BURIAL OF THE GOODPASTURE FAMILY

Located 1 1/2 miles north and 1/2 mile east of Atlanta.

James and Allen Goodpasture, brothers, came to Cicero township, Tipton County in 1836, eight years prior to the organization of the county, entered land 1 1/2 miles north and 1/2 mile east of Atlanta. James Goodpasture set apart this parcel of ground as a burial place and his remains, that of his wife,

Betsy(Tucker) Goodpasture, his son Amos and others of his children are buried here. A few rods north and east of this burial place are some old apple trees, still standing, remnants of the orchard he set out in 1839, said to be the first apple trees planted in this county. He has many descendants yet residing in Cicero township.

SIDNER CEMETERY

Located 2 1/2 miles southwest Nevada, selected as a burial place in the early fifties. Some of the children of William and Mrs. Sidner, owners of the land at that time are buried here. Also the first wife of Jack Burns and some of his children. John Barlow and his wife, Patsy(Thorpe) Barlow.

Also Thomas Blake who met his death in Sharpsville, being stabbed by a man named Glasscock. There are no markers for any of the graves and little evidence of its ever being used as a grave yard. The place is held sacred and the small plot of ground where lies the remains of these first citizens is undisturbed by the plowman.
