SCROFULA.

This is a taint or [illegible] of the hu[illegible] Tumors, Blotches, Sore Eyes, Swelling, Scaly Skin, Blains, Boils, Sores, Ulcers, Sore Throat, Mercurial Disease, Old Sores, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Blotches, Throat Ailections, Glandular Swellings, Throat Ailections, Tumors, Diseases of the Heart, Liver, Kidneys, Bladder, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, Loss of Appetite, Loss of Blood and Nervous Debility.

It has been the custom to treat these diseases with Mercury and other Mineral substances, which finally destroy the patient, producing a cure, often worse than the disease, by injurious and entail misery in after life. The long known and celebrated virtues of these so called alterative and purifiers has led the enterprising spirit of science to explore the vegetable kingdom for the result of which the discovery of vegetable preparations which possess the power of eradicating these Taints from the Blood

Dr. TUTT'S

Compound Extract of

Sarsaparilla and Queen's Delight

is the acknowledged antidote to all Blood Diseases. By its use the afflictions above enumerated can be permanently banished, and the

Source—the Centre of Life—the Blood,

be maintained in all its purity and vigor

For Diseases produced by the use of Mercury, and for Syphilis, with its train of evils, this compound is the only sure antidote.

To the pale creature, emfeebled in mind and body, by secret practices, whose nerves are unstrung, and countenance downcast

THE SARSAPARILLA

AND

QUEEN'S DELIGHT

is a blessing. Try it fairly, and your nerves will be restored to their wonted vigor, and your dejected countenance be made radiant with the consciousness of

RESTORED MANHOOD.

Being free from virulent minerals, it is adapted to general use. The old and young may use it; the most delicate female at any time may take it; the tender infant, who has inherited disease, will be cured by it.

The Unlucky Lovers.

A TALE OF TRUTH.

Fanny Foo-Foo was a Japanese girl
A child of the same Pagoda;
She wore her hair in a queer fashion
She wore paper made of clothes;
Hightoney black hair, on the top of his head
Looked like a stiff shoe-brush.
His eyes slanted downward, as if some
Step had accidentally pulled his nose.

Fanny Foo-Foo loved Johnny Hi-Hi,
And when he first met her sight,
He popped, she blushed with a deep orange tinge,
You'd have thought he'd too much bile,
If it hadn't been for her slant-eyed glance
And her charming, wide-mouthed smile.

And off in the bliss of their new-born love,
Did these little Pagoda stray
All around in spots, enjoying themselves
In a strictly Japanese way
She hurling a song to a stringed lute,
On which she thought she could play,

Often she'd climb to a high ladder's top,
And quietly there repose,
As he stood on his head and fanned himself,
While she balanced him on her nose;
Or else she would get in a pickle tub,
And he kicked it around on his toes.

The course of true love, even in Japan,
Often runs extremely rough
And this fierce Tycoon, when he heard of this,
Used Japanese oaths so tough
That his courtiers' hair would have stood on end
If only they'd had enough

So the Tycoon buckled on both his swords,
In his pistol placed a wad,
And went out to beat for the twain pale,
With his nerves heated by a rod.
He found them enjoying their guileless selves
On top of a lighting rod

Sternly he ordered the little Foo-Foo
To "come down out of that thing;"
And he told Hi-Hi to go as a place-
Where my precious where.
Then he dragged off his child, whose spasms evinced
Unusually wild despair

But the Tycoon, alas! was badly fooled,
Despite his pistol and blade,
For John, with a tooth-pick, let all the blood
Out of his jugular vein
While with a bee-a somersault on the blade
Fan Foo battered out her brains

They buried them both in the Tycoon's lot,
Right under a dogwood tree,
Where they could lie to the nightingale,
And the bee of the humble-bee;
And where the mourners sorrowful chant,
Maddens the restless flea

And often at night, when the Tycoon's wife,
Slumbered as sound as a post,
His almond-shaped eyeballs looked on a sight
That scared him to death almost
'Twas a bald-headed spectre flitting about
With a paper mouth ghost!

THE HAY TRADE.—To the surprise of nearly all parties interested, the price of hay (shipping brands in particular) continues to advance. The crop is reported by the Bureau of Statistics to be an average one, and judging so far from the receipts of very early quantities. Usually, at this season of the year, large orders come here to supply the Southern cattle with food during the Fall and Winter, but, this year, the South have fed more than usual on oats, peas and other soft feeding stuffs (our best authorities say that a pound of good oats is equal for strength to one and a half pounds of hay), as things can be laid down in the South at the same cost, instead of hay, at 3 cents. This is not solely because the cost of hay is so high, but is in great part the result of the scarcity and high rates for freight, a fact which indicates that either there are fewer vessels carrying or an unusual amount of goods going South. The Southern planters and farmers have fed to a considerable extent with rice straw, which was formerly used for other purposes, buying just as little hay as they could possibly get along with. In an ordinary season, if there were no more hay taken for the South than at present, our market would be over supplied. But, in the face of all these opposing influences, prices, since the new crop has begun to come in, have advanced fully 25c. per cwt. Sales in this market early last week at 65 cents to which figure, and thence to 70 cents, the bulk of the crop has sold for the past 10 days. The values of the stocks are nominal, some parties who have invested over the market, are holding for higher prices, and it is plain to some extent, but that low grades, such as are usually used for stalling, are entirely exhausted, and that, though the difference in price of grades will be very slight, shipping will not ride much, if any, lower than it is at present.—New York Bulletin.

As a Indian Indians the other day a black "man and brother" offered the following toast: "In Quitman, oh Alabama—He cost to vot very long opposition; he will go out oh dis will time at all."—Montgomery Mail.

"Surrender to General Lee, with honorable conditions" has passed into history.

To the Officers, Men, Women and Children of the Confederate Army:

The war is over, and all this, was fought for, our beloved and honored Chieftain, Robert Edward Lee, has been vanquished to the grave. It is now only left for us to discharge the duty so sacredly to sacrificing affection, of building and decorating his tomb. Admiration for his genius, love for his fame, and respect for his memory, dictate to his comrades in arms, as their first care, to properly do honor to his ashes.

To this end, we have formed the Friends of Washington College, his earliest work, and the crowning one of his life, and have commenced the erection of a tomb and vault, and structures, in the room designed for a library, and adjoining, that, when filled with monuments of his last warfare, contain his sacred remains, and shield them, in the temple reared by himself, at the home of his adoption, till he his dying, and we have, his enduring resting place. We hold this consecration because his remains now rest in the spot chosen by those who alone had a right to decide between this spot and most likely have been approved by the illustrious dead himself, had his self-forgetting mind ever dwelt for a moment on such a question—because it holds in trust honor from the possible contaminations of party politics—because it accords with the custom observed by great Fathers and private of the State, all of whom preferred monumental resting places—and because his tomb here will be really more useful in connection with the best work of his sacrificing life in perpetuating the good influence of the College of Washington and Lee throughout the South.

We therefore invite his brethren and followers to the momentous struggle, which has made his name and their own immortal, to unite in commencing here a Mausoleum, worthy the foremost man of all his time. On the day succeeding the death of Gen. Lee, the Confederate soldiers who escorted the body from his residence to the Chapel, met and resolved at once to form a Memorial Association; and at an adjourned meeting on the Fifteenth of October, when the funeral obsequies were concluded, they adopted a plan of organization. An Executive Committee, a President and Vice-Presidents for the Southern States, have been appointed, and the Association will soon be regularly incorporated. In order that the payment in our ranks may be enabled to join upon an equal footing with all others in the place work in view, it has been determined that any Confederate soldier may become a member of the Association upon the payment of one dollar, and that the names of all the members shall be inserted in suitable books to be preserved in the Memorial Chapel. It is not proposed to limit subscriptions to a sum, which, if even already secured, may confine them to soldiers, nor do our wishes and purposes stop with the Mausoleum. Contributions will be gladly received from all who sympathize with our cause, who will contribute contributions be transfixed as honorary members; and the Mausoleum dared shall have been secured, it is contemplated to erect a special Monument in connection with the Tomb.

Fellow-soldiers, we invoke you by the comment memories of the past, to be prompt and earnest in the noble under taking to which you are invited. In the quiet church yard of Lexington, Lieut. Gen. "Stonewall" Jackson lies interred; and now his great commander sleeps near at hand. What better spot can there be to us, than the resting place of these grand representative men? What more fitting monument for the grand army fleeted, of which Lee was the head, the pride and glory, than one raised here, by survivors perpetuating alike the memory of his and their own great deeds, the endeavor, without a trace of their devotion and of his heroic qualities as a man, his virtues as a patriot and his graces as a Christian, the consecration of which will indeed out-live the marble and the bronze which human art may fashion in his honor

HOW HE WHIPPED HIM.—A young John Phenix tells how it was, as follows: "I felt just bad as I was. You see, Bill and me went down to the wharf to fish, and I got in my pocket and found my knife, and it was gone, and I said, 'Bill, you have stolen my knife,' and I said I was an other, and I said go there yourself; and he said it was no such thing; and I said he was a liar, and I could whip him, if I was bigger than; and he said he would stick out to sleep, mother; and I said he was a bigger one; and he said I had never had the whipping; and I said for him to fork over that knife or I'd fix him for a tombstone on Laurel Hill; and he said my father wouldn't pay no gentleman; and I said he wouldn't take it up; but he did, you bet; then I got up again, and said he was too much afraid to do it again, and he tried to, but he didn't; and I grabbed him and threw him down on the top of one like several times; and I tell you it beat all—and he said he; and my little dog got up behind Bill and bit him; and Bill kicked at the dog, and I ran after the dog to fetch him back; and I didn't catch him till I got of sight home; and I'll whip him more yet. Is my eye black?"

Involuntary Aeronauts.

A very singular occurrence took place on Friday last, near Bridgeport, which for a dangerous or perilous nature, beyond that has hitherto been contained, quite a pastime. A lad named Willie Goodman, aged ten years, residing on Columbia street, like every other boy in the kite-flying period of his existence, became ambitious to make a monster kite that should fly higher than any other that had been made, according he made use with strings, such as may be seen in any toy shop window. It was built after the style of a "Japanese kite," and was fifty feet in length. The stout framework was covered with paper in a very artistic manner, and a strong hempen cord was attached to the cross beams.

All things prepared, two companions "boosted" the artificial bird to the proper angle, and it flew into the air like a thing of life. It arose moderately at first, wind taking it to the westward, but by the time it had reached a height of a few hundred feet, it was caught by a current, which drove it in the south west, at great velocity. The boys took two full bottles and higher, the little kite darting, cut the slight which was nearly jerking him on his feet. As his kite went upward, the boy's spirits went with it, and he continued paying out the line until at length an end was reached; but still the ravenous kite demanded more. Being arrested in its flight, it began to jerk and pull so savagely that the lad was compelled to tie the cord about his waist to prevent its slipping from his hands.

The ambitious boy had reached the height of success in aeronautics, and began in rapture on the kite that looked a mere speck on the sky, fifty a quarter of a mile away. For some moments it described semicircles in the sky, occasionally jerking orward as to nearly lift the boy. Soon it made a furious plunge, and rose again so rapidly as to lift the aerial navigator clear from the ground. Nor did he come down again immediately, but kept rising higher and higher, at the same time drifting in a southerly direction, until an altitude of seventy-five feet or more was reached. By clinging to the cord the lad was enabled to maintain an upright position, but he was unable to untie it, nor was such a course desirable, for while the cord was leading him to apparent destruction, it was only the immediate means of safety.

The scene was indescribable. Intelligence to the few who witnessed it. Perhaps five minutes elapsed in which the little fellow was dangling between heaven and earth, powerless to save himself and beyond the reach of assistance from others. Then boys set up a cry of anguish, expecting never present to see him dashed to fragments hitter their eyes. Finally, when the upper current ceased to have the ascending power, the kite began to descend. Fortunately, the cord was long and the boy was light. During both the second and third descents, the lad was and as it came down Willie was brought in proximity to the roof of a small two-story house. He edged half of the chimney, and succeeded in his attempts his reach, and in a moment was safely anchored.

There was a deep sigh of fear the crowd below, some of their number quickly produced a ladder and reached the side of the little aeronaut. The cord was bound him was cut, and the kite, deprived of its ballast, careened again and again, until it finally reached the ground a mass of rags.

The boy uttered not a word, but still clung to the chimney, and could not be persuaded—that he was out-of-danger. He was forcibly torn from the bricks and restored to his home. The touch can not be called a happy one as yet, for the little fellow is living temporarily in the brain fever, superintended by fear.

BAZAINE GIVES THE LIE TO GAMBETTA.—Brussels, November 3.—Le Nord, of this city, to-day publishes a letter from Bazaine, giving the lie to Gambetta's charges and insinuations in his proclamations to the French army. The Marshal indignantly denies any treachery, treason, or bargain with Bonapartists. He reviews the facts and causes which made the surrender inevitable, after an unparalleled siege and unlimited suffering.

The Paris Journal Officiel of the 31st ult., contains the following:

"The officers of the Government have just learned the sad news of the surrender of Metz. Marshal Bazaine and his army were forced to surrender after heroic efforts, which were stopped only by famine and want of ammunition. France is painfully affected, but her courage is intact. Gallant soldiers and civil citizens who are resisting the enemy so gallantly, Paris will prove worthy of them. We will be encouraged by their example, and will dedicate to avenge them."

The general commanding at Metz makes the following report:

"By the capitulation of Marshal Bazaine, 53 eagles, 541 field guns, ammunition for more than 85 batteries, 800 siege guns, 64 mitrailleuses, 300,000 rifles and pistols, and 4,000 wagons, with the powder factory fell into the hands of the Prussians."

The French General Coffinieres, who had command at Metz, has arrived at Hamburg.

The following is extracted from the Richmond Dispatch, and it deserves universal attention:

"TO THE PEOPLE OF THE SOUTH.—The undersigned earnestly appeal to the women of the whole South to aid them in obtaining contributions for the erection of a monument at Richmond, which is to stand as a lasting memorial of the love borne our great Chief by a mourning and grateful country. The soldiers, through their resolutions passed at their great meeting so lately held in Richmond in honor of Gen. Lee, have called upon us to join them in obtaining contributions for the desired object. An organization for that purpose has been already formed by the ladies, and, if the women of the South, from Maryland to Texas, we appeal for aid.

"The fourth Sunday in November (November 27th) has been selected as the day on which a collection shall be taken up in every church throughout the length and breadth of our Southern land. This is the only possible way by which a voluntary and simultaneous offering can be made to the memory of him whom we unanimously desire to have honored and loved him in life. With perfect confidence in the love which his people have for him, and in their zeal to do their whole honoring him most will most redound to their own credit, we can have no doubts of the success of this plan. If it can be carried out, it will be a fitting tribute to the clergymen and congregation in the South

[illegible] the spectacle is a piteous and sickening one. These culprits were the lawmakers of Georgia—the proudest old State of the Union. They have been thrown off by this desperate crew of Bull Luck Radicals. They vied to their vitiating. They selected the most corrupt and rotten of the whole horrible revelation is the little individual who that made them dishonest. Their majority was venomous and collectively small, though large in the aggregate. It shows the average Radical sensibility.

Great God! will the people rise to put each man back in office? Will not the virtue and intelligence of this grand country with arms (of ballots) and rebuke these miserable plunders? We have been given to abuse—but what words not adjective will meet the case of this political carrion.

We simply drop the subject unable to do it justice.

Washington Gazette.

Thursday Morning, November 18, 1870.

Agents for the Gazette.

The following named gentlemen are authorized agents for the Gazette:

Mr. Geo. Jones, Dublin, Ga.
Dr. Sullivan Atkinson, Milledgeville, Georgia, is well authorized.
Mr. Wm. C. Dunlap, Sparta, Ga.
Mr. C. C. Cleaver, Rockdale, Ga.
Messrs. Wilcox, Hyde & Hardwick, Macon, Ga.
Messrs. Dow, Pickwell & Co., 37 Park Row, New York, are authorized to receive advertisements for us at our lowest cash rates.
S. M. Pettingill & Co., 37 Park Row, New York, are our agents for the GAZETTE, in that city, and are authorized to contract for inserting advertisements for us at our lowest cash rates.
Messrs. N. P. Fogerty & Co., 10 State street, Boston, Mass., are authorized agents for the GAZETTE.
Messrs. Gardner & Hoffman, Baltimore, Maryland.

The Gazette's Almanac.—We hereby give notice that any person who will give us the short Address composed for our Carrier, which will be handed in, Competent judges will be selected for the purpose of deciding, in regard to the respective merits of the compositions.

Col. R. C. Fargo.—We regret not meeting this distinguished Georgian, during his visit to our town. We were pleased to learn of his presence, and to find his card upon our table.

Carrier's Address.—All desiring to compete for the prize offered for the best carrier's address, must hand in their pieces by the 15th proximo. The address must comprise not less than fifty lines.

Tableaux.—Our colored friends had performances at the Masonic Hall last week. We had no reporter present and consequently can give no account. We are about to understand however that the tableaux were for a good object and hope that they were successful.

Potter & Heard.—These gentlemen are receiving new and superior stock of cooking stoves, &c., which they are offering at reduced prices. They also have a very fine assortment of wines, as the Bequet Wine, Champagne, and a great variety of other goods.

Dr. H. Renner's Drug Store.—Look at the advertisement of this gentleman. He has a fine and fresh stock of drugs constantly on hand, and sells cheap. He announces that the entire Drug Business has been purchased by him, and he would say, "it pays to patronize home."

A Tableau.—We have been informed that Capt. Sam's Company has been unanimously nominated to represent Taliaferro Co. in the Legislature, at the next General Assembly. We think our neighbors have made a splendid selection and we hope they will be successful in electing their candidate.

Isaac T. Hearn & Co.—Mr. Isaac T. Hearn, of this firm, as our readers are aware, died not long since, but the business is to be still carried on under the same name, by Mr. Stone. Mr. Stone is a fine business man and deserves patronage. See advertisement in another column.

Pro-Dispensation.—At the last meeting, Mr. F. H. Colley read and ably defended a Temperance against the strictures of Dr. Lazarus; and Dr. Joseph T. Robert with some felicitous remarks on its author read the second part of Christabel.

A debate may be expected this evening. All desiring to be present.

The Benefits of a County Paper.—There were some citizens of this County who went home after that the Wilkes Fair was to be held last Tuesday, until the over-day itself and some only after it had transpired. This deplorable ignorance could only result from their not being subscribers of the Gazette.

All who do not take the County Paper, should send in their names immediately accompanied, by the way, with a small instalment of the dollars.

The Democratic Senator.—The name of the candidate selected for Wilkes County on the Ticket, by the Democratic Meeting, as will be seen by reference to the minutes, is Maj. Geo. Walker for Representative, Maj. Geo. Walker and H. T. Heard, and for the Senate Judge R. M. Reese. The selection made is satisfactory. The gentlemen named are true men and Democrats. Maj. W. M. Reese, we believe, already is in the Senate, and Maj. Geo. Walker and H. T. Heard, we hope, will be found fit Representatives.

Tuesday, as appointed, and though great opposition had been started in opposition to the Fair, there was a large number of participants attendance. Capt. J. T. Wingfield, Col. Gardner, Gen. Colquitt and others of celebrity, had a great many objects deserving attention. Our friends from the country made great preparation for the occasion, which they carried through. It is impossible to mention all the objects, but we will give a few. The Ladies had a table of articles, and quilts, and other articles, which they offered for sale. The Ladies also had a table with ball bags and other articles of value, to be given away to the people who chose to prepare.

To Our Patrons.

A number of our patrons have come forward promptly and aided us very much by paying up their subscriptions, for which return them our most hearty and heartfelt thanks. There are still a few more who are in arrears, that will receive our thanks and recognition too, if they will only come forward promptly, and lend us a helping hand, in this our time of need. We are of the opinion that every good citizen of this Wilkes needs a good County Paper, and it is impossible to run the office as it should be done without a liberal supply of dollars. Come, boys.

Fire.—Our quiet little village was alarmed on one night last week, by a cry of fire. The blaze was discovered by a chimney of Judge Wylie's outbuilding. There was a slight wind stirring and a small portion of the roof was burnt. Before any damage resulted, however, the fire was extinguished, by the active exertions of one or two of our young men.

Fruit.—After long and an extremely favorable season for the development of the cotton plant, we have at last been visited with a frost.

On last Friday morning, everything was covered with the frost, and we suppose that our planting friends will hardly count on any of the blooms that opens hereafter at any rate we are morally certain that they will make no calculations in regard to the squares.

New Firm.—The notice of our readers is particularly called to the advertisement of Jas. M. Dixon & Co. The business which these gentlemen are about to commence has long been needed by the people of Washington, and it is one which should be supported. The names of the gentlemen who compose the firm are in themselves sufficient guarantee for its reliability, but if any other information is desired the best references can be given.

Merchants either here or at a distance who desire to dispose of goods immediately and to advantage should patronize Messrs. Jas. M. Dixon & Co.

A Pleasant Visit.—The editor of the Gazette—On last Sunday we were kindly invited to a friend to attend a church Meeting in the neighboring county of Taliaferro. We accepted, and have received no occasion to regret our trip on the contrary we have every reason to remember it as one of the most pleasant we ever enjoyed. On Monday we attended a wedding meeting many pleasant acquaintances, and met many of the fair ladies who we learn are exceedingly numerous in those parts. It would be useless for us to attempt to express our thanks to our friends for their courtesy and kindness, so we will not make the effort.

Differences.—Differences Differences. Some of our readers may not be aware of the distinguished honor which was the other day conferred upon the town of Washington. The Hon. Platt Magnum, of the neighboring county of Lincoln, was on last Monday a visitor of our village. Several of our young men, more enthusiastic than were desirous of giving him a reception, which he undoubtedly deserved. They even went so far as to collect several instruments of various kinds for the purpose of serenading the Hon. Magnum, and eliciting from him a few remarks upon the situation, but after some reflection, they relinquished the design.

New Firm.—We are pleased to learn that a new firm has been formed recently and will in a short time have a fine and complete Stock of Dry Goods, Groceries &c. at the old stand of Messrs. R. H. Vickers & Co. The old firm has sold out the remaining portion of its stock to R. L. Bowman, Jas. T. Kewen, Thos. Forsyth. And we feel perfectly safe in assuring our patrons that the new firm is composed of young and energetic gentlemen, who will strive to make it to the interests of our citizens to give them a call before purchasing elsewhere. We will heartily endorse the transaction of any one of the new firm. They are gentlemen with the most thorough business qualifications.

The advertisement will appear in the Gazette we hope as soon as their New Goods arrive.

Democratic Meeting.—Below we give the minutes of the Democratic meeting on the fifteenth inst.

Washington, Ga., Nov. 15, 1870.

In obedience to a call from the Executive Committee, the Democracy of Wilkes county met at the Court House, at the Washington Court House. Capt. J. T. Wingfield called the meeting to order. Upon motion a Committee of Three was appointed by the Chairman, composed of Messrs. Gardner, Colquitt and Reese. The selection made is satisfactory. The gentlemen named are true men and Democrats. Maj. W. M. Reese, we believe, already is in the Senate, and Maj. Geo. Walker and H. T. Heard, we hope, will be found fit Representatives.

Tuesday, as appointed, and though great opposition had been started in opposition to the Fair, there was a large number of participants attendance. Capt. J. T. Wingfield, Col. Gardner, Gen. Colquitt and others of celebrity, had a great many objects deserving attention. Our friends from the country made great preparation for the occasion, which they carried through. It is impossible to mention all the objects, but we will give a few. The Ladies had a table of articles, and quilts, and other articles, which they offered for sale. NEW CARRIAGE MANUFACTORY,

WASHINGTON, GEORGIA.

WE RESPECTFULLY INFORM THE CITIZENS OF WILKES and surrounding Counties that we are now prepared at our NEW SHOP, to make to order in the latest and most improved style, all kinds of

PHAETONS, CARRIAGES, BUGGIES, WAGONS, &c.,

We intend to keep on hand a large stock of the heaviest Road Wagons, from the best makers, and our prices will be found as low as workmen-like manship.

TRIMMING DEPARTMENT.

This Department is in a condition that cannot be excelled in the Southern States. Carriages, Phaetons and Buggies, old and worn out, will be trimmed with the finest and best material, if so ordered, in the latest style of twenty years experience. We will keep constantly on hand some of the finest Carriages, and Buggies, and Wagons Harness; also, a full stock of Shaft and Pole Trimmings.

BLACKSMITHING DEPARTMENT.

This Department is now equipped with improved machinery. We intend making and repairing all kinds of AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS to order, as well as all other kinds of work in our line. Really, all work usually done in a Black Smith Shop will be done at ours, in the best manner.

As we have a sufficient capital to carry on the business, we are entirely independent of the Cash Trade.

Our motto will be substantial work at low figures for CASH.

ALL WORK DONE FROM THIS SHOP WILL BE WARRANTED.

All we ask of the public is to give us a trial in any, or all of our departments and we will endeavor to merit a share of patronage, from the fact that we have competent workmen employed, and give our personal attention to the business.
