simeon D. Swan (Major) and Orrin Miller (Captain) are credited with the greater part of the enlistments.

The company entered Camp Harlan Nov. 1, 1861, under Captain Miller, was mustered in November 25, 1861, and upon organization was assigned to the Second Battalion, first company, so becoming the "Color Company."

It had 3 captains, 3 first and 4 second lieutenants, 42 non-commissioned officers, and 105 privates; or, deducting for repetitions by promotion in the company and transfer to another company, it had 8 officers and 146 enlisted men, 154 in all. Of these 92 composed the original company and 62 were recruits.

Losses from all causes were 78, leaving 76 to be mustered out at the last. Among the losses were 3 killed in action, 2 by accident, 9 died of disease, and 24 discharged or transferred to Invalid Corps and Veteran Reserve Corps for disability caused by disease or wounds. There were 10 wounded, 2 captured, and 2 both wounded and captured, in action.

Of the original company 49 became Veterans, and in addition to its original 3 officers, 11 of its enlisted men were promoted to commissions, 5 in succession in the company, 5 elsewhere in the regiment, and 1 in another command. It also furnished 6 others to the Non-commissioned Staff.

From Aug. 1, 1864, to Dec. 20, 1864, this company was detached for service in the Provost-Guard at Memphis, Tenn.

COMPANY D

grew out of a body of "Home Guards" organized at Liberty, in the southeast part of Henry county, early in the summer of 1861, for the defense of the Missouri border. That body was raised chiefly by Cornelius F. Spearman and Lot Abraham, who went with it and other volunteers on an expedition into Missouri, at Athens on the Des Moines river, in August, 1861, to counteract a threatened invasion of Iowa by "Secessionists."

When the Fourth Cavalry was authorized the most of these men, with a party from Marshall, in the same county, led by John T. Tucker, organized a company for it. They chose Spearman for Captain and Coiner and Tucker as Lieutenants, and entered Camp Harlan October 21, 1861.

The company was mustered in November 25, 1861, and assigned to the First Battalion as the third company.

It had 2 captains, 4 first and 4 second lieutenants, 40 non-commissioned officers and 113 privates; or, deducting for repetitions by promotion in the company and transfer to other companies, it had 8 officers and 135 enlisted men, 143 in all. The original company numbered 82, 1 officer came from another company, and there were 60 recruits.

The losses from all causes were 69, leaving 74 to be mustered out on the last roll. Among the losses were 1 killed in action, 11 died of disease, and 22 discharged or transferred to the Invalid Corps and Veteran Reserve Corps for disability caused by disease or wounds. It had 17 wounded, 4 captured, and 1 both wounded and captured, in action.

Of the original company 49 became Veterans in December, 1863; and, in addition to the original 3 officers, 4 of its men became officers in the company and 3 in other commands.

was raised originally for a regiment of " Mounted Rifles " projected by General Frémont, then in command of the department. Alonzo B. Parkell began to enroll such a company in June, 1861, under authority from Governor Kirkwood, and held it until he became its Captain in the Fourth Cavalry. His headquarters were at Grinnell, and the men were found mostly in Poweshiek county. But the idea of " Mounted Rifles " was abandoned, and the company was offered a choice between the Fourth Cavalry and the Fourteenth Infantry. It chose the cavalry, and entered Camp Harlan October 24, 1861.

It is interesting that a considerable number of this company were students, the most of them in Iowa College at Grinnell.

It was mustered in November 23, 1861, and assigned to the Third Battalion as first company.

It had 3 captains, 4 first and 5 second lieutenants, 52 non-commissioned officers and 90 privates; or, deducting for repetitions by promotion in the company, it had 7 officers and 138 enlisted men, 145 in all, there being 95 in the original company and 50 recruits.

The losses from all causes were 76, leaving 69 to be mustered out as a company at the end. Among the losses were 1 killed in action, 12 died of disease (1 a prisoner of war), and 21 discharged or transferred to Invalid Corps and Veteran Reserve Corps for disability caused by disease or wounds. There were 6 wounded in action and 2 captured in action or by the enemy.

Of the original company 52 became Veterans in December, 1863. Besides the original 3 officers, this company furnished 9 others, 4 in succession in the company, 3 to other places in the regiment, and 2 to other commands.

COMPANY G

was raised chiefly in Lee county, though many of its men came from Henry. Some had been in the "Lancers" referred to under Companies I and L. The work was done by Tullis and Brown, who became the first officers, aided by Davis and Rodgers, who later became Captains, and Levee, who became First Sergeant. It was organized directly for the Fourth Cavalry, and appeared in Camp Harlan about the middle of November, 1861. It was mustered in November 27, and assigned to the First Battalion as second company.

In the Vicksburg campaign, at Milliken's Bend, La., May 1, 1863, it was detached for courier service along the lines in Louisiana, and was kept in that service until the fall of Vicksburg. When the regiment joined Wilson's Cavalry Corps, in February, 1865, it was again detached, as escort to Brevet Major-General Upton, commanding division, and so continued till the end of the war, while both its lieutenants were placed on General Upton's staff.

Company G had 3 captains, 3 first and 4 second lieutenants, 43 non-commissioned officers, and 126 privates; or, deducting for repetitions by promotion in the company and transfer to other companies, it had 8 officers and 141 enlisted men, 149 in all, there being 76 in the original company and 73 recruits.

The losses from all causes were 78, leaving 71 to be mustered out at the end. Among the losses were 4 killed in action, 15 died of disease (1 a prisoner of war), and 21 discharged or transferred to the Invalid Corps and Veteran Reserve Corps for disability caused by disease or wounds. There were 5 wounded, 8 captured, and 2 both wounded and captured in action.

Of the original company 35 became Veterans in December, 1863; and in addition to its original 3 officers, it furnished 8 others—5 to the succession in the company and 3 to places outside.

found the greater number of its men in Chickasaw county. Henry supplied about half as many, and Mitchell, Bremer, and Iowa sent each a substantial number. A few of the men enlisted in August and September, 1861, for cavalry service; but when the company was large enough, in the latter part of October, it was determined to organize it for the Fourth Cavalry. It was recruited chiefly by Crawford and Troy, who became Captain and First Lieutenant, aided by Haskell, who became Second Lieutenant, and Tinkham, who became Sergeant-Major of the Third Battalion.

The company entered Camp Harlan early in November, 1861, and was there organized. It was mustered in November 26, 1861, and assigned to the Third Battalion as second company.

It had 3 captains, 4 first and 6 second lieutenants, 43 non-commissioned officers, and 169 privates; or, deducting for repetitions by promotion in the company and transfer to other companies, it had 8 officers and 161 enlisted men, 169 in all, of whom 91 were original members and 78 recruits.

Its losses from all causes were 77, leaving 92 to be mustered out on the last roll. Among its losses were 4 killed in action, 2 by accident, 27 died of disease (1 a prisoner of war), and 16 discharged or transferred to the Invalid Corps for disability caused by disease or wounds. It had 9 wounded in action and 4 captured.

Of the original company 47 became Veterans, being a greater proportion of its eligible men than any other company reënlisted. In reward for this achievement it was assigned to the Colors, carrying from that time the regimental standard and a large silk flag presented by the Loyal Women's League of Iowa to the Fourth Cavalry as the first Iowa regiment to reënlist as "Veterans."

In addition to its original officers, this company supplied 5 to the succession in the company and 4 to service outside.

COMPANY I

was raised by William Pursel at Winterest, in September and October, 1861, chiefly of men of Madison county, though some came from Adair and Guthrie. It was intended for the "First United States Lancers," a regiment proposed or favored by General Frémont, then in command of the department. The Lancers were to be commanded by a "Colonel" Pleyel, and had a camp of rendezvous at Burlington. Pursel's company reached Burlington and went into camp October 24, but the Lancers regiment had little encouragement from the War Department, was never fully organized, and was disbanded or went to pieces November 16, 1861. Thereupon Pursel and his men accepted a proposal to join the Fourth Cavalry, and, with the approval of the Governor, went at once to Camp Harlan, not being deterred by the fact that the day was Sunday. All the men who appear in this roster of Co. I as enlisted in the Lancers were in Pursel's company. When the company came to Camp Harlan it was already organized, Pursel being Captain, Lambert First Lieutenant, and Overmyer Second Lieutenant.

It was mustered in December 5, 1861, and assigned to the Second Battalion as third company.

It had 3 captains, 5 first and 4 second lieutenants, 44 non-commissioned officers, and 102 privates; or, deducting for repetitions by promotion in the company, it had 10 officers and 142 enlisted men, 152 in all, of whom 82 composed the original company, 3 were added from other companies, and 67 were recruits.

The losses from all causes were 69, leaving 83 to be mustered out on the last roll. Of the losses 4 were killed in action, 1 was drowned, 17 died of disease (1 a prisoner of war), and 15 were discharged or transferred to the Invalid Corps for disability caused by disease or wounds. There were 9 wounded, 7 captured, and 4 both wounded and captured in action.

Of the original company 50 became Veterans in December, 1863; and, in addition to its original 3 officers, it had 3 others promoted to commissions in the company and 1 outside.

was enlisted at Mt. Pleasant directly for the Fourth Cavalry, and the original company was composed entirely of men living in Henry county. A portion of them had belonged to the "Home Guards" mentioned under Company D, and in that organization, under Captain Drummond, had marched to Athens in Missouri in the "Border War," in August, 1861. It was raised by the three men who became its first officers, aided by Vandersdol, who became First Lieutenant.

It assembled early in October, 1861, entered Camp Harlan about October 25, and was mustered in Nov. 25, 1861, and assigned to the First Battalion as fourth company.

It had 2 captains, 2 first and 3 second lieutenants, 50 non-commissioned officers, and 132 privates; or, deducting for repetitions due to promotion in the company, 1 transfer to another company, and 1 taken as deserter from another regiment, it had 7 officers and 135 enlisted men, in all 142, of whom 85 were the original company, 1 was added from the Field and Staff, and 56 were recruits.

The losses from all causes were 72, leaving 71 to be mustered on the last roll. Among the losses were 5 killed in action, 1 by accident, 11 died of disease, and 23 discharged or transferred to the Invalid Corps for disability caused by disease or wounds. There were 14 wounded, 8 captured, and 2 both wounded and captured in action.

It had 36 Veterans under the reënlistment orders, and, besides its 3 original officers, it furnished 5 others, 3 to the succession in the company and 2 to other commands.

In the assignment of horses this company was originally given the blacks, and so was known humorously as "the Black-horse Cavalry."

like Company I, grew from a company raised for Pleyel's (1st U. S.) Lancers. This company was assembled at Burlington in August, September, and October, 1861, under Captain Harris and Lieutenant Woods, and was composed of men from many different counties of the State. When the Lancers regiment was disbanded, November 16, 1861, the officers and a majority of the men agreed to join the Fourth Cavalry, and went to Mt. Pleasant in a body for that purpose, arriving November 19th. Others who had been in the Lancers afterward joined there; the company was thereupon reorganized as L, was mustered in November 25, 1861, and assigned to the Second Battalion as fourth company.

It had 3 captains, 4 first and 4 second lieutenants, 44 non-commissioned officers, and 129 privates; or, deducting for repetitions by promotion in the company and transfer to other companies, it had 8 officers and 130 enlisted men, 138 in all, of whom 69 were original members and 69 recruits.

Its losses from all causes were 71, leaving 67 to be mustered out on the last roll. Among the losses were 4 killed in action, 1 by accident, 10 died of disease, and 12 discharged for disability caused by disease or wounds. It had 13 wounded and 5 captured in action or by the enemy.

Of the original company 35 became Veterans, 4 were promoted to commissions in the company (in addition to the original 3 officers) and 2 in other commands.

COMPANY M

was enlisted in Jefferson county, in October, 1861, directly for the Fourth Cavalry. It was raised chiefly under the influence of Abial R. Pierce, who became Captain, and who had been a Captain of the "Home Guards" in the "Border War," in August, mentioned in the accounts of Cos. D and K. Some of the men of this company were also in that service. Frederick S. Whiting had been recruiting for a battery of artillery, but joined Pierce with his men, and became First Lieutenant.

The company reached Camp Harlan at the end of October, and organized itself there November 2d, electing as its first officers Pierce, Whiting, and Aaron J. Newby.

It was mustered in November 25, 1861, and assigned to the Third Battalion, third company.

It had 2 captains, 2 first and 2 second lieutenants, 39 non-commissioned officers, and 117 privates; or, deducting for repetitions due to promotion in the company and transfer to another company, it had 5 officers and 153 enlisted men, 158 in all, of whom 89 were the original members and 69 recruits.

Its losses from all causes were 77, leaving 81 to be mustered out on the last roll. Among the losses were 1 killed in action, 20 died of disease (1 a prisoner of war), and 23 discharged or transferred to the Veteran Reserve Corps for disability caused by disease or wounds. There were 6 wounded and 2 captured in action.

Of the original company 52 became Veterans, 2 were promoted to commissions in the company (besides the original 3) and 3 to commissions in other commands, one of the latter in the regular army. One of the recruits became a cadet at West Point after he was mustered out of this company, and in due time an officer in the regular army.

UNASSIGNED RECRUITS

A number of recruits who were enlisted for the regiment never joined, were not assigned to particular companies, and so did not appear on any company or regimental roll. Some died in hospital at rendezvous in Iowa, and perhaps some on the way to the camp of the regiment. Others may have been put on detached service, and so appear only on reports made out of the regiment; but it is probable, also, that some were "bounty-jumpers" or habitual "deserters," enlisting at different places under different names, to get the bounties or out of native cussedness. So no doubt some of the names are false.

To give all known means of identification the whole record in each case is printed here. The place next after the name is the residence in Iowa given on enlistment.

Burris, Jacob B., Mt. Pleasant. Born in Indiana, age 21; enl. and mustered in Sep. 1, 1862.

Clark, James, Jefferson Tp., Clayton Co. Born in Ohio, age 21; enl. Jan. 27, 1864, for Co. I; mustered in March 2, 1864.

Cook, William A. No record of age, residence, enlistment, or muster-in can be found; but he died Oct. 10, 1863, of congestive fever, in U. S. army general hospital at Camp McClellan, Davenport, and he was there reported as a private of the 4th Iowa Cav. Other (unofficial) evidence in the office of the Adjt.-Gen. of Iowa represents him as a recruit intended for Co. K, 4th Iowa Cav., and this is verified by Lieut. Vanorsdol of that Co.

Crosby, William. Age 42; enl. at Garnaville, Clayton Co., Sep. 13, 1864, for one year, for Co. H; mustered in Sep. 14, 1864.

Foster, Samuel A. Enl. Feb. 27, 1864, for H; mustered in March 16, 1864. Reported a Veteran, probably in relation to preceding service in another regt. Died on his way to join the regt., March 26, 1864, cause not reported, and buried in Nat. Cem. at Rock Island, Ill.

- Moon, James H., Otho, Webster Co. Born in New York, age 18; enl. and mustered in Jan. 16, 1864, for 3 years. Reported "Changed from 11th Pennsylvania Cav.;" but the age, residence, and nativity of a James H. Moon found in that regt. are so far different from the above that the two reports, if both true, cannot relate to the same man.
- Moore, Webb, Washington Tp., Warren Co. Born in Ohio, age 22; enl. and mustered in at Des Moines, Nov. 23, 1863.
- Morgan, Henry, Delaware Tp., Delaware Co. Born in Ireland, age 26; enl. Sep. 10, 1864, for one year, for Co. B; mustered in Sep. 14, 1864.

Van Cleve, John, Davenport. Born in New Jersey, age 21; enl. and mustered in Sep. 17, 1864.

Young, Jacob C., Waterloo Tp., Blackhawk Co. Born in Ohio, age 27; enl. Dec. 26, 1863; mustered in Jan. 5, 1864.

[NOTE.—Not the same man as Jacob C. Young in Co. B.]

REJECTED

The first rolls of the companies (except D and E) contain the names of men who were enlisted but who were not mustered in. They were "rejected" by the mustering officer, some for physical incapacity, some as being under or over the military age, but the most because they were not present at the muster. In all there were 52. Some who were minors succeeded later in getting in and some of the absent returned and were accepted, and the names of these appear in their companies.

The names of the others are not given here because, although some of them no doubt really tried to get into the regiment, it is certain that others, probably the most, did not, and it is not possible to say which are entitled to the credit and which are not.

ENROLLED BY ERROR

Eight names appear in certain rolls and reports in the office of the Adjutant-General of Iowa as of men in the Fourth Cavalry, though no such men were ever in it.

The first five are found in other regiments. They may have intended to go into this regiment, perhaps enlisted for it, but later, and before muster-in, chose other commands.

As to the remaining three no explanation is found except in the suggestion of clerical blunders. The men may have belonged to other regiments; if so, it must be that some careless official failed to get the whole of their records in the right places.

Dawson, John R., Ross Tp., Fremont Co. Born in Ohio; enl. May 2, 1864, for 3 years. Found in Co. E, 6th Iowa Cav.

Forney, Philip, Ross Tp., Fremont Co. Born in Illinois; enl. May 9, 1864, for 3 years. Found in Co. E, 6th Iowa Cav.

Johnson, James M., Scott Tp., Fremont Co. Born in Ohio, age 25; enl. April 30, 1864, for 3 years. Found in Co. E, 6th Iowa Cav.

Murphy, Thomas J., Alamakee Co. Born in Ireland, age 20; enl. Dec. 28, 1862. Found in Co. M, 2d Iowa Cav.

Stafford, Jesse, Scott Tp., Fremont Co. Born in Ohio, age 36; enl. and mustered in May 2, 1864, for 3 years. Found in Co. E, 6th Iowa Cav.

Jones, William. This name appears on the last (the muster-out) roll of G, with the remark, "Awaiting trial for forgery." It is not in the proper place alphabetically, but at the foot of the roll and in a handwriting different from the remainder. No other roll or report of Co. G or of the regt. at any time contains any evidence of the existence of such a man. The surviving officer and others of the company have no memory of such a man or of any man under such a charge.

Littler, George L. In a report of the regt. by the Adjt.-Gen. of Iowa this name appears as "enlisted Aug. 27, 1864," with the remark, "Never joined the Co. Mustered out Aug. 29, 1865." Such a man was never known in the regt. and never appeared on any of its rolls. He may have been an "unassigned" recruit, detained somewhere irregularly on detached service, but that is only a guess. The same name is found as that of a private in Co. F, 8th Iowa Inf., but enl. Oct. 1, 1861.

Wilder, James W. An early report of the Adjt.-Gen. of Iowa shows this name in Co. K, 4th Cav., with the remark, "Died Sep. 8, 1862, at Batesville, Ark." There is no other evidence. The name is not on any roll of any co. of the regt., no such man was known to the surviving officers of Co. K, and at the date given for his death Batesville must have been held by the enemy. He may have been at that time a prisoner of war from some other regt.

SUMMARY

The history of the regiment mentioned in the Preface contains (at pages 575 and 576) tables of statistics which, in some items, have been found incorrect. It was compiled from official reports based upon the original rolls, but, in examining the record of each member of the regiment for the purposes of this book, many errors and contradictions in those reports have been disclosed, which, so far as they affect the figures, are here corrected.

The men rejected by the mustering officer, who are included in that table because they were on the original rolls, are omitted from this. So are those found to be deserters from other commands.
