PREFACE.

THIS work was begun in 1871, but after some fifteen months of labor, was laid aside because of the pressure of other duties. In January, 1886, it was again taken up, and the work done thus far is here presented.

Following the tradition of my family, that Connecticut was the early home of my ancestors, investigation was made in that direction, and a large amount of material gathered, when the unreliability of the tradition became evident.

A study of the first four generations of all the various families of the name then followed, and the right line found. It seemed that the results of that study might be of use to some future student, if they were placed in an accessible form. The hope that this might be the case is the excuse for the first hundred pages of the text.

It is only too evident that many lines in the Salem family have been dropped. This has been from inability to trace them in the time allotted for the work. It seemed that the book must be published this spring or not for several years. This must be the excuse for the incompleteness. It is the expectation to publish some time in the future, an enlarged and revised history of the Salem family of Thomas Cole, and in anticipation thereof correspondence is solicited, with a view to making the work complete. It may not come for five years, nor for twenty-five, but if time and strength and length of days are granted, it will come.

The published matter relating to the families has been freely used, and in most cases credit given. The list of those who have aided in gathering material, and who have helped with encouraging words, is too long for insertion. Thanks are given to them all. Those who might have supplied information, but neglected to answer the letters of inquiry, are not aware how much disappointment they have caused us. We ask better treatment for the next genealogist who writes to them. The list of those who have encouraged us by their subscriptions will be found at the close of the volume.

THE HARTFORD FAMILY.

SKETCH NO. I.

JAMES COLE, the first of this family in America, was b. in England, probably in Essex County. He married and was left a widower, with one little daughter, Abigail (Elizabeth<sup>2</sup>).

He then m. Ann Edwards, the widow of the Rev. Richard Edwards, a Puritan minister of London. She had one young son, William Edwards.

Soon after this marriage, Mr. Cole, with his wife, daughter and step-son, emigrated to New England. They may have gone direct to Newtown, now Cambridge, or they may have been of the party that settled at Mt. Wollaston, and then removed to Cambridge.

They joined the party which, under the lead of the Rev. Thomas Hooker, left Cambridge in October, 1635, for the Connecticut Valley.

After two weeks of toilsome journeying they reached the present site of the city of Hartford, and purchased land of the natives, and made their settlement.

Mr. Cole's name appears on the lists of the original settlers as given by Hinman, and by Porter, and also on the monument erected by The Ancient Burying Ground Association of Hartford, in memory of the original settlers.*

The settlers purchased of the Indian chiefs the tract of land running west from the Connecticut river six miles, east and west, and bounded on the north by Windsor, and on the south by

It is probable that the meadows had been cleared and cultivated by the Indians before this. The lands were divided among the original purchasers, as house lots, plow lands, wood lands, etc., and small house lots were granted to settlers who were not proprietors.

The original town plat occupied nearly the same space as the older part of the present city. The central part was divided into lots called two acres each, and distributed among the original proprietors, and on the border were half acre house lots granted to other settlers.† West of the town was a large stretch of land set apart as a commons for pasturage, and west of that was a very large tract of land that was afterwards divided among the proprietors.

The most distinguished families among the first settlers were located on the east side of the present Governor street; on the two sides of the Little (Farmington) river; on the Main street in front of the State House; and south of the Little river.

James Cole had the lot on the corner of two streets, called in the old records the one "The road from Moody's to the ox pasture," or "The road to Wethersfield." This is now Main street.

The other was called "The road to Wethersfield," "The Road from Wm. Hill's to the ox pasture," "The road to the ox pasture." This street was originally named Cole street, and retained that name till March 10, 1851, when it was changed to its present name of Governor street, because five Governors of the colony and State had lived thereon.‡

Adjoining Mr. Cole's lot on the north, was the lot of Thomas Judd, and next to that was the estate of George Wyllys, a Governor of the olony, on which estate stood the famous Charter Oak.

Across the street to the east from Mr. Cole's was the estate of Thomas Hosmer.

The following record is found in the hand writing of John Allyn, who transcribed the names from the old town book into the records in 1665:

"The proprietors of the undivided lands in Hartford, with each of their proportions in one division, as follows, according to which proportion they paid for sayd land."

In this list is the name "James Coale, 12, 10."*

Mr. Cole was a cooper by trade, and probably had apprentices, as John King came to the colony when 16 years old, in 1645, and lived with Mr. Cole till he was of age.†

He d. in 1652. His will was as follows:

I, James Cole, of Hartford, upon the river of Connecticut, being of perfect memory and soundness of minde, doe according to my duty, (knowing the frailty of my body, and uncertainty of my life, for the preventing of distraction to myself while I live, and differency in my family when I am gathered to my fathers), make and ordaine this, my last will and testament, and do dispose of that outward estate wherewith the Lord hath of his abundant mercy blessed me, in the manner following:

Impri. I give to my deare and well beloved sonn and daughter, Daniel and Abigail Sullivane, my new dwelling house in Hartford, with all other out-housings, orchard, garden, homelott, with all the appurtanance thereto belonging, with one piece of land, being about five acres more or less, lying pennywise, within Wethersfield bounds; as also one parcel of upland, being about fower acres more or less, lying about the Wolf Pond.‡ all which fore mentioned lands and housings I give to them and their heirs forever, provided that my son Daniel and my daughter Abigail, pay yearly to my well beloved wife, Ann Cole, the just and full sum of three pounds in good current pay, during her natural life; further my will is that my wife should have an upper room at the south end of my new dwelling house during her widowhood, with free liberty of egress and regress without molestation. Further, my will is that shee my wife Ann Cole, should have the use of their fireing for her own use in every respect; and also any fruit or herbs in the orchard or garden for her owne particular spending; as also the use of the well belonging to the house. Further, if my wife desires to keep a cow, or a hogg, or some poultry for her particular use, she providing meat for them, my will is that she shall have yard room for them where my son Daniel's cattel are usually yarded.

ITEM. I give all my cooper's tools equally to be devided between my well beloved son William Edwards, and loving cousin Henry Cole.

ITEM. I give my deare and well beloved wife, Ann Cole, all my house hold stuff of any kind undisposed of, with all my cattel and crop of corn now on the ground, with all my debts owing to me, provided that she pays all my just debts, and defray all that charge which shall be thought necessary by the overseers of this my will, for my christian burial, also I doe desire and appoint my trusty and well beloved friends, Mr. John Webster and William Gibbins, overseers of this my will, and further I doe appoint my deare and well beloved Ann Cole to be my sole executrix of this my last will and testament.

JAMES COLE.

Witnesses, JOHN WHITE,
THOMAS HOSMER.

Now, although there is no mention in the will of any son I am confident that he had a son, John. Hinman says, (page 204) that he had, and in the division of public land in November, 1674, the record says (Porter, p. 45) that John, the son of the original settler, James Cole, received 18 acres, and a year or two later in another division he received 15 and 5-8 acres. Again, in 1655, John Coal, residing on Wethersfield Lane, was admitted a freeman. Now Wethersfield Lane was where James Cole had lived (Porter, page 36). Savage says that he had a son by his first wife, named John, who probably died young, but on what he based his judgment I am unable to say.

Ann Cole, the widow of James, d. February 20, 1678 (9).

She evidently saved something from her income during her widowhood, or else had property of her own, as she sold two pieces of land, one of two acres in the west field to Mr. Lord, (old Record Book, page 134), and one of three acres in the pine field to Jonathan Gilbert, January 17, 1677(8). (Old Record Book, page 460).

She gave her house and lot to her son, William Edwards,* dur-

*William Edwards, the step-son of James Cole, was made a freeman in 1646, and resided on the north side of State Square. (Porter, p. 36.) (Goodwin, 48).

He m. Agnes Spencer, the widow of William Spencer, of Concord, about 1645, and had a son, Richard, b. May, 1647, who was the only child.

William d. in 1672, (Goodwin, p. 48). His son Richard d. April 20, 1718, leaving the lives of William and his wife, then to vest in her grandson, Richard Edwards, and his heirs forever. The estate was 103 pounds, and Richard was appointed administrator.

The children of James Cole were

Some three years after her father's death, her husband having died, she sold her interest in her father's estate to her brother, John Cole, for £112. In that conveyance she is called Elizabeth, and is mentioned as living in the colony of New Haven.

JOHN<sup>2</sup> COLE (James<sup>1</sup>), the only son of James Cole by his first wife, was b. in England. I am of the opinion that he came to the colony of Connecticut sometime after his father was established there. He was admitted as a freeman in 1655, three years after his father's death, and he may not have come to the colony till after that event. He is stated as living on Wethersfield Lane and that was where his father had lived. In the will of James Cole his property was left to his daughter and her husband, subject to certain life estate of the widow. Soon after his death his son-in-law also died, and in 1655 John bought the interest of his sister in the property. The sister, Abigail, (so called in her father's will) or Elizabeth (so called in the deed), had in the meantime removed to the New Haven colony. The contract of sale is a curiosity, and is given at length:

"This Indenture witnesseth that I Elizabeth Sullivant of New Haven widdow doe by these presents bargain and sell and by these have bargained and sold unto John Cole of Hartford all that my house and home lott and all the meadow and lands and accommodations belonging and appertaining unto the same. And in consideration hereof I the said John Cole doe hereby promise to pay or cause to bee paid

And for the sure and true payment thereof we have hereunto set our hands this third day of October 1655.

With the sayd house and accommodations is also at the same prize of fifty eight pounds alowed a bedstead and a table.

HENRY WOLCOTT."

Savage says that Mr. Cole was Constable in 1657. That office was in former times a very honorable and dignified one, and was held by the reliable men of the colony.

In the oldest book of records in Hartford is given a list of his real estate for taxation. The list is as follows:

Lands belonging to John Cole.*

1. One Parcel of land in the Ox pasture, which he bought of John Whitting, Dea. Edward Stribling and others, containing by estimate about eight acres, abuting on the highway leading to Wethersfield on the west, on Mr. Hames meadow on the east, on Philip Davis's land on the north, and on Mr. Hopkins' Ox Pasture on the south. Recorded Jan 11, 1665.
2. One Parcel of land which he bought of Thomas Hosmer containing five roods, lying in the forty acres belonging to the south meadow, and is grass land, and abuts on John White's land on the north, and Thomas Selding's land on the south, and on Ben. 3. One Parcel of upland which he bought of John Wilcox containing seventeen acres, abuting on a pond in John White's swamp on the east, upon Wethersfield bounds on the south, on the highway on the west end of the Ox Pasture Lots on the west, and on G. bounds or John Cole's land on the south, on John White's on the west, on Thomas Standish's Island on the east, and on James Steel's on the north, as by deed of February 18, 1673. Recorded January 23, 1674.

6. One Parcel of Swamp land of five and a half acres, bought of John White abutting on John Cole's land the Wethersfield bounds on the south, on John Cole's land on the east and west, and on John White's and Thomas Wells' on the north, as by deed of February 16, 1674, and acknowledged April 9, 1675.
7. One Parcel of land lying on the east side of the Great River which he bought of William Edwards, containing one acre and three roods abutting on Thomas Spencer's land on the north, on lands of Nathaniel Barding's heirs on the west, on Thomas Olcott's land on the east, and on the highway from the river eastward on the south, as by deed of April 9, 1675.
8. One Parcel lying in long lots abutting on the highway on the north, on land of N. Rogers on the south, on the Commons on the east, and on the Farmington bounds on the west, containing eighteen acres, being six rods wide. (This was a portion of the large tract of land lying between the Commons and Farmington, which the proprietors on January 30, 1672(3), voted to have laid out in lots and divided. This division was consummated in November, 1674. The lots were laid out of different widths but were all one and one-half miles long. The town had previously voted (February 9, 1671(2), "That when any of the undivided lands shall be laid out every proprietor for himself and those he stands for shall receive his proportion of what lands shall be agreed to be laid out, according to the rule for division of lands agreed upon and entered in the town book dated January 3, 1639, of which this on the other side (James Coale 12, 10, etc.), is a copy of the proportion. In this division Lot No. 22, went to John Cole, son of James, (Porter pp. 41-43).
9. One parcel of land given him by the proprietors on four mile hill abutting on the highway from Farmington to Wethersfield on the east, on the land of J. Mitchel and others on the west, Philip Davis land on the north, on Joseph Smith's land on the south, containing fifteen and one half acres, 25 rods wide and 100 rods long, as laid out by James Steel and certified to January 2, 1681, and recorded the same day. (This is a lot of land that he got out of the land disposed of by the following: "At a meeting of the proprietors of the undivided lands in Hartford January 3, 1677(8). The proprietors voted..... It was also voted that the piece of land lying next Wethersfield bounds, and is an overplus after the lots are laid out, shall be laid out in five tiers of lots; the middle tier of lots shall be 20 acre lots, the tier next the town commons 10 acre lots, the others 15 acre lots; and those to whom the lots shall be given are not to sell them before they are fenced in and improved." John Cole got lot No. 3 in the third tier. (Porter pp. 45-46.)
10. One parcel of land which he bought of Elizabeth Sullivant, containing 3 acres and 2 roods, abutting on the highway on the south, east and west, and on the land of Thomas Judd on the north. (This was the land he bought in 1655 and was the old homestead of James Cole.)

11. One parcel of land bought of Elizabeth Sullivant formerly land of Mr. Hollister, containing five acres, abutting on J. Wilcox land on the east, James Cole's land on the north, and the Great river on the west. Recorded June 4, 1684.

So it will be seen that in twenty-two years he had obtained possession of over eighty acres of land.

The following from the Court Records of Hartford, refers to him:

"June 8, 1661, General Sessions. This Court, taking into consideration ye estate yt is in John Cole's improvement, yt formerly belonged too Edward Hopkins Esq., doe order that ye shal require and take into his custody and improvement, ye rent of ye house and land at Hartford from John Cole, and to be accountable for ye same, when ye Court shall call him ther' wnt.——— Ye Treasurer and Willm Wadsworth aer desired to acquaint John Cole that ye Court expects him to continue in ye improvement of ye farm according to his lease, and it lieth with them to inform him that ye Court desires and is ready to encourage him in the business in the future."

This land was a large tract of meadow on the south side of the Farmington or Little river, and east of the Main street, extending towards the Great or Connecticut river.

In his will, dated August 4, 1683, are bequests as follows:

That his son John, of Farmington, should have 30 pounds payd him out of the estate, besides what he hath had, and that he should also have his wearing clothes; that his daughter Benton, and his daughter Wilson, should have five pounds apiece, also paid out of it; that his son Job, in England, should have ten pounds, if it can be conveyed to him; and that his loving wife should have six pounds a year allowed her out of his estate while she liveth, and a cow, which shall be kept also winter and summer, and she shall have her wood; and the rest of his estate shall be divided between his sons Samuel and Nathaniel, excepting the housing and home lot, and his wife consenting, that is that his son Samuel should have the home lot as wide as his own down to the ditch, and that he should have twenty bushels of apels a year for six years; and the rest of the houseing and houselot should be given to his son, Nathaniel; only his wife shall have two rooms in the house while she liveth, if she see cause to live there, and she shall have the disposal of the household stuffs; and Hannah Yeoman shall have forty shillings, and his will is that Ensign Nathaniel Stanley and Stephen Hosmore, his loving friends, would see the performance of this his will. Witness this 4 August, 1683.

STEPHEN HOSMORE,
BENJAMIN GHRIMES.

JOHN COLE.

Book 4, page 237. The inventory of John Cole's estate, deceased, taken the 17th day of November, 1685, his wearing apparel and other personal estate together with the real estate was inventoried, and the amount of the inventory was 396 pounds, 18 shillings, 6 pence.

At a Court held at Hartford, March 4, 1686, the following was recorded:

"The last will and testament of John Cole was exhibited in Court, proved and ordered to be recorded, with an inventory of his estate, and this Court grants administration on the estate to same, and Nathaniel Cole, with the will annexed." (Bk. 4, p. 117.)

He died in 1685.

It is his daughter that is referred to in the curious letter of the Rev. John Whiting to the Rev. Increase Mather, dated at Hartford, October 4, 1682, and giving an account of the case of Ann Cole, supposed to have been bewitched, in 1662, by a woman who was next door neighbor, and who was afterwards executed. Mr. Cole is referred to as "a Godly man among us." The minister says that Ann recovered from her strange fits after the death of the witch. The letter, with a full account of the witch, may be found in Massachusetts Historical Collections, Fourth Series, Vol. VIII, p. 466.

The children of John Cole were:

3. i. JOHN, b.
- ii. JOB, b.—— He is mentioned in his father's will as living in England. He probably always lived there.
4. iii. SAMUEL, b.—— d. 1694.

3

JOHN<sup>3</sup> COLE (John,<sup>2</sup> James,<sup>1</sup>) the oldest son of John and Mary ——— Cole. He settled in Farmington, and was one of the prominent men of the town. November 30, 1657, he was elected constable, which office he held for two years. The following receipt is copied from the records:

“HARTFORD, 1657.

“Received of John Cole, constable for this year in Farmington, the sum of fifteen pounds five shillings, wick is for that town's proportion in the year of his constablenesship. In witness of the fact, I say received this day, 30th Novembr, 15 pounds 5 shillings.

JOHN CULLOCK.”

In May, 1669, he was Commissioner for the town.

The children of John and Rachel Cole were:

6. i. John, b. 1665.
- ii. Rachel, b. 1668.
7. iii. Samuel, b. 1676.
8. iv. Nathaniel, b. 1678.

SAMUEL<sup>3</sup> COLE (John,<sup>2</sup> James,<sup>1</sup>, ). He was a freeman of Hartford, but the records do not show that he held any public office.

The list of his land for taxation is as follows: (Hartford Records, Book I, page 10.)

Land belonging to Samuel Cole in 1685-6:

Home place, containing one acre three roods, abuting on the highway on the south and west, and on Watson's and Nath. Cole's land on the North, on Nath'l Cole's land on the east.

The Ox Pasture of eight acres on the Wethersfield road, abuting on the highway leading to Wethersfield on the west, on Henry Ghrime's land on the south, on Phillip Davis's land on the north, and on Mr. Haines' meadow on the east.

One parcel in the south meadow, which was James Steel's, and abuts on said Steel's land north, Wethersfield bounds south, Thomas Standish's east, and Nathaniel Coale's land west. (2 a.)

One parcel in the Ox Pasture of fourteen acres, and abuts on the Wethersfield road on the east, on the bounds between Wethersfield and Hartford on the south, on Nath'l Sanford's land north, and on a highway on the west.

One parcel in the long lots containing eighteen acres, abutting on Farmington on the west, on Hartford Commons on the east, on the highway on the north, and on Rodgers' land on the south, which became his by his father's will and the division of Samuel and Nathaniel. Recorded Mar. 12, 1684.

Thus it will be seen that in the division between Samuel and Nathaniel, under their father's will, that Samuel took parcels No. 1, No 5, 14 acres of No. 3, No. 8, and one and three-quarters acres of the west part of the homestead, (on which he built his house,) while Nathaniel took the rest of the homestead and the other parcels, except No. 11. Of this I find no mention in the share of either.

His will is as follows:

"I, Samuel Cole, of Hartford, being weak in body though in perfect memory, and not knowing the day of my death doe ordayne this my last will and comit my spirit in to the hands of Jesus Christ my Redeemer and my body to a comly buriall at the discesion of my executors and after all my just debts and funeral expences are payed I dispose of what estate God has trusted me with in manner and form following:

I give to my beloved wife Mary the use of all my estate untill my children shall atayn their ages, the sonns of twenty one years and the daughter eighteen years of age.

I give to my wife a third part of all my moveable estate and to rooms in my dwelling house which she shall choose during her widowhood and a third part of all my land during her natural life.

I give to my son Samuel Cole my house and barn and house lot.

I give to my son Ickabod my land at the Ox Pasture, bounding on Goodman Davis north, and Benjamin Ghrimes south.

I give to my other two sons John and Jonathan all my land at poke hill to be equally devided between them.

My will is that my three daughters, Elizâbeth, Dorothy and Hannah shall have twenty pounds apiece out of my estate.

My will is that if there any estate left it be equally devided between my children and if any fall short that each should abate according to their proportion given them and if any of them dye before they atayne the age above sayd that then the part or parts shall go to the survivors equally between them and I leave it with my executors and overseers hereafter mentioned according to their best discretion to put my sons out to trades that may be most suitable.

I desire and appoint my loving wife executrix of this my last will and when my son Samuel Cole shall atayne the age of twenty one years of age I appoint him to be joint executor with his mother and I desire my loving brother Nathaniel Cole and Samuel Kelog to be my overseers and to assist my executors according to the best of their ability.

Samuel Cole declared this to be his last will this 14 day of March, 1693, in the presence of us whose names are underwritten.

CALEB WATSON,

The following entry shows the date of his death:

His wife was Mary ———. He died March 16, 1693.

NATHANIEL<sup>3</sup> COLE (John,<sup>2</sup> James<sup>1</sup>). He was born and lived all his life in Hartford. He was appointed administrator of his father's will in March, 1686, and in the division under that will he received the parcels No. 2, four and a half acres of No. 3, No. 6, No. 7, No. 9, and two and a half acres of the east half of the homestead, on which the house stood. He accumulated considerable property, as is shown by the list of land owned by him and listed for taxation. Book I, page 10. (Omitting the land that came from his father, which has been given above.)

1. One parcel which he received of Joseph Benton being upland, containing by estimation four acres bounded as followeth: east on the highway leading from Mr. Steel's to the West Swamp; west on land formerly belonging to John Moody; north on the highway; south on land belonging to Nathaniel Cole as by his deed February 3, 1695(6).

2. One parcel which he bought of Caleb Watson, containing by estimation six acres, and two roods abutting on the highway leading from George Steel's to the Great Swamp of the east; on the highway lying by Rocky Hill on the west; on land formerly Thomas Graves' on the south; and on land of George Stockings on the north, as may appear by a deed of sale dated May 3, 1680.
3. One parcel which he bought of Joseph Smith containing three acres, abutting on the highway leading from Geo. Steel's to the Great Swamp on the east, and on the highway leading up to Rocky Hill on the west; on Thomas Catlin's land on the north, and on land belonging to James Richards' heirs on the south, as appears by deed dated February 26, 1683.
4. One parcel of land which he bought of Robert Stanley, containing seven acres, abutting on the highway leading from the town to the Great Swamp on the east; on Mr. Joseph Whiting's land on the north; on Jonathan Bull's land on the south; and on the highway by Rocky Hill on the west, as appears by deed dated February 27, 1783.
5. One parcel of land which he bought of Andrew Benton, containing four acres, abutting on the highway leading from Geo. Steel's to the Great Swamp on the east, his own land on the south, Samuel Moody's land on the west, and on Joseph Benton's land on the north, as appears by deed dated March 6, 1684(5).
6. One parcel of land which he bought of Capt. Thomas Watts, and was confirmed to him by his wife's executors, lying on the east side of Rocky Hill on the west, on Phillip Davis' land on the north, on John Bidwell's land on the south, and on a highway on the east, as appears by deed dated June 22, 1685.

Thus it will be seen that he had bought between twenty-five and thirty acres of land between two highways, bounded on the east by the present Washington street (Porter, p. 20-33), toward the south part of the town. The Great Swamp was a tract of about 400 acres in the south part of the town. (Porter, p. 30.)

Omitting the five parcels which he inherited, we go on with the record:

12. One parcel of land which he bought of John Andrews, lying in the Ox Pasture three roods and abuts on the highway leading to Wethersfield on the west, on John White's land on the east, on sayd Coal's own land on the south, and sayd John Andrew's land on the north, and is three rods wide and forty-one rods in length, as appears by deed dated May 20, 1686.
13. One parcel of land which he bought of Mr. Joseph Welles, lying in the south meadow in the forty acres, containing four acres and abuts on John White's land on the north, and on the west, and on the east, and on Nathaniel Cole's own land on the south, as appears by deed April 5, 1693.
14. One parcel of land which he bought of John Moody, containing twelve acres, and abuts west on a highway leading from Mr. Webster's southerly to the Great Swamp, and on land formerly Mr. John Whitings and Henry Ghrimes' on the east, and on Andrew Benton's land on the north, and on Mr. Richard's land on the south, as appears by deed dated April 25, 1793.

15. One parcel of land which he bought of Mrs. Susana Webster, lying in the south meadow swamp, containing an acre and a rood, and abuts on Samuel Wylly's land on the north, of land formerly of Mr. Thomas Wells on the south, on said Mrs. Webster's land on the east and west as appears by her deed dated March 18, 1694(5).

Thus by inheritance and by purchase he possessed fifteen parcels of land amounting to upwards of seventy-five acres.

He probably purchased other lands after this date, but the record has not been found.

He died April 20, 1708. His will is as follows:

"In the name of God Amen: the seventeenth day of aperill in the year of our Lord 1708 I Nathaniel Coale Of the town of Hartford in The Colony of Conn., being sick in Body but of sound and perfect remembrance (blessed be the name of the Lord for it) do constitute ordain and make this my last will and testament in manner and form following. First I commit my soul into the hand of Almighty God my Creator who gave, trusting and relying to be saved by the only and the lone merits of Jesus Christ my Redeemer, and my body to a decent and Christian burial, and for my worldly estate wherewith God has blessed me of his Mercy and goodness, I give and bequeath as follows:

To my loving and dear wife Mary Coale one third part of all my moveable estate forever (my said wife to let Ebenezer Benton have a bed out of it) and also one third part of all my real estate to improve to her use during her natural life (only my said wife is to pay one third part of the purchase money of that land I bought of Ichabod Coale), also I give my said wife the improvement of the south end of my house to live in and one third of the barn during the time she shall remain a widow, but if my said wife should marry that then she shall release her third part of the house lot and take it out in other lands.

ITEM. I give and bequeath to my loving son Nathaniel Coale all the rest of my movable estate not given to my wife, and also all my lands (except the improvement of one third part of them given as above to my said wife), also my will is that Ebenezer Benton should be maintained by my wife and my son jointly so long as my wife shall remain a widow, but if she should marry that then my son Nathaniel Coale shall take care to maintain him during his natural life, if my son Nathaniel shall live to survive him, and that my said son shall have what estate was given to maintain the said Ebenezer Benton not yet disposed of for his maintainance, and I do make and constitute my son Nathaniel Coale sole executor of this my last will and testament.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the day and year above written.

NATHANIEL COLE, Senior.

HEZEKIAH WILLIS,
JONATHAN WEBSTER.

June 7, 1708, Nathaniel Cole appointed administrator and gave bond.

July 5, 1708, inventory filed amounting to 572 pounds, 9 shillings, 8 pence. (Book 7, p. 114.)

He married November, 1676, Lydia Davis, who died 1683. October 23, 1689, he married again, Mary Benton, by whom he had no children. He died April 20, 1708.

The only child of Nathaniel and Lydia (Davis) Cole was:

13. i. Nathaniel, b. Nov. 6, 1682, d. in Hartford, April 20, 1735.

The children of John and — (Hart) Cole were:

- i. Sarah, b ? Aug. 27, 1693.
14. ii. John, b. Mar. 15, 1695(6).

7

SAMUEL<sup>4</sup> COLE (John,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> James,<sup>1</sup>) born in Farmington, 1676.

NATHANIEL<sup>4</sup> COLE, (John,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> James,<sup>1</sup>) born in Farmington, 1678.

SAMUEL<sup>4</sup> COLE, (Samuel,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> James,<sup>1</sup>) the eldest son of Samuel and Mary Cole, was born in Hartford about 1672. He married Mary, daughter of James Kingsbury, of Plainfield, January 2, 1693.

The children of Samuel and Mary (Kingsbury) Cole were:

- i. (A son)—ez. b. Feb. 9, 1698.
15. ii. Nathaniel, b. Aug. 18, 1701.
16. iii. [Selah (Caleb)] b. Feb. 8, 1703.
- iv. [Sarah] b. Feb. 18, 1705.
- v. Abigail, b. Sept. 18, 1706.
- vi. Mary, b. July 10, 1707.
17. vii. Samuel, b. Feb. 7, 1710.
18. viii. Ichabod, b. Mar. [1712 ?]
- ix. Dorothy, b. Nov. 27, [1714 ?]

Under his father's will he received the homestead.

IO

ICHABOD<sup>4</sup> COLE (Samuel,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> James,<sup>1</sup>) born in Hartford. Moved to Middletown, Connecticut, and settled there. He married Sarah ——. He died April 4, 1711.

The children of Ichabod and Sarah —— Cole were:

- 19 i. Stephen, b. July 17, 1708.
- ii. Rachael, b. Jan. 23, 1710.

Under his father's will he received a lot of eight acres in the ox pasture. He sold this to his uncle, Nathaniel Cole, Sr., about 1707, and moved to Middletown.

II

JOHN<sup>4</sup> COLE (Samuel,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> James,<sup>1</sup>). He was the third son of Samuel Cole, and was probably a youth when his father died in 1694. (See Jonathan for account of inherited property.) He married Elizabeth Goodwin, of Hartford, September 12, 1713. He had children:

- i. Elizabeth, b. Sept. 7, 1714. Probably d. young.
- ii. Jerushe, b. June 17, 1715(6,) m. Thomas Tisdale.
- iii. Lydia, b. Nov. 2, 1718. Probably d. young.

He may have had others, but these are all that are recorded. He died about 1775, as on March 23, of that year, administration on his estate was granted to Capt. Aaron Bull and Barnabus Hinsdale. He is spoken of as Lieut. John Cole.

In the inventory of the estate the following land is mentioned:

16 acres in the ox pasture lot, a lot in the back lane, a pasture of 12 acres at the lower end of the back lane, and 30 acres in the west division.

The inventory amounted to £722 6s 7d. The appraisers in their report set off to the widow Rachel her dower interest in the estate,

"And the whole of the remainder to Jemima, wife of Thomas Tisdale, only child of the said deceased." (Bk. 23, p. 56.)

Therefore, his wife must have died, and he taken a second; and also his youngest and oldest daughters died young.

12

JONATHAN<sup>4</sup> COLE (Samuel,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> James,<sup>1</sup>) the fourth son of Samuel Cole. He must have been quite young when his father died in 1694, and I judge him to have been born not far from 1685.

Under the terms of his father's will, he, with his brother John, received all the land of the father not specifically disposed of by that will. This would be two acres in the south meadow, fourteen acres in the ox pasture abutting on the Wethersfield bounds, and eighteen acres in the long lots, unless Samuel had disposed of them before his death, and there is no evidence of that.

The brothers also were heirs of the one-half interest that their father had in the undivided lands of the town. This from the original proprietor James, through his son John. And they obtained a tract of land in the division of that portion of land lying east of the river, which was divided after their father's death.

This land was in the present towns of East Hartford and Manchester. On January 13, 1714(5), he conveyed to Joseph Bigelow for a consideration of twenty-seven pounds, a lot of six acres and three rods, bounded on the east by land of George Kilbourne, on the north by the highway, on the west by the land of the said Bigelow and on the south by the land of Jacob Bunce and William Goodrich. I judge this to have been on the east side of the river.

He moved onto his land on the east side of the river and I think lived there all his life.

On March 3, 1736, he and his brother John, conveyed to Ezekiel Webster "The moiety or half of a certain lot of land lying and being in Hartford aforesaid, and in the second division or tier of lots from Bolton westward in the tract of land commonly called the five miles on the east side of the great river of Connecticut, which half is in quantity twenty-one acres and a half, be it more or less, the whole lot being out of the right of our honored grandfather John Cole, late of said Hartford deceased, and is bounded north and south with the land of said Ezekiel Webster and the said lyeth in common and undivided with the other half thereof now belonging to said Webster which he bought of John Cole, son of Nathaniel Cole deceased and is bounded east and west with highways."

On June 2, 1756, he sold for ninety pounds two acres of land "being part of the lot on which I dwell and is bounded north on the land of John Goodwin, south on land of Benjamin Roberts, east on land of John Hurlburt running west till it makes two acres by measure." That is two acres off the east end of his home lot.

I suppose that his oldest son became of age about 1749 or perhaps earlier, for on April 24 of that year he gave to his son Jonathan, Jr., a small lot twelve rods long by two and a half rods wide in the northwest corner of his home lot. This was presumable as a house lot.

He died about 1760, as on January 1, 1761, letters of administration on his estate were granted to his widow Mary and Jonathan Olmstead, and they gave bond in the sum of three hundred pounds. The administrators exhibited their first account May 20, 1761, and it was approved and filed.

On January 5, 1762, the administrators made a deed in which they recite their authority specially granted by the general assembly of the colony and the advise of the Probate court of Hartford, Connecticut, in the matter, and convey for £24 7s 6d to John Hurlburt, "one parcel of land belonging to the estate of Jonathan Cole deceased, being in Hartford aforesaid, on the east side of the great river, being about six and a quarter acres, bounded as follows: North by land of John Hurlburt, south by land of Benjamin Roberts, east by land of John Hurlburt and west partly by land of Mary Cole, now the wife of John Kendall and partly on land of Hannah Cole."

The widow died in July, 1763, probably, as administration on her estate was granted August 1, 1763, to Deacon Wm. Whiting, who gave bond in the sum of £100.

The children of Jonathan and Mary Cole were:

20. i. Jonathan, b. ———
  - ii. Mary, b. ——— m. John Kendall, of East Hartford. She was referred to in a deed of January 5, 1762. Kendall bought land of Samuel Flagg, in East Hartford, June 1, 1789. In the papers of the Rev. Dr. Williams, of Hartford, it is noted that "old Mr. Kendall d. in June, 1806."
  - iii. Hannah, b. ———.
  21. iv. David (?), b. ———
- And perhaps others.

 NATHANIEL<sup>4</sup> COLE (Nathaniel,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> James,<sup>1</sup>) the only son of Nathaniel and Lydia (Davis) Cole, was born in Hartford, November 6, 1882. He was administrator of his father's estate, and it is probable lived quietly in Hartford all his life. He married Elizabeth Knight, daughter of George Knight, June 12, 1707. He died August 20, 1735.

Their only child was:

22. X i. John, b. February 15, 1708.

In the family of Charles L. Cole, of Cullman, Alabama, there is an old deed and also a note of hand that probably refer to him. They are as follows:

A Deed from David Bull to John Cole of Kensington, Town of Farmington, County of Hartford, Colony of Ct., dated Apr. 5 in the ninth year of his magistry's reign A. D. 1736. Received for record Apr. 8 1736 in Book 5 folio 684.

Signed, JOHN HOOKER, Register.

A Note of Hand given to John Cole of Kensington, for fifteen pounds, current bills of Public Credit of the said Colony or neighboring Provinces.

Dated Feb. 12, 1733.

Signed, WILLIAM SCOVILLE.

These papers refer to him or to his father, but I think to him.

His children were:

26. i. John, b. ———
Probably others.

His father died when the boy was three years old. I think he is the one of the same name who lived in Farmington in 1761, and served as appraiser of the estate of Mathew Cole in that year, but possibly not.

JONATHAN<sup>5</sup> COLE (Jonathan,<sup>4</sup> Samuel,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> James,<sup>1</sup>). Probably the oldest child of Jonathan and Mary Cole. Born——— On April 24, 1749, his father deeded him a small lot for a house, off his own home lot in east Hartford. The only other mention of him in the records is on June 29, 1756, when he sold a tract of three roods of land, about forty rods east of the South Meeting house, to Capt. Daniel Goodwin, of Hartford. This land is described as follows: "Bounded south on a highway that leads to the meadow; west partly on the town bound and partly on Widow Grosse's land, and east on said Goodwin's land, and north on John Skinner Jr.'s land."

I suspect that about this time he removed from the town.

21

DAVID<sup>5</sup> COLE (Jonathan,<sup>4</sup> Samuel,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> James,<sup>1</sup>). He was probably a son of Jonathan and Mary Cole. On September 12, 1751, he was a witness to a deed from Caleb Olmstead to Jonathan Cole. He married Hannah ——— about 1753. In the Hartford Probate Records, book 20, p. 187, appears an entry that shows that on October 7, 1769, Hannah, wife of David Cole, was appointed guardian of her children, Samuel, aged fourteen, and David, aged thirteen. The record recites that David Cole, Sr., had not been heard from for nearly seven years.

The children then were:

- 27. i. Samuel, b. ——— 1755.
  - 28. ii. David, b. ——— 1756.

22

26

JOHN<sup>6</sup> COLE (John,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> James,<sup>1</sup>). He was probably born in Farmington, Connecticut, and lived there or in some other Connecticut town. Very little is known about him.

His children were:

- 30. i. John, b. — — —.
  - 31. ii. Gideon, b. — — —.
  - 32. iii. Ezekiel, b. — — —.

30

JOHN<sup>7</sup> COLE (John,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> John,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> James,<sup>1</sup>). He was born in Connecticut. He moved to Rome, Oneida county, New York, where he lived and died. There is a tradition in the family that there was a long gun handed down from father to son, and that when it came to this son he caused it to be cut off.

He left two sons:

- 33. i. Ichabod, b. — — —.
  - 34. ii. William, b. — — —.

31

His children were:

- i. Anna, b. Sept. 25, 1778, m. Benj. Wood; d. in Chili, N. Y. She had five children.

HENRY COLE. He is mentioned as at Sandwich, Massachusetts, in 1643. He went from there to Hartford, Connecticut, where he married, December 10, 1646, Sarah Rusco, daughter of William Rusco, of Hartford, who came from Billerica, Essex county, England, in the Increase in 1635, to Cambridge, and thence removed to Hartford.

They removed to Middletown, and there lived for many years, when he removed to Wallingford, and died in 1676. His widow died in Saybrooke, in January, 1688.

James,† the cooper of Hartford, mentions him in his will as his cousin, and gives him one-half his cooper's tools. The term cousin was then used for nephew frequently, and it is probable that this was the relationship Henry bore to James.

His lands were recorded June 9, 1654 (book I, p. 11), and he is on the list of householders and proprietors of Middletown, March 22, 1670, and is rated at £115.

THE PLYMOUTH FAMILY.

JAMES COLE.* One of the families that came from England to Plymouth was that of James Cole. I have not been able to find anything concerning him previous to 1634, but he probably had a family with him when he came to the settlement. He was the first settler on the eminence known as "Burial Hill." The first mention of him in the Plymouth Colony Records is in the list of freemen of 1633, where the name is spelled Coale ("Ply. Col. Rec. I-4.) In the tax list of May 27, 1634, his rate is put down at 9d. There are many at that rate, but none lower.

On January 2, 1636, a grant of seven acres to him is recorded, same to belong to his dwelling and not to be sold.

His name is found in the list of freemen for the year 1637, and in that year he was one of the men pressed for service against the Pequots, but the levy was not called upon. There is a record concerning him, dated July 2, 1638, in which he is styled a "saylor," but in September of the same year he is called "inn-keeper," and it is probable that between those dates he opened the "Ordinary," which he kept for thirty years, although no license is recorded.

In September, 1640, the following order was passed:

"James Cole of Plymouth is prohibited to draw any wine or strong water until the next term of the General Court, and not then without special license from the court."

No reason is given for the passing of this order, and the privilege of selling liquors was given to another person until 1645, when, on account of the inconvenience to travelers in having no liquor sold at the inn, the above order was rescinded (Do, vi. 153. viii. 79.)

During this interval he was several times fined for selling. In September, 1641, he obtained from the court fifty acres of upland, at Lakenham Meadow, together with some meadow to be laid out on view. That year and the following he was appointed highway Surveyor, also again in 1651 and 1652. In October, 1642, he obtained a further grant of land. The next year his name, together with those of his oldest two sons, appears on the list of those able to bear arms. In 1644 he was chosen constable. There is a record of a suit for slander preferred by him against Thomas Pope in 1647, but the case was dropped on the defendant Pope admitting the charge and paying the costs. In 1654 his boat was pressed for an expedition against the Dutch, but the plan was abandoned. On October 2, 1650, he was presented by the Grand Jury for assault and battery, but was acquitted.

Between 1641 and 1666 he appears as participant in nine civil suits, only two, however, as defendant, in one of those cases being sued as surety for £3 10s, and confessed judgment in 22 bushels of Indian corn; and in the other the verdict was for him, and the plaintiff paid the costs. Six of the other cases were for debt and he recovered judgment in all but one. The seventh case was the slander suit above referred to.

On June 7, 1657, the court granted to him ten pounds for the repair of his inn.

“The court having given unto James Cole of Plymouth the sum of ten pounds towards repairing the house he now liveth in, so that it may be fitted for an Ordinary, for the entertainment of strangers” (Do. iii-166.)

He is several times recorded as serving on grand, petit and coroners' juries, and is twice fined for selling liquor to the Indians. In June, 1662, he received a grant of land at Saconett neck. In 1665 he received one share (30 acres,) on the west side of the Namassett river. (Do. iv. 94). Probably about 1670 he gave up his business to his son James, as in that year the excise tax of James Cole, Jr. was remitted, he being a new beginner. His name appears on the list of freemen for 1670, and Savage says that he was living in 1688, very aged.

His wife was Mary ———, she was living in March, 1660.

Children:

2. i. James, b. about 1625 d. —
3. ii. Hugh, b. about 1627, d. —
4. iii. John, b. — d. 1677.
- iv. Mary, b. — m. John Almy, he was a son of William Almy of Plymouth, 1643. After his marriage to Mary Cole he moved to Portsmouth, R. I. He was Capt. in King Phillip's war, and died in 1676.

2

JAMES<sup>2</sup> COLE (James<sup>1</sup>). The oldest son of James Cole, the Plymouth inn-keeper was probably born in England and came to the colony when a boy with his father. The date of his birth was probably about 1625, as he is on the list of those able to bear arms in 1643, together with his younger brother Hugh.

He married December 23, 1652, Mary Tilson, at Scituate, and there his oldest child was born.

Deane says that he soon removed from Scituate to York, Maine, and perhaps in 1654 to Kennebec, for among the inhabitants of Kennebec who took the oath of fealty to Plymouth colony, May 23, 1654, was James Cole.

If he did go to Maine, he returned, for in 1656 he was chosen surveyor of highways for Plymouth. He held that office again in 1678 and 1685.

In May, 1665, he was presented by the Grand Jury, and fined 3s. 4d., for striking Robert Rawson; but the record states that the court, considering the great provocation given, and the generally peaceful character of the defendant, remitted the fine. (Col. Rec. iv-88).

In October of that same year he was one of the appraisers of the estate of Nicholas Miller, alias Hodge, and his name appears on the record several times as serving on petit and coroners' juries. About the beginning of 1670 he took his father's business, as inn-keeper, and in June of that year his excise tax was abated by the court, as he was a new beginner. In 1673, his tax was abated one-half, and in 1677 remitted altogether.

His name appears in the freeman's list of 1670

The children of James, Jr. and Mary (Tilson) Cole, were:

- i. Mary, b. in Scituate, Dec. 3, 1653. She m. John Laythrop, (the youngest son of the Rev. John Laythrop, the first minister of Scituate, (1635), and afterwords of Barnstable, 1639, where he d. Nov. 8, 1653,) b. at Barnstable Feb. 9, 1645, m. at Plymouth, Jan. 3, 1672, d. Sept. 17, 1727. Their children were:
  - ( i.) John Laythrope, b. Aug. 5, 1673.

6. iii. Nathaniel, b. — — in Me. probably.

3

HUGH<sup>2</sup> COLE (James<sup>2</sup>), the second son of James and Mary Cole, was born probably about 1626, as he is found on the list of able-bodied men in 1643, and those lists generally included the men from sixteen to sixty.

He married June 8, 1655, Mary, the daughter of Richard Foxwell.*

In 1657 he took the oath of fidelity. He was on the grand jury in 1666, and was surveyor the following year. The following entry occurs on the records under date of July 2, 1667:

"The Court have granted unto Hugh Cole respecting his father's grant being an ancient freeman, and his own grant six score acres of land between Mattapoiset River and the eastern bound of Ackshenoh."

And on October 30 of the same year:

"The sum of fifty shillings is ordered to be paid Samuel Jackson by Hugh Cole, for taking up his boat which went adrift."

He was a witness to the will of Nathaniel Warren, Sr., of Plymouth, June 29, 1667. In 1668 he was appointed administrator of the estate of his father-in-law, and is mentioned in the will dated April 7, 1668. Between this date and 1671 he must have moved to Swansey, R. I., for in June, 1671, he was elected a Selectman of that town, which office he held in '71, '72, '75, '85, '86. In 1673 he was elected a deputy to the general court, and re-elected in '74, '75, '80, '81, '83, '84, '85, '86, '89.

The following letter written by him is found in Winsor's History of Duxbury, page 103. The addresses had been destroyed:

SWANSEA, April 1, 1671.

Much Honored Sir:

Yours I receaved this first of Aprill, whereby I perceave you desire to know what posture the Indians are in. I do not finde them to continue in a posture of war as they have been. I went to Mount hope the last second day one purpose to see there proceedings and was at manie of their houses but saw nothing as intending to war, but asking them what was ye reason ye kept together at Mount hope, the[y] answered it was to see Phillips child burried and did intend to returne home as soone as the child was burried, and I have seene sum return but yet the greatest part of them are together and the give the reason because the wind blowd soe agaynst them yt they cannot get home with there canowes, not els, but rest yours to command in what I am able.

* Richard Foxwell came with Winthrop and was admitted freeman in 1631. He moved to Situate, R. I., in 1634, and m. Ann Shelly. He was one of the church in Situate under the Rev. John Laythrope. He d. about 1668. His children (recorded in Barnstable) were: i. Mary, b. Aug. 17, 1635, m. Hugh Cole. ii. Martha, b. Mar. 24, 1638, m. Sam'l Bacon, May 9, 1699. iii. Ruth, b. Mar. 25, 1641. iv. John, b. — d. Sept. 21, 1646.

In 1667 King Phillip conveyed to Hugh Cole and four others five hundred acres of land at Mettaposset, on the west side of the river, now known as Cole's river from this proprietor. (Hist. Gen. Reg. XII, 171.)

On February 7, 1671, the freemen of Swansea voted that all lots and divisions of land hereafter granted shall be proportioned according to these ranks, the first rank to have three acres, the second two, and the third one.

This ranking was to be done by commissioners, and in the first report Hugh Cole and his brother John were placed in the second rank. This did not satisfy them, and after the excitement of King Phillip's War was over, in 1681, the town voted that Serg. Hugh Cole and several others, and their heirs forever, should be admitted to the privileges of the first rank. (John had previously died.)

Hugh Cole was a great friend of King Phillip's, and it is reported that on the breaking out of the war in 1675, among the first men captured were two of his sons. They were taken to Mount Hope and immediately released by King Phillip on account of his friendship for their father, and with the warning to leave that country, as he was unable to restrain his young men. They reported to their father, and the whole family immediately started for a place of safety. Before they had been gone an hour the house was burned. (Register, XII, 169.)

Mr. Cole probably served in the war and attained the rank of Sergeant. In 1669 he was one of the committee to run the line between Swansea and Mount Hope, and on July 4, 1673, the following record appears:

"Mr. John Allin and Hugh Cole both of the town of Swansea the Colonie of New Plymouth aforesaid, doe complain against Phillip, alias Metacomber, in an action on the case to the damage of two hundred pounds, for refusing to perform covenants and agreements expressed in a deed given under the said Phillip's hand, to the said Mr. Allin and Hugh Cole their heirs and assigns for the use of the town of Swansea aforesaid. The said Phillip being required thereunto before the Governor and Assistants by the said Allin and Cole, the said Phillip did engage to come before the Governor of New Plymouth or some of his Assistants, and then and there acknowledge the true and absolute sale of the said premises expressed in said deed, according to the true meaning thereof."

This suit was afterwards withdrawn without trial. He served very frequently on juries. Mr. Cole was a shipwright by trade.

The children of Hugh and Mary (Foxwell) Cole were:

7. i. James, b. Nov. 8, 1655.
8. ii. Hugh, b. Mar. 8, 1658.
9. iii. John, b. Mar. 16, 1660.
- iv. Martha, b. Apr. 14, 1662.
- v. Anna, b. Oct. 14, 1664, m. Wm. Sailsbury, of Swansea.
- vi. Ruth, b. Jan. 8, 1666.
10. vii. Joseph, b. May 15, 1668.

On Jan. 1, 1689, he married Elizabeth, the widow of Joseph Cook,* and in 1698, as his third wife, the widow Mary Morton.

JOHN<sup>2</sup> COLE (James<sup>i</sup>), the third son of James and Mary Cole, was born —. He served on a Jury at Plymouth in 1668, and a year or two later removed to Swansea with his brother Hugh. He was constable of Swansea in 1673, and served on a coroner's jury in 1676. He died early in 1677, as the court, on June 7 of that year, makes the following order in reference to his estate:

"In reference to the estate of John Cole, deceased, the Court does order: That for as much as the estate is small, and four small children to bring up, that the whole personal estate be settled on his widow for the bringing up of his children, and the profits of the land till the children become of age; and in case there shall be necessity thereof for the bringing up of the children, that then some of the land shall be sold, by the advise and leave of the court, and in case any lands shall be

In 1690 he, with others, hired the Duxbury Commons of the town. It was proposed to divide the Commons in 1703, but it was deferred on the petition of many citizens, of whom he was one. On September 12, 1707, a division was made, and he and two sons received shares, as they did in the division of 1712. In the division of May 10, 1748, shares were granted to the heirs of Nathaniel Cole, to Jabez Cole, and to Ephraim Cole.

He was chosen constable in 1682. Was commissioned as Ensign of the militia company June 4, 1686. In December 25, 1689, he was commissioned as Lieutenant—all the officers moving up one step. There seems to have been considerable trouble in the company, which was the burden of a letter from John Walley, of Rehoboth, to Thomas Hinckley, Esq., August 13, 1689. 'It would seem that Lieutenant Cole, as candidate of the young men, was elected Captain over the head of the old Captain, Brown, who was given the second place, and great trouble ensued. Mr. Walley says: "Cole has sought the place beyond measure." Another letter of Walley's dated April 16, 1690, says the trouble was settled by a new election, in which Brown was chosen Captain and Cole Lieutenant. He was Deputy in 1689 and 1690. In March, 1704, Colonel Benjamin Church raised a force to go against the Eastern Indians, and Mr. Cole was one of his Captains. (Bayliss, part v. p. 125).'

THE EASTHAM FAMILY.

About the beginning of the second decade of the existence of the Plymouth colony, there came from England three young men, brothers, named John, Job and Daniel Cole. I suspect that they came over with William Collier, a merchant of London, about 1633. Their father is unknown. Whether they were brothers of James, the inn-keeper of Plymouth, I know not, but I judge that they were not.

John died at Plymouth in December, 1637, and in his will, proved January 2, 1638, he mentions by name, "Master Collier's men," his brothers Job and Daniel, and his sister Rebecca, wife of Job. He was probably unmarried.

I

JOB COLE, the eldest of the three brothers, married May 16, 1634, Rebecca Collier.*

On July 2, 1638, forty-eight acres of land were granted to him at Green Harbor, in that part of Duxbury, that was afterwards included in Marshfield. On October 2, 1650, he sold that to Thomas Chillingsworth for a calf and twenty shillings.

He was propounded as freeman in 1639, and admitted October 7 of the following year, and the next year (1641) was chosen Constable of Duxbury.

**William Collier*, a merchant adventurer, of London, came to the colony in 1633. He was assistant twenty-eight years between 1634 and 1665, and was one of the two plenipotentiaries at the first meeting of the United Colonies in 1643. He was among the first purchasers of Dartmouth, 1652, and died 1670. He left four daughters: i. Sarah, b. — — —, m. 15, 1634, Love Brewster, son of Elder Wm. Brewster. ii. Rebecca, b. — — —, m. Job Cole. iii. Mary, b. — — —, m. April 1, 1635, Thomas Prince, afterwards Governor. She was his second wife. iv. Elizabeth, b. — — —, m. Nov. 2, 1637, Constant Southworth.

In 1642 he removed to Yarmouth, as his name is found on the list of able-bodied men of that town for 1643. He removed to Nawset, where he was constable in 1648, and the same year to Eastham, from which town he was chosen deputy the same year. He sold his house and land at "Morton's Hole," in Nawset, to Christopher Wordsworth for £17. He was again chosen deputy in 1654, and was excise man in 1661. His name occurs on the freeman's list of 1670, but is not on that of 1695; therefore, he died between those dates. His widow, Rebecca, died December, 1698, aged 88.

Their children were:

3. i. John, b. ———.
4. ii. Job, b. ———.
5. iii. Daniel, b. ———.
- iv. Rebecca, b. Aug. 26, 1654.

THE CHARLESTOWN FAMILY

OF ISAAC COLE.

ISAAC COLE. In 1634 there sailed from Sandwich, County Kent, England, in the ship Hercules, 200 tons, John Witherby master, one Isaac Cole, of Sandwich, a carpenter, and his wife, Joan, with their two children. They had a certificate from Mr. Thomas Warren, Rector of St. Peter's, Sandwich, dated March 14, 1632, showing their conformity to the rules of the Church of England, and that he had taken the oath of allegiance. (Reg. 15-28.) He first settled in Boston, and the births of two or more children are recorded there.

He moved over to Charlestown, and was admitted with his wife to the Church there on September 7, 1638.

He took the Freeman's oath March 14, 1639.

He obtained one lot of land in a division of land east of the East Spring, in Charlestown, on August 26, 1636, and bought another at the same time.

He died June 10, 1674.

His possessions in Charlestown, as given in Charlestown Land Records, page 66, were:

1. One dwelling-house with a garden plat, situated in the east field, abutting south upon Wapping street, north on Michael Baston; bounded on the east by William Quick, and on the west by the common.
2. One milch common. (Commons for cow.)
3. One acre of meadow, by estimation, more or less, lying in the high field, abutting north on Mystic river; bounded on the east by Thomas Custer, and on the west by James Hayden.
4. Ten acres of wood land, more or less, situated in Mystic field, abutting north-east upon Walter Palmer; southwest upon Edward Gibbens and Seth Tweet-sir; bounded on the northwest by Abraham Pratt, and on the southwest by William Batchelor. (Sold to Mr. Thomas Allen-Greene.)

5. Twenty-three acres, more or less, situated in Waterfield, abutting northwest upon Mrs. Ann Higginson, southeast upon James Thompson; bounded on the southwest by Abraham Pratt, and on the northeast by William Batchelor.

His children were:

- i. Elizabeth, b. in England.
2. ii. Isaac, b. in England, d. in Woburn, June 10, 1674.
3. iii. Abraham, b. Oct. 3, 1636 (bapt. in Charlestown Sept. 14, 1638.)
- iv. Mary, b. ———, 1638 (bapt. in Charlestown Jan. 20, 1639.)
4. v. Jacob, b. July 16, 1641 (bapt. in Charlestown July 18, d. in Charlestown 1678.)

2

ISAAC<sup>2</sup> COLE (Isaac<sup>1</sup>). He was born in England, I presume, as his father brought two children with him to this country, and his birth is not recorded in Charlestown.

He settled in Woburn, and the town granted him a lot of land in the center, fifty poles, bounded by the highway (High street) on the east, and by the highway to the burying place on the north. April 25, 1662.

He married Jane, widow of James Britton, February 1, 1659. He was one of the eight members of the Woburn Church, presented to the grand jury in October, 1671, for refusing to commune with the Church, on the ground of certain alleged scruples of conscience, and whose case was commended by the Court for the consideration of a council of neighboring churches to assemble March, 1672, before the Court for final decision. But what was the decision of the Court or council is not known.

He was Constable of the town of Woburn in 1662. He is mentioned by Hutchinson (page 206) as being tried on the charge of refusing, as Constable, to publish the King's letter. He was acquitted. He died June 10, 1674, and his widow died March 10, 1687. They had no children.

ABRAHAM<sup>2</sup> COLE (Isaac<sup>1</sup>). His birth is found on the Boston records as of October 3, 1636. Baptized in Charlestown September 14, 1638.

JACOB<sup>2</sup> COLE (Isaac<sup>1</sup>). He was born in Charlestown July 16, 1641, and was baptized two days later. He married October 12, 1669, Sarah, daughter of John Train, who came over in the Susan and Ellen, in 1635, at twenty-five, from London. She was born January 31, 1647, and joined the First Church of Charlestown April 16, 1676, and when a widow was admonished by the Church for intemperance. (May 10, 1696.) She was for the same reason excluded from the communion at a later day, but was restored in July, 1704.

Mr. Cole was a member of Captain Moseley's company, that gathered October 9, 1675, on Dedham Plains, and engaged in the great Narragansett fight. He was wounded in this battle. He died in 1678, of smallpox, and some or all of his children died at the same time.

In 1733 his heirs were among those who received a share in the Narragansett lands. I think that the shares of the Charlestown soldiers were assigned in the present town of Templeton, Mass.

His children were:

- i. Sarah, b. ——— (bapt. April 23, 1676).
- ii. Abigail, b. ——— (bapt. April 23, 1676).
- iii. Hannah, b. ——— (bapt. April 23, 1676).
- iv. Jacob, born Feb., 1677 (bapt. Feb. 18, 1677).

THE CHARLESTOWN FAMILY

OF RICE COLE.

RISE (or Ryce) COLE came from England in 1630, and settled at Charlestown. He was one of the few who did not remove from Charlestown to Boston. He and his wife, Arrol, were of those dismissed from the Boston Church in October, 1632, to form the first Church of Charlestown, and their names appear on the covenant signed November 14, 1632. (Reg. 23-190.)

He was admitted Freeman April 1, 1633, and appears on the list of proprietors of October 13, 1634, and in a division in January, 1635, he obtaining four acres. He was a witness of the will of Daniel Shepherdson, blacksmith, of Charlestown, May 16, 1644. He died May 15, 1646.

His possessions in Charlestown, as shown by the land records, page 59, were:

1. One dwelling-house with a garden plat situated in the middle row, abutting southwest upon the street way, northeast upon the back street, bounded on the northwest by William Johnson, and on the southeast by the mill way.
2. Two acres of arable land, by estimation, more or less, situated in the east field, abutting southwest upon Long way, northeast upon the swamp; bounded on the southwest by William Brakenburg, and on the northwest by Daniel Shepherdson and Samuel Carter.
3. Two acres of swamp, by estimation, more or less, lying in the east field; bounded on the east by Samuel Carter, on the west by Edward Convers, on the south by Capt. Robert Sedgwick, and on the north by Robert Cutler and William Palmer.
4. Milch cow commons, three and a quarter.
5. Four acres of arable land, by estimation, more or less, situated in the line field, abutting southwest upon the Cambridge line, northeast upon the common; bounded on the southeast by John Penticost, and on the northwest by William Frothingham.
6. Five acres of woodland, by estimation, more or less, situated in the Mystic field.
7. Four acres of meadow, by estimation, more or less, situated in Mystic marshes, abutting west upon the North River, east upon the woodland; bounded on the south by William Brakenburg, on the north by Samuel Carter.

Wheelwright party, and had, evidently, with others, petitioned the general court in their behalf, as there is on the records an acknowledgment as follows:

“WHEREAS, I joyned in preferring to ye court a writing called a remonstrance or petition, I acknowledge it was ill done and unwarrantably, as transgressing therein ye rule of due honor to authority and of modesty and submission in private persons, and therefore I desire my name may be put out of it.”

This was signed by twenty-four persons, of whom he was one. The court, on November 27, 1637, eight months later, passed an order disarming all the followers of Wheelwright.

In February, 1638, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company was founded, and he was one of the charter members.

He received a large allotment of land in Rumney Marsh (now Chelsea) in 1637-38, and in May, 1658, some 400 acres at Nontuck. He also owned a tract of pasture land on the west side of Beacon Hill. (Winsor, Vol. II, page 47.) He was a selectman of Boston from 1653 to 1657 inclusive, and sealer of weights and measures in 1654.

His second wife having died, he married, October 16, 1660, Ann, widow of Captain Robert Keayne. He died in February, 1667, probably, as his will was probated the 13th of that month. His will is given in full:

P. 249. Will of Samuel Cole, of Boston.

I, Samuel Cole, of Boston, do declare that to be my last will. * * * *

I give unto my daughter, Eliz. Weeden, that land of mine at Rumney marsh, which at present her husband and she lives upon and have done for some years past, which is the sixth part of my land, the residue whereof I sold to Cornet Hassey, as appeareth by the deed made unto him, as also all the marsh ground that I have at Hogg Island, which is six acres or thereabouts, be it more or less, all of which land my said daughter and her husband shall enjoy during their life; and my will is: That after their decease, it shall be equally divided among all their children.

I give to my daughter Mary's children, which she had by Edmund Jackson, viz.: Elisha and Elizabeth, a house lot in Boston, near the brick kilns abutting on the street, bounded on the north by George Nowell's lott, and on the south side by John Scenter and Elizabeth Gross, their house and lots.

To my grand-child, Sarah Scenter, a colt, which is now in the possession of her husband, Sarah Scenter.

I give besides what formerly is expressed unto my daughter, Eliz. Weeden, the sum of £20, which is due unto me from John Scenter, to be laid out towards the building of a house, upon land formerly exprest at Rumney marsh.

Unto my son John Cole's children £10, to be equally divided among them, and unto my daughter Eliz. Weeden's children £10 also, to be also equally divided amongst them, which £20 is due me by Elizabeth Gross.

I give my land at Manaticott, bought of Clement Cole, and given him by the town, how much and where it lies the deed expresses, unto my grand-child, Samuel Cole, the eldest son of my son John Cole.

To the old Church of Boston, 20s.

Whereas, I promised to give 20s. to Harvard College, and some part of it paid in woodenware by Elzer to Mr. Danforth, and what else I know not, my will is that the residue be duly paid, together with 20s. more, which I give to said college.

For the remainder of my estate at my decease, whether in household goods, debts due, wearing apparel, or otherwise, I give to my son John Cole, and my daughter Eliz. Weeden, to be divided betwixt them, which said John and Elizabeth I make joint executors of this, my last will and testament. But if my said son, John Cole, shall refuse to be an executor to my said will, and upon any pretense whatever shall wrangle with his sister, and not agree peaceably, according to the true intent and meaning of this, my last will, then that my daughter Elizabeth shall be sole executrix, and I give only to my son, John Cole, a legacy of 20s.

I give to my grand-child, Samuel Royall, 40s. as a legacy towards building of a house, which should have been formerly expressed.

I confirm the deed of gift made my son, John Cole, of the one-half of my house in Boston, which is mine in possession until my decease.

This will was taken from the mouth of the aforesaid testator and read before him, who owned it to be his last will and testament, December 21, 1666, in the presence of us whose names are underwritten.

This also the testator further desired at the same time, namely: That James Everell and Goodman Search, the weaver, should be pleased to be overseers, and gives either of them 20s.

JOHN<sup>2</sup> COLE (Samuel<sup>1</sup>). The only son of Samuel Cole, the inn-keeper, was born in England and brought over by his father in childhood. He married December 30, 1651, Susanna Hutchinson (b. November 15, 1633). She was the seventh child of William and Ann (Marbry) Hutchinson, who came to Boston in the ship Griffin, September 18, 1635. Mr. Hutchinson was driven from Boston in 1630, and went to Rhode Island, where he was its first Governor, and died at Newport in 1642.

Mrs. Hutchinson removed to the New Netherlands, and was killed in 1643 by the Indians. Several of her children were also killed, and Susanna was taken by the Indians to their villages.

After some three years she was ransomed by the Dutch at Albany, and returned to her friends in Boston. She is mentioned in the will of Samuel Hutchinson, of Boston, April 7, 1667.

He removed before 1664 to the Narragansett country, to look after the Hutchinson lands, where the jurisdiction of Connecticut appointed him a magistrate. He died in 1707, and his wife Susanna and son William administered on his estate.

He is probably the John Cole of Wickford, who petitioned Connecticut to take jurisdiction, May 4, 1668, and as Connecticut officer had obstructed the Rhode Island officers, and was captured and taken to Providence, and released on bail July 15, 1670. On June 28, 1682, he was appointed a Conservator of the Peace for Kingston, R. I.

ELISHA<sup>3</sup> COLE (John,<sup>2</sup> Samuel<sup>1</sup>). Born ————. He lived in Kingston, Rhode Island. He died in 1729, in London, whither he had gone on a law suit. He married Elizabeth <sup>Dexter</sup> —. His children were (though not, perhaps, in order given here):

- i. Thomas, b. — — —; d. — 1722.
- ii. John, b. — — —.
- iii. Edward, b. — — —.
- iv. Susanna, b. — — —.
- v. Ann, b. — — —.
- vi. Elizabeth, b. — — —.
- vii. Abigail, b. — — —.

His wife and the six last named children were baptized in 1725, by Dr. McSparran, missionary of the London Society for Propagating the Gospel. He was deputy from Kingston in 1709, 1713, 1715, 1717, and from North Kingston in 1725. In 1722 he was assistant.

He was engaged in a suit with Stephen Northup over the right of flowage of land by the pond of his grist mill, and was beaten in 1726, and the dam torn out. The town ordered it rebuilt, and the mill continued.

EDWARD<sup>4</sup> COLE (Elisha,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> Samuel<sup>1</sup>), the third son of Elisha Cole, was born — —. In April, 1745, he was admitted a freeman from North Kingston. He was lieutenant of Captain Munford's Rhode Island company against Louisburg in 1745, and was appointed Captain on death of his commander and wrote home to the Governor on November 29, 1745, as in February, 1746, the general court directed the Governor to reply. He was also captain of a company in the attempt on Quebec in 1746.

In September, 1746, he was appointed a committee to establish a battery on Goat Island. He signed the petition to the King against bills of credit, dated September, 1750.

On March 6, 1755, the Government of Rhode Island voted to aid the expedition against Crown Point with three companies, and appointed him Captain of one of them, the First of Colonel Christopher Harris' regiment.

He was promoted to be Lieutenant Colonel, and commanded the regiment in the battle near Lake George, in which the French under Baron Dieskau were beaten. He was very favorably mentioned in the dispatches of his commander, Sir William Johnson. He moved to Newport, and engaged in the tanning business with George Rome.

When the troubles with the mother country begun he was suspected of favoring the royal cause. In 1775 he presented a petition to the General Assembly reciting that he desired to go to Carlisle, Pa., on business, and stating that as doubts were entertained of his loyalty, he was prepared to make and sign a declaration approving the course of the patriots in assembling an army before Boston, and affirming that he desired to go solely on private business, and asking a safe conduct from the Government. At the same time he presented a written declaration of approval of the acts of the patriots, and promised his assistance if it should be necessary. The court gave him permission to go, and ordered his declaration published in a Providence paper.

He probably never returned. If he did he soon left again, for in 1776 the Sheriff of Newport county was ordered to take possession of his tanyard, and an accounting of the partnership was ordered. References show that he was then absent from Rhode Island, and that his estate was confiscated. In May, 1784, permission was given to his creditors to bring suit and subject his confiscated estate to the payment.

THE LONG ISLAND FAMILY

OF COLES.

I

ROBERT COLE. The name is frequently spelled with an "s" in the old records. He came in the fleet with Winthrop in 1630, and was one of those who desired to be admitted freeman October 19, 1630, and he was admitted May 18, 1631.

In 1632 it was ordered that two delegates be sent from each of the plantations to advise the Governor and assistants in regard to the raising of revenue, and he was one of the two sent from Roxbury. His drinking habits were opposed to the ideas of the Puritans, and he was several times fined. At length the following order was passed:

March 4, 1633. The court orders that Robert Coles, for drunkenness by him committed at Roxbury, shall be disfranchised, weare about his necke and soe to hange upon his outward garment a D made of redd clothe and sett upon white; to contynue this for a yeare, and not to leave it off at any tyme when he comes amongst company, under penalty of XLs. for the first offense, and V pounds for the second, and after to be punished by the court as they think meete; also he is to weare the D outwards, and is enjoyned to appear at the next general court, and to contynue thise until it be ended.

The same month he went with the party under John Winthrop, Jr., to occupy Agawam (Ipswich), and begin the settlement of that town. He did not remain there long, and he may be the man mentioned in the will of Samuel Fuller, the elder, of Plymouth, July 30, 1633, as then residing with him in Plymouth.

Savage says of him that he reformed his habits. He was one of the twelve men who joined Roger Williams in the settlement of Providence, in October, 1638. His lot in the division of the land was bounded west by the present Main street, east by Hope street, and on one other side by Meeting House street. (Annals of Providence, 33.) He was one of the founders of the first Church of Providence, March 16, 1639. (Arnold's Rhode Island, 107.) He was one of the seventeen who purchased the Pautuxet meadows, and he made his home there.

Three others were appointed with him as a committee to arbitrate disputes and to make rules of government, and their report was the compact signed by all the settlers. He became a friend of Samuel Gorton when he came to Providence, driven from Massachusetts by the intolerance of the authorities of that colony, and gave him part of his land. The actions of Gorton and his followers were such, however, as to cause the older settlers to wish to be free from them, and he, with four others, in September, 1642, appeared before the general court at Boston and yielded themselves up to the Massachusetts colony, which accepted jurisdiction and appointed them magistrates. (Arnold, 468.)

In the formal complaints of the Indians to the Plymouth colony in September, 1652, the seventh article is as follows:

"7th. Ninigrett bought a mastiff dog of Robert Cole, and gave 40 shillings for him, which dog ran home to Robert Cole, who killed the said dog; wherefore, Ninigrett requires 40s. of said Cole."

The commissioners found the charge true, and promised to write Mr. Cole to return the money. (Ply. Col. Rec. X., 375.) He died before October, 1654, as on October 18 of that year the town council distributed his property in the way he should have made his will.

The following orders refer to his estate:

WARWICK, RHODE ISLAND, June 11, 1656.

The town council having formerly disposed of the estate of Robert Cole, late deceased, and having allotted out the portions of the children, ordered that the lands and meadows, together with the pasturage on the south side of the Pautuxet river and the north line bound of Warwick bound is allotted out for security of Nathaniel Cole, Robert Cole, and Sarah Cole, their portions amounting to the sum of six score pounds.

Further ordered, that the mill of Warwick being a part of the estate of Robert Cole, late deceased, is allotted out for security of Daniel Cole, his portion being £50.

He pursued classical studies afterwards at New Haven, and finished at King's College, New York, although it is believed that he did not graduate.

After being licensed to preach, he spent some time among the different churches of Long Island, and was first chosen pastor of the Baptist Church of New Haven, where he was for several years. From thence he removed to New Jersey, and settled in the church at Hopewell, but the revolution breaking out, his patriotic feelings led him to accept the place of chaplain in the American army.

At the dawn of peace he returned to his estate at Oyster Bay, and was soon after called to take charge of the church there, which had been without a pastor more than thirty years. He discharged his pastoral duties with fidelity and usefulness, till within a few years of his death, devoting a portion of his time to the business of classical instruction. ## COWLES.

There was in Hartford and then in Farmington, Connecticut, in the early days of the colony, one John Cole, a farmer, by some thought to have been a brother of James, the cooper. To distinguish himself and his family from the family of James, he varied the spelling of his name. In the Farmington records the name is spelled Coles, Colles, and finally in 1682, Cowles. It is also found spelled Cowle, Coule, Coules, but the family generally adopted the spelling given at the head of this article.

He was one of the early settlers of the town of Westmoreland, New Hampshire, and one of those to whom the charter of 1752 was granted. He settled on the "Canoe Meadow," in the south part of town, on the same farm where his descendants now live. He was for many years one of the most prominent men in the town in certain affairs, particularly in those pertaining to the church. The following is a transcript of some of the entries in the town records in which he is mentioned:

For nearly all of his life he was one of the pillars of the Congregational Church, and for many years one of its deacons.

In the early days of the settlement he was often annoyed by the Indians. He built a block house for the protection of his family and the families of his neighbors. Some years ago the site of this block house was determined by the uncovering of the well that was dug at that time.

He married Edith Davis, who was born in 1729, and died February 8, 1805. He died September 13, 1813, aged 85. Both he and his wife, as well as his father, were buried in the "River Burying Ground" in Westmoreland.

ABIJAH<sup>5</sup> COLE (Jonathan,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>). Very little is known of his brief life, even the date of his death being unknown. He married Sarah Kent, one of the four daughters of Jonathan Kent, of Harvard, Massachusetts. She had no brothers, and of her three sisters Ruth never married. Abigail married a Mr. Crafts, of Roxbury, Massachusetts, and the other married a Mr. Groves. Abijah Cole died in 1768, being probably less than 30 years of age, and as the three youngest of his children are the only ones whose births are recorded there, he may have lived elsewhere in the early years of his married life. Some years after his death his widow married Samuel Garfield, of Harvard or Bolton, by whom she had no children. She spent some of the years of her second widowhood in Gouldsboro, Maine, at the house of her eldest son, who settled there. She died about 1812 in Roxbury, Massachusetts, at the house of her niece, Mrs. Crafts.

It is related by one of her grand-children that at the time of her husband's death Mrs. Cole was overwhelmed with her loss, and refused to be comforted; but finally before the funeral she took her Bible and went out into the orchard alone, and after some time returned calm, resigned, and peaceful.

There is a deed from Jonathan to Abijah Cole, dated at Harvard, May, 1761. Probably this was about the time that Jonathan left for Westmoreland.

The following, in the possession of the Maine branch of the family, is supposed to be a copy of a will:

"I, Abijah Cole, having joined a company or regiment for the capture of Quebec, in view of the uncertainty of human life, do give and bequeath to my father, Jonathan Cole, and to my brothers, Jonathan and John Cole, certain lots of land situated in Harvard, and to my friend Sarah Kent, personal property, consisting of a watch and money."

There is no date, but it was probably about 1755.

The children of Abijah and Sarah (Kent) Cole were:

- i. Sarah, b. May 13, 1760; d. unmarried in Westmoreland, N. H., Nov. 3, 1783. She was buried in the River Cemetery, where a stone was afterwards erected to her memory.
27. ii. Abijah, b. Nov., 1761; d. in Prospect Harbor, Me., June 17, 1841, aged 80.
- iii. Lois, b. 1764. She m. Solomon Robbins, of Westmoreland, N. H. She had eleven children born in that town, viz.:
  - Sally, b. March 5, 1782.
  - Solomon, b. March 10, 1785.
  - Asa, b. Aug. 28, 1788.
  - Lois, b. Aug. 19, 1790.
  - Charles, b. Aug. 22, 1792.
  - Jonathan, b. March 24, 1795.
  - Candace, b. June 21, 1800.
  - Mary, b. June 12, 1805.
  - Allen, b. Nov. 11, 1806.
  - Emeline, b. Sept 9, 1807.
  - Judith, b. July 5, 1810.

Mr. Robbins was for many years ferryman at the place now known as "Britton's Ferry." In 1816 the family moved to Pennsylvania, and all trace of them has been lost. He was elected fish inspector in Westmoreland in March, 1796. He was a private in Capt. Scott's company of Col. Ashley's regiment in the march on Ticonderago in 1777, and again in the Eighth company of Col. Nichols' regiment at the battle of Bennington.

- iv. Judith, b. 1767; m. John Hayden, of Cambridge, Mass. At her father's death she went to live with her maternal aunt, Abigail Kent Crafts, who was then a widow. John Hayden was the manager of Mrs. Crafts' business. Judith married him and removed to Cambridgeport, where he went into business as an India merchant. She died in 1810, leaving two son, John Hayden, who died in 1871, and William Hayden. After her death her husband married her cousin, Abigail Crafts.
28. v. Asa, b. Dec. 8, 1768; d. in Westmoreland, N. H., Dec. 6, 1816, aged 48.

15

JOHN<sup>5</sup> COLE (Jonathan,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>). The third son of Jonathan and Judith (Bowen) Cole, was born June 29, 1741, and died in Westmoreland, New Hampshire, August 15, 1786. He was one of the prominent men of the town during the Revolutionary times. He was one of the committee to instruct the representative chosen December 12, 1775. He was a sergeant in the Eighth company of Colonel Nichols' regiment, Joseph Hindes captain, in 1776, and was in the battle of Bunker Hill.

His name is to be found on the roll of signers of the test oath of March previous, as is also that of his brother Jonathan.

In November, 1777, a company of sixty-three men was raised for service against Burgoyne, and he was chosen captain.

In August, 1779, he was chosen one of a committee to settle with a committee from the Baptists, the rights in the church building and to move the church to the new site on Park Hill. This change was successfully consummated. In November of the same year he, with others, was selected to furnish the house and appraise the pews.

He was several times surveyor, fence viewer, and committeeman. He lived in the north part of town. After his family became large and the older children had left home, he removed to Windham, Vermont. He died in Westmoreland, while on a visit to his oldest brother, Jonathan, and was buried in the River Cemetery in that town, as was also his wife and one daughter. The oldest sons had not gone with him to Vermont, and they drifted to various parts of the country. The younger children, who were in Windham at the time of his death, remained in and around that region till middle life, and some of them all of their days. The youngest in some way got back to Westmoreland, and lived the remainder of his days there. With him his mother spent her last years.

The wife of Captain John Cole was Lois Davis, born October 12, 1742; died in Westmoreland, September 30, 1830, aged 88.

The children of Captain John and Lois (Davis) Cole were:

29. i. Levi, b. January 10, 1762; d. in Joliet, Ill., Sept. 20, 1850.
30. ii. John, b. Sept. 23, 1763; d. in London, Canada, 1850.

- iv. Matawassa, b. May 22, 1766; d. June 14, 1772.
- v. Amasa, b. March 12, 1768. The tax records of the town of Chesterfield, N. H., show that he was assessed for a poll tax in 1790, and again the following year, and he married Lois Higgins in Westmoreland, Feb. 5, 1789. Nothing further is known of him, and it is probable that he died in early manhood.
32. vi. Laban, b. Feb. 14, 1770; d. in Troy, N. Y., March 24, 1830.
- vii. Hannah, b. April 25, 1772. She married Benjamin Howard, of Jamaica, Vt., and died there in 185-. She had no children.

ASA<sup>6</sup> COLE (Abijah,<sup>5</sup> Jonathan,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>). Born in Harvard, Massachusetts, December 8, 1768; died in Westmoreland, New Hampshire, December 6, 1816. His father died when he was an infant. From his seventh to his fourteenth year he lived with his aunt, Mrs. Chamberlain, in Westmoreland. He then went to live with his step-father, Samuel Garfield, in Harvard, Massachusetts, and learned his trade, that of a millwright. He worked with Mr. Garfield in Massachusetts and Maine till 1793, when he married Anna Goldsmith, of Harvard, who was born January 27, 1772. At the time of his marriage he owned a house in the village of Harvard, and his mother and step-father probably lived with him. Here his eldest son was born. Soon after that he and his step-father moved to Rindge, New Hampshire. They there owned and operated a saw and grist mill for some six or seven years. He then moved to Westmoreland, following his trade as a millwright in that region, working one season on a mill in Coventry, Vermont, and also living some two years in Putney, Vermont. About 1810 he built the Pierce mills, in the south part of Westmoreland, and lived near and managed them for some four years. Here three of the younger children were born. In 1814 the mills were sold, and he went to Boston and worked throughout the summer, returning in the fall and living in a house on the "Brooks place."

In March, 1815, Ephraim Brown, of Westmoreland, who had purchased a large tract of land in Ohio, and was about to emigrate thither, applied to him to join the party. He accepted the proposal and made arrangements to go and take his third son with him, but just one week before the party started he was taken with bleeding at the lungs, and was compelled to give it up. On his recovery from this illness he determined to go eastward, and in June he left for Gouldsboro, Maine, where his brother had settled, hoping to find some place where he could do business to advantage, and also hoping that the change of climate would improve his health. But it was all in vain. He remained away till the autumn of 1816, when he took passage for Boston, arriving home in November, sick, emaciated, and prostrated. Two weeks afterwards he died, and on the following Sabbath was buried in the North Cemetery in Westmoreland. He owned some land in Gouldsboro, Maine, for in 1800 he sold a tract to his mother, and again in 1816 he quit-claimed all his remaining land to his brother. His wife was a superior woman. Left thus alone with a family of eleven children, most of them young, she managed to keep her family together till all were able to care for themselves or to find good homes. She raised her children to be honorable and useful men and women, and they repaid her by lifelong love and reverence. In 1838 she married Amory Pollard, of Bolton, Massachusetts, whom she survived. She died in Montpelier, Vermont, while on a visit to her youngest daughter, September 4, 1852, aged 80, and was buried in Westmoreland, New Hampshire.

The children of Asa and Anna (Goldsmith) Cole were:

63. i. Asa, b. Nov. 19, 1793; d. in West Medway, Mass., April 18, 1872, aged 79.
64. ii. Richard Goldsmith, b. Nov. 7, 1795; d. in Burlington, Vt., Dec. 18, 1864, aged 69.
- iii. Sarah, b. in Rindge, N. H., Sept. 24, 1797. She married Asa Farnsworth, of Westmoreland, Nov. 7, 1816, and moved to Londonderry, Vt., where she died Nov. 12, 1832. Her children were: Louisa, who m. a Mr. Batchelder, of Landgrove, Vt., and moved with him to one of the Western States; Asa; Delham; Daniel, who died at two years

- of age; Nancy, who died at two years of age; Daniel, who moved to Michigan and died there about 1865; John; Henry.

He was elected hog reeve in Westmoreland, March 12, 1788. After his marriage he lived for some years in Chesterfield, New Hampshire, and the old assessors' books show the amount of his estate, which seems to have been a fair one for a young man in those days.

About 1795 he moved to the Black River region, in the neighborhood of Watertown, New York, where he lived for many years. When very aged he and his wife went to Joliet, Illinois,

JOHN<sup>6</sup> COLE (John,<sup>5</sup> Jonathán,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>). The second son of Capt. John and Lydia (Davis) Cole, was born in Westmoreland, New Hampshire, September 23, 1763, and died in London, Canada, in 1850, aged 87. His wife was Hannah ———, born August 21, 1771. He left home before his marriage, and after a time settled near London, Canada. He was a skilled workman at some trade, and was also a farmer part of his life. In his latter years he lived on the outskirts of the town and kept a large tavern. The only knowledge I have of him is from four letters written by him between 1828 and 1840, in which he mentions his family and gives a list of his children in their order.

I quote a portion of his last letter:

DEAR BROTHER—I received your letter on the third day of Aug. dated the fifth day of July and well pleased to hear from you so soon, and well pleased to hear that you are well. Will inform you that I am not very well but so as to take care of my house and do chores. But I am not able to labor at all for I am seventy-six years this day and you cannot expect much of a man at that age. * * * You wrote that you wanted us to come to you. I wish that we could, but it is a long way, Heber, and we must be at a great sacrifice to sell at these hard times and must leave all of our children in this distant land and never see them any more and that would be hard. You wrote that it was too hard for me to keep tavern, but it gives me a little cash every day that I should not get in any other way. I have but a small farm but it is all cleared and I value it at a hundred dollars per acre, aside from the buildings and loose property, and what I have got is my own, for I owe nothing and borrow nothing and ask no favors from anybody only my Maker. But if I had all of it in my pocket I think that I would go back to my native land, where we could be buried decently among my friends, for here is nothing but Old Country people, and they have a way by themselves, and not Yankee ways. * * * I live about two miles out of London village, that is about three quarters of a mile across it both ways, and thickly settled. Back of the town is the barrack where the soldiers are kept, about 1200 of them.

* * * Now you want to know our childrens names,— * * * Now Heber I dont know as I shall write to you any more, but if I am able I shall write to you as long as I can write with a pen, and I want you to do the same by me. But if I fail as fast as I have lately I cant last always for I go the way of the world. * * * You wrote that you were in your fifty sixth year. I am seventy-six this day and the old lady Hannah Cole was 68 on the 21 of Aug. last. So now it is my love to you and your lady.

SALMON<sup>6</sup> COLE (John,<sup>5</sup> Jonathan,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> Thomas.<sup>1</sup>) The third son of John and Lois Cole was born June 13, 1765, died in Buckingham, Canada, in 1849, aged eighty-four. He probably prospected about the then western and northern country and finally settled in Canada. He was in Hawksbury in 1801 and in Chatham for more than ten years previous to 1828, and between 1828 and 1832 he, with his sons, took up land in Buckingham and settled there. In a letter to his brother Heber, dated at Chatham, May 5, 1828, he says:

"Myself, four sons and two daughters, have drawn two hundred acres of land in Buckingham, fifty miles up the river. Ethan began work there last summer, and has cleared 10 acres for me, 12 for Salmon, 10 for Hiram, 15 for himself, 8 for Bathshebe, and 5 for Allen Davinny, who married Lois."

Mr. Cole was a tall, good looking, good tempered man, and at 70 years of age was straight and active. His wife, Bathsheba Dodge, was a native of Wales, who came to this country with her parents when she was quite young. They settled in the Connecticut Valley, and she was early inured to the hardships and perils of a frontier life. She was a strong tempered, energetic woman of massive frame and great strength. The ninth son of Captain John and Lois (Davis) Cole, was born March 5, 1778, in Windham, Vermont. He was very young when his father died, and as the family was soon broken up, he experienced the hard life of the small boy who works on a farm for his board. In due time he learned the carpenter's trade, and worked at various places in Vermont and Massachusetts. In 1801, while working in Barre, Massachusetts, he married Lucinda Witherell, of that town. She was born November 25, 1777, and died April 12, 1842. For nine years after their marriage they lived in Barre. In 1810 they moved to Windham, and in 1826 to the adjoining town of Londonderry, where they remained the rest of their lives. Mr. Cole died December 14, 1854, aged seventy-six.

Heber Cole

After the death of his first wife Mr. Cole married May 29, 1828, Prudence Walker, of Westmoreland, who was born January 24, 1800, and died March 16, 1883.

Their children were:

- v. Emeline, b. Sept. 1, 1830. She married William M. Whitney, Sept. 12, 1850. He was for many years a conductor on the New York & New England Railroad, and resided in Needham, Mass. She had two sons: (1) William Whitney, b. Sept. 30, 1854, who was a clerk in Boston, and died January 27, 1878. The following tribute to him was published at the time:

Mr. Whitney for several months has been very feeble, and the tenacity and strength of his disease had awakened in his friends the most anxious solicitude. He met the approach of death with calmness, and passed away without a struggle, watched by tender and loving hearts. This death has cast a gloom over our village, because Mr. Whitney was so widely known and esteemed. He was a young man of fine qualities of character, and life opened before him with the promise of usefulness and success. He had gained the entire confidence of the gentleman with whom he had been associated in business, and in a letter to the bereaved family he says: "I never had in my employ any one I thought so much of, or any one in whom I placed so much confidence, as Willie. He was an honest young man."

He also won the respect of all who knew him, and was endeared to his companions. Prompt and faithful in the discharge of every duty, he was ready always cheerfully to do his part in public affairs. For years he was a zealous friend and advocate of temperance, and gave to this cause the power of example, as well as his words. He was very much interested in the Sunday School of the First Parish, and held the office of Treasurer at the time of his death. Even during his lingering illness this was manifested in a way which was both touching and beautiful. As a son and brother he was loving and tender, and lightened the cares of the household by his ready hands and efficient helpfulness.

- (2) Frank Cole Whitney, b. Sept. 25, 1856. He was for several years teller in the First National Bank of Santa Fe, N. M., but now with the Lincoln National Bank of Boston.

Cole was born in Prospect Harbor, Maine, January 30, 1806. She married Joel Moore, of Gouldsborough, January 11, 1827, and died there October 26, 1881. Mr. Moore was born August 3, 1801, died April, 1883. The following is from Zion's Herald:

Sister Moore was converted under the labors of Rev. David Richards, and joined the M. E. Church during the pastorate of Rev. Moses Palmer. She was a faithful and devoted member of the church militant for forty-two years, ever constant at the attendance of the church services, and was found on the Sabbath in her place at the house of God. But her worship on earth is ended, for she is now a member of the church triumphant. She gave three of her sons to her country, and when the news of their deaths reached her, she could look up through tears and feel that God doeth all things well. She could say with Job: "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord."

Her home was, and now is, the home of the Methodist itinerant; in it many a weary one has found rest. I visited her in her sickness, and she was sweetly trusting Christ. Speaking about getting well or dying, she said: "God's will be done." She delighted in the Word of God; it was her counsel, and the Holy Spirit was her Comforter. God was her support in the affliction of life, and in death's hour through Him she triumphed. The Monday previous to her death she asked her daughter for the Bible. It was brought, and she took it and read these words from Matt. 7: 7-8: "Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you; for every one that asketh receiveth, and he that seeketh findeth, and to him that knocketh it shall be opened."

She had experienced the preciousness of the promises found in the passage when in health, but in her sickness did she seem to realize it as never before.

A husband, who is a member of the church, sons and daughters, mourn her departure. May they all meet that mother in Heaven. W. BALDWIN.

Her children were:

RICHARD GOLDSMITH<sup>7</sup> COLE (Asa,<sup>6</sup> Abijah,<sup>5</sup> Jonathan,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>). The second child of Asa and Anna (Goldsmith) Cole, was born in Rindge, New Hampshire, November 7, 1795. In 1801 he went to the home of his uncle Hayden, in Cambridge, Massachusetts, where he lived till he arrived at manhood. When fourteen years of age he entered his uncle's store, and was bred a merchant. He followed this business in Cambridge, New York City, and Troy, New York, till 1826, when he became an officer in a bank in Troy. In 1832 he was invited to the position of cashier of a bank in Burlington, Vermont, which place he held till his death, in 1864. As a bank officer and business man, his name was a symbol of inflexible integrity. In 1833 he became a communicant of the Episcopal Church. While in Troy he led the music of St. Paul's Church, and for twenty-five years he held the same position in his church in Burlington. The simple recital of the trusts he held in the church will show the reliance placed upon him and the estimation in which he was held. For thirty years he was vestryman of St. Paul's Church, and for the last seventeen the senior warden. For eighteen years he was trustee of the parish. From 1848 he was delegate to the annual diocesan convention. In 1844 and 1853 he was delegate from Vermont to the general convention of the United States; for twelve years a member of the standing committee; from 1856 a trustee of the Vermont Episcopal Institute, and also a member of the Board of Land Agents. In all these positions his soundness of judgment, the wisdom of his counsels, his firmness of principle, his skill in business, and uniform kindness and courtesy, made him a valuable officer and a most congenial associate. He married Miss Eliza Cutler, of Cambridge, Massachusetts. They had no children. He died December 18, 1864, and his wife survived him less than a year.*

JOHN<sup>7</sup> COLE (Asa,<sup>6</sup> Abijah,<sup>5</sup> Jonathan,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>). The seventh son of a family of eleven, was born in Westmoreland, Cheshire county, New Hampshire, on the twenty-seventh day of November, 1806. Here he lived until eight years old, enjoying the home life in the humble cottage by the mill with his brothers and sisters. Then came the sudden death of his father and the struggle of the heroic mother to support her little flock. All who were old enough to work shared the effort, and John early took up the toil of life as "chore boy" upon a neighboring farm. Many hardships were encountered by these children, but their New England pluck and endurance never failed. A few short terms in the winter season was all the schooling John received, but he made excellent use of this. As a boy, he was noted as a skillful wrestler, and was considered good company everywhere. When fifteen years of age he left the New Hampshire hills, on foot, in search of his fortune, and, after a few months spent on a farm in Cambridge, he sailed before the mast on a coasting vessel. Although to the sea-sickness and home-sickness a siege of smallpox was added, he decided during the voyage to become a sailor and the master of a ship.

One voyage followed another, bringing with it rapid promotion. He studied navigation, and soon became expert in all the details of sea life. At the age of twenty-seven he reached the height of his ambition, in having committed to him the command of a fine New Bedford whale ship, and commenced upon a series of very successful voyages.

On the sixth of March, 1838, upon his return from a three-years' voyage as master of the "Hibernia," he married Miss Elizabeth Shaw, of his native place. That the lady of his choice possessed not only rare physical beauty but also a heroic spirit, can be seen in the fact that a former proposal of marriage made by him had been rejected solely upon the ground that he was not a Christian. This humbling defeat doubtless had much influence in leading him to a close study of the Bible, with which he became very conversant. It was upon this voyage that he became what he ever after exhibited in scenes of deep affliction—a sincere Christian. After a few months of wedded life he again sailed upon another voyage. On the sixteenth of December, 1838, his son

John A. was born. After his return from sea, at the most earnest entreaty of his wife and friends, he resolved to give up a sea life, and settled first in Hartford, Connecticut, where his twin daughters, Anna and Ella, were born July 27, 1841, and afterwards in Boston. But the difficulty experienced in obtaining congenial business on land, while flattering inducements were ever drawing him back to his accustomed profession, finally resulted in his accepting the command of the ship Wm. Hamilton, intending that this should be his last voyage. Before leaving he purchased the Carey cottage in Medway, where he left his little family for a three years' absence. Soon after his departure his wife began to fail in health, gradually fading away with consumption until her death, April 13, 1843. One week earlier her little Annie also passed away. Mrs. Cole's sweet Christian spirit, her fortitude and serenity under the trying circumstances of her condition, were wonderful and her death triumphant.

Long afterwards, while cruising in the Northern Pacific, this distressing event was made known to Captain Cole by a letter received from Rev. David Sanford, their pastor. His letter in reply was treasured by this devoted friend until shortly before his own death, when he sent it to the surviving children. This letter is a silent witness, not only to the heart-rending grief of the stricken husband, but also to the depth of his Christian faith and the culture of both mind and heart.

On the ninth of October, 1845, he was married to Miss Mary Wells, of Westmoreland, who was not only his choice but that of his children, to whom she ever proved a most affectionate and devoted mother. He soon after settled in Walpole, New Hampshire, where he resided eight years. Here he had extensive interests, and identified himself with many religious and benevolent enterprises. In the politics of that exciting period he took an intense interest, and was one of the few "Free Soilers" of the town. He was a member of the convention that nominated their Presidential candidate in 1848, and was an ardent worker for human rights. Many colored fugitives found a helper in him, and his house a home, on their way to Canada. At this time he became a member of a Masonic lodge in Keene. He was also, as a "Son of Temperance," active and successful in efforts to reclaim intemperate men and restrict the liquor traffic in Walpole.

Here his son Frederick Herbert was born—a beautiful, active child, who died suddenly in his arms, before he was five years of age. This death deeply affected the father, and probably occasioned his determination to try the fortunes of the sea again.

Taking his wife with him, he sailed in the ship William Penn, of which he was a part owner, from New York to San Francisco. Upon the return voyage he met the first disaster in his business life in the loss of his ship, which was wrecked on Cape Hatteras, on the thirtieth of September, 1855. The last one to leave the ship, he was separated from his wife and floated alone, with a spar for his only support, for nineteen hours, when he was rescued by a passing vessel. His wife was also rescued from the raft upon which he had placed her as the ship was breaking up. They were united in New York after many days of suspense, both greatly overcome by the hardship of their exposure to sun and waves, but neither of them seriously injured.

March 2, 1856, Arthur Wells was born in Westmoreland, and the same year the family took up their residence once more in the Medway cottage, where they remained until 1872. Here little "Alice" was born and lived her short life—passing away August 21, 1861.

Captain Cole, at this period of his life, was, as ever before, thoroughly alive to all questions relating to the public good. He held his opinions with great pertinacity and maintained them earnestly, lacking certainly the first qualifications of a politician, and never the recipient of political honors. His influence was, however, constantly felt and respected. The poor always found a friend in him, and every good cause an advocate. While the war was in progress he several times visited the armies at "the front," and made the acquaintance of many public men. His business habits were very good, his investments were wisely made, and his property carefully managed. He was very liberal in his support of church institutions and charities, and also in many other directions.

His last years were spent at the Shaw homestead, in Westmoreland, amid the scenes of his childhood, and the New Hampshire hills, whose beauty was always very attractive to him. Here he labored earnestly to bring about a harmony of feeling and effect among the churches of the town, which had been greatly divided by a feud of long standing. In this he was happily successful, and the last days of his life were made bright by this union of long divided friends in the old parish church. On the twenty-ninth of December, 1874, he fell, without a moment's warning, by a stroke of apoplexy, and passed away on the following week—January 6, 1875.

In person he was a man of fine physique, stately bearing, and stern but kindly features. He possessed not only dauntless courage, but a tender heart and almost womanly delicacy of feeling. Children were easily won into his arms, and his presence in the social circle was always an inspiration. His remains lie buried in the old Westmoreland cemetery, overlooking the beautiful Connecticut valley, a most fitting spot for the last resting place of one whose manly heart was so keenly sensitive to the phases of nature.

The children of John and Elizabeth (Shaw) Cole were:

- 172. i. John Adams, b. Dec. 16, 1838.
  - ii. Anna Elizabeth (twin), b. July 27, 1841; d. 1843.
- 173. iii. Ella Amelia, (twin), b. July 27, 1841.

SUSAN ERMINA<sup>7</sup> COLE WHITCOMB-PITKIN (Asa,<sup>6</sup> Abijah,<sup>5</sup> Jonathan,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>). The eighth child of Asa and Anna (Goldsmith) Cole was born in Westmoreland, New Hampshire, March 10, 1809, and died in Montpelier, Vermont, in 1884. On January 21, 1831, she married Elihu Whitcomb, of Concord, Massachusetts. They removed to Rutland, Vermont, where, December 12, 1832, her son John Elihu was born. Her husband died on the third of March following. She afterwards returned to Concord, Massachusetts, where she lived till her marriage, May 22, 1850, to Orin Pitkin, of Montpelier, Vermont, where she lived till the time of her death. On her second marriage she found three motherless daughters awaiting her. She proved a kind and devoted mother to them and a helpful wife to her husband. She possessed in a remarkable degree the esteem and confidence of the community in which she lived. Her only son by her second marriage died at the age of nineteen. This was a crushing blow, but her firm Christian faith and confidence in the wisdom and love of the Father enabled her to bear it.

Her children were:

- 68a. i. John Elihu Whitcomb, b. Dec. 12, 1832.
- ii. Charles Pitkin, b. —, 1852, d. — 1873.

Massachusetts; then six months in Providence, Rhode Island, with uncle Asa. October 5, 1845, sailed in ship Marengo from New Bedford, on a whaling voyage, Theodore Cole, Master. Arrived home April 22, 1848. November 11, 1848, sailed in ship Cowper, of New Brunswick, on whaling voyage, Theodore Cole, Master. Arrived home March 22, 1851. July 5, 1851, sailed in bark Manuel Ortis, on a whaling voyage, C. H. Cole, Master. Arrived home May 1st, 1854. July 10, 1854, sailed from New York in merchant ship, William Penn, John Cole, Master, for San Francisco. Arrived in San Francisco, December 22, 1854; there left the ship, followed various pursuits (principally mining on the Feather river, Butte county) until August, 1856, when he shipped as boatswain on the clipper ship, Star of the Union, for New York, Frederick A. Stall, Master. Arrived home in November, 1856. Did not go to sea again till April, 1857, then shipped as second mate of merchant bark C. H. Yarrington, (Oliver Gorham, Master), for Smyrna. Arrived home in September, 1857. Tried his hand at butchering business with Mr. Pitkin, the next ten months, until October, 1858, when he shipped in bark Scotland, of Boston, (John Rowe, Master), as second mate, for a voyage to Valiparaiso and the copper ore ports of Chili, South America. Arrived in Baltimore in November, 1859. Spent the Winter at home. In the Spring of 1860 shipped in the Packet service, running between Boston and Philadelphia. Arrived home the last trip in October, 1860. That ended his seafaring life. Thus you will see that from October, 1845, to October, 1860, is fifteen years that his principal occupation was going to sea; nine years of which was in the whaling service. The day before Thanksgiving, 1860, he made his debut as a greenhand in a machine shop in Boston, where he remained until April, 1863, when he came to Waltham and entered the employ of the American Watch Company, where he remained until June 1, 1872, when he left their employ and started the business of manufacturing watch machinery in connection with Henry N. Fisher and George F. Ballou, under the firm name of Ballou, Whitcomb & Co., located in Boston. In November, 1873, moved the business to Waltham. April, 1874, Ballou retired, selling his interest to Whitcomb and Fisher. November 1, 1876, Ambrose Webster was admitted to partnership. In the Winter of 1876 they built a shop seventy by thirty feet, two stories high. In 1879 enlarged by adding a building forty by thirty feet, two stories high. In 1882 another addition of fifty by twenty feet, two stories high, giving them a capacity at present time to employ ninety hands. Value of present plant is $60,000. He married June 20, 1867, in Waltham, Massachusetts, Hannah Elizabeth Spear, born in West Newton, September 12, 1845.

Their children were:

THEODORE<sup>7</sup> COLE (Asa,<sup>6</sup> Abijah,<sup>5</sup> Jonathan,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>). The tenth son of Asa and Anna (Goldsmith) Cole was born in Westmoreland, New Hampshire, May 11, 1813. At the age of nine years he went to live in the family of Abijah French, a farmer and lumberman of Westmoreland. He lived with Mr. French till the summer of 1834, working on the farm summers and attending district school winters. In the spring of 1835 he left Westmoreland to embark on the sea of active life. He went to New Bedford, Massachusetts, the place then so celebrated for its great whaling interests, and engaged as a seaman under the well known master, Captain James Maxfield. His first voyage lasted eighteen months, and among the various points of interest they visited, were the Azores, South Africa, Madagascar, Comoro Islands, and the Isle of France. In April, 1837, he sailed under Captain Shubel Haws, ship "Frances Henrietta" (Charles W. Morgan, agent), and made a two years' voyage, going around the world, and touching at Van Dieman's Land, Cape of Good Hope, Pernambuco, etc. In the fall of 1839 he set sail under the same master, in the ship Julian (agents, Hathaway and Luce), and cruised for some time on the Atlantic. They then extended their voyage to the northwest coast of New Holland, Australia. At this point he left the Julian, having filled the ship, and went on board the bark Pacific, Captain Webb. They sailed south and southeast along the coast of New Holland, touching at Hobart Town, then east by New Zealand, then around Cape Horn, touching at St. Catherines, Brazil, arriving home in January, 1842. During all these years of sea-faring life Mr. Cole had, by diligent and prompt attention to his duties, won the approval of his employers and prepared the way for promotion, and at the age of thirty years he had circumnavigated the globe twice, and in May, 1843, as master of the ship "Parachute" (Benjamin B. Howard, agent) he began his third voyage around the world, stopping at the Sandwich Islands for recruits, thence north to the northwest coast, returning to the Sandwich Islands for water, thence to the South Pacific, around Cape Horn, returning to New Bedford in July, 1845. Captain Cole was married in August, 1845, to Livilla, the second daughter of Captain Wilson and Lucy Atherton Gleason, of Westmoreland, and in October of the same year he sailed in the ship "Marengo" (agent, Jonathan Bourne), touching at Cape Verd, passing west around Cape Horn and on to the Sandwich Islands, and from there to the coast of Kamtchatka. He was absent two years and eight months. In November, 1848, he sailed in the ship "Cowper" (agent, B. B. Howard), on a long voyage for whales in the Arctic ocean. Mrs. Cole accompanied him. They sailed direct for Cape Verd, down the coast of South America, west around Cape Horn, from thence to the Sandwich Islands, then, leaving his wife to await his return, he steered for Behring Strait, passing in June the western extremity of Oonalaska. He remained one season in the Arctic Ocean, discovering the Plover Islands, July 15, 1849, although he never claimed the title or credit of a discoverer. On his return to the Sandwich Islands his wife rejoined him. They sailed for Hong Kong, China, where they passed a month in preparing for another Arctic voyage. From there they sailed through the Japan Sea and the Matsumai Strait, north along the coast of Kamtchatka, stopping at Petropulaski, then on to the Arctic Ocean, where Captain Cole completed his cargo and started for home. The voyage of two years and a half, though full of interest and with opportunities of seeing many distant lands, and abounding in varied experience, was long to Mrs. Cole, and she heartily rejoiced when the hills and spires of New Bedford came in view, March 22, 1851, and she could once more stand upon land. Captain Cole had now for nearly sixteen years followed the sea continuously, and by his practicality, prudence, and perseverance had acquired a competency, and he decided to give up his maritime profession and enjoy the well-earned fruits of his labors, but being naturally an energetic man, idleness was not to his taste, and he engaged in manufacturing and merchandising in Brattleboro, Vermont, where he remained until 1859, when he removed to Westminster, Vermont, and purchased a farm. There he lived about seven years, identifying himself with the affairs of the town, which he represented in the Legislature in 1862. After leaving Westminster he resided in Keene, New Hampshire, one year, and then made his home in Waverly Village, Belmont, Massachusetts, for nine years, in order to give his children better educational facilities. In 1875 he made a pleasure trip to Colorado, Wyoming, and California, and then returned to Westmoreland, New Hampshire, his native place, where he afterwards resided, and employed his leisure in farming. He was a member of the New Hampshire Legislature in 1881-82, as a representative of the Republican party, to which he belonged after 1856, when he cast his vote for Fremont.

Captain Cole was a sea captain of pronounced ability, and a natural leader of men; and as shipmaster, merchant and farmer, impressed others with a sense of his fitness to lead and direct, and was an important factor in the community where he resided.

He improved the opportunities of his later life for reading and study, so that men of a more liberal education were amazed at his extensive and accurate knowledge of history and general literature. He was an able and good counselor to the younger men who often resorted to him for advice. Since 1876 he was a member of the Congregational church, and contributed liberally to its support. He was a kind husband and father, a loyal citizen and good man. He died in Westmoreland, July 2, 1885.—[Hurd's Cheshire and Sullivan Counties.]

The children of Captain Theodore and Livilla (Gleason) Cole are:

175. i. Frank Theodore, b. June 22, 1853.
176. ii. William Henry, b. Aug. 19, 1854.
- iii. Lucy Anne, b. Feb. 29, 1856; d. Mar. 7, 1856.
- iv. Sarah Gleason, Feb. 15, 1857, d. Apr. 30, 1874.

SARAH GLEASON COLE.

At Waverly, Mass., April 30, Sarah Gleason Cole, aged 17 years, and 2 months.

The death of Miss Cole is one of those real mysteries of Providence which are so trying to faith. Possessed apparently of uncommon vitality and vivacity, and just at the point where she seemed entering on the full and free exercise of her varied powers, her health suddenly gave way, like a fortress undermined by an insidious foe, and only a brief but distressing illness prefaced her departure. To a good education she was adding a generous musical culture; and was not only a favorite by reason of her accomplishments, but beloved for her many endearing traits; a dutiful daughter, an affectionate sister, an agreeable companion; in many ways ministering to the happiness and welfare of those around her. Her funeral took place at the Congregational church the Sabbath afternoon following her death, a crowded and saddened attendance testifying to the common sense of loss and the universal sympathy with the bereaved household.—From Congregationalist.

CHARLES HENRY<sup>7</sup> COLE (Asa,<sup>6</sup> Abijah,<sup>5</sup> Jonathan,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>). The youngest child of Asa and Anna (Goldsmith) Cole, was born in Westmoreland, New Hampshire, February 25, 1816, and died at sea, April 4, 1853. He was an infant when his father died and he lived with his mother till he was nine years of age, when he went to live with "good old deacon" Blake, of Rindge, New Hampshire, a man who regarded all boys as vicious and not to be trusted. After a year or so he left there and went to the home of Stephen Jewett, in the same town, under the promise that he should attend school summer and winter. Finding that he could not be spared in the warm weather he spoke of the promise. Mr. Jewett replied: "Youngster, if you are not satisfied you had better go to sea with your brother John." This brother was a whaling captain, sailing from New Bedford, and as Charles had a great horror of the sea, Mr. Jewett was surprised to receive the reply: "I guess I will." He walked from Rindge to New Bedford to see his brother, who thought best to take him. He provided books and looked after Charles' studies while he was at sea, so that with his love for reading and desire to learn he was able to acquire a very fair education, while his ready wit and genial disposition made him a man whose memory is warmly cherished by all who knew him. At twenty-five he was master of a ship, the Adelaide, and after a very successful voyage he returned to Rindge and married, March 17, 1846, Caroline G. Cutler. In 1848 he went to California, and for two years ran the schooner Caroline between San Francisco and the Sandwich Islands, as a passenger and freight packet. In 1850 he took the barque Manuel Orteiz for a four years cruise around the world, to trade at the islands and ports, and to catch a cargo of oil. While in the Okhotsk sea he was injured by a whale staving his boat. This injury resulted in his death while on his way home on the ship Syren. He was buried at sea, near Christmas Island, three days out from the Sandwich Islands.

His children were:

- i. Richard G., b. Apr. 14, 1847, and d. the same day.
- 177 .ii. Charles Ward, b. Oct. 23, 1848.

In 1855 the widow of Mr. Cole married Dr. Edmund Seyffarth, of Altenberg, Germany, a surgeon of much repute, who settled in Lawrence, Massachusetts, and died in 1874.

LEVI<sup>7</sup> COLE (Levi,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Jonathan,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> Thomas,<sup>1</sup>). The only son of Levi and Chloe (Stoddard) Cole was born in Chesterfield, New Hampshire, August 25, 1790, and died in Sidney Fremont county, Iowa, May 27, 1868. Before he was of age he "went west" to Watertown, New York, where he married Lygusta Allen, who was born in Herkimer county, near Little Falls, New York, May 25, 1788. She died at Riverton, Fremont county, Iowa, January 2, 1877. He lived in Watertown and kept tavern there during the war of 1812, and was well acquainted with the incidents of war in that region. He served in the militia at the time of the British attack on Sackett's Harbor (Watertown). After the close of the war he moved into Upper Canada, where he was engaged in the manufacture of lumber, on the bay of Quinta, and shipping it to Rochester, New York. About 1829 or 1830 he moved to Chautauqua county, New York, and afterwards to Buffalo; from thence to Cleveland, Ohio, and in 1837 to Monroe, Michigan. Here he lived for many years, engaged in business as a carpenter and builder. His last years were spent in Iowa at the home of his son, Gilbert L. Cole.

The children of Levi and Lygusta (Allen) Cole were:

In 1839 he was in Michigan, but his uncle Derastus, of Coshocton, Steuben county, New York, had offered to make him his heir if he would come and live with him. Whether he did so or not I can not find out.

ORIS<sup>7</sup> COLE (Salmon,<sup>6</sup> John,<sup>5</sup> Jonathan,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> John,<sup>2</sup> Thomas<sup>1</sup>). The fifth son of Salmon and Bathsheba (Dodge) Cole was born in Hawksbury, Upper Canada, February 28, 1801, and died in Buckingham, Providence, Quebec, September 13, 1883. He was a very eccentric and strong-willed man. It is related of him that when a small boy he went with the older boys across the Ottawa river in a canoe, and not agreeing with them he put a piece of board under his breast and swam back across the river, which at that point was a mile wide. He was among the first settlers of Buckingham, and for many years was a pilot on the Ottawa and St. Lawrence rivers. He accumulated a large property, but through unfortunate investments lost most of it. On October 12, 1829, he married Mary Gillson, daughter of Eleazer Gillson, who was born January, 1808, and died June 18, 1881.

HON. BENJAMIN JAMES<sup>7</sup> COLE was born in Franconia, New Hampshire, September 28, 1814. In 1821 his father removed to Franklin, New Hampshire, and in 1827 to Lake Village in the town of Gilford, where the family have since resided. In 1836 he, with his two brothers, John A. and Isaac, succeeded their father in the foundry business which he had established there. Later he purchased their interest, and added to and developed the same until it became one of the largest establishments of the kind in the State. In 1873 it was organized into a joint stock company as the "Cole Manufacturing Company," with a capital stock of $60,000, which has since been increased, he retaining nine-tenths of the stock and continuing to manage the business for ten years, when he relinquished the active part of the same to his son-in-law, Col. H. B. Quinby.

He married June 17, 1838, Mehitabel A. Batchelder, of Lake Village. He represented the town of Guilford in the State Legislature in 1849 and 1850; was also elected a member of the Governor's Council in 1866 and 1867; was elected a member of the State Constitutional Convention in 1868, and also a delegate to the National Republican Convention at Baltimore which renominated President Lincoln in 1864; was one of the Presidential electors in the following election.

“He has long been a prominent member of the Free Baptist Church and a trustee of New Hampton Institution. Mr. Cole is a man of influence in his town and church and throughout a large business acquaintance. He has a kind, social and affectionate nature, and cherishes home and friends. To these he is loyal, and he enjoys to an unusual degree the marked confidence of the better portion of society and leading business men. He is generous in the highest degree in contributing to religious and charitable objects, and no case of deserving need ever appealed unsuccessfully to him. He is not only a prominent and leading business man, an active temperance worker, but, higher yet, a consistent Christian, whose active zeal has done much for the church and society of his locality.”*

 ix. Callie Batcheldor, b. 1860, d. Aug. 11, 1880. The following memorial was published:

EDITOR RECORD:—An unusual sadness has existed in this community for the past few days, caused by the decease of Miss Callie Batcheldor. It pleased God to take her from us on the 11th inst.

She was a young lady of twenty summers, possessing rare personal beauty, of a remarkably modest, retiring and sweet Christian disposition and temper. She was one of the few girls who kept herself absolutely aloof from demoralizing parties and hops. There were two places dearer to her than all others, viz: home and her church.

Two books were her every-day companions, her hymn book and her Bible. Recently, hardly anything has been more interesting to the writer, than to trace her hand through these two volumes. The pencil, geranium leaves and sprigs of bleeding-heart, mark the finest hymns of our collection and the sweetest promises of inspiration. Her cards, mottoes, drawings and compositions show plainly that the current of her thoughts were pure and heavenly.

As a member of the Sunday School and church she was unexceptionally true and faithful.

Her dying testimony was the sweetest of her life. In answer to the inquiries of her pastor, she said: "I can trust the Saviour." "Give my friends my love and good will, and tell them I am happy." She also requested her pastor to use the burial service of the church at her funeral, not to preach a sermon, but to talk comfortingly to her friends, and to sing "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "Come Ye Disconsolate."

The following lines were written by her during her last sickness: "When I have gone from earth, when my place is vacant, when my pilgrimage is over, with thy faithful heart keep my memory green."

The last night of her stay on earth, we watched at her bedside, witnessing her struggles and triumphs. Without, the face of the sky presented the appearance of alternate clouds and stars; within the chamber of death were scenes of unutterable pain and the "peace that passes understanding." Death lost his terrors, and was viewed as the messenger of sweet release.

The weary night passed, and as the sun came up through the gates of the East, ushering in the rosy morning of a new day, Callie Batcheldor, in the morning of a beautiful womanhood, passed through the portals of death into the bright morning of a blissful immortality.

At the tolling of the bell the great populace assembled in the church, and, with a greater unanimity than I have ever witnessed, thoughtfully and tearfully paid the last tribute of respect to one whom none could think of but in kindness, and then accompanied her to the quiet graveyard. Never were mortal remains handled by human hands more tenderly. Not a clod was heard to fall on her coffin. Loving hands decorated her grave with floral wreaths and crosses, and there loving friends lingered and consecrated her grave with many tears,

“But when the sun in all his state,
 Illumed the eastern skies,
 She passed through glory's morning gate,
 And walked in Paradise.”

---

Callie has crossed the stream of death,
 The cold and chilly tide,
 And she has landed safe,
 For Jesus was her guide.

They will lay her in the grave,
 To sleep her final sleep,
 And angels o'er her dust
 Will their loving vigils keep.

There'll be a vacant seat at home,
 By the evening fireside;
 A lovely form will be missed
 That was a family pride.

Kind brothers will breathe her name
 And tears unbidden flow;
 Loving sisters will mourn for her
 In accents sad and low.

No more her winning smile
 A mother's eye will meet;
 No more her gladsome voice
 Sisters and brothers will greet.

Oh, you are lonely now,
 Your hearts with grief are riven,
 But it will soothe each wound to know
 You have a tie in heaven.

Weep not, mother, sisters and brothers,
 A harp and crown are her's;
 She is an angel now,
 And shall forever be.

“I was early set to work in father's carpenter shop, and had but little schooling when a boy. In April, 1846, I left home; stopped awhile in Louisville, Kentucky, and the same summer went to St. Louis by river, and thence to Galena, Illinois. I stopped off for a day at Navoo, and saw Uncle and Aunt Stiles for the last time. The city was in an uproar, and under martial law, so I left the same day and went up the river to Kickapoo Pinery, Wisconsin. During the year that I spent there the Territory became a State. The next year I went home via Mackinac.

“In 1848 I went to Cincinnati to finish my trade. I worked on the Burnet House, attended the Mechanics' Institute, and took lessons in drawing and modeling. I worked at my trade in Nelson, Anderson, Woodford, Marion, and Bullitt counties, Kentucky, till the fall of 1851, when I returned home to Monroe, Michigan.

“On the 10th of March, 1852, I started, in company with twenty-three men and one woman, on the overland route to California. We crossed the Mississippi at Warsaw, Illinois, and reached St. Joseph on May 1. On the 5th we crossed the

Gilbert L. Cole

Missouri about twenty-five miles above St. Joseph, and on the next morning (Sunday) first saw the beautiful 'plains' of the great Territory of Nebraska.

"We had now left all civilization behind us. I crossed the Big Blue River, which I can now look out of my window and see, about twelve miles below here. On the 9th of May, followed up the Little Blue, and struck the Platte River at Kearney. On the 27th one of our party died. We forded the south fork of the Platte at its mouth, and followed up the north fork on its south side.

"On June 24 we reached South Pass, burned our wagons, and begun 'packing.' On the Big Sandy we halted. The right hand road led to 'Sublett's Cut-off,' the left to Salt Lake City. The majority voted to go to the right, so I did not see the city nor Aunt Stiles.

"We spent July 4 at 'Soda Springs' with the Shoshone Indians. The company had now all broken up, and going down the Humboldt Valley my little party of three had nothing to eat for twenty-one days but dead stock and willow bark. Our sufferings were terrible, as we found no water fit to drink.

"We got to Carson Valley July 28, crossed the summit of the Sierra Nevadas on August 7, and got into 'Hangtown,' now Placerville, California, August 10, after a journey of five months, less six days.

"After a time I returned via Panama, and arrived in New York City January 10, 1854. After a visit to Vermont I returned to Monroe.

"December 4, 1854, I married at Monroe, Michigan, Frederika Wantzschmitt, who was born in Baumberg, Bavaria, Germany, November 17, 1835, and in 1857 moved to Prairie Du Chien, Wisconsin, and in 1859 (April) to Sidney, Iowa.

"On August 15, 1862, I enlisted in Company E, Twenty-ninth Iowa Volunteer Infantry, and served on the Lower Mississippi and in Arkansas; was wounded and sent to Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis. My wife and boys came to see me there, and remained there during the war. On my recovery I was promoted to a lieutenantancy in the colored troops, and served in the Eighteenth Regiment in the fall of 1864, against Price in Missouri, and was then sent to Camp Nelson, Kentucky, where I was attached to Company A, One Hundred and Twenty-fourth United States Cavalry Infantry.

"In November, 1865, I was ordered to bring my command to Louisville, and was mustered out. I had earned by competitive examination a first lieutenant's commission in the regular army, and it was offered me by the same hand that held my discharge, but my health being poor, and my parents old and needing my care, I declined it.

"I returned to Sidney, Iowa, and stayed there till father and mother died. I moved to Beatrice, Nebraska, in the fall of 1878, and have moved along in the even tenor of my way ever since."

Mr. Cole is an architect and superintendent.

"In the month of November, 1826, father emigrated to the town of Ashford, Cattaraugus county, New York, and settled on one hundred acres of land in what was then known as the Holland purchase. I lived at home with father until I was nineteen years of age, when I went to the city of Troy, New York, and lived with my Uncle Reuben and Aunt Chloe Cole. I went to school with my cousins, Denison and Russell Cole, commencing in November, and returning to my father's the following August. I stayed at home until I was twenty-two, and then went to Bolivar, Alleghany county, New York, and studied medicine with Dr. E. C. Pool. From there I went to Springville, Erie county, and studied for two years with Dr. B. A. Batly. I then studied in Buffalo with Dr. Horace Mellin Conger for about a year and six months, when I obtained from the censors of Erie county my diploma to practice medicine.

"I then emigrated and settled in Richmond, McHenry county, Illinois, on August 12, 1844. I practiced my profession there for three years, when I moved to Utica, Winnebago county, Wisconsin, where I obtained forty acres of land, which I worked as I could, besides attending to my practice in the neighborhood. After about three years I sold out and removed to what was known as the Indian lands, now known as the town of Marion, Waushara county, Wisconsin.

"I settled on one hundred acres of land there about the middle of May, 1850, built me a log house, and went to work clearing, fencing, and breaking my new home.

"When the town was organized I was deputized as town clerk, and was elected to that office eight years in succession. I have been superintendent of schools and supervisor several times. I did not give my attention to the practice of my profession, as I wished to make farming my main business, but I had to go out some among the sick in my immediate neighborhood, but did it without thought of remuneration.

"After some years I was compelled to sell my farm, when I bought a stock of drugs and opened business in Waukaw, where I am now located. I was married to Allyn Ann Sanders, June 22, 1845.

"My wife Allyn died January 26, 1881. On November 18, 1883, I married Ester Evelina Mills, of Waukaw.

"Thus I have had various experiences in the journey of life. When I take a retrospective view of my past life, and see how I have been led and influenced by an over-ruling Power beyond my own, I see and feel that God is good, and deserves my every effort to love and obey His mandates while life shall last.

"ALJAMAN A. COLE."

Their children were:

worked at blacksmithing till he learned the trade. In 1842 he went to Buffalo and began work as a journeyman. Soon after the press of dull times threw him out of his place, and there being a shipping office in Buffalo for the United States Navy, he, with two other workmen, shipped as blacksmiths for a term of three years. May 9, 1842, they were sent to the receiving ship at Charlestown Navy Yard, Massachusetts, and on August 3 were transferred to the seventy-four-gun ship Columbus, and sailed August 29. The ship visited the Mediterranean, wintering at Genoa, and then went to the east coast of South America, and after a stay on that coast sailed for home, arriving in New York May 29, 1844. The crew were discharged, and he went home via Troy and Albany.

In September he went west with his brother, Dr. A. A. Cole. He worked at his trade in Elgin, Illinois, till the spring of 1845, when he went to Solon, McHenry county, and started in business on his own account. Here he lived several years and prospered. On July 18, 1847, he married Matilda Slocum, only daughter of Amajiah Slocum. She was born in Wooster, Otsego county, New York, August 1, 1818, and went to Illinois with her family in 1844. Soon after his marriage he sold his shop and tools and bought a farm near Solon. Here he lived, working on his farm in the summer and at his trade in the winter, and here his children were born and reared. In October, 1880, he sold his farm, and with his wife and three unmarried daughters removed to Hayti, Hamlin county, Dakota. His son and son-in-law also sold their farms and removed with him. There he has a fine farm and good buildings, and his family around him. He is a member of the Baptist Church. He holds the office of postmaster at Hayti.

The first child of Horace C. and Delinda (Smith) Cole, was born in Madrid, St. Lawrence county, New York, January 18, 1826. We quote from his letter:

"I moved with my parents to Hopkinton, St. Lawrence county, New York, in 1832, and thence to West Stockholm, same county, in 1837, where I have lived ever since. I still own the place my father bought in 1838. I worked with my father at the carpenter and joiners' trade, and at farming part of the time till he went west in 1854, attending district school from two to three months in the winter, till I was twenty years of age, aspiring and hoping for something better in the line of education. About that time I became satisfied that I could not study on account of a heart difficulty, which has troubled me ever since. So it has been work, work. After my father went west I continued to work at my trade till 1860, when I was married to Malinda Averill, of Shelburne, Vermont, after which I worked at farming till 1862, when I enlisted in the army for three years, or during the war. I was wounded in July, 1864, and served in the hospital for five months, when I returned to my regiment, the One Hundred and Sixth New York Volunteers. Was discharged in June, 1865. Since then I have been a farmer.

"Had I followed my own inclination I should have granted your request and sent back your note to me; for I consider my life a very unimportant one. But you can do as you like about publishing what I have written. I will say in closing that here I am at the age of sixty, having a comfortable home. I am out of debt, have the needful things of life, and am hoping for and expecting something better in another world. Yours respectfully, "MYRON S. COLE."

APPENDIX.

YORK COUNTY, MAINE.

---

WILLIAM COLE. He came to the Massachusetts Bay colony early, and January 23, 1637, two acres were granted to him at Mt. Wallaston. He married Elizabeth, a daughter of Francis Doughty, a merchant of Bristol, England. Her brother, the Rev. Francis Doughty, also came to the colony. He was in Taunton in 1639, and subsequently went to Rhode Island and thence to Long Island, where he was very roughly handled by the Dutch. He finally went to Virginia.

In 1640 Mrs. Cole sued her brother for defrauding her of her marriage portion. There is a letter from Rev. Francis Doughty, to Governor Winthrop asking about the case. This is the case in which Mr. Thomas Lechford, the earliest lawyer in the colony, was retained, and to which he refers in "Plain Dealing."

I suspect that Mr. Cole was a follower of Wheelwright, for he removed to Exeter, and was in 1639 a witness to a true deed from the Indians to Wheelwright, and in 1640 removed with him to Wells, Maine, where he was constable in 1645.

He submitted with his sons John and Nicholas to the Massachusetts Jurisdiction, and took the oath at Wells, July 5, 1653. He moved back to Hampton, and died there May 16, 1662, in his eighty-second year.

His children were:

2. i. John.
3. ii. Nicholas, b. 1636.
4. iii. William,
And probably others.

NICHOLAS<sup>2</sup> COLE (William<sup>1</sup>). Born — — —, 1636. He probably went to Wells with his father about 1640. He was a signer of the petition of certain inhabitants of Maine to Cromwell in 1656. He was constable there in 1658. He was appointed ferryman on Cape Porpoise River in 1664, in place of John Sanders, who had removed to Cape Porpoise. He was to keep the ferry seven years. He is mentioned aged 30 in 1666.

His children were:

5. i. Nicholas. b. — — —. He was killed by the Indians May 11, 1704.
- ii. Jane, b. — — —. She m. Joseph Littlefield, and after his death John Heard, of Dover, N. H., July, 1698. They lived in Kittery, but the record is in Exeter, N. H. Their children are:
  - (i.) Jane, b. June 18, 1699; m. Nov. 15, 1719, Tristram Coffin, of Dover, and had nine children.
  - (ii.) Mary, b. Aug. 24, 1700; m. July 1, 1722, Henry Baxter.
  - (iii.) Abijah, b. Apr. 15, 1702; m. — Hubbard.
- iii. (?) Ann, who was m. to Nicholas Badcock, in 1686, by Justice Barefoote, in Portsmouth or vicinity.

3

JOHN<sup>2</sup> COLE (William<sup>1</sup>). He first came to Wells and then settled at Cape Porpoise, where he was living when the people of Maine submitted to the Massachusetts Jurisdiction, he having signed the petition of 1672.

On July 5, 1653, he and eleven others of Cape Porpoise appeared before the Court at Wells, took the oath, and were incorporated as the fifth township in Maine.

At the time of the Indian troubles at the close of the century and the beginning of the next, the people of this region suffered severely. When the troops of Governor Andrus withdrew in 1690, most of the people of Cape Porpoise withdrew to Wells or to Portsmouth. In August, 1703, the few that had ventured back were again driven out, and all improvements destroyed. The town was not resettled till 1714.

John Cole probably lived at Cleaves Cove and there three of his children resided after the town was resettled. He is recorded as on the Grand Jury and as licensed to keep a public house, July, 1674. Savage says he died 1661, as his invoice is produced on April 20 of that year.

His children were, but not in this order:

- |    |               |     |               |
|----|---------------|-----|---------------|
| 6. | i. Isaac.     | 9.  | iv. Edward.   |
| 7. | ii. John.     | 10. | v. Joseph.    |
| 8. | iii. Phillip. | 11. | vi. Benjamin. |

4

WILLIAM<sup>2</sup> COLE (John<sup>1</sup>). Among those who signed the petition to Massachusetts, of May 18, 1672, requesting them to extend jurisdiction over the province of Maine, was William Cole, of Sheepcoate. He was probably a son of William<sup>1</sup>.

5

[Can he be the Isaac of Exeter, a mill-wright, who sold part of a mill to ——, in 1671?]

He may have been the Isaac Cole of Piscataqua, who was killed by the Indians while attending a wedding at Wells, Maine. See Boston News-Letter, September 15, 1712. [Reg. Vol. XII, p. 138].

---

7

9

I O

JOSEPH<sup>3</sup> COLE (John,<sup>2</sup> William<sup>1</sup>). Son of John and (———) Cole, born ———. He is mentioned in Bradbury's, Kennepunkport, as living in 1740. There was a Joseph at York in 1680, but the name is spelled Coole, and was probably another man.

I I

BENJAMIN<sup>3</sup> COLE (John,<sup>2</sup> William<sup>1</sup>). Son of John and (———) Cole, born ———. He was living in Manchester in 1734, says Bradbury.

[The following are notes of some of the early settlers and their children whom I have not been able to connect with the previous families.]

ELIZABETH. There sailed for New England, August 11, 1635, in the Bachelor de Lo, Thomas Webb, master, one Elizabeth Cole, aged twenty-three, a maid servant to Lyon Gardner. She had a certificate of conformity from the rector of her parish. [Reg. XIV, 322.]

In 1661 the proprietors of the undivided land of Salem petitioned for a proprietors' meeting. Among them was Elizabeth Cole, who signed with a mark.

JOHN, of Gloucester, Massachusetts. Wife Mehitable. Son Daniel, born May 14, 1669. [Reg. IV, 361.]

CLEMENT COLE, born 1605. He came in the Susan and Ellen from London, aged thirty. He had a certificate of conformity, and that he was no subsidy man. He probably had wife and children, as September 30, 1639, he had a lot for seven heads granted at the Mt. Wollaston (Braintree). The record of that allowance says that he had served with Captain Robert Keayne four years.

ALEXANDER. A Scot, from Dunbarton. In 1684 he was admitted as a member of the Scotch Charitable Society of Boston. The next year he was at Salem. He married Bethia Pitman, widow of John Silsbee, of Salem, and died in 1687, his will being dated June 24, and probated August 24 of that year. His will mentions two maiden sisters, Ann and Jeanette, as living in Dunbarton. He had one son, Alexander.

---

ARTHUR. He died in Cambridge, September 4, 1676. Arthur had married November 27, 1673, Lydia ———, who, after his death, married William Eager, April 13, 1680.

His children were:

- i. Arthur, b. Dec. 10, 1674.
  - ii. Daniel, b. March 7, 1676.

FRANCIS. Boston. Wife's name Sarah. Had child:

- i. Sarah, b. April 29, 1689.

GREGORY. A freeman of Portsmouth, Rhode Island, 1655.

JOHN. John Cole, aged forty, was a passenger in the ship Confidence, John Jobson, master, from London, April 11, 1638.

There was a John Cole at Salisbury from 1640 to 1650. Savage says he died 1682. On December 25, 1650, he was rated for 8s. 6d., and on May 18, 1652, for 4s. 10d. for half a year. [Reg. III, 55.] I am inclined to think this was John<sup>2</sup> (James<sup>1</sup>) of Hartford.

MATHEW. At Northampton 1663. He married, 1663, Susannah Cunliff, born March 15, 1645, only child of Henry Cunliff, who had removed from Dorchester to Northampton in 1659. He was killed by lightning April 28, 1665. On December 12 of that year the widow married John Webb, jr., of Northampton. On July 8, 1666, one Lydia Cole, of Northampton, died. It is possible that she was his daughter.

SAMPSON. Boston, 1673, in which year he married Elizabeth, daughter of Edward and Elizabeth [Cole] (Samuel<sup>1</sup>) Werden.

His children were:

- i. Elizabeth, b. June 7, 1674; d. young.
  - ii. Elizabeth, b. Nov. 19, 1679.
  - iii. David, b. Dec. 21, 1683.
  - iv. Jonathan, b. Sept. 2, 1686.

GEORGE COLE. Was at Lynn, 1637. Removed to Sandwich. The Plymouth records show that on April 16, 1640, one acre of land was to be granted to George Cole, and that the matter would be considered further when he brought in his estate. Probably went back to Lynn and died there about 1653, as an inventory of such a person is found of June 28 of that year. Another of that name, perhaps his son, was one of Captain Lathrop's company, known as the "Flower of Essex," that was so nearly annihilated in the battle of Bloodybrook, September 18, 1675. He was probably badly wounded, and died later, as his will is dated November 8. [See Essex Inst. Pub. II, p. 183].

HENRY. Was on jury from Sandwich, 1643, June 6. Savage thinks he went to Connecticut; if so see Henry, of Middletown. On list of men able to bear arms in Sandwich, 1643. Of Barnstable. Indicted for pilfering from Lieut. Mathew Fuller, March 7, 1654. Respited March 2, 1668-9. Sued Joseph Holly, administrator of Tristram Hull, late of Barnstable, damages for a colt bought by Hull and not paid for. He recovered a verdict of £9 and costs.

About 1660 he sued Tristram Coffin, of Nantucket, for value of a boat sold to Coffin. He recovered a verdict of £5 and costs.

EUNICE COLE. [Drake's Annals of Witchcraft, 100-3]. Of Hampton, N. H. Accused of witchcraft, 1656. She was wife of William Cole, who died in 1662. From his will made a few days before his death the inference is drawn that he is much younger than his wife. After the death of her husband she was detained as a prisoner some years, and was so held in October, 1668, and again the record of June 8, 1668, shows a payment for her maintenance. She seems to have been alternately at large and in prison. She was feared as a witch, and yet persecuted by the boys and hated by the ignorant. As late as 1680 she was tried as a witch, but "no full proof" appearing, she was put in prison during the pleasure of the Court. She died in a little hut, alone, in the rear of the present academy.

I present here letters giying some account of two families. The first is probably a branch of the Plymouth family, but the other seems to be from a different ancestor from any of the other families:

WINOOSKI, VT., April 26, 1886.

Frank T. Cole, Esq., Columbus, Ohio:

DEAR SIR—Yours of the 31st ult. in relation to the Cole family came duly to hand. I am informed by James H. Cole, an uncle now about eighty years old, that he thinks my great-grandfather's name was Archippus; that he lived in Taunton, Massachusetts; was proprietor of iron works. He had two sons only that grew to manhood, Thomas and Archippus. Archippus was a seaman, and died at about the age of seventy-five years, leaving no male issue.

My grandfather, Thomas Cole, was born in Taunton, Massachusetts, March 22, 1767, and died in Calias, Vermont, June 24, 1849. He had three sons that grew to manhood, Thomas, James H., and Ira. Ira died October 25, 1833, aged twenty-two years, and unmarried.

James H. is now living, aged about eighty years. He has no living children; has one grand-daughter only of his descendants.

Thomas Cole, my father, was born in Montpelier, Vermont, March 26, 1805, and died at Defiance, Ohio, in 1871. He had two sons that grew to manhood, myself the older; have one child, a daughter.

My brother, A. K. Cole, has three sons. One, Charles K., is married, and has one child, a daughter. The other two sons are unmarried.

I have thus traced my ancestors from my great-grandfather, and all his male issue now living are:

	AGE.		AGE.
James H. Cole.....	80	C. K. Cole.....	23
Ormand Cole.....	56	Walter Cole.....	20
A. K. Cole.....	51	Harry Cole.....	10

It seems that I am not of the family that you supposed it might be.

Your work is highly interesting, and shall be pleased to hear from you hereafter.

Respectfully,

ORMAND COLE.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., April 6, 1874.

Mr. F. T. Cole:

MY DEAR SIR—Your letter of the 30th of last January was duly received, but my brother in Illinois having all of the old family papers, I was obliged to delay my answer until I could hear from him. I enclose the paper he sent me, and will herewith add what I can, hoping you may be able to glean something to your purpose. I make no apology for the illiteracy of my family, because in the common course of things there seems to be little or no help for it.

My father and mother and their children were born in the State of Virginia, in the midst of the most stupendous monster, human slavery, and its history is too well understood in its baneful tendencies to require elaboration in this connection. It was impossible for poor people to become educated in Virginia at that period, and although my father removed to Illinois soon after the birth of his youngest child still we were so poor that all of us arrived to manhood and womanhood before an education could be obtained even in a free State. To read and write to a very limited degree is about the extent to which the education of my father's family attained, with one single exception, and of that I must speak with as much modesty as the facts will allow.

My beloved wife, who was well educated, died April 16, 1857, leaving me two small children, one of which is since dead; the other still lives.

In September, 1858, I entered the preparatory class at Shurtliff College at Upper Alton, Illinois, and literally worked my way through a seven years' course, receiving my literary diploma and degree of P. B. in 1862, and my theological diploma in 1866. I then prosecuted my ministerial profession with considerable success until I lost my health, in 1871, since which time I have preached only occasionally. I was chaplain of the Minnesota Senate during 1869-70. Have since been invited to several important pulpits, but ill health has prevented acceptance. I am the only one of the name, so far as I have ever heard, who ever attended a college — all my ancestors, so far as I know, living and dying in illiteracy.

My father naturally was a man of broad and generous feelings, comprehensive views, and of the most reliable character, his word always being equal to a sealed bond. Although born and brought up in the country and principles of slavery, he instinctively scorned the doctrines of bondage, and plead and labored to the extent of his natural powers for freedom in church and State. He was a natural leader, and had he been educated, without doubt would have been felt widely in public, as he always was in private. My mother was naturally gifted also, and both together stood at the head of a remarkable family in many natural respects. Industry, integrity, and perseverance characterized the family to the extent of my acquaintance. But for want of culture we have been obliged to live in comparative obscurity.

It takes generations to destroy the cursed influence of human slavery, and if any of us have maintained an honorable standing in the community where we have lived, we will give all the glory to God, where it belongs.

Politically, then, we believe in freedom, and religiously we are Baptists, with few exceptions. "To the law and to the testimony," both in church and State, is the motto of our family. By that we are willing to live and die.

Some of my brothers had more or less connection with the late war, but I am unable to state definitely, we being so scattered up and down the country.

My father and my oldest brother both held the office of justice of the peace in the early days of Illinois, but of no consequence this.

R. S. Cole, my oldest brother, is a Baptist preacher.

Tradition says that three brothers by the name of Cole came from England to this country in an early day, one settling in the East, one in the South, the other I know not where. I have no doubt whatever that the one settling in the South was my great-grandfather.

I give first my father's family record, as I find it in the old family Bible, the only relic I have, and second my own family record:

Adoniram Judson Cole, April 2, 1856.

The occupation of our family has for several years been farming, as a rule. My father owned fourteen hundred acres of land in Cass county, Illinois, and divided the same equally among his sons at the majority of the youngest, giving the daughters their portion in money, and reserving a small competency for himself while he and mother lived. Two of my brothers have acquired considerable property, but most of the family who remain alive have not acquired much. Honest toil, with little of the speculative, characterize the name so far as I know. I spent all I had and all I could make meantime upon my education, and graduated after the most severe sacrifice and self-denial, at the age of thirty-five, and in the struggle injured my constitution perhaps beyond full recovery.

The whole family lived in Illinois for years in poverty, and when we had acquired a little means the shame of age kept us from education. The privations of a frontier life are necessarily beyond the comprehension of those without experience, but to those who have gone through it, it is a reality far beyond envy. In our case, as in multitudes of others, human slavery was a curse whose effects will not be effaced for generations to come. The prejudices and jealousies it engendered retain their hold through blood, and it is only through the most uncompromising effort that I have been able to sustain my convictions of the necessity of culture, against the denial of many of my relatives. Very truly,

ADDISON LEWIS COLE.

[Extract from the Letter of Rev. R. S. Cole.]

Moses Samuel, our grandfather, was born in Holland, and came to America at the age of eighteen. He was a Jew, and remained strictly in that faith till his death. He died in Culpepper county, Virginia, September 25, 1830, aged eighty years, and was buried in Richmond, Virginia. His wife was Roseland Zemerman, who was born of German parents, in Madison county, Virginia. She died October 15, 1830, aged seventy-one.

Great-grandfather Cole is believed to have come from England. His son Daniel, my grandfather, was born in Prince William county, Virginia, and died there, aged eighty-six. He served in the War of 1812. He was twice married, and had twenty-one children, sixteen of whom grew to maturity.

He was a farmer and carpenter, and owned slaves. His family was scattered by removal or death, and his last years were spent alone among his slaves.

My father was born in Prince William county, and my mother, Ellen Samuel, in Madison county. One of Grandfather's brothers, Richard Cole, was a Baptist minister.

We moved to Illinois in the fall of 1833.

I have father's and mother's church letter, given them by the Mt. Poney Baptist Church, September 14, 1833. We started for Illinois a few days later, and were fifty-two days on the road. We settled in Morgan county, Illinois.

Grandfather's name was Daniel. His children were William, Daniel, Fanny, Eliza, and two other daughters by his first wife, and Henry, Samuel, Thomas, Richard, Betsy (married Rev. Henry Davis), Adeline, and one other daughter.

Carrollton, Illinois.
