Seventh I do will and bequeath the money arising from said sale to my three youngest daughters to be equally divided among them, the money when collected to be loaned at interest until they come of age. Eighth I do will and ordain that the property thus allotted for housekeeping and farming shall accrue to my three youngest daughters to be equally divided as they come of age. And I do further will and ordain that my executors shall not be accountable for any of said property which may die or be otherwise lost until said daughters come of age: and further I will and bequeath to my eldest son John Jolly fifty acres of land adjoining the improvement which he now occupies, and according to the bond which I have given him: I also will and bequeath to my son James Jolly fifty acres of land adjoining John's fifty acres and binding the Widow and Proctor lands. I will and bequeath to my son Thomas Jolly fifty acres of land in the North West corner of my plantation adjoining Proctor and Hopkins. I also will and bequeath to my son Samuel Jolly the remainder of my plantation, the land to be divided between Thomas and Samuel to be run as to leave my dwelling house in Samuel's part.
