INTRODUCTION.

For years it has been my desire to see published a history and genealogy of the descendants of Thomas Stanton of Connecticut.

In 1882 "An Incomplete Record" was printed for private distribution by Hon. John D. Baldwin of Worcester, Mass. In his preface Mr. Baldwin expressed a hope that some one would enlarge his collection of notes, and publish it for circulation.

Realizing that each passing year made it more and more difficult to secure old family records, and to trace the posterity of those born before the Revolutionary War, I was led to undertake this work in 1885. Since then I have devoted to it all the time that could possibly be spared from a busy pastor's life.

The work is not complete, it could be continued through a long lifetime, passed on to a succeeding generation, and then be incomplete. There are Stantons among the earlier generations of whom nothing more will ever be known than that they were born at a given time. Others, of whom nothing is now known save name and birth-date, will undoubtedly be traced through generations now unrecorded, and found to be ancestors of numerous but at present unlocated families.

For those of the tribe of the house of Thomas Stanton, who have aided me in this work, cheerfully furnished the required facts, and in every way tried to make the work a success, I have the warmest feelings of gratitude and the heartiest words of thanks.

For those who have refused all information, who have shown a total lack of any family historic spirit, and who have been repeatedly but vainly written to for facts in their possession, I have but this warning: Your refusal to aid in this work, just to that extent has made it a failure. When you discover the absence of your name or your family, or the inaccuracy of such items as could be "picked up" about you and your's from others, have at least the grace to place the blame where it belongs — on your own negligent head, and not on the author.

Information of families known to belong to this line of Stantons, and not recorded here, corrections of errors and supplied omissions will be gladly received by me, and if a future edition is ever demanded they will be included therein.

Trusting that this book will be an incentive to the future preservation of family records, that it will foster a spirit of honest American pride in an ancestry for two hundred and fifty-six years faithful to the spirit and institutions of our country, and that no future cause in the interest of religion, patriotism, morality and good government will ever lack supporters and defenders among us and our descendants,

I am your kinsman,

WILLIAM ALONZO STANTON.

HISTORICAL PART.

CHAPTER I.

A SKETCH OF THOMAS STANTON, THE FIRST OF THIS FAMILY IN AMERICA, 1635-1677.

Part I.

A compilation of such facts relating to our first Stanton ancestor in America, as have been gathered from a multitude of sources, will form a proper introduction to this genealogy and history of his descendants.

From the New England Historical and Genealogical Register (vol. ii, p. 113), we learn that January 2, 1635, Thomas Stanton took passage for Virginia in the merchantman Bonaventura, and that he recorded himself as being twenty years old. The ship's record shows no other passenger named Stanton. It is certain, therefore, that he came unattended by any relative bearing the same name. There was a John Stanton in Virginia prior to 1635; from 1652 to 1688 there are records of a Robert Stanton of Dorchester, Mass., and another Robert Stanton, a Quaker, was a resident of Newport, R. I., prior to 1645. This Robert of Newport died in 1672, aged 73 years. His descendants are now very numerous in the United States, and many of them are still Friends or Quakers. As Edwin M. Stanton, Lincoln's great Secretary of War, has been thought by many to be a descendant of Thomas, I will state here that he is in direct line from Robert of Newport. Savage and many of the older New England genealogists guessed that Robert was an older brother to Thomas, but there is not the slightest evidence to that effect, nor, so far as records go, do they seem to have even known each other or ever inter-visited.

There is no proof that Thomas was related in any way to any person in America, or that any relatives ever followed him to this country. There is a family tradition that before his death he received a legacy from his former home across the sea, but there are no records to prove even this. Undoubtedly there were on record in New London, Conn., many records and documents that would have been invaluable witnesses as to Mr. Stanton's origin, ancestry and youthful life. His will was probably recorded there and no other copy of it has as yet been found. But these New London county records were destroyed in 1781 by the traitor Benedict Arnold when he sacked and burnt New London town.

Our family history has thus been robbed of much that would be interesting and important; much still remains, however, and to this we will now address ourselves.

Evidently Mr. Stanton's stay in Virginia was very short. In 1636 he appears on record in Boston, Mass., serving as a magistrate. He may have traded and mingled a little with the Indians in Virginia, acquired some knowledge of their language, and then sailed for New England. We know that he subsequently visited the Indians in Virginia, for there was in the New London county records a curious document, without date, but apparently entered in 1668 or 1669. It reads as follows:

"Whereas Capt. Morrice hath reported and informed the King's Commissioner that Mr. Thomas Stanton, Senr. did, in Virginia, some 20 odd years since, cause a massacre among the Indians, whereby to gain their Beaver to himself, and the said Morrice named Richard Arye, mariner, to be his author:

"These may certify all whom it may concern that the said Arye being examined concerning said report, doth absolutely deny that he knew or reported any such thing to Morrice nor ever heard of any such thing about Mr. Stanton in Virginia to his remembrance." This document was acknowledged in court by Richard Arye, and attested by David Wetherell, recorder.

The next we know of Mr. Stanton is in connection with the Pequoit War. Just before the war he had been serving Winthrop as Indian interpreter, while the latter was in command at Saybrook. July 4, 1636, Mr. Fenwick, Mr. Hugh Peters and Mr. Thomas Stanton bore instructions from Boston to Winthrop at Fort Saybrook, Conn. (going overland), as to the Pequots.

The war followed immediately. From Caulkins' Hist. of New London, Conn. (p. 296), I copy the following tribute: "The services of Mr. Stanton, as interpreter during the Pequoit War, were invaluable. He was moreover a man of trust and intelligence, and his knowledge of the country and of the natives made him a useful pioneer and counselor in all land questions, as well as difficulties with the Indians." In DeForest's Hist. of the Indians of Connecticut (p. iii) is another record of a second visit to Fort Saybrook, near the end of the war, when its commander was the historic soldier, Capt. Lion Gardner. DeForest says: "Sometime in April (1637) a small vessel arrived at the fort, having on board Thos. Stanton, a man well acquainted with the Indian language, and long useful to the colonial authorities as interpreter."

Mr. Stanton served through this war. Special mention is made of his bravery in the battle of Fairfield Swamp, where he well nigh lost his life.

He must have returned to Boston very soon after peace was secured, for Drake, in his History of Boston, names him as one of the magistrates in the trial of John Wheelwright, which took place Oct. 3, 1637.

The next seventeen months of Mr. Stanton's life were eventful ones, for in them occurred his marriage and settlement in Hartford, Conn. In June, 1636, Rev. Thomas Hooker and 100 other persons came from Newtown (Cambridge), Mass., and founded Hartford, Conn. In February, 1639, there were 127 property-holders in Hartford, and among them were Dr. Thomas Lord and his son-in-law, Thomas Stanton. It is not known whether Dr. Lord and his family came to Hartford with Hooker or at a later date. The time of Mr. Stanton's arrival and marriage is not known, but we do know that his wife was Ann, eldest daughter and third child of Dr. Thomas and Dorothy Lord.

THE LORD FAMILY.

Part II.

Dr. Thomas Lord was b. 1585; Dorothy, his wife, was b. 1589. They were married in England in 1610, and came to America April 29, 1635, in the Elizabeth and Ann. Mrs. Lord died in 1676, aged 87 years. She sealed her will with the arms of the "Lord alias Laward" family. The arms are thus described:

"Ar. on a fess gu. between three cinque foils az. a. hind pass. between two pheons or."

The following copy of the first medical license granted in the New England Colonies will be full of interest to every reader, and especially so to us who are descendants of the herein licensed Doctor Lord.

"COURTE IN HARTFORD, 30TH OF JUNE, 1652.

"Thomas Lord, having ingaged to this Courte to continue his abode in Hartford for the next ensuing yeare, and to improve his best skill amongst the inhabitants of the Townes uppon the River within this jurissdiction both for setting of bones and otherwise, as at all times, occassions and necessities may or shall require; This Courte doth graunt that hee shall bee paid by the Countey the sum of fifteene pounds for the said ensuing yeare, and they doe declare that for every visitt or journye that hee shall take or make, being sent for to any house in Hartford, twelve pence is reasonable; to any house in Wyndsor, five shillings; to any house in Wethersfield, three shillings; to any house in Farmington, six shillings; to any house in Mattabeseck, eight shillings; (hee having promised that hee will require no more,) and that hee shall bee freed for the time aforesaid from watching, warding and training; but not from finding armes, according to lawe."

It will be of interest to learn a little as to the brothers and sisters of Mistress Thomas Stanton nee Lord. They were all born across the sea, and as follows:

Richard, b. 1611; Thomas, Jr., b. 1619 (Ann, who m. Thos. Stanton, b. 1621); William, b. 1623; John, b. 1624; Robert, b. 1626; Aymie, b. 1629; Dorothy, b. 1630.

As this book is not a Lord Genealogy, I have made no effort to follow the fortunes of these brothers and sisters. A few facts, however, as to the senior brother Richard have an historic value. He was a merchant in Hartford, and was one of the body corporate to whom King Charles granted the Connecticut charter, April 20, 1662. He seemed to be of rather a pugnacious disposition, for on Oct. 12, 1643, he engaged his brother-in-law, Thomas Stanton, in a quarrel about trading for Indian corn. He used very threatening language, and drew his sword, but before he could use it he was arrested and fined five pounds by the Hartford Court. It would be interesting to know how Mr. Stanton conducted himself in this little broil, but we only know that the Court Record makes no case against him.

In 1658 the first troop of horsemen in Conn. was organized, and Richard Lord was chosen captain. He died in New London, May 17, 1662, and was buried in the old burial-place there. A table of red sandstone covers his grave, cracked and sunken below the surrounding soil; it is, nevertheless, still there; probably the oldest inscribed tombstone east of the Connecticut river. The inscription is legible, and reads thus:

AN EPITAPH ON CAPTAIN RICHARD LORD, DECEASED.

MAY 17, 1662, ÆTATIS SV. Æ 51.

" The bright starre of our cavallrie lyes here.
Unto the state a counselore full deare
And to y^e truth a friend of sweete content.
To Hartford Towne a silver ornament.

" Who can deny to Poore he was releife
And in composing paroxysmes was cheife.
To Marchants as a patterne he might stand
Adventring dangers new by sea and land."

Capt. Lord left a son Richard, Jr., who was half owner of the ship America, valued at £230.

The descendants of Dr. Thos. Lord's sons are a large and honored family in and out of Connecticut, and this book tells who and what his posterity is by his daughter Ann.

THOMAS STANTON AGAIN.

Part III.

He is now married and residing in Hartford, Conn. In what follows I wish to acknowledge my indebtedness to "The Public Records of the Colony of Connecticut from 1636-1677," as published by J. Hammond Trumbull at the order of the General Assembly of Connecticut, May, 1849.

In said records the name of Thomas Stanton is found over 60 times; his son John is referred to 14 times; reference is also made to his sons Thomas, Jr., and Joseph.

There was not then even as much uniformity in the orthography of proper names as there is now. Court clerks exercised a delightful freedom in such matters, and I have found in records of the same court the name spelled in three different ways—Stanton, Staunton, Steynton.

The name is a compound of two Anglo-Saxon words—Stan meaning stone, and Ton meaning town. Stanton, often spelled Staunton, therefore means stone town, and was probably assumed by a remote Saxon ancestor, who lived in a place called Stone-town, or as it would then have been called Stan-ton. Surnames originally designated occupation, estate, place of residence or some particular thing or event related to the person. In this case it was place of residence. Where the people in certain districts pronounce their "a" broad, it would be natural in time to spell the word according to pronunciation, therefore, we have the spelling now common in some parts of England and the United States (in Mass. and Virg. particularly), and which indicates abroad "a," Staunton. Many of the families recorded in this book spell their name with an "u," as a rule I find that they or some of their ancestral line have lived in Massachusetts long enough to earn the extra letter. For the sake of uniformity and because the common ancestor of them all did not use the "u," I invariably omit it except in quotations.

The following autograph is proof of the way in which Thomas spelled his name as well as of the sturdy character of the man.

A fac-simile of the signature of Thos. Stanton of Hartford, Conn., to the Constitution of the Colony of Connecticut. Signed by him during the session of

"A gen^rall Cort at Harteford. 5th Apr 1638."

At said term of court the following record was made:

"It is ordered that Thomas Staunton shal be a publicke officer for to attend the Corte uppon all occasions, either Generall or p^rticular, as alsoe any meetinge of the Magistrates to interprett betweene them and the Indians, as also is to have for it 10l. p^r Annum."

At this same session of Court he, with others, was sent on a mission to the Warranocke Indians. The same year (1638) Mr. Stanton was a delegate to an English and Indian Council-meeting at Hartford. Among other delegates were Roger Williams of Providence, Uncas of the Mohegans and Miantinomo of the Narragansetts. He also received ten pounds for past services to his country, and was given authority to represent Hartford in all trade for beavers at 1s. per skin.

Nov. 24, 1638, we find him at New Haven acting as interpreter for the Yorkshire colonists of Quinnipiac (New Haven) in their purchase of the land, where the city now stands, from the Indians. To the deed of said land is added the following declaration:

"I, Thomas Stanton, being interpreter in this treaty, do hereby profess in the presence of God that I have fully acquainted the Indians with the substance of every article and truly returned their answer and consent to the same, according to the tenor of the foregoing writing, the truth of which, if lawfully called, I shall readily confirm at any time.

(Signed) THOMAS STANTON."

This year Thos. Stanton, Jr., was born in Hartford.

In 1641, the second son, John, was born.

In April, 1642, Mr. Stanton and his brother-in-law, Mr. Richard Lord, make a voyage to Long Island to trade and collect old debts. It would seem that these two were then in business partnership which may have been dissolved the next year by the quarrel already referred to.

In 1643, the eldest daughter, Mary, was born in Hartford, and in 1644 Hannah was born.

The third son and fifth child, Joseph, was born in 1646. That same year Mr. Stanton violates his license and sells some lead beyond the jurisdiction of Hartford. For this he pays a fine of five pounds. Because of his trading trips or for some other reason he is so long absent from Court as an official that a successor to him is appointed for one year, but in 1648 Mr. Stanton is re-engaged as Court Interpreter at a salary of five pounds per year.

The same year his sixth child, Daniel, is born in Hartford. In connection with that birth it is inferred that some trouble arose, for shortly after we find Mr. Stanton entering suit for 200 pounds in an action of slander against one Joane Sipperance, "to the utter undoing of his wife's good name, and almost taking away her life." Since he got judgment for only 20s. we conclude that while he had cause for complaint it was not quite so serious a matter as he thought.

We now find a possible explanation for the long absence from Court of Thomas in 1646. In 1648 he has decided to remove his business from Hartford to the south-eastern corner of the Colony, and the following record is a result of his decision.

“A Session of the Generall Courte, 6th of Febr. 1649.

This Courte, taking into consideracon the petition of Thos. Staunton presented to them, have graunted to him and doe order, that hee shall have libberty to erect a trading house at Pawcatuck, with six acres of planting ground, and libberty of feed and mowing, according to his present occasions, and that none within this jurisdiction shall trade within that River for the space of three years next ensuing; provided hee submitt himselfe to such other exceptions and cautions as the Governo^r and Deputy shall judge meett.”

As soon as possible after receiving permission to do so Mr. Stanton built and occupied his trading-house on the Pawcatuck river, but for the time his family remained in Hartford. When they did move they went first to Pequot and then to what is now Stonington, Conn.

He probably went to Pequot with his family in 1651, and to his permanent residence at Stonington in 1658. If these dates are correct, his seventh child, Dorothy (b. 1651), was born either just before leaving Hartford or just after reaching Pequot. The three other children were born in Pequot, Robert in 1653, Sarah in 1655, Samuel in 1657.

About the time of the removal from Hartford, an interesting act of the General Court was recorded, which I now copy.

“Code of Laws, May, 1650.

“This Courte, judging it necessary that some meanes should bee used to convey the lighte and knowledge of God and of his Worde to the Indians and Natives amongst us, doe order that one of the teaching Elders of the Churches in this jurisdiction, with the helpe of Thomas Stanton, shall bee desired, twise at leaste in every yeare, to goe amongst the neighbouring Indians and indeavor to make knowne to them the Councells of the Lord, and thereby to draw and stirr them up to direct and order all theire wayes and conversations according to the rule of his Worde. And Mr. Governo^r and Mr. Deputy, and the other Magistrates are desired to take care to see the thinge attended, and with their owne presence so farr as may be convenient incourage the same."

THE STANTONS IN STONINGTON.

Part IV.

Every student of words will be struck with the fact that Stanton and Stonington have the same etymology and meaning. When the final name was given to Stonington (for it was first known as Southertowne), did the prominence and numbers of the Stantons there decide the name, or is it a mere coincidence?

This question is respectfully referred to the family debating club for decision.

Miss Caulkins, New London county's painstaking historian, says that in 1656, Mr. Stanton sold to George Tongue the grant of 6 acres of planting ground, etc., made to him in 1649.

She records in her County History this very pleasant reading for the descendants of Mr. Stanton:

"On the Pawkatuck River, the first white inhabitant was Thomas Stanton. His trading-house was probably coeval with the farming operations of Chesebrough (at Wequetequock Cove, $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles east of Stonington), but as a fixed resident, with a fire-side and family, he was later upon the ground. He himself appears to have been always upon the wing, yet always within call. He was required to be present wherever a court, conference, or treaty was to be held. Never, perhaps, did the acquisition of a barbarous language give to a man such immediate, wide-spread, and lasting importance. From the year 1636, when he was Winthrop's interpreter with the Nahantic sachem, to 1670, when Uncas visited him with a train of warriors and captains to get him to write his will, his name is connected with almost every Indian transaction on record."

In March of 1652, Mr. Stanton received a grant of 300 acres, laid out in a square upon the river, next to his former grant from the Court of 6 acres. Looking forward a few years, it may be said here that in 1659 Chief Cassawashitt deeded to Thomas Stanton the whole of Pawkatuck Neck and the small islands that lay near to it, known as "The Hommocks." This deed or grant was confirmed by the Court in 1671.

Soon after Mr. Stanton went to his new trading-house, the General Court of Connecticut elected him its Deputy Magistrate. This occurred May 15, 1651, and on Oct. 6 he was commissioned "to make a rigid inquest whether any of those murtherers of the English before the Pequett warres" could be found that they might be "brought to condign punishment."

He was also to demand £40 of Ninigrett for payment of Eltwood Pomrye's mare that had been killed by the Indians.

The next we know of him is under date of June 20, 1656, when he with Capt. Denison, Mr. Brewster and Hugh Calkin are to make a list of the state of the towne and the inhabitants, and to make the County rate of Twenty pounds. The same year the Commissioners of the United Colonies advised the preparation of a catechism in the Narragansett or Pequot language, and appointed Rev. Mr. Pierson of New Haven, and Mr. Thomas Stanton to do the work. Mr. Pierson's removal prevented its execution however.

In 1657 Mr. Stanton did something or said something that greatly roused the wrath of the General Court, and led to a warrant for his arrest. The cause of offense is not clear to me, because I have been unable to find out what is meant by the "cast of Uncas." It may be that the record was intended to read that the Commissioners had cast off Uncas, and that Mr. Stanton had proof in his pocket of some such insult to his noted friend, the Indian sachem. However, here is the record of the Court verbatim:

"COURT AT HARTFORD, 12th of August, 1657.

"James Morgan, ages about 50 years, testified upon oath before this Court that he being last winter at Jacob Waterhouse his dwelling house, in company wth Mrs. Brewster, Goody Waterhouse and Capt. Denison, Thomas Staunton also being p^rsent, hee heard the said Staunton say that the Comission^{rs} had cast of Uncus, and hee had it in his pockett to shew.

"This Court orders and appoints that Leiften^t Wm. Lewis should tomorrow goe to Gilford, & if upon inquiry there hee understand that Thomas Staunton is gone to Branford and not returned, hee is to goe to Mr. Leet, and desire he would take order that Thomas Staunton, in that jurisdiction, at Branford or elsewhere, shall be forthwth sent to Mr. Wells, Deputy Governor, or else take security for 40 l. that hee will appeare before the Gen: Court at Hartford, on Tuesday next, & abide the judgm^t of the Court, in reference to such things as shall be testify^d against him by Major John Mason.

Copia.

"You are to bring or cause Thomas Staunton to bee brought before the Gen: Court in Hartford, on Tuesday next, then & there to answere vnto such things as shall bee alleadged against him by Major John Mason & for so doeing this shall be yo^r war^t."

Lieutenant Lewis does not seem to have been successful in his effort to bring Mr. Stanton before the Court, and the following records give all the further light to be had upon the subject.

"BY ORDER OF THE GEN: COURT IN HARTFORD, {
J: C: SEC^rY.

To Leiften^t Wm. Lewis:

"This Court ordered the Sec^rt to write to the Comission^{rs} in refference to Thomas Staunton, w^{ch} letter was read & approved, & the Sec^r ordered to send the same.

[86] This Court orders that if Tho: Staunton comes in the vacancy of this Court, hee shall bee required to put in security for his appearance at the Court in Hartford in October next.

[88] Tho: Staunton, for contempt of the last Gen: Court, in not appearing when sumoned thereunto, for w^{ch} offence the Court fines the said Thomas ten pounds."

It would be interesting to know how Mr. Stanton appeased the wrath of the Court and the Commissioners, but adding this to other impossible things we learn that the next year he and his family moved to Wequetequock Cove, two and a half miles east of Stonington.

This was in 1658. The first settler upon the shores of that cove was William Chesebrough, in 1649; the next was Walter Palmer, who came to Salem, Mass., from Nottinghamshire, Eng., in 1629. The third settler was Mr. Stanton.

In October, 1658, this territory belonged to the Massachusetts Plantation, what is now Stonington, New London Co., Conn., was then Southington, Suffolk Co., Mass. The court ordered it managed by Capt. George Denison, Robert Park, William Chesebrough, Thomas Stanton and Walter Palmer.

In 1662, Charles II gave Connecticut a new charter that included Southington, in 1665 the name was changed to Mystic, and in 1667 the final change was made to Stonington. The first meeting-house was built in 1661.

Here, then, Mr. Stanton settled down as a permanent resident, and in Drake's "Boston" is found the following account as to the location of his house: "From Wekapauge to Mr. Stanton's is 3 miles, 300 rods; from Mr. Stanton's to Wm. Chesebrough's is 2 miles, 123 rods; from thence to Misticke river, by Capt. Denison's house, is 4 miles." Mr. Stanton's farm lay on the east side of Pawcatuck river, near its mouth. He also owned another farm at Quanacontaug, where Major Tallcott had his headquarters in 1676. Quanacontaug was a neck of land five miles east of Pawcatuck river.

The following record gives an idea of some of the official duties that fell to Mr. Stanton's lot. At a Commissioners' meeting, September 6-17, 1660, this action was taken:

The Commissioners, upon consideration of premises, and of similar complaints preferred by the English residents of the new plantation at Mohegan, resolved "to require and force the Narragansetts to a just satisfaction," and for that end commissioned Capt. George Denison, Thomas Stanton, Thomas Mynor and others to repair to Ninigret and the Narragansett sachems, and require of them the punishment of the offenders, and full reparation of injuries done to the English; that "at least foure of the chiefe of them that shot into the English house at Mouhegin should be proceeded with and punished according to justice, and in case they cannot be drawn thereunto," that five hundred fathoms of wampum should be exacted in expiation of the offense, and that speedy payment should be made of a quantity of wampum which the Commissioners, the year before, had required of the Narragansetts, "for insolencies committed at Mr. Brewster's, in killing an Indian servant at Mrs. Brewster's feet, to her great affrightment, and stealing corne, and other affronts."

Three years after this we find Mr. Stanton appointed to apportion 8,000 acres of land to the Pawcatucks, and in 1664 he is appointed to magisterial office by the General Court. The record reads as follows:

COURT AT HARTFORD, Octob^r 13th, 1664.

[202] This Court doth hereby impower Mr. Wm. Cheesebrooke, Mr. Thomas Stanton and Mr. Thomas Minor to issue and determine all cases that shall be brought before them, to the value of forty shillings, to grant summons according to lawe to any that desire it, to summon men to appeare before them or at any Court in this Colony, and to marry persons, and punish for criminall matters to the value of forty shillings, or by stocks.

In 1665 he becomes a Commissioner of Stonington, and has authority to hold a semi-annual court at New London, the county seat.

The first court ever thus held in said county assembled Sept., 20, 1666. The commissioners or judges upon the bench were Major Mason, Thomas Stanton and Lieutenant Pratt of Saybrook, the clerk was Obadiah Bruen.

Among other court duties that year, one that fell to Mr. Stanton was the administration of the freeman's oath to his two sons, Thomas, Jr., and John. Honors now came to him thick and fast. In 1666 he was re-elected Commissioner or County Judge, he was also appointed Overseer-General of the Coassatuck Indians; a Commission of Appeals on Indian Affairs was created this year, and Mr. Stanton was made a member thereof. As a County Commissioner he evidently was a great success. He was annually re-elected to the office until his death in 1677, a continuous term of twelve years.

The last honor to come to him in 1666 was his election as a member of the General Assembly of Connecticut. With all this, however, he does not neglect his private business, for we find him entering suit (Oct. 11, 1666), against Chief Cuskatome and the chief's brother-in-law for "stealing a considerable estate" from him. Mr. Stanton got judgment in this case for £27 12s. 2d., to be paid within fourteen days. If not so paid, the Court authorized him "to dispose of these Indians by selling or sending them to Barbadoes or any other English Island."

Whether he secured his money, or whether he sold the debtors, is unrecorded history. It is to be hoped that the red men paid the cash and kept their freedom.

For many years one of Mr. Stanton's warmest friends was Mr. Walter Palmer of Stonington. Their children intermarried, and in many ways they had much in common. In 1662 Mr. Palmer died, and Mr. Stanton was appointed by the court to take an inventory of his "goods and chatels."

FROM 1667 UNTIL 1677.

Part V.

In 1667 Mr. Stanton was again elected a member of the General Assembly of Connecticut, and he continued uninterruptedly to be elected to said Assembly until 1674.

For his services to the Colony the General Court granted him, in October of 1667, 250 acres of land on Pachaug river, in what became the town of Preston. It was specified that 30 acres of the 250 should be in meadow.

As Indian Commissioner he was called upon this year to settle some difficulties that were threatening trouble between Uncas, chief of the Mohegans, and the Niantic tribe. The following year Mr. Stanton was reappointed Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

In those Colonial days serious differences often arose between rival towns and between towns and the General Court or Assembly. Some such trouble existed between Stonington and the General Court at Hartford. Thomas Stanton's second son, John Stanton, was then Stonington's Town Recorder. On May 4th, 1668, Thomas drew up a petition on behalf of the town and addressed it to the Court.

The petition was signed by John as recorder, but his father was the author. It seems that the dignity of the General Court was greatly injured by this appeal, and, either for this presentation of it or for presenting another one just like it in 1670, two or three of Stonington's leading officials got into serious trouble.

Thomas seemed to escape, but John was fined ten pounds, which, however, was revoked (it being yet unpaid) at the close of King Philip's War on account of John's service in that war. The settlers along the Connecticut and Rhode Island line had a good deal of disputing, and the same month this petition was drawn up, just ten days after it, Thomas Stanton and John Allyn were authorized to go to Rhode Island, confer with the Governor and Council, and demand satisfaction of them for Rhode Island's aggressions and insults.

The 3rd of June these two men undertook their commission, but their demands were not met. They were reappointed Sept. 8th, but with what results the records do not show. The petition of Stonington to the court reads as follows:

“ May 4, 1668.

“ PETITION OF THE TOWN OF STONINGTON TO THE GENERAL COURT AT HARTFORD FOR PROTECTION AGAINST THE ENCROACHMENTS OF THOSE OF R. ISLAND.

“ A Companie of personnes from Road Island, whoe threatned the east side of Paquatuck River (w^{ch} seemed at first to vs but as rediculos) yet have built, fenced, improved & forsibly settled & ar growing numerovs, & doe noe less threaten the west side of Paquatuck River and wee know not but they may as well take all as a part, nay, our houses over our heades, by as much right as w^t thay at present injoye, for any thing the Pattent priveledges more to one side of the River then the other.

“Least multitude of busines might overwhelme you, & our beeing remoat & as ovt of sight might too much burie us in oblivion, or want of information might render you the les sensible of our condition, wee make bold to remind you, & if it maye bee to add a litell breath to the saylls and fethers to the winges of your solicitous indeavours in our behalfe.”

In all probability it was this touch of irony and facetiousness that was more than the gravity of the old Puritan legislators could stand, and that induced them to punish their Stonington brethren. But to continue with the petition:

“They complain of the conduct of their neighbours, the intruders east of the River, ‘neither can any true harted & fellow-feeling Christians choose but mourne to see & heare of our neighbouring disorders, & acknoledg our condition is trulie deplorable to have personnes of such corrupt principalls & praktises to live so near vs, and on our owne.

“’Tis not of small concernment, the bad example y^t is given to the Indians. ’Tis to the grieve of parents & others, observed how these fire brands too much inflame youth.

“May not parents heartes bleed when about to leave the world to thinke how thay leave their deer children in the mouth of the Lion & paw of the Beare, and worse, as being daylie tempted by exampells to folow after & imbrace lies, to live as riotous, wanton, luxurious, and even no better than to bee said vnto, Serve other Gods or no God?

“Surelie if this case be made as your owne, you will not spare for cost or paynes or bee unwilling to run hassard in the indeavour of our speedie redres.”

The petitioners recapitulate the grounds on which the Conn. right of jurisdiction is based,—the priority of Charter, the decision of the Royal Commissioner, first possession, &c.; in conclusion they refer to several recent acts of the Rhode Islanders.—Mr. Thos. Stanton had been prohibited from mowing land granted to Mr. Willis, and threatened with the cost of £1000 if he persisted; "they take in newcomers contrarie, vis. Good-wife Seager, James Walklie, and the tinker &c.

"Signed by order of the Town, by

"JOHN STANTON,

"Town Recorder."

These inter-colonial feuds continued for a long time. Three years after this petition while Mr. Stanton and Mr. Thos. Miner were one day laying out lands east of Pawcatuck river they were met and opposed by Tobias Saunders, John Crandall and some other Rhode Island men armed with clubs. Afterward Crandall was arrested, tried and imprisoned at New London for the above assault.

In 1669 Mr. Stanton's son Joseph, was appointed Assistant Magistrate of Stonington, and he held court with his father in New London. On the 8th of July, 1669, we find Thomas Stanton and his son John reporting to Major Mason at Norwich, their suspicions of a plot against the English, led by Uncas, Hermon Garrett and a daughter of Ninigret. Not long after, Thomas goes to Robinstown where the Indians are having a great dance and arrests Ninigret.

In 1672 he is sent to the Niantic Indians to demand the surrender of Mowweam for a double murder, that of an English girl and of a squaw.

In 1675 Mr. Stanton and Major Winthrop are authorized to effect the ransom or exchange of a son of James Rockwell, who was held captive by the Indians.

This year the Indians became very aggressive, and in June, Mr. Stanton sends word to the Governor at Hartford, of the first act of hostility in King Philip's war. This act was the burning of houses and killing of men at Swansey. War was immediately declared. Mr. Stanton and his sons bore no unimportant part in this conflict. Under the biographies of John and of Joseph will be found further details as to their experiences. It may be here said of John, however, in addition to what is otherwise recorded, that in 1676, he made an exchange with Abachickwood and other "Narrogancetts" for some Indians, giving for them other Indians that he had captured in war. He then sold to a Major Palmes the Indians he got in exchange.

This was undoubtedly in harmony with the code of warfare in that century, but it illustrates the fact that the world is getting better. Capt. John Stanton's descendants would not now do what he conscientiously did in 1676.

That was in February; later in the season he is ordered to distribute among his men the spoils taken in war, and in November he goes to the Indians and instructs them as to the laws passed for their conduct.

All of the sons of Thomas Stanton seem to have inherited their father's ability to speak the Indian dialects, and they were in much demand as interpreters. Joseph Stanton served in this capacity in the treaty made between the English and the Narragansetts at the close of King Philip's war.

The father was then too old to engage in much active service, but we find him acting with Major Winthrop and Hon. Samuel Willys as a commission to negotiate peace, if possible, between the English and Indians.

That was in April of 1676, and in May he is granted £20 for his good service and expense in securing the fidelity of Chief Ninigret to the English, and as partial recompense for damages of war to his estate.

In August we find him authorized to return to Mamawhow one of the several guns that he had taken from him the year before.

We now come to

THE DEATH OF THOMAS STANTON.

Part VI.

In the year of his death we learn that he returns to the Indian, Robbin Cassacinamon, all the wampum that he holds in trust for him from Ninicroft. We also know that his is the first name on the roll of the First Congregational Church of Stonington, which he was instrumental in organizing June 3, 1674. Mr. Stanton's son-in-law, Rev. James Noyes, was ordained as the first pastor of this church Sept. 10, 1674, and remained its pastor for more than 55 years.

The cause of Mr. Stanton's death is unknown. He died Dec. 2, 1677, and his will was probated in June, 1678. His wife lived eleven years longer, making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Noyes of Stonington. She died in 1688, aged 67 years. Mr. Stanton was 62 years old.

In this day people are not old until they are 70, but in those days, after 42 years of a pioneer's hardships, we may presume that this worthy couple were regarded as having lived to a good old age. They were husband and wife for 40 years, and the parents of ten children, all of whom lived to have children of their own.

Mr. Stanton's prominence in the affairs of colonial Connecticut can be best estimated by the possibility of so much about him being secured from contemporaneous history after a lapse of two and a half centuries. As interpreter for Connecticut and for Gov. Winthrop, as Interpreter General of the New England Colonies, as County Commissioner and Judge for twelve consecutive years, as a member of the Conn. General Assembly for seven years, as Indian Commissioner for many years, as a successful, all around man of affairs, as a worthy husband, father, citizen and Christian, the descendants of Thomas Stanton have every reason to be proud of their emigrant ancestor.

As to his burial place, the following from Caulkins' History of New London (p. 285) is full of interest. On the east side of Wicketequack Cove, half way between Stonington, Conn., and Westerly, R. I., is the old family burying-ground, and Miss Caulkins says: "Here undoubtedly Mr. Chesebrough and all his sons were buried. Here lies Walter Palmer in the midst of a throng of descendants. Here Thomas Stanton lies near the stones bearing the names of his sons, Thomas (d. 1718, aged 80), and Robert (d. 1724, aged 71).

"Here also were laid to rest the remains of Thomas Minor and of his son, Deacon Manaseeh Minor, the first-born male of New London.

“The Rev. James Noyes, Hallam, Searle, Thomson, Breed, and other ancients of Stonington repose in this hallowed ground.”

After the death of Mr. Stanton his widow lived with the family of her daughter, Dorothy, who married Rev. James Noyes. Whether the homestead was the place of abode or whether Mr. Noyes had a dwelling-house of his own I am unable to tell.

It will be of interest to members of the family having the historic spirit, and who may at any time be in Hartford, Conn., to know that the site now occupied by Jewell's Leather Belting Co. and covered with their large factory buildings on Ford street was in 1639 the location of the first home of Thomas and Ann (Lord) Stanton.

CHAPTER II.

SOME GENERAL NOTES OF FAMILY HISTORY.

WAR RECORDS—STONINGTON CHURCH RECORDS—THE LEATHER-BREECHES LAW SUIT.

General Notes of Family History.

1738. June 11, before the Court at Norwich, Thomas Stanton gave testimony in favor of the Indian John Uncas with reference to the possession and ownership of disputed Indian lands. This was probably a grandson to Thomas, 1st.

1745. In the expedition that sailed from Connecticut to fight the French in Nova Scotia, Cape Breton Island and New Foundland were some of this family. After the historic Siege of Louisburg the English suffered severely from sickness and many of the Colonial troops died on board ship. Among them was Thomas Stanton from New London. He died July 29, 1745, when his ship was at anchor off Cape Canso, Nova Scotia, and his remains were buried on Burying Island.

Benjamin Stanton was a member of Capt. Samuel Hale's company of Louisburg soldiers, he was probably from New Hampshire, as this company was made up chiefly of New Hampshire men.

713 Col. Joseph Stanton was a member of this Expedition.

1776. Revolutionary Items.

In the summer of 1776 a Row Galley was built at Chelsea for the State of Connecticut, by Captain Jonathan Lester. Her dimensions were "60 feet keel, 18 feet beam, 5 feet hold and 7 in. dead rising. Her cost was £861, 16s., 6d." She was named "The Shark," and was put under the command of Theophilus Stanton of Stonington, Conn. (One account gives the name of the commander as Capt. Thomas Stanton.)

July 19, 1776, at the earnest request of Gen'l Washington, the Gov. and Council of Safety of Conn. sent to him at New York Capt. Stanton in command of "The Shark," bearing 9 pounder guns and to be subject to Washington's orders.

Col. Stanton is mentioned as having fought with bravery in the battle of Bennington, Aug. 17, 1777. No details are given to identify him, but he probably was 725 Joseph⁵.

The Continental Congress appointed Joshua Stanton a captain in Col. Seth Warner's regiment, July 5, 1776.

July 9, 1777. Col. Barton, Col. Stanton, Ensign Stanton, 6 other officers and 38 privates went into the midst of the English camp, four miles from Newport, R. I., and captured Gen. Richard Prescott who was afterward exchanged by Gen. Washington for Gen. Charles Lee.

Oct. 16, 1777. An old muster-roll is in the office of the Town Clerk of Ballston, Saratoga Co., N. Y., from which the following was copied:

"A Role of Capt. William Stanton

"Capt. William Stanton,	Edward Stanton,
Lt. Ichabod Brown,	Peleg	Do among
Serg't James Stanton,	Lodwick	Do privates.

"Som totall 83.

"GROTON, April 13th, 1777."

How this came there is not known, but probably these men fought in the battle of Stillwater, and were present at Burgoyne's surrender, Oct. 16, 1777.

It will be noticed that they came from Groton, Conn.

The Massacre at Fort Griswold.

Early in September of 1781, the British Gen. Clinton sent the traitor, Benedict Arnold, upon an expedition along the Connecticut coast. On Sept. 6, after capturing and burning New London, Arnold crossed the Thames river to seize Fort Griswold at Groton. It was defended by 150 men under Col. Ledyard. About 100 of the defenders were farmers and artisans who had come from the surrounding districts with what arms they could lay hands on to assist the small garrison of 50 men. Arnold sent a flag of truce and called upon them to surrender. On p. 558 of Cauklins' Hist. of New London, is the following record of results.

"Col. Ledyard sent Captains Elijah Avery, Amos Stanton and John Stanton, three brave volunteers from the neighborhood, all unconsciously wrapped in the awful shadow of the coming slaughter, to meet the flag and refuse to surrender. The attack began. Capt. Stanton was sent out to compel all volunteers to come within the fort. There were many who wished to fight outside, thinking the chances to escape were better. The fort was captured and a most barbarous massacre followed.

"Out of 150, 85 were slain, 35 were dangerously wounded, and 30 who were slightly wounded were taken away prisoners."

In this massacre at least four of our family were victims. Capt. Amos Stanton was killed; he was from Groton. Lieut. Enoch, son of Phineas Stanton, was killed; he was 35 years old and had a wife and seven children.

Daniel and Mary Stanton, of Stonington, had two sons in the fort. The eldest was Sergeant Daniel, aged 25, whose body was found bearing twenty-six wounds. He had fought like a tiger at bay before he fell. The younger son, Edward, also fought bravely; he was but 20 years old. He received a terrible wound that exposed his heart to view, but recovered and lived to a good age, dying July 27, 1832, 71 years old.

A monument in memory of the slain has been erected at Groton Heights. As you enter it you will see confronting the door this inscription upon a large marble slab:

“THIS MONUMENT

was erected under the patronage of the State of Connecticut, A. D., 1830, in the 55th year of the independence of the U. S. A. In memory of the brave Patriots who fell in the massacre at Fort Griswold, near this spot, on the 6th of Sept., A. D. 1781, when the British, under the command of the traitor, Benedict Arnold, burnt the towns of New London and Groton, and spread desolation and woe throughout this region. List of men who fell at Fort Griswold, Sept. 6th, 1781. ———”

At the head of this list are found 4 Averys and next 3 Stantons, with Scripture names, Amos, Enoch and Daniel, followed by 78 others.

1812. War of 1812.

The following Stantons of Stonington are on record as having served in the war of 1812: Thomas B., 847 Elias⁶, Nathan, Ezra, Samuel, Jr., 85 Azariah, Jr., 890 Andrew P.⁶, James, 902 Charles T.⁶

Among the Major Generals in this war was Phineas Stanton, later of Wyoming, N. Y.

Aug. 9, 1814, Stonington was cannonaded by four English ships of war. Among its defenders, as members of the 8th Inf't Co., 30th Reg't of Conn., were Corporal Azariah Stanton, Jr., Andrew P. Stanton and James Stanton.

In Feb., 1815, while rejoicing at Stonington because the war had ended, young Thomas Stanton of Pawcatuck was killed by the premature discharge of a cannon.

Other Stantons who served in this war are, 754 Joseph, 733 Thomas, William Jr., b. 1793 (see Appendix).

Revolutionary or Other Military Pensioners.

The following were copied by me from the official Pension Lists. All except Paul of Maine are believed to be of our family. They were pensioners, of age indicated, June 1, 1840:

1. Hannah Stanton of Stonington, Conn., aged 72. She lived with Charles P. Stanton.

2. Elijah Stanton of Little Falls, N. Y., aged 85. He lived with John Eaton.

3. Thomas Stanton of Stockbridge, Madison Co., N. Y., for Ebenezer Hills, aged 100, who lived with him.

4. William Stanton for Abraham Hitchcock, aged 75, who lived with him in Mt. Pleasant, Westchester Co., N. Y.

5. Moses Stanton for Wm. Davids, aged 75, who lived with him in Mt. Pleasant, N. Y.

6. Sarah Stanton of Charlestown, R. I., aged 92, who lived with Lodowick Hoxsie in Charlestown.

7. Paul Stanton of Poland, Maine, aged 82, lived with his son William.

8. Jason Stanton of Clinton, Wayne Co., Pa., aged 79.

9. Robert Stanton of Rome, Crawford Co., Pa., aged 78.

In 1818 Congress granted pensions for service in the Revolutionary War to the following:

Edward Stanton, Corporal, of Connecticut, $96 per annum.

Daniel Stanton, Private, of Connecticut, $72 per annum.

James Stanton, Private, of New York, $72 per annum.

Jonathan Stanton, to his widow, of New York, $48 per annum.

These lists of Stantons who have served in different wars do not pretend to be complete, but have simply been compiled from official records. A study of the Genealogy will show many others who rendered gallant service and whose service is recorded under their personal and family records. It is worthy of note that from the Pequot War in 1636 to the Civil War of 1861 there was no Colonial nor National War in which our family was not well represented among its country's defenders.

The following is a partial list of those who served in the late Civil War from Connecticut.

- Capt. Chas. T.^r Stanton, Stonington, enlisted in 1862, Promoted Major.
 Serg't Court. G.^r Stanton, Stonington, enlisted in 1862, Promoted 1st Lieut.

STONINGTON CHURCH RECORDS.

The First Congregational Church of Stonington, Conn., was organized June 3, 1674. "Thomas Stanton" is the first name on the roll, the sixth name is "Thomas Stanton, Jun." Ann, wife of Thos. Stanton, Sen., became a member in 1675. Some pastors failed to leave on record their baptisms, marriages, etc.; this fact will account for periods during which the family are apparently not represented in this church, but it is a well-founded claim that at no period for 217 years has this church been without descendants of Thomas Stanton among its members.

In these Records I will give only the Christian name in every instance where the surname is Stanton.

THE CELEBRATED LEATHER-BREECHES LAW SUIT.

This story is taken from The Providence Journal of R. I. Adam Babcock is a son of 712 Hannah⁴ Stanton. The Stantons who were party to the suit were 871 Phineas and his son 882 Phineas, Jr.

Babcock v. Stanton — Stanton v. Babcock.

The story which, in the following article, we have undertaken to tell, will interest many readers in the southern counties of Rhode Island and Connecticut. For five score years it has been a fireside tale in all the region — of course many variations have crept into it — and our plain narrative will, in many respects, differ from the popular tale. But we have drawn our story from the report of the trials published at the time, and which, by lapse of years, has now become exceedingly scarce. Probably very few people now living ever saw a copy. The one we used is the property of one of the learned judges of our supreme court, who kindly loaned it for our purpose.

We do not fancy litigious men, those who will vex the court with little matters. But we do confess to a sort of liking for the persistence of the elder Stanton, in defending the honor of his son. Had he paid the shillings demanded, he would have branded his son as a thief; he chose the other course, and paid thousands of silver dollars in his son's defense. Verily, "honor was not with him a sort of paper credit, which those who are deficient in the sterling cash of morality trade in."

It is a century since there lived in New Haven a merchant who carried on a shipping trade with the West Indies and other foreign ports, whose name was Adam Babcock. He was the son of Dr. Joshua Babcock, who lived in Westerly, and who was one of the most cultivated and well-known country gentlemen in all the section lying between Boston and New York—a physician, a conversationalist, a well-read, scholarly man. An excellent account of him, written by Dr. Levi Wheaton, may be found in Updike's history of the Narragansett church. From it we are tempted to extract a little picture of his family life:

"One of the most striking features of Dr. Babcock's character was his observance of method in every thing in his business, his type of living, amusements or devotions. He was an early riser, and gave the early hour to his farm. His breakfast was bread and milk with some apple pie or fruit of the season. While his housekeeper and I were taking a cup of excellent coffee with buttered toast, he would often rally us on our want of taste: 'better live as I do,' he would say: 'out of this old silver porringer and with this spoon I have taken my breakfast for forty years.' At dinner—and he kept an excellent table—he ate heartily, but always of one dish, be it roast or boiled, fish or flesh; as he began so he ended. He took cider as his common beverage, and a temperate glass of good wine. At tea, of which he was very fond, he drank exactly three cups. At a regular supper table, the fashion of those days, whatever company he might entertain, after due attention to his guests, he confined himself invariably to his porringer of bread and milk. He was a person not above the middle size, of a rather spare habit, light and active, for a man of his years. He could mount a horse sixteen hands high with the agility of a boy. In his dress and manners he was a gentleman of the old school; scrupulously polite, often quoted Chesterfield, who was then in his zenith. He perhaps laid too much stress upon trifling ceremonies; to eat cheese with bread and butter, or to drink more than three cups of tea, he would consider ill-bred. At the close of the week, his family were called into the sitting-room to hear a chapter read from the common language of the Bible, I had the curiosity to look into the one he made use of, and found it Greek."

Mr. Babcock had three sons, Henry, Luke and Adam. Henry was a colonel in the Revolutionary army, Luke was a clergyman, and became a Tory; of him we speak hereafter. Adam was a merchant and the plaintiff in the leather breeches law suit, about which we now write. He owned a brig which he was about dispatching to the West Indies and thence to the bay of Honduras; being in want of sailors and learning by his brother Henry of the virtues in that line of a young man who lived at Stonington by the name of Phineas Stanton, Jr., he wrote to him a letter, and the result was the engagement of young Stanton in Babcock's brig as mate for the voyage. The vessel arrived at St. Croix, where Stanton wished to land, and also wished some money to expend on shore. For that purpose he asked of Babcock a portion of his wages. High words ensued and a quarrel began, which lasted during the remainder of their lives, and cost each of them thousands of dollars.

On his arrival at New Haven, Stanton had considerable difficulty in effecting a settlement with Babcock, and claims finally to have been cheated out of about twenty pounds. Still the matter was settled, as the Stantons supposed, finally. But scarcely had young Stanton arrived at his home, near Stonington, than the sheriff, in the person of Capt. Simon Rhodes, came with a process to arrest him, upon a charge made by Babcock of embezzling the following articles, to wit: A pair of leather breeches, a glass mustard pot, a bottle with gunpowder, and a quantity of old iron. The sheriff was authorized to settle the matter with Stanton upon his paying the small sum of perhaps twenty shillings. In the course of the trials, it appeared that young Stanton had bought some pieces of firewood of Babcock while on the voyage, and the old iron was the nails, etc., which had remained in the ashes. Babcock had evidently not read the decision of the case Shylock vs. Antonio, else he would not have set up the claim that he sold the old wood, yet sold no old nails which the old wood contained. But there being some question whether the title to the old nails did not remain in Stanton, Babcock withdrew this charge. In regard to the old glass mustard pot, worth, according to the statement, one shilling, it was proved to have been taken by young Stanton from Babcock's house to Babcock's brig, for the use of Babcock's employees, on Babcock's table, and to have been there left when the young man left the brig, and so Babcock withdrew that charge. In regard to the gunpowder, it was proved to have been bought and paid for by young Stanton before he left New Haven on the voyage, and so Babcock withdrew that charge. Babcock's bill was now reduced to the single item of one pair of leather breeches, worth in the first place sixteen shillings, but which, being very dirty, needed a washing, which cost three shillings; that would reduce their value in the first place to thirteen shillings, and on these breeches the tremendous law fight took place.

To unravel the story of these breeches, from the prolix narrative of the elder Stanton, who, according to his own statement, was "neither a grammarian, an attorney, nor indeed so much as a pettifoggere," has been our laborious task, with what success we leave our readers to judge. And we rest easily in belief that if it takes them as long to find an original copy with which to compare our story as it did us, our punishment will be far distant, if we have misstated the case or stated it unfairly.

Babcock practically charged young Stanton with having stolen certain things belonging to him (Babcock), and Stanton could not pay the paltry sum which Babcock demanded without acknowledging himself a thief. The elder Stanton was one of those stern old fellows who, rather than see his son disgraced, would expend thousands in his defense — and he joined his son in the fight.

The report of these celebrated trials (there were nine) is comprised in a stout pamphlet of 168 pages, closely printed, in very small type, enlivened with copious extracts from Shakespeare, Hudibras, South's sermons, Pope, Machiavelli, The Spectator, The Bible, and many other authors. The pamphlet is not divided into chapters; there is no break in the subject from beginning to appendix, and thence to the end; the various trials are not separated; the evidence runs along, then comes a decision; and then the same repeated. As we have before stated, it has been with the utmost difficulty that we have unraveled the story, but we believe we have finally accomplished it.

The story of these various trials and their results is briefly told as follows: Babcock commenced proceedings by serving an attachment upon young Stanton for embezzling certain things, to wit: A pair of leather breeches, a glass mustard pot, some old iron and a half a pound of gunpowder — the verdict declared Stanton not guilty. Stanton now sued Babcock for defamation of character. Babcock pleaded justification. The jury gave Stanton a verdict with one hundred pounds damages and costs. Babcock appealed to the superior court at Norwich. The case was again heard and again went against Babcock with a verdict for seventy-five pounds and costs, but the court considering the damages too much, returned the case to the jury for a second consideration which resulted in reducing the amount of damages awarded to Stanton to fifty pounds. Babcock moved an arrest of judgment, but the court adjourned without a hearing on the motion. Two or three months after, the court heard the argument on this motion, decided the plea insufficient, and issued execution. Babcock now petitioned the court to give him a new trial of the first case against Stanton for embezzlement, which had been decided in Stanton's favor. The court granted a new trial, the result of which was in Babcock's favor; the jury declared Stanton guilty, and gave damages thirty-six shillings and costs. Upon this result Stanton petitioned for a new trial.

This petition was continued along for four years and was finally granted. In the meantime Babcock petitioned the court for a new trial of the case of Stanton against him for defamation, which case had been decided against Babcock; this petition the court refused to grant. Babcock then petitioned the general assembly of Connecticut to re-open the whole case. This petition the general assembly refused to grant. Babcock had also meantime sued Stanton to recover certain moneys he had paid in connection with the suits. This case came on for trial at a time when Stanton, supposing it was to be continued, was not present. It went by default in Babcock's favor, with ten or eleven pounds damages.

Now came on the new trial which had been granted to Stanton. It was a trial of the original case against him for embezzlement. The first result was in Stanton's favor; the second result was in Babcock's favor; the third and final result was in Stanton's favor. A special session of the superior court was held for its trial. Every effort was made to produce evidence and witnesses on the part of the Stantons. Messengers were sent hundreds of miles on horseback to take depositions, and by sea to St. Croix; leather breeches were brought from Philadelphia, the Jerseys, New York, Norwich, New London, and even those made in England, the minute stitches were compared, whether made of one or two deer-skins, what kind of buttons were used, and every particular which could be thought of in connection with breeches was discussed. Thus ended the litigation. The cases had been nine years before the courts in various phases, and the best legal talent of Connecticut had been employed on either side.

The names of many of the counsel are historical. Among them were Ingersoll, of New Haven; Woodbridge, of Norwich, whose life has been written by Charles Lanman; Richard Law, of New London, a member of the old congress; James A. Hillhouse, of New Haven (a member of congress for twenty years); Jesse Root (a member of Congress and a prominent jurist, author of Reports of Connecticut Court of Errors); Titus Hosmer, a scholar, a statesman and a poet, and finally Samuel Huntington, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, judge, governor, president of the old Congress, etc. We found in the pamphlet a story of a Sam. Huntington, which we have in our day heard related of Nathaniel Searle. Huntington defended a case in which, when the plaintiff's testimony was all in, Huntington saw his client had no case, whereupon he arose and said if that was all the case the plaintiff had, he (Huntington) would say nothing, but would allow the defendant, his client, to plead his own case, upon which the plaintiff withdrew the action. Besides these men, a great many leading families along the borders of Rhode Island and Connecticut, were in the case in the way of witnesses, jurors, etc. Babcock's family was a prominent one; they were connected by marriage with Stanton's. According to Stanton's opinion, Adam belonged to a class, unfortunately not yet quite extinct, who consider themselves by the "grace of God and the accident of birth" to be a trifle better than the common herd. Adam Babcock had a brother Luke, an Episcopal clergyman whom Stanton thought did not espouse his brother's cause with much warmth, and whom he complimented on that account. After Stanton's compliment was printed, the Rev. Luke gave his brother more assistance, and Stanton recalled the compliment he had previously given. The Rev. Luke afterward became a Tory, was arrested by the Continental forces, held in confinement four months, finally dismissed and ordered within the lines of the king's army, where he sickened and almost immediately died.

Stanton's summing up of the causes which led to the law suits and their results is not without interest. He says:

"If I may speak the honest sentiments of the heart, the affair happened thus: Babcock, whose temper is excessively haughty, could not curb my son as he had done others in his employ. Captain Sherman had a secret spleen against him, and my son's calling on Babcock for his wages when he had not the money to spare, though it was high time it was paid, raised Babcock's resentment to a high degree. Captain Sherman spirits him on, tells of the old iron, and about the pair of leather breeches, which were a much better pair, and unlike any breeches he ever knew he owned. A suit was commenced by Babcock; he fails in it. Douglass, his counsel, I affronted, so they all join forces against my son, make specious pretense of great iniquity in me and my family, and have actually prejudiced the minds of many honest people against us," etc.

In the following unique paragraph, Stanton closes his story:

"Good heaven ! what a labyrinth is this ! must inconsistency twine, incompatibles unite; nay, must palpable contradictions combine, absurdities be dispensed with, the law mocked, truth sacrificed, and justice banished ! nay, must the world be turned upside down, and all rule and order in it be reversed ! for no other purpose than that a pertinacious coxcomb may gorge his savage, his inhuman appetite on the ruin of one who never injured him, at least with design, unless the not tamely submitting to be kicked, was injurious."

Thus ended these vexatious suits at law which Stanton says cost him in damages and costs $2,000 more than he received, besides an immense amount in indirect claims from anxiety of mind "lest they were unjustly cast," thirteen thousand five hundred miles travel on horseback, and three thousand seven hundred miles of water, and the taking of more than two hundred depositions.— Providence Journal.

CHAPTER III.

STANTONS IN ENGLAND.

An honest effort has been made, and to the full measure of my ability, to trace Thomas Stanton's English ancestry. This effort has not been successful. Traditions as to his origin have been carefully investigated, but none of them are able to prove themselves of certified historic value. Some undiscovered documents or records in America or England may yet be found that will reveal his English connections, but until such is the case let us be satisfied with his American record and trust that the rootage was worthy of the fruitage. It is my hope that some member of our family may be led by the publication of this book to prosecute a successful search among English records and archives for the line of Thomas Stanton's descent.

To stimulate such a search, to collocate and preserve records already secured, to gratify a commendable interest on the part of my readers, but not for the purpose of making any unwarranted claims, this chapter finds a place in this book.

At least three traditions are to be found among Thomas' descendants.

1. The Welsh Tradition.—The best documentary evidence for this is a record written in an old family Bible belonging to the Gere family of Syracuse, N. Y. This Bible was the property of 322 Sophia^e Stanton, whose parents were both Stantons, and whose mother's parents were both Stantons. Sophia's Bible and her mother's Bible bear record that Thomas¹ Stanton was born in Wales.

The mother, Anna^s Stanton, was born in 1758, at Stonington. It is safe to say that Anna was informed as to this tradition by her father, 871 Phineas, who was born in 1719, 42 years after Thomas¹ died.

Half a century is not time enough for history to go very far astray, and I am inclined to think that either he or his wife, Ann Lord (alias Laward), was born in Wales. Even if this be true however, he was not of Welsh ancestry, for "Stanton" is a Saxon name. Wales is bounded on the east by Herefordshire and Shropshire. In Hereford are the following places: Staunton Park, Staunton on Arrow and Staunton, all near the Welsh borders. In Shropshire are to be found the towns of Stanton, Stanton Lacy and Long Stanton.

Would it be strange that a Thomas Stanton should be born only a few miles at the farthest from some of these places, and if west of them his birthplace would easily be in Wales.

Since writing the above I have had correspondence with 533^b

William J.¹ Stanton of North Danville, Vt., who was born in 1808. He says that his grandfather, 189 Isaac Wheeler⁵ Stanton, often affirmed in a most positive manner that Thomas¹ Stanton was born in Wales. His grandfather was born in 1743, at Stonington.

Now what opportunity did 189 Isaac W. have of knowing this? His grandfather was 138 Joseph³ Stanton, who was born before Thomas¹ died, and lived until after Isaac W. was eight years old.

Wm. J. Stanton then has his information from his grandfather, who was contemporaneous with those who in their youth had personal knowledge of Thomas¹, and whose parents were children of Thomas¹. This is even more direct testimony than in the case of 322 Sophia⁶ Stanton's Bible. In addition to the above testimony is the following: Isaac Wheeler Stanton, when he moved from Connecticut to New Hampshire and Vermont, took an old desk with him in which was found a genealogical outline of Stantons, descendants of Thomas¹. It was written on coarse, dark-colored paper, in old-fashioned letters and style of writing, and testified that Thomas¹ was born in Wales. W. J. Stanton says "it looked to be a century old." The desk was moved in 1784. I believe the Welsh tradition is true.

2. The Lancashire Tradition.—809 John⁷ Stanton of Hope Valley, R. I., has in his possession records received from his father, 766 John Stanton, who was for some time town clerk of Charlestown, R. I., and who wrote quite a record of historical and genealogical information as to the Stanton family. These records assert that Thomas¹ of Stonington, Ct., and Robert¹ of Newport, R. I., were brothers, and came from Lancashire, Eng. This same tradition is found now among descendants of Robert¹ of Newport. It does not necessarily conflict with the Welsh tradition, for Thomas may have been born in Wales, then moved northward to Lancashire and come thence to America. Mr. Stanton can produce no authority for this record and does not know where his father got it. I have followed up this tradition far enough to learn that there are Stantons now living in Lancashire and that the family is an old one there. Members of the family now in Preston, the county seat of Lancashire, have testified to me that they can find no record of a Thomas who came to America. (Preston, Conn., is built on land that belonged to Thomas¹ Stanton. Query,— was it named for Preston, Eng., by Thomas in memory of his boyhood home?)

3. The Longbridge Tradition.—The Hon. John D. Baldwin of Worcester, Mass., in 1882, printed his incomplete notes of Thomas Stanton and his descendants. Baldwin says of Thomas, "It is supposed, with strong probability, that he was the son of Thomas and Katherine (Washington) Stanton, of the Longbridge family." This supposition was suggested to Mr. Baldwin by Mr. B. I. Stanton then of Albany, N. Y., but now of St. Paul, Minn. Mr. B. I. Stanton for years has been preparing genealogies of the descendants of Robert¹ Stanton of R. I. and of Paul¹ Stanton of Maine. He is a descendant of Paul. In his search among English records he found a Thomas Stanton, born 1616, in Wolverton, Warwickshire, Eng., son of Thomas and Katherine (Washington) Stanton.

Thomas, the father, was born 1595 and was in turn the son of Thomas Stanton who was the son of John and Elizabeth (Townsend) Stanton of Longbridge, Warwick Co. No further record of Thomas, b. 1616, has ever been found than the one made in the Visitation of the County of Warwick in 1619. He was then three years old.

Mr. B. I. Stanton thought this might be Thomas Stanton of Connecticut. Mr. Baldwin adopted the suggestion and so printed it.

It may be true, but it is not proven. If this was our Thomas he would have been 19 when he embarked at London in 1635, but he gave his age as 20. This could be explained however by the existence of a law forbidding emigration, without parent or guardian, under 20 years of age. It was not uncommon therefore for young men to "borrow time," as they termed it, and add a necessary year or two to their true age. Thomas may have "borrowed time" to make himself 20 years old in 1635.

This family of Stantons came to Wolverton from Longbridge, near the city of Warwick, in 1576 and became extinct in the first half of the 18th century.

As to the Stantons of Longbridge more will be told farther on.

THE HISTORIC ORIGIN OF THE STANTON FAMILY.

In chapter ii, part iii, the origin, orthography and meaning of the name is discussed. It must be borne in mind that in different ages and in different parts of England the name has been and is now spelled in different ways. In the genealogical part of this book I have adhered to the oldest and simplest spelling. In the historical parts I have spelled it as I have found it in the sources of my authority. The reader must not therefore be surprised to find variations, and he must bear in mind that Stantons and Stauntons are the same.

The historic origin of Stantons in England was in the time of William the Conqueror and in the southeastern corner of Nottinghamshire and the northern end of Leicestershire. There lived Sir Malgerus (another spelling is Mauger) Lord of Stanton. He seems to have been a Saxon and nothing is known of his ancestry. Five miles southeast of this lordship was Belvoir and the early history of the Stantons has such close association with Belvoir castle that we must now know something of the history of that castle.

Leland thinks that the first owner and builder of the castle was Robert de Todení who died about 1088 A. D. It is certain that Belvoir has been the site of a castle since the Norman conquest. From Todení it passed to Albencius, from him to Ros and from Ros to Manners, the present owners. In the latter part of the 15th century it had fallen into great decay and was repaired by the Earl of Rutland whose family name was Ros. In 1816 a fire destroyed a large portion of the ancient part of the castle. A full history of this castle can be found in Timb's "Abbeys, Castles and Ancient Halls of England and Wales. Timb says, "It is one of the most elegant, castellated structures in the kingdom, in many respects resembling majestic Windsor."

Its builder, Robert de Toden, was a great lord; he had four-score lordships and some of them by uninterrupted succession continue to be the property of the Duke of Rutland. Nine of these lordships were over the county line in Northampton, among them was the Stanton Lordship. When William the Conqueror attacked Belvoir Castle its stronghold, the tower, was successfully defended by Sir Malgerus, Lord of Staunton. When William was firmly seated on the throne he had won he allowed the Lord of Staunton to keep possession of the lands he had so nobly defended and he and his descendants have ever since held the Lordship of Staunton "by tenure of Castle Guard." This lordship is seven miles from Newark and five miles from Belvoir. It is said to have been in the possession of a family of the name of Stanton or Staunton for more than 1,300 years. If that be true then it was the family estate for 500 years before the days of William and Malgerus.

The date thus fixed would be about 500 A. D. or contemporaneous with the Saxons' conquest of the Britons. The inference therefore is that the family came into Britain with the Saxons.

To return however to Belvoir Castle; the tower defended by Sir Malgerus of Stanton against William of Normandy has ever since been known as Staunton Tower. In this century there have been two royal visitors at the castle. King George IV, then Prince Regent, visited it in 1814 and in 1843 Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort were there. Upon each of these occasions the ceremony of presenting the key of Staunton Tower to the Sovereign was observed by Rev. Dr. Stanton. He offered it upon a velvet cushion and to him it was afterward graciously returned.

The Stanton Arms were derived from Albini or Albencius who received the castle from Toden.

The arms of Albini of Belvoir were a shield with a gold background upon which were two chevrons and a red border. He gave to the Lord of Stanton a shield with a silver back-ground upon which were two black chevrons within a curved or indented black border.

Later a helmet crest was adopted and was a fox standing and of the natural color.

There are two mottoes. One, below the arms, is "En Dieu ma foy" (In God my faith); the other, above the crest, is "Moderata durant" (Moderate acquisitions are lasting).

The arms thus described are to be found in Burke's Heraldic Illustrations and are now borne by the Stauntons of Longebridge, who are a branch of the Stauntons of Staunton in Nottingham. As this is undoubtedly the basis of all Stanton Arms and represents the original family it will be of interest to reproduce it here.

THE STANTON (STAUNTON) ARMS.

Arms: Argent, two cheverons sable within a bordure engrailed the same.

Crest: Fox statant proper.

Mottoes: Below the arms, "En Dieu ma foy."

Burke's "Landed Gentry" (edition 1858) is my authority for the following outline of

THE STAUNTONS OF STAUNTON.

Malgerus' son and heir was Galfridus² de Stanton who m. Beatrice de Muschamp and had Sir William³ whose wife was Atheline de Musters. Their son was Sir Geoffery⁴; his, Sir William⁵ who m. Isabel Kirketon and d. in 1326. These five were all Knights. The next one was Sir Geoffery⁶ de Staunton who was Sheriff of Nottingham. Soon after this the "de" was dropped and when we come to later times we find the heir to be Colonel William¹⁵ Staunton of Staunton who served in the army of Charles I and who married Anne Waring. His son was Harvey¹⁶ Staunton, Esq., "who was the last male heir of this ancient family after a continued male succession of five hundred years. Harvey's daughter and heiress was Anne¹⁷ Staunton who m. Gilberto Charlton Esq. Their son and heir was Job Staunton¹⁸ Charlton who m. Mary Greenwood and whose daughter and heiress was Anne Staunton¹⁹ Charlton. In 1703 she married Rev. J. Aspinshaw, LL. D., rector of Elton Super-montem. In 1807 he, with wife and children, assumed by Royal License the surname and arms of Staunton. Their son and heir was Henry Charlton²⁰ Staunton of Staunton Hall in 1858.

This is undoubtedly the original Stanton family. From them have sprung numerous branches. In the 15th century a Sir George Stanton went from this family to Ireland and became the progenitor of a numerous Irish posterity. The following from the Boston (Mass.) Pilot of May 5, 1888, shows a still earlier departure into Ireland:

"In England the name de Staunton dates from the Norman conquest, while in Ireland it appeared with the English invasion. In 1220 Adam de Staunton granted lands to Christ Church, Dublin, and in 1373, in a summons to a great council to meet in Cork, Milo Staunton and Daniel Fitz-Thomas Roche were returned for County Cork. The attainders of 1691 include one Patrick Stanton, Great Island, County Cork."

Another branch of the Stauntons of Staunton settled in Warwick Co. prior to 1450 and bore the arms of the Nottingham family. Their hall is at Longbridge, a few miles from the city of Warwick and they are known as

THE STAUNTONS OF LONGBRIDGE.

The Encyclopedia Britannica (9th edition) says, "Of families holding knightly rank in Warwickshire before the commencement of the 16th century there now exist only ten, viz.—Staunton of Longbridge," etc.

This family as a distinct branch runs thus: Thomas¹, John², Thomas³, John⁴, Thomas⁵, Humphrey⁶, John⁷, John⁸, John⁹, John¹⁰, William¹¹, John¹², William¹³, the heir in 1858.

Let us look a little into some interesting facts concerning John⁴ Staunton of Longbridge. He m. Elizabeth dau. of Townsend of Wales, they had three sons and two daughters. The eldest son was Thomas⁵. Thomas⁵ had a daughter Judith⁶ Stanton who married Shakespere's friend and patron Hamnet Sadler. Shakespere's twin children, Judith and Hamnet, were named for Hamnet Sadler and his wife Judith⁶ Stanton. Sadler was a subscriber to Shakespere's will and was bequeathed a mourning ring.

See also in The Life of Wm. Shakespere (Duyckinek edition, p. xxvi) further reference to Mr. Staunton of Longbridge House and to Thomas Stanton, the English sculptor, as sculptor of Shakespere's bust in the church at Stratford upon Avon placed there between 1616 and 1623.

An interesting description of this bust will also be found in Irving's Sketch Book.

It was in 1576, at the time of the above John⁴ Stanton, that another son of his moved to Wolverton between Warwick city and Stratford on Avon. He m. Maria Pudsey and had five children. The eldest of these was Thomas⁶ Stanton who 30th July, 1616, m. Katherine dau. of Walter Washington of Radway, and had Thomas⁷, b. 1616 in Wolverton, who is thought by Baldwin to be the Thomas Stanton who came to America in 1635. This Wolverton branch became extinct in the male line during the first half of the 18th century and the estate reverted to John¹⁰ Staunton of Longbridge who was born in 1704 and died in 1748.

The last known record of said Thomas Stanton b. 1616 in Wolverton, Warwick Co., Eng., is to be found on p. 277 of the Visitation of the County of Warwick in the year 1619. Taken by William Camden, Clarencieux King of Arms. (Harl. Mss.

1167.) Edited by John Fetherstone. F. S. A. London, 1877.

The above book is Vol. 12 of the publications of the Harlian Society established in 1869.

MISCELLANEOUS ENGLISH NOTES.

These notes are printed here as a possible clew to future research, and as facts of family and historic interest.

1. In March, 1635, the pastor of The Church of St. Mary, Aldermanbury, London, was a Rev. Dr. Stanton (see N. E. Hist. and Gen. Reg., Jan., 1889).

2. In Aug., 1635, Jo: Staunton, aged 27, sailed from London for Virginia, in ship George — Jo: Severne, master.

3. Feb. 18, 1657, a Thomas Stanton of Mowlton, Suffolk Co., witnessed the will of Samuel Moody.

4. In 1610, near Wolverton, Warwick Co., there was b. a Thomas, son of Henry Stanton who m. ——— Rogers, Feb. 6, 1608.

5. There was a Thomas Stanton at Little Eastcheap, London, in 1657. M. Middlebrooke, of Leeds, writes a letter to his nephew, Rev. Michael Wigglesworth, at Malden, Mass., and orders it left at Mr. Thomas Stanton's, in Little Eastcheap, to be conveyed to America. Said Wigglesworth was b. in Hedron, East Riding, Yorkshire, Eng., in 1631, and in 1638 came to Quinnipiac, Conn.

6. Dorothy Stanton, widow of Richard Wiseman, of Wigborough, Essex Co., about 1625 m. Rev. John Rogers, of Dedham, Essex. Their grandson was Rev. John Rogers, D. D., who came to America with his father, Nathaniel, in 1636, and in 1682 became president of Harvard.

7. In the n. w. part of Leicestershire, some thirty miles from Belvoir Castle, is Staunton Harold. Its former owner was John DeStaunton, whose daughter and heiress, Margaret, married Ralph Shirley, and thus transferred the Staunton estate to the Shirley family. The present owner is Sir Sewallis Edward Shirley, 10th Earl of Ferrers and Viscount Tamworth. For further history of this family see Timb's "Abbeys, Castles and Ancient Halls of England and Wales"—Waren & Co., London.

8. In Oxfordshire, about five miles west of Oxford, is Stanton Harcourt. Here is the ancient manor of Stanton. It was among the vast estates that fell to the lot of the Bishop of Bayeux, a half brother to William the Conqueror. Queen Adeliza, second wife to Henry¹, granted the manor of Stanton to her kinswoman, Milicent, wife of Richard de Camville, whose daughter married Robert de Harcourt. Since then the manor has been called Stanton Harcourt.

9. An examination of Wills and Records at Bury St. Edmunds, Suffolk Co., shows in 1370 an Ada, widow of Henricus de Stanton, and their son Henry. In 1499 is mentioned a Robert, in 1504 a Roff and in 1554 a Walter Stanton.

ABBREVIATIONS AND EXPLANATIONS.

In addition to the ordinary abbreviations common to all literary work these will also be found, namely, b. for born; d. for died or dead; m. for married; unm. for unmarried; s. p. for sine posteritati, meaning "without posterity;" dau. for daughter.

The small number at the upper, right-hand corner of a name indicates the generation in America, beginning with Thomas¹ as the first; his children are the second, etc.

Roman numerals—I, IV, X, etc.—are prefixed to names merely to indicate the number of children in a family.

Arabic numerals—1, 4, 10, etc.—before the name of a child indicate that said child will be found in the next generation as the head of a family. By these numbers any descendant can quickly trace his or her ancestry back to Thomas¹.

If no number precedes a name, except a Roman numeral, the reader will understand that no further record of that person is given,

In order to find yourself and your ancestry, first, if you are a Stanton, look for your Christian name in the index of Christian names of Stantons; if not a Stanton, look for your full name in the index of names other than Stanton. Then turn to the page indicated and you will find your record. Note the number of your parent, and turn toward the front of the book until you find the same number repeated in smaller figures. There your parent will again appear in connection with his or her brothers and sisters. Then note your grandparent's number, and follow it toward the front of the book in the same way; continue thus until you have reached 1 Thomas', the first in America of this family.

To find your posterity, first find your own name as above, then work toward the back part of the book by the numbers of your children and grandchildren.

Remember that I have had to read hundreds of perplexing handwritings, to decipher blotted, defaced, faded, torn, misspelled manuscripts. Sometimes names and dates have had to be almost guessed so unreadable was the writing. Many errors that readers will discover are to be accounted for by the above facts.

GENEALOGICAL PART.

CHAPTER I.

THOMAS STANTON OF STONINGTON, CONN., AND HIS CHILDREN.

1. Thomas¹ Stanton, of Stonington, embarked at London, Eng., Jan. 2, 1635, in the merchantman Bonaventura. He went first to Virginia and then to Boston. In 1637, he settled in Hartford, Conn., where he married ANN LORD, daughter of Dr. Thomas and Dorothy Lord of Hartford.

In 1650 he established a trading house in Stonington, Conn., on the Pawcatuck river. His family lived in New London for a few years until finally their permanent residence came to be on the Pawcatuck. Thomas died Dec. 2, 1676. Ann, his wife, died in 1688. They had ten children.

THOMAS¹ STANTON'S DAUGHTERS AND SOME OF THEIR DESCENDANTS.

ROGERS.

4. Mary² Stanton, b. in 1643; m. SAMUEL ROGERS, Nov. 17, 1662. He was a son of James Rogers of New London, Conn., who came to America in the ship Increase in 1635, and of Elizabeth (Rowland) Rogers. Samuel inherited from his grandfather Samuel Rowland his farm at Stratford and from his father his stone house and bakery, at the head of Winthrop's (or Mill) Cove, in New London. There he lived about 15 years and then became the first settler in what is now the town of Montville. He d. Dec., 1713.

Issue of Samuel and Mary (Stanton) Rogers:

- I ANN³, b. in 1666; d. young.
- II MARY³, b. in April, 1667; m. Capt. Sam'l Gilbert in 1684; d. in Sept., 1756.
- III SAMUEL³, b. Dec. 1669.
- IV JOSEPH³, b. 1670.
- V ANN³, b. 1673.
- VI JONATHAN³, b. in 1680.
- VII ANN MARY³, b. May 8, 1683.
- VIII SARAH³, bapt. July 26, 1685; m. James Harris.
- IX DANIEL³, b. —; m. Grace Williams and had dau. Grace⁴ who m. Elisha Myrick.

PALMER.

5. Hannah² Stanton, b. in 1644; m. NEHEMIAH PALMER, Nov. 20, 1662. He was a son of the Puritan, Walter Palmer, who came from Nottinghamshire, Eng., in 1629; landed in Salem, Mass., and came to Stonington, Conn., in the fall of 1649. Nehemiah d. Feb. 17, 1717. Hannah d. Oct. 17, 1727. Their home was in Stonington. Their children were:

I JOSEPH³ PALMER, b. Oct. 3, 1663; m. Frances Prentice in 1687. Joseph's issue were:

i Hannah⁴, bapt. Aug. 12, 1694; m. George Palmer.

ii Joseph⁴, bapt. March 29, 1691; m. Mary Palmer.

NOYES.

8. Dorothy² Stanton, b. in 1651; m. Sept. 11, 1674, Rev. JAMES NOYES. He was b. March 11, 1640, and was the second son of Rev. James Noyes, of Newbury, Mass. James, Sen., was graduated at Brazen Nose College, Oxford, Eng., and was a son of Rev. William Noyes, rector in the Diocese of Salisbury. James, Jun., was graduated at Harvard College, and was ordained as pastor of the church in Stonington the day before his marriage. He was one of the founders of Yale College. He died in Stonington, Dec. 30, 1719, aged nearly 80 years. His wife, Dorothy², died there, Jan. 18, 1743, in the 92d year of her age. Her mother, Ann Stanton, made her home with this daughter after the death of 1 Thomas¹ Stanton.

The pier slab that for more than a century has been over the grave of Rev. James Noyes of the old Wetequequock burying ground, Stonington, Conn., is being relettered at Doty's marble works. The following is the inscription on it:

"In expectation of a joyful resurrection to eternal life here lyeth interred the body of the Rev. Mr. James Noyes aged 80 years who after a faithful living of the Church of Christ in this place for more than 55 years deceased Dec. ye 30, 1719-20. Majesty, meekness and humility here meet in one with greatest charity. He was first pastor of the Road Church and Society."

The children of Rev. James and Dorothy (Stanton) Noyes.

- 11a I DOROTHY², b. Jan. 2, 1676; m. Rev. Salmon Treat.
- 12 II JAMES², b. Aug. 2, 1677; m. Ann Sanford.
- 13 III THOMAS², b. Aug. 15, 1679; m. Elizabeth Sanford.
- IV ANNA², b. April 6, 1682; d. June 28, 1694.
- 14 V DEA. JOHN², b. June 13, 1685; m. Mary Gallup.
- 15 VI Rev. JOSEPH², b. Oct. 26, 1688; m. Abigail Pierpont.
- VII MOSES², b. March 19, 1692; d. April 30, 1692.

11a. Dorothy² Noyes [dau. of Rev. James and Dorothy² (Stanton) Noyes], b. Jan. 2, 1676 (another record of her birth is June 20, 1675), in Stonington, Conn.; m. April 12, 1698 to Rev. SALMON TREAT. He was son of James and Rebecca (Lattimer)

Treat of Wethersfield, Conn. Dorothy d. Dec. 6, 1714, at Preston, Conn. Rev. Salmon m. (2) Nov. 6, 1716, Mary Parks, widow of Capt. John Parks or Parke. He d. at Preston, Jan. 6, 1762, aged 90.

Children of Rev. Salmon and Dorothy (Noyes) Treat:

- I ANNA⁴, b. Aug. 26, 1699; m. Oct. 21, 1721 to Jonathan Richardson; d. March 17, 1777 in Stonington where their children were born; he d. Nov. 22, 1775.

CHAPTER II.

THE DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS¹ STANTON'S FIRST SON, THOMAS³ STANTON, JR.

2. Thomas² Stanton, Jr., b. 1638, in Hartford, Conn. He m. SARAH DENISON, oldest dau. of Capt. George Denison of Stonington, Conn. She was b. March 20, 1641, and d. Dec. 19, 1701. Thomas² died in Stonington, April 11, 1718. He with his bro. John² received from their father his lands in Preston, Conn. Dr. Savage, in his Genealogical Dictionary, has this note: "Thomas Stanton, Jr., had shown, before the removal of his father from Hartford, such an aptness for the language of the Indians, as to be desired, in 1654, by the Commissioners of the United Colony of New England to be employed in the public service with his younger bro. John, by training at Harvard College for interpreter, and seven years the Colony made grant of land and money to the father for the benefit of him and them."

Thos.² Stanton, Jr., Nov. 11, 1698, bought of Owaneco, chief sachem of Mohegan, a tract of 650 acres, "lying in the North Parish in New London, adjoining to a pond called Obplmtksok (now Gardiner's Lake) a mile or more long." This he sold to Lieut. James Harris and in 1721 Harris sold it to Joseph Otis of New London.

Sarah (Denison) Stanton is remembered in her father's will which is dated Nov. 20, 1693. In addition to her marriage gift he gives to her in said will ten pounds and one silver spoon of 10s. price, marked G. D. A. To his dau. Borodell (Denison) Stanton, wife of Thomas' bro. 11 Samuel², Capt. Geo. Denison gave, besides what he had given her, five pounds and a silver cup that was sent from England by Uncle John Borodell to Geo. Denison's wife — Lady Ann Borodell. William Denison, third son of Capt. George, who married 10 Sarah² Stanton, ninth child of 1 Thomas, inherited his father's homestead in Stonington.

For further records as to 2 Thomas² and his wife see Historical Part. The date of their marriage has not been found and the list of their children has been secured with difficulty. The following is believed to be nearly or quite correct. See however Appendix for (D) John.

- 22 I MARY³, b. 1660, m. Robert Lay, Jr., of Saybrook, Conn., Jan. 22, 1679.

The value of Mr. Thomas Stanton's apparel (£56-6-5) and his plate (£58-15-10) would indicate a style of living more after the manner of his English cousins than the prevailing style of that day in the colonies. This was also true of his brother Robert. These brothers always styled themselves and were styled by others "Gentlemen." Their tombstones have inscribed after their respective names the word "Gent."

FOURTH GENERATION IN THE LINE OF 2 THOMAS².

[In this count 1 Thomas¹ is the 1st generation in America, his children² are the 2nd generation, his grand children³ are the third, etc.]

22. Mary³ Stanton, b. 1660 in Stonington; m. ROBERT LAY, Jr., of Saybrook, Conn., Jan. 22, 1679. Lived in Saybrook.

- IV THOMAS⁴, b. May 10, 1688.
- V TEMPERANCE⁴, b. July 25, 1691.
- VI SAMUEL⁴, b. July 25, 1691; d. Aug. 5, 1691. } Twins.
- VII SAMUEL⁴, b. Feb. 12, 1693.
- VIII PHEBE⁴, b. Aug. 14, 1698.
- IX DOROTHY⁴, b. June 3, 1701.

23. Sarah³ Stanton, bapt. Dec. 14, 1674; m. Jan. 13, 1692, to NATHANIEL CHESEBRO, Jr., son of Nathaniel and Hannah (Denison) Chesebro. They lived in Stonington. Their issue:

- I SARAH⁴, bapt. Nov. 18, 1694; d. Nov. 22, 1707.
- II HANNAH⁴, bapt. Sept. 5, 1697; d. young.
- III NATHANIEL⁴, bapt. June 30, 1700; d. Aug. 5, 1701.
- IV THANKFUL⁴, bapt. May 16, 1703; d. Nov. 6, 1704.
- V NATHAN⁴, bapt. Sept. 7, 1707; m. Bridget Noyes.

24. Anna³ Stanton, bapt. June 30, 1673; m. 139 THOMAS⁴ STANTON, son of 3 John³.

25. William³ Stanton, bapt. May 6, 1677; m. May 7, 1701, 818 ANNA³, dau. of 9 Robert² and Joanna (Gardiner) Stanton. They lived in Stonington. Their children are:

- I ANNA⁴, b. Sept. 3, 1702.
- II WILLIAM⁴, b. Jan. 26, 1705; m. Sept. 10, 1745, Lucy Briggs of Pembroke, Mass. They had no child, but adopted Alexander Bradford.
- III SARAH⁴, b. Nov. 11, 1708.
- IV PRUDENCE⁴, b. April 8, 1711.
- 28 V THOMAS⁴, b. July 11, 1713; m. Elizabeth Bell.
- VI ROBERT⁴, b. July 14, 1715; d. young.
- VII JOANNA⁴, b. April 24, 1717.
- 29 VIII BRIDGET⁴, b. Feb. 19, 1719.
- 30 IX JOSHUA⁴, b. June 26, 1721; m. Hannah Randall, Nov. 10, 1748.
- X LUCY⁴, b. May 10, 1724.

26. Dorothy³ Stanton, bapt. at Stonington, April 24, 1682. She m. 1st, NICHOLAS LYNDE in 1696 who d. in Oct., 1703, in the West Indies. By him she had a son.

- I JOSEPH⁴ LYNDE, bapt. Jan. 10, 1703; m. Mary Lemmon, and had a dau. Dorothy⁵ Lynde who m. Dr. Elijah Dix. Their dau. Mary⁶ Dix m. Rev. Thaddeus Mason Harris, D.D., and had a son Thaddeus Wm.⁷ Harris, M. D., who d. in 1856, leaving a son, Edw. D.⁸ Harris, whose address is "The Steward Building, New York."

Now as to the second marriage of the widow Dorothy (Stanton) Lynde there is a direct issue of authorities. Wyman's Hist. of Charlestown and the Charlestown Church records agree that she m. 2nd, JOHN TRERICE, Senior, of Charlestown, who d. soon afterward.

Baldwin says that "she m. 2nd, JOHN FRINK, Jr., who died in 1718; and 3rd, ROBERT DENISON of Montville." He records her children by these last two marriages as follows:

- II WM.⁴ FRINK, b. in 1710; bapt. March 21, 1714.
- III THANKFUL⁴ FRINK, b. in 1714; bapt. May 16, 1714.

IV ESTHER⁴ FRINK, b. in 1717; bapt. June 30, 1717.

V GEORGE⁴ DENISON, b. in 1719; m. Hannah Dodge.

VI DOROTHY⁴ DENISON, b. in 1721; m. three times.

In a letter to me, written Jan. 10, 1889, by Mr. Edw. D.⁸ Harris of New York, he says of the above record,

“She was married a 3d time to a Frink — not, I believe, John, but Thomas. The children of John Frink given in Baldwin had another mother — if I remember she was Grace. I can find no births or baptisms of any children born to her and Frink in Stonington — nor can I find any documentary proof of the marriage. Nor can I find the marriage record of the widow Dorothy Frink and Robert Denison. The Denison Genealogy states it as a fact, but the author, Rev. Mr. Clift, cannot give me his authority. However, our family tradition confirms the statement. In Montville, by Denison, she had the two children you quote — and there is a strong probability that she died in the family of her daughter Amy at Norwich, at a very advanced age — our family papers say 105.”

A SKETCH OF (102) MISS MARIA E. B. STANTON⁷.

A MISSIONARY TO AFRICA.

(By her sister, Mrs. Mary Sophia Stanton Stewart.)

Maria was born in Monson, Mass., Sunday, Sept. 16, 1832. As a child she was unusually attractive, having a bright face, large expressive eyes, and an easy manner. Her winning grace, dignity, and maturity of judgment were unusual in a child. An educated, Christian mother influenced her home life, and her education was in a New England school and the Monson Academy. At the age of eighteen, during a revival, she was converted. Her conversion was marked by an entire surrender of self, and a personal consecration to God and to His work. In 1851 she joined the M. E. Church in Monson. She immediately began seeking to win souls to Christ. The cry from bleeding Africa smote upon her heart; she heard the Father say, "Go, comfort those that mourn." She came into possession of the spirit of the lamented Cox, "Though a thousand fall, Africa must not be given up." A favorite poem of her's was Dr. Brown's, "The Missionary's Call." She made application to the Board of her Church, for an appointment as missionary to Africa. She believed that the American people had a peculiar duty to that country as an atonement for the wrongs of slavery. I will now quote from her diary:

Sept. 7, 1854. "In obedience to Thy commands, O my heavenly Father, I am preparing to go to benighted Africa. But my heart bleeds at the thought that I must leave the sweet scenes of my childhood, the friends that I love, for a foreign land, and an uncongenial clime. O America, my dear native land, must I bid thee farewell forever? Yes, adieu, to all that I love on earth.

But the brightest beams of love divine
Shall ever 'round my pathway shine;
Come, O my soul, and lean on God,
He hath for thee the wine press trod."

She left home and Monson for New York, Oct. 20, 1854. Her sea voyage began Oct. 25th, and Dec. 17th she reached Monrovia, in Liberia, West Africa. There were other missionaries who sailed with her, and on the voyage several of the crew were converted; among them was the first mate, who attributed his conversion to Miss Stanton's influence. She believed that wherever souls were to be saved was her place to work. Her appointment was to a seminary at Cape Palmas, in Liberia, but the building was not then up. She, therefore, remained in Monrovia a few months, and then with another lady missionary went to Millsburg, forty miles up the St. Paul's river, where they had a school. I think they had no help in Sunday or other services, except such as the natives could give.

After a few months she returned to Monrovia, where she taught in the academy until the climate undermined her health.

Seeking recovery she took a sea voyage down the coast and back. As the seminary at Cape Palmas was still unfinished she obtained permission to go there and begin her school in the church. Her companion in the charge of this school was a lady who sailed with her from New York, and whose husband had died during a former sojourn in Africa.

Miss Stanton's labors were brief. African fever soon struck her down ; she lingered for several weeks in much patient suffering, kindly cared for by missionary friends. Among the companions of her voyage from America to whom she had become endeared, was the principal of the orphan asylum of the Protestant Episcopal mission at Cape Palmas, and his family. They invited her and her colleague to their home, thinking she would be more comfortable with them. After going there she lived six weeks. Her last words were, "I know whom I have believed." She died in April, 1856, and her body rests in the Cape Palmas Mission Cemetery, awaiting the resurrection from the dead.

She had but a year and a half of labor on the field, but the highest testimony of her efficiency came to us. Patiently and unselfishly, with prayers and tears, trusting in the promise, "Lo! I am with you alway, even to the end," she toiled.

Let one of the last entries in her diary close this sketch. "Dear Jesus, stamp upon my soul Thy image. O set anew upon my whole being the seal of Thy everlasting love. Holy Father, keep me through Thy own Name, and enable me to glorify Thee."

The following poem was written by Miss Stanton a short time before she left America.

AFRIC'S CRY.

A piercing cry is on the air,
It comes from Afric's plain ;
Columbia's youthful daughters, hear
That pleading voice across the main.

Their hearts respond — we'll go and save
Dark Africa's benighted race ;
Then stretch thy arms far o'er the wave,
Fold us in thine embrace.

We'll hasten on to Afric's strand,
For dark and lone it cannot be,
Since God hath said, "In every land
Light and salvation thou shalt see."

Dangers and death we gladly brave,
Constrained by Jesus' love;—
Strong in the Lord, who died to save,
And now, for sinners, pleads above.

CHAPTER III.

THE DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS¹ STANTON'S SECOND SON, CAPT. JOHN² STANTON.

3 John² Stanton, b. 1641, in Hartford, Conn.; m. 1664, HANNAH THOMPSON; d. Oct. 31, 1713, in Stonington, Conn. 3 John² Stanton was a pupil of that famous old school-teacher of the Puritans, Elijah Corlet. In 1654, he and John Minor, son of Thomas Minor, were selected by the Court of Commissioners to be educated for teachers of the Gospel to the Indians. Both young men, however, ultimately left their studies, and devoted themselves to other pursuits.

In 1664, John² Stanton became the first Recorder of the town of Southertown (now Stonington). The same year he married Hannah Thompson. She was, undoubtedly, either a daughter or sister of Rev. William² Thompson, Jr., whose father was Rev. Wm.¹ Thompson of Braintree, Mass. The younger William was appointed in 1657, to be a missionary to the Pequots, and resided in Stonington and New London until 1663, when he went to Surry Co., Virginia. He is believed to have returned and died in Stonington, as his grave is in the old burial ground at Wicketequack Cove.

Feb. 18, 1675, John² Stanton was commissioned captain of one of the four Connecticut regiments in King Philip's War. He served with distinction in this war, and was in command at the time of the capture of Canonchet, the chief sachem of all the Narragansetts. This service was acknowledged by the "Courte" in the remittance of a fine imposed in 1675. The circumstance was as follows: He, as agent of Stonington, with five selectmen (of whom Thomas¹ Stanton was one), presented a petition and protest to the General Assembly of Connecticut, on behalf of the town. They protested against certain laws deemed by them unjust to their rights, peace and liberty. For so doing, one of them, Capt. Denison, was fined 10 pounds, and forbidden to hold office. Another one, Mr. John Stanton, "the towne's agent, for management of his agency, is fined ten pounds for that boldness, to be paid at the latter end of summer, at Boston, in money or corn, according to order." Meanwhile came the war, and in May, 1677, the fine not yet paid, was revoked.

May 10, 1710, a deed of trust was executed in favor of Capt. John Stanton and four others, by which the eastern part of the Mohegan lands was forever settled on the Mohegan tribe, under the regulation of said five and their successors, "so long as there shall be any Mohegans found or known of alive in the world."

For litigation that arose from this and for further notes as to Capt. John, see Historical Part.

The children of Capt. John² and Hannah (Thompson) Stanton, were:

137 I JOHN³, b. May 22, 1665; m. Mary —.

138 II JOSEPH³, b. Jan. 22, 1668; m. Margaret Cheseboro, July 18, 1696.

139 III THOMAS³, b. April, 1670; m. his cousin, 24 Anna³, 1692.

IV ANN³, b. Oct. 1, 1673; d. March 23, 1680.

140 V THEOPHILUS³, b. June 16, 1676; m. Elizabeth Rogers,
June 5, 1698.

VI DOROTHY³, b. , 1680; d. "in travail," April 28, 1699.

"A few years before his death, Capt. John² Stanton gave his real estate to his sons by deed, as follows: to Joseph³ he gave the homestead farm in Stonington; to John³ and Thomas³ he gave all his lands in Preston. Theophilus³ was not living then. John³ and Thomas³ settled on the lands in Preston. His will, dated in 1713, confirms these gifts of land. In 1737, his son John³, then of Preston, applied to the Probate Court in New London, for an equitable division of the Preston lands between him and his brother Thomas³." The homestead farm in Stonington is on the banks of the Mystic river. The site of Capt. John's mansion is still to be seen. His farm of 300 acres adjoined John Gallup's on the west and Capt. George Denison's on the north. A map of it, made by Capt. Denison in 1661, in connection with his own and other farms, is still in possession of the Denison family living on their ancestral homestead. The Pe-quot-se-pos brook was the dividing line between the Stanton and Denison lands. The present owner of Capt. John's lands is Joseph Stanton Williams whose mother was a Stanton. It has never passed out of possession of the family. A few years ago, in opening a gravel bank near the site of Capt. John's house, the laborers came to a space about six by eight feet, well stoned, containing a few portions of bones. Dr. Geo. D. Stanton visited the place and is of the opinion that it was the burying place of Capt. John and his family.

184. Samuel^e Stanton (Samuel^d, John^s, 3 John^s), b. in Preston, Conn., April 17, 1759; m. MARTHA CARPENTER MORSE, in Preston, Conn., Dec. 3, 1786. She was b. Oct. 15, 1764, in Preston, and d. in Port Allegany, McKean Co., Penn., May 8, 1830; she was the dau. of Dan'l and Anna (Carpenter) Morse.

Samuel lived in Preston for three years after marriage. In June, 1789, he purchased a large tract of land in Wayne Co., Penn., and became the first actual settler in Mt. Pleasant township of said county. He had previously done some surveying in that section for Mr. William Cooper of Cooperstown, N. Y. His purchase was 322 acres, for which he paid £322 to Thomas Rogers of Philadelphia, for whom Cooper acted as agent. The next day, June 30, 1789, he bought nearly 3,000 acres of Wm. Cooper, who in that sale acted as agent for Thomas Franklin, Wm. and Andrew Craig and others. In June of 1790, he began to work the land, and he brought his family there April 10, 1791. The next winter he and his whole family nearly perished through starvation and sickness, but relief came at last in the person of a hunter, Mr. Frederick Coates, whose dogs chased a deer near Samuel's cabin. When, in after years, Samuel kept a tavern, the horns of that deer were nailed to the top of his sign-post. In physical aspect Samuel Stanton was tall, broad-shouldered, heavy, but not corpulent. He had a light complexion, soft blue eyes, very light-brown hair and whiskers verging a little to the sandy shade.

In temperament he was sanguine, his imagination was lively and his intellect well developed. His powers of concentration were almost too well developed, for if absorbed in a book he became oblivious to all the rest of the world.

He was said to have read over 2,000 volumes, concerning the contents of which he could converse intelligently.

Socially he was free, affable, entertaining, and serious rather than jovial; he was very inquisitive, desiring to learn all he could, and he always had a great variety of anecdotes to tell. In 1796 he was appointed justice of the peace, his home then being in Northampton Co.; in 1798 Wayne Co. was organized and he was one of the commissioners to locate the seat of justice and build the court-house. In Oct., 1814, he was appointed associate county judge, and held that office until he moved away.

Mr. Stanton had some aspirations toward poetry, and he wrote more than fifty hymns, some of which had a place in the hymn books used by the Free Communion Baptists, of whom he was one. Near the close of his life he moved to the western part of Penn. He had been appointed commissioner of a State road in that section; this office gave him some business in Harrisburg. Taking his family he went to the west branch of the Susquehanna; left them to proceed on their way while he went to Harrisburg, expecting to meet them later. He stopped in Bellefonte, Center Co., to visit his friend Judge Burnside, and there suddenly died, April 15, 1816.

- II GEORGE DENISON⁷, b. Dec. 18, 1802, in Preston, Conn.; he m. Harriet Benham, of Louisville, Ky.; she was sister to Ada Benham, who m. in 1855, at Louisville, Lord Fairfax, and who d. in 1888, at Washington. Mr. Prentice d. Jan. 22, 1870, near Louisville. He left two sons, Courtland⁸ and Clarence⁸ Prentice.

Mr. Prentice was a Kentuckian by adoption, and a "Yankee" by nativity. His parents were comparatively poor, but his fondness for learning was early evinced, and he graduated at Brown University, Providence, R. I., in 1823, just as he had attained his majority. He then studied law and was admitted to the bar, but was driven to literature for the obtainment of present needs, and in 1828 he took charge of the New England Review, where he quickly attracted attention by his terse, incisive and epigrammatic style. Two years later he left the charge of the Review to John Greenleaf Whittier, the sweet poet,

Who sang the chains of slaves away, and went to Kentucky to write the life of Henry Clay. "Old Harry of the West" was then the pride of the Whig party, and its bright particular star. The leaders of his party had chosen him as their candidate for President, and Mr. Prentice, being an ardent admirer of Mr. Clay, began the biography for the laudable purpose of showing the American public the greatness of the man.

In November of 1830, Mr. Prentice went to Louisville to take charge of the Journal, a newspaper which had been started by Whigs especially for him, and quickly he was in the foremost focal fires of the political battles of those days, and hand to hand with Shadrock Penn, the editor of the Louisville Advertiser, the ablest journalist then in the west.

It was expected by Penn's partisans that he would overwhelm the youngster at once, but he didn't. They fought like giants for eleven years, and at last Penn yielded before the stinging shafts of Prentice's satire, wit, sarcasm, irony and logic. Prentice became famous throughout the land, and Penn retired to St. Louis. Then Prentice wrote of him one of the most graceful, touching, grand and beautiful things that ever appeared editorially in the columns of a newspaper. By excessive writing Mr. Prentice brought upon himself, in 1840, an affliction called "writer's paralysis." He tried to learn to write lefthanded, but failed; he attempted to write with both hands, and would wrap his pen or pencil with bandages to enlarge it, indeed, all sorts of remedies, methods and contrivances were resorted to in order to overcome the difficulty, but none were satisfactory — the typewriter of to-day would have been a blessing — so he employed an amanuensis thenceforward, though he could, little at a time, manage, with both hands, to write a few sentences when imperative necessity demanded.

In dictating to his amanuensis he usually walked the floor, or sat toying with a kitten or something else, and spoke as though he were talking to himself, and his voice, which grew in his later years to be piping, had a nasal twang. He always punctuated his matter while dictating, and it was amusing to hear him call between his stops, "comma," "semi-colon," "full-stop," etc., as the sense of the matter required.

When the sentiment of secession began to grow in the South Mr. Prentice was a strong Unionist, though both of his sons, his only children, Courtland and Clarence, went into the Confederate army. Courtland was killed early in the struggle, at Augusta, Ky., and Clarence, who lived near Louisville several years after the war, was killed by being thrown from a buggy. George D. Prentice, Clarence's son, is a lawyer in California. His mother was a Hungarian lady of noble lineage, and he is the only living descendant of the great poet and wit.

Despite the fact that Mr. Prentice was one of the hardest political fighters, and said such bitter and cutting things that they made him many enemies, he never allowed his political feelings to affect his personal likes or dislikes. He deeply admired Horace Greeley, who for many years was his bitterest political enemy. Once, when Mr. Greeley came to Louisville to lecture, Mr. Prentice occupied a seat on the stage near the speaker and listened attentively to every word that fell from the old philosopher's lips. Mr. Greeley afterward called on Prentice at his editorial rooms, and was received by the poet and wit with every manifestation of pleasure and hospitality. Shortly afterward Mr. Prentice wrote for the New York Ledger his poem beginning

I send thee, Greeley, words of cheer,
Thou bravest, truest, best of men,
For I have marked thy strong career
As traced by thy own sturdy pen.

Sometimes it is said by those who knew but little of the man that he wrote verses simply for recreation, and that he estimated lightly all poetry. The truth is that he was peculiarly of a poetic temperament, and wrote poetry because he loved it. Yet he used, often, to advise others not to bother about it, saying: "It is the most unmarketable article in all the booths of Vanity Fair." This, however, it is thought, he did only in the cases of those who he felt could never produce creditable poetry; for 'tis certain that he was patron and encourager of numberless poets and poetesses, many of whom became famous, among them the sweet singer "Amelia," and Sallie M. Bryan, who is now Mrs. J. J. Piatt. Besides these he used to doctor up and make presentable the halt and lame and limping verses of many who rode a ring-boned and spavined Pegasus.

Concerning Prentice's greatest poem, which is one of the finest in the language, a strange story is told. It is said that one New Year's Eve, somewhere along in the '50's, the carriers of the Journal came into the editor's room, complaining bitterly that they had no "Carrier's Address" for the next morning. This was a serious matter to them, for in those days this annual poem was a rich perquisite to the boys, and the dimes and dollars which came to them from the patrons of the paper for the "Address" had much to do with making each carrier's New Year a happy one. Mr. Prentice knew this, and, prompted by that warm kindliness which was ever a distinguishing trait of his remarkable character, he at once determined to help the youngsters, and so, to some one present, he said: "Please write for me and I will dictate a 'Carrier's Address.'" The result was the "Closing Year," the grand poem which begins:

"Tis midnight's holy hour — and silence now,
Is brooding like a gentle spirit o'er
The still and pulseless world.

Mr. Prentice was peculiarly a happy person in the days of his youth and strong manhood, and wit and humor were the strongest pillars in his temple of fame. He compiled a book of his own paragraphs, which was called "Prenticeana." In the preface of that book he excuses himself for the volume by saying that as others were inclined to make the compilation he preferred doing it himself, as some one else might not be so careful in the elimination of matter calculated to hurt the feelings of persons with whom he was then on terms of friendship, acquired subsequent to the time when the painful paragraphs were written.

There is a sort of general idea that Mr. Prentice was "a bad man with a gun," a duelist, and all that. Nothing could be more erroneous. The fact is he never fought a duel, but was sometimes, from the nature of his business, forced to personal and sudden encounters. He once said that he was naturally a timid man, but that he knew when he went to Kentucky he would find it necessary to "show fight" to keep from having fights, and per consequence he made a great many successful "bluffs." He was frequently challenged to duels, but always made fun of the belligerent messages. Once he wrote his challenger that it only took one fool to send a challenge while it took two to fight, and he didn't wish to be classed in the category. Although Mr. Prentice had remarkable command of the language he nearly always used the smallest and most commonplace words in writing; nevertheless he frequently consulted the dictionary. On one occasion when he found that valuable tome had been stolen from the editorial room he forthwith directed that another be supplied immediately, remarking at the same time, "Any one who would attempt to edit a newspaper without an unabridged dictionary is a shameless egotist."

In 1868, Henry Watterson became editor and part owner of the Journal, and Mr. Prentice, who had then grown prematurely old and feeble, did very little work. In the course of six months the Journal was consolidated with the Courier and became what is now known as the Courier-Journal. About a year afterward Mr. Prentice died at the residence of his son, Col. Clarence Prentice, a few miles below Louisville on the Ohio river.

He was a powerful editor and the most brilliant paragrapher of the age — indeed, the first one of any note. His wit was bright and sparkling, his satire keen, his eloquence grand, his poetry beautiful, his logic unanswerable. A deep thinker, a profound reasoner, genial, hopeful, humane, and, therefore, sometimes erring, he had the best of friends, the bitterest enemies, and he was, all in all, a great and gifted man — a genius.

WILLIAM STANTON CLARK.

The following obituary notices and parts of notices, selected from scores, will present the private character and public services of the subject of this sketch, as seen by his neighbors and friends:

[From Albany Argus, Monday, Sept. 10, 1888.]

A special despatch to The Argus from Sloansville states that Hon. William S. Clark died there at his home yesterday morning.

William S. Clark was born in Carlisle in 1826. In 1858 he was graduated from the Albany Law School, and then entered upon the practice of law. In 1850 he was elected superintendent of schools for the town of Carlisle, a position which he held with great credit for ten years. When the rebellion broke out he at once took the Union side, which he supported with great ardor, and during the war he addressed many recruiting meetings in Schoharie, Montgomery and Otsego counties. Not only in this way, but by the expenditure of no little time and money he upheld the cause of the government, never losing his enthusiasm even at the most discouraging times.

From 1862 to 1864 he was excise commissioner. On December 18, 1866, his distinguished abilities and his patriotism received the further recognition that they deserved by his election as a Democrat, to the Assembly of the State of New York. He was chosen without opposition at a special election to fill the place made vacant by the death of Daniel Shaver. In that term he served with honor on the committees on privileges and elections, erection and division of towns and counties and canal management. So satisfactory to his constituents was his service that, in 1867, he was re-elected to be his own successor.

During his whole career Mr. Clark has held the respect of men of both political parties, and his death removes one of Schoharie's best known and most high-minded citizens.

[From Schoharie Republican, Thursday, Sept. 13, 1888.]

On a bright Sunday morning, September 9, 1888, the Hon. William S. Clark of Sloansville, in this county, passed peacefully from the present to future life. His often-expressed wish was that when the time of his departure should come he might pass away without lingering disease or trouble and care of friends, and, as was his wish, so he died. As appeared, he was attacked with apoplexy and died without a struggle; no displacement of the bed covering in which he lay, no distortion of features indicated other than an instantaneous and painless death.

The career of our deceased friend has been extremely varied, industrious and useful; the sick and afflicted of his neighborhood have lost an ever capable and willing friend, and the community one of its most active and valued citizens.

He was born August 19, 1826, in the town of Carlisle in this county, being the fifth of nine children. His parents moved into this county from Coeymans, N. Y., in 1813, to subdue and cultivate a farm but lately a wilderness.

At an early age the deceased developed a robust and healthy constitution, coupled with a mind of remarkable intellectual activity. At the age of thirteen years he was a student in the Schoharie Academy, and at fourteen he was a teacher. Later he attended this and other academic institutions of learning, but finally resumed a teacher's position for about ten years. In 1850 he was elected town superintendent of schools, but studiously devoting every spare hour to the study of the law, and finally graduated from the Albany Law School in the spring of 1858. He then came to Sloansville where he opened a law office and gradually filled it with one of the finest law libraries in the county, to which he added a miscellaneous library numbering many hundred volumes of choice works by the best authors, with the contents of which he exhibited great familiarity. In 1862 he was appointed commissioner of excise, and filled that office three years. In 1867 he was elected Member of Assembly, and was re-elected the following year. During this incumbency Mr. Clark fought bravely in behalf of the Albany and Susquehanna railroad bill, that gave his constituents a boon for which they were very grateful. As a Member of Assembly he filled positions on many very important committees, and was a member of the select committee to investigate the actions of canal officers, and made a manager in the long investigation which followed. In his own county he has long filled the office of the clerk of the courts, and in the political field he has for many years been called to fill positions as chairman, secretary and delegate. For ten years he has been a member of the Democratic county committee, and was its secretary at the time of his death.

Mr. Clark was a scholarly, accurate, eloquent and agreeable orator; but to enumerate the occasions of his addressing his fellow-citizens in this and other counties would enlarge this tribute too much. Almost his last public duty was to attend the great gathering of the American Educational Association in July last at San Francisco, Cal. His letters written en route and from that city, published in The Republican, were widely read and appreciated.

To sum up all the good qualities of our departed friend, none will shine brighter than his tender and sympathetic care of the sick and afflicted within the circuit of his acquaintance. No persons or families were too poor or too obscure for him to permit them to suffer without his best efforts being exercised for their relief, and nearly every family of that vicinity have been under obligations to him for his timely, efficient and untiring assistance to them in days of suffering and grief.

Now he sleeps. May he rest in peace.

In the same issue a correspondent at Central Bridge writes:

The Hon. Wm. S. Clark is dead! Sunday morning the Old Time Scythe came in his strength and took from among us Wm. S. Clark, a citizen of long standing in Sloansville. There is much good to be said of the eloquent and distinguished man that now lies silent in death. As a neighbor we cannot mention his equal. The little quiet town of Sloansville will miss him most, for in the past thirty years it has been his home. Born in the town of Carlisle, near Grosvenor's Corners, in the year 1826, and when quite young moved to Sloansville where he resided up to the time of his death. But not only will they miss him there, but the whole of Schoharie and Montgomery counties, where he was well known in a legal way. He was a lawyer by profession, always interested in the courts of the county, and an able speaker on the political issues of the day. We have many times heard it remarked that Wm. S. Clark would settle the little difficulties that naturally arose in his place of residence. We can but say he was kind-hearted, benevolent, generous to a fault. He leaves a brother, Benjamin F., in the mercantile business at Sloansville, and a sister living at Reusselaerville; but they will not weep alone—there will be weeping by many. Upon the street, in all our quiet rooms how oft it will be repeated, William S. Clark is dead!

God in His goodness has taken a dear friend and brother from us; we shall miss him. Tears bedew our eyes. He has gone to that “undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveler returns.” We draw the curtain.

[From The Wide-Awake Courier, Canajoharie, N. Y., Sept. 18, 1888.]

Saturday night Wm. S. Clark said “Good night” to the members of his family, and “drew the drapery of his couch about him, and lay down to pleasant dreams.” Sunday morning, September 9, his sleep deepened into eternal rest, and his freed spirit will bid “Good morning” to kindred and friends in a brighter clime. Among the tributes in the county papers, one friend has said: “As a neighbor we cannot name his equal,” and another: “He was a regular attendant upon Sabbath services and was his aged mother’s staff each morning,” and another: “His reverence for his mother, love for his sisters, and affection for his brother were living examples which it would be well for all to emulate,” and still another closes with these words—words that all in Sloansville know to be true: “No person or families were too poor or too obscure for him to permit them to suffer without his best efforts being exerted for their relief, and nearly every family of that vicinity has had his timely, efficient and untiring assistance in their days of suffering and grief.” Truly, “He was a man, take him for all in all, we shall not look upon his like again.” His heart was tender as that of woman, and when he had cared for the sick and dead, his pen was ever ready with tributes of sympathy and words of consolation. These are the closing words of one of his later tributes:

“Ah, the tears are love’s offering and tribute. Check them not, they are sorrow’s antidote. There is a better land, knowing which, shall we not say: Wife, daughter, sister, rest; thine the waiting, ours the toiling; thine the peace, ours the struggle, till we too shall behold the Everlasting day." On Tuesday, September 11, under a bright sky and a genial atmosphere, friends came from far and near for their last farewell to William S. "Farewell, a word that must be, and had been — a sound which makes us linger; yet, farewell." c.

SLOANSVILLE, Sept. 17, 1888.

[From The Examiner, New York, Thursday, Sept. 20, 1888.]

CLARK — Died at Sloansville, N. Y., Sept. 9th, Hon. William S. Clark, aged 62 years.

Converted while a student at Hamilton; graduated from the Albany Law School in 1858; left with the care of his mother and three sisters, he devoutly fulfilled the trust. Strong in friendship, public in spirit, self-sacrificing and helpful to all, he studied the things which make for peace and the good of a people; loyal to his country in her darkest days of strife, sympathizing with the afflicted, ministering often to the sick, caring for the dead, a regular attendant, and more than liberal contributor to the Baptist church, his decease drew to the funeral solemnities a great concourse, including some of the most distinguished men of the county; a judge, an ex-senator, an ex-member of Congress, members of the bar, and seven clergymen. A sister and a brother alone survive him who has entered into rest.—
Rev. A. WATERBERRY.

BENJAMIN F. CLARK, youngest child of William Clark and Sarah Stanton, born in the town of Carlisle, N. Y., July 4, 1831, brother of Wm. Stanton Clark, owed his education mainly to his brother who inspired him with a love for study and reading.

After leaving the district school, he attended Schoharie and Hamilton academies, and also Carlisle Seminary, one of whose promoters and stockholders he was — having invested his entire patrimony to establish the school, and it was finally lost as the school went down after a few years. After the death of their father in 1849, the two sons continued farming for some years, each attending school away from home alternate winters.

Benjamin, like his brother, engaged in teaching, in which profession he continued for fifteen years in union schools and academies, in his native State and in New Jersey—spending his vacations in travel.

In the early years of the war he and his brother addressed meetings, aided in raising local town bounties to promote the enlistment of men for the Union armies, and in 1864 he received a commission from Gov. Seymour to go south to enlist men for the Union service.

November 12, 1873, he married Mary C. Lawyer, a daughter of John S. Lawyer of Fultonham, N. Y. Miss Lawyer was a graduate of the Albany Normal School, and had been for ten years one of the best teachers in the State. She had three times declined offered situations in the normal schools of the State, because she could command larger salaries in union schools.

In the autumn of 1874, Mr. Clark engaged in the mercantile business, at which he and his wife continued until the fall of 1889, when he sold out and retired from business with a moderate competence.

No children were born to them, otherwise the union was a most happy one, both having a cultivated literary taste, being genuine book-lovers. They are now residing in the house in Sloansville which was for many years the ideal home of the aged mother, two sisters and the two brothers.

Still interested in education, and in the education of their nephews and nieces, highly respected by all who know them, in their pleasant home with a well-selected library (the life-time collection of the two brothers), Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Clark are peacefully approaching the evening of their days.

Erastus H. Stanton was born at Durham, Greene county, N. Y., November 13, 1816. His grandfather removed from Connecticut to New York in 1790. The family is of Welsh descent. His mother was a daughter of Henry Niles, a descendant from a Scotch family belonging to the sect of Quakers or Friends. They were persecuted for their opinions under the reign of Charles II, and fled to a new continent that they might enjoy that freedom of opinion denied at home. Mr. Stanton was educated in the common schools and academy of his native town. An early developed taste for reading was gratified by access to a circulating library. At the age of sixteen he was placed at his own request with a mercantile firm at Rensselaerville, Albany county, where he acquired a knowledge of the business. He began business for himself in 1837 at Greenville, Greene county, where he remained twelve years. Here he was married September 2, 1840, to Miss Mary Sanford, who survives him. Owing to the ill-health of Mrs. Stanton he removed to Illinois, purchasing a farm near Rockton, only a mile from the Wisconsin line. He remained there engaged in farming, banking and mercantile pursuits until 1867, when he came to Ionia, and again embarked in mercantile pursuits, in which he remained until he began lumbering operations at Sheridan. This business occupied his time and personal attention until within the past three or four years, when he gave up the cares of active business life.

In 1838 Gov. Marcy of New York commissioned Mr. Stanton quartermaster of the 37th Brigade of State troops, a position he held for four years. In 1861, being then in Illinois, Gen. Yates, afterward Governor of the State, appointed him as his military aide, in which capacity he visited the several Illinois regiments in the Department of North Missouri, his duty being to see that the troops were properly equipped with arms, clothing, etc. During his residence in New York and Illinois he was several times elected supervisor and held other positions. Always a public-spirited and enterprising citizen, the people of Ionia were not slow to recognize his character. In 1872, when the Ionia and Stanton Railroad project was inaugurated, Mr. Stanton was elected a director and the first secretary and treasurer of the company, which positions he filled until the road was consolidated with the Detroit, Lansing and Lake Michigan Company. He took a lively interest in the completion of the road, taking upon himself many arduous duties, and as an officer of the company, he proved himself a capable and energetic official.

In politics Mr. Stanton was a staunch Republican, severing his political ties with the Democratic party as early as 1856. In 1879 he was elected Mayor of Ionia, his competitor being James M. Kidd, and the following year he ran against A. F. Bell and was re-elected. In 1880 he was elected to represent the then Twenty-fourth District in the State Senate, in which body he was a leading, influential member. In 1882 he declined to be a candidate for renomination. He was the soul of political honor himself, as he was an exemplar of business integrity. He never failed to carry out his own pledges, or held out false hopes to his friends. But he was perhaps of too confiding a nature, and placed too much stress upon talk, judging others by his own high standard of morals. He was often spoken of as an available candidate for other and higher positions, and there was no man in Ionia county, to say the least, who had a warmer personal following, based on genuine good will and respect for his high qualities of manhood. But he was modest and retiring in his disposition and lacked the ability, not to say the disposition, to push himself to the front.

As a neighbor he was kind and considerate to others; as a citizen upright and just; as a business man honest and honorable in all his dealings; as a legislator incorruptible and fearless; as a friend ever true. He was childlike in his faith, his implicit confidence in others, and it shocked him to find that all men were not as simple, as direct and ingenuous as he was himself. He had many friends who were knit to him by bonds of steel.

The funeral of Mr. Stanton was held in St. John's Church at 4 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. The services were conducted by Bishop Gillespie, assisted by Rev. Mr. Nock, pastor of the church. The impressive burial service of the Episcopal church was read, but there was no sermon. The pall-bearers were H. Rich, L. B. Townsend, Geo. W. Webber, A. J. Webber, J. L. Taylor and W. C. Page. A large concourse of citizens accompanied the remains to Oak Hill Cemetery where Bishop Gillespie also officiated. Mayor Doyle and the council as well as the other city officers attended in a body.

IN RESPECT TO THE DEAD.

At a special meeting of the council on Saturday evening the following resolutions were proposed and adopted:

Resolved, That in the death of Hon. Erastus H. Stanton, the nation has lost one of its truest statesmen, the State one of its best citizens, the city he has repeatedly honored one of its wisest and most faithful officials, his bereaved family a loving husband and affectionate father.

Resolved, That we tender to the bereaved wife and relatives the sympathy which those alone can truly feel who have learned to love him well, and beg of them to accept with us consolation which springs from the belief that the true and good can never die.

Resolved, That the city building be appropriately draped in mourning for the period of ten days, that the city flags be placed at half-mast until after the funeral, and that the Common Council attend the obsequies.

Resolved, That, as a tribute to the memory of our distinguished citizen, we especially request and respectfully recommend that secular work or business in the city be suspended during the hours of his funeral.

Resolved, That an engrossed copy of these resolutions be, by the City Clerk, furnished to the widow and family of the deceased.

The Mayor appointed Aldermen Bailey and Bedford as a special committee to offer assistance at the funeral.

At a special meeting of the vestry of St. John's Church held on Monday, the following resolutions were passed on the death of Hon. E. H. Stanton:

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God to take from our number the Hon. Erastus H. Stanton, therefore, be it Resolved by the vestry of St. John's Church, Ionia, At a special meeting thereof, that during the long term of years in which Mr. Stanton has served upon the vestry of said parish, he has been foremost in its deliberations and doings, and that by his death the vestry loses a wise and efficient member, the church a zealous and liberal supporter, the community a leading, public-spirited and exemplary citizen, and the family a devoted, prudent and honored head. That in all our relations with the deceased, his sterling integrity, cool wisdom and pure life have won our highest admiration and confidence, and that in testimony of our profound regret for his loss to this body, to his family and the community, these resolutions be spread upon the records of the vestry and a copy thereof delivered to the bereaved family.

Y., on Sabbath evening, March 5, Mr. Luther Stanton, son of James R. and Martha Stanton, in the 28th year of his age. Having impaired his health in the prosecution of his studies, in the fall of 1846 he visited Europe with the fond hope of gaining health and strength sufficient to commence in his professional business as a lawyer. In March following he returned to ‘the home of his childhood’ dangerously ill. It was soon perceived that consumption had marked him for her own. Not long after he gave up all hope of recovery, relinquished his flattering earthly prospects, and turned his mind within himself. The result of his examination was an entire dedication to God, a cheerful submission to His will, a calm and settled peace of mind, and a permanent and well-grounded hope in a glorious future. During the last months of his sickness he was remarkable for great patience, perfect composure, entire resignation and the full possession and strength of all his faculties. These he preserved until his last expiring breath."

Hymeneal.

And now counselor W. H. Lee has concluded that "it is not good for man to live alone." After arriving at this most sensible and correct conclusion, and not being able in his own borough to find a congenial partner with whom he could willingly risk the tortuous and intricate journey through life, he makes search in the Wyoming Valley, and the following is the result: In Wilkes-Barre, on the 19th inst., by Rev. W. H. Swift, Mr. W. H. Lee, of Honesdale, and Miss Louise E., daughter of Hiram Wentz, Esq. Wilkes-Barre's loss of one of her fair daughters is Honesdale's gain of a blooming bride, and the counselor's home is no longer lonely or desolate. June 19, 1877

the Cave-In," a story of fiction based upon facts in and around Carbondale, 1846, and extended into Wayne county, appearing in Feb. 24 issue of "The State," a paper for young people. The story was written by Singmaster, a well known character mentioned in John Hosie, whose husband was superintendent in the mine and was held prisoner by a mine explosion. Name of Mr. Bryden also mentioned in story. Mrs. a bride of two months, lived in Waymart. Miss Kathryn Hosie, daughter in Aldenville grammar school might be a great-granddaughter of the above mentioned Hosie. At any rate, the story is an interesting one, telling of incidents which happened 94 years ago.

Carroll, Ill., to IDA MAY, dau. of Hiram and Anna COLEHOUR; she was b. Jan. 1, 1859, at Mt. Carroll, Ill. Mr. Stanton was a poor boy with few early educational advantages. When five years old his parents moved to Kankakee county, Illinois, where he lived until manhood. Through the influence of a family for whom he worked in 1869-70, he was converted Aug. 20, 1870, and joined the M. E. church.

He immediately started a neighborhood prayer meeting and before spring his mother, three sisters, a brother and several friends were converted. In the spring of 1871 he attended school in Kankakee City, and in the spring of 1872 entered the Theological School at Evanston, Ill., to prepare for the ministry.

In the winter of 1874-5 he was obliged to give up his studies on account of poor health. During his vacations and after he left school, he did considerable canvassing with Bible Histories in Illinois and Canada. In the fall of 1876 while thus engaged in Carroll county, Ill., he married. His home was then in Mt. Carroll, Ill., until 1882, when he moved to Spirit Lake, Iowa. There he was in real estate and nursery business for a time and then in the furniture and musical instrument business. Business reverses and disappointments had a bad effect upon his religion, and from 1886 to 1889 he had no church relations.

In 1888 he returned to Illinois, first to Rockford and then to Mt. Carroll, where he engaged in the music business. In Nov. of 1889 he again joined the M. E. church.

CHAPTER IV.

THE DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS¹ STANTON'S THIRD SON, JOSEPH² STANTON.

6. Joseph² Stanton was b. 1646 in Hartford, Conn.; he was bapt. March 21, 1646. He removed with his parents to Stonington. He settled on a great tract of land which his father had bought of a Narragansett sachem for a half bushel of wampum. The sachem's child was a captive and was redeemed by the aid of Thomas¹, and so the Indian sold the land as part payment of the price.

In ancient Boston records, Joseph is described as "Joseph Stanton of Squanicot, Narragansett county, King's Province;" and in a lease recorded in Boston he describes the land leased as "half the farm or neck named Quannecontague, where I do now live." This land was where Charlestown, R. I., now is, formerly a part of Westerly. The lease was dated Nov. 20, 1685.

In 1669 Joseph lived in Stonington and was appointed assistant magistrate to hold court in New London with his father who was magistrate.

In 1714 Ben Uncas and fifty-four other Mohegans signed a paper, dated in May, affirming that Oweneco had wrongfully sold a great part (western part) of their lands, and they then consigned what was left to Joseph Stanton and four others. This was probably Joseph², though as he d. in 1714 it may have been another Joseph.

Joseph m. June 19, 1673, to HANNAH, dau. of William MEAD of Roxbury, Mass. William Mead's will was made at Roxbury in 1683; he gave half of his estate to his wife and half to Joseph Stanton; there was also a charge of £20 against Joseph for Mead's supply of clothing, etc., to Joseph's daughter Hannah. Joseph's wife d. 1676. They had two children:

706 I JOSEPH³, b. 1674; m. Esther Gallup.

- 707 II HANNAH³, b. 1676; m. Dr. James York of Westerly, R. I., Nov. 13, 1695.

6 Joseph² m. (2) Aug. 23, 1677, HANNAH LORD of Hartford, Conn. She was buried May 6, 1681, leaving children:

- III THOMAS³, b. Dec. 16, 1678; d. young.

- IV REBECCA³, b. April , 1681; m. Joseph Babcock; had issue.

There is in the records of the Stonington church the admission to the church of the wife of Joseph Stanton, March 16, 1683. This must have been a third wife. She seems to have died childless. But he had three children born after 1690, and both Dr. Savage and Hon. John D. Baldwin think they were the issue by a wife named — PRENTICE. Baldwin "conjectures" that "Miss Prentice" was a fourth wife. Savage thinks she was the third wife. The record of their baptisms in the Stonington church is as sons of Joseph Stanton of Westerly and reads thus:

- 708 V THOMAS³, bapt. April 5, 1691.

- 709 VI DANIEL³, bapt. April 1, 1694.

- VII SAMUEL³, bapt. July 17, 1698; d. young.

6 Joseph d. in 1714, aged 68 years.

721. Samuel⁴ Stanton (Daniel³, 6 Joseph²), b. ; m. SARAH, dau. of John and Ann (Hazard) BROWNING, of Kingston, R. I. The following is quoted from the old record of a Presbyterian church in Westerly, R. I.: "Samuel and Sarah, his wife, and daughter Elizabeth baptized in same church 6 Jan'y, 1760. Samuel is dead in 1764. In 1762, 18 Apl., he was admonished for going to Watch Hill and getting drunk.

*One record says "Died childless," another says "Had children in N. Y."

"May 13, 1761, Sarah and Abigail (sisters by marriage) have a quarrel, and John's family are out with Sarah. Abigail is dismissed from the church.

"Once, before her marriage, she (Abigail) said her sister Elizabeth Sheffield and Hannah and Susanna Wilcox spread a report that Abigail Park was on the floor on her back, pawing and screaming, but she afterwards confessed it to be a lye."

These items were gleaned from the church book.

This Abigail (Sheffield) Stanton, wife of 723 Joseph⁴, seems to have been a woman with a very unfortunate temper, who must have made some lively times for the church and the rest of 720 Daniel's⁴ family.

THE CENTENARIAN AT REST.

“On the 29th of April, 1784, a daughter was born to Amos and Sarah (Stanton), residents of Shaftsbury, Vt., whom the parents named Anna. Five years after her birth the sturdy farmer removed his family to the State of New York. After a few changes he finally located on Paris Hill, in 1806. Three years later the daughter became the wife of Curtiss Stiles Parmelee, an enterprising young farmer, who took the fair bride to his home, about one and a half miles south-east of Clinton, on the Paris Hill road. Here the happy couple lived nearly sixty years, when the husband died, leaving his widow in the care of a son, Curtiss S., Jr. About fifteen years ago the son went to Iowa to live, where he died about two years ago, leaving a wife and four married daughters, the eldest of which resides on the homestead referred to, the wife of H. A. Payne. By these grandchildren Grandma Parmelee has been tenderly cared for, until she peacefully departed on the early morning of Jan. 26, 1888, to join the family above. Her advanced age of 103 years and 9 months is not more remarkable in this restless, migratory age, than the fact of her living under the roof that sheltered her in her bridal days to the end of her life, a period of about four score years. The deceased was the mother of only two children, Amos and Curtiss S.; the former died at the age of 13 years. She retained her mental and physical faculties to a remarkable degree up to two years previous to her death. On the 13th of July last, the centennial celebration day of the settlement of Clinton, this venerable representative of a previous century rode in a carriage with several octogenarians in the procession, and greatly enjoyed the occasion.

“She was brought up by Baptists and believed in immersion, and was thus baptized by request, and joined the Congregational church, under the administrations of Rev. Dr. Norton, the first pastor, and continued a member of the same forty years, when she joined the Methodist church, of which she was a member when she died. She remembered the great eclipse, and how many believed that the earth would be burned. Three of her mother’s brothers, named Draper, were in the Revolutionary War, and one of them lived in Holland Patent. She sang in the Clinton church five years and attended singing school in the old Park House.

"Miss Thankful Stanton, her sister, who had lived with her some years, died at the age of 99 years and 9 months, just two years previous to her sister Anna's death. Asa Stanton, a brother, is still living at Cassville, in his nineties. The old lady astonished all interviewers during the centennial of last year by her vivid remembrance of trivial as well as of important events.

"By her request her death was announced by the ringing and tolling of the church bell, as was formerly the custom. Funeral services were held in the Methodist church on Saturday, and called out a large number of people. Rev. R. Flint, the pastor, preached a sermon from the words, 'Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many. Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord.' The bearers were J. O. Gridley, M. W. Martin, William Billingham, and R. N. Martin. Mrs. Parmelee's remains were consigned to the vault until spring, when they will be buried beside those of her husband, in the old burying ground on Water street."

Nov. 12, 1815, and was well-known as the celebrated lecturer and president of the National Woman Suffrage Association. He d. Jan. 14, 1887, in New York city. The following is from the New York Tribune of Jan. 15, 1887:

“Henry Brewster Stanton, who was one of the early anti-slavery agitators and who won many honors in journalism, died yesterday of pneumonia at No. 116 East Twenty-third street. His illness was known to but few friends, and his vigor of intellect and physical activity were retained up to the time he left the office of the Sun a week ago. He had sat in the office without laying aside his overcoat and in going out into the air he caught a cold that speedily brought on the disease which ended his life. Even after his sickness he continued to do work for several days, editing the proof-sheet of the fourth edition of his autobiography, entitled 'Random Recollections,' and up to within a few hours of his death he did not consider his condition serious. His sons, Henry and Robert L. Stanton, were at his bedside when the end came. His wife is now in London.

Mr. Stanton was born in the hamlet of Pachaug, New London county, Conn., now the town of Griswold, on June 27, 1805. Thomas Stanton, the first of the family in New England, came from England in 1635 and was Crown Interpreter-General of the Indian tongues and subsequently Judge of the County Court of New London. On his mother's side Mr. Stanton's ancestry ran back to Elder Brewster, of the Plymouth Colony. His father was a woollen manufacturer and a trader with the West Indies. A little red school-house in Pachaug and a rickety academy in Jewett City, a place on what is now known as the Thames river, furnished Mr. Stanton his education before he entered public life. George D. Prentice was one of his teachers and by him the field of newspaper work was laid bare to the young student. In 1826 Mr. Stanton went to Rochester to write for Thurlow Weed's newspaper, the Monroe Telegraph. This sheet advocated the election of Henry Clay, and Mr. Stanton, attracted into political life, took the stump for John Quincy Adams, making his first political speech in Rochester. For three years he was Deputy County Clerk of Monroe county. He studied for a short time under the Rev. Ferdinand Ward, father of Ferdinand Ward, of Grant & Ward fame. In 1832 he went to Cincinnati to finish his studies at Lane Seminary.

"His first anti-slavery speech was made at a debating club at the date of 'Nat' Turner's insurrection. He became one of the most effective platform orators who defended human rights in the great controversy preceding the war, and in 1834, at the anniversary in this city of the American Anti-Slavery Society, of which he was secretary, he faced the first of the two hundred mobs he battled against in his devotion to the cause of freedom. As a public speaker he was ranked with Wendell Phillips, but his taste for politics early drew him into the Liberty party. He took sides with the Democracy in New York local contests at this period, but was an ardent Republican when the issue of slavery and secession became paramount in National affairs. In the early anti-slavery contest Mr. Stanton spoke for the relief of the oppressed in the principal cities of England, Scotland, Ireland and France. He was a member of the Free Soil party and served in the Massachusetts Senate for two terms. He was a member also of the New York Senate in 1850. He helped to launch the Republican party in 1855, and took the stump for Governor Seward. He made his home in 1847 at Seneca Falls, N. Y., and being admitted to the bar there, soon acquired reputation as a successful lawyer in patent cases.

"He did a great deal of valuable work on newspapers. He wrote for the Tribune when Mr. Greeley was its editor, and subsequently for the Sun, with which he had a close connection up to the time of his death. He published a book called 'Sketches of Reforms and Reformers in Great Britain and Ireland,' after his trip to Europe in the forties. His autobiography was engaging his attention when his fatal illness began."

The following letter from Henry B. Stanton's son, Theodore, in Paris, to the Chicago Inter-Ocean, is quoted entire:

Special Correspondence to The Inter-Ocean.

"PARIS, Jan. 21.—My father has passed away rich in years and not poor in honors. Henry B. Stanton was no ordinary man, and I know you will not consider it unbecoming in me to devote a letter to his memory, especially if I do little else than transcribe a few of the tributes of others which are coming to me by every post.

"Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton writes me from England: 'Your father was an eloquent speaker, a forcible writer, and an admirable conversationalist. Those who possess oratorical gifts are seldom able with their pen, and it is rare that a good writer is also a good speaker. Phillips was fine on the platform, so was Gerrit Smith, but neither could put his thoughts on paper without discovering a certain lameness. Garrison, on the other hand, could write better than he could speak. None of them were equal to your father in conversation. I never knew any one who could on the spur of the moment rise and express himself more appropriately on all subjects and on all occasions, whether he was called upon to deal with temperance, anti-slavery, education, agriculture, religion, politics, science, art or music. Sometimes when I have been serenaded or expected to say a few words I have pushed him forward to express what I could not without preparation, and, at such moments, he was always happy in speaking from my standpoint as well as from his own. He was asked one evening to respond to a toast on music. Now, said I to myself, for once he will be at a loss for something to say. But after a few general remarks on national aptitudes for music, especially among southern nations, he went on and spoke charmingly of the beauty of the negro melodies and the solace music had been to our slaves in their weary bondage. It being in the days of our anti-slavery excitement, he always seized every opportunity that offered to call public attention to the irrepressible conflict.

“No man was better acquainted with the politics and politicians of the last century, both in England and America, than he was. Very conversant with history and literature, he had an inexhaustible fund of anecdotes of the living and the dead, authors, statesmen and artists. His memory was really wonderful, and he never forgot what he saw, read or heard. In another respect he was also very remarkable: he was uniformly in good spirits. Although of a nervous temperament and capable of the highest enthusiasm, he never suffered corresponding depression, but was always ready for cheerful conversation. His industry was truly praiseworthy. He was continually busy reading, writing or working outdoors.

“When speaking before an audience, he was very quick to turn to account any unexpected occurrence. On one occasion he was delivering a temperance lecture on a platform covered by a thick oil-cloth that protruded two or three inches over the edge of the boards in front. In the midst of one of his most eloquent passages, he was comparing the inebriate's downward course to the Falls of Niagara, and the struggle with drink to the hopeless efforts of a man in the rapids. Just as he reached, in his description, the fatal plunge over the precipice, he advanced to the edge of the platform, the oil-cloth gave way under his feet, and in an instant he went down headlong into the audience, carrying with him desk, glass, pitcher and water. Being light and agile, he was quickly on the platform again, and immediately remarked with great coolness: ‘I carried my illustration further than I had intended to. Yet even so it is that the drunkard falls, glass in hand, carrying destruction with him. But not so readily does he rise again from the terrible depths into which he has precipitated himself.’ The whole house cheered again and again, and even Gough never struck a more powerful blow for temperance.

“Your great delight, when a little fellow 4 or 5 years old, was to have him make speeches to you, he pretending that you were a judge and himself an advocate. He used to seat you on the piano and then, with vehement gestures and pirouettings, would argue the case. Not one word of the speech did you understand. But you remained spellbound by the passion that was displayed, by the denouncing of witnesses and opposing counsel, by the laying down of the law to the judge—yourself—and by appeals to the jury—your older brothers, who were not less amused than you were by the whole performance. You never smiled nor took your eyes off of him for ten minutes on the stretch, when the court adjourned. One day in your father's absence I tried to amuse you in the same way, but I had scarcely uttered two sentences when the judge coolly clambered down from the bench and walked off, whether because moved by a masculine dislike of a feminine advocate, or the comparatively lifeless presentation of the case, I have never learned to this day. I never repeated the humiliating experiment.

“Your father had a strong taste for agricultural pursuits. He enjoyed planting trees, grafting, raising fruit and vegetables, and never a day passed in summer that he did not go the round of the garden. He once made a wager with a friend that he could raise the largest melon and won. He watched the growing fruit day after day, and when the big fellow was ready for the table invited his friend to dinner. At dessert the much-praised and long-cared-for melon was brought in, and the host, knife in hand, was about to cut it open when it fell apart of itself. One of Erin's daughters, who had been serving us for several days with muskmelons, and had never seen a watermelon, had kept the edible portion in the kitchen, and had sent in to us the rind! General surprise was followed by as general a laugh, and your father, turning to his guest, asked: ‘Bascom, why am I at this moment like that melon? We are equally crusty.’

“Theodore Tilton in a letter to me, says: ‘My chief recollections of your father date back to the anti-slavery days, when he and I were sometimes speakers on the same platform. I was always struck with his cogent style of argument and appeal, particularly when the subject had a political interest. It was in political discussion that he excelled. He was a splendid campaigner—full of fact, logic, anecdote, wit and passion—and with a voice as clear as a clarion. He was a born orator and debater.’”

“A fortnight ago Mr. Frederick Douglass told me how and when it was that he first heard my father speak in public. ‘When I was escaping from bondage I was received under the humble but hospitable roof of Nathan Johnson, an old colored man who died at the age of 90. He it was, by the way, who gave me my name. He was reading the ‘Lady of the Lake’ while I was with him, and suggested that I take Scott's Douglas as my last name. I did so, adding an ‘s’ for some reason or another, or for no reason at all; I don't now remember why. Nathan Johnson also told me all about Henry B. Stanton's wonderful oratorical powers, and took me one evening to hear him denounce the slave system. It was one of the first abolition lectures I ever heard, and this circumstance, combined with the eloquence of the speaker, left an ineffaceable impression on my mind. Your father was then unquestionably the best orator in the anti-slavery movement. I listened to him on many other occasions, but this first one, when I was fresh from slavery, naturally touched me the most deeply.'

"I might go on and give some of my own recollections. I might tell how father used to like to talk of these early anti-slavery days, to which Mr. Douglass has just referred, and especially to a lecture tour that he once made through New York State in the company of Whittier, who had not then won an honored place in literature. I might even cite a letter that the Quaker poet wrote last summer to father, in which he recalled in words tinged with sadness this joint anti-slavery crusade. I might describe his ardor for the collection of the engraved or photographed portraits of the great men of all times and countries, how he had them framed, hung in groups on the wall, and how he would dilate upon the virtues and their vices of the originals to the circle of children whose eyes were riveted on the pictures and their ears wide open to all that was said. What an admirable way to teach history and biography, and how vividly those faces and lives still come back to me now! I might mention, as an example of his large acquaintance with American political history, the many hundred pages of notes that he once furnished me when I was preparing a series of lectures to be delivered at Hobart College, but which a sudden call to Europe interrupted. I might relate the enthusiasm that he created in New Jersey during the Tilden campaign when he stumped the State for the Democratic candidates, and after many years of absence from public life returned to it with all the old fire and success. 'Why, we didn't know that we had such a stunner amongst us,' the old Dutch farmers used to say, and if Tilden carried the State it was due in no small manner to Henry B. Stanton. I might touch upon these facts and many similar ones, but as I wrote at the beginning of this letter, I have preferred to-day to transcribe only what others have said."

815. William Howard¹ Doane, Mus. Doctor (Francis Treat^s, Mary^s, John⁴, Daniel³, Joseph^s), b. Feb. 3, 1832, in Preston, Conn.; m. Nov. 2, 1858, in Norwich, Conn., to 816 FRANCES MARY¹ TREAT, dau. of 779 James Stanton^s Treat; she was b. April 15, 1832, and is now living. Dr. Doane was graduated from Woodstock Academy in 1848. For about three years he was in the counting-room of his father's cotton mill, and for three years was in the cotton mills of his uncle, James S. Treat, at Voluntown.

About 1854 he went to Norwich, Conn., and became cashier for J. A. Fay & Co., manufacturers of wood-working machinery. In 1860 he became a partner in the business, moved to Cincinnati, Ohio, and is now president and general manager of the company, their entire plant being in Cincinnati. In connection with his business Dr. Doane has been elected a member of the American Societies of Mechanical and Mining Engineers, also of the American Geographical Society and American Society of Science.

He is a chevalier in the Legion of Honor of France, and was knighted by the government of France, by special act of its Congress.

Dr. Doane is a prominent Baptist. For 19 years he has been superintendent of the Mt. Auburn Baptist Sunday School. He is a trustee of Dennison University, of the Baptist Ministers' Aid Society and Home at Fenton, Mich., and of the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A. He was chairman of the executive committee of the Baptist May Anniversaries held in Cincinnati in 1891.

Beyond all these honors, however, Dr. Doane will be longest remembered as a musical composer. In 1875 Dennison University conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Music. He has composed more than 600 Sunday school songs, at least 150 church and prayer-meeting hymns, and 250 other songs and ballads, besides anthems, cantatas, etc.

Some of his best-known compositions are those beginning: "Safe in the Arms of Jesus;" "Rescue the Perishing;" "More Like Jesus Would I Be;" "Near the Cross, a Trembling Soul;" "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour;" "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross;" "More Love to Thee, O Christ;" "Tell Me the Old, Old Story."

Dr. Doane lives at Mount Auburn, Cincinnati, and has two daughters:

I DAISY BELLE^s; unmarried; living at Cincinnati.

II IDA FRANCES^s; unmarried; living at Cincinnati.

CHAPTER VI.

THE DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS¹ STANTON'S FOURTH SON, DANIEL STANTON.

7. Daniel² Stanton (son of 1 Thomas¹), b. in Hartford, Conn., in 1648 and d. in the island of Barbadoes before 1688. He left but one child:

I RICHARD³; this son is mentioned in the will of Mrs. Ann (Lord) Stanton, his grandmother. She made her will in 1688 and refers to Richard³ as "the fatherless child in Barbadoes." This indicates his father's death at a prior date.

The only further record of Richard is that his son, Richard⁴, Jr., came to Stonington, Conn., Feb. 12, 1735-6, and sold his right to certain inherited estates. He probably returned to Barbadoes.

7 Daniel² had willed to him by his father in 1678 two hundred acres of land; this he authorizes his mother to sell for him. She sold it, Sept. 18, 1682, for £24 to George Denison. In the New Eng. Reg., Vol. 15, p. 64, is a note to the effect that "Joseph Wells of Westerly in 1681 built the Alexander and Martha (dimensions, 40 ft. by 16 ft. midship) for Alexander Pygan, Samuel Rogers and Daniel Stanton." The letter from Daniel to his mother authorizing her to sell the two hundred acres of land was written at Barbadoes in 1682. The inference is that he sailed in said ship in 1681 or 1682. This, however, may not have been his first voyage, and we have no means of knowing whether it was his last.

There is much room for discussion as to Daniel's² marriage. Savage thinks he lived in Westerly, R. I., and by a wife Elizabeth had five children. This cannot be; these five children were born from 1678 to 1687, and are recorded in the Friend's Meeting House at Newport, R. I. They are the children of Daniel², son of Robert¹ Stanton, of Newport, R. I.

Baldwin, and other genealogists, thinks that 7 Daniel² married in Barbadoes.

Judge Richard A. Wheeler, of Stonington, Conn., in a letter written April 14, 1886, discusses this subject thus:

"I have searched in all the old records of Stonington, Westerly, New London and all of the Rhode Island and Connecticut archives and I am satisfied that this Daniel Stanton married here and not in Barbadoes. * * * I cannot prove it but my opinion is that Daniel Stanton married Eliza Wheeler.

"Thomas Miner's Diary says that this Miss Wheeler married some one, but provokingly omits the name of the groom. This Miss Wheeler had a bro. Richard, who was my great-grandfather Wheeler's father."

In the same letter Judge Wheeler has this to say of Daniel's son Richard: "A portion of the estate of Thomas Stanton, Sen., was set out and assigned to Richard Stanton of Barbadoes. Subsequently this Richard, in 1781, June 11, sells a part of the land so set out to him, describing himself as Richard Stanton of the Parish of St. Phillips in the Island of Barbadoes, Planter, etc. Later, Sept. 5, 1789, he sells the balance of the land to Joseph Denison and then describes himself as of 'St. Georges in the Island of Barbadoes.' I have somewhere seen it stated that this last deed was given by Richard Stanton, Jr., but cannot just now give my authority."

If the reader will go back of these quotations from Judge Wheeler's letters he will see that Richard, son of Daniel, was born at least before 1688; the first of these deeds was dated in 1781 and the second in 1789; my conclusion would be that both of them were given by a Richard Stanton, Jr.

The Scotch verdict of "not proven" must be rendered as to the descendants of 7 Daniel² Stanton until more light is secured.

Since writing the above I am able, through the kindness of Dr. George D. Stanton, of Stonington, Conn., to give further information as to Daniel's² transfer of property to his brother Thomas² in 1681. Dr. Stanton has in his possession the original deed; it is witnessed by Daniel's mother and three others.

There are some curious acknowledgments on the back of it, and I hereby give a literal copy of the deed:

DEED.

"To all Christian People wherever these presents shall come — Daniell Stanton sendeth greeting.

"Know you that I Daniell Stanton of Stonington in the County of New London in the Colony of Connecticott: have and do fully and absolutely enfeofe sell Alienate and pass over to my Loving brother Thomas Stanton of the same town countie and Collony A Certayne tract of Land willed to me by my honored father Mr. Thomas Stanton deceased in estimation three score acres more or less.

"Bounded as followeth: on the North by A small Run of Water — adjoining to Land belonging to the Said Thomas Stanton & on the East bounded with Pawcatuck River, and on the South to A Small brooke commonly called the Hott house brooke: & on the West bounded all along by the West Side of the Swamp out of which swamp the Northermost brook runneth: the Aforesaid upland meadow ground with the swamp and all the severall and singular privileges and appurtenances thereunto belonging with whatever benefit doth arise therefrom. Declaring myself to have good and lawful Right in the above sayed tract of Land, and that it is free from any incumbrances, mortgage, Lease or entanglement or Any otherwise before the signement hereof: unto Thomas Stanton To have and To hold to possess and injoy peacably and quietly without Any Lett hindrance molestation (—) by me or by Any other person or persons by my

“And I the sayd Daniel Stanton do covenant and promise at all times to be ready and willing to give more Ample deed for the sure making strengthening & confirming of this my present Act & deed as witness my hand & seale this 33d & of his majisties Reign Charles King of England france Ireland & Scotland defender of the fayth: and in the year of our Lord 1681.

Signed, sealed and delivered in presence of as witnesses

John Stanton
Aanna Stanton

Samuel Stanton

Nichls cottrell

Danth Stanton

(Note here that Daniel's mother spells her name Aanna; the impress of the seal was on wax which has been broken, rendering obscure some characters in the upper left-hand over the D; the star with the dot in its center is undoubtedly a mullet and the seal is very significant from a heraldic standpoint.)

The above deed was not acknowledged before a magistrate and the probability is that it was signed just before Daniel departed for Barbadoes. This failure to have the deed acknowledged seems to have given rise to questions as to its validity and it bears this indorsement:

“Mr. Samuel Stanton and Mr. Nicolas Cotterell personally appeared and acknowledged that they assigned the above written as witnesses.

The before me Samuel Mason Aptnt

this dated in Stonington february the 9: 1693.”

Then follows other indorsements; to-wit:

HEZ: WYLLYS, Secry.”

"Be it thereupon Enacted by the Govern^{er}, Council and Representatives in Generall Court assembled and by the authority of the same that the said Deed before Taken as good and affectnett to all Interests and purposes in the Law as it might or could have been if the 3^d Deed had been acknowledged by the grantor as the Law directs and that this Act be Indorst upon the said Deed and shall be signed by the Secretary and received as a good sufficient Testimoniall of the Authentication of the said Deed—

HEZ: WYLLYS Secry^{tt}.

Notwithstanding the pains taken to authenticate the deed, Richard⁴ Stanton, Jr., of Barbadoes came to Stonington, Feb. 12, 1735-6, and by virtue of a power of attorney from his father, quit-claimed all interest in the land conveyed by "my Honored Grandfather Daniel Stanton (for the consideration of £46 current money) to Thomas Stanton."

This quit-claim was to Samuel³, son of said Thomas², who inherited and occupied the homestead. Dr. G. D. Stanton says of this: "Whether this consideration of £46 applied to the amount originally received by Daniel from Thomas, or from his son Samuel for the quit-claim deed from Daniel's heirs, I am unable to determine, probably the former, insomuch as the general court had already made the title secure."

One thing is evident from this note as to Richard⁴ Stanton, Jr., namely, that Richard³, Sen., had more than one child, for Richard, Jr., acts not as heir, but under power of attorney for his father.

The house on the land conveyed in the deed was occupied by Samuel, son of Thomas, Jr., and stood until 1883. It became uninhabitable and was finally taken down to make room for a highway. "It was two stories in front and one in the rear; the front stair railing and casings were beautifully carved and evidently the work of foreign artizans; the window frames" (one of which Dr. Geo. D. Stanton has and whose description of the house is now being quoted) "were made of sassafras wood; on one of the plates of the frame are the letters 'S. S.' without any date. I am of the opinion that the house was constructed by Thomas Stanton, Jr., and that his son Samuel employed some leisure moment in carving his initials in the place mentioned."

The deeds alluded to, Daniel's (1681) and Richard's (1735) in the possession now of Dr. G. D. Stanton, were always kept by the successive generations occupying the house. Dr. Stanton says: "The fact that Daniell was for many years engaged in business with his father" (the business was carrying on a trade with the West Indies from their "trading house" in Pawcatuck, on the Pawcatuck river) "and continued it after him, and finally just before his departure to Barbadoes, conveyed it to Thomas, with other facts, leads me to the conclusion that it was the homestead site of Thomes¹.

CHAPTER VI.

THE DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS¹ STANTON'S FIFTH SON, ROBERT² STANTON.

9. Robert¹ Stanton (son of Thomas¹), b. 1653, in Pequoit Conn.; m. JOANNA GARDINER, Sept. 12, 1677; she was the dau. of Thomas and Lucy (Smith) Gardiner of Roxbury, Mass., and sister to Dea. Thomas Gardiner of Roxbury. Robert² lived and d. in Pawcatuck, Stonington, Conn. He was a soldier in King Philip's War, as were his older brothers Capt. John² and Joseph². The following story has Robert for its hero:

"Canonchet, chief sachem of all the Narragansets, was an active ally of Philip's in his war. While camped on the banks of the Pawtucket, the Indians were attacked by a force of English and Indians. Canonchet's warriors fled. Left alone, he too sought safety in flight. The Indian allies of the English and a few of the fleetest-footed whites pursued him. As he ran he threw off his blanket, then his silver-laced coat and belt of peag. Seeing these, his pursuers knew whom they followed, and increased their efforts. In crossing the river ford he fell and wet his gun. This so discouraged him that he surrendered to those who first overtook him. Being questioned by the young man who first came up to him, and who was not yet 22 years old (this was Robert Stanton), the warrior looked with lofty contempt upon his youthful enemy and answered: 'You are a child — you cannot understand matters of war; let your brother' [Captain 3 John²] 'or your chief come; him will I answer.' Canonchet was taken prisoner to Stonington and shot."

Robert d. Oct. 24, 1724, and was buried in the old family burial ground on the east side of Wicketequack Cove, half way between Stonington, Conn., and Westerly, R. I. Robert's wife survived him.

820. Rev. Robert³ Stanton (son of 9 Robert²), b. in Stonington, Conn., Dec. 7, 1689. He was graduated at Harvard College in 1712; was master of the Roxbury Grammar School several years; he served for a time as chaplain of the Castle in Boston. April 9, 1719, he was ordained pastor of the East church in Salem, Mass., Rev. Cotton Mather, D. D., preaching the ordination sermon. The same celebrated minister married him, May 5, 1719, to KATHERINE SIMPKINS, of Boston. She was the daughter of Thomas Simpkins, of Boston, whose other children were James, Thomas and William; she was b. Dec. 23, 1698.

Rev. Robert Stanton d. in Salem, Mass., May 3, 1727, and May 5 (his eighth wedding anniversary) he was buried in Boston, Mass. Their children were:

I THOMAS⁴, b. May 15, 1720, in Salem.

II JOANNA⁴, b. July 28, 1722, in Salem.

III ROBERT⁴, b. Oct. 8, 1723, in Salem.

IV MARGERY⁴, b. Sept. 10, 1725, in Salem.

V WILLIAM⁴, b. June 12, 1727, in Salem; see Appendix for (G) William Stanton.

After her husband's death Katherine moved to Boston; she was admitted to the Second church there Dec. 24, 1727. She had considerable property. From her mother's father, James Barton, she received property on Ann st., Boston. She inherited property, also, from her father's father, Pilgrim Simpkins, whose will was made in 1714 and admitted to probate in Jan., 1720. He was a wealthy man and gave his property to his sons John and Nicholas, to his daughters Marian, Rebecca and Sarah, and to the children of his son Thomas, who d. in 1706.

Katherine's husband's estate was settled by her brother William. In 1754 she mortgaged her property on Ann st. to this brother, William Simpkins, in security for a loan of money "for her support." She d. in 1760 and letters of administration on her estate were granted Dec. 25, 1760. The estate was settled by her brother William; the inventory was only £84, which barely sufficed to pay debts and expenses.

Oct. 31, 1766, William Simpkins sells her land in final settlement of the estate. Her sons, if living, would have been old enough to have attended to this settlement, but there is no mention of her children. One of three conclusions is inevitable: (1) That they were dead by 1760; (2) that they were at a distance and the estate was not worth their attention; (3) that her land was heavily mortgaged and the mortgage held by her brother William, who simply foreclosed it by advertising; if so, there really was no necessity for the appearance for her children's names in the record. At the sale in 1766 Robert⁴, her son, would have been 43 years old. The following notes found in a Boston church record may refer to him and his:

"Robert Stanton admitted to New North Church, April 12, 1741."

"Robert (son of Robert and Elizabeth Stanton) baptized in Christ Church, Boston, July 5, 1747, and buried Sept. 13, 1748."

"Dr. Robert Stanton dismissed from N. Church, Boston, to Stafford, Ct., Sept. 16, 1770."

"Robert Stanton m. Elizabeth Ballard, dau. of Phebe (Mitchell) Ballard, who was dau. of Capt. John Mitchell."

The Roberts admitted to North Church in 1741 and dismissed to Stafford in 1770 are evidently the same. This Dr. Robert d. at Stafford in 1817 and was said to be 104 years old, i. e., b. in 1713. But Robert⁴ was b. in 1723 and cannot be Dr. Robert if Dr. Robert's age at death was 104.

The child Robert who d. in 1748 was clearly the son of Robert and Elizabeth (Ballard) Stanton, but it cannot now be proven that Robert⁴ married Elizabeth Ballard. Time may reveal something to solve this problem. This additional item appeared so late as May 17, 1889, in the Boston Transcript :

OLD GRAVESTONES AT COPP'S HILL.

In tearing down the old Robert Newman house on the corner of Sheafe and Salem streets, the contractors for rebuilding, Holmes Brothers, of 22 Congress street, found an ancient gravestone in the foundation of the oven, bearing the following inscription:

ANNA
GREENOUGH
Aged 5 years
3 months
Deceased the 18 Day of May 1674.

The stone was in all probability taken by the masons from the Copp's Hill ground, and the contractors very properly placed the stone in the hands of Superintendent McDonald, who has found a place for it near the Greenough family stones in the grounds. A day or two since Mr. Patrick B. Maguire noticed on the lower side of the old cemetery, between the Jones monument and the Sarah Rule stone, what he imagined might be the top of an old gravestone. On digging, his supposition was found to be correct, and a good-sized stone was unearthed, standing upright, which had sunk into the ground or been covered by washings from the hill. It contains the following inscription:

ROBERT STANTON
Son of Mr.
Robert and Mrs.
Elizth Stanton,
Aged 1 year and 3
mo. died
Sept. 10, 1748.

Neither of these stones is mentioned in Whitmore's volume.

FIFTH GENERATION IN THE LINE OF 9 ROBERT².

823. Daniel⁴ Denison (Mary³, 9 Robert²), b. March 22, 1721, in Stonington, Conn.; m. ESTHER⁴ WHEELER May 27, 1742. Esther Wheeler was the dau. of William³ and Hannah (Gallup) Wheeler, granddau. of Isaac² and Martha (Parke) Wheeler, and great granddau. of Thomas¹ and Mary Wheeler who came to America in 1636. The maternal ancestry of Daniel⁴ Denison is of course apparent in this genealogy; his paternal grandfather Capt. John³ Denison m. Phebe Lay; Capt. John³ was the son of Col. George² and Lady Ann (Borrodell) Denison and grandson of William¹ and Margaret Denison, who came to America in 1631 with these children, Daniel², Robert², Edward² and George². 823 Daniel⁴ and Esther⁴ (Wheeler) Denison had a daughter:

832 I PHEBE⁵ DENISON, b. 1747; m. (1) Elihu Chesebrough who d. Aug. 26, 1781; m. (2) Gilbert Smith; m. (3) Elder Silas Burrows; she d. April 8, 1833, aged 86 years; Elihu Chesebrough was a descendant of William Chesebrough, the first settler of what is now Stonington, Conn.

THE CHESEBROUGHS.

A. William¹ Chesebrough was b. 1594 in Boston, Lincolnshire, Eng.; he came to America with Gov. Winthrop in 1630, and settled first in Boston, then in Braintree (now Quincy), then in Rehoboth, and in Nov., 1649, in Stonington; he d. June 9, 1667; he m. Dec. 16, 1620, in England, Anna Stephenson; she was b. 1598, and d. 1673 in Stonington; they had 12 children, only 3 lived to maturity — Samuel², Elisha² and Nathaniel²; these all married, had children, d. and their widows all married second husbands, and had children by them. Of these 3 sons we follow the line of the second:

B. Elisha² Chesebrough; he m. April 20, 1665, Rebecca, dau. of Walter and Rebecca (Short) Palmer; they had but one son:

C. Elisha³ (or Elihu), b. Dec. 3, 1668; m. Hannah Miner, July 4, 1698; she was the dau. of Dea. Manassah² and Lydia (Moore) Miner and granddau. of Thomas¹ Miner who came from Chew Magna, Eng., in 1630, in the same company with William Chesebrough; he was b. in 1608 and descended from Henry (Bellman) Miner of Mendippe Hills, Somerset, Eng., who d. in 1359. Elisha³ and Hannah (Miner) Chesebrough had six children, one of whom was:

D. Elihu⁴ Chesebrough, b. Nov. 30, 1704; m. Feb. 18, 1740, Esther Dennis, dau. of Ebenezer and Sarah Dennis; they had seven children; the second child was:

E. Elihu⁵ Chesebrough, Jr., b. June 29, 1743; m. May 19, 1768, to 832 Phebe⁵ Denison (see above); their first child was:

F. Elder Elihu⁶ Chesebrough, b. March 26, 1769; d. April 29, 1868, aged 99 yrs. 1 mo. 3 days; he m. (1) Lydia Chesebrough, dau. of Zebulon Chesebrough, March 20, 1791; she d. May 31, 1841; her great-grandfather Samuel Chesebrough m. Jan. 4, 1699, Priscilla Alden, who was the great-granddau. of John Alden who m. Priscilla Mullins, and whose courtship has been immortalized by Longfellow. Elder Elihu⁶ Chesebrough m. (2) Oct. 8, 1848, widow Mary Fish, who d. July 22, 1866; he was a Baptist minister; by his first wife he had a dau. Mary Ann⁷ Chesebro, b. Sept. 29, 1811, who m. 927 William Chesebro⁷ Stanton.

Having given records of the Chesebroughs, of which family 832 Phebe⁵ Denison's first husband was a member, we will study a few notes respecting the family of her third husband,

ELDER SILAS BURROWS.

He was b. in 1741 at Groton, Conn., son of Amos and Mary (Rathbone) Burrows; he was ordained about 1765 as pastor of the 2nd Baptist Church of Groton, Conn., and remained pastor of said church for 53 years; during the Revolutionary War he was a staunch patriot; he d. in 1818 at Groton; his 1st wife was Mary Smith, and his 2nd wife was Mrs. Phebe⁵ (Denison) Chesebrough. Of his children two, Daniel and Roswell, became ministers; the latter of these Rev. Roswell Burrows, was b. HON. STILES T. STANTON.

HIS DEATH OF PNEUMONIA IN NEW YORK YESTERDAY — A SKETCH OF HIS CAREER.

"NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Ex-Senator Stiles T. Stanton, of Connecticut, died here of pneumonia at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Grand Union Hotel, where he generally lived during the winter months. His age was 39 years, and he leaves a wife, no children.

"The deceased was a native of Stonington, this State, a graduate of the late General William H. Russell's Collegiate and Commercial Institute, this city. Many of his class-mates most affectionately remember him and he was a gentleman who all along won many friends. He was a journalist by nature and from choice, and his labors on the Norwich Bulletin added greatly to the popularity and success of that newspaper. His witty paragraphs were extensively copied. For a time he was connected with the Worcester Press and prominent in political life in this State. He was secretary of the Republican State committee in 1880, and an alternate delegate to the national convention of that year, was executive secretary during the administration of Governor Andrews, representing Stonington in the Legislature in 1881 and 1882, and the ninth district in the State Senate in 1884, 1885 and 1886, when he was president pro tem. He was an aide-de-camp on the Brigade staff of the National Guard in 1875 and 1878, and candidate for Secretary of State in the State election of 1882."

APPENDIX.

A RECORD OF A FEW FAMILIES NOT YET IDENTIFIED WITH THE DESCENDANTS OF THOMAS STANTON OF STONINGTON, CONN.

[With the exception of (H.) Asahel and (I.) John, these families have their origin in Connecticut, and I believe them to be descendants of Thomas¹, through lines the intermediate records of which have been lost.]

(A) James Stanton. I believe this to be James⁵ Stanton, b. Feb. 17, 1745, son of 870 Daniel⁴ Stanton. My information is meager and unsatisfactory. One grandson thinks the name is Alexander instead of James. This undoubtedly is an error arising from the fact that his wife's surname was Alexander, and that the eldest son was given his mother's surname. The son Elisha has a son William, who says "Alexander was given his mother's family name, and his father's name was James." Believing this to be correct, I record the facts as follows:

James Stanton was born in Connecticut, and married Hannah Alexander. He lived for a time in Hartland, Hartford county, Conn., and moved from there to Essex county, N. Y. His wife died about 1808, in the town of Moriah, Essex county, N. Y. He died about 1824, in Crown Point, Essex county, N. Y., with small-pox, and at an advanced age. He had a brother Daniel.

Note that James⁵ Stanton, born in 1745, would have been 79 years old in 1824; that he had a brother Daniel, born in 1743, and another brother Daniel, born in 1750, and a third brother Daniel, born in 1757. His father's name also was Daniel. Note also that James⁵, b. in 1745, had two brothers and two sisters, whose names are reproduced in the names of the children of James of Essex county, N. Y.

The children of James and Hannah are:

- I MARY — known as Polly.
- 1 II ALEXANDER, b. April 12, 1778; m. Fanny Stackhouse.
- III JAMES.

- 2 IV ELISHA, b. March 22, 1782; m. (1) Jerusha Strong;
 (2) Nabby Hildreth.
 V AMOS.
 VI EDWARD.
 VII HANNAH.
 VIII DANIEL.
 IX ABIGAIL.

Of the above I have further records of only two, the second and fourth children, namely:

1. Alexander Stanton, b. April 12, 1778, in Connecticut; m. FANNY STACKHOUSE in Vermont, and died in Long Lake, Hamilton county, N. Y. His work was that of a sawyer. He had these children:

- I OLIVER.
 II JERUSHA; lives in Ohio.
 III SAMUEL.
 IV PHEBE; m. Mr. Theron Searl, and lives at Crown Point, N. Y.
 V NANCY ANN; lives at Crown Point, N. Y.
 VI DANIEL, b. Sept. 10, 1822, at Crown Point, Essex county, N. Y., where he now lives; he m. Lenorinda Meacham, and has 3 children, b. at Crown Point:
 1. Shareld, b. Nov. 21, 1860; m. Sept. 10, 1887, to ——.
 2. Amanda, b. June 3, 1864.
 3. Orlando, b. Sept. 19, 1875.
 VII ALICE; m. Orzello Boyden, and lives at Long Lake, Hamilton county, N. Y.

(B) Joseph Stanton. Joseph Stanton married Fanny Miner in North Stonington, where he is said to have been born. The wife Fanny died at Millville, North Stonington, Conn., in 1840 or '41. Joseph is said to have had a brother Oscar Stanton. All else known of Joseph is that he had two children:

- I FRANCES (known as Fanny), who died aged 20 and unm.
- 1 II JOSEPH, b. in April, 1804; m. Elizabeth H. Cooper.

1. Joseph Stanton (Joseph), b. in April, 1804, at North Stonington, Conn.; he moved to Sag Harbor, Long Island, when a youngman, and there in 1833 he married ELIZABETH HAVENS COOPER. She was b. April 24, 1814, at Sag Harbor, where she now lives. Mr. Stanton d. at Sag Harbor, Oct. 22, 1866. He was a carpenter and a member of the M. E. church. He had eight children, all b. at Sag Harbor:

Joseph's son, Oscar F., says his father died Oct. 22, 1866, but his dau., Helen A., says: "Father d. Sept. 21, 1865."

2. Capt. Oscar Fitzalan Stanton (Joseph, Joseph), b. July 18, 1834, at Sag Harbor, L. I.; m. there July 6, 1859, to CARRIE E. GARDINER. She was b. Nov. 11, 1837, at Sag Harbor, dau. of Charles Fox Gardiner and wife Eliza. Oscar F. Stanton is a Presbyterian and a Captain in the U. S. Navy. He is in command of the Naval Station at New London, Conn. His children are:

- I FANNY GARDINER, b. Oct. 18, 1867; m. March 28, 1888, to Daniel Latham, and lives at New London, Conn.
- II BESSIE, b. Sept. 3, 1875.

In 1888 Capt. Stanton tried to find his grandfather's ancestral record and from some records discovered he thought his grandfather was 305 Joseph^e Stanton, b. in 1769. Since then I have found the family of 305 Joseph and proven that supposition erroneous.

The following sketch of Capt. Oscar F. Stanton is taken from Appleton's Encyclopædia of American Biography:

"Capt. Oscar Fitzalan Stanton entered the navy as acting midshipman, 29 Dec., 1849. He was graduated by the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis in 1855, promoted to Master, 16 Sept., 1855, and commissioned Lieutenant, 2 April, 1856, served in the steamer Memphis, on the Paraguay expedition, in 1858-9, on the coast of Africa in 1859-60, and in the sloop St. Marys, of the Pacific squadron, from Dec., 1860, till April, 1862. He was commissioned Lieutenant-Commander, 16 July, 1862, commanded the steamer Tioga in the special West India squadron, in 1862-3, and the steamer Panola on the Western Gulf blockading squadron, in 1863-4. In 1865 he was on ordnance duty at New York, after which he served at the Naval Academy until May, 1867. Promoted to Commander, 12 Dec., 1867, and had charge of the steamer Tahoma, of the North Atlantic squadron, and the Purveyor, on special service, in 1867-9. He commanded the receiving ship at Portsmouth, N. H., in 1871, the steamer Monocacy, on the Asiatic station, from 1872 to 1874, when he was transferred to the Yantic. Promoted to Captain, 11 June, 1879, and in Nov., 1881, went on duty at the Naval Asylum in Philadelphia, where he was until 1884; then he commanded the flagship Tennessee, of the North Atlantic station. Since 31 Oct., 1885, he has had command of the New London naval station."

(D) John Stanton. The following record is, in the main, from Groton, Conn., records, and said John Stanton has never been identified. Many of Thomas' Stanton's descendants lived in Groton, and I insert this in connection with (C) Benjamin since the latter may be a descendant of this John.

I am strongly inclined to believe that (D) John Stanton, who m. Ann Huchison, March 10, 1702, and lived in Groton, Conn., was a son of 2 Thomas².

The baptismal record of 2 Thomas's children is irregular and incomplete; there is no baptismal record of a son John, but my belief is based upon these reasons. The date of his (D John's) birth was certainly not later than 1682 since he m. in 1702. No grandson of Thomas¹ was old enough to have a son in 1682. Therefore I argue that (D) John was himself a grandson. Now our records are accurate of all the grandchildren of Thomas¹ except those through the son Thomas², where there has been a confessed difficulty and lack of records. If (D) John was a descendant of Thomas¹, he was a grandson; if a grandson, it must have been through Thomas². Is not the way he names his children significant? His first one for his wife, his second one for himself, his third one for — was it not for his father?

Until there is proof for this sonship, however, that cannot be disputed, I place this record in the appendix.

IV WILBUR F., b. Aug. 17, 18—; m. Dec. 27, 1865, to Sarah Chapman; lived in Elmira, N. Y.

V JOHN W., b. May 31, 184—; m. May 27, 1866, Jennie Hoagland. He is manager of the F. E. C. Medicine Co., 116 Monroe ave., Rochester, N. Y.

VI WEBSTER J., b. May 27, 184—; d. Sept. 20, 1872; unmarried.

9. Warren J. Stanton (James P., John, Amos), b. Nov. 21, 1835, in Penn Yan, N. Y.; m. Nov. 10, 1868, in St. Paul's Church, Detroit, Mich., to CHARLOTTE BEATTIE FRAZER; she was b. Aug. 24, 1842, in Adrian, Mich. Mr. Stanton was an editor and printer in Chicago, where he d. Dec. 17, 1889. His widow now lives at 256 Grand River avenue, Detroit, Mich., with her only son and child:

I HERBERT WELLES STANTON, b. Aug. 13, 1871; unmarried.

(G) William Stanton. This William Stanton was b. April 1, 1761, in Conn. He m. RACHEL GOODRICH, in Litchfield, Conn., where she was b. April 18, 1761. Early in their married life they moved to Pennsylvania. In company with them when they moved, was William's sister, Rebecca Stanton, who m. a Mr. Goodrich, and two nieces and a nephew named Freeling. William and wife both died in Abington, Pa.; he d. March 29, 1828; she d. in July, 1842 or '49. I believe William Stanton (b. in 1761 and resident of Litchfield, Conn.) is a grandson of 822 Rev. Robert³ Stanton, of Salem, Mass. My reasons are these: (1) 822 Robert³ had a son William⁴, b. in 1727. (2) In Dec. 1806, a William Stanton died in Litchfield, Conn., aged 78 years. He had lived in Litchfield since before the Revolutionary War, and was a captain in Col. Elisha Sheldon's Regiment of Dragoons. I believe this Capt. William Stanton to have been William⁴, b. in 1727, and to have been the father of William and Rebecca of Litchfield.

ATTY. W. H. LEE'S SUDDEN DEATH

MART ALUMNI.

HONESDALE BORO ATTY.

Former Chairman of Republican Party—Survived By Wife and Two Daughters—Funeral To-Day—Interment Made In Glen Dyberry.

The sudden and unexpected death of Atty. Wm. H. Lee at a few minutes past noon Saturday, Nov. 6th, 1920, was a great shock to countless friends in Wayne and surrounding counties. It seems but a few days ago when his familiar figure was seen upon the streets of Honesdale, and one can hardly realize that he has passed through the portals of death, and that this gentleman, scholar and counselor has departed forever from our midst. He was taken to the Wayne Memorial Hospital eight days before his death, and underwent there a serious operation in the hope of aiding in his recovery. He seemed to be getting along nicely after the operation; then a period of depression set in, from which he rallied. A relapse followed, and death came at 12:15 Saturday noon. The news spread rapidly about town, and there was general mourning in Honesdale over the passing of this good citizen and attorney whose integrity has never been questioned.

Born In 1849.

William Henry Lee was born Jan. 1st, 1849, in Clinton township, being the eldest child of Samuel Lee and Anna M. Allen, early settlers in Wayne county and English decent. The grandfather of Atty. Lee, whose name was also Samuel, was a resident of England, marrying Mary Troubody, Atty. Lee's father being the third child of a family of 11 children. His father was born Nov. 27th, 1816 at Lincoln Horn, Cornwall, England and came to America in 1842, accompanied by James Giles and George Fitz, who also settled in Wayne county. He landed at Quebec, Canada, and reaching the Hudson river, came down that stream as far as Newburg, and took the D. and H. Canal to Honesdale, arriving here Saturday, June 11th, 1842. He first started with an uncle and aunt, the late Samuel and Jane Troubody Brookings, and then went to Mt. Pleasant township, where he secured work with farmers and lumbermen, and by industry and frugality saved enough to purchase 100 acres of forest land in Clinton, which he cleared, and where William H. Lee, the subject of this sketch was born.

Drove Ox Team At 7 Years.

The early life of Wm. H. Lee was similar to that of boys in those pioneer days of the county. He early learned to do his share of the farm work, and at the age of seven could drive an ox team. He attended school three months in summer and three in winter, and the school house being a couple of miles away made winter attendance a difficult matter. At the age of 12 he purchased with his own money Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, the first book he ever owned, the purchase of which indicated his desire for knowledge and his interest in language and words which he always retained. At the age of 12 he and his mother operated the farm alone one winter while his father was employed at Washington, tempted there by high wages.

As A Teacher.

By study outside school, coupled with a bright mind, he was able to secure a teachers certificate from E. O. Ward, March 9th, 1866. The same year he attended the Wayne County Normal School at Waymart, then founded there by J. E. Hawker. His first school was at Cold Spring, Lebanon township, which he taught when he was seventeen years of age. He taught at Starrucca in 1868, making his home that winter with the late Major Strong. An incident happened while at Starrucca which had a bearing upon his whole life. While there he was persuaded to join the Good Templars Lodge, signing a pledge to abstain from the use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage. When he finished the term at Starrucca, young Lee, ready for adventure, went on a rafting trip down the Delaware. That fall he entered the Delaware Literary Institute at Franklin, N. Y., and passed the New York State Regents' examination, and taught at Meredith Square, Del. Co. in 1869. Sept 11, 1871, found Mr. Lee teaching as principal of the Waymart school, having received a professional certificate from Dr. D. G. Allen, then county superintendent of schools.

As A Lawyer.

Atty. Lee began the study of law with the late Atty. Samuel E. Dimmick, at that time attorney general of Pennsylvania, and continued his studies under Waller and Bentley, and was admitted to the bar on Dec. 10th, 1874, being the oldest member and therefore the dean of the Wayne County Bar at the time of his death. He was deputy county treasurer under Paul Swingle, and during that time he instituted several reforms in the administering of county finances which have been continued until the present time. It was at this time that the famous or infamous anti-court house movement began, under which several suits were brought by citizens of the county against the county commissioners and treasurer, which resulted, however, in the defeat of the instigators and the sustaining of the county officers.

Republican Chairman.

Mr. Lee was a life-long Republican but had a host of friends among the Democrats. He was elected county chairman of the Republican party when Wayne county was Democratic, and within five years time he was instrumental in making the county Republican, and was active as a speaker in every important campaign for many years. In 1888 he was appointed by Court as a director of the poor board of the district of Texas and borough of Honesdale, and at that time instituted many im-

Family Life.

June 19th, 1878, Atty. Lee was married to Miss Louisa Electa Wentz, of Wilkes-Barre eldest child and only daughter of Hiram G. and Electa K. Wentz, by Rev. W. H. Swift, then pastor of a well-known Presbyterian church of that city. Two children were born to Atty. and Mrs. Lee, Louise, a graduate of Vassar, now a teacher in Jersey City, and Miss Ethel at home. In early life Mr. Lee was a member of the Baptist church but in after years was identified with his wife and two daughters with the First Presbyterian church of Honesdale where he has been a faithful usher and acted as clerk for the congregation, and has been substitute for Dr. Swift's Bible class in the latter's absence. He was referee in Bankruptcy cases in Wayne County and has settled many important estates. He has been attorney for the Honesdale borough for over 20 years. He is survived by the members of the family mentioned, also by the following brothers and sisters: John L. of Detroit; Eugene K., of Clinton; Mary Elizabeth, wife of John B. Payne of Orson; Artie, wife of W. D. Brown of Marlette, Mich.; Jennie S., of Honesdale; Harriet W., wife of Geo. H. Hurlburt of Lakewood, N. J.; Isabel, wife of E. Clapper of Lanesboro.

The funeral was held from his late home this afternoon at two o'clock, Dr. Wm. H. Swift officiating. Those who were chosen to carry the casket were Wm. Krietner, Wm. Ward, Frank Varcoe, Geo. Penwarden, O. M. Spettigue, John Romaine. Interment was made in Glen Dyberry cemetery.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Adopted by the Wayne County Bar on the Death of William H. Lee.

WHEREAS, William H. Lee, Esquire, the Dean of the Wayne county Bar, departed this life on November 6, 1920.

RESOLVED, that his colleagues, as an evidence of their appreciation of his manly character and generous nature, should pay a fitting tribute to him as a citizen of the community and a member of the Wayne County Bar.

William H. Lee was born on January 1, 1849, in Clinton Township, Wayne County, Pennsylvania. His parents were good representatives of the sturdy pioneers who, nearly a century ago came into this section to develop our county and build up its institutions. His early environments were conducive to probity and strength of character. In his youth he worked on his father's farm and laid the foundation of the remarkable physique which he possessed. He was a diligent student and obtained a good education in the public schools of his native county, which was subsequently supplemented by a course in a higher institution of learning. He became a teacher, and ranked well as a member of that profession. Early in life he manifested the desire to become a lawyer. His appointment as deputy County Treasurer afforded him an opportunity to pursue his studies and realize his ambition. On December 10, 1874, he was admitted to the Wayne County Bar. Upon his admission to the bar, he became a colleague of the Dimmicks, the Wallers, Crane, Seeley, Smith and other members of the Wayne County Bar who were known throughout the entire state of Pennsylvania. Through his association with those eminent lawyers and his own intense application to study and research, he acquired a knowledge of law which enabled him to become one of the leading members of our bar. He was thoroughly reliable and none of his colleagues ever doubted his word. He was faithful to his clients and courteous to his opponents. He displayed no jubilation in victory nor morose in defeat. He prepared his cases carefully and presented them logically. Owing to the multiplicity of cases in which he participated during his many years of practice, he had a wonderful knowledge of the details connected with the practice of law in our state. When called upon by his fellow-attorneys for information relative to some of the legal propositions which they encountered, he never hesitated to help them. He will be missed in Wayne County Courts for a long time. It was his proud boast that he had attended almost every session of court since his admission to the bar. His pleasant and affable disposition and polite demeanor made him very popular among his co-workers.

IT IS FURTHER RESOLVED, That these resolutions be recorded in the Continuance Docket in the office of the Prothonotary of the Wayne County Court of Common Pleas, published in the newspapers of the county, and a copy thereof transmitted to the members of the family of the deceased.

HIRAM WENTZ DEAD

Was One of City's Oldest and Best Known Residents.

DEATH CAME AFTER SEVEN WEEKS' ILLNESS, WHICH BAF-FLED PHYSICIANS.

Hiram Wentz, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of this city, passed to his reward at 6:40 Wednesday morning, at the old homestead on North Washington street, after an illness of seven weeks. Surrounded at his bedside were his children and grandchildren, and when the end came he peacefully closed his eyes as if he had gone to sleep.

Though he suffered severely during his illness, he bore his troubles quietly and complained but very little. His death, which was a sudden one, was not unexpected, as he had been for the past two weeks growing weaker, and recovery was impossible. The physicians who attended him said that his ailment was an obscure one, and not until an autopsy was made were they able to tell what had caused it. It showed that the deceased suffered with a tumor, and had undergone most severe agony.

Deceased, who was 77 years of age last December, was a staunch Republican, and since his arrival in this city in 1863 had held many offices. He had been an active city father for several terms, during which time he was the prime mover of many ordinances, which were introduced for the advancement of the city. He was a member of the school board, and it was through his efforts that many of the movements in public school affairs bore fruit. At nearly every election he took some part, and was always ably supported by his many friends. He was considered a competent man and his advice in many matters was often sought.

During the past few years of his life he had been connected with the screen works at the corner of Union and North Canal streets, and his energy was invaluable to the firm.

Mr. Wentz was born in Binghamton, N. Y., and was educated in the schools of that city until he was 12 years old. He had few opportunities and it was at that age that he started out in life to make his living. With his brightness and activity he soon secured a position as clerk in a dry goods store of Mr. Hart. He proved a valuable employee and when his employer moved to Carbondale, Pa., he took Mr. Wentz with him. His shrewd business principle proved a great advantage to him and shortly after his arrival in Carbondale he had accumulated enough money to embark in the mercantile business, and with Jasper Stark he purchased Mr. Hart's interest in the establishment.

In Carbonale, he married Miss Elesta Keatty, of Waymart, Pa., and to this union were born two children. Seven years ago she died in this city. From Carbonale Mr. Wentz went to Toledo, O., and remained there for a few years, and then took up his home in Portland, Me. After he moved to Virginia and settled in the Allegheny region. Here he had charge of a railroad which was being put through the Allegheny mountains. At the time the Civil War broke out he was forced to retire from Virginia and come North. He settled in Pittston in 1861, going into the coal business. The following year he moved to this city and was an employee of the Empire Coal Co.. In 1883 he went into the meat business with the late Peter Seibel and continued until the latter's death. He then became a partner with Mr. Leavenworth in the coal business, and for the past few years of his life he spent in the screen business.

His sudden demise is universally regretted, as he was a man of highest integrity and an exemplary citizen. He was always willing to help one in need and had the interest of the city at heart. He was a kind parent and the bereaved family have his sincere sympathy of the entire community.

Deceased is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William H. Lee, of Honesdale, and one son, James G., with whom he resided.

Five grandchildren, Louise and Ethel Lee, of Honesdale, and Milton, Beryl and Lee Wentz, of this city, also survive.

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late residence, 69 North Washington street. Rev. Swift, of Honesdale, will officiate and interment will be made in the Hollenback cemetery.

DAY, APRIL 24, 1902.

DEATH OF HIRAM WENTZ.

SURROUNDED BY HIS FAMILY HE PASSED AWAY YESTERDAY MORNING—WELL KNOWN
THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

Hiram Wentz died yesterday morning at 6:30 o'clock at his residence, 69 North Washington street, the immediate cause being tumor of the intestines. He was first taken ill in November last and for the past six weeks he had been confined to his bed, with no hopes of recovery.

The deceased was born in Binghamton, N. Y., on the 16th of December, 1824. His wife died on the 21st of March, 1895. He is survived by two children, Mrs. W. H. Lee of Honesdale and James G. Wentz of this city; also four sisters, Mrs. Rhoda Walker and Mrs. Julia Purple of Elmira and Mrs. J. L. Purple and Mrs. J. W. Crammer of Owego, N. Y., all of whom were at his bedside when he passed away.

He came to this city on Oct. 15, 1862, and there is no man living here who had a wider circle of acquaintances.

His first venture here was superintendent for Hosie, Gray & Co., coal dealers. Later he entered the service of the late J. H. Swoyer as assistant superintendent of the Port Bowkley mine. Some years after that he embarked in the retail coal business for himself and a few years later associated himself with F. J. Leavenworth in the same business under the firm name of Leavenworth & Wentz.

He finally retired from the coal business and he and the late Prothonotary Peter Seibel opened a meat market in this city at the corner of Public Square and East Market street on the site now occupied by Hetzel & Norton. On retiring from this business some years later he accepted a position as bookkeeper for the Eagle Iron Works, which he held up to the time of his death.

The deceased was the only living brother of the Wentz family. He was a son of Justice Wentz and Rhoda Butler Wentz of Binghamton, N. Y., who died many years ago. His four surviving sisters are all that are now living out of a family of twelve children.

The deceased was a graduate of the Binghamton public schools and was a well educated man. He was active in politics and took great pride in having been a life-long Republican. In 1861 when war was declared between the North and the South he was living in Covington, Virginia, doing a thriving business. He learned that he would be drafted into the Confederate army and he and his wife and daughter, Mrs. Lee, who was but a child, managed to get away to the North on the day the first gun was fired on Fort Sumter, leaving his business that later on was confiscated.

Shortly after, he located in Pittston with his family, and there his son James was born. In 1868 he came to this city and moved into the house where he died, having been a voter in that ward thirty-four years.

About the year 1845 he was a clerk for E. S. Hart of Binghamton and later of Carbonale. In 1857 he went to Toledo, Ohio, where he spent a few years in active business life. He then came back and located at Waymart, from where he went to Portland, Maine. Later he again located in Virginia, where he was engaged in railroad contracting and finally formed the firm of Hosie, Wentz & Co., which began building railroads for the State of Virginia. The road on which they did the most work is now known as the Chesapeake & Ohio. The most of his time, however, was taken up in superintending a company store his firm had in conjunction with their business.

The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late residence, 69 North Washington street. Interment will be in the family plot at Hollenback Cemetery.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Wentz

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth C. Wentz, 509 North Main street, city, was held yesterday afternoon at the J. S. Miller Funeral Home, 8 North Main street, Plains. Rev. Dr. Norman W. Clemens of the First Methodist Church, city, officiated, and interment was in Hollenback Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Rodney Courtwright, John Smith, John Wentz, Stanley Walborn, Thomas G. Harrison, Jr., and G. N. Cole.

MRS. WENTZ PASSES AWAY

Descendant Of Pioneer Family Was 89

Mrs. Elizabeth Courtright Wentz, 89, of 509 North Main street, died in Wilkes-Barre General Hospital Sunday morning following a brief illness. Mrs. Wentz was a descendent of a pioneer Wyoming Valley family.

Mrs. Wentz was born in Plains, but had lived most of her life in Wilkes-Barre. She was the daughter of the late William Hamilton Courtright and Clara Swallow Courtright, both early settlers of Wyoming Valley.

The Courtright family originally came from Holland in 1663. Her paternal great-great grandfather became one of the original land-owners on Manhattan Island. Her maternal great-grandfather, George Cooper, was one of the first settlers to arrive in Wyoming Valley from Connecticut. He served with the Army during the American Revolution and was reputed to have fired the last shot at Wyoming Massacre.

Surviving are a son Milton, Forty Fort; a son-in-law, Carl H. Schoch, Wilkes-Barre; two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Wentz was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and one of the oldest members of First Methodist Church of Wilkes-Barre.

Private funeral services will be held from J. S. Miller Funeral Home, 8 North Main Street, Plains, Tuesday at 2 p. m. with Rev. Dr. Norman Clemens officiating.

Friends may call tonight at the funeral home between 7 and 9.

MILTON H. WENTZ 4-26-52

Milton H. Wentz, 66, of 103 Fort Street, Forty Fort, died Saturday morning at 7 at his home unexpectedly following a heart attack. Mr. Wentz for the last 30 years was local representative for Swain and Company, investment brokers, with offices in the Brooks Building.

Mr. Wentz was a former official river observer at Wilkes-Barre until succeeded by John Mirmak in 1934.

Born in Wilkes-Barre, he was the son of late James G. and Elizabeth C. Courtright Wentz and had resided in Forty Fort for the last 30 years. He was a member of Landmark Lodge 62, F & AM and the Craftsmen's Club.

Surviving are his wife, the former Ethel John; a son, John Shavertown, and one granddaughter.

The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2 from the Hugh B. Hughes Funeral Home, 1044 Wyoming Avenue, Forty Fort. Burial will be in Hollenback Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Monday evening 7 to 10.

Okonite Firm Official Dies

June 27 1946
Lee Beattys Wentz Was

Former Resident of North Main Street

Lee Beattys Wentz, 52, former resident of North Main Street at Kulp, died Thursday morning at his home in Kenmore, N. Y., after a short illness.

Mr. Wentz is survived by his wife, his mother, Mrs. James G. Wentz, of Wilkes-Barre, and a brother, Milton H. Wentz, of Forty Fort. He was born in Wilkes-Barre on March 3, 1894, attended the public schools, graduated from Coughlin High School in 1911, and entered the employ of the Hazard Wire Rope Company. He was transferred to Pittsburgh, and 15 years ago moved to Kenmore to become manager of sales for the Okonite Division Buffalo area.

He was a member of Landmark Lodge No. 442, F and AM, and was a commissioned officer in World War I.

The funeral will be held from the residence, 44 Victoria Boulevard, Kenmore, N. Y., at 3 Sunday afternoon.

- ii. Walter⁶, b. Norwich, Conn., April 26, 1756. He enlisted in 1776 as an Indian spy, at the request of Major Meeker, while living in Pennsylvania near where he served. His services lasted till the close of the war. He had one or more men with him. He was intrepid and bold, had great force of character, and in his scouting expeditions rendered most valuable services to his country. He was six feet four inches in height. In 1824 he removed to Killbuck, Holmes Co., Ohio, where he lived July 2, 1835, as is shown by papers in the pension office in Washington, D. C.

He was a teacher of navigation and civil engineering. He purchased land in Norwich of John White, Sept. 13, 1779. He was a man of more than ordinary ability, and had quite a gift for writing poetry.

Asa Kimball⁵ (Jacob⁴, John³, John², Richard¹) born in Preston, Conn., March, 1743-4; died Oct. 12, 1821; married Nov. 17, 1763, Esther Meech; married 2d, Jan. 1, 1780, Hannah Williams. Resided in Preston, Conn.

Elisha Kimball⁵ (Jacob⁴, John³, John², Richard¹) born in Preston, Conn., May 7, 1748; died May 18, 1833; married Jan. 3, 1771, Hope Capron, born July 1, 1741, died June 9, 1834. By his father's will he received the home farm. Mrs. Kimball was noted for her sweetness of character, her learning and piety. They are buried in the Avery burying-ground, Preston, Conn.

Daniel Kimball⁵ (Jacob⁴, John³, John², Richard¹) born in Preston, Conn., Sept. 15, 1752; died in New York state, 1835; married June 24, 1773, Mary Starry. Resided in Preston till after the birth of his son Starry. He sold land, probably belonging to his wife, in Norwich, Conn., Aug. 17, 1781. Shortly after this date he removed to New York state.

From "History of the Kimball Family" by Leonard Allison Morrison and Stephen Paschall Sharples, published in Boston in 1897

The common ancestor of the great majority of Kimballs in this country was Richard Kimball¹, who with his family embarked at Ipswich, in the county of Suffolk, England, April 10, 1634, in the ship Elizabeth, William Andrews, master. After braving the dangers of the ocean voyage he arrived in Boston harbor, and from thence went to Watertown, Mass. . . . He settled in a different part of the town from that occupied by Henry Kimball¹. According to Bond and other writers Richard and Henry were brothers. There is but little evidence to support this supposition, and it seems to be mainly founded on the fact that they both came over on the same vessel. Richard is said on the shipping list to be thirty-nine years old, but he was probably somewhat older. He was, however, in the prime of life, and soon became a prominent and active man in the new settlement. . . .

Richard Kimball was of the parish of Rattlesden, county of Suffolk, England, as is shown by the following entry on the parish register:

Henry Kemball ye sonne of Richard and Vrsula his wife baptized 1615 12 of August.

Ursula was the daughter of Henry Scott of Rattlesden, as appears from an extract from Henry Scott's will.

Richard Kimball married second, Oct. 23, 1661, Margaret Dow, widow of Henry Dow of Hampton, N. H.

(Here follows a copy of his will taken from Ipswich Deeds, Vol. IV, p. 12. It is quite long, so I am omitting it with the single comment that to my ancestor, Richard, he left forty pounds, while to your ancestor, John, he left only twenty pounds!) (The will was proved in court held at Ipswich the 28th of Sept. 1675. by the oaths of Deacon Pengry And Aron Pengry.)

Having thus made his will he waited for the coming of the messenger who would sunder all earthly ties and take him on his eternal journey. The angel delayed not long his coming. On the twenty-second of the following June the earthly pilgrimage of Richard Kimball ended, and, aged more than eighty years, he joined the great majority.

His wife did not long survive him, but died the succeeding spring, March 1, 1676. Richard Kimball¹ was well to do for those early days. The inventory of his estate, which was taken July 12, 1675, and returned to court Sept. 28, 1675, amounted to £737 3s.6d. He had already given to his children at their marriages.

x. Benjamin Kimball², b. Ipswich, 1637; d. June 11, 1695.
xi. Caleb Kimball², b. Ipswich, Mass., 1639; d. 1682.

- John Kimball² (Richard¹) was born in Rattlesden, county of Suffolk, England, in 1621, and came to America with his father. He settled in Ipswich, Mass., and died there May 6, 1698. In a deposition made in 1666 he says he is 35 years old. In a deposition made in 1684, when he was 53 years old, he and his nephew, Philip Fowler, testify "that Mary wife of Thomas patch, Abigail Bosworth, (probably wife of Haniniel Bosworth, who Richard, Sr., calls cousin in his will), and Elizabeth Spofford were daughters of Thomas Scott Sr." In 1656 he was appointed attorney for Thomas Scott of Stamford, Ct., son of Thomas Scott, Sr., late of Ipswich, and brother-in-law of his father, Richard Kimball, Sr. Thomas Scott's will was approved March 8, 1653-4, and mentions children Thomas, Elizabeth, Abigail, Hannah, Sarah, Mary, and brother Richard Kimball. Thomas Scott, Jr., was in the Indian War, under Capt. Lathrop, when he was killed at Squakeheage (Northfield, Mass.) Sept. 8, 1675.
- By trade John Kimball² was a wheelwright, but by occupation he seems, like his brothers, to have been also an extensive farmer. He frequently bought and sold land, and there are a number of deeds on record at Salem bearing his name. October 16, 1665, he was appointed one of the executors of the will of Bridget Bradstreet. In her will she mentions her oldest daughter, Martha Kimball. (This is evidently a clerical error, as Martha was the wife of William Beal.) She gives to her "the ground she now hath now in her possession, and my greine hood, a peuter dish, and Mr. Morton's Bocke and on sheet and on peliber (Pillowbear). To my daughter Mary Kimball my ould bible, my cloth waskate, my stamell peticoot, on boulster and on palow, on peuter dish and on candlestick."
- John Kimball² married Mary Bradstreet about 1655. He came over in the same ship with her and her father and mother. She was born in England in 1633. Most historians say that John married for his second wife Mary Jordan. This is an error. (See John³, Henry², Richard¹.) On March 8, 1673, he united with the church by taking the covenant. His will was made March 18, 1697-8. In it he mentions his sons Richard, John, and Mosis, to whom he gives six shillings a peece in money, which is all I intend to for them having by deed of gift giueue before what I them intended out of my estat. He mentions his sixe dafters Mary Sarah, hannah, Rebekah Elizabeth, and Abigail. His sunes Beniamin and Joseph kimbal have all the personal property divided between them, except one steer that he gives "to my sun beniamin, and my best cubbard I giue toe my sun beniamin's wife, in consideration of what they haue dune or may doe for me in my eage and weaknes." His real estate had all been given away before this time, and his personal property which was estimated at £131.9s.11d. consisted mainly of "Quick Stock" as follows Six Oxen £24. Eight cows £26. 13 young cattle £18.10s. 29 shepp £6. 12 swine £5.
