A Crooked Trail

By LEWIS B. MILLER

A Thousand Mile Saddle Trip Up and Down the Texas. Frontier

IN THIS story the author gives a true and unforgettable picture of the West, in which he puts a premium upon honesty, integrity and cleanliness of thought. It is a story of the right kind—sure to entertain and help make up better men and women.

Beginning with the actual running away from home of old Lep, a real steer, the story forever moving leads through semi-wilds and on days into the wilderness itself. In it we have the crackling of camp-fires, the raging of storms, the screaming of wild animals, the glare and smoke of prairie fires, the lowing and trampling of driven herds, the angry growling of mobs, and the thunder and clatter of the wild midnight ride. Settlers and ranchmen, outlaws and sheriffs, cowboys, soldiers, rangers and vigilants, march across the pages with lifelike distinctness. Starting with one bareheaded farm boy on foot, the pursuit of the runaway moves by pioneer cabins, through forests and mountain glens, by ranches and frontier forts, till it becomes a great marching cavalcade of cattle and horses and armed and mounted men. And with the pursuit moves a slight but very satisfactory romance. The book contains 413 pages.

WHAT THE CRITICS SAY

BOSTON GLOBE:—"A vivid, thrilling narrative. The story is intensely interesting."

CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR:—"No more thrilling escapes can be found in fiction than those graphically told in this work—the excitement beginning with the first chapter and holding the reader till the last."

ST. JOHN (NEW BRUNSWICK) GLOBE:—"A tale of delightful adventure—stirring, vigorous, romantic."

"A Crooked Trail" is illustrated—handsomely bound in beautiful colored cloth covers, and is printed from clear, readable type on good paper. It is highly commended by ministers, editors, college presidents, farmers, and by many of the ablest literary critics, both in this country and in the land beyond the sea. Suitable for any library or for a birthday, holiday or other present to any relative or friend.

INTRODUCTION

THE FARMERS' REVIEW takes pleasure in presenting this directory of Coles and Douglas Counties. We have labored diligently to make it accurate and complete in every respect.

A large force of men have been at work calling on the farmers, merchants and breeders of these counties, collecting the information which is now placed in your hands.

We wish at this time to express our sincere appreciation for the co-operation of farmers, merchants, breeders and the newspapers, without which the publication of such a directory as this would have been impossible.

The merchants, whose liberal advertising support has aided materially in bearing the expense of publishing this directory, are deserving of your patronage and we hope that you will so favor them whenever possible.

The directory has brought a considerable number of new readers into The Farmers' Review family and we shall do our very best as always to see that they are glad to be in.

Sincerely yours,

THE FARMERS' REVIEW

ILLINOIS STATE CAPITOL, SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

ILLINOIS

WHEN you try to convey an idea of the size, or importance, or prosperity of a thing so vast as a state you usually find it necessary to drag in statistics. You rake up all the miles, and acres and bushels and tons you can lay your hands on, and stack them up, mentally, against the miles, and acres, and bushels and tons of other states. The result is known as Fascinating Facts and it makes dry reading. If you like that sort of thing you'll find it at the bottom of each page of your loose-leaf desk calendar. There is a better way to make the outlander recognize the individuality of that state called Illinois. This is what we mean.

When you hear France mentioned your mind says—Paris! When one speaks of England your mental movie flashes—London! New York means New York City unless the word state is tacked after it. Those cities have actually handicapped their country or state, swamped their personality, as a famous and brilliant wife outshines her worthy but nondescript husband.

But when you think of Illinois, does your mind at once register Chicago? No, it doesn't! Illinois calls up a picture all its own. Illinois had fought for its place in the sun, and won it, when Chicago was a mixture of swamp and prairie. Illinois opens up a gracious, splendid mind-picture of rolling prairie and ample farms; of prosperous, middle-sized towns full of paved streets, and shady lawns, and comfortable two-story homes equipped with sleeping porches, and rose bushes, and swinging couches and two-toned rugs; towns that have the newest thing in waterworks and public libraries, and with an incredible number of automobiles—this year's model—skimming up and down Elm Street and out as far as the State Road and back. Why, the very waters of Illinois have personality! Leaving Lake Michigan and the Mississippi entirely out of it, who hasn't heard of Bubbly Creek? In Illinois you can't even keep an ordinary, meandering little river down. Just recently along came Edgar Lee Masters, waved a magic fountain pen, and behold!—humble Spoon River was immortalized.

If you have always associated Illinois in your mind with pigs, and iron and steel, and corn, we advise you to take a dip into the history of the state. There's color for you, and life, and romance, and adventure! You'd never believe that a staid, prosperous and respectable state like Illinois could have had such a roystering past. It reads like Gilbert Parker at his best. Like a splendid pageant they move through those pages, Jesuit priests, and French adventurers, coureurs de bois, stealthy Indians, dashing cavaliers.

If Illinois means to you something prosaic and bourgeois, just roll this on your tongue: Robert Cavelier, Sieur de La Salle. He didn't find Illinois prosaic and dry. Neither did his gallant friend, Henri de Tonty—Tonty of the iron hand and the ready sword; Tonty, soldier of fortune and brave gentleman, with the curling plume in his cap, and surely lace at his sleeve even when he was killing an Indian. The recent history of Illinois is full of Jonathans, and Cyruses, and Samuels and Alexanders, solid gentlemen with beards and watch chains and lay-down collars. And that is as it should be. But all the Bloomingtons and Edwardsvilles and Greensvilles only serve to make more charming the impress made by French, and Indian, and Jesuit. The Indian left his mark in such names as Kaskaskia, Cahokia, and Kankakee. The trail of the French is found in such names as Bellefontaine, Fort Crèvecoeur, Vincennes, Versailles; the black robe of the Jesuit in Joliet and Marquette.

What would they think—those immigrants who come to America with the belief that its streets are paved with gold—if they knew that Illinois is not paved with it, but built on a solid foundation of it? That doesn't mean mines of precious metal. That means forty solid feet of rich loam along the river bottom lands, so fertile, so gracious, so inexhaustible that in the greater portion of the state no rotation of crops is necessary. It means that the plow may run for hundreds of miles over the prairies without touching a pebble or a grain of sand. Crop failures are practically unknown. Farm land is held at from one hundred and fifty to three hundred dollars an acre.

Is it to be wondered that the farmhouses of Illinois have a gracious, ample and prosperous look, far removed from the pinched and weather-beaten face worn by typical farmhouses of many sister states, when it is realized (statistics here, but only this once) that nearly all of its thirty-five million acres are susceptible of cultivation? Of course, nobody's mind can grasp thirty-five millions of anything. But anyone can get an idea of size when it is known that one state is so varied and versatile as to embrace the tropics and the far—well, fairly far,—north. Down in Cairo, Illinois, where the state almost melts invisibly into Kentucky, you get all the sunny southland scenery—darkies, levees, banjos, river boats. Up in northern Illinois, on the lake, you're very apt to find furs comfortable in August, for northern Illinois uses the lake much as a grocer uses the electric fan in his choice vegetable and fruit window—to temper the heat in summer and the cold in winter.

The story of the growth of Illinois is a miraculous thing—the kind of thing that could happen only in these United States. But other states have expanded marvelously, too, have blossomed overnight. That isn't so remarkable, though in the case of Illinois, perhaps, the growth was magic in its rapidity. The stupendous thing about it all is that, with her sudden prosperity and riches, Illinois has kept her head and figure. Few other states can say that. It is to her everlasting glory that it can be said of Illinois.

Illinois comes from the Indian Illini, signifying a complete, finished and perfect Man, imbued with the spirit and bravery of the men of every nation that ever lived.—From American Magazine...

THE FARMERS' REVIEW, CHICAGO

COLES COUNTY COURT HOUSE, CHARLESTON, ILL.

HISTORY OF COLES COUNTY.

C OLES County was formerly part of a territory owned by the State of Virginia, which was ceded by her to the United States in 1784 and was called the "Northwest Territory." Virginia was the home of Washington, the "Father of our Country," and prides herself on being the mother of our first President, and Coles County is, therefore, not of ignoble ancestry. The county was formed in 1830 and named for Edward Coles, second Governor of Illinois. He was a native of Virginia and a rich and large slave owner. However, he loved liberty and demanded respect for his rights and he accorded other men the same respect. These principles led him to free his slaves when he reached Illinois and in addition to give each head of a family 160 acres of Illinois land.

John Parker, his sons and their families, and Samuel Kellogg and his wife, Mary, fourteen souls in all, were the first white settlers, coming to the county in 1824 from Crawford County on the Wabash river. A little later Seth Bates, his sons, David and John, and stepsons, Levi and Samuel Doty, came to the county, settling in the present town of Lafayette. These early settlers found their neighbors to be the Pottawatomies, Kickapoo and Winnebago Indians.

The general surface of Coles County is undulating, not so level as to be regarded flat, nor so broken as to be considered mountainous. It is largely prairie, rich in soil. Timber, comprising oak, hickory, walnut, elm, maple or sugar tree and cottonwood, abounds along the streams, the two most important of which are the Embarrass and Kaskaskia rivers. The Embarrass is a beautiful stream, was navigable and so declared by an early statute of Illinois, before the days of railways and lightning news carriers. Many vessels were built and some went down the Wabash, Ohio and Mississippi to New Orleans, while others foundered in "Dark Bend," where the sun never shown except at noon. The vessels were called flat-boats and were loaded with supplies that would be of small loss if they never reached market. The Kaskaskia is a dull, sluggish running stream, and the water is muddy.

In 1831 the first County Commissioners, George Hansen, Andrew Caldwell and Isaac Lewis were elected, who formed a County Court for the transaction of county business, and which remained in force until 1848, when the new state constitution was adopted. As provided in the act of organization, Charles Morton and Benjamin Parker each donated 20 acres for the seat of justice, which was called Charleston, in honor of Mr. Morton. In accordance with the constitution of 1848, W. W. Bishop was made the first County Judge and John M. Logan and H. J. Ashmore were made the first Associate Justices. The first representative from Coles County in the General Assembly of the State was Dr. John Carrioe in the year 1832.

The first enterprise for public good was the Blakeman Mill on the Embarrass river, which was built by the Parkers in 1829. Men came forty to fifty miles on horseback with one and one-half bushels of corn to grind, which was frequently frostbitten. As there were times of the year when the Embarrass river could not furnish power, "dry weather" or horse mills were started, and Charles Morton built one of the first. It has been said that the Blakeman Mill ran all the year except when the cows came and drank the river dry. Mr. Morton built the first store and he was also the first postmaster. To Benjamin Parker, however, belongs to the distinction of building the first log cabin. The first practicing physician was Dr. John Apperson, whose office was usually on horseback.

Tan yards were among the early enterprises, people at that time making their own shoes. Carding machines also furnished one of the early industries, almost every family keeping a few sheep.

On May 24th, 1841, the Coles County Agricultural Society was formed and it held three successive fairs. It then became inactive until 1855, when two acts were passed by the legislature of Illinois. One of these was to encourage the formation of county agricultural societies and the other to incorporate agricultural and horticultural societies and associations for improving crops and breeds of domestic animals. Coles County Agricultural Society at the present time is an organization of which its members can feel justly proud. The farmers of the county devote considerable attention to the improvement of stock and many are well-known breeders of blooded horses, cattle and hogs.

Thomas Lincoln, father of Abraham Lincoln, was among the early settlers of Coles County. He came in 1832-33, when Abraham had reached his majority, and did not come with the family, although when a practicing lawyer he often attended court in Coles County.

The first newspaper, called the Charleston Courier, was published in 1840.

“Every dollar the manufacturer spends in advertising represents one hundred cents invested in public good-will toward the products bearing his name, brand or trademark. To allow his goods to fall below his public claims and statements would imperil every dollar of his investment in publicity.”

DOUGLAS COUNTY COURT HOUSE, CLINTON, ILL.

HISTORY OF DOUGLAS COUNTY

DOUGLAS County contains only 410 square miles, and while it is one of the smallest counties of the State, yet it bears the distinction of being one of the richest in fertility, and in proportion to its population, its residents are among the most prosperous. In 1763 this part of the country was given to England as the result of a treaty of peace between England and France after the French and Indian war. In 1778, American troops, under Col. George Rogers Clark, conquered this territory and wrested it from England, and it was known as Northwest Territory. A division in 1809 made the territories of Illinois and Indiana. For forty years Douglas County constituted a part of Crawford, Clark and Coles Counties, finally coming into existence as a separate political organization in 1859. It was named for Stephen A. Douglas.

The Embarrass and Kaskaskia rivers and their tributaries flow through this region, and although at one time much of the land was considered valueless on account of the lowlands, a drainage system has made the land very productive, especially for corn and wheat.

The earliest land entry was made by Harrison Gill of Kentucky, whose patent was signed by Andrew Jackson. Another early settler was John A. Richmond of West Virginia, who erected one of the finest frame houses in the county in 1829.

The first meeting of the Board of Supervisors under township organization was in Tuscola on May 11, 1868, and its members were Caleb Garrett, Lemuel Chandler, Asa Whitney, Oliver C. Hackett, George W. Henson, Benjamin W. Hooe, Isaac W. Burgett and Benjamin Bowdre.

Intimately associated with the early history of Douglas County was Joseph Cannon, who came to Tuscola in 1859. Possessing remarkable ability and a strong personality, he made rapid progress and was elected State's Attorney in 1861 and 1864. In 1872 he was elected to Congress and he represented the district several terms. Later he moved to Danville.

To the Illinois Central Railroad belongs much credit for making the county prosperous. It was completed through the county in 1855, five years after the company obtained its charter from Congress. This was the first public work in Illinois to receive subsidies from the general government. Stephen A. Douglas was the father of the bill finally adopted, which granted the privileges enjoyed by the road and he worked hard to secure its passage. The railroad was granted every alternate section designated by even numbers or their equivalent for six miles on either side of the track and this was later changed to read fifteen miles on either side. An exception to this was Section 16, which was reserved for school purposes, and where people had already entered land the railroad privileges were null and void. One consequence of the bill was the raising of government land from $1.25 to double that figure, and in some instances to $5 and $8, an acre. Another early road, the Paris and Decatur Railroad, was chartered in 1861 and opened in 1872. It is now a part of the Vandalia System.

Douglas County took a deep interest in the troubles that resulted in the seceding of the southern states. Although interested in the famous statesman for whom it was named, Lincoln better voiced its principles and it responded most generously and nobly to every call in defense of the Union. Captain James E. Callaway, of Tuscola, commanded the first full company organized, Company D of the Twenty-first Illinois. Later he became Lieutenant-Colonel and B. Frank Reed of Bowdre Township became captain. He died in 1865 of wounds received at Chickamauga. General Grant was the first colonel of the regiment in the field.

A religious sect known as Amish, named for its founder, settled in this county during the early days. They lived apart from their neighbors, allowed no intermarriage, and had a set form of clothing and ceremonies. They had strict codes of honor, were hard working, and made good citizens.

One of the first physicians to come to the county was Dr. George Wade Bacon of New Jersey, who settled in Bourbon in 1834. Dr. James Harvey Apperson came to Fillmore in 1846, but in 1858 moved to Bourbon. Prior to the building of the Illinois Central Railroad Bourbon was the commercial emporium and the physicians were divided into three classes—allopaths, eclectics, or botanics. Later all left Bourbon except Dr. Apperson.

Editor of Big Four

Mr. and Mrs. Farmer

Are you one of those that have sold off their chickens on account of high-priced feed?

Have you noticed how the price of eggs keeps mounting?

Prices for eggs will continue to go up because of the low supply of poultry in the country.

Now is the time to get in the chicken business and if you are already in it you want the very latest, best and most authentic information on the feeding and care of poultry.

BIG FOUR POULTRY JOURNAL

is the medium that will give it to you.

BIG 4 is so named because it caters to the poultry raisers of Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin.

It reports on conditions and gives you the poultry news in your own home territory.

It tells you how to house, feed and care for your fowls.

It gives you the Chicago market reports.

Its editorials are live and up-to-date—in fact,

The Reading Matter In BIG FOUR

is the most practical that can be bought or written. Its writers are men who are actually raising chickens and give you bare facts, not theory. The editor is a practical chicken raiser. He has been raising chickens, managing poultry farms, conditioning, showing, caponizing and writing for the past twenty years. He realizes what the poultry raiser of today has to contend with and it is his earnest desire to help solve these problems and give you the very latest, money-saving plans to be found. He is always at the service of our readers and is glad to answer any questions pertaining to your poultry problems. There is no charge for this service. After you read BIG FOUR a few issues you will think you cannot get along without it—Try it and see.

"SURE," Says the Dealer

I Can Tell You Why I Recommend

I know I'll never hear of them again except to be told they're giving perfect satisfaction. My customers tell me that they are easiest to run and they skim cleanest. Just turn this crank and you'll see how free from vibration the EMPIRE is. Then I'll tell you another thing everybody likes—EMPIRE Separators are very easy to clean and care for.

Call or write for the EMPIRE Catalog F24, and ask us also to tell you about all the advantages of EMPIRE Milking Machines, EMPIRE electric plants and EMPIRE Gasoline Engines.

HOME LIFE

November. 1917.

AMERICA'S FIRST LINE OF DEFENSE: SEE PAGE 8

Home Life Magazine

enjoys the unique distinction of being the only magazine in the world with a circulation of 1,000,000 copies edited by a woman. Miss Josephine Conger, the editor of Home Life Magazine, is a Missouri girl who was reared in a country town and received her education in the editorial office of a country newspaper.

Though widely traveled, and identified with movements of national character, she has never lost her interest in country life, and this is why Home Life carries such a strong appeal to the people God loves so well—the great common folks of the land. In a quiet, helpful way, Home Life appeals to their sentiments and arouses their spirits.

Besides the stories, the special articles, the homely old fashioned sermon by the famous evangelist, Rev. Wilbur Chapman, the stirring and vigorous editorials, Home Life is always to be found in the forefront in some mighty crusade for the betterment of the nation.

Home Life is more than merely a magazine with clever stories and illustrations: It is, in fact, a living, breathing personality that brings it in constant touch with the most wholesome folks in the world—the fathers and mothers of the country.

You will like Home Life and you should, by all means, add it to your list of magazines for the coming year. The low subscription rate (35c per year, 60c for two years) is possible only because of the large circulation.

HOME LIFE MAGAZINE

141 W. Ohio St., CHICAGO, ILL.

Home Life publishes a monthly paper for its boys and girls—the Home Scout Herald. It is sent free to boys and girls who ask for it.

Talking About Revolutions

REVOLUTION in implement-making has brought about the discard of the ancient sickle and the adoption of the modern harvester.

REVOLUTION in farming practice is replacing the horse by powerful traction engines capable of hauling machines that harvest, thrash and sack the grain at one operation—do everything “except to cash the check for the crop.”

REVOLUTION in book-building has brought about that wonderfully modern, amazingly “different” new work—made for everyday use—for everybody—everywhere—to answer every question and problem: THE WORLD BOOK.

THE WORLD IS YOURS WITH THE WORLD BOOK

Clear

Compact

Readable

Complete

Accurate

Practical

JUST OFF THE PRESS

EIGHT HANDSOME VOLUMES. 6,500 USEFUL PAGES

5,500 ILLUSTRATIONS.

BEAUTIFUL TYPE AND BINDING

THE WORLD BOOK is so broad in its scope, so ready to supply the information needs of a world of people on a world of subjects, that folks who own it realize why we say, “If it’s in the world—it’s in THE WORLD BOOK.”

THE WORLD BOOK is so complete in its treatment of ANY field of human interest or industry that—among thousands of other vital topics appealing to farmers—it includes live, inspirational, informational articles on subjects like the following:

Rural Credits

Thrift

Farm Bookkeeping

Good Roads

Stock and Poultry

Raising

Income Tax

Civil Government

Community Interests

Checks and Drafts

Rural Free Delivery

Parcel Post

Business and Industry

Education

Manual Training

Domestic Science

Conservation of Food

Physiology and Hygiene

Soil Treatment

Dairying

Crop Rotation

Department of Agriculture

Insurance

Bills

Railroads

Electricity

Laws and Debates

But no advertisement can give you any real notion of THE WORLD BOOK. You must SEE it and KNOW it to understand its charm—its helpfulness—its unique blending of the system and utility of the standard encyclopedia with the interest and entertainment of the “story book.”

Ask us to send you some specimen pages and our interesting booklet, “There IS Something New Under the Sun.”

The Household Magazine

The Best Loved Magazine in America

THE HOUSEHOLD is the most practical and best loved family magazine in America because it has all—and more—than any other magazine can offer in its home-making side, better stories, educative and broadening articles on every-day subjects, complete departments. THE HOUSEHOLD is a real necessity to every home. Essentially THE HOUSEHOLD serves and saves. In nearly a million homes it stands as an investment, never an expense.

THE HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE is a veritable wonderbook of good things each issue.

Lovely Patriotic Picture Free

You now have the opportunity to show your patriotism by displaying this beautiful picture in your home. It is a picture of President Woodrow Wilson draped with a beautiful American flag in colors. The picture is 10x14 inches in size, printed on good quality of heavy off-set paper. There are 14 beautiful tints and colors in this picture and the 10-inch flag that drapes the picture is the most beautiful in design and colors we have ever seen. The picture is produced by what is called the off-set process and is the most expensive of all color prints and the result is a picture that can hardly be distinguished from a genuine oil color portrait.

Special Free Offer

We will send this lovely picture free and postpaid to all who send 25 cents to pay for a yearly subscription to the Household Magazine. New or renewal subscriptions accepted on this offer.
