I N D O R S E M E N T.

The Adjutant General of Ohio has indorsed the Army Register of Ohio Volunteers in the Service of the United States, by the following request to the General Assembly for the purchase of fifteen hundred copies for the use of the State Military Departments:

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, COLUMBUS, April 24, 1862.

To the General Assembly, &c :

I have the honor respectfully to request that you make an appropriation for the purchase of one thousand copies of the "Army Register of Ohio Volunteers," for the use of this Department, and five hundred copies of the same, for the use of the Quartermaster General. The book has been accurately compiled from the records of this office, and is now in press, for publication, by Messrs. Hurtt, Allen & Co. It contains a complete list of Ohio Volunteers in the service of the United States, with a list of all casualties among the officers of which official notice has been received at this Department.

The necessities of the service require the publication of such a Register; and if it had not been undertaken by the parties named, I should have been compelled to to take the labor of it upon myself.

I have the honor to be your obedient servant,

C. P. BUCKINGHAM, Adjutant General.

Entered, according to Act of Congress, in the year 1862, by

CHARLES A. POLAND,

In the Clerk's Office of the District Court for the Southern District of Ohio.

The compilation of this Register has required much care and record research; and it is now as complete as a Register of Volunteers can possibly be made. It has been prepared with the utmost care, from the official records in the office of the Adjutant-General of Ohio, and its completeness and accuracy are fully and officially indorsed by the Adjutant-General, in his request to the General Assembly (which will be found on the opposite page) for the purchase of copies for the State Military Departments. In the spelling of the names in the Register some few inaccuracies will undoubtedly be found—a matter altogether unavoidable where they have passed through so many hands.

In the numbering of the regiments several numbers are blank and to which there are no regiments. This has occurred through the consolidation of parts of regiments. The Twenty-second, commenced at Chillicothe, under Colonel Gilmore, was consolidated with the Sixty-third, forming the Sixty-third; the Forty-fifth and Sixty-seventh were consolidated, forming the Sixty-seventh; the Seventy-ninth and Seventy-fifth were consolidated, and formed the Seventy-fifth; the Seventh Regiment of Cavalry, commenced at Hillsboro', under Colonel Collins, was consolidated with the Sixth, and forms the Sixth Regiment, the first battalion of which was ordered to St. Louis, in March, and the second and third to Wheeling Island, to join General Fremont's Department. The only regiment of Infantry not included in this Register, is the Sixty-first, which has just been formed by the consolidation of the Fiftieth, Fifty-second and Sixty-first regiments—the officers of this new regiment not yet having been commissioned.

Great credit is due to the officers of the three last named fragmental regiments, for their untiring efforts to complete their organizations. The Fiftieth was commenced under Colonel Ryan, at Hamilton, and was partially broken up by transfers, Col. Ryan died in October, and the organization of the regiment was re-commenced under Colonel J. S. McGroarty, and numbered about six hundred at the time of consolidation. The Fifty-second was commenced at Camp Dennison, under Colonel Jones, and continued under Colonel Sargeant. In February the regiment numbered about seven hundred men, who were distributed, by order of the Secretary of War; and, at the time of consolidation, it again numbered five hundred men. The Sixty-first was commenced at Lancaster, under Colonel Schleich, (a Brigadier-General in the three months' service,) in February, and had reached the number of five hundred and fifty men, when they, in like manner, were distributed to fill incomplete regiments. The regiment formed by the consolidation of these three fragments, will be the Sixty first, under command of Colonel Schleich.

In this connection we would express our thanks to Messrs. E. P. Christie and T. B. Mosher, for the aid rendered us in the compilation of the work; their knowledge of the business of the Adjutant-General's Department, from their long connection with it, has been invaluable to us in making the work complete. These gentlemen are our General Agents for the sale of this book, in the State of Ohio.

Should the War for the Union be unfortunately prolonged, we shall issue Quarterly Editions of the Army Register, corrected and revised up to the date of issue.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, March 24th, 1862.

Capt. T. W. TALLMADGE has been in the service of the United States, and of the State of Ohio, almost constantly since the commencement of the present war, having served upon the staff of Gen. Rosecrans and acted as Assistant Quartermaster of Ohio. He now proposes to retire from the service and engage in another business, in which he hopes to advance the interests of the soldiers. In every capacity in which Capt. TALLMADGE has acted for the Government, he has proved to be a man of good business habits, and his honesty and integrity of purpose have been evident in all his transactions with the Government. We cordially recommend him as a man entirely worthy of confidence, and one who will honestly carry out whatever he proposes to do. Having been a soldier himself, he is peculiarly adapted to the business in which he is now engaged, and to which he proposes to devote his time and energies.

HISTORIC REVIEW
THE REBELLION
AND OF

During the year that is passed our beloved country has been the theatre of one of the most formidable rebellions of which human history has ever made mention. And, for the manner in which that rebellion has been met by the spontaneous uprising of the loyal people, so prompt and firm, so sublimely heroic, the history of earth affords no parallel. When the Traitors struck their dastard blow at the Nation's heart, a Million of Freemen sprung forth to avenge the Country's wrong and vindicate the Nation's right. From that moment to this, the whole wide continent has been resounding with the clang of arms, and rocking beneath the martial tread of the mightiest armies that Earth's bosom ever bore. Events have been thrust upon the record of that single twelvemonth, so thronged and burdened with momentousness, as seemed sufficient to make even centuries bend. Since the revolution that gave independence to our country, nothing has occurred to mark the historic page with events so sublime, so patriotic and heroic. It is the second war for American Freedom. It is a war of self-preservation,—a war for the salvation of our Constitution and our Nationality. It is a contest forced upon us by red-handed treason; and is to be waged to its triumphant issue for the conservation of the highest interests and hopes of Humanity.

This great rebellion, though suddenly made manifest, was, nevertheless, long contemplated and secretly concocted. Its ramifications run back for years. It had been avowed, in South Carolina, long before acted upon. As early as 1856, Preston Brooks, the same who perpetrated the infamous and cowardly assault upon Mr. Sumner in the United States Senate, and then a member of the House of Representatives from South Carolina, in a speech at Charleston, said: "I tell you, fellow-citizens, from the bottom of my heart, that the only mode which I think available for meeting the issue is "just to tear the Constitution of the United States, trample it under foot, and "form a Southern Confederacy, every State of which shall be a slaveholding State!"

On the 6th day of November, 1860, the election for President resulted in the choice of ABRAHAM LINCOLN. On the very next day, the 7th of November, the telegraph announced that South Carolina, North Carolina, Alabama and Georgia were even then ready to secede; and cheers were raised for the Southern Confederacy. And on that same day the Palmetto flag was first raised at Charleston. On the 10th of November, South Carolina voted to raise and equip 10,000 soldiers: and this was but three days after the Presidential election. At this time the military force of the Government in the insurgent States were, at Fortress Monroe, eight companies of artillery; at Fayetteville Arsenal, North Carolina, one company of artillery; at Fort Moultrie, Charleston harbor, two companies of artillery, (Anderson's); at Augusta, Georgia, one company of artillery; Key West, Florida, one company of artillery; at Barrancas Barracks, (Fort Pickens) Pensacola, Florida, one company of artillery; total, eight hundred men, with about one hundred and twenty marines, at Norfolk and Pensacola. Thus it is evident that the Government was so totally unprepared, that the whole force with which to hold all the South in check was less than a single regiment of men! But, behold, what has she now! An army almost innumerable, and altogether irresistible.

On the 20th of December South Carolina passed her ordinance of secession. On the same day Hon. ANDREW JOHNSON made his great speech in the Senate, in which he urged upon the President, (Mr. Buchanan!) to enforce the laws at all hazards; and he, first, pronounced Secession to be "treason and nothing but treason." During all this month, and even long before, Floyd, then in the War Department, was stealing guns, ammunition, Indian Bonds, and whatever else he could lay hands upon: the guns, &c., he sent to the South, the bonds he put in his pocket, to the amount of $870,000.

Close upon the heels of this monstrous theft came the still greater villainy on the part of Floyd of ordering, as Secretary of War, the removal of one hundred and twenty-four heavy pieces of artillery from the United States Arsenal, at Pittsburgh, to the South: Seventy-eight of these guns were ordered to Galveston, Texas, and forty-six to Ship Island, (which our troops now hold,) near New Orleans. This villainous movement excited the people; and the sturdy Pennsylvanians resolved in mass that these guns should not leave Pittsburgh without a fight. And the result was that the guns did not go! The importance of these guns may be estimated from the fact that forty-four of them were ten-inch Columbiads, sixty-nine of them eight-inch Columbiads, and the remaining eleven were 32-pounders; and their total weight of metal was eight hundred and forty-four thousand pounds!

During the night of the 26th of December, Major Anderson adroitly removed his command of seventy men from Fort Moultrie to Fort Sumter, in Charleston harbor. Upon this being discovered, intense excitement prevailed at Charleston. The militia was ordered out, and everything wore the appearance of most passionate and frantic rage. It is a fact worthy of note that when the secession of South Carolina was announced in Congress by Mr. Garnett, of Virginia, the announcement scarcely attracted attention. The discussion on the Pacific Railway Bill was not even disturbed by it. And, throughout all the loyal States, the Freemen of the North remained calm, but firm and determined. The rage and clamor of South Carolina had no terrors for men who were not of such a nature as to be alarmed by bombast and fustian. This quiet calmness led the gasconading secessionists to suppose that the North were cowards and 'would not fight.' It is presumed that they have come to a conclusion somewhat different, since that!

Upon the secession of South Carolina, she appointed "Commissioners" to proceed to Washington to negotiate with the "Government of the United States," about division of the public property, forts, territories, &c., and to ascertain how much South Carolina should draw out as her portion of 'the concern.' This, with the announcement that Mr. Buchanan had authorized Major Anderson to surrender on demand from the authorities of South Carolina, exasperated the public mind to an intense degree. Still, perfect quiet was observed in the North.

Upon the opening of the New Year, 1861, the belief became universal throughout the East that the Secessionists intended to seize Washington City by force of arms, and prevent the inauguration of Mr. Lincoln; and the public were informed by well informed persons that the Federal City was in danger. Gen. Scott took immediate steps to defend the city as well as the means at command would allow. But it has since been made known, that, had an attack been made, the Capital of the Nation must have fallen into the hands of the rebels.

1861. The NEW YEAR was ushered in mid anxiety and gloom. The people beheld, with indignant amazement, the weak and purposeless course of Mr. Buchanan. They saw him conferring with rebel 'Commissioners,' and withholding aid from the suffering and starving garrison at Fort Sumter. They had read with bitter shame and burning anger his puerile Message, in which he gently condemned secession, and at the same time strongly opposed "coercion" as unconstitutional. They broke through his cobweb arguments about technicalities; and upon the solid basis of their own common sense, demanded of the Executive SELF-PRESERVATION for the Republic, which they knew could be saved only by the due enforcement of its laws.

Still Mr. Buchanan halted and hesitated. His utter weakness and inefficiency alarmed the country. Some called his conduct timidity; others pronounced it TREASON! His impeachment was freely discussed, while in many quarters more stringent measures were proposed; and even a Dictatorship was frequently suggested. Probably nothing prevented articles of impeachment against him, except the consideration that thereby the Vice President, the now infamous traitor, JOHN C. BRECKINRIDGE, would have become the acting Chief Executive, for the remaining two months of Buchanan's term. And the "do nothing" policy of Buchanan, bad as it was at that critical period, was deemed safer than the active secession policy that it was even then supposed that Breckinridge would inaugurate. Subsequent events have shown the wisdom of this course.

The people now began to arouse. The enrollment of volunteers was commenced, to be tendered to the Government for common defence.

On the 5th of January, an immense meeting of the Workingmen of Cincinnati was held; at which, resolutions of the most positive and patriotic character, demanding the preservation of the Union and the enforcement of its laws at all hazards and by any means, were adopted by enthusiastic acclamation. A similar meeting was also held on the same day in Philadelphia, at which similar sentiments were unequivocally expressed.

At this time the steamer, Star of the West, was fitted out at New York to carry supplies to our garrison at Fort Sumter, and sailed on the 5th of January to Charleston. On the 9th of January she reached Charleston harbor, and was fired upon from Fort Moultrie and a battery on Morris Island, which the Secessionists had occupied after Major Anderson's masterly movement of his command into Fort Sumter. By orders from the War Department Major Anderson was commanded not to open fire from Sumter unless he was himself first attacked! He was, therefore, compelled to stand quietly by and see the Flag of his Country, floating upon the Star of the West, fired upon by rebels in arms against the Government. The Star of the West, being an unarmed vessel, of course, had to retire from the contest, and returned to New York with her mission unfulfilled.

Mr. Holt, of Kentucky, was now called into the War Department, in place of Floyd; and new energy and confidence began to be felt at once. At this time the plot to seize Washington City became well known, and was even openly advised by despatches from Savannah and Charleston, as an efficient mode of preventing the inauguration of the President elect.

On the same day that the Star of the West was fired into, January 9th, Mississippi passed the ordinance of secession by a vote of sixty-two, to seven; and the day following, Alabama passed a like ordinance by a vote of sixty-one, to thirty. On the 13th of January the Navy Yard at Pensacola was seized; but Lieut. Slemmer, stationed at Fort Pickens, prepared for action and bade them defiance. This prompt and patriotic act of Lieut. Slemmer saved Fort Pickens to the Government.

On the 18th of January the Georgia State Convention, in secret session, declared for secession by a vote of one hundred and sixty-five, to one hundred and thirty--Secession having only thirty-five majority in two hundred and ninety-five votes. On the 19th the ordinance was passed by a vote of two hundred and eight, to eighty-nine.

On the 25th of January, Louisiana passed her ordinance of secession by a vote of one hundred and thirteen, to seventeen. On the 30th of January the Revenue Cutters Cass and McClelland, were betrayed by their commanders into the hands of the rebels, although Secretary Dix had ordered his agent to shoot down the first man who should attempt to lower the American flag. The traitors acted too soon.

February 1. Texas passed her secession ordinance by a vote of one hundred and six, to seven. On the 9th of February the Seceding States formed their Provisional Constitution, at Montgomery, Alabama; and Davis and Stevens were made President and Vice President of the "Confederate States of North America."

On the 11th of February, Mr. Lincoln, the President elect, set out from Springfield, Illinois, for Washington, preparatory to inauguration. His course was one continued ovation. In Cincinnati, Columbus, Cleveland, &c., immense throngs greeted him. At New York full two hundred thousand people turned out to give him welcome: so, too, at Philadelphia, where he made a memorable speech to the citizens in Independence Hall. From Philadelphia he went, by invitation of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, to Harrisburgh. At this time, both Gen. Scott and Mr. Seward had received information at Washington, from sources that could not be discredited, of a plot for the assassination of Mr. Lincoln before he should reach Washington. This information had reached them severally, and without either knowing that the other was possessed of the knowledge of the plot. Both, therefore, took measures to apprise Mr. Lincoln of the danger. Mr. Seward sent a special messenger to Philadelphia, (his own son,) who, finding that Mr. Lincoln had gone to Harrisburgh, pressed on for the purpose of reaching him before he should leave. He found Mr. Lincoln there and made known his errand, with such proofs that left no doubt of the existence of the infernal plot. Without making the matter known, even to his family, the President took measures for an immediate departure for Washington. Baltimore was designated as the point where the plot was to be consummated; and it was expected that he would reach that city the next day. But instead of remaining over night at Harrisburgh, a special train left that evening with him on board. He reached the connection just in time, and passed through Baltimore unknown, and surprised everybody by appearing safely in Washington at 4 o'clock next morning. The proofs on this subject have accumulated since that time to such a degree that there remains no longer a doubt but that secession villains had pledged to take the life of the President for the sake of Southern gold.

MARCH. On the 18th of February, Gen. Twiggs had surrendered, or rather betrayed, the United States army, and stores to a large amount, into the rebel hands in Texas, of which Department he had command; and on the first of March the War Department ordered that "David E. Twiggs be dismissed from the Army for treachery to the flag of his country."

On the FOURTH OF MARCH, 1861, ABRAHAM LINCOLN was inaugurated as the sixteenth President of the United States; and the imbecile rule of James Buchanan expired.

There were apprehensions of some outbreak on the part of the secret band of assassins who had previously sought his life at Baltimore. But General Scott had taken such wise precautions that such purpose was foiled. President Lincoln was introduced to the immense throng at the Eastern Portico of the Capitol, by Senator BAKER, of Oregon, who afterwards fell so gloriously fighting at the 'slaughter pen' of Ball's Bluff. On the same day Texas seceded. On the 9th of March the rebel congress passed an act for the establishment and organization of their army.

The actual vote of the State of Louisiana on Secession was given on the 28th, showing, for secession, 20,448; against, 17,296—only 3,152 majority in a total vote of 37,744, while at the Presidential election, in November, her total vote was 50,501.

APRIL. This was a month prolific of momentous events. All eyes were turned upon Major Anderson's little band at Fort Sumter. There was great activity in all the Navy Yards and Armories. The public saw that serious movements were on foot, and the anxiety was intense. On the 7th the steam transport, Atlantic, sailed from New York, laden with troops and supplies. Among the troops was Captain Barry's celebrated company of Flying Artillery. On the 8th, notice was given to the Charleston authorities that supplies would be sent to Major Anderson by an unarmed vessel; and if refused, that supplies would be sent by force. Four thousand rebel troops were summoned by Beauregard to Charleston. During that night United States vessels were reported off the harbor; signal lights were displayed at Fort Sumter, and the 'long roll' was heard all night in Charleston.

On the 9th, Governor Curtin, of Pennsylvania, urged upon their Legislature prompt action to supply men and arms. On the 10th, the Charleston papers proclaimed that "war was begun," and that there were seven thousand troops in their fortifications.

Ben. McCulloch, the notorious Texan ranger, and who has since got his quietus in the battle at Pea Ridge, Arkansas, was known to be in Virginia, and was contemplating a dash upon Washington with a view to seize the Federal Capital, and orders were issued to collect militia at the Washington armories. On the 11th several Pennsylvania volunteer companies tendered their aid to the Government. The Confederate Commissioners took their final leave of Washington City, in a scolding and insulting letter to the President.

On the 12th of April Beauregard notified Major Anderson, at 3:30 in the morning, that fire would be opened upon him in one hour. And at half past four o'clock on the morning of the 12th, the fire of the rebel guns was opened upon the National Flag at Fort Sumter! THE GREAT DRAMA OF THE REBEL-

LION WAS THEN OPENED! Seven thousand men, with one hundred and forty pieces of artillery, attacked Fort Sumter, held by a band of but seventy United States soldiers! At 7 o'clock, after Major Anderson and his men had break-fasted, the guns of Sumter opened upon the rebels. Civil War was thus inaugurated. The bombardment continued all day, and during the night. On the morning of the 13th, the officers' quarters within the fort took fire from a shell, and the heat from the fire, added to the heat of the day, rendered the atmosphere almost insufferable. At noon the whole quarters were in flames, and the danger of its reaching the magazine was great. The smoke became so thick that the men cou'd not see each other. The powder from the magazine had to be rolled into the sea. There was no ammunition but the cartridges in the guns. These were fired at intervals, to show that they were not silenced. At one o'clock the flag staff was shot away; but the Stars and Stripes were then nailed to the cut piece and raised on the ramparts. The officers and men were then compelled to lie flat upon their faces in the casemates and hold wet cloths to their mouths to escape suffocation. At this time Wigfall came with a flag of truce, and terms were made for the evacuation of the Fort. The men were allowed to remove all their company arms and property, to take with them their flag, under which they had so bravely fought, and be safely removed to any part of the United States that Major Anderson might select. They were brought to New York.

Such was the assault upon our National Flag: this the opening scene of the Great Rebellion. This act demonstrated the fact that those who had leaped into rebellion had determined to break up the Government and destroy the Union. Then, one deep, determined, and devoted feeling of loyalty burst forth from the people, which swept over the land like a baptism of flame. All hearts were fired, all minds fixed, with the desperate determination to stand by the Country, to sustain its Constitution, to enforce its laws, and avenge the insult that had been offered to the National Flag. Never before was such an uprising of a whole people known in all the foregone history of Time. A year has now passed, and all its records show with what steadiness of purpose and inflexibility of action that stern determination has been fulfilled.

Upon this event becoming known, the Government took active measures for the protection of Washington. The President issued his proclamation, calling out seventy-five thousand men for three month's service to assist in quelling insurrection, at the same time calling a session of Congress on the 4th of July. Money was offered and men tendered from all quarters. On the 19th a rebel flag was raised on Federal Hill, Baltimore, and saluted with cannon, when some workingmen rushed out of the foundries and tore it down, and threw the cannon into the river. On the same day the President announced by Proclamation the blockade of the Southern ports. On the same day a portion of the Sixth Massachusetts and of the Seventh Pennsylvania were attacked in the streets of Baltimore by a Secesh mob. After being pursued, hooted, pelted, and bruised with stones and pistol shots, whereby two of the Massachusetts men were killed and eight wounded, the soldiers fired into the mob, of whom seven were killed and many wounded. The mob then, after the departure of the troops, rioted in Baltimore; seizing arms everywhere, and breathing forth slaughter. On the 20th, Gosport Navy Yard, opposite Norfolk, was abandoned, and property to the amount of  fifty millions  destroyed. Among these were ten vessels of war, including some of the finest of all our navy. Of these the Merrimac was one; which the rebels have since raised, and converted into an iron-clad "monster," that now has become a formidable affair.

At this time the Southern papers stated that General Scott had torn up his commission from the United States, and had offered his services to the Confederates; and cannon and bonfires all through the South gave token of their rejoicing thereat. General Scott, when informed of it, immediately telegraphed to Mr. Crittenden these words: "I HAVE NOT CHANGED: HAVE NO THOUGHT OF CHANGING: ALWAYS A UNION MAN!"

Within six days from the President's call, Massachusetts had ready five full regiments of infantry, a battalion of rifles, and a splendid corps of flying artillery. The Secessionists made public burial of the United States Flag at Memphis, on the 25th of April. It bids fair to come to a glorious resurrection at the end of a single twelvemonth!

During this month a great change in the public mind was manifested in Maryland. Their Delegates were in session at Annapolis, where General Butler had military command. It was rumored that a Secession ordinance was contemplated. Thereupon General Butler notified them that, if such ordinance were passed, he would arrest them for treason. At the same time the people of Western Maryland sent word to their delegates that, if they passed such an ordinance, they would hang them upon their returning home. This prompt and decided demonstration both by the people and the government, roused the Unionists, sustained the wavering, and put a quietus on secession in Maryland.

Up to the last of April there had been seventy-one thousand troops offered to Gov. Dennison, of Ohio, to fill the thirteen regiments required from that State by the President's call.

MAY. During all the month of May, rebel troops were pouring into Virginia. On the 6th, that State was admitted into the Confederacy. This villainous work was done by her Convention in secret session, under the gag, and at the point of the bayonet in the hands of an insolent and drunken mob. On the same day Arkansas seceded by a vote of sixty-nine, to one. It came now to be known that the rebel leaders had designed to assault the City of Washington between the 18th and 21st of April; when both General Scott and Mr. Lincoln were to be assassinated, and the city fired at different points. And in the tumult and excitement, the rebel army was to carry the city by assault. This has been since established by a telegram in cypher from Beauregard himself. Their plans were delayed by the delay in securing the Virginia act of secession. That delay was fatal to their scheme.

During this month advices were received from Europe showing that the rebel emissaries had been over all that country endeavoring to procure loans on their Confederate bonds, for purchasing arms and munitions of war; but without success. On the 24th of May, the First and Second Ohio Regiments of Ohio Volunteers, numbering one thousand and eight hundred men, reached Washington. The First was commanded by Colonel (now General) McCook, and the Second by Colonel Wilson. These troops excited great admiration at Washington, for their good order and superior military drill. On the 27th, Jeff. Davis issued his instructions to privateers under the rebel flag. At the same time the Senate of Kentucky resolved to stand by the Old Union, and refused the offers of joining the confederate rebels. General Mansfield made a forward movement, and took position on the "sacred soil of Virginia," with thirteen thousand troops. In this advance the town of Alexandria was occupied by the Union forces. At this place a secession flag had, for some days, been flying from the top of the Hotel known as the Marshall House, and in full view of the White House at Washington. Col. ELLSWORTH, of the regiment of Zouaves, went alone upon the roof of the building and cut down this flag with his knife, and was bringing it away from its position, when he was suddenly met upon the stairway by a man named Jackson, with a double-barrelled gun. He fired one charge full into Colonel Ellsworth's bosom; it went directly through his heart, and he fell instantly dead. One of his Zouaves, named Brownell, had just reached the spot when his colonel fell; and Jackson turned the other barrel upon him and fired. But Brownell, at that moment, threw up the gun, and instantly fired his own charge full into Jackson's face, hitting him precisely between the eyes. In an instant of time both Colonel Ellsworth and his assailant were dead upon the stairway. The body of Colonel Ellsworth was taken to Washington by his mourning regiment, and was buried from the President's House. He had been a young friend of Mr. Lincoln, who shed tears of sorrow over the Young Hero's fall by assassination.

On the 25th of May, some negroes who had belonged to a Colonel Mallory, a rebel, living near Hampton, made their way to Fortress Monroe; and were claimed (under a flag of truce) as fugitives from service, under the Fugitive Slave Law. General Butler, then in command of the Fortress, replied to this demand, that, "under the peculiar circumstances he considered the fugitives contraband of war." And thus, for the first time, came the word "contraband" to be used as a term for an escaped slave: a term that will not soon loose its meaning in that connection. On the 28th of May, the blockade of the mouths of the Mississippi went into force. Gen. McDowell took command of the Potomac army; and the First Virginia regiment, Col. Kelly, moved upon Grafton, followed by the Sixteenth Ohio, Colonel Irvine; and the Fourteenth Ohio, Col. Steadman, occupied Parkersburgh, Virginia. On the last of May, postal communication with the seceded States was suspended, by order of the Post Master General.

JUNE. On the first of June the bombardment of the rebel batteries at Acquia Creek, took place. Our gunboats shelled out the rebels and destroyed their railroad structures at that place. This was the first demonstration of serious work on the Potomac. On the 3d, our troops, consisting of four companies of Col. Steadman's Fourteenth Ohio, with his artillery, under Lieutenant-Colonel Sturgis, and four companies of Colonel Crittenden's Sixth Indiana, with the First Virginia regiment, under command of Dumont, attacked Phillippi, and put the rebels to utter rout. The rebel forces from the Cotton States had long been gathering in Virginia, and had now taken position at Manassas; and on the 5th, Beauregard arrived from South Carolina, and took command of their army. On the 10th, the heavy guns of our forces at Cairo were put in position; and then, for the first time, a thirty-two pound shot was sent booming and buzzing across the Mississippi as a warning to rebels.

On the 10th of June the affair at Great Bethel occurred; in which our forces met with a considerable loss, and were forced to retire. This result was attributed to some serious blunders on the part of officers in not throwing out any advanced guard in their night march; in consequence of which the Third New York regiment was fired into by our own forces, under Col. Bendix, and thrown into confusion. And again, Colonel Townsend, mistaking some of the Vermont forces for the enemy, ordered his troops to fall back, when the Zouaves, being left without support, also retired; and thus, a big blunder, lost us the day at Big Bethel. Our killed were thirteen, and wounded thirty. On the 11th, the Western Virginia Convention met at Wheeling, and a Provisional Government for the State formed the important subject of consideration. On the 14th, the rebels evacuated Harper's Ferry, consigning all that was valuable, including cars, bridges, &c., to the flames, and leaving the place a scene of utter desolation. During all of June the army on the Potomac was being continually strengthened, and public expectation was intent upon the contest that was regarded as inevitable in that region of Virginia. The rebels were collecting at Manassas, and strongly fortifying their position.

On the FOURTH OF JULY Congress convened in extra session, pursuant to the President's Proclamation. "The Glorious Fourth" was celebrated throughout all the loyal States with a degree of enthusiasm and unanimity unknown since the days of '76. All party issues and considerations were disregarded, and the whole people united in renewing their vows of devotedness to the UNION and the CONSTITUTION.

On the 5th of July the Carthage battle was fought, between Colonel Sigel, and the rebels under Jackson and Rains in Missouri; in which Sigel gained a decisive advantage, and caused a loss to the rebels of some four hundred in killed and wounded. Great anxiety was being felt for General Lyon's safety. On the 11th the battle of Rich Mountain was fought, in Western Virginia, between Ohio, Indiana and Minnesota troops, under Gen. Rosen-cranz, and a rebel force two thousand strong, under Colonel Pegram. The fight was desperate for an hour and a half, when the rebels fled precipitately, leaving six cannon, munitions, &c. Our troops behaved most gallantly in this sharp engagement. After the rebels were routed, General McClellan pursued them vigorously to Beverly; and on the 13th, Col. Pegram offered to surrender his command, thus putting about one thousand prisoners into our hands. On the 14th, the fight at Carrick's Ford took place, at which the rebel Colonel Garnett was killed, and his forces utterly routed.

On the 16th of July General McDowell, in command of the army of the Potomac, commenced a forward movement towards Richmond! The force consisted of fifty-three thousand men, of all arms. On the 18th the head of our army was directed on Centreville; and a junction of the forces under Beauregard and Johnson was anticipated. On the same day our troops occupied Fairfax Court House. On the 19th dispatches were received at Washington that our troops had taken the rebel battery at Bull Run, after a skirmish, in which we lost thirty killed and wounded. It was also announced that General Patterson was advancing towards Winchester. On the 20th there was no fighting. On the 21st, General McDowell ordered up his whole column and opened the attack, when occurred that dreadful disaster at Bull Run! Our troops went gallantly into the fight, took three batteries, repulsed the rebels at all points, who were beginning to fall back in retreat, when a sudden panic seized upon teamsters and civilians in the rear of our lines, which communicated its effects to the troops on the field. Thus panic stricken they turned back from their own success, and actually ran away from their own victory! The stampede was an awful exhibition of fright and confusion and dismay. Many never halted till Washington was reached. There intelligence had been received of our success during the entire day; and the next announcement was of our most disastrous retreat. So disabled were the enemy that they did not even attempt a pursuit. Some of them even escaped to Richmond without knowing that they had retained the field, and actually announcing their own defeat as they went. Such was the Bull Run battle;—a defeat on our part without cause, and a victory on their part without merit. At the critical moment of the fight General Johnson reinforced Beauregard by the junction of his whole command; and blame was attached to General Patterson for not engaging Johnson to prevent that important reinforcement to the rebel column. The rebel force then was about seventy thousand. The excitement throughout the country became intense; and the people rushed to arms by whole regiments, with the fiery determination to wipe out the stain of that most fearful disaster. And most nobly have they done it!

On the 29th of July General Cox occupied Gauley Bridge, having driven the rebels, under Wise, out of the Kanawha Valley. August the 10th, the battle of Springfield, Missouri, was fought, in which that heroic officer, GENERAL LYON was killed, while bravely cheering and leading his men in one of the severest fights of the whole campaign. The rebels under Price and McCulloch were routed. But as their forces greatly outnumbered ours, Gen. Sigel, who succeeded to the command, fell back to Rolla, to await reinforcements. Just a month from this time, September 10, General Rosencranz defeated Floyd in Western Virginia in a hard fought battle, near Summerville. Floyd ran away during the night, leaving all his camp equipage, &c. On the 15th, Lexington, Missouri, was invested by the rebels, under Sterling Price. The Union forces under Colonel Mulligan made a most heroic defence, until the 21st, when, being surrounded by four times their number, and entirely cut off from water, the place was surrendered.

Just one month from the surrender of Springfield, occurred the still more terrible disaster at Ball's Bluff, on the Potomac, which involved the loss of many brave soldiers, and in which the lamented Colonel Baker, United States Senator from Oregon, was killed. This event, by reason of the miserable generalship that directed it, was received by the country with grief mingled with the sternest reprehension of General Stone's management of the affair; and he was ordered under arrest. His case is still undisposed of.

On the 7th of November Port Royal, on the coast of South Carolina, was taken by our fleet, under Commodore Dupont, by one of the most brilliant engagements recorded in the annals of naval warfare. This gave our forces a fine harbor as a base of operations along the whole coast; and opened the cotton region of the coast to our occupation. On the 25th our forces occupied Tybee Island, in view of Fort Pulaski, that commanded the entrance to Savannah harbor. On the 18th, news reached Washington that Commodore Wilkes, of the San Jacinto, had arrested Mason and Slidell, rebel emissaries to Europe, and returned with them. They were confined at Fort Warren.

During all the period from the Bull Run affair, on the 21st of July, to Christmas, our army on the Potomac had been increasing and drilling, but without any forward movement; and the quietude of the Potomac became a stereotyped phrase.

1862. The present year was inaugurated by the achievement of a very important victory at Mill Spring, Kentucky, by our forces, under General Schoepff; in which the rebel General Zollicoffer was killed, and his army utterly routed. That was on the 19th of January. And from that time forward it has been a continued succession of Union victories; all of which are so fresh in mind as to scarcely need extended account.

On the 6th of February Fort Henry, on the Tennessee, was taken, by bombardment from our gunboats, under Commodore Foote, with co-operation of the land forces, under General Grant. On the next day Gen. Burnside's fleet took Roanoke Island, North Carolina, defeating the rebels utterly, taking many prisoners and an immense quantity of stores.

On the 13th Fort Donelson, on the Cumberland, was assailed; and after three days of desperate fighting and a succession of heroic charges, the Fort, on the 16th, surrendered, unconditionally, to our forces under General Grant. By this we secured immense stores, all their arms, and about 13,000 prisoners. During the night before the surrender, Generals Floyd and Pillow made an inglorious exit under cover of darkness, and escaped. Our gunboats immediately proceeded up the Cumberland, and Clarksville and Nashville fell into our hands without opposition.

On the 6th of MARCH our troops, under General Curtis, overtook the army of Price and Vandorn, at Pea Ridge, in Arkansas. The rebels had been driven out of Missouri, and had prepared themselves for battle at this place. The attack was made on the 6th with desperate energy on both sides. During the day the rebels rather gained ground upon our position, and nearly outflanked our column. During the night, by a skillfully executed movement, General Curtis changed his line of battle, and, on the next day, completely routed the whole rebel force, chasing them off among the Ozark hills, and dispersing their whole command. In this fight both Ben McCulloch and McIntosh were killed. The rebels had some eight hundred or one thousand Indian warriors in their ranks; and, in order to stimulate them to savage ferocity, gave them whisky mixed with gunpowder to drink just before going into the fight; which so excited the savages that they killed and scalped more of the 'secesh' than of the Unionists.

On the 8th of March occurred that remarkable fight between the iron clad vessels in Hampton Roads that has attracted the attention of the world. The rebel ship Merrimac, clad in iron armor, with an iron prow, coming down from Norfolk, attacked our wooden war vessels Cumberland and Congress, and almost immediately sunk the former and burned the latter, their shot having no effect upon the armor clad monster. It was then met by the Monitor, constructed with the Ericsson Revolving Battery, and also iron clad. The firing was awful, yet neither gave way. Their guns were almost muzzle to muzzle, and yet could make no breach in those iron walls. At length a shot from the Monitor pierced the port holes of the Merrimac and did terrible execution. The rebel monster then gave way, and was taken in tow by consorts near by, and tugged back to Norfolk. This remarkable conflict will, doubtless, revolutionize the whole system of naval warfare and harbor defence.

On the 14th of March the battle at Newberne, North Carolina, was fought, and the rebels again routed. On the 23d occurred the battle near Winchester, Virginia. It was one of the most brilliant affairs of the whole war. The rebel General Jackson had promised himself and his men certain success. His friends had even prepared supper for him and his officers in the town of Winchester. But, he was met by our forces under General Shields with such invincible firmness and unconquerable valor, that his army was speedily put to utter rout, leaving a large number of dead and wounded on the field.

On the 6th and 7th of APRIL was fought the great battle at Pittsburgh Landing, in Tennessee, near the Mississippi line. This was the hardest fought battle ever fought upon the American Continent. The rebels were at Corinth, some sixteen miles from our lines, under Generals A. S. Johnson and Beauregard, and full eighty thousand strong. Our force at Pittsburgh Landing was not more than thirty-five thousand effectives. On Sunday morning, the 6th, our advanced lines were suddenly surprised by an overwhelming mass of rebel troops. Great confusion ensued. Our troops, falling back, soon came into line, and met the assault. The rebels fought with the fury of desperation. All of Sunday the terrible battle raged with horrible carnage upon both sides. Our troops were driven from their camp, back upon the Tennessee river, hotly pursued by the rebels. Here the gunboats got in position, and raked the rebel ranks with a most destructive slaughter. This repelled them; and night coming on, both armies slept upon their arms. But during this strife the enemy had got possession of our camp. At evening General Buell arrived with a heavy reinforcement; and on Monday the conflict was renewed. But by noon the rebels fell back in confusion, and soon after, retreated to Corinth, having lost some ten thousand in killed and wounded, and their commander-in-chief and three other generals among the killed on the field.

On the same day, the 7th, the rebels surrendered their strong position at Island No. 10, on the Mississippi, to Commodore Foote, of the Flotilla, and General Pope, in command of the land forces. This was effected without the loss of a man on our side; and was accomplished by some of the most brilliant strategy known in the annals of modern warfare. On the 11th of April, the strong hold, known as Fort Pulaski, commanding the Savannah harbor, was bombarded by our guns, and literally blown to pieces. Its garrison of five hundred men surrendered unconditionally, and were all taken prisoners.

This closes the list of Union victories for the suppression of the rebellion, as down to the present period. The rebels are now massed in two positions,—at Yorktown and at Corinth,—where they are closely invested by powerful armies, and decisive battles are imminent and inevitable. Other than at these two points they have no considerable force. If they fail there, as fail they must, the doom of rebellion is sealed, and that right soon.

Never has there been a rebellion so causeless and so wicked; never has a people shown such a steady determination to maintain their good and glorious government at all hazards and every sacrifice; never has a nation manifested such military power and resources; never have quiet citizens stepped at once from the quiet pursuits of peace into the bloody arena of war with such readiness, and sustained themselves there with such unflinching valor and heroic fortitude. In the hands of such soldiers and under the guidance of wise and patriotic counsels in the Administration the country is safe; and posterity shall rise up and call those BLESSED whose patriotism has enabled the Government to outride this storm of rebellion.

From one of the leading Merchants of Cincinnati.

The following, from one of the leading merchants of Cincinnati, is a sample of similar cases daily occurring in all parts of the country:

"It is now nearly six years since I purchased a Grover & Baker Machine; after using it a few months I was persuaded by some friends to sell it and get a Wheeler & Wilson's, as it made the stitch the same on both sides, and, also, there would be a great saving of thread; but a short trial soon convinced me that the work made by that machine would not wear or stand washing, without running up, and when stretched out the stitches would break, so that it, in reality, took more thread (to say nothing of the time spent in repairs) than our old machine; then the Ladd & Webster machine loomed up, and I was told that was the PERFECT MACHINE, but I soon found out there was a good deal of trouble with the tension, besides being very slow, and the sooner I got a Grover & Baker Machine the better, which I did over a year ago, and we have had complete satisfaction ever since.

THOMAS M. REDHEAD, Cincinnati, O."

WRITING FLUID AND BLACKING.—We have called attention to the advertisement of Speers' Western Chemical Writing Fluid and Blacking Laboratory. The Writing Fluid we have in constant use in our counting-room, and pronounce it equal, if not superior, in every respect, to the celebrated Arnold Ink, and greatly superior to the Bottle Ink. A good article of Copying Ink is a desideratum, the article before us is all that could be desired. The Carmine Ink is also a very superior article. The Blacking and Oil Polish is fully equal to Mason's. Let the public try them if they would procure a good article without failure.

HELMBOLD'S GENUINE PREPARATION.

“HIGHLY CONCENTRATED”

COMPOUND FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU,

A positive and specific remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel, and Dropsical Swellings.

This medicine increases the power of Digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the watery or calcerous depositions, and all unnatural enlargements are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation, and is good for Men, Women or Children.

Helmbold's Extract Buchu,

For weaknesses arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion or Abuse, attended with the following symptoms: Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, Weak Nerves, Trembling, Horror of Disease, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision, Pain in the Back, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the Skin, Eruptions on the Face, Pallid Countenance. These symptoms, if allowed to go on, which this medicine invariably removes, soon follows Impotency, Fatuity, Epileptic Fits, in one of which the patient may expire.

Who can say that they are not frequently followed by those “direful diseases” INSANITY and CONSUMPTION. Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, but none will confess. The records of the Insane Asylums, and the melancholy deaths by Consumption, bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion. The Constitution once affected with Organic Weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most skeptical.

FEMALES, Old or Young, Single, Married, or contemplating Marriage. In many affections peculiar to Females, the Extract Buchu is unequalled by any other remedy, as in Chlorosis or Retention, Irregularities, Painfulness, or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Leucorrhœa or Whites, Sterility, and for all complaints incident to the sex, whether arising from Indiscretion, Habits of Dissipation, or in the Decline or Change of Life. See symptoms above. No Family should be without it. Take no more Balsam, Mercury, or unpleasant Medicine for unpleasant and dangerous Diseases. HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU CURES SECRET DISEASES, in all their Stages; at little Expense; Little or no change in Diet; No inconvenience; and no Exposure. It causes a frequent desire and gives strength to Urinate, thereby Removing Obstructions, Preventing and Curing Strictures of the Urethra, allaying Pain and Inflammation frequent in this class of Diseases, and expelling all poisonous, diseased and worn-out matter. Thousands upon thousands who have been the victims of quacks, and who have paid heavy fees to be cured in a short time, have found that they were deceived, and that the “POISON” has, by the use of “powerful astringents,” been dried up in the system, to break out in an aggravated form, and perhaps after Marriage.

Helmbold's Extract Buchu

IS THE GREAT DIURETIC, and it is certain to have the desired effect in Diseases for which it is recommended. Evidence of the most responsible and reliable character will accompany the medicines. Certificates of cures, from 8 to 20 years' standing, with names known to science and fame. “Physicians” please “Notice.” We make “no secret” of “ingredients.” Helmbold's Extract Buchu is composed of Buchu, Cubebs and Juniper Berries, selected with great care by a competent druggist. PREPARED IN VACUO, BY H. T. HELMBOLD, Practical and Analytical Chemist, and Sole Manufacturer of HELMBOLD'S GENUINE PREPARATIONS.

AFFIDAVIT.—Personally appeared before me, an Alderman of the city of Philadelphia, H. T. HELMBOLD, who being duly sworn, doth say, his preparations contain no narcotic, no mercury, or other injurious drugs, but are purely vegetable. H. T. HELMBOLD.

Sworn and subscribed before me, this 23d day of November.

WM. P. HIBBERD,
Alderman, Ninth Street, above Race, Philadelphia.

Physicians in attendance from 8 a. m., to 8 p. m. Price $1 per Bottle, or Six for $5. Delivered to any address, securely packed from observation. Address letters for information in confidence to H. T. HELMBOLD, Chemist, Depot, 104 South Tenth Street, Philadelphia.

. Beware of Counterfeits and Unprincipled Dealers,

who endeavor to dispose “of their own” and “other” articles on the reputation attained by Helmbold's Genuine Preparations; Helmbold's Genuine Extract Buchu; Helmbold's Genuine Extract Sarsaparilla; Helmbold's Genuine Improved Rose Wash.

For sale by Green & Button, Drake Brothers, H. Bosworth & Sons, Harrington & Co., F. Cassin, H. Fess, Jr., C. H. Gardiner & Co., N. Grenlich, F. Kalkhoff, E. A. Lee, L. Meier, Morton & Fowler, E. Meyer, C. H. Orton, J. Rice, W. C. Schmitt, H. Schwefel, F. C. Spindler, J. H. Tesch, C. Warnecke, and all Druggists everywhere. Ask for HELMBOLD'S. Take no other.—Cut out the advertisement and send for it, AND AVOID IMPOSITION AND EXPOSURE. Describe symptoms in all communications. CURES GUARANTEED. ADVICE GRATIS

ATTORNEYS AT LAW.

Procure Soldier's Bounty, Back Pay, and Pension.

WILL ALSO

Collect All Military Claims against the Government of the United States and the State of Ohio.

When a Soldier or Volunteer is killed or dies in the service of the United States, his widow is entitled to all the pay due him, and $100 bounty in addition. If there is no widow, his heirs are entitled to it. This is payable at once.

Write us the Facts,

And we will procure all such back pay and bounty. It will be paid as soon as the claim can be audited at Washington. Those who delay until thousands of others have filed their claims ahead of them, will be obliged to wait a long time for their money.

All Soldiers

Wounded, diseased or disabled in the service, are, according to the decision of the Attorney General of the United States, entitled to ## Pension.

This applies to the Three-months Volunteers, as well as all soldiers in the present war.

Bounty.

All soldiers who serve for a period of two years, or till the end of the war, if sooner ended, are entitled to $100 bounty. Great delay will be occasioned in collecting this bounty, at the end of the war, owing to the great number which will have to be paid.

Leave your claim with T. W. Tallmadge & Co., before the end of the war, and they will have everything prepared to ensure its speedy collection.

Write to Us

And we will give you all the particulars. Our soldiers from Chio should direct all their letters to Columbus, Ohio. All others may direct to Washington City, D. C.
