HISTORY
OF THE
BRITISH LANDED GENTRY, EMBELLISHED WITH THE ARMORIAL BEARINGS OF EACH FAMILY.
BY JOHN BURKE, ESQ.
AUTHOR OF THE "PEERAGE AND BARONETAGE."

PROSPECTUS.

THIS original and important Work has been undertaken by Mr. BURKE as a sequel to his well known and established "DICTIONARY OF THE PEERAGE AND BARONETAGE of the United Kingdom," and upon a somewhat similar plan; in order that, when completed, the two Publications may embrace the WHOLE BODY OF THE BRITISH PEERAGE, BARONETAGE, and GENTRY, and may furnish such a mass of authentic and available information in regard to all THE PRINCIPAL FAMILIES IN THE KINGDOM, as has never before been brought together for general reference and utility.

The novelty and the serviceable purposes of the present undertaking combine to invest it with no common claims to public attention. The highly influential and extensive class to whom it refers, have hitherto had no work of reference exhibiting an entire and authentic account of their respective families, although it is obvious how large a share of interest attaches to such an object, both for the parties themselves, and for all connected with them, by the ties either of alliance, friendship, neighbourhood, patronage, or political constituency. That so desirable a digest should not before have been executed, has been doubtless owing to the extreme labour and research demanded for the purpose; but this obstacle has now been overcome by efforts and arrangements of long continuance, aided by communications from the most authentic sources. The British Landed Gentry have now, therefore, a work to which they can refer with pride and satisfaction, as being, in the most peculiar sense, their own. The records of their honours and achievements—the copious details of their bright and long-derived lineage—the incidental particulars of their connexions and collateral alliances—and the curious anecdotes and traditions concerning their families, which have been at infinite pains and immense cost assembled in this Work, will, it is confidently presumed, render it highly acceptable to every member of that distinguished class for whose use, benefit and credit, it has been published.

TEN PARTS of the Work have already appeared, price 7s. 6d. each, comprising particulars of nearly 30,000 Eminent Families or Individuals connected with them. The first eight Parts, forming 2 volumes, may be had bound in morocco cloth, price £1. 11s. 6d. each volume; and a Part will be regularly published every quarter, till completed.

From the OPINIONS of THE PUBLIC PRESS throughout the Kingdom, the following are selected :—

“A great and national undertaking. Of the Peers and Barouets of Great Britain we have heard and read; but of the Commoners—of Families equally celebrated in History—we have till now remained in total ignorance.”—GLOBE.

“A most valuable work, the want of which has been long and severely felt by the country, and which we had almost despaired of seeing supplied. Mr. Burke has executed his task to the complete satisfaction of the public. The genealogical details are complete, without being tedious; and, as the best sources of information have, in every instance, been resorted to, the accuracy of the work may be relied upon.”—OBSERVER.

“A work of great utility and interest. Its researches are highly curious, and the information it supplies touching the Gentry of the country, is not less worthy of regard than that to which we have hitherto been confined as to the Peerage and the Baronetage.”—MORNING POST.

“A book of the deepest interest, and containing, indeed, so vast a portion of family history as perhaps the annals of no other country could produce. It is almost impossible to convey a more striking illustration of the respectability and permanency of the great proprietors of the soil than is to be found in the ‘History of the Landed Gentry of Great Britain and Ireland.’ Besides the descents, dignities, and armorial bearings of every family, it contains the most memorable actions of persons who have distinguished themselves, intermixed with curious anecdotes. It includes, also, a countless number of particulars relating to the inter-marriages of the various families. The work deserves, and it will no doubt command, as extensive a sale as the Peerage and Baronetage of the same indefatigable compiler.”—SUN.

OPINIONS OF THE PUBLIC PRESS.

"A truly popular undertaking. The Series so got up and embellished, and so cheap, must extend the fame even of the author of 'Pelham' far and wide."—LITERARY GAZETTE.

"What an admirable opportunity is here presented to such as are about to form a select library of fiction!"—GLOUCE.

"A store of intellectual entertainment and instruction is here placed within the reach of all."—YORK COURANT.

"These may, indeed, be termed classical novels."—BRIGHTON HERALD.

"To obtain a most handsome volume, beautifully printed, embellished in the first style of art, and including the production of some master-spirit of the age for FIVE SHILLINGS, is a phenomenon in the history of literature."—MORNING POST.

"A collection of the best works of fiction of the most distinguished living writers, at the cheapest possible rate."—LEEDS INTELLIGENCER.

"It comprises only the works of such authors as have established their reputation."—COURIER.

"Must find a place on the shelves of every reader of moderate means and judicious taste."—YORK HERALD.

"Printed in so clear a type as to be read with pleasure by persons of all ages."—SUN.

"The cheapness, typographical beauty, and elegant embellishments of this series, must call forth unqualified commendation."—BATH HERALD.

"The intrinsic merits of such works must ensure them a permanent place in the library of fiction."—NATIONAL.

TO JOHN MAUDE, ESQ.

This Volume IS INSCRIBED WITH SENTIMENTS OF UNFEIGNED

P R E F A C E.

IN completing the Second Volume of this Work, nothing remains for the Author beyond the repetition of his acknowledgments for the support he continues daily to receive from every part of the kingdom, —support the more acceptable and the more gracious, because coming, in many instances, without solicitation—in all, without reserve and without distrust. The aid of the ablest and most celebrated writers in his own peculiar walk of literature has been freely proffered him ; and collections, acquired by vast expense, and vaster labour, have been gratuitously opened to his investigation. Thus sustained, arduous though the task he has undertaken may appear to be, and arduous though it really is, he can have little apprehension now as to the result : the difficulties, which at first seemed almost insurmountable, are entirely removed, and the road before him, although yet a rugged one, presents no impediment which perseverance and industry may not be found sufficient to overcome.

In the first volume, the Author was anxious to name the eminent persons to whom he stood so deeply indebted, individually ; but the list was even then so extensive, that he was obliged to abandon the intention, and to content himself with a general acknowledgment of obligation. He is now placed in a similar situation ; nay, the catalogue has become so much enlarged as to preclude the possibility of enumeration. He must not, however, omit particularizing his highly gifted and accomplished friend James Roche, Esq. of Cork, to whom he is indebted for the most important literary assistance, and the most valuable information: nor should he forget especially naming that able genealogist, Mr. Joseph Morris, of Shrewsbury, who has furnished materials, admirably digested, for some of the most elaborate pedigrees in this volume. In returning thanks to his esteemed correspondent, Mr. Allan, of Durham, in the first volume, that gentleman is called William Henry Allan, Esq. instead of Robert Henry Allan, Esq. which inaccuracy the Author begs now to apologize for, and to correct.

December, 1834.

ALTERATIONS AND ADDITIONS.

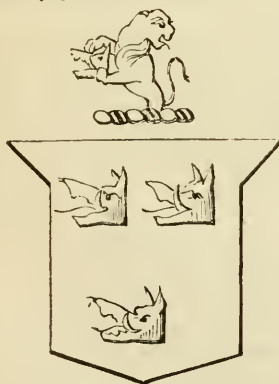

WITHAM OF CLIFFE.

P. 7, col. 1, l. 39, for "Whilton," read "Whitton."

BOUVERIE OF DELAPRE.

P. 8, col. 2, l. 21. Delapre Abbey is erroneously stated to have descended by marriage to the family of Bouverie. It was purchased, upon the demise of Mary (Tate), Lady Hardy, by Mr. Bouverie.

* * We omitted to state, in detailing the Strickland family, vol. i. p. 56, that Thomas Stryckeland entered into agreement with HENRY V. dated 29th April, 1415, to serve the king in his wars in France during one year, and that to him was confided the distinguished honour of bearing the banner of St. George at the memorable battle of Azincourt. In February, 1424, Thomas de Stryckeland, late bearer of the banner of St. George, petitioned King HENRY V. to consider the service he had rendered to the state in parts beyond the seas, from the time of his arrival at Harfleur and the battle of Azincourt, and since to the time when Rouen was taken. Rymer's Fœdera, Nicolas's History of the Battle of Azincourt.

EDWARDS OF NESS STRANGE.

POPHAM OF LITTLECOTT.

P. 199, col. 2, l. 51, for "Friday," read "Trickey."

P. 201. The following is a more correct version of the tradition regarding Littlecott, when possessed by the Dayrells.

"About seven or eight miles from the mansion of an ancient and respectable family in Wiltshire, towards the close of the sixteenth century, there dwelt a midwife of great skill and practice, who one night was called up just as she had gone to rest, after having returned from exercising the duties of her profession in another quarter. As soon as she knew the cause of her being disturbed, she endeavoured to excuse herself, on account of fatigue, and wished to send an assistant whom she kept in the house. The messenger, however, being resolved to gain the principal only for his purpose, urged that he had something to ask of her, for a person of consequence, after which the deputy might do. She accordingly came down stairs and opened the door, after which she disappeared, and was absent for many hours.

"The deposition she made of what followed before a magistrate, and afterwards upon trial, was to the following effect.—She stated that as soon as she had unfastened the door, and partly opened it, a hand was thrust in, which struck down the candle, and at the same instant pulled her into the road in front of her house, which was detached from the village, or any other dwelling. The person who had used these abrupt means, desired her to tie a handkerchief over her head, and not wait for a hat, as a lady of the first quality in the neighbourhood was in want of her immediate assistance. He then led to a stile at a short distance, where there was a horse saddled, and with a pillion on its back; he desired her to seat herself first, and then mounting immediately he set off at a brisk trot. After they had travelled about three quarters of an hour she expressed great alarm, but her conductor assured her that no harm should happen to her, and that she should be well paid, but added, that they had still further to go. He got off his horse several times to open gates, and they crossed many ploughed and corn fields, for though it was quite dark she could discover that they had quitted the high road within two miles of her own house; she also said they crossed a river twice. After they had been about an hour and a half on their journey they entered a paved court or yard, as she concluded from the clattering of the horse's feet on the stones. Her guide now lifted her off the horse, and conducted her through a long dark passage, in which she only saw a glimmering of light at a distance, which was concealed or put out upon the shutting of a large gate through which they passed. As soon as they arrived at a sort of landing place, her guide addressed her to the following effect. 'You must now suffer me to put this cap and bandage over your eyes, which will allow you to speak and breathe, but not to see; keep up your presence of mind, it will be wanted, and I again repeat, no harm will happen to you.' Then conducting her into a chamber, he continued, 'now you are in a room with a lady in labour, perform your office well and you shall be amply rewarded, but if you attempt to remove the bandage from your eyes, take the consequences of your rashness.' Here she said that horror and dread had so benumbed her faculties, that had any assistance been wanted she was rendered incapable of giving it, but nature had effected all that was requisite, and what remained for her to do was little more than to receive a male infant, and to give it into the hands of a female, who by her voice she conceived to be a woman advanced in years. Her patient she was sure was a very young lady, but she was forbid to ask any questions, or to speak a word. As soon as the event was completely over, she had a glass of wine given her, and was told to prepare to return home by another road, which was not quite so near, but free from gates or stiles. She begged to be allowed to repose herself for a quarter of an hour in the arm chair, whilst the horse was getting ready, pleading the extreme fatigue she had undergone the preceding day; and under the pretence of sleeping she made those reflections which laid the foundation of that legal enquiry, which afterwards took place. She, undiscovered and unsuspected, contrived with her scissors to cut off a small bit of the curtain. This circumstance, added to others of a local nature, was supposed sufficient evidence to fix the transaction on the house pointed out, and, but for the scrutiny and cross-examination on the trial, would have given the law great scope over the lives of several persons, as it appeared improbable that fewer than five or six persons could have been concerned in a business so regularly conducted. In the course of her evidence the midwife affirmed she perceived an uncommon smell of burning, which followed them through all the avenues of the house to the court-yard, where she remounted the horse. She said that she remarked to the guide, that she saw a light and smelt a smell of burning, which he said was the work of the gardeners, who were firing the weeds and burning the moles amongst them, as they always did at that time of year. And she stated, that at the time of parting from the guide, which was within fifty yards of her own dwelling, he made her swear to observe secrecy, at the same time putting a purse into her hand, which she afterwards found contained twenty-five guineas; and till that moment the bandage had never been removed from her eyes. The morning was then breaking; she also deposed that she counted the steps on the first and second landing-places, which agreed with those of the suspected house, and the piece of curtain was found to match one exactly in a room where the birth of the child was supposed to have taken place. With such evidence it was expected that nothing short of a conviction of some of the parties for the murder of a new born infant must have followed; particularly as a beautiful young lady in the family (a niece) had withdrawn herself from her acquaintance, under the plea of going to a convent at Avignon, to learn French, when she had been seen more than once after her declared departure, by a fruit woman, looking out of a small window next to her usual apartment. In the course of the trial, however, the circumstance of the curtain was rendered suspicious, by its being proved on cross-examination, that a Catholick servant had left the family in malice a short time before, with horrid declarations of revenge, on account of her having been forbidden to attend mass, which suggested a possibility of her supplying the fact of the curtain, as well as all the local description given by the midwife of the suspected mansion. The midwife's story, though apparently plausible, was considerably weakened by her swearing positively to so many and doubtful points. First, that of her distinguishing the being carried over corn and ploughed fields, though she only knew, it being so extremely dark, that they had quitted the high road from the sound of the horse's feet. Next, her affirming that when introduced into the chamber she was so benumbed and stupified with horror and dread, that in a case of difficulty she could have given no assistance; yet, during this state of horror and dread, she could, though blindfolded, swear positively that her patient was very young; the child a male; and the person to whom it was given advanced in years; and immediately afterwards had the presence of mind to execute the ingenious but hazardous experiment of cutting the curtain. She also said, that she remarked to the guide her seeing a light, as well as smelling the burning, yet affirmed immediately afterwards, that the bandage was not taken from her till she was within fifty yards of her own house. But an apparent contradiction, and which was supposed to have over-turned her whole evidence, was her positively insisting that in their way to the house, where her assistance was wanted, they crossed a ford twice, when it was proved that there was only one straight river between the two houses. Now supposing the guide to have made a wheel round, in order to deceive the midwife, and to have again crossed the river, they must still have forded it a third time to arrive at the suspected house. All these circumstances being pointed out, and commented on by the judge for the consideration of the jurymen, they returned a verdict of acquittal without leaving the court.

"Whether the suspected parties were or were not guilty of the crime of murder, could only be known to themselves and the great Disposer of all things; but no judge or jury would have established a different verdict from such defective evidence. The train of calamity which succeeded the trial may give rise to melancholy reflections, and was, no doubt, considered by the multitude, to have been the effect of divine visitation. In few words, the owner of Littlecote soon became involved in estate and deranged in mind, and is stated to have died a victim to despondency, and though the fate of the niece is unknown or forgotten, ruin and misery are said to have befallen the family which survived him."

The genealogist GEORGE CRAWFURD's deduction of this family from SWANE, of Danish origin, solely from that person's holding part of the barony of Crawford, is palpably erroneous. Swane having been contemporary with Galfridus, and with his father, Dominus Galfridus de Crawford, in the reign of WILLIAM, the Lion. It is only stated, however, problematically by Crawford. Chalmers's enquiries amongst the records in the Tower had not, when Crawford wrote, given the right direction to antiquarian research. The recent discovery, in an old illuminated manuscript at the British Museum, in the Cotton collection, of the arms of Stephen, third earl of Richmond, who died in 1104, and their close similitude to the coat borne by the Crawfurds, coupled with other corroborative circumstances, has thrown new light upon the subject, and leaves hardly a doubt that those old EARLS OF RICHMOND, and this ancient and widely dispersed Caledonian family sprang from a common progenitor. The original coat of the earls of Richmond, as shewn by GALE, in his Registrum Honorum Richmondie, was ermine; the arms of Brittany, whence those earls descended. GALE further states, and is supported by CLARKSON, in his History of Richmond, that the family adopted gules, the tincture of royalty, in addition to ermine, as a mark of gratitude to their royal benefactor, WILLIAM, the Conqueror, under whose

* This shield, with a bourdeur argent, is prefixed to the grants of the first earls, but the male line of that house failing, and the elder co-heir, ALICE, having conveyed the earldom of Richmond to her husband PETER DE DREUX, the subsequent earls carried the DREUX arms, "chequy, or and az." the ermine being borne in canton.

The bordure in the Richmond shield indicates cadency, the earls being a younger branch of the house of Brittany, and was omitted after the marriage of BERTHA, daughter and heiress of Conan, duke of Brittany, with ALAN, fourth earl of Richmond, who succeeded his father in 1104, his elder brother, GALFRIDUS, having died previously, s. p.

Arms of Crawford.

great seal they had obtained not fewer than 440 manors, and 140 knight's fees in the counties of York, Lincoln, and Norfolk. Some of their successors carried leopards or over the gules, hence gules and or became the colours of the lords of Bedale, sprung from Brian, second son of ALAN, fourth earl of Richmond. The ERMINE, after gules had been adopted, was variously timbered by some, in canton, as depicted in an ancient picture at the Museum; by others, in bend, as in the engraving above, (which with the bordure was adopted, and still continues as the arms of the town of Richmond, taken evidently from the arms of its founder, Stephen, third earl, from whom it received its first charter,—see Clarkson), and in fesse, as borne by the CRAWFURDS, who located in Scotland, in the time of DAVID I.

Reginald, the youngest son of the fourth earl of Richmond, and the great-great grandson of GALFRIDUS, duke of Brittany, who died in 1008, does not appear to have founded any establishment or family in England, but at the period in which he lived, we find at the court of King DAVID, in Scotland, a person bearing the name of REGINALD, whom George Crawford deems the extreme ancestor of the Crawfurds, and who obtained large grants from that prince; whose policy it was, as stated in the introductory observations to the Halliday family (page 127), to allure the young and unendowed Anglo-Norman knights, to settle in his dominions. This Reginald was father or grandfather of the Dominus GALFRIDUS DE CRAWFURD, who frequently witnessed the charters of WILLIAM, the Lion, and appears to have received many marks beside of royal consideration, demonstrative of alliance to the court; for which Crawford states himself unable to account. If, however, Reginald were, as now conjectured, one of the sons of the Earl of Richmond, (and of which the concurrent testimony of a variety of facts forms the strongest presumption), he, GALFRIDUS, would be closely connected with THE LION, his uncle, CONAN

Le Petit, fifth earl of Richmond (Reginald's brother), having married Margaret, daughter of Prince HENRY, of Scotland, EARL OF HUNTINGDON, and sister of King WILLIAM: thus his rank at court, and the high degree of confidence he enjoyed there would be easily explained.

In fine, the aggrandizement of Reginald and Galfridus at the Scottish court—the constant recurrence of those names in both pedigrees—and above all, the identity of arms,—for be the ermine carried in bend or in fesse it is the same bearing (the variation being adopted probably as a mere difference to distinguish brothers), present so strong a combination of circumstantial evidence, (in absence of proof by charter, which, through the destruction of so many of the Scotch records by King Edward I. of England, is now impossible) as to remove, in our humble opinion, almost every doubt from the hypothesis, that the old earls of Richmond, and the Crawfurds of Scotland, sprang from a common ancestor.

VAUGHAN OF BURLTON HALL.

P. 241, col. 1, l. 9 from foot. FRANCIS CHAMBRE,* of Wolverley, living in 1666, is erroneously stated to have been father, instead of grandfather, of John Chambre, who married Miss Waring. The said Francis was buried at Loppington, 9th May, 1678; his grandson, John, at Newton Chapel, 13th March, 1718, aged sixty-seven; Sarah, the widow of John, was interred in the same vault with her husband, 26th December, 1723; these particulars are taken from the monuments of the Chambre family, in Newton Chapel, to which Francis Chambre was a munificent benefactor.

The following descent of the Loppington branch of the family is principally from the registers of Loppington parish, and from monumental inscriptions in that church:

HUMPHREY CHAMBRE, who was living 24th HENRY VIII. (by a copy of court roll of the manor of Loppington, dated 4th December, in that year, whereby he was admitted customary tenant of a copyhold estate within the said manor) married Jane Barker, of Coogage, and had two sons, namely, THOMAS, his heir, now represented by ROBERT CHAMBRE VAUGHAN, esq. of Burlton Hall, as stated at page 242, and who was living 22nd of ELIZABETH, as appears from an award made 6th May, in that year, to which he was a party, married, and had, with a younger son, who was father of Francis Chambre, esq. of Wolverley, his successor,

FRANCIS CHAMBRE, esq. of Loppington, who left, by his wife, Mary, buried in the chancel of Loppington church, 18th June, 1692, two sons and a daughter, viz.

GEORGE, his heir.

John, who died s. p. and was buried at Loppington, 23rd July, 1683.

Mary.

The elder son,

GEORGE CHAMBRE, esq. of Loppington, espoused 25th May, 1660, Mrs. Dorothy Eddowes, of Hanmer, and by her, who was buried at Loppington, 17th November, 1685, had one son and five daughters, viz.

GEORGE, his heir.

Catherine, bapt. 22nd August, 1663, m. at Loppington, 29th March, 1681, John Legh, esq. of Chester, a younger son of the family of High Legh, and had a son,

GEORGE LEGH, of whom presently.

Dorothy, bapt. 16th June, 1671, m. to — Lewis, esq.

Ermine, bapt. 15th March, 1674, m. to — Creed, esq.

Francis, bapt. 17th December, 1679.

Elizabeth, bapt. 17th June, 1681.

Mr. Chambre died in 1691, aged fifty-three, and was interred under the communion table, in the church of Loppington: his epitaph represents him as having been “a gentleman of great sense and integrity, a good christian in profession and practice, a loyal gentleman to his king and country, faithful to his friend, and a great benefactor to his poor neighbours. He was succeeded by his only son,

GEORGE CHAMBRE, esq. of Loppington, bapt. 27th September, 1666, at whose decease, issueless, 8th April, 1707, the estates were inherited by his nephew,

THE REV. GEORGE LEGH, D.D. vicar of Halifax, who married thrice, but died without issue, directing, by his will, which bears date 10th March, 1779, the sale of the Loppington estate: it was in consequence purchased by Thomas Dickin, esq. high sheriff of Shropshire in 1799, and is now the property of his son, THOMAS DICKIN, esq. of Loppington House, who is an acting magistrate for the county of Salop, and was formerly major of the Shropshire militia. He espoused, in 1827, Jane, fourth daughter of the Hon. Edward Massy, and sister to the present Mrs. Vaughan, of Burlton Hall.

DAVIES OF ELMLEY PARK.

“David of Hope” stated, at p. 259, to be the first name in the pedigree, was fourth in descent from Celynin, a chieftain of Powys,

* The name (then written Chamberay) of the earliest ancestor of the family who passed into England with WILLIAM of Normandy, is enrolled at Battel Abbey. (See BURKE's Extinct Peerage.)

who resided at Llwydiarth, an estate which he inherited in right of his mother, who was the heiress of Ririd, son of Cynric Evell, lord of Eglwysegl. RIRID, father of Celynin, was fifth in descent from ALETH, lord of Dyved, or Demetiw, from whom many respectable families in the principality are descended.

FARQUHARSON OF HAUGHTON.

P. 261, col. 1, l. 10 from foot, for "Attyre," read "Alytre."

EDWARDES TUCKER, OF SEALYHAM.

Although this family has lost its own early records, there are documents in existence, certified by its chiefs living in the reign of Queen ELIZABETH and JAMES I. from which we are enabled to correct the statement at page 314, and to complete the early descents.

The EDWARDES, of Trefgarne, quite different in descent from the Edwardses of Rhydygors, are a branch of the numerous descendants of Tudor Trevor, a powerful chieftain, whose residence was on the border of North Wales and Shropshire, whence he is styled the head of the tribe of the Marches, of Wales. Third in direct line from Tudor Trevor, was CYNRIC, or CYNVRIG, the son of Rhiwllwllow, which Cynric was lord of Christionydd, Cynric, and Maelor Cymraeg, in North Wales. Eleventh from Cynric was EDWARD-ap-John, who resided, not at Chirk Castle, as stated in page 314, but in Chirkland, as a considerable district in Denbighshire is termed. He married Catherine, daughter of Ievan, or Evan-ap-William, of Mold, in Flintshire, and had issue,

1. JOHN-AP-EDWARD, or JOHN EDWARDES, who m. Gwenn, daughter of Ievan-ap-Gruffydd, of Penllyn, North Wales, and had three daughters.

2. RICHARD EDWARDES, the first of the family who settled in Pembrokeshire. He was chancellor of St. David's, and a justice of the peace for the county of Pembroke, in the year 1597. Richard Edwardes married Mirabel, daughter of Henry Evans, by Jane, his wife, sister to Sir William Wake, but had no issue.

3. THOMAS EDWARDES, ancestor of Mr. EDWARDES TUCKER, of Sealyham.

1. Margaret, m. to Thomas Hewett, son and heir of Thomas Hewett, chanter of St. David's, and a justice of peace for Pembrokeshire.

The three brothers above mentioned were the first members of this family who adopted the surname of EDWARDES; and it was not in the reign of HENRY the FOURTH, as asserted at p. 314, but in that of HENRY VII. that surnames were first adopted by the principal gentry of Wales. In this family, the surname of EDWARDES was not assumed until the time of ELIZABETH, when Richard Edwardes, being appointed chancellor of St. David's, appears to have gathered all the surviving members of his family into Pembrokeshire.

THOMAS EDWARDES, the second son of Edward-ap-John, was twice married: by his first wife he had two sons, Nicholas and Richard, and the same number by his second wife, Sage, daughter of Thomas Tucker, viz. Owen and Richard. The elder son of the second marriage,

OWEN EDWARDES, was living in 1613, and was then married to Ethliw, or Elliw, dau. of Morgan Voel, esq. of Haverfordwest, by whom he had a son,

JOHN EDWARDES, father, by Anne, his wife, daughter of Thomas Birt, of

OWEN EDWARDES, esq. of Trefgarne, in the county of Pembroke, who wedded Damaris, daughter of James Perrott, esq. as stated in page 314, and from whom the descent to the present Mr. EDWARDES TUCKER is there accurately deduced.

SWIRE OF CONONLEY.

P. 343, col. 1, l. 3. Roger Swire, of Halifax, who married, for his first wife, Jennet, daughter of the Rev. William Currer, wedded, secondly, Hannah, daughter of Abram Mellin, of Halifax, and had five children, viz.

1. Roger, now resident in Jamaica, married Miss Frances-Lydia Cox, and has a numerous issue, viz. John, Henry, Roger, Philip: Hannah-Jane, Frances, Anne, Emily Elizabeth, Mary-Anne, and Christina-Octavia.

2. Samuel, died young.

the marines, and, secondly, in 1785, Charles Bogle, esq. of the island of Tobago. By her second husband, who died in 1792, she had issue, Vere-Warner-Hussey Bogle, b. in 1787, Lieutenant R. N. m. in 1822, Alice, only daughter of Thomas Brown, esq. of Edinburgh, merchant.

Adeliza Bogle, died in January, 1817.

ALEN OF ST. WOLSTANS.

P. 365, col. 1, l. 4. Honora, daughter of General Alen, of St. Wolstans, who m. O'Grady, of Kilballyowen, was that gentleman's second wife, and had, with other issue, a son, STANDISH O'GRADY, grandfather of STANDISH, present LORD GUILLAMORE (see family of O'Grady, of Kilballyowen).

The present Colonel Alen's claim to a new creation, founded on the original baronetcy of St. Wolstans, is thus explained;

EDWARD ALEN (for an account of his progenitors, see p. 364) married Catherine, daughter of Sir John St. Leger, and had three sons, viz.

1. THOMAS, who became of St. Wolstans, but died without issue.
- II. FRANCIS, Master of the Rolls, whose grandson,

JOHN ALEN, esq. of St. Wolstans, married a daughter of Lord Slane, and had (with two other sons, whose issue failed),

1. THOMAS, of St. Wolstans, who was created a BARONET in 1621, in consideration of the great services rendered to the State by Archbishop Alen, but dying s. p. the Baronetcy EXPIRED.
2. NICHOLAS, who eventually inherited St. Wolstans. "As government, in creating Sir Thomas a Baronet, did," so saith the patent, "but an act of justice, considering the services of the Archbishop;" this Nicholas, who was related in the same degree to his grace, had precisely the same claim to the honour. His lineal and proved male descendant is the present

Lieutenant-Colonel LUKE ALEN, C.B. who has an only surviving son,

LUKE-JOHN - HENRY, a captain in the army.

- III. John, the celebrated Archbishop of Dublin, and Lord Chancellor of Ireland.

The motto of the Alen family is Fortis et fidelis.

The Tyldens resided at Tylden's Place, in Marden, in the reign of HENRY IV. and purchased, in that of HENRY VI. Catt's Place, in Brenchley. ISTED OF ECTON.

The following curious Descent (through the Baskervilles) of many eminent Families, from several of the Royal Houses of Europe, was compiled by Dr. Percy, the celebrated Bishop of Dromore, and is authenticated by incontestible proofs.

HUGH CAPET, elected King of France in 987, died in 996, and was succeeded by his son,

ROBERT, King of France, crowned during his father's lifetime. This monarch espoused Constance, daughter of the Count of Arles, and left at his decease in 1031 three sons and one daughter, namely,

HENRY, his heir.

Robert, ancestor of the ducal house of Burgundy.

Eudo, Bishop of Auxerre.

ADELA, who wedded, in 1027, Baldwin V. Earl of Flanders,* and had a daughter,

MAUD, consort of WILLIAM, the Conqueror of England, and mother of

HENRY I. King of England, who espoused Maud, daughter of MALCOLM III. of Scotland, by his queen, Margaret, daughter of EDWARD the Outlaw, son of King Edmund Ironside, and had a daughter, THE EMPRESS MAUD, whose son,

HENRY, ascended the English throne as second of his name, and was father of

King Robert was succeeded by his eldest son,

HENRY I. King of France, who had (with an elder son, PHILIP, who ascended the French throne, and was first of his name,)

HUGH the Great, who signalized himself in the expedition of Godfrey de Bouillon. He espoused Adelard, daughter and heiress of Herbert, Count of Vermandois, and had, inter alios, a daughter,

ISABEL or ELIZABETH, who wedded† Robert de Beaumont, the first Earl of Leicester, and was mother of

ELIZABETH DE BEAUMONT, whose son, by her husband Gilbert de Clare, was the celebrated

RICHARD STRONGBOW, Earl of Pembroke, celebrated for the invasion of Ireland, who m. the Princess Eva,‡ only daughter of DERMOT, the last King of Leinster, and of the race of Irish kings, esteemed the most illustrious of all the descendants from Cathoir the Great. By her Strongbow left an only daughter and heiress,

ISABEL DE CLARE, who became in ward to HENRY II. and remained under the royal guardianship for the space of fourteen years, when she was given in marriage‡ to WILLIAM MARSHAL, who thereupon became Earl of Pembroke, and by him had (with other issue) a daughter,

(See above, descendants of Adela, daughter of Robert, King of France.) By the Lord Mortimer, Maud had a son and heir,

EDMUND, LORD MORTIMER, of Wigmore, summoned to parliament as a baron from 1294 to 1302. His son and successor,

ROGER, LORD MORTIMER, of Wigmore, who was advanced to the dignity of EARL OF MARCH soon after the accession of EDWARD III. left at his decease four sons and seven daughters, of whom the second dau.

Thus Sir James Baskerville, of Erdisleigh, derived (as of course do his descendants) from the Kings of France, of England, of Scotland, and of Ireland; from the Princes of North and South Wales; from the Counts of Flanders; and from CHARLEMAGNE, Emperor of the West.

OWEN OF CONDOVER.

P. 515, l. 4. The present Mr. Owen's patronymic is PEMBERTON, and not SMYTHE, as erroneously stated at p. 515.

BELLEW OF STOCKLEIGH COURT.

P. 532. The Bellevs went to Ireland in the thirteenth century, and not in 1450, as erroneously stated.

P. 533, col. 1, l. 2, dele "of."

P. 533, col. 1, l. 7, for "great-grand-nephew," read "great grandson."

It is erroneously stated at p. 533, that Sir Christopher Bellew, ancestor of the ennobled house of BELLEW, was descended from Sir John Bellew, of Willystown. The Lords Bellew traced their descent as follows:

JOHN BELLEW, presumed ancestor of the Bellevs of Stockleigh Court, and lineally descended from John de Bellew, Lord of Carlton, in Yorkshire, was father of another

JOHN BELLEW, living in 1381, whose son,

SIR JOHN BELLEW, of Bellewstown, flourished in the reigns of HENRY IV. HENRY V. and HENRY VI. He died in the 29th of the last reign, being direct ancestor of

SIR JOHN BELLEW, of Bellewstown, successor to his father in 1542, who wedded Margaret, fourth daughter of Sir Oliver Plunkett, first Lord Louth, and left a son,

CHRISTOPHER BELLEW, of Bellewstown, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Thomas Cusack, lord chancellor and lord justice of Ireland, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR JOHN BELLEW, of Bellewstown, who married and had three sons, CHRISTOPHER, his heir; John, of Graftonstown, in the county of Louth, ancestor of the Bellevs of Barmeach and Mount Bellew; and Richard of Verdonstown, who also left issue. The eldest son,

SIR CHRISTOPHER BELLEW, knt. of Bellewstown, espoused Catherine, daughter of Sir William Sarsfield, of Lucan, and left at his decease, 20th May, 1610 (with three sons, who d. s. p. and two daughters, the elder of whom m. first, Sir William Taaffe, of Smarmore, and secondly Sir Terence Dempsey, and the younger became the wife of — Brett, of Drogheda), a son and successor,

SIR JOHN BELLEW, of Bellewstown, who m. the sister of Patrick Barnewall, esq. of Shankhill, and had, with five other sons, who all died issueless, and four daughters,

SIR CHRISTOPHER BELLEW, of Bellewstown, who forfeited his estates during the troubled times of 1641. He wedded Frances, eldest daughter of Matthew, fifth Lord Louth, and dying about the time of the Restoration, left three sons,

I. JOHN (Sir), his heir.

II. Matthew, of Rogerstown, whose son,

PATRICK, served in the army of King WILLIAM at the battle of the Boyne, in which his father, a captain of horse, was slain, fighting on the opposite side. Having searched amongst the dead for his body, which he found and piously buried, he took the belt and pistols worn by him on that memorable day, his only inheritance, and accompanied Lord Inchiquin, under whom he had served, to the south of Ireland. Subsequently, on account of his family experiencing much favour from Henry Boyle, the first Earl of Shannon, and speaker of the Irish House of Commons, he obtained from that nobleman a lease of the lands of Knockave Castle Martyr, and afterwards, from his son, those of Ballendiness, on a lease of lives renewable for ever. He was portreeve of Castle Martyr, where he lived for forty years, and died in 1740, aged eighty, being in that year interred in the church of Castle Martyr. He m. Honora Neville, and had an only son,

ROBERT BELLEW, esq. of Ballendiness, who m. Briana, one of the three co-heiresses of W. Wright, esq. of the county of Cork, and left an only son, PATRICK BELLEW, esq. of Ballendiness, who wedded Sarah, dau. of James Pratt, esq. of Castle Martyr, sister of the late General John Pratt, R. I. A. and aunt of the present General Sir Charles Pratt, by whom he had two sons and one daughter, viz.

ROBERT, barrister-at-law, who m. Sophia Fowke, and had issue,

Patrick-Edward, lieutenant of engineers, died unmarried in India, aged eighteen.

Francis-John, captain H. C. S. m. 21st Novemb. 1818, Anne, only daughter of the late Simon Temple, esq. formerly of Hylton Castle, in the county of Durham, and has issue.

Christopher, lieutenant Bengal army, deceased.

Henry-Walter, captain in H. C. S. and deputy - assistant quartermaster general at Bengal, m. in 1829, Anna, third daughter of Captain Peter Jeremie.

Louisa, m. to Captain John Baker Graves, of Fort William, in the county of Limerick.

Sarah - Margaret, d. unmarried.

Patrick, a major in the 5th regiment of Foot, who d. at Gibraltar.

Brianna, m. to Richard Fitton, esq. of the city of Cork, barrister-at-law.

III. Thomas, of Gaffney.
The eldest son,

SIR JOHN BELLEW, was knighted by JAMES II. restored by act of settlement to all the estate which belonged to his father, called to the privy council, and elevated, in 1686, to the peerage of Ireland as BARON BELLEW, of Duleek. His lordship commanded a regiment of foot in King JAMES's service, for which he was outlawed, but eventually obtained a regrant of his estate. He m. Mary, eldest daughter and co-heir of Walter Birmingham, esq. of Danfort, in the county of Kildare, by whom (who d. in 1694) he had two sons, WALTER and RICHARD, successive peers; and Margaret, wife of Thomas, fourth Earl of Westmeath. His lordship died 12th January, 1692, and was s. by his elder son, of Sir William Wentworth, of Northgatehead, in Yorkshire, and sister of Thomas, Earl of Strafford, and by her he had two daughters, viz.

WALTER BELLEW, second LORD BELLEW, who espoused Frances-Arabella, eldest dau.

Mary, m. to Dennis Kelly, esq. of Aughran, county of Galway, long a state prisoner in the Tower.

Frances-Arabella, m. to Mr. Horn-castle.

Lord Bellew dying without male issue, in 1694, was succeeded by his brother,

RICHARD BELLEW, third LORD BELLEW, who, being a captain in Lord Limerick's dragoons, was outlawed and attainted, but, in April, 1697, received a pardon under the great seal, and, conforming to the Established Church in 1705, took his seat in the House of Peers, and had a pension granted to him by Queen ANNE, which GEORGE I. continued. His lordship espoused, in May, 1695, Frances, third daughter of Francis, Lord Brudenell, by the Lady Frances Saville, his wife, only sister of James, Earl of Sussex, and widow of Charles Livingston, second Earl of Newburgh. By this lady, who died in 1735, Lord Bellew had two sons and one daughter, viz. JOHN, his heir; Walter, who died young; and Dorothea, who wedded, first, Gustavus Hamilton, esq. father of Viscount Boyne, secondly, William Cockburn, esq. of Redford, in the King's county, and thirdly, Captain Joseph Dixon.

His lordship died 22nd March, 1714, and was s. by his son,

JOHN BELLEW, fourth LORD BELLEW, born in 1702, who m. first, at Rome, the Lady Anne Maxwell, daughter of William, Earl of Nithsdale, and by her, who died 3rd May, 1735, had one son, who died in his infancy, and one daughter, Mary-Frances, b. in 1733. His lordship wedded, secondly, Mary, only daughter of Maurice Fitzgerald, esq. of Castle Ishin, in the county of Cork, relict of Justin, fifth Earl of Fingal, and of Valentine, fifth Earl of Kenmare, by whom he had two daughters, Emilia, who died unm. and Anne. Her ladyship dying 19th March, 1741, Lord Bellew espoused, thirdly, Lady Henrietta Lee, fourth daughter of George-Henry, Earl of Lichfield, and had by her one son and a daughter, who d. in infancy. His lordship died in 1772, when the title of BARON BELLEW became extinct.

CROSSLEY OF SCAITCLIFFE.

P. 537, col. 1, l. 39, ABRAHAM CROSSLEY, esq. third son of John Crossley, esq. of Scaitcliffe, was father, it is presumed, of Aaron Crossley, esq. of Dublin, the antiquary, who wedded Mademoiselle Peracheau, and had two daughters, of whom the elder,

FRANCES, m. John Seymour, esq. and was great-grandmother of the present

AARON CROSSLEY SEYMOUR, esq. of Castletown House, in the Queen's county.

the Ballymorrice family.

FLOOD OF FLOOD HALL.—HENRY FLOOD, esq. of Paulstown Castle, is erroneously stated, in vol. i. p. 123, to have married a daughter of Lord Aldborough. His wife is Anna-Maria, daughter of Henry Lennou, esq. to which lady he was married at St.
Paul's Church, Dublin, on the 2nd September, 1815, and by whom he has two sons and two daughters.

WERGE OF HEXGREAVE PARK.—The following is a more correct account of the descent and arms of this family than that in vol. i. page 378.

Mirage.

The Werges, of Hexgreave Park, derive their descent from a family long seated in the county of Sussex, one of which, SIR CLEMENT WERGE, was counsel for the crown upon the celebrated trial of Bishop Atterbury for high treason, and subsequently receiving the honour of knighthood, was made solicitor-general; another, at the same period, in the reign of GEORGE I. was a general in the army, and governor of the forts on the coast of Africa. In the reign of CHARLES II.

The Rev. RICHARD WERGE, rector of Nailston, in Leicestershire, exchanged with the Rev. John Cave, A. M. for the rectory of St. Mary's Gateshead, in the county of Durham, and died in 1685, leaving an only son,

The Rev. JOHN WERGE, A. M. vicar of Kirknewton, in Northumberland. Of this gentleman the following extraordinary circumstance is well authenticated, and has been handed down in many families in the north. About the year 1680, when the feeling in Scotland was so strong against epis-copacy, on the night before Christmas-day, about ten o'clock, a knock was heard at the door of the vicarage, and upon the servant enquiring who was there, the answer was—a friend from Gateshead, (where the Rev. gentleman's father was rector) upon which orders were given to open the door, when a person rushed in armed, and found his way into the room where Mr. Werge was sitting.
He, without preface, declared his intention, and made a stroke with a sword, which in all probability would have proved fatal, but the room being low, and a large beam projecting across the ceiling, the weapon caught the beam, and only inflicted a trifling wound on one shoulder. The reverend gentleman, who was a powerful man, and in the act of rising when the blow was given, immediately closed with the assassin, but not before he had received a thrust, which only pierced the flesh next his ribs; a severe struggle ensued, in which the light was extinguished, and terminated in Mr. Werge extricating himself, and making his way out at the front door, where he found two other ruffians, who eagerly enquired if he had killed him. Mr. Werge, with great presence of mind, answered—"Yes, yes," (upon which they gave way) and ran into the garden, but not before the villains had discovered their mistake, and one of them had discharged a pistol, happily without effect. The alarm being given by the servants, the assassins made their escape. Some few years after, the confession of a man executed at Edinburgh, for murder appeared in print, in which he acknowledged many crimes, but none had distressed his conscience more than the belief of having murdered a clergyman, near the foot of Cheviot, of whom every person spoke well, and which he was hired to perform. Mr. Werge married Elizabeth, daughter of — Wood, esq. of Fallo-den, in Northumberland, (into which family Henry Grey, esq. of Howick, the grandfather of the present Earl Grey, also married) and had issue,

I. RICHARD, A.M. in holy orders, vicar of Hartburn, in Northumberland, who m. the widow of — Errington, esq. of Chester, but whose issue is now EXTINCT.

II. Edward, who d. unmarried.

III. THOMAS, of whom presently.

1. Elizabeth, who wedded — Selby, esq. of Elwick, and had two daughters, one of whom married the late John Stanard, esq. of Lowick, in Northumberland, and was mother of a daughter, the wife of — Grieve, esq. of Orde, North Durham; the other m. Capt. Pemble, R.N. and had issue,

1. Elizabeth Pemble, who m. Admiral Moutry, and had a son, who died under age, and a dau. the wife of the Ven. Archdeacon De Lacy.

2. Katherine Pemble, who m. first, Captain Selby, R. N. and had issue, William Selby, captain R. N. who died at sea, in command of his majesty's frigate Owen Glendower.

Thomas Selby, captain 46th regiment, died in the West Indies.

Katherine Selby, m. to John Harisell, esq. of Belford, Northumberland.

Mrs. Selby espoused secondly, Captain Wilkie, of Ladythorn,

North Durham, and left by him an only son, the present

Robert Wilkie, esq. of Ladythorn.

The third son of the Rev. John Werge,

THOMAS WERGE, esq. settled at Horton Castle, in Northumberland. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Wilson, esq. of Milfield, and had two sons and one daughter, namely,

JOHN, his heir.

Thomas, who settled in Jamaica, and marrying Miss Neufville, of that island, had an only son, who died aged sixteen.

Elizabeth, m. George Reed, esq. of Hoppen, in Northumberland, and left issue.

The elder son,

JOHN WERGE, esq. s. his father at Horton Castle, in 1764, and wedded Margaret, sister of the late Thomas Younghusband, esq. of Marden, in Northumberland, and dying in 1786, left five sons and three daughters, viz.

I. THOMAS, an officer in the 10th regiment of foot, who died of the yellow fever in Jamaica, unmarried.

II. Oswald, late lieutenant-colonel in the 17th Light Dragoons, m. Ellen, daughter of the late Rev. Robert Dean, A.M. of Bolton-le-Moors, Lancashire, and d. 4th September, 1831, having had issue,

1. Oswald, an officer in the 12th Foot, who died at the early age of two and twenty, at Gibraltar, of the dreadful fever there, in 1828, deeply regretted by the whole regiment.

2. Robert, an officer in the 39th Regiment.

1. Margaret, m. to Capt. Clarence Dalrymple of the Hon. East India Company's service.

2. Ellen, unm.

III. John, late a major in the army, and senior captain in the 38th regiment, who gloriously fell in the storming of St. Sebastian, whilst leading the Grenadier Company to the summit of the breach. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of the late Rev. Nathaniel Ellison, A.M. of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and had issue,

1. Margaret, m. to William Smith, esq. of Newcastle, and has issue.

2. Elizabeth, m. to Ralph Carr, esq. of Dunstan Hill, in the palatinate, and of Hedgeley, in Northumberland, and has issue.

3. Jane.

IV. EDWARDS, now of HEXGREAVE PARK.

v. Richard, lost on his passage from America.

i. Margaret, m. to Francis Peacock, esq. of Wallsend, and has issue.

ii. Elizabeth, who d. unm.

iii. Anne, who married the late Henry Howey, esq. of Pasture Hill, Northumberland, and has issue.

GREVIS-JAMES OF IGHAM COURT.—In vol. i. p. 398, William James, esq. sheriff for Kent in 1732, who married the daughter of Demetrius James, esq. of the county of Essex, had a daughter, Sarah-Bella-Elizabeth, who married, 16th November, 1670, at Greenwich, Josiah Wood Hindman, esq. of Greenwich; baptized there 13th May, 1744; entered of Christ Church, Oxford, 22nd November, 1763, aged eighteen, as son of Josiah Hindman, esq. of Greenwich; he was also of Upton, Essex. Mr. J. W. Hindman died in 1784. The issue of this union were two daughters, co-heirs, Sophia, wife of William Turner; and Frances Maria, wife of Joseph Newell. Josiah Hindman, the elder, married Sarah Dore, widow of — Dore, esq. by whom she had David, in the army (one above, General Stibbert, in the East Indies, drowned in the Ganges, by the accidental upsetting of a boat) and Sarah, who married at West Ham, 4th December, 1759, Charles Mears, esq. captain of the Egmont, and had a son and daughter; the son was Captain Charles John Mears, killed at the capture of Seringapatam, 21st April, 1799; the daughter, Sarah, baptized at St. Clement Danes, 27th March, 1766 (living 1833), married at Calcutta, 4th March, 1786, Stephen Cassan, esq. barrister-at-law, father of the Rev. Stephen Hyde Cassan, M.A. F.S.A. vicar of Bruton, and of Wyke Somerset. See Cassan, of Sheffield, p. 648.

CROMWELL OF CHESHUNT PARK.—HENRY CROMWELL, fourth son of OLIVER CROMWELL, the lord protector, by Elizabeth his wife, daughter of Sir James Bouchier, knt. of Filsted, in Essex, wedded in 1655, Elizabeth, eldest dau. of Sir Francis Russell, bart. of Chippenham, and had, with other issue, who all died unmarried, a son, Henry Cromwell, of Spinney Abbey, in the county of Cambridge, ancestor of the present Mrs. (Cromwell) RUSSELL, of CHESHUNT PARK, and a daughter, ELIZABETH CROMWELL, who espoused WILLIAM RUSSELL, esq. of Fordham Abbey, in the county of Cambridge (son of Gerard Russell, esq. of Fordham, M.P. son of Sir William Russell, bart. of Chippenham), and died in 1711, leaving, inter alios, a son.

FRANCIS RUSSELL, esq. baptized at Fordham, 19th January, 1691, who settled in London. He married and had, to survive childhood, one son,

THOMAS RUSSELL, esq. a military officer, born 27th February, 1724, father of

REBECCA RUSSELL, who m. first, James Harley, esq. but by him had no issue, and secondly, William Dyer, esq. of Ilford, in the county of Essex, a magistrate and deputy lieutenant for that shire. By this gentleman, who died 17th January, 1824, she left at her decease, 17th January, 1832, three sons and two daughters, namely,

i. WILLIAM-ANDREW DYER, of Guilford Street, London.

HISTORY OF THE COMMONERS

GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND.

EGERTON-WARBURTON, OF WarBURTON AND ARLEY.

WARBURTON-EGERTON, ROWLAND-EYLES, Esq. of Warburton and Arley, both in the county of Chester, b. 14th September, 1804, inherited the estates on the death of his great-uncle, Sir Peter Warburton, bart., in May, 1813, and assumed in consequence the additional surname and arms of WARBURTON; m. 7th May, 1831, Mary, eldest daughter of Sir Richard Brooke, bart. of Norton Priory, and has issue, MARY-ALICE, b. 5th July, 1832.

Mr. Egerton-Warburton is a deputy lieutenant for the county of Chester, and high sheriff of the same shire in the present year (1833).

Lineage.

The founder of this family came into England at the Conquest, and took up his abode at Dutton.

ADAM DE DUTTON, (son of Hugh Dutton, of Dutton) Lord of Warburton, in the reigns of HENRY II. RICHARD I. and JOHN, espoused Agnes, daughter and co-heir of Hugh Fitzalured, and had a son and heir,

SIR GEOFFREY DUTTON, who inheriting when religious zeal was at its zenith, enrolled himself amongst the soldiers of the Cross, for the plains of Palestine. "The crest," says Ormerod, "which is still borne by the Warburtons, refers to the Holy Land, and was probably gained by some heroic exploit in the expedition." Sir Geoffrey de Dutton had a mansion at Budworth, whence he is sometimes designated, but at this period the family resided chiefly at Sutton. He died about the year 1248, and was s. by his son,

SIR GEOFFREY DE DUTTON, knt. living in 1275. The Abbot of Cockersand, in whose house the Priory of Warburton was now merged, quit claims anno 1271, of his share of the vill, and the advowson of Warburton, which the Præmonstratensian Canons had up to the period held under the father and grandfather of Sir Geoffrey. Sir Geoffrey Dutton had issue,

PETER, his heir.

Thomas, who acquired Thelwall, by grant from his father, in 1258-9.

Margaret, m. first to Robert de Denbigh, and secondly to Nicholas de

Leycester, to the latter Sir Geoffrey gave Nether Tabley. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage, LORD DE TABLEY.)

The elder son and successor,

SIR PETER DUTTON, assumed the surname of Warburton, and was living in the first year of EDWARD II. He had three sons, Geoffry (Sir).

Peter, of Aston and Budworth.

Hugh, of Nether-Walton.

And was s. by the eldest,

SIR GEOFFRY Warburton, knt. whose name, together with that of his wife, Margaret, occurs as Warburton, in an acquittance from Thomas De Celario, anno 1314, being the first time that the name of Warburton is to be found in the family deeds. This Sir Geoffry was sheriff of Lancashire in or about the year 1326. He had, with a younger child, Robert, noticed in a settlement by William Le Boteler, baron of Warrington, in 1327, a son and successor,

SIR GEOFFRY Warburton, who was living in the 33rd of EDWARD III. He m. — and had issue, Geoffry (Sir), his heir.

Peter, alive in 1348.

Margaret, m. to Peter De Lymme.

He was s. by his elder son,

SIR GEOFFRY Warburton, who espoused a lady named Alice, but of what family is not known, and had issue,

Geoffry, who is supposed to have served under the BLACK PRINCE, and to have attended him to his Duchy of Aquitaine. He m. in 1358, Nichola, daughter and heiress of Sir John Danyers, and pre-deceasing his father, left an only daughter, MARGARET, who m. Alan de Rixton, and a. s. p.

Thomas, d. s. p.

JOHN, successor to his father.

Catherine.

Johanna.

Sir Geoffry died before 1383, and was s. by his eldest surviving son,

JOHN Warburton, of Warburton, who wedded Agnes, (supposed to be) daughter of Richard de Wevere, and dying prior to 1391, left a son and successor,

PETER Warburton, of Warburton, then under age, and in ward to Sir John Massy, of Tatton, to whose daughter, Douce, he was contracted, but the contract was annulled by a decree of the Court of Arches, 4th of May, 1402. He subsequently married Alice, daughter of Sir Henry Braylsford, knt. and had PETER and SIR GEOFFRY, his successive heirs, with a daughter, Margaret, living in 1448.

This Peter fought at the battle of Shrewsbury, under the standard of Percy, but had the royal pardon in the 4th of HENRY IV. His seal exhibited, two chevrons and a mullet on a canton, with two dragons for supporters, circumscribed "S. Galfridi de Warborgtone." and he was the last of the family who bore those ensigns. He died 8th of HENRY V. and was s. by his elder son,

PETER Warburton, of Warburton, who appears to have died without issue, and to have been s. by his brother,

SIR GEOFFRY Warburton, of Warburton, knighted before the 10th of HENRY VI. This gentleman bore on his seal a cormorant, the basis of the present coat. He wedded Ellen, sister of John Bruyn, of Tarvin, by whom (who m. secondly, Henry Legh, of East Hall; and thirdly, Ralph Grosvenor) he had with other issue, a daughter, Elizabeth, the wife of Thomas Bulkeley, and a son, his successor, PIERS Warburton, of Warburton, called Wise Piers, who erected in 1469 the mansion-house at Arley. He m. by dispensation in 1469, Ellen, daughter of Sir John Savage, knt. and had issue,

JOHN (Sir), his heir.

Peter, of Bromfield.

Blanche, m. to Thomas Daniel, esq. of Over Tabley.

Douce, m. to Richard Aston, esq. of Aston.

Piers died in or about the year 1495, and was s. by his son.

SIR JOHN Warburton, of Warburton and Arley, one of the knights of the body to HENRY VII. This gentleman was likewise seneschal of Halton and sheriff of Cheshire, by patents under the great seal, for life. He m. Jane, daughter of Sir William Stanley, knt. of Holt, who was chamberlain to the same king, and had issue,

I. PIERS (Sir), his successor.

II. John, who m. Emma Golborne, of Overton.

III. —, another son.

IV. Jane, m. to Sir William Turvyle, knt.

V. Douce, m. to John Starkie, of Wrenbury.

VI. Margaret, m. to John Carrington, of Carrington.

VII. Blanche, m. to William Davenport, of Bramhall.

VIII. —, another daughter.

Sir John Warburton d. in the 15th of HENRY VIII. and was s. by his son,

SIR PIERS Warburton, of Warburton and Arley, who espoused Elizabeth, daughter and eventual heiress of Richard Winnington, esq. of Winnington, in Shropshire, and had issue,

JOHN (Sir), his heir.

Peter, who m. Katherine, daughter and heiress of John Coupe, of the county of Stafford.

Richard.

Jane, m. first to Sir William Brereton, and secondly to Sir Laurence Smith, of Hough.

Anne, m. in 1539 to Sir Edward Fitton, of Gawsworth, in Cheshire.

He died in the 4th of EDWARD VI. and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR JOHN WARBURTON, knt. who died in 1572, in the fifty-second year of his age, and was buried in the church of Great Budworth, where a monument remains to his memory. Of this gentleman there is a full length portrait in the hall at Arley, and amongst the family papers his rent-roll, a very singular document, is to be found. It is formed of skins of parchment stitched together, upwards of ten yards in length, and about a foot in width. The names of the tenants are written in a neat character, and the armorial ensigns of the Warburtons are emblazoned at the top. Sir John m. Mary, daughter of Sir William Brereton, of Brereton, in the county of Chester, and had, with other issue,

I. PETER (Sir), his heir.

II. GEORGE, of the Lodge, m. Elizabeth, sister of Thomas Hesketh, esq. and widow of Alexander Houghton, esq. of Houghton, by whom he had

1. PETER, who succeeded his father on the 1st of January, 1612, m. Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Richard Egerton, knt. of Ridley, in Cheshire, and dying 1st January, 1625, left

PETER, of whom presently, as continuator of the male line at the decease of his great uncle, the Judge of the Common Pleas, Sir Peter Warburton.

GEORGE, heir to his brother.

This gentleman, who is a captain in the royal navy, succeeded, at the decease of his brother, on the 5th December, 1829. He is a magistrate and deputy lieutenant for the West Riding of York and for the county of Nottingham.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the once great and powerful family of NEVILLE, Lords of RABY, who subsequently became Earls of Westmorland,* and whose descent is deducible from our Saxon annals.

WALTIEOF, Officiary Earl of Northumberland, in the reign of King EDGAR, A.D. 969, had by his wife, Judith, daughter of the Earl of Champaign, a son, UCHTRED, who was made Earl of Northumberland, (his father then living) in the year 980, and was murdered by Thursbrand, in 1017. He was thrice married, first, to Edfrid, daughter of Aldane, Bishop of Durham, secondly, to Sejan, daughter of Styr Fitz Ulf, and thirdly, to Elsgina, dau. of King ETHELRED. By the last lady he had an only daughter,

AGATHA, heiress of RABY, and other large possessions which had belonged to her mother. She espoused MALDRED, son of CRINAN, an eminent Thane, and bore an only son, COSPATRICK, who obtained from the CONQUEROR the earldom of Northumberland for a considerable sum of money, but afterwards becoming discontented, fled into Scotland, with other great northern chiefs, taking his mother and sisters, and EDGAR ATHLING, along with him. He subsequently made several hostile incursions into England, and lost his earldom, anno 1072, in consequence; but obtained Dunbar, and the adjoining lands in Loudon, from the Scottish monarch. He d. in 1073, leaving issue,

- I. DOLPHIN, who became EARL OF DUNBAR.
- II. Waltheof, a benefactor to St. Mary's Abbey, York.
- III. UCHTRED, of whom presently.
- IV. Juliana, married, at the instigation of HENRY II., to Ranulph de Merley, of Morpeth, a great Northumberland baron.
- V. Etheldreda, m. to Duncan, natural son of MALCOLM, KING OF SCOTLAND.

The third son,

UCHTRED, was Lord of Raby, in which he was s. by his son,

DOLPHIN, Lord of Raby, who wedded Alice, daughter of Walcher, Bishop of Durham, and Earl of Northumberland, and was s. by his son,

MILDRED FITZ-DOLPHIN, Lord of Raby and Staindrop, in the county of Durham, whose son,

ROBERT FITZ-MALDRED, Lord of Raby, espoused ISABEL DE NEVILLE, only daughter of GEOFFREY DE NEVILLE,* by Emma, daughter and heir of Bertram De Bulmer, a great baron of the north, and eventually heiress of her brother, Henry De Nevile, of Branspath and Durham.† At this marriage it was stipulated that all its issue, male, should assume the surname of NEVILLE; which issue were,

- I. GEFREY FITZ ROBERT, who bore "gules, a saltier arg."
- II. John (Sir), of Pickhall, in Yorkshire, bore the same as his elder brother, but for distinction, powdered with ermines. This Sir John Nevile was ancestor of the present CHARLES NEVILLE, esq. of HOLT, in the county of Leicester.
- III. William who turned colours, bearing arg. a saltier gules.‡ From this William descended the Neviles of Holbeck, in Yorkshire, some of whose family are still living in the neighbourhood of Leeds.

The eldest son,

GEOFFREY (Fitz Robert) DE NEVILL, Lord of Raby, Branspath, &c. &c. had by his wife, Margaret, two sons, namely,

ROBERT, his successor.

Geoffrey, governor of Scarborough Castle, in the reign of HENRY III. He m. Margaret, daughter and heir of Sir John Longvillers, of Hornby Castle, in Lancashire, and died in the 13th EDWARD I. then seised of the manor of APPLEBY, and other lands in Lincolnshire; the castle and manor of HORNBY, in the county of Lancaster; and HOTOX LONGVILLERS, in Yorkshire; the entire of which he acquired by his marriage. He left a son and heir,

JOHN NEVILL, from whom descended the Neviles of Hornby, whose heir, female,

* This GEOFFREY was grandson of GILBERT DE NEVILL, a noble Norman, who came into England as admiral to WILLIAM the Conqueror, and obtained from his victorious Chief large territorial grants in the county of Northumberland, as well as an augmentation to his coat armour, in testimony of the eminent services he had rendered, viz. a ship sa. in a field or, to be quartered by him and his descendants.

† She was likewise heir to her mother, EMMA BULMER.

‡ All quartering Nevile's coat, on a fret of eight.

MARGARET NEVILLE, wedded Thomas Beaufort, Duke of Exeter, who d. in 1426.

The elder son and heir,

ROBERT DE NEVILL, upon doing his fealty in the 30th HENRY III. had livery of all the lands which he inherited from his grandfather, Robert Fitz Maldred. In the 43rd of the same reign he had a military summons to march to the relief of the King of Scotland, and he was then constituted governor of the castles of Norham and Werke. In the next year he had a similar command in Bamborough Castle, and in two years afterwards, he was made warden of all the Royal Forests beyond the Trent, which was followed by the appointment of Justice Itinerant, for the pleas of those forests. In the 47th he was one of the barons who undertook for the king's observance of the ordinances of Oxford, and in the same turbulent era he was appointed captain general of all the king's forces beyond the Trent, sheriff of Yorkshire, and governor of the castle of York. In 1266, we find him governor of Pickering Castle, and in 1270, again governor of Bamborough, although in the interim he had joined the standard of the barons. He m. Ida, daughter of Roger De Bertram, Lord of Mitford, and had a son,

ROBERT, who wedded MARY, elder daughter and co-heir of Ralph Fitz Ranulph, Lord of Middleham, by whom he acquired the manor of Middleham, the manor of Carleton, and the forest of Coverdale. He died in the lifetime of his father (anno 1271), leaving an only son, RANULPH, successor to his grandfather.

He d. in 1282, and was s. by his grandson,

RANULPH DE NEVILL, who, being a minor, obtained permission from the king that his friends might plough and manage his lands; and in the 13th EDWARD I. had livery of certain manors, part of his inheritance. He was summoned to parliament as a BARON, on the 8th June, 1294, and from that period to the 18th February, 1331. He was in the wars of France, temp. EDWARD I. and in those of Scotland in the next reign. It is said, however, that he little minded secular business, but devoted the principal part of his time to conversation with the Canons of Merton and Coverham, upon whom he bestowed some considerable grants.* His lordship m. first, Euphemia, daughter of Sir John De Clavering, and had two sons, viz.

ROBERT, called the "Peacock of the North," who d. s. p. in his father's life time.

He espoused secondly, Margery, daughter of John, son of Marmaduke De Thweng, but had no other issue. He d. in 1331, and was s. by his only surviving son,

RALPH DE NEVILL, second baron, summoned to parliament from 20th November, 1330, to 20th January, 1336. This nobleman, in the time of his father, was retained by indenture to serve the Lord Henry de Percy for life, in peace or war, against all men except the king, with twenty men at arms, whereof five to be knights, receiving £100. sterling per annum. In the 7th of Edward III. his lordship was one of the commissioners sent into Scotland, there to see that the covenant between Edward de Baliol, King of Scots, and his royal master, a stag." It seems that contrary to the custom of his predecessors, he required that the Prior should feast himself, and those whom he might think proper to bring with him, at the presentation of the stag; that the prior's servants should be set aside for the occasion, and that his own servants and officers should be placed in their stead. To all which the churchman demurred. Nevill, in maintenance of his rights, invited John De Baliol, of Barnard Castle, to accompany him as a guest to the priory, but Baliol refused, declaring that he was totally ignorant of the Nevills having at any time such a privilege there. While Sir William De Brompton, the chief justice of the bishopric, acknowledged that he was himself the first who commenced the extravagant practice; for being a young man, and delighting in hunting, he came with the Lord Nevill at the offering of the stag, and said to his companions, "Come let us go into the abbey and wind our horns." The prior further alleged that none of Ranulph's predecessors had ever made such a claim, but were satisfied with a breakfast only on bringing the stag, and that the Lord himself never stayed dinner, unless specially invited. During the life of Ranulph, the matter remained unadjusted, but in the time of his son and successor, RALPH, second lord, it was finally settled, as thus stated by Dugdale. "In this year, doing his fealty to William, Prior of DUNHAM, upon 1st lammas day, for the manor of RABY, he told him, that he would offer the stag as his ancestors had done; saving that, whereas his father required, that the prior's servants should be set aside at that time, and his own serve in their stead; he would be content that his should attend together with those of the prior; and whereas his father insisted, that his servants should only be admitted to dinner; he stood upon it that his should be there entertained the whole day, and likewise the morrow at breakfast; whereupon the prior made answer, "that none of his ancestors were ever so admitted, and that he would rather quit the stag, than suffer any new custom, to the

* This nobleman had a warm contest with the Prior of DURHAM, about the presentation of a stag on St. Cuthbert's day, in September, "which, in truth (says Dugdale) was rather a rent than an obligation, in regard he held RABY, with the eight adjoining townships, by the yearly rent of £4. and were ratified by the parliament of that kingdom; and the next year he was joined with Henry de Percy in the wardenship of the Marches of Northumberland, Cumberland, and Westmorland. He had subsequently high and confidential employments, and was constantly engaged in the wars of Scotland and France. He m. Alice, dau. and co-heir of Hugh de Audley, and had issue,

- I. JOHN (Sir), who succeeded his father, and was third lord. (For the continuation of his lordship's line, refer to BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Peerage.)

prejudice of their church." But to this, Ralph replied, "that he would perform the whole service or none, and put the trial of his right upon the country." The prior, therefore, knowing him to be so powerful, and that the country would not displease him, declined the offer; howbeit, at length, to gain his favour, in regard he had no small interest at court, and might do him a kindness or displeasure, was content for that one time, he should perform it as he pleased, so that it might not be drawn into example afterwards: and to the purpose proposed, that that indenture should be made betwixt them. Whereupon the Lord Nevill brought but few with him, and those more for the honor of the prior, than a burthen; and so shortly after dinner took his leave, but left one of his servants to lodge there all night, and to take his breakfast there on the next day; protesting that being both a son and tenant of the church, he would not be burthensome to it, in respect it would be no advantage to himself, but might much damnify him." He appears afterwards to have submitted the matter entirely to the award of the prior, and the elder monks. The latter of whom reported, "That they had often seen the stag offered, but that the lord never staid dinner unless invited to do so by the prior;" in this they were confirmed by the old men of the country, who farther stated, "that so soon as the stag was brought, it was carried to the kitchen, and that those who conveyed it were taken into the hall to breakfast, as they that bring their rents used to be." "Moreover, whenever it so happened that any of the Lords Nevill were bidden to dinner, his cook was admitted into the kitchen to prepare a dish for him; so likewise another servant in the cellar, to choose his drink; and in like manner, some other at the gate, who knew his servants and followers merely to let them in, and to keep out others, who, under pretext of being servants, might then intrude. But this was only done by the prior, as out of courtesy and respect, and not at all out of right."

Mr. Chester was s. at his decease by his eldest son, the present SIR ROBERT CHESTER, Knt. of Bush Hall.

FAMILY OF CÆSAR.

The family of CÆSAR was of Italian origin, and its ancestors, under the surname of ADELMARE, sprung from Ademar, Count of Genoa, and Admiral of France in the year 1086, had been long settled in the city of Treviso.

PETER MARIA ADELMARE, of that place, a doctor of both laws, and particularly eminent as a civilian, lived towards the close of the 15th century. He espoused Paola, daughter and co-heir of John De Paolo Cæsarino, and had three sons, Claudius, Cæsar, and John-Baptist, of whom the second,

CÆSAR ADELMARE, having been educated for the medical profession, took his degree of doctor in the University of Padua, and came to England in 1550. Practising extensively for some time in London, he was appointed physician to Queen Mary, and in the subsequent reign placed at the head of the medical department at court. Dr. Adelmare wedded Margaret, daughter of Martin Perin, or Perient, by whom (who m. for her second husband, Michael Lock, of London) he had issue,

- i. JULIUS, his heir.
- ii. Charles, a military officer.
- iii. Thomas (Sir), b. in 1561, a barrister of eminence, who was appointed 26th May, 1610, one of the barons of the Exchequer. This gentleman m. thrice, but had issue only by his third wife, Susanna, daughter and co-heir of Sir William Ryther, knt. of The Mote, in Kent, viz.
 1. Thomas, who m. Frances, daughter of Sir George Philpot, knt. of Thrupton, and had issue.
 2. Augustus, } both died unm.
 3. Ferdinando, }
 4. Avice, m. to — Darell.
 5. Susan.
 6. Mary, m. to Ralph Knapton, esq. of Brokenhurst, Hants.
 7. Margaret.
 8. Elizabeth, m. to Christopher Wright, esq. of Derbyshire.

Sir Thomas Cæsar, esteemed a sound lawyer, an able pleader, and an upright judge, d. 9th June, 1621. His widow married Thomas Philpot, esq.

- iv. William, an eminent merchant.
- v. Henry, in holy orders, D.D. Dean of Ely, rector of Bennington, &c. d. unm. 7th October, 1636, and was buried in Ely Cathedral, under a large altar tomb of marble, with this inscription round the verge, "Hic jacet Henricus Cæsar, sacræ Theologiæ professor, quintus hujus Ecclesiæ Eliensis Decanus; de stripe illustri Adelmariorum familiæ nobilis Trevisanæ Venetorum in Italia oriundus;" and on the face of the stone,

Cæsaris Henrici manet hoc sub marmore corpus Pars sua quæ melior Spiritus astra colit.

- vi. Margaret, m. to Nicholas Wright, esq. of Eastmead, in Hants.
- vii. Elizabeth, m. to — Hunt, esq.
- viii. Anne, m. to Mr. Pecke.

Dr. Adelmare died in 1569, and was buried in the parish church of Great St. Helen's, Bishopsgate-street. His eldest son,

SIR JULIUS CÆSAR, was born at Tottenham, in Middlesex, in 1557, and baptized at St. Dunstan's, 10th February, in that year, by the names of Julius-Cæsar, the latter of which he afterwards, at the queen's desire, adopted as a surname. The exalted rank of his sponsors at the font affords a sufficient proof of the high estimation in which his father was held at court; they were William Powlett, Marquis of Winchester, Henry Fitzalan, Earl of Arundel, and the QUEEN herself, represented by the Lady Montacute. Becoming a student of Magdalen College, Oxford, he took his degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1575, and of Master in 1578. He remained at the University until the end of the following year, when he went to Paris, to finish the study of his profession as a civilian. After filling several minor appointments, Dr. Cæsar was constituted in 1584, Judge of the Admiralty Court, in 1591, a Master of Request, and in 1603 he received the honor of knighthood. In 1606, upon the resignation of George Hume, Earl of Dunbar, Sir Julius was constituted Chancellor and Under Treasurer of the Exchequer, and in the subsequent year sworn of the Privy Council. In 1610 he obtained by patent under the great seal, the reversion of the office of MASTER OF THE ROLLS, "after the death, forfeiture, or surrender" of Sir Edward Philips, and the death of that learned judge occurring on the 11th September, 1614, Sir Julius was placed of course on the Rolls Bench. Sir Julius Cæsar m. first, in 1581, Dorcas, daughter of Sir Richard Martin, an alderman of London, and relict of Richard Lusker, esq. of the Middle Temple, by whom (who d. in 1595) he had issue,

- i. CHARLES, d. in infancy.
- ii. Julius, b. 14th February, 1587, who was killed at Padua in a private quarrel, in 1607.
- iii. CHARLES, heir to his father.
- iv. Richard, d. young.
- v. Dorcas, m. to Thomas Anderson, esq. barrister-at-law.

He espoused secondly, in 1596, Alice, dau. of Christopher Grant, of Manchester, and widow of John Dent, of London; and thirdly, Anne, daughter of Sir Henry Wodehouse, of Wraxham, in Norfolk, relict of William Hungate, esq. of East Bradenham, in the same shire, and niece of the great Sir Francis Bacon. By the former (who d. in 1614) he had issue,

- i. JOHN (Sir), of Hyde Hall, in Herts, b. 20th October, 1597, who m. Anne, daughter of William Hungate, esq. of East Bradenham, in Norfolk, and dying in 1647, left issue,
 1. JOHN, of Hyde Hall, who m. a daughter of Sir Thomas Slingsby, and left at his decease an only surviving child, John, who d. unm. in Ireland, a major in the army.

This John Cæsar, in 1656, sold his principal estate of Hyde Hall to William Franklin, esq.

of Gray's Inn; and subsequently the remainder of his property to Arthur Capel, first Earl of Essex.

2. Robert, of Willian, in Herts, who m. Johanna, daughter of Sir William Lovelace, of Lovelace, in Kent, and left three daughters, his co-heirs, Anne, m. to Sir John Poyntz, knt. of Iron Acton, Gloucestershire.

Juliana, m. to Thomas Gage, esq. of Bentley, in Sussex.

Johanna, m. to John Rampayne, gent.

3. Julius, who m. and had two sons, both of whom appear to have died unm.

4. Edward, whose only child to leave issue,

The Rev. John Cæsar, M.A. was collated to the vicarage of Croydon, by Archbishop Sancroft, 18th Jan. 1688. He left at his decease two sons and a daughter, viz.

Julius, one of the procurators-general and a deputy-register in the Arches Court, who d. unm. in 1763.

Charles, who was a naval officer. He m. Miss Rose, of Croydon, and dying about the year 1765, left two sons,

John, a proctor, who m. Sarah, daughter of Henry Robinson, esq. of Ely, and had three sons, Julius - Henry, a clergyman, now deceased; John - Charles, attorney-at-law; and Edward, who d. young; and two daughters, Susannah and Sarah.

Charles, lieutenant in the navy, who m. Jane, daughter of Mr. William Warland, and had an only child, CHARLES AUGUSTUS, of Cambridge.

Susannah.

5. Anne, } both died unm.
6. Susan, }

- ii. Thomas, D.D. d. unm.

- iii. Robert, one of the six clerks in chancery, who d. s. p.

Sir Julius Cæsar died on Easter Day, 18th April, 1636, in the seventy-ninth year of his age, and was buried on the 28th, in the chancel of the church of Great St. Helen's, in Bishopsgate Street, where his monument remains in a state of excellent preservation. "His character," says Lodge, "presents to us a picture of the most perfect integrity, sweetened and adorned by great mildness of temper, and a constant benevolence. His understanding was rather grave and solid than brilliant, and therefore well adapted in his time to the exercise of a profession, in which sound and sober reasoning was held in preference to flippant sarcasms and half witted repartees. His conduct on the bench displayed the most earnest desire to do justice, the most unwearied patience in the pursuit of it, and a sympathy in the sufferings of the unfortunate which came under his judicial observation, of which no parallel instance can be found." His eldest surviving son and heir,

SIR CHARLES ADELMARE CÆSAR, knt. born in 1589, was admitted Doctor of both Laws in the University of Oxford, 7th December, 1612, and received the honour of knighthood, 6th October, in the succeeding year. Adopting, like his father, the profession of the law, Sir Charles was eventually appointed MASTER OF THE ROLLS.* He espoused first, Anne, daughter of Sir Peter Vandlore, knt. an eminent merchant in London, and by her (who died in 1625) he had, to survive infancy, two daughters, Jacomina, m. to Sir Henry Anderson, knt. of Penley; and Anne, the wife of Henry Levingston, esq. of Much Eldever, in Hants. Sir Charles wedded, secondly, in 1626, Jane, daughter of Sir Edward Barkham, knt. alderman of London, and had issue, to survive childhood,

JULIUS, his heir.

HENRY, successor to his brother.

CHARLES, of Great Gransden, in Herts, b. in 1635-6, who m. in 1662, Joanna, youngest daughter of Sir Thomas Leventhorpe, by Dorothy, his wife, second daughter of Sir Giles Allington, of Horseheath, and died in 1707, leaving issue,

1. CHARLES, of Great Gransden, b. in 1664, M.P. for Hertford, appointed treasurer of the navy

* Among the MSS. of his second son, Charles Cæsar, we find the following entry: "June the 14th, 1640, Sir Charles Cæsar, knt. was sworn Master of the Rolls in Chancery, or assistant Judge to the Lord High Chancellor of England, for which high and profitable office he paid to King CHARLES the First, fifteen thousand pounds, broad pieces of old gold, and lent the king two thousand more, when he went to meet his rebellious Scotch army, invading England."

in 1710. He m. in 1689, Mary, relict of — George, esq. and daughter and heiress of Daniel Harris, esq. by whom he left at his demise, in 1726, Harris, in holy orders, rector of Kensington, d. unm.

Charles-John, b. in 1697, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. Vick, a merchant, and had, with other children, who all d. young, a daughter, Elizabeth, who m. Mr. John Aberdein, a wine merchant of London, and d. in 1833.

Joanna, who d. unm.

Jane, who m. the Rev. James Musgrave, D.D.

2. Henry, b. in 1666, a cursitor in chancery, d. unm.

3. Dorothy, m. in 1691, to Henry Bacon, esq. of Burton Latimer, in Northamptonshire.

Sir Charles Cæsar died of the small pox, 6th December, 1642, and was s. by his eldest son,

JULIUS CÆSAR, of Bennington Place, in the county of Herts, who survived his father but five days, falling a victim to the same malady; the estates then devolved upon his brother,

SIR HENRY ADELMARE CÆSAR, knt. of Bennington Place, M.P. for the county of Herts, who espoused, in 1649, Elizabeth, only dau. and heiress of Robert Angel, esq. a Turkey merchant, and had surviving issue,

CHARLES, his heir.

Jane, m. to Sir Thomas Pope Blount, bart. of Tittenhanger.

Sir Henry, "who was endowed," saith Chauncey, "with good learning, great parts, a quick apprehension, and a clear and discerning judgment," died of the small pox in 1667-8, and was s. by his son,

SIR CHARLES ADELMARE CÆSAR, knt. of Bennington Place, M.P. for the town, and subsequently for the county of Herts. This gentleman wedded, 3rd September, 1672, Susannah, daughter and heiress of Sir Thomas Bonfoy, and had three sons and a daughter, viz.

1. CHARLES, his heir.

11. Henry, who d. unm.

111. Thomas, who d. young.

- iv. Elizabeth, m. first, in 1695, to Sir Richard Bennet, bart. of Babraham, and secondly, to Francis Butler, esq. of Sussex.

Sir Charles d. in 1694. "He was," continues Sir Henry Chauncey, "very regular in his life, and orderly in his family. He was very generous to all whom he employed, but seldom pardoned a slight to his person or a contempt of his business. He kept a splendid house and a bountiful table for those who visited him, and was very noble, yet prudent in his entertainments. He declined all public employments during the reigns of King CHARLES II. and King JAMES, nor would he contract a friendship or acquaintance with any he thought scandalous, and abhorred those who would purchase the favour of their prince with the price of the rights of the people." Sir Charles's eldest son,

CHARLES ADELMARE CÆSAR, esq. of Bennington-place,* inherited the most part of his father's splendid possessions, in the twenty-first year of his age, in all the pride of youth, health, and ancestry, and died at the age of 67, insolvent and broken-hearted, a melancholy memorial of the ruin of a once highly flourishing family. He was returned to parliament for Hertfordshire in 1728, and again in 1736, by immensely expensive elections, and squandered otherwise great sums in the support of what was then called the country party, which he espoused with vehemence, as well in parliament, where he was a frequent speaker, as in his own county. He m. in 1702, Mary, second daughter of Ralph Freeman, esq. of Aspenden Hall, and had issue,

* Mr. Cæsar, on inheriting, destroyed the venerable mansion of his ancestors at Bennington, and built in its stead a palace of modern fashion, which was burnt to ashes immediately after it was completed, and before it had been inhabited.

CHARLES ADELMARE.

Julius, a major general in the army, who d. unm. in 1762.

Mary, who d. unm.

Elizabeth, who also d. unm. in 1790.

The elder son,

CHARLES ADELMARE CÆSAR, esq. b. in 1703-4, representative of this eminent family, espoused Jane, only child and heir-ess of Henry Long, esq. of Bayford Place, in the county of Herts, and had two daughters, his co-heirs, viz.

JANE, who m. first, Sir Charles Cottrell Dormer, knt. of Rousham, in Oxfordshire, master of the ceremonies to King GEORGE III. and secondly, General the Hon. John Parker, brother of the Earl of Macclesfield.

HARRIOT, who wedded ROBERT CHESTER, esq. and was mother of the present SIR ROBERT CHESTER, of Bush Hall.

Mr. Cæsar, who barely lived to witness the total overthrow of his house, was an officer of Cavalry, and died in the field of battle.

EMERSON-TENNENT, OF TEMPO.

TENNENT-EMERSON, JOHN, esq. of Tempo, in the county of Fermanagh, b. 7th April, 1804, m. 24th June, 1831, LETITIA, only daughter of WILLIAM TENNENT, esq. of Tempo House, and has a daughter, ELEANOR, b. 6th July, 1832.

This gentleman, whose patronymic is EMERSON, assumed, upon his marriage, the additional surname of TENNENT. He is member of parliament for Belfast, a justice of the peace for the counties of Down and Antrim, and a deputy lieutenant of Fermanagh and of Sligo. Mr. Emerson-Tennent has acquired reputation in the literary world, under his own name, EMERSON, as the author of several volumes of Travels in the Levant, and a History of Modern Greece.

Lineage.

The family of EMERSON came originally from Foxton, in the county of Durham,

GEORGE EMERSON, esq. of Ardmore, in the county of Armagh, was s. by his son, WILLIAM EMERSON, esq. a merchant at Belfast, who m. Sarah, youngest daughter of William Arbuthnot,* esq. of Rockville, in the county of Down, (by his cousin, Miss Scott) and had a son, the present JOHN EMERSON-TENNENT, esq.

The family of TENNENT, originally DAND, or TENAND, is of respectability in Scotland, and the principal branch resides at Glasgow.

WILLIAM TENNENT, esq. of Tempo House, a banker at Belfast, died on the 23rd July, 1832, leaving an only daughter and heiress, LETITIA, who had married, as already stat'd, James Emerson, esq. now Mr. EMERSON-TENNENT.

Estates—Francfort, in the county of Sligo; and Tempo, in Fermanaghshire. The latter is said to be the estate and demesne which are celebrated in Miss Edgeworth's Castle Rackrent; and in the mansion house is still shown the room in which Lady Cathcart* was imprisoned by her husband, one of the MAGUIRES of Tempo. The grounds, though on a small scale, are amongst the most beautifully laid out in Ireland.

Town Residence—25, Duke Street, Westminster.

Seats—Tempo, county of Fermanagh; the Lodge, county of Antrim.

* Note to EDGEWORTH'S "Castle Rackrent."

This part of the history of the Rackrent family can scarcely be thought credible; but in justice to honest Thady, it is hoped the reader will recollect the history of the celebrated Lady Cathcart's conjugal imprisonment. The editor was acquainted with Colonel Mc Guire, Lady Cathcart's husband; he has lately seen and questioned the maid servant who lived with Colonel Mc Guire during the time of Lady Cathcart's imprisonment. Her ladyship was locked up in her own house for many years, during which period her husband was visited by the neighbouring gentry, and it was his regular custom at dinner, to send his compliments to Lady Cathcart, informing her that the company had the honor to drink her ladyship's health, and begging to know whether there was anything at table that she would like to eat? The answer was always, "Lady Cathcart's compliments, and she has every thing she wants." An instance of honesty in a poor Irish woman deserves to be recorded: Lady Cathcart had some remarkably fine diamonds, which she had concealed from her husband, and which she was anxious to get out of the house, lest he should discover them. She had neither servant nor friend to whom she could entrust them, but she had observed a poor beggar woman, who used to come to the house; she spoke to her from the window of the room in which she was confined; the woman promised to do what she desired, and Lady Cathcart threw a parcel, containing the jewels, to her. The poor woman carried them to the person to whom they were directed; and several years afterwards, when Lady Cathcart recovered her liberty, she received her diamonds safely.

At Colonel Mc Guire's death her ladyship was released. The Editor, within this year, saw the gentleman who accompanied her to England after her husband's death. When she was first told of his death, she imagined that the news was not true, and that it was told only with an intention of deceiving her. At his death she had scarcely clothes sufficient to cover her; she wore a red wig, looked scared, and her understanding seemed stupified; she said that she scarcely knew one human creature from another; her imprisonment lasted above twenty years.

This unhappy lady was the widow of the eighth Lord Cathcart; she was his lordship's second wife, and had no children by him. She was the widow, when Lord Cathcart married her, of Joseph Sabine, esq. of Tring.

* His grandfather, WILLIAM ARBUTHNOT, settled in Downshire, anno 1745, having eloped with an heiress, named BRUCE, from Aberdeenshire, in that year.

BENNET, OF LALESTON.

Mr. Bennet s. his father, 13th December, 1801, and served the office of high-sheriff for the county of Glamorgan, in 1825.

Lineage.

SIR BENET DE PENCLAWDD accompanied the Conqueror to England, and received for his services the lordship of Penclawdd, in Gower, (the western extremity of Glamorgan).

That the family of which we are treating was settled there at that period, divers records fully substantiate.

Fuller, in his Church History, pp. 165, 166, quotes a MS. of Thomas Scriven, esq.; also Fox, and the Chronicle of John of Brompton, in proof that, amongst others, Bonet or Benet was one of "such persons as after the battle were advanced to seignuries in this land" (Glamorgan).

The following singular extract from the Harl. MSS. relates to an ancestor of this family in 1113:

"Sir Gr. Benet, he took the of Ridinges* and twenty whit horses to the church, of whom the family have a tradition that he always went to the church upon white horses, or covered them with white sheets." A. D. 1113.—Harl. MSS.

There are also deeds now existing of grants of land in Gower by William Benet, bearing date respectively 1302 and 1350.

In the Notitia Cambro-Britannica, in possession of the Duke of Beaufort, at Ballminton, an entry is made of "Thomas Benet doing service to the court of Bailli glás, at Brecon, for the manor of Upton Hagarnell."

SIR HUMFREY BENET (son of Sir Benet de Penclawdd), espoused Elinor, daughter of Morgan Llewellyn ap Ivor, and thus acquired the estate of Kilfigin, in the parish of Llanbader, in Monmouthshire. He was s. by his son,

SIR GERVASE BENET, father of GRONWY BENET, who had two sons, viz.

1. HOWEL BENET, who had a son,

GRONWY BENET, whose son and successor,

JOHN GRONWY BENET, m. Anne Kemeys, and was s. by his son,

* N.B. Ridinges is now Rhyddings in Gower.

HOWEL BENET, who m. (22nd RICHARD II.) Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas ap Gwylim Jenkin, of Llansaintfread, in the county of Monmouth, by Maud, his wife, daughter of Sir John Morley, of Ragland Castle, and had a son and successor,

WILLIAM AP HOWEL BENET, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of William John Meyric Coch, of Gwent, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM BENET Coch, who m. Anne, daughter and heiress of Jerun Gwylim Philip, of Kefu y Llech, in the county of Monmouth, and had issue,

1. Reynauld, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of William Walton, of Bedfordshire, and died s. p.
2. William, who died, leaving a son, Thomas Llwyd, who died s. p.
3. Elizabeth, who m. Thomas Wolphe, of Monmouthshire, and had a daughter and heiress, Maud Wolphe, who wedded Morgan Morice, of Uske, in the county of Monmouth, thus conveying the Kilfigin property to that family.

II. GRIFFITH, founder of the family now before us.

Mr. Cary, who is a magistrate for the county of Devon, inherited at the decease of his uncle.

Lineage.

The ancient family of CARY derives its surname from the manor of CARY, or KARI, as it is called in Domesday Book, lying in the parish of St. Giles in the Heath, near Launceston.

In the year 1198, according to Sir William Pole,

ADAM DE KARRY, was Lord of Castle Karry, in the county of Somerset. He m. Amy, daughter of Sir William Trevet, knt. and left a son and successor,

JOHN KARRY, whose wife was Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Richard Stapleton, knt. The son and heir of this marriage,

WILLIAM KARRY, was found at his decease in the 31st of EDWARD I. seised of the manor of West Polworth, and his widow possessed of those of Paveston and Karry, near Tavistock. This lady's maiden name was (Alice) Beaumont, and she was the daughter of Sir William Beaumont, knt. Their son and heir,

JOHN, or WILLIAM KARRY, wedded Philippa, daughter of Sir Warine Archdeacon, knt. and had two sons, viz. Sir William

Karry, knt. the husband of Margaret, dau. of Richard Bozom, of Clovelly, in the county of Devon, and

SIR JOHN CARY, knt. who, with his brother Sir William, represented the county of Devon in Parliament, in the 36th and 42nd EDWARD III. He espoused, first, Agnes, daughter of Lord Stafford, but had no issue. He wedded, secondly, Jane, daughter and co-heir of Sir Guy de Bryen, knt. (by Ann his wife, daughter and heir of William Holwey, esq. of Holwey) and left a son,

SIR JOHN CARY, of Holwey, in the county of Devon, who was made a baron of the exchequer by King RICHARD II. "In this post," says Prince, "he continued many years, manifesting in all his actions an inflexible virtue and honesty. And, indeed, it fell out at last that he had an extraordinary occasion laid before him, for the proof and tryal thereof; upon which we find he proved as true as steel, for the greatest dangers could not affright him from his duty and loyalty to his distressed master, King RICHARD II., unto whom he faithfully adhered when most others had forsaken him: to his present loss indeed, but to his future eternal renown. For in the catastrophe of that king's reign, this reverend judge, unable and unwilling to bow, like a willow, with every blast of wind, did freely and confidently speak his mind. He opposed the proceedings for procurators, in regard to his oath, to take King RICHARD's resignation, his true and undoubted sovereign. This cause he pursued with so much zeal and earnestness, that at the entrance of HENRY IV. into the English crown, about the year of our Lord 1400, he was by that prince banished his country, and his goods and lands were confiscated." He m. Margaret, daughter and heir of Robert Holloway, and died possessed of Cockington and Clovelly, at the former of which he principally resided. His son and successor,

SIR ROBERT CARY, *knt. wedded, first, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Philip Courtenay, of Powderham, in Devonshire, which lady dying without issue, he m. secondly, Jane, daughter of Sir William Hanchford, knt. and widow of — Wadham. A proof of the great prowess in arms of this gallant knight is recorded in the following exploit: "In the beginning of the reign of HENRY V. a certain knight-errand of Arragon, having passed through divers countries, and performed many feats of arms, to his high commendation, arrived here in England, where he challenged any man of his rank and quality to make trial of his valor and skill in arms. This challenge Sir Robert Cary accepted; between whom a cruel encounter and a long and doubtful combat was waged, in Smithfield, London. But at length, this noble champion vanquished the presumptuous Arragonois; for which King HENRY V. restored unto him good part of his father's lands, which, for his loyalty to King RICHARD II., he had been deprived of by King HENRY IV.; and authorized him to bear the arms of the knight of Arragon, viz. 'In a field silver, on a bend sa. three white roses,' which the noble posterity of this gentleman continue to wear unto this day; for, according to the laws of heraldry, whosoever fairly in the field conquers his adversary may justify the bearing of his arms."

Sir Robert was s. at his decease by his son,

SIR PHILIP CARY, knt. of Cockington, in the county of Devon, who m. Christian, dau. and heir of William Orchard, of Orchard, in Somersetshire, by whom (who wedded, secondly, Walter Portnan, see p. 62, vol. i.) he had a son and successor,

SIR WILLIAM CARY, knt. who fell in the battle of Tewkesbury, anno 1471, fighting under the banner of Lancaster. He had wedded, first, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir William Paulet, of Hinton St. George, in the county of Somerset, and had a son, ROBERT, his heir. His second wife was Alice, daughter of Sir Baldwin Fulford, of Fulford, in the county of Devon, knt. and by her he was father of

THOMAS CARY, of Chilton Foliot, in the county of Wilts, who m. Margaret, daughter and heir of Sir Robert Spencer, knt. by Alianore, daughter and co-heir of Edmond Beaufort, Duke of Somerset, (refer to BURKE'S Extinct Peerage) and had issue,

1. JOHN (Sir), of Pleshy, and of Thremhall Priory, in Essex, m. Joyce, dau. of Thomas Denny, esq. of Cheshunt, in the county of Hertford, sister of Sir Anthony Denny, knt. and relict of William Walsingham, and had WYMOND (Sir), of Snettisham, in Norfolk, who m. Catherine, daughter and co-heir of Sir John Jernegan (now Jerningham), and relict of Henry Crunc, of Chillington, esq. but died issueless, 13th April, 1612.

EDWARD (Sir), of Berkhamstead, in the county of Hertford, master of the Jewel Office to Queen ELIZABETH, and to King JAMES I. m. Catherine, daughter of Sir Henry Knevit, knt. and his eldest son,* SIR HENRY CARY, knt. was created VISCOUNT FAULKLAND, in Scotland.

2. William, m. to Mary,† youngest daughter of Sir Thomas Boleyn, Earl of Wiltshire and Ormonde, and sister of ANNE BOLEYNE, the unhappy consort of HENRY VIII. by whom (who wedded secondly, Sir William Stafford, knt.) he had a son, HENRY CARY,‡ who was created by his cousin, Queen ELIZABETH, Baron Hunsden. See BURKE'S Extinct Peerage.

Sir William Cary was s. by his elder son,

ROBERT CARY, esq. of Cockington, who wedded, first, Jane, daughter of Sir Nicholas Carew, knt. and had two sons, namely,

1. JOHN, of Cary, who m. Jane, daughter and heir of Edmund Devick, esq. of Oakhampton, and had issue,

* He had two other sons, SIR ADOLPHUS CARY who died without issue, and SIR PHILIP CARY, of Marrowbone Park, Middlesex, whose son JOHN CARY, esq. of Stanwell, master of the buck hounds to King CHARLES II. had two sons, who both died in boyhood, and two daughters, ELIZABETH m. to Sir Humphrey Briggs, bart. of Haughton, in the county of Salop, and ANNE, m. to William, sixth Lord Willoughby, of Parham.

† At Torr Abbey is preserved the valuable pedigree drawn up by the Herald's College, at the express order of Queen Anne Boleyn. It begins thus, "This pedigree contains a brief of that most ancient family and surname of the Caryes, of Carye, in the countie of Devon, and it shows that how the family was connected with the noble houses of Beaufort, Beauchamp, Spencer, Somerset, Bryan, Fulford, Orchard, Holway, &c."

‡ His fourth son, ROBERT CARY, was created EARL OF MONMOUTH.

* Sir Robert's brother was Bishop of Exeter.

1. ROBERT, his heir, who m. a daughter of Alexander Walla-comb, and had two sons, Launcelot and Richard.
2. Thomas, m. Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Fulford, knt. and widow of Humphrey Arundel, and had several children.
3. John, d. s. p.
4. Mary, m. to Humphrey Stevens.
5. Elizabeth, m. to Thomas Walton, of Somersetshire.

II. THOMAS, of whom presently, as inheritor of Cockington.

Robert Cary m. secondly, Agnes, daughter of Sir William Hody, knt. of Pillesdon, in the county of Dorset, and had a son,

III. William, who m. Joan, daughter of John Herle, esq. of Prideaux, in Cornwall, and had two sons, Robert and William.

He espoused, thirdly, Margaret, daughter and heir of William Fulkeram, esq. of Dartmouth, and had another son,

IV. Robert, upon whom he conferred Clovelly, in the north of Devon. This gentleman m. Margaret, daughter of John Milliton, esq. of Pengarseke, in the county of Cornwall, and dying about the year 1579, was s. by his eldest son,

GEORGE CARY, of Clovelly,* which residence (vide Risdon) continued in the name of Cary until the year 1724.

The second son of Robert Cary, sen.

THOMAS CARY, esq. inherited the lands of Cockington and Chilson. He espoused Mary, daughter of John Southcot, esq. of Bovy Tracy, in Devonshire, and had issue,

- I. GEORGE (Sir), his heir.
- II. Richard, living in 1614.
- III. Gregory.
- IV. Arthur.
- V. John, of Dudley, in the county of Stafford, m. a daughter of — Norton, and had issue,

1. John, married, and left issue.
2. EDWARD, of whom presently, as part inheritor of the property of his uncle, Sir George Cary, the lord-deputy.
3. Thomas, of Moushall, in the county of Stafford, m. Martha, daughter of William Steward, of Rowley, in the same shire, and died in 1644. He was father of John Cary, of Ditchley, in Oxfordshire, who m. Jane, daughter of Richard Nanfant, of the county of Gloucester, and dying in 1664, left several sons.

Edward Cary, of Moushall.

4. Edward, d. s. p.

5. GEORGE, who inherited Cockington, and the remainder of his uncle, the lord deputy's, estates, m. Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Edward Seymour, bart. of Berry Pomeroy, in the county of Devon, and had, with three younger sons and a daughter,

SIR HENRY CARY, knt. This gentleman was sheriff of the county of Devon in the 18th of CHARLES I. and during the civil wars devoted himself and his fortune to the services of that unhappy prince. Having thus consumed a considerable estate when the royal cause fell, he was forced to fly his native land. The house of Stuart was not, however, unmindful of such disinterested devotion, for when the Duke of Ormond, in a succeeding reign, appeared off Torr Bay, he assured the family, on the part of his royal master, THE CHEVALIER, of that prince's recognition of their great services, and of his wish to grant them high honors, and honorable indemnification, in pledge of which he had sent them his father, King JAMES the Second's picture, with that of his mother, the queen, inclosed in a silver box. This memorial* is now preserved at Follaton House.

6. Dudley, married and had issue.

Thomas Cary was succeeded at his decease by his eldest son,

SIR GEORGE CARY, knt. of Cockington, treasurer of Ireland, and afterwards lord-deputy. "Sir George Cary, upon what motive or encouragement I do not find," says Prince, in his Worthies of Devon, "went into Ireland, where he grew in great esteem with the government, and was preferred

* The parish church, which adjoins the mansion, now called Clovelly Court, and the property of Sir James Hamlyn, bart. is filled with the monuments of the Cary family, as is also Cockington Church, in the parish of Torr.

* It has been asserted, and not without probability, that the miniatures of JAMES II. and his queen, which are in the possession of some families to this day, were given as assurances, or more properly speaking, as royal bonds for monies lent, and estates alienated, in the service of the royal house of Stuart.

treasurer of wars, an high and honourable post in that kingdom, in which he did continue several years, even to the death of ELIZABETH; and then the Lord Mountjoy, at that time lord-deputy there, being willing to go to England, to congratulate King JAMES I. upon his coming to this crown, and to be nearer the beams of that new-risen sun in our hemisphere; in his instructions to Sir Henry Davers, whom he sent express to the said king, recommended to his majesty Sir George Cary, treasurer at wars, as the fittest person to succeed him in that high and honourable place. Sir George Cary took up his honourable sword in a stormy tempestuous time, when that kingdom was strangely actuated with the spirit of rebellion, which occasioned him much trouble during the little space he held it. Sir George did not continue in this government much more than a year, and then Sir Arthur Chichester, with better fortune, succeeded him therein. Not long after this Sir George Cary returned into England, and retired to his seat at Cockington, where, being grown somewhat aged, he resolved to live the residue of his days to God and himself; and knowing how pleasing a sacrifice to God charity and good deeds are, he purposed to do something for the poor, and accordingly he set about building of seven alms-houses for their use and comfort."

He espoused, secondly, Lettice, eldest daughter of Robert Lord Rich, first earl of Warwick, but by her (who m. secondly, Sir Arthur Lake, knt.) he had no children. Sir George died in 1616, and was s. by his nephew,

SIR EDWARD CARY, knt. of Marlton, in the county of Devon, styled in the family pedigree*, "of EXETER," the place probably of his birth. The following curious account of this gentleman appeared in the Exeter News. "About the year 1625, Mr. Cary received the honour of knighthood in Ireland, and shortly after established himself at Staulor Barton, within Marlton Parish. Here he soon became noted for absenting himself from the Protestant Church. Denounced for refusing to join in the Common Prayer of the Church of England, he was convicted on the 16th March, 1629, of being a Popish recusant: still he contrived to elude the payment of £20 per month for adhering to the dictates of his conscience. At last, a writ was issued from the Crown Office, and directed to John Davie, esq. high sheriff of Devonshire, to proceed against him. An inquisition was accordingly held, in the parish of St. Thomas, near Exeter, on 1st October, 1630; and the high sheriff's return certifies, that Sir Edward Cary was then seised of the manors of St. Mary Church, Coffinswell, Northlewe, Ashwater, Bradford, Abbotsesham, Stockley als Meeth, and Goodley, also of an estate called Est Kimber, of 90 acres, of Middlelake, containing 41 acres, of Monchouse, containing of 91 acres, Dobles Thorne, comprehending 53 acres, Gaston or Gason, of 55 acres, also 70 acres in Yeo, at Allington; 53 acres in Cockington, 6 acres in Aishenage or Alverdiscott, 27 acres in Wistland, Cherybere, and Delton, 97 acres in Parvacott, Thornedon, and Peworthy, 12 acres in Instowe and Bradworthy, 120 acres at Westweeke and Bondehouse, within the parishes of Lamerton and Broadwoodwiger; and a third part of a cottage in Bedfory. By law, the crown was now entitled to take, seize, and enjoy all the goods and chattels, and two parts of the recited lands, tenements, and hereditaments; but by letters patent under the great seal, bearing date 24th June, 1634, and enrolled in the Pipe Office, 20th October, in the same year, King CHARLES I. was pleased to release and pardon all the arrears to the said Sir Edward Cary, his heirs, executors, and administrators. At the same time his Majesty granted the above-mentioned estates to Thomas Ridsen and Christopher Maynard, gentlemen, to hold the same from Lady Day, 1632, during the complete term of 41 years, by the yearly rent to the crown of £136. 13s. 4d. payable at Lady Day and Michaelmas, in even portions. These lessees, however, were fully empowered and authorized to grant their lease of the whole or part of the recited property to the said Sir Edward Cary, or to any person or persons for his own use and benefit, notwithstanding the statute, anno tertio Jacobi I. 'An Act for the better discovery and repressing of Popish Recusants.' And so long as the said Sir Edward Cary continued to pay into the exchequer the said yearly sum of £136. 13s. 4d. both he and his wife are directed to remain unmolested by summons and legal process in his majesty's courts of law, and to be exempt from all pains and penalties by reason of their past recusancy, or their future absence from church, chapel, or place of common prayer."

"This royal indulgence, unfortunately for Sir Edward Cary, was but of short duration. The civil wars commenced, and all the fury of puritanic zeal and cruelty was let loose on the unoffending Catholics. In the State Paper Office is the 'Catalogue of

In the mean while, Sir Edward, in the true spirit of a person devoted to his religion, gloried in the persecution, and took joyfully the spoiling of his goods, knowing that he had in heaven a better and enduring substance. He would not accept deliverance, in order that he might obtain a better resurrection. On the 14th June, 1654, æt. 80, the Almighty crowned his fidelity with a happy death. LEGH, OF NORBURY BOOTHS HALL.

LEGH, PETER, esq. of Norbury Booths Hall and Torkington Lodge, both in the county of Chester, b. in 1794, succeeded his father in 1826. Mr. Legh is deputy lieutenant for Cheshire, and has served the office of high sheriff.

Lineage.

The LEGHS derived their name from the town of HIGH LEGH, in Cheshire, where they were seated before the CONQUEST.

HAMON, Lord of the Mediety of HIGH LEGH, in the time of HENRY II. was father of WILLIAM DE LEGH, of West Hall, in High Legh, whose grandson,

RICHARD DE LEGH, left an only daughter and heiress,

AGNES DE LEGH, who espoused, first, RICHARD DE LYMME, and had a son,

1. THOMAS, who took the name of LEGH, and had half of the said mediety of High Legh. He left a son, THOMAS LEGH, who was patriarch of the Legh, of West Legh, in High Legh.

Agnes wedded, secondly, William de Hawardyn, and had a son by him,

- II. RALPH DE HAWARDYN, who had the other half of the mediety of High Legh, and sold it to Sir Richard Massey, of Tatton, in 1206.

She m. thirdly, Sir William Venables, knt. second son of Sir William Venables, Baron of Kinderton, by whom she had another son,

- III. JOHN, who assumed the name of LEGH.

The youngest son,

JOHN LEGH, became proprietor, by purchase, of Knutsford Booth, before the 28th of EDWARD I. He wedded, first, —, and had a son, JOHN (Sir). He espoused, secondly, Ellen, daughter of Thomas de Corona, of Adlington, and was father of

- ROBERT, from whom sprang the Leghs, of Adlington, Annesley, Lyme, Ridge, Stoneleggh, Stockwell, &c.
- William (Sir), ancestor of the Leghs, of Isall.

Peter, progenitor of the Leghs, of Bechton.

Gilbert, whose son,

John de Legh, m. Cecilia de Towneley, and became ancestor of the family, which assumed the name of Towneley, and which is now represented by PEREGRINE-EDWARD TOWNELEY, esq. of Towneley.

He was s. by his eldest son,

SIR JOHN DE LEGH, living in the time of EDWARD III. who m. first, Maud, daughter of Sir John Arderne, of Aldford, and acquired with her a moiety of the manor of Mobberley. By this lady he had,

- I. JOHN, his heir.
- II. James, who died before the 43rd of EDWARD III. leaving a son,
- JOHN, heir to his uncle.

Sir John espoused, secondly, Isabel, sister and co-heir of John Baggileigh, of Baggileigh, and had another son,

- III. William, founder of the Leighs, of Baggileigh, now extinct.

The eldest son,

JOHN LEGH, of Booths, wedded Elizabeth, daughter and co-heir of Sir Richard de Sonbach, by whom he had an only daughter, MAUD LEGH, who m. Richard Radclyffe, of Ordeshall, and conveyed to him, as her inheritance, a moiety of the manor of Mobberley.

John Legh dying thus without male issue, the estate of Booths devolved upon his nephew,

JOHN LEGH, who thus became "of Booths." In the 43rd of EDWARD III. he was found by inquisition, at the decease of his father's step-mother, Isabel, heir to the lands which she enjoyed after her husband's death, namely, the manor of Booths, in Knottesford, a sixth of Ollerton, and half of Rones-thorne, with divers other lands. He was sheriff of Cheshire from the 5th to the 9th of the reign of HENRY V. He was s. at his decease by his son,

JOHN LEGH, of Booths, father of

SIR JOHN LEGH, of Booths, a staunch Lancastrian, who fell fighting under the Red Rose at Blore Heath, in the 38th of HENRY VI. He left two sons,

- I. JOHN, his successor.
- II. PHILIP, heir to his nephew.

The elder son,

JOHN LEGH, of Booths, espoused Emma, daughter and co-heiress of Robert Grosvenor, of Hulme, with whom he acquired the demesne lands of Allstock. He died in 1470, and was s. by his only son,

JOHN LEGH, esq. of Booths. This gentleman m. Anne, daughter of Sir William Booth, of Dunham Massey, by whom (who m. secondly, Geoffrey Shakerley, esq. of Shakerley) he had an only daughter, ELIZABETH LEGH, who was sole heiress to her grandmother's estate at Hulme.

She m. Peter Shakerley, esq. of Shakerley. (See vol. i. p. 9.)

John Legh dying without male issue, was s. by his uncle,

PHILIP LEGH, esq. who was returned to the estate of Booths by inquisition in the 2nd RICHARD III. He wedded Elizabeth, daughter of Andrew Brereton, of Brereton, by whom (who wedded, secondly, John Carrington, of Carrington) he left issue,

JOHN (Sir), his heir.

Joan, m. first to Richard Starkey, esq. of Stretton, and secondly to — Stanley.

Mr. Rawson, who inherited the family estates at Bradford, having considerably augmented his fortune by trade, purchased Nidd, his present residence, and other property in Yorkshire.

Lineage.

The Ravensons or RAWSONS were originally settled at Fryston, near Ferrybridge. In the visitation of the county of York, 1585, there is a pedigree given of eight generations, commencing with Robert Rawson, of Fryston, who lived temp. RICHARD II. and who married Agnes, daughter of Thomas Mares. A branch of which family as is presumed from the similarity of arms in the visitation of 1666, settled at Bradford, in Yorkshire.

WILLIAM RAWSON, esq. of Bradford, whose will bears date 18th March, 1549, had five sons, viz.

- I. WILLIAM, who m. (as stated in the visitation of Yorkshire, 1666) Agnes, daughter and heiress of William Gascoigne, esq. and thus acquired the manor and estate of Shipley. He had several children, of whom

WILLIAM, his heir, m. Barbara, daughter of William Hawksworth, esq. of Hawksworth, but died s. p.

Thomas, the second son, died unm.
Laurence, the third son, wedded Jane, another daughter of William Hawksworth, esq. of Hawksworth, and had issue. Fourth in descent from Laurence, was,

WILLIAM RAWSON, esq. who m. Judith Prescott, and dying without issue, in 1745, bequeathed the Shipley estates to his wife. That lady wedded secondly, Dr. Jackson, of Stamford, and had two sons, Cyril, Dean of Christchurch, and William, Bishop of Oxford, whose executors sold the manor and estate of Shipley, to JOHN-WILMER FIELD, esq. of Heaton Hall, near Bradford, Yorkshire, the present possessor.

- II. Nicholas.
- III. Richard.
- IV. PAUL.

v. Henry.

Third in descent from the fourth son,

PAUL RAWSON, esq. of Bradford, was

WILLIAM RAWSON, esq. of Bolling, near Bradford, who m. first, Martha, daughter of William Pollard, esq. and had, with other children,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Hannah, m. to William Wainman, esq. of Bolling.

He wedded secondly, Dorcas, daughter and heiress of Timothy Brooke, esq. of Brookroyd, near Birstall, and had (with five daughters) a son,

BROOKE, who m. Susanna, daughter of Benjamin Bower, esq. and had a son, BENJAMIN, heir to his cousin Jeremiah.

Mr. Rawson was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

WILLIAM RAWSON, esq. who built the present mansion house at Bradford in 1705. He married thrice, and by his second wife, Grace, daughter and co-heiress of Jeremiah Rossendale, esq. had, inter alios, a son and successor,

JEREMIAH RAWSON, esq. of Bradford, who espoused Frances, daughter of Richard

Sterne, esq. of Elvington, grand-daughter of Archbishop Sterne, and cousin to Lawrence Sterne, the author of the Sentimental Journey. By this lady he had a son, Jeremiah, and a daughter, Frances, but both dying young, he left, at his decease, the Bradford estates to his first cousin,

BENJAMIN RAWSON, esq. who m. Anne, eldest daughter of the Rev. Charles Steer, rector of Handsworth, in the county of York, and had issue, BENJAMIN, b. in 1758, his heir.

Susannah, } both died unm.

Mary, }

Anne, m. to John Cheyne, esq. lieutenant R.N. and had one son and a daughter.

BLACKER, OF CARRICK BLACKER.

BLACKER, WILLIAM, esq. of Carrickblacker, in the county of Armagh, M.A. lieutenant-colonel of the Armagh militia, and a deputy-lieutenant of that shire, b. in 1780, m. in 1810, Anne, eldest daughter of Sir Andrew Ferguson, bart. M.P. for Londonderry. Col. Blacker was appointed Vice Treasurer of Ireland in January, 1817, and held office until 1829, when he resigned. He succeeded his father in 1826.

Lineage.

This family derives its name and descent from BLACAR, king or chief of the North-men or Danes, who settled at Dublin in the beginning of the tenth century. He was the son of Godfred, and the grandson of Imar. Succeeding his brother Amlave in 938, he led back the Danes to Dublin, from whence they had been driven. In 940, he plundered Clonmacnoise and Kildare, and the next year he slew with his own axe, on the 26th March, in a pitched battle on the banks of the Bann, Mairchertach, King of Ailech, called the Hector or bravest of his time, and the day after he marched against and sacked the city of Armagh. It is a singular fact that his descendants have for many generations possessed the site of this victory; the traditions of the country, the remains of an ancient encampment, and the discovery of both Danish and Irish weapons (some of which are now in the possession of Colonel Blacker), strongly corroborate the testimony of historians, in this particular. In 913, Blacar was driven from Dublin by a successful attack of the Irish, and he fell in 946 near that city, with 1600 of his people, vanquished by Congalach, King of Ireland, and was succeeded by his son, SITRIC MAC BLACAR. By some authors he is called BLACCARD, and it is worthy of observation, that the name is still frequently pronounced by the lower classes of the people BLACCARD. See Harris Ware, vol. i. p. 48. Stewart's History of Armagh, p. 160. &c.

CAPTAIN VALENTINE BLACKER, of Carrick, in the parish of Sego and county of Armagh, as he is described in old records, was born in 1597. He m. Judith, daughter of — Harrison, esq. of Breagh, and had one son, GEORGE, and a daughter, Violetta. Captain Blacker purchased the manor of Carrowbrack, with courts leet, &c. from Anthony Cope, esq. of Loughgall, 22nd August, 1660. This manor is commonly known by the name of Carrickblacker. During Captain Blacker's lifetime, and principally by his means, the old church of Sego, now in ruins, was built. He died 17th August, 1677, and was interred in Sego Church. His only son and successor,

MAJOR GEORGE BLACKER, of Carrick and Ballynaghie, both in the county of Armagh, espoused Rosa, daughter of — Young, esq. and had issue,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Legard, died 29th August, 1686, and was buried at Shankhill.

Robert, a captain, died 31st August, 1689, buried at Sego.

Frances, m. to John Tipping, esq. who died 25th February, 1689, and was buried at Sego.

Major Blacker was one of the gentlemen obliged by JAMES II. to proceed to Londonderry for the purpose of demanding the surrender of that city; but remaining firm to the cause of WILLIAM, his name, together with that of his son, William Blacker, gent. appeared in the act of attainder of that day. Mrs. Rose Blacker died 4th February, 1689; the precise time of Major Blacker's demise is uncertain, but it must have been shortly after: both were buried in Sego church. Major Blacker was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM BLACKER, esq. of Carrick and Ballytroan, who built, in 1692, as appears from a date cut on a stone in the wall, the present manor house of Carrickblacker. This gentleman m. first, before the year 1666, Elizabeth, daughter of the Hon. Robert Stewart, of Irry and Stewart Hall, in the county of Tyrone, third son of the first baron Castlestewart, descended from the dukes of Albany, and by her (who died in January, 1678, and was buried at Ballyclog), he had an only son,

STEWART, his heir.

Mr. Blacker espoused, secondly, late in life, Miss Mathers, and had another son, Samuel, of Tandragee, county of Armagh, who m. 29th April, 1734, Mary, daughter of — Corry, esq. of Rock Corry, in the county of Monaghan, and by her (who died 30th October, 1771) he left issue,

ST. JOHN BLACKER, in holy orders, rector of Moira, in the county of Down, and afterwards prebendary of Inver, in Donegal, born 28th September, 1743, m. first, 10th October, 1767, Grace, daughter of Maxwell Close, esq. of Elm Park, in Armaghshire, and sister of Sir Barry Close, bart. Mr. Blacker subsequently resided at Twickenham, in Middlesex, and wedded, secondly, Susan, daughter of Dr. Messiter, of London. By his first wife (who died 2nd April, 1798, and was buried at St. Oswald's, Chester) he had five sons and four daughters, viz.

1. SAMUEL, in holy orders, LL.D. prebendary of Mullabrack, in the county of Armagh, born 29th September, 1771, m. first, Mary-Anne, daughter of David Ross, esq. of Rosstrevor, and sister of major-general Robert Ross, of Blodensbury, by whom he had, with a son Henry, who d. s. p. one daughter, Elizabeth, m. to the Rev. N. Calvert, of Hunsdon House, Herts. Dr. Samuel Blacker wedded, secondly, Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Douglas, esq. of Grace Hall, county of Down, and has issue,
 1. St. John.
 2. Thomas.
 3. Theodosia.
 4. Elizabeth.

- iii. William, of Gosford, born 1st April, 1776.

- iv. Valentine, C.B. lieutenant-colonel of the 1st regiment of light infantry in the East India Company's service; quartermaster-general of the Madras army; surveyor-general of India, &c. born 19th October, 1778, m. 22nd Deember, 1813. Emma, daughter of Robert Johnson, esq. of Liverpool, and had three sons, Valentine - Samuel Barry; Maxwell; and St. John, and one daughter, Emma-Louisa-Rosa. Lieutenant-colonel Blacker published in 1821, "A History of the Maharatta War," 4to. with maps and plans; and also a magnificent Map of Hindostan, from his own survey. He died in 1823.

v. St. John, of Merion-square, Dublin, lieutenant-colonel in the first regiment of Madras Native Infantry, born 14th March, 1786, m. in 1828, Anne Hammond, only child of Sir Charles Morgan, and has two daughters, Charlotte and Isabella.

vi. Mary.

vii. Catherine, m. 10th January, 1804, to the Rev. Charles Barker, canon of Wells; and secondly, to the Rev. — Ball.

viii. Grace, m. 6th May, 1809, to Robert Alexander, esq. representative of the elder branch of the Caledon family, and has issue.

ix. Charlotte, m. 8th December, 1808, to lieutenant-colonel John Munro, and has issue.

William Blacker, of Carrick, was s. at his decease by his elder son,

STEWART BLACKER, esq. of Carrick, born in 1671. This gentleman espoused Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of William Latham, esq. of Brookend, in the county of Tyrone, and had issue,

i. Stewart, died in infancy.

ii. WILLIAM, his heir.

iii. Latham, born 30th September, 1711, m. Martha, daughter of Peter Beaver, esq. of Drogheda, by whom (who died in September, 1802) he left issue,

1. Beaver, who m. his cousin, Miss Susan Blacker, and died in May, 1808, leaving a son, Latham Blacker, esq. solicitor to His Majesty's Customs, Ireland, who m. 13th April, 1820, Catherine, daughter of the Rev. George Miller, D.D. late Fellow of Trinity College, Dublin, rector of Denyvollen, county of Fermanagh, and has Beaver Henry, and other issue.

2. Henry, captain 65th regiment.

LETITIA, m. to WILLIAM BLACKER, esq. of Carrick, as in the text.

Martha, m. first, to Thomas Newburgh, esq. of Ballyhaise, in the county of Cavan; and secondly, to Dean Cradock, of St. Patrick's, Dublin.

The Right Hon. Lieutenant-general FREDERICK HAMILTON, of Milburn, in Lanarkshire, and of Walworth, in Derry, M. P. for Coleraine, from whom Sir Walter Scott is said to have drawn the character of Morton of Milwood, in his tale of "Old Mortality," was, as above mentioned, the grand-uncle of the Right Hon. Edward Cary, and his sister, Mrs. Blacker. He accompanied WILLIAM III. into Ireland, as aide-de-camp, where he obtained large possessions. He wedded Jane, daughter of Sir Randal Beresford, bart. of Coleraine, by whom he had no issue. She died in 1716, General Hamilton in 1732, and both were buried in Walworth church, under a handsome monument. Having, by his will, bearing date 25th August, 1731, devised his leases of the manor of Walworth, and divers other lands, which he held from the Fishmonger's Company, London, to his nephew, Viscount Tyrone, he leaves his estates in the counties of Tipperary and Kildare to Frederic Cary, second son of his niece Anne, daughter of his brother George, and wife to Henry Cary, esq. of Dungiven Castle, and his heirs male, remainder to her younger sons and their heirs male, they respectively to take and use the surname of HAMILTON; remainder to Edward, her eldest son, and his issue, male and female, &c. He bequeathed £50. towards rebuilding the ancient abbey of Holycross, with £350. to be laid out at interest, or in purchasing lands, the annual produce thereof to be paid for ever to the clergyman who performs the service of the said church, and £30. to the poor of the parish of Taunafinlagan, county of Derry. Mr. Clifton succeeded his father on the 23rd March, 1832. During the war he served in the 14th regiment of Dragoons, under the Duke of Wellington, in Portugal and Spain. He is a magistrate, and deputy-lieutenant for the county of Lancaster.

Lineage.

Among the sixty-one manors in the hundred of Amounderness, in the county of Lancaster, enumerated in Domesday-book, which were then held by Roger de Poictore, but which he subsequently forfeiting to the crown, were afterwards bestowed upon Herveus, grandfather of Theobard Walter, Lord of Amounderness, and first hereditary butler of Ireland, A.D. 1172, are Clistun, (now Clifton, about five miles from Preston) Westbie, Saluwie, Plumpton, which for many centuries have been the inheritance of the Cliftons, of Clifton. The precise period when the first ancestor of Clifton seated himself at Clifton, cannot be ascertained. The most probable conjecture is, that either Roger de Poictore, or Herveus, the great grantees of the crown, bestowed part of their vast possessions upon their officers and followers, to be holden of them or of their superior lords. One of these officers may reasonably be presumed to have seated himself at Clifton, and in conformity to the almost invariable practice of those times acquired his patronymic of Clifton, from the place of his residence. The first person whose name occurs on authentic record is

WILLIAM DE CLIFTON, who held ten carucates of land in the hundred of Amounderness, in the 42nd HENRY III. A.D. 1257. He was one of the collectors of the aids for the county of Lancaster, and was succeeded by his son,

GILBERT DE CLIFTON, who during part of the reigns of HENRY III. and EDWARD I. executed the office of Seneschal to Henry de Lacy, Earl of Lincoln, Lord of Clitheroe and Blackburnshire, &c.; he served the office of sheriff of Lancashire in the years 1278, 1286, 1287, 1289, and died 17th EDWARD II. A.D. 1323, possessed of the manors of Clifton and Westby, lands in More Hamlet, Skales, Filde Plumpton, Magna Filde, Plumpton Parva, and Gosenargh, (Inq. P.M.) He had issue,

WILLIAM, his successor.

Thomas.

Henry.

John.

The eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM DE CLIFTON, in September, 4th EDWARD III. A.D. 1329, settled the manor of Salwyk on his son William, and Margaret, his wife, the daughter of Sir Robert Shireburn, of Stonyhurst, in the county of Lancaster. This gentleman was elected knight of the shire in September, 1302, jointly with Gilbert de Singleton, and again in 1304, with William de Banastre. By his wife Elen, he was father of his successor,

SIR WILLIAM DE CLIFTON, knt. who in September, 4th EDWARD III. A.D. 1329, married Margaret, daughter of Sir Robert Shireburn, knt. By deed of 21st September, 1348, he entailed the manors of Clifton and Westby upon his issue male. On the 25th December, 1354, he settled the manor of Goosnargh upon his son Nicholas, and d. in the 40th EDWARD III. A.D. 1365, leaving his wife, Margery, surviving, (Inq. P.M.) he had issue,

SIR NICHOLAS DE CLIFTON, knt. who served in the wars in France, and was appointed governor of the castle of Ham, in Picardy, by letters patent, 14th January, 7th RICHARD II. A.D. 1383. He m. Eleanor, daughter of Sir Thomas West, knt. of Snitterfield, in the county of Warwick, and of Rugcombe, in the county of Wilts, (ancestor of the Lords de la Warr) who was one of the principal commanders in the reign of EDWARD III. and RICHARD II. Alice, the widow of Sir Thomas West, by will, dated 15th July, 1395, gave to Sir Nicholas de Clifton, and Eleanora, his wife, her daughter, and their son Thomas, £120. He left issue,

ROBERT DE CLIFTON, his successor.

Thomas de Clifton, legatee under the will of his grandmother, the Lady Alice West, of 15th July, 1395.

The eldest son,

ROBERT DE CLIFTON, was knight of the shire, for the county of Lancaster, A.D. 1382, in the 5th RICHARD II. and for twenty-five days wages received £10. and again in the 6th RICHARD II. 1383, and for thirty-six days wages received £10. 8s. He had issue,

THOMAS CLIFTON, his successor.

Roger Clifton, who was in the retinue of Sir Thomas West, in the expedition of King HENRY V. into France, A.D. 1415.

James Clifton, in the retinue of Sir Richard Hastings, in the same expedition. (Nicolas's History of the Battle of Agincourt, p. 252, 253.)

He was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS CLIFTON, whose name appears in the list of the retinue of King HENRY V. into France, in 1415, which terminated by the battle of Agincourt, 25th October, 1415. (Nicolas, p. 278.) He settled lands in Goosnargh and Wood Plumpton, upon his son, James, on his marriage with Margaret, daughter of Sir Richard Huddleston, of Millum Castle, in the county of Cumberland, knt. who died in the lifetime of his father, without issue, on the 8th September, 1419. Thomas Clifton died in 1442, leaving by his wife, Agnes, daughter of Sir Richard Molyneux, of Sephton, knt. a son, his successor,

RICHARD CLIFTON, who on the 4th October, 21st HENRY VI. 1442, paid forty shillings to Thomas de Latham, receiver of the rents of the Duchy of Lancaster, on obtaining livery of his lands in Clifton, Westby Field, Plumpton, Salwyk, and Barton. In 1460, he settled lands in Salwyk on his son James. He m. Alice Butler, daughter of John Butler, of Rawcliffe, in the county of Lancaster, and had issue, James Clifton, who m. Alice, daughter and heir of James Lancaster, of — in the county of Westmoreland, 1st March, 36th HENRY VI. A.D. 1457. He d. 6th HENRY VII. A.D. 1490, (Inq. P.M.) and was succeeded by his son,

ROBERT CLIFTON, who m. Margaret, daughter of Nicholas Butler, of Bewsey, in the county of Lancaster, by whom he had two sons, CUTHBERT, his successor.

WILLIAM, who in 1516, on the division of the estates of his elder brother, Cuthbert Clifton, who died without male issue, by the award of Justice Brudenell and Serjeant Palmes, had the manor of Wortley, and its dependancies, allotted to him. This gentleman will be found carrying on the male line of the family.

The elder son and heir,

CUTHBERT CLIFTON, of Clifton, m. Alice, daughter and co-heir of Sir John Lawrence, of Ashton, in the county of Lancaster, knt. By deed of November, 18th HENRY VII. A.D. 1502, he settled his estates upon himself for life, and to his issue male, with remainder to his brother, William. He d. in 1512, leaving an only daughter,

ELIZABETH, who m. first, Sir Richard Hesketh, knt. of Rufford, in the county of Lancaster, but had no issue by that gentleman, who died in 1520. She wedded secondly, Sir William Molyneux, knt. of Sephton, who became in consequence, Lord of Clifton. By Sir William, who died in July, 1548, she had an only daughter, ANNE MOLYNEUX, who espoused Henry Halsall, esq. of the county of Lancaster, and conferred upon him the Lordship of Clifton, which remained with his descendants until it again merged in the Clifton family, by the marriage of Anne Halsall, daughter of Sir Cuthbert Halsall, with Thomas Clifton, of Westby.

Cuthbert's younger brother and continuator of the male line,

Lineage.

A Scottish writer, BUCHANAN, of Aughmar, who published a work at Glasgow in 1723, states that the founder of the MAC AUSLANES in Scotland, was one BUEY ANSELAN, son of O'Kyan, King of Ulster, who (when the Danes, to avenge the Massacre of Limerick, persecuted and destroyed numbers of the Irish,) passed over to Scotland with a body of followers in or about the year 1016, and that the said Anselan, having given great assistance to MALCOLM II. in his wars, was rewarded by that king with grants of lands of considerable value, and a splendid coat of arms. (The same monarch conferred about the same time similar grants upon the family of Keith, and several others.) Buchanan goes on to state that the territory so conferred was called the "lands of Buchanan;" but that the tradition is, that this BUEY ANSELAN married an heiress of the name of Denniestoun, and in her right acquired those lands. He establishes the fact, however, that Anselan took up his abode there as "Buey Anselan, Dominus de Buchanan," and that his successors were all Lairds of Buchanan. Of these feudal chiefs he gives a regular dynasty, beginning in the year 1016, with the said ANSELAN; the second laird, in 1060, he denominates JOHN MAC AUSLANE, and he proceeds until he extinguishes the line with the last of the lairds, John, who flourished in 1682, leaving an only daughter and heiress.

Such is Buchanan's descent of the Buchanan family, the younger sons of the different lairds of which founded the numerous branches now bearing the name. His statements, however, concerning the branch which always adhered to the designation of MAC AUSLANE are not so clear: the first of those barons to be found, he says, is one MALCOLM, whose name was inserted as a witness to a charter, granted by Malcolm, Earl of Lennox, of the lands of Luss, to John, Laird of Luss, about the year 1250, the signature to that charter being "Malcolm, Baron Mac Auslane." The next he mentions is one "Mac Beth, Baron Mac Auslane," of whom there are various traditional accounts as to his stature and uncommon strength. He lived about the year 1400. The third baron was Alexander, "last Baron Mac Auslane," whose only daughter married one of the Campbells, after whose death she sold her inheritance to Sir Humphry Colquhoun, of Luss, her superior. Buchanan proceeds then to observe "that the best account of the name of Mac Auslane are now settled in the counties of Tyrone and Derry, in the north of Ireland," and that those are descended from "the Baron Mac Auslane who went out of the parish of Luss, about the latter period of the reign of King James VI." From this baron the family before us claims descent.

BARON M'AUSLANE, of Glenduglas, came over to Ireland in the latter end of King James I.'s reign, about the year 1600, and left two sons, ANDREW and John. Of the younger the line is now extinct. The elder,

ANDREW M'AUSLANE, had a son,

ALEXANDER M'AUSLANE, who served in the army in Ireland before the year 1649, as appears by the auditor-general's accounts of the period, wherein the said Alexander is stated to be entitled to a share of the forfeited and debenture lands, and to a share of money as one of the adventurers and soldiers before the rebellion of 1641. He settled in the county of Tyrone, and was at his death possessed of the manors of Ardstrath, Mountfield, and others. He m. Genet, daughter of Edward Hall, esq. of New Grange, in the county of Meath, and had issue,

OLIVER, his successor.

Andrew, of Ardochil, m. and left a son,

Alexander, of Ardochil, who died in July, 1762, at the advanced age of one hundred years.

Anne.

Catherine, m. to William Colhoun, of Newtown Stewart.

Margery, m. to David M'Clenahan, of Newtown Stewart.

Alexander died in 1675, and was s. by his elder son,

OLIVER M'AUSLAND, esq. styled of Strabane, in the vicinity of which town he resided. This was a distinguished person, being no less than twelve times returned to the Irish parliament by the borough of Strabane. In the parliament of 1695 he is entered on the Rolls as "Oliverius Mac Causland, Armiger;" and served the office of sheriff for the county of Tyrone in 1687. He appears likewise to have held some military commission, as we find it stated, under "Castlestewart," in Lodge's Peerage of Ireland, that he had been employed upon a mission of importance by Lord Mountjoy and Colonel Lundy. He m. Jane, daughter of James Hamilton, esq. and sister of the Rev. Andrew Hamilton, and had issue,

JOHN, his successor.

William, of Mountfield and Rash, m. Elizabeth, dau. of George Hamilton, esq. of the city of Dublin, but d. s. p.

Oliver, of Strabane, m. Rachel, daughter of James Hamilton, esq. of Hamilton's Grove, in the county of Antrim, and had an only daughter, Rose.

Jane, m. to — Sampson, esq.

Catharine, m. to John Leslie, esq.

Oliver Mac Causland, who possessed large estates in the county of Donegal, died in 1722, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN MAC CAUSLAND, esq. of Strabane, and the manors of Stranorlar and Castlefin, M.P. for Strabane, in the years 1725 and 1727, who wedded Amy-Jane, daughter of Thomas Norris, esq. of the county of Down, and of Speke, in Lancashire, by whom he had issue,

1. OLIVER, his heir.

II. Alexander, of Rush, m. Anne, dau. of James Nesbitt, esq. of Lifford, in the county of Donegal, and was father of

1. John (Rev.), of Lifford, who m. first, Mary, daughter of the Rev. Thomas Burgoyne, of Lifford, and had three daughters. He espoused, secondly, Hannah, widow of Thomas Gerard, esq. of the county of Meath, by whom he had John, and four daughters.

2. Andrew.

5. Anne, m. to — Ball, esq.

III. Rebecca, m. to the Rev. John Hamilton, of Newcastle, in the county of Limerick.

IV. Mary, m. to Doctor Moore, of Londonderry.

He d. in 1728, and was s. by his elder son,

OLIVER MAC CAUSLAND, esq. of Strabane, M.P. for Strabane, in 1729 and 1731. This gentleman m. Anne-Jane, daughter of William Hamilton, esq. of Waterhouse, in the county of Lancaster, and had two sons and three daughters, viz.

1. JOHN, his successor.

II. Oliver, m. Jane, daughter of William Murray, esq. of Mount Murray, in the county of Meath, and had, with five daughters, a son, who d. s. p.

III. Margaret.

IV. Alice, m. to General Charles Eustace.

V. Anne-Jane, m. to Edward Shaw, esq. Mr. Mac Causland d. in 1756, and was s. by his elder son,

JOHN MAC CAUSLAND, esq. of Strabane, four times returned to parliament, by the county of Donegal, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of the Rev. William Span, of Ballmacove, in that shire, and was father of OLIVER (Rev.), present representative of the family.

William-James, of Dublin, m. Susan, daughter of the Rev. J. Waters, of the town of Tipperary, and has issue.

Catherine, m. to the Right Hon. William Conyngham Plunket, LORD PLUNKET, LORD CHANCELLOR OF IRELAND, (see BURKE's Peerage and Baronetage.)

He died in November, 1804, and was s. by his elder son, the PRESENT REV. OLIVER MAC CAUSLAND, rector of Finlagan, in the county of Derry.

William Sutton, of Elton, died 4th April, 1769, and was s. by his eldest surviving son, GEORGE SUTTON, esq. of Elton, b. 26th June, 1735, a magistrate for the county of Durham, who m. in 1780, Grace, youngest daughter of William Horsfall, esq. of Storthe's Hall, in the West Riding of Yorkshire, but dying s. p. 4th February, 1817, at the advanced age of 82, bequeathed his estates to his grand nephew, GEORGE-WILLIAM HUTCHINSON, who assuming, in consequence, the surname and arms of SUTTON, is the present GEORGE-WILLIAM SUTTON, esq. of Elton.

FAMILY OF BATHURST.

This family was originally seated in Sussex, at a place called BATHURST, not far from Battle Abbey, of which, however, it was despoiled during the wars of the Roses.

LAWRENCE BATHURST lived temp. HENRY VI. at Cranebrook, in Kent. He left at his decease, three sons, viz.

- I. EDWARD, of Staplehurst, ancestor of the present EARL BATHURST.
- II. ROBERT, of whom presently.
- III. John, who had lands in Staplehurst, by gift of his father.

The second son,

ROBERT BATHURST, esq. of Horsmanden, in Kent, espoused first, a daughter of William Saunders, esq. and had issue,

- I. JOHN, of Horsmanden, ancestor of Sir Edward Bathurst, created baronet in 1643, a title not extinct.
- II. Paul, who m. Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Edward Hordon, esq. of Hordon and Fincheocks, in Kent, and by her acquired the latter manor, and had issue.

Robert Bathurst wedded secondly, and had two other sons,

- III. Robert, of Lismore, in Ireland.
- IV. JOHN.

The youngest son,

JOHN BATHURST, esq. of Gondhurst, in Kent, m. Dorothy, daughter of Edward Maplesden, esq. of Marsden, in the same shire, and had issue, Edward, who died unm. in 1673, aged seventy-seven years.

JOHN.

Richard, King's Avenor, 1620.

The second son,

JOHN BATHURST, M.D. of London, became subsequently of Richmond and Arkendale, in the county of York. He espoused Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Brian Wilkins, esq. of Clintz, and had issue,

CHRISTOPHER, M.D.

John, who d. young.

THEODORE, successor to his father.

Charles.

Francis.

Edward.

Dorothy.

Elizabeth, m. to Sir R. Blake, of Clerkenwell.

Mary.

Dr. Bathurst died in 1659, and was s. by his eldest surviving son,

THEODORE BATHURST, esq. of Scutterskelf, Clintz, and Arkendale, in the county of York, born in 1646. This gentleman m. Letitia, only daughter of Sir John Repington, knt. of Warwickshire, and had three sons, Theodore, who d. in infancy; CHARLES, his heir; and Repington, with two daughters, Mary and Letitia. The eldest son,

CHARLES BATHURST, esq. of Clintz, Skutterskelf and Arkendale, living in 1712, represented the borough of Richmond, in parliament. He m. Frances, daughter of Thomas Potter, esq. of Leeds, and had issue,

- I. CHARLES, his heir.

- II. Mary, who m. William Sleigh, esq. of Stockton, and had issue,

1. CHARLES-BATHURST SLEIGH, of Stockton and Arkendale, b. in 1734, grandfather (as before stated) of the present

STANDISH, OF STANDISH.

STANDISH-STRICKLAND, CHARLES, esq. of Standish Hall, in the county-palatine of Lancaster, b. 15th March, 1790, m. in February, 1822, Mademoiselle Emmeline Conradine, daughter of M. de Mathiesen, by his wife, Mademoiselle Rose Henriette Peronne de Sersey (niece of Madame la Comtesse de Genlis,) and has issue,

CHARLES-HENRY-WIDDRINGTON-LIONEL, b. 23rd January, 1823.

Charles-Frederick, b. 20th April, 1824.

Charles-Edward, b. March, 1829.

Mr. Standish succeeded his father, Thomas Strickland-Standish, esq. on the 4th December, 1813. He is a magistrate, and deputy-lieutenant for the county of Lancaster.

Lineage.

The following pedigree is compiled from an Abstract of the Charters and Muniments at Standish, drawn up by the late Rev. Thomas West, domestic chaplain of the Strickland family, author of the "History of Furness Abbey," &c., who deplored the wanton destruction of a chest containing a collection of ancient charters, anterior to the 6th of HENRY III. anno 1221. In which year he found that

— DE STANDISH, who had married Margaret, daughter and co-heir of Robert de Hulton, became in her right possessor of the manor of Shevington, and that he was s. by his son,

THURSTON DE STANDISH, who, on the 4th February, 6th HENRY III. anno 1221, levied a fine of lands in Shevington, which he inherited from his mother, Margerie, daughter and co-heir of Robert de Hulton. He was living in the 20th of the same reign, A.D. 1235-6, and had a son,

RALPH DE STANDISH, who had two sons, viz.

JORDAN, his successor.

Hugh, who m. in the 34th EDWARD I., 1306, Alice, daughter of Sir Richard Molyneux, of Sephton, knt. and was ancestor of Richard Standish, esq. of Duxbury, in Lancashire, created a baronet by King CHARLES II. in 1676, a title which became extinct upon the death of Sir Frank Standish, the third baronet, while the estates passed to Frank Hall, son of Anthony Hall, esq. of the county of Durham, who thereupon assumed the name and arms of STANDISH. This branch is now represented by AUGUSTUS HALL STANDISH, of Duxbury, esq.

The elder son,

JORDAN DE STANDISH, who succeeded his father, is witness to a deed of Emma de Shotylworth, 1st EDWARD I. A.D. 1271. He had issue,

WILLIAM, his successor.

Mabel, m. at the church door (ad Ostium Ecclesiæ) of Wigan, 13th Edw.

I. anno 1285, to Henry, son of Richard Trulshagh.

Alice, m. to Richard de Ince. This lady was living in 1304.

Jordan was s. by his son,

WILLIAM DE STANDISH, first witness to a grant from Robert de Nortunleygh, dated 2nd EDWARD I. A.D. 1273. In the 12th EDWARD II. 1318, he entailed half the manor of Standish and Longtree, with the advowson of Standish, on his son, John de Standish, and Margaret his wife. He had two wives, Alianor and Margaret, and was s. by his son,

JOHN DE STANDISH, Lord of Standish, who, in the 6th of EDWARD III. A.D. 1332, confirmed to his son, William, and Margaret his wife, the eighth part of the manor of Shevington, with land in Standish, in fee tail. In the same year, he is mentioned as being patron of the church of Standish. He is witness to a deed, 24th EDWARD III.

1350, the first writing in which mention is made of pit coal being found at Standish. His issue were,

- i. WILLIAM, who m. in 1332, Margaret, daughter of Adam Holcroft, of Holcroft, and d. issueless.
- ii. HENRY, who s. his brother.
- iii. Edmond, living in 1332, and d. s. p.
- iv. RALPH (Sir), living in 1332. From numerous documents it appears that this Sir Ralph de Standish found means to keep his elder brother, HENRY, out of the possession of the estates, for after his death, in 1384, Henry is proved to have entered into agreements with Elizabeth his wife, then remarried to Thomas Lampet, and John de Standish, his son, that they should deliver up to the said Henry the lands formerly possessed by the said Sir Ralph. Sir Ralph had married twice, first, Mary, dau. of — de Ince, by whom he had

JOHN (Sir), styled in all deeds
"LORD JOHN."*

Eleanor.

Joan, m. to John Sansbraur.

His second wife was named Elizabeth, who, as already stated, remarried Thomas Lampet. She was living in the year 1406. By this lady he had two other sons, Nicholas.

Ralph, upon whom, and his wife Joan, his father settled considerable estates.

Sir Ralph de Standish had a grant of free pardon under the privy seal, for all offences and breaches of the peace, dated 10th April, 1352.

- v. Robert.
- vi. John.

* This Sir John de Standish is mentioned by Froissart and Hollingshed as being in the service of RICHARD II., and attendant in his suite at the memorable meeting of the king with the rebel WAT TYLER, in the year 1381, the manner of whose death is thus narrated by the former:—after depicting the bold propositions and insolent deportment of the blacksmith, he thus proceeds:—"Yes truly quod the mayre, (William Walworth) thou false stynkyng knave, shalt thou speke thus in the presence of the kyng, my natural lorde? I commytte never to lyve without thou shalt derely abyte it, and with those wordes, the mayre drewe out his swerde and strake Tyler so great a stroke on the heed that he fell downe at the feet of his horse, and as he was fallen they envyrowed hym all aboute, whereby he was not sene of his company. Then a squyer of the kynges alyted, called John Standyshe, and he drewe out his sworde, and put into Wat Tyler's belye, and so he dyed." On this occasion, Walworth, the lord mayor, several citizens, and John Standyshe, were knighted.

vii. Gilbert, clerk, who was rector of Standish from 33rd EDWARD III. to 22nd RICHARD II. (1359 to 1398).

The second son,

HENRY DE STANDISH, on the death of his younger brother, Sir Ralph, about the year 1384, recovered the family estates. He m. Joan, daughter of . . . , upon whom his father settled, 17th EDWARD III., 1343, lands in Shevington. By her, who survived him, he had, with a daughter, Alice, who espoused, in 1369, Hugh Standish, of Duxbury, a son, his successor, in 1396,

RALPH DE STANDISH, of Standish, who, in the 15th RICHARD II. (1392) was sheriff of Lancashire,† and in six years afterwards (1398) had grant of free pardon from the crown. He wedded Cecilia, daughter of . . . , and had had issue,

- i. LAWRENCE, his successor.
- ii. Alexander, inducted into the rectory of Standish, to which he was presented by his father, Ralph, on the death of Gilbert de Standish, in 1398.
- iii. Gilbert, living 30th September, 1411. (13th HENRY IV.)
- iv. John, a military man, and one of the heroes of the BATTLE OF AGINCOURT, 25th October, 1415.
- v. Elizabeth, married by dispensation granted 5th HENRY IV. 1403, to Richard, son of Gilbert de Longtree.
- vi. Isabel.

Ralph and his wife were both living in 1411, and he in 1414. He was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

LAURENCE DE STANDISH, of Standish, who espoused, in 1398, Lora, daughter of Sir Roger de Pilkington, and had, with a daughter, contracted, 7th HENRY V., (1419) to marry John de Birkenhead, a son, his successor at his decease, in 1432,

SIR ALEXANDER DE STANDISH, knt. of Standish. This gentleman, in the 2nd of HENRY VI., had a grant of twenty marks per annum, for his good services, to be paid out of the Duchy of Lancaster. In the previous reign, 9th HENRY V. 1421, he contracted to marry Constance, daughter of John Gerard, of Bryn. By this lady, who survived him, he had issue,

- i. RALPH, his heir.
- ii. Laurence, } all living in the 8th
- iii. Oliver, } Edw. IV. 1468.
- iv. Robert, }
- v. Peter, of Erley, in the county of Lancaster, living in 1483, and had a son, James Standish, married to Constance, daughter of —.

Sir Alexander d. in 1445, and was s. by his eldest son,

† In 1384, we find a Robert de Standish was sheriff of the same county.

RALPH DE STANDISH, of Standish, who, having probably taken part with the house of York, had two general pardons from HENRY VI. in the thirty-first year of that monarch's reign. He m. Margaret, daughter and co-heir of Sir Richard Radcliffe, of Chadderton, by the daughter and heir of — Chadderton, of Chadderton, in the county of Lancaster, and he made a division of that manor, in 1404, with Robert Radcliffe. He had issue,

- I. ALEXANDER (Sir), his successor. There is a deed extant, dated 30th HENRY VI., contracting, on the part of his father, for this gentleman's marriage with Sibil, daughter of Henry Bold, of Bold. One of the parties to the contract is Roger de Standish, parson of Standish; the marriage settlement is dated 36th HENRY VI. A.D. 1457.
- II. Thomas.
- III. Brian.
- IV. Gilbert.
- V. Lawrence.
- VI. Hugh.

Ralph Standish died in 1460, about which time the "De" is omitted before the family name. He was s. by his eldest son,

SIR ALEXANDER STANDISH, of Standish, not then a knight, but raised to that honor for his services at the battle of Hutton Field, Scotland, in 1482. He espoused, on the 1st January, 1461, Sibilla, daughter of Henry Bold, of Bold, and had one son and three daughters, viz.

RALPH, his heir.

Catharine, m. in 1497, to Thomas, son of Sir Christopher Standish, knt. of Duxbury.

Grace.

Alice.

Sir Alexander d. in 1507, and was s. by his son,

RALPH STANDISH, of Standish, who had a general pardon from the crown in the 1st of HENRY VII., 1485. He m. (contract dated 16th August, 1497) Alice, one of the daughters and co-heirs of Sir James Harrington, knt. of Wolfage, in the county of Northampton, which manor the lady had in dower. By her he had issue,

ALEXANDER, his successor.

Anne, m. to Sir John Holcroft, knt. of Holcroft.

Agnes, m. to Thomas Ashton, of Croston.

Jane, m. to James Bradshaw, of the Haigh, in the county of Lancaster.

He died at the advanced age of eighty, in 1538, having made his will on the 18th October, 1534, and was s. by his son,

ALEXANDER STANDISH, of Standish, who espoused, in 1518, Ann, daughter of Sir

William Molyneux, knt. of Sephton, and was father of

- I. RALPH, who died issueless, and was succeeded by his brother.
- II. EDWARD, who inherited from Ralph.
- III. Jane, m. to Roger Bradshaw, of the Haigh.
- IV. Alice, m. to Hugh Anderton.
- V. Agnes.
- VI. Isabel, m. to Thomas Lathom, of Parbold.
- VII. Eleanor, m. to William Warton, of Warton, in the county of Lancaster.
- VIII. Margaret, m. to Lambert Tyldesley, of Gerrett, in Lancashire.

The second son, and eventual representative of the family,

IX. CECILIA, of whom presently.

Ralph Standish was living in 1752, at the advanced age of 82. His youngest daughter and eventually sole heiress,

CECILIA STANDISH, espoused William Towneley, esq. of Towneley, in the county of Lancaster, by whom (who died at Bath, 2nd February, 1741, in the 28th year of his age, and was buried in the church of Bath Westons) she had issue,

I. CHARLES TOWNELEY, esq. b. 1st October, 1737. This gentleman possessed the Towneley estates, and was according to Whitaker's History of Whalley Abbey, 29th in descent from Spartingas, Dean of Whalley. He was distinguished for his exquisite taste in the fine arts, and formed the splendid collection of marbles, now in the British Museum, called the TOWNELEY MARBLES. He died unmarried, 3rd January, 1805, and was s. by his younger brother, EDWARD.

II. RALPH TOWNELEY-STANDISH, esq. who on the death of his father and mother, inherited the estates of Standish, and Borwick Hall. He was b. 18th June, 1739, and m. to Henrietta, ninth daughter of Roger Strickland, esq. of Catterick, in the county of York, but died s. p. when the estates passed to his brother, EDWARD.

III. EDWARD TOWNELEY-STANDISH, of whom presently.

IV. CECILIA TOWNELEY, b. 30th July, 1741, m. first, 20th April, 1762, to CHARLES STRICKLAND,† esq. of Sizergh Park, in the county of Westmorland, by whom (who d. 6th October, 1770) she had issue,

1. THOMAS STRICKLAND, of whom hereafter, as inheritor of the STANDISH ESTATES.

2. William Strickland, an officer in the army, who died in the West Indies.

3. Charles Strickland, d. in 1775.

4. Mary-Cecilia, m. 27th February, 1785, to Edward Stephenson, esq. of Farley Hill, in Berkshire, and Scaleby Castle, in the county of Cumberland. She died at Paris, in 1817, leaving issue.

Mrs. Strickland wedded secondly, 15th April, 1779, Gerard Edward Strickland, esq. of Willitof, in the county of York, (see Strickland, page 59. vol. i.)

The youngest son of the heiress of Standish and William Towneley,

EDWARD TOWNELEY-STANDISH, esq. b. 25th June, 1740, inherited at the decease of his elder brothers, the estates of his late father and mother. He m. Ann, daughter of Basil Thomas Eccleston, esq. of Eccleston and Scarisbrick, in the county of Lancaster, but died without issue, on the 28th March, 1807, when the estates of Standish, by the family settlements, became vested in (his sister's eldest son) his nephew,

THOMAS STRICKLAND, esq. of Sizergh, in the county of Westmoreland, who assumed by sign-manual, on inheriting, the surname and arms of STANDISH. He m. first, 24th February, 1789, Anastasia, elder daughter and co-heir of Sir John Lawson, bart. of Brough, in the county of York, by whom he had issue,

CHARLES STRICKLAND-STANDISH.

THOMAS STRICKLAND, of Sizergh, (see vol. i. p. 55.)

* He was living at the visitation of Lancashire, 22nd September, 1664.

DONKIN, OF LOWER CAVERSHAM.

DONKIN, SIR RUFANE-SHAWE, of Lower Caversham, in the county of Oxford, a lieutenant-general in the army, m. first, Elizabeth-Frances, eldest daughter of the Very Rev. Dr. George Markham, dean of York, and grand-daughter of the late Archbishop of York, by whom he has an only child, GEORGE-DAVID.

He espoused, secondly, 5th May, 1832, Lady Anna-Maria Elliot, daughter of the late earl of Minto.

This gallant officer is a knight commander of the Bath, grand cross of the Royal Hanoverian Guelphic Order, colonel of the 80th regiment, and representative in Parliament of the borough of Berwick-upon-Tweed.

Lineage.

General ROBERT DONKIN, (descended from a respectable family, proprietors of considerable landed property in Northumberland, presumed to have emigrated originally from Scotland, in some of the civil conflicts of that country, to have settled on the borders, and to have changed the name from DUNCAN*) was born 19th March, 1727, and adopting a military life, entered the army in 1746. In 1761 he was at the siege of Belleisle, under General St. Clair, and there became acquainted with the historian, Hume, from whose dictation he wrote an account of the expedition. He was subsequently Aide-de-camp to General Fowke, (to whom captain, afterwards General Wolfe, was at the time Major of Brigade) and served in Flanders, during the campaigns of that period. He participated in the seven years' war as a captain, and was Aide-de-camp and Secretary to General Rufane, while he was Governor and Commander-in-chief at Martinique. General Donkin went afterwards to America, and served there from 1775 to 1783, at the commencement, as Aide-de-camp to the Commander-in-chief General Gage, and subsequently as Major in the 44th Regiment, and as Lieutenant Colonel Commandant of the Royal Garrison Battalion, which latter commission he held until the reduction of the regiment in 1783. During a period of the ensuing peace he was Aide-de-camp to the Earl of Granard, Commander-in-chief in Ireland. "General Donkin," says a writer in the Gentleman's Magazine, "passed a long life of the most unsullied honor and with the greatest respectability, without sickness, and apparently without uneasiness of any sort; and although he had served in a great variety of climates, and had been engaged in nine actions, and present at seven sieges, he was never absent from his duty either from illness or wounds." This gallant soldier espoused Mary, daughter of the Rev. Emanuel Collins, of the ancient and respectable Somersetshire family of that name, by whom he left at his demise, an only surviving child, the present Lieutenant General SIR RUFANE SHAWE DONKIN, K.C.B. M.P. &c.

Estate—Lower Caversham, Oxfordshire.

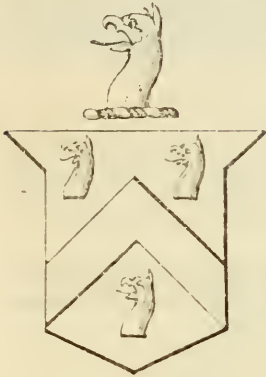

Town Residence—Park Street, Grosvenor Square.

Seat—Lower Caversham.

* This supposition is supported by the fact, that the family have always used the armorial bearings of DUNCAN, with the addition only of three buckles on the chevron.

Ralph, of Eggescliffe and of Sadberge, baptized 9th Jan. 1671-2, m. 26th January, 1697, Mary Garth, and left issue, Michael, baptized 8th February, 1709.

Barbara.

iii. Michael, d. young, 1599.

iv. Richard, baptized 17th October, 1604, lived near Grantham, in Lincolnshire.

v. Margaret, d. 1596.

vi. Florence, d. 1654.

vii. Mary, m. 30th October, 1610, to Anthony Garnett, gentleman, of Eggescliffe, and had a son, John Garnett, esq. of Eggescliffe, captain of horse, in the regiment of Colonel George Heron, and in the service of CHARLES I.; he m. Alice, daughter of Christopher Place, esq. of Dinsdale, and relict of Michael Pemberton, esq. of Aislaby.

The eldest son and heir,

JOHN PEMBERTON, esq. of Aislaby, had livery of his lands, 5th October, 1626. He m. at Grindon, 8th June, 1612, Isabel, dau. of Henry Grey, esq. of Newminster Abbey, fourth son of Sir Ralph Grey, knt. of Chillingham, and had issue,

i. MICHAEL, his heir, of Aislaby.*

* This MICHAEL PEMBERTON, of Aislaby, a major in the service of King CHARLES I. b. in 1615, m. Alice, daughter of Christopher Place, esq. of Dinsdale, great-great grandson of Rowland Place, esq. by Anne, his wife, daughter of Sir Edward Radcliffe, knt. of Cartington, warden of the East Marches. By this lady (who wedded, secondly, Captain John Garnett) he had issue,

i. MICHAEL, of Aislaby, b. in 1644, and sometime of Northallerton, where he died, and

ii. JOHN, a captain in the service of King CHARLES I., designated of Hilton.

iii. Henry, baptized 20th April, 1620, a captain in the royal army, and slain in the service.

iv. Mary, m. to Ralph Hurst, of Ashe, in Yorkshire.

v. Jane, m. to William Theobalds, of Eggescliffe.

vi. Anne, m. to Robert Thorpe, of Yarm.

where he was buried, 6th February, 1685-6. He m. Anne, daughter of George Metcalfe, esq. of Thornborough, Yorkshire, by whom he left at his decease, with two daughters, Alice, m. to — Patinson, of Norton, and Mary, m. to James Meeke, of Northallerton, an only son and successor, JOHN, of Blackwell, who sold Aislaby, circ. 1720. He m. in 1697, Mary, dau. of Christopher Place, esq. of Darlington, and d. in 1729, having had one son and three daughters, who all died unmarried.

ii. John, sheriff of York, in 1684, who m. first, in 1678, Sarah, daughter of George Prescott, of Darlington, and died at Korningsburg, leaving an only child,

WILLIAM, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of John Killinghall, esq. of Middleton St. George, Durham, and dying in 1730, left issue,

1. WILLIAM, b. 8th January, 1718, a surgeon at Plymouth, who m. Miss Woodman, of that town, and had a son and successor,

WILLIAM PEMBERTON, esq. to whom his cousin, John Killinghall, devised, in 1762, the manor of Middleton St. George, which was possessed by the Killinghalls prior to 1417. He m. Miss Winifred Cock, of Plymouth, and left an only son, WILLIAM PEMBERTON, esq. of Middleton St. George, who died unmarried, 11th March, 1801, aged twenty-eight, and was buried at Middleton Saint George, where a monument is erected to his memory. He devised his estates to his maternal aunts, to the prejudice of his heir-at-law, George Allan, esq. M.P. of Blackwell Grange, who instituted proceedings in order to set the will aside, but failed in the attempt.

2. Sarah, wife of George Pinkney, d. s. p.

JOHN PEMBERTON, of Hilton, presumed to be second son of John Pemberton and Isabel Grey, was agent or steward to the family of Hilton, of Hilton Castle, and was named a trustee in the will of John Hilton, esq. 22nd July, 1668, wherein he is designated as his "true friend." There is strong presumptive evidence* to conclude that this gentleman was Captain John Pemberton, above named, the younger brother of Major Pemberton, son of John Pemberton, esq. of Aislaby, and Isabel Grey, who, with another son, Captain Henry Pemberton, were all actively engaged in the royal cause, (see pedigree of the Aislaby family, Surtees' Durham, vol. iii. p. 105, also a note to the

3. Mary, d. unmarried, 1750.

4. Elizabeth, m. 18th November, 1733, to JAMES ALLAN, esq. of Darlington and Blackwell Grange. The great grandson of this marriage, WILLIAM ALLAN, esq. of Blackwell Grange, is now the representative of the blood of Pemberton and Killinghall, (see vol. i. p. 39).

5. Anne, d. unmarried.

6. Catherine, b. in 1714, m. to Robert Brown, of London, merchant, and d. s. p.

7. Margaret, d. unmarried, in 1745. John Pemberton, sheriff of York, in 1684, wedded, secondly, 18th December, 1683, Mary, daughter of Robert Dodsworth, esq. of Barton, in Yorkshire, and widow of John Killinghall, esq. of Middleton St. George, and had other issue,

John, b. at York, 10th September, 1684, an officer on the Irish Establishment, a. unmarried, in 1769, and was buried at Middleton St. George, aged eighty-five.

Thomas, b. 10th April, 1686, a navy surgeon, who d. unmarried, and was buried in St. John's Church, Wapping. Francis, of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, b. in 1687, m. first, Jane, daughter of John Rand, of Newcastle, who d. s. p., and secondly, Mary, daughter of Samuel Hancock, gent. and relict of the Rev. William Hall, curate of All Saints, by whom he left three daughters, Elizabeth, m. to the Rev. William Hall, Jane, m. to Mr. Barnard, and the third to — Waune, of Darlington.

Elizabeth, d. unmarried, aged eighteen.

* Though there is no written evidence or record, proving the Bainbridge Holme and Barnes families, as being descended from the family of Stanhope and Aislaby, yet there is strong presumptive evidence of such being the fact; first, there is no trace of there having been anciently in the County Palatine, more than one family of the name of Pemberton, that of Stanhope and Aislaby. Secondly, there is no reason whatever to suppose or imagine that the families of Bainbridge Holme and Barnes had their origin out of the County Palatine; hence, it would follow, that they are branches of the original family of Stanhope and Aislaby, and such they have always been considered; and thirdly, the arms of the Bainbridge Holme, Barnes, Stanhope, and Aislaby families, are the same, and different from all the other Pembertons in England, being ar. a chev. ermines between three griffins' heads, coupé sa. with which the Bainbridge Holme and Barnes families quarter the arms of Hindmarsh, viz. gules, in a marsh, a hind, lodged ppr. as descendants of Richard Pemberton, of Stanhope, and Alice Hindmarsh, the sixth generation in the genealogy. All which proves (as far as evidence, short of written testimony, can prove) that the Bainbridge Holme and Barnes families are descended from the ancient family of Stanhope, and afterwards of Aislaby; and there is every reason to suppose that John Pemberton, of Hilton, to whom the former family trace their ascendancy, as shown above, was the connecting link between the families; being John, son of John, of Aislaby, and Isabel Grey, and a captain in the service of CHARLES I. (See Surtees, vol. iii. p. 205.) According to Surtees, John, the son of John, of Aislaby, and Isabel Grey, was baptized 22nd November, 1618, (see the volume and page before cited); and the same author, in vol. ii. p. 35, mentions Mr. John Pemberton, of Hilton, as legatee in the will, dated 22nd July, 1668, of John Hilton, esq. of Hilton, in which he is bequeathed a legacy of £100. and the testator recommends to his executors to consult him, and be guided by him, he being his "true friend." This John Pemberton, of Hilton, is known to be the ancestor of the families of Bainbridge Holme and Barnes, and it is very probable that he, and John, the son of John of Aislaby, and Isabel Grey, were one and the same person; for it is to be borne in mind, that this John Hilton, whose will is above referred to, was a captain in the service of CHARLES I., in which service his father, John Hilton, was a colonel (see Surtees, vol. ii. p. 27) and that John Pemberton, son of John of Aislaby, and Isabel Grey, was also a captain in the same service, and most likely in the same regiment; for at that time there was no standing army, and the regiments raised for the royal cause were generally county or provincial corps, and officered by the gentlemen of the respective districts. Colonel Hinton, before mentioned, commanded one of these corps; and it is presumable, that his son, John, and John Pemberton, represented in these respective pedigrees, as captains in the service of CHARLES I. held their commissions in that very corps. There are no bonds more likely to unite men in strict friendship than the same creed in politics, and military service performed under the same standard, and in the same cause. It is very probable, that the friendship to which Mr. Hilton adverts in his will, before cited, originated amidst the din of arms; and that, at the conclusion of the civil wars, Mr. Hilton retired to his castle and paternal domains, accompanied by his friend and comrade, whom he appointed his steward or agent, for such it appears, the John Pemberton named in his will was, and which John Pemberton, was the progenitor of the Bainbridge Holme and Barnes families.

It is not at all unlikely that such an arrangepedigree of the Bainbridge Holme, and Barnes family, vol. i. p. 237). He m. first, Jane, daughter of — Robinson, of Stone Cellar Farm, at Usworth, parish of Washington, and had issue, ment should have taken place between these individuals, the one being proprietor of vast estates, and the other a younger son, perhaps, without any provision; and there is, hence, every reasonable ground to conclude, that the John Pemberton named in the will of the said John Hilton, and who is known to be the ancestor of the Bainbridge Holme and Barnes families, was John, son of John of Aislaby, and Isabel Grey; a conclusion rendered stronger by comparing the date of the latter's baptism with that of Mr. Hilton's will, which would make Mr. Pemberton's age, at the time Mr. Hilton made his will, exactly fifty years. There is no doubt but the John Pemberton buried at Monkwearmouth (see Surtees, vol. i. p. 237) was the before mentioned John, of Hilton, but the registers of the parish of Monkwearmouth having been destroyed by fire, all parochial information concerning the family has been lost.

Mr. Duncombe served the office of sheriff for the county of Buckingham in 1824, and is a deputy-lieutenant, and magistrate for that shire.

Lineage.

The family of DUNCOMBE, which is of great antiquity in Buckinghamshire, became possessed of the manor and estate of Much Brickhill in 1527.

In the College of Arms the pedigree begins with WILLIAM DUNCOMBE, of Much Brickhill, in the county of Buckingham.

THOMAS DUNCOMBE, esq. of Much Brickhill, married Isabel, daughter of Thomas Saunders, esq. of Agmondisham, in Buckinghamshire, and had issue,

JOHN, his successor.

Francis, of Broughton, in the county of Bucks.

William.

He died in 1595, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN DUNCOMBE, esq. of Much Brickhill

Manor, who wedded in 1583 Cicely, daughter of Edmund Conquest, esq. of Houghton Conquest, in the county of Bedford, and died in 1630, leaving five sons and two daughters, viz. JOHN, his heir, William, Francis, Bennet, George, Katharine, and Dorothea. He was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN DUNCOMBE, esq. of Much Brickhill Manor. This gentleman left at his decease in 1695, two daughters, Lucie and Joanna, with his successor,

JOHN DUNCOMBE, esq. of Much Brickhill Manor, who m. Susanna —, and had a son, JOHN, with three daughters, Katharine, Phillis, and Mary. He d. in 1685, and was s. by his son,

JOHN DUNCOMBE, esq. of Much Brickhill Manor, who died in 1687 without issue, when the Brickhill estate descended in the female line to the families of Barton and of PAUNCEFORT, of the Palace Witham on the Hill, in the county of Lincoln, a branch of the Paunceforts, of Hasfield, in Gloucestershire.

In the 11th of King JOHN, GEOFFREY DE PAUNCEFOTE, steward of the household to that monarch, espoused Sybilla, daughter of William de Cantelupe. In the 33rd of the subsequent reign, RICHARD PAUNCEFORT had a grant of the manor of Hasfield, and, according to Camden, "built a fair house at this Hasfield, called Pauncefort Court, and his ancestors were possessed of fair lands there in the Conqueror's time." By his wife, Isabel, he had a son,

SIR GRIMBALD PAUNCEFORT, who espoused Sybilla, daughter and heiress of the lord of the manor of Crickhowell, in the county of Brecon, and was s. by his elder son,

SIR GRIMBALD PAUNCEFORT, knt. who died without issue, and was s. by his brother,

SIR EMERICK PAUNCEFORT, knt. possessor of the manors of Hasfield and Crickhowell. He died 6th EDWARD III. leaving (with a daughter m. 14th EDWARD II. to Sir John Hubard, knt.) three sons,

Mr. Robertson, who is commissary of Ross, succeeded his father in 1792.

Lineage.

The ROBERTSONS of KINDEACE branched off about the year 1544, from the Robertsons of Inches, in the county of Inverness, descended in a direct line from Robertson, of Strowan, in Perthshire, a family which derived its origin from the powerful MacDonalds, Lords of the Isles. As far back as the reign of ALEXANDER III. of Scotland, Duncan, the then chief, was a man of note and influence, and the family has ever since maintained the highest degree of respectability. In 1451, JAMES II. gave to the Robertsons a charter, dated the 15th August, granting certain lands in Perthshire, and an addition to the armorial ensigns of the family, viz. "for crest, a dexter hand supporting an imperial crown, with the motto, 'Virtutis gloria merces,' and below, a savage in chains," in consideration of having rendered essential service to the crown, after the murder of James I. by apprehending Walter, Earl of Athol, to whom the regicides had fled, and Robert Graham, one of the chief actors in that tragedy, within two miles of Blair Castle, at a little rivulet, called "Graham's Burn," to this day.

JOHN ROBERTSON, of Inches, about the end of the 16th century, married, for his second wife, a daughter of Fearn, of Pitcullin, and had a son, WILLIAM ROBERTSON, who obtained from his father, in patrimony, several lands about Inverness. This gentleman having acquired vast riches, by commerce, purchased extensive estates, viz. in 1615, the lands of Orkney, in the shire of Nairn; and in 1639, the lands of Kindeace, &c. in Ross-shire, which last became the chief title of the family. In 1631 he had obtained a charter under the great seal "Willielmo Robertson, burgen de Invernys, Villæ et terrarum de Easter Kindeace, &c. &c." dated 19th March, of that year. Mr. Robertson espoused Elspeth, daughter of the Rev. Thomas Howison, minister of Inverness, and had six sons and three daughters, viz.

EINION EVELL, Lord of Cynlleth, in the county of Denbigh, living in 1182, son of MADOC, PRINCE OF POWYS, who built Oswestry Castle in 1148, wedded Arthen, daughter of Mochrant, and had a son and successor,

RUN AP EINION, of the county of Denbigh, living in 1221, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of John, Lord Strange, of Knockyn, and was s. by his son,

CYHELIN AP RUN, of Denbighshire, who espoused, about the middle of the thirteenth century, Eva, daughter and heiress of Grono, Lord of Bache, and was father of JEVAN AP CYHELIN, constable of Knockyn Castle in 1283. This gentleman married Eva, daughter of Adda ap Awr, of Trevor, and was direct ancestor of

JEVAN GETHIN, of Gartheryr, who m. first, Margaret, daughter of — Llewelyn, esq. of Rotpert, and had three sons,

1. GRIFFITH, of Lloran, ancestor of the Maurices of that place, the lineal descendant of which family,

PRYCE MAURICE, esq. of Lloran Ucha, in the county of Denbigh, had, with other issue,

THE REV. PRYCE MAURICE, whose son, ATHELSTAN MAURICE, having in accordance with a deed of settlement, assumed the surname of CORBET, is the present

ATHELSTAN CORBET, esq. of Ynysymaengwyn, in the county of Merioneth (see that family).

II. JOHN, of Llangedwin.

III. JEVAN, of whom presently.

Jevan Gethin espoused secondly, Margaret, daughter of Evan ap Madoc, and had another son,

IV. MORUS ap JEVAN Gethin, of Gartheryr, who m. first, Amabel, daughter and heiress of Llewelyn Gogof, esq. and was father of

WILLIAM AP MORUS, of Gartheryr, who m. Alicia, daughter of Jevan Vychan ap Jevan, and had a son,

JOHN AP WILLIAM, of Gartheryr, who m. Catherine, daughter of Rys ap Meredydd, and had issue,

LEWIS KYFFIN, ancestor of the Kyffins of Gartheryr.

WILLIAM KYFFIN, whose great grand-daughter and eventual heiress, ANN KYFFIN, wedded Robert Edwards, esq. of Lledrode.

Morus ap Jevan Gethin espoused secondly, Margaret, daughter and heir of David ap y Grion Lloyd, esq. of Hendwr, and had another son,

HOWEL AP MORUS, who wedded Marred, heiress of Glascoed, daughter of Howel ap Jevan ap Jerwerth, and was s. by his son,

MEREDYDD AP HOWEL AP MORUS, of Oswestry and Glascoed, who m. Thomasine, daughter and heir of Richard Ireland, esq. and had issue,

1. RICHARD AP MEREDYDD, of Glascoed, whose son, John Kyffin, esq. of Glascoed, was great-grandfather of Margaret Kyffin, heiress of Glascoed, who wedded Sir William Williams, bart. great-grandfather of SIR WATKIN WILLIAMS WYNN, bart. now in possession of the Glascoed estate.

2. Elizabeth, who m. Humphrey Kynaston, celebrated as the Wild HUMPHREY KYNASTON, and occupier, during his outlawry, of Kynaston's Cave. The representative of this marriage is the present SIREDDWARD KYNASTON, bart.

3. Anne, m. to Llewelyn ap Jevan.

The third son of Jevan Gethin, of Gartheryr, by his first wife,

JEVAN VYCHAN, of Abertanat, married, for his first wife, a lady named Tibota, and had a son, GRIFFITH, ancestor of the Tanats of Abertanat and Blodwell.* He wedded, secondly, Gwenhwyfar, and was, by her, father of

HOWEL AP JEVAN, of Moeliwrch, in Denbighshire, living in 1406. This gentleman and his immediate successors were patrons of the Welsh bards; and their names are honorably recorded in numerous poetical effusions still extant. He m. Elen, daughter of David ap Evan, esq. and was s. by his son,

JEVAN AP HOWEL, of Moeliwrch, who was father of LLEWELYN AP EVAN, of Moeliwrch, who m. first, Jane, daughter of John Edwards, of Chirk, and had a son, MORRIS WYNN, of Moeliwrch. He espoused, secondly, Ann, daughter of Meredydd ap Howel ap Morus, and had another son, THOMAS, of whose line we have to treat.

Llewelyn ap Evan died about the year 1534, and the act for the union of England and Wales (26th HENRY VIII.) passing about the same time, a dispute arose between his two sons, Morris Wynn and Thomas ap Llewelyn, as to the disposition of their father's property; the elder son (Morris) claiming, by the new law, the right of primogeniture; and the younger (Thomas) insisting upon the gravel kind division, as directed by the laws of Howel Ddâ, and sanctioned by the immemorial usage of the ancient Britons. After considerable litigation, the dispute was finally referred to arbitration; and by the award, Morris Wynn, the elder son, succeeded to the mansion of Moeliwrch, with the lands attached thereto: Thomas ap Llewelyn, his brother,

* Vide Visitation of Shropshire, 1623. From the family of TANAT of BLODWEL, through the Matthews's, the estate of Blodwel passed to the Earl of Bradford. From the Tanats of Abertanat the lands of Abertanat have been conveyed, by the Godolphins and Owens of Porkington, to Mrs. Ormsby Gore and the present Lord Godolphin.

was to have two tenements in Llys Dynwallawn, and at his own cost and charge to divide all the rest of the possessions of their father in Cynllaith Owain, Cynllaith yr Jarll, and Carreg Hwfa, in the lordships of Chirk and Oswestry, or elsewhere into two equal parts; and Morris Wynn was to have his choice of the moieties. The award directed likewise "Morris to have a seat in our Lady's chancel, within the church of Llansilin, and Thomas to have a seat in the same church anynce * St. Silin."

The second son,

THOMAS AP LLEWELYN, of Cynllaith, resided in Llys Dynwallawn. He m. Jane, daughter of Griffith Lloyd, esq. of Ragad, and was father of

EDWARD THOMAS, esq. of Trevonnen, who m. Margery, daughter of Thomas Wycherley, asq. of Eyton, in the county of Salop, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT EDWARDS, esq. of Rhydycroesau, otherwise of Lledrode, in the parish of Llansilin, in the county of Denbigh. This gentleman is the first of the family who assumed a distinct surname; his ancestors having adhered to the Welsh custom. He wedded Ann, daughter and heir of Robert Kyffin, gent. of Cynllaith, and was s. by his eldest son, JOHN EDWARDS, esq. who purchased NESS STRANGE, in the county of Salop. This gentleman was admitted in 1668, although a minor, to the freedom of Shrewsbury. He wedded Dorothy, daughter of Thomas Barnes, esq. of the Lowe, by whom (who d. in 1714) he had issue.

JOHN, his heir.

VERNON-WENTWORTH, OF WENTWORTH CASTLE.

WENTWORTH-VERNON, FREDERICK-WILLIAM-THOMAS, esq. of Wentworth Castle, in the county of York, b. 20th September, 1795, m. 23rd May, 1826, the Lady Augusta-Brudenell Bruce, second daughter of Charles, present Marquess of Ailesbury, and has issue,

THOMAS-FREDERICK-CHARLES, b. 20th October, 1831.
Louisa-Mary-Hamilton, b. 4th July, 1829.

This gentleman, whose patronymic is VERNON, assumed the additional surname and arms of WENTWORTH, in compliance with the testamentary injunction of his kinswoman, AUGUSTA HATFIELD-KAYE, wife of John Hatfield-Kaye, esq. of Hatfield Hall, and sister and heiress of Frederick-Thomas Wentworth, third EARL OF STRAFFORD.

Lineage.

The family of WENTWORTH, originally WINTERWADE, is said by genealogists to have derived its designation, in Saxon times, from the lordship of WINTERWADE (so written in Domesday Book), in the wapentake of STRAFFORD and county of York.

In the reign of HENRY III.

WILLIAM DE WYNTWORD, of Wyntword, married Emma, daughter and heir of William Wodehous, of Wodehous, by whom he acquired that estate; and taking up his abode there, the family have ever since been denominated "the WENTWORTHS, of WENTWORTH-WOODHOUSE." The descendant in a direct line from this William and his wife Emma (for the intermediate generations, see BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Peerage),

THOMAS WENTWORTH, esq. of Wentworth Woodhouse, was high sheriff of the county of York, in the 25th Queen ELIZABETH. He m. Margaret, daughter and heir of Sir William Gascoigne,* knt. of Gawthorpe, and by her acquired the manor and seat of Gawthorpe, Cusworth, &c. and his descendants became co-heirs to the baronies of Ferrers, of Wemme, and Boteler, of Wemme, then (and still) in ABEYANCE. Mr. Wentworth died 14th February, 1586-7, possessed of lands in Yorkshire to the amount of £6000 a year. He was s. by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM WENTWORTH, of Wentworth Woodhouse. This gentleman was high-sheriff of the county of York, in the last year of ELIZABETH, and was created a BARONET on the 29th June, 1611. He m. Anne, daughter and heir of Sir Robert Atkins, knt. of Stowell, in the county of Gloucester, and had, with other issue (for which see Burke's Extinct and Dormant Peerage),

THOMAS, his successor, the celebrated SIR THOMAS WENTWORTH, EARL OF STRAFFORD, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, who suffered decapitation on the 12th May, 1641. His honors were however restored, after the re-establishment of the monarchy, to his son,

WILLIAM WENTWORTH, by patent, as second EARL OF STRAFFORD, &c. and his lordship was installed a Knight of the Garter. He died* without issue, in 1695, when the greater part of his estates devolved upon his nephew the Honourable Thomas Watson, son of Edward Watson, Earl of Rockingham, by his sister, the Lady Anne Wentworth, and all his honors became extinct, except the BARONY OF RABY, which passed to his cousin,

THOMAS WENTWORTH, of Ashby Puerorum.

WILLIAM (Sir),

* MARY FERRERS, younger daughter and heir of Sir Robert Ferrers, Lord Ferrers, of Wemme, espoused RALPH NEVIL, a younger son of Ralph, Earl of Westmorland, and had a son,

JOHN NEVIL, who wedded Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Robert Newmarch, and left an only daughter and heiress,

JOANE NEVIL, who espoused Sir William Gascoigne, and her daughter and heiress, MARGARET GASCOIGNE, became the wife of Thomas Wentworth, as in the text.

* For ample particulars of this nobleman and his eminent father, refer to Burke's Extinct and Dormant Peerage.

The second son,

SIR WILLIAM WENTWORTH, of Ashby Puerorum, in the county of Lincoln, was knighted by King CHARLES I. and fell at Marston Moor. He wedded Elizabeth, daughter and co-heir of Thomas Savile, esq. of Hasseldon Hall, and had, with a daughter, Anne, who m. Edward Skinner, esq. of Thornton College, in Lincolnshire, one surviving son,

SIR WILLIAM WENTWORTH, who was sheriff of the county of York, in the 24th CHARLES II. He. m. Isabella, daughter of Sir Allan Apsley, knt. Treasurer of the Household to James, Duke of York, and had issue,

- i. William, a military officer, died unm. in 1693, while serving as a captain of horse, in Flanders.
- ii. THOMAS, of whom presently, as successor to the BARONY OF RABY.
- iii. Peter, of Henbury, in the county of Dorset, who wedded Juliana, only daughter of Thomas Horde, esq. of Cote, in Oxfordshire, and had issue,

1. William, his successor, Gentleman Usher of the Privy Chamber to the Princess Dowager of Wales, who m. Susanna, daughter of Chamberlaine Slaughter, esq. of Slaughter Hall, in the county of Gloucester, and had one son and two daughters, namely,

FREDERICK-THOMAS, who s. his cousin as third EARL OF STRAFFORD.

George.
Caroline.

AUGUSTA-ANNE, m. 30th May, 1772, to JOHN HATFIELD-KAYE, esq. of Hatfield Hall, in the county of York. Mrs. Hatfield-Kaye, who became heiress to her brother, the Earl of Strafford, at his lordship's decease s. p. in 1799, dying herself likewise without issue, (in 1802) bequeathed the estates to her kinsman, FREDERICK-WILLIAM-THOMAS VERNON, esq. who assuming in consequence the additional surname and arms of WENTWORTH, is the present MR. VERNON-WENTWORTH, OF WENTWORTH CASTLE.

2. Harriet, m. to Thomas, son of Francis Arundel, esq. of Stoke-Bruers Park, in the county of Northampton.

The second son and eventual heir,

THOMAS WENTWORTH, esq. inherited at the decease, in 1695, of his cousin, William, second EARL OF STRAFFORD, (son of the beheaded lord) the BARONY OF RABY. His lordship, who was an eminent military character, temp. King WILLIAM III. and Queen ANNE, (in the latter reign he participated in MARLBOROUGH'S victories) was created by letters patent, 4th September, 1711, Viscount Wentworth, of Wentworth Woodhouse, and EARL OF STRAFFORD, with especial remainder to his brother, Peter Wentworth, esq. of Henbury, and that gentleman's heirs male. He m. Anne, daughter and heir of Sir Henry Johnson, knt. of Bradenham, in Bucks, and had one son and three daughters, viz.

- i. WILLIAM, his successor, and second EARL OF STRAFFORD. This nobleman espoused Lady Anne Campbell, dau. of John, Duke of Argyll, but dying s. p. in 1791, his honors passed according to the limitation to his first cousin, (the son and heir of Peter of Henbury),

FREDERICK-THOMAS WENTWORTH, as third Earl, who died at his seat, Henbury, in Dorsetshire, without issue, in 1799, when all the honors expired, and his estates devolved upon his only surviving sister, AUGUSTA-ANNE HATFIELD-KAYE.

- ii. Anne, m. in 1733, to the Right Hon. William Conolly, of Castle-town, in Ireland, and d. s. p.
- iii. Lucy, m. to Field Marshal Sir George Howard, K.B.
- iv. HENRIETTA.

The youngest daughter,

LADY HENRIETTA WENTWORTH, espoused in 1743, HENRY VERNON,* esq. of Hilton, in the county of Stafford, and had issue,

* This gentleman was a branch of the family from which the LORDS VERNON derive. (See Burke's Peerage and Baronetage.)

HENRY VERNON, esq. of Houndshill, b. in 1616, m. Muriel, daughter and heiress of Sir George Vernon, of Haslington, one of the judges of the Court of Common Pleas, and had issue,

1. GEORGE, of Sudbury, whose grandson, GEORGE VERNON, esq. of Sudbury, assumed in 1728, the additional surname and arms of VENABLES, and was created 1st May, 1762, LORD VERNON, BARON OF KINDERTON, in the county of Chester.

ii. Edward, b. in 1636.

iii. HENRY.

The third son,

HENRY VERNON, esq. of Hilton, in the county of Stafford, b. in June, 1637, espoused Margaret, daughter of William Ladkins, esq. of Kelledon, in Northamptonshire, and had four sons, viz.

HENRY, his heir.

Edward, a merchant in London.

George, killed abroad.

Thomas, a merchant in London, d. unm. in 1742.

- I. HENRY, heir to his father.
- II. William-Leveson Vernon.
- III. Henrietta Vernon, m. first, to Richard, EARL GROSVENOR, and was mother of the present MARQUESS OF WESTMINSTER. Her ladyship espoused, secondly, General George Porter, M.P. and d. in 1828.
- IV. Anne Vernon, m. to Lord Berwick.
- V. Lucy Vernon.
- VI. Caroline Vernon, maid of honour to CHARLOTTE, QUEEN CONSORT of his Majesty, KING GEORGE III.
- VII. Jane Vernon.

The elder son,

HENRY VERNON, esq. succeeded his father at Hilton. Of this gentleman Miss Seward makes the following observations:—"Mr. Vernon roamed, in a ten years' tour, with enthusiastic curiosity, not only 'the Celtic and Iberian fields,' but almost every scene upon the globe which has been dignified by martial prowess, or has obtained poetic celebrity. He has seen, in tolerable preservation, a great part of the Temple of Ceres, has stood upon Mount Calvary, Olympus, and the Aonian hills, and has drank of the now exhausted waters of the Simois and Scamander; has fought, since England sheathed the sword, the Indians for America, and the Turks for the empress. He was some time at Gibraltar, with General Elliot, and obtained the friendship of that illustrious being. It gives me pleasure that he, my neighbour, Mr. Vernon, stands so high in Lord Heathfield's esteem. He has considerable talents and exertions; and the warm and entirely voluntary praise of so great and good a man proves that they have been, at least of late years, directed to noble purposes." He married Margaret, daughter of Thomas Fisher, esq. of Acton, in the county of Middlesex, and dying in 1814, left an only son, the present FREDERICK-WILLIAM-THOMAS VERNON-WENTWORTH, esq. of Wentworth Castle.

The eldest son,

HENRY VERNON, esq. of Hilton, wedded Penelope, second daughter and co-heiress of Robert Phillips, esq. of Newton, in the county of Warwick, and by her, who died in 1726, had issue,

HENRY, who m. as in the text, the Lady

Mr. Maude succeeded his father in 1789.

Lineage.

The family of MAUDE, originally Lords of MONTE ALTO, in Italy, was established in England by

EUSTACE DE MONTE ALTO, surnamed the Norman Hunter, one of the soldiers of the CONQUEST, in the immediate train of the Palatine Earl of Chester, the potent HUGH LUPUS; from whom, in requital of his gallant services, Monte Alto obtained, with other territorial possessions, the lordships and manors of Montalt and Hawarden, in the county of Flint, places still designating a branch of his descendants, the noble house of MAUDE, Viscounts Hawarden and Barons of Montalt. Eustace was s. by his eldest son,

HUGH DE MONTE ALTO, the second baron under Hugh Lupus, who gave a large portion of his possessions to the monks. He was s. by his brother,

ROGER DE MONTE ALTO, the third baron, to whom succeeded his son,

RALPH DE MONTALT, fourth baron, sewer to Ranulph, Earl of Chester, who had two sons and a daughter, viz.

ROBERT, his heir.

Simon, living in 1160, who removed into the county of York, holding land in the second fee of Skipton, under the De Romilles. He was s. by his son, Richard de Montalt, Lord of West Riddlesden, Morton, Potter Newton, Barnby on Don, &c. who, his son, Simon, dying in his lifetime, and without male issue, gave all his Yorkshire estates to Robert Montalt, son of his cousin, ANDOMAR.

Beatrix, m. to William Malpas.

The elder son,

ROBERT DE MONTALT, first baron by tenure, erected, temp. HENRY II. Montalt (now Mold or Mould) Castle, in Flintshire. This Robert, who was steward of the palatine to the Earl of Chester, espoused Emma, daughter of Sir Robert Delaval, and had issue,

ROBERT, second baron by tenure.*
Ralph.

* ROBERT DE MONTALT, the second baron by tenure, had four sons,

i. ROGER, his heir.

ii. John, who m. Ellen —, and had a daughter, Elizabeth, living in 1318.

iii. Ralph, in holy orders, 54th HENRY III.

Matthew.

Simon.

William, in holy orders.

Roger, possessed of two knights' fees and a half.

ANDOMAR.

The youngest son,

ANDOMAR or AYLMER DE MONTALT, founded the YORKSHIRE and only surviving branch of the family. In 1174, accompanying the expedition against WILLIAM the Lion, Andomar had the good fortune to make the Scottish monarch prisoner, by surprise; and conveying the royal captive to HENRY II. then at Falaise, in Normandy, that prince granted to him, instead of his

by tenure, Seneschal of Chester, was deemed one of the most potent feudal lords in the time of HENRY III. and accompanied Prince EDWARD to the Holy Land. Being constantly employed against the Welsh, his lands at Montalt were wrested from him by David, Prince of Wales, but restored in 1240. He m. Cecilia, second sister and one of the co-heirs of Hugh de Albini, Earl of Arundel, by whom he acquired the manor of Castle Rising, in Norfolk, with other extensive estates (see BURKE's Extinct and Dormant Peerage), and had issue,

JOHN, his heir.

Robert.

Leucha, m. to Philip de Orreby, the younger.

To equip himself for Palestine this great baron conveyed, for a sum of money, a large portion of the woods and revenues which he possessed at Coventry, in right of Cecilia, his wife, to the monks of that place. He died in 1260, and was s. by his elder son,

JOHN DE MONTALT, fourth baron by tenure, who m. first, Elene, widow of Robert de Stockport; and secondly, Milisent, daughter and co-heir of William de Cantilupe, which lady wedded, secondly, Eudo le Zouch, and from that union sprang the Lords Zouch of Haryngworth. He (Montalt) died, however, s. p. and was s. by his brother,

ROBERT DE MONTALT, fifth baron by tenure, who was present at the siege of Carlaravrock. This feudal lord was s. at his decease by his son,

ROGER DE MONTALT, the sixth baron by tenure, who was one of the nobles in rebellion against HENRY III.; but, returning to his allegiance, he subsequently defended Cambridge for the king. In the reign of EDWARD I. he was in the wars of Gascony, and was summoned to parliament, as a baron, on the 25th June, 1295. His lordship wedded Julia, daughter of Roger de Clifford, but dying without issue, in 1297, the barony by writ expired; his lands devolved, however, on his brother,

ROBERT DE MONTALT, seventh baron by tenure, the last and most powerful of all the Montalts, ancient ensigns, "a lion gu. (the lion of Scotland), debruised two bars sa." to denote captivity.* The son and heir of Andomar,

ROBERT DE MONTALT, inherited West Riddlesden, and the other estates of his cousin, Richard. He was great-great-great-great-grandfather of

THOMAS MONHAULT, whose son,

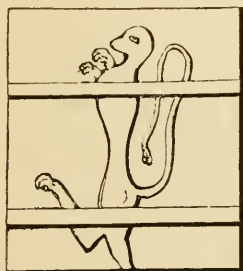

CONSTANTINE MONHAULT, or MAUDE, of West Ryddylsden, living between the years 1480 and 1520, espoused a daughter of — Kighley, of Newhall, and was succeeded by his son,

ARTHUR MAUDE, of West Ryddlesden, whose will bears date in 1534. He wedded a daughter of Lawrence Towneley, and had, born in the 54th of HENRY III. This gallant person having distinguished himself in the wars of Scotland and Gascony, was summoned to parliament from 27th EDWARD I. to 13th EDWARD III. in which year he died without issue, when the BARONY OF MONTALT became EXTINCT, and his extensive estates, according to a settlement made by the deceased lord, passed to Isabel, Queen Consort of England, mother of EDWARD III. for life, with remainder to John, of Eltham, brother to the king, and his heirs for ever. Emma, the widow of this nobleman, and who had previously been married to Richard Fitzjohn, a great baron (son of John Fitzgeffery, justice of Ireland), was living in 1332. She lies interred in Stradset Church, Norfolk, with this epitaph: "Ici gist Dame Emma de Mountalt, femme de deux barons. Dieu par sa pitie avez merci de sa ame." Vide Gough, vol. ii. p. 93.

* Mr. John Maude, of Moorhouse, visited on the 4th August, 1827, West Riddlesden Hall, the ancient seat of the Monte Alto, Montalto, or Mandes, and copied the annexed ensigns from stained glass in the staircase window, with the letters, (The first letter A being cut off by the leading, as well as the final T.)

CORBET, OF YNYSYMAENGWYN.

CORBET, ATHELSTAN, esq. of Ynysymaengwyn, in the county of Merioneth, b. 24th June, 1788, m. 31st May, 1827, Julia Barbara, daughter of Major-general Garstin, of Calcutta. Mr. Corbet succeeded his paternal uncle 3rd December, 1820, by deed of settlement, dated 1758, made by his great-grandmother, Anne Owen, heiress of Ynysymaengwyn, which required that he should change his name of MAURICE to CORBET, and bear the arms of CORBET only.

He is a magistrate, and deputy-lieutenant for the county of Merioneth, and served the office of high-sheriff for that shire in 1825.

Lineage.

The family of YNYSYMAENGWYN owes its origin to Bleddyn ap Kynfyn, who was (in right of his mother, Augharad, daughter and heiress of Meredith ap Owen ap Howell dda,) Prince of Powys.

OSBURN FITZGERALD, usually called Osber Wyddel by the natives of Wales, (refer to family of WYNNE, of PENIARTH, vol. i. p. 567) came over into Wales, and was in such favour with Llewellyn the Great, who then reigned in Wales, that he made him Governor of Harlech Castle, and gave him in marriage the heiress of Corsygedol, his ward. Their grandson,

LLEWELLYN AP CYNNIC, wedded Nest, daughter and heiress of Griffith ap Adda, of Ynysymaengwyn and Dolgôch. From this period, the estates passed through many generations (see vol. i. p. 567), until they again centered in an heiress,

ELIZABETH WYNN (daughter of Humphrey Wynn), who espoused Sir James Pryse,* knt. second son of John Pryse, of Gogerthlan, one of the council of the Marches in Wales, descended from Gwaethvoed Fawr, and the issue of this marriage was an only daughter and heiress, BRIDGET PRYSE, of Ynysymaengwyn, who m. first, ROBERT CORBET, esq. second son of Sir Vincent Corbet,† of Morcton Corbet, by Frances, his wife, heiress of William Humfreston, esq. of Humfreston, in Shropshire (which estate was settled on Robert Corbet), and by that gentleman (who died in 1644) she had a son, VINCENT, her heir. She espoused, secondly, Sir Walter Lloyd, of Llanfair Clewedogau, M.P. for the county of Cardigan.

Her eldest son and heir,

VINCENT CORBET, esq. of Ynysymaengwyn, was s. by his son,

VINCENT CORBET, esq. of Ynysymaengwyn, who m. Ann, daughter of Richard or William Vaughan, esq. of Corsygedol, and had four daughters, viz.

Ann, his heiress.

Jane, m. first, to Thomas Pryce, of Escairweddau, in the county of Merioneth, and secondly, to Hugh Wynn, LL.D. second son of Robert Wynn, of Bodysgallen, in Carnarvonshire.

Elizabeth, m. to Evan Glynn, of Glynn, in Montgomeryshire.

Rachael, m. to Love Parry, of Wern Fawr, M.P. for Carnarvonshire.

* Sir James Pryse died in 1642.

† The immediate ancestor of the family of CORBET accompanied WILLIAM the Conqueror into Britain, and was one of the principal persons entrusted by Roger, Earl of Shrewsbury, in the government of his county of Salop.

Mr. Vincent Corbet d. 6th January, 1723, aged seventy-two, and was s. by his eldest dau.

ANN CORBET, of Ynysymaengwyn, b. in 1684, who m. Athelstan Owen, esq. of Rhiwsaison, in the county of Montgomery, descended from Ethelysdan Glodrydd, one of the royal tribes of Wales, and had issue, Corbet Owen, who m. Margaret Pryse, heiress of Aberllefenney, but d. s. p.

Richard Owen, who d. unm. six months after his mother.

Elizabeth Owen, m. to the Rev. Dr. William Powell, of Nanteos, who d. in 1780. (See Powell, of Nanteos, vol. i. p. 230.)

ANN OWEN, who m. PRYCE MAURICE,† esq. of Lloran Ucha and Penybont, in Denbighshire, and left issue at her decease, 5th October, 1767,

I. EDWARD MAURICE, who inherited Ynysymaengwyn on the death of his brother, Henry-Arthur.

II. Pryce Maurice, in holy orders, rector of Celynin and vicar of Towyn, in the county of Merioneth, who m. Anne, daughter of the Rev. David Davies, rector of Llanfyllin, in the county of Merioneth, by Anne, his wife, heiress of Rugôg, in the same shire, and left at his demise, in 1803, aged fifty-eight, three sons and three daughters, viz.

Edward-Davies, } both died
Pryce, } unmarried.

ATHELSTAN, who s. his uncle, Edward, at Ynysymaengwyn, and is its PRESENT POSSESSOR.

Anne-Susannah.

Henrietta, m. to Charles Decimus Williams, esq. of Berthdu, county of Montgomery, and has two daus.

Henrietta - Corbet Williams.

Anne-Maria Williams.

† The family of MAURICE is the oldest lineal male branch of the descendants of Einion Evell, to whom so many of the Welsh families in the neighbourhood of Oswestry trace their origin. The parishes of Llansillyn and Rhaydr, in Mochrant, and still more extensive possessions in that district belonged to this family; but Griffith Yollin de Lloran and Llangedwin had several sons, and he divided his estates amongst them. His great-grandson, Evan de Lloran, had eight sons, and he also further divided his property amongst them. What remained was partly sold by the late Edward Corbet, and partly left by him away from the legitimate family. See family of EDWARDS, OF NESS STRANOE.

Elizabeth.

III. HENRY-ARTHUR MAURICE, who
s. his grandmother, at Ynyssmaengwyn.

The heiress of Ynysmaengwyn, surviving her husband, Athelstan Owen, until 18th July, 1760, left her estates by deed of settlement, dated 1758, (requiring that he should bear the name and arms of CORBET, instead of MAURICE, and in failure of male issue, then, on the same terms, to his elder brother, Edward, and eventually to the next brother, Pryce Maurice) to her youngest grandson,

HENRY-ARTHUR MAURICE, who, on inheriting Ynysmaengwyn, assumed the name and arms of CORBET. He wedded Frances, daughter of — Mostyn, esq. of Bryngwyn, in the county of Montgomery, but leaving at his decease, 5th October, 1782, aged thirty, an only daughter, Anne, who d. unmarried, in 1831, the estates passed, by deed of settlement, to his eldest brother,

EDWARD MAURICE, esq. of Ynysmaengwyn, who also assumed the surname of COR-

BET. He m. first, Hannah, dau. and co-heir (with her sister, Mary, wife of Sir John Hill, bart. of Hawkestone) of John Chambre, esq. of Petton, in Salop, and had one dau.

Elinor, m. to Thomas Powell, esq. of Nanteos.

He wedded, secondly, Miss Jane Thomas. and had another daughter, Jane. He d. 3rd December, 1820, and was s. by his nephew, ATHELSTAN MAURICE, who took the surname of CORBET, and is the present possessor of YNYSMAENGWYN.

VOWE, OF HALLATON.

VOWE, THOMAS, esq. of Hallaton, in the county of Leicester, b. 22nd March, 1792, m. 15th July, 1820, Sarah, only child and heiress of the late James Howes. esq. of Thorington, near Colchester, in Essex, and has surviving issue,

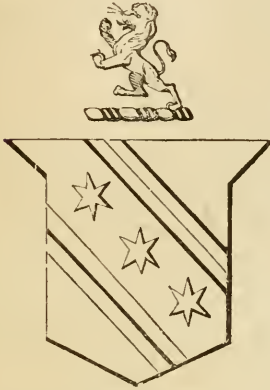

i. Elizabeth-Catherine.

ii. Clara.

iii. Anna.

Mr. Vowe succeeded his father in February, 1793.

Lineage.

The family of Vowe is of great antiquity, and has possessed the manor of HALLATON, since the year 1401.

JOHN HACKLUIT, espoused in the beginning of the fourteenth century, Alice, daughter and heiress of Theobald Neville, and granddaughter of Hasculphus Neville, whose wife, Christiana, held the manor of Hallaton in 1275. By this marriage he obtained Hallaton, and had issue,

WILLIAM, his heir.

MARGARET, successor to her brother.

John Hackluit died in 1362, seised of one messuage, one carucate of land, two marks rent, and a certain meadow at Hallaton, held of the heirs of Robert Peveril, by the service of threepence a year, and a suit of court at Hallaton, twice a week. His son,

WILLIAM HACKLUIT, of Hallaton, died without issue, and was s. by his sister,

MARGARET HACKLUIT, who conveyed the manor of Hallaton in marriage to William Deixtre, servant to King HENRY IV. when Earl of Derby. The granddaughter and heiress of this alliance,

MARGERIE DEIXTER, espoused first, in 1405, John Myton, and secondly, WILLIAM VOWE. She obtained temp. HENRY IV. a grant of the manor of Hallaton, and was direct ancestor of LEONARD VOWE, esq. of Hallaton, who espoused Dorothy, daughter of William 2.

Cotton, esq. and by her, who died 15th June, 1666, aged eighty-three, left, at his decease in March, 1645, a son and successor,

THOMAS VOWE, esq. of Hallaton, born in 1628, who m. Jane, daughter of the Rev. Robert Dowley, rector of Elford, in Staffordshire, and was s. at his death in 1691, by his son,

LEONARD VOWE, esq. of Hallaton, b. in 1664, who m. first, in 1690, Elizabeth, daughter of the Rev. Edward Reynolds, D.D. Archdeacon of Norfolk, and Rector of Kingsthorpe, but by that lady, who died the year after her marriage, he had no child. He espoused secondly, Martha, eldest daughter and eventual heiress of Richard Butler,* esq. of Preston Copes, in the county of Northampton, lineal descendant of Sir Robert de Boteler, cousin and cupbearer to WILLIAM the CONQUEROR, and had a son and successor (at his decease in 1709),

THOMAS VOWE, esq. of Hallaton, who m. Martha, daughter of John Fenwick, esq. and was s. in 1738, by his son,

THOMAS VOWE, esq. of Hallaton. This gentleman, an officer in the Enniskillen Dragoons, carried the colours at the battle of Minden, and, as his monumental inscription in the church of Hallaton attests, "served his majesty with honour in that glorious continental war, which reflects so much lustre on the British arms, and which was terminated by the peace of Paris in 1763." He espoused Elizabeth, eldest daughter of John Smalley, esq. by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Sir Richard Halford, bart. of Wiston, and cousin to the last baronet of that name, Sir Charles Halford, whose widow, Lady Denbigh, died in 1815. By this lady, who died 5th August, 1782, he had issue,

* Through this marriage the Vowes quarter the golden cups in their armorial ensigns. Mr. Vowe possesses all the old Butler family plate, with the cups for crest and arms; portraits of several of the Butlers' adorn the Hall at Hallaton, and one room in the house still continues fitted up with the ancient tapestry used by the same family.

LEONARD, his heir.

Hungerford, a captain in the army.

Elizabeth, m. to the Rev. J. Gregory, rector of St. Martin's, Leicester.

Mr. Vowe died 27th January, 1785, having received a musket shot in the knee, and was s. by his son,

LEONARD VOWE, esq. of Hallaton, who m. 11th October, 1788, Anna, daughter, of Thoroton Pocklington, esq. of Kinoulton, in the county of Nottingham, and died in February, 1793, aged twenty-five years, leaving a daughter, Elizabeth-Ann, wife of the late John Sutton Webster, esq. of Nottingham, and a son, THOMAS, the present proprietor of Hallaton, and representative of this ancient family.

Seat—Manor House, Hallaton.

FARQUHARSON, OF INVERCAULD.

FARQUHARSON, CATHERINE, of Invercauld, in the county of Aberdeen, inherited the estates and became chief of the clan* upon the demise of her father, in 1806. She wedded, 16th June, 1798, Captain James Ross, R. N. second son of Sir John Lockhart Ross, bart. of Balnagowan, by Elizabeth, his wife, eldest daughter of President Dundas. By Captain Ross, who took the name of Farquharson, and died in 1810, the heiress of Invercauld has had issue,

JAMES FARQUHARSON, a magistrate and deputy lieutenant for Aberdeenshire, m. 30th April, 1833, Janet Hamilton, eldest daughter of the late General Francis Dundas, of Sanson, Berwickshire.

Amelia Farquharson, m. to Francis Grant, esq. and died in 1827.

Elizabeth Farquharson.

Lineage.

"The representative of this ancient family," saith Douglas, in the Baronage, "is the head or chief of the powerful and numerous clan FARQUHARSON. They had large possessions in the Braes of Mar, (the head of Aberdeenshire) and the adjacent countries. They also, like other great highland families, had their bards and senachies, who faithfully handed down their brave actions; and it is agreed by all our historians, that they were a race of valiant and warlike people, steady in their loyalty to their king, and always ready to fight in defence of the liberties of their country." The house of Invercauld derives its descent from

SHAW MC DUFF, (sprung from a younger son of the potent Thanes of Fife) who had a son called FARQUHAR, who settled in Mar, in the reign of ROBERT II. (1371) and was made bailie and chamberlain thereof: his sons, as was customary in that early period, obtaining the surname of FARQUHARSONS, sons of Farquhar, founded many opulent and puissant houses in Scotland. The eldest,

DONALD FARQUHARSON, wedded a daughter of Robertson, of Calvine, and had an only son,

FARQUHAR FARQUHARSON, who espoused a daughter of Chisholm, of Straglash, and had (with junior issue, which settled in the braes of Angus, and founded several families of Farquharson) a son and successor,

DONALD FARQUHARSON, who, in consideration of the eminent services he had rendered to the crown, obtained considerable additions to his inheritance. He m. a daughter of Duncan Stewart, of the family of Mar, and had a son and heir, FINDLA, commonly called FINDLA MORE, from his gigantic size and great strength, a man of daring courage and of a bold and determined character. "His descendants in the Highlands were called (according to Douglas) Clan Ianla, and the head of the family Mack Ianla, though, before this period, they were called in the Gaelic language, Clan Erachar, and most of the branches were called Mackerachars, and several of them still retain that name. In like manner, some of the descendants of Findla (settling in the low lands with the designation of Mack Ianla) had it afterwards converted into the name of Findlayson." Findla m. first, Beatrix, daughter of George Garden, of that Ilk, and had (with three younger sons, who all acquired estates, and founded, with many others, the house of Farquharson, of Finzean,* now represented by ARCHIBALD FARQUHARSON, esq.) a son and heir, ROBERT. He espoused secondly, a daughter of the Baron Roy, of Kincardin Stewart, and had other children, seated in Perthshire. This gallant warrior was killed at Pinkie, in 1547, bearing the royal banner, and was buried in the church yard of Invercauld. He was s. by his son,

ROBERT FARQUHARSON, of Invercauld, who m. Marjory, daughter of John Reid, of Straloch, and dying, temp. JAMES VI. was s. by his son,

JOHN FARQUHARSON, of Invercauld, who left, by his first wife, a daughter of Barclay, of Garthly, an only son,

ROBERT FARQUHARSON, of Invercauld, who wedded Margaret Erskine, of Pitodrie, and was s. at his decease, in the reign of CHARLES II. by his elder son, ALEXANDER FARQUHARSON, of Invercauld, who m. Isabella, daughter of William Macintosh, of that Ilk, and had three sons, viz.

WILLIAM, his heir.

JOHN, successor to his brother.

Alexander, of Monaltrie, who m. Anne, daughter of Francis Farquharson, of Finzean, and had (with three daughters) three sons,

1. John, who m. Elizabeth Ogilvie, of Clunie, and d. s. p.
2. Francis, m. Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Eyre, esq. of Hassan, Derbyshire.
3. Robert, m. first, a daughter of William Keith, esq. of Bruxie; and secondly, Anne, daughter of William Baird, esq. of Auchmedden, and had issue.

The eldest son,

WILLIAM FARQUHARSON, esq. of Invercauld, died unm. and was s. by his brother,

JOHN FARQUHARSON, esq. of Invercauld, who m. first, Isabella, daughter and co-heir of Sir Alexander Burnet, bart. of Craigmylie, and had several children, who all d. young. He m. secondly, Christian, daughter of Sir Robert Menzies, bart. of Weem, and had one daughter, who d. unm. He espoused thirdly, Margaret, daughter of Lord James Murray, son of the Marquess of Athol, and had,

JAMES, his heir.

John, who died young.

Anne, (the celebrated Lady Macintosh, who assisted Prince CHARLES, in 1745, by heading her husband's clan) m. to Eneas Macintosh, of Macintosh.

Margaret. d. unmarried.

The Laird of Invercauld married fourthly, Jean Forbes, of Waterton, and had one son, Robert, who died unm. and two daughters. Mary, m. to Captain Oliver; and Fanny, m. to — Donaldson, esq. He was s. at his decease in 1750, by his son, JAMES FARQUHARSON, esq. of Invercauld, who espoused Amelia, daughter of Lord James Murray, and relict of Lord Sinclair, by whom he had four daughters, Amelia, Fanny, Matilda, and Catherine, who all d. unm. except the youngest. He died in 1806, and was s. by his only surviving daughter, the present CATHERINE FARQUHARSON, of Invercauld.

Arms—Quarterly, first and fourth, or, a lion rampant gu. armed and langued, as the paternal coat of the name of FARQUHARSON. Second and third, arg. a fir tree growing out of a mount in base, seeded, ppr. on a chief gu. the banner of Scotland in bend displayed; a canton of the first charged with a dexter hand couped at the wrist, in fesse holding a dagger point downwards ppr. The FIR TREE is borne from an ancient custom of carrying twigs of fir as a badge in the time of battle.

MUSKETT, OF INTWOOD HALL.

MUSKETT, JOSEPH-SALSBURY, of Intwood Hall, in the county of Norfolk, b. in 1784, inherited the estates at the decease of his father, in February, 1832, m. Mary, only daughter of William Jary, esq. of Burlingham, in the same shire, and has one daughter, MARIAN.

Lineage.

This family resided and possessed lands in the parish of Haughleigh, in Suffolk, in the reigns of HENRY VIII. EDWARD VI. and ELIZABETH, and a branch continued there until the year 1774.

WILLIAM MUSKETT, esq. who was living at Haughleigh in 1565, purchased in 1598, an estate in Rockland St. Peter's, called "Ladie's Manor," having been the property of Lady Bigod. He d. in 1619, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT MUSKETT, esq. a warm adherent of royalty during the troubles which clouded the time of CHARLES I. He was s. in 1630 by his son,

SIMON MUSKETT, esq. who removed from Haughleigh, and took up his abode at Bisingham, in Norfolk. The daughter of this gentleman married Henry Bloomfield, esq. of Fersfield, grandfather of the Rev. Francis Bloomfield, of Fersfield and Billingford, who wrote the History of Norfolk. His son,

JOHN MUSKETT, possessed landed property in Brisingham and Fersfield. In the latter he held a lease of forty-two acres of pasture from the Duke of Norfolk, at the yearly rent of three shillings and six-pence, which land is now in the occupation of one of his descendants. His son,

ANDREW MUSKETT, settled at Thelton, in Norfolk, anno 1659, and adopting the sentiments of the Quakers, suffered much in those persecuting times. He left four sons and one daughter, viz. JOHN, Andrew, James, Charles, and Elizabeth. The eldest son, JOHN MUSKETT, resided at Newton-Flootman, in Norfolk, in 1748, and acquired a considerable estate in Roydon and Tebningham, but leaving a large family the property was sold at his decease. He m. first, Miss Hart, daughter of Mr. Charles Hart, of Hapton Hall, and had one son, JOHN, and two daughters. He espoused, secondly, Anne,* daughter of Mr. Ephraim Heywood, of Diss, in Norfolk, and had further issue, viz.

Rhoda, m. to — Hart, of East Grimstead, Essex.

The eldest son of the second marriage,

JOSEPH MUSKETT, of Easton, in Norfolk, raised a large fortune by his indefatigable industry as an agricultural and land agent, and purchased considerable estates. In 1808, he bought from the trustees of Henry Hobart, esq. the parish of Intwood; the manor and estate of Lord Rosbery, in Plumstead Parva; and the manor and parish of Clipsby. He wedded Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Salsbury, esq. of Cheeverly, in the county of Cambridge, and left two sons,

This gentleman, a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for Bedfordshire, succeeded his father in 1820. He is a major in the army, and at present major of brigade at Plymouth.

Lineage.

This family of SMITH has been in possession of an estate, with the manorial rights, in the county of Warwick, since the time of HENRY VII. and probably from a much earlier period.

EDWARD SMITH, M.D. a physician of repute at Coventry, espoused Miss Lamb, daughter and co-heiress of William Lamb, esq. of Farnish, in the county of Northampton, and sister of Judith, lady of Sir Edward Noel, bart. of Kirby Malory, who became, in 1745, Baron Wentworth, and was subsequently raised to a viscountcy in 1762. By the co-heiress of Lamb, Dr. Smith had an only child,

THE REV. EDWARD SAWYER SMITH, who was presented to the living of Rodmartin, in Gloucestershire, by his father. He espoused, in 1744, Diana, daughter and co-heiress of Thomas, only brother of Richard Orlebar, esq. of Hinwick House, in Bedfordshire, last male representative of the senior branch of the Orlebars, of Puddington (see p. 247, vol. i.) and was s. at his decease, in 1756, by his only son, (then about ten years of age)

THE REV. EDWARD ORLEBAR SMITH, of Aspley House, who, entering into holy orders as soon as he became of legal age, was presented by his cousin, the last Lord Wentworth, to the living of Bradenham, in Bucks, which he resigned upon obtaining from his father-in-law the rectory of Hulcote, in the county of Bedford. He was subsequently, at the demise of his wife's first cousin, Thomas Willis, presented to Bletchley, in Buckinghamshire. Mr. Smith espoused, in 1779, Charlotte, daughter and co-heiress of the Rev. Edward Hervey, of Chiltern House, Bucks, and of Aspley House, in the county of Bedford, by Mary his wife, dau. of the celebrated antiquary, BROWNE WILLIS, of Whaddon Hall, Bucks, and had issue,

CHARLES-HERVEY, his heir.

Edward Orlebar, in holy orders, rector of Hulcote, who wedded, in May, 1822, his cousin, Julia, youngest dau. of the Rev. Thomas Willis, and sister to John Willis Fleming, esq. of Stoneham Park, Hants. Mr. Orlebar Smith is an acting magistrate for Bedfordshire.

FAMILIES OF CHERNOCKE AND HERVEY.

The ancient and once wide spreading family of CHERNOCKE, the only remaining representatives of which are the SMITHS, of Aspley, derive their descent from the CHERNOCKES, of Chernocke Hall, in Lancashire.

ROBERT CHERNOCKE, esq. the first of the northern house that settled in the county of Bedford, married twice, and had issue by both wives. He d. in 1547, and was buried at Hulcote, where a monument is erected to his memory, with the following inscription: "Robert Chernocke, esquier, father of Richard Chernocke, esq. here entered, did descende of an ancient house, called Chernocke Hall, in Lancashire, he had by two wives, of Worshippfull parentage, ten children, six by one, by the other four. He was the first that planted this familie in this countye; he left his estate to his son, Richard, departing this life about sixty years of age, anno Domini, 1547."

The eldest son,

RICHARD CHERNOCKE, esq. m. first, Mary, daughter of Sir George Puttenham, of Sherfield, knt. and secondly, Audrey, daughter of William Fordsham, of Elton, in the county of Chester, by the former of whom only he had issue. He rebuilt the parish church of Hulcote, at his own expense, as well as his mansion-house there; was thrice high sheriff of Bedfordshire in the 26th, 28th, and 43rd of ELIZABETH, and died 14th August, 1615, aged eighty-four. He was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN CHERNOCKE, esq. of Hulcote, who espoused Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Arundell, knt. of Lanhern, in Cornwall, and was s. at his decease, in 1641, by his eldest son,

SIR ROBERT CHERNOCKE, knt. of Hulcote. This gentleman wedded Agnes, fourth dau. of Oliver, third Lord St. John, of Bletsoe, and died 26th July, 1670, having had five sons, who all d. issueless, excepting Robert, father of Francis Chernocke, esq. of Wedgenock Park, in Warwickshire, and the eldest son and successor,

SIR JOHN CHERNOCKE, who was created a BARONET vitâ patris, 13th CHARLES II. He m. Audrey, daughter of Sir William Villiers, bart. of Brookesby, in Leicestershire, eldest brother to the first Duke of Buckingham, by whom he left at his demise, in 1680, aged sixty-one, an only son and heir,

SIR VILLIERS CHERNOCKE, bart. of Hulcote, who m. Ann, daughter of John Pynsent, esq. of Comb, in Surrey, prothonotary of the court of common-pleas, and had issue, PYNSENT (Sir), his heir.

Honour.

Sir Villiers Chernocke, who represented the county of Bedford, temp. JAMES II. died in November, 1694, and was s. by his son.

SIR PYNSENT CHERNOCKE, bart. of Hulcote, high sheriff for Bedfordshire, in 1703. This gentleman, who was twice M.P. for the county, and who appears to have contested every election with the Russell family, was compelled, by the expenses attendant thereon, to dispose of the estate of Tingriff, now the seat of Robert Trevor, esq. He espoused Helen, daughter and co-heir of William Boteler, esq. of Biddenham, by whom he had issue,

I. BOTELER, his heir.

II. Pynsent, who d. young.

III. VILLIERS, s. to his brother.

IV. Elizabeth, d. young.

V. Anne, d. unmarried.

VI. HELEN, who m. Edward Hervey, esq. of Chiltern, in Bucks, and had two sons and a daughter, viz.

1. EDWARD HERVEY, in holy orders, of whom presently.

2. Pynsent, a captain in the navy, d. s. p.

3. Helen, m. Rev. Joseph Bayle, of Bishop's Waltham, Hants, but has no issue.

VII. Penelope, m. first, to Robert Abbot, esq. of Steppingly Park, in Bedfordshire, and secondly, to Captain Hervey.

VIII. Elizabeth. m. — Chauncey, esq. of Little Court, near Buntingford, Herts, but had no child.

Sir Pynsent died 2nd September, 1734, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR BOTELER CHERNOCKE, bart. of Hulcote, M.P. for Bedford in 1740, at whose decease unmarried, the title and estates devolved upon his brother,

SIR VILLIERS CHERNOCKE, bart. of Hulcote, who resided at Twyford, in Hants. He wedded Miss Sophia Harris, but dying without issue, the title expired, while the Bedfordshire estates passed to his nephew,

The Rev. EDWARD HERVEY, of Hulcote, who espoused Mary, daughter of the celebrated BROWNE WILLIS, esq. of Whaddon Hall, Bucks, by Catherine, his wife, only child and heiress of Daniel Eliot, esq. of Port Eliot, and had issue,

I. CHARLOTTE, m. as before stated, to the Rev. ORLEBAR SMITH.

II. Mary, d. s. p.

III. Eliza, d. s. p.

IV. Barbara, widow of the Rev. B. Watkin, of Lockridge House, Wilts, d. s. p. aged seventy-nine.

Mr. Hervey dying thus without male issue, a part of the estates reverted to Mrs. Elizabeth Chauncey, only surviving daughter of Sir Pynsent, who divided the property among her great nieces, Barbara Hervey, first cousin to the deceased Mr. Hervey, and the four daughters of that gentleman. Miss Barbara Hervey bequeathed her share to William Montague, esq. The other portions have already in part, and will doubtless in due course be entirely divided among the children of CHARLOTTE, the only daughter of the Rev. Edward Hervey who left issue.

ARCHDALE, OF CASTLE ARCHDALE.

ARCHDALE, MERVYN, esq. of Castle Archdale, in the county of Fermanagh, and of Trillic, in Tyrone, member of parliament for the former shire, which he now represents for the eleventh time, his family having preceded him for more than a century, a general officer in the army, lieutenant-governor of the Isle of Wight, &c. b. in April, 1763, m. in December, 1805, Jane, daughter of Gustavus Rochfort,* esq. of Rochfort, in the county of Westmeath, M. P. for that county, which the family of Rochfort represented for 150 years.

General Archdale, who represents the families of Archdale and Mervyn, and claims the representation of the Mount Alexander line of that of Montgomery, succeeded his father in 1813. He has been exempted from serving the office of sheriff, by pleading his military rank.

Lineage.

The first of the family of ARCHDALE, who settled in Ireland temp. ELIZABETH, was

JOHN ARCHDALE, esq. of Norsom, or Norton Hall, in the county of Norfolk. This gentleman, by the following inscription still extant over the gateway in the ruins, appears to have erected the old mansion-house of Archdale:—

"Data—Fata—Secutus
Iohannes Archdale,
Hoc Edificium struxit, anno Millesimo, sexingentesimo, decimo quinto."

He m. and had two sons, viz.

1. EDWARD, his heir.

John Archdale d. in 1621, and was s. by his son,

EDWARD ARCHDALE, esq. who espoused Angel, daughter of Sir Paul Gore (ancestor of the Gores, Earls of Ross, &c.), and had issue. During his time the castle* which his father had erected was taken and burned by the rebels under Sir Phelim O'Neil, in October, 1641, and but two children of a numerous family survived. One, a daughter, who was absent and married; the other, an infant son, WILLIAM, preserved by the fidelity of his nurse, an Irish Roman Catholic, which WILLIAM ARCHDALE, esq. after succeeding to the estates, m. Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Mervyn, esq. of Omagh Castle and Trillic, both in the county of Tyrone, and had two sons and a daughter, viz.

I. MERVYN, his heir.

II. EDWARD, heir to his brother.

III. ANGEL.

He was s. by his elder son,

MERVYN ARCHDALE, esq. of Castle Archdale, who d. unm. 27th December, 1726, and was s. by his brother,

EDWARD ARCHDALE, esq. of Castle Archdale. This gentleman wedded first, Frances, eldest daughter of Sir John Caldwell, bart. and secondly, Elizabeth, eldest daughter of John Cole, esq. of Florence Court, but dying without issue, before 1730, the estates devolved on his only sister,

ANGEL ARCHDALE, who thus became heir-ess and representative of the family. She espoused NICHOLAS MONTGOMERY, esq. of Derry Gonnely, in the county of Fermanagh, M.P. for that shire, who assumed the surname and arms of ARCHDALE, and left at her decease, about 1742, or 1743, an only son,

MERVYN ARCHDALE, esq. of Castle Archdale and Trillic, M.P. for the county of Fermanagh, who espoused in 1762, the Honourable Mary Dawson, daughter of William-Henry, Viscount Carlow, and sister of John, first Earl of Portarlington, by whom he had issue,

I. MERVYN, his heir.

II. William, late lieutenant-colonel of the Fourth or King's Own Infantry, m. Martha, daughter of — Clarke, esq. of the county of Somerset.

III. Edward, m. Matilda, daughter of William Humphrys, esq. of Ballyhaise House, in the county of Cavan, and has, with four daughters, nine sons,

V. Mary, m. to the Right Hon. Sir John Stewart, bart. M.P. for the county of Tyrone.

VI. Angel, m. to John Richardson, esq. of Rosfad House, in the county of Fermanagh.

VII. Elizabeth, m. to Dacre Hamilton, esq. of Cornacassa, in the county of Monaghan.

VIII. Sidney, m. to Robert Hamilton, esq. of the city of Dublin.

Mr. Archdale died in 1813, and was s. by his eldest son, the present GENERAL ARCHDALE, of Castle Archdale.

Descent of the Mervyn-Archdales, of Castle Archdale, from the Montgomeries and Dunbars.

A branch of the noble family of Montgomerie, Earls of Eglintoun, in Scotland, emigrated to Ireland with their kinsman, the Lord Mount Alexander (to the sale of whose estates by the last lord, NICHOLAS

* It is presumed that the earlier records of the family were consumed in this castle.

MONTGOMERY-ARCHDALE, as in remainder, was obliged to assent), and became representative of that of Dunbar by intermarriage with an heiress.

SIR JOHN DUNBAR, knight-banneret, of Dunbar, in the county of Fermanagh, by grant from King JAMES I. anno 1616, originally of Scotland, married MARY-KATHERINE, sister of GUSTAVUS ADOLPHUS, of SWEDEN, in whose army he bore a distinguished rank, and had a son,

JAMES DUNBAR, esq. of Derrygonelly, who wedded —, daughter of — Weldon, esq. and was s. by his only son,

RICHARD DUNBAR, esq. of Derrygonelly, who espoused Katherine, Lady Hamilton, and left an only daughter and heiress,

KATHERINE DUNBAR, who m. HUGH MONTGOMERY, esq. and conveyed to him the greater part of the estates of the Dunbars, including DERRYGONELLY, &c. which are now in possession of GENERAL ARCHDALE. They had

NICHOLAS MONTGOMERY, who married first, as already stated, the heiress of ARCHDALE, and assumed the name and arms of her family. He wedded secondly, Sarah, daughter of — Spurling, esq. of London, and had several children. He d. in 1760.

Hugh Montgomery, ancestor of Hugh Montgomery, esq. of Blessingburn Lodge, in the county of Tyrone, lieutenant-colonel of the Fermanagh militia.

Descent of the Mervyn=Archdales, of Castle Archdale, from the Mervyns.

The family of MERVYN, originally from Wales, was seised of Fonthill, in the county of Wilts, during the reign of EDWARD IV. (See vol. i. p. 682.)

LUCY MERVYN, daughter of Sir John Mervyn, of Fonthill, espoused George, Lord Audley, created EARL OF CASTLEHAVEN, in the peerage of Ireland, by King JAMES I. and her youngest daughter,

LADY CHRISTIANA TOUCHET, marrying her maternal relative, SIR HENRY MERVYN, kn. her son,

SIR AUDLEY MERVYN, went over to Ireland, and had a command in the English army in conjunction with his kinsman, the Earl of Castlehaven, during the civil wars in that kingdom, A.D. 1641 and 1642. He was governor of Londonderry, and member of parliament for the county of Tyrone, which his representatives continued to represent until the extinction of the male line. In the year 1661 he was chosen speaker of the Irish House of Commons; and on the attainder of his cousin, James, third Earl of Castlehaven, came into possession of that nobleman's great estates in the county of Tyrone, including the manors of Stowey, Touchet, &c. &c. which manors, with the remainder of the estates and the name and representation of the family, are now vested in General MERVYN ARCHDALE by the intermarriage of his great-grandfather, WILLIAM ARCHDALE, esq. and Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Mervyn, esq. of Omagh Castle and Trillic (whose remaining daughter wedded the ancestor of the present Irvines, of Castle Irvine, in the county of Fermanagh), as also under the will of Henry, last heir male of that family.

Arms—Quarterly; FIRST and FOURTH for ARCHDALE, az. between three talbots or, a chevron erm.; SECOND, for MONTGOMERY, quarterly, az. and gu. in the 1st and 4th, three fleurs-de-lys or, in the 2nd and 3rd, three annulets of the last; THIRD, for MERVYN, party per pale or and arg. three lions passant guardant sa.

Crests—ARCHDALE. Out of a ducal coronet, an heraldic tiger's head ppr. MONTGOMERY. On a cap of maintenance ppr. a hand vested az. grasping a sword ppr. pomel and hilt gold. MERVYN. A squirrel segreant ppr.

Mottos—ARCHDALE. Data fata secutus. MONTGOMERY. Honneur sans repos. MERVYN. De Dieu tout.

Estates—Four manors in the county of Fermanagh, from the families of ARCHDALE and MONTGOMERY, all by patent in the reign of JAMES I.; and three manors in Tyrone from the family of MERVYN, created in the eighth year of the same reign.

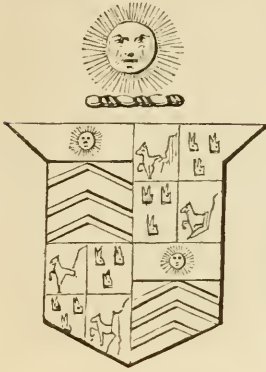

Town Residence—Kildare Place, Dublin.

Seats—Castle Archdale, in the county of Fermanagh, and Trillic, in the county of Tyrone.

* * * The family name of ARCHDALE has been for many years past spelt ACHDALL; but in the inscription on the old castle and in Pynner's Survey, as well as in the patent royal granting the estates and other documents, it is invariably written ARCHDALE.

FONNEREAU, OF CHRIST CHURCH.

FONNEREAU, The Reverend CHARLES-WILLIAM, of Christ Church Park, in the county of Suffolk, b. in 1764, m. Harriette-Deborah, eldest daughter of Thomas Neale, esq. of Freston Tower, and has issue, WILLIAM-Charles, b. in 1804, m. in 1832, Kate-Georgiana, daughter of John Cobbold, esq. of The Cliff, Ipswich.

Harriette, m. in 1827, (see vol. i. p. 183) to Charles, second son of Abraham Spooner-Lillingston, esq. of Elmdon, in the county of Warwick, and has one son and two daughters.

Mr. Fonnereau served some time in His Majesty's navy, during the first American war, and was lieutenant of the Conqueror under Admiral Rodney, in the action on the 12th April, 1782. He retired afterwards, and entered into holy orders. He inherited Christchurch at the decease of his father in 1817.

Lineage.

This family of FONNEREAU, originally of noble descent, and presumed to have been a branch of the Earls of Ivry, of Poitiers, in Normandy, was founded in England by

ZACHARY FONNEREAU, who fled from the city of La Rochelle, at the revocation of the edict of Nantes, and settled in London. His eldest son,

CLAUDE FONNEREAU, esq. purchased, in 1732, the manors of Christ Church, and Wicksufford, in Suffolk, of Viscount Hereford, together with a large estate at Edmon-ton, and the borough of Sudbury, and the borough of Aldborough, for which three of his sons sat in several successive parliaments. Claude was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS FONNEREAU, esq. of Christ Church, at whose decease, without issue, the estates devolved upon his next brother,

THE REV. DR. CLAUDIUS FONNEREAU, of Christ Church, born in 1700, who wedded in 1725, Ann, daughter and co-heiress of the Rev. William Bunbury, rector of Catworth, in the county of Huntingdon, (grandson of Henry Bunbury, esq. of Bunbury and Staney, who suffered such great hardships for his unshaken loyalty to CHARLES I.) by Anne, his wife, daughter of Sir Villiers Chernocke, bart. of Hulcote. By this lady Dr. Fonnereau acquired some of the old Bunbury property in Cheshire, and had twelve children, all of whom died in youth, or without issue, excepting Ann, m. to Sir Booth Williams, bart. of Clapton, in Northamptonshire, and

REV. WILLIAM FONNEREAU, of Christ Church, the eldest son and heir, who espoused, in 1758, Anne, only daughter and eventually (her brothers dying s. p.) heiress of Sir Hutchins Williams, bart. of Clapton, in Northamptonshire, of the Friars, Chichester, of North Hall, Herts, &c. &c. Mrs. Fonnereau did not inherit the bulk of the landed property of her father, which passed, by entail, to her cousin, Admiral Piere Williams, since Freeman, of Fawley Court, Oxfordshire, but succeeded to the Friars, at Chichester, the most ancient of the family possessions, and, in right of her mother, who was a Miss Booth, an heiress of the Booths of Dunham Massey; she bore their arms, as well as those of MOUNTFORT and CLINTON. Mr. Fonnereau had issue, CLAUDE-WILLIAMS, in holy orders, rector of Clapton, in Northamptonshire, b. in 1761, who s. his mother at the Friars, at Chichester. He is married, but has no issue.

CHARLES-WILLIAM, who inherited Christ Church, and is its present possessor.

Harriette-Louisa-Ann, m. to Frederick Cornwallis, lieutenant-colonel of the 33rd regiment, cousin to the first Marquis of Cornwallis.

Mary-Anne, d. unmarried.

Mr. Fonnereau, who inherited, in 1804, d. in 1817, and was s. by his second son, the present

REV. CHARLES-WILLIAM FONNEREAU, of Christ Church Park.

Arms—Quarterly; first and fourth, gu. three chevrons arg. on a chief az. a sun in splendour or. Second and third, quarterly, first and fourth, gu. a wolf issuing out of a rock from the sinister side of the escutcheon, all arg.; second and third, az. three boars' heads couped arg.

Crest—A sun in splendour or.

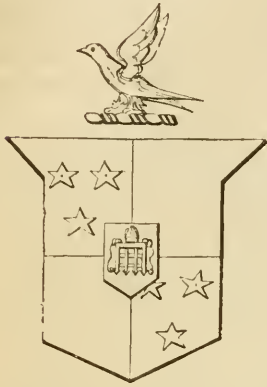

Estates—In Suffolk.

Seat—Christ Church Park.

NEWMAN, OF THORNBURY PARK.

NEWMAN, HENRY-WENMAN, esq. of Thornbury Park, in the county of Gloucester, b. 1st June, 1788, inherited the estates at the demise of his father, 29th September, 1829. This gentleman is a magistrate, and deputy-lieutenant for the county of Gloucester. He is likewise a captain in the Royal South Gloucester Light Infantry Militia.

Lineage.

By a certificate under the hand of Humphrey Newman, of Wincanton, gentleman, it appears that at the dissolution of monasteries the Newmans were lessees under the Abbot of St. Augustin; Bristol, of the manors and demesnes of Fifehead Magdalen, Dorset, and that there were three distinct branches of the family seated at Queen's Camel, Wincanton, and other places in Somersetshire. The Newmans are of kin to the founders of Corpus Christi College, Oxford.

CHETHAM-STRODE, OF SOUTHILL.

STRODE-CHETHAM, RANDLE, esq. of South Hill, in the county of Somerset, b. 7th January, 1773, inherited the estates at the decease of his brother Richard, issueless in 1828, and assumed, by sign manual, the additional surname and arms of STRODE.

Lineage.

The family of STRODE, which derives from the Dukes of Bretagne, was founded in England by one of the soldiers of the CONQUEST, SIR WARINUS DE LA STRODE, Lord of Strode, in Dorsetshire, whose immediate successors enjoyed large estates in the counties of Dorset and Somerset, to the eighth of whom in direct line we pass, namely,

SIR JOHN DE STRODE, knt. who was sheriff of Dorset and Somerset shires, in the 17th HENRY III. He had two sons, John Strode, of Parnham, and an elder, his successor,

NICHOLAS DE STRODE, living in 1249, whose son and heir,

SIR HUGH DE STRODE, knt. m. Beatrix, daughter and heiress of Sir John de Bytton, knt. and Hawise, his wife, the daughter and heiress of Matthew Ffurneaux. Sir Hugh was living in the time of EDWARD I. and was s. at his decease by his son,

SIR HUGH DE STRODE, of Chalmington, who m. Beatrice, daughter of — Fitchet, esq. and was s. by his son,

HENRY DE STRODE, living in the reigns of EDWARD II. and EDWARD III. who espoused Maud, daughter and heiress of — de Beaupre, and had two sons, Hugh and Edmund. He was s. by the elder,

HUGH DE STRODE, flourished temp. EDWARD III. and RICHARD II. whose son and heir,

HENRY DE STRODE, living temp. RICHARD II. espoused Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of John and Joan Brent, and was s. by his son,

2. Hannah, aged sixteen in 1623.

III. EDWARD.

The second son,

EDWARD STRODE, of Shepton Mallet, m. Alicia, daughter of Robert Whiting, brother of the last abbot of Glastonbury, and left a son,

WILLIAM STRODE, of Shepton Mallet, who wedded Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Galfrid Upton, and had issue,

1. GALFRID or GEOFFREY, of Shepton Mallet, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of William Filiol, of Marnhull, in Dorset, and was father of

COLONEL WILLIAM STRODE, the distinguished patriot, so celebrated and conspicuous in the troubled times of CHARLES I. He was one of the five members of parliament demanded by that unfortunate monarch out of the House of Commons; and is styled by Clarendon in his History, as "that turbulent seditious fellow." So highly valued was Colonel Strode by the Commons, that he was honored with a public funeral, and interred with great ceremony in Westminster Abbey.

II. George, of London.

III. WILLIAM.

The third son,

WILLIAM STRODE, esq. of Shepton Mallet, m. Joanna, daughter and heiress of E. Barnard, esq. of Downside,* in the county of Somerset, and was s. by his son,

EDWARD STRODE, esq. b. 22nd August, 1623, s. by his son,

II. ANNE, m. 15th October, 1770, to Thomas Chetham, esq. of Mellor Hall, in the county of Derby, and had five sons, viz.

1. THOMAS CHETHAM, of whom presently, as inheritor of the STRODE estates, on the demise of his uncle, JAMES STRODE, in 1807.

2. RICHARD CHETHAM, twin brother and successor of Thomas.

3. RANDLE CHETHAM, who having succeeded his brother, Richard, in the STRODE estates, assumed the additional surname and arms of STRODE, and is the present RANDLE CHETHAM-STRODE, esq. of SOUTHHILL.

4. Edward Chetham, captain R.N. and Companion of the Bath.

5. John Chetham, a colonel in the army.

III. Elizabeth, m. to the Rev. André Boisdaupe, and had two daughters,

1. Mary Boisdaupe, m. to — Bell, esq. of Sellaby, in the county of Durham.

2. Augusta Boisdaupe, m. first, to Col. Moorhouse, and secondly, to George, eighteenth Lord Audley, (his lordship's second wife).

Mr. Strode was s. at his decease by his only son,

JOHN STRODE, esq. of Southhill, sometime colonel of the Bath Volunteers, and a deputy lieutenant and justice of the peace for the county of Somerset. He married Margaret-Sophia, daughter of Sir Henry-John Parker, bart. of Talton, in the county of Worcester, by whom, who d. 25th August, 1805, he had no issue. Colonel Strode died at the age of sixty-nine, in 1807, and was buried in the family vault, in the parish church, (West Cranmore) by the side of his wife, to whose memory he had erected an elegant monument, with the following inscription:—

“Sacred to the memory of Margaret-Sophia Strode, wife of John Strode, esq. and daughter of Sir Henry-John Parker, bart. of Talton, in the county of Worcester. She died on Sunday, 25th August, 1805, aged 55 years.”

Above the tomb of Colonel Strode himself, there is also a handsome monument, thus inscribed:—

“Sacred to the memory of John Strode, esq. the last male heir of an ancient and highly respectable family resident in this parish, and lords of this manor nearly two hundred years; his early life was passed in the profession of arms, and his latter years were dedicated to the service of his country in a civil capacity, as an active, humane, and intelligent magistrate; but when his country was threatened by foreign invasion he again stood forward one of her most zealous and active defenders, and was honoured with the command of several corps of fencible troops, raised in this country. He died, December 22nd, 1807, aged 69 years. Thomas Chetham-Strode, his nephew and heir, caused this to be erected to his memory.”

Colonel Strode was s. by (the eldest son of his elder sister) his nephew,

THOMAS CHETHAM, esq. b. 29th November, 1771, who in consequence of inheriting the STRODE estates, assumed by sign manual, in December, 1808, the additional surname and arms of STRODE. He m. in 1816, Catherine-Brandreth Backhouse, widow of Lieutenant Colonel Spencer-Thomas Vassall, who so gloriously fell in leading the British troops to the storm of Monte Video, A.D. 1807, (see vol. i. p. 501) and dau. and co-heiress of the late Rev. D. Evans, D.D. sometime a chaplain to King GEORGE III. and rector of West Tilbury, in Essex. By this lady (who survives him) he had no issue. He d. 11th September, 1827, and was s. by his next brother,

RICHARD CHETHAM, esq. who assumed on inheriting the additional surname and arms of STRODE. He espoused Frances, second daughter of the Rev. Robert Thomlinson, M.A. rector of Cleye, in the county of Norfolk, but dying s. p. 19th July, 1828, was s. by his brother, RANDLE CHETHAM, who, assuming the surname and arms of STRODE, is O'SHEE, OF GARDENMORRES.

O'SHEE, JOHN-POWER, esq. of Gardenmorres, in the county of Waterford, and of Sheestown, in the county of Kilkenny, b. 15th February, 1809, succeeded his father in 1827. Mr. O'Shee, who is a magistrate for the counties of Waterford and Kilkenny, and deputy-lieutenant of the former, served the office of sheriff for the county of Waterford in 1832.

Lineage.

This family, of Milesian origin, derives from the Irish princes of Iveragh, in the county of Kerry, and its direct ancestor, prior to the English invasion, is acknowledged to have held the sceptre as KING or LORD of IVERAGH. Within the jurisdiction of Iveragh was situated the Island of Dairbre, the estate of the O'Shees, and in an ancient pedigree, attested by Robert Cooke, Clarendieux King of Arms, in the year 1582,

ODA, OR ODANUS O'SHEE, chieftain of the Sept, about the beginning of the twelfth century, is styled Lord of the manors of Cloran-O'Shee, Clone-O'Shee, and Drangan-O'Shee, in the barony of Middlethird and county of Tipperary, and of the Canthred of Texnaue O'Shee, in the county of Kerry, (situated in the barony of Iveragh). The tenth in descent from this chief,

ODONEUS O'SHEE, (whose grandfather, Thadeus O'Shee, had removed from Texnaue O'Shee to the county of Tipperary) obtained denizenship for himself and his three brothers, William, Edmund, and John, on the 6th November, A.D. 1381, 15th RICHARD II. This Odoneus was likewise lord of the manors of Cramps Castle, and Sheesland, near Kiltinane, in the county of Tipperary. He was s. by his son,

ROBERT SHEE, who became heir also to his above mentioned uncles, William, Edmund, and John. He was father of THADEUS SHEE, who succeeded him. This chief having unfortunately slain on the 6th December, 1433, John Butler, brother of the Baron of Dunboyne, and Seneschal to the White Earl, in the county palatine of Tipperary, the baron entered into Drangan, Shees land, and other parcels as an ericke after the Irish custom. His brother, Cormacke O'Shee, was about the same period confirmed in the lordship of Cloran, by Thomas Butler, prior of Kilmainham, which estate however came again into the possession of the descendants of Thadeus. He m. Margaret, daughter and heir of William Britten, chieftain of the name, and had four sons, viz.

i. ROBERT, his heir.

ii. John.

iii. Arthur, who m. Issmay Cadell, heiress of Morestown and Cadells town, in the county of Tipperary, and of Elstown and Kilkerraine, in the county of Kilkenny, and had issue.

iv. William.

Thadeus was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT SHEE, who wedded Ellen, daughter of Birmingham, called by the Irish, Mac Fheoris, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD SHEE, who was sent to school to Waterford, by his grandmother, (a daughter of the Earl of Desmond) lest he should be murdered by the Baron of Dunboyne, and he there m. Rose, daughter of — Archer. By this lady he had two sons and four daughters, of whom, Catherine, m. William Bushe, of Waterford. The elder son, ROBERT SHEE, or Sheth, was the first of the family that settled in Kilkenny. He espoused Catherine, daughter of — Sherlocke, of Kilkenny, and had issue,

i. RICHARD, his heir.

ii. Joan, m. to John Mothel.

iii. Beale, m. to Francis Pembroke.

iv. Mary, m. to James Fforstall.

v. Alson, m. to John Donnell.

This Robert was slain on the 6th August, 1500, at Mealiffe, in the county of Tipperary, where he commanded a hundred men of Kilkenny, under Sir Pierce Butler, against O'Brien, and was s. by his son, RICHARD SHEE, of Kilkenny, who m. Joan, daughter and heir of Elias Archer, of Ross, by his wife, Marion, daughter and heir of — Delahyde, of the same place, whose lands he inherited, and had seven sons and three daughters, viz.

i. ROBERT, his successor.

ii. Thomas, who m. Beale Butler, and had two sons and two daughters.

iii. William, m. Margaret Walshe, and had seven sons and four daughters, of whom PIERCE SHEE, the eldest son, was recorder of Kilkenny. William, (the father) died in 1584, and is buried in St. Mary's choir, in Kilkenny, under a flat tomb-stone, bearing the following inscription:

"Hic jacet WILHELMUS SHEE, quondam Burgensis vill Kilkenne

iv. Nicholas, m. Beale Walshe, and had issue.

v. Edmund, m. Lettice Cranesborough, and had issue.

vi. Katherine, m. first, to Michael Boyle, esq. and secondly, to Nicholas Garvey, esq. by both of whom she had issue.

VII. Lettice, m. to John Sweetman, esq. of Callan.

VIII. Anstice, this lady was m. thrice.

He was s. at his decease by his eldest* son,

ROBERT SHEE, esq. who was a justice of the peace for the county of Kilkenny, and purchased lands in the city and county thereof. He wedded Margaret, daughter of — Rothe, esq. and had issue,

I. RICHARD (Sir), his heir.

II. Elias, of Kilkenny, who m. Margaret, daughter of — Archer, esq. and dying 27th July, 1613, was buried in St. Mary's choir, where a monument was erected to his memory, covered with curious inscriptions in Latin verse. He is described by Holingshed, "as Elias Sheth, borne in Kilkenny, sometime scholar of Oxford, a gentleman of a passing wit, a pleasant conceited companion, full of mirth without gall. He wrote in English divers sonnets." The following epitaph appears in Roman capitals on a tablet over the monument :

"HELICE SHEE Armigero multis naturæ dotibus ac multiplicis doctrinæ ornamentis conspicuo conjugii suavisimo charissima uxor Margareta Archer mæsta posuit Obiit Die 27 Julii A. D. 1613."

VI. Marion, m. to Thomas Archer, esq.

VII. Joan, m. first, to Luke Black, esq. and secondly to — Rothe, esq. of Kilkenny.

VIII. Onor, m. to John Archer, esq. and had issue. She died 24th August, 1616, and lies interred under a mural monument in St. Mary's Church, Kilkenny, on which are the arms of Archer, impaling those of Shee, with a Latin inscription underneath.

IX. Ellen, m. to Richard Archdeacon, esq. and had issue.

X. Cicily, m. to John Archer, esq. and had issue.

XI. Rose, m. to James Sherlock, esq. of Waterford.

Robert Shee lies buried in St. Mary's Choir, Kilkenny. His monument consists of a large circular arch, within which are his arms, with seven quarterings, and the initials R. S. He was s. by his eldest son,

SIR RICHARD SHEE, knt. of Uppercourt, in the county of Kilkenny, and of Cloran, in Tipperary, a member of Gray's-Inn, London, and founder, in the year 1582, of the hospital in Kilkenny called after his name, which institution he endowed, by his will dated 18th December, 1603, with the tythes of Butlerswood and Kilmocahill, directing his son and heir, under pain of his curse and promise of his blessing, to procure a charter of incorporation of the poor of the hospital, under the title of "Fratres et Sorores Hospitalis Jesu Christi in Kilkennia." He m. first, Margaret, daughter of John Sherlock, esq. of Mothe, in the county of Waterford, and had issue,

I. ROBERT, who died in the lifetime of his father unmarried.

II. LUCAS, his heir, ancestor of the CLORAN family, which see at foot of this article.

III. Thomas, of Freinstown, who left no issue by his wife Ellen, daughter of Alderman Nicholas Dobbyn, of Waterford.

IV. MARCUS, of whom presently.

V. John.

VI. Lettice, m. to John Grace, head of the ancient baronial house of Courtstown, and had issue.

VII. Catherine, m. first, Edmund Cantwell, esq. of Moycarkey Castle, in the county of Tipperary, and had a daughter, CATHERINE CANTWELL, who wedded the Hon. John Butler, son of Edmund, second Viscount Mount Garret. Mrs. Cantwell espoused secondly, Richard Fforstal, jun. of Fforstalstown and Ologan Castles, by whom she had also a daughter, Catherine Fforstal, who espoused, in 1650, Matthew Morres, esq. of Ballyrickard-Morres.

VIII. Margaret, m. to James Walshe, esq.

IX. Elizabeth, m. to David Rothe, esq. of Tullaghmain, in the county of Kilkenny, by whom she had, with other issue, SIR ROBERT ROTHE, knt. the first Mayor of Kilkenny, under the charter of King JAMES I.

Sir Richard Shee wedded secondly Margaret, daughter of Christopher Ffagan, esq. alderman of Dublin, but by her, who survived him, he left no issue. Sir Richard died at his Castle of Bonnestown, near Kilkenny, on the 10th August, 1608, and was † In vol. i. p. 405, this ELIAS SHEE is represented as dying in 1688, after forfeiting the estate of Clanmore,—evidently in error. Elias who lost Clanmore, was probably the grandson of this ELIAS. By inquisition, held 21st August, 1619, it appears that Elias Shee was seised of the castles of Clanmorne, Shullamrath, and Follingrath, within the liberties of Kilkenny. His son and heir, George Shee, was twenty-three years of age, and married at his father's death. SIR GEORGE SHEE, bart. is the head of this branch of the family only.

- vii. Ellen, m. to Richard Lawless, esq.
- viii. Dorothy, m. to Henry Shee, esq.

Lucas Shee was s. by his elder son,
ROBERT SHEE, esq. of Uppercourt and Cloran. This gentleman being concerned with his uncle, Lord Mount Garret, and the confederate catholics, in the rebellion of 1641, his house, in Kilkenny, being their place of rendezvous, the estates entailed upon him by the will of his grandfather, Sir Richard Shee, were all confiscated, and distributed amongst various individuals. Uppercourt, Freshford, Brownestown, Glasco, Ballylurkin, and other adjoining estates, in the barony of Cranagh, were granted to Sir George Ayskough,* a parliamentary colonel, in satisfaction of arrears; a portion of the ancient inheritance of Cloran alone was allotted to Robert Shee by the court of claims, the greater part being granted to his kinsman, the Duke of Ormonde, and others; and a small portion which had not been disposed of was subsequently conferred by CHARLES II. upon his brother, JAMES, DUKE OF YORK, and sold on that prince's abdication. Robert Shee m. Margaret, daughter and co-heir of Sir Richard Masterson, of Fernes,† by his first wife, Mabel, daughter of Sir Christopher Barnewall, knt. of Turvey, and had one son and five daughters, viz.

HALLIDAY, OF WILTS AND SOMERSETSHIRE.

HALLIDAY, SIMON-WELMAN, esq. one of the lords of the manor of Camberwell-Buckingham, in the county of Surrey, now residing at Brompton Hall, in Middlesex, is representative of the Somersetshire branch since 1805, and head of the family since 1823.

Lineage.

This family, which is of remote antiquity, bears one of the earliest British surnames upon record; familiar now for more than six hundred years on either side of the Tweed, but originally adopted, according to tradition, as well as authenticated written evidence, on the Scottish Border. The people, whom it came to designate, are represented, by the same testimony, as a portion of the Ulster CRUITHENE, which about the beginning of the ninth century, crossed the Irish Channel, and reconquered from the Saxons the greater part of their original possessions in the south of Scotland. These lands known in our time as the district of Galloway, Dumfriesshire, and part of Peebles, formed, in conjunction with Larnark and Renfrew, the Celtic kingdom of STRATH CLUUD, where in some of the most remote districts, until very recently, the Gaelic or Irish language was constantly spoken. The Cruithene, so called from the Celtic word, "Cruiteneach," to paint, had been driven into Ireland by the Roman Conquerors and had taken possession of the province of Ulster; but becoming in process of time too numerous for their new settlement, adventured to regain from the Saxons, a portion of that territory from which the Romans had expelled their forefathers. Victorious,—the conquered country, was divided amongst their leaders: and the Vale or Dale of the River Annan, the portion of one of these chieftains, was taken possession of by his followers.

This VALE was then thickly wooded, and the deer and the wild boar could be chased from "the Devil's Punch Bowl to Annan Water Foot," without once emerging from the Forest. With the settlement of this people on the borders of the two kingdoms, began that harassing and petty warfare which may be said to have continued until long after the Union; and tradition affirms, that "a holyday" became the warcry or slogan of the chief and people of Annandale, whenever they made a "raide" or foray upon the Saxon border—for they accounted every day HOLY, that was spent in ravaging the enemy's country. The wars that in aftertimes so fiercely raged between two neighbouring and rival nations, thus arose from the hatred that existed and long continued to exist between two distinct people, the Saxon and the Gaul, the oppressor and the oppressed. The Clan, when provisions became scarce were summoned to make a holyday, and in proof of the probability of this origin of the name, the eminence where the "Annandale Moss Troopers," were accustomed to assemble when a foray into England was ordered, still retains the designation of the HALLIDAY HILL. Whether this derivation be correct or not, there are now no means of ascertaining—but the evidence is complete, that the chieftain, who first assumed the surname, had his castle or strong tower, near the source of the River Annan, and about two or three miles above the present flourishing village of Moffat, so celebrated for its mineral waters; at the COREHEAD the ruins of this castle may still be traced, and there we may suppose that generation after generation had lived in Celtic greatness as chiefs, and had hunted the wolf and the wild boar in the woody vale, when the more profitable pursuit of Saxon beeves was not necessary or advisable.

On the accession of DAVID, the first of his name, to the throne of Scotland, a new era may be said to have arisen; not only new laws but a new race of people were introduced into the country. DAVID had resided, during the greater part of his brother's reign, at the court of the Norman conquerors of England, and had married the heiress of Waltheof Earl of Huntingdon and Northumberland, to which titles he was in consequence advanced by his royal brother-in-law in 1130. Hence, in habits and feelings, he became a Norman himself, and finding his Scottish crown surrounded with many thorns, and the Celtic tribes more ready to fight for independence, than to submit to control, he prevailed upon as many as he could of the younger sons of the Norman barons to accompany him into Scotland. In this DAVID was actuated by more than one motive, for while they could not fail to enliven his court, and by their better breeding and greater polish tend to soften and civilize the manners of the Scotch, they would, at the same time, form a very efficient body guard and enable him to raise and discipline an army with more advantage than could be done by the natives. Amongst the many young men of noble birth but scant fortune, that accompanied King DAVID, was ROBERT DE BRUIS, a son of the Baron of Cleveland, who as a reward for thus exiling himself from "merry England," received a grant of the Valla de Annan, to be held of the Kings of Scotland, "per jus Gladii"—and there he erected and fortified a castle. The Border Celts were a warlike, though at all times an undisciplined people, and subdued and heart-broken in their own territory, it may naturally be supposed they sought for adventure on some other shore. The Norman yoke must have been felt most acutely—and certain it is, that almost every man able to bear arms within the Stewartry (as it was now called) of Annandale, joined the standard of the Earl of Huntingdon, and accompanied the lion-hearted RICHARD to the Holy Land.* But even previous to this levy "en masse," many of the HALLIDAY clan had returned to Ireland, or fled into the wilds of Galloway, where their valour long kept the Norman at bay. It is not required to follow the history of the legions which King RICHARD led to Palestine—while the illfated monarch was in captivity, the Earl of Huntingdon returned to England with all that remained of the British force—and such was the jealousy of the two factions, or rather the faction of Prince JOHN, which then disturbed the peace of the kingdom, that this little band of worn out, but distinguished warriors, was discharged and dispersed over the kingdom. Among these veterans, there must have been seen many of the name of HALLIDAY, for we very soon afterwards find the surname common in several counties in England, holding freehold lands of the sovereign, as also vassals of superior lords.

* Of the five thousand men sent by WILLIAM of Scotland to join King RICHARD, one thousand were from Annandale, and almost all HALLIDAYS.

In 1240, a WALTER HALLIDAY stands in the Exchequer Rolls, as lord of a manor, called St. Botolph, in Kent, and a WILLIAM HALLIDAY is mentioned in 1278, as possessing Trivil, in the same county. In 1298, THOMAS HALLIDAY, and in 1305, JOHN HALLIDAY represented the town of Bedford in parliament. About this period also a GERARD HALLIDAY, and four others of his name are mentioned as land holders in the hundred of Lackford, county of Suffolk. Others stand recorded as proprietors of the parishes of "Wardeboys," or "Warboys," and Caldicate, in Huntingdonshire; and of Bampton-Pogys, Oxfordshire.

JOHN HALLIDAY, of Pontefract, was summoned to attend his sovereign, EDWARD III. with twenty bowmen, and men at arms (to be paid by him) in the wars against the Scots. In 1435,

THOMAS HALLIDAY, of Pontefract, commanded five hundred archers in Sir John Shirley's division of the English army, at the battle of AGINCOURT. In 1470,

WALTER HALLIDAY, called "The Minstrel," became master of the revels to EDWARD IV., and acquired lands in the parish of Rodborough, in the county of Gloucester, which are still held by his descendants. He was father of HENRY HALLIDAY, styled of Minchin Hampton, who m. a daughter of — Payne, of Payne's Court, and left four sons, viz.

WILLIAM, of Rodborough, a person of considerable note, who wedded Sarah, aunt of Sir John Brydges, created in 1554, Baron Chandos, of Sudley, and was s. by his son,

SIR LEONARD HALLIDAY, who, at his father's decease, was sent to London, where he rose to be sheriff, and, in 1605, was lord mayor, and knighted by King JAMES I. Stowe, in his annals, states how Sir Leonard converted the Moorfields, then "a perfect lystal," in the vicinity of London, into the beautiful and fashionable gardens which they were in after-times, and so little agreeable was this labour to the men employed, that they adopted a term for all hard toil, by calling it like the improvements of Moorfields, "Holy-day-work." Sir Leonard m. Anne, daughter and heiress of William Winhold, or Wincot, esq. of Langham, in Suffolk, by whom (who wedded for her second husband, Henry, the great Earl of Manchester) he left an only son,

HALLIDAY, OF RODBOROUGH.

HALLIDAY, WILLIAM, esq. of Rodborough, in the county of Gloucester, m. in 1792, Sophia, daughter of the Rev. Peter Hawker, of Woodchester, in that shire. This gentleman, a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for Gloucestershire, succeeded to the Halliday property at the decease of his father, in 1804, and inherited, upon the decease of his mother and uncle, the estates of the families of Spilman and Gyde.

Lineage.

JOHN HALLIDAY, of Minchin Hampton, (fourth son of Henry Halliday, who m. a daughter of Payne, of Payne's Court) was father of

JOHN HALLIDAY, esq. of Minchin Hampton, whose son,

HENRY HALLIDAY, esq. of Minchin Hampton, wedded Mary, dau. of Robert Mills, of Red Marley, in the county of Hereford, and was s. by his son,

JOHN HALLIDAY, esq. of London, who m. Mary, daughter of — Bowler, of Kent, and was father of

JOHN HALLIDAY, esq. of Bromley, in Kent, was s. by his only son,

WILLIAM HALLIDAY, esq. of Bowlehill, This gentleman resided in the same house in which the lord mayor had been born. He espoused, first, Miss Driver, of Aston, in Kent, and secondly, Miss Blanch, of Wootton, and dying in 1715, had a son and successor,

WILLIAM HALLIDAY, esq. of Bowlehill, Rodborough, in the county of Gloucester, who m. Miss Gyde, of Rodborough, an heiress, and thus acquired additional property in that parish. He was s. by his son, WILLIAM HALLIDAY, esq. of Bowlehill, Rodborough, Gloucestershire. This gentleman wedded Catherine, dau. of Nathaniel Beard, esq. and Ann Spilman, his wife, heiress of that ancient family seated at Spilman's Court, and left at his decease, in 1804, an only child, the present WILLIAM HALLIDAY, esq. of Rodborough, and Froom Hall.

Estates—In the Vale of Gloucester, at Minchin Hampton, and chiefly in the parish of Rodborough. Rodborough Hill, a beautiful and striking object, hanging as it were over the town of Stroud, and where there have been erected sham battlements, belongs to Mr. Halliday. On this hill the Romans had a watch tower, and it formed an outpost for their camp at Woodchester.

Seat—Froom Hall, about half a mile from Stroud, and on the banks of the Stroud water.

HALLIDAYS, OF SCOTLAND.

HALLIDAY, of Tullibole, now of Bergaw,	} Stewartry of Annan- dale.
HALLIDAY, of Whinnyrig.
HALLIDAY, of Castlemains,	} Stewartry of Kirkcud- bright.
HALLIDAY, of Chapman- town,

It is now ascertained by documentary evidence the most authentic that, although the last Laird of Corehead, undoubtedly the chief of all who bore the name of Halliday, and the lineal representative of the first Celtic warrior who assumed it, left no heir male of his body, and that the direct Scottish line failed between the years 1400 and 1450, yet that WALTER, "the minstrel," (master of the revels to EDWARD IV.) was a younger son of the Annandale Chieftain.

WILLIAM HALLIDAY, third son of Henry Halliday, of Minchin Hampton, and grandson of WALTER, the minstrel, was presumed to have been father of

THEOBALD HALLIDAY, who lived contemporaneously with William Halliday, of Rodborough. He went to Holland, and there married — Hay, heiress of Tolyboll, in the county of Fife, only daughter of Colonel Hay, of the service of the states general, and was s. by his son,

JOHN HALLIDAY, educated in Holland, who inherited at the decease of his mother the lands of Tolyboll, and established himself there. It would appear that this John Halliday was a person of some distinction, for he was in great favor with King JAMES VI. who during the progress of the court from Stirling to Falkland, in his youthful days, often slept at Tulliebole House, midway on the journey, and is said to have conferred the honor of Knighthood upon the Laird.* His second son,

WILLIAM HALLIDAY, who became provost of Dumfries, and one of its representatives in parliament, had the honor of entertaining the same monarch, at his house in that Royal Burgh, after the king's accession to the crown of England, in his majesty's last visit to Scotland. The provost died at a good old age, leaving a numerous progeny by his wife, a daughter of Gabriel Johnston, a merchant and burghess of Dumfries. One of his sons,

THOMAS HALLIDAY, came into England, but returned to Scotland, anno 1679, in the army of the Duke of Monmouth, which had been raised to quell the rebellion of the Covenanters; finding however that all his kinsmen were on the side of Presbytery, he left the king's service. He m. Miss Wright, an heiress of the Four Towns, with whom he acquired some property at Bern-gaw, in the county of Dumfries, and settled there. By this lady he had issue,

1. WILLIAM, his heir.

11. Simon, who acquired the lands of Whinnyrig, on the banks of the Solway Frith, and by Gracie, daughter of — of Dumfries, had several sons, of whom, SIMON, the second son, became an eminent ship builder, and had an only daughter, who m. Captain David Scott, R.N. of Aberdeen, and left two daughters, Jane and Margaret Scott. The eldest son, JOHN, inherited Whinnyrig, and was s. by his elder son,

ROBERT HALLIDAY, of Whinnyrig, who m. Helen Douglas, niece of Sir John Douglas, bart. of Kilhead, but leaving no issue, was s. by his brother, SIMON HALLIDAY, of Whinnyrig, a naval surgeon, and afterwards banker in London. He wedded Miss HARVIE, only daughter of Thomas Harvie, esq. of Jamaica, by Anne, his wife, subsequently Lady Farquhar, and d. in 1829, having had two sons and two daughters, viz.

1. GEORGE, a partner with his father in the banking of Herries, Farquhar, Hallidays, and Co. who d. unm. in 1820.

2. WALTER, in holy orders, now of Whinnyrig, in Dumfries, and of Linton, in Devon, m. in 1831, Anne, daughter of — Gardiner, esq. of Edinburgh.

3. Anne, m. to W. G. Johnstone, esq. now a banker at Florence, and d. leaving issue.

4. Elizabeth, m. to Sir William-Richard Cosway, kn. of Bilsington, in Kent, and has one son, William Halliday Cosway, and several daughters.

* The estate of Tulliebole remained in the descendants of the eldest son of this Sir John Halliday, until 1722, when CATHERINE, daughter of John Halliday, wedded the Rev. Archibald Moncrieff, and conveyed it to that family, now represented by her great grandson, the present Sir James Wellwood Moncrieff, bart. of Tulliebole.

The elder son,

WILLIAM HALLIDAY, esq. of Berngaw, wedded Miss Bell, of the Bells of Middlebie, and left three sons and two daughters, viz. THOMAS, John, Walter, Jane, and Bridget. He was s. in 1745, by the eldest,

THOMAS HALLIDAY, esq. of Berngaw, who m. Margaret, daughter of Archibald Porteous, Portioner of the Copewood, and died in 1804, leaving an only surviving son, the present,

SIR ANDREW HALLIDAY, K.G.H. deputy inspector general of army hospitals, &c. &c. one of his majesty's justices of the peace for the county of Middlesex,* a Fellow of the Colleges of Physicians of London and Edinburgh, and of many Royal and Learned Societies, m. Helen Carmichael, daughter of Peter Carmichael, esq. merchant in the city of Edinburgh.

Note—MR. HALLIDAY, of Chapmanton, and Doctor ALEXANDER HALLIDAY, of Calcutta, are of the Galloway line of the family. Doctor Halliday, who distinguished himself as a physician at Moscow, and left several sons, derived from a junior branch of the Corhead family, that never left Annandale, and whose representative is now a most respectable farmer, near Moffat.

* Arms borne by SIR ANDREW HALLIDAY.

TOLSON, OF BRIDEKIRKE.

TOLSON, RICHARD-HENRY, esq. F.S.A. of Woodland Lodge, in the county of Somerset, and of Bridekirke, in Cumberland, a major in His Majesty's service, and late of the 2nd regiment of Life Guards, baptized, at St. Martin's in the Fields, London, 29th July, 1776, m. 17th June, 1797, Jane, eldest daughter of John Collins, esq. of Hatch Court, in Somersetshire, and sister of Henry Powell Collins, esq. M.P. for Taunton in 1820, by whom (who died in 1808) he has an only child,

JANE-DINNISS-TOLSON, b. at Hatch Court, and baptized at Hatch-Beauchamp, in Somersetshire, married at St. Mary Magdalene, Taunton, 22nd May, 1819, to Richard Harcourt Symons, esq. of Fairfield Lodge, in the county of Dorset, second son of the late Thomas Symons, esq. of Mynde Park, in the county of Hereford, and has an only surviving daughter, MARY-LOUISA SYMONS, baptized at Lyme-Regis, in the county of Dorset, 6th March, 1820.

Major Tolson s. at the decease of his father, the 12th June, 1815, and petitioned his majesty, in 1830, for a writ of summons, as heir, through the SAVILES,* to the BARONY OF DARCY, of Darcy.

Lineage.

This family claims importance in the Saxon era of our history, and its founder,

HENRIC'S, is said, in proof of his rank in Saxon times, to have been one of those great persons who in the upper part of his hall had a Dais to receive and entertain his guests, and at the lower end a bower or recess, wherein he might himself repose, with a streamlet flowing through the premises into the river Derwent, in which he is stated to have baptized his children, in the forest of Kokermonth, in Cumbri, in the district of Cumberland, being part of the Brigantes, and ancient kingdom of the North-umbers. This Henricus had lands granted from Gulielmi de Koknat, as appears by deed, bearing date 859, which lands were called Koknat and Derwent, and were granted from Alice de Vumeley, daughter of Gulielmi, son of Latcey, to the said Gulielmi. The fifth in descent from Henricus, another

HENRICUS, assumed the surname of "DE TOLSON," and was s. by his son,

HENRICUS DE TOLSON, who was found guilty of high treason in the time of EDWARD I. but received a free pardon from that monarch. He held lands at Brydekirk, in Cumberland, appertaining to the Monastery of Gysburne, in the county of York. His lineal descendant,

HENRY TOLSON, esq. at the dissolution of the Monastery of Gysburne, temp. HENRY VIII. obtained a grant, by patent from the crown, dated 29th July, in the 35th year of that king's reign, of the manor of BRYDEKIRKE, to himself and his heirs for ever. His son and successor,

HENRY TOLSON, esq. was sheriff of the county of Cumberland, in the 17th ELIZABETH, and was seized of the manor of Brydekirk, in 1590. He had two sons,

RICHARD, his heir.

John, Provost of Oriel College, Oxford.

John, captain R.N.

Harriot-Christian, m. to Sir Harry N. Lumsden, bart. and d. in 1820.

Mary, m. to Major Mitchell, of Ashgrove. Elizabeth, m. to Alexander Forbes, esq. of Blackford.

Margaret.

This gallant officer s. his elder brother, JOHN LEITH, esq. in 1778, and inherited the estate of Rannes upon the demise of ANDREW HAY, esq. in 1789, when he assumed the additional surname and arms of HAY.

General Leith-Hay is a deputy-lieutenant and justice of the peace for the county of Aberdeen.

Lineage.

The surname of LEITH is deemed of great antiquity in Scotland, and those who bore it held, in a remote era, vast possessions, including the barony of Restalrig, and others in the shire of Mid Lothian and territory of Leith, whence it is presumed the name was assumed. The immediate ancestor of the family before us,

WILLIAM LEITH, of Barnis, living in the time of David Bruce, and said to have been the male representative of the Leiths, of Edingarrock, was provost of Aberdeen in 1350, and proprietor of the lands of Caprington, in Aberdeenshire. He m. a daughter of Donald, twelfth Earl of Marr, and had two sons, LAURENCE, his heir.

JOHN, ambassador to the court of England in 1412, 1413, and 1416, and one of the commissioners to adjust the amount of ransom for the release of JAMES I.

William Leith died some time in the reign of ROBERT II. and was buried in the church of Aberdeen, where his monument, name, and arms are still extant. He was s. by his elder son,

LAWRENCE LEITH, of Barnis, in the county of Aberdeen, and provost of Aberdeen in 1401, 1403, and 1411; to which town he presented their largest bell, on which his name is still visible. He died in the time of JAMES II. and was s. by his son, NORMAN LEITH, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of William Leslie, fourth Baron of Balquhain, by Agnes Irvine, his wife, daughter of the Baron of Drum, and had three sons, viz.

HENRY, his heir.

Gilbert.

John, ancestor of the Leiths, of Overhall.

Norman d. temp. JAMES III, and was s. by his son,

HENRY LEITH, of Barnis, who had also three sons,

GEORGE, his heir.

WILLIAM, successor to his brother.

Patrick, progenitor of the Leiths, of Harthill.

And dying before the year 1479, was s. by his eldest son,

GEORGE LEITH, esq. who possessed many other lands besides those of Barnis, who wedded and had two daughters, viz.

ELIZABETH, m. to John Forbes, of Towie.

JANET, m. first, to Alexander Seton, of Meldrum, and secondly, to Sir Alexander Gordon, of Abergeldie. From the second marriage lineally descends the present WILLIAM GORDON, esq. of Hafield (see that family).

Between his two daughters, George Leith, at his decease, in 1505, divided the lands of Barnis, &c., but the representation of the family devolved upon his brother,

WILLIAM LEITH, esq. of Edingarrock, which estate he had acquired by charter from George Leslie, of Leslie, dated on the last day of January, 1499. He m. a daughter of Gordon, of Strathdon, and was s. by his elder son,

PATRICK LEITH, esq. of Edingarrock, who died without issue, and was succeeded by his brother,

GEORGE LEITH, esq. of Edingarrock, who, in 1550, was served and returned heir male to his uncle, George Leith, of Barnis, before John Leslie, of Balquhain, sheriff of Aberdeen, and an inquest composed of fifteen of the leading gentlemen in the county. He died at an advanced age, about the close of QUEEN MARY'S reign, and was succeeded by his son,

PATRICK LEITH, esq. who during the lifetime of his father was designed of Likliehead. He espoused Jean, second daughter of William Leslie, seventh Baron of Balquhain, by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Sir Walter Ogilvie, of Boyne, and had issue,

PATRICK, his heir.

John, designed of Edingarrock, who wedded a daughter of John Leslie, of Wardis, but d. s. p.

LAWRENCE, successor to his brother, Patrick.

Henry.

Nicholas, m. to George Leslie, fourth Laird of Finrassie.

Margaret, m. to Stephen Leslie, fourth Laird of Warthill.

This Patrick acquired, in his father's time, the lands of Kirkton de Rain from his brother-in-law, John Leslie, of Balquhain, on whose resignation he got a charter from the Archdean of Aberdeen, dated 13th August, 1561, to which Patrick Leith, of Harthill, is a subscribing witness. He died in the end of the reign of JAMES VI. and was s. by his eldest son,

PATRICK LEITH, esq. of Edingarrock, who sold that estate and the lands of Likliehead to John Forbes, of Leslie. He was afterwards, anno 1629, enfeoffed in the lands of Innogathill, upon a precept of clare constat from George, Marquess of Huntly, as heir to William Leith, of Edingarrock, his great grandfather. Dying s. p. he was s. by his brother,

LAURENCE LEITH, esq. of Kirkton de Rain, who wadset from the Marquess of Huntly the lands of Bucharne, where he afterwards chiefly resided. He likewise purchased a considerable part of the parish of Colbrack. He espoused, first, Agnes, third dau. of Alexander, third Laird of Wardis, by Margaret, his wife, daughter of Alexander Forbes, of Towie. By this lady he had no issue, but by his second wife, Bessie, daughter of Sir George Gordon, of Cocklarochie, he had a son and successor,

JOHN LEITH, esq. who sold the lands of Kirkton de Rain, and purchased those of New Leslie, (whence he was sometimes designed) Peill, Syde, Arnbog, &c. He wedded Margery, dau. of Arthur Forbes, fourth son of the sixth Lord Pitsligo, by Margaret, his wife, daughter of Alexander Leslie, fourth Laird of Pitcaple, and had with two daughters, the elder m. to Lumsdain, of Cushnie, the younger, to Forbes, of Culquhary) two sons, namely,

JAMES, his heir.

Alexander, commonly called Hard Head, on account of his remarkable personal courage. He obtained from his father a wadset of the lands of Bucharne, which wadset was redeemed by the family of Gordon, from John Leith, his son, whose son thereupon got a lease of Bucharne. This Alexander was ancestor of the Leiths, of Bucharne, Blair, &c.

The son and heir,

JAMES LEITH, of New Leslie, erected the mansion-house of Leith Hall, upon the lands of Peill, which has since continued the residence and designation of the family. This gentleman espoused Margaret, daughter of Alexander Strachan, of Glenkindy, and had issue,

JOHN, his heir.

Alexander, ancestor of the Leiths, of Glenkindy and Freefield.

William, d. s. p.

Margaret, m. to Gordon, of Beldomie.

Jean, m. to John Grant, of Tomavillion.

He was succeeded at his decease by his eldest son,

JOHN LEITH, esq. of Leith Hall, who m. Janet Ogilvie, daughter of George, second Lord Banff, by Agnes Falconer, his wife, daughter of Alexander, first Lord Halkerton, and had issue,

JOHN, his successor.

Patrick.

GEORGE, of Blackhall.

Laurence.

Anthony.

Elizabeth, m. to Richard Gordon, esq. of Craigmile.

Mr. Leith acquiring the whole estate of Leslie, in the Garroch, regained possession of the lands of Edingarrock, his ancient patrimonial inheritance. He died in 1727, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN LEITH, esq. of Leith Hall, who espoused Mary, daughter of Charles Hay, esq. of Rannes, and dying in 1736, left (with a daughter, Janet, m. to James Gordon, of Ardmilie) a son and heir, JOHN LEITH, esq. of Leith Hall, who augmented his estate by the lands of Lair and Ardlair. He m. Harriot, daughter and heiress of Alexander Stenart, of Auchluncart, and had three sons, viz.

JOHN,

ALEXANDER, } heirs in succession.

James (Sir), a lieutenant-general in the army, G.C.B. K.T.S. grand cordon of the order of merit of France, governor of Barbadoes, and commander of the forces in the Windward and Leeward Islands. Sir James Leith d. 16th October, 1816.

John Leith died in 1763, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN LEITH, esq. of Leith Hall, at whose decease, without issue, in 1778, the estates devolved on his brother, ALEXANDER, who, having succeeded Andrew Hay, of Rannes, is the present general ALEXANDER LEITH HAY, of Rannes and Leith Hall.

Mr. Stewart is a justice of the peace and a deputy-lieutenant for Perthshire.

Lineage.

This is an illegitimate branch of the royal house of STEWART, springing from

SIR JOHN STEUART, natural son of King JAMES II. of Scotland, who purchased the lands of Sticks, &c. in Glenquaich, from Patrick Cardney, of that ilk. Of those lands he got a charter from JAMES III. dated December, 1486, wherein he is designated, Honorabilis Vir Dominus Joannes Stewart, frater bastardus supremi Domini nostri Regis. And in another charter, of August, 1494, in King JAMES the Fourth's reign, he is designed, Honorabilis Vir Dominus Joannes Stewart, frater b. — quondam supremi Domini Nostri Regis. He m. — and had three sons, WILLIAM, JOHN, and PATRICK, by the eldest of whom,

WILLIAM STEUART, of Sticks, he was succeeded. This gentleman dying s. p. was followed by his brother,

JOHN STEUART, of Sticks, who m. Matilda Johnston, Lady Ratray, but died without legitimate issue, at Ballechin, in 1559, having settled several of his lands upon his natural sons, John and Alexander, as appears by his charters to them, dated at Ballechin, in 1543 and 1550. He died at an advanced age in 1559, having previously obtained from Queen Mary (in 1543) license to absent himself from the wars in consequence of his age. He was s. by his brother,

PATRICK STEUART, of Ballechin, in the county of Perth. This gentleman espoused Elizabeth Buttar, daughter of Buttar, of Gormack, by whom (who m. secondly, Patrick Ogilvie, of Inchmarton) he had three sons,

- I. JAMES, his heir.
- II. George.
- III. John, from whom descended the Steuarts of Arnaguy. This John had a daughter, SIBILLA, m. to Alexander Leslie, of Urquhil. Douglas, in the Peerage of Scotland, mentions another daughter, ANNE, m. to George Leslie, captain of the garrison of Blair Castle, temp. JAMES VI. progenitor of the Earl of Leven.

He was s. by the eldest,

SIR JAMES STEUART, knt. of Ballechin, who sold the lands of Sticks to Sir Duncan Campbell, of Glenorchay. He m. first, Mary, daughter of Sir Robert Crichton, of Ellick and Cluny, and sister of the ADMIRABLE CRICHTON (contract of marriage dated at Blair, in Athol, 2nd February, 1586, to which John, Earl of Athol, James, Lord Donn, designed the lady's uncles, and James, Earl of Murray, are undertakers of sureties for the dower). By this lady he had a son, ROBERT, his successor, and a daughter, Elizabeth, m. to Duncan Robertson, esq. of Dalcabon, ancestor of the Earl of Portmore. Sir James espoused secondly, in 1597, Elizabeth, daughter of James, and sister of Sir Andrew Rollo, of Duncrub, progenitor of Lord Rollo, and had two other sons, viz.

John, of Killichassie, whose great grandson,

JAMES STEUART, esq. an eminent banker in Edinburgh, settled at Stewartfield, near that city.

S. and of the Inner Temple, barrister at law, b. at Flintham Hall, Notts, 29th May, 1779, m. at St. George's, Hanover Square, 22nd September, 1802, his cousin-german, SOPHIA, younger daughter and co-heir of LEWIS DISNEY-FEYTCHE, esq. of Swinderby, in the county of Lincoln, and of Danbury Place, Essex, and has had issue,

John, b. 28th July, 1808, d. 20th December, 1819.

EDGAR, b. 22nd December, 1810.

Sophia.

Mr. Disney inherited the estates at the decease of his father, 26th December, 1816, and became representative of this branch of the family of DISNEY upon the demise of his uncle and father-in-law, 22nd September, 1822.

Lineage.

The family of DISNEY, anciently written DE ISNEY and D'ISNEY, and deriving its patronymic from Isigny, a bourg near Bayeux, in Normandy, came into England at the period of the Conquest, as attested by the numerous copies of the Battell Abbey Roll, printed in "Grafton's Abridgement," p. 34, "Fuller's Church History," p. 155, Stow, Hollingshed, and other of our historians. Leland, in his Itinerary, p. 29, in enumerating the gentry of the Kestevin division of Lincolnshire, mentions "Disney alias De Iseney; he dwelleth at Diseney, and of his name and line be gentilmen of Fraunce. Ailesham Priory, by Thorney Courtoise, was of the Diseney's foundation, and there were divers of them buried, and likewise at Diseney."

LAMBERT DE ISNEY, of Norton D'Isney, in the wapentake of Boothby Graffoe, and part of Kesteven, in Lincolnshire, is the first mentioned in the records of this kingdom. His son,

SIR JORDAN DE ISNEY, of Norton D'Isney, m. the daughter of Sir Geoffry Friskney, knt. and was s. by his son,

SIR GILBERT DE ISNEY, of the same place, who by the daughter of the Lord Bardolph left

HIGGINS, GODFREY, esq. of Skellow Grange, in the county of York, b. 9th July, 1801, s. his father 9th August, 1833.

Mr. Higgins is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant of the West Riding.

Lineage.

This gentleman representing a branch of the ancient family of Copley, we shall commence by tracing that line.

ADAM DE COPLE, slain at the siege of York, anno 1070, was lineally progenitor of

SIR WILLIAM COPLE, knt. whose will bears date in the first year of Queen MARY. He m. first, temp. HENRY VIII. Dorothy, daughter and co-heir of Sir William Fitzwilliam, of Sprotborough,* by whom he acquired that estate, and had a son,

1. PHILIP, who inherited Sprotborough, and m. Mary, daughter of Sir Bryan Hastings, knt. He d. 19th October, 1577, and from him directly sprang,

SIR GODFREY COPLE, bart. of Sprotborough, so created 17th June, 1661, who was s. by his son,

SIR GODFREY COPLE, second baronet, who left at his decease, when the title expired, an only daughter,

CATHERINE COPLE, who m. JOSEPH MOYLE, esq. second son of Sir Walter Moyle, knt. of Beke, and had a son,

JOSEPH MOYLE, esq. who, upon succeeding to Sprotborough, on the demise of his kinsman, Lionel Cople, esq. in 1766, to whose father Sir Godfrey bequeathed that estate, assumed, by act of parliament, the surname of COPLE only, and was created a BARONET in 1778. (Refer to BURKE's Peerage and Baronetage.)

* SPROTBOROUGH came to the FITZWILLIAMS (ancestors of Earl Fitzwilliam) by the marriage, soon after the CONQUEST, of Sir William Fitzwilliam, knt. with Eleanor, daughter and heiress of Sir John Elmley, of Elmley and Sprotborough.

Sir William wedded, secondly, Margaret, daughter of Piers Savage, esq. of Hatfield, and had four other sons, viz.

II. Francis, of Mansfield-Woodhouse, who d. in 1580.

III. CHRISTOPHER, of whom presently.

IV. John, of Broughton, d. s. p.

V. Philip, in holy orders, rector of Sprotborough, d. s. p. in 1596.

The third son,

CHRISTOPHER COPLEY, esq. purchased an estate at Wadworth, in the county of York, and seated himself there. He m. Susan, relict of James Rolston, esq. of Taushef, and daughter of Hugh Cressy, by whom he had issue,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Susan, m. to William Copley, esq. of Nether Hall, in Yorkshire.

Mary, m. first, to Ralph Boswell, esq. of Gunthwaite; and secondly, to Fulk Greville.

Mr. Copley was s. at his decease (Inq. P.M. 4th January, 1606) by his son,

WILLIAM COPLEY, esq. of Wadworth, born in 1576, who wedded Anne, daughter of Gervas Cressy, esq. of Birkin, and relict of Lionel Rolston, esq. of Gunthwaite, by whom (who d. 26th January, 1645) he had

I. CHRISTOPHER.

II. LIONEL.

III. Susan, m. to Thomas St. Nicholas, esq. of Ashe, near Sandwich.

He d. 20th May, 1658, and was s. by his elder son,

CHRISTOPHER COPLEY, esq. of Wadworth. This gentleman espoused, in 1628, Elizabeth, daughter of Gervas Bosville, esq. of Warmsworth, and had one son, WILLIAM, who d. s. p. and three daughters, of whom the second m. Timothy St. Nicholas, esq.; and the youngest wedded — Peatt, esq. of Leicestershire. He died in 1664, and was s. by his brother,

LIONEL COPLEY, esq. of Rotherham and Copley, who m. Fitzalina, daughter of George Warde, esq. of Capesthorne, in Cheshire, and relict of John Wheeler, esq. of London, by whom (who d. 6th November, 1696, aged eighty-five), he left at his decease, in 1675 (will dated 20th November in that year),

LIONEL, his heir.

Castiliana, m. first, to John Beckwith, esq. of Staningford, and secondly, to the Rev. Thomas Maleverer.

Anne, m. to John Crofts, esq.

The son,

LIONEL COPLEY, esq. of Wadworth, who was governor of Hull, and afterwards of Maryland, m. 20th June, 1676, Anne, dau. of Sir Philip Boteler, K. B. of Walton Woodhall, Herts, and, dying beyond the seas, left a daughter Anne, the wife of Isaac Milner, of London, and a son, his successor,

LIONEL COPLEY, esq. of Wadworth, born 16th July, 1677, who, inheriting under the will of Sir Godfrey Copley, the estate of Sprotborough, in the county of York, voluntarily bound up that property in strict entail to his male issue only, in remainder, not to the children of his own daughters, but to the issue of CATHERINE MOYLE, the only child of Sir Godfrey. He wedded, on the 28th August, 1699, Mary, daughter and heiress of — Wilston, esq. of Burril, and had issue, GODFREY, b. 14th November, 1706, inherited Sprotborough, m. Anne-Maria, daughter of John Thurloe Brace, esq. grandson of secretary Thurloe, but left no issue at his decease, 21st April, 1761. He had been divorced from his wife, 2nd May, 1748, and the lady wedded, secondly, William Parkins, esq. of Crainsby.

LIONEL, b. 5th November, 1709, s. to Sprotborough at the decease of his brother, but died unmarried in 1766,* when Sprotborough passed under the entail to JOSEPH MOYLE, esq. son of CATHERINE MOYLE, who thereupon assumed the surname of COPLEY only, as already stated.

William, died young.

Castiliana, b. 27th August, 1700, m. to the Rev. Charles Willatts, rector of Plumtree, Notts.

Mary, b. in 1702, m. to William Parkyns, esq. of Mortemley, and died in 1736.

Catherine, died young.

ANNE.

The youngest daughter,

ANNE COPLEY, b. 27th June, 1714, espoused RICHARD HIGGINS, esq. of York, and had an only son,

GODFREY HIGGINS, esq. who purchased from the family of ANNE, of Burgh Wallis, the manor of Skellow, and certain demesne lands which lay close to the Grange. He wedded Miss Christiana Matterson, and had issue,

GODFREY, his heir.

Christiana, m. to William Marshall, esq. of Newton Kyme.

* Some of the Copley family (says Hunter, in his History of Doncaster), like their relations, the Bosviles of Gunthwaite, and the Lord Brooke, were distinguished in the service of the parliament during the civil wars. The little banner of one of them (for each of the officers of the parliament army had his pennon, like those which had been seen a century before in the tournament), displayed an arm and hand grasping a scymitar, the hand of which was the cross moline, with the motto, "For Reformation;" while another displayed a knight on his charger, caparisoned, with the motto, "Nay, but as a captain of the host of the Lord am I come."

Mr. Higgins d. 23rd May, 1794, when sole representative of his grandfather, LIONEL COPLEY, and was s. by his son, GODFREY HIGGINS, esq. F.S.A.* of Skellow Grange, in the county of York, a justice of the peace for the West Riding. This gentleman m. Jane, only daughter and heiress of Richard Thorp, esq. of Milnthorpe, near Wakefield, and had one son and two daughters, viz.

GODFREY, his successor.

Jane, m. to Lieutenant-general Sharpe, of Hoddam Castle, Dumfries-shire, M.P. for the Dumfries boroughs.

Charlotte, died young.

Mr. Higgins d. 9th August, 1833, and was s.

by his son, the present GODFREY HIGGINS, esq. of Skellow Grange.

* This gentleman, who enjoyed considerable literary reputation, is thus spoken of by the Rev. Joseph Hunter, in his History of South Yorkshire. "Skellow Grange will be remembered as the house in which Mr. Higgins followed those trains of thought which led to the production of his work, entitled 'Celtic Druids,' and of a still more profound work, now nearly completed, to which he purposes to give the title of 'Anacalypsis, or an attempt to draw aside the Saitic Veil of Isis.' In both of these works he descends into the very depths of antiquity, the times long before the commencement of written history, and when the only traces of human existence are certain rude and mighty works, gigantic pillars, wide circles, edifices uncemented, and, more elaborate than the rest, the Pyramids. In the 'Celtic Druids' we have a most valuable collection of prints, exhibiting many of their remains; and we have also the part of his great system, in which the British nation is more particularly interested, for he regards the Druids, and our Druidical system, as a fragment of a mighty sovereignty of priests, and as a relic of that state of high cultivation which he supposes to have existed in the earliest ages of society, when there was one great empire reaching from the Eastern to the Western Ocean, the seat of government being in North India, from about the 35th to the 45th degree of latitude. These are researches which make the antiquities of such a work as this but mere modern inventions, and the inquiries after manors and churches but matters of less than insignificance. Still there is a stability when we feel that we are proceeding by the light of the written contemporaneous record, which may compensate for the nearness and narrowness of our view.

"The active mind of Mr. Higgins has also been directed upon objects of great local utility. In the exercise of his magisterial duties he became acquainted with what was the state of the asylum at York for the reception of lunatics, and to his persevering exertions it chiefly is owing that a great reform was accomplished in that establishment. This led him to other views of the possibility of improving the condition of such unfortunate persons in a lower rank of life, and to him is principally to be attributed the erection of the house for the pauper lunatics of the West Riding, erected near to the town of Wakefield, where, under the very able superintendence of Dr. Ellis, every expectation from it has been satisfied."

Mr. Higgins was author of another work, entitled "Mahomed, or the Illustrious; an Apology for the Life and Character of the celebrated Prophet of Arabia," 1829, 8vo. A refutation of some of the opinions promulgated in this book was published in the "Gentleman's Magazine" for January, 1830, by Edward Upham, esq. author of the "History of Buddhism;" to which Mr. Higgins replied in the following month, and Mr. Upham rejoined in March.

CAMPBELL, OF BARQUHARRIE AND SOMBEG.

CAMPBELL, JOHN, esq. of Sombeg, in the shire of Ayr, b. 11th March, 1785, a magistrate, and deputy-lieutenant for that county.

Lineage.

CAMPBELL, OF BARQUHARRIE, is a cadet of Cressnock, one of the most ancient and distinguished families in Scotland.

SIR DUNCAN CAMPBELL, grandson of Sir Colin More Campbell, ancestor of the Dukes of Argyll, wedded about the year 1578, Susannah, only daughter and heir of Sir Reginald Craufurd, (see vol. i. p. 552) and left a son,

SIR ANDREW CAMPBELL, of Loudoun, heritable sheriff of Ayr, whose lineal descendant,

SIR HUGH CAMPBELL, bart. of Cressnock, s. in May, 1630. He espoused Elizabeth, second daughter* and co-heir of John Campbell, master of Loudoun, by Jean, his wife, daughter of John Fleming, first Earl of Wigton, and had issue,

GEORGE, whose eventual representative,

MARGARET CAMPBELL, m. 29th July, 1697, Alexander, second Earl of Marchmont, and had issue,

1. George, Lord Polwarth, who d. unmarried, 1724.
2. Patrick, d. also in 1724.

* The elder daughter,

MARGARET CAMPBELL, s. her grandfather, in 1622, in the BARONY OF LOUDOUN. Her ladyship m. in 1620, SIR JOHN CAMPBELL, of Lawers, who was elevated to the peerage of Scotland in 1633, by the titles of Baron Farrinyeane and Mauchline, and EARL OF LOUDOUN. The lineal descendant and representative of this marriage is the present

Flora - Muir Campbell - Rawdon - Hastings, COUNTESS OF LOUDOUN, and Marchioness Dowager of Hastings. (BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage).

3. HUGH, third Earl of Marchmont, the learned and witty associate of Lord Cobham, Walpole, and Pope, to the last of whom he was executor.

4. Alexander, Lord Clerk Register of Scotland.

5. ANNE, who m. Sir William Purves, bart. of Purves Hall, grandfather of the present Sir WILLIAM PURVES - HUME - CAMPBELL, bart. of Purves Hall, in the county of Berwick, (see BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage).

JAMES, ancestor of CAMPBELL, of TREES-BANK.

HUGH, of whom presently.

JOHN, ancestor of CAMPBELL, of FAIR-FIELD.

Sir Hugh Campbell d. 20th September, 1686, aged seventy-one. He had been arraigned the preceding year, as a participator in the Rye-house plot, and found guilty; for which he suffered confinement in the state prison of the bass, and had his estates confiscated. There is little doubt, however, but that the accusation was a false one. The trial, as detailed by the accurate Wodrow is extremely interesting. A large portion of the forfeited lands was restored by act of parliament passed in 1690, to his eldest son, but the baronetcy never has been revived. His third son,

HUGH CAMPBELL, esq. designed of Barquharrie, and of Mayfield and Milrigg, in Ayrshire, espoused 5th June, 1702, Margaret, second daughter of David Boswell, esq. of Auchinleck, and had an only son,

HUGH CAMPBELL, esq. of Barquharrie, who m. 10th January, 1727, Margaret, dau. of David Henderson, esq. of Tinnochside, and had three sons, Hugh, Claud, and Bruce, the two former dying unmarried, the estates and representation of this branch of the Campbell family devolved, in 1782, on the third son,

BRUCE CAMPBELL, esq. of Barquharrie, who wedded, in February, 1772, Annabella, daughter of James Wilson, esq. of Kilmarnock, and had issue,

1. HUGH, of Barquharrie, a justice of the peace for the county of Ayr, and captain in the 85th regiment, who m. 18th December, 1797, Sophia, youngest daughter of Thomas Barber, esq.

of Greasley, in Nottinghamshire, and dying at Bath, 5th January, 1824, left issue,

1. HUGH-BRUCE, of Barquharrie, now residing at Nottingham, b. 8th April, 1803, who m. first, Anne, dau. of — Hurd, esq. of Kentish Town, by whom he had no issue, and secondly, in October, 1832, Elizabeth, daughter of E. Werge, esq. of Hexgrave Park, in the county of Nottingham.
2. Thomas-Alexander.
3. William.
4. John.
5. Anne, m. to George Douglas, Esq. of Rodinghead, N. B.
6. Annabella, m. to William Comyn, esq. of the county of Clare.
7. Sophia-Elizabeth, m. to Denis Browne, esq. of Brownestown, Ireland.
- II. Bruce, b. 25th May, 1775, captain E. I. Company's naval service, died unmarried.
- III. Alexander, born 23rd September, 1779, a captain in the 74th regiment, and of distinguished bravery; of his services, particularly at the memo-table battle of Assaye, honorable mention is frequently made in Col. Welch's reminiscences of India. He died of his wounds, in October, 1805, unmarried.

IV. JOHN, now of SOMBEG.

V. William, b. 4th May, 1788, d. in January, 1830.

VI. Euphemia, m. to her cousin, Hugh Wilson, esq. of Kilmarnock, and died in 1817, leaving a son, Hugh-Campbell Wilson.

VII. Marianne, d. in April, 1825, unm.

Mr. Campbell became a partner in the Ayr bank, a short time before its failure, on which event his estates, previously very considerable, were much reduced. He died in February, 1813, aged seventy-nine, and was s. by his eldest son, HUGH, of Balquharrie. His fourth son is the present JOHN CAMPBELL, esq. of Sombeg.

Harriet.

Mary.

Fanny.

This gentleman relinquished his patronymic, PACKENHAM, upon inheriting the estates of the late Right Hon. Thomas Conolly, at the demise of Lady Louisa Conolly, his widow, in 1821, and assumed the surname and arms of CONOLLY.

Colonel Conolly is a magistrate in the counties of Kildare, Dublin, and Donegal, and a deputy-lieutenant in Donegal and Kildare, for both which shires he has served the office of sheriff.

* This gentleman, who assumed the additional surname of BARKER, is son of Chambre-Brabazon Ponsonby, esq. and great-grandson of William Ponsonby, first Viscount Duncannon.

Lineage.

The PACKENHAMS, branching from an ancient Suffolk family, were established in Ireland, by

SIR EDWARD PACKENHAM, knt. who accompanied his cousin, Sir Henry Sidney, into that kingdom, anno 1576, when Sir Henry went to assume the government, as lord-lieutenant there. Sir Edward Packenham's grandson,

HENRY PACKENHAM, esq. was seated at Packenham Hall, in the county of Westmeath, in the reign of CHARLES I. having so designated the lands of Tullynally, which he had acquired by grant from the crown. He d. in 1691, and (referring to BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage) we pass to his great grandson,

THOMAS PACKENHAM, esq. who having wedded in 1739, Elizabeth, daughter and sole heiress of Michael Cuffe, esq. and niece of Ambrose Aungier, second and last Earl of Longford* of that family, was created, in 1756, BARON LONGFORD, and in 1785 his lady was raised to the rank of COUNTESS OF LONGFORD. His lordship had, with other issue, EDWARD-MICHAEL, his successor in the barony, and

The Honorable

LOUISA-AUGUSTA STAPLES, who wedded, as already stated, Admiral, the Honorable SIR THOMAS PACKENHAM, G.C.B. and had, with other issue, a son and heir, EDWARD-MICHAEL PACKENHAM, successor to his grand-uncle, Right Hon. Thomas Conolly.

- iv. FRANCES, m. to William, Viscount Howe, K.B. and d. s. p.
- v. CAROLINE, m. to John, Earl of Buckinghamshire, then lord-lieutenant of Ireland, and was mother of Emily, Marchioness of Londonderry.

* This EARLDOM OF LONGFORD expired in 1704.

Mr. Conolly's son and heir,

THE RIGHT HON. THOMAS CONOLLY, a member, like his father, of the privy council, in Ireland, was one of the deputation appointed by the parliament of that kingdom to offer the regency to the Prince of Wales, on the first indisposition of GEORGE III. This gentleman wedded Lady Louisa-Augusta Lenox, daughter of Charles, third Duke of Richmond, but died without issue, when a life interest in his estates vested in his widow, at whose decease they passed to the grandson of his sister, Harriet, wife of the Right Honorable John Staples, his grand-nephew, EDWARD-MICHAEL PACKENHAM, esq. who assumed, as already stated, the surname and arms of CONOLLY only.

- vi. Mary,* b. 1677, d. 1677.

* Camden derives the name of Long from the traditionary fact, that "a young gentleman of the House of Preux," being a follower of the Lord Treasurer Hungerford, was "preferred by him to a good marriage," and adopted it by reason of his stature. Leland designates him as "a stoute felaw set up by one of the old Lords Hungerford." The principal family of the name was very early seated at South Wraxall, and afterwards at Draycot, by marriage in the time of HENRY VI. with the heiress of Cerne. These properties were dis-severed in 1610, when the male line of Wraxall became extinct in 1715, and that of Draycot in 1805. There is now no known male issue existing of this family. Another extensive branch of the name was early settled at Semington, Trowbridge, Whaddon, Monkton, and Rowd Ashton, places in the vicinity of Wraxall, and at Beckington and Stratton in Somersetshire. There is at present no known male issue extant of this branch. A third was early seated at Pottern and Cheverell in the same vicinity, and became the male ancestry of R. G. Long, esq. of Rowd Ashton, and of Walter Long, esq. of Preshaw, in Hants. This branch acquired the possessions of Wraxall, Rowd Ashton, &c. by an intermarriage with the heir female of the Monkton line, in which they had centered in the person of the late Walter Long, esq. who d. in 1807.

The mutual mention made of one another in wills and various documents at early periods, by different members of these four families, may be received as presumptive evidence in favour of a common ancestry.

† Her eldest brother, the Rev. Henry Brunsell, LL.D. prebendary of Ely, and rector of Stretham, in Cambridgeshire, m. one of the sisters of the celebrated Sir Christopher Wren.

* These children are buried in the chancel of the church of St. Catherine at St. Iago de la Vega, or Spanish Town, under a slab bearing the arms granted to Edward Long, of Monkton, in 1589, viz. a lion passant, on a chief three cross crosslets. Crest, out of a ducal crown a lion's head.

The monument of their father has also the same armorial bearings, together with the following inscription:—

MUCKLESTON, OF MERRINGTON.

MUCKLESTON, The Reverend JOHN-FLETCHER, D. D. of Christchurch College, Oxford, a prebendary of Lichfield and Wolverhampton, m. 16th April, 1793, Louisa, daughter of the Rev. John Preston, of Askham Bryan, in the county of York, and had issue,

- i. JOHN, in holy orders.
- ii. Rowland, a scholar of Worcester College, Oxford.
- iii. Louisa.
- iv. Ann, m. to Arthur Battersby, esq.
- v. Mary.

Dr. Muckleston, who inherited Merrington, in the county of Salop, at the decease of his father, sold that estate in 1817 to his cousin, Joseph Muckleston, esq. of Prescot, who was high-sheriff of Salop in 1788.

Lineage.

The family of MUCKLESTON is of considerable antiquity in the county of Salop.

A charter of the Earl of Arundel and Surrey, dated 1399, recites that the lands of ROGER, son of ROGER DE MOKLESTON, had been seised into the hands of the earl, his father, "whom God assoile," by reason of forfeiture for outlawry, pronounced against Roger, the son, for the death of Richard de Mokleston, his brother, by him feloniously slain; and it further states, that Richard Yrland, of Oswestry, had, notwithstanding the lands were in the earl's hands, purchased them in fee simple from the said Roger, the son, "now by the advise of our council," says the earl, (such is the almost regal style of our ancient nobles) "and for the sum of £20 paid by Yrland to us, we pardon his purchase of the said land, without having first obtained our license."

There can be no doubt that this translation refers to the family before us, but it is difficult to assign its proper place in the pedigree, which commences with

HOCKSKYN MUCCLESTON, born in 1345, who wedded Gertrude, daughter of Hugh Kynaston, and was father of

ROGER MUCCLESTON, living in 1366, and 1383, who m. Susan Ottley, and besides, of his son, William, who continued the line, was probably father of the Roger and Richard, mentioned in the deed.* His son and successor,

WILLIAM MUCCLESTON, espoused Rebecca Lucie, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS MUCCLESTON, living in the 9th HENRY IV. who by his wife, Anne Harris, had a son and heir,

WILLIAM MUCCLESTON, who wedded in the reign of HENRY VI. Cicely, daughter of Richard Ireland, of Oswestry, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS MUCCLESTON, living in 1471, great grandfather of

JOHN MUCCLESTON, esq. who married Anne, daughter of Edward Lloyd, of Llwyn-y-maen, and is styled of Pen-y-lan, in Llanyvorda, near Oswestry. His son and heir, EDWARD MUCCLESTON, esq. of Pen-y-lan, recorder of Oswestry, became possessed of the estate of Meriden, now Merrington, in the parish of Preston Gobalds, by his marriage (4th January, 1615) with Mary, daughter and heiress of Thomas Corbet, esq. by Sarah, his wife, sister and heiress of Thomas Colefoxe, esq. of Merrington. Edward Muckleston died in 1638, and left issue,

- i. JOHN, his heir.

1768, m. first, in 1801, Miss Colquhoun, daughter of R. Colquhoun, esq. and sister of Gideon Colquhoun, esq. late Resident at Bussorah, but had no issue. He espoused, secondly, in 1803, Catherine, daughter of John Glas, esq. and niece of Major-General Sir Alexander Bryce, K. C. H. Inspector-general of Fortifications, and of Dr. Bryce, Dean of the Chapel Royal. By this lady he has had,

1. JAMES-EDWARD, Captain in the 42nd Royal Highlanders, K.L.S. author of Travels, &c.
- II. John, Captain in the Rifle Brigade, who assumed the surname of HENDERSON, on succeeding to the estate of Westerton, at the decease of his uncle, John Henderson, esq. in whose family the lands of Westerton had been for several hundred years.
- III. Euphemia-Mayne, who d. unmarried in 1823.
- IV. Mary-Bryce.
- V. Catherine-Glas.

Mr. Alexander, a deputy-lieutenant, &c. succeeded to Powis upon the demise of his cousin, James Mayne, esq. in 1808.

Lineage.

This family, which claims to be a branch from the same root as the EARLS OF STIRLING, inherits the lands of POWIS from the heiress of MAYNE, whose progenitors, descending from the Maynes of Lochwood, were settled near Stirling, and have been landed proprietors in that neighbourhood since the commencement of the fifteenth century.

WILLIAM MAYNE, living temp. Queen MARY and JAMES VI. held in fee, from the baron of Tullibodie (Alexander), the lands of Pile, within a few miles of Stirling, then the chief residence of the family, in which, as well as in the possessions in Clackmannanshire, he was s. by his son, Seat—Hasland, near Chesterfield, erected by the present proprietor, in 1820.

* This JOHN BURTON had, besides Mrs. Lucas, a son, Edward, and a daughter, Ann, who died without issue. He was elder brother of William Burton, of Royds Mill, near Sheffield, and descended from Richard Burton, of Chesterfield, grandson of William Burton, of Falde, (who died 5th RICHARD II.) and Maud his wife, sister and heir of Thomas Curtis, and great grandson of Nicholas Burton, and Agnes his wife, sister and heir of John Cursun, of Falde. The family of Burton was originally founded by JAMES BURTON, esquire of the body to RICHARD I.

PAWSON, OF SHAWDON.

PAWSON, WILLIAM, esq. of Shawdon, in the county of Northumberland, b. 14th May, 1780, m. January 1817, Mary Ann, daughter of the Rev. Robert Trotter,† of Morpeth, and has issue, WILLIAM JOHN, b. in December, 1817.

Mary Ann.

Mr. Pawson, who s. to the estates of Shawdon at the decease of his brother, George Pawson-Hargrave, esq. in 1817, was high-sheriff of Northumberland during the great contested election for that county in 1826.

† The name of Trotter is of ancient standing on the Scottish border. The family this reverend gentleman represented held broad lands in that part of Roxburghshire called the Merse, until forfeited by adherence to the STUARTS in 1715 and 1745, the last possessor having suffered a long imprisonment, beside, in Edinburgh and Carlisle Castles. William Trotter, an ancestor, is recorded to have fallen at the battle of Flodden; and in corroboration of the fact, a gold ring was found, about the middle of the last century, upon the site of the field of battle, bearing an inscription in Norman-French, having between each word a boar's head, the armorial bearings of the Trotters, and common to them with the Gordons and Swintons.

Lineage.

The PAWSONS, a family of great antiquity in Yorkshire, are first mentioned in the reign of HENRY IV. anno 1405.

REGINALD PAWSON, by Edith his wife, a descendant of Simon Montfort, the great Earl of Leicester, had a son, Estates—Shawdon, Titlington, West Bolton, Lemmington, Hoppen, West Byker, in Northumberland. Coal mines, at Jarrow, in the county of Durham, and an estate at Kirbywiske, in Yorkshire, which has descended, in a right line, to the present proprietor from the 3rd of HENRY V. anno 1415.

Seats—Shawdon Hall, Lemmington Tower, and Titlington Hall, in Northumberland.

SHAWDON HALL is situated in the fertile vale formed by the river Alne, in the parish of Whittingham, Northumberland, and built in 1779, by the late William Hargrave, esq. nearly on the site of the ancient castle of Shawdon, described as one of the border fortresses. The house is approached from the east and west lodges through an avenue of majestic elms, terminated by a row of variegated hollies, which, for beauty and magnificence, are allowed to be the first in the kingdom, several of them being more than fifty feet in height, and their trunks nine feet in circumference. Upon the adjoining hills are the remains of two Roman camps; several cavins likewise afford evidence of more remote antiquity; some of them have been opened, and found to contain urns of unbaked clay, on which was traced a rude pattern, and enclosing human bones and ashes. Silver coins of Robert Bruce, David of Scotland, and the Edwards of England, have been occasionally found, together with a gold rose noble of EDWARD I. in beautiful preservation. Shawdon is a manor in itself, the court rolls and entries of suit and service to which are extant for some centuries back. The lords of the domain had once possessed the power of executing malefactors within their own boundaries, and a tree, which bears the appellation of the Hangman's Oak, is yet pointed out, beneath which, a few years ago, were discovered the remains of fourteen persons, who had there probably suffered the penalty of their crimes.

MACLEOD, OF CADBOLL.

MACLEOD, ROBERT-BRUCE-ÆNEAS, esq. of Cadboll, in the county of Cromarty, and of Invergordon Castle, in Ross-shire, b. in January, 1764, m. in 1784, Elizabeth, daughter of Alexander Macleod, esq. of Harris, and has had issue, RODERICK, b. in 1786, M.P. for the county of Sutherland, lord-lieutenant of the county of Cromarty, and deputy-lieutenant of Ross-shire, m. in 1813, Isabella, daughter of William Cunninghame, esq. of Lainshow, in Ayrshire, and has two sons and two daughters, viz.

ROBERT-BRUCE-ÆNEAS.

Henry-Dunning.

Margaret-Elizabeth.

Anna-Maria.

Sophia, } both d. unm.
Elizabeth-Lillia, }

Mr. Macleod succeeded his father in 1770. He was, formerly, representative in parliament for Cromarty, and was constituted lord-lieutenant for that shire when the office was first instituted in Scotland, anno 1794. He resigned in 1833. He is a deputy-lieutenant for Ross-shire.

Lineage.

It is acknowledged universally that the Macleods of Scotland, sprang from the Norwegian Kings of Man, of which monarchs the following is a brief narrative, as recorded in the Chronicle of the Island, published with Camden's Britannia, anno 1586.

1. GODFRED, surnamed Crowan, son of HAROLD, the Black, being appointed sovereign of Man, and the Western Isles, by HAROLD, the Imperious, came with a fleet, and army, and took possession of his kingdom, anno 1066, but the superiority still remained with the kings. He left at his decease three sons,

1. LAGMAN.
 2. HAROLD.
 3. Olaus, or Olave, a child at his father's death.
- II. LAGMAN, King of Man and the Isles : this monarch's brother, Harold, having raised a rebellion against him, was defeated and made prisoner, and Lagman put out his eyes, and otherwise treated him barbarously, Lagman being afterwards seized with remorse, went on a pilgrimage to Jerusalem, and died there issueless, in the year 1089. His unhappy brother, Harold, dying also childless, the kingdom fell to the youngest and only surviving brother,
- III. OLAUS, or OLAVE, surnamed the Swarthy, who being still in minority, the government of the island was committed to a nobleman of Ireland, named DONALD, son of Thade, but the regent acting tyrannically, was expelled the kingdom, and OLAUS having then attained majority, assumed the reins of government, anno 1102. This monarch espoused Africa, daughter of Fergus, Lord of Galloway, at the time one of the most powerful subjects in Scotland, and had one son, GODFRED, his heir, with several daughters, one of whom, AFRICA, married SOMERLED* MACGILBRED, thane of Argyll, ancestor of the Macdonalds, and by him had four sons, viz. Dungall, Reginald, Angus, and Olave. Through this marriage the family eventually lost the kingdom of the Isles, and upon it was founded the title of Kings and Lords of the Isles, assumed by the descendants of Somerlade, the Macdonalds ; Olaus had likewise three illegitimate sons, Reginald, Lagman, and Harold. He was a good prince, and always lived in league and friendship with the kings of Scotland and Ireland. After a peaceful reign of about forty years, he was treacherously murdered by the sons of his natural brother, Harold, anno 1143, and was s. by his only lawful son,
- IV. GODFRED, King of Man and the Isles, who m. Phingold, daughter of Macclotten, son of Mackartae, King of Ireland, by whom he had one son, OLAUS, or OLAVE, his heir, and two natural sons, Reginald and Ivar.

This Godfred proving a tyrant, his subjects rebelled under Torphlin, the son of Otter, and others, who transferred the government of the island to Dungall, son of Somerlede. King Godfred d. in 1187, and his only lawful son,

- v. OLAUS, surnamed the Black, being then only ten years of age, the nobles cast their eyes on Reginald, his natural brother, who was a brave man, but he had no sooner got the reigns of government than he seized upon the crown, of which he retained possession thirty eight years, and gave his brother, Olaus, the rightful heir, the island of Lewes, for his subsistence. Olaus, however, after encountering many dangers and difficulties, recovered, by the assistance of Paul, sheriff of Skye, possession of his kingdom of Man and the Isles, anno 1226, and enjoyed it until he died, in the year 1237. He had been thrice married, first, to a daughter of one of the nobles of Kintyre, by whom he had three sons, viz.

1. HAROLD, } Kings of Man and
2. REGINALD, } the Isles, in suc-
3. MAGNUS, } cession.

By his second wife he had no issue, but by the third, Christina, daughter of Ferquhar, earl of Ross, he was father of three other sons,

1. LEOD, LOYD, or LEOD, the acknowledged progenitor of the clan MACLEOD.
2. GUIN, from whom the clan GUN, in Sutherland, are descended.
3. LEAUNDRES, of whom the clan Leaunders, in Ross-shire.

The three elder sons became in succession Kings of Man and the Isles, but that dominion terminated when MAGNUS, King of Norway, made a surrender of Man, and the western isles to ALEXANDER III. King of Scotland, in 1265. MAGNUS, the youngest of the three sons, and last king, died without issue, at the castle Ross, anno 1266, and thus terminated the Norwegian race of sovereigns ; we now proceed with the eldest of the three younger sons.

- VI. LEOD, who had in patrimony from his father, the island of Lewes, &c. This prince being young at the time of his father's death, was fostered and brought up in the house of Paul, son of Boke, sheriff of Skye, a man of the utmost power and authority in these parts, who had been the constant friend of his father in all his difficulties, and by whose assistance he had recovered his crown. Leod flourished in the reign of ALEXANDER III. and got from the said Paul, the lands of Herries, &c. He obtained likewise from his grandfather, the Earl of Ross, a part of the barony of Glenely, and he and his descendants have been promiscuously distinguished by the titles of Herries, Glenely, Dunvegan, that ilk, &c. He m. the daughter of Macrauld Armine, a Danish knight, by whom he got the lands of Mogenish, Bracadale, Durinish, Dunvegan, Lindell, Vaterness, and part of Trotterness, in the Isle of Skye. By this lady he had two sons, TORMOD, and TORQUIL, called MACLEODS, as the sons of LEOD. The descendants of the former were called SHEIL TORMOD, and the "Macleods of Herries." The posterity of the latter, SHEIL TORQUIL, and the "Macleods of Lewes."* Leod was s. by his son,

TORQUIL MACLEOD, second baron of Lewes, b. in the time of ALEXANDER III. married Dorothea, daughter of William, Earl of Ross, and died in the reign of King ROBERT BRUCE, leaving a son and successor,

NORMAN MACLEOD, third baron of Lewes, who was s. by his son, TORQUIL MACLEOD, fourth baron of Lewes, who got a charter under the great seal, from King DAVID BRUCE, "Torquilo Macleod, de Lewes, terrarum baroniae de Assynt, cum fortalice, &c. &c." He espoused Margaret Nicholson, by whom he acquired a considerable accession to his estate, and had two sons, viz.

i. RODERICK, his heir, who carried on the line of Lewes.

ii. NORMAN

The second son,

NORMAN MACLEOD, obtained from his father in patrimony, the barony of Assynt, and dying in the reign of JAMES I. left a son and successor,

ANGUS MACLEOD, second baron of Assynt,

* As it cannot at this distance of time be ascertained which was the elder, the precedence having been claimed at different periods by both, we subjoin the grounds upon which the line of Torquil claims the seniority.

First, TORQUIL succeeded his father in the island of Lewes, the paternal estate of the family.

Second, The descendants of Torquil always carried in their armorial bearing, the arms of the Kings of Man, and the Isles, their paternal ancestors.

Third, It has been the unvaried tradition in the family, that TORQUIL was the elder brother, which is confirmed by Sir David Lindsay, at the Mount, Lord Lyon, King at arms, and by Buchanan's History of the Origin of the Clans, page 62, printed in 1723.

who m. Margaret Matheison, heiress of Lochalsh, and had a son and heir,

DONALD MACLEOD, third baron of Assynt, who wedded Margaret Macdonald, a daughter of Glengarry, and was s. by his son,

ANGUS MACLEOD, of Assynt, who espoused Christian, daughter of Macdonald, of Keppoch, and dying in the time of JAMES V. left a son and successor,

NEIL MACLEOD, of Assynt, whose wife was Florence, daughter of Mackay, of Farr, and he was s. by his son,

NEIL MACLEOD, sixth baron of Assynt, who m. Margaret, daughter of Macdonald, of Glengarry, and dying in the reign of JAMES VI. left a son and successor,

DONALD MACLEOD, alias, Donald Bain More, seventh baron of Assynt, who got a confirmation under the great seal from King CHARLES I. dated 21st November, 1642, "Donaldo Macleod de Assynt," &c. confirming to him and his heirs, the lands of Annot, and others, in Inverness-shire, and united to the barony of Assynt, &c. He wedded first, Marian Mackay, daughter of Donald, first Lord Reay, and had two sons and a daughter,

i. NEIL, his heir, who carried on the line of Assynt.

ii. Donald, who died without issue.

iii. — m. to — Gordon, a younger son of the Earl of Sutherland.

Donald m. secondly, Christian, daughter of Nicholas Ross, of Pitcalnie, and had two other sons, namely,

iv. Donald, of whom there is no succession.

v. HUGH.

The youngest son,

HUGH MACLEOD, of Camseurry, espoused Christian, daughter of Walter Ross, of Invercarron, by whom he had two sons, ANGUS, whose line is extinct, and ÆNEAS MACLEOD, of Cadboll, and Camseurry, who m. Margaret, eldest daughter of Sir Kenneth Mackenzie, of Scatwell, by whom he had three sons and a daughter, viz.

RODERICK, his heir.

- II. Maurice, married Mary, daughter of Thomas Lloyd, of Hendre Urien, and had issue, Robert, who married, and had issue.
- III. Robert, in holy orders, rector of Rhiw, county of Carnarvon, espoused Ann, daughter of John Lewis, of Rhiw.
- IV. Lowry, married in September, 1698, Ellis Wynn, of Lasynys, county of Merioneth.
- V. Elizabeth, wife of Robert Lloyd, of Dduallt.
- VI. Jane, wife of Owen Owen, of Dolgelley.
- VII. Margaret, wife of John More.
- VIII. Catherine, wife of Morgan Prys, of Gerddibluog.

ix. Ann, wife of John Pugh, of Bodilan.

Mr. Wynn died in October, 1691, and was buried in the church of Llandanwg. He was succeeded by his eldest son,

WILLIAM WYNN, of Maes-y-neuadd, esq. sheriff in Merionethshire in 1714. He espoused first, (about the 3rd of William and Mary) Margaret, a daughter of the very ancient house of Brynker, in the county of Carnarvon, (being the daughter of Ellis Brynker, of that place, by Jane, his wife, daughter of Robert Wynne, of Glynn, esq.) (refer to vol. i. page 569) and by her had,

i. ROBERT, his successor.

ii. Ellis, in holy orders, M.A. of Congleton, in Cheshire, espoused Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of Leftwich Oldfield, esq. of Leftwich, in the same county, and by her had, Leftwich Bowyer Wynn.

William.

Elizabeth, married in 1753, to Sir Nigel Gresley, bart.

iii. Jane, living in 1720.

Mr. Wynn married secondly, Margaret, daughter of Roger Lloyd, of Rhagatt, county of Merioneth, and relict of Meredith Lloyd, a younger son of the ancient family of Lloyd, of Rhewedog, in the same shire, and had,

William, M.A. rector of Llangynhafal, in Denbighshire, and Manavon, county Montgomery, married — daughter of — Roberts, and by her had issue. This gentleman was a distinguished Welsh poet. He died in 1760.

The will of Mr. Wynn is dated on the 20th January, 1720. He was succeeded by his eldest son, ROBERT WYNN, of Maes-y-neuadd, esq. sheriff of Merionethshire in 1734. This gentleman espoused LOWRY, sister and heiress of JOHN NANNEY, esq. of Maes-y-pandy, in that county, and had a son and successor,

WILLIAM WYNN, of Maes-y-neuadd, esq. sheriff of Merionethshire in 1758, who assumed the surname of NANNEY, upon inheriting the estates of his mother's family. He espoused Elizabeth, daughter of John Williams, esq. of Tyfry, in Anglesea, and dying 4th April, 1795, left issue,

i. Robert, died unmarried, 25th March, 1803.

ii. JOHN, who retained the surname of NANNEY, assumed by his father, and is the present proprietor.

iii. William (Sir) a distinguished military officer, governor of Sandown Fort, in the Isle of Wight, espoused 29th December, 1801, Mary, eldest daughter of Colonel Long, of Tubney, in Berkshire. This gentleman retains the surname of Wynn.

iv. Margaret Wynn.

v. Mary Wynn, died unmarried, in 1833.

vi. Lowry Nanney Wynn, married to John Vaughan, esq. of Burlton, county Salop, and had, with other issue, a son and heir, Robert Chambre Vaughan, now of Burlton, esq. who espoused 11th September, 1828, Anna, third daughter of the Hon. Edward Massey, and has issue.

vii. Jane Wynn, married to John Lloyd, esq. a younger son of the family of Lloyd, of Gwerclos, in Merionethshire. She died in December, 1824, and Mr. Lloyd, on the 24th December, 1825.

Family of Nanney.

The family of NANNEY is one of the most ancient in Wales. They have repeatedly sat in parliament, for Merionethshire, and the county now returns Sir Robert Williams Vaughan, bart. the representative of the elder branch, and possessor of the Nanney estate.

EDWARD NANNEY, (second son of HUGH NANNEY, of Nanney, esq. sheriff of Merionethshire in 1587, and younger brother of Griffith Nanney, esq. M.P. for that county in 1592) lineally descended from Cadogan, lord of Nanney, one of the sons of Bleddyn ap Cynvyn, prince of Powis, espoused Elizabeth, daughter of Lewis Gwynn, esq. of Dolaugwyn, in the county of Merioneth, and left, with other issue, a son and heir,

LEWIS NANNEY, esq. sheriff of Merionethshire in 1634, married Jane, daughter and heiress of John Hughes, esq. of Maes-y-pandy, in the same county, and by her, who espoused secondly, John Lloyd, esq. of Aberlleveny, had issue,

JOHN NANNEY, esq. of Maes-y-pandy, who espoused Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of John Anwyl, esq. of Llanvendidig, in Merionethshire. Mr. Nanney was living 26th Nov. 1691, but his wife was then dead. He was succeeded by his son,

JOHN NANNEY, esq. of Maes-y-pandy, and in right of his mother, of Llanvendidig. He m. Blandina, (who is supposed to have been a daughter of Vincent Corbet, esq. of Ynys-y-maen-gwyn) and by her had issue, Katherine.

Elizabeth.

Mr. Clarke succeeded to the estates upon the demise of his father.

Lineage.

"About the time of King JOHN," says Ormerod, in his able History of Cheshire, "one moiety of the township of HYDE was vested in a family which bore the local name, and was then represented by MATTHEW DE HYDE." This Matthew had a son,

SIR ROBERT HYDE, knt. living temp. HENRY III. lord of the manors of Hyde and Newton, in Cheshire; of Shalcross, in Derbyshire; and of Halghton, in the county of Lancaster, who m. the cousin and heiress of Thomas de Norbury, by whom he acquired the lordship of Norbury, and had a son and successor,

ROBERT HYDE, lord of Norbury, who had two sons, viz.

JOHN (Sir), his heir.

Alexander, who acquired lands in Denton from his father, founded the family of HYDE, OF DENTON.

The elder son,

SIR JOHN HYDE, knt. of Norbury and Hyde, a gallant soldier and one of the companions in arms of the BLACK PRINCE, espoused, first, Margaret, dau. of Sir John Davenport, and had two sons, John and Roger, mentioned in settlements of the manor of Norbury, who appear both to have died issue-less. Sir John wedded, secondly, one of the daughters of Sir William Baggiley, of Baggiley, and sister and co-heiress of John Baggiley, of Baggiley, by whom he obtained several estates; and the Hydes henceforth used the arms of Baggiley, inverting the colours, and adding a chevron, for difference. By the co-heiress of Baggiley he had, with other issue,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Ralph, ancestor of the HYDES of Urmeston, in Lancashire.

Sir John Hyde having sold the manors and estates of Shalcross, Newton, Ferneley, &c. his other possessions alone devolved upon his eldest son by his second marriage,

WILLIAM HYDE, of Norbury and Hyde, living in the reign of EDWARD III. who m. Alice, daughter of Richard de Bromhall, and was great-great-grandfather of

THOMAS HYDE, of Norbury and Hyde, who flourished from the reign of EDWARD IV. to that of HENRY VII. He wedded a daughter of Knyveton, of Underwood, and was s. at his decease by his son,

ROBERT HYDE, of Hyde and Norbury, who m. first, Margaret, daughter of Richard Holland, of Denton, in Lancashire, and had issue,

- I. HAMNET, who m. Margaret, daughter of Lawrence Warren, esq. of Poynton, and had (with a daughter Catherine, m. to Strangways, of Strangways), a son, ROBERT, heir to his grandfather.

- II. John.

- III. Agnes, m. to John Arderne.

Robert Hyde espoused, secondly, the daughter of Scarsgill, of Scarsgill; and thirdly, the daughter of John Boydell, of Pulcroft. By the latter he was ancestor of the HYDES of Westhatch, in Wilts, of whom was the celebrated EDWARD HYDE, EARL OF CLARENDON, grandfather, through his daughter Anne, of the Princesses MARY and ANNE, successively QUEENS of ENGLAND. (See BURKE's Extinct Peerage.) Robert Hyde was succeeded at his demise by his grandson,

ROBERT HYDE, esq. of Norbury and Hyde, b. 14th HENRY VIII. who wedded, first, Margaret, daughter of John Duckenfield, of Duckenfield, and had two daughters. He m. secondly, Jane, daughter of Sir William Davenport, knt. of Bramhall, and had, with other issue, a son and successor,

ROBERT HYDE, esq. of Norbury and Hyde, living at the visitation of 1580. This gentleman m. Beatrix, daughter of Sir William Calverley, of Calverley, knighted about the 2nd of EDWARD VI. by Elizabeth, his second wife, daughter of Richard Sneyd, esq. (see vol. i. p. 674), and had issue,

- I. HAMNET, his successor.
- II. Elizabeth, m. to — Gore, of Tupton.
- III. Alice, m. to Richard Ivey.
- IV. Jane, m. to Edward Vawdrey, esq. (See vol. i. p. 354.)
- V. Margaret, m. to George Hulton, esq.
- VI. Beatrix, wife of John Frodsham, esq.
- VII. Anne, wife of Richard Risley, esq.
- VIII. Mary, m. to John Nuttal, esq.
- IX. Catherine, m. to John Hulton, esq. of Hulton.

The son and heir,

HAMNET HYDE, esq. of Norbury and Hyde, born in 1563, m. Mary, daughter of John Warren, esq. of Poynton, and, dying in 1643, was succeeded by his son,

ROBERT HYDE, esq. of Norbury and Hyde, who wedded, first, Margaret, daughter and co-heir of Thomas Fitton, of Saddington, and by her, who died in 1618, had, with other issue, a son EDWARD, who succeeded him. He m. secondly, Anne, daughter of Robert Hyde, esq. of Westhatch, and had a son,

ROBERT, of Ballough Loughlan Castle, in Ireland, who m. Dorothy, daughter of Sir Richard Brooke, bart. of Norton, by Catherine, his wife, daughter of Sir Henry Nevill, of Billingsbere, in Berkshire.

Mr. Hyde was succeeded by his eldest son,

EDWARD HYDE, esq. of Norbury and Hyde, who wedded Anne, another daughter of Sir Richard Brooke, knt. of Norton, and left at his decease, in 1671, with other issue, who died s. p. a daughter Margaret, m. to Piers Leigh, esq. of Birch, and a son and successor,

ROBERT HYDE, esq. of Norbury and Hyde, born in 1642, who m. Felicia, daughter of William Sneyd, esq. of Keel, and had issue,

EDWARD, his heir.

Anne, m. to George Croxton, esq. of Ravenscroft; and secondly, to John Brydges, esq.

Penelope, m. to the Rev. Dr. John Thane, archdeacon and prebendary of Chester.

Mr. Hyde was s. by his son,

EDWARD HYDE, esq. who sold the manor of Norbury. This gentleman wedded Catherine, daughter of Alexander Rigby, esq. of Leighton, and left, with other issue, who all died unmarried, a daughter, and eventual heiress, ANNE HYDE, who espoused GEORGE CLARKE, esq. Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of New York, (son of George Clarke, esq. of Swanswick, in Somersetshire), and by that gentleman, who died in 1760, had issue,

- I. GEORGE CLARKE.

- II. Robert Clarke, who died unmarried.

- III. Edward Clarke, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of — Guthrie, esq. of Jamaica, widow of William Williams, esq. and of Philip Haughton, esq. by whom he left at his decease, 6th September, 1776, a son, GEORGE HYDE, successor to his uncle.

- IV. Hyde Clarke, d. young.

- V. Elizabeth Clarke, m. to Captain Cock.

- VI. Letitia, or Anne Clarke, m. to Joshua Horton, esq. of Howroyde. (See vol. i. p. 284.)

- VII. Penelope Clarke, died unmarried.

- VIII. Mary Clarke, m. to Ballard Beckford, esq.

The eldest son and heir,

GEORGE CLARKE, esq. of Swanswick and Hyde, secretary of New York, died, without issue, 11th November, 1777, and was succeeded by his nephew,

GEORGE HYDE CLARKE, esq. of Hyde, who wedded Catherine, daughter of — Hussey, esq. of Ireland, and had issue,

GEORGE, his heir.

Edward, of Swanswick, who m. Anne Margaret, daughter of General Prevost.

Mr. Clarke was succeeded at his decease by his elder son, the present GEORGE CLARKE, esq. of Hyde Hall.

Lineage.

In the tenth year of his reign, WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR granted the forest, valley, and lordship of Riddesdale, in the county of Northumberland, to his kinsman,

SIR ROBERT DE UMFREVILL, knt. surnamed Robert with the Beard, Lord of Tours and Vian, to hold, by the service of defending the vicinity from enemies and wolves, with the sword which King WILLIAM had by his side when he entered Northumberland. By the tenor of the grant he was invested with the power of holding, governing, exercising, hearing and judging, in all the pleas of the Crown, as well as others occurring within the precincts of Riddesdale. The son of Sir Robert,

ROBERT DE UMFREVILL, was father of ODONEL DE UMFREVILLE, who held, by feudal tenure, the castle of Prudhoe, with those of Otterbourne, Harbottle, and Riddesdale, all in the county of Northumberland. He opposed the Scotch invasion under DUNCAN, and was in the battle wherein the Scottish king was taken prisoner. Of this baron one of the monks of Tynemouth grievously complained temp. HENRY II. for his exactions upon his neighbours towards repairing the roof of the castle of Prudhoe. He died in 1182, leaving a daughter, Matilda, wife of William de Albini, and a son and successor,

ROBERT DE UMFREVILLE, baron of Prudhoe, who by deed, dated 28th HENRY II. granted certain lands to the monks of Newminster. He was succeeded by his grandson,*

RICHARD DE UMFREVILLE, baron of Prudhoe (son of Gilbert de Umfreville). This feudal lord appears, in the 7th RICHARD II. to have pledged his lands of Turnay to Aaron, a Jew, for the sum of £22. 6s. which he then owed the Israelite. In the 5th of King JOHN his lordship obtained the right of preventing all persons from grazing, hunting, or cutting down timber, in the forest of Riddesdale; and in nine years afterwards, the times being then turbulent, he delivered up his four sons in hostage, with his castle of Prudhoe, as guarantee for his loyalty; notwithstanding which, so soon as the barons took up arms, he appeared amongst them, when his lands were seized, and granted to Hugh de Baliol. In the reign of HENRY III. however, he made his peace, and had restitution of the castle of Prudhoe. Richard's eldest son,

GILBERT DE UMFREVILLE, succeeded to the barony of Prudhoe, and doing homage, 2nd HENRY III. and paying £100. for his relief, had livery of his lands. In the 13th of the same reign he was one of the northern barons appointed by the king to be at Berwick-upon-Tweed upon Sunday before Mid-Lent, to attend ALEXANDER of Scotland thence to York, where the English monarch met the Scottish king, and to a charter between the two princes the name of Gilbert de Umfreville is affixed as a witness. He died 29th HENRY III. according to Matthew Paris, "a famous baron, guardian and chief flower of the north," leaving a son and heir,

GILBERT DE UMFREVILL, seven years old at his father's decease, whose guardianship was committed to Simon de Montfort, Earl of Leicester, in consideration of one thousand marks paid to the king. This feudal lord attained majority in the 43rd HENRY III. and in six years afterwards we find him in arms with the barons, but he made his peace before the battle of Evesham, and obtained then some immunities from the crown. In the 20th of EDWARD I. he was governor of the castles of Dundee and Forfar, and the whole territory of Angus, in Scotland, and appears to have borne the title of Earl of Angus, in right of his wife, Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of John Comyn, Earl of Angus. He was summoned to parliament however, subsequently, 24th June, 1295, as BARON UMFREVILL only; but in the 25th of EDWARD I. and from that period to the 1st of EDWARD II. he had summons as "Gilberto de Umfrevill, Comiti de Angos." This title the English lawyers refused to acknowledge (Angus not being within the kingdom of England), until he had openly produced the king's writ in public court, by which he was called to parliament as EARL OF ANGUS. His lordship was highly instrumental in fortifying the castles and strongholds in Scotland, and was the only man who refused to surrender the fortresses in his custody to the enemy. He died in 1308, and was succeeded by his son (then thirty years of age),

ROBERT DE UMFREVILL, second Earl of Angus, and feudal baron of Prudhoe. This nobleman distinguished himself, while his father lived, in the Scottish wars, and soon after his accession to the honors of the family he was joined in commission with William, Lord Ros, of Hamlake, and Henry, Lord Beaumont, in the lieutenancy of Scotland. In the 11th of EDWARD II. he was one of the commissioners appointed to treat with ROBERT BRUCE for a truce between the realms. His lordship espoused, first, Lucie, daughter of Philip de Kyme, BARON KYME, and eventually heiress of her brother William, second Baron Kyme, by whom he had issue, GILBERT, summoned to parliament as third EARL OF ANGUS, from 2. th January, 1332, to 26th August, 1380. This nobleman acquired great reputation in the Scottish wars, and was a chief commander at the battle of Durham, 20th EDWARD III. where DAVID BRUS was totally defeated, and made prisoner by the English. His lordship wedded, first, Johanna, daughter of Robert, Lord Willoughby de Eresby, by whom he had no issue. He m. secondly, Maud, sister of Anthony Lucy, and had an only child, ROBERT, who m. Margaret, daughter of Henry, Lord Percy, but pre-deceased his father without issue. The earl, upon the demise issueless of William de Kyme, became possessed of the manors of Sotby, Stalynburgh, Kesyll, and Paddockthorp, in the county of York, and of Kyme, Ersewardby, Methringham, Barumburgh, Culsey, Elkynton, Joyngnam, and other estates in Lincolnshire. His lordship died in 1381, leaving Alianore, his niece, wife of Henry Talboys, his heir of the whole blood, and Thomas Umfreville, his brother of the half blood, his next male heir, but none of the family were ever subsequently summoned to parliament.

Elizabeth, m. to Gilbert Burdon, and had an only daughter and heiress, Alianore Burdon, m. to Henry Talboys, ancestor of the Lords Talboys.

Robert, second Earl of Angus, wedded, secondly, Eleanor, daughter of Roger de Mauduit, and had,

ROBERT (Sir), who died issueless.

THOMAS, of whose line we are about to treat.

The earl died in April, 1325. His second son, by the second countess,

SIR THOMAS UMFREVILLE, knt. of Harbottle Castle, and proprietor of Holmside and Whitley, in Durham, espoused Joane, daughter of Adam de Roddam, and had issue,

1. THOMAS (Sir), his heir, aged twenty-three, 10th RICHARD II. who died 12th February, 1390-1, leaving one son and five daughters, viz.

1. GILBERT, who was slain at Beaugy Bridge, with the Duke of Clarence, in 1421.* He had married Anne, daughter of Ralph Nevill, Earl of Westmoreland, but died s. p.
1. Elizabeth, m. Sir William Elmeden, of Elmeden, and died 3rd HENRY VI. leaving four daughters, viz.
 Agnes Elmeden, m. to Thomas Claxton, esq. of Old Park.
 Elizabeth Elmeden, m. to John Dalton, esq. of West Auckland.
 Isabel Elmeden, m. to Rowland Tempest, esq. jure uxoris Lord of Harbottle.
 Joan Elmeden, m. to Thomas Forster, esq.
2. Maude, m. to Sir William Rither, of Harwood Castle.
3. Joan, m. to Sir Thomas Lambert, knt.

* The Battle of Bougie was fought on Easter Eve, A.D. 1420, and is described by John Harding, c. 220, as cited by Weevers Monuments, p. 212, which Harding was an esquire of ancient parentage, and bred in his youth in military employment, under Robert Umfreville, Governor of Roxburgh Castle, was living 1461, then very aged. future exemplary life, by his singular duty and affection to his good mother in her widowhood, never to be forgotten, and before he had any preferment upon a very urgent occasion, where charity and the honour of his family were concerned he freely gave away his whole patrimony.

He yearly clothed thirty poor people, and gave pensions to several, and also assisted in bringing up and schooling many children, and paying the best masters to teach ingenious arts to such as were capable of them. Besides the great hospitality of his house, and sending relief to all the sick, and a crown to every poor woman who lay-in, and relieving all that came to him from abroad, he gave by his will, £300, for the maintenance of a school master, to teach the poor children of Gateshead; and he died as he lived, full of the love of God, and goodwill towards men, on the 20th March, 1710, and was buried in the choir of Ledgfield church, where there is a marble tomb for him. But his most lasting and durable monument is—the generosity, the piety, and charity of his life. As the last testimony of the esteem and honour she had for him, this was painted by his most affectionate and only sister, to preserve his dear memory amongst his relations. F. Creed, aged 68.

Mary, daughter of Thomas Gatchell, esq. of Clawsey, who d. in 1717, two sons, Thomas and Alexander.

Thomas, married and had issue.

- II. JOHN (Sir).

1. Elizabeth, m. to Richard Mitchell, of Canington.

- II. Catherine, m. to William Poole.

- III. Dorothy.

The second son,

SIR JOHN POPHAM, knt. adopting the legal profession, attained its highest honours, and accumulating an ample fortune, purchased, in the time of ELIZABETH, from the family of DARELL, the estate of Littlecott, in the county of Wilts. Fuller, in his English Worthies, speaks thus of this learned person. "Sir John Popham, of most ancient descent, was born at Huntworth, in the county of Somerset. In his youthful dayes he was as stout and skilful a man at sword and buckler as any in that age, and wild enough in his recreations. But oh! if quicksilver could be really fixed, to what a treasure it would amount! Such is wild youth seriously reduced to gravity, as by this young man did appear. He applied himself to a more profitable fencing, the study of the law, therein attaining to such eminency, that he became the queen's attorney, and afterwards LORD CHIEF JUSTICE OF ENGLAND. Being sent, anno 1600, by the queen, with some others, to the Earl of Essex, to know the cause of the confluence of so many military men into his house, the soldiers therein detained him for a time, which some did make tantamount to an imprisonment. This, his violent detention, Sir John deposed upon oath at the Earl's trial, which I note the rather for the rarity thereof, that a lord-chief-justice should be produced as witness in open court. In the beginning of the reign of KING JAMES his justice was exemplary on thieves and robbers. The land then swarmed with people which had been souldiers, who had never gotten (or else quite forgotten) any other vocation. Hard it was for peace to feed all the mouths which a former war did breed; being too proud to begge, too lazy to labour, those infected the highways with their felonies, some presuming on their multitudes, as the robbers on the northern rode, whose knot (otherwise not to be untied) Sir John cut asunder with the sword of justice. He possessed KING JAMES how the frequent granting of pardons was prejudicial to justice, rendering the judges to the contempt of insolent malefactors; which made His Majesty more sparing afterwards in that kind. In a word, the deserved death of some scores preserved the lives and livelihoods of more thousands, travellers owing their safety to this judge's severity many years after his death, which happened anno Domini 16—."

Sir John Popham resided for several years in the town of Wellington, in Somersetshire, where he had built a large and stately mansion, and during that time greatly enhanced his fortune by the purchase of several valuable estates, in the counties of Somerset and Devon. In the civil war the mansion at Wellington was obtained by stratagem by one Bovet, of Taunton, who converted it into a garrison for the use of the parliament army, and defended it for a considerable time against Sir Richard Grenville, who came to its rescue, in which contest it was so battered that it was never afterwards deemed worth repairing. The judge was a great patron and benefactor to Wellington, and in pursuance of his will, (bearing date 21st September, 1604), an hospital was erected at the west end of the town for the maintenance of twelve poor impotent and aged people, whereof six to be men and six women; and for the education of two poor men's children.

Sir John Popham m. Amy, daughter and heir of Robert Games, esq. of Caselton, in the county of Glamorgan, and had issue,

FRANCIS (Sir), his heir.

Penelope, m. to Mr. Serjeant Thomas Hanham.

Jane, m. to Thomas Horner, esq. of Clandford.

Eleanor, m. to Roger Warre, esq. of Hestercombe.

Elizabeth, m. to Sir Richard Chambernon.

Mary, m. to Sir John Mallet, of Enmore.

Katherine, m. to Edward Rogers, esq. of Cannington, in Somersetshire.

He died in 1607, and his remains repose under a magnificent tomb in the church of Wellington, surrounded by a palisade of wood and iron. On the tablet are effigies of himself and of lady Popham. The judge is attired in his robes, chain, and small square black cap, his head turned towards the west. On the lower basement, at the head and feet, are four smaller figures of two men and two women, kneeling face to face. On the north side of the basement are five boys and eight girls, dressed in black, kneeling in a row; and on the south side are nine women kneeling in the same manner. A superb arched canopy, ornamented with the family arms, roses, paintings, and obelisks, is placed over the heads of the two principal figures. The whole is supported by eight round columns of black marble, five feet high, with capitals green and gold.

Sir John was s. by his son,

Sir FRANCIS POPHAM, knt. of Littlecott, member in the last parliament of Queen ELI-ZABETH, and in all those of Kings JAMES I. and CHARLES I., and excepted out of the general pardon by the latter prince. He wedded Anne, daughter and heiress of John Dudley,* esq. of Stoke Newington, grandson of Thomas, son of Edward Lord Dudley, and had issue,

i. JOHN, gentleman of the privy chamber to King CHARLES I. m. the daughter of Sir Sebastian Harvey, lord mayor of London, but pre-deceased his father issueless.

v. Edward. This gentleman commanded a parliamentary regiment during the civil wars, and at his decease, in August, 1651, had a public funeral at Westminster Abbey, where his remains, with those of his wife, were interred. The court of the Protector assisted at the obsequies of Colonel Popham, and a splendid monument was erected in the abbey to the memory of himself and his lady. Their statues, in white marble, as large as life, stand under a lofty canopy, resting their arms, in a reflecting posture, upon a marble altar, on which lie the gloves of an armed knight. The inscription was erased at the Restoration. Colonel Popham m. Anne, daughter of William Carre, groom of the bedchamber to JAMES I. by whom (who m. secondly — Wharton, esq.) he had a daughter, Letitia, the wife of John Bauden, and a son, Alexander, of Bourton on the Hill, in the county of Gloucester, who m. Brilliana, daughter of Sir Edward Harley, and had a son Edward, with four daughters, one of whom m. Francis Popham, esq. of Littlecott.

Sir Francis was s. at his decease by his eldest surviving son, ALEXANDER POPHAM, esq. of Littlecott, M.P. for the county of Somerset, and one of CROMWELL'S upper house. This gentleman returned to parliament in the 15th and 16th of CHARLES I. signed the protestation, took the covenant, and rose to be colonel of foot in the parliament army. So dreaded was he by his majesty, that he excepted him as well as his father, out of the general pardon. In 1644 Colonel Popham was appointed a commissioner for martial law, and one of the council of state in 1649. In 1654 he was returned again to parliament, and in 1656 for Somersetshire; but CROMWELL would not permit him to sit in the latter parliament, well knowing his attachment to a republican form of government; but to gratify his ambition, he raised him to the rank of one of his lords. In the healing parliament Popham voted for the restoration, and had subsequently the honour of entertaining King CHARLES II. at Littlecott, during the royal progress. He m. first, Letitia, daughter of William Carre, esq. groom of the bedchamber to JAMES I. and had,

* * To a ballad in "Rokeby," SIR WALTER SCOTT appends the following tradition regarding Littlecott, when possessed by the DARELLS.

"Littlecott House stands in a low and lonely situation. On three sides it is surrounded by a park, that spreads over the adjoining hill; on the fourth by meadows, which are watered by the river Kennet. Close on one side of the house is a grove of lofty trees, along the verge of which runs one of the principal avenues to it through the park. It is an irregular building, of great antiquity, and was probably erected about the termination of feudal warfare, when defence came no longer to be an object in a country mansion. Many circumstances, however, in the interior of the house, seem appropriate to feudal times.

The hall is very spacious, floored with stones, and lighted by large transom windows, that are clothed with casements. Its walls are hung with old military accoutrements, that have long been left a prey to rust. On one end of the hall is a range of coats of mail and helmets; and there is on every side abundance of old-fashioned pistols and guns, many of them with matchlocks. Immediately below the cornice hangs a row of leathern jerkins, made in the form of a shirt, supposed to have been worn as armour by the vassals. A large oak table, reaching nearly one end of the room to the other, might have feasted the whole neighbourhood; and an appendage to one end of it made it answer at other times for the old game of shuffleboard. The rest of the furniture is in a suitable style, particularly an arm-chair, of cumbrous workmanship, constructed of wood, curiously turned, with a high back and triangular seat, said to have been used by Judge Popham in the reign of ELIZABETH. The entrance into the hall is at one end by a low door, communicating with a passage that leads from the outer door in the front of the house to a quadrangle within; at the other it opens upon a gloomy staircase, by which you ascend to the first floor, and, passing the doors of some bedchambers, enter a narrow gallery, which extends along the back-front of the house from one end to the other of it, and looks upon an old garden. This gallery is hung with portraits, chiefly in Spanish dresses of the sixteenth century. In one of the bedchambers which you pass in going towards the gallery, is a bedstead with blue furniture, which time has now made dingy and threadbare, and in the bottom of one of the bed curtains you are shown a place where a small piece had been cut out and sewn in again, a circumstance which serves to identify the scene of the following story.

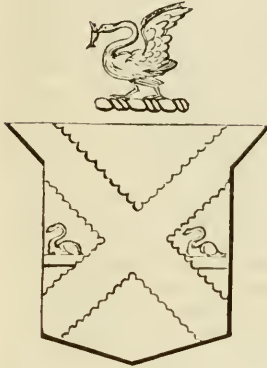

“It was a dark rainy night, in the month of November, that an old midwife sat musing by her cottage fireside, when on a sudden she was startled by a loud knocking at the door. On opening it she found a horseman, who told her that her assistance was required immediately by a person of rank, and that she should be handsomely rewarded, but that there were reasons for keeping the affair a strict secret, and therefore she must submit to being blindfolded, and to be conducted to the bedchamber of the lady. With some hesitation the midwife consented; the horseman bound her eyes, and placed her on a pillion behind him. After proceeding in silence for many miles through rough and dirty lanes, they stopped, and the midwife was led into a house, which from the length of her walk through the apartments, as well as the sounds about her, she discovered to be the seat of wealth and power. When the bandage was removed from her eyes, she found herself in a bedchamber, in which there was a lady, on whose account she had been sent for, and a man of haughty and ferocious aspect. The lady was delivered of a fine boy. Immediately the man commanded the midwife to give him the child, and catching it from her, he hurried across the room, and threw it on the back of the fire that was blazing in the chimney. The child, however, was strong, and by its struggles rolled itself off upon the hearth, when the ruffian again seized it with fury, and, in spite of the intercession of the midwife, and the more pious entreaties of the mother, thrust it under the grate, and raking the live coals upon it, soon put an end to its life. The midwife, after spending some time in affording all the relief in her power to the wretched mother, was told that she must begone. Her former conductor appeared, who again bound her eyes, and conveyed her behind him to her own home; he then paid her handsomely, and departed. The midwife was strongly agitated by the horrors of the preceding night; and she immediately made a deposition of the fact before a magistrate. Two circumstances afforded hopes of detecting the house in which the crime had been committed; one was, that the midwife, as she sat by the bedside, had, with a view to discover the place, cut out a piece of the bed curtain, and sewn it in again; the other was, that as she had descended the staircase, she had counted the steps. Some suspicion fell upon one Darell, at that time the proprietor of Littlecott House, and the domain around it. The house was examined, and identified by the midwife, and Darell was tried at Salisbury for the murder. He escaped the sentence of the law; but broke his neck by a fall from his horse in hunting, in a few months after. The place where this happened is still known by the name of Darell's Stile, a spot to be dreaded by the peasant whom the shades of evening have overtaken on his way.

“Littlecott House is two miles from Hungerford, in Berkshire, through which the Bath road passes. The fact occurred in the reign of ELIZABETH. All the important circumstances I have given exactly as they are told in the county; some trifles only are added, either to render the whole connected, or to increase the impression.”

Lineage.

MARKHAM, a village in Nottinghamshire, gave name, saith Camden, to the Markhams, a family very famous both for antiquity and valour. From

SIR ALEXANDER DE MARCHAM, Castellan of Nottingham Castle, temp. HENRY II. sprang

SIR RICHARD DE MARCHAM, who, by Cecilia, his wife, sister of Robert de Lexington, had a son,

ROBERT DE MARCHAM, father of

JOHN DE MARCHAM, an eminent lawyer, temp. EDWARD II. and EDWARD III. who m. Joan, daughter of Sir Nicholas Bothomsell, knt. and was succeeded by his son, ROBERT DE MARKHAM, serjeant-at-law, temp. EDWARD III. who m. a daughter of

Sir John Cauntoun, of Cauntoun, and was father of

SIR JOHN DE MARKHAM, knt. one of the Justices of the Common Pleas, from the 20th RICHARD II. to 9th HENRY IV. He acquired great possessions in Lincolnshire, by his first marriage, with Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John de Cressy, killed at the battle of Shrewsbury, and had a son, ROBERT (Sir), his heir. He espoused secondly, Milicent, daughter and co-heir of Sir John de Bekeringe, knt. and relict of Sir Nicolas Burdon, knt. and had another son,

JOHN (Sir), an eminent lawyer, appointed LORD CHIEF JUSTICE of the Court of King's Bench, 22nd HENRY VI. and had his patent renewed 1st EDWARD IV. Of this distinguished and upright judge we have the following account, "John Markham was born at Markham, in Nottinghamshire, descended of an ancient and worthy family. He employed his youth in the studying of the municipal law of this realm, wherein he attained to such eminency, that King Edward IV. knighted him, and made him Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench, in the place of Sir John Fortescue, that learned and upright judge, who fled away with King Henry VI. Yet Fortescue was not missed, because Markham succeeded him; and that loss, which otherwise could not be repaired, now could not be perceived. For though these two judges did severally lean to the sides of Lancaster and York, yet both sat upright in matters of judicature." Camden states this chief justice "the greatest ornament of this family, who tempered his judgments with so much equity (as you may read in the histories of England), that his name will endure as long as time itself. After his being displaced on a very honourable account,* and having thereby deservedly obtained the name of the upright judge, he retired to (whose wardrobe he was, and customer of Hampton), a man of great estate. It was agreed that he should be accused of high treason, and a commission of oyer and terminer granted forth to the lord mayor, the Duke of Clarence, the Earl of Warwick, the Lord Rivers, Sir John Markham, Sir John Fogg, &c. to try him in Guildhall; and the king, by private instructions to the judge, appeared so far, that Cook, though he was not, must be found guilty, and if the law were too short, the judge must stretch it to the purpose. The fault laid to his charge was for lending moneys to Queen Margaret, wife to King HENRY VI.; the proof was the confession of one Hawkins, who being racked in the Tower, had confessed so much. The council for the king hanging as much weight on the smallest wire as it would hold, aggravated each particular, and by their rhetorical flashes blew the fault up to a great height. Sir Thomas Cook pleaded for himself, that Hawkins, indeed, upon a season, came to him, and requested him to lend one thousand marks, upon good security. But he desired first to know for whom the money should be: and understanding it was for Queen Margaret, denied to lend any money, though at length the said Hawkins descended so low as to require but one hundred pounds, and departed without any penny lent him. Judge Markham, in a grave speech, did recapitulate, select, and collate the material points on either side, shewing that the proof reached not the charge of high treason, and misprision of treason was the highest it could amount to; and intimated to the jury to be tender in matters of life, and discharge good consciences. The jury being wise men, (whose apprehensions could make up a whole sentence of every nod of the judge) saw it behoved them to draw up treason into as narrow a compass as might be, lest it became their own case; for they lived in a troublesome world, wherein the cards were so shuffled that two kings were turned up trumps at once, which amazed men how to play their games, whereupon they acquitted the prisoner of high treason, and found him guilty as the judge directed. Yet it cost Sir Thomas Cook, before he could get his liberty, eight hundred pounds to the queen, and eight thousand pounds to the king; a sum in that age more sounding like the ransom of a prince than the fine of a subject. Besides, the Lord Rivers (the queen's father) had, during his imprisonment, despoiled his houses, one in the city, and another in the country, of plate and furniture, for which he never received a penny recompense. Yet God righted him of the wrongs men did him, by blessing the remnant of his estate to him and his posterity, which still flourish at Giddy Hall, in Essex. As for Sir John Markham, the king's displeasure fell so heavy on him, that he was ousted of his place, and Sir Thomas Billing, put in his room, though the one lost that office with more honor than the other got it, and gloried in this, that though the king could make him no judge, he could not make him a corrupt judge. He lived privately the rest of his days, having got a fair estate by his practice.

* Dugdale thus relates the cause of Markham's dismissal; "King EDWARD IV. having married into the family of the Widviles, (gentlemen of more antiquity than wealth, and of higher spirits than fortunes) thought fit, for his own honor, to bestow honor upon them, but he could not so easily provide them wealth as titles. For honor he could derive from himself, like light from a candle, without any diminishing of his own lustre; whereas, wealth flowing from him, as water from a fountain, made the spring the shallower. Wherefore he resolved to cut down some prime subjects, and to ingraft the queen's kindred into their estates, which otherwise, like suckers, must feed on the stock of his own exchequer. There was at this time one, Sir Thomas Cook, late lord mayor of London, and knight of the Bath, one who had well licked his fingers under Queen Margaret, Sedgebrook, where he built a burial place in the church, and over it a chamber, where he lodged, and spent his latter days, in great piety and devotion." Sir John Markham wedded Margaret, daughter and co-heir of Sir Simon Leke, by Joan, daughter and heir of Sir John Talbot, of Swannington, and had a son, Thomas, lord of Sedgebrook, who founded the family seated at that place, and which was raised to a BARONETCY, 22nd August, 1642.

Sir John de Markham died in 1409, and was s. by his son,

SIR ROBERT DE MARKHAM, who m. in 1444, Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Sir Nicholas Burdon, and was succeeded by his son,

SIR ROBERT MARKHAM, knt. of Coatham, in the county of Nottingham, who, by Jane, his wife, daughter of Sir Giles D'Aubeny, left a son and successor,

SIR JOHN MARKHAM, knt. of Coatham, a captain at Stoke-field, in 1488. He wedded Alice, daughter of Sir William Skipwith, of Skipwith, who died in 1485, by Agnes, his second wife, daughter of Sir John Constable, knt. of Burton Constable, in the county of York, and was succeeded, at his demise, by his son,

SIR JOHN MARKHAM, of Coatham, who represented the county of Nottingham in parliament, in 1547. He m. first, Anne, daughter of Sir George Neville, and had a son,

JOHN, who predeceased his father, leaving, by Catherine, his wife, daughter of Anthony Babington, a son, ROBERT, successor to his grandfather.

Sir John m. secondly, Margery, daughter of Sir Ralph Langford, and had a son, Robert, M. P. for Nottinghamshire. He espoused thirdly, Anne, relict of Richard Stanhope, esq. of Bampton, by whom he had two sons, William, M. P. for the town of Nottingham, and Thomas, standard bearer to the band of Pensioners, founder of the Ollerton Branch. Sir John surviving his eldest son, was succeeded by his grandson,

ROBERT MARKHAM, esq. of Coatham, knt. in parliament for Nottinghamshire, temp. Queen ELIZABETH, who m. first, Mary, daughter of Sir Francis Leeke, and secondly, Jane, daughter of William Burnell, of Winkbourne, by the former of whom he left, at his decease, a son and heir,

ROBERT MARKHAM, esq. who sold Coatham, and the other family estates. "This gentleman," saith Thoroton, "was a fatal unthrift, and destroyer of this eminent family; he had a brother, called Francis Markham, who was a soldier and a scholar; he was admitted into the University of Heildelberg, 12th February, 1595. He collected the history of his own family, and wrote certain decades of epistles to great persons, concerning the art of war, which he printed." Robert Markham m. first, Agnes, daughter of Sir John Warburton, of Cheshire, and secondly, Winifred, daughter of Sir Robert Thorold, by the former he had issue,

i. JOHN.

ii. ROBERT.

iii. DANIEL, of whom presently.

Major Markham died in 1772. His eldest son,

The Right Rev. WILLIAM MARKHAM, born in Ireland, in the year 1719, was brought over to England in his infancy, and at an early age entered of Westminster School. Here he distinguished himself, by assiduity in his studies, and particularly by some compositions in Latin verse, and at the usual age was sent to Christ Church College, Oxford, where he obtained the degree of A.M. in 1745. In 1752 he proceeded bachelor, and in a few years after, doctor of civil laws; from which it was thought by many not to have been his intention, at that time, to adopt the clerical functions. In 1759, having taken orders, he was made a prebendary of Durham; in 1764, he resigned the mastership of Westminster School, to which he had been appointed in 1750, and in 1763, was preferred to the deanery of Rochester, which, in 1767, he vacated for that of Christ Church. In 1771 Dr. Markham was consecrated Bishop of Chester, and almost immediately afterwards, named by His Majesty GEORGE III. to the important situation of preceptor to H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, in which office he continued till 1776, when he was succeeded by Dr. Hurd, subsequently Bishop of Worcester. In 1777 his lordship was translated from Chester to the archiepiscopal see of York, from which he was removed by death, in his eighty-ninth year, 3rd November, 1807, and his remains were interred in Westminster Abbey. His grace m. Sarah, daughter of John Goddard, of Rotterdam, related to the Hopes, and had issue,

1. WILLIAM, his heir.

II. John, b. in 1761, who adopting the naval profession, obtained the rank of post captain, 3rd January, 1789, and in the following year commanded the Sphinx, of twenty-four guns, on the Mediterranean station, at the commencement of the war with revolutionized France, and in 1798, we find him commanding the Centaur, of seventy-four guns. Early in the following year Captain Markham was entrusted by Earl St. Vincent, with the command of a flying squadron, with which he attacked the town of Cambrelles, on the coast of Catalonia; in 1801 he was appointed a Lord Commissioner of the Admiralty. He subsequently attained the rank of Admiral, and at the general election in 1802, was chosen M.P. for Portsmouth. He m. 17th November, 1796, the Hon. This gentleman, whose patronymic is BREE, assumed, upon inheriting the estates, the surname and arms of STAPYLTON only.

Lineage.

On the south side of the river Tees stands an inconsiderable village called STAPYLTON, whence this ancient family hath obtained its surname. Tradition states that, in the year 450, Octa, brother of Hengist, and Ebusa arrived, with their followers, on the banks of the Tees, to defend the adjacent country from the ravages of the Picts, and that being Angles, and some from that part of the Cimbrica Chersonesus, which is still called Stapelholm, situated between Sleswick and Frederickstall, they preserved the name of their original residence by calling the new settlement STAPYLTON.*

In 1052, HERYON or HERMAN was seised of the manor or lordship of Stapylton upon Teyes. He was father of

ALLAN, of Stapylton, living in 1080, who

* For holm, which means "an island in a river," they were obliged, from the situation of their new encampment, to substitute tun, signifying, in their language, any enclosure whatever.

m. the daughter of John of Tanfield, and was succeeded by his son,

SIR JOHN STAPYLTON, of Stapylton, comp-troller of the household to King STEPHEN, who wedded Johan, daughter of Sir—Mal-lory, knt. and left a son and successor,

SIR MILES STAPYLTON, knt. of Stapylton, who, on his return from the Holy Land, espoused Penrodas, daughter of the King of Cyprus, and had three sons, ALLAN, his heir; Richard, seised of the manor of Seam-or, in Cleveland; and Brian, seised of the manor of Halswell. The eldest son,

ALLAN STAPYLTON, of Stapylton, living in 1170, wedded Ann, daughter of Robert Nevill, of Howton, near Gaterley, and was father of

SIR BRIAN STAPYLTON, of Stapylton, m. in the commencement of the thirteenth century, the daughter of Sir Henry Fitz Henry, and had two sons, Henry, who died unmarried, and

SIR MILES STAPYLTON, living in 1268, who served in the wars of Gascoigne and had summons to parliament as a BARON 6th and 7th EDWARD II. He m. Barbara, daughter of Sir John Darell, of Sesay, and was s. by his son,

SIR NICHOLAS STAPYLTON, knt. who m. Diana, daughter and co-heir of John Beaulien, by Loderina, his wife, sister and co-heir of Peter Bruce, fifth Baron of Skelton, in whose right he was seised of the lordship of CARLETON, in the county of York, and had two sons, Miles and Gilbert, and a daughter, Mabel, m. to William Calverley, of Calverley (see vol. i. p. 673). The elder son,

SIR MILES STAPYLTON, of Carleton, in Yorkshire, was summoned to parliament as a BARON in 1312. His lordship m. Elizabeth, daughter and sole heir of John Rismond, by whom he acquired the manor of Kirby Feetham, and had, with an elder son, whose line terminated in an heiress, ELIZABETH, m. to Sir Thomas Metham, of Metham, a younger son,

SIR GILBERT STAPYLTON, who wedded Agnes, daughter of Sir Brian Fitzalan, knt. of Bedale, and by that lady acquired the lordship of Bedale, and had BRIAN (Sir), his heir, and Miles (Sir), of Norfolk, who m. Joane, daughter and heir of Sir Oliver Ingham, knt. The elder son,

SIR BRIAN STAPYLTON, knt. of Carleton, living 49th EDWARD III. was one of the knights of the Garter, temp. RICHARD II. the seventy-seventh in numerical order, who bore an annulet of gold on the shoulder of his lion, as an armorial difference. This Sir Brian killed a Saracen in open battle before the Kings of England, France, and Scotland, and therefrom assumed the Saracen's head for crest. He espoused Agnes, daughter and heir of Sir John Philibert, knt. and had two sons, BRIAN (Sir), ancestor of the STAPYLTONS of Carleton, (now represented by MILES STAPLETON, esq.) and

SIR MILES STAPYLTON, knt. who m. Joanna, daughter and co-heir of Sir Gerard Usflect, knt. of WIGHILL, in the county of York, by whom he acquired the lordships of Wighill, Esedike, Swanlands, Hullbanke, and other lands. Sir Miles was succeeded by his son,

SIR JOHN STAPYLTON, knt. of Wighill, who m. Margaret, daughter of Mr. Justice Norton, of Norton Conyers, near Ripon, and dying 33rd HENRY VI. left (with a daughter m. to Rafe Reresby, of Thirburgh), a son and successor,

BRIAN STAPYLTON, esq. of Wighill, who m. Marjorie, daughter of Sir John Constable, knt. of Halsham, but dying issueless, the estates and representation of the family devolved on his brother,

SIR ROBERT STAPYLTON, knt. of Wighill. This gentleman wedded in 1560, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir William Mallory, of Studley, in Yorkshire, and by that lady (who married, secondly, Marmaduke Slingsby, esq.) had one son and two daughters, viz.

ROBERT (Sir), his heir.

Elizabeth, m. to Brian Hamond, esq. of Scarthingwell.

Bridget, m. to John Norton, esq.

Sir Robert was succeeded, at his decease, by his only son,

SIR ROBERT STAPYLTON, knt. of Wighill, who was high sheriff for Yorkshire 23rd ELIZABETH, and met the judges with seven score men in suitable liveries. Sir Robert lived in great hospitality and esteem, and is mentioned by a contemporary writer as "a man well spoken, properly seen in languages, a comely and goodly personage, had scarce an equal, and next to Sir Philip Sydney, no superior in England."

He m. first, Catherine, daughter of Sir Marmaduke Constable, of Everingham, and had issue,

Of this branch was the celebrated SIR PHILIP STAPYLTON, who purchased Warter on the Wolds, in the East Riding of Yorkshire. This distinguished patriot was one of the five members demanded from the House of Commons by CHARLES I.; and by his personal valour and boldness of spirit, rendered great service to the cause he had espoused. Subsequently, however, perceiving CROMWELL's influence upon the army, Sir Philip so resolutely opposed the Protector's designs, that he was one of those members against whom charges were exhibited, and whom Clarendon mentions as "men of parts, interest, and signal courage, and heartily abhorring the intentions which they discerned the army to have." Stapylton went, afterwards, beyond sea, and dying at Calais, in August, 1647, was denied burial, under the impression that he was infected with the plague.

KINGDON, OF LAUNCELLS.

KINGDON, GEORGE-BOUGHTON, esq. of Launcells, in the county of Cornwall, one of the gentlemen of His Majesty's most honourable Privy Chamber, a magistrate for Cornwall and Devon, and a deputy-lieutenant of the former.

Lineage.

The Kingdons are an old and respectable family of the counties of Cornwall and Devon. Their most ancient residence, of which there is now any authentic account, was at TREHUNSEY, in the parish of Quithi-ock, Cornwall, where they flourished in the 12th, 13th, 14th, and 15th centuries. In the parish church of Quithi-ock is a cross aisle, on the southern side, belonging to the ancient mansion and manor of Trehunsey, with the family vault underneath, near which stands an antique marble monument, on which are the brass effigies of ROGER KINGDON, (who died A.D. 1462), Joanna, his wife, and fifteen children, viz. ten sons and five daughters, with four shields of arms, and the following inscription :

Hic jacent ROGERUS KYNGDON, Joanna uxor

ejus, filii, filiaque, ac omnes progenitores eorum. Qui obiit tertio die mensis Martii Ao. Dni. Mcccclxij: Quorum animabus propitiatur Jesus, Amen.

The arms of Kingdon—Arg. a chev. sa. between three magpies ppr. appear on one of the shields.

The younger sons of this numerous family dispersed and branched forth into several parishes in the counties of Cornwall and Devon.*

WILLIAM KINGDON, son of Roger, was one of the representatives in parliament for the Borough of Liskeard, in the 31st HENRY VI. and EDWARD KINGDON, his eldest son was in the first year of the reign of EDWARD IV. appointed bailie or praefect of the county of Surrey, "Anno 1^o Regis Edwardi Quarti, Rex concessit Edwardo Kingdon, pro vitâ, Officium Ballivæ de Surria." This Edward was subsequently (7th Edward IV.) elected M.P. for Liskeard, a borough he continued to represent in many successive parliaments.

The eldest branch of the Kingdon family became extinct at Trehunsey, about the middle of the sixteenth century, when the two co-heiresses married CHIVERTON and VIVIAN; the manor of Trehunsey, with divers lands merged in the CHIVERTONS, with whom it remained until the year 1658, when ELIZABETH, daughter of SIR RICHARD CHIVERTON, conveyed it in marriage to SIR JOHN CORYTON, bart. from whom it has descended (through a female heir) to the present JOHN TILLIE CORYTON, esq. of Pentillie Castle, (see vol. i. p. 232). The mansion of TREHUNSEY is now a mere farm house.

ROGER KINGDON, (son of Roger Kingdon, esq. descended from one of the sons of the Trehunsey family) settled at Holsworthy, in the county of Devon, about the year 1730, and engaged in commerce. He m. in 1733, Judith, daughter of John Cory, esq. and had issue,

1. JOHN, in holy orders, an active magistrate for the counties of Cornwall and Devon, and patron of the advowsons of the parishes of Bridgerule, Pyworthy, and Holsworthy, in the west of Devon, and of Whitstone and Marhamchurch, in the North of Cornwall. He m. in 1766, Jane, daughter of the Rev. John Hockin,† patron and vicar of Okehampton, and rector of Lydford, both in Devonshire, and chaplain to George, Lord Littleton, by whom he had issue,

1. JOHN, in holy orders, patron and rector of the parishes of Marhamchurch and Whitstone, in the hundred of Stratton, and county of Cornwall, in the commission of the peace for that shire, m. Miss Marsh, sister-in-law to Richard Preston, esq. barrister-at-law, the eminent conveyancer, and has several children, one of whom, the Rev. William Kingdon, married Miss Hawker, daughter of the Rev. Jacob Hawker, vicar of Stratton, son of the late Rev. Dr. Hawker, D.D. of Plymouth.
2. Roger, in holy orders, patron and rector of the extensive cendants of his father, Thomas Hockin, of Caduscot, in the parish of Liskeard, gent. there is a curious preamble which describes the nature of the arms, and the following event in the family, whereby they were thus obtained, viz. per fess, wavy, gu. and az. a lion passant, gardant or; beneath his feet a musket lying horizontally, ppr. and semé of fleur de lys, confusedly dispersed of the third; and for the crest, on a wreath of the colours, a rock, therefrom a seagull rising ppr. Motto, Hoc in Loco Deus rupes.

"In the time of the war with France, at the beginning of Queen Anne's reign, a ship of war, cruising in the Bristol channel, came to an anchor off an estate called Godrevy, in the parish of Gwithian, then in the possession of John Hockin, grandfather of the Rev. John Hockin, who was one of the principal inhabitants of that parish, and, it being conjectured that the Frenchmen's intent was to send in a boat to plunder the house, which stood alone, and to carry off the cattle from the estate; this John Hockin, and his family became alarmed, and collected their friends and neighbours to keep watch that night on the cliff; at day break they all dispersed, thinking the danger over, but just as Thomas Hockin, father of the patentee, then a young man, was getting into bed, another person, whose fears had led him out more than once to take a view, came in a great hurry and told him that a boat full of men, was making for the shore; on hearing this, the said Thomas slipped on his clothes, and catching up a gun, and a pole to feign the appearance of another man, ran out and passed down a steep hill to the sea, in sight of the boat, from whence he was fired at several times; he, however, got behind a rock, which served him as a kind of breast-work, and thence with his gun fired on the boat with so much vigour and effect as to prevent the crew's landing, and at last, made them turn about and row back again as fast as they could."

The branch of the KINGDON family descended from the marriage of the Rev. John Kingdon, with Jane, daughter of the Rev. John Hockin, quarters the Hockin arms with those of Kingdon.

* Sir William Pole, in his collection towards a description of the county of Devon, made soon after the year 1600, under the head entitled, "An Alphabet of the Arms of the Gentlemen of Devonshire, as well as those in being as those which have been;" mentions the name of KINGDON, with the arms as described above.

† GILBERT, in his Historical Survey of Cornwall, states that in the patent of arms, granted to this John Hockin, his descendants, and the des-parish of Holsworthy, in the west of Devon, m. the widow of the Rev. Leonard Herring, and has several children, of whom one, the Rev. John Kingdon, is vicar of North Petherwin, in Devonshire.

3. Richard, m. his first cousin, Mary, daughter of the late Richard Kingdon, esq. and has issue.

4. Thomas-Hockin, in holy orders, a magistrate for the counties of Cornwall and Devon. This gentleman is patron and rector of Pyworthy, in the west of Devon. He m. Miss Nicholson, daughter of Samuel Nicholson, esq. late of Ham, and sister of George Nicholson, esq. barrister-at-law, and has, with junior issue, a son, the Rev. Samuel Kingdon, of Cambridge.

5. Francis, m. Miss Palmer, daughter of the late very Rev. Dr. Palmer, dean of Cashell, and has several children.

6. Dennis, late major in the 80th regiment, m. Miss Herring, only child of the late Rev. Leonard Herring.

GORDON, OF HAFFIELD

GORDON, WILLIAM, esq. of Haffield, in the county of Hereford, b. 8th December, 1794, m. at St. George's, Bloomsbury, 21st December, 1820, Mary, eldest daughter of William Wingfield, esq. a master in Chancery, by Lady Charlotte Digby, his first wife, daughter of Henry, late Earl Digby, and has issue, EDWARD-WILLIAM, b. 18th May, 1828.

Charlotte-Florence.

Caroline-Anne.

Mr. Gordon succeeded his father in May, 1800. He is a magistrate for the county of Hereford, and was its high-sheriff in 1829.

Lineage.

This scion from the house of GORDON, was planted by ALEXANDER, LORD GORDON, who was created Earl of Huntly in 1449, and to whom JAMES II. of Scotland, gave three lions' heads in addition to his hereditary ensigns, for subduing the rebellion of Crawford and Douglas, at Brechin, in 1452. His lordship married thrice, first Jane, daughter of Robert, son and heir of William, first Earl Marischal, by whom he acquired a great estate, but had no issue. Secondly, Egidia, daughter and heir of Sir John Hay, of Tullibody, by whom he had a son, Sir Alexander Seton, who inherited his mother's estates, and was progenitor of the Setons, of Touch. The earl espoused thirdly, Elizabeth, daughter of William Lord Crichton, chancellor of Scotland, and had issue,

GEORGE, who succeeded his father as second EARL OF HUNTLY, according to a specific limitation in the patent. His lordship wedded the Princess Annabella Stuart, daughter of King JAMES I. of Scotland, and relict of James, Earl of Angus. From this alliance the Dukes of GORDON derive.

ALEXANDER (Sir).

To the second son,

SIR ALEXANDER GORDON, knt. his father, the Earl of Huntly, granted, by deed dated at Huntly, 12th February, 1458, all his lands, formerly parcel of the barony of Mygmar (Midmar) and Tulch, besides other estates therein mentioned. Sir Alexander acquired subsequently by royal grant from King JAMES III. in the twenty-third year of his reign, the lands of ABERGELDIE, whence this branch of the Gordons was ever after designated, and is styled in the deed of gift, (dated at Edinburgh, 26th December, 1482) "dilecto familiari armigero nostro, Alexandro de Mygmar." Sir Alexander wedded Janet, second daughter and co-heir of George Leith, of Barnis, who d. in 1505, and relict of Alexander Seton, of Meldrum, by whom he had a son and successor,

ALEXANDER GORDON, esq. of Abergeldie, who m. Janet, daughter of Alexander Irvine, esq. of Drum, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM GORDON, esq. of Abergeldie, who espoused Frances, daughter of Andrew Lord Gray, who d. in 1514, and was s. by his son, ALEXANDER GORDON, esq. of Abergeldie. This laird wedded Katherine, daughter of Sir William Nicholson, bart. of Carnock, king's advocate for Scotland, and had a son and heir,

ALEXANDER GORDON, esq. of Abergeldie, who, by Euphemia, his wife, daughter of Robert Graham, esq. of Morphy, left a son, JOHN, his heir; and a daughter, RACHEL, successor to her brother. The son,

JOHN GORDON, esq. of Abergeldie, married a daughter of Ross, of Kilranck, but dying without issue, the estates and representation of the family devolved upon his sister,

RACHEL GORDON, of Abergeldie, who wedded Captain CHARLES GORDON, son of Peter Gordon, esq. of Minmore, a cadet of the ducal family, by Janet, daughter of Sir Alexander Gordon, of Cluny, and had a son and successor,

PETER GORDON, esq. of Abergeldie, who m. first, Margaret, daughter of Peter Strachan, of Edinburgh, and secondly, Elizabeth, daughter of Lord Gray, by the latter of whom he had a daughter, Barbara, m. to David Hunter, of Burnside. Abergeldie espoused thirdly, Margaret, sister to Sir Archibald (Foulis) Primrose, hung at Carlisle in 1745, and daughter of Sir George Foulis, bart. of Dunipace, by Janet, daughter of Sir John Cunningham, of Caprington, king's advocate for Scotland, and had issue,

CHARLES, his heir

Janet.

Rachel.

Euphemia, who wedded James, fifth Viscount Strathallan, and by his lordship, who died in 1765, had issue,

JAMES DRUMMOND, of Strathallan, of the R.N. who died unmarried. in 1775.

ANDREW-JOHN DRUMMOND, a general officer in the army, who petitioned, but fruitlessly, in 1787, for a restoration of the honors from attainer. He d. unm. in 1787, when the representation of the family devolved upon his cousin, JAMES ANDREW, present VISCOUNT STRATHALLAN.

Jean.

The laird of Abergeldie was s. by his son,

HARCOURT, OF ANKERWYCKE.

HARCOURT, GEORGE-SIMON, esq. of Ankerwycke Park, in the county of Bucks, b. 25th February, 1807, m. 24th June, 1833, Jessy, second daughter of John Rolls, esq. of Bryanstone-square.

Mr. Harcourt, who is this year (1834) high-sheriff for Buckinghamshire, succeeded his father in 1809, and is now the representative of the HARCOURT family.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the ancient house of Harcourt, from which sprang the EARLS OF HARCOURT, extinct in 1830, and which deduces its pedigree from BERNARD, a nobleman of the royal blood of Saxony, who acquired in 876, when ROLLO, the Dane, made himself master of Normandy, the lordships of Harcourt, Caileville, and Beauficel, in that duchy. From

BERNARD descended

TURCHETIL, Lord of Turqueville, Turqueray, &c. joint guardian and governor with his elder brother, Touroude, to William, Duke of Normandy, and eventually murdered for his attachment to that prince. He m. Adeline de Montfort, and was s. by his elder son,

ANCHITIL, who assumed the surname of HARCOURT, and by his wife, Eve de Boessey, Lady of Boessey le Chastel, had seven sons, of whom the eldest,

ERRAND DE HARCOURT, was commander of the archers of Val-de-Ruel, in the army which successfully invaded England, anno 1066. This gallant soldier appears to have returned to his own country after he had witnessed the crowning of his chief as KING of ENGLAND, while his next brother,

ROBERT DE HARCOURT, surnamed the Strong, also one of the soldiers of the CONQUEST, founded the family in England. His eldest son,

WILLIAM DE HARCOURT, espousing the cause of HENRY I. against ROBERT Curtius, commanded the troops which defeated Walleran de Beaumont, Earl of Mellent, in the battle near Bourg-touroude, A.D. 1123, and for his services was rewarded with large possessions in England, which he conferred upon his second son,

IVO DE HARCOURT, who was s. by his son,

ROBERT DE HARCOURT, who was sheriff of Warwickshire and Leicestershire, in the years 1199, 1201, and 1202, in which latter year he departed this life. This Robert m. Isabel, only child and heir of Richard de Camville,* of Stanton, in Oxfordshire, and acquired thereby that lordship, which subsequently bore the name of STANTON-HARCOURT. He was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM DE HARCOURT, Lord of Stanton-Harcourt, surnamed the Englishman, who adhered to King JOHN in the baronial war, anno 1217, and by appointment of that prince m. Alice, elder daughter and co-heir of Thomas Noel, by Margaret, eldest dau. of Guy le Strange, of Knockyn, and co-heir of her brother, Ralph le Strange (see BURKE'S Extinct Peerage), by whom he acquired large estates in Staffordshire, and Gainsborough, in the county of Warwick, and had, with another son and daughter, his successor,

SIR RICHARD DE HARCOURT, Lord of Stanton-Harcourt, who d. in 1258, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM DE HARCOURT, of Stanton-Harcourt, who died in 1278, leaving by his second wife, Eleanor, daughter of Henry, Lord Hastings, by Ada, his wife, daughter

* Third son of RICHARD DE CAMVILLE, who founded Combe Abbey, in Warwickshire, and was son and heir of GERARD DE CAMVILLE, Lord of Lilbourne, near Creek, in Northamptonshire. ISABEL's mother was MILICENT, cousin to King HENRY I.'s second consort, Adeliza, daughter to Godfrey I. Duke of Brabant, who gave to the said Milicent, on her marriage with the said RICHARD CAMVILLE, the lordship of Stanton, in the county of Oxford, which was confirmed to her and her heirs by Kings STEPHEN and HENRY II.

of David, Earl of Huntingdon, and niece of MALCOLM IV. and WILLIAM the Lion, of Scotland, an only son and successor,

SIR RICHARD DE HARCOURT, knt. of Stanton-Harcourt, who d. in the 21st of EDWARD I. and was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN DE HARCOURT, who was knighted at Whitsuntide with EDWARD, PRINCE OF WALES, anno 1306, and dying in 1330, was s. by his only son,

SIR WILLIAM HARCOURT, who m. Jane, daughter of Richard, Lord Grey of Codnor, and had two sons, viz.

- i. RICHARD (Sir), who died in the lifetime of his father, leaving by his wife, Joan, daughter and heir of Sir William Skareshull, of Skareshull, in the county of Stafford, knt. lord chief justice of England, an only daughter and heir, ELIZABETH, who m. Thomas Astley, of Nelston, in Leicestershire, second son of Thomas, Lord Astley, and hence the Astleys of Pateshull.

II. THOMAS.

He was s. by the second son,

SIR THOMAS HARCOURT, representative in parliament for the county of Oxford in 1376, who died 12th April, 1417, and was s. by his elder son (by Maud,* daughter of Robert, Lord Grey of Rotherfield, and widow of Sir John Botetourt, of Woody),

THOMAS HARCOURT, of Stanton-Harcourt, who m. Joan, daughter of Sir Robert Frauncys, of Foremark, in the county of Derby, and had, with other issue,

- i. ROBERT (Sir), his heir, who was sheriff of Leicestershire and Warwickshire in 1445, and was made knight of the Garter in 1463. This Sir Robert signalized himself in the wars of HENRY VI. and EDWARD IV. and lost his life in the service of the latter, being slain by the Staffords, of the Lancastrian party, 14th November, 1470. He had married Margaret, daughter of Sir John Byron, of Clayton, in Lancashire, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN HARCOURT, who d. in 1485, leaving an only son and heir,

SIR ROBERT HARCOURT, standard-bearer to HENRY VII. at the Battle of Bosworth, and made a knight banneret after the Battle of Blackheath in 1497. He m. Agnes, daughter of Thomas Lyme-ricke, and left, at his decease, five daughters, his co-heirs, viz.

1. ELIZABETH, m. to Robert Gainsford, of Hampton Poyle, in the county of Oxford.
2. LETITIA, m. first, to Humphry Peshal, esq. and secondly, to Thomas Nevil, esq.
3. CATHERINE, m. to Thomas Stonor, esq.
4. ELLEN, m. to Richard Beekingham, of Pudlicot, in Oxfordshire.
5. —, m. to William Cope, esq. of Hanwell, in Oxfordshire.

II. RICHARD (Sir).

The second son,

SIR RICHARD HARCOURT, died 1st October, 1487, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR CHRISTOPHER HARCOURT, who m. Jane, daughter and heir of Sir Miles Stapleton, knt. and, dying in 1474, was s. by his only surviving son,

SIR SIMON HARCOURT, who received the honor of knighthood for his distinguished valour at the Battle of Spurs, 18th August, 1513. Upon the extinction of the male line of Sir Robert Harcourt (his great uncle), the estate of Stanton-Harcourt reverted to this gentleman. He died 1st January, 1547, leaving by his first wife, Agnes, daughter of Thomas Darrel, of Scotney, a son and successor,

SIR JOHN HARCOURT, knt. of Stanton-Harcourt, who m. Margaret, daughter and at length co-heir of Sir William Barentyne, of Hasely, in Oxfordshire, and dying on the 19th February, 1565, was s. by his eldest son,

SIR SIMON HARCOURT, who served the office of sheriff for the counties of Oxford and Berks, and was knighted by King HENRY VIII. He died 27th July, 1577, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR WALTER HARCOURT, of Stanton Harcourt, and Ellenhall, anno 1604, who was s. at his decease, by his son,

SIR ROBERT HARCOURT, b. in 1574. This gentleman was one of the most considerable adventurers with Sir Walter Raleigh, in his voyage to Wiassero, Guyana, &c. in America. Having obtained a patent from JAMES I. for planting part of Guyana, he proceeded thither in 1609, with his brother, Captain Michael Harcourt, and afterwards, in 1613, published an account of their voyage. He had two wives, first, Elizabeth, daughter of John Fitz Herbert, esq. of Norbury, and secondly, Frances, daughter of the Hon. Geffery Vere, son of John, fifteenth Earl of Oxford, (the lady was sister to Sir Francis Vere, and Horatio, Lord Vere, of Tilbury).

* Maud, by Collins; Alice, according to the Monasticon; Eleanor, by the Visitation of Staffordshire.

By the first he had no issue, but by the second, was father of his successor, (with other children),

SIR SIMON HARCOURT, who signalized himself by feats of arms against the Spaniards in the low countries, where he was major of the regiment of horse, commanded by his gallant uncle, Sir Horace Vere, Lord Tilbury, and at whose seat, Kirby Hall, Essex, were the pictures of his lordship's officers, and amongst them this Sir Simon Harcourt. In 1641 we find him at the head of his regiment in Ireland, invested with the government of the city of Dublin, and the next year in active operation against the rebels, raising the blockade of Dublin, and gaining other considerable advantages. His career terminated, however, within a brief period, and we have the following account of his last exploit; "On March 26th, 1643, Sir Simon Harcourt, with a small party, marched out of Dublin, towards Wicklow, and finding the rebels possessed of the castle of Carrick Main, but four miles from the city, he sent back for two great guns to batter it, but before they arrived, Sir Simon, as he was viewing the castle, with two hundred musketeers, received a shot from the garrison, which killed him on the spot." He had espoused Anne, daughter of William, Lord Paget, by whom (who married secondly, Sir William Waller, of Osterly Park, the parliament's general) he had two sons, Frederick, the younger, who died without issue; and the elder, his successor,

SIR PHILIP HARCOURT, of Stanton Harcourt, who received the honor of knighthood, at Whitehall, 5th June, 1660, and was returned to parliament by the county of Oxford, on the 21st March, 1680-1. This gentleman m. first, Anne, dau. of Sir William Waller, of Osterly Park, by whom (who d. 23rd August, 1664) he had an only son,

BERKELEY, OF COTHERIDGE.

BERKELEY, The Reverend RICHARD, of Cotheridge Court, in the county of Worcester, rector of Great Horwood, Bucks, m. Louisa, daughter of the Rev. James Preedy.

This gentleman, whose patronymic is TOMKYNs, having inherited the estates of his maternal family upon the decease of his uncle, the Rev. Rowland Berkeley, on the 17th September, 1832, assumed by sign manual, on the 9th October following, the surname and arms of BERKELEY.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the noble house of BERKELEY (see vol. i. p. 469), diverging from

JAMES BERKELEY, who inherited, on the decease of his uncle, in 1416, the lordship and castle of Berkeley, and was summoned to parliament as Lord Berkeley from 1421 to 1461. By his first wife, a daughter of Humphrey Stafford, of Hooke, this nobleman had no issue; but by the second, Isabel, widow of Henry, son and heir of William, Lord Ferrars, of Groby, and second daughter and co-heir of Thomas Mowbray, first Duke of Norfolk, he was father of Sir William Berkeley, created Earl of Nottingham and Marquis of Berkeley, whose honors expired with himself; of Maurice Berkeley, ancestor of the extant earls; of James, who was killed in France; and of

THOMAS BERKELEY, of Dursley, in the county of Gloucester, who wedded Mary, daughter of Richard Guy, esq. of Minsterworth, in the same shire, and, dying in 1484, was s. by his son,

RICHARD BERKELEY, esq. of Dursley, who was father of

WILLIAM BERKELEY, esq. mayor of Hereford, and M.P. for that city in 1547. This gentleman was s. by his son,

JOHN CRAUFURD, obtained broad lands from his father in Clydesdale, and in right of his wife became chief proprietor of the barony. This John conferred ARDOCH, or CRAUFURDLAND, in Ayrshire, upon his second son,

JOHN CRAUFURD, who lived in the time of ALEXANDER II. and was s. at his decease by his son,

JOHN CRAUFURD, of Craufurdland, father of JAMES CRAUFURD, of Craufurdland, who fought under WALLACE, and assisted at the election of that illustrious chief to the wardenship of Scotland, at the Forest Kirk, in the shire of Selkirk, anno 1297. He was s. by his eldest son, — CRAUFURD, of Craufurdland, who d. in 1350, leaving a son and heir,

JOHN CRAUFURD, who obtained from King ROBERT III. a charter of confirmation of the lands of Ardoch, or Craufurdland, dated at Dundonald, in 1391. This laird had, with other children,

WILLIAM (Sir), his heir.

John, who became Laird of Giffordland. His son,

JOHN CRAUFURD, of Giffordland, living in 1480, had two sons, JOHN, of Giffordland, who fell at Flodden, and

THOMAS, who settled at Birkheid, where his direct descendants remained until 1765, when

WILLIAM CRAUFURD, of Possil and Birkheid, alienated the latter estate to ALEXANDER CRAUFURD, of Saltcoats, father of its present possessor, JAMES CRAUFURD, esq. of Birkheid.

The eldest surviving son,

SIR WILLIAM CRAUFURD, of Craufurdland, distinguished himself in arms, and had the honor of knighthood from JAMES I. In 1423, he received a severe wound at the siege of Crevelt, in France, and the next year we find him amongst the prisoners released with the Scottish king. He was s. by his son,

RANKINE CRAUFURD, of Craufurdland, who married about the year 1430, and had three sons, WILLIAM, his heir; Robert, a priest; and Andrew. He was s. by the eldest,

WILLIAM CRAUFURD, of Craufurdland, living in the time of JAMES II. This laird wedded Janet Hamilton, daughter of BALDOWIE, and had issue, ARCHIBALD, his successor; William, ancestor of the Craufurds, of Dean; and Thomas, of Amlaird. The eldest,

ARCHIBALD CRAUFURD, of Craufurdland, flourished under JAMES III. He wedded first, Jean, daughter of Gilbert Kennedy, second laird of Bargenny, and had a son, ROBERT, of Auchencairn, in Nithsdale, m. Elizabeth Muir, daughter of the Laird of Polkelly, and dying in the lifetime of his father, left,

JOHN, heir to his grandfather.

William, Laird of Walston, who wedded the daughter of Mowat, of Busbie, and had two sons,

John, of Walston, m. to Isabel Craufurd, heiress of Giffordland.

William, of Beanscroft.

William, secretary to the Earl of Morton, and progenitor of the Crafurds, who settled in Tweeddale.

Jean, m. to Cathcart, of Waterhead.

Archibald Craufurd was s. at his decease, by his grandson,

JOHN CRAUFURD, of Craufurdland, who, in the reconciliation of the Boyds and Montgomerys, obtained in marriage the hand of Janet Montgomery, daughter of the Baron of Giffin, and had two sons,

i. JOHN, his successor.

ii. Archibald, born after his father's death, was bred to the church, and became parson of Eaglesham. He was also a lord of Session, and secretary and almoner to the QUEEN REGENT, MARY,† widow of JAMES V. with whose royal remains he was entrusted in 1560, to have them conveyed to France, for interment in the benedictine monastery of St. Peter, at Rheims, of which his sister, RENEE, was abbess. During his stay abroad he obtained from the young queen, MARY STUART, a commission,‡ still preserved in the family archives, reinvesting him with the office of secretary and almoner, and expressive of obligation for the services rendered to her majesty's deceased mother. Throughout the queen's subsequent unhappy reign, Craufurd never once failed in loyalty and attachment to his ill-fated mistress. In the turbulent times of 1651, the queen, apprehensive that the chapel at Holyrood might be plundered, directed Sir James Paterson, the sacristan, to place the sacred vessels and paraphernalia in the custody of her respectable almoner, Mr. Archibald Craufurd,* and in 1567, while a captive in Lochleven Castle, MARY found means to convey into the hands of this faithful servant, certain pieces of plate for the service of her table, which he safely preserved until they were demanded by the treasurer, Robert Richardson, and by him delivered to the Regent MORAY, whose acquittance to Mr. Archibald Craufurd is still preserved at Craufurdland. This estimable person, amongst the acts which adorned his life, erected the West Kirk of Glasgow, and the bridge of Eaglesham.

Mr. Craufurd having accompanied JAMES IV. to Flodden, fell there in the flower of his age, anno 1513. (His widow remarried with Robert Hunter, of Hunterston). He was s. by his elder son, JOHN CRAUFURD, of Craufurdland, who wedded Margaret, daughter of John Blair, of that ilk, by the Lady Elizabeth Montgomery, his wife, daughter of Hugh, first Earl of Eglintoun, and had three sons† and five daughters, viz.

i. JOHN, his successor.

ii. Thomas, who m. Margaret Craufurd, heir portioner of Giffordland.

* ARCHIBALD BOYD, of Bonshaw, had three daughters, the Lady Polkelly; Elizabeth, Lady Lochleven; and MARGARET, mistress of JAMES IV. by whom she had, Alexander Stewart, Archbishop of St. Andrews; and Catherine, countess of Merton. Margaret Boyd enjoying great favour at court, procured for herself the ward of the laird of Rowallan, and married him. She likewise brought about the marriages of his sisters to the lairds of Craufurdland and Lochleven. By the means also of this lady, the feud betwixt the lairds of Craufurdland and Rowallan, (then superior of the lands of Ardoch) was at length settled, and a new charter upon resignation granted to the Laird of Craufurdland, of Ardoch.

ELIZABETH, successor to her nephew.

Craufurdland died in 1744, and was s. by his son,

JOHN CRAUFURD, of Craufurdland, who m. first, in 1719, Robina, daughter and heiress of John Walkinshaw, of that ilk, and in consequence assumed the additional surname and arms of the family. By this lady he had one son only to survive, JOHN. He wedded secondly, Elenora, daughter of Sir Thomas Nicolson, of Carnock, and widow of the Hon. Thomas Boyd. He died at Newcastle, 10th January, 1763, and was s. by his only child,

JOHN WALKINSHAW-CRAUFURD, of Craufurdland, appointed, in August, 1761, falconer to the king for Scotland. This gentleman entered the army at an early age, and attained the rank of lieutenant-colonel. He shared in the victory of Dettingen, and distinguished himself in the hard fought field of Fontenoy. Colonel Craufurd was the intimate and faithful friend of the ill-fated Earl of Kilmarnock, who suffered for adhesion to the Stuarts in 1745. He attended the unhappy nobleman to the scaffold, and tradition states that he held a corner of the cloth which received his head: for which act of trying friendship his name, it is said, was placed at the bottom of the army list. Colonel Craufurd d. at Edinburgh, unmarried, in February, 1793, aged seventy-two, settling his estate, by deed made on his death-bed, upon Thomas Contts, esq. of London, banker. That instrument was, however, disputed by his aunt and next heir,

ELIZABETH CRAUFURD, who instituted an action of reduction, and after protracted litigation, carried on by herself and her successor, the deed was eventually reduced by a decree of the House of Lords in 1806, and the ancient estates came back to the rightful heirs. Miss Craufurd had m. first, William Fairlie, of that ilk, by whom she had one daughter, who died in infancy. She espoused secondly, 3rd June, 1744, John Howison, esq. of Braehead, in Mid Lothian (see family of Howison at foot), and dying in 1802, aged ninety-seven, was s. by her only surviving child,

ELIZABETH HOWISON-CRAUFURD, of Braehead, and, by the decree of the House of Lords, of CRAUFURDLAND. This lady espoused, in 1777, the Rev. James Moodie, who assumed the additional surnames of HOWISON and CRAUFURD, by whom (who d. in 1831) she had issue, Alexander, b. in 1780, d. in 1796.

WILLIAM, her heir.

Margaret, deceased.

Isabella-Craufurd.

Mrs. Howison-Craufurd died 1st April, 1823, and was s. by her only surviving son, the present WILLIAM HOWISON-CRAUFURD, esq. of Craufurdland and Braehead.

Family of Howison.

This family, of all those that have lived with repute in the district of Cramond, in Mid Lothian, is by far the most ancient, having continued there for more than three centuries and a half.

JOHN HOWISON, a burgess of Edinburgh, anno 1450, was father of

JAMES HOWISON, who obtained a charter of Cramond Regis in 1465. His son,

GEORGE HOWISON, was witness to a sasine of Sir John Moubray, of Barnbogle, 9th October, 1511, of the lands of Cockairny to his uncle, William Moubray. He was s. by his son,

ANDREW HOWISON, of Cramond Regis, living in 1555, and father of

JOHN HOWISON, of Braehead, in the county of Mid Lothian. This John had a charter dated 13th December, 1575. He m. Janet, daughter of Alexander Moubray, of Dalmeny, and dying in 1618, left, with a daughter, Elizabeth, the wife of William Murray, of Ramanno,* a son and successor, ALEXANDER HOWISON, of Braehead, who, by his wife, a daughter of Haldane, of Saughton, had a son, his successor in 1637.

JAMES HOWISON, of Braehead, who m. Alison, daughter of Ramsay, of Blackcraig, and dying in March, 1680, was buried at Cramond, and succeeded by his son, ALEXANDER HOWISON, of Braehead, b. in 1636, who wedded Martha, daughter and heiress of William Young, esq. and left at his decease, in 1703, a son and heir, WILLIAM HOWISON, of Braehead. This laird m. Margaret, daughter of John Mitchel, of Alderstone, and had, with other children, who all died young, two sons and a daughter, viz.

JOHN, his heir.

Charles, d. in 1780, without male issue.

—, m. in 1735, to William Dauling.

William Howison died of a fit of apoplexy in returning from Cramond Church, 20th February, 1729, aged sixty-three, and was s. by his elder son,

* From whom spring the Murrays of Cardon, and the Murrays of Cringaltie.

JOHN HOWISON, of Braehead, who m. (as stated in pedigree of Craufurd) ELIZABETH CRAUFURD, and died 12th May, 1787, aged seventy-four.

Mottoes—CRAUFURD. Stant Innixa Deo. HOWISON. Sursum corda.

Estates—Craufurdland, Ayrshire, held since the thirteenth century. Braehead, in Mid Lothian, since the time of JAMES I. of Scotland. Mr. Craufurd, in right of the lairdship of Braehead, had the honor of performing (in terms of the reddendo in the charters of that estate, "Servitium lavacri in nomine albæ firmæ,") the following service to King GEORGE IV. at the banquet given by the city of Edinburgh, 24th August, 1822.

"As soon as the king had dined, a silver basin containing rose-water was brought to his majesty by William Howison-Craufurd, younger, of Braehead, who, in right of his mother, as proprietrix of Braehead, in the county of Mid Lothian, claims this privilege; the service performed being the ancient tenour by which the estate of Braehead is held. He was attended by Masters Charles and Walter Scott, the one a son, the other a nephew, of Sir Walter Scott, bart. as pages, attired in splendid dresses of scarlet and white satin. The former holding a silver ewer, and the other a salver, with a damask napkin of Scottish manufacture, and of the finest texture. Mr. Howison-Craufurd knelt down to his majesty, who, after he had dipped his fingers in the water, and wiped them with the napkin, acknowledged the service with affability and grace."

Seats—Craufurdland Castle, near Kilmarnock, Ayrshire; and Braehead, in Mid Lothian.

GLEGG, OF IRBIE AND BACKFORD.

GLEGG, BIRKENHEAD, esq. of Irbie and Backford, both in the county of Chester, a lieutenant-general in the army, b. 1st November, 1765, m. first, 4th July, 1804, Emma, second daughter and co-heir of Edward Holt, esq. of Ince Hall, Lancashire, by whom he has two sons and two daughters, viz.

BASKERVYLE, captain in the 12th Lancers.

Edward-Holt, lieutenant in the Rifle Brigade.

Emma-Johanna, m. to Lee Townshend, esq. of Cheshire, a major in His Majesty's service.

Mary.

General Glegg espoused secondly, in 1814, Sarah, youngest daughter of Rev. Henry Barnard, D.D. rector of Maghera, in Derry, and has four other daughters, Isabella.

Sarah.

Eleanor.

Lucy.

He succeeded his father in 1804.

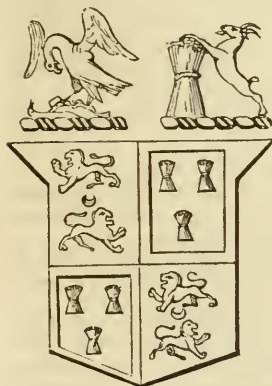

Lineage.

The family of which this is a scion acquired the MANOR OF GAYTON, in the county of Chester, by the marriage of

GILBERT GLEGG with JOHANNA, eldest daughter and eventually sole heir of STEPHEN DE MERTON, its lord. The great great grandson of that union, JOHN GLEGG, of Gayton (with whom the entry in the Visitation of 1556 commences), wedded a daughter of Thomas Poole, esq. of Poole, and had three sons, viz.

1. JOHN, his heir, who continued the line of GAYTON, which finally closed with an heiress,

MARY GLEGG, baptized 1st October, 1711, who became the wife of JOHN BASKERVYLE, esq. of Withington, and conveyed the estate to that family. Her grandson, JOHN BASKERVYLE - GLEGG, esq. of Gayton, was sheriff of Cheshire in 1814.

II. JOHN.

III. Thomas.

The second son,

JOHN GLEGG, esq. grantee of GRANGE, in the county of Chester, by letters patent dated 6th of EDWARD VI. wedded Sibilla, daughter and co-heir of Roger Ledsham, of Chester, and was s. by his son,

ROGER GLEGG, esq. of Caldey Grange, who m. Anne, daughter of William Hockenhull, esq. of Prenton, and left a son and successor,

WILLIAM GLEGG, esq. of Caldey Grange. This gentleman espoused Alice, daughter of Thomas Ratcliffe, esq. of West Kirby, and relict of William Leigh, esq. of Irbie, by whom he had, with other children who died unmarried,

WILLIAM, his successor.

Elizabeth, m. to George Watson, merchant.

Alice, m. to George Bennet, esq. of Greaseby.

He d. 8th November, 1636, aged seventy-seven, was buried in the church of West Kirby, and succeeded by his son,

WILLIAM GLEGG, esq. of Caldey Grange, who was above twenty-four years of age at the visitation of 1613. He m. Hannah, dau. of Sir John Bowyer, of Knipersley, in the county of Stafford, by whom (who d. 20th September, 1670, aged seventy, and was interred with her husband at West Kirby,) he left at his decease, 15th December, 1644, a son and successor,

EDWARD GLEGG, esq. of Caldey Grange, b. in 1622. This gentleman augmented his estate by purchasing in 1655 and 1656 the manor of IRBIE, in the county of Chester, from Elizabeth Rathbone and Alice Clarke, the daughters and co-heirs of Thomas Leigh, gent. by whom it was acquired by fine, for the sum of £400, from John Harpur, in the 44th ELIZABETH. Mr. Glegg wedded first, Margaret, daughter of William Glegg, esq. of Gayton, by Cicely, his wife, sister and co-heir of Thomas Sephton, esq. of Mollington, and had a son,

1. WILLIAM, b. in 1653, who succeeded at Caldey Grange. He m. and had, with a daughter, Margaret, the wife of — Becket, esq. a son and heir, EDWARD GLEGG, esq. of Caldey Grange, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and heiress of John Kent, esq.

of Teanmore, and dying 4th August, 1714, aged thirty-three, was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM GLEGG, esq. of Caldey Grange, b. in 1704, m. Deborah, second daughter and co-heir of Henry Birkenhead, esq. of Backford, but having no issue (Mrs. Glegg m. secondly, Lieut.-Colonel Crosbie, and d. s. p.) was s. at his decease by his brother,

JOHN GLEGG, esq. of Caldey Grange, b. in 1712. This gentleman's only son and heir, WILLIAM GLEGG, esq. sold the manor of Great Caldey to John Leigh, esq. of Liverpool.

Edward Glegg (the purchaser of Irbie) m. secondly, Anne, only daughter of Roger Lowndes, esq. of Overton, in Cheshire, and by her (who d. 5th June, 1675, aged fifty-one,) had two other sons, viz.

11. EDWARD, of whom presently.

- III. John, of Tranmore, living in 1703. He m. his first cousin, Hannah, only daughter of Roger Glegg, esq. and had issue.

Mr. Glegg wedded thirdly, Miss Anne Thelwall, without, however, having any additional family. He bequeathed, at his decease, to his second son,

EDWARD GLEGG, esq. the manorial estate of Irbie. This gentleman m. Jane, daughter of John Scorer, gent. of Westminster, by whom, who was buried at Thurstanston, 7th March, 1720, aged forty-six, he had issue,

1. JOHN, his heir.

11. Roger, who died unmarried 7th December, 1777.

1. Prudence, died young.

11. Anne, m. to the Rev. John Urmson, of Neston, and died 6th February, 1769, aged sixty-one.

Mr. Glegg d. in Dec. 1703, was buried the 20th of that month at Thurstanston, and s. by his son,

JOHN GLEGG, esq. of Irbie, who m. Frances, eldest daughter of Henry Birkenhead, esq. and co-heiress of her uncle, Thomas Birkenhead, esq. of BACKFORD, (see family of Birkenhead, at foot), by whom (who d. 14th April, 1791) he left at his decease, in 1768, a daughter Mary, m. to Robert Dod, esq. of Rowton, and an only surviving son, JOHN GLEGG, esq. of Irby, who wedded in 1762, Betty, eldest dau. of John Baskervyle Glegg, esq. of Withington and Gayton, by whom (who d. 9th July, 1810, aged seventy-seven, and was buried at St. Mary's, Chester) he left two sons and a daughter, viz.

BIRKENHEAD, his heir.

John-Baskervyle, b. in 1773, a colonel in the army.

Juliana.

Lucy, m. to the Rev. J. Egerton.

Jane, m. to the Rev. James Bullock.

Mr. Glegg d. in 1804, in the seventy-third year of his age, was buried at St. Mary's, and s. by his elder son, the present Lieutenant-general BIRKENHEAD GLEGG, of Backford and Irbie.

FAMILY OF BIRKENHEAD.

ADAM BIRKENHEAD, of Huxley, living temp. HENRY VII. and HENRY VIII. deriving from John De Birkenhead, who flourished in the reign of EDWARD III. wedded Alice, daughter and heiress of John Huxley, of Huxley, and had issue,

- i. JOHN, who m. Jane, daughter and heir of Ralph Done, esq. of Crowton, in Cheshire.

VAUGHAN, OF BURLTON HALL.

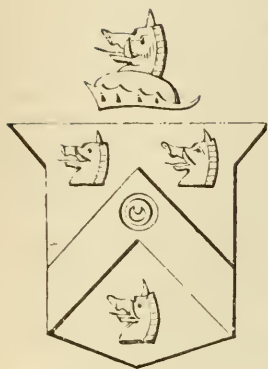

VAUGHAN, ROBERT-CHAMBRE, esq. of Burlton Hall, in the county of Salop, b. 3rd June, 1796, m. 11th September, 1828, Anna, third daughter of the Hon. Edward Massy, second son of Hugh, second Lord Massy, of Duntrileague, in the kingdom of Ireland, (see BURKE'S Peerage), and has issue,

JOHN-NANNEY-CHAMBRE, b. 28th August, 1830.

Edward-Goldisbrough-Chambre, b. 26th August, 1832.

Mr. Vaughan, who is a graduate of Oxford, succeeded to the representation of the family at the decease of his father, Captain Thomas Vaughan, who was lost at sea, on the 27th May, 1804.

Lineage.

This, with several other notable families on the Welch border, deduces its origin from the celebrated TUDOR TREVOR, and through him from the ancient princes and nobles of Wales.

YNIR AP CADVIOCH, lord of Both Maylors, Oswestry, and Whittington, one of the barons of the Prince of Powis, (lineally descended from Cadell Deirnlug, Prince of Powis, who sprang from Gwitheirn Gwethenau, called VORTIGERN, by the English historians) espoused Rhienger, daughter and sole heir of the earl of Hereford, and had a son,

TUDOR TREVOR, (so called because born or nursed at Trevor), living in 924, who was lord of Maylors, &c. from his father, and in right of his mother, EARL OF HEREFORD. He m. Angharad, or Gladusia, daughter of Howell Ddâ, King of South Wales, A.D. 907, and had issue,

- I. GRONWY, Earl of Hereford, whose only daughter and heiress, m. the Lord of Buillt, and had a son, Athelstan Glodrydd, who became Earl of Hereford, and Lord of Carmarthen.
- II. LLUDOCHA, of whom presently.
- III. Dyngad, from whom numerous families derive,

The second son,

LLUDOCHA, Lord of Maylors and Oswestry, married Angharad, daughter of Jago ap Idwall, Prince of North Wales, (A.D. 1021) and had a son and successor,

LLOWARCH GAM, a nobleman in Maylors, grandfather of

RYS AP EDNYVIT, (commonly called Rhys Sais, from being bred among the English) Lord of Oswestry, Whittington, and part of Maylors, wedded in 1137, Eva, daughter of Griffith, Prince of South Wales, and had three sons,

TUDOR AP RYS SAIS, Lord of Chirk, and part of both Maylors, from whom are descended (says the old family pedigree) "Lloyd of Halghton, in Maylors; Mostyn, of Mostyn; Edwards, of Chirk; all the Trevors, Lloyds, of Talwin, Wittington, and Bryn, the Pennants, Dymmocks, and many more in Maylors."

ELIDYR AP RYS SAIS, Lord of Eytton, ancestor of the Eyttons, of Eytton, &c.

IDDON AP RYS SAIS, of whose line we have to treat.

The third son,

IDDON AP RYS SAIS, Lord of Dudliston and Trayan, bore for his coat armour "arg. a chev. between three boars' heads couped gu. armed or, and langued azure." He married Alice, daughter of Sir John Done, knt. of Utkinton, in Cheshire, by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Sir William Butler, knt. of Warrington, and was s. by his son,

TREHAYARN AP IDDON, Lord of Dudliston, who wedded Elen, daughter of Sir Jeffrey Cornwall, knt. Baron of Burford, and had, with other issue, a (fifth) son, HWFA AP TREHAYARN, who had, by Gravelkind tenure, his share of his father's lands in Dudliston. From this Hwfa ap Trehayarn, the sixth in descent,

EIGNION VYCHAN AP EDNYVIT, of Plas Thomas, in Dudliston, county of Salop, espoused Myvanwy, daughter of Jevan ap Ednevit Gam, lineally descended from Tudor Trevor, and was great grandfather of

RHYS AP LLEWELLYN, gent. of Plas Thomas, in Dudliston, who had five sons, Thomas, a catholic priest; Edward, of Plas Ithell; John Lloyd, who d. s. p.; Robert, of Plas Owen, and

JOHN VAUGHAN, fourth son by birth, but second by bearing, in coat of arms, father of

THOMAS AP JOHN VAUGHAN, esq. of Plas Thomas, in the county of Salop, who m. Joan, daughter of Philip Jennings, esq. of Dudliston, by Diana, his wife, daughter of Sir William Bowyer, bart.* and left, with

* Through this alliance, the present Mr. Vaughan proves founder's kin to All Souls College, Oxford.

THOMAS CHICHELE, of Higham Ferrers, in Northamptonshire, who died 25th February, 1400, left three sons, first, HENRY, archbishop of Canterbury, and FOUNDER OF ALL SOUL'S; second, Robert (Sir), lord mayor of London, in 1411, and 1421; and, third,

WILLIAM CHICHELE, sheriff of London, whose granddaughter,

AGNES CHICHELE, married William Kene, of two elder sons, living in 1675, but both d. s. p. a third son,

The Rev. PHILIP VAUGHAN, rector of Hordley, in Shropshire, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of — Enser, of Whittle, in the same county, and had issue, Thomas, who died while pursuing his studies in Oxford, in 1674, without issue.

PETER, heir to his father.

Philip.

The Rev. Mr. Vaughan, was s. at his decease by his eldest surviving son, PETER VAUGHAN, esq. of Plas Thomas, living in 1695, as appears by a settlement of his estates, made on the 12th December, of that year. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of the Rev. Joseph Ottiwel, vicar of Ellesmere, and dying in 1700, was buried in Dudliston Chapel, on the 22nd May.*

Wellhall, in Eltham, Kent, sheriff in the 26th HENRY VI. and left a daughter,

BRIDGET KENE, who wedded Sir William Trussel, and was mother of

SIR EDWARD TRUSSELL, of Cubleston, in Staffordshire, knight of the Bath, who died 10th June, 14th HENRY VII. His daughter and heiress,

ELIZABETH TRUSSELL, espoused John de Vere, Earl of Oxford, and had by his lordship, (who d. in 1539) with several other children,

LADY FRANCES DE VERE, who m. Henry Howard, Earl of Surrey, and their granddaughter,

THE LADY CATHERINE HOWARD, marrying in 1608, William Cecil, Earl of Salisbury, was mother of

CHARLES, VISCOUNT CRANBOURNE, who m. Jane, daughter and co-heir of James Maxwell, Earl of Dirleton, and had, inter alios, a daughter,

HON. FRANCES CECIL, who wedded Sir William Bowyer, bart. of Denham Court, and by him, (who died in 1721) left with other issue, a daughter,

DIANA BOWYER, who m. PHILIP JENNINGS, esq. of Dudliston, in Salop, and was mother of

JOAN JENNINGS, m. (as in the text) to THOMAS AP JOHN VAUGHAN, esq. great-great-great-great grandfather of the present ROBERT CHAMBRE VAUGHAN, esq. of Burlton Hall.

* Peter Vaughan's two eldest sons were Thomas and John, the latter d. s. p. in 1711. The eldest,

THOMAS VAUGHAN, esq. m. at Loppington, 5th January, 1704, Margaret, daughter and heir of Henry Hatchett, of the Wood, gent. by Margaret, daughter of Arthur Noney, and had by her, (who d. 1710) Thomas, his successor, born 1706, and Hatchett, who d. in his infancy, 1710. Mr. Vaughan, of the Wood, d. 1719, and was s. by his only surviving child,

THOMAS VAUGHAN, esq. of the Wood, married Sarah —, and had by her, (who d. 1764) two daughters, Margaret, who d. in 1729; and SARAH, who becoming heir to her father, at his death, in 1737, and dying unmarried, in 1753, bequeathed the old family estate of Plas Thomas to her great uncle, Philip Vaughan, esq. of Burlton, third son of Peter Vaughan, of Plas Thomas; she left the Wood to her mother and her heirs.

His third son,

PHILIP VAUGHAN, esq. of Burlton, and who eventually became representative of the family by default of issue in the elder branches, baptized 10th October, 1690, married 30th January, 1716, Jaue, daughter of Roger Bolas, esq. of Ruyton, by Katherine, his wife, daughter of Arthur Chambre, esq. of Burlton, and left at his decease in 1755, with other issue, a son and successor,

THOMAS VAUGHAN, esq. of Burlton and Plas Thomas, b. February, 20th 1720, who espoused in 1759, Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Chambre, esq. (see family of CHAMBRE, at foot) and had issue,

THOMAS, his heir, born 21st May, 1766.

Elizabeth, who died unm. 21st January, 1831.

Sarah, who likewise d. unm. 19th January, 1833.

Jane, now living unm. 1834.

Mr. Vaughan died 21st April, 1780, and was buried at the eastern end of the parish church of Loppington.* His only son and successor,

THOMAS VAUGHAN, esq. of Burlton and Plas Thomas, an officer in the army, sold the latter estate, which had been for so many centuries uninterruptedly possessed by his ancestors. He wedded in 1795, Lowry-Nanney, daughter of William Wynn, esq. of Maes-y-neuadd, sheriff of Merionethshire in 1758, who assumed the surname of NANNEY, upon inheriting the estates of his mother's family (see p. 181,† of this volume), and left an only child, ROBERT CHAMBRE.

Captain Vaughan, was lost on his passage homeward, in the Prince of Wales East Indiaman, on the 27th May, 1804, and was succeeded by his son, the present ROBERT-CHAMBRE VAUGHAN, esq. of Burlton Hall.

Family of Chambre.

JOHN DE CHAMBRE, who held, under Henry Lacy, Earl of Lincoln Constable of Chester, two carucates of land, in Llewenne, Denbighshire, A.D. 1310, is stated in a very ancient and mutilated pedigree, to have been descended from "Johan de la Chaumbré, a nobelle Normanne, who entred Englaunde in ye traine of King William ye Conqueroure." He m. Helen, daughter of Lewis de la More, and was grandfather of

Lineage.

This is a branch of the ancient and eminent family of WYNDHAM, which derived originally from AILWARDUS, a Saxon, who, soon after the CONQUEST, assumed his surname from possessions in WYMONDHAM, in the county of Norfolk.

SIR GEORGE WYNDHAM, a younger son of Sir John Windham, of Orchard, by Joan, his wife, daughter of Sir Henry Portman, received the honour of knighthood at Anderwick, in Scotland, on the 16th July, 1632, and was gentleman pensioner to the king. He wedded first, Anne Godfrey, relict of James Underwood, of Cromer, but had no issue. He m. secondly, Frances, daughter and co-heir of James Davy, esq. (son of Sir Henry Davy), by Frances, younger daughter and co-heir of William Hobart, esq. of Metton, lord of Ufford's manor in 1615. By this lady, Sir George acquired that manor, and had a son and successor,

FRANCIS WYNDHAM, esq. lord of the manor of Ufford, in the county of Norfolk, in 1691, who espoused Frances, daughter of Sir Thomas Dayrell, of Lillingston Dayrell, Bucks, and was succeeded by his son,

FRANCIS WYNDHAM, esq. of Ufford's manor, in 1752, whose son,

JOHN WYNDHAM, esq. of Cromer, in Norfolk, wedded Elizabeth, only child of Richard Dalton, esq. by Mary, his wife, daughter of GEORGE WRIGHT, esq. (see family of WRIGHT, at foot) and left a son and successor.

GEORGE WYNDHAM, esq. of Cromer, b. in 1766, who m. Marianne, daughter of colonel Philip Bacon, of Ipswich, and had issue,

GEORGE-THOMAS, his heir.

Marianne, m. in 1829, to the Rev. Cremoer Cremoer, rector of Felbrigg and Melton.

Arabella, m. in 1827, to the Rev. George Whiteford, rector of Westerfield, in Suffolk.

Sophia, m. in 1829, to the Rev. C. Barnwell, of Mileham Hall, Norfolk.

Mr. Wyndham died in 1810, and was s. by his son,

GEORGE THOMAS WYNDHAM, esq. of Cromer, who m. 12th July, 1826, Maria Augusta, second daughter of the late Vice Admiral Windham, of Felbrigg, and by that lady, (who wedded secondly, William Viscount Ennismore) left at his decease, in February, 1830, with two daughters, a son and successor, the present GEORGE-THOMAS WRIGHT WYNDHAM, esq. of Cromer Hall.

Family of Wrighte.

JOHN WRIGHTE, esq. of Kelvedon, in Essex, left, inter alios, a son, JOHN WRIGHTE, esq. of Wrighte's Bridge, in Essex, and Gray's Inn, who left two sons, viz.

1. JOHN, who married twice. By his first wife he had John, of Wrighte's Bridge, clerk of the parliament, who married and had issue, and Nathan, of London, merchant. By the second he had,

HENRY, of London, merchant, whose son,

SIR HENRY WRIGHTE, of Dagenham, in Essex, was created a BARONET, by the protector's parliament, 25th March, 1658, and again by King CHARLES II. 12th June, 1660. The title is now extinct.

II. ROBERT.

The second son,

Rev. ROBERT WRIGHTE, B.D. for thirty-four years rector of Dennington, in Suffolk, married Jane, daughter of John Butler, esq. of Sheby, in Essex, and sister of Sir Oliver Butler, of Sharnbrook, in Bedfordshire; by her he had issue,

1. Euseby, barrister-at-law, who m. thrice, but died s. p.
11. Nathan, a merchant and alderman of London, who purchased the manor of Cranham, in Essex. Mr. Alderman Wrighte espoused Anne Fleining, of Warley Place, and dying in 1657, was succeeded by his son.

BENJAMIN WRIGHTE, esq. of Cranham Hall, who was created a BARONET in 1660. He was succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR NATHAN WRIGHTE, second baronet, of Cranham Hall, who m. first, Ann Meyrick, and had issue,

1. NATHAN (Sir), fourth baronet, who m. Margaret, daughter of Sir Francis Lawley, bart. and died in 1737, leaving two daughters, one of whom,

ANNE, m. to Thomas Lewis, esq. of Harpton Court, M.P.

2. John, d. s. p. 1726.

Sir Nathan married three other wives, but had issue by the last only, viz.

3. SAMUEL (Sir), fifth bart. at whose decease, unmarried, the title became extinct.

4. Elizabeth, m. to General Ogleshorpe, and d. issueless in 1787.

III. Benjamin (Sir), of Dennington, a merchant, of London, who died in Spain, leaving an only daughter.

IV. EZEKIEL.

The Rev. Robert Wrighte died in 1624. His fourth son,

The Rev. EZEKIEL WRIGHTE, D.D. rector of Thurcaston, espoused Dorothy, second daughter of John Onebye, esq. and co-heir of her brother, Sir John Onebye, by whom (who died in 1691) he had issue,

1. NATHAN (Sir), his heir.

11. Ezekiel, a student of the Inner Temple, who d. in 1729.

1. Dorothy, m. first, to the Rev. Mr. Giffard; and secondly, to John Twells, esq. of Wisbech.

Dr. Wrighte died in 1668, and was s. by his son,

SIR NATHAN WRIGHTE, b. at Thurcaston, 11th February, 1653. This eminent person received his education at Emanuel College, Cambridge, and thence became a member of the Inner Temple, London, where for seven years he devoted the entire of his time to the study of the law; but acquiring then an independent fortune, with his wife, Elizabeth, daughter of George Ashby, esq. of Queenby, he declined practising at the bar, until urged by the advice of his friends, and the increase of his family. Subsequently acquiring high reputation as a sound lawyer and eloquent advocate, he was elected recorder of Leicester, in 1680; called to the degree of serjeant, in 1692; and knighted the 30th December, 1696. In four years afterwards, Sir Nathan Wrighte was declared by the king in council successor to Lord Somers in the custody of the Great Seal, under the title of LORD KEEPER, and he continued in this elevated office until the 6th October, 1705, when, through the intrigues of the Duchess of Marlborough, he received his dismissal.

The character and abilities of the Lord Keeper Wrighte have been very differently estimated by cotemporary writers.

John Dunton describes him as "deservedly advanced to the highest pinnacle of state preferments," while he is stigmatized by Burnet, as "covetous, slothful and exceptionable in all respects."

"Sir Nathan Wrighte," says Mackay, "is a good common lawyer, a slow chancellor, and no civilian. Chance, more than choice, brought him the seals; the lords chief justices, Holt and Treby, refusing to succeed so great a man as the Lord Somers, they fell into the hands of this gentleman; who being recommended by the opposite party, proved their faithful tool ever since. He is a plain man, both in person and conversation, of middle stature, inclining to corpulency, and hath a fat broad face, much marked with the small pox."

A more favorable estimate of Sir Nathan's conduct is recorded by Sir T. Little, who states the Lord Keeper to have been "of an inviolable fidelity, and of a steady regard to the constitution in church and state."

Sir Nathan m. in 1676, Elizabeth, second daughter of George Ashby, esq. of Queenby, and by her (who died in 1705) had issue,

i. GEORGE, his heir.

ii. Nathan, M.A. in holy orders, rector of Farnham Royal and Taplow, in Bucks, and a prebendary of Norwich, who m. Anne, only daughter and heiress of Lord Francis Powlett, and thus acquired the estate and manor house of Englefield. By this lady, Mr. Wrighte left at his decease in 1721, with a daughter, Anne, who d. unm. three sons, viz.

1. POWLETT, of Englefield, who m. Mary, daughter of Richard Tysen, esq. of Hackney, and by her (who wedded secondly, Richard Benyon, esq. of Guidea Hall, Essex) he left (dying of the small pox in 1741) an only son, POWLETT, of Englefield, who died without issue, in 1779.

2. Francis, died s. p.

3. Nathan, who inherited Englefield, at the demise of his nephew. He married twice, but leaving an only daughter, Selina, m. to the Rev. James Knight Moore, M.A. the estate of Englefield, devolved in accordance with the will of the last Powlett Wrighte, his half brother, RICHARD BENYON, esq. of Guidea Hall.

iii. Robert, married twice, and left issue.

iv. Ezekiel, m. and had issue.

v. William, recorder of Leicester, who m. Susanna, daughter and co-heir of — Levinge, esq. of Shepey, in the county of Leicester, and had four daughters, viz.

1. Susanna, m. to John Gilbert Cooper, esq. a writer of celebrity.

2. Anne, m. to Selwood Hewett, esq.

3. Catherine, m. to Captain James Fraine, R.N.

4. Dorothy, d. unm.

vi. Thomas, d. in 1710.

i. Dorothy, m. to Henry, third Earl of Stamford, and had issue.

ii. Elizabeth, m. to Sir Samuel Vackerer Sambrooke, bart. and had issue.

The Lord Keeper died in 1721, and was succeeded by his eldest son, GEORGE WRIGHTE, esq. clerk of the crown, b. in 1677, who purchased in 1704, the manors of Gayhurst and Stoke Goddington, in the county of Bucks. He m. in 1700, Mary, daughter of Thomas Bedford, esq. of Doctors Commons, and had, with other issue, who died unm.

GEORGE, his heir.

MARY, who m. Richard Dalton, esq. and had an only surviving child,

ELIZABETH DALTON, who espoused JOHN WYNDHAM, esq. of Cromer, in Norfolk, and had a son,

GEORGE THOMAS WYNDHAM, who became heir to his cousin, ANNE BARBARA WRIGHTE.

Elizabeth, m. to Nathan Wrighte, esq. son of Robert, third son of the Lord Keeper.

Mr. Wrighte died in 1724-5, and was s. by his son,

GEORGE WRIGHTE, esq. of Gayhurst, who represented the borough of Leicester in parliament. He m. in June, 1733, Barbara, daughter of Sir Thomas Clarges, bart. by Barbara, his wife, youngest daughter and co-heir of John Viscount Fitzharding, and died in 1766, leaving a daughter, Barbara, and an only son and heir,

GEORGE WRIGHTE, esq. of Gayhurst, who m. Anne, daughter and heir of Joseph Jekyll, esq. of Dallington, in the county of Northampton, and by that lady, (who died in 1798) he left at his decease, an only surviving child,

ANNE BARBARA WRIGHTE, of Gayhurst, at whose decease, unmarried, 11th February, 1830, Gayhurst, and the other family estates, devolved upon (the great grandson of MARY WRIGHTE and Richard Dalton) her cousin, GEORGE THOMAS WYNDHAM, esq. of Cromer, father of their present possessor.

Mr. Lawson inherited the estates at the decease of his elder brother, Marmaduke, s. p. on the 10th March, 1823.

Lineage.

The name of LAWSON, although not of frequent occurrence in the southern parts of England, is widely spread throughout Scotland, and the northern counties; and so early as the first year of King HENRY III.'s reign, we find JOHN LAWSON, Lord of Fowlesgrove, near Scarborough, in Yorkshire (see pedigree of Lawson, baronet, TORESBY'S Ducatus Leodiensis, page 249), to whom the baronets of Cumberland and Westmorland trace their foundation. From the same locality, at a much later date (1665), SIR JOHN LAWSON (of whom Clarendon says, "he was of Yorkshire, near Scarboro'"), of poor parentage, and having raised himself from a common sailor to the rank of vice-admiral of the fleet by his renowned naval exploits, triumphant with parliamentary honours, conferred a celebrity on the name of LAWSON, which his more opulent and more regularly descended namesakes have failed to attain. Dwelling up to this period (1834) in Yorkshire, as a distinct branch, the LAWSONS of the Aynsty (see Dodsworth's Collect.) have had a continued residence there, or have been landed proprietors for upwards of three centuries at least (during 250 years of which they were either at the capital of the county, or within five miles of it; the head of the family, except twice, when in holy orders, being always designated esquire, in times when that title was not so freely bestowed as at present), and as they have always borne the same name and arms identical with SIR WILFRID LAWSON'S family, there is every probability that these two houses were originally one. Without, however, going beyond "what is written," we find this family designated as "Lawsons of Poppleton" among the Aynsty families in the "Heraldic Visitations and Pedigrees of Yorkshire," † preserved in the British Museum, from 1530 to 1612, when GEORGE LAWSON, the last of Poppleton, having a family of eight daughters and three sons, sold that estate to Sir John Bennett. The moat of the "old hall" now partly surrounds a modern farmhouse, which, however, still retains its ancient name. Thence, having removed with diminished fortune, we find George Lawson in 1606 exercising rights as a resident proprietor of the small estate of Moreby, ‡ in

* On the death of his father in 1826, Mr. Gooch became Sir Thomas Gooch, bart. of Benacre.—See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.

† The arms may be also seen in the Aynsty branch of Yorkshire families of the Elizabethan age, in the splendid room at Gilling Castle, the seat of the Fairfaxes in that county.

‡ From family documents (to which we have had access), we learn that in 1529 King HENRY VIII. by letters patent, granted to John Wellishburne, esq. and his heirs, certain lands at Moreby, the parish of Stillingfleet-with-Moreby, in the East Riding, which property he had derived from his mother Beckwith, and where he was probably induced to fix from the contiguity to his wife's family at Barley, near Selby. This small estate descended regularly in the hands of the Lawsons till the death of Marmaduke Lawson, of Moreby and Seaton Rosse (great uncle of the present direct representative of the family), in January 1761.

The patrimony of the Lawsons passed then into other hands, under the will of that gentleman, made before the birth of his nephew, Marmaduke, father of the present Mr. Lawson, leaving the estates at Moreby, Seaton Rosse, Holme, and Beilby, failing the more direct heirs, "to his brother Richard and the heirs of his body," and only "in default of such issue to William Preston and his heirs." Richard predeceased the testator six months, in consequence of which the property devolved upon Mr. Preston, a distant relation of the family.

The Rev. Marmaduke Lawson having thus been deprived of his paternal inheritance, the Wilkinson property (one much superior to the Lawson) was left by will of the last male descendant, and the Lawsons are thus continued in their native county, within twelve miles of Poppleton, sixteen of York, and twenty-one of Moreby, retaining their proper name of Lawson, but indebted for their estates to Wilkinson.

SIR GEORGE LAWSON, knt. treasurer of Berwick, was mayor of the city of York. He left at his decease a daughter, Anne, married to William Lawson, and a son, his successor,

THOMAS LAWSON, of York, also mayor of that city in 1562. He m. Christian, daughter of Hugh Atkinson, of Castleford, in Yorkshire, and had issue, in Com. Ebor. late the estate of Francis Lovell, knt. "at the yearly rent of a red rose, payable at the feast of St. John." In September 1603, we find a covenant from Sir Henry Slynghbie and Frances, his wife, who was only child of Elizabeth Vavasour, sole daughter and heir of Sir Leonard Beckwith, of Selby, knt. (see vol. i. p. 54) with George Lawson, Arm.: that he should peaceably "enjoy the manor of Moreby and premises" against and the heirs of Leonard and Roger Beckwith and John Wellisburne. Subsequently occurs a fine of the manor, &c. The witnesses to these deeds are Ralph Baththorpe, John Palmes, Charles Metham, Matthew Redman, Mauger Vavasour, James Moyser, Leonard Beckwith.

GEORGE LAWSON, of Moreby, baptized at Stillingfleet, 13th November, 1606, was in holy orders, and rector of Eakring, Notts (where may be seen the Lawson arms on a chalice, his gift; a brass plate records his death in 1670). He m. in 1656, Eleanor More, of Normanton, in the county of Lincoln, by whom (who was buried at Stillingfleet in 1686) he had, beside Anne and Eleanor (the latter died in 1679 unm.), a son and heir,

‡ From the will of George Lawson, esq. of Moreby, the eldest son of this lady, which bears date in 1698, it appears that besides Moreby he had estates at Osburneby and Gavelstone, in Lincolnshire, which probably came through her, and which he directs Mr. Stillington, of Kelfield, and others, his executors, to dispose of for the education and advancement of his second son, Richard.

GEORGE LAWSON, esq. of Moreby, who m. in 1680, Elizabeth, only daughter and heir of Marmaduke Bosville, esq. of Seaton Rosse, in the East Riding, and by her (who d. in 1698) had, with two daughters (who died in infancy), two sons, viz.

I. MARMADUKE, his heir (the name of "Marmaduke" appears now adopted from the Bosvilles, to supersede the old family Christian name, George).

II. RICHARD, baptized at Stillingfleet in 1697, of the Mint-yard, York, alderman of that city, and mayor in 1741 and 1754, m. Barbara, daughter of the Rev. Thomas Burton, M.A. vicar of Halifax, by Elizabeth, dau. of Francis Jessop, esq. of Broom Hall (see family of Burton and Jessop at foot), by whom he had issue,

D'Arcy, of Navan, being daughter and co-heir of William Jessop, esq. of Broom Hall, M.P. and the Honorable Mary Jessop (see pedigrees of D'Arcy, Earls of Holderness, &c. in Whitaker's Richmondshire, where the heiress of the earldom married the Duke of Leeds, and the descent of the younger branch is brought down to Jessops and Andrew Wilkinson, of Boroughbridge; see also Monuments in Gilling Church. The Lawsons have now several D'Arcy papers, books, paintings, &c. Mr. Lawson has also some curious miniatures from the Burtons, a roll of parliament from JAMES I. to CHARLES II. &c. &c.)

Mr. Lawson died in 1699, and was s. by his elder son,

MARMADUKE LAWSON, esq. of Moreby, who inherited through his mother the Bosville estates of Seaton-Rosse, Holme, and Beilby.† This gentleman, who was baptized in 1685, and buried at Stillingfleet in 1761, had by Susannah, his first wife (who was interred at Stillingfleet in 1711), two sons and two daughters, viz.

1. GEORGE, b. 1st January, 1705, d. s. p.

* This gentleman was an extremely popular character (an engraving of him by Hudson, in a hunting dress, may be seen in many of the houses of the Yorkshire gentry). He was the representative of a family whose residence in the parish of Aldborough extends beyond the extreme periods of local history, and whose Christian name, "Andrew," appears to have been derived originally from St. Andrew, the patron saint of the church. In the old hall at Boroughbridge are dates, W. 1568. 1606. They do not, however, appear to have been extensive owners of property before the year 1650, between which and 1700 most of their property was purchased from the Tancred, who were the great resident proprietors. In 1654 is a purchase of the first burgate property at Boroughbridge by Andrew Wilkinson, esq. In 1659 the site of the old Aldburgh Manor House was purchased, whence came the Aldburgh Chapel to the family. In 1666 Andrew Wilkinson is named in the charter of fairs to Boroughbridge. In 1685 Andrew Wilkinson m. Deborah Chalmley, daughter and co-heiress of Richard Chalmley, of the family of Whitby, Howsham, &c. then residing at Spruistly Hall, in the parish of Killinghall (another Wilkinson wedded another sister); the son and heir of this marriage was Charles Wilkinson, esq. of Aldburgh Hall (high sheriff in 1716), whose son, Andrew Wilkinson, married Barbara Jessop. The Wilkinsons' borough interest was considerable, and their connections frequently represented the boroughs of Aldbro' and Boroughbridge.

† The Lawson title deeds exhibit four descents of the Bosville family, commencing with Roger and Alice Bosville (date 1596), who by these names showed their derivation from the parent stocks of Roger de Gunthwaite and Alice de Darfield, and terminating with ELIZABETH, this gentleman's mother, the sole heir, as stated above, of Marmaduke Bosville by Elizabeth Bacon (in 1680). After what we have already stated (vol. i. page 516) of the eminent family of Bosville, and its high connections, and after the six pedigrees of different branches of it, given in Hunter's South Yorkshire, who calls it "an ancient, numerous, and influential family," beginning with SIR JOHN BOSVILLE in 1252, and ending in the last heiress, ELIZABETH DIANA BOSVILLE, who married LORD MACDONALD, whose second son, Godfrey (afterwards Lord Macdonald), assumed the name of Bosville in 1814, and whose son, the present Mr. Bosville, of Thorpe, is Lord of Gunthwaite (1834), it need only be added that Mr. Bosville pays £25 annually to Seaton Rosse Church, settled on the Gunthwaite estate, thus preserving the memory of the connection of the family with that place, as also, which seems not to have been noticed, that Boswell, the biographer of Johnson, was of this family, and calls Godfrey Bosville, of Gunthwaite, his "Yorkshire chief. father) and their descendants the Lawson estates belong.

Mr. Lawson wedded secondly, Grace, dau. of the Rev. Dr. Brooksbank, of Reading (buried at Stillingfleet in 1770), but had no other issue.

This gentleman made a will, previously to the birth of his nephew, the Reverend MARMADUKE LAWSON, devising the estates at Moreby, Seaton-Rosse, Holme, and Beilby, failing his more direct heirs, "to his brother Richard and the heirs of his body," and "in default of such issue to William Preston and his heirs." Those estates subsequently devolved upon Mr. Preston, the devise to the heirs of Richard Lawson being a lapsed devise, as already stated, while the representation of the family, presuming that his second son, Marmaduke, died issueless, came to (the son of his deceased brother, Richard,) his nephew,

The Rev. MARMADUKE LAWSON, M.A. rector of Sproatley and prebendary of Ripon (where, as such, his arms appear in the east window of that minster), b. in 1749, m. Barbara-Isabella, daughter of John Wilkinson, esq. of the Middle Temple, brother of the Rev. James Wilkinson, vicar of Sheffield, of Broom Hall, near that place, and of Boroughbridge Hall, Yorkshire, well known and much respected for his "unaffected piety,* inflexible integrity, and unwearied zeal in the service of the public during a period of half a century." This gentleman being the last of the Wilkinsons in tail male, left by his will at his decease in 1805, his estates at Boroughbridge, &c. to his niece, Mrs. Lawson, and her family. He also evinced his esteem for his friend and relative, the Reverend Marmaduke Lawson, by inserting his name subsequently in the entail. Mr. Lawson had issue,

- i. MARMADUKE, his heir.
- ii. ANDREW, heir to his brother.
- iii. James, in holy orders, rector of Chapel Izod, Palmerstown, &c. near Dublin.
- iv. John, in holy orders.
- i. Barbara.
- ii. Dorothy, m. in 1831 to the Rev. Edward Bird.
- iii. Mary, m. in 1833 to the Rev. Alexander Stewart, M.A. rector of Burford, Worcestershire, eldest son of the Hon. Montgomerie Stewart and nephew to the Earl of Galloway.

Mr. Lawson died in 1814, was buried at Aldborough, and succeeded by his eldest son,

MARMADUKE LAWSON, esq. of Boroughbridge Hall, a gentleman distinguished by his literary pre-eminence at Cambridge, where he was the first Pitt's scholar in 1814. In 1812 he obtained one of Sir William Browne's medals for the best Latin ode, and in 1816 one of the Chancellor's medals for the best classical exercises, was subsequently an active magistrate, and was thrice returned to parliament for Boroughbridge. He died unmarried on the 10th of March, 1823, when the Wilkinson estates devolved upon his next brother, ANDREW LAWSON, esq. the present proprietor. There is a handsome marble monument to this Mr. Lawson in the Aldburgh Chapel, in Aldborough Church, bearing the following inscription:—

Families of Swift, Burton, and Jessop.

The connexion with the JESSOPS and WILKINSONS having more than restored the fallen fortunes of the house of LAWSON, it is required in tracing the origin of that beneficial alliance to commence with some members of the family of Swyft.†

* See the inscription on the monument erected in Sheffield Church to his memory, by subscription of "the nobility, gentry, clergy, and others," and the plate of it, with the first bust by the celebrated Chantrey, in Hunter's Hallamshire, p. 146. There is also a monument to him in Aldbro' Church. An engraving of him from the original portrait taken for the Cutler's Company, and a medallion by Westwood, testify the esteem in which this excellent man was generally held.

† The celebrated Dean Swift says that his family was reputed to have come from Yorkshire, and allied to the Swyfts mentioned in the text. See the Dean's own account, printed in the appendix to his life by Dr. Sheridan. The present benefit derived by the Lawsons from the Swyfts is the presentation to the living of Sheffield, alternately with the Gells. This was granted 36th HENRY VIII. to Robert Swyft, esq. of Broom Hall, and William Swyft, together with other valuable property, which had previously belonged to Workop Priory.

The eldest daughter and co-heir,

ANNE SWYFT, born in 1531, espoused Richard Jessop, esq. son of William Jessop, of Rotherham, by Emote, his wife, dau. of John Charlesworth, of Treeton, and dying in 1567, left a son and successor, WILLIAM JESSOP,‡ esq. of Broom Hall, aged thirteen in 1575. He m. first, 21st January, 1582, Margaret, daughter of Sir John Atherton, of Atherton, and had two sons, viz.

- I. WORTLEY, of Scofton, near Worksop, b. 13th April, 1583, who m. (5th JAMES I.) Catherine, second daughter and co-heir of Thomas Doyley, M.D. of London, a younger son of John Doyley, esq. of Chislehampton, in Oxfordshire, by whom he left at his decease, being lost at sea, a daughter, Anne, m. to — Wade, esq. of Nottingham, and an only son, WILLIAM, successor to his grandfather.

- II. George, of Branchcliffe, b. in 1584, a barrister of the Middle Temple, who died in 1651.

Mr. Jessop wedded, secondly, Ann Goodrick, and thirdly, Jane, daughter of Edward Disney; by the former of whom he had two daughters,

1. Margaret, m. first to Humphrey Savage, esq. of Northlees, and secondly, to William Young, esq.

- II. Anne, m. to Thomas Eyre, esq. of Highlow.

He d. in 1630, and was s. by his grandson,

WILLIAM JESSOP, esq. of Broom Hall, b. in 1610, who made his will 1st April, 1641, and died soon after, being interred at Sheffield on the 15th of the same month. He had married, first, 1630-1, Mary, daughter of Stephen Bright, esq. of Carbrook, and sister to Sir John Bright, bart. by which lady, who d. in 1635, he had two sons and a daughter, who all died in youth. He wedded, secondly, in 1637, Jane, daughter of Sir Francis South, knt. of Kelsterne, Lincolnshire, by Anne, his wife, daughter of Anthony Irby, esq. of Whaploade, and left a son and successor,

FRANCIS JESSOP, esq. of Broom Hall, baptized at Sheffield 25th April, 1638, one of the earliest members of the Royal Society, and well known among the learned and scientific of his day. He m. in 1664, his cousin, Barbara, daughter of Robert Eyre, esq. of Highlow, and had issue,

1. WILLIAM, his heir.

- II. Francis, M. A. rector of Treeton, b. in 1668, d. unm. and was buried at Sheffield.

‡ The burial-place of the Jessops was in the chancel of the church of Sheffield, where Judge Jessop's monument is still to be seen. The south aisle there is also nearly filled with the monuments of the various branches of the family of Bright, of Carbrook and Bannercross, which was intimately connected by marriage with the Jessops and Burtons: the first branch terminated in the Marchioness of Rockingham; and the last, descending immediately from Barbara Jessop (Elizabeth Burton's sister) and John Bright, ended with Lady John Murray.

§ It appears, from a pedigree of the ancient family of BURTON, originally at Tutbury, in Staffordshire, temp. RICHARD I. and settled, likewise, at Linley, in Leicestershire (of which branch were the celebrated historian of that county and the famous author of the "Anatomy of Melancholy"), and Dronfield, in Derbyshire, that Mr. Burton was previously connected with the family of Jessop, by the marriage of Thomas Burton, of Dronfield, sheriff of Derbyshire in 1628, with Ellen Bright, and also through the Eyres (now Gells, of Hopton). Thomas Burton, of Holmesfield and Aldercar Park, the grandson of Thomas Burton before mentioned, after the death of his first wife, in 1761, m. Dorothy, daughter of Percival Willoughby, M. D. of Derby (of the family of Willoughby, of Woolaton), whence we find Dorothy Burton, sister of the Rev. Thomas Burton, married John Sayer, esq. of Eye, in Suffolk, who wedded, secondly, Grace, daughter of ready stated, RICHARD LAWSON, esq.

III. Anne, died unm. in 1740.

IV. Barbara, m. in 1701, to John Bright, esq. of Bannercross.

Mr. Jessop made his will 10th April, 1688, was buried 3rd April, 1690, and was succeeded by his son, WILLIAM JESSOP, esq. of Broom Hall, b. in 1664-5, M. P. for Aldbro', a bencher of Gray's Inn, one of his Majesty's justices of Chester, and treasurer of the Alienation Office. He died at Broom Hall, 15th November, 1734, the last male heir of the family.

This gentleman wedded the Hon. Mary D'Arcy, daughter of James D'Arcy, esq. of Sedbury Park, in Yorkshire (son of James D'Arcy, sixth son of Conyers, Lord D'Arcy), who was created Baron D'Arcy, of Navan, in Ireland, A. D. 1721, with remainder to his grandson, James Jessop. By the Hon. Mary D'Arcy Mr. Jessop had issue,

I. JAMES, who succeeded his grandfather as second Lord D'Arcy, of Navan, in 1731, and assumed in consequence the surname and arms of D'Arcy. His lordship died unm. in 1733.

II. BARBARA, m. Andrew Wilkinson, esq. of Boro'bridge, M. P. for Aldbro', and had issue,

1. CHARLES WILKINSON, of Boro'-

Thomas Tyrell, esq. of Gipping. Dorothy Sayer's niece, Elizabeth Burton, sister of Mrs. Richard Lawson, espoused Mr. Palgrave, of Palgrave, of an ancient Norfolk house (in which county the brother, Francis Burton, was rector of Ryburgh and Egmore), and had two sons; the elder assumed the surname of Sayer, and married Miss Tyrell, of Gipping, afterwards Lady Maynard Heselrigge. To the younger, the rector of Palgrave, and the friend and correspondent of the poet Gray (see Mason's Gray's Letters, sec. iv. Letters 33, 35, 48), a man of elegant taste and virtue, the present Mr. Lawson, of Boro'bridge, is indebted for a small, but valuable collection of antiques, collected during his travels in Italy with his friend Mr. Weddell, of Newby (who at that time made the magnificent collection of statues now belonging to Lord de Grey). Mr. Lawson has, also, Mr. Palgrave's journal, undertaken by Gray's exhortation (see the poet's letters).

BARNARD, OF CAVE CASTLE.

BARNARD, HENRY-GEE, esq. of Cave Castle, in the county of York, b. 22nd February, 1789, inherited the estates upon the demise of his father, in 1815.

Lineage.

The family of Boldero, whence that now before us paternally derives, is supposed to have been originally of Suffolk, in which county the Bolderos have existed for many generations, and are still settled there, at Ixworth. The name appears in Blomefield's History of Norfolk; and, in Blome's Britannia, the Rev. Dr. Boldero is mentioned among the principal residents in Suffolk and Cambridgeshire. That gentleman died in 1672, and the arms on his monument are those quartered by the Barnards of Cave Castle. On the tomb of George Boldero, in St. Mary's Church, Bury, who died in 1609, the same armorial bearings are depicted.

EDWARD GALE BOLDERO, esq. had, by his wife, Mary Lewyns, who died in 1753, aged sixty-three, four sons and two daughters, viz.

- I. LEWYNS, his heir.
- II. John, first of Stapleton Hall, in Yorkshire, and subsequently of Aspeden Hall, in the county of Herts. He m. Esther, daughter of D. HENRY BOLDERO-BARNARD, esq. of Cave Castle, who wedded 23rd April, 1788, Sarah-Elizabeth, elder daughter and co-heir of ROGER GEE, esq. of Bishop Burton (see family of GEE at foot), and had issue, HENRY-GEE, his heir.

Charles-Lewyns, b. 19th January, 1790, who entered the army before he was fifteen years of age, as ensign in his uncle General Hotham's regiment, and having obtained his lieutenantcy, in two years after got a company in the Fourth Garrison Battalion. Thence he exchanged into the 38th Infantry; served afterwards in the King's Dragoons; and lastly, joined the Scotch Greys, as captain of the troop commanded previously by his elder brother. Captain Barnard, who distinguished himself in twelve engagements under the Duke of Wellington, fell at Waterloo, 18th June, 1815.*

Edward-William, in holy orders, b. 16th March, 1791, held the family living of South Cave. He m. 27th April, 1821, Philadelphia-Frances-Esther, daughter of the Venerable Archdeacon Wrangham, and dying at Chester, in January, 1827, left issue,

1. Edward-Charles-Gee, b. 23rd March, 1822.

* To this gallant officer, a monument of white marble is erected in the church of South Cave, bearing the following inscription:—

"This tablet is erected to the memory of Captain Charles-Lewyns Barnard, of the second regiment N. B. Dragoons, who died at Waterloo, 18th June, 1815, aged twenty-five years, and was buried on the field of battle. He served a campaign in Germany, and nearly the whole of the Spanish war, in which he was severely wounded. At the Battle of WATERLOO, he led into action the right squadron of his highly-distinguished regiment, and displayed, before he fell, talents and courage that gained him the admiration of all his brother soldiers.

"Ye that respect the union of virtue, valour, and ability,

Pause ere ye pass this tablet;

And if ye have sons or brothers, pray that their lives

May be as fair, and their deaths as glorious as his."

DAVIES, OF ELMLEY PARK.

DAVIES, THOMAS-HENRY-HASTINGS, esq. of Elmley Park, in the county of Worcester, m. 17th January, 1824, Augusta-Anne, only child of the late Thomas Crespigny, esq.

This gentleman is a lieutenant-colonel in the army, and M.P. for the city of Worcester.

Lineage.

The family before us was originally settled in Montgomeryshire, the first name in the pedigree being David of Hope, in that county, born about the year 1400.

The branch whence Colonel Davies springs removed into Shropshire temp. HENRY VII. and assumed the surname of DAVIES, derived, as was customary in Wales, from the baptismal appellation of the ancestor living at the period, when the family took, in imitation of the English, an hereditary designation.

The Davieses resided for many generations at Marsh, in that county; and, about the year 1680, a younger son of the family,

THE REV. HENRY DAVIES, was rector of Fownhope, in the county of Hereford. His third son,

THOMAS DAVIES, esq. espoused, in 1700, Margaret, daughter and heir of — White, esq. keeper of the wardrobe to Queen Anne, with whom obtaining a considerable fortune, he purchased the estate of New House, in Herefordshire, and had issue,

- i. THOMAS, his heir.
- ii. Henry, in holy orders, rector of Chilton, in Berkshire, who m. Mary, daughter of the Rev. James Poole, of the county of Hereford.

 - V. Robert-Francis-Ogilvie, b. 26th October, 1823.
- I. Mary-Ogilvie.
 - II. Sophia-Janet-Ogilvie.

Mr. Farquharson inherited the estates upon the demise of his brother in 1808. He is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant in Aberdeenshire.

Lineage.

This family descends from the ancient and once powerful house of CUMING OF ALT-
TYRE, having branched, according to numerous records extant, from the parent stock about the year 1460. It also derives from the Ogilvies, earls of Findlater, whose ancestor was brother of the oldest earl in Great Britain, and brother-in-law of WILLIAM THE LION'S, having married that monarch's sister. The patent of the Earl of Angus, bears date 1037, and he is still lineally represented by DAVID OGILVIE, EARL OF AIRLIE. (See BURKE'S Peerage.)

ALEXANDER CUMING, of Attyre, wedded Janet, daughter of Sir William Fraser, of Philorth, (progenitor of the Lords Saltoun,) and had two sons, SIR THOMAS CUMING, his heir, and

FERQUHARD, ancestor of the Cumings of Kellas, &c. in the county of Moray, who, disobliged at the refusal of their chief to allow them to bury their dead in the family burial place, and from other feuds common at that time, laid aside the surname of CUMING, and adopted that of FARQUHARSON, as descendants of Ferquhard, from whom have sprung the FARQUHARSONS of Haughton and Balfing, in Aberdeenshire. This family of Farquharson possessed Kellas, &c. for many generations, and became allied, by marriage, to many of the best northern houses, the Grants, Inneses, &c. The fourth, in direct male descent, from Ferquhard, WILLIAM FARQUHARSON, alias CUMING of Kellas, espoused, about the year 1580, Jean, third daughter of John, grandson of FINLAY MORE, (progenitor of the clan FARQUHARSON, (see p. 98, of this volume), by his second wife, a daughter of Baron Roy, of Kincardine Stewart, and had issue, who carried on the line. He was one of the barons of the north who signed a roll for the protection of JAMES VI. after the Gowry conspiracy.

During the civil wars, the FARQUHARSONS of Kellas followed King CHARLES I. to York, shared in his fortunes, lost their estate, were all but one killed in battle, and lie in the cathedral at Durham. The survivor,

JOHN FARQUHARSON, returned to Scotland, took up his abode in Monymusk, Aberdeenshire, and purchased the estate of HAUGHTON. He m. in 1656, a daughter of Donald Farquharson, esq. fifth son of Invercauld, and left a son and successor, JOHN FARQUHARSON, esq. of Haughton, who m. Janet, daughter of — Dawney, esq. of Aberdeen, and had two sons and a daughter, viz.

- I. JOHN, who m. the Countess of Blesington, but pre-deceased his father without issue.
- II. FRANCIS, heir.

1. Mary, who wedded the Rev. Alexander Ogilvie, of Carston, in the county of Banff, (a lineal descendant of the Ogilvies, earls of Findlater, and presumptive male heir of that family), and had issue,

ALEXANDER OGILVIE, successor to his uncle.

The only surviving son,

FRANCIS FARQUHARSON, esq. wedded Grace, daughter of Francis Strachan, esq. of Edinburgh, and had a daughter Anne, who died young. This gentleman, who purchased the two baronies of Alford, was s. at his decease by his nephew, ALEXANDER OGILVIE, esq. who assumed, upon inheriting the Haughton estate, the name and arms of FARQUHARSON. He m. Mary, daughter of John Hay, esq. of Edinburgh, and had issue,

1. FRANCIS, his heir.
11. JOHN, successor to his brother.

1. Mary.

11. Frances-Anne, who m. Michael Stovin Fenwick, esq. and left two surviving daughters, viz.

Frances Mary Fenwick.

Alicia Anne Fenwick.

Mr. Ogilvie Farquharson d. in 1788, and was s. by his elder son,

FRANCIS FARQUHARSON, esq. of Haughton, at whose decease, unmarried, in 1808, the estates devolved upon his only brother, the present JOHN FARQUHARSON, esq. of Haughton.

TOWNELEY, OF TOWNELEY.

TOWNELEY, PEREGRINE-EDWARD, esq. of Towneley, in the county of Lancaster, b. in 1762, m. 22nd April, 1794, at St. James's church, Westminster, Charlotte - Teresa, daughter of Robert Drummond,* esq. of Cadlands, in Hampshire, and has had issue, CHARLES, b. in January, 1803.

John, b. in 1806.

Charlotte, d. in January, 1818, unm.

Frances, m. at St. Margaret's church, Westminster, in July, 1821, to Thomas Stonor, esq. of Stonor Park, in the county of Oxford.

Mr. Towneley succeeded his father on the 13th May, 1813, and served the office of sheriff for Lancashire in 1831, of which county he is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant.

Lineage.

The Rev. Doctor Thomas Dunham Whitaker, in his learned history of the parish of Whalley and honor of Clitheroe, has bestowed elaborate pains in tracing the origin of the distinguished family of TOWNELEY, which, by a careful examination of ancient charters, he has been enabled to deduce (and he confirms his statement by documentary evidence of authority) from

SPARTLINGUS, first dean of Whalley, living about the year 896, when ALFRED reigned over England, whose son,

LIWLPHUS CUTWHOLFE, dean of Whalley, was father of

CUDWLPHUS, dean of Whalley, who was s. by his son,

HENRICUS, senior, dean of Whalley, father of

* Sixth son of William Drummond, fourth VISCOUNT STRATHALLAN, who fell in the ranks of the CHEVALIER at Culloden, and was included in subsequent act of attainder.—BURKE's Peerage and Baronetage.

ROBERTUS, dean of Whalley, who had, with three younger sons, Henry, William, and John,

GEOFFREY, who married a daughter of ROGER DE LACI, constable of Chester, which Roger, by charter without a date, but between the years 1193, when he acceded to the estates of the Lacies, and 1211, when he died, granted to the said Geoffrey, son of Robert, the dean of Whalley, two bovates of land in Tunleia (Towneley) with their appurtenances, to erect a house thereon, when he pleased to hunt there, together with all manner of chase of wild beasts, &c. Geoffrey was s. by his son, another

GEOFFREY, dean of Whalley, who had two sons,

ROGER, the last dean of Whalley, and

RICHARD DE TUNLAY, the first so designated, who was father of

PETER DE TUNLAY, or TOWNELEY, the first who is known to have used the present arms; viz. arg. a fesse, sa. three mullets in chief of the second. He was s. by

AGNES DE TOWNELEY, who m. John de Hargreave, and died without issue.

CECILIA DE TOWNELEY, eventually sole heir.

The younger,

CECILIA DE TOWNELEY, espoused JOHN DEL LEGH,* who died about the 4th ED. III. anno 1330, leaving a son,

GILBERT DEL LEGH, possessed of Towneley, 16th EDWARD III. who m. Alice, dau. of Robert Vernon, of Warforth, in Cheshire, and was s. by his son,

JOHN DE LA LEGH, living in 1346, who wedded Claria, daughter of Thomas Fenton, and was father of

RICHARD DE TOWNELEY, alias DE LA LEGH, who was appointed sheriff by JOHN OF GAUNT, in 1375, 1376, and 1377. His wife's name was Helen, and she was living in 1345. They had issue,

JOHN, the heir.

Robert, }
Henry, } priests.

Alice, m. to Edmond Lennard, heir of Sir Thomas Dacre.

The eldest son,

* RICHARD DEL LEGH, of High Legh, in the county of Chester, was father of

AGNES DEL LEGH, who m. WILLIAM VENABLES, and had a son,

JOHN DEL LEGH, who assumed his mother's surname, but retained the arms of his father's family, adding a bend gules, for distinction. He purchased Booths, in Cheshire, anno 1300, 28th EDWARD I. His third son, GILBERT DEL LEGH, was father of JOHN DEL LEGH, the husband of CECILIA TOWNELEY, as in the text.

JOHN DE TOWNELEY, m. first, Isabel, dau. of William Rixton, by whom he had a son, RICHARD, his successor, and a daughter, Matilda, the wife of William, son and heir of Sir John Fleming. He wedded secondly, Elizabeth, dau. of — Nagier, who died without issue, about the 3rd of HENRY IV. 1401. He died himself in 1410, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD DE TOWNELEY, who m. Alice, daughter of —, and dying in 1454, left a son and successor,

JOHN TOWNELEY, OF TOWNELEY, who wedded first, Isabel, daughter of Nicholas Butler, esq. of Rawcliffe, in the county of Lancaster, from whom he was divorced. He m. secondly, Isabel, daughter of Richard Sherborne, esq. of Stonyhurst, in the county of Lancaster, by whom he had issue,

i. RICHARD (Sir), his successor.

ii. Laurence, of Barnside.

iii. Nicholas, ancestor of the Towneleys of Royle.

iv. Henry, of Dutton.

v. Barnard (Sir), LL.D.

i. Grace, m. to Roger Nowell, of Read, living in 1468.

The son and heir,

SIR RICHARD TOWNELEY, who was knighted by Lord Stanley, at Hutton Field, in Scotland, in 1481, he m. Jane, daughter of Richard Southworth, esq. of Samlesbury, and had issue,

Sir Richard d. in 1482, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR JOHN TOWNELEY, OF TOWNELEY, knt. who was sheriff of Lancashire from 1531 to 1540. He wedded first, Isabel, daughter and heiress of Sir Charles Pilkington, of Gateford, in Nottinghamshire, to whom he was contracted at the age of seven. By this lady, who died in 1522, he had issue,

i. RICHARD, his successor.

ii. Charles, m. Elizabeth, daughter of — Kaye, of Rockdale, and widow of John Nowell, esq. of Read, by whom he left a son, JOHN, who m. in 1556, MARY TOWNELEY, only daughter and heiress of his first cousin, Sir Richard Towneley, and thus carried on the line of the family.

i. Helen, m. in 1506, to Sir Robert Neville, of Liversage, in the county of York.

ii. Grace, m. first, to Sir Robert Hesketh, of Rufford, and secondly, to Laurence Habbergham, of Habbergham.

- iii. Jane, m. first, to Thomas Sherborne, esq. and secondly, to Mr. Ralph Shuttleworth, of Hacking.
- iv. Elizabeth, m. to Mr. John Cooke, of London.
- v. Margaret, m. to Nicholas Banastre, of Altham.

He espoused secondly, in 1537, Anne, by whom, who wedded for her second husband, Sir William Radcliffe, of Ordsall, he had no child, and died in 1545.

Sir John Towneley was an active, long-lived man, and memorable in his generation. He enjoyed the estate nearly sixty years, and augmented it by numerous purchases. He inclosed the park at Hapton, and built the tower; founded the chauntry of St. Mary, at Burnley, and built the family quire. He erected also, or saw completed by his son and grandson, the domestic chapel at Towneley; lived to see the marriage of the latter with the heiress of Wymbish; avoided the pilgrimage of grace, which ruined many of his family; and died at a good old age, about the year 1540. He was interred at Burnley, and s. by his son,

RICHARD TOWNELEY, esq. of Towneley, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Henry Foljambe, esq. of Walton, in the county of Derby, and had one son and four daughters, viz.

JOHN TOWNELEY was celebrated for the constancy of his adherence to the religion of his forefathers, for the sufferings and persecutions he endured, and the vast sums he paid into the exchequer, on account of his recusancy; all which are recorded in an inscription beneath a curious portrait of himself, his lady, and his children, preserved amongst the very interesting series of family portraits, from the reign of HENRY III. to the present time, in the long gallery at Towneley.* He d. in 1607, aged seventy-nine, and was s. by his eldest son,

RICHARD TOWNELEY, esq. who through his mother became "of Towneley." He was b. 29th April, 1566, and wedded Jane, daughter of Ralph Asheton, esq. of Lever, by whom (who died in July, 1634, will dated 1633, buried at Burnley,) he had issue to survive infancy,

iii. CHARLES, heir to his father.

iv. Christopher, of Moorhills, b. 9th January, 1603, m. Alice, daughter of John Braddyll, esq. of Porthfield, and widow of Richard Towneley, esq. of Carr. This gentleman, who was buried at Burnley, in August, 1674, occupied a long life of leisure, part of which was spent in the troublesome times of the seventeenth century, in the useful task of transcribing all the charters and ancient evidences of the parish of Towneley and neighbourhood, which are still preserved at Towneley, and comprise twenty-two folio volumes.

Mr. Towneley died in Drury Lane, London, 29th November, 1628, and was buried in St. Clement's Church, Strand. Will dated

* Inscription.

Victoire, in Paris.

This gentleman, who attained distinction as a philosopher and mathematician, addressed some observations on an eclipse of the sun in a Latin letter to the royal astronomer Flamstead. He was compelled, at the Restoration in 1660, to sell the fine estate of Nocton, near Leicester, which had come to the family with the heiress of Wimbysh, of Nocton, in order to repair the breaches made by sequestrations for recusancy and loyalty to the crown. He died at York, of a mortification, in January, 1706-7, and was s. by his eldest surviving son,

CHARLES TOWNELEY, esq. of Towneley, b. 19th April, 1658, m. in 1685, Ursula, daughter of Richard Fermor, esq. of Tusmore, in the county of Oxford, by whom he had issue,

i. RICHARD, his successor.

ii. Charles, b. in 1690 and d. in 1713.

iii. John, b. in 1697. This gentleman, being destined to the study of the law, was placed in the office of the famous Salkeld, but having a passion for a military life, he entered the French service, and was present at the siege of Philipsburgh, 12th June, 1734. He was tutor to the Chevalier de St. George, and he distinguished himself in the literary world by a translation of Hudibras into French, displaying a most extraordinary knowledge of the stranger tongue, by adapting to its idiom the peculiar phraseology of that singular poem. He was honored with the cross of St. Louis, and died unm. in 1782, aged eighty-five.

iv. George, b. in 1706 and d. in 1786.

v. Francis, b. in 1709. This gentleman, who joined the standard of CHARLES-EDWARD in 1745, was taken prisoner and executed in 1746. His head was placed on Temple Bar.

Mr. Towneley d. at Bath, 2nd February, 1741, and was s. by his eldest son,

CHARLES TOWNELEY, esq. twenty-ninth Lord of Towneley from Spartlingus, dean of Whalley, temp. ALFRED the Great. This accomplished gentleman, born 1st October, 1737, was distinguished by his exquisite taste in the fine arts. During his lengthened residence in Rome, and his travels in Italy and Sicily, he expended great portion of his ample revenue in forming a collection of the choicest and best specimens of Greek and Roman sculpture that had ever been brought into England. He died 3rd January, 1805, and subsequently the directors of the British Museum obtaining from parliament twenty thousand pounds, purchased from the Towneley family for that sum, the celebrated collection, now so well known as the "TOWNELEY MARBLES." Mr. Towneley dying unmarried, his estates devolved upon his only surviving brother,

EDWARD TOWNELEY STANDISH, esq. of Standish, who thus became likewise "of Towneley." He m. Anne, daughter of Basil Thomas Eccleston, esq. of Eccleston, but dying without issue, 28th March, 1807, the Standish and Towneley properties separated, the former passing to his nephew, Thomas Strickland, esq. and the latter reverting to his uncle,

JOHN TOWNELEY, esq. of Cornsay House, who then became "of Towneley." This gentleman, b. 15th June, 1731, m. Barbara, fourth daughter of Edward Diccouson, esq. of Wrightington, in the county of Lancaster, by whom (who d. 25th December, 1797) he had, with a daughter Barbara, b. 14th April, 1758, who m. in August, 1785, Sir William Stanley, bart. of Hooton, and now survives his widow, without issue, a son and successor at his decease, 13th May, 1813, the present,

* To the memory of this gentleman the following lines are inscribed, in the church of Melton.

" Oh! here, if ever, holy patience bend
Thy duteous knee, the hand of heaven revere:
Here bid the father, mother, sister, friend,
In meek submission drop the Christian tear;
Nor blame that at the vernal bloom of youth
Those buds of manly worth, whose riper bloom
Had glowed with honour, fortitude, and truth,
Sunk in the eternal winter of the tomb:
That he whose form with health, with Beauty
charm'd,

For whom her liberal Feast fair Fortune spread,
Whom science nurtured, bright example warmed,
In lingering torture languished to the dead.
Hark! cries a voice that awes the silent air,
The doom of man in my dread bosom lies:
Be yours awhile to pace this vale of care,
Be his to soar with Seraphs in the skies.

CHAMPERNOWNE, OF DARTINGTON.

CHAMPERNOWNE, HENRY, esq. of Dartington, in the county of Devon, b. 14th September, 1815, succeeded at the decease of his father in 1819.

Lineage.

The family of CAMPERNOWNE, which in splendour of descent, yields to few in the west of England, was originally called CAMPO ARNULPHI, and the first members sent to parliament, by the county of Cornwall, were William de Campo-Arnulphi, and Reginald Beville.

"The first of the name at Modbury, (we quote Prince) was Richard, a younger son of Sir Henry Chambernon, of Clist Chambernon; which Sir Henry was son of Sir Oliver; as he was son of Henry Chambernon, of Clist and Ilfarcombe, in King HENRY II. time, the last of which family (of Clist Chambernon) was Sir William Chambernon, who left issue, Elizabeth, his only daughter and heir; a frolic lady, that married William Polglas, within three days of her father's death, and within two days after her husband Polglas's death, she was married again unto John Cergeaux. By Polglas, she left a son, that was an idiot, and died of the plague; and a daughter, called Margaret, who became his heir, and the wife of Judge Herl, whose son, Sir John Herl, dying without issue, conveyed this large inheritance to the Lord Bonvil, of Shute, from whom it came to the Lord Gray, Duke of Suffolk, and from him, by attainder, to the crown."

"There have been (continues the same writer) many eminent persons of this name and family, the history of whose ancestors and exploits, for the greatest part is devoured by time, although their names occur in the chronicles of England, amongst those worthies, who, with their lives and fortunes were ready to serve their king and country."

RICHARD CHAMBERNON, son of Sir Henry Chambernon, of Clist Chambernon, married the heiress of Sir Alexander Okeston, by his wife, Joan,* relict of Richard de Valletort. By her, whom Edmond, Earl of Cornwall, calleth by the name of sister, in a grant made by him, dated 12th Edward I. he had a son and heir,

SIR RICHARD CHAMBERNON, who acquired, by special command of EDWARD I. the lands of Modbury, in Devon, (originally possessed by the Valletorts) from Sir James de Okeston, and was s. by his son,

SIR RICHARD CHAMBERNON, of Modbury, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Hugh de Valletort, of Tawton, and was father of

SIR THOMAS CHAMPERNON, of Modbury, who left by Elenor, his wife, daughter of Sir Roger Rohant, a son and successor,

SIR RICHARD CHAMPERNON, who wedded first, Alice, daughter of Thomas, Lord Astley, and had a son,

ALEXANDER, who m. Joan, daughter and heir of Martin Ferrers, and thus acquired the manor of Bees Ferrers, which remained with his descendants in the male line, until BLANCH CHAMPERNON, (daughter and heiress of Sir John Champernon, of Bees Ferrers,) married Sir Robert Willoughby, knt. of Broke, summoned to parliament 12th August, 1492, as Lord Willoughby de Broke, and conveyed the manor of Bees Ferrers, the borough and manor of Callington, and many other large estates in the west of England, to her husband. From this marriage lineally derives the present Lord Willoughby de Broke.

Sir Richard Champernoun married secondly,

* This Joan, or Jone, is supposed to have been a concubine of Richard Plantagenet, Earl of Cornwall, king of the Romans.

Katherine, daughter of Sir Giles Daubeney, and had issue,

RICHARD, of Modbury.

John, of Inswork, ancestor in the female line, of the families of Trevilian, Fortescue, and Monk of Potheridge. Of this last family was the celebrated GEORGE MONK, DUKE OF ALBEMARLE, (See Burke's Extinct Peerage.)

The eldest son of the second marriage,

RICHARD CHAMPERNOWNE, of Modbury, espoused Isabel Bonville, sister of Sir William Bonville, summoned to parliament in 1449, as Baron Bonville, of Chuton, and had a son and successor,

HUGH CHAMPERNOWNE, of Modbury, father, by Alice, his wife, daughter of John Boys, of Woode, of

WILLIAM CHAMPERNOWNE, of Modbury, who m. Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of John Chiderlegh, by whom he acquired the lands of Chiderlegh, &c. and had a son,

SIR JOHN CHAMPERNOWNE, of Modbury, who wedded Margaret, daughter of Sir Philip Courtenay, of Molland, high sheriff for Devon, 10th EDWARD IV. (second son of Sir Philip Courtenay, knt. of Powderham Castle, by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Walter Lord Hungerford, see p. 161) and was succeeded by his son,

SIR PHILIP CHAMPERNOWNE, knt. of Modbury, living temp. HENRY VII. This gentleman m. Katherine, daughter of Sir Edmund Carew, by Katherine, daughter and co-heir of Sir William Huddesfield, attorney general to HENRY VII. and had issue,

1. JOHN, of Modbury, whom m. Katherine, daughter of William, Lord Mountjoy, and had a son and heir,

HENRY CHAMPERNOWNE, esq. of Modbury, who espoused Catherine, daughter of Sir Richard Edgecombe, of Mount Edgecombe, who d. in 1561, and had two sons, Richard and Arthur. The elder,

SIR RICHARD CHAMPERNOWNE, knt. of Modbury, wedded Elizabeth, daughter of the Lord Chief Justice Popham, (see family of POPHAM, of Littlecott) but had no issue, when the estates, greatly impaired by the splendour of his establishment, and hospitality of his table, devolved on his brother,

SIR ARTHUR CHAMPERNOWNE, of Modbury, a gallant commander in the Irish war, and knighted by the Earl of Essex, in 1599. Returning soon after to England, he retired to his inheritance, and married Amy, daughter and heir of John Crukern, of Childhay.

Sir Arthur, styled by Carew, "a perfectly accomplished gentleman," was not only skilled in the affairs of war, but in many other ingenious arts, particularly in architecture.

ARTHUR CHAMPERNOWNE, esq. of Modbury, the eventual representative of this branch, sold, about the close of the 17th century, the manor and borough of Modbury,* to Nicholas Trist, esq. of Bowden, and from one of the co-heirs of that family the estate was purchased, in 1803, by Henry Legassick, esq.

The Modbury branch is now extinct.

II. ARTHUR (Sir), of Dartington.

The second son,

SIR ARTHUR CHAMPERNOWNE, living temp. HENRY VIII. exchanged, early in the reign of ELIZABETH, the lordship of Polsloe, for that of DARTINGTON, in the county of Devon, and seated himself there, where his descendants have ever since remained. He m. Mary, daughter of Henry Norreys, father of Henry, Baron Norreys, of Rycote, and widow of Sir George Carew, by whom he had a son and daughter, viz.

GAWEN, his heir.

* Tradition speaks highly of the splendour of this mansion, and of the magnificent manner in which the Champernounes lived, and particularly of their keeping a very fine band of singers and musicians, which band, if report may be credited, was the occasion of the family's ruin: "for that Mr. Champernoune, taking it on the Thames, in the time of Queen ELIZABETH, her majesty was so delighted with the music, that she requested a loan of it for a month; to which Mr. Champernoune, aware of the improbability of its ever returning, would not consent; saying, 'that he hoped her majesty would allow him to keep his fancy.' The queen was so highly exasperated at this refusal, that she found some pretence to sue him at law, and ruin him, by obliging him, in the course of the proceedings, to sell no fewer than eighteen manors."

This anecdote, at least the circumstance of the sale of the eighteen manors, about the above period, is in a great degree confirmed by the title deeds of some lands in and about Modbury; and from these it likewise appears that the possessions of the family at the close of the seventeenth century, were comparatively inconsiderable; and that soon afterwards nearly all of them were alienated. Beauties of England and Wales.

Elizabeth, m. in 1576, Sir Edward Seymour, bart. and had issue,

1. SIR EDWARD SEYMOUR, bart. ancestor of the Duke of Somerset, and of the Marquess of Hertford.

2. John Seymour, d. s. p.

3. Richard Seymour.

1. Bridget Seymour, m. to John Bruen, esq.

2. Mary Seymour, m. to Sir George Farewell.

3. Elizabeth Seymour, m. to George Cary, esq. of Cockington, (see page 35.)

4. Amy Seymour, m. to Edmund Parker.

Sir Arthur was s. at his decease by his son,

GAWEN CHAMPERNOWNE, esq. of Dartington, in Devon, who wedded the Lady Gabrielle, daughter of the Count Montgomerie, in France, and left (with several daughters, one of whom m. Richard Hillersdon, of Membland, and another, Ursula, Sir Gerard Sams, of Essex,) a son,

ARTHUR CHAMPERNOWNE, esq. of Dartington, living in 1620. This gentleman married Bridget, daughter of Thomas Fulford, esq. of Fulford, in Devon, and was succeeded by his son,

ARTHUR CHAMPERNOWNE, esq. of Dartington, living in 1678, who m. Margaret, daughter and heiress of Sir Edmund Fowel, of Fowelscombe, Devonshire, and had issue,

I. RICHARD, his heir.

Mr. Cooke, a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the West Riding of Yorkshire, succeeded to the estates upon the demise of his father, 8th November, 1820, and served the office of sheriff for Flintshire in 1824.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the ancient family of COOKE,* of Wheatley.

SIR HENRY COOKE, second baronet, married Diana, sister of Charles Butler, esq. of

* "The Cookes," says a writer in the Gentleman's Magazine, "have been known in this country since the reign of HENRY IV. Sir Anthony Cooke was tutor to EDWARD VI. and his daughter Anne, married Sir Nicholas Bacon, keeper of the great seal; William Cooke was successor of York Cathedral, in 1496; and John Cooke, dean of York, in 1452, from whom descended John Cooke, esq. of Dublin, who m. the Hon. Letitia Caulfeild; and from him also Thomas Cooke, esq. of London, whose eldest daughter, Elizabeth, married Sir Josiah Childe, bart. From the above mentioned dean of York, descended the Cookes, of Carlow, Ireland: Anne, the daughter of Thomas Cooke, esq. of Painstown, in Carlowshire, married in 1750, Thomas Browne, Viscount Kenmare. The uncle of this viscountess married about 1740, Miss Cassan, sister of Mrs. Moore, of More Hall, and Mrs. Seymour, of Seymour Lodge, both in the Queen's County. The COOKES, of Kent and Devonshire, proceed from the same stock, and also those of WHEATLEY HALL, Yorkshire."

Coats, in the county of Lincoln, and had three sons and two daughters, viz.

- I. GEORGE (Sir), third baronet, ancestor of the present SIR WILLIAM-BRYAN COOKE, eighth baronet of Wheatley Hall.
- II. HENRY, of whom presently.
- III. Anthony, who died without issue.
- I. Sarah, died young.
- II. Catherine, m. to Gervase Eyre, esq. of Rampton, Notts, M.P. for thatshire.

The second son,

HENRY COOKE, esq. purchased from the family of Adams, the lands of Owston, in the county of York, and there seated himself. He m. Ann, daughter and co-heir of the Rev. Ralph Eaton, rector of Darfield, and had issue,

ROBERT, his heir.

Thomas, colonel for CHARLES I. and constable of Hawarden Castle, in 1643, m. Dorothy, daughter of Robert Morgan, esq. of Golden Grove, (see page 163.)

Robert Davies married secondly, Elizabeth, daughter of George Lowther, esq. and relict of John Heymes, esq. by whom he had three sons, Luke, Mark, and Matthew, and one daughter, Katherine, the wife of Harry Lloyd, of Herseeth. Mr. Davies was s. by his eldest son, ROBERT DAVIES, esq. of Gwasanau, who served the office of sheriff for Flintshire. He m. Anne, daughter of John Heymes, esq. by Elizabeth Lowther, his wife, and dying before 1635, left a son and successor,

ROBERT DAVIES, esq. of Gwasanau, b. in 1618, who was placed under the joint guardianship of his uncle, Colonel Thomas Davies, and Sir Peter Mutton. He was high sheriff for the county of Flint, in 1644-5-6, and 1660, and a release granted to him by Oliver Cromwell, dated 1658, is still preserved. This gentleman, a staunch cavalier, garrisoned the old mansion of Gwasanau, during the civil wars, and defended it until 1645, when Sir William Brereton, the parliamentary general, compelled it to surrender. At the restoration, his name appears among those deemed qualified for the knighthood of the Royal Oak, "he having an estate of £2000 per annum."* Mr. Davies m. in the parish church of Gresford, 29th July, 1631, Ann, daughter and heiress of Sir Peter Mutton, knt. of Llannerech, chief justice for North Wales, and had issue,

2. Dorothy Allanson.

- i. Mary, who m. Robert Hughes, esq. of Halkin Hall, and had a son, Robert Hughes, esq. colonel of the Flintshire militia, who died s. p. in 1803.

The elder son,

ROBERT DAVIES, esq. of Gwysaney and Llanerch, celebrated for his hospitality, is thus spoken of by YORKE in his Royal Tribes: "Almost daily he had a led horse taken with him to St. Asaph, ready saddled, to bring home to Llanerch any friend that might not be so immediately ready to start with him. The old gardens at Llanerch are within my memory, they were made by Mutton Davies, in the foreign taste, with images and water tricks. Among the rest, you were led to a sun dial, which as you approached spouted in your face, on it was written :

Alas ! my friend, time soon will overtake you,
And if you do not cry, by G—d, I'll make you."

Mr. Davies wedded Letitia, daughter of Broughton Whitehall, esq. and had issue,
JOHN, his heir.

LETITIA, who obtained, as her share of her brother's property, the estate of LLANNERCH, in Denbigshire. She m. Daniel Leo, esq. but dying without issue, devised her possessions to her cousin.

Lineage.

For this gentleman's descent and arms, refer to ADDERLEY, of HAMS HALL, Mr. Adderley, of Barlaston and Coton, being uncle of the present CHARLES-BOWYER ADDERLEY, esq. of Hams Hall.

Estates—Coton Hall, in the county of Stafford, possessed since 1500; Thorpe, in the county of Derby; Barlaston Hall, in Staffordshire, acquired by the present possessor in marriage with Rosamond Mills. The Mills' family had obtained that estate 25th May, 1742, by the marriage of Thomas Mills, esq. with Hester, daughter and co-heiress of Samuel Bagnall, esq. whose ancestors possessed the property in the fourteenth century.

Seats—Barlaston and Coton Hall, Staffordshire.

* * The ancient hall at Coton was of plaster and timber, with large gable ends, porch, and Elizabethian windows, in a pane of which was cut the name of Prince Rupert, who probably was there during the civil wars. This curious old fabric being much decayed, was long since pulled down, and the present mansion erected on its site. "Some years ago, (we quote from Shaw's Staffordshire.) when Messrs. Adderley and Scott lived here together as hospitable bachelors, they pitched a tent upon the fine round hill above Coton, whence a flag used to fly when they were at home, as a signal to their friends, of which the following lines from Needwood Forest are descriptive :

"Mark upon yon round ascent,
The social flag and open tent,
Where life's smooth paths with sweets are strown,
And mirth makes every hour its own."

MITFORD, OF MITFORD CASTLE.

MITFORD, BERTRAM, esq. of Mitford Castle, in the county of Northumberland, b. in 1777, m. 9th March, 1829, Frances, eldest daughter of the late Captain H. Mitford, R.N. of Exbury, Hants. Mr. Mitford succeeded his father in May, 1806.

Lineage.

At the time of the Conquest, the CASTLE OF MITFORD, in Northumberland, was held by SIR JOHN DE MITFORD, whose only daughter and heiress, SIBELLA MITFORD, was given in marriage by the CONQUEROR to Sir Bertram, a Norman knight, and from this union sprang the old baronial house of BERTRAM of Mitford; the head of which, ROGER BERTRAM, was summoned to parliament by HENRY III. in 1264.*

From the brother of Sir John de Mitford, MATTHEW MITFORD, descended another

SIR JOHN DE MITFORD, knt. who had, by deed of feoffment, a grant to himself and his heirs male from David de Strabolgi, thirteenth Earl of Athol, dated at Newton Hall, 20th May, 1369, of all his lands and tenements in the ville of Molesdon, to be holden of the grantor and his descendants

* This BARONY fell into ABEYANCE on the decease of the first lord's grand-daughter, AGNES BERTRAM, between the descendants of his four daughters (as it still continues), viz.

- i. AGNES, m. to Thomas Fitz William, Lord of Elmeley and Sprotborough, and had a son,

WILLIAM FITZ WILLIAM, who was s. by his son,

WILLIAM FITZ WILLIAM, living at the decease of his cousin, AGNES, and one of the co-heirs.

- ii. ISABEL, m. to — Darcy, and was mother of

NORMAN DARCY, who was s. by his son, by the annual payment of sixpence. This Sir John Mitford, who was a person of considerable note, appears to have been employed in many important treaties and embassies with Scotland; and the Harl. MSS. state that he was keeper of the seal to Edward, Duke of York, for the liberty of Tindale, in 1386. He represented the county of Northumberland in parliament frequently in the reigns of EDWARD III. RICHARD II. and HENRY IV. and served the office of sheriff. He d. in the 10th of the last king, leaving issue,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Alexander, living in 1367, from whom the Mitfords of Ponteland.

Margaret, m. to Sir John Delaval.

Alice, m. to John, son of Matthew Whitfield, of Whitfield.

The elder son,

WILLIAM DE MITFORD, who was above forty years of age when the death of his father placed him at the head of the family, was made a commissioner of array against Scotland in 1410, and appointed sheriff of Northumberland in 1415. He was member in parliament for the county, the 2nd and 9th of HENRY V. He m. Margaret, daughter of Sir Robert Lisle, of Felton, and dying in 1423, possessed in fee tail, according to the inquisit. post mortem, of the manor of Molesden, &c. was s. by his son,

JOHN DE MITFORD, of Mitford, b. in 1402. This gentleman granted tenements in Newcastle to the church of St. Nicholas, and in 1425 gave lands in Eachwick to the monks

PHILIP DARCY, living at the decease of his cousin, AGNES, and one of the co-heirs to the barony.

- iii. CHRISTIAN, m. to — Penulbury, and had a son,

ELIAS DE PENULBURY, living at the decease of his cousin, AGNES, and one of the co-heirs to the barony.

- iv. ADA, m. to — de Vere, and had a daughter,

ISABEL, whose son,

GILBERT DE ACTON, was living at the decease of his cousin, and one of the co-heirs to the barony.

of Newminster. He m. Constance, daughter of Sir Robert Ogle, and was s. at his decease, in 1437, by his son,

JOHN MITFORD, of Mitford and Molesden, father of

BERTRAM MITFORD, of Mitford, living in the 8th of HENRY VII. who released lands in Eachwick to the abbot and convent of Newminster. He wedded the daughter of L'Isle, of Felton, and had, with two daughters, Margaret, wife of George Parkinson, and Joan, of — Ayton, a son and successor, GAWEN MITFORD, of Mitford, whose name occurs in a list of gentlemen of the Middle Marches, anno 1550. He m. the sister of Thomas Forster, of Etherstone, and was s. at his decease, about the year 1550, by his son,

CUTHBERT MITFORD, of Mitford, who, with Anthony Mitford, of Ponteland, was commissioner, in 1552, for inclosure on the Middle Marches; and had two years previously a grant from John Waddington of a tenement and lands in Mitford, which had previously belonged to the abbey of Newminster, and hence denominated "Our Lady's lands." He m. first, Anne Wallis, of Akeld, and secondly, Isabel Fenwick; by the former he had issue,

ROBERT, his heir.

Isabel, m. to Cuthbert Ogle, of Choppington.

Jane, m. to Thomas Hudspeth, of Corbridge.

Margaret, m. to Thomas Pye, of Newminster Abbey.

He d. about the year 1594, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT MITFORD, of Mitford, aged seventy-four in 1618. The Harleian Collections * call this gentleman "Nothus Natus," and make † "Anne Wallis, of Akeld," mother of himself and his three sisters: but "this statement," says Hodson, in his able History of Northumberland, "was returned to the Herald's College by Anthony Mitford, of Ponteland, and signed only by himself. His objects were to represent Robert, son of Cuthbert, as illegitimate, and to obtain his estate, in both which he failed." Sir Isaac Heard took much pains to investigate the matter, and discovered that the return was altered in the next visitation, and that Robert Mitford's legitimacy was not only established by satisfactory proof, but that his arms were certified without a difference. Robert Mitford espoused Jane, daughter of John Mitford, of Seighill, and had issue,

I. CUTHBERT, his heir, styled in his grandfather's will "my son Robert's son." This gentleman m. Mary, ‡ daughter and co-heir of Christopher Wharton, esq. of Offerton, in Durham, by whom he left at his decease, in the lifetime of his father, a son, ROBERT, who succeeded his grandfather.

II. John.

III. William, of Clare Hall, Cambridge, in holy orders, rector of Kirby Overcar.

IV. Robert, living in 1615, m. a daughter of Daniel Collingwood, of Branton.

I. Barbara, m. to George Fenwick, of Langshaws.

II. Eleanor, m. to Daniel Collingwood, of Branton.

III. Margaret, m. to Nicholas Heron, of Pigdon.

IV. Isabel, m. to Richard Osmotherley. This Robert, who died in December, 1598, was presented at the Archdeacon's Visitation "for sufferinge divers p'sons to eate, drinke, and play att cardes in time of eaveninge praier." He was s. by his grandson,

ROBERT MITFORD, esq. b. in 1612, who acquired by grant from King CHARLES II. the castle and manor of Mitford. He m. Philadelphia, third daughter of Humphrey Wharton, esq. of Gillingwood, in the county of York, and had issue,

I. HUMPHREY, his heir.

II. Cuthbert, senior fellow of Caius College, Cambridge, rector of Ingram in 1662, d. s. p.

III. John, of London, from whom spring the MITFORDS OF EXBURY (see that family).

IV. Edward, M. D. who died issueless, and was interred at Mitford, 2nd January, 1672.

V. William, M. A. in holy orders, presented to the rectory of Elsdon, 13th March, 1674. He married and had issue.

VI. Michael, died young.

I. Barbara, m. to George Reveley, esq. of Newton Underwood.

II. Mary, m. to George Tunstall, M. D.

III. Anne, m. to Patrick Crow, esq. of Roseden and Eshington.

IV. Eleanor, m. to Thomas Bewicke, esq. of Close House, Northumberland.

V. Elizabeth, m. to — Coulson, esq. of Jesmond.

Mr. Mitford was s. at his decease in 1674, aged sixty-four, by his eldest son,

Besides the fame acquired by the most animated delineations of rural life in the English language, Miss Mitford enjoys high reputation as a dramatic writer.

MITFORD, OF EXBURY.

MITFORD, HENRY-REVELEY, esq. of Exbury House, in the county of Hants, and of Newton Park, Northumberland, b. 21st June, 1804, m. 28th February, 1828, the Lady Georgina-Jemima Ashburnham, third daughter of George, late Earl of Ashburnham, and has surviving issue,

PERCY, }
Henry, } twins.

Mr. Mitford inherited the estates at the decease of his grandfather, WILLIAM MITFORD, the historian of Greece, on the 8th February, 1827. He is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant in Hampshire.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the family of MITFORD, of MITFORD CASTLE.

JOHN MITFORD, of London, merchant, third son of Robert Mitford, esq. of Mitford Castle, by Philadelphia, his wife, daughter of Humphrey Wharton, esq. of Gillingwood, espoused Sarah, daughter and co-heiress of Henry Powell, of London, and by her, who d. in 1739, had issue,

Philadelphia, m. to Sir George Mertins, knt. alderman and lord mayor of London, and dying 24th April, 1722, was buried in the cloisters of Christ Church Hospital.

Barbara.

He d. in 1720, was interred at Bow, and succeeded by his eldest son,

WILLIAM MITFORD, esq. who was of Newton, and of Gilbury House, in Hampshire. This gentleman m. Margaret, dau. of Robert Edwards, esq. of Wingfield, in the county of Berks, and only sister and heir of William Edwards, esq. and had three sons, namely,

i. JOHN, his successor.

ii. Robert, who d. s. p. and was buried first at Allhallows the Great, Thames Street, London, and afterwards at Wingfield. Administration granted to his father, 29th June, 1737.

iii. William, of Lovell's Hill and Maules, in Berkshire.

Mr. Mitford died in 1747, and was interred at Boldre, in Hampshire. His will bears date 7th January, 1745, and was proved in February, 1747. He was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN MITFORD, esq. of Lincoln's Inn, barrister-at-law, of Newton House, and of Exbury, in the county of Hants, who wedded, at St. George the Martyr, in the county of Middlesex, 13th September, 1740, Philadelphia, daughter of Willey Reveley, esq. of Newton Underwood, and Throphill, in Northumberland, and of Newby Wiske, Yorkshire, by whom (who became sole heir of her brothers, see family of REVELEY, and died in 1797.) he had issue,

i. WILLIAM, his heir.

ii. JOHN, barrister-at-law, who, after filling the offices of solicitor and attorney-general in England, was constituted LORD CHANCELLOR OF IRELAND, and raised to the peerage as BARON REDESDALE, see BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.

i. Mary, d. at Bath, 23rd April, 1800.

ii. Frances, d. at Bath.

iii. Philadelphia.

Mr. Mitford died in 1761, was buried at Boldre on the 23rd May, in that year, and s. by his elder son,

WILLIAM MITFORD, esq. of Exbury, Hants, of Newton Park, in Northumberland, and of Newby Wiske, in the county of York, b. 10th February, 1744. Of this eminent scholar, the accomplished historian of Greece, his brother, Lord Redesdale, thus speaks, in a memoir prefixed to the last edition of his celebrated history. "Early impressions often strongly influence the mind in more advanced age; and it appears from his own acknowledgment, that the author of the History of Greece had, when a schoolboy, taken a fancy to the Greek in preference to the Latin language, and to the Grecian character in preference to the Roman; but rather as the character was offered to his youthful imagination in other works than those of the most authoritative Greek historians; in Plutarch rather than in Thucydides and Xenophon. Destined originally for the bar, he became a gentleman commoner of Oxford, and attended whilst there Professor Blackstone's celebrated lectures on the laws of England, but inheriting an ample fortune, and finding the reading required to qualify him for practice in the courts of justice distasteful, he resolved to abandon forensic pursuits. Marrying at two-and-twenty, and his family increasing, he retired to his paternal property at Exbury, in Hampshire, adjoining the New Forest, and then one of the most sequestered spots within a hundred miles of London. At two-and-thirty, the loss of an amiable wife interrupted all his purposes at home. A violent illness followed, and on his recovery from danger in October, 1776, he set out in a state of imperfect convalescence for the continent, proposing to spend the winter at Nice. Before he had left England he had become acquainted with two young Frenchmen of high character among the literati of Paris; M. de Meusnier, then about eight-and-twenty, and afterwards much distinguished, and M. de Villoison, about the same age, who had acquired reputation as a Greek scholar. Through the latter he was introduced to the Baron de St. Croix, a young officer in the French service, author of a work of great repute on the Historians of Alexander. The enthusiasm of the Baron de Croix and M. de Villoison for the Greek language and literature, tended to increase similar feelings in Mitford's mind, and engaged him more ardently to pursue his studies, in which he had been principally his own instructor. During his retirement at Exbury, Mr. Mitford held the commission of captain in the South Hampshire militia, of which the author of the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire was major. Their conversation in those hours of leisure which the militia service afforded, frequently turned on ancient history, and Mr. Gibbon finding the eagerness of his friend in the pursuit of Grecian literature, urged him to undertake the History of Greece. These circumstances led to the compilation and publication of the first volume; and its favourable reception induced him to proceed. It was his intention to have continued his work to that period when conquest reduced Greece to the condition of a Roman province, but increasing age and failure of sight compelled him to abandon the further pursuit of what had been during many years his favorite study and amusement."

Mr. Mitford published also, in one octavo volume, a Treatise on the Public, Mystical, and Philosophical Religions of Ancient Greece, which in some degree may be considered a supplement to the history. He did not confine his talents, however, to the cultivation of letters. He was a member of parliament (member from 1796 to 1806 for Beeralston, from 1812 to 1818 for New Romney), an active magistrate, verdurer of the New Forest, and eventually, colonel of the South Hampshire militia.

He m. on the 18th May, 1766, at Great Faringdon, Frances, daughter of James Molloy, esq. of Dublin, by Anne, his wife, daughter of Henry Pye, esq. of Farringdon (see vol. i. page 352), and had issue,

i. William, b. 26th May, 1776, died unm. in the lifetime of his father, 29th December, 1790.

ii. HENRY, captain R. N. b. 12th September, 1769, lost at sea in the York man-of-war, in the lifetime of his father. Captain Mitford had married first, in 1796, Louisa, daughter of Anthony Wyke, esq. attorney-general at Montserrat, and had a son, William-Reveley, who died an infant, and two daughters, FRANCES, m. to Bertram Mitford, esq. of Mitford Castle.

Louisa, d. unm. aged twenty-seven. He wedded secondly, in 1803, Mary, daughter of the Hon. David Anstruther, and by her left an only child, HENRY-REVELEY, who succeeded to the estates at the decease of his grandfather.

iii. John.

iv. Bertram, of the Inner Temple, a commissioner of bankrupts in Ireland, m. 24th May, 1806, Frances, second daughter of John Vernon, esq. of Clontarfe Castle, in the county of Dublin.

v. Charles, d. young.

i. Frances, d. unm. 20th August, 1780. Colonel Mitford died at Exbury, on the 8th February, 1827, aged eighty-four, and was s. by his grandson, the present HENRY-REVELEY MITFORD, esq. of Exbury House.

Family of Reveley.

This family came, it is presumed, from REVELEY, a ville and manor in the parish of Ingram, and county of Northumberland. From

THOMAS REVELEY, living about the middle of the fifteenth century, who married Agnes, daughter of Thomas Bullock, of Bele, born in 1403, lineally descended

GEORGE REVELEY, to whom Sir Edward Grey granted, in 1518, the mill of Ancroft. This George m. the daughter and co-heir of Henry Swynhow, of Swynhow, and had, with a daughter, the wife of — Burrell, three sons, viz.

1. EDWARD, whose will bears date 12th October, 1569. He wedded the daughter of Redman, of Irebye, and left a son and successor,

WILLIAM REVELEY, who m. Margaret, daughter of George Ord, esq. of Newbiggin, and by her, who wedded secondly, James Swinhoe, esq. left at his decease in 1573, a son and successor,

GEORGE REVELEY, esq. of Ancroft, who purchased, in 1612, Newton Underwood and Throphill, in Northumberland, from William, Lord Eure. This gentleman wedded Frances, daughter of Anthony Bulmer, esq. of Thursdale, and sister of Sir Bertram Bulmer, and dying in 1628, left (with three daughters, Margaret, wife of Lieutenant-colonel Salvin, fourth son of Gerard Salvin, esq. of Croxdale (see vol. i. page 535) Dionysia, m. to — Gibson, esq.; and Jane, the wife of Edward Orme, esq.) a son and heir, BERTRAM REVELEY, esq. b. at Elmeden in 1600, who m. Rosamond, daughter of Michael Wentworth, esq. of Woolley, in Yorkshire, by whom (who wedded secondly, — Widdrington,) he left at his decease, in 1622, an infant son,

WILLIAM REVELEY, esq. b. in 1621, who died, at York, s. p. of wounds received in the battle of Naseby in 1645. The estates of Newton and Throphill passed, on this event, under an entail to the Tweedmouth branch of the family.

II. RALPH.

III. Thomas, who died issueless.
The second son,

RALPH REVELEY, espoused the daughter of Mr. Alderman Morton, of Berwick, and had two sons, Edward and Rowland; the younger mentioned in the will of Edward Reveley in 1569. The elder,

EDWARD REVELEY, esq. of Tweedmouth, m. Eleanor, daughter of George Orde, esq. of Longridge, in Durham, and had, with two daughters, —, wife of — Clavering, and —, m. to — Carr, two sons, William, who died in his lifetime, and his successor,

WALKER, OF BLYTHE HALL.

WALKER, HENRY, esq. of Blythe Hall, in Notts, and of Clifton House, near Rotheram, in the county of York, b. 3rd February, 1785, m. in September, 1806, Elizabeth, only daughter of Edward Abney, esq. of Measham Hall, in Leicestershire (see vol. i. p. 374), and has issue, Arthur-Abney, b. in April, 1820.

Caroline-Elizabeth, m. to Ashton Case, esq. only son of Thomas Case, esq. of Summer Hill, in the county of Lancaster.

Emily.

Mr. Walker succeeded his father in 1815. He is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant in Nottinghamshire, and has served the office of sheriff for that county.

Lineage.

"In the year 1746," says HUNTER, in his elaborate History of Doncaster, "the three brothers, SAMUEL, AARON, and JONATHAN WALKER, from the neighbouring parish of Ecclesfield, established at Rotheram, a work for the manufacture of articles of cast iron, which finally, in the amount of the capital employed, and the extent of the ground covered by the mills, furnaces, and other apparatus belonging to it eclipsed all the puny efforts of past commercial enterprise in this part of the kingdom, and for many years rivalled, if it did not surpass all similar undertakings in other parts of the kingdom. The seat of the work was chosen with that judgment which distinguished all the proceedings of these remarkable men, in a situation which allowed of indefinite extension, near to the supply of coal and mineral, and at a short distance from the navigable stream, with which a water communication was opened. The Holmes, which had previously been what the name implies, flat meadows near the water, became covered with an active and busy population, and Masborough, from a rural village, became one of the centres of the great manufactures of England; a new town arose, or rather a new suburb to the town; and when industry, ability, attention, and integrity, had begun to produce their natural effects, the neighbourhood of Rotherham became adorned with villas surrounded with pleasure grounds, exceeding in taste and beauty any thing of the kind which Rotherham before had witnessed. There is however a natural restlessness in commerce. The words of Bishop Newton speaking of the prophecies concerning Tyre, should be kept in mind by every commercial city, and commercial nation. 'Trade is a fluctuating thing; it passed from Tyre to Alexandria; from Alexandria to Venice; from Venice to Antwerp; from Antwerp to Amsterdam and London.' The number of persons employed in these works is not equal to what it was; many of the furnaces have been allowed to cool; the families of the original proprietors have for the most part retired to a distance; and the whole establishment was not long ago offered to public sale. A century hence Masborough may have again become a rural village; and the Holmes, relapsed into pasturage, exhibit no evidence that there was cast most of the canon used in the wars of King GEORGE III. and the iron frame of the great bridges which span the Thames, at London, and the Wear, at Sunderland."

his two brothers, four daughters, who all eventually obtained station and fortune by his great industry, and powerful abilities. At the age of thirty, he removed to Masborough, and thenceforward his career was one uninterrupted course of commercial prosperity. He died on the 12th May, 1782, and was interred in the cemetery which he had erected for his family, at Masborough, leaving by his wife, who survived him, (with three daughters) four sons, viz.

SAMUEL, father of

CRESSWELL BAKER, OF CRESSWELL.

BAKER-CRESSWELL, ADDISON-JOHN, esq. of Cresswell, in the county of Northumberland, m. Elizabeth-Mary, daughter of Gilfrid Lawson Reed, esq. of Campion Hill, and cousin and heir of John Baker, esq. of Hinton, of Gloucestershire, and of Grosvenor-street, London, by whom he has issue, OSWIN-ADDISON, b. 10th April, 1819.

Francis-John, b. 20th February, 1822, and d. 20th March, 1827.

William-Gilfrid, b. 21st March, 1825.

Henry-Robert, b. 22nd August, 1829.

Anna-Fanny.

This gentleman, whose patronymic is CRESSWELL, assumed, upon his wife's succeeding to the property of her cousin, John Baker, esq. that additional surname. Mr. Cresswell Baker served the office of high sheriff for the county of Northumberland in 1821.

Lineage.

This family has been seated from an early era in the north of England. Robert de Cresswell having been (according to a manuscript taken from old writings) in possession of the estate so far back as the reign of RICHARD I.

SIR ROBERT DE CRESSWELL, knt. living in 1240, 1246, 1249, and 1256, was father of

SIMON DE CRESSWELL, witness to a convention between Bertram of Bothal and the rector thereof in 1261. He was succeeded by his son,

ROGER DE CRESSWELL, who, temp. EDWARD I. entered upon the tenements enjoyed by his father and grandfather. He was s. by

ROBERT DE CRESSWELL, living in 1327 and 1358, in which latter year he had restitution of certain of his lands in Cresswell. To this Robert succeeded his son, ALEXANDER DE CRESSWELL, who was witness to a deed in 1376, and a juror in the reigns of EDWARD III. and RICHARD II. He was father of

JOHN CRESSWELL, whose redemption from captivity in Scotland the king ordered to be procured the 6th of December, 1380. The son and heir of this John,

GEORGE CRESSWELL, of Cresswell, living in the time of HENRY VI. married and had two sons, viz.

1. ROBERT, his heir.
2. Percival, who m. the daughter of Hassall, of Hanklow, in Cheshire, and had

George, of Nunkilling, in Holder-nesse, who wedded, first, Margaret, daughter of John Donnington, of Escrike, and had a son, Ralph, aged twenty at the visitation of Yorkshire in 1584. He espoused, secondly, Anne, daughter of William Swinhow, and had another son, John, and two daughters, Catherine and Dorothy.

Thomas, m. and had two sons.

Richard, m. and had two children.

Elizabeth.

The elder son,

ROBERT CRESSWELL, of Cresswell, espoused Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas,* eldest son of George, third Lord Lumley, and left a son and successor,

OSWIN or OSWALD CRESSWELL, of Cresswell, who married three wives; by the first he appears to have had no issue; by the second, Janet Errington, he had a daughter, Margery, m. to Mr. Newton; and by the

* This THOMAS LUMLEY died before his father, leaving by his wife, Elizabeth Plantagenet, natural daughter of King EDWARD IV. by Lady Elizabeth Lucy, RICHARD, who s. his grandfather, as fourth baron.

Anne, m. to Ralph, Lord Ogle.

Sybil, m. to William Hilton.

ELIZABETH, m. to Robert Cresswell. Burke's Extinct Peerage.

third, Dorothy, daughter of Sir Ralph Hedworth, of Harraton, three sons, viz.

I. JOHN.

II. Cuthbert, who m. according to his brother Robert's will, a lady named Margaret, and had six children. This is probably the Cuthbert Cresswell who was supervisor of coal mines for Queen ELIZABETH. He had a son in 1609.

III. Robert, of Ellington, who was deputy to R. Fenwick, Queen ELIZABETH's receiver for Wylam and Ellington. His will bears date in 1610, and mentions his nephew, John, and two sisters.

Oswin or Oswald Cresswell, who was living 10th ELIZABETH, was succeeded by his eldest son,

JOHN CRESSWELL, of Cresswell, who died 29th October, 1598, and was found, by inquisition dated 1603, to have had capital messuage and certain lands in Cresswell, with a fishery in the sea, holden of the king by the service of three parts of a knight's fee. He had married a lady named Elizabeth, but of what family is not recorded, by whom (who appears to have wedded, secondly, Luke Errington,) he had two daughters, Jane and Isabella, both mentioned in the wills of their father and uncle Robert, and a son and successor,

JOHN CRESSWELL, esq. of Cresswell, aged eleven years, seven months, and ten days, when the inquest was taken after his father's demise. He married and left, with other issue, a son,

WILLIAM CRESSWELL, esq. baptized in 1635, who purchased from his brothers Ephraim and Oswald their right in Cresswell. He bought also, in 1678, an estate in Long Framlington. Mr. Cresswell married and had issue,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Robert, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, who had license to marry Ann Tully, widow, 27th August, 1700.

Henry, of Cresswell, m. 6th December, 1700, Miss Jane Wilkinson.

Jane, m. in 1688, to Edward Manners, esq. of Acton.

William Cresswell died before 19th September, 1698, and was succeeded by his son,

WILLIAM CRESSWELL, esq. of Cresswell, who appears by his will, dated 18th May, 1749, to have possessed, at that time, estates at Cresswell, Boghall, Long Framlington, Morpeth, Potling, and Ellington. He was succeeded by his son,

WILLIAM CRESSWELL, esq. of Woodhorn Demesne, and afterwards of Cresswell, styled in 1748, "William Cresswell, junior, of Redhouse." This gentleman wedded

Grace, daughter of Francis Forster, esq. of Low Buston, and had issue,

I. JOHN, his heir.

1. Catherine, m. to William Johnson, esq. of Woodhorn.

II. Dorothy, d. unm.

III. Grace, d. unm.

IV. Elizabeth, m. 1767, to John Addison, esq. of Whitby and Appleton, in Yorkshire. Mrs. Addison died the 1st December, 1807, and was buried at Woodhorn, where there is a monument to her memory. She bequeathed to her nephew, ADDISON-JOHN CRESSWELL (NOW BAKER), esq. one third part of Bewick, which she had purchased for £16,000.

V. Lilia, m. to the Rev. Robert Sanderson, and had issue, one son, Captain Sanderson, of the royal navy, and two daughters, Maria Sanderson, m. to Sir William Leeds, bart. of Croxton Park, and Anne Sanderson, m. to William Burrell, esq. of Alnwick.

VI. Juliana, who d. in 1829, aged ninety-two.

VII. Bridget, m. in 1765, to Sir Harry Parker, bart. of Melford Hall, elder son of Admiral Sir Hyde Parker, and had issue, SIR WILLIAM PARKER, successor to his father as seventh baronet. He d. s. p. 1830.

SIR HYDE PARKER, the present baronet.

Louisa Parker, m. to George Robert Eyres.

VIII. Alice, m. first, to the Rev. George Smalridge, rector of Bothal, and secondly, to the Rev. Edward Otter.

Mr. Cresswell, who made additions to the old tower at Cresswell, was succeeded at his decease by his son,

JOHN CRESSWELL, esq. of Cresswell, who sold his estate at Long Framlington. This gentleman wedded Catherine, daughter of John Dyer, esq. of Aberglassyn, in Wales, and dying 10th January, 1781, left two twin daughters, his co-heirs, viz.

FRANCES - DOROTHEA, of whom presently.

CATHERINE - GRACE, who m. Birnie Brown, esq. and had issue,

1. James Brown.

2. Birnie Brown.

3. Walter Brown.

4. William Brown.

1. Elizabeth-Addison Brown, m. to Robert Terranean, esq. of the East India Company's civil service.

2. Alicia Brown.

3. Arminia Brown.

The elder daughter and co-heir,

FRANCES-DOROTHEA CRESSWELL, espoused FRANCIS EASTERBY, esq. of Blackheath, who purchased the other co-heir's moiety of CRESSWELL, assumed the surname of CRESSWELL, and had issue,

- i. JOHN - ADDISON, the present Mr. CRESSWELL-BAKER, of Cresswell.
- ii. Francis, who m. Rachael, daughter of William Frye, esq. and has issue.

ASKEW, OF REDHEUGH.

ASKEW, ADAM, esq. of Redheugh, in the county of Durham, sheriff of the palatine by patent, dated in 1809.

Mr. Askew m. first, Amy, daughter of Robert Carey, esq. of London, merchant, and becoming a widower, 4th January, 1831, he espoused, secondly, Elizabeth, youngest daughter of the late Rev. Sir Richard Rycroft, bart. of Everlands, in Kent. He succeeded his father in 1774.

Lineage.

In the time of King JOHN, THINSTON DE Bosco had feoffment from the Boyvills, Lords of Kirksanton, of a tract there called ACKSHEUGH, (or 'hilly land covered with oaks') within the lordship of Millum, and county of Cumberland, whence his descendants, in conformity with the usage of those early periods, assumed their surname.

For many generations subsequently the family of ASKEW resided at Graymanes, in the parish of Moncaster, in Cumberland. In the reign of HENRY VIII. (the 33rd year) one of its members,

SIR HUGH ASKEW, knt. obtained by grant from the crown, the lands of Seaton, in the lordship of Millum, then valued at £500 per annum, which had been a benedictine nunnery. Of this person, who was attached to the court of the Bluff monarch, the following amusing story is told. He had been immediately in the train of Queen KATHARINE, and held the post of yeoman of her grace's cellar, but upon the queen's divorce lost the situation, and became destitute. "He applied himself thereupon for help to the Lord Chamberlain, for some place or other in the king's service. The Lord Chamberlain knew him well, because he had helped him to a cup of the best, but told him that he had no place for him, save that of charcoal carrier. 'Well,' quoth Askew, 'help me in with one foot, and let me get the other in as I can.' And upon a great holiday, the king looking out at some sports, Askew got a courtier, a friend of his, to stand beside the king; and he got on his velvet cassock, with his gold chain and a basket of charcoal on his back, and marched in the king's sight with it. 'O!' says the king, 'now I like yonder fellow well, that disdains not to do his dirty office in his dainty clothes: what is he?" Says his friend, who stood by on purpose, "it is Mr. Askew, that was yeoman of the cellar to the late queen's majesty, and is now glad of this poor place, to keep in your majesty's service, which he will not forsake for all the world." The king says, "I had the best wine when he was in the cellar; he is a gallant wine taster, let him have his place again."

Askew was of the camp, however, as well as the cellar, and a most gallant soldier, too, for serving under the Duke of Somerset, in the Scottish war, we find him, soon after the accession of EDWARD VI. for his martial bearing and skill at the battle of Musselburgh, made a KNIGHT BANNERET under the royal banner, displayed in the camp at Roxburgh. Sir Hugh was sheriff of Cumberland, in the 1st EDWARD VI. and again in the 3rd ELIZABETH. He m. a daughter of Sir John Huddleston, of Millum Castle, and settled Seaton upon her. Her ladyship wedded, for her second husband, Mr. Pennington, Lord of Muncaster, by whom she had two sons, Joseph and William Pennington, upon whom she conferred Seaton.

Sir Hugh Askew died 2nd March, 1562, 5th ELIZABETH, and was s. by HUGH ASKEW, of Greymanes, in the county of Cumberland, by some authorities called Sir Hugh's son, but by others, and with more probability his nephew. This gentleman was father of

HENRY ASKEW, esq. of Greymanes, who died in 1621, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM ASKEW, esq. who sold the lands of Greymanes, and purchased an estate at Kirkby, in Lancashire. He was s. at his decease in 1641, by his son,

JOHN ASKEW, esq. of Kirkby. This gentleman's second son,

ANTHONY ASKEW, a physician, of Kendale, m. Anne, only daughter of Adam Storrs, esq. of Storrs Hall, in Lancashire, and was s. by his son,

ADAM ASKEW, M.D. of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, where he settled about the year 1725, and acquired extensive practice. He purchased in 1750, the lands in Ellington and Linton, forfeited by Lord Widdrington, in 1715, and after the decease of his father, was of Storrs Hall, Lancashire. He m. Anne, daughter and co-heir of Richard Crakenthrop,* esq. of Newbiggin, in Westmorland, (by Deborah, his wife, daughter and co-heir of Samuel Mottram, esq. of Thorp Hall), and had issue,

1. ANTHONY, his heir.

II. ADAM, M.A. rector of Plumland, in Cumberland, the perpetual advowson of which living, his father purchased in 1765, from the Duke of Portland. He inherited likewise from his father the estate of Middleton Hall, in the parish of Kirby Lonsdale, and county of Westmorland, bought by Doctor Askew. This reverend person died 23rd February, 1791.

URQUHART, OF MELDRUM.

URQUHART, JAMES, esq. of Meldrum, in the shire of Aberdeen, b. 11th March, 1759, m. 28th May, 1788, Miss H. Forbes, daughter of William Forbes, esq. of Skellater and Balbithan.*

This gentleman, who inherited the estates at the decease of his father, in 1793, succeeded, as sheriff of Banffshire, in 1784, and became, during the late war, a deputy-lieutenant, and colonel in the 4th regiment of local militia.

* The family of Skellater is of considerable antiquity, and originally possessed extensive estates. The late Marshal Forbes, commander-in-chief of the Forces in Portugal, was a direct descendant of the house of Skellater.

Lineage.

Divers authentic historians attest the antiquity and eminence of the great house of URQUHART. Abercrombie, in his "Marital achievements of Scotland," relates that an ancestor of the family wedded Castalda, daughter of BANCHE, "Shakespeare's Thane of Lochaber," and Lord Hales, in his annals, mentions that EDWARD I. during the interregnum, prior to the accession of John Baliol, to the crown, made out a list of sheriffs, (half of whom were English, and half Scotch), and that among the Scotch, appears the name of William Urquhart de Cromarty, heritable sheriff of Cromarty continued.

An ancestor of the family, Sir Thomas Urquhart, of Cromarty, composed and published a genealogy of the Urquharts, in which he traced their descent, by regular generations, from Adam, the first man, and displayed considerable ingenuity in narrating the characters and history of the numerous individuals during that long period. This extraordinary invention could not, certainly, be meant for truth, by any person in his senses; but it is singular that Dr. Kippis, in his Biographia Britannica, denies that there was any foundation for the particulars related of the wonderful Crichton, as Sir Thomas Urquhart, was his only historian; and that, considering the fabulous account he gave of his own family, no dependence could be placed on his veracity. The Urquharts of Cromarty have ever been acknowledged as chief of the name, and formerly possessed either in property or superiority, almost that whole county. In the time of ALEXANDER II. Galleroch Urchart is mentioned in a composition between Andrew, Bishop of Murray, "et dominum Olanum Ostiarium;" and in the reign of ROBERT BRUCE.

WILLIAM URCHARD, of Cromarty, was heritably sheriff of that shire. He m. first, Lillas, daughter of Hugh, Earl of Ross, and had a son and successor,

ADAM URCHARD, of Cromarty, who had a charter from William, Earl of Ross, of the lands of Inch Rory, in Ross-shire; the day after the feast of St. Michael, the Archangel, in 1338. There is also a charter from DAVID BRUCE, of the sheriffdom of Cromarty, to this Adam Urchard, dated 1st November, 1357. He m. Brigidia, daughter of Sir Patrick Fleming, of Biggar, ancestor of the Earls of Wigton, and had a son and successor, JOHN URCHARD, of Cromarty, living in 1368, who wedded Agnes, daughter of Sir Alexander Ramsey, ancestor of the Earls of Dalhousie, and had two sons, viz.

WILLIAM (Sir), his heir.

Thomas, appointed keeper and governor of the castle of Tarnaway, by a charter from Thomas, Earl of Murray, dated 1402. From him descend the Urquhards of Burdlyards.

The elder son,

SIR WILLIAM URQUHART, of Cromarty, was knighted by King ROBERT III. He m. Susanna, daughter of Alexander, Lord Forbes, and was succeeded by his elder son,

WILLIAM URQUHART, of Cromarty, who wedded a daughter of Sir Alexander Forbes, of Pitsligo, but dying without male issue, was succeeded by his brother,

ALEXANDER URQUHART, of Cromarty, who had a charter, under the great seal, from JAMES IV. "terrarium de Fethary, &c." dated 25th August, 1503. He m. Katherine, daughter of Sir James Ogilvie, of Deskford, by whom he had THOMAS, his heir, and another son, ancestor of the Colonel John Urquhart, so gallantly distinguished in the Swedish wars. He was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS URQUHART, of Cromarty, who espoused Helen, daughter of Alexander, Lord Abernethy, of Salton, who had (it is related) twenty-five sons* and eleven daughters, seven of the sons fell at Pinkie, in

* "From some of these sons that travelled with great gallantry to forrain countries, is descended (as I am informed) that worthy knight in Devonshire, called Sir John Urquhart, who both for his considerable fortune, and far greater merit, is highly renowned in the south parts of England; as likewise several families neer Carlisle, designed by the name of Urquhart, of such estimation there that (as I was told) some of them not long ago, have been mayors of the city, and sheriffs of the county." Sir Thomas Urquhart's πατρογονογον.

1547, and from another derived the Urquharts, of Newhall, Monteagle, Kinbeachie, and Braelangwell. Cromarty was succeeded by his eldest son, ALEXANDER URQUHART, of Cromarty, who had a charter under the great seal from JAMES V. of the lauds of Inch Rory, and several others in the shires of Ross and Inverness, dated 7th March, 1532. He m. Beatrix, daughter of Innes, of Auchintoul, and had two sons, viz.

- I. WALTER, served heir to his father, 11th April, 1564. He m. first, Elizabeth, daughter of Kenneth Mackenzie, of Kintail, ancestor of the Earls of Seaforth; and secondly, Elizabeth, daughter of Hugh Ross, of Kilrock, by the former, of whom only he had issue, viz. a daughter, Helen, m. to Sir Walter Ogilvie, of Dunlugas; and two sons, Thomas, who wedded Elspeth, daughter of Lord Salton, but d. v. p. without issue, and

HENRY URQUHART, of Cromarty, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of Sir George Ogilvie, of Dunlugas, and had a son,

SIR THOMAS URQUHART, of Cromarty, served heir to his father, in 1603, and to his grandfather, in 1607. He m. Christian, daughter of Alexander, Lord Elphinstone, and had two sons, successive lairds, and three daughters, the eldest m. to Sir John Campbell, of Calder; the second, to Abercromby, of Birkenbog; and the youngest, to James Gordon, the younger of Lesmoir. Sir Thomas's elder son and successor,

SIR THOMAS URQUHART, of Cromarty, knighted at Whitehall, 7th April, 1641, by King CHARLES I. to whose fortunes he adhered with the most devoted zeal. He was made prisoner at the battle of Worcester, and died unm. soon after the restoration, when he was succeeded by his brother,

SIR ALEXANDER URQUHART, of Dunlugas, who then became of Cromarty. He m. a daughter of Lord Elphinstone, and had two daughters, the elder m. to Sir Harry Guthrie, of Kingedward; and the younger, Christian, married first, to Lord Rutherford; secondly, to James, Viscount Frendraught; and thirdly, to George Morrison, of Boynie. Sir Alexander dying, without male issue, in 1661; with him terminated the male line of WALTER, eldest son of Alexander Urquhart, by Beatrix Innes, his wife. The representation of the House of Urquhart, thereupon, devolved on the descendant of JOHN, second son of Alexander; JOHN URQUHART, of Craigston.

- II. JOHN, of whose line we have to treat.

The second son of Alexander Urquhart and Beatrix Innes,

JOHN URQUHART, b. in 1547, promiscuously designed by the titles of Craigfintry and Culbo, became, after the death of his brother and nephew, tutor to his grandnephew, Sir Thomas, and was well known afterwards by the designation of Tutor of Cromarty. He got charters under the great seal, dated in 1595, 1597, 1600, and many others. He married first, a daughter of John Gordon, of Cairnbarrow, relict of Meldrum, of Eden, by whom he had one son and two daughters, viz.

- I. JOHN, of Leathers and Craigfintry, in Aberdeenshire, who m. twice, but had issue only by his first wife, Isabel Irvine, dau. of the Laird of Drum, viz. one son,

JOHN, of Leathers and Craigfintry, who succeeded his father in 1631, and was also designed of Craigston. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Robert Innes, of that Ilk, and dying in 1634, left an infant son,

JOHN, of Craigston, knighted by CHARLES II. who succeeded to the estates and representation of the Urquharts, of Cromarty, the senior branch of the family, upon the demise of his kinsman, Sir Alexander Urquhart, in 1661, and got a charter under the great seal, "Domino Johanni Urquhart, militi, terrarum baroniæ de Cromarty, &c." dated 14th July, 1662. He m. a daughter of George, second earl of Seaforth, by whom he had a daughter, Isabel, who died unmarried, and two sons, the younger died s. p. and the elder,

JONATHAN URQUHART, inherited Cromarty, which he sold to George Mackenzie, Viscount Tarbat, afterwards created Earl of Cromarty. He m. the Lady Jean Graham, daughter of James, second Marquess of Montrose, and had an only son, COLONEL JAMES URQUHART, who distinguished himself in the wars, both in Spain and Flanders. He m. Anne, daughter of Robert Rollo, of Powhouse, in Stirlingshire, and had an only child, Grizel, who d. unm. Colonel Urquhart d. in 1741, and thus ended the male descendants of the first marriage of the Tutor of Cromarty. The chieftainship, devolved accordingly, upon WILLIAM URQUHART, of Meldrum, who derived from the third marriage of the Tutor of Cromarty.

- i. Beatrix, m. to George Gordon, of Buckie.
- ii. Violet, m. to Sir Alexander Gordon, of Cluny.

The Tutor of Cromarty wedded secondly, Jean, daughter of Alexander Abernethy, Lord Salton, and relict of Alexander Seton, of Meldrum, by whom he had no issue. He m. thirdly, in 1610, ELIZABETH, only daughter and heiress of ALEXANDER SETON, of Meldrum, (see families of MELDRUM and SETON) and had a daughter, m. to Fraser, of Easter Tyrie, and four sons, viz.

- i. PATRICK, who succeeded to Meldrum.
- ii. Adam, of Auchintoul.
- iii. Walter of Crombie.
- iv. James, of Oldcraig.

The Tutor of Cromarty, "renowned," saith Sir Thomas Urquhart, "all over Britain for his deep reach of natural wit," died 8th November, 1631, aged eighty-four. His eldest son, by his third marriage,

PATRICK URQUHART, of Lethenlie, and afterwards of Meldrum, in Aberdeenshire, suffered severely by his devoted adherence to the cause of King CHARLES I. He m. the Lady Margaret Ogilvie,* daughter of James, first Earl of Airly, by the Lady Isabel, his wife, daughter of Thomas, first Earl of Haddington, and had issue,

John, who predeceased his father, unmarried.

ADAM, heir to his father.

JAMES, who founded the CRAIGSTON branch, (see that family).

Patrick, professor of medicine, in the King's College, Aberdeen, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. Andrew Muir, and had issue.

Alexander, a captain in the army, killed under the royal banner, in 1585.

Elizabeth, m. first, to Sir George Gordon, of Gight; and secondly, to Major General Thomas Buchan.

The laird of Meldrum died in 1664, and was s. by his son,

ADAM URQUHART, esq. of Meldrum, b. in 1635, M.P. for Aberdeenshire, who espoused in 1667, the Lady Mary Gordon, sister of George, first Duke of Gordon, and had issue,

JOHN, his heir.

JAMES, of Byth.

Adam, } churchmen in France.

Lewis, }

Mary, a nun, at Dieppe.

Elizabeth, m. to David Ogilvie, of Clova.

Anne, m. to Sir Florence Odonachie, in France, and had issue.

Adam Urquhart died at Edinburg, 10th November, 1684, leaving the Lady Mary Urquhart, his widow, who wedded secondly, James, Earl of Perth, Lord Chancellor of Scotland, and died at St. Germain's, in 1726. The eldest son and heir,

JOHN URQUHART, esq. of Meldrum, b. in 1668, held, conjointly with the Hon. John Campbell, of Mamore, M.P. father of John, fourth Duke of Argyll, the office of master of the works, in Scotland, temp. Queen ANNE. He was likewise a member of the last Scottish parliament, which united the two kingdoms. He m. Jean, daughter of Sir Hugh Campbell, of Calder, by Lady Henrietta Stewart, his wife, daughter of James, fifth Earl of Moray, and had issue,

* JAMES, second EARL OF AIRLIE, was taken prisoner at Philip Haugh, and sentenced to death, but escaped the very night before his intended execution, in the attire of his sister, the Lady Margaret Urquhart. Burke's Peerage and Baronage.

1. Adam, who died in his father's lifetime, unmarried.
- II. WILLIAM, his heir.
 1. Mary, m. to William Menzies, of Pitfoddils.
 - II. Jean, m. to Alexander Stewart, of Auchluncart.
 - III. Elizabeth, m. to William Forbes, of Tillierye.
 - IV. Anne, m. to Charles Gordon, of Blelack.

He died at Aberdeen, in 1726, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM URQUHART, esq. of Meldrum, who inherited likewise in 1741, the CHIEFTAINSHIP of the family, at the decease of Colonel James Urquhart. He m. first, Mary, daughter of Sir William Forbes, bart. of Monymusk, and had, by her, two sons and two daughters, viz.

WILLIAM, an officer in the army, who predeceased his father, unm. aged twenty-one.

KEITH, heir.

Jane, m. to Captain John Urquhart, of Craigston.

Elizabeth, m. to John Turner, esq. of Turner Hall, and had issue.

He married secondly, Anne, daughter of William Scott, merchant, in Aberdeen, and by her had one son, William, who left a son, William, now deceased. He espoused thirdly, Isabella, dau. of George Douglas, esq. of Whiterigs, of the family of Glenbervie, and had two other sons, (for whom see branch of BYTH). Meldrum was succeeded at his decease, by his eldest surviving son,

KEITH URQUHART, esq. of Meldrum, who wedded the Hon. (afterwards Lady) Jane Duff, third daughter of William, first Earl of Fife, and had, with two other sons, who died in infancy,

JAMES, his heir.

Lewis, a captain in the army, long deceased.

Jane, } who both died unm.
Mary, }

He died in 1793, and was s. by his son, the present JAMES URQUHART, esq. of Meldrum.

Families of Meldrum and Seaton.

PHILIP DE FE-DARG, a person of rank and eminence, in the reign of ALEXANDER II. witnessed many charters of William Cummin, Earl of Buchan. He received the honour of knighthood, and had a contest with the Abbot of Arbroath, about the respective boundaries of the barony of Fedarg, and that of Tarvas, belonging to the Abbot.

Sir Philip's son and successor, is designed SIR PHILIP DE MELDRUM, but whether the name of Fedarg was relinquished by himself or his father, cannot now be ascertained. He m. Agnes Cummin, daughter of William, Earl of Buchan, and had three sons,

1. WILLIAM (Sir), his heir.
- II. Thomas, } from whom descended
- III. Alexander, } the Meldrums, of Cleish and Segy, who flourished for several generations, in Fifeshire.

Sir Philip, and Dame Agnes, his wife, contested with the Abbot of Abroath, concerning the patronage of the Kirk of Butkelny, and the dispute was finally determined by Richard, Bishop of Aberdeen, adjudging "that the patronage of the Kirk should for ever after belong to the Abbacy of Abroath; but that Sir Philip, Dame Agnes, his wife, and their heirs should have the jus præsentandi ad alteragium præfatae ecclesiae de Butkelny, nomine vicarie, cum omnibus decimis locorum quidicuntur Butkelny, Finglassan, Gortyn, Gortyn Glassan, Orndulach et Cardrum, cedente vicario, &c."

Sir Philip died towards the close of the reign of ALEXANDER III. and was succeeded by his son,

SIR WILLIAM DE MELGARUM, designed Dominus Willielmus de Meldrum, in the foundation charter of the hospital of Turreff, anno 1272. In the competition for the crown of Scotland, we find Sir William arrayed on the side of John Baliol, acting doubtless under the influence of John Cummin, Earl of Buchan, his cousin. He was succeeded at his decease, by his eldest son,

JOHN DE MELDRUM, frequently mentioned in the chartulary of Arbroath, as Dominus ejusdem. He had two sons, PHILIP (Sir), his heir; and William, ancestor of the Meldrums, of Fyvie, appointed ambassador extraordinary, by the estates of the nation, to negotiate King DAVID's liberty, anno 1348. John de Meldrum died in the commencement of the reign of David Bruce, and was succeeded by his elder son,

SIR PHILIP MELDRUM, a firm adherent to DAVID BRUCE, and gallantly distinguished at Halidhnhill, in 1333. He was for some time vicecomes or sheriff of Banff, and when he gave in the accounts of his administration thereof, at Dundee, anno 1343, he was designed "Dominus Philippus de Meldrum miles."

Sir Philip was slain at the battle of Durham, in 1346, and succeeded by his eldest son,

SIR THOMAS MELDRUM, of that Ilk, who never married, but resigned his estate to his brother,

SIR WILLIAM MELDRUM, of that Ilk, who had a confirmation of his lands, dated at Dunbarton, 10th October, 1353. His son and heir,

WILLIAM MELDRUM, (designed, during his father's lifetime, "Dominus de Auchineve," particularly in a charter, dated 31st July, 1382) was father of

WILLIAM MELDRUM, of that Ilk, one of the hostages for the ransom of JAMES I. anno 1431, who left two daughters, his co-heirs, viz. Mariotta de Meldrum, designed "Domina de ejusdem," who died unmarried, and

ELIZABETH MELDRUM, who wedded WILLIAM SETON, younger son of Sir Alexander Seton, Lord of Gordon, and brother of Alexander, first Earl of Huntly, and conveyed to her husband, the barony of Meldrum, the lands of Auchineve, &c. William Seton fell at the battle of Brechin, 18th May, 1452, leaving by the heiress of Meldrum, a son, ALEXANDER SETON, of Meldrum, served heir to his mother, 20th April, 1456. He espoused Muriella, daughter of Alexander Sutherland, progenitor of the Duffus family, and had a daughter, Katharine, m. to William Forbes, of Keldrum, and a son,

WILLIAM SETON, of Meldrum, who had possession of that estate during the life of his father. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Alexander Leslie, of Wardis, and got a charter of the lands of Balcarne, &c. dated 1490. He died vita patris, leaving a son,

ALEXANDER SETON, of Meldrum, served heir to his grandfather, 15th July, 1512. He m. first, Agnes, daughter of Patrick Gordon, of Haddo, ancestor of the Earls of Aberdeen, and had two sons, WILLIAM, his heir; and Alexander, chancellor of Aberdeen, and vicar of Bethelme. He wedded secondly, Janet, daughter and co-heiress of George Leith, of Barnis, by whom he acquired the lands of Blair, &c. in Bowtry, and had a son, John, who got a charter under the great seal, dated 15th February, 1526, of the lands of Bothnock, Auchleven, Drumrossy, &c. Alexander Seton was s. by his eldest son, WILLIAM SETON, of Meldrum, served heir to his father, 13th January, 1533. He m. first, Janet, daughter of James Gordon, of Lesmoir, and had three sons, ALEXANDER, his heir; John, of Lumphard, and William, of Slatie. He m. secondly, Margaret Innes, of Leuchars, and had two other sons, George, of Barra, chancellor of Aberdeen; and James, ancestor of the SETONS, of Petmeddon, (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage).

William Seton, of Meldrum, was succeeded by his eldest son, ALEXANDER SETON, of Meldrum, who got a charter in 1578, of the lands of Meldrum, and m. first, Elizabeth, daughter of Alexander Irvine, of Drum, by whom he had a son,

ALEXANDER, who m. in 1584, Christian, daughter of Michael Fraser, of Stainywood, ancestor of Lord Fraser, and dying in the lifetime of his father, anno 1590, left an only daughter and heiress, ELIZABETH, of whom hereafter.

He wedded secondly, Jean, daughter of Alexander, sixth Lord Abernethy, of Salton, and had two sons, and as many daughters,

JOHN, who became heir of Meldrum.

WILLIAM, successor to his brother.

Margaret, m. to Chalmers, of Balbithan.

Isabel, m. to Erskine, of Pittodrie.

Alexander Seton, of Meldrum, granted, in December, 1584, charter to Alexander, his eldest son, and the heirs male of his body; which failing, to his own heirs male and assignees whatsoever; upon which a charter of confirmation under the great seal was expedited, and infestment taken thereon, whereby the ordinary course of succession was altered.

In virtue of this settlement, Alexander was succeeded at his decease by his eldest surviving son,

JOHN SETON, of Meldrum, who m. Lady Grisel Stewart, but dying without issue, in 1619, was succeeded by his brother, WILLIAM SETON, of Meldrum, who m. Anne, daughter of James Crichton, of Fren-draught, but had no issue.

The estate of the Meldrums, of that Ilk, having been acquired by the Setons, through an heir female, and the succession having been for many years settled on heirs general, this William Seton, determined that it should continue in the same channel; he accordingly in 1635, made a new entail of his whole possessions in favour of the issue of his nearest and real heir of line, the daughter and sole heiress of his eldest brother, his niece, ELIZABETH SETON, who, in consequence, at her uncle's decease, became possessed of Meldrum. She had espoused, in 1610, JOHN URQUHART, of Craigfintry, Tutor of Cromarty.

RIGGE, GRAY, esq. of Wood Broughton House, in the county of Lancaster, b. 12th February, 1783, m. 8th November, 1808, Sarah, eldest daughter of Edward Moore, esq. of Stockwell, and niece of Peter Moore, esq. member in several parliaments for the city of Coventry, and has issue,

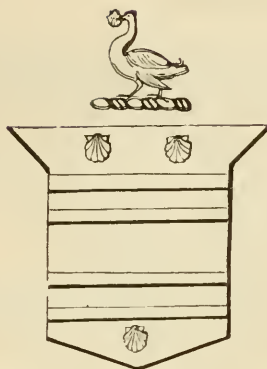

HENRY.
 Charles.
 Stephen.
 William.

Edward.

Caroline.
 Louisa.

This gentleman, who is an acting magistrate for Lancashire, and the North Riding of the county of York, succeeded his father in 1829.

Lineage.

The ancient family of RAWLINSON, of Greenhaad, having merged in that of RIGGE, we shall commence this pedigree by deducing its line.

JOHN RAWLINSON, (of the same family as the last abbot of Furness Abbey), living in the time of HENRY VII. was seized of a capital messuage, called Greenhead, in the parish of Colton, Lancashire. His son,

WILLIAM RAWLINSON, espoused, in 1509, the daughter of Robert Benson, of Skellet, and was father of

JOHN RAWLINSON, who married the daughter of Miles Sawrey, of Low Graythwaite, and left a son and successor,

WILLIAM RAWLINSON, the founder of the parish church of Colton, on a spot of ground belonging to the family. He died in 1603, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM RAWLINSON, esq. who m. Margaret, daughter and eventually heiress of Walter Curwen, of Mireside, a younger son of the Curwens, of Workington Hall, and had issue,

ROBERT, his heir.

WILLIAM, joint owner with his elder brother of Buck Hall, in the county of Oxford. He was father of

SIR WILLIAM RAWLINSON, knt. constituted one of the lords commissioners of the great seal, on the 2nd March, 1688.

Mary, m. to John Burrough, esq. an ancestor of the Burroughs, of Chetwynd Park, Shropshire.
The elder son,

ROBERT RAWLINSON, esq. inherited, besides the Greenhead property, the estates of Mireside, and Cark Hall, in right of his mother, Margaret Curwen, and from this period Cark Hall became the family residence. He m. Jane, daughter of Thomas Wilson, esq. of Haversham Hall, Westmoreland, ancestor of the Wilsons, of Dallam Tower, and had one son and two daughters, viz. *

CURWEN, his heir.

ANNE, who m. first, Christopher Crackenthorp, esq. of Newbiggin, and had a son,

Richard Crackenthorp, who m. Deborah, daughter and co-heir of Samuel Mottram, esq. of Thorp Hall, Lincolnshire, and had issue,

2. Henry Crackenthorp, d. young.

1. Deborah Crackenthorp, d. unmarried.

2. ANNE CRACKENTHROP, who m. ADAM ASKEW, M.D. ancestor of the Askews, of Northumberland and Durham, (see page 294).

Mrs. Crackenthorp married secondly, Dr. George Bynard, a physician.

CATHARINE, of whom presently, as inheritor of a moiety of the Rawlinson estates, upon the demise of Christopher Rawlinson.

Robert Rawlinson, who was a justice of the peace, and quorum for the counties palatine of Chester and Lancaster, suffered much for his loyalty, during the civil wars in the reign of CHARLES I. but at the restoration, was appointed vice chancellor of the city and county of Chester.

He died in 1665,* and was s. by his son,

CURWEN RAWLINSON, esq. of Cark Hall, M.P. for Lancaster, who married Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of Nicholas Monk, Bishop of Hereford, younger brother of General George Monk, first Duke of Albemarle,† by whom he left at his decease, in 1689, a son,

* There is a beautiful monument to his memory in Cartmel Church, a good engraving of which is to be found in Sandford's Genealogical History of the Kings and Queens of England.

† The family of LE MOYNE, or MONK, was of great antiquity, in the county of Devon, and in that shire they had, from a remote period, possessed the manor of Potheridge.

The Monks were lineally descended from ARTHUR PLANTAGENET, Viscount L'Isle, son of King EDWARD IV. thus

ARTHUR PLANTAGENET, m. Elizabeth, sister and co-heir of John Grey, Viscount L'Isle, and widow of Edmund Dudley, by whom he left, with other issue,

CHRISTOPHER RAWLINSON, esq. of Cark Hall, christened after his cousin and god-father, the second Duke of Albemarle. To this gentleman, the last Duke of Albemarle left the whole of his great estate, in the event of his surviving the Duchess, who, being taken ill of her last sickness, Mr. Rawlinson was called to London, but was there seized by the small pox, and died one month previous to her Grace. The Albemarle estates were thus lost to the family. Christopher Rawlinson was a gentleman commoner of Queen's College, Oxford, and published the Saxon Version of Boethius de Consolatione Philosophiae, Oxon. 1689. A monument is erected to his memory in the north transept of the Abbey Church of St. Alban's, and three engravings of him are still extant, two by Nutting, and one by Smith. Dying issueless, the estates passed to his aunts, ANNE CRACKENTHORP, and

CATHARINE RAWLINSON, who wedded Roger Moore, esq. of Middleton, and had (with two elder daughters, Anne and Mary, who died issueless),

CATHERINE MOORE, heiress of her mother, who m. CLEMENT RIGGE, esq. of Hawkeshead, and had two sons, WILLIAM RIGGE, whose only daughter died without issue, in 1762.

ROGER RIGGE.

The second son,

ROGER RIGGE, esq. who m. Mary, daughter of John Fletcher, esq. of Wood Broughton, by Mary, his wife, daughter of William Knipe, esq. of Broughton Hall, in Lancashire, and had issue,

FLETCHER, his heir.

Anne, m. to John Heys, M.D. and had,

FRANCES PLANTAGENT, who espoused for her second husband, Thomas Monk, esq. of Potheridge, and was mother of

ANTHONY MONK, who m. Mary, daughter of Richard Arscott, esq. of Dunsland, and was s. by his son, Ellen, b. in Ireland, d. 27th March, 1809.

Hannah, b. at Madras.

This gentleman received the honour of knighthood on being appointed a judge of the Supreme Court of Judicature at Madras, in 1809, from which he was transferred to that of Bengal,* in 1815. He retired from the bench, to embark for Europe, in 1825. Sir Francis Macnaghten succeeded to the chieftainship of the clan, Macnaghten, and the patrimonial estate of Beardville, on the decease of his brother, Edmund Alexander Macnaghten, esq. 15th March, 1832, which demesne he has made over to his eldest son. Sir Francis assumed the additional surname and arms of WORKMAN,† by sign manual, in 1823. He is a magistrate in the counties of Antrim and Londonderry, and a deputy-lieutenant in the former, where he was high-sheriff, for a year and a half, including part of 1805, the whole of 1806, and part of 1807.

Lineage.

The sept of MACNAGHTEN, in the shire of Argyll, is acknowledged by the Highlanders, according to Nesbit, to be one of the oldest in the west of Scotland. In the reign of MALCOLM Cannmore, a man of considerable rank and distinction, named Naughten, had several sons, who after the introduction of surnames were styled MAC NAUGHTENS, or the sons of NAUGHTEN. The chiefs of the clan were Thanes of Loughtay, and held broad lands between the south side of Lochow and Lochfine, part of which was called Glenora, Glenshira, and Glenfine. On the 12th of February, 1267, ALEXANDER III. issued a patent from his court at Scone, witnessed by the Earl of Buchan, justiciary, and by the Earl of Mar, Chancellor of Scotland, granting to Gillechrist Macnaghtan and his heirs the custody of the castle and island of Frechlan, on condition that he should rebuild and keep the former in repair, and preserve it in a state fit for the reception and entertainment of the king, whenever it should please him to come there.

Gillechrist was grandfather of DONALD MACNAUGHTAN, of that ilk, who, joining with his kinsmen, the Macdougals of Lorn, in an insurrection against King ROBERT BRUCE, was so struck by the valour of that prince in the battle of Dabree, that he espoused his interests and continued firm in his allegiance for the remainder of his life.

There is a curious account of this and other transactions of that time in a poem called "The Life and Acts of Robert Bruce," by John Barbour, Archdeacon of Aberdeen, published in black letter at Edinburgh by Andro Hart, in 1620. After describing the Scottish monarch's prowess in the field of Dabree, which was so conspicuous, that there were none of the rebels

"That durst assail him more in fight,
So dread they for his meikle night,"

The poet proceeds:

"There was a Baron Macnaughtane,
That in his heart great keep has tane
Unto the king his chevalry,
And praised him in heart greatly,
And to the Lord of Lorn said he,
Sickerley now, Sir, may ye see
Betane the starkest pundelane
That in your life-time you saw tane.
For yon knight thro' his doughty deed,
And thro' his outrageous manheed,
Has felled in a little tide
Three men of meikle might and pride;
And stonied all our men so
That after him dare no man go.
And turns so many times his steed,
It seems of us he has no dread,
And sickerly in all my time
I never heard in song or rhyme
Tell of a man that so smartly
Atcheved so great chevalry."

The son of this baron, DUNCAN MACNAUGHTAN, proved himself as faithful to the cause of King DAVID, and was one of the band that accompanied the Lord James Douglas, when he went with a view of depositing the heart of ROBERT BRUCE in Jerusalem. The party headed by Douglas was attacked, and valiantly defended itself, in Spain. Many of them, and Lord James in the number, were killed. The survivors, amongst whom was Duncan, brought back the heart of their late king to Scotland. Duncan Macnaughtan had several children, who formed alliances with the Stewarts, Menzies, Campbells of Glenorchy and Ardkinlass, Mc Leods, and with almost all the

* There is a very fine full length portrait of Sir Francis Macnaghten in the Court House of Calcutta. He had been left the only judge to discharge all the duties of the court; and on the 22nd of November, 1822, the grand jury delivered to him a very complimentary address, in which they desired to possess his portrait. It was accordingly painted, by Chinnery, who received for the picture, from those gentlemen, one thousand guineas. On the departure of the judge from Calcutta, in 1825, Sir Francis had the gratification of receiving the kindest compliments and addresses from all descriptions of persons, Europeans and Natives, then inhabiting the Presidency.

† In the year 1806, CAROLINE WORKMAN (only surviving child of Meredyth Workman, and his wife, Mary Macnaghten, first cousin of Sir Francis), pursuant to the injunction of her father and mother, settled upon Sir Francis Macnaghten, and his heirs, the Workman estate of MAHAN, in the county of Armagh; and on the death of the said Caroline, in the year 1823, Sir Francis, as he had stipulated, assumed the surname and arms of WORKMAN, for which his majesty's license was obtained, and is duly recorded.

ancient families in the West Highlands. Donald, one of his sons, was elected in 1436, on account of his extraordinary piety, to the bishopric of Dunkeld.

SIR ALEXANDER MACNAUGHTANE accompanied JAMES IV. to the fatal field of Flodden, and fell with the king and the flower of the Scottish nobility. His son and heir, JOHN MACNAUGHTANE, of that ilk, who married Anne, daughter of Murdoch Maclean, Laird of Lochbuy, in Mull (by his wife, the daughter of Soreley Buy, father of Randal MacSorley, first Earl of Antrim). By this lady he had three sons; the eldest, Alexander, died without issue. From the second, MALCOLM, called Glenshira, sprang the Scottish Macnaughtanes.* The third, known as

SHANE DHU, or Black John, went over to Ireland, as secretary to his kinsman, the first Earl of Antrim, and settled there. His son and heir,

DANIEL MACNAUGHTAN, espoused Catharine, niece of the celebrated Primate (George) Dowdall, and had, with two daughters, who married into the families of Willoughby and Macmanus, of the county of Antrim, a son and successor,

JOHN MACNAUGHTAN, of Benvariden, in the same county, who wedded Helen, dau. of Francis Stafford, esq. and grand-daughter of Sir Edmond Stafford, of Portglenone.† Of this marriage a younger son, EDMOND MACNAUGHTAN, b. 10th August, 1679, was conveyed by his mother, then a widow, about the tenth year of his age, to the city of Londonderry. They went there at Christmas, 1688, and were protected by the lady's brother, the Right Honorable Edmond Francis Stafford, then one of the gallant defenders of the place, during the memorable siege. This Edmond died at Beardville in the year 1781, at the advanced age of one hundred and two. He m.

* This branch of the family eventually sunk with the house of Stuart. On the 10th July, 1689, JOHN MACNAUGHTAN joined GRAHAM of Claverhouse, the gallant LORD DUNDEE, with a considerable body of men, and is said to have contributed mainly to the memorable victory of Killecrankie, gained by that valiant chief. An entire forfeiture of their landed possessions in Scotland was the result of the part taken by the Macnaughtans on this celebrated occasion.

† Said to be of the once potent family of STAFFORD, Earls of Stafford and Dukes of Buckingham, of whose miserable decline an ample account may be found in BURKE's Extinct and Dormant Peerage. Original portraits of this Sir Edmond Stafford, and of his daughter Martha, wife of Sir Henry O'Neill, of Shane's Castle, and of his grand-daughter Rose, Marchioness of Antrim, as well as of the Right Honorable Edmund Francis Stafford, of Portglenone, are yet in the mansion house of Beardville.

FRANCIS (Sir), successor to his brother. Mr. Macnaughtan was s. by his elder son, EDMUND-ALEXANDER MACNAGHTEN, esq. of Beardville, b. 2nd August, 1762, who, before and after the union of Ireland with Great Britain, represented the county of Antrim in parliament, and was for many years one of the lords of the treasury. The Macnaughtanes elected this gentleman and his heirs to the chieftainship of their clan, which, at his decease in March, 1832, descended, with the family estates, to his brother and heir-at-law, the present SIR FRANCIS WORKMAN-MACNAGHTEN.

Emily-Augusta.

Philadelphia-Frances-Esther, m. to the Rev. Edward-William Barnard, who died 10th January, 1828, (see family of BARNARD, of Cave Castle).

Anne-Caroline.

Lucy-Charlotte.

This eminent churchman and highly accomplished scholar, after pursuing a distinguished course at the university of Cambridge,* was presented, in 1795, by Humphrey Osbaldeston, esq. to the vicarage of Hunmanby, and the perpetual curacy of Muston; and at the same time, through that gentleman's recommendation, to the vicarage of Folkton. In the beginning of 1814 he was appointed, by the Archbishop of York, His Grace's examining chaplain at Bishopthorpe. In 1819 he exchanged the vicarage of Folkton for the rectory of Thorpe-Bassett; and the next year he was made archdeacon of Cleveland. In 1823 he received, from the same munificent prelate, the stall of Ampleforth, in the cathedral of York; and, two years afterward, a prebend of Chester, as an option, in consequence of which he was enabled to exchange his rectory of Thorpe-Bassett for that of Dodleston. In 1828 he was constituted archdeacon of the East Riding of the county of York.

Mr. Archdeacon Wrangham is a distinguished member of the literary world, and has acquired reputation in poetry, history, and theology. Amongst his works in verse are, four Seaton Prize Poems, a poem on "The Restoration of Learning in the East;" "Forty Sonnets from Petrarch" (printed at Lee Priory), and the "Lyrics of Horace." In his prose writings will be found, "A Dissertation on the best Means of Civilizing the Subjects of the British Empire in India, and of diffusing the Light of the Christian Religion throughout the Eastern World;" "The British Plutarch," in six vols. 8vo.; "Bishop Walton's Prolegomena to the Polyglott Bible, with copious annotations," &c. &c. In 1829 he addressed a letter to the clergy of his archdeaconry, on the claims of the Roman Catholics, the archdeacon having been for more than thirty years a strenuous advocate of the sacred cause of religious freedom.

Lineage.

This family is traditionally descended from the MR. WRAYNHAM, or WRANGHAM, of the State-Trials, the talented, upright, and undaunted victim of the "meanness" of Lord Bacon, or rather that of his servants; and it is recorded in the very first year (1653) of the register of Langton on the Wolds, near Malton, where some pieces of ground, still bearing the name of "Wrangham's Closes," attest its ancient respectability. That property, however, through the subdivision rendered necessary by the populousness of one or two generations, or by the imprudence or improvidence of some of its possessors, has gradually melted away.

ROBERT WRANGHAM, of Langton on the Wolds, buried 17th April, 1668, left, with a daughter Anne, a son,

THOMAS ROBINSON, esq. of Welburn, who m. Dorothy Bowes, of York, and had (with several sons, who all died without issue,) a daughter, ELIZABETH, the wife of the Rev. Digby Cayley, by whom she had three daughters, viz.

Lucy Cayley, m. to the Rev. Arthur Cayley, rector of Normanby.

DOROTHY CAYLEY, m. to ARCHDEACON WRANGHAM.

Frances-Elizabeth Cayley, m. to Thomas Smith, M.D. of Bury St. Edmunds, and has three daughters.

* He obtained, during his first year, Sir William Browne's gold medal for his Greek and Latin epigrams; and in 1790, on his final examination for his bachelor's degree, he became third wrangler, and gained not only Dr. Smith's second mathematical prize, but likewise the Chancellor's first classical medal.

ROBERT WRANGHAM, whose will is dated 15th April, 1678, and who was father of GEORGE; Robert, baptized 1st March, 1662; John; Elizabeth, born in 1652; and Anne. The eldest son,

GEORGE WRANGHAM, b. about 1650, died in 1731, leaving a son,

JOHN WRANGHAM, the father of

RICHARD WRANGHAM, b. in 1711, who left, at his decease in 1794, six sons and three daughters, viz. GEORGE; Richard and Robert, who both died childless; John, who had issue; William; Joseph; Anne, died in 1755, aged fifteen; Esther, and Felicia. The eldest,

GEORGE WRANGHAM, b. in 1742, occupied in the latter part of his life the beautiful farm of RAISTHORPE, near Malton, and rented the moiety of another very large farm at Titchwell, in Norfolk. He died in 1791, leaving a son, the present Venerable Archdeacon WRANGHAM.

EDWARDES-TUCKER, OF SEALYHAM.

TUCKER-EDWARDES, WILLIAM, esq. of Sealyham, in the county of Pembroke, b. in 1784, m. in 1807, Anna, dau. of George Philipps,* esq. of Cwmgwilly, in Carmarthenshire, M.P. and has issue,

- I. JOHN-OWEN, an officer in the 23rd regiment.
- II. William, of Trinity College, Oxford.
- III. Owen.
- IV. Thomas.
- V. Francis.

- I. Catherine.
- II. Mary.
- III. Anna.
- IV. Emma.

This gentleman, whose patronymic is EDWARDES, assumed, upon inheriting the TUCKER estates, the additional surname and arms of that family, in compliance with the testamentary injunction of Admiral Tucker. Mr. Edwarde-Tucker, who is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the county of Pembroke, served the office of high sheriff for that shire in 1829.

* The family of PHILIPPS is of the most remote antiquity. CADEFOR, lord of Dyvett, now Pembrokeshire, died in 1084, and was buried at the priory, near Carmarthen. He had married Eleanor, daughter and sole heiress of the lord of Kilsaint, in the county of Carmarthen, and had a son and successor, BLEDRI, lord of Dyvett, who, after the revolution in Pembrokeshire, anno 1098, retired to Kilsaint, in Carmarthenshire. He wedded Ancrcta, second daughter of Rhys, prince of South Wales, and sister to Gwinlean, wife of Ednifed Fichon, ancestor of Owen Tudor, grandfather to King HENRY VII. By this lady he had two sons, AARON, lord of Kilsaint, and a younger son, who founded the family at CMGWILLY, who for more than a century has represented the borough of Carmarthen in Parliament. The two sons of Bledri accompanying the Lion-hearted RICHARD to Palestine, there achieved so high a reputation, that that monarch created the elder a Knight of the Sepulchre of our Saviour, and granted to both for their arms the lion rampant sa. gorged and chained. From Sir Aaron descended the PHILIPPS of Picton Castle, and many others.

Lineage.

This family came originally from Chirk Castle, in Denbighshire, North Wales. One branch settled at Rhydygors, near Carmarthen; the elder at Little Trefgarne, Pembrokeshire. The difficulty of tracing Welsh descents before the time of HENRY IV. and the mode of genealogy, the son taking the father's Christian name, and so on, render it almost impossible to give a detailed account.

There was an old pedigree book in the family, which is now lost; and there are also records in St. David's Cathedral, but the chapter do not allow those to be inspected.

The EDWARDES's of Little Trefgarne, in the parish of St. Dogwell's, settled, about the time of King STEPHEN,* in the county of Pembroke, where they had large possessions. The surname was assumed in the reign of HENRY IV. In Queen ELIZABETH's time, JOHN EDWARDES was precentor of St. David's, and during the civil war, Captain FRANCIS EDWARDES garrisoned Rouche Castle in the royal cause.

OWEN EDWARDES, esq. of Trefgarne, in the county of Pembroke, espoused, about the middle of the seventeenth century, Damaris, daughter of James Perrott, esq. Lord of Wellington, by Dorothy, his wife, daughter of Sir Thomas Perrott, bart. and the Lady Dorothy Devereux, his wife, sister of Robert, second Earl of Essex, the ill-fated favorite of Queen ELIZABETH. By this lady Mr. Edwardes had issue,

i. JOHN, his heir.

ii. Francis, who wedded the Lady Elizabeth Rich, only daughter of Robert Rich, second Earl of Holland and fifth Earl of Warwick, by the Lady Ann Montagu, daughter of Edward, Earl of Manchester, his second countess, and inheriting the possessions of the Earl of Warwick, in right of his wife, made a will and entailed these estates (failing his own male issue) on his brother, John Edwardes, of Trefgarne, and his children. Francis had issue, Edward, of Johnston, who died unmarried.

WILLIAM, of Johnston, who was created a peer of Ireland, by the title of BARON KENSINGTON, 20th

July, 1776 (see BURKE's Peerage and Baronetage).

Lucy, m. to Essex Meyrick, esq. of Bush, in the county of Pembroke.

The eldest son and heir,

JOHN EDWARDES, esq. of Trefgarne, espoused, in 1685, Frances, fourth and youngest daughter and co-heir of William Philipps, esq. of Haythog, in the county of Pembroke, and had issue,

OWEN, his heir.

Damaris, m. to Rear-Admiral John St. Lo.

Martha, m. to Rowland Philipps, esq. of Orlandon, in the county of Pembroke, descended from Sir John Philipps, bart. and dying in 1757, left a son, ROWLAND PHILIPPS LAUGHARNE, esq. of Orlandon, grandfather of the present SIR WILLIAM PHILIPPS LAUGHARNE PHILIPPS, bart. of Orlandon.

The son and successor,

OWEN EDWARDES, esq. of Trefgarne, married, in 1708, Jane, daughter and sole heiress of — Mortimer, esq. of Llanmilo, in the county of Carmarthen, and had

i. ROWLAND, his heir.

ii. Perrott, who m. a daughter of the Rev. Thomas Philipps, vicar of Langharn, but d. s. p. His widow wedded Mr. Hughes.

i. Rachael, m. to her first cousin, William, first Lord Kensington, but had no issue.

ii. Anne, m. to the Rev. William Harries, vicar of St. Dogwell's, but had no issue.

Mr. Edwardes died about 1740, and was s. by his eldest son,

ROWLAND EDWARDES, esq. of Trefgarne, who m. Anne, daughter of George Harries, esq. of Priskilly, in the county of Pembroke, who died in 1732, by Margaret, his wife, daughter of John Symmons, esq. of Llanstinan, M.P. for the borough of Cardigan (see vol. i. p. 256), and had issue,

JOHN-OWEN, his heir.

Rowland, a lieutenant-colonel in the army.

William-Mortimer, who m. Miss Tyson, and has issue, Rowland, Mortimer, and John.

Mr. Edwardes died in 1782, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN-OWEN EDWARDES, esq. of Llanmilo, in the county of Carmarthen, who wedded,

* This monarch granted to the family a salmon fishery at Trefgarne, which is still possessed by the present Mr. Edwardes-Tucker. The original grant is in the chapter of St. David's.

in 1777, Catherine, daughter and co-heir of John Tucker, esq. of Sealyham, in the county of Pembroke, and had issue,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Thomas, formerly in the 23rd regiment of foot, aid-de-camp to Sir Thomas Picton during the latter part of the Peninsular War. This gentleman was severely wounded in the mouth at the siege of Badajoz. He m. Miss Middleton.

Anne, m. to — George, esq. Charlotte.

Jane, m. to — Shaw, esq.

Mr. Edwardes died in 1825, and was s. by his son, the present WILLIAM EDWARDES-TUCKER, esq. of Sealyham.

Family of Tucker.

This family was founded by

THOMAS TUCKER, a captain in King Edward III.'s army, who had a grant of land at Sealyham, in the county of Pembroke. His descendant,

RICHARD TUCKER, of Sealyham, espoused Alison,* daughter of Sir William Perrott, knt. by Margaret, daughter of Sir Henry Wogan, of Wiston, whose mother was sister to Sir William Herbert, the first Earl of Pembroke. He was s. by his son,

WILLIAM TUCKER, of Sealyham, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of William Dyer, esq. of Fishgard and Cardigan, and was great-grandfather of

OWEN TUCKER, esq. of Sealyham, who wedded, in 1597, Margaret, daughter of Morris Wogan, esq. of Stone Hall, and grand-daughter of Sir John Wogan, knt. of Wiston, who m. Anne, daughter and heiress of William Philipps, esq. of Stone Hall. By her he had a son and successor,

JOHN TUCKER, esq. of Sealyham, who m. Mary, daughter of Jenkin Griffith, esq. by Eleanor, his wife, daughter of John Bateman, and had, with a younger son, ancestor of the Very Rev. Dean Tucker, of Gloucester, b. at Langharne, in Carmarthenshire, and a daughter, Margaret, m. in 1626, to Thomas Symmonds, esq. of Colston, a son and heir,

WILLIAM TUCKER, esq. of Sealyham. This gentleman espoused Ursula, daughter of Francis Langharn, esq. of Pontvane, by Lettice, his wife, daughter and heir of James Vaughan, esq. of the same place. Francis Langharn was second son of Francis Langharn, esq. of St. Bride's, and Jane, his wife, daughter of John Philipps, esq. of Picton Castle. By Ursula, William Tucker had a son,

JOHN TUCKER, esq. of Sealyham, who m. about 1700, Grace, daughter of Sir John Wogan, knt. and had issue,

i. WILLIAM, his heir.

ii. Owen, m. Catherine, daughter and heiress of John Williams, esq. of Trelethin, and had issue,

1. John.

2. Thomas.

3. William, of Trelethin, who m. Ann, daughter of James Langharn, esq. of Pontvane.

iii. THOMAS, a distinguished naval officer, who attained the rank of admiral. In 1741, he killed, in the West Indies, a most daring pirate called Black Beard, gained the reward offered by government, and was promoted in consequence. Subsequently, while commanding the Fowey frigate, he captured the San Joseph Spanish register ship, immensely rich, and purchased large estates in the county of Pembroke. Admiral Tucker d. in 1766, unm.

iv. John, in holy orders, d. unm. in Oxfordshire.

The elder son,

WILLIAM TUCKER, esq. of Sealyham, m. in 1752, Mary, daughter of William Scornfield, esq. of Moat, and had issue,

Mary.

Anne, d. unm.

ROBARTES, OF LANHYDEROCK.

ROBARTES-AGAR, THOMAS-JAMES, esq. of Lanhyderock, in Cornwall, b. 18th March, 1808.

This gentleman, whose patronymic is AGAR, assumed the additional surname and arms of ROBARTES, as representative of the old and eminent family of ROBARTES, Earls of Radnor.

Lineage.

RICHARD ROBARTES was resident at Truro, in Cornwall, and enjoyed a considerable fortune in the time of HENRY VIII. He m. Anne, daughter of — Jeffery, of St. Breage, and had, with five daughters, two sons, viz.

JOHN, his heir.

Richard, of Truro, whose son,

Josias, received the honour of knighthood. He m. Barbara, daughter of Edward Noye, esq. of Carnanton, and sister of William Noye, attorney general to King CHARLES I. and was s. by his son,

SIR FRANCIS ROBARTES, knt. who died seized of the manor of Bodmin, leaving a son,

HUGH ROBARTES, with whom this branch expired, while the estates passed to the elder.

The elder son,

JOHN ROBARTES, esq. who inherited a very large estate, wedded Philippa, daughter of John Gavrigan, esq. of Gavrigan, in Cornwall, and had an only son, ROBERT, his heir. Mr. Robartes died at Truro in 1614, and was buried near the altar of St. Mary's Chapel in that borough, where the effigies of himself, his wife, and several members of the family are delineated on a splendid monument of alabaster and marble. He was s. by his son,

RICHARD ROBARTES, esq. who had served the office of sheriff for Cornwall, in the lifetime of his father. He was knighted by King JAMES I. at Whitehall in 1616, and created a baronet in 1621. In 1625, through the influence of the favourite Buckingham, (to whom it is recorded that he paid ten thousand pounds,*) Sir Richard was advanced to the peerage as BARON ROBARTES, of Truro. He m. Frances, daughter and co-heir of John Hender, esq. of Botreaux Castle, in Cornwall and had, with two daughters, Mary, m. to William Rous, esq. of Halton, in the same county, and Jane, the wife of Charles, Lord Lambert, a son and successor at his decease in 1634.

JOHN ROBARTES, second baron, b. in 1606. This nobleman, who was educated at Exeter College, Oxford, having entered as a commoner in 1625, appears at the commencement of the great rebellion, to have espoused in some measure the royal cause, but he became soon after a strenuous upholder of the parliament. He accepted a command under the Earl of Essex, and assisted at the battle of Edge Hill. To his councils is generally attributed the resolution of the parliament, in 1644, to send forces into Cornwall, and his lordship headed a brigade in the expedition. He shared in the subsequent discomfiture of the Earl of Essex at Fowey, and joined that officer's flight by sea to Plymouth, of which important place Lord Robartes was made governor, and the same year constituted lord lieutenant of Devonshire; but he was not suffered long to retain those trusts, being deprived of all his employments very soon afterwards. In 1645, however, he had a vote of parliament for £2000, in satisfaction of part of his arrears, and the lords selected

* One of the charges brought against the Duke of Buckingham in parliament, anno 1626, was, "that, knowing him (Sir Richard Robartes) to be rich, he forced him to take that title of honor; and that, in consideration thereof, he paid ten thousand pounds to the duke's use."

him for the government of the Scilly Isles, but the commons appointed Colonel Rous. His interest with the predominant party being now visibly on the decline, he withdrew from their councils, and lived in retirement at Lanhyderock during the rule of the Cromwells. Promoting afterwards the restoration of the monarchy, he was favourably received by King Charles, by whom he was called to the privy council, appointed lord privy seal, and afterwards constituted (anno 1669) lord lieutenant of Ireland. He was eventually (1679) advanced to the dignities of Viscount Bodmin, and EARL OF RADNOR. His lordship m. first, the Lady Lucy Rich, daughter of Robert, Earl of Warwick, and had (with other children, for which see BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Peerage),

ROBERT, Viscount Bodmin, a gentleman of distinguished talents, who died about the year 1681, in his embassy to the court of Denmark, leaving by Sarah, daughter of John Bodvile, esq. of Bodvile Castle, in Carnarvonshire, CHARLES-BODVILE, successor to his grandfather.

RUSSEL, one of the tellers of the exchequer, who m. Lady Mary Booth, daughter of Henry, Earl of Warrington, and had issue,

HENRY, who became third Earl of Radnor.

MARY, m. to Thomas Hunt,* esq. of Mollington Hall, in the county of Chester, and had two sons, viz.

THOMAS HUNT, esq. of Mollington Hall, who m. Mary, daughter of Peter Bold, esq. of Bold Hall, and left a daughter,

ANNA - MARIA HUNT, of whom hereafter as eventual inheritor of the Radnor estates.

GEORGE HUNT, esq. who succeeded to the estates at the decease of Henry, third EARL OF RADNOR.

The earl espoused, secondly, Isabella, dau. of Sir John Smith, knt. of Kent, and had four other sons and four daughters, of whom Francis, the eldest, left a son, JOHN, who became fourth EARL OF RADNOR; for the other refer likewise to BURKE'S Extinct Peerage.

He died in 1685, and was s. by his grandson,

CHARLES - BODVILE ROBARTES, second Earl of Radnor. This nobleman was called to the privy council by King William III. and appointed in the same reign lord lieutenant and custos rotulorum of Cornwall, lord warden of the Stanneries, and high steward of the Duchy. In the time of GEORGE I. he was made treasurer of the chamber, constable of Caernarvon Castle, and sworn of the privy council. His lordship m. Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Sir John Cutler, knt. of the city of London, with whom he acquired the mansion of Whimpole, in Cambridgeshire, which he sold to Lord Hardwicke. Dying without issue in 1723, he was s. by his nephew,

HENRY ROBARTES, third Earl of Radnor, who died unmarried at Paris in 1741, when the honours devolved upon his cousin, JOHN ROBARTES, as fourth earl, with whom they became EXTINCT in 1764, while the estates passed to (the son of his sister, Mrs. Mary Hunt) his nephew,

GEORGE HUNT, esq. of Llanhyderock, in Cornwall, who died s. p. and was s. by his niece,

ANNA-MARIA HUNT, who espoused, 15th November, 1804, The Hon. CHARLES-BAGNAL AGAR, youngest son of John, first Viscount Clifden, (see BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage), and by him, who died 16th June, 1811, had, with two other sons, who both died young, a son and heir, the present THOMAS-JAMES AGAR-ROBARTES, esq. of Llanhyderock.

Arms—Quarterly; 1st and 4th, az. three estoiles, and a chief wavy, or: 2nd and 3rd, az. a lion rampant or.

Crests—1st. A lion rampant or, holding a flaming sword erect, ppr. the pommel and hilt of the first. 2nd. A demi lion rampant or.

* THOMAS HUNT, of Shrewsbury, (son of Richard Hunt, bailiff of that borough in 1613, 1622, and 1631) was high sheriff of the county of Salop anno 1656, commander of the garrison at Wem after its surrender to Colonel Mytton, and eventually colonel in the parliamentary army. He purchased after the Restoration the estate of Boreatton, and died at Shrewsbury in 1669. Baxter calls him "a plain hearted, honest, godly man, entirely beloved and trusted by the soldiers for his honesty." Henry confirms this character, and styles Colonel Hunt, "an Israelite indeed, in whom there was no guile." From the colonel's eldest son, the Hunts of Boreatton, represented by the present Rowland Hunt, esq. derive, and from his younger sprang

THOMAS HUNT, esq. of Mollington Hall, who espoused, as stated above, MARY ROBARTES.

HILL, OF STALLINGTON HALL.

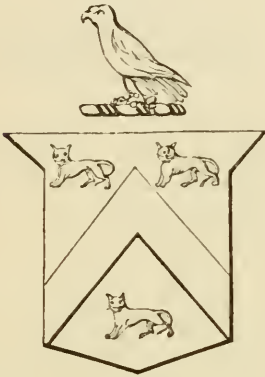

HILL, RICHARD-CLARKE, esq. of Stallington Hall, in the county of Stafford, m. in 1811, Sarah, daughter of — Bird, esq. of Eyam, in Derbyshire, by whom (who died in 1818) he has two daughters, viz.

MARY-ANNE.

SARAH.

Mr. Hill is in the commission of the peace for the county of Stafford. He s. his father on the 2nd April, 1794.

Lineage

This family derives, according to NASH,* from the de Montes of Castle Morton, in the parish of Longdon, and county of Worcester. "John de Monte, 20th EDWARD III. anno 1346, held lands in Castle Morton which Odo de Monte lately held, and the heir of John de Monte, 7th HENRY VI. (1429) held the same lands. His heirs, the HYLLES, lived in this Morton. The HYLLES before this were in Hill-Cromb, 27th EDWARD I. (1299)."

Mr. Beaumont, who has held a captain's commission in the second West York regiment of militia, and served as sub-lieutenant in the second regiment of Life Guards, inherited the estates at the decease of his grandfather in 1819.

Lineage.

The surname of BELLOMONT or BEAUMONT is derived from a city of the same name in France, on the river Sarte.

SIR WILLIAM DE BELLOMONT, knt. heir to his brother Sir Richard in the 26th EDWARD I. and son of William de Bello-monte, was father of

SIR ROBERT DE BELLOMONT, who, in the 31st EDWARD I. was seized of the manor of Over Whitley, as well as of the manors of Crossland and Huddersfield; and in the 17th of the next reign, was a commissioner of array for the wapentake of Agbrigg, and coroner for the county of York. He m. Agnes, daughter of John de Querenby (who, after his decease, wedded Henry Deyvell), and had issue,

JOHN (Sir) his heir.

Thomas (Sir) seized of the manor of Breretwysel, by gift of Henry de Chevet, in the 20th EDWARD II. This Sir Thomas Bellomont granted an annuity in 1347 to Alice, wife of Thomas Bosville of Cathorne.

William, living in 1326.

Adam, who released in 1350 lands to Adam Hopton, by deed witnessed by Sir John de Elland, knight. Sir Brian Thornhill, and others.

Henry, living in 1326.

Nicholas.

John.

Robert.

Sir Robert, who was living in 1329, died about the 21st EDWARD III. for we find then his eldest son,

SIR JOHN DE BELLOMONT, knight, lord of Whitley. In 1332 this proprietor gave to Adam, son of Alexander Radcliffe, lands in Crossland. He m. Margaret, grandaunt, maternally, of Richard Radcliffe, of Radcliffe Tower (which lady was living a widow in the 46th EDWARD III.), and had issue,

1. JOHN, who succeeded his father as lord of Whitley, m. Alicia, daughter of Adam de Hopton, but died s. p.

II. ROBERT, who was found heir to his elder brother in the 28th of EDWARD III. in which year he granted lands to his brother HENRY, and in three years afterwards quit claim to his said brother of all the lands of his inheritance.

III. HENRY, heir on the surrender of his brother Robert.

IV. Roger, who was constituted, by deed dated 20th June, in the 28th EDWARD III. attorney to deliver possession of lands to his brother Henry.

The third son, by the surrender of his elder brother Robert,

HENRY DE BELLOMONT, became lord of Whitley Beaumont, and was bound, with all his sons, to Sir John Ashton, knight, by indenture dated 15th RICHARD II. He m. Johanna —, and dying at the beginning of the fifteenth century (his will bears date 1396, in which he desires to be buried at Almondbury), was s. by his eldest son,*

Sir William was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM BLACKET, M.P. for Newcastle-upon-Tyne, who wedded Lady Barbary Villers, daughter of William, Earl of Jersey, but having no legitimate issue, the baronetcy expired at his decease, 25th September, 1728, when the entailed estates devolved upon his sisters, as co-heirs. He had, however, one natural daughter, ELIZABETH ORD, alias BLACKET, who m. her cousin, WALTER CALVERLEY, esq. and inherited the devised property of her father. Mr. Calverley assumed the additional surname and arms of BLACKET, and at the death of his father, became SIR WALTER CALVERLEY-BACKET, bart. Sir Walter died s. p. in 1777, when the baronetcy of Calverley became extinct.

The son and heir,

SIR THOMAS WENTWORTH, fifth baronet, was sheriff of Yorkshire, in 1765. This gentleman inheriting the valuable entailed estates, royalties, &c. of the Blacket family, assumed their surname in addition to his own. He died on the 11th July, 1792, settling his immense property, which including mines, amounted then to more than forty thousand pounds a year, as follows:—The Yorkshire, with the greater part of the estates in Northumberland, on his eldest dau. MRS. BEAUMONT, and her sisters, Mrs. Lee, wife of William Lee, esq. of the Grove, and Miss Louisa Wentworth, (afterwards Mrs. Stackpole), in succession, and their issue male, (the two younger ladies enjoying a rent charge of £3000. per annum,) with remaindership to Sir John Sinclair, bart. and his heirs by his second wife, Diana, eldest daughter of Alexander, first Lord Macdonald. The Gunneston estates he left to his nephew, William Bosville, esq. of Gunthwaite, which property has since devolved on Lord Macdonald. (See BURKE's Peerage and Baronetage.)

COPPINGER, OF BALLYVOLANE.

COPPINGER, WILLIAM, esq. of Ballyvolane, and Barryscourt, both in the county of Cork, succeeded to the estates and representation of this ancient family at the decease of his father, 15th July, 1816. Mr. Coppinger is also, in right of his mother, representative of the M'MAHONS of Clenagh, in the county of Clare, a branch of the princely house of Thomond.

Lineage.

The COPPINGERS, whose chief's immediate line we are about to trace, like the Jerninghams of England, and the Plunkets of Ireland, came originally from Denmark, and establishing themselves in the "Emerald Isle," have maintained an elevated position there for a long series of years. So far back as the beginning of the fourteenth century (anno 1319) we find, by the municipal records of Cork, Stephen Coppinger, mayor of that city, about the period, in EDWARD the Second's reign, when the chief magistrate of London first adopted a similar designation. This gentleman's relatives and descendants long continued to sustain their local influence, as appears by the frequency of the name* in the civic annals of Cork, and to spread themselves as large proprietors† over the adjoining county. Pass-

* During an interval of ten years, from 1646 to 1656, there was a suspension of civil jurisdiction in Cork, which was ruled by military law; but it would appear that in 1652 Cromwell wished to restore the local magistracy; for a list of the principal inhabitants of the city and its adjacencies was, in that year, sent to England by JAMES COPPINGER, esq. An authentic copy of that document is in the possession of Miss B. Gould, of Cork. The Goolds, of whom thirty-eight are specified, the Roches, of whom thirty-one, the Coppingers, in number eighteen, with the Galweys, Sarsfields, Terrys, &c. were the most considerable residents; but, as they were probably all Catholics, none were appointed or chosen to fill the civic vacancies, and the first mayor, after the interregnum, was John Hodder, with other Protestant magistrates, the Popish inhabitants having been turned out of the city. (See Smith's Cork, vol. ii. p. 173.)

† Alderman John Coppinger, born about the year 1556, and who appears to have been mayor several times, by his will, dated 6th December, 1637, describes himself as seised, by inheritance or mortgage, of very extensive property in the county and city of Cork, which he devised to his

It thence, likewise, appeared that he held these lands by several preceding patents, to which reference is made, and which were confirmed by one from His Majesty King JAMES I. Mr. Coppinger m. III. Henry, whose son, Henry, married the daughter of Connor or Cornelius O'Brien, of Kilcor, in the county of Cork, whose mother was daughter of his uncle Thomas. From him descends GENERAL JOSEPH COPPINGER, of the Spanish service, who has gallantly distinguished himself on various occasions, especially at St. Juan d'Ulloa, in Mexico, and in the Floridas, where he fought against General Andrew Jackson, now president of the United States. General Coppinger resides at the Havanagh, and has a numerous family.

- IV. Daughter, m. to Patrick Rochfort, esq. of Cork.

Thomas Coppinger was outlawed, and forfeited his property for his adherence to his sovereign in 1688; but the estates were subsequently restored to his eldest son, STEPHEN, by a decision of the Court of Claims, with the exception of that part which was out of settlement, and which constituted a very considerable and most valuable portion, now principally in the possession of Lord Gort. 6. John, died at St. Croix without issue.

The eldest son,

JOHN COPPINGER, esq. married, first, Mary, elder daughter and co-heir of Nicholas Blundell, esq. of Crosbie, in Lancashire, with whom he acquired a large fortune, and would have succeeded to considerable estates in Lancashire if his son by that lady had lived. He (the son) died at York in 1745, and was soon followed by his mother. This match appears to have been negotiated by James, Earl of Barrymore, then high in influence with the Catholics and Jacobites of the north of England, and suspected of being an active partizan of the Stewarts. Mr. Coppinger wedded, secondly, the daughter and co-heir † of Michael Moore, esq. of Drogheda, and had an only daughter, his successor,

MARIANA COPPINGER, who m. in 1767, Charles Howard, eleventh DUKE OF NORFOLK, but dying in childbed in 1769, her Grace was s. by her uncle,

WILLIAM COPPINGER, esq. of Ballyvolane and Barryscourt, who espoused his cousin Elizabeth, daughter of John Galwey, esq. of Lota, by his wife, Miss Butler, of Westcourt, a near relative of James, second Duke of Ormond, and of Charles, Earl of Arrau, brother of James, the attainted Duke of Ormond, and his successor to the dukedom, though he did not assume the title. By this lady Mr. Coppinger had issue,

- II. WILLIAM, heir.
- III. John, died unm.

* Mr. Coppinger, of Barryscourt, has the minute of the contract of marriage of Stephen, eldest son of Thomas, drawn 13th October, 1700, by Souillard, notaire royal, registered the 18th, and sealed the 19th of the same month, at La Rochelle dans le pays d'Aunis, in France, where Mr. Coppinger is designated Seigneur de Villeteau, which is equivalent in French to the Irish Ballyvolane (Bulltown).

† The other daughters and co-heirs of Michael Moore, esq. of Drogheda, were Eleanor, m. to Sir Edward Bellew, third baronet, of Barmouth; another m. to — Aylmer, esq. of Lyons, grandfather of the late Countess of Kenmare; and the youngest, Christian, wife of James Butler, Baron Cahir.

vi. Joseph, father of William Joseph Coppinger, esq.

vii. James, who m. his cousin, Miss Alicia Coppinger, and had issue.

Mr. Coppinger was succeeded at his decease by his eldest surviving son,

WILLIAM COPPINGER, esq. of Barryscourt, who married Jane, daughter of Stanislaus, and sister of Donat, M'Mahon, esq. of Clenagh, in the county of Clare.* By this lady, who died 31st January, 1833, he had, with several other children who predeceased him, TREVELYAN, OF NETHERWITTON.

Mr. Trevelyan inherited the estates at the decease of his brother, 3rd April, 1818.

Lineage.

As this branch of the Trevellyans derives the bulk of its estates from the THORNTONS, originally of Witton Castle, and represents, through the female line, that family, we shall direct our attention chiefly to the Thornton pedigree.

ROGER DE THORNTON, (son of Hodgkin Thornton), a merchant in Newcastle, was born, according to Leland, at Witton, and from a very humble beginning raised the largest fortune ever previously accumulated by trade in that part of the kingdom. Stowe says, "this Thornton was at the first very poor, and as the people report, was a pedlar, of him to this day they rehearse this rhyme:

In at the Westgate came Thornton in
With a happen hapt in a ram's skin."

BOURNE, speaking of the Westgate, states that it was thought to have been built by Roger de Thornton, in commemoration of his having come from the West country according to the old distich:

"At the Westgate came Thornton in With a hap, and a halpenny and a lamb's skin."

By great industry, however, and through leases of lead mines, he acquired considerable wealth, and eventually became "the richest merchant that ever was dwelling in Newcastle." In 1397 he had risen to the rank of bailiff, and in 1400 was chosen mayor, and elected the first burger in parliament by the borough of Newcastle. In five years afterwards he appears to have done good service against the rebels, and was rewarded by King HENRY IV. with grants of the manors of Aclome and Kirklevington, in Cleveland. This remarkable person died on the 2nd January, 1430, possessed of divers tenements in Newcastle, a moiety of the manors of Benton and Stanington, besides lands scattered broadly and widely over the Northern counties. He was s. by his son, (by his wife, Agnes Wanton),

ROGER DE THORNTON, of Witton Castle, in Northumberland, a commissioner to raise archers in that county, anno 1435, high sheriff in 1457, and between the years 1459 and 1467, frequently employed as ambassador or commissioner to negotiate affairs of importance with the Scots. This Roger farmed, in 1456, the great tithes of Hartburn parish from the abbey of St. Albans, and the same year "granted to the mayor and community of Newcastle the use of the hall and kitchen, belonging to Thornton Hospital, on the Sand Hill, for a young couple when they were married, to make their wedding dinner in, and receive the offerings and gifts of their friends, for at that time houses were not large." Participating most probably in the battle of Towtonfield, or favouring, in some way, the cause of York, he had a grant from EDWARD IV. in 1461, (the year of that sanguinary conflict), of the manor of Neweham, near Bamborough. He m. Elizabeth, only daughter of John, sixth Lord Greystock,*

JOHANNA, m. to Richard de Ogle, but died issueless.

ELIZABETH, m. to SIR GEORGE DE LUMLEY, third Lord Lumley, and conveyed to him the estates of WITTON, in Northumberland, and LULWORTH and Isle, in the bishopric. His lordship had subsequently, however, a great contest with Giles Thornton, his wife's bastard brother, about these lands, which ended in his killing Thornton in the ditch of Windsor Castle.

After the death of his wife, Roger de Thornton cohabited with Johanna Law, and by her had four base sons, on whom he settled the greater part of his vast estates. Those sons were

I. GILES, who, in 1435, was sent on important business to Ireland, and had towards his expenses ten marks "by way of regard." This Giles was slain as stated above by his brother-in-law, Sir George de Lumley.

II. Roger (Sir), who succeeded his brother Giles in his estates, m. a daughter of John Carlyngton, and left at his decease two sons, in minority. These children EDWARD IV. is said to have disinherited in favour of their aunt ELIZABETH's eldest son, THOMAS DE LUMLEY, who had married the king's natural daughter, Elizabeth Plantagenet. They died however both under age.

III. JOHN, of whom presently.

IV. Thomas.

SIR NICHOLAS THORNTON, knt. who held a commission from the Duke of Newcastle, dated 20th October, 1643, to be captain of a troop of hargobduziars, of one hundred men. He raised himself a troop of horse, and continued at its head until forced to resign by ill health. His loyalty subjected him to its consequences in those unhappy times—plunder and confiscation. Sir Nicholas m. Anne, sister of William, first Lord Widdrington, and had, with two younger sons, both serving under the royal banner, his successor,

JOHN THORNTON, esq. who petitioned parliament, 15th July, 1652, (being then under age) to be permitted to compound for his estate; but, on the 6th March following, the house resolved that the name of Thornton, of Netherwitton, be placed on the bill for the sale of estates forfeited to parliament. He was in the end forced to redeem his lands at a high rate, "the rather because even in his infancy he showed his loyalty by appearing in the war of 1648, in which year he was taken at Newmarket in the act of raising forces for the king." His son and successor,

NICHOLAS THORNTON, esq. m. in 1687, Anne, daughter of Sir John Swinburne, bart. of Capheaton, and dying in 1700, left, with other issue, a son and successor,

JOHN THORNTON, esq. of Netherwitton. This gentleman being involved in the rising of 1715, was tried and convicted of high treason, but reprieved 12th July, 1716. His estates were afterwards purchased by his son Thomas, for £13,520. He m. Margaret, daughter of Rowland Eyre, esq. and had issue,

Eleanor.

This gallant officer, whose services have been varied and extended, entered the army as an ensign in the 38th regiment in 1790, and obtained a company in the 53rd within three years. In 1795 he purchased the majority of the same regiment; and, in 1800, became, likewise by purchase, its lieutenant-colonel. During this period he served in all the Duke of York's campaigns in Flanders, at Famers, Valenciennes, Dunkirk, &c. In 1801 he joined his regiment in Jamaica, and continued at its head until its return to England in 1805—serving in Sir Ralph Abercrombie's campaigns at St. Lucia, St. Vincents, Trinidad, Porto Rico, &c. In 1810 he was appointed adjutant-general of the Kent district. In 1812 he embarked for the Peninsula, and thenceforward commanded a brigade in the Duke of Wellington's army, and took part in almost all the battles fought in Spain, the Pyrenees, and the South of France. In 1813 he received the thanks of parliament for his gallant conduct in the field of Orthes. The next year he went with the detachment of the Peninsular army that was ordered to North America, and commanded a brigade at the affairs of Plattsburg, Richlieu, &c. In 1815 he obtained the grand cross of the Bath, while still serving in America. On the re-appearance of NAPOLEON in France, Sir Thomas was recalled, and joined the army in Paris with twelve brigades, comprising nearly ten thousand men, which, on being reviewed, drew from the Duke of Wellington the exclamation,—"Had I had these regiments at Waterloo, I should not have wanted the Prussians." Sir Thomas Brisbane remained in France during the whole period that the Allies occupied the French soil, and in the interim was unanimously elected corresponding member of the Institute of France. In 1820 he was appointed to the staff in Ireland, and commanded the Munster district until the end of that year, when he was presented with the freedom of the city of Cork on removing to New South Wales, of which colony he was constituted governor. He continued there until the close of 1825. In the next year he was appointed, by the Duke of York, colonel of the 34th regiment. In 1824 he was honoured with the degree of LL.D. of Edinburgh; and in 1828 awarded a gold medal by the Royal Astronomical Society, for the services he had rendered to science, and for having founded an observatory in New South Wales, which has since been adopted by the government, and is now in active operation. In 1832 he was made LL.D. of the University of Oxford, and was elected in the same year president of the Royal Society of Edinburgh. In 1833 he had the honour of receiving the degree of A.M. at Cambridge, when he was nominated president of the British Association for the following year.

Sir Thomas Brisbane is a magistrate, and deputy-lieutenant in Ayrshire.

Lineage.

This family, confessedly the chief of the name, appears to have possessed Bishopton, in Renfrewshire, with lands in the counties of Stirling and Ayr, long prior to the date of any charters they have preserved. CRAWFURD, in his Renfrewshire, takes notice of "Bishopton, the ancient inheritance of the Brisbanes, the chief of that name," and of "Allanus de Brysbaue, filius Whelhelmi de Brysbaue, who obtained a grant of the lands of Macherach, in Stirlingshire, to which Malcolm, Earl of Wigton, (so created in 1334) is witness." (Charta penes burgum de Dumbarton). Also Thomas and Alexander Brisbane, brothers, who are witnesses to a charter, bearing date, 9th September, in the 32nd of DAVID II. (1361); and Thomas Brisbane, witness to a charter, dated 22nd September, 1409. The designations are not given, but witnesses to such instruments, were generally the great officers of the crown. Previous to all these, there was a William Brisbane, chancellor of Scotland, anno 1332, mentioned in Hale's annals, in all probability an ancestor of the family before us, as its armorial bearings, the three cushions should seem to have been adopted in allusion to such civil office. There is an old wooden chair still preserved at Brisbane, having these arms and the date 1357, carved upon it.

JOHN BRISBANE, of Bishopton, was s. by his son,

JOHN BRISBANE, who obtained, on the 1st September, 1407, a charter for infefting him as heir to his father in the lands of Bishopton, and who was infeft accordingly. He appears to have been succeeded by his son,

JOHN BRISBANE, whose son and heir,

JOHN BRISBANE, of Bishopton, was executor in 1490, to Thomas Sempil, of Eliotston, his brother-in-law. He m. Mary, daughter of Sir William Sempil, of Eliotston, by Agnes, daughter of Alexander, second Lord Montgomery, (MS. History of the Eglintoun family), and was s. by his son,

MATHEW BRISBANE, of Bishopton, who, falling at the battle of Flodden, 9th September, 1513, and leaving no issue, was s. by his brother,

JOHN BRISBANE, whose retour of service in the lands of Killingcraig, &c. holding of the crown, relates the circumstance of his brother's death at Flodden; and whose charter, dated 4th July, 1514, of the estate of Bishopton, is granted, by John, Lord Erskine, son of Lord Robert, who also fell at Floddenfield. This John Brisbane was s. by his son,

JOHN BRISBANE, of Bishopton, who, as heir of his father, obtained a charter, dated 12th August, 1523, from John, third Earl of Lennox, of the lands of Ballincleirach, in the district of Campsie, and county of Stirling. From a sasine, dated in 1523, it appears that his wife was Elizabeth, daughter of Sir William Lindsay, of Dunrod. He fell at the battle of Pinkie, 10th September, 1547, and was s. by his son,

JOHN BRISBANE, of Bishopton, who was served heir to his father in the lands of Killingcraig, 20th May, 1549. He was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

ROBERT BRISBANE, who m. in 1562, Janette Stewart, daughter of James Stewart, of Ardgowan and Blackhall,* (marriage contract dated 29th August, in that year). He

JOHN BRISBANE, of Bishopton, who espoused first, 24th December, 1595, Anna Blair, daughter of the Laird of Blair, and had issue,

- i. JOHN, his heir.
- ii. Robert, who wedded, in 1635, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Thomas Lyon, of Auldbar.
- i. Janet, m. in 1612, to Fleming, of Baghall, second son of John, first Earl of Wigton.
- ii. Grissel, m. in 1623, to Walter Dennieston, of Calgrain.
- iii. ELIZABETH, m. to James Shaw, of Bailliegellie, in Ireland, of the family of Shaw of Greenock, and was mother of JAMES SHAW, who is mentioned hereafter, as the husband of his cousin, ELIZABETH BRISBANE, and continuator of the family.

- iv. Sarah, m. to Sir William Mure, of Rowallan.

Mr. Braisbane losing his first wife on the 8th Marth, 1608, m. secondly, 28th April, 1612, the Hon. Jane Sempil, daughter of Robert, fourth Lord Sempil, and sister of Hugh, fifth Lord, (the latter nobleman is a party to the marriage contract) and had two other sons and two daughters, namely,

- i. William.
- ii. James.
- i. Anne, m. in 1628, to James Campbell, son of Sir James Campbell, of Ardkinglass.

iii. Anna, m. in 1663, to Robert Hamilton, of Barns.

iv. Jannet, m. in 1662, to Captain Hamilton, of Woodside.

v. Marion.

vi. Jean.

John Brisbane, the elder, wedded secondly, Jean, daughter of James Chalmers, of Gadhirth, but had no other issue. The death of his son without heirs male, placing the estates at his disposal, he made the contract of marriage between his eldest daughter, ELIZABETH, and his nephew, JAMES SHAW, by which the estate of Brisbane was to be settled on the heirs male of that marriage, and James Shaw, was himself to assume the surname and arms of Brisbane; with which covenant complying, accordingly he became

JAMES BRISBANE, of that Ilk. There is a letter of remission to this James Brisbane, from JAMES VII. dated 26th February, 1686, for fines imposed on him for any irregularities his wife had been guilty of in consequence (no doubt) of attending conventicles, or Presbyterian meetings, so obnoxious to the court in those days, and deemed the most irregular of all conduct. James and Elizabeth Brisbane had issue,

- i. JOHN, heir.
- ii. James, writer to the signet, who m. in 1691, Anne, second daughter of John Cranstoun, of Glen.
- iii. William, a captain in the army, died unm.
- i. Anne, m. to Ramsay, M.D. of Ayr.

The eldest son,

JOHN BRISBANE, of Brisbane, espoused Margaret, daughter of Sir Archibald Stewart, of Blackhall, (contract dated 17th and 26th October, 1685) and had two sons and four daughters, viz.

- i. JAMES, his heir.
- ii. Thomas, who m. in 1715, Isabel, daughter of Sir Thomas Nicolson, of Ladykirk, and had issue,
 1. THOMAS, heir to his uncle.
 2. John, who entered the navy, and distinguishing himself during the American war, attained the rank of admiral. He m. Miss Young, daughter of Admiral Young, and died in 1807, having had (with daughters) several sons, of whom,

JOHN DOUGLAS, the eldest, was drowned on board of one of the French Prizes, after Rodney's action, in 1782.

Thomas-Stewart, lieutenant-colonel in the army, was killed at St. Domingo, in 1795, while commanding a corps with great distinction.

William-Henry, a naval captain, was poisoned by the French prisoners at Gibraltar, in 1796.

CHARLES (Sir) a distinguished naval officer,* who m. in 1792, Sarah, daughter and co-heir of the late Sir James Patey, knt. of Reading, and dying in 1829, left issue, CHARLES, captain in the 34th regiment, m. in 1832, Miss Barrett Leonard, daughter of Sir Thomas Barrett Leonard, bart.

* SIR CHARLES BRISBANE entered the naval service about the year 1779, on board the Alcide, of 74 guns, under the auspices of his father, whom he afterwards accompanied into the Hercules, another third rate. This ship formed part of Sir George Rodney's fleet, in the memorable engagement of the 12th April, 1782, wherein Mr. Charles Brisbane was wounded. In 1790, he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant; in 1793, proceeded with Captain Tyler in the Meleager frigate to the Mediterranean, and during the two following years served with distinction under Hood and Nelson. In 1795, he was made commander, and in the following year obtained a post captain's commission. In 1815, he was nominated a Knight of the Bath, and advanced to the rank of rear admiral, 12th August, 1819.

The following exploit of the gallant admiral cannot be omitted even in the limited space to which we are confined.

Towards the end of the year 1806, Captain Brisbane was despatched from Jamaica, with a squadron of frigates, consisting of the Arethusa, Latona, and Anson, to reconnoitre the island of Curaçoa, and to ascertain whether the inhabitants were disposed to an alliance with Great Britain. And on the 1st January, 1807, the little squadron, reinforced by the Figgard frigate, arrived off Curaçoa. No orders, whatever, had been given to attack the island, but having by means of the pilots taken on board at Aruba, perfectly ascertained the situation of the place, Captain Brisbane determined to capture it by a coup de main; and imparting his intention to the respective captains under him, and taking the sole responsibility on himself, he led his ships into the harbour. It is well deserving of remark, that previously to this, and unknown to their officer, the men, participating in the spirit of their gallant leader, had arranged themselves for attack, and when called to quarters, they were found with the words "Victory or Death," chalked upon their hats. Under cover of a severe and destructive cannonade, Captain Brisbane landed with his boat's crew, when fort Amsterdam was instantly captured, the commodore himself being the first to scale the walls; and by ten o'clock the same night the British flag, hoisted on fort Republique, announced the surrender of the entire island. For this gallant exploit, Captains Brisbane and Wood received the gold medal, and were knighted.

John-William-Douglas, a lieutenant R.N.

4. Alexander.

5. Charles.

1. Margaret, m. in 1738, to John Mitchell, esq. of Middleton, advocate, and had issue.

2. D'Arcy, m. to Sir Walter Maxwell, bart. of Pollock.

3. Mary, m. to the Honorable George Cranstoun, seventh son of the fifth Lord Cranstoun, and had issue,

Henry Cranstoun, of the Navy Pay Office, who m. first, Christina, daughter of — Smart, esq. by whom he had issue; and secondly, Anne, eldest daughter and co-heir of Sir John Whiteford, bart.

George Cranstoun, one of the Lords of Session, under the title of LORD COREHOUSE.

Margaret Cranstoun, m. 25th February, 1780, to William Cunningham, of Lainshaw.

Jane-Anne Cranstoun, m. to Godfrey Wincestauss, Count of Purgstall, in Styria.

Helen-D'Arcy Cranstoun, m. 26th July, 1790, to Professor Dugald Stewart, who d. 11th June, 1828.

4. Helen, m. to Admiral Sir James Douglas, bart. and was grandmother of the present Sir John-James Scott Douglas, bart.

5. Isabella, m. to John Miller, M.D.

6. Agnes, died unm.

1. Prudence, died unm.

11. Jean, m. to — Montgomerie, brother of Hugh Montgomerie, of Broomlands.

111. Elizabeth, m. to Alexander Forrester, of Carse Cowie.

1V. Catherine, m. to William Fairlie, of that ilk.

Mr. Brisbane was s. at his decease, by his elder son,

JAMES BRISBANE, of Brisbane, who was served heir to his father on the 2nd May,

1737, but dying unmarried, the estates devolved on his nephew,

THOMAS BRISBANE, of Brisbane, who was served heir on the 15th September, 1770. This gentleman m. Eleanora, daughter of Sir William Bruce, bart. of Stenhouse, and had two sons and a daughter, viz.

THOMAS, his heir.

Michael, who went to India, and died there in the service of the company.

Mary.

Mr. Brisbane died in 1812, and was s. by his only surviving son, the present Lieutenant General SIR THOMAS MAKDOUGALL-BRISBANE, K.C.B.

BUCHANAN, OF ARDOCH.

BUCHANAN, JOHN, esq. of Ardoch, in the county of Dumbarton, vice-lieutenant, lieutenant-commander of the local militia, and lately member of parliament for that shire, b. 8th January, 1761, m. 1st November, 1785, Elizabeth, daughter of John Parkes, esq. of Netherton, in Worcestershire, and of the borough of Warwick, by whom, who d. 4th September, 1807, he has had issue,

JOHN, b. 24th March, 1799.

Mary, m. to Robert Findlay, esq. of Easter Hill, in the county of Lanark.

Margaret, d. 25th January, 1825.

Elizabeth.

Mr. Buchanan succeeded his father 10th December, 1789.

Lineage.

The family of Buchanan is of great antiquity in the county of Stirling. MACOUM DE BOQUHANAN, chief of the clan, being recorded in the Ragman's Roll as one of those who swore fealty to EDWARD I. in 1296. JOHN, the twenty-second laird, sold the family estate of Buchanan to the Marquess of Montrose in 1680, and died two years afterwards without male issue. Several branches of the family took root in the neighbouring counties of Dumbarton, Perth, and Lanark, and flourished in those parts.

SIR WALTER BUCHANAN succeeded his father soon after 1424, and became thirteenth Laird of Buchanan. (His elder brother, Sir Alexander, having fallen issueless at the Battle of Verneuil.) Sir Walter m. Isabel Stewart, daughter of Murdoch, Duke of Albany, Governor of Scotland, and had three sons, viz.

I. PATRICK, his successor.

II. Maurice.

III. Thomas.

The third son,

THOMAS BUCHANAN, acquired the estate of Carbeth, and was grandfather of

THOMAS BUCHANAN, of Carbeth, who m. first, a daughter of Douglas of Mains, and had a son, who succeeded him at Carbeth. He wedded, secondly, a daughter of Buchanan of Buchanan, by whom he had five sons and two daughters. From the eldest son of the second marriage,

JOHN BUCHANAN, sprang

WILLIAM BUCHANAN, acquired, in 1693, the estate of Ardoch, in the parish of Kil-marnoch and county of Dumbarton. He m. Jean, daughter of Kincaid of Auchencroch, and had a son,

THOMAS, b. in 1678, m. Agnes, daughter of John Bogle, of Glasgow, and dying before his father (1717), left issue,

JOHN, successor to his grandfather.

Francis.

He d. in December, 1723, and was s. by his grandson,

JOHN BUCHANAN, of Archdoch, b. 26th December, 1706, who m. first, Mary, daughter of William Crawford, merchant, of Glasgow, and had one son and two daughters, viz.

THOMAS, his heir.

Mary, m. to the Rev. James Graham.

Agnes, m. to John Buchanan, of Ladrishmore.

Mr. Buchanan wedded, secondly, in 1747, Elizabeth, daughter of Walter Buchanan, writer in Glasgow, and relict of Alexander Buchanan, of Cremannan, and by her had another daughter, Frances, b. in 1751, m. to John Maxwell, of Dargavel, in the county of Renfrew.

This John, who was an eminent lawyer at Glasgow, d. 13th January, 1774, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS BUCHANAN, of Ardoch, b. 6th November, 1733. This gentleman m. first, Margaret, daughter and heiress of Moses Buchanan, descended in a direct line from John, son of Alexander Buchanan, of Ibert, brother of GEORGE BUCHANAN, the historian and poet (see some account of this eminent writer at foot), and by her had a son, JOHN, his successor. He wedded, secondly, Jean, daughter of John Gray, of Dalmarnoch, and had

James, who m. Anne, youngest daughter of John Parkes, esq. of Warwick.

Elizabeth, m. to Alexander Gordon, esq.

Mr. Buchanan espoused, thirdly, Helen, daughter of William Graham, of Birdstone, and had four other sons and two daughters,

William, m. the Honorable Elizabeth Murray, eldest daughter of Alexander, seventh Lord Elibank.

Robert, m. Margaret, daughter of Dunlop, of Annanhill, in the county of Ayr.

Thomas.

Archibald, commander R.N. m. Matilda, daughter of — Dalbiach, esq. and d. in 1822.

Helen, m. to John Balfour, esq.

Marion.

He d. 10th December, 1789, and was s. by his eldest son, the present JOHN BUCHANAN, esq. of Ardoch.

BUCHANAN,

The Poet and Historian.

This eminent writer and great master of modern Latinity was born in the shire of Dumbarton in 1505. His maternal uncle, James Heriot, perceiving the superiority of his talents, sent him for instruction to Paris, where he remained however but two years. He subsequently became a soldier, and was engaged in active and perilous warfare with England, mingling enthusiastically in all military operations, and thus preparing himself for those vivid descriptions of valour which abound in his History of Scotland. He remained but one year in the army, when, abandoning a military life, he obtained the professorship of grammar in the college of St. Barbe; and from that became, in 1532, tutor to Gilbert Kennedy, Earl of Cassilis, to whom he inscribed his first work, the translation of Linacre's Rudiments of Latin Grammar. Returning with this nobleman to Scotland, he was appointed by King JAMES V. tutor to his bastard son, James Stuart, so well known afterwards as the Regent MORAY. About this period he commenced satirising the monks, in a poem entitled "SOMNIUM," which was followed by another of similar tendency. Those satires brought him, being unprotected by the king, into imminent danger, and forced a precipitate retreat, first to London and then to Paris, whence, dreading the influence of Cardinal Beaton, then ambassador at the court of Versailles, he was obliged to seek an asylum in the College of Guienne, at Bourdeaux, where he became professor of the Latin language. During his stay at Bourdeaux he partly composed his tragedies of "Baptistes" and "Jephthes," and made his translation of the Medea and Alcestes of Euripides. He departed from Bourdeaux in 1543, owing to the pestilence, and was for a while domestic tutor to the celebrated Montaigne, who records the fact in his Essays. The next year he was in Paris, and taught for some time in the College of Bourbon. In 1547 he was induced to accompany his friend GOVEA to Portugal, on that professor's recall to superintend the University of Coimbra. Within a year, however, Govea died, and the freedom of Buchanan's opinions giving offence, he was condemned by the Inquisition to confinement in a monastery, that he might be edified by the monks. In this forced retreat he begun his beautiful version of the PSALMS OF DAVID, a task, it is said, imposed upon him by his spiritual instructors. He returned in 1560 to Scotland; and, openly professing the Protestant faith, was made Principal of St. Leonard's College, St. Andrew's. In 1567, although a layman, he was constituted Moderator of the General Assembly, and appointed tutor to King James VI. who acquired from his preceptor that classic taste and knowledge which his majesty was afterwards so proud of displaying. In 1570 Buchanan was made a lord of council and lord privy seal. The last twelve years of his life were devoted to his great work, "RERUM SCOTICARUM HISTORIA," in ninety books, which was published at Edinburgh in 1582, the year of his decease, when he had attained his seventy-sixth year. He was buried at the public expense.

As a writer generally, Buchanan enjoyed high reputation:—as a modern Latin poet he was pre-eminent. His political life,— his ingratitude to the unhappy QUEEN OF SCOTLAND, cast a melancholy shadow over the bright career of the poet and the scholar.

1. Frances.

Frances, m. 6th October, 1814, to the Rev. William Veale, of Trevayler, in Cornwall.

Mr. Grylls succeeded to the estates at the demise of his father.

Lineage.

In a document, now in the possession of this family, dated 13th June, 1577, granting to William Grylls, esq. of Tavistock; the crest, "on a wreath gold and gules, a porcupine passant silver mantled gu. dabled silver;" and signed Robert Cooke Clarenceux Roy d'armes, appears the following passage, "I, being required of William Grylls of Tavistock Co Devon. Mr. Grylls was succeeded at his decease, by his eldest son,

CHARLES GRYLLS, esq. who alienated the residence of Court, which had been held for so many generations. That estate is now in the possession of Admiral Spry; the manor house remains, with the various arms of the family on the cornices of several of the apartments: the adjoining church of Lanreath (the advowson of which was sold at the same time) contains the monuments of Sir John and Lady Grylls, and other ancestors of the house. Mr. Grylls married Mary,* daughter and sole heir of

Edmund Spoure, esq. of Trebartha Hall, and relict of Renatus Bellott, esq. but dying without issue, 24th February, 1727, at Trebartha Hall, the representation of the family devolved on his brother,

The Rev. RICHARD GERVEYS GRYLLS, rector of Lanreath, who m. Anne Mohun, or Moon, and dying in 1735, left a son and successor, † Glyn signifies in the old Cornish language a woody valley, and thence was denominated the manor of Glynn, which gave name to the respectable family seated there.

THOMAS GLYNN, of Glynn, married Alicia, daughter and heir of Richard Dennis, and had two sons, NICHOLAS, who succeeded his father at Glynn, where his descendants are still seated.

His son, William, is noticed by Carew, as "Master Glyn, of Glynford, who manifested by his compounded name, the antiquity of his descent, and the ordinary passage there over Foy river."

JOHN.

From the second son,

JOHN GLYNN, who settled at Westcott, in Boyton, Cornwall, and married Thomasine, daughter of Henry Carlyon, esq. of Carlyon; the Glynn, of Helston, are supposed to have descended. The first of whom on record,

WILLIAM GLYNN, was seated at Wendron, in 1613, and bore the same armorial ensigns as Glynn, of Glynn. He m. the daughter of Roscove, of Roscove, and was succeeded by his son,

THOMAS GLYNN, of Helston, father of

THOMAS GLYNN, esq. of Helston, living there in 1662, who m. Mary, daughter and heir of Otho Polkinghorne, and thus acquired the Manor and Barton of Polkinghorne, in Cornwall. He was s. by his eldest son,

OTHO GLYNN, esq. of Helston and Polkinghorne, who m. Elizabeth Pendarves, of Taskus, and was father of THOMAS GLYNN, esq. of Helston and Polkinghorne, who d. in 1779, leaving, by Cordelia, his wife, daughter of Thomas Trewren, of Trewardreva, in Cornwall, one son and a daughter, viz.

THOMAS, of Helston, who died unm. 1794.

CORDELIA, eventually sole heiress, m. to

RICHARD GERVEYS GRYLLS, esq. of Helston.

* This lady devised her estates to the family of Rodd, by whose representative, FRANCIS-HEARLE RODD, esq. of Trebartha Hall, they are now enjoyed, (see vol. i. p. 260).

Glynn.

Matthew, b. 3rd August, 1765, died unmarried, in France, 8th January, 1795.

Cordelia, m. 19th February, 1784, to Rev. Thomas Trevenen, rector of Cardynham, and d. 24th April, 1810. Sarah, died unmarried, at Clifton, 20th August, 1823.

Mr. Grylls died 3rd April, 1771, and was succeeded by his eldest son, the present REV. RICHARD GERVEYS GRYLLS, of Helston.

Family of Gerveys.

The first mention we find of the family of Gerveys, is that one,

PETER, Lord of Antrewon, near Helston, temp. EDWARD I. He married the daughter of Hugh Peverell, and was succeeded by his son,

JOSEPH, Lord of Antrewon, who wedded Alicia, daughter of Roger le Archdeacon, and was grandfather of

JOHN GERVEYS, of Helston, living in 1329, who m. Nicholia, daughter and heir of John Bonathlack, of Bonathlack, and thus acquired that estate, which continued in the Gerveys family, until the marriage of Elizabeth Gerveys with Charles Grylls, of Lanreath. John Gerveys was s. by his son,

JAMES GERVEYS, of Bonathlack, living in 1385, who m. Isabella, daughter and co-heir of Roger Treveylos, and had a son,

JOHN GERVEYS, of Bonathlack, father, by Margaret, his wife, daughter and heiress of William Mewthingam, of PETER GERVEYS, of Bonathlack, who m.

Johanna, daughter of William Gurland and was succeeded by his son,

WILLIAM GERVEYS, of Bonathlack, whose son and heir, (by Emilia, his wife, daughter of Michael Petit),

RICHARD GERVEYS, esq. of Bonathlack, espoused Jane, daughter of Thomas Trefusis, esq. of Trefusis, in Cornwall, and was father of

THOMAS GERVEYS, esq. of Bonathlack, who wedded Anne, daughter of Nicholas Hearle, and had a son and heir,

JOHN GERVEYS, esq. of Bonathlack, who m. Johanna, daughter and heiress of William Trevanion, esq. of Tregadder, and thus the Gerveys' family obtained that estate. William Trevanion was third son of Richard Trevanion, youngest son of Sir Hugh Trevanion, of Caerhays, who fought under the banner of Richmond, at Bosworth, (see vol. i. p. 254).

By the heiress of Tregadder, Mr. Gerveys had a son and successor,

RICHARD GERVEYS, esq. of Bonathlack, whose only daughter and heiress (by Sarah, his wife, daughter of G. Yeo, esq. of Huish, in Devonshire), ELIZABETH, m. CHARLES GRYLLS, esq. of Court, in Lanreath, and conveyed her patrimonial estates to the GRYLLSES, by whom they are now enjoyed.

WARNER, OF ARDEER.

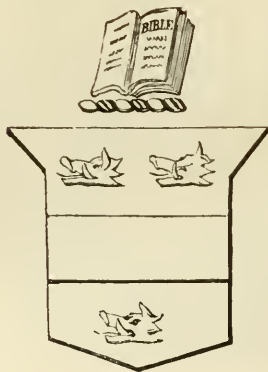

WARNER, PATRICK, esq. of Ardeer, in the county of Ayr, succeeded his father 27th September, 1824.

Lineage.

In 1656,

JOHN WARNER, the first-mentioned in the title deeds of the family, purchased a tenement in the burgh of Irvine, together with the braid meadow adjacent, from John Mure. He had two sons, viz.

THOMAS, an eminent minister of the church of Scotland, and a great sufferer in the persecuting times of CHARLES II. This divine who was minister of Balmaclelan, in Galloway, was thence ejected in 1679, for attending Conventicles, but was restored at the Revolution. He died 10th September, 1716. He was generally called Vernor in his own parish, and under that name is known in the History of the Times. The Reverend Pastor outlived the persecution, spoke twenty-six years from his former pulpit, finished his days amidst the blessings of his flock; and his gravestone is yet to be seen in the churchyard of Balmaclellan.

PATRICK.

The second son,

PATRICK WARNER, was educated in the university of St. Andrews, and licensed a preacher of the gospel about the year 1667, by the dissenting ministers in London, by whom he was recommended to the East India Company, and appointed in 1669 minister of Fort St. George, on the Coromandel Coast. In 1677, he returned to Scotland, and preached in various conventicles in the fields, especially in Galloway, together with the celebrated John Welsh. In two years after, the battle of Bothwell Bridge forced him to retire to Holland; but returning in a short time, he renewed his field preachings throughout the Western parts of Scotland.

He subsequently suffered a long imprisonment, and a variety of persecutions, which at length compelled him to fly a second time to Holland, where he remained until 1687, when taking advantage of KING JAMES's Indulgence, he returned to Scotland, and was ordained on the 24th March, in the following year, minister in Irvine. He there officiated until 1709, and then retired to his house at Ardeer, where he was living in 1722, being at that period, the oldest minister of the church of Scotland.* He purchased, in 1611, from Scott of Clonbeith, the lands of Scot's Loch, and the Trindlemoss, near Irvine, which he improved so effectually by a large drain, still called "The Minister's Cast," that from a swampy field of small value, it has become the best land in the parish. In 1692, he acquired the lands of Hallbarns, in the parish of Kilmaurs, from Sir Robert Berkeley of Piercetown, and in 1708, those of ARDEER and Dowcotehall, from Robert Cunningham of Auchenharvie.

Patrick Warner m. in 1681, Mary, *dau. of the Rev. William Guthrie, the learned minister of Fenwick (eldest son of the Laird of Pitforthly) and had one son and a dau. viz.

WILLIAM, his heir.

Margaret, m. to the Rev. Ebenezer Veitch, lecturer in the Tronkirk, Edinburgh, afterwards, in 1703, minister of Ayr. She wedded, secondly, the Rev. Robert Woodrow, the celebrated author of the History and Sufferings of the Church of Scotland.

The son,

WILLIAM WARNER, esq. of Ardeer, in the shire of Ayr, wedded first, Janet, daughter of Alexander Hamilton, esq. of Grange, and had issue,

PATRICK, his heir.

John, died minister of Kilbarchan, in 1786.

William, who was unfortunately drowned in India.

The laird of Ardeer m. secondly, Mary Mowat, widow of James Rea, of Walsstone, by whom he acquired that estate, but had no children. He d. before 1762, and was s. by his son, PATRICK WARNER, esq. of Ardeer, who m. Miss Helen Russel, and had two sons and three daughters, viz.

PATRICK, his heir.

John, in the East India Company's service.

William, m. in 1800, to Alexander Miller, esq. of Monkcastle. See p. 349.

Agnes.

Helen, m. to Robert Hunter, esq.

The elder son,

PATRICK WARNER, esq. of Ardeer, lieutenant in the royal navy, espoused 21st October, 1816, Catherine, daughter of Quintin Johnston, esq. of Trolarg, and had a son, PATRICK, his heir, and a daughter, Catherine, who died young. Mr. Warner, d. 27th September, 1824, and was s. by his only son, the present PATRICK WARNER, esq. of Ardeer.

* The following extract is from the Presbytery records:—

Irvine, April 23, 1095.

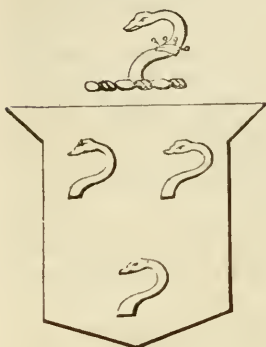

Sederunt, Messrs. John Wilson, James Osburn, Robert Stirling, Andrew Fowles, Alexander Orr, Thomas Hunter, John Glasgow, John Jameson, Thomas Clark, John Andrew, elder from Kilmarnock.

The Presbytery met this day, pro re natu, being advertised by reason of a letter from the commission of the church, advising this Presbytery therein to elect one of their number to attend the Parliament, which is expected to sit shortly, and some affairs relating to the church will be in before it; upon which the Presbytery did elect Mr. Patrick Warner to go to Edinburgh, and to join with his brethren there, for the good of the church, and to continue for three weeks; and if the parliament happens to sitt longer, then Mr. Osburn is to succeed him.

Extracted from the Records of the Presbytery, by ROBERT URQUHART, Presbytery Clerk.

Mr. Colquhoun is the official representative, in Great Britain, of ten governments and legislatures, four in Europe, namely, the free Hanseatic republics of Lubeck, Bremen, and Hamburgh, for which he is diplomatic agent and consul-general, and Saxony, for which he is consul-general. He is also colonial-agent for the following colonies in the West Indies: St. Vincent, St.

Christopher, Dominica, Nevis, Anguilla, and the Virgin Islands. Mr. Colquhoun was appointed by the Hanseatic republics, in 1825, their plenipotentiary, and in that capacity concluded a treaty of navigation and commerce with Messrs. Canning and Huskisson, on behalf of Great Britain, bearing date 29th September, 1825; and the same states appointed him again, in 1830, their plenipotentiary to negotiate a treaty with Mexico, which he accomplished in 1830. In that year he was constituted plenipotentiary by the King of Saxony, and the princes of Schwartzburg and Reuss, the dukes of Altenburg, Saxe Gotha, Saxe Cobourg, and Saxe Meinigen, for which princes he acts as consul-general in Great Britain, and he concluded a treaty of commerce on their behalf with the government of Mexico in 1832.

Lineage.

In the year 1220,

HUMPHREY DE KILPATRICK received, from ALEXANDER the Second, King of Scotland, a large tract of land situated on the north side of the Clyde, in Dumbartonshire, called the barony of Colquhoun, and thence assumed the surname of Colquhoun. From this Humphrey sprang.

SIR ROBERT DE COLQUHOUN, Lord of Colquhoun, living in 1373, who m. the daughter and sole heiress of Humphrey de Luss, and succeeded, in her right, to the lands of Luss, in Lochlomond. Sir Robert had (besides Humphrey, his successor, from whom descend, in the female line, the present Sir James Colquhoun, of Colquhoun and Luss; and, in the male line, Sir Robert Colquhoun, of Tilliquhoun,) a third son,

ROBERT COLQUHOUN, who had a grant, in 1395, from his brother, Sir Humphrey, of the lands of Comstroden. The fifth in descent from this Robert,

ROBERT COLQUHOUN, of Comstroden, living in 1540, married and had, with ROBERT, of Comstroden, his heir, several younger sons, who all settled in and near the royal borough of Dumbarton. One of those,

HUMPHREY COLQUHOUN, owner of lands in Dumbarton, anno 1580, was father of

DAVID COLQUHOUN, living in 1625, whose son,

ADAM COLQUHOUN, was treasurer of the royal borough of Dumbarton in 1675. He died in 1685, and was s. by his son,

DAVID COLQUHOUN, esq. b. in 1671, a magistrate of Dumbarton from the year 1707 to 1716. This gentleman married the daughter of James Duncanson, esq. of Garshake, and dying in 1756, was s. by his son,

ADAM COLQUHOUN, esq. b. in 1711, sheriff substitute, or local judge of the county of Dumbarton, and keeper of the register of

 A deputy lieutenant of Middlesex;
 And for twenty-five years
 A magistrate of that and the adjoining counties,
 He originated
 And gratuitously carried into effect
 The Marine Police,—
 An establishment by which the property of the West India planter,
 And of the merchant and ship-owner in the port of London,
 Was protected from plunder to a great extent,
 The revenue of the crown largely increased,
 And the morals of the river labourers materially improved;
 With unceasing energy
 He suggested and successfully promoted various plans
 For the prevention of crimes,
 For the supply of food during scarcities,
 For meliorating the condition of the poor,
 And for the education of their children;
 The author of the Treatises
 On the Police of the Metropolis and River Thames,
 And on the Wealth, Power, and Resources
 Of the British Empire;
 He published numerous other works on Criminal jurisprudence, political economy, and
 On the commerce and manufactures of Great Britain.
 So highly was he respected and esteemed.
 As well on the continent of Europe as in the Colonial possessions of his Majesty,
 That, on the declared ground of
 His public character and services,
 The free Hanseatic republics of Lubeck, Bremen, and Hamburgh,
 Constituted him their resident and consul general;—
 And the colonies of
 St. Vincent, Nevis, Dominica, and the Virgin Islands,
 Their agent in this country.
 To a kind and benevolent disposition, he added
 A mind as Fertile in conception, as it was bold and Persevering in execution.
 He was born 14th March, 1745,
 At Dumbarton, in Scotland,
 And after a laborious life, alike honourable to himself
 And useful to his country,
 He died, April 25, 1820, aged 76 years.

HUDDART, OF BRYNKIR.

HUDDART, SIR JOSEPH, knt. of Brynkir, in the county of Carnarvon, b. 21st December, 1766, m. 15th May, 1808, Elizabeth, second daughter of the late Andrew Durham, esq. of Belvedere, in the county of Down, and has issue,

GEORGE-AUGUSTUS.
Fane-Routh.

Elizabeth.
Emmeline.
Louisa-Anne.
Harriet.
Caroline.
Ellen-Durham.
Frances-Josephine.

Sir Joseph succeeded his father in 1816. He was appointed deputy-lieutenant for the county of Carnarvon in 1820, and served the office of high sheriff in 1821, when the King, paying a visit to the principality, conferred upon him the honour of knighthood.

Lineage.

This family was founded by

JOSEPH HUDDART, F.R.S. an eminent navigator and hydrographer, born at Allenby, in the county of Cumberland, in the year 1741, and originally designed for the church, from which sacred pursuit he was diverted by a strong bias to the life of a seaman. In or about the year 1756-7, immense shoals of herrings having made their appearance in the Firth of Forth, the father of Huddart then residing in the fishing town of Allenby, joined some of his most respectable neighbours in erecting places for curing those fish, upon an extensive scale, and the subject of this notice became in consequence much engaged in the fishery, thus laying the foundation by practical knowledge of his future high reputation. His father died in 1762, and he was subsequently employed in the Irish and West India trades. In 1773-4, he entered, at the desire of Sir Richard Hotham, the service of the East India Company, and attained the rank of commander therein, in 1778; from this he retired in 1788, to enjoy the fruits of his industry. In 1791, Captain Huddart was appointed an elder brother of the Trinity House, and about the same time a Fellow of the Royal Society, and "few," says his biographer, in the Gentleman's Magazine, "have had higher pretensions to these honorable distinctions, for to him the science of navigation owes many valuable discoveries and improvements, the result of much personal fatigue and expensive experiment; the world, in general, is likewise indebted to him, for many of the best maps and charts extant; and his knowledge of mathematics and astronomy ranked him in the class, if not upon a level, with the first professors of those sciences. Of his skill in mechanism, he has left a monument in the machinery for the manufacture of cordage, unrivalled in this or in any other country."

Captain Huddart m. in 1761, Elizabeth, daughter of John Johnston, esq. and had, with two other sons, William, commander of the York East Indiaman, who died in China, and Johnston, also in the East India Company's service, who died at Leghorn, the present SIR JOSEPH HUDDART, knt. He d. in 1816.

MILLER, OF MONK CASTLE.

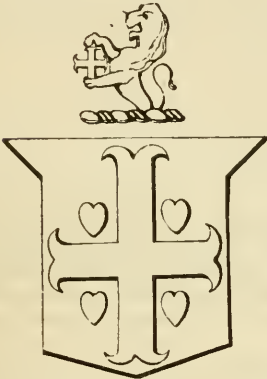

MILLER, WILLIAM, esq. of Monk Castle, in the county of Ayr, b. 23rd June, 1801, m. 5th November, 1830, Anna-Maria, second daughter of the late Admiral Campbell, Portuguese royal navy, and has issue,

WILLIAM-AUGUSTUS-CUNNINGHAME, b. 19th September, 1831.
Campbell, b. 20th November, 1832.

This gentleman, who is a member of the Faculty of Advocates, a justice of the peace, and a commissioner of supply in the county of Ayr, succeeded his father on the 5th March, 1828.

Mr. Miller is provincial grand master of the Freemasons for the county of Ayr.

Lineage.

WILLIAM MILLER, the founder of this family, had two sons,

WILLIAM, a merchant, in Glasgow.

ALEXANDER, a merchant, likewise at Glasgow, who was admitted a burgess of that town, in 1717, and in six years afterwards (26th February, 1723) purchased the lands of Monk Castle and Craigmill, which anciently belonged to the monastery of Kilwinning. He died soon after, and his property devolved upon his brother.

The elder son,

WILLIAM MILLER, was served heir of conquest to his brother, Alexander, 26th August, 1725, and thus became "of Monk Castle." He m. 24th October, 1727, Jean, second daughter of William Nimmo, of Bridgehouse, in the county of Linlithgow, and had two sons,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Alexander, merchant, in London, d. unm. in 1760.

He died at the advanced age of ninety-seven, in 1757, and was s. by his elder son,

WILLIAM MILLER, esq. of Monk Castle, who wedded, 5th April, 1773, Agnes, eldest daughter of George Cuninghame, of Monkredding, and dying in December, 1802, was s. by his only child,

WILLIAM ALEXANDER MILLER, esq. of Monk Castle. This gentleman m. in 1800, Miss William Warner, second daughter of Patrick Warner, esq. of Ardeer, and had issue,

i. WILLIAM, his heir.

ii. Alexander-Cuninghame.

iii. Patrick.

i. Agnes, m. to Captain Wyllie, of the 29th Madras Native Infantry, and has two sons.

ii. Ellen.

iii. Jane-Nimmo.

iv. Janette-Hamilton, died unm.

v. Catherine - Anne, m. to William Cuninghame Haldane, esq. of Edinburgh.

vi. Rebecca-Henrietta.

Mr. Miller died 5th March, 1828, and was s. by his eldest son, the present WILLIAM MILLER, esq. of Monk Castle.

Family of Cuninghame.

In the year 1633, the family of CUNINGHAME alienated the lands of Clonbeith, to James Scott, provost of Irvine, but they were reacquired in sixty-two years after (1695) by

HUGH CUNINGHAME, designed "of Clonbeith," in deed of sale, which is a strong proof that he was representative of the original family. The estate was subsequently sold, in 1717, to Alexander, Earl of Eglintoun, with whose heirs it still remains. In 1698, Hugh Cuninghame purchased the lands of Monkredding, from a family of the name of Niven, and dying in 1714, was s. by his son,

GEORGE CUNINGHAME, esq. of Monkredding, in the county of Ayr, who m. in 1714, Agnes, daughter of George Dallas, esq. of Parklie, and left (with three daughters) a son and successor,

GEORGE CUNINGHAME, esq. of Monkredding. This gentleman wedded in 1752, Janet, second daughter of John Gemmel, esq. of Towerlands, and had issue,

FERGUSSON, his heir.

AGNES, m. to WILLIAM MILLER, esq. of Monk Castle.

CATHERINE, m. to the Rev. Thomas Brisbane, minister of Dunlop.

ANNE, m. to the Rev. John Monteath, minister of Houstoun.

ELIZABETH, m. to — Harrison, esq. Mr. Cuninghame was s. at his decease, by his son,

FERGUSSON CUNINGHAME, esq. of Monkredding, at whose decease, without issue, the estates reverted to his sisters, as co-heirs.

Arms—Arg a cross moline sa. between four hearts, gules.

Crest—A lion erect, holding in his paws a cross moline of the second.

Motto—Forward.

Estates—Monk Castle, in the county of Ayr, acquired in 1723; Netherhill House, in the parish of Torpichen, and county of Linlithgow, in right of his great grandmother, Jean Nimmo; Hill of Fergus Hill, Kilwinning parish; Baidland Hill, and Windyedge, in the parish of Dalry. One third of the estate of Monkredding, inherited at the decease of Fergusson Cuninghame.

Town Residence—Coates Crescent, Edinburgh.

Seat—Monk Castle, in the county of Ayr, situated on the right bank of the Garnock, about two miles north of Kilwarning.

GRACE, OF MANTUA.

GRACE, OLIVER-DOWELL-JOHN, esq. of Mantua, in the county of Roscommon, b. 19th October, 1791, m. 3rd September, 1819, Frances-Mary, only daughter of the late Sir Richard Nagle, bart. of James Town, in the county of Westmeath, by whom, who d. 1st June, 1826, he has had issue, JOHN-DOWELL-FITZGERALD.

Richard-Joseph.

Raymond-Joseph, d. 13th October, 1831.

Mary-Clare.

Mr. Grace succeeded at the decease of his father, 25th April, 1811. He is a magistrate in the county of Roscommon, and was the first Catholic sheriff appointed (anno 1830) to that shire after the Relief Bill, as his father had been the first Catholic called to the grand jury when restrictions regarding the eligibility of Catholics to the office were removed. Mr. Grace is chief of his house, and represents the once potent feudal lords of Courtstown.

Lineage.

The old and eminent family of GRACE ranks amongst the earliest of the Anglo-Norman settlers in Ireland. Under the banner of Richard de Clare, the well-known Strongbow, RAYMOND FITZ-WALTER, surnamed Le Gros, landed in that kingdom, became subsequently (anno 1176) its viceroy, and marrying Basilia de Clare, Strongbow's sister, acquired the extensive district in the county of Kilkenny, still denominated the "Cantred of Grace's country." To this gallant soldier the Graces trace their foundation; and now, at nearly the close of seven centuries, it is but justice to observe, that the bright fame of the illustrious founder has passed untarnished through the long line of his distinguished descendants.

WILLIAM LE GROS, or Fitz-Raymond,* the eldest son of Reymond, became Baron of Courtstown, or Tullaroan, and Lord of Grace's Country. He m. Margaret, daughter of Robert Fitz-Warren, of Wales; but we pass from him to his descendant (the twelfth† in succession),

SIR JOHN LE GROS (surnamed crios iarainn, the Iron-belted), Baron of Courtstown and Lord of Grace's Country, living in 1520 and 1534. He m. Catherine, daughter of Pierce, Lord le Poer, of Curraghmore, in the county of Waterford, and had two sons, viz.

- I. JOHN, who, at his father's decease, became Baron of Courtstown and Lord of Grace's Country. (See COURTSTOWN line at foot.)
- II. OLIVER (Sir).

The second son,

SIR OLIVER GRACE, knt. (surnamed ciallmhar, the Wise), of Ballylinch and Legan Castles, in the county of Kilkenny, was Lord of Carney, in Tipperary, and M.P. for that county in 1559. He m. Mary, daughter of Sir Gerald Fitzgerald, third Lord Decies, by his wife, Ellice, daughter of Pierce Butler, eighth Earl of Ormonde, and dying about 1580, was s. by his son,

GERALD GRACE (surnamed mareach, the Horseman), of Ballylinch Castle, who wedded Margaret, daughter of Sir Robert Hartpole, of Shrute Castle, in the Queen's County, and was s. at his decease, 4th March, 1618, by his son,

OLIVER GRACE, of Ballylinch Castle (surnamed skeevaugh, the Handsome), who died 27th August, 1626, leaving by his wife, Margaret, daughter of Edmund Butler, second Viscount Mountgarret, a son and successor,

GERALD GRACE, of Ballylinch Castle (called reenire, the Traveller). This gentleman fell at the Battle of Kilrush, 15th April, 1642, and a confiscation by the Commonwealth of estates to the extent of 17,000 acres followed. He had m. Ellen, eldest daughter and eventually co-heir of Edmund Butler, third Lord Dunboyne, and his wife,

Margaret, sole heir of Thomas, fourth Lord Caher, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM GRACE, who was styled of Ballylinch Castle, but resided at BARROWMOUNT, in the county of Kilkenny. He m. Ellinor, sister of Edward, second Viscount Galmoye (by Margaret, his wife, daughter of Nicholas, first Lord Netterville, widow of James, eldest son of Pierce Butler, Viscount Ikerrin, ancestor of the Earls of Carrick), and had issue,

- I. OLIVER, his successor.

II. John, of the Grange, in the Queen's County, m. Anne, daughter and heiress of John Grace, esq. of Thomastown, and had an only daughter, Elizabeth, who wedded Richard Gamon, esq. of Datchworthbury, in the county of Herts, and left two children, namely,

- I. RICHARD - GRACE GAMON, of Minchenden, in the county of Middlesex, M.P. for the city of Winchester, who was created a BARONET in 1795, with remainder to his cousin, RICHARD GRACE, esq. of Boley, M.P. whose son, William Grace, esq. inherited the same on the demise of Sir Richard - Grace Gamon in 1818, and is the present SIR WILLIAM GRACE. See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.

2. ANNA-ELIZA GAMON, m. to James Brydges, third DUKE of CHANDOS, and her only daughter (the sole heiress of the duke).

LADY ANNA - ELIZA BRYDGES, espoused Robert Grenville, present Duke of Buckingham and Chandos.

The eldest son,

OLIVER GRACE, esq. who was in parliament, and held the office of chief remembrancer of the exchequer in Ireland, settled at Shanganagh, now called Gracefield, in the Queen's County. He wedded Elizabeth, only surviving child of John Bryan, esq. of Bawnmore, in the county of Kilkenny.* He died 8th June, 1708, and was buried at Arles, where he had founded Grace's Chapel. By his wife, who wedded secondly, Edmond Butler, sixth Viscount

* By his second wife, Ursula, second daughter and eventually co-heiress of Walter Walsh, esq. of Castlehoel, by his wife, the Honorable Magdalen Sheffield, sister of Edmund Sheffield, second Earl of Mulgrave, and ultimately sole heiress of Edmund Sheffield, last Duke of Buckingham and Normanby.

* From a younger brother of this William Le Gros, MAURICE, derive the EARLS OF KERRY.

† The intermediate feudal lords of Courtstown allied with the Carews, the Fitzpatricks (Princes of Upper Ossory), the Macmorroughs (Princes of Leinster), the Berminghams (Lords of Athenry), the Barrys, the Le Poers, the O'MEAGHERS (the first Milesian match they were permitted "for the better preservation of the peace" to make), and with other houses equally potent in those turbulent times.

Mount Garret, great-grandfather of the first Earl of Kilkenny, so created 1793, he left issue,

MICHAEL, his heir.

Robert, m. Catherine, only child of Sheffield Grace, esq. (second son of John Grace, Baron of Courtstown, who d. in 1684,†) by his wife, the Dowager Viscountess Dillon, daughter of Sir John Bourke, of Derry-macLaghnan, and the Lady Mary de Burgh. Robert Grace left an only child, Edmund, knight of Malta, d. unmarried.

Sheffield, d. in 1699.

Lettice, m. to John Grace, Baron of Courtstown, who forfeited all his estates in consequence of a bill of discovery filed by his aunt, the said Dowager Viscountess Dillon, against him in 1701. Their only son, ROBERT, d. s. p. and with him terminated the line of Courtstown.

Anne, m. first, to Richard, eldest son of Sir Richard Nagle, secretary of state for Ireland, temp. JAMES II. but had no issue. She espoused, secondly, Edmond Butler, eighth Lord Dunboyne, and was mother of the ninth, tenth, and twelfth lords.

The eldest son,

MICHAEL GRACE, esq. of Gracefield, inherited, as co-heir-at-law with his nephew (the son of his sister Lettice), Robert Grace, of Courtstown, the undivided estates of the Sheffield family in the counties of Sussex, Middlesex, and York. This gentleman m. Mary, daughter of John Galwey, esq. of Lota House, in the county of Cork, by Elizabeth, his wife, daugh. of William Meade, esq. of Ballintobber, and sister of Sir John Meade, baronet, grandfather of the first Earl of Clanwilliam. By her he had issue,

i. OLIVER, his successor.

ii. John, of Sheffield Lodge, d. unm.

iii. William, who resided chiefly at St. Germain's, in France, m. Mary, daughter and heiress of Richard Harford, esq. of Marshfield, in the county of Dublin, and dying in 1777, left two sons and a daughter, viz.

RICHARD, of Boley, M.P. upon whom the baronetage conferred in 1795 on Sir Richard-Grace Gamon was entailed. He died in January, 1801, and his son and heir, inheriting that title, is the present

SIR WILLIAM GRACE, bart.

(Refer to BURKE's Peerage and Baronetage.)

John, captain of horse in the imperial service, died at the siege of Belgrade, 31st October, 1789.

Charlotte-Louisa, m. to William Middleton, esq. of Stockeld, in the county of York.

iv. Sheffield, m. Frances, daughter of John Bagot, esq. of Castle Bagot, and died 3rd May, 1742, leaving an only child, Raymond, who died in France, anno 1764, unm.

i. Elizabeth, m. to Richard Shee, esq. of Cloran, in the county of Tipperary (see page 125).

ii. Helena, m. to Simon Kavanagh, esq. of Inch, in the county of Carlow, and had a son,

SIR JAMES KAVANAGH, who was slain in the French war, 1795, leaving a son,

HENRY KAVANAGH, a general officer in the imperial service, who was created, in 1826, a Baron of Hungary, and appointed chamberlain to the Emperor of Austria, and chief of the military department of the council of war.

Mr. Grace died 19th November, 1760, and was s. by his eldest son,

OLIVER GRACE, esq. who m. Mary, dau. and heiress of John Dowell,* esq. of Montagh, now Mantua, in the county of Roscommon, and had issue,

i. MICHAEL, who inherited the estate of Gracefield, m. Mary, daughter and co-heir (with her sisters, Catherine, Mrs. Malone, and Margaret, Mrs. Dunne) of Nicholas Plunket, esq. of Dunsoghly, in the county of Dublin, and dying 25th August, 1785, aged sixty-three, left an only child,

* The family of DOWELL, or MAC DOWELL, was of great antiquity. BURKE, the learned author of the Hibernia Dominicana, in speaking of the religious foundations in the county of Roscommon, thus refers to it:—"The noble family of Dowell is lineally descended from Heremon. The present head is Lucas Mac Dowell, esq. a gentleman of opulence, and an honor to the Catholic religion, which he professes." The same right reverend author further informs us, that amongst the distinguished members of this family was FELIX MAC DOWELL, who, having finished his studies at Valadolid, taught philosophy in Sardinia and Paris, and subsequently theology at Rome. He died in prison in Dublin, anno 1709. Hib. Dom. page 586. Ensign Lewis Mac Dowell, of Roscommon, is one of the Irish gentry especially exempted from confiscation, by the Act of Settlement in 1662.

† By Elizabeth, eldest daughter and co-heir of Walter Walsh, esq. of Castlehoel, and Hon. Margaret Sheffield.

ALICIA GRACE, inheritor of the Queen's County, Kilkenny, and Dublin estates. This lady espoused, in 1792, Morgan, third son of Thomas Kavanagh, esq. of Borris House, and of his wife, the Lady Susan Butler, sister of John, seventeenth Earl of Ormonde. Mr. Morgan Kavanagh died in 1804 without issue.

II. JOHN, of whom presently.

Mr. Grace died 24th August, 1781, aged seventy-seven. The second son, JOHN GRACE, esq. born in 1734, on whom the Roscommon estates were settled, was educated at Doway College, and served several years in the Austrian army. He attained the rank of captain in the Wirtemberg Dragoons, and established the character of a brave, humane, and generous soldier. While in the service he had the honor of being chosen one of the guard to attend MARIE ANTOINETTE into France, on her marriage with LOUIS XVI. and the still higher honor of being the sentinel nightly at her majesty's door during the journey. Captain Grace retired from the military profession and returned to Ireland at the especial desire of his father, to fulfil the duties of a country gentleman; and in this new sphere it is enough to observe, that his reputation suffered no diminution. He was the first Roman Catholic called to the grand jury of the county of Roscommon, when Catholics became eligible to that office; and he was appointed a magistrate and deputy-governor of the same county. He m. Mary-Clare, second daughter and co-heiress* of Patrick Hussey, esq. of Ardimore, in the county of Kerry, by whom (who died in 1819) he had one son and two daughters, viz.

OLIVER-DOWELL-JOHN, his heir.

Catherine-Eliza, m. in August, 1821, to Rice, second son of Thomas Hussey, esq. of Dingle, a relation of her mother's, and the elder branch of the Hussey family.

Maria, a lady of eminent piety, who took the veil at Richmond Convent, near Dublin.

Captain Grace, who throughout his life sustained the character of a steady friend, an upright magistrate, and a benevolent landlord, died on the 25th April, 1811, at the age of seventy-five, and was buried at Tusk, an old abbey founded by one of the Dowell family. He was a gentleman of very polished manners and high literary attainments, could speak with fluency nine languages, was deeply read in history, ancient and modern, and was a profound classical scholar. He was s. by his only son, the present OLIVER-DOWELL-JOHN GRACE, esq. of Mantua House.

Grace, of Courtstown.

JOHN GRAS (called More, the Great), Baron of Courtstown and Lord of Grace's Country, eldest son and heir of Sir John le Gros, the Iron-belted, founded Grace's Chapel at Tullaroan in 1543; and built the Castle of Courtstown, of which not a vestige now remains. He represented the county of Kilkenny in parliament, anno 1568, and dying in that year, was buried in the Cathedral of Kilkenny, where his monument and effigy are still to be seen. By his wife, Honoria, daughter of Walter Walsh, esq. of Castlehoel, he had seventeen sons and five daughters. The eldest son,

OLIVER GRACE (Sasanach), Baron of Courtstown, wedded Ellis, daughter and heir of Sir Henry Davels, of Killisheen, in the Queen's County, and had seven sons, JOHN, his heir; Pierce, Richard, Walter, Patrick, Philip, and James, and a daughter, Ellen, m. to Marcus Shee, esq. of Sheestown (see p. 123). He d. in 1580, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN GRACE (Biatagh, the Generous), Baron of Courtstown, who m. about the year 1580, Lettice, daughter of Sir Richard Shee, of Kilkenny and Cloran (see p. 122), and had ROBERT, his heir; Richard; Edmund, who m. Catherine, daughter of — Archer, esq.; Oliver; Gerald; and John. He died 27th March, 1602, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

ROBERT GRACE (Beilbhinneach, the Sweet-tongued), Baron of Courtstown, M.P. for the county of Kilkenny in 1613 and 1634, who m. Ellen, daughter of Patrick Condon, esq. (see will of Sir Richard Shee, dated 18th December, 1603), and dying in 1640, left issue,

I. OLIVER, his heir.

II. John.

III. Patrick.

IV. Richard, of Moyelly, King's County, colonel in the army of CHARLES I. and afterwards of an Irish regiment in the Spanish service, governor of Athlone in 1690, where he was slain.

V. Lucas.

The eldest son,

OLIVER GRACE, esq. of Inchmore Castle (filie, the Poet), espoused Joan, daughter and heir of Sir Cyprian Horsfall, of Innisnagg, in Kilkenny, only son of John Horsfall, Bishop of Ossory, and had four sons, JOHN, Raymond, Cyprian, and Robert. He d. 6th July, 1637, during his father's lifetime (see the beautiful elegy written on the occasion of his death by his relative, Walter Walsh, of Castlehoel, in Hardiman's Irish Minstrelsy), and was s. by his son,

JOHN GRACE, Baron of Courtstown, who

DEARDEN, OF THE ORCHARD.

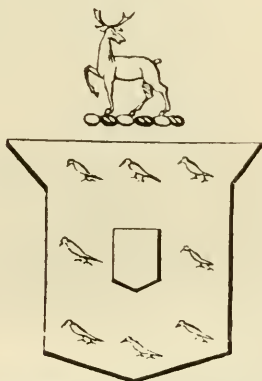

DEARDEN, JAMES, esq. of the Orchard, in the county of Lancaster, barrister-at-law, b. 30th July, 1798, m. 2nd November, 1829, Jane, eldest daughter of the Rev. William Griffith, M.A. rector of Llandwrog, in Carnarvonshire, and has issue, FRANCES-SYDNEY.

JANE-ELIZABETH.

Mr. Dearden succeeded to the estates upon the demise of his father, 21st September, 1828

Lineage.

The ancient and modern pronunciation of the name of this family, by the natives of Lancashire, is DU-ER-DEN; and JACOB, in his Law Dictionary, interprets it, "a thicket of wood in a valley," giving Cowel as his authority.

In the Placita de quo Warranto, A.D. 1277, mention is made of Roger Durdent, and in 1281, occurs Sir Robert Durdent, Duredent, Durden, knut. for in each of these ways the same person is designated. *

* Amongst the Dearden papers, a WALTER DURDEN is mentioned as an attesting witness to two deeds relating to lands in the neighbourhood of COVENTRY, and on referring to Browne Willis's Cathedrals, pp. 385, 404, Ed. 4to. 1727, we find that a WALTER DURDENT, possibly the same person, was bishop of Lichfield, in the 12th century. As the deeds referred to still remain with the Deardens, there is presumptive evidence that this prelate ranked amongst their ancestors.

WALTER DURDENT, was the first precentor of Lichfield, and held this dignity in 1130. In

In 1445, ELIAS DE DUREDEN, (evidently residing at a place of the same name, probably Dearden fold, or Dearden clough, both near Edenfield, in the parish of Bury, and not very remotely situated from Howorth) is a party in a deed or bond to Thomas Howorth, of Howorth, and in the Ducatus Lancastriæ, we find NICHOLAS DUREDEN, mentioned in a dispute respecting lands in Haslingden and Accrington, both near Edenfield, anno 1517.

JAMES DUERDEN, the successor of Nicholas, died 27th March, 1583, and his son,

JAMES DUERDEN, was married, 4th January, 1583. He died 3rd March, 1591-2, leaving a son,

RICHARD DEARDEN, who became possessed of the Handle Hall estate, by grant from the crown, in 1610. He died 25th July, 1620, and was succeeded by his son,

JAMES DEARDEN, esq. b. 25th December, 1597, who made considerable additions to the family estates. This gentleman was, according to a memorandum on his portrait, now in the possession of Mr. Dearden, "a staunch royalist." He wedded Grace Walkden, an heiress, and dying 30th June, 1672, left two sons, JOHN and Charles, by the elder of whom,

JOHN DEARDEN, esq. b. 21st October, 1655, he was succeeded. This gentleman m. in 1677, Jane, only child of — Ingham, of Cleggs Wood, and left at his decease, 31st December, 1683, (with two daughters) one son, JAMES DEARDEN, esq. b. 27th April, 1682, who espoused first, in 1705, Margaret, daughter of the Rev. Joshua Dixon, M.A. minister of Rivington and Ringley, and secondly, Mrs. Elizabeth Fallows. By the former, he left at his demise, 9th June, 1749, five sons, viz.

i. JOHN, his heir.

ii. James, b. 12th April, 1708, m. 20th October, 1741, Ann, daughter of W. Rowland, gent. of Durham, and relict of J. Archer, gent. but by her, who d. 28th March, 1782, aged eighty-two, had no issue. He d. 25th February, 1799, at the advanced age of ninety.

iii. Joshua, b. 10th March, 1710, and d. 13th May, 1775, aged sixty-eight, s. p.

iv. Robert, b. 8th August, 1713, and d. 3rd November, 1806, aged ninety-three, leaving issue.

v. Simon, b. 12th August, 1715, one of His Majesty's Coroners, for the 1143, he became prior of Canterbury, in 1149, Bishop of Lichfield, and dying 7th December, 1161, was buried at Coventry. While he presided over the see of Lichfield, he obtained from King STEPHEN, with the privilege of coining money, some lands at Cannock and Brewood.

CAMPBELL, OF CESNOCK AND TREESBANK.

CAMPBELL, GEORGE-JAMES, esq. of Treesbank, in the county of Ayr, b. in July, 1800, m. first, in December, 1822, Elizabeth-M'Kerel, only child of Colonel John Reid, of the East India Company's service (by Elizabeth M'Kerel, daughter of John M'Kerel, of Hillhouse), by whom (who died in 1826) he has two surviving daughters. He espoused, secondly, in August, 1829, Miss C. J. Jones, second daughter of the late Major Jones, of the 25th Light Dragoons, and has a son, GEORGE-JAMES, and a daughter.

Mr. Campbell, who is a justice of the peace and a deputy-lieutenant in Ayrshire, succeeded his father in November, 1815. He is chief of the Campbells of Cesnock and of Loudoun.

Lineage.

This family, now the senior male branch of the CAMPBELLS of Loudoun, was founded by GEORGE CAMPBELL, the seventh Laird of LOUDON's second son,

CAMPBELL, of Cesnock, who m. the Lady Janet Montgomerie, seventh daughter of Hugh, first Earl of Eglintoun, and, by the Records of Parliament, that nobleman becomes surety on the 7th November, 1513, for his said daughter, Janet, Lady Cesnock. This first Laird of Cesnock was s. by (it is presumed) his son,

JOHN CAMPBELL, of Cesnock, who espoused in 1533, Janet, third daughter of Sir Hugh Campbell, of Loudoun, and was s. by his son,

GEORGE CAMPBELL, of Cesnock, who died in 1578, and was s. by his son,

GEORGE CAMPBELL, of Cesnock, served heir to his father on the 16th October in that year in the £42 lands of Cesnock and Galston, of old extent, which in the computation of those times was a considerable property. There is also a crown charter, dated 6th February, 1597, in favour of George Campbell, of Cesnock, and Agnes Cunningham, his wife, a lady of the Caprington family. In a charter of entail made by HUGH, LORD LOUDOUN, dated 3rd December, 1613, (on the occasion of the death of his only son, GEORGE, MASTER OF LOUDOUN,* who died in the preceding year) setting his estates on his next heirs male, this George Campbell, of Cesnock, is first mentioned, and thus appears to have been the nearest male heir of the family. But Lord Loudoun, soon after the marriage of his elder grand-daughter, Margaret, with Sir John Campbell, of Lawers, altered this disposition of his property, and by two charters passed in 1620, conveyed the greater part of the Loudoun estates to Margaret and her husband, and the heirs of their marriage. Sir John Campbell, of Lawers, was afterwards (1633) created Earl of Loudoun. On the 11th July, 1618, George Campbell, of Cesnock, obtained another charter from the Crown, conveying Cesnock and Galston to himself in life rent, and to his only son, HUGH CAMPBELL, and his heirs in fee, subject to a life rent annuity to Anna Ker, of Kersland, whom he married after the death of his first wife, and by whom he had a daughter, Sarah, the wife of Mungo Farquhar, of Littleshaw. He was s. at his decease by his son,

SIR HUGH CAMPBELL, of Cesnock, who was served heir to his father on the 27th May, 1630, in the £20 land, old extent, of Cesnock, the eighth part of the muir of Galstoun, and the fourth part of the muir of Cesnock; and had soon afterward the honor of knighthood conferred upon him.

* The MASTER OF LOUDOUN left two daughters, by his wife the Lady Jane Fleming, daughter of the first Earl of Wigton, namely,

MARGARET, who m. Sir John Campbell, of Lawers, and at the decease of her grandfather became BARONESS LOUDOUN.

ELIZABETH, m. to Sir Hugh Campbell, of Cesnock.

BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.

He m. ELIZABETH CAMPBELL, the younger daughter and coheir of GEORGE, MASTER OF LOUDOUN, and thus acquired considerable estates, part of the family lands of Loudoun. On the 20th March 1649, Sir Hugh obtained a charter from the crown of the barony of Riccarton, part of the estate of Loudoun; and in February, 1652, of the lands of Wester Loudoun, or Stevenstoun, which about that time began to be alienated from the Campbells of Ducashall, a branch of the Loudoun family, who were provisionary heirs to that family in the entail of 1613. By the coheir of Loudoun, Sir Hugh Campbell had four sons, viz.

- I. GEORGE (Sir), his heir, who during the persecution of the Presbyterians, after the Restoration of CHARLES II. suffered severely with his father, Sir Hugh Campbell. In 1685, after having endured a long imprisonment, they were both condemned of accession to the Rye-house plot, and attainted, under which their estates became forfeited, but were restored by act of parliament, after the revolution (in 1690) to Sir George, in which year he was appointed Lord Justice Clerk, and one of the Lords of Session. He m. in 1665, Mrs. Anna M'Mouran, heiress of an estate in Fife, and had three daughters, MARY, m. to William Gordon, of Earlstoun, but had no issue.

MARGARET, m. in 1697 to SIR ALEXANDER HUME.

CHRISTIAN, m. to Doctor Francis Pringle.

Sir George Campbell died about the time his daughter married Sir Alexander Hume, who was soon afterwards styled,

SIR ALEXANDER HUME-CAMPBELL,* of Cesnock. This gentleman on the death of his father in 1724 (his elder brother, Lord Polworth, having died s. p.) became second EARL OF MARCHMONT. His lordship, by the heiress of Cesnock, had (with three daughters, who d. issueless), George, Lord Polworth, who d. unm. in 1724, aged 21.

Patrick, who died in the same year.

HUGH, who succeeded his father in 1740, as third EARL OF MARCHMONT, and alienated the ancient seat of the Campbells, CESNOCK, concentrating his whole property in Berwickshire. He married twice, and had several children, but only one daughter, the Lady Diana Scott, wife of Hugh Scott, of Harden, to leave issue. His lordship's son, by his second wife, ALEXANDER, Lord Polworth, was created a British Peer as Lord Hume of Berwick. He m. Lady Amabel York (afterward Countess de Grey), and died s. p. See BURKE'S PEERAGE, Earl de Grey.

The earl died in 1781, having survived his son, when his honors became EXTINCT.

Alexander, Lord Registrar of Scotland, who m. Miss Pettis, and d. s. p. in 1760.

Anne, m. to Sir William Purves, bart. of Purves Hall, in Berwickshire, and was grandmother of the present SIR WILLIAM PURVES-HUME-CAMPBELL, BART.

of Treesbank. (See that family.)

III. Hugh, of Barquharrie. (See that family).*

IV. JOHN, from whom the Campbells of Fairfield.

Sir Hugh Campbell was member for the county of Ayr in the parliament which assembled in 1639 and 1641, and wherein KING CHARLES I. attended personally. He was of the Presbyterian party, but opposed the establishment of the Commonwealth in Scotland; and represented Ayrshire again in the parliament of 1649 and 1650, where CHARLES II. appeared in person. In 1649, he was appointed by parliament Lord Justice Clerk, and one of the Lords of Session, both which high offices he declined accepting. At the Restoration in 1660, Sir Hugh took no active part in public affairs; but being a Presbyterian, and a man of large fortune, himself and his family became objects of persecution in the subsequent troubles that agitated Scotland. After being fined to a large amount three years before, Sir Hugh Campbell was seized in 1665, with several gentlemen of the West Country,

* He was the second son of SIR PATRICK HUME, of Polworth, the great friend of Sir Hugh Campbell, and who had himself suffered many hardships in the persecutions that preceded the Revolution; but in reward for his signal services, had been, in 1696, constituted Lord High Chancellor of Scotland, and created the next year EARL OF MARCHMONT.

* In the descent of the CAMPBELLS OF BARQUHARRIE, p. 158, SORNBEG is erroneously printed SOMBEG, and CESNOCK, in two instances, CRESNOCK.

and thrown into the castle of Edinburgh, where he remained a prisoner for two years, and then was not liberated before he granted a bond to keep the peace. In 1683 he was imprisoned again, with his eldest son, Sir George. The next year he was tried for treason, under the pretext of accession to the rising at Bothwell, and defended by his friend, Sir Patrick Hume, of Polworth (afterwards Earl of Marchmont) when he was honourably acquitted. Notwithstanding which himself and his son were detained in prison, accused in the following year (1685) of accession to the Rye House Plot, and brought in guilty. An attainer followed, by which the estates of Sir Hugh Campbell, and his son Sir George, were forfeited and annexed to the crown, while they were themselves ordered to be confined in the Isle of Bass. In 1686 these estates were conferred by statute on James Drummond, Viscount Melfort, one of the cabinet, who had contrived and obtained the attainer. Sir Hugh did not long survive this last act of oppression. Being removed, on account of his infirmities, from Bass to Edinburgh, he died there on the 20th September, 1686, as recorded in an old memorandum-book, in the possession of a descendant, thus:—"Monday, September 20, 1686.—Sir Hugh Campbell died this day in his son Hugh's chambers, in Edinburgh, of seven days sickness, which he contracted on the Monday night previous. He was buried by torchlight, at six o'clock on the Thursday following, in the Greyfriars church-yard, aged 71 years, in March, 1686. Note.—I understand that Sir Hugh Campbell's death was occasioned by his being at that time, in consequence of some false information, taken to the Canongate jail, which brought on bad health and killed him." The estates, as stated above, were restored after the Revolution to Sir Hugh's eldest son, SIR GEORGE, whose line we have traced in its proper place to a termination. The second son,

JAMES CAMPBELL, marrying Jean, daughter of Sir William Mure of Rowallan, his father, Sir Hugh, by the marriage contract, dated 16th December, 1672, made over to him and the heirs of the marriage, the estate of Treesbank, part of the barony of Riccartoun. Of this marriage there were one son and two daughters, namely,

GEORGE, successor to his father.

Anne, m. to — Cunninghame, and had a son, George Augustus Cunninghame, a surgeon in the army.

Mr. Campbell, a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for Ayrshire, succeeded his father in June, 1815.

Lineage.

This is a junior branch of the house of CESNOCK, founded by

JOHN CAMPBELL, esq. fourth son of Sir Hugh Campbell, of Cesnock, by ELIZABETH, his wife, second daughter and co-heir of George, MASTER OF LOUDOUN, who was designed of Whitehaugh, in the county of Ayr. He was father of

GEORGE CAMPBELL, esq. of Whitehaugh, who is mentioned in a family writ, dated 1657. His son,

JOHN CAMPBELL, esq. of Whitehaugh, had a daughter, Janet, m. to George Mitchel, esq. of Dalgain, and a son,

JOHN CAMPBELL, esq. of Whitehaugh or Fairfield, who m. in 1711, Catherine, dau. of — Ferguson, esq. of Auchinblain, in Ayrshire, and was succeeded by his son,

WILLIAM CAMPBELL, esq. of Fairfield, who wedded, in 1747, Elizabeth, daughter of — Metcalf, esq. of Northumberland, County Virginia, and had a son, WILLIAM, his heir. Mr. Campbell entailed his property conditionally, that his heirs should use the surname and arms of "CAMPBELL," and bear the designation "of FAIRFIELD." He was succeeded by his son, WILLIAM CAMPBELL, esq. of Fairfield, who m. first, in 1772, Sarah, daughter of — Cunninghame, esq. of Cambridge, New England, by whom he had, with four other children, two daughters, viz.

Martha, m. to Charles M'Vicar, esq.

Elizabeth, m. to Lord John-Douglas-Edward-Henry Campbell, only brother to the Duke of Argyle, and died in 1818.

He wedded, secondly, 15th August, 1782, Catharine, niece of Sir Robert Gunning, bart. of Horton, and daughter of Captain Gunning, who fell at the storming of Guadaloupe in 1757, aged twenty-one. By this lady he had issue,

WILLIAM-GUNNING, his heir.

George, in the East India Company's service, d. unm.

Charles, major in the East India Company's service, who m. Jane-Wemyss, daughter of the Hon. Leveson Granville Keith Murray, and died in 1832, leaving issue.

Alexander, in the Madras Civil Service, m. Matilda, daughter of — Thursby, esq. and has issue.

Napier, captain of the Horse Artillery East India Company, m. Selena, dau. of — Gore, esq. and has issue.

James, lost at sea.

Andrew, captain of Dragoons East India Company's service.

Argyle, died young.

Mary, m. in 1815, to Sir Henry Jervis White Jervis, bart. of Bally Ellis, in the county of Wexford.

Catharine, m. to — Hunter, esq. and has issue.

Mr. Campbell died in June, 1815, and was succeeded by his eldest son, the present WILLIAM-GUNNING CAMPBELL, esq. of Fairfield.

ALLEN, OF ST. WOLSTANS.

ALLEN, LUKE-JOHN-PATRICK, esq. a lieutenant-colonel in His Majesty's service, and a companion of the Bath, espoused Hannah-Marguerite, daughter of John Creaghe, esq. of the island of St. Eustatia, and sister of Richard Creaghe, esq. of Castle Park, in the county of Tipperary, late captain 7th Hussars, and has issue,

LUKE-JOHN-HENRY, captain, now serving in the British army.

Randal-Heyliger-Ulick, d. in 1833.

Anna-Maria, m. 22nd June, 1829, to Thomas John Wybault Swettenham, esq. of Swettenham Hall, in Cheshire (see vol. i. p. 640).

Augusta-Georgiana.

Colonel Allen succeeded at the decease of Ulick Wall Allen, esq. to the family estates in the counties of Dublin, Wicklow, and Kildare, and is now the representative of the Alens of St. Wolstans. His name was honourably mentioned in the London Gazette at the capture of the French West-India settlements in 1809 and 1810, where he served at the head of his regiment.

Lineage.

From a pedigree* drawn up by SIR WILLIAM HAWKINS, ulster king of arms, and attested by the DUKE OF LEINSTER, the EARL OF DESERT, and the LORDS DUNSANY and FINGALL, the following account of this family is chiefly taken.

SIR JOHN ALLEN, knight banneret, nephew of Robert Fitzhammon and Richard de Granville, having distinguished himself at the battle of Hastings, obtained from the CONQUEROR, large possessions in fee in the counties of Norfolk, Cornwall, and Westmorland. He m. Dorothy, only daughter and heiress of Sir John Budgell, of Devonshire, and was s. by his eldest son,

FRANCIS ALLEN, who wedded Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Brown, of the house of Montagu, and left a son,

SIR CHARLES ALLEN, who m. Juliana, daughter and co-heiress of Sir Richard Dawson, of Acorn Bank, in Westmorland, and was s. by his son,

FRANCIS ALLEN, who espoused Marianne, daughter of Sir John Crackenthorp, knt. of Acorn Bank, and had a son and successor,

SIR JOHN ALLEN. This gentleman m. a daughter of Sir John Trevor, of the line of Tudor Trevor, Earl of Hereford. He assumed the cross in 1191, but dying on his journey to Jerusalem, was s. by his son,

SIR RICHARD ALLEN, who wedded Anne, daughter of Sir Henry Harley, of Ormurch, in Glamorganshire, and left a son and heir,

SIR HENRY ALLEN, who m. Mabella, daughter of Sir Henry Maunsell, by whom he had a son and successor,

SIR JOHN ALLEN. This gentleman wedded Alice, daughter of Sir Henry Rue, of Castle Rue, in Wales, and was s. by his son,

SIR CHARLES ALLEN, who m. Dorothy, daughter of Sir Edward Seymour, of Maiden Bradley, in the county of Wilts, and left a son,

SIR JOHN ALLEN. This gentleman wedded Arabella, daughter of Sir Richard Leviston, knt. of Staffordshire, and was s. by his son,

SIR PHILIP ALLEN, who m. Isabella, daughter of Sir Thomas Middleton, and was father of

SIR WILLIAM ALLEN, who wedded Anne, daughter of Sir John Osburn, of Kent, and left a son,

SIR ROBERT ALLEN, whose son and heir by Anne, daughter of Sir Charles Brown, of the House of Montagu,

* The early descents were furnished by a pedigree compiled by SIR THOMAS HAWLEY, principal herald and king at arms of England, in the 8th King HENRY VIII.

SIR RICHARD ALEN, married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Henry Neville, (lineally descended from Neville, Earl of Westmorland), and had a son and successor,

RICHARD ALEN, who wedded Judith, daughter of Sir John Savage, of Rock Savage, and left a son, EDWARD ALEN, who by his wife, Catherine, daughter of Sir John St. Leger, had three sons, viz.

I. THOMAS.

II. FRANCIS.

III. JOHN, who became Archbishop of Dublin, and Lord Chancellor of Ireland. He was a doctor of laws, and originally treasurer of St. Paul's. By some authorities this eminent churchman is said to have received his education at Cambridge, where he took the degree of master of arts, but Anthony Wood, in his Athenae Oxonienses, states that he received his first academic instruction in the University of Oxford. Leaving college, he was sent by Warham, Archbishop of Canterbury, to Rome, on a specific mission, concerning certain affairs of the church. There he remained about nine years, and acquired the degree of doctor of both laws in Italy. On his return to England, he became chaplain to CARDINAL WOLSEY, and through that powerful prelate, succeeded in September, 1528, Hugh Inge, as ARCHBISHOP OF DUBLIN, and LORD CHANCELLOR OF IRELAND. Doctor Alen remained in office until the 5th July, 1532, when he was superseded by GEORGE CROMER, archbishop of Armagh, and in two years afterwards he lost his life in one of those civil commotions so frequent in that lawless era. He was barbarously murdered on the 28th July, 1534, at the age of fifty-eight. Alen, like his patron, Wolsey, is said to have been "of a turbulent and daring spirit, yet a man of hospitality and learning, with all, and a diligent enquirer into antiquities." His published works are the Liber Niger, sue Registrum Johannis Aleni, and the Repertorium Viride, containing a brief account of the churches of his diocese, both works are extant.

The eldest son,

THOMAS ALEN, went into Ireland, probably with his brother, and acquired by grants from the crown, the barony of Donna Comper, St. Wolstan's, the lordship of Kilbride, and other lands in the counties of Wicklow and Dublin, with several manor courts and church livings. Dying without issue, he was s. by his next brother,

FRANCIS ALEN, who was master of the rolls, temp. HENRY VIII. He m. Cordelia, daughter of Sir Maurice Eustace, of Castle Martin, in the county of Kildare, and had issue,

JOHN ALEN, esq. of St. Wolstans. This gentleman m. Catherine, daughter of Richard Nugent, baron of Delvin, by his wife, the Lady Catherine Fitzgerald, daughter of the Earl of Kildare, and was s. by his son,

JOHN ALEN, esq. of St. Wolstans, who married a daughter of the Lord Slane, and had four sons,

THOMAS, his successor.

ROBERT.

WILLIAM.

NICHOLAS, heir to his nephew.

He was s. by the eldest,

SIR THOMAS ALEN, of St. Wolstans, who was created a BARONET of Ireland, on the 16th February, 1621, the patent setting forth that the honor was conferred by KING JAMES I. in consideration of the great services rendered to the state by Archbishop Alen. Sir Thomas died without issue, in 1627, when the title expired, but the estates passed to his brother, who then became,

ROBERT ALEN, esq. of St. Wolstans, who m. Jane, daughter of John Sarsfield, esq. of Lucan, but dying without male issue, 25th October, 1641, was s. by his brother,

WILLIAM ALEN, esq. of St. Wolstans, whose only son,

JOHN ALEN, esq. of St. Wolstans, dying in minority, the estates reverted to his uncle,

NICHOLAS ALEN, esq. of St. Wolstans. This gentleman wedded Aminet, daughter of Patrick Barnewall, esq. of Crickstown, in the county of Meath, and left a son and heir,

JAMES ALEN, esq. of St. Wolstans, father, by Anne, his wife, daughter of the Earl of Roscommon, of

PATRICK ALEN, esq. of St. Wolstans, who raised at his own expense a body of troops for JAMES II. served as major general in that prince's army, in Ireland, and was under the conditions of Limerick, in 1691. He wedded first, Mary, daughter of John Browne, esq. of Castle Browne, in the county of Kildare, and had issue,

I. FRANCIS, M.P. for the county of Kildare, who m. Frances, daughter of Charles Whyte, esq. of Leixlip, and had, with several sons, who died young, three daughters, viz.

1. MARY, m. in 1734, to Edward, twelfth Lord Dunsany.

2. Catherine.

3. Jane.

II. James.

1. Teresa, m. first, to James Donalan, esq. of Johnstown, in Meath; and secondly, to Standish O'Grady, esq. of Elton, in the county of Limerick.

11. Honora, m. to O'Grady, of Kilbal-lyowen.

General Alen married, secondly, the daughter and co-heiress of Sir Luke Dowdall, bart. of Athlumny, by Mary, his wife, daughter of Daniel Byrne, esq. of Cabin-teely, (see vol. i. p. 464,) and had issue,

1. MATTHEW.

11. ANTHONY.

111. Michael, died unm.

- 1v. LUKE, who, entering the French service, in 1735, obtained a lieutenantancy in Dillon's regiment, and passed from that corps, soon after the battle of Fontenoy, into Lally's. In 1756, Captain Alen received the order of St. Louis, and in the following year, was appointed major-general of the army in India, where, at the capture of the fort of Sacramalours, he gallantly distinguished himself, and was the first to enter the breach. In 1760, during the siege of Pondichery, General Alen was detached with four hundred light cavalry, to retard the enemy's proceedings, and successfully accomplished the object. After the fall of Pondichery, the general, who had been wounded during the war, returned to France, but his corps was the last to quit the Indian soil, and the only one not made prisoners of war. He espoused, 5th October, 1762, Mademoiselle Marie Charlotte Adelaide de Behague, sister to General Count de Behague, governor in chief of the French West India Islands, in 1791, by whom he had a son, LUKE-JOHN-PATRICK, who succeeded his cousin, Ulick Wall Alen, esq. and is the present representative of the family.

General Alen's eldest son, by his second wife,

MATTHEW ALEN, esq. dying unmarried, was succeeded by his brother,

ANTHONY ALEN, esq. who wedded Mary, eldest daughter of Ulick Wall, esq. of Pollardstown, in the county of Carlow, and left a son and successor, ULICK WALL ALEN, esq. at whose demise, without issue, the estates and representation of the family devolved upon his cousin, the present Lieutenant-Colonel ALEN, C.B.

LECHE, OF CARDEN.

LECHE, JOHN-HURLESTON, esq. of Carden, in the county of Chester, b. 23d May, 1805, and baptized on the 18th September following, m. 25th May, 1826, Elizabeth-Antonia, eldest daughter of Anthony J. Stokes, esq. of St. Botolph's, in Pembrokehire, and has had issue,

JOHN-HURLESTON, b. 25th February, 1827.

William-Randolph, b. 10th February, 1828, d. 4th August, 1830.

William-Edward, b. 4th August, 1830.

Hugh-Richard-Anthony-Evergreen, b. 5th April, 1832.

A son, ———, b. 30th August, 1833.

Mr. Leche succeeded his father on the 8th May, 1817, and served the office of high sheriff for Cheshire in 1832.

Lineage.

A family which assumed their surname of CAWARDEN, or CAWARTHYN, from their place of abode in the county of Chester, where they had settled before the reign of HENRY III. terminated in the male line, about the time of HENRY IV. with

WILLIAM DE CAWARDEN, who left four daughters, his co-heirs, viz.

I. ISABELLA, m. to Thomas Fitton, of Cawarden.

II. LUCY, m. to JOHN LECHE.

III. Eleanor, m. to John Golborne.

IV. Margery, m. to David de Clutton.

The husband of the second co-heir,

JOHN LECHE, who was living in the reign of HENRY IV. and then in possession of Lower Carden, in right of his wife, is made by some pedigrees a younger brother of the family of Leche, of Chatsworth, in the county of Derby, "but," says Ormerod, "there is a material variation between the higher generations of the Chatsworth Leches, as given in these pedigrees, and in abstract of deeds (Harl. MSS. 2119, 50), from which, if correct, it appears that the family was settled in Carden as early as the 20th EDWARD III. when Eva, widow of Hugh de Warin, releases lands in Caruthin to John Leche and Lucy, his wife, her sister, which John is said to be father of Leche, surgeon to EDWARD III. who by patent (50 EDW. III.) was grantee of Castle Warin, and other lands, and was father of Daniel, the father of John Leche, to whom Jane, wife of John Preston, delivers lands in Carden, 2nd HENRY IV. and who obtained the Lower Carden estate in marriage with Lucy de Cawarden." John Leche left by Lucy de Cawarden a son and heir,

JOHN DE L'ECHE, to whom, and to Maud his wife, (daughter of Robert del Holte, and relict of Robert de Carden), Howell de Elton and Ellen his wife, release lands in Clotton, Carden, and Aldersey, 18th HENRY VI. The said John Leche and Maud his wife, and the said Howell and Ellen hold lands for life in Tilston, Carden, and Clotton, and grant the same in trust to Berneston de Churton, 31st of the same king. John de l'Leche had, with David of Nantwich, an elder son, his successor,

JOHN LECHE, esq. of Carden, whose name, with that of his wife, Isabel, daughter and heir of William Johnson, of Farndon, occurs in a deed in the 1st EDWARD IV. (1461) and again, in the 14th of the same reign, his own name in a certificate under the hands of Thomas, Lord Stanley, justice of Chester, Sir William Stanley, knt. and others, stating what lands of inheritance he was then seised of, and that his dwelling-house was burnt, with great substance of goods, and all his evidences. He lived to the 7th HENRY VII. when he was aged eighty-two years, having previously, in the 2nd RICHARD III. settled lands in Malpas and Horton on JOHN, his son and heir apparent, which settlement was witnessed by Ran. Brereton, Ric. Cholmeley, Urian Davenport, and others. His said son and successor,

JOHN LECHE, esq. of Carden, wedded (marriage contract dated 10th September, 14th EDWARD IV.) Margaret, daughter and sole heir of George Mainwaring, esq. of Ightfield, and had issue,

I. JOHN, his heir.

II. Henry, who m. Mary, daughter of Andrew Wilson, and had two sons,

JOHN, heir to his uncle.

Thomas, father, by his wife Margaret Preston, of John Leche, baptized at Tilston, in April, 1561.

III. George, alderman of Chester, m. Alice, daughter of John Dutton, of Hellesby, and had

William, living in 1552.

Robert, L.L.D. chancellor of the diocese of Chester.

Richard, a merchant in London, whose grandson,

Francis Leke, purchased from the Gamels the estate of Mollington,* in Cheshire, and was grandfather of

* Of the Mollington, or some other branch of the house of Carden, were the two authors whom Anthony Wood thus mentions: "John Leche, a Cheshire man, born or at least descended from an ancient family in that county, spent sometime in Oxen, and particularly in Brasenose College. Having a natural propensity to learning, he took upon himself to be a school-master, and such a one he was, that his equal could hardly be found in his time. He took great delight in that employment, educated many generous youths, and others, who afterwards became famous in their generations, and for their use wrote 'A Book of Grammar Questions, printed 1628, being the second or third edition, and often reprinted, dedicated to Mr. George Digby, son and heir of Sir John Digby, knt. vice chamberlain of his majesty's household,' and afterwards Earl of Bristol, which Sir John had been his pupil about the year 1592. He also published, under the name of Johannes Leechæus, a collection of Epigrams, printed at London, in 1622-3, 8vo." Another John Leech, son of a gentleman in Cheshire, was admitted of Brasenose College as a

i. Anne.

ii. Margaret, m. to Hugh Catherall.

The eldest son and heir,

JOHN LECHE, esq. of Carden, survived until 6th EDWARD VI. as appears by his will dated in that year, and dying without issue, was succeeded by his nephew,

JOHN LECHE, esq. of Carden, who m. before 27th HENRY VIII. Jane, daughter of Robert Fitton, esq. and had (with a younger son, Charles, and two daughters, Margaret, b. in 1567, and Anne, wife of — Broughton) a successor,

JOHN LECHE, esq. of Carden, baptized at Tilston in 1558, who inherited at his father's decease, 11th ELIZABETH. He m. Ursula, (living in 1591, the date of her husband's will), daughter of the Rev. John Mainwaring, of Drayton, and had issue,

JOHN, his heir.

Mary, m. to Thomas Bebington, of Chorley.

—, m. to John Hinde, of Stanney.

The son and heir,

JOHN LECHE, esq. of Carden, espoused (marriage covenant dated 6th June, 1613) Alice, daughter of William Aldersey, alderman of Chester, and dying in 1657, was buried at Tilston, and s. by his son,

JOHN LECHE, esq. of Carden, aged fifty 29th July, 1664, who m. first, Elizabeth, daughter of John Newton, of Highley, in Salop, and by her, who died in 1654, had four sons and four daughters, viz.

i. JOHN, his heir.

ii. Francis, deputy registrar of the diocese of St. Asaph.

i. Mary.

ii. Sarah, m. 10th December, 1682, to Humphrey Walley, of Chester.

iii. Elizabeth.

iv. Alice.

Mr. Leche wedded, secondly, at Tilston, 20th April, 1665, Elizabeth, daughter of — Best, esq. and relict of Richard Alport, esq. of Overton, by whom he had Richard and Bridget. He was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN LECHE, esq. of Carden, aged more than twenty-one years in 1664. He m. at Kildwick, 23rd September, 1674, Grace, daughter of Hugh Currer, esq. of Kildwick, in Yorkshire, and had issue,

i. JOHN, his heir.

ii. Thomas, baptized 1679, rector of Tilston 2nd June, 1710, m. Catherine, daughter of Edward Wright, esq. of Stretton, and dying 14th August, 1719, left, with two other sons, who both d. s. p.

iii. Henry.

i. Elizabeth, m. to the Rev. Thomas Lloyd, of Plas Power, in Denbighshire, and died in 1746.

The eldest son,

JOHN LECHE, esq. of Carden, was high sheriff of Cheshire in 1712. He m. Sarah, daughter and heiress of Thomas Hargrave, esq. of Helsby, and was s. by his son, JOHN LECHE, esq. of Carden, sheriff of Cheshire in 1753, who wedded, in 1728, Mary, second daughter and co-heir of John Hurleston, esq. of Newton, and by her, who died 29th December, 1763, aged fifty-two, and was buried at Tilston, had eight sons and three daughters, viz.

i. John, who predeceased his father in 1731.

ii. WILLIAM, heir.

iii. John, of Stretton, m. Margaret, daughter of — Jones, esq. of Holt, and d. s. p. in 1814.

iii. Mary, m. to Thomas Roberts, esq. of Mollington.

Mr. Leche was s. at his decease, by his eldest surviving son,

WILLIAM LECHE, esq. of Carden, the only proprietor of that estate in a line of thirteen generations who did not bear the name of John. He served the office of sheriff for Cheshire in 1774, and married at Tilston church, 26th April, 1805, Miss Hannah Newell, by whom he had a son, JOHN HURLESTON, his heir. Mr. Leche dying 8th commoner in 1582, and completed his degree in Arts 13th July, 1590. He is supposed by Wood to be a different person, and to have been a divine, who was author, among other sermons, of one preached at the funeral of "the Lady Mary's grace, Lond. 1607, 8vo." and also of an elegy printed at the end of the same.

May, 1817, aged eighty-three, was buried in a new vault in Tilston churchyard, on the north side of a chancel belonging to the family, erected by Edward Wright, esq. and s. by his son, the present JOHN HURLESTON LECHE, esq. of Carden.

Arms—Erm. on a chief indented or, three ducal coronets gu. quartering CAWARDEN, viz. sa. a sling between two pheons arg. From an old parchment at Carden, emblazoned with the arms of Carden and Leche, which thus commences, “Richard, viscount of Avranches, in Normandy, married Margaret, daughter unto Her. Poyne, a nobleman, by Arlotta, his wife, mother unto King WILLIAM the Conqueror, and which carries down the pedigree to 1613; the following description of the armorial bearings is extracted: “The present coat of the ancient family, one whereof living in Barkshire, near Windsor, in y^e time of King EDWARD III. three kings were entertained and feasted in his house, one y^e king of England, y^e king of France, and y^e king of Scots, which two kings were at that time prisoners to King Edward; which King Edward, to requite his good entertainment and other favours, gave him three crowns on his chief indented gu. y^e field ermine, which coat is borne by the name and family dispersed into many other countrys, as Bedfordshire, Nottinghamshire, Yorkshire, Derbyshire, Cheshire, Lancashire, and many other places, at this day.”

Crest—A cubit arm ppr. the hand grasping a snake vert for LECHE. A wolf's head erased sa, pierced fesseway sinister, with an arrow way for CAWARDEN.

Motto—Alla corona fidisimo.

Estates—CARDEN, situated in the parishes of Tilston and Farndon, acquired by the marriage of John Leche, 20th EDWARD III. with Lucy, daughter and co-heir of William de Cawarthyn. Stretton Hall, by the marriage of Catherine Wright with Thomas Leche, second son of John Leche, esq. of Carden. Picton, Croughton, Wervin, Newton, Upton, &c. from Mary, second daughter and co-heiress of John Hurleston, esq. Since the death of Mrs. Roberts, (Mary Leche, third daughter of John Leche, esq. of Carden), the whole of the Hurleston property is divided between the Earl of Kilmorey and JOHN HURLESTON LECHE, esq.

Seat—Carden Park. The situation of Carden is extremely beautiful. The grounds lie under the higher range of the Broxton Hills, but command, nevertheless, a rich and extensive prospect towards Chester and the Welsh Hills. On the higher parts of the estate, the rocks of Carden Cliff, and the woods mingle together in the most picturesque manner, and below them lies the venerable mansion-house, embosomed in timber, and presenting a very perfect specimen of the ancient timber buildings of the county of Chester. The house was plundered by the parliamentary troops on 12th June, 1643. One woman servant was killed in the assault, and Mr. Leche and others taken prisoners to Nantwich.

DUNDAS, OF BLAIR CASTLE.

DUNDAS, ROBERT-BRUCE, esq. of Blair Castle, in the county of Perth, b. 6th August, 1754, m. Elizabeth, only child and heiress of Captain James Drummond Spital,* younger, of Leuchet, in Fifeshire, by Miss Frances Innes, of the family of Innes of that ilk, and has had issue, Jane De Vilgas.

Mr. Dundas succeeded to the estates upon the demise of his father, 6th October, 1790.

* The mother of Captain James Drummond Spital was the Hon. Elizabeth Leslie, eldest daughter of Alexander, fourth Lord Lindores.

Lineage.

This family, which represents the BRUCES of Airth and the ELPHINSTONES of Calderhall, derives from a younger son of the great Scottish House of DUNDAS of that ilk.

SIR WALTER DUNDAS, of Dundas, who was made a knight at the baptism of Prince HENRY, son of King JAMES I., espoused, for his second wife, Anne, daughter of Monteith, of Carse, and had issue, Families of Bruce† and Elphinstone.

The manuscript of the abbey of Culross, now in the possession of Alexander Boswell, younger, of Auchinlech, mentions that when Sir Alexander Livingston, first minister, during the minority of JAMES II. of Scotland, was disgraced, and forfeited in 1449, some of his party were attainted with him, including James Dundas, of Dundas, and ROBERT BRUCE,* the Laird of Clackmannan's brother. This Robert Bruce, the learned Crauford designs, in his notes on Buchanan's History, page 94, "of Airth." It is, moreover mentioned, that when the storm at court blew over, which had overwhelmed the Lord Livingstone and so many of his friends, the survivors had their attainder removed, and their forfeitures reversed; and the heirs of such as had been executed, had their estates restored. Among others, ROBERT BRUCE, son and heir of Robert Bruce, of Airth, obtained restitution.

ROBERT BRUCE, who was living temp. JAMES II. descended from Sir Edward Bruce, acquired the estate of Airth in marriage with the eldest daughter and one of the heiresses of Sir William de Airth of that ilk,† a very great man, who possessed Airth, Carnock Plain, and Airth Beg. and large

And make all brave men love his memorie.

* Crawford states in his notes, that Robert Bruce, of Airth, was the Laird of Clackmannan's brother, but the family of Airth never considered themselves a cadet of the Bruces of Clackmannan, nor have the family of Clackmannan any charter older than those of Airth to prove so. Perhaps it may be worth mentioning that the Bruce's of Clackmannan got a charter of their lands from King David Bruce. Now the Bruces of Airth lived at Airth in the time of King Robert Bruce, before David Bruce existed; which proves that the Bruces of Clackmannan must be either of a different family, or a cadet of the house of Airth. The Bruces of Airth bore for supporters two naked savages.

† Sir William de Airth is to be found in the Ragman's Roll as one of the great proprietors, who swore fealty to Edward I. of England. That prince subsequently garrisoned the castle of Airth, but Sir William Wallace surprised it in the night time, slew Tomlin Weir, the English governor, and one hundred of the garrison, and liberated his estates elsewhere. The son and heir of this marriage,‡ (See Public Archives)

Airth was succeeded at his decease by his elder son,

SIR JOHN BRUCE, of Airth, who m. Margaret, daughter of Alexander, Lord Elphinstone, Chancellor of Scotland, and had a son, ALEXANDER, his heir. In or about the year 1598, a feud fell out, according to Spottiswood's History, betwixt the Earl of Marr, on the one side, and the Lords Livingston and Elphinstone on the other, but they were parted by their friends. In the progress of this affair, a gentleman, David Forrester of Denevon, in the service of the Earl of Marr, was waylaid and slain, while riding from Edinburgh to Stirling. It was thought, (continues Spottiswood) that the committers of the crime were hounded on by the Laird of Airth, whom, soon after the interment of Forrester of Denevon, the Earl of Marr pursued in the ordinary course of law. Nothing, however, could take effect in those troublesome times, so powerful was the combination of parties; but (says the same reverend historian), the crime has since been visibly punished by the fall of this family, for a lesson to all men to abhor shedding innocent blood. It was indeed perceptible that the estate ever after melted away,* so that Sir John's son,

Sir Thomas Elphinston was appointed, 4th March, 1671, muster-master to the militia in Scotland, and in the September of the following year received the honor of knighthood from the king's commissioner, the Duke of Lauderdale. In 1675 he was made muster-master general of all his majesty's forces in Scotland. Sir Thomas died in 1678, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD ELPHINSTON, born at Hatton 3rd October, 1652, and christened by the name of his grandfather, the Laird of Hatton. This gentleman, who learned his grammar at Calder, and his philosophy in Glasgow College, was appointed in November, 1672, deputy keeper of the privy seal, and subsequently a cornet in Lord Rollo's regiment of horse, which commission he held until the troop was disbanded in January, 1676. In 1678 he was commissioned by the king to be major in the Earl of Marr's regiment of militia; and he succeeded, at the decease of his father, to be muster-master general of all his majesty's forces in Scotland. In 1677 he sold, with his father's sanction, to his uncle William the estate of Calderhall; and the lands of Kerso to James Wright, minister of Alloa. In 1681

he was chosen, with James Seeton, of Touch, to represent the shire of Stirling in the parliament held at Edinburgh in that year, and to which H. R. H. the Duke of Albany was commissioner. He was married, 14th December, 1674, by John Paterson, Bishop of Galloway, to JEAN BRUCE,* heiress of Airth, and left, with a son, who was treacherously slain in the Torwood, a daughter, ELIZABETH ELPHINSTON, heiress of Airth, who wedded, as already stated, WILLIAM DUNDAS, and was grandmother of the present DUNDAS, of Blair Castle.

This gentleman assumed the additional surname and arms of FLEMING on inheriting the estate of Stoneham. He was high sheriff for Hampshire in 1817.

Lineage.

This family of Fleming was established by the LORD CHIEF JUSTICE.

SIR THOMAS FLEMING, knt.* who was born at Newport, in the Isle of Wight, in April, 1544, following a successful course at the bar, was appointed solicitor-general in 1595, raised to the bench as chief baron of the exchequer in 1604, and constituted lord chief justice of England in 1607. The inscription on the monument of this learned judge declares, that he fulfilled his high functions with such integrity, justice, and discretion, "that his life was of all good men desired, and his death of all lamented." He espoused Mary, daughter of John James, esq. of Newport, and had a son and heir,

THOMAS.

The chief justice purchased the manor of Baddesley, in Hants, of Mr. Forster, but selling it to Counsellor More, he purchased from the Earl of Southampton the estate of Stoneham. Upon his return from the northern circuit, at the latter end of the harvest in 1613, he gave what in that part of the country is called a hearing day, as he usually did, to which his tenants were invited; and, after spending the day in festivity, he went to bed in health, but died before morning (August 7). He was buried in North Stoneham church, where a monument is erected to his memory, and was s. by his son,

SIR THOMAS FLEMING, of Stoneham, who wedded Dorothy, daughter of Sir Henry Cromwell, of Hinchinbrooke, and aunt to the Protector Cromwell. By her he left at his decease in 1623, (with a daughter, Mary, m. to Thomas Leigh, esq. son and heir of Sir John Leigh, of Couldrey, Hants), a son and successor, THOMAS FLEMING, esq. of Stoneham, who m. Margaret, daughter of Edward, Lord Gorges, and had a son and daughter, viz.

EDWARD, his heir.

KATHERINE, who m. Daniel Eliot, esq. of Port Eliot, and by him, who died in 1702, had an only child,

KATHERINE ELIOT, who wedded BROWNE WILLIS, esq. of Bletchley and Whaddon Hall, and had issue,

1. THOMAS WILLIS, who m. first, Ann, only child and heir of John Hulme, esq. of Davy Hulme, and had two sons and a daughter, viz.

6. Katherine, }

7. Mary, m. to Rev. Edward Hervey, of Halcote.

8. Alice, wife of Dr. Eyre, of Botley Grange, but d. s. p.

Mr. Fleming was succeeded at his decease, in 1639, by his son,

EDWARD FLEMING, esq. of Stoneham, who espoused Katherine, daughter of Edward Hooper, esq. and dying in 1664, was succeeded by his son,

EDWARD FLEMING, esq. of Stoneham, who m. Margaret, dau. of Thomas Bland, esq. and by her, who died in 1713, had issue,

The estates eventually devolved on the youngest son,

WILLIAM FLEMING, esq. of Stoneham, last male representative of the family, at whose decease unmarried the property of Stoneham, in Hampshire, and in the Isle of Wight, reverted to (the grandson of Browne Willis and Katherine Eliot)

THOMAS WILLIS, esq. b. in 1737, who assumed in consequence the surname and arms of Fleming. He died however childless, and was succeeded by his half-brother,

JOHN WILLIS, esq. who likewise took, upon inheriting Stoneham, the surname of FLEMING. This gentleman represented

Southampton in parliament. He espoused Elizabeth, daughter of Valentine Knightley, esq. of Fawsley, in Northamptonshire, but dying s. p. 29th February, 1802, the inheritance passed to his cousin, JOHN WILLIS, esq. who, having assumed the additional surname of FLEMING, is the present JOHN WILLIS FLEMING, esq. of Stoneham.

Family of Willis.

JOHN WILLIS, of Harborough, in Lancashire, which he leased for 199 years, in 1582, was grandfather of

THOMAS WILLIS, of Hinxsey and Kennington, who had two sons, viz.

THOMAS, his heir.

John, of Kennington, whose son,

Thomas, went to Ireland, in 1638, and settled subsequently at Liverpool, where he was buried, in 1694. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of Edward Martin, esq. of Drogheda, and had issue,

Martin, of Liverpool, who m. in 1681, Ellen, daughter of Colonel Daniell, and dying in 1694, left two sons, Thomas and Daniell, who both d. s. p. (see vol. i. p. 46.)

Bethia, m. in 1691, to William Swettenham, esq. of Swettenham, (see vol. i. p. 641.)

The elder son,

THOMAS WILLIS, A.M. of St. John's College, Oxford, was killed, fighting under the royal banner, at the siege of Gloucester, in August, 1643. He m. first, Rachel, daughter of William Howel, esq.; and secondly, Miss Joane Rufine, by the former of whom he left at his decease, a son,

THOMAS WILLIS, M.B. an eminent physician, born 6th February, 1622, at Great Bedwin, in Wilts. In 1636, he was admitted a student of Christ Church, Oxford, where he took the usual degrees, with a view to the clerical profession. The death of his father, and the breaking out of the civil war, induced him however to alter his purpose, and after having served for a short period in the royal army, he returned to Oxford, and studied medicine, in which faculty he took his bachelor's degree, in 1646. He then commenced practice at Oxford, and became distinguished not only for his professional talents, but also for his attachment to science;—he was one of the first members of the Philosophical Association, which preceded the Royal Society. On the restoration of King CHARLES II. he was made Sedleian Professor of Natural Philosophy, and soon after took the degree of M.D. In 1666, he removed to London, and being appointed physician in ordinary to the king, rapidly advanced to the first rank in his profession. His death took place in London, 11th November, 1675. The principal works of Dr. Willis are “Anatome Cerebri cui accessit Nervorum descriptio et usus,” London, 1664, 12mo. the most esteemed of his productions, “Parthologiae Cerebri et Nervosi Generis Specimen, in quo agitur de Morbis Convulsivis et Scorbuto,” Oxon, 1667, 12mo. &c. &c. A collective edition of his writings was published at Geneva, in 1676, 2 vols. 4to. and several republications of them took place prior to the end of the 17th century. Dr. Willis m. Mary, daughter of Samuel Fell, D.D. and had two daughters, Jane, m. to Robert Symonds, esq. and Rachel, m. to Roger Lingen, of Pradbro, and a son,

THOMAS WILLIS, esq. of Bletchley and Whaddon, in the county of Buckingham, who m. Alice, daughter of Robert Browne, esq. of Frampton, in the county of Dorset, and dying 11th November, 1693, was s. by his son, BROWNE WILLIS, esq. of Bletchley and Whaddon. This celebrated person, born at Blandford, in Dorsetshire, 14th September, 1682, was educated at Westminster School and the University of Oxford, from which he removed in 1690. He entered a gentleman commoner of Christ Church, and having taken his degrees, continued his studies under William Wotton, B.D. rector of Middleton Keynes, a man of universal learning. At the decease of his father, inheriting the patrimonial estates, Mr. Browne Willis was, in 1705, chosen member of parliament for the town of Buckingham, in the room of Sir Richard Temple, bart. who made his election for the county, and during the short time Mr. Willis sat in parliament, he was a constant attendant, and generally on committees. Between the years 1704 and 1707, he contributed very largely towards repairing and beautifying Bletchley church, of which he was patron, and to which he presented a splendid set of communion plate. In 1717, the society of Antiquaries being revived, Mr. Willis became one of its members. In 1720, the degree of master of arts was conferred on him by diploma, by the University of Oxford. Subsequently, at Mr. Willis's solicitation, a subscription was raised for building the beautiful chapel of St. Martin's, at Fenny Stratford, which was commenced in 1724, and consecrated by Reynolds, Bishop of Lincoln, 27th May, 1730. In 1746, a dreadful fire having destroyed above fifty houses at Stony Stratford, Mr. Willis, besides the money he collected among his friends, for the benefit of the unhappy sufferers, repaired at his own expense the tower of St. Mary Magdalen's there, and also gave to the church a lottery ticket, which was drawn a prize.

In 1741, he presented to the University of Oxford his fine cabinet of English coins, and in 1749, was created by diploma, doctor of laws. He wedded in 1707, as previously stated, KATHERINE ELIOT,* and had the children already specified. After a long and well spent life, this estimable person died 5th February, 1760, at his seat at Whaddon Hall, and was buried in Fenny Stratford Chapel, with the following inscription to his memory, written by himself,

The eldest son,

RICHARD FOWLER, esq. of Harnage Grange, wedded Mary, eldest daughter of Sir Edward Littleton, of Pillaton, M.P. for Staffordshire, in the 39th of ELIZABETH, and left a son and successor,

WILLIAM FOWLER, esq. of Harnage Grange, who m. Anna, daughter of Richard Perks, esq. of Weddesbury, in Staffordshire, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

RICHARD FOWLER, esq. of Harnage Grange, who espoused the Hon. Margaret Newport, daughter of Sir Richard Newport, of High Ercall, created Baron Newport, in 1642, by Rachael, his wife, sister and co-heir of Sir Richard Leveson, K.B. of Trentham, and had, with other issue, a son and heir,

FRANCIS-LEVESON FOWLER, esq. of Harnage Grange. This gentleman married Anne, daughter of Peter Venables, esq. of Kinderton, and had an only daughter and heiress,

FRANCES, m. first to Thomas, sixth Viscount Kilmorey; secondly, in 1690, to Theophilus, seventh Earl of Huntingdon; and thirdly, to the Chevalier de Legonday, colonel of horse, one of the French prisoners taken with Count Tallard, at the battle of Hocksted.

Mr. Fowler dying without male issue, the representation of the family devolved on his brother,

SIR WILLIAM FOWLER, of Harnage Grange, who was created a BARONET, 1st November, 1704. He m. Mary, daughter of Sir Robert Cotton, of Combermere, in Cheshire, and had two sons and four daughters, viz.

- ii. William, who d. young.
- iii. Anne.
- iv. Mary, m. to John Dickins, esq. of Layton.
- v. Esther.
- vi. Elizabeth.

Sir William Fowler was succeeded by his son,

SIR RICHARD FOWLER, bart. of Harnage Grange, who m. Sarah, only daughter of William Sloane, esq. of Portsmouth, brother of Sir Hans Sloane, bart. and by her, (who wedded, secondly, in August, 1737, Frances Annesley, esq. of the Inner Temple), had issue,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Richard, who died s. p.

HANS, successor to his nephew.

SARAH, of whom presently.

The eldest son and heir,

SIR WILLIAM FOWLER, bart. of Harnage Grange, married in 1728-9, a daughter of Brigadier General Newton, and by her, who died in childbed, at Shrewsbury, 18th March, 1738, had issue,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Lucy, m. to Mr. John Jones, of London, distiller.

Letitia, m. to Launcelot Baugh, gent. of Lentuardine.

Harriot, m. to Joseph Hughes, esq. of the Auditor's office.

Sir William Fowler was succeeded by his only son,

SIR WILLIAM FOWLER, bart. cornet in Sir John Mordaunt's dragoons, who died unmarried, in Germany, in 1760, and devised his estate in possession to his sisters. The baronetcy reverted to his uncle,

SIR HANS FOWLER, bart. who, under the entail in his brother Sir William's will, was entitled to the other part of the estate, on the death of his mother. He wedded Miss Dibbs, of Dadington, in Oxfordshire, but had no issue. Sir Hans died in 1773, when the title became EXTINCT, and the Welsh possessions, Abbey-cwm-hir, &c. devolved on his sister,

SARAH FOWLER, who wedded Colonel Hodges, of the guards, and had (with two elder sons, who both died young),

THOMAS HODGES, heir to his mother.

Sarah Hodges, m. to Colonel Hastings, of the guards.

Mr. Hodges died in 1792, and was succeeded by his only son,

THOMAS HODGES, esq. of Abbey-cwm-hir, in the county of Radnor, who assumed upon inheriting his mother's estate, the surname and arms of FOWLER. He espoused 20th June, 1803, Lucy, relict of Thomas Humphrey Lowe, esq. of Bromsgrove, in Worcestershire, elder daughter and co-heiress of Thomas Hill, esq. of Court of Hill, M.P. for Leominster (for an account of the HILLS, of Court of Hill, see vol. i. p. 655), by whom he had an only daughter, SARAH-GEORGINA.

Mr. Fowler died 6th June, 1820, and leaving no male issue, the representation of the ancient family of FOWLER became vested in his only daughter.

ELEANOR, m. to Rev. Thomas Milnes, eldest son of the Rev. Dr. Milnes, of Newark.

HESTER, of whom presently.

Mr. Gery d. in 1802, and leaving no male issue, the estates devolved on his three daughters as co-heirs. The youngest of these co-heirs,

HESTER GERY, espoused, in 1792, the Rev. HUGH WADE, son of the Rev. Hugh Wade, vicar of Newark, in the county of Nottingham, by Miss Martha Twentymann, and grandson of John Wade, esq. of Cosby, in Lincolnshire. Mr. Wade assumed upon his marriage, by letters patent, the additional surname and arms of GERY. Early in life he was entered at Emanuel College, Cambridge, where he took a high wrangler degree in 1783, soon after which he was elected fellow of that College, and about 1792 was presented to the college rectory of Thorning, in the county of Huntingdon.

His publications were various:—among others a series of Discourses on the Higher Doctrines of Christianity; and, when the public attention was first called to the revision of our criminal code, he contributed his advice by a valuable tract on Penal Punishments. He was for upwards of thirty years an efficient magistrate for the counties of Bedford and Huntingdon.

Mr. Wade-Gery, by the co-heiress of Bushmead, had issue,

WILLIAM-HUGH, his heir.

TYLDEN, OF MILSTED.

TYLDEN, SIR JOHN-MAXWELL, knt. of Milsted, in the county of Kent, b. 25th September, 1787, m. June, 1829, Elizabeth, only daughter of the Rev. Henry Lomax Walsh, LL.D. of Grimblesthorpe, in Lincolnshire.

This gentleman, who served for twenty years in the army, and was late lieutenant-colonel in command of the 52nd regiment of light infantry, received the honour of knighthood in 1812, as proxy for his uncle, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Samuel Auchmuty, G.C.B. at the installation of the Knights of the Bath in that year. Sir John Tylden s. his father 2nd February, 1832.

Lineage.

The family of TYLDEN, one of great antiquity, has been seated in Kent for several centuries. Of the three distinct branches into which it separated, the eldest became possessed of Milsted, in that county; the second removed into Sussex, and one of its members emigrating, founded the numerous TILDENS of America: while the youngest branch settled at Ifield. The family anciently possessed lands in the parishes of Brenchley, Otterden, Kennington, and Tilmannstone; and so far back as the reign of EDWARD III. we find WILLIAM TYLDEN paying aid for lands in Kent when the Black Prince was knighted. Of the branch settled in the parish of Wormsell temp. ELIZABETH was,

WILLIAM TYLDEN, who wedded Elizabeth, daughter of James Tonge, of Tunstal, and by her (who died 3rd June, 1625, and was buried at Wormshill,) had one son and two daughters, viz.

William Tylden died 23rd December, 1613, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD TYLDEN, esq. who purchased, 16th September, 9th CHARLES I. from Edward Chute, esq. of Bethersden, the manor and advowson of MILSTED,* in the county of Kent. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of John Toke, esq. of Godinton, (of consanguinity to Archbishop Chichele, founder of ALL SOULS,†) and had issue,

* The manor MILSTED was possessed, in the early part of the reign of EDWARD I. by Thomas Abelyn, and subsequently by the Savages, Mockings, and Hoggeshaws. Joane, a daughter and co-heir of the last family, conveyed it in marriage to Thomas Lovel, esq. who died seized of it in the 2nd HENRY IV. and it remained with their descendants until alienated to Robert Greaves, who died possessed of Milsted, then called Hoggeshaws, 9th HENRY VII. Afterwards we find it enjoyed by the Wakes, the Barnards, the Nevyles, the Southwells, and the Henmans. Alan Henman, of Lenham, levied a fine in Mich. term, 3rd ELIZABETH, and in the 12th of the same reign, sold Milsted to Thomas Thomson, of Sandwich, for the use of Agnes, his daughter, the wife of John Toke, of Godinton, and mother of Nicholas Toke, esq. of Great Chart, who, in 1631, disposed of the manor and advowson of Milsted to Edward Chute, esq. of Bethersden, and they were purchased from that gentleman, as stated in the text, by Richard Tylden.

Lineage.

This branch of the great house of CRAUFURD derives from

DUNCAN CRAUFURD, of Camlarg, third son of David Craufurd, of Kerse, who appears to have had (living in the reign of JAMES IV.) an only daughter, MARGARET CRAUFURD, who wedded JOHN CRAUFURD, of Drongan, and had three sons, viz.

- I. JOHN, who succeeded his father at Drongan. In January, 1552, there is a charter of the mains of Drongan, and of the four merk land of Smithstown, and lands of Skeoch Hill, on a life-rent right, granted by John Craufurd, of Drongan, in favour of his spouse, Margaret Kennedy, and on the 27th July, 1552, John Craufurd, of Drongan, is witness to a sasine in favour of M. Colville.

II. DAVID, who inherited Camlarg.

III. WILLIAM.

The third son,

WILLIAM CRAUFURD, is designed, in a writ under the great seal, anno 1567, "of Drumsoy." He was father of

WILLIAM CRAUFURD, of Drumsoy, living in 1577, who m. Margaret Fairlie, and had two sons, ROBERT and WILLIAM, by the elder of whom,

SIR ROBERT CRAUFURD-FAIRLEY, he was succeeded, some time before the 13th of August, 1596. Sir Robert had married, in his father's life, Agnes,* only daughter of David Fairlie, of that Ilk, in the parish of Largs, and assumed in consequence the additional surname of Fairlie. He had by that lady several daughters, of whom two are named,

AGNES, heiress of Drumsoy.

Janet, m. to William Cathcart, of Carbieston, by whom she had, with other children,

JAMES CATHCART, who went to Germany, where, in the service of the DUKE OF DEUX-PONTS, he rose to high rank, and acquired considerable fortune. He espoused the daughter of the Chancellor of the Duchy, and his grandson, WILLIAM DE CATHCART, was, in 1722, gentleman of the bed-chamber to the prince palatine, Duke de Deux-Ponts, and in the possession of his grandfather's estates in the vicinity of that place.

Sir Robert appears to have been succeeded, in Fairlie, by a Robert Craufurd, alias Fairlie, conjectured to be his son; but DRUMSOY passed to his elder daughter,

AGNES CRAUFURD, who married her first

* She is called by some authorities MARGARET; by CRAUFURD, Agnes.

cousin, ROBERT CRAUFURD, son of her uncle William, and was s. by (it is presumed) her son,

DUNCAN CRAUFURD, of Drumsoy. This gentleman m. in 1621, Jane, daughter of Sir Robert Fairlie, of that ilk, (by Marion, daughter of Thomas Craufurd, of Jordanhill), and was s. by his son,

DAVID CRAUFURD, of Drumsoy, who wedded a daughter of Gordon of Craiglaw, (maternally descended from David Craufurd, of Kerse), and had three sons,

DAVID, his successor.

Esplin, a captain in the army.

PATRICK, of whom hereafter, as inheritor of Drumsoy, from his grand-niece.

David Craufurd died before the year 1675, and was s. by his eldest son,

DAVID CRAUFURD, of Drumsoy. This laird m. a daughter of James Craufurd, of Baidland, afterwards Ardmillan, by whom he had,

DAVID, his heir.

Marion, m. to Stewart, of Fintulloch, and had issue.

Margaret.

He was s. by his son,

DAVID CRAUFURD, of Drumsoy, historiographer for Scotland to QUEEN ANNE, a gentleman of literary abilities, distinguished, amongst other works, by an historical defence of MARY, QUEEN OF SCOTS. He died in 1710, leaving an only daughter and heiress,

EMILIA CRAUFURD, of Drumsoy, who died unmarried in 1731, when the representation of the family reverted to her grand-uncle,

PATRICK CRAUFURD, of Drumsoy, who had previously acquired the estate by purchase. This appears from the disreect of the 15th January, 1731, and again by the disreect of Ranking, on the 4th July, 1751, in which it is stated that, "in 1675, David Craufurd was laird of Drumsoy, and that he was succeeded in that estate by his son, David Craufurd, who left an only child, Emilia Craufurd, at whose instance, as apparent heir, the estate of Drumsoy was sold, and that Patrick Craufurd, merchant in Edinburgh, who purchased it, was brother-german of David Craufurd, elder of Drumsoy." Before purchasing Drumsoy, Patrick Craufurd had become proprietor of the estate of Auchinames, in the same manner, and became closely allied to that branch of the family of Craufurd by marrying Jane, second daughter of Archibald Craufurd, sixteenth baron of Auchinames.* She was, however, his second wife. He espoused, first, a daughter of Gordon of Turnberry, and had one son and two daughters, namely, THOMAS, who d. at Paris in 1724, being at that time envoy extraordinary from the court of St. James's to that of Versailles.

Anne, m. to William Hogg, merchant at Edinburgh.

Margaret, m. to John Cochrane, of Ravelrig, and had a daughter, married to David Ross, of Inverchastly, a lord of session.

garet, his wife, daughter of Porterfield of that ilk, had one son and three daughters, namely,

1. WILLIAM, who died in 1695, before his father. He had married Helen, daughter of Sir Thomas Burnet, of Crimond, by Janet, sister of Alexander, earl of Kincardine, and niece to the Bishop of Sarum, by whom he left an only daughter,

HELEN CRAUFURD, who m. Patrick Edmonstone, of Newtowne, and had issue,

1. James Edmonstone, colonel in the army, who married Mary daughter of George Abercromby, of Tullibody, and had, with a daughter, a son, John James Edmonstone, of Newtowne, who m. Barbara, daughter of Sir Henry Seton.

2. Thomas Edmonstone, captain in the 33rd regiment, killed at St. Cas in 1758.

1. Isabella Edmonstone, married to Francis Kennedy, of Dunure, and was mother of Thomas Kennedy, of Dunure, who m. Jane, daughter of John Adam, of Blair, and had a son, Thomas Francis Kennedy, esq. of Dunure.

2. Rachel Edmonstone, married to Bruce, of Pittfouls, without issue.

3. Mary Edmonstone, m. to John Buchanan, of Arnprior, and had Alexander Buchanan, of Arnprior.

Thomas Buchanan, married the Hon. Catherine Abercromby, youngest daughter of Sir Ralph, and Baroness Abercromby, by whom he had four sons, (one of whom, Captain James Edmonstone Buchanan, fell at Talavera in 1809,) and four daughters.

1. Anna, m. to James Bruce, of Powfouls, and had three daughters,

1. Annabella Bruce, m. to John Forbes, esq. of Newhall, by whom she had two daughters; one died unm. the other, Anne Forbes, m. Robert Chalmers, esq. and had a daughter, sons, Robert Berry and Ronald Berry.

3. Annabella, m. to William Fullerton, of Rosemount, whom she survived.

- iv. James, an eminent merchant in Holland, m. Elizabeth, daughter of — Andrews, esq. of Rotterdam, and had issue,

1. Patrick, appointed, in 1769, conservator of Scots' privileges in Holland.

2. James.

3. George, who, with Patrick, succeeded to his father's commercial establishment.

4. Ronald, a merchant in Glasgow, of the house of Spiers and Co.

1. Margaret, m. to Macleod of Geanies.

- v. Hugh, a merchant in the East Indies, where he died unm.

- vi. Alexander, an officer in the army, died in Lord Cathcart's expedition to Carthage, in 1741.

- vii. John, an officer in the army, who attained the rank of lieutenant-general, and died governor of Minorca, unmarried.

Patrick Craufurd, of Drumsoy and Auchinames died in 1733, and was succeeded by his eldest surviving son,

PATRICK CRAUFURD, of Drumsoy, Auchinames, &c. who was returned to parliament by the county of Edinburgh in 1741 and 1747. He sat also in the parliament which assembled in April, 1761, as member for the county of Renfrew. This gentleman m. first, Elizabeth, daughter and co-heir of George Middleton, esq. a banker in London, and had two sons,

- i. JOHN, his heir.

- ii. James, colonel in the Guards, and one of the equerries to the Queen. Colonel Craufurd was likewise governor of Bermuda, and died s. p. in 1811.

The laird wedded, secondly, Sarah, daughter of Lord Sempill, by whom he had a dau. Sarah, who died unmarried in 1796. He d. in 1778, and was succeeded by his elder son, JOHN CRAUFURD, of Drumsoy, Auchinames, &c. member for Old Sarum in the parliament of 1768, and afterwards for the county of Renfrew in the parliament which assembled in October, 1774. This gentleman, who was the associate and friend of CHARLES JAMES FOX, died unmarried in 1814, and was succeeded by his cousin, JOHN CRAUFURD, esq. now representative of the branch of Drumsoy.

Estates—Crosbie and Ardnail, both nearly adjoining and situated in the parishes of West Kilbride and Dalry, in the county of Ayr. Sir Hugh de Craufurd, of Loudoun, heritable high sheriff of Ayr, obtained from the great constable of Scotland, in 1226, a charter de tota terra de Crosbie. A granddaughter of this Sir Hugh (Margaret), sister of Sir Reginald de Craufurd, married Sir Malcolm Wallace, of Ellerslie, and was mother of WILLIAM WALLACE, of immortal memory; there is a tradition that he was born at her brother's castle of Crosbie, where she had sought refuge in those troublesome times. This tradition seems the more probable from the recorded fact of many of the youthful days of the patriot having been passed in the beautiful glen in which his uncle's castle stands.

The estate of Ardnail is of modern acquisition in the Craufurd family, having been purchased in 1746 by Patrick Craufurd, of Auchinames, the grand-uncle of the present possessor, from the Boyds of Kilmarnock, to whom it was granted by King ROBERT BRUCE. A small castle, in ruins, stands by the old port, which was the place whence the bodies of the kings of Scotland were embarked for burial in Icolmkill: hence the name of Portincross. And over the lands of Crosbie passed the holy track by which the corpses were conveyed to the port, the name of Crosbie signifying the Castle of the Cross. Many royal charters are dated from Ardnail. A tradition exists of one of the ships of the Spanish armada having been wrecked off the port of Portincross; and a gun, bearing traces of the Spanish arms was, many years ago, fished up near the shore, and lies by the old castle.

Town Residence—George-street, Hanover-square.

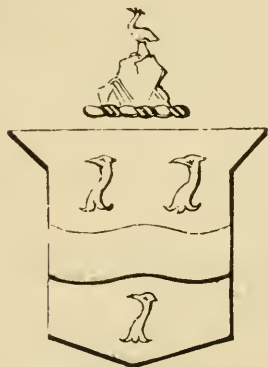

Seat—The proper seat is Crosbie Castle, in Ayrshire, but the house is in ruins, and Mr. Craufurd, when in Scotland, resides in a shooting cottage at Portincross.

SPENCER, OF BRAMLEY GRANGE.

SPENCER, The Reverend WILLIAM PAKENHAM, of Bramley Grange, in the county of York, b. 11th February, 1800, s. his father 27th August, 1829.

Mr. Spencer, who resides generally at Starston Rectory, in Norfolk, is an acting magistrate, and deputy-lieutenant for that county.

Lineage.

This family, by the following certificate from the College of Arms, under the hand of GEORGE OWEN, York Herald, dated in 1648, is presumed to be a branch of the noble house of SPENCER.

"Whereas, William Spencer, of Bramley Grange, in the county of York, gentleman, hath had consultation with me concerning the bearing of his arms, being, as it appears by tradition, received from his ancestors, as also by the usage of arms by his father and grandfather, and by a pedigree, by him produced, to be descended of a younger branch of the family of Spencer, of Badley, in the county of Northampton, he not being able at present to make any precise proof what filial difference he ought to give (as indeed it is often the case of many younger branches of worthy families in this kingdom), for want of preserving and registering their genealogies and pedigrees. He, in that regard, hath requested my advice how he may (in the bearing of his arms) demean himself to relate to that family, without prejudice to any thereby; which I have advised him to do by giving the fesse wavy, and the crest being a sea mew, to bear it on a wreath on a rock proper, as it is above depicted."

The pedigree alluded to in this certificate having been many years lost, we must commence at the time the family was first established in Yorkshire.

THOMAS SPENCER, gent. descended from the ancient stock of Spencer, of Badley, came out of Northamptonshire, and settled at Sheffield. He m. a daughter of — Hatfield, of Hatfield House, in the parish of Ecclesfield, and was s. by his son, WILLIAM SPENCER, of Bramley Grange, who wedded, in 1583, Anne, daughter of — Staniforth, of Tanslow, and had three sons, viz.

WILLIAM, his heir.

George, of Newhall Grange, who had lands at Tickhill, by his father's will. He m. a daughter of — Brownell.

Thomas, of Hooton Levett, where he had lands and titles under his father's will.

William Spencer made his will in 1620, and dying in four years after, was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM SPENCER, esq. of Attercliffe Hall, b. in 1584. This gentleman inherited under his father's will lands at Bramley, Micklebring, Conisbro', Carbrook, Masbro' and Rotherham. He m. Alice, daughter of James Mitchell, of Morthen, and had issue,

WILLIAM, his successor.

Michael, of London, m. Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Taylor.

John, m. Anne, daughter of Richard Taylor.

Margaret, m. to Ralph Fretwell, esq. of Hellaby.

Mary, m. to Andrew Morewood, esq. of the Hallows.

Anne, m. to John Bright, esq. of Carbrook.

Mr. Spencer d. in 1649, was buried in the chancel of the parish church at Sheffield, and succeeded by his eldest son,

WILLIAM SPENCER, esq. of Bramley Grange, and Attercliffe Hall, born in 1612. The Spencers, with their relatives, the Westbys of Ravenfield and Giltwhait, Brights of Carbrook, and Hatfields of Laughton, having espoused the parliamentary cause, this William Spencer attained the rank of lieutenant-Colonel in the army opposed to the king, and was in the commission of the peace for the county of York. One of the charges brought against Sherland Adams, rector of Treeton, who was removed by the parliamentary commissioners, was, that he had caused the house of Lieutenant-colonel Spencer, at Attercliffe, to be plundered by the king's party, and the colonel to be imprisoned, who had afterwards £350. to pay for his release. Colonel Spencer obtained, upon the restoration, a free pardon, under the sign manual, relieving him from the penalties incurred by "all manner of treasons, high treasons, levying of war, rebellious and insurrections, and all and every murders, deaths, and killings of men by lying in wait, assaults, or of malice aforethought, homicides, felonies, robberies, burnings of houses, piracies, offences, crimes, misdeeds, and trespasses advised, commanded, &c. by the said William Spencer;" and restoring him any estates, &c. which might, in consequence of his rebellion, have been forfeited to the crown. There is a tradition at Darnall (where Colonel Spencer had considerable property, and the manor) that after the restoration one William Walker, who had been the executioner of King CHARLES I. retired there, with the connivance of Colonel Spencer. The circumstance was investigated by Mr. Wilson, and the evidence collected published in the Gentleman's Magazine, vol. 37, p. 548, and vol. 38, p. 10, &c. It consists of recollected confessions in his dying moments; tradition of a warrant having been sent for his apprehension, when he escaped through the connivance of Mr. Spencer, of Attercliffe, joined to the fact that in the trials of the persons who composed the court of justice, Walker was several times mentioned.

Colonel Spencer m. first, in 1634, Elizabeth, daughter of Leonard Gell, esq. of Norton, (by Elizabeth, sister of the Right Rev. Robert Sanderson, bishop of Lincoln), and by her, who d. in 1636, had an only child, Elizabeth, who did not survive infancy. He wedded secondly, Sarah, daughter of George Westby, esq. of Ravenfield Hall, by whom (who died and was buried at Sheffield in 1668) he had five sons and three daughters, viz.

Colonel Spencer d. in 1686, was interred in the chancel of Sheffield church, and s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM SPENCER, esq. of Bramley Grange, and Attercliffe Hall, b. in 1640, m. Elizabeth, daughter of John Hatfield, esq. and was s. by his eldest surviving son,

THOMAS SPENCER, esq. of Attercliffe Hall, and Bramley Grange, b. in 1670, married Elizabeth, daughter of William Fairfax, esq. of Steeton, in the county of York, son and heir of Sir William Fairfax, who fell at the siege of Montgomery Castle in 1644. By this lady (who died and was buried at Sheffield in 1708), he had an only son, his successor at his decease in 1703,

WILLIAM SPENCER, esq. of Attercliffe Hall, and Bramley Grange. This gentleman wedded, in 1726, Margaret, daughter and heiress of Henry Eyre, esq. of Bramley Hall, (by Sarah, his wife, daughter and coheir of JOHN BOLLE, esq. of Thorpe Hall, in the county of Lincoln), and by her, who died in 1745, had issue, Family of Bolle.

SIR JOHN BOLLE, knt. of the ancient Lincolnshire house of Bolle of Haugh and Thorpe Hall, who distinguished himself at the siege of Cadiz in 1596, and was afterwards governor of Kinsale, married, and had two sons, namely,

CHARLES (Sir), his heir.

JOHN, to whom his elder brother, Sir

Charles Bolle, gave the command of a regiment of foot, which he had raised amongst his own tenantry and dependants, to support the cause of King CHARLES I. in which he had zealously embarked. At the head of this regiment Colonel John Bolle signalized himself at the battle of Edge Hill, and was slain in the same position, and while as gallantly distinguishing himself at Alton, in Hants, in 1643. The circumstances attending the death of this valiant and devoted soldier, are thus detailed by Lord Clarendon:—"After Sir William Waller had informed himself how the Lord Hopton's troops lay quartered at too great distance from each other, he marched, according to his custom on those occasions, all the night, and by the break of day encompassed a great village, called Alton, where a troop or two of horse, and a regiment of foot of the King's, lay in too much security. However, the horse took the alarm quickly, and for the most part made their escape to Winchester, the head quarter, whither the Lord Hopton was returned but the night before from Arundel. Colonel Bolle, who commanded his own regiment of foot there, consisting of about five hundred men, which had been drawn out of the garrison of Wallingford, when he found himself encompassed by the enemy's army of horse and foot, saw he could not defend himself, or make other resistance, than by retiring with his men into the church, which he hoped to maintain for so many hours, that relief might be sent to him; but he had not time to barricado the doors, so that the enemy entered almost as soon, and, after a short resistance, in which many were killed, the soldiers, overpowered, threw down their arms and asked for quarter, which was likewise offered to the colonel, who refused it, and valiantly defended himself, till, with the death of two or three of the assailants, he was killed in the place, his enemies giving him a testimony of great courage and resolution.*

Of Sir John Bolle, the following romantic anecdote is preserved by tradition. Amongst the prisoners taken at Cadiz, one fair captive, of great beauty, high rank, and immense wealth, was the peculiar charge of our gallant knight, and, as customary in such interesting situations, became deeply enamoured of her chivalrous captor, so much so that she proposed accompanying him to England as his page. Faithful, however, to his conjugal vows, Sir John rejected the lady's suit, who in consequence retired to a convent, having first transmitted to her fair unconscious rival, in England, her jewels and other ornaments of value,† including her own portrait, drawn in green; a circumstance which obtained for the original, in the neighbourhood of Thorpe Hall, the designation of "THE GREEN LADY;" and still, according to the superstition of successive generations, that SEAT is deemed haunted by the LADY IN GREEN, who is wont nightly to take up her position beneath a particular tree close to the mansion. It is also stated, upon the same authority, that during the life of Sir John's son, Sir Charles Bolle, a knife and fork were laid for her especial use, should she feel disposed to take her place at the festive board. The attachment of the Green Lady for Sir John Bolle gave rise to an ancient ballad, written about this period, entitled "The Spanish Lady's Love for an Englishman."* SHENSTONE has a poem upon the same subject, called "LOVE AND HONOUR." Sir John Bolle was succeeded at his decease by his son,

SIR CHARLES BOLLE, knt. of Thorpe Hall,

* The following is the ballad, from Dr. Percy's Relics of Ancient English Poetry; but the Doctor was ignorant of the real name of the Englishman referred to.

Will you hear a Spanish lady,
How she wooed an English man?
Garments gay and rich as may be,
Decked with jewels she had on.
Of a comely countenance and grace was she,
And by birth and parentage of high degree.

As his prisoner there he kept her,
In his hands her life did lye;
Cupid's bands did tie them faster
By the liking of an eye.
In his courteous company was all her joy,
To favour him in any thing she was not coy.

But at last there came commandment
For to set the ladies free,
With their jewell still adorned,
None to do them injury.
Then said this lady mild, Full woe is me;
O let me still sustain this kind captivity!

Gallant Captain, shew some pity
To a ladye in distresse;
Leave me not within this city,
For to dye in heavinesse:
Thou hast this present day my body free,
But my heart in prison still remains with thee.

"How should'st thou, fair lady, love me,
Whom thou knowest thy country's foe?
Thy fair wordes make me suspect thee:
Serpents lie where flowers grow."
All the harme I wish to thee, most courteous knight, [light.

Blessed be the time and season

In this "Memoriall," the christian name should be John, not Richard. The mistake probably arose from his being called Richard in the parliament account of the action. The date is likewise wrong: it should be 1643.

BRAMLEY GRANGE, formerly a grange belonging to the abbey of Roche, purchased by the family of Spencer before 1620, as it is mentioned in a will dated that year. MANOR OF DARNALL. By indenture, bearing date 15th February, 1641, Richard Wainwright, of Dungworth, in the chapelry of Bradfield, conveyed one moiety of this manor to William Spencer, of Attercliffe Hall, gent. for the sum of £700. Whether he acquired the other moiety before or after does not appear; but he held his court baron for this manor in 1645, and it has descended entire. Estates (as appears from old wills) were possessed by the family at Bramley, Mecklebring, Couisbrough, Carbrook, Masbrough, Rotherham, Attercliffe, Darnall, Tickhill, Maltby, and Hooton Levett, all alienated, except those at Bramley and Darnall. Considerable estates, with the inappropriate tithes of Darton and Kexbro', came into the family by marriage with the heiress of the Eyres, but have all been alienated. Estates at Swaithes, Tyers Hill, &c. were acquired with the heiress of the Milners of Burton Grange.

Seat—BRAMLEY GRANGE, near Rotherham.

"Rest you still, most gallant lady;
Rest you still, and weep no more;
Of fair lovers there is plenty,
Spain doth yield a plenteous store."
Spaniards fraught with jealousy we often find,
But Englishmen through all the world are counted kind.

Leave me not unto a Spaniard,
You alone enjoy my heart;
I am lovely, young, and tender,
Love is likewise my desert:
Still to serve thee day and night my mind is prest,
The wife of every Englishman is counted blest.

"It wold be a shame, fair lady,
For to bear a woman hence;
English soldiers never carry
Any such without offence."
I'll quickly change myself, if it be so,
And like a page I'll follow thee, where'er thou go.

"I have neither gold nor silver
To maintain thee in this case;
And to travel is great charges,
As you know, in every place."
My chains and jewels every one shall be thy own, [unknown].
And eke five hundred pounds in gold that lies

"On the seas are many dangers,
Many storms do there arise;
Which will be to ladies dreadful,
And force tears from watery eyes."
Well in troth I shall endure extremity,
For I could find in heart to lose my life for thee.

"Courteous lady, leave this fancy,
Here comes all that breeds the strife;
I in England have already
A sweet woman to my wife:
I will not falsify my vow for gold nor gain,
Nor yet for all the fairest dames that live in Spain."

O, how happy is that woman
That enjoys so true a friend!
Many happy days God send her!—
Of my suit I make an end.
On my knees I pardon crave for my offence,
Which did from love and true affection first commence.

Commend me to thy lovely lady,
Bear to her this chain of gold;
And these bracelets for a token;
Grieving that I was so bold:
All my jewels in like sort take thou with thee,
For they are fitting for thy wife, but not for me.

I will spend my days in prayer,
Love and all her laws defy;
In a nunnery will I shroud me,
Far from any company:
But ere my prayers have an end, be sure of this,
'To pray for thee and for thy love I will not miss.

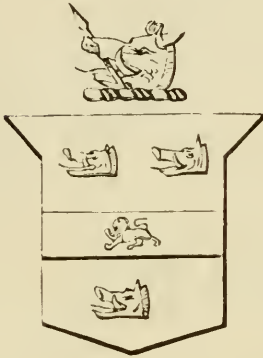

Thus farewell, most gallant Captain!
Farewell too my heart's content!
Count not Spanish ladies wanton,
Though to thee my love was bent:
Joy and true prosperity goe still with thee!
"The like fall ever to thy share, most fair ladie."

GOUGH, OF PERRY HALL.

GOUGH, JOHN, esq. of Perry Hall, in the county of Stafford, b. 11th August, 1780, m. 29th August, 1809, Jane-Elizabeth, eldest daughter of John Paget, esq. of Newberry House, and Cranmore Hall, both in Somersetshire.

Mr. Gough succeeded his father on the 30th January, 1828.

Lineage.

This family, pre-eminently distinguished by the talents of its members, one of whom, a junior, founded the noble house of CALTHORPE, derives from

INNERTH, or JOHN GOCH, or GOUGH, of the principality, living in the time of HENRY IV.* who was father of three sons, namely,

1. PHILIP, (Sir) who served in the French wars of HENRY IV., HENRY V., and HENRY VI. and received the honour of knighthood. Hollingshed says, "that Philip Gough, Christopher Hanson, and Martin Godfrey, took the castle of St. Laurence de Mortiers."

II. MATTHEW (Sir).

III. THOMAS.

The second son,

SIR MATTHEW GOUGH, was knighted in the French wars under Talbot, having achieved the reputation of a brave and enterprising soldier. "He was a man," says an old historian, "of excellent virtue, manhood and zeal for his country, and of great renown in the wars of France, where he had served for the space of twenty years, and upwards, and ended his life at London bridge, in 1450, being appointed by Lord Scales, the governor of the tower, to assist the mayor and Londoners in defending the city against Cade. They took post on the bridge, which the rebels attacked in the night, and got possession of the drawbridge, slaying among others, Matthew Gough, a man of great wit and much experience in feats of chivalrie, the which in continual wars had spent his time in the service of the king." In 1424, while engaged in France, it is recorded of Gough, that encountering and defeating a party which had invaded Masconnors, under the Bastard de la Baulm, and the Lord Craignar, captain of Courallon, he pursued the Bastard to the gate of his own castle, and made him prisoner there. In 1426, he was appointed governor of the Chateau de Loire, and the next year, of Lavall. In 1428, he was sent by Talbot against Mans, which he succeeded in recovering. In 1434, he fell into the hands of the enemy, in a skirmish on his march towards St. Dennis, to join his commander, Lord Talbot, and we find by Holingshed, in 1456, "Sir Robert Vere, and Sir Matthew Gough, the valiant Welchman," among those who escaped the slaughter at Formigny, in Normandy. Sir Matthew had two sons, Thomas, who died in 1437, and

RICHARD GOUGH,* citizen of London,

* Others of the name, and connected with the family occur as early as the reign of HENRY I. "The name of Owen Glendour's father," says Pennant, in his Tour through North Wales, "was Griffydd Fychan, of his mother Elena, of royal blood, and from whom he afterwards claimed the throne of Wales. She was eldest daughter of Thomas ap Llewellyn ap Owen, by his wife, ELENA GOCH, or Elinor, the red-daughter and heiress to Catherine, one of the daughters of Llewellyn, last Prince of Wales, and wife to Philip ap Ivor, of Iscoïd. She was concealed by some friends, on the death of her father, or the jealousy of EDWARD about the succession would have made her share the fate of her sister, Gwenllïan, who was forced to take the veil in the convent of Shaftesbury." There was also a celebrated bard, named Ido, or John Goch, or Gough.

* Some accounts deduce the descent from Thomas, woolstapler of London, who d. in 1437, making the said Thomas brother of Sir Matthew.

merchant of the Staple, who died in 1495, leaving,

THOMAS GOUGH, of Wolverhampton, merchant of the Staple, whose son and successor in 1532,

HENRY GOUGH, of Woolverhampton, merchant of the Staple, died in 1560, leaving a son,

JOHN GOUGH, of Wolverhampton, merchant of the Staple, anno 1562 who married, and had by his first wife, whose name is unknown, two sons and a daughter, viz.

HENRY, his heir.

John, who d. in 1562.

Anne, m. first, to Richard Jackson, and secondly, to Ralph Floyer, of Hints. She died in 1617.

His second wife was Elizabeth Blunt, of Ridware, and by her, who d. in 1615, he had another son and daughter,

Richard, citizen of London, who m. the daughter of Thomas Thornton, and had a son.

Amicia, m. to Francis Tomkis.

John Gough d. in 1596, and was s. by his eldest son,

HENRY GOUGH, esq. who purchased the lordship and seat of Oldfallings, in Staffordshire, and was amongst the most zealous adherents of King CHARLES I. devoting himself, heart, and fortune, to the service of that ill-fated prince. "His Majesty, during his troubles, stopt at Wolverhampton, where he was entertained by Madam St. Andrew, a near connection of Mr. Gough, and that gentleman himself ventured to accommodate their Royal Highnesses, Charles, Prince of Wales, and James, Duke of York. An ancient tenement still remains at Wolverhampton, which is part of the house wherein these princely guests resided. A subscription being set on foot to aid the exigencies of the Royal cause, the inhabitants cheerfully contributed according to their ability, but the most ample supply was expected from Mr. Gough, whose loyalty was as pre-eminent as his fortune was superior, when to the great surprise and disappointment of every one, he refused any assistance, though strongly urged by the king's commissioners, who returned in disgust and chagrin. When night approached, putting on his hat and cloak, Mr. Gough went secretly and solicited a private audience of his Majesty. This appearing an extraordinary request, the dangerous circumstance of the times considered, the lord-in-waiting wished to know the object of the request, with an offer to communicate it to the king. Mr. Gough persisting, however, to decline this medium of communication, after much interrogation, obtained admission to the royal presence; he then drew from his cloak a purse containing a large sum* of money, and presenting it with due respect, said, "may it please your majesty to accept this, it is all the cash I have by me, or I would have brought more. The gift was so acceptable to the king, that an offer of knighthood was made to Mr. Gough; but this loyal subject having no other view than to serve his sovereign, declined the honour, which was afterwards conferred on his grandson, Henry, of Perry Hall, when he was introduced at the court of CHARLES II. and had mention made of the loyalty of his ancestors."

Mr. Gough espoused first, Elizabeth Leigh, of Wolverhampton, by whom, who d. in 1625, he had issue,

i. JOHN, his successor.

ii. Richard, slain by the rebels at Aston.

i. Elizabeth, m. to Lancelot Lee, esq. of Aveley.

ii. Isabel, m. to John Hamond, gent.

iii. Anne, died unm.

iv. Judith, m. to Richard Smalbroke, of Birmingham, d. s. p.

He m. secondly, Frances Fellowes, who died 1628; and thirdly, Isabel, (who d. in 1650) relict of Nicholas Allen, but had no other children. He d. in 1655, and was s. by his elder son,

JOHN GOUGH, esq. of Oldfallings. This gentleman purchased in 1656, from John Knight, esq. the manor and lordship of Belfcoat, and in 1659, the manor and grange of Walton, in Staffordshire. He wedded first, Margaret, daughter of Ralph Wedgwood, esq. and by her, who died in 1637, had two daughters, Elizabeth, b. 25th August, 1633, m. to Edmund Woodhouse, esq. of Woodhouse.

Mary, b. 27th September, 1636, m. to John Huntbach, esq. of Fetherston, in Staffordshire, an eminent antiquary, and had issue, (she died in 1704).

1. Thomas Huntbach, } both d. s. p.

2. John Huntbach, }

3. Rupert Huntbach, m. Sarah, daughter and heir of Edward Cooke, esq. of London, and dying 2nd November, 1734, left an only daughter, Sarah, the wife of Samuel Hellier, esq. of Woodhouse.

1. Margaret Huntbach, m. to William Saunders, esq.

* Family tradition says £1200. The Goughs were so affluent that the country people used to say of this gentleman or his father,

"Here's old Justice Gough,
Who has money enough."

2. Anne Huntbach, d. unm.

3. Elizabeth Huntbach, m. to — Branson.

4. Mary Huntbach.

Mr. Gough m. secondly, Bridget, daughter of John Astley, esq. of Wood Eaton, and had four sons and four daughters, viz.

i. HENRY (Sir), his heir.

ii. John, b. 12th March, 1651, d. unm.

iii. Richard (Sir), who raised a considerable estate from the confined limits of a younger son's portion, by successful speculations in the East India and China Trades. He was brought up under the eminent merchant, Sir James Houblon, and in early life had the assistance of Sir Josiah Child. Travelling through most of the commercial towns in the Mediterranean and Levant, he obtained information from merchants of all countries, and subsequently making four voyages to India and China, with unparalleled success and high reputation he wound up his operations by realizing a very extensive fortune. He is supposed to have discovered and given his name to an island in the southern part of the Atlantic and India ocean, and a passage near the harbour of Chusan, in China, still bears the designation of Gough's passage. This enterprising merchant received the honour of knighthood from King GEORGE I. He purchased in 1717, from Thomas, third Viscount Faulconberg,* the lordship of Edgebaston, with the appurtenances, in Warwickshire, and he was also the purchaser of a house in Chelsea, wherein he resided, which has ever since borne the name of "GOUGH HOUSE." Sir Richard m. Anne, daughter and one of the co-heirs of Nicholas Crispe, esq. of London, and had issue,

Richard, d. unm.

HENRY, his heir.

John, comptroller of the Excise, in Scotland, m. Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. Cox.

Anne, m. to John Buissiere, esq.

Mary, m. to Edward Barker, esq. of London.

Bridget, d. unm.

Charlotte, m. to Sir William Sanderson, of Greenwich.

Sir Richard Gough d. 9th Feb. 1727-8, (his lady, 31st December, 1731), and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR HENRY GOUGH, bart. of Edgebaston, in the county of Warwick, so created, 26th April, 1728, who m. Barbara, only daughter of Reynolds Calthorpe, esq. of Elvetham, and was s. at his decease, 8th June, 1774, by his eldest son,

SIR HENRY GOUGH, who assumed the surname of CALTHORPE, on inheriting the Calthorpe estates, in 1783, and was elevated to the peerage on 15th June, 1796, as BARON CALTHORPE. (See BURKE's Peerage and Baronetage.)

iv. Thomas, d. unm.

i. Dorothy, b. 14th February, 1652, m. to Michael Arnold, esq. of Westminster.

ii. Anne, b. 4th July, 1655, d. unm. in 1731.

iii. Bridget, b. 8th May, 1656, m. to John Newbery, esq. of London.

iv. Judith, b. 13th January, 1665, m. to William Dugdale, esq. of Blythe Hall (see vol. i. p. 489).

Mr. Gough died in 1665, aged fifty-seven, and his death is thus recorded in a Latin elegy:

Piæ Memoræ sacrum,
'Heus, heus viator! et animo si docilis es,
Intuere, disce, imitare.
Hic situs est

Johannes Gough de Oldfallings
In Agro Staffordiensi, generosus
Divini numinis cultor eximius;
Regiæ majestatis subditus fidelis
Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ filius obsequens:
Omnibus dum viveret, hospitalem domum aperuit,
Pauperibus et vivus et mortuus benefecit.
Totus ex amore compositus odium imprimis oderat,
Inter litigantes ad miraculum pacificus.
Bonis omnibus charus vixit, flebilis occidit.

His son and heir,

HENRY GOUGH, esq. of Oldfallings, b. 3rd January, 1649, received the honor of knighthood from King CHARLES II. in consideration of the eminent services, rendered by his grand-father to the royal cause. Sir Henry purchased from Sir Edward Coney, knt. Edward Grey, and Richard Best, esqs. a moiety of the manor of PERRY BARR, in Staffordshire. He represented Tamworth in parliament, and marrying in 1668, Mary, eldest dau. of Sir Edward Littleton, bart. of Pillaton, had by her, who died in January, 1722, eleven sons and five daughters, namely,

i. John, d. in infancy.

ii. Henry, d. young.

iii. WALTER, heir to his father.

iv. John,

v. Edward, } both died young.

* And Bridget Gage, his wife, younger daughter and co-heir of MARY, Lady Gage, the first wife of Sir John Gage, bart. which lady was daughter of Thomas Middlemore, esq. of Edgebaston, and came to the sole right of that estate by a deed of partition with her sister, Mary, who married Sir John Shelley, bart.

vi. Harry, b. in 1681, who when only eleven years of age, accompanied his uncle to China, where he obtained the name of Amy Whang, or the white-haired boy. During this voyage he kept all his uncle's accounts. In 1707, he commanded the East Indiaman, Streatham, and acquiring an independent fortune, became eventually an East India Director. In 1734, he was returned to parliament by Bramber, and during the remainder of his life he continued to represent that borough. Mr. Gough m. in 1719, Elizabeth, daughter of Morgan Hynde, esq. of London, and dying 13th July, 1751, left, (with a daughter, Elizabeth, the wife of John Tilly, esq.) an only son,

RICHARD GOUGH, the celebrated antiquary, b. 21st October, 1735, who inherited from his father the Middlemore estate, in Warwickshire, and the property of Enfield, in Middlesex. Mr. Gough entered Benett College, Cambridge, in July, 1752, as a fellow commoner, and pursued his studies under Dr. John Barnardis. and the Rev. John Cott. While a resident at the university, he planned the BRITISH TOPOGRAPHY, which was published in one volume, quarto, in 1768, but has since been enlarged and improved. From Cambridge, the antiquary made his first excursion to Croyland and Peterborough, and continued annually similar journeys into different parts of the kingdom, taking copious notes, which, on his return, were regularly digested, and which, in the end furnished materials for the NEW EDITION OF CAMDEN'S BRITANNIA, the result of TWENTY of those excursions. In 1767, Mr. Gough was elected fellow of the Society of Antiquaries, and in 1775, of the Royal Society; of the former institution he drew up the history, prefixed to the first volume, of its Archæologia, 1770; and in the succeeding volumes of that work, the publication of which he superintended, are various articles communicated by himself. In 1786, he published the first volume of the SEPULCHRAL MONUMENTS of Great Britain, in splendid folio; the second in 1796; and the introduction, completing the work, in 1799. His minor productions are numerous and valuable. He m. in 1774, Anne, daughter of Thomas Hall, esq. of Golding, Herts, but had no issue. He died 20th February, 1809, and was interred at Wormley.* To the Bodleian Library, at Oxford, Mr. Gough devised his collection of books and manuscripts relative to Saxon and Northern literature, and to British topography.

- vii. Richard, b. 21st March, 1681-2, died in India, captain of the Severn, a trading ship, before 1713.
- viii. Edward, baptized 30th July, 1684, died an infant.
- ix. Matthew, b. 20th September, 1687, page to the Princess of Denmark, d. in 1702, aged fourteen, and buried at Richmond.
- x. John, b. 10th February, 1691, succeeded his brother, Matthew, as page to the Princess, and was subsequently her Royal Highness's page of honor, when QUEEN ANNE. He joined the army afterwards in Flanders, and was drowned in the fosse, at Lisle.
- xi. Charles, b. 18th July, 1693, one of the directors of the East India Company, d. 11th February, 1774, unmarried.
- i. Mary, b. 6th July, 1673, died unm. at Richmond, in 1703.
- ii. Anne, b. 19th March, 1674, m. first, at Perry Hall, in 1712, to Captain John Roberts, governor of St. Helena, and secondly, to Mr. Francis Holmes.
- iii. Bridget, a celebrated beauty, b. 8th October, 1685, m. 13th May, 1711, to John Hunt, esq. of Winson Green, and left at her decease, in 1773, an only daughter,

* Mr. Gough directed the following epitaph, written by himself, to be inscribed in the church:

The original grant of the title of esquire to the family, is in the possession of the present Mr. Gough; it is beautifully emblazoned on vellum, is dated 1664, and signed by William Dugdale, Norroy.

Crest—A boar's head couped arg. devouring a broken spear gu.

Motto—Domat omnia virtus.

Estates—In the parishes of Handsworth, Gnosal, Bysbury, Wolverhampton, Birmingham, Shenstone, &c. &c. The present Mr. Gough has also purchased the second moiety of the manor of Perry Barr, from Mr. Birch, and made various other purchases.

Seats—Oldfallings and Perry Hall, both in Staffordshire. Perry Hall has been improved, and nearly rebuilt in the old English style, by its present owner; the park has also been enlarged, and a gothic lodge built.

Mr. Gough has likewise built and endowed at his sole cost, a Gothic church, at Perry Barr, capable of holding five hundred persons. The consecration by the bishop of Lichfield and Coventry took place on 6th August, 1833, and on that occasion more than a thousand persons were entertained at Perry Hall. The church contains a painted window by Eggington.

WITHER, OF MANYDOWN.

WITHER-BIGG LOVELACE, esq. of Manydown, of Wymering House, and of Tangier Park, all in the county of Southampton, b. 17th September, 1805, m. 23rd July, 1829, Emma-Jemima, fourth daughter of the Rev. John Orde, (see vol. i. p. 562) by the Hon. Frances Carleton, his first wife, daughter of Guy, Lord Dorchester,† and has issue, GEORGE-HOWARD, b. 27th July, 1832.

Frances-Anne-Maria-Carleton.

Rosamond-Purefoy.

Mr. Wither succeeded his father 23rd March, 1833.

† By the Lady Maria Howard, his wife, third daughter of Thomas, second Earl of Effingham. Through the Howards and Mowbrays, Dukes of Norfolk, Mrs. Wither is descended from EDWARD I. King of England, and from Philip, the Hardy, King of France, whose daughter, Margaret, was EDWARD's second Queen.

Lineage.

The WITHERS were originally a Lancashire family. The first of its members of whom we have any certain record, was

SIR THOMAS WYTHIER, knt. who was servant and counsellor to Henry, the first Duke of Lancaster, in the time of EDWARD II. Sir Thomas, who, for killing one Sir Robert de Holland, was banished from England, but afterwards recalled, left a son, THOMAS WITHER, of Lancashire, who married, and had three sons, viz.

THOMAS, servant and steward to the Abbot of Whalley, in the county of Lancaster. Having slain Sir Robert Worceley, this Thomas, with his two brothers, and their families, fled into Cheshire, and there served the Abbot of Vale Royal. He married and had issue.

RICHARD, of Hunstarton, in the parish of Wybunbury, in the county Palatine of Chester, who married, and had issue.

ROBERT.

The third son,

ROBERT WITHER, settled at MANYDOWN, in the parish of St. Lawrence Wotton, Hants, towards the close of the reign of EDWARD III. and his descendants have ever since resided there. His son and heir,

THOMAS WITHER, of Manydown, espoused Joane, daughter and heir of Richard Mason, of Sydmanton, in Hampshire, and had three sons, JOHN, his heir; Richard, of Sydmanton, father of Joane, the wife of Peter Fawconer, of Kingsclere; and Thomas, of Earlston, Hants. The eldest son,

JOHN WITHER, of Manydown, living in 1563, wedded Anne, daughter of John Ayliffe, of the same place, and by her, who was buried at Wotton, 27th April, 1563, had issue,

I. John.

self by several elegant pastoral pieces, but becoming afterwards involved in the political and religious disputes of the times of JAMES I. and CHARLES I. he employed his poetical vein in severe pasquils on the court and clergy, and was occasionally a sufferer for the freedom of his pen. In the civil war he exerted himself in the service of the parliament, and became a considerable sharer in the spoils, but surviving the restoration, he outlived his power and influence; and giving vent to his chagrin in libels on the court, suffered imprisonment in the tower. He died 2nd May, 1667. During the whole course of his life, he was a continual publisher, and the long list of his productions may be found in Wood's Athenae Oxonienses. His most popular satire is entitled "Abuses Whipt and Stript," 1613. His most poetical pieces were eclogues, called "The Shepherd's Hunting," 1615, and others, printed at the end of Browne's "Shepherd's Pipe," 1614. The poet wedded Elizabeth, daughter of John Smerton, of Southwark, and had, with a daughter, Elizabeth, the wife of Adrian Barry, of London, and of Tame, in Oxfordshire, a son, ROBERT WITHER, esq. who m. Elizabeth, eldest daughter and co-heir of John Hunt, esq. of Fidding, in the county of Hants, by whom he acquired that estate, and left, at his decease, about 1677, two sons and two daughters, viz.

*Arms—Arg. a chev. gn. between three crescents sa. quartering BIGG, MASON, RILEY, and HARRIS.

* The following epigram was addressed by the poet WITHER, to his "loving friend and cousin german, William Wither, esq. of Manydown," A.D. 1615.

"If that the standards of the house bewray
What fortunes to the owners may betide;
Or if their destinies, as some men say,
Be in the names of any signified,
'Tis so in thine: for that fair antique shield,
Borne by thy predecessors long agoe,
Depainted with a cleare pure argent field,
The innocence of thy line did show,
Three sable crescents with a cheveron gulde
Tell that blacke fates obscured our house's light;
Because the planet that our fortunes ruled,
Lost her own lustre, and was dark'ned quite:

Crest—A demi hare erect az. in the mouth three ears of ripe corn.

Estates—Situated in the parishes of Worting, St. Lawrence Wootton, Monk Sherborne, Church Oakley, and Hamington, near the town of Basingstoke, also in the parishes of Wymering, Widley, and Hambleton, near Portsmouth, all in the county of Southampton. Manydown, in the parish of St. Lawrence Wootton, possessed for many centuries. The manor of Worting adjoining, acquired by purchase, in 1652, in right of which, Mr. Wither is lord of the hundred of Chuteley, and holds annually a Court Leet, &c.

Seats—Manydown, Wymering House, and Tangier Park, all in Hants.

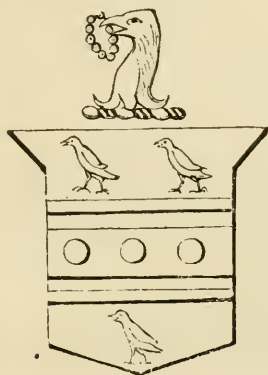

And, as indeed our adversaries say,
The very name of Wither shewes decay.
But yet despaire not, keep thy white unstained,
And then it skills not what thy crescents be
What tho' the moon be now increased, now wan'd?
Learn thence to know thy life's inconstancie;
Be careful, as thou hitherto hast bin,
To shun the abuses man is taxed for here:
And then thy soul, that's now eclipsed with sin,
When moone and sun are darkned, shall look cleere:
And whatsoere thy English name may threat,
The Harvest's son the Greeks* entitle thee.
Ere thou shalt want thy hare will bring thee meat,
And to kill care, herselfe thy make-sport be:
Yea, yet (tho' envie's mists do make them dull)
I hope to see the waned orb's at full."

* Wither, in Greek, Υνθερος.

TREGONWELL, OF ANDERSON.

TREGONWELL, ST. BARBE, esq. of Anderson, in the county of Dorset, b. 6th August, 1782, succeeded his father, Lewis Dimoke Grosvenor Tregonwell, esq. on the 18th January, 1832.

Lineage.

This family derives its surname from its ancient seat, TREGONWELL, in Cornwall. POLLEN, in his description of Cornishmen and manners, mentions the Tregonwells as of Bellarmine, and records that "they builded many places, and had many lands and manors before the Norman Conquest." Towards the close of the fifteenth century

TREGONWEL, "of Tregonwell," had surviving issue,

HUBERT, his heir, whose descendants became extinct in the reign of King JAMES I. The co-heiresses marrying then, BAWDEN, POLLAMOUNTER, and PENPOLL.

JOHN.

Alice, m. to — Southcote.

The younger son,

JOHN TREGONWELL, who received his education at the college of Crantock, was an eminent civilian in the time of HENRY VIII. and employed by that monarch in suing his celebrated divorce from CATHERINE of Aragon. In 1529, at the hearing on the 18th June, at Blackfriars, before Cardinal Campegio, to which the king and queen were cited, Doctor Tregonwell was amongst the king's proctors, and the next year he was sent by HENRY with Sir Thomas Boleyn, who had been created not long before, EARL OF WILTSHIRE, (chief ambassador) Doctor Cranmer, and others, to dispute on the same subject at Rome, Paris, and elsewhere. In 1533, he was commissioned, as a master in chancery, to report the determination of the clergy of the province of Canterbury, met in convocation 5th November, 1529, regarding the king's marriage, and he is then styled "Vir Egregius Johannes Tregonwell, Legum Doctor and Consilius Regis;" that is, not a privy councillor, but one of the king's council in the civil law; and at the final decision of the suit, on the 15th May, 1533, when sentence of divorce was pronounced by CRANMER, at Dunstable, assisted by the Bishops of Winchester and Lincoln, and other civilians, Doctor Tregonwell appeared as one of the advocates for the king. For his services in this important affair he had a pension of forty pounds per annum, and was subsequently rewarded by considerable preferments. In 1531, he was one of the commissioners to make peace with Scotland, and he is then styled chief judge of the admiralty. In the spoliation of religious houses the services of Doctor Tregonwell were again put in requisition by his royal master, and we find him in 1538 and 1539, one of the commissioners to receive the resignation of those monastic establishments; in the latter year he is instructed to bring in a bill to punish persons who shall offend against the six articles. In 1544, he was appointed by special commission, with others named therein, to preside in the Court of Chancery, during the absence of the Lord Chancellor, Sir Thomas Wriothesley, and in 1550, he was constituted one of the commissioners of the great seal, in consequence of the indisposition of the Lord Chancellor Rich. In 1552, he received the honour of knighthood, and was returned to parliament by the burgesses of Scarborough, and he was sheriff of Dorset and Somersetshires in 1554. In addition to those great and lucrative offices the king conferred upon him very extensive territorial grants, amongst others, the mitred Abbey of Milton, in Dorsetshire, surrendered 11th March, 1539, by Abbot Bradley. In this abbey Sir John Tregonwell was interred in 1565, under an altar tomb of grey marble, bearing the following inscription :*

"Here lyeth buried, Syr John Tregonwell, Knyght, Doctor of the Cyvill laws, and one of Masters of the Chancerie, who died the VIII day of January, in the yere of our Lorde, 1565. Of whose soul God have m'cy."

Sir John m. first, — Kelloway, and secondly Elizabeth Bruce. He had issue,

John, who appears to have died unm.

THOMAS, who m. first, Lady Villiers, and secondly, Anne, daughter of Robert Martin, esq. of Athelhampton. By the latter (who m. subsequently Sir Oliver Wallop, knt.) he left at his decease, in the life time of his father, a son,

JOHN, who inherited the estates.

Mary, m. to — Delalynde.

Sir John Tregonwell was s. by his grandson,

JOHN TREGONWELL, esq. lord of the manor of Milton, who wedded Anne, daughter of — Somaster, esq. of Somborne, Hants, and (with two daughters, Elizabeth and Anne, who both died young) had a son, his successor in 1585,

JOHN TREGONWELL, esq. of Milton Abbey, who m. Katherine, youngest daughter of the Honourable Anthony Brown,† eldest son of Sir Anthony Brown, first Viscount Montague, and had issue,

1. JOHN, who inherited MILTON ABBEY, b. in 1598, m. in 1624, Jane, third daughter of Sir Thomas Freke, and dying in 1677, left a son and successor,

IV. Elizabeth, b. in 1605, m. to Robert Freyke, esq. of Hilton.

Mr. Tregonwell, who was sheriff of Dorsetshire in 1604, 1615, and 1627, purchased the estate of Anderson, and erecting the mansion house in 1622, went to reside there on the marriage of his elder son. He was compelled under the commonwealth to redeem his estate, by paying a composition of £3725. for deserting the parliament and dwelling in the king's quarters. During the civil war himself and his elder son remained neuter, but his other son, Thomas, was in arms for the king. Upon that son he settled Anderson and the Abbs Court estate in 1625. He died in 1639, when MILTON ABBEY passed to his heir, JOHN TREGONWELL, esq. and his second son became

THOMAS TREGONWELL, esq. of Anderson. This gentleman, who was born in 1603, m. in 1625, Dorothy, relict of Sir John Ryves, and dau. of the Honorable Henry Hastings,

JOHN, his heir.

Dorothy, m. to — Chettle.

Anne, d. in 1666.

Katherine, d. in 1671.

Sarah, d. in 1668.

Mr. Tregonwell died in 1655, and was s. by his son,

JOHN TREGONWELL, esq. of Anderson, who wedded first, Lewes, daughter of Lady Beauchamp, and had issue,

JOHN, his successor.

Dorothy, m. to Thomas Warr, esq. of Swill Court, in Somersetshire, and d. in 1736.

Jane, m. to the Rev. Daniel Waterland, D.D.

Elizabeth, m. to Edward Seymour, esq. Mr. Tregonwell m. secondly a daughter of Sir George Fane, and thirdly, Mary, daughter of the Rev. Doctor Dickenson, rector of St. Clements, which lady after his decease married A. Davis, esq.

The son and heir,

JOHN TREGONWELL, esq. of Anderson, b. in 1701, espoused first, Anne, daughter of the Rev. Nicholas Only, prebendary of Westminster, and had an only son, JOHN, who d. young, in 1725. He m. secondly, Anna-Catharina, daughter of Captain Hill, and by her, who wedded after his decease, Thomas Bartlett, esq. of Holwell, had issue,

THOMAS, his heir.

Anna-Catharina, m. to the Rev. Edward Napier.

Mary, m. to the Rev. Roe King.

Mr. Tregonwell d. in 1760, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS TREGONWELL, esq. of Anderson. This gentleman on the decease of JACOB BANCKS, esq. intestate, in 1737, laid claim to the estates of the TREGONWELLS, as heir to the said Jacob, through his mother, MARY TREGONWELL,* and instituted a suit at law for the recovery of the same, against JOHN STRACHAN, esq. the heir of JACOB BANCKS, through his father, SIR JACOB BANCKS, which suit, after protracted litigation, terminated thus, by the decision of the house of lords. The manor of MILTON† was adjudged to STRACHAN, in consequence of SIR JACOB BANCKS having suffered a recovery; but the Cornish estate, called Tregonwell, not being barred, was declared to descend to Mr. Tregonwell's son and heir, (he himself being then dead) LEWIS-DIMOCKE-GROSVENOR TREGONWELL, esq.

Mr. Tregonwell married first, Miss Sarah

* By whom BANCKS got the estates.

† MILTON ABBEY was sold, in 1752, by Mr. Strachan to Joseph Damer, esq.

Saunders, and had two sons, Thomas and John, who both predeceased him, unmarried. He wedded secondly, Henrietta-Eleanora, daughter of Michael Lister, esq. and cousin of Thomas Lister, Lord Ribblesdale, by which lady he left at his decease in 1761, an only child,

LEWIS-DIMOKE-GROSVENOR TREGONWELL, esq. of Anderson, b. 14th February, 1758, in whose favour the house of lords decided the suit instituted by his father, so far as TREGONWELL,—which estate his guardians subsequently sold to the VYVYAN family. Mr. Tregonwell m. first in December, 1781, Catherine, only child of St. Barbe Sydenham, esq. of Combe, in the county of Somerset, by whom (who d. in February, 1794) he had a son and a daughter, namely,

St. BARBE, his heir.

Helen-Ellery, m. 8th March, 1814, to Captain John Duff Markland, R.N. and has issue.

He wedded secondly, Henrietta, second daughter of Henry-William Portman, esq.

of Bryanston, in Dorsetshire, (see vol. i. p. 63) and had another son and daughter, viz.

John, of Cranborne Lodge, in the county of Dorset, b. 26th September, 1811.

Henrietta-Lewina, m. 6th July, 1825, Hector-William Bower Monro, esq. of Edmondesham, in Dorsetshire, and has issue.

Mr. Tregonwell, who was a magistrate and deputy lieutenant in Dorsetshire, and sheriff for that county in 1780, died 18th January, 1832, and was s. by his elder son, the present St. BARBE TREGONWELL, esq. of Anderson.

Fair, kind, and true, a treasure each alone,
A wife, a mistress, and a friend in one,
Rest in this tomb, rais'd at thy husband's cost,
Here sadly summing what he had and lost,

Come, virgins, ere in equal bands ye join,
Come first, and offer at her sacred shrine;
Pray but for half the virtues of this wife,
Compound for all the rest, with longer life;
And wish your vows, like hers, may be return'd,
So lov'd when living, and when dead so mourn'd.

WHITMORE, OF DUDMASTON.

WHITMORE, WILLIAM-WOLRYCHE, esq. of Dudmaston, in Shropshire, b. in 1787, m. 29th January, 1810, the Lady Lucy-Elizabeth-Georgiana Bridgman, daughter of Orlando, first Earl of Bradford. Mr. Whitmore represents Wolverhampton in parliament.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the ancient family of WHITMORE, of Apley.

WILLIAM WHITMORE, esq. (second son of Charles Whitmore, esq. of Southampton, and grandson of William Whitmore, esq. M.P. of Apley, by Elizabeth, his wife, sister of Bromwich Pope,* esq. of Wolstaston), inherited in 1774, at the decease of lieutenant-colonel Weld, the estate of Dudmaston, in the county of Salop. He m. first, Frances, daughter of John Lyster, esq. and by her, who died in 1792, had issue.

WILLIAM-WOLRYCHE, his heir.

Fraunces, m. first, to Captain Williams,

* BROMWICH POPE, of Wolstaston, who served the office of sheriff for Shropshire, in 1722, was tenth in descent from Walter Pope, of Tripleton, father of John Pope, admitted a Burgess of Shrewsbury, in 1504. John's son,

LEWIS POPE, was father of

ROGER POPE, esq. who purchased, in 1544, from Richard Andrews, the sites of the three friaries in Shrewsbury. His grandson,

ROGER POPE, esq. of Lincoln's Inn, was alderman of Shrewsbury. He died in 1628, and was grandfather of

ROGER POPE, esq. who had livery of the manor of Wolstaston, in 1606, as son and heir of Lucia, daughter of Thomas Edwards. His son,

ROGER POPE, esq. of Wolstaston, equerry to CHARLES II. greatly improved the estate. This gentleman's horse, Diamond, won a race for two thousand guineas, at Wallesey, near Hoylake, and with part of the money Mr. Pope built a handsome house in the lower town of Bridgenorth, which is called Diamond Hall, and on the cupola of which he placed for a vane a horse and rider. His son and successor, was

ROGER POPE, esq. of Wolstaston, who left a son,

BROMWICH POPE, esq. of Wolstaston, sheriff of Salop, in 1722, whose only daughter and heiress,

CATHARINE POPE, dying unmarried, in 1754, the Wolstaston estate passed to her cousin german, Sir Thomas Whitmore, K.B. of Apley, son of her aunt, ELIZABETH POPE, and is now enjoyed by William Wolryche Whitmore, esq.

R.N. who d. in 1830; and secondly, to Dr. Freer, physician, of Cheltenham.

Mary-Dorothea, m. to the Rev. F. Laing.

Catherine, m. to Major Houston, and d. in 1811.

Eleonora, m. to John Fawks, esq.

Mary-Anne, m. to Arundel Sparkes, esq. and has issue.

Mr. Whitmore died in August, 1816, and was s. by his elder son, the present William-Wolryche Whitmore, esq. of Dudmaston, M.P.

Arms and Crest—See WHITMORE. of APLEY.

Estates—In the county of Salop. The estate of DUDMASTON was acquired by the WOLRYCHES in marriage with the daughter and heiress of Hugh de Dudmaston, ninth in descent from Harlewin* de Batailles, to whom Herbert, son of Hologod, Lord of Castle Holgate, granted "one half hide of land, which is called Dodemaneston," before the year 1167. Andrew Wolryche, the son of William Wolryche, and the heiress of Dudmaston, was M.P. for Bridgnorth, in 1435, and his grandson, Humphrey, appears in the list of the lords, knights, esquires, and gentlemen, resident in Shropshire, anno 17th HENRY VII. He was father of John Wolryche, who wedded "the fair maid of Gatacre," Mary, only daughter of Robert Gatacre, of Gatacre.

THOMAS WOLRYCH, third in descent from John, was born in 1598, educated at Cambridge, and admitted of the Inner Temple, 11th October, 1615. From 1620, to 1625, he represented Wenlock in parliament, and at the breaking out of the civil wars, joining the Royal Standard, was appointed by the king governor of Bridgnorth. For his unbending loyalty, he suffered severely, being, according to his epitaph, twice sequestered from his estates, and "more than once" thrown into prison. The monumental inscription speaks likewise of "the lofty majesty of his person," and states, "that to his pre-eminent skill in heraldry, he added the more solid studies of history and mathematics. At length our Ulric, (such was the original name) was summoned to the assembly of the Saints on the feast of St. Ulric, 4th July, 1668, having been honored with the successive titles of knight and baronet." His great grandson, and last male descendant, SIR JOHN WOLRYCH, bart. sheriff of Salop, in 1716, was accidentally drowned in the Severn, near his own house, in 1723. After that event, the Dudmaston estate was enjoyed by Sir John's mother, Elizabeth, daughter of George Weld, esq. of Willey, who survived her husband sixty-four years, dying in April, 1765. Lady Wolryche was succeeded at Dudmaston, by her brother, Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas Weld, at whose demise, in 1774, the property passed to William Whitmore, esq. great-grandson of Richard Whitmore, esq. of Low Slaughter, by Anne, daughter of Sir John Weld, of Willey, and aunt to the Colonel.

Seat—Dudmaston Hall, Salop.

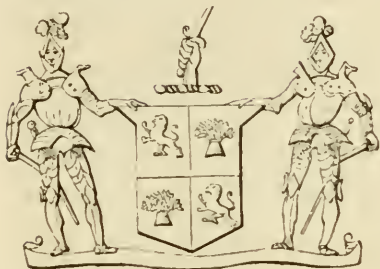

* Harlewin is a name of Scandinavian origin, and is the same as Herlechin. Herlechin, or Hellequin, or Harlekin, (the derivation of the Arlechino of the Italian comedy, and of the Harlequin of the English pantomime) was a knight of France, who distinguished himself, under the banners of Charles Martel, against the Saracens, and afterwards subsisted by pillage. Upon his death, says the legend, he would have been doomed to eternal pains for his crimes; but in consideration of his meritorious prowess against the Infidels, his punishment was reduced to an obligation to roam over the earth by night for a certain period, with those of his lineage, and endure the severity of penance.

This tradition is mentioned in the history of Richard sans peur, Duke of Normandy, and quoted by Mr. Tyrwhitt, in his glossary on Chaucer.

GUTHRIE, OF GUTHRIE.

GUTHRIE, JOHN, esq. of Guthrie, in the county of Forfar, m. 22nd July, 1798, Anne, second daughter of William Douglas, esq. of Brighton, and has issue, JOHN, late an officer in the 42nd regiment. William, a lieutenant in the same corps.

Elizabeth-Jane, m. to Thomas Mylne, esq. of Mylnefield.

Margaret.

Anne.

Jane.

Helen-Douglas.

Mr. Guthrie is convenor, and one of the deputy lieutenants for the county of Forfar.

Lineage.

The surname of GUTHRIE, one of great antiquity in Scotland, like the most ancient is of local origin, being assumed by the chief, when such designations were first adopted, from his lands in Forfarshire. The earliest writs of the family not being attainable, we cannot at present authentically trace its representation in a continued series further back than the time of JAMES II. of Scotland.

In the year 1299, after the great SIR WILLIAM WALLACE had resigned the guardianship of Scotland, and retired to France, the northern lords of that kingdom sent Squire GUTHRIE to desire his return, that he might assist in opposing the English. Guthrie embarked at Aberbrothock, landed at Sluis, from whence they conveyed Wallace and his retinue back to Montrose. (Life of Sir William Wallace.)

WALTER DE MAULE, ancestor of the Lords Panmure, and ADAM DE GUTHRIE, are witnesses in a decret of the burghesses of Dundee, anno 1348.

Crawford, in his Lives of the Officers of State, says that the Guthries held the barony of Guthrie, by charter from King DAVID II. But that they were men of rank and property long before the reign of JAMES II. is manifest by the fact that MASTER ALEXANDER, of GUTHRIE is a witness, in a charter granted by Alexander Seaton, Lord of Gordon, to William, Lord Keith, afterwards Earl Marshall, dated 1st August, 1442; and that he obtained the lands of Kincaldrum, in the barony of Lower Lesslie, and sheriffdom Forfar to himself and Marjory Guthrie, his spouse, by charter, from George, Lord Lesslie, of Leven, the Superior, dated 10th April, 1457. By the above mentioned Marjory he had three sons, viz.

DAVID (Sir), his heir.

James, } Witnesses to a renun. by William, } Udney, to the monastery of Arbroath, in 1457; and the younger,
William, is attorney for his elder brother, Sir David, in his sasine, 1460.

The eldest son,

SIR DAVID GUTHRIE, baron of Guthrie, who in the time of his father was designed of Kincaldrum, was sheriff of Forfar, in the year 1457. He held the high situation of ARMOUR BEARER to King JAMES III. and was constituted LORD TREASURER of SCOTLAND, in 1461, in which post he continued until 1467, when he was appointed COMPTROLLER of THE EXCHEQUER. The year before, he, (Sir David) with Patrick, bishop of St. Andrews', David, earl of Craufurd, William, Lord Graham, and others, "cum servientibus ad numerum octoginta personarum cujuscumq. nationis conditionis sexus et gradus fuerunt," obtained from EDWARD IV. a safe conduct for two years, to travel in England, or to pass from thence to the continent; this deed is dated at Westminster, 23rd November, 1466. In 1469 he was made LORD REGISTER of Scotland; and in 1472, we find him one of the ambassadors on the part of Scotland, who met those of England, on the 25th April, in that year, at Newcastle, and concluded a truce till the month of July, 1473; as appears by a safe conduct granted by King EDWARD IV. to Thomas, bishop of Aberdeen, David Lindsay, Earl of Crawford, James, Lord Hamilton, John Steward, Lord Darnley, Archibald Whitelaw, Archibald deacon of Lothian, secretary to King JAMES, DAVID GUTHRIE, designed "Magister Registraria Regis," and Duncan de Dundass, with 200 persons in their train; dated at Westminster, the 6th March, 1472. In 1473, he was constituted LORD CHIEF JUSTICE OF SCOTLAND. By these great employments he augmented in a vast degree his paternal fortune, and to testify his thankfulness to God, he founded and endowed a collegiate church at Guthrie, for a provost and three prebends, dedicated to the VIRGIN, which was conformed by a bull from POPE SIXTUS IV. dated at Rome, 14th June, 1479. It appears from the records of the abbey of Arbroath, that the kirk had been a chapel belonging to the abbey, from which it had been purchased by Sir David. Mr. Richard Guthrie, almoner and confessor to King JAMES III. was then abbot, but it does not appear in what degree of relationship he stood to the purchaser. Sir David acquired the barony of Lower and half lands of Carrat, with the superiority of the same, from George, earl of Rothes, by charter of alienation, wherein he is designed treasurer of Scotland, to be held of the king for services, used and wont. He obtained a charter under the great seal, of King JAMES III. of the lands and barony of Guthrie, and in that he is designed "the king's armour bearer and treasurer, to be held of the crown, for giving suit and presence in three head courts in the sheriffdom of Forfar, and for services used and wont." This charter is dated, 25th March, 1465, his sasine dated the 29th of the same month. It appears from the royal charters on record, that he was proprietor of the lands of Pitcairn, in the county of Perth, and the superiority thereof, the barony of Lower Muirton, Carrat, Westermethie, and others, in the county of Angus.

In the year 1468, he had a royal warrant* under the great seal, for building the tower and castle of Guthrie; and subsequently resigning the barony of Guthrie into the king's hands, he obtained a new charter, converting the tenure from Ward to Blench, holding of the king, for payment of a penny silver Scots money, at the principal manor place of Guthrie, in name of Blench farm, if asked alienarily. This charter is dated 12th February, 1470, and bears to have been granted as a recompense for his faithful services, and for the singular favor which the king bore to him.

Sir David Guthrie m. first, a daughter of Sir Thomas Maule, lord of Panmure, but had no issue. He espoused secondly, Janet, daughter of Sir Archibald Dundas, of Dundas, by whom he had a son and daughter, viz.

ALEXANDER (Sir), his heir.

Elizabeth, m. to Alexander Maule, of Camoustoun, only son and heir apparent of the above mentioned Sir Thomas Maule, and from this marriage sprung the EARLS OF PANMURE. In a genealogical memoir of the family of Crichton, of Ruthven, said to be the work of George Crawford, historiographer, John Crichton, of Ruthven, is stated to have married a daughter of the laird of Guthrie, and there is added, "this must have been a daughter of Sir David Guthrie, of that ilk, who was a great man in the reign of JAMES III."

Sir David was s. at his decease by his son,

SIR ALEXANDER GUTHRIE, of Guthrie, designed in the lifetime of his father, "of Kincaldrum." This baron obtained charters of the lands of Kincaldrum, and the lands and barony of Lower, from the respective superiors, which are particularly mentioned in the Kincaldrum Inventory, penes Mr. Bower. There was a commission granted under the quarter seal, dated 14th July, 1474, for serving him heir to his father, and he was infeft accordingly upon a precept from chancery, as heir served and returned. The sasine dated 23rd August, 1474.

He purchased the lands of Ballindean, a part of the barony of Baledgarno, from George, Lord Hallyburton, which were confirmed to him by a charter, under the great seal, 23rd August, in the same year.

He is a witness to the homage paid by Irvine, of Drumn, to the abbot of Arbroath,

Sir Alexander made additional endowments to the collegiate church of Guthrie, founded by his father, and increased the number of prebends, by two several charters granted by him, which were confirmed by a royal charter, under the great seal of King JAMES IV. dated 19th January, 1505-6.

He m. the Hon. Margaret Lyon, daughter of John, third Lord Glamis, by Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Scrimgeour, of Dudgehope, constable of Dundee, and had four sons and a daughter, viz.

- I. DAVID, heir apparent, who m. a daughter of Ferquhard Macintosh, by his wife, Giles, daughter of Hugh, Lord Lovat, and left, at his decease, on the Flowden field, an only son, ANDREW, successor to his grandfather.

- II. Alexander, who got from his father the lands of Kincaldrum and Lower, by charter, dated 28th August, 1508. The great-grandson of this gentleman,

DAVID GUTHRIE, became eventually LAIRD OF GUTHRIE, as will appear in the sequel.

- III. George, upon whom the lands of Kinreich were conferred.

- IV. John, of Hillton, ancestor of the Right Rev. JOHN GUTHRIE, bishop of Moray, who became Laird of Guthrie.

- I. Elizabeth, m. to John Ogilvy, of Inverquhar, and had issue.

Sir Alexander, surrounded by friends and vassals, attended his Sovereign to the fatal field of Flowden, and there fell, (9th September, 1513), with his eldest son, DAVID, his three brothers-in-law, David, William, and George Lyon, and his nephew, Sir Thomas Maule, of Panmure. He was s. by his grandson,

ANDREW GUTHRIE, of Guthrie, who was infeft upon a precept from chancery, as heir served and restored to Sir Alexander Guthrie, of that Ilk, his good sire in the lands and barony of Guthrie, and the lands of Balnabrieck. The sasine is dated, 15th May, 1514. He subsequently obtained a charter from King JAMES V. of the said lands and barony, with the tower, fortalice, manor place, mills, &c. and right of patronage of the provostry of Guthrie, prebendary, and other kirks and Chaplanrys there, containing a novodamus and new erection of the whole, into a barony, for his faithful services, dated, 9th March, 1538-9, and was infeft therein by sasine, dated, 31st March, 1539. He m. Christian, daughter of Gairden, of Gairden, and had a son, ALEXANDER, in whose favour he resigned the lands and barony of Guthrie, with the commony in the muir of Monrathmont, reserving his own life rent, upon which settlement the said Alexander obtained a charter, under the great seal, from Queen MARY, dated, 13th March, 1543-4, and being infeft thereon, 2nd May, 1544, became

ALEXANDER GUTHRIE, of Guthrie. This laird is one of the subscribing barons to the articles agreed upon in the general assembly of the kirk, in July, 1567, and also one of those, to the bond or association, for supporting the king and his government, after Queen MARY's resignation. He was assassinated at his house of Inverpeffer, where he was residing, by his cousin, Patrick Gairden, of Gairden, in consequence of a feud that had arisen between the two families. He had espoused Isabel, daughter of William Wood, of Bonnytown, and left three sons, viz.

- I. ALEXANDER, his heir.

- II. WILLIAM, of Gagie. The lands of Eastertown, or Haltown, and Milntown, of Guthrie, were held by sundry persons, the vassals of the barons of Guthrie, amongst these were Guthrie, of Haukerston, Gardyn, of Cononsyth, Guthrie, of Eassie, Gardyn, of Leys, Tulloch, of Bonnytown, &c. Upon the resignation of Guthrie, of Essie, of a part of these lands wherein he stood infeft, Alexander, baron of Guthrie granted a charter to this, his second son, William, in which he calls him, "delecto filio nostro," of a fourth part of Eastertown, dated, 29th December, 1574, and by a subsequent charter, 13th October, 1612 the said William, designed "William Guthrie, of Gagie,"* conveyed back the above fourth part of Eastertown, to his nephew, the then (Alexander) Guthrie, of Guthrie. This William purchased the lands of Ravensbee, from John Cant, in whose disposition of these lands, under date, 11th June, 1603, which is recorded in the books of council and session, 20th June, 1605, he is designed "brother german of Alexander Guthrie, of that Ilk." He likewise bought the lands of Gagie, from the Sibbalds, of Rankeillor (in the year 1610). In

* In the infeftment of the fourth part of the temple lands of Kinreich, of date, 13th August, 1571, in favor of Alexander Guthrie, as heir of his father, Andrew, this William "filius dicti Alexandri," is a witness. He is also a witness in many charters, granted by his father to his vassals, and he and his son, Alexander, are witnesses to the contract of Wadsett, between himself and his nephew, Alexander Guthrie, of Guthrie, and David Guthrie, of Kincaldrum.

his infestment of which, dated, 6th June, 1610, he is styled "William Guthrie, of Ravensbee." This William's mother is said to have instigated him to avenge the murder of his father, and in prosecution of his resentment, he is charged with killing several of the name of Gairden, before he met with the murderer, who, with his brother, he slew, as they were coming from Arbroath. There was a remission granted, under the great seal, to William Guthrie, for the slaughter of Patrick Gairden, of that ilk, and Robert Gairden, his brother (upon letters of slains from the children and friends of the deceased) dated, 6th July, 1618. He wedded his cousin, Isabella, daughter of John Lesslie, apparent heir of Balquhan, Aberdeenshire, by Marjory Strachan, daughter of Tippiartie, by whom he had two sons and two daughters, viz.

1. ALEXANDER.

2. Margaret, d. unm.

He d. in 1622, and was s. by his eldest son,

ALEXANDER GUTHRIE, who obtained infestment in the lands of Gagie, in a precept of Clare Constat, as heir to his father, William, 30th April, 1630. He was appointed commissary of the commissariat of the isles during life; by his cousin, John Lesslie, bishop of the isles, and by his testament, dated, 27th October, 1637, he bequeathed 300 merks (£16. 13s. 4d.) to each of the parishes of Murrose, Panbride, Arbirlet, and Dundee, for the use of the poor. Dying without issue, he was s. by his brother, FRANCIS GUTHRIE, of Gagie, of whom hereafter, as successor to GUTHRIE.

III. Gabriel, provost of the collegiate church, of Guthrie.

The eldest son,

ALEXANDER GUTHRIE, of Guthrie, succeeded his father, from whom he obtained a charter of the lands and barony of Guthrie, and of the Halton and Cottown of Inverpeffer, and others, dated, 7th January, 1568-9, to be holden of the said Alexander Guthrie, the elder, who executed a procuratory of resignation of the said lands and barony, dated, 20th November, 1583, in which William and Gabriel, his younger sons, are witnesses; and an instrument of resignation, following upon the said procuratory, dated, 30th of the same month and year. King JAMES VI. granted a charter, under the great seal, of the last mentioned date, and he obtained sasine thereon, dated, 30th December, thereafter. This land was one of the twenty-five gentlemen pensioners appointed by command, "to attend the King's Majesty at all times, in his riding and passing to the fields."* He m. in 1568, Agnes, daughter of Sir Alexander Falconer, of Halkerton, (great grandfather of Alexander, first Lord Halkerton,) by Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Sir Archibald Douglas, of Glenbervie and had three sons,

I. ALEXANDER, } successively barons of

III. Henry.

The eldest son,

ALEXANDER GUTHRIE, of Guthrie, succeeded his father, and obtained from him, a charter of the lands and barony of Guthrie, to himself and Jean Leighton, his spouse, to be held of the superior, dated 27th August, 1597, on which he was infest, 18th September, in the same year, and on the 10th January ensuing, King JAMES VI. granted a confirmation, under the great seal, of the said charter and infestment. His wife, the above Jean, was daughter of Leighton, of Ulishaven, but having no issue male, he was s. at his decease, by his brother,

WILLIAM GUTHRIE, of Memys, who was served and retoured heir to his brother, and had a precept from chancery, for infesting him in the lands and barony of GUTHRIE, dated 20th June, 1616, upon which he got sasine and infestment, the 27th September, following. This laird having no male issue, he first wadsett a part of the barony of Guthrie to David Guthrie, of Kincaldrum, great grandson of Alexander, second son of Sir Alexander Guthrie, the third baron, redeemable for payment of 22,000 merks, (£1222. 4s. 5½d. sterling) by contract, dated, the 19th and 23rd April, 1621. Upon this contract David obtained a charter of the wadsett lands, of the date of the contract to be held of the disposer; and thereafter, with consent of Isabella Fenton, his spouse, a daughter of the family of Easterogill, he disposed irredeemably to the said David, the whole lands and barony of Guthrie, and temple lands of Kincreich, making over in warrandice, the lands of Memis, by contract of alienation, dated, 10th September, 1623; and there being charters granted in terms of this contract, David was infest in these lands, on the 12th of that month, and subsequently obtaining a charter of confirmation, under the great seal, of date, 24th July, 1630, he became

DAVID GUTHRIE, of Guthrie. This gentleman, with the consent of ALEXANDER GUTHRIE, of Kincaldrum, his eldest son, first wadsett by two different contracts, the first dated, 3rd June, redeemable for payment of 10,000 merks (£555. 11s. 1½d. sterling), the other dated, 19th August, both in the year 1624, redeemable for 16,000 merks (£888. 17s. 9½d. sterling), part of the barony of Guthrie, to Mr. Patrick Guthrie, his brother german designed minister of Kembothock. On the 22nd May, 1629, he wadsett the whole barony of Guthrie, with the patronage of the kirk of Guthrie, and others therein mentioned, to the said Patrick, then designed minister of Logie Buchan, redeemable upon payment of 19,000 merks (£1583. 6s. 8d. sterling); and on the 12th December, 1633, the barony was absolutely and irredeemably disposed by David, and Alexander, his son, to the said

PATRICK GUTHRIE, who being infest, on the 18th day of the said month of December, became "of GUTHRIE," and was succeeded therein, at his decease, by his son,

PETER GUTHRIE, whose retour bears date, the 24th May, 1636, and he was infest in the barony of GUTHRIE, upon a precept dated, the 2nd September, in that year. This proprietor disposed the lands and barony to the Right Rev. John Guthrie, bishop of Moray, descended from John Guthrie, of Hilltown, fourth son of Sir Alexander Guthrie and Margaret Lyon, who having obtained a charter of confirmation, under the great seal, dated, 28th November, 1636, and being infest therein, on the 29th December following, became

JOHN GUTHRIE, of Guthrie. This learned prelate was first ordained minister of Perth, whence, in 1620, he was translated to Edinburgh, and in three years afterwards, consecrated BISHOP OF MORAY, in which see he remained until deprived with the rest of his order by the assembly at Glasgow, in 1638. In 1640, he was obliged to surrender Spynie Castle, the palace of the bishopric, wherein he resided, to Colonel Monro, and he thenceforward dwelt on his own estate of Guthrie, and died there before the restoration. The bishop married a lady, named Nicholas Wood, and had a daughter, BERTHIA.

In a diary kept by his lordship, of the remarkable events, which happened to himself, or his family, there is the following entry, "— day of 1647.—This day my daughter, Berthia, was married to Francis Guthrie, my adopted son."

FRANCIS GUTHRIE, (of Gagie, refer to William, second son of Alexander Guthrie, of Guthrie, and Isabel Wood) under his contract of marriage got possession of the lands and barony of Guthrie.* He had a son and heir,

JOHN GUTHRIE, of Guthrie, who was infest as heir to his father upon a precept from the chancery, dated, 5th May, 1665. This laird wedded in 1680, Cecilia, daughter of Sir John Carnegie, of Balnamoon, by the Lady Helen Ogilvy, only daughter of James, first Earl of Airlie, and was s. by his son,

JAMES GUTHRIE, of Guthrie, who espoused in 1704, Margaret, daughter of John Turnbull, of Strickathro, by whom he had, with a daughter, married to — Rennie, of Cairny, a son and successor,

JOHN GUTHRIE, of Guthrie. This laird m. in 1732, Jean, daughter of the Rev. James Hodge, of Bathkimmer, minister of Longforgan, and had issue,

JOHN, his heir.

Margaret, m. to William Alison, merchant, in Dundee, and had issue.

Jean, m. to John Scrymgeour, esq. younger son of Tealing, no issue.

The son and successor,

JOHN GUTHRIE, of Guthrie, wedded in 1763, Margaret, daughter of the Rev. Mr. White, of Murrose, and had three sons and two daughters, viz.

JOHN, his successor.

* By contract of marriage and charter granted by the bishop, in implement thereof, the barony of Guthrie is conveyed to the said Francis, by the following destination:

"Francisco Guthrie de Gagai, et Bathiae Guthrie, ejus sponsae affida et eorum diutius viventi in perpetua infodatione et hæridibus masculis inter eos legitimi procreandis quibus deficientibus hæridibus masculis dicti Francisci de suo corpore legitimi procreandis," &c. This charter was confirmed by another, under the great seal, dated, 14th March, 1664.

* Copy, certificate, and declaration, by James Cummyng, keeper of the Lyon Records, with respect to a mistake in the matriculation of H. Guthrie, esq. of Hankerton.

"I, James Cummyng, keeper of the Lyon Records, do hereby certify and make known to all to whom it may concern, that the following narrative is inserted in the Public Register of the Lyon office, introductory to the entry of the patent, granting arms and supporters to John Guthrie, of Guthrie, as chief of that ancient surname, viz.—Upon a full investigation of the title deeds of the barony of Guthrie, it appears that the present John Guthrie, of Guthrie, is the heir male and representative of the ancient barons of Guthrie, chief family of that name, and that what is set forth concerning the representation of that family, being in the person of Harry Guthrie, of Hankerton, esq., Page 508, No. 73, is a mistake, owing to the report of several persons of that name, who were informed that the present laird of Guthrie, did not inherit that barony by descent from the ancient proprietors thereof, but that it was given in marriage to his grandfather's grandfather, Francis Guthrie, then designed of Gagie; but from the above investigation, the right of the present baron of Guthrie, to the male representation of the ancient barons of Guthrie, appears to be well instructed, and is properly set forth in the following description of his descent. In testimony whereof, I have written and subscribed these presents at Edinburgh, the nineteenth day of May, in the year one thousand seven hundred and seventy-nine.

ANGUISH, OF SOMERLEYTON.

ANGUISH, The Reverend GEORGE, of Somerleyton Hall, in Suffolk, M.A. Prebendary of Norwich, b. 7th February, 1764, succeeded to the estates upon the demise of his brother, Thomas Anguish, esq. in 1810.

supposed to have been derived), settled in Norfolk, where they remained for three centuries, and where, in 1609, Edward Anguish held the manor of Moulton, of the earl of Northampton, as parcel of his manor of Fornat.

The estates now in possession of the Anguishes having come partly through alliance with the family of ALLIN, we shall commence the narrative with

ROBERT ALLIN, who had (with two daughters, Mary, m. to Rear Admiral Uther, and d. in 1672; and Alice, the wife of Robert Ashbey, esq.) a son,

SIR THOMAS ALLIN, born in 1613, and distinguished in our naval annals. Bearing the high character of a staunch royalist, and having served as commander of a ship in the part of the fleet which revolted to the Prince of Wales, he was appointed

This family, originally from the isle of Angus, (whence the surname of Anguish is to the Dover, on the 24th June, 1660, one of the earliest ships commissioned by the Duke of York. In 1661, he commanded first, the Plymouth, and secondly, the Foresight; the Lyon, in 1662; and the Rainbow, in 1663. In the last year he was nominated commander-in-chief (as commodore only) of the ships and vessels in the downs, and invested on this occasion with the singular privilege of bearing at his main top, the union flag; which he hoisted on board the St. Andrew. In 1664, being appointed to succeed Sir John Lawson, as commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean, he sailed on this service in the Plymouth, accompanied by the Crown, which was put under his orders, and arriving at Tangier, assumed his command. Early in the ensuing spring, being then on a cruise with his squadron, consisting of eight or nine ships, off the streights' mouth, he had the good fortune to fall in with the Dutch Smyrna fleet, consisting of forty sail, under convoy of four men of war; having just learned that war was declared by England against the States General, he hesitated not a moment to attack them. The Dutch, in accordance with their usual plan of battle, drew the stoutest of their merchant ships into the line to support and assist the men-of-war; the contest was obstinate, but in the end, Brackel, the Dutch commodore, falling, their line was broken, several of their ships sunk, and four of their richest vessels captured. For this gallant exploit, the British commander was promoted to the rank of admiral of the Blue, and received the honor of knighthood. In 1666, he was appointed admiral of the White, and detached (in consequence of express orders from the king to Prince Rupert, who was himself on board the Royal James, with Sir Thomas), with his squadron to oppose the French, against whom war had just then been declared, and who, were reported to be coming up the channel for the purpose of joining the Dutch. This intelligence proving false, Prince Rupert and Sir Thomas Allin's division returned just in time to turn the scale in favour of the English, and rescue the Duke of Albemarle, who had been hard pressed by the superior numbers of the enemy, during a fight of three days' continuance. On the 25th July, the two fleets met a second time, and an action commenced about noon on the same day. Sir Thomas Allin, who continued to command the Van, or White Squadron, making a most furious attack upon the Dutch Admiral Evertzen, when the Friesland and Zealand Squadrons, of which he had the chief command, were totally defeated, and himself, with his vice and rear admirals, killed: the Tolent man-of-war was taken and burnt. Fortune continuing with this gallant officer, he captured, on the 18th September, the Ruby, French man-of-war, mounting 54 brass guns, commanded by M. de la Roche; a ship, then recently built, and esteemed one of the finest in the French navy.

Admiral Allin subsequently proceeded to the Mediterranean to chastise the insolence of the Algerines, which he effected, and returning to England was, in consideration of his long and eminent services, created a BARONET in 1669, when he retired to his seat, at SOMERLEYTON, (which estate and manor he had purchased from Thomas Garneys, esq. great grandson of John Wentworth, who acquired it by purchase, from the Jernynghams, of Cossey), and passed the declining years of his life in peace and retirement. He had held at different periods, the offices of controller of the navy, captain of Sandgate Castle, and master of the Trinity House.

DYOTT, OF FREEFORD.

DYOTT, WILLIAM, esq. of Freeford Hall, in the county of Stafford, a general officer in the army, and colonel of the 63rd regiment, b. 17th April, 1761, m. in February, 1806, Eleanor, daughter of Samuel Thompson, esq. of Green Mount, in the county of Antrim, and has issue,

RICHARD, lieutenant in the 53rd regiment.

William, of Trinity College, Cambridge.

Eleanor.

General Dyott succeeded his brother in July 1813. He is a magistrate and deputy lieutenant for the county of Stafford.

Lineage.

The estate of FREEFORD, in Staffordshire, came into the possession of the family of DYOTT in the time of ELIZABETH; one sixth share from Swinfen, one sixth from Andrews, one sixth from Jermain, and three sixths by intermarriage with the family of Harcourt.

Sir Gilbert Dethick, garter king of arms, confirmed, on the 20th February, 1562, by a patent now in the possession of General Dyott, the ancient family arms of the DYOTTS, with a crest, to JOHN DYOTT, of Stichbrook and Lichfield. This John m. Catherine, daughter of John Weston, of Lichfield, and had a son and daughter, viz.

JOHN, his heir.

Joan, who d. 19th October, 1590, as stated on her monument in Tettenhall church. She was the wife of Richard Creswell, of Barnsburst, merchant of the staple, and by him had five sons and five daughters. One of the daughters m. Sir John Curzon, of Oxfordshire.

The son,

JOHN DYOTT, was thrice bailiff of Lichfield, in 1558, 1561, and 1572. He wedded Margaret, daughter of Robert Hill, of that city, and dying in 1580, aged sixty-one, left (with a younger son, Arthur, merchant of the staple, in Sandford Street, Lichfield) a son and heir,

ANTHONY DYOTT, esq. of Lichfield, barrister-at-law, who was appointed, in the 40th of ELIZABETH, recorder of Tamworth, with an annual salary of forty shillings, and was representative in parliament for several years of the borough of Lichfield. This gentleman purchased from John Swynfen, for £33. the house in Sadler, otherwise Robe Street, Lichfield, which afterwards became the family residence. He m. Catherine, eldest daughter of John Harcourt, esq. of Ronton Abbey, in Staffordshire, and by her, who d. in 1602, he had issue,

i. RICHARD (Sir), his heir.

ii. Robert, in holy orders, rector of Darlaston.

iii. John, who was probably the Dyott whom Shakspeare mentions in the second part of KING HENRY IV. act iii. scene 2.* Anthony Wood states that it was by this John Dyott, whom he styles "Dumb Dyot," the parliamentary general, Richard Greville, Lord Brooke, was shot from the battlements of Lichfield cathedral, in 1642, when assaulting the place. In the will of his nephew, Anthony Dyott, dated 21st June, 1622, he is particularly mentioned thus: "My will is that my brother, Richard, shall maintaine and keepe my deafe and dumb uncle and aunt, John and Catherine Dyot, in the same plight and equipage, with all things necessary, as my father and I have done."

iv. Henry, b. in 1598.

i. Mary, m. to Silas Taylor, esq. of Hertfordshire, and d. in 1602.

ii. Catherine.

Anthony Dyott was s. by his eldest son,

SIR RICHARD DYOTT, knt. one of the privy council of KING CHARLES I. in the court held at York, high steward of Lichfield, and chancellor of the county palatine of Durham. Sir Richard who strenuously supported the royal cause, was in parliament during the whole of the reign of the ill-fated CHARLES, first for Stafford, and afterwards for Lichfield, and endured much by his devotion to the king. He m. Dorothy, daughter and heir of Richard Dorrington, esq. of Stafford, and had six sons, viz.

i. ANTHONY, his heir.

ii. RICHARD, who succeeded his brother.

iii. Matthew, a captain of horse, in the service of the king, m. Mary, daughter of Zachary Babington, and had

* Silence. You were called Lusty Shallow, then, cousin.

Shallow. By the mass, I was called anything; and I would have done any thing, indeed, and roundly too. There was I and little Diot, of Staffordshire, and black George Bare, and Francis Pickbone, and William Squell, a Colswold man, you had not four such swinge-bucklers in all the inns of court again.

HENRY IV. Part II. act iii. sc. 2.

a son, John, of Stichbrooke, living in 1662.

iv. John, d. unmarried, in London, and was buried in the Temple church.

v. Symon, of London, m. Jane Bainbrigg, of the same place.

vi. Michael, cornet of horse in the king's service, died of a gun-shot wound received in action, 16th March, 1644.

Sir Richard died 8th March, 1659, aged sixty-nine, and was s. by his eldest son,

ANTHONY DYOTT, esq. of Freeford, and of the Inner Temple, barrister-at-law. During the civil war this gentleman was major of a regiment of foot under the royal standard, and after the restoration he represented the borough of Lichfield in two parliaments. He m. Barbara, daughter of James Ingram, esq. but dying s. p. bequeathed by his will, dated 21st June, 1622, all his personal property to his brother, Captain Richard Dyott, to whom and his heirs he likewise demised all his lands lying in the county of Stafford, with remainder to Symon Dyott and his heirs, and afterwards to Anthony Dyott, son of his uncle, Robert Dyott, late of Darlaston. He recommended his faithful clerk, Anthony Shirley, to his brother's care, and left him an annuity of fifty shillings, and he enjoins, in the same instruments, his brother to plant an orchard at Freeford, "in the little close on the east side of Walton's house." His brother and heir, the said

RICHARD DYOTT, esq. who was captain of horse in the Volunteers of Lichfield, under the standard of the king, at the battle of Edgehill, accompanied the royal family to Holland, and returned some short time before the restoration. He wedded, first, 7th February, 1664, Katharine, daughter of Thomas Gresley, esq. son of Sir George Gresley, bart. of Drakelow, and sister of Sir Thomas Gresley, and secondly, 28th April, 1670, Anne Greene.* He d. in 1677, leaving by his first wife, who was buried at St. Mary's, 29th June, 1667, a son and successor,

RICHARD DYOTT, esq. of Freeford, baptized 22nd May, 1667, M.P. for Lichfield from 1698 to 1714. This gentleman wedded at Thorpe, 20th September, 1685, Frances, eldest daughter of William Inge, esq. of Thorpe Constantine, in the county of Stafford, high sheriff in 1684, and by her, who d. in 1702, had issue,

RICHARD, his heir.

Frances, b. in 1686, m. to Christopher Sanders, esq. of Shareshill.

Catherine, b. in 1690, m. 23rd June, 1720, to Gervas Burton, esq.

Dorothy, b. in 1691.

Bridget, b. in 1699, m. 17th November, 1726, to Michael Rawlins, esq. of the Friary.

Mr. Dyott d. in 1719, was interred at St. Mary's on the 13th May, in that year, and s. by his son, RICHARD DYOTT, esq. of Freeford, baptized at Thorpe, 3rd June, 1687, espoused Miss Mary Lane, by whom, who d. in 1739, he had a son and daughter, viz.

RICHARD, his successor.

Mary, m. 17th December, 1760, to Christopher Astley, esq. of Tamhorn, and was mother of MARY ASTLEY, who m. her cousin, Richard Dyott, of Freeford.

He was s. at his decease by his only son,

RICHARD DYOTT, esq. of Freeford, baptized 14th May, 1723, who wedded, in February, 1751, Katharine, daughter of Thomas Herrick, esq. of Leicester, and had issue,

i. RICHARD, his successor.

ii. WILLIAM, present proprietor.

Georgiana.

Mr. Bramston, who is in the commission of the peace and lieutenancy for the county of Essex, succeeded his father on the 3rd February, 1831.

Lineage.

This family begins with

WILLIAM BRAMSTON, who was sheriff of London in the 18th year of RICHARD the Second's reign. He was ancestor of JOHN BRAMSTON, who acquired by purchase, in 1480, several messuages in Aldersgate Street, upon surrender from William Dormer. His son and successor,

HUGH BRAMSTON, had been admitted in the same year, with Joane his wife, to seven tenements, some of which are still in the possession of his descendants. He was s. by his son,

HUGH BRAMSTON, father, by Eleanor his wife, daughter of Thomas Rooks, of

HUGH BRAMSTON, who recovered, as heir to his mother, an estate in Whitechapel. He m. Elizabeth Norrys, of London, and had, with a son, Thomas, who d. s. p. and a daughter, Agnes, the wife of — Champane, of London, a son and heir,

JOHN BRAMSTON, citizen of London, who wedded first, Margaret, daughter of Thomas Symonds, and secondly, Elizabeth, daughter of William Chambers. By the former he had (with four younger sons, who all d. s. p.) a son and heir, and three daughters, namely,

ROGER.

Grace, m. to George Selighe, of Havering.

Anne, m. to George Sherman, of Maldon.

Elizabeth, m. to George Buck, of Long Melford, in Suffolk.

The son,

ROGER BRAMSTON, espousing Priscilla, relict of Thomas Rush, esq. of Borcham, and daughter of Francis Clovill, esq. of West Hanningfield Hall, in Essex, (an ancient and honourable family, resident in that county for several generations) removed from Whitechapel to Maldon. He had issue,

1. JOHN, his heir.

2. William, who took up arms for the king in the civil war, left four sons and three daughters, viz.

1. William, who m. Jane, daughter of Sir George le Hunt, and had John, Jane, Catherine, and Mary.

2. Edmund, a merchant, who had an only daughter.

3. John, who, like his father, fought under the royal banner, d. unmarried.

4. Edward, a merchant, d. unm.

1. Mary, m. to Richard, second son of John Argal, esq. of Great Baddow, and had a daughter, Mary Argal, married to Captain Blackman, and d. s. p.

2. Elizabeth, m. to the Rev. Richard Freeman, M.A. rector of Springfield Boswell, and had one son, John Freeman, of Colchester.

3. Catherine, m. to — Antrobus, esq. and had issue.

1. Margaret, died unmarried.

2. Mary, m. to John Stepkyn, esq. of Lees, and had issue.

The elder son,

SIR JOHN BRAMSTON, knt. born at Maldon, educated a barrister, was constituted LORD CHIEF JUSTICE OF ENGLAND in 1635.* He was a man of solid judgment, great integrity, and profound learning. When reader at the Temple, he was confessedly the soundest lawyer of the time, and when, with fifteen others, he obtained the coif, he bore the reputation of being the fairest pleader at the bar. "One instance of his integrity," saith Fuller, "I must not forget, effectually relating to the Foundation wherein I was bred. Serjeant Bruerton by will bequeathed to Sidney College well nigh three thousand pounds, but (for haste or some other accident) it was so imperfectly done, that (as Doctor Samuel Ward informed me) the gift was invalid in the rigour of the law. Now Judge Bramston, who married the judge's widow, gave himself much trouble (gave himself indeed, doing all things gratis) for the speedy payment of the money to a farthing, and the legal settling thereof on the college, according to the true intention of the deed. He deserved to live in better times. The delivering his judgment on the king's side, in the case of ship money, cost him much trouble." David Lloyd, who gives the life of Sir John Bramston amongst the state worthies, speaks thus: "Men have a touchstone to try gold, and gold is the touchstone to try men. Sir William Noy's gratuity showed, that this judge's inclination was as much above corruption as his fortune; and that he would not, as well as needed not, be base. Equally intent was he upon the interest of the state, and the maxims of law, as which mutually supported each other. He would never have a witness interrupted or helped, but have the patience to hear a naked though a tedious truth; the best gold lieth in the most ore, and the clearest truth in the most simple discourse. When he put on his robes, he put off his respects; his private affections being swallowed up in the public service. This was the judge whom popularity could never flatter to anything unsafe, nor favour oblige to anything unjust. Therefore he died in peace, in 1645, when all others were engaged in war, and shall have the reward of his integrity of the Judge of judges, at the great assize of the world."

Sir John Bramston m. first Bridget, daughter of Thomas Mondeford, an eminent physician, (son of Sir Edmund Mondeford, knt. of Feltwell, in Norfolk) by Mary his wife, daughter of Richard Hill and Elizabeth his wife, the TWENTIETH daughter of Sir William Lock, lord mayor of London. By her he had issue,

1. JOHN (Sir), his heir.
11. Mondeford (Sir), who was a master in chancery, and knighted at the restoration. He wedded Alice, daughter of Sir George le Hunt, and had six sons and four daughters, viz.

1. John.
2. Mondeford, who espoused his cousin, Elizabeth Bramston, and had several children, of whom John, wedded Miss Isabella Masters, and was father of EDMUND BRAMSTON, gentleman, usher to the Princess Dowager of Wales, who m. 16th July, 1748, Henrietta-Maria, daughter and co-heir (with her sister, Anne, m. in 1746, to William Beach, esq. of Fittleton,) of Charles Wither, esq. of Hall Place, and relict of Thynne Worsley, esq. by whom he left at his decease, 20th June, 1763, with two daughters, Augusta and Henrietta-Maria, who both died unmarried, a son and heir,

WITHER BRAMSTON, esq. of Hall Place, now called Oakley Hall, who m. Mary, daughter of Thomas Lobb Chute, esq. of The Vine, but d. s. p. in 1832.

3. George, LL.D. lord of the manor of Bassets, in Essex, whose dau. and heiress Theodosia, married Sir Robert Abdy, bart.
4. Francis, father of the Rev. James Bramston, rector of Ludgarshall, in Sussex. This reverend gentleman, who was educated at Westminster School, and elected to Christ Church, Oxford, in 1713, was author of two satires in verse, "The Art of Politics," an imitation of Horace's Art of Poetry, and the "Man of Taste," occasioned by Pope's epistle on that subject. He died 16th March, 1744.
5. William, D.D. rector of St. Christopher's, prebendary of Worcester, &c. died in August, 1735, leaving William, LL.D. George, and John, rector of Theydon Gernon.
6. Thomas, of the Six Clerks' Office in Chancery, had issue,

* He was bred at the Middle Temple, to the common law, and was first appointed counsel to the University of Cambridge; in 1623 he was raised to the degree of serjeant-at-law; in 1628 chosen counsel to the city of London, with a fee "pro consilio, impenso et impendendo;" in 1630 made chief-justice of Ely. In 1632 appointed serjeant to the queen; in 1634 king's serjeant, when he was knighted, and constituted LORD CHIEF JUSTICE in 1635.

George, Thomas, Henry, Mary-Grace, m. to Francis Crofts, esq. and Catherine, the wife of Richard Price, esq.

1. Mary, died unmarried.
2. Elizabeth, m. to Barrow Fitch, esq.
3. Alice, m. to Henry Mildmay, esq. of Wanstead.
4. Dorothy, m. to Anthony Fisher, esq.

III. Francis, made serjeant-at-law, 25th June, 1669, and elevated to the bench, as a baron of the exchequer, 17th June, 1678.

1. Dorothy, m. to Sir William Palmer, of Old Warden, in the county of Bedford.

WILLIAM HARVEY, of Combe, M. P. for Melcombe in the 9th of Queen ANNE, and for

* This eminent physician was born at Folkstone, on the 1st of April, 1578, and acquired the rudiments of education at Canterbury School, whence he entered the University of Cambridge in 1593, where, as a gentleman commoner of Caius College, he continued for six years. He subsequently pursued his medical course at Padua, under Fabricius de Aquapendente, and other great professors, and finally graduated there, in 1602. In 1604, Doctor Harvey settled in London, and was admitted a licentiate of the College of Physicians, of which in three years afterwards he became fellow. In 1615, he was appointed to read lectures at the royal college on anatomy and surgery, and it was during that course that he disclosed the profound discovery by which he has been immortalized. He did not, however, until 1620 give general publicity to the theory: in that year he published his treatise, entitled "Exercitatio Anatomica, de motu cordis et sanguinis in animalibus," wherein he developed the most ingenious and solid speculations. Profound however as were the doctrines of Harvey, they were not established without encountering the difficulties which ever impede the progress of reformation. By the ignorant and the bigotted, the sticklers for the old system, and those who could not, or would not, comprehend the new, the reformer was assailed, and every species of warfare resorted to in the contest. His reputation inuendo endeavoured to undermine, and his fair fame experienced for a season the blight of malignant whisperings. Eventually, however, the combatants appealed to the pen, and then the practical philosopher had the power of vindicating the truth he had discovered, and dispelling the darkness which had for so many ages before obscured the healing art.

Doctor Harvey was appointed physician extraordinary to King JAMES I., and constituted in 1632, physician in ordinary to that monarch's unhappy son and successor, CHARLES I., to whom he adhered faithfully through all his majesty's troubles. When hostilities broke out, Doctor Harvey attended the king on his departure from London, and after the battle of Edge Hill he retired with the royal family to Oxford, where in 1642 he was incorporated doctor of medicine. In 1645, he was appointed by the king's mandement, in room of Doctor Brent, who had taken the covenant, and joined the presbyterians. In 1651, Harvey published his "Exercitationes de Generatione animalium quibus accedunt quedam de Partu, de membranis ac humoribus uteri, et de conceptione." And the next year his bust was placed in the hall of the College of Physicians, with an inscription recording his discoveries. In return, Doctor Harvey presented to the college his valuable library, and founded the "Harveian Oration." He died weighed down with infirmity, on the 3rd June, 1657, at the age of seventy-nine, without issue. His remains were deposited at Helmsted, in Essex, where a monument records the sacred spot.

A splendid edition of Doctor Harvey's works was published in one volume, quarto, in 1766, with a memoir of the great physician, by Dr. Laurence.

CARTWRIGHT, OF NORWELL AND MARNHAM.

CARTWRIGHT, EDMUND-WILLIAM, esq. an officer in the 23rd regiment of Native Infantry, stationed at Saltara, in the presidency of Bombay, b. 19th September, 1809, succeeded his father, the Rev. Edmund Cartwright, M.A., F.A.S., 18th March, 1833.

Lineage.

In the reign of HENRY VII.

HUGH CARTWRIGHT married Maud, or Matilda Cove, and had four sons, of whom, HUGH, founded the NORWELL family.

Roland, was ancestor of the Cartwrights of AYNHO, see that family.

Edmund, m. in 1514, Anne, daughter of Thomas Cranmer, of Aslacton, in the county of Nottingham, and sister of the celebrated archbishop, by whom he acquired Ossington, in Notts, and Malling Abbey, in Kent. His eldest son, GEORGE CARTWRIGHT, esq. of Ossington, married first, one of the daughters of Lord Cobham, and secondly, Jane, one of the seventeen daughters of Sir John Newton, to whose memory a handsome monument is erected in the church of Malling. His descendants were successively united to the heiresses of Daubridgecourt, Molineux, Barton, and Marshall. There were also frequent intermarriages between the two families of Norwell and Ossington, the latest of which took place in 1731, between William and Anne Cartwright. The last male heir of the Ossington branch dying in 1755, the estate was sold by his four sisters, Lady Buck, Lady Middleton, Lady Legard, and Lady Whiteford, and became the property of WILLIAM DENISON, esq. high-sheriff for Nottinghamshire, in 1779.

The eldest son,

WILLIAM CARTWRIGHT, married Jane Leggatt, and resided at Norwell, where his descendants remained seated for four generations. His son and successor,

EDWARD CARTWRIGHT, esq. of Norwell, was father of

WILLIAM CARTWRIGHT, esq. of Norwell, in 1614, who m. Frances, daughter of Reginald Peckham, esq. by Elizabeth, his wife, sister of George Cartwright, esq. of Ossington. His grandson,

WILLIAM CARTWRIGHT, esq. who wedded Christian, daughter of his relative, Sir Hugh Cartwright, of Malling, built a house at Normanton, in Notts, and settled there. Like his father-in-law, he espoused the royal cause, and is supposed to have been the Colonel Cartwright, of whom Mrs. Hutchinson speaks with so much bitterness, in relating the siege of Nottingham. His son,

WILLIAM CARTWRIGHT, esq. of Norman-ton, is mentioned by EVELYN, as having, in 1671, induced the council of state to adopt pacific measures towards the discontented colonists of New England; joining the army of King WILLIAM, he became a captain in the regiment of the Earl of Kingston (whose sister was the wife of his relative, Fulk Cartwright, of Ossington), went over to Ireland, and died at the siege of Belfast, in 1689. His son, (by his wife, the daughter of Thomas Charlton, esq. of Chilwell),

WILLIAM CARTWRIGHT, esq. marrying Rebecca, the heiress of Edmund Nicholson, esq. of Marnham, removed thither, and had one son, WILLIAM, and four daughters, the youngest of whom, Elizabeth, married John, Viscount Tyrconnel, and after his lordship's death, resided until her own decease, in 1780, at the house of her brother. Mr. Cartwright was s. by his son, WILLIAM CARTWRIGHT, esq. of Marnham Hall, Notts, who was high-sheriff for that county, in 1742. He m. his cousin, Anne, daughter of — Cartwright, esq. of Ossington, and had five sons and five daughters, viz.

EDMUND, of whom presently.

Mary, m. to Eustatius Strickland, esq. youngest son of Sir George Strickland, bart. and has issue.

Elizabeth, m. to the Rev. John Penrose, of an ancient Cornish family, and has issue.

Anne-Catherine, d. 25th November, 1799.

Frances-Dorothy, author of the Life and Correspondence of Major Cartwright, published in 1825.

Dr. Cartwright wedded secondly, Susanna, daughter of the Rev. Dr. Kearney. He died 30th October, 1823.*

* Dr. Cartwright is buried at Battle, where his widow has erected a monument to his memory, thus inscribed.

EDMUND CARTWRIGHT, D.D. F.R.S.

Member of the Royal Society of Literature,
Formerly Fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford,
Afterwards Rector of Goadby Marwood, Leicestershire,

And Prebendary of Lincoln.

Born April 24, 1743: died Oct. 30, 1823.

In a period of intellectual advancement, Doctor Cartwright, both as a poet and a man of science, possessed great claims to distinction. He published his first poem, Armine and Elvira, in the year 1770. He was afterwards eminent for his mechanical discoveries, which have proved of great national advantage, from their introduction into most of the principle manufactures. By these exertions of his very powerful genius he acquired the lasting friendship and respect of many of the most illustrious characters of this and other countries.

Nor should it be here omitted, that unbroken in mind by many severe disappointments, he sustained through life an habitual equanimity; occupied to the last in a constant endeavour to improve and simplify the useful arts, and always studious to promote the benefit of mankind.

This monument is erected to his memory, by his affectionate and afflicted widow, Susanna Cartwright.

To Fame and to Fortune, adieu!

The toils of Ambition are o'er,
Let Folly those phantoms pursue,
I now will be cheated no more!

2. Julia Hodges, m. to Sir William Darley, kn.

The eldest surviving son,

GEORGE CARTWRIGHT, esq. of Marnham, after serving with distinction in the German wars, as aid-de-camp to the Marquis of Granby, spent sixteen years on the coast of Labrador. In December, 1772, he returned to England, and brought with him a family of Esquimaux, consisting of two brothers,

Resignation be mine, and repose;

So shall life be unclouded at last;

And while I prepare for its close,

I will think with a smile on the past.

But as still to the world must be given,

Some share of life's limited span,

The thoughts that ascend not to heaven,

I give to the service of man.

And yet, if from man a return,

I cherish the hope to obtain,

By time long instructed, I learn

The hope would be cherish'd in vain.

Since on man then my hope must not rest,

Oh where a reward shall I have?

My reward is within my own breast,

The richest on this side the grave.

And when to the grave I descend,

May the sins of past life be forgiven,

To these, oh! let mercy extend,

My gratitude speaks it in Heaven.

When death shall approach with his terrors,

Resign'd, may I bow to the rod;

And though loaded with sins and with errors,

Repose on the mercies of God.

their wives, and a child of five years of age, who were presented and graciously received at court. Captain Cartwright took them in the following spring to his father's house, in Nottinghamshire, where they were introduced to all the neighbouring families, and attracted much admiration by their pleasing manners and easy imitation of the habits of civilized life. The spirit, with which the two brothers pursued the amusement of hunting, though they had never previously mounted on horse back, was no less the object of surprize. Having had the misfortune to catch the infection of the small-pox, only one woman, named Caubric, returned to Labrador, where, however, Captain Cartwright was received with undiminished affection and kindness by their surviving relatives. Capt. Cartwright pursued his favourite field sports until the advanced age of eighty, and died s. p. at Mansfield, in the county of Nottingham, in May, 1819, when he was succeeded by his brother,

JOHN CARTWRIGHT, esq. so well known as "MAJOR CARTWRIGHT." This gentleman was with Lord Howe in the memorable sea fight between Hawke and Conflans, in 1759, and served several years in the navy with great credit, until 1776, when receiving an offer from Lord Howe, to accompany his lordship to North America, he declined this advantageous proposal, rather than bear arms against the liberties of that country. He soon after became major of the Nottinghamshire militia, which he and his father had been mainly instrumental in raising, and of which he had the training, as well as for many years the chief command. His remarkable qualities and his inflexible integrity, both in public and in private life, gained the respect even of those who most differed with him in opinion, while they insured him the devoted attachment of his political associates. These, in conjunction with his admirers generally, erected, in 1831, a statue to his memory, in Burton Crescent, London, where he resided at the time of his decease, in 1824,* aged eighty-four. He m. in 1780, Anne-Katherine, eldest daughter of Samuel Dashwood, esq. of Well Vale, in Lincolnshire, but left no issue. Major Cartwright purchased, after the sale of Marnham to Lord Brownlow, by whom the mansion was pulled down, about the year 1800, the estate of Wyberton, in the county of Lincoln. He was s. by his nephew,

THE REVEREND EDMUND CARTWRIGHT, the able author of the History of the Rape of Bramber, M.A. F.A.S. rector of Earnley, vicar of Lymminster, and prebendary of Chichester. This gentleman m. first, in 1794, Sophia, daughter of John Wombwell, esq. but lost his wife the next year, without issue. He wedded secondly, Anne, daughter of the Rev. The second son,

RICHARD CARTWRIGHT, esq. of the Inner Temple, purchased from Shakerley Marmion, esq. in November, 1615, for £5250, two thirds of the manor of AYNHO, with capital massuage and lands in the county of Northampton, and for £3000 more, completed the purchase of the whole^{*} in the March following, from the holders of the other third, Sir Paul Tracy, bart. and Sir Richard Tracy, knt. his son and heir apparent. Mr. Cartwright m. Mary, fourth daughter of Sir John Egerton, knt. of Egerton, in Cheshire,^{*} and dying 13th January, 1637-8,† aged 74, (his widow lived to 1654) was s. by his son,

JOHN CARTWRIGHT, esq. of Aynho. This gentleman espousing the cause of the parliament, suffered deeply at the commencement of the civil war. In 1645, his mansion house, at Aynho, was burnt to the ground by the King's troops, who forced him at that time to pay the sum of eight hundred pounds; and in two years afterwards, when the earl of Northampton was summoned to compound for delinquency, Mr. Cartwright petitioned for £10,000 out of that nobleman's estate, in compensation for the losses he had sustained while the earl commanded the royalists in his vicinity. In that year, 1647, he was appointed one of the parliamentary visitors of the University of Oxford, but disapproving the proceeding of the committee, he refused to act. Mr. Cartwright was a learned man, and an encourager of learning, as attested amongst 1st February, 1633, charged the manor of Deddington, and lands there, and at Hemton and Clifton, in Oxfordshire, with a yearly annuity or rent charge of £23. 8s. for the benefit of several parishes therein named; of which sum he directed £5. 4s. yearly to be bestowed in bread every week after divine service, amongst ten of the poorest and most aged persons in Aynho, who came to church every Sunday, when able; to be nominated by his son and his heirs, or in default, by four of the most religious men of the parish. * The following epitaph is inscribed to his memory :

In memory of

CHARLES ST. BARBE, esquire ;

Who departed this life the xixth of January
MDCCCXXVI, aged LXXVI years.

Although he was not a native of this town,

He resided in it upwards of sixty years ;

Where by liberality, uprightness, and Intelligence in his dealings

As a merchant,

By impartiality and sound judgment

As a magistrate,

And in the exercise of other public offices

Entrusted to him,

And by his readiness to serve and assist

His neighbours both rich and poor,

He justly acquired

The confidence, esteem, and respect of all.

His beloved wife

ANNE,

Who was blest with the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit,

Died the xxiiind September, MDCCCXIX

Aged LXVII years.

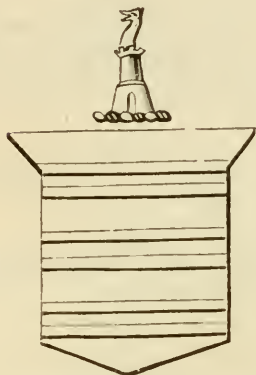

Their children have caused this memorial to

Be erected as a tribute of affection and respect.

SPEARMAN, OF THORNLEY.

SPEARMAN, HENRY-JOHN, esq. of Thornley, in the palatinate of Durham, b. 7th December, 1794, succeeded to the estates and representation of the ancient family of Spearman upon the demise of his father.

Lineage.

ROBERT SPEARMAN, a younger son of the Spearmans, of Dunnington,* in Salop, (seated there since the Conquest, and said to be descended from the old Lords of Aspramont) came into the north with the troops that suppressed the great Northern Rebellion, called The Pilgrimage of Grace, and was at the battle of Solway Moss, in 1542. He m. first Agnes, dau. of Thomas Robinson, of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, merchant, but had no issue; and secondly, a daughter of Whitfield, of Whitfield, in Northumberland, by whom, who m. secondly, — Bates, he had a son, ROBERT.

Mr. Spearman, in the 35th ELIZABETH, 1593, held lands in Preston, within the manor of Tynemouth. He died about the year 1600, aged eighty-one, was buried in Tynemouth Abbey, and succeeded by his son,

ROBERT SPEARMAN, who held lands in Preston and Tynemouth in 1614. He m. Alice, daughter of John Browne, lieutenant governor of Tynemouth Castle, and had issue,

- i. MICHAEL, of Preston, b. circa 1597, buried at Tynemouth, 13th December, 1679. He m. first, Margaret, daughter of John Fenwick, of Morpeth, widow of — Mills, of Monk-seaton, in Northumberland, and secondly, at Tynemouth, 14th December, 1649, Alice Moreton. From this Michael descended the SPEARMANS, of Preston and Eachwick, in Northumberland. RALPH SPEARMAN, esq. the last heir male, d. unmarried, at Eachwick, 13th July, 1823, aged seventy-four. This gentleman frequently mentioned a latent intention to arrange the recollections of a long life spent in the acquisition of antiquarian and legendary lore; but it is to be lamented that he has left no work behind him to perpetuate that extensive local knowledge, of which he seemed to be the sole depository. He devised his estates to his friend, John Hunter, esq. now JOHN HUNTER-SPEARMAN, esq.

- ii. THOMAS, of whom presently.
- i. Agnes, m. to Thomas Ottway, of Preston.
- ii. Isabel, m. to John Butler, esq. of Chirton.
- iii. Jane, m. to Dr. Middleton, a physician, of North Shields.

Robert Spearman died in 1615, and was buried at Tynemouth. His second son,

THOMAS SPEARMAN, esq. born about the year 1598, espoused, 16th November, 1620, Margaret, daughter and co-heiress of John Atkinson, gent. of Cleadon, in Durham, and dying 5th December, 1631, left, with another son, Thomas, who d. in 1631, aged eight, and a daughter, Elizabeth, baptized 30th October, 1630,

ROBERT SPEARMAN, esq. of Preston, born about 1623, who m. in 1644, Dorothy, dau. and co-heiress of John Pattison, of Boldon, in Durham, by whom, who was living 16th October, 1663, the wife of Captain James Cordie, her second husband, he had issue,

- i. JOHN, his heir.
- ii. Thomas, baptized and buried in 1647.
- iii. Robert, baptized 18th March, 1650, buried 30th July, 1654.
- iv. Robert, baptized 23rd April, 1657, of the city of Durham, who purchased in 1715, the manor of Old Acres, in the Palatinate. He m. 11th December, 1701, Hannah, daughter of William Webster, of Stockton-on-Tees, merchant, and dying 18th October, 1728, left three sons and a daughter, viz.

1. ROBERT, of Old Acres, baptized 4th March, 1702-3. This gentleman was distinguished for his extensive Biblical knowledge, and was the author of several learned publications in reference to that subject. "His memory," says Hutchinson, in his History of Durham, "is immortal in the literary world; and who, for his erudition, was not more illustrious than for his private virtues." He m. first, Miss Mary Lewen, and secondly, Anne, dau. of Robert Sharpe, gent. of Hawthorne, in Durham, by the former of whom, who d. 18th March, 1748, aged forty-three, he left at his decease, in October, 1761, five daughters, his co-heirs, viz.

DOROTHY, m. to John-Ralph Fenwick, M.D. of Durham.

MARY-ANN, d. unmarried, 9th May, 1777.

HANNAH-ELIZABETH, married to Thomas Wilkinson, esq. of Coxhoe, in the county of Durham (see vol. i. p. 69).

CHARLOTTE, m. to Thomas Swinburne, esq. of Pontop.

MARGARET, m. to Calverley Bewicke, esq. M.P. of Close House, Northumberland.

2. John, m. Mary, daughter of Lionel Vane, esq. of Long Newton, in Durham, but d. s. p.
3. William, baptized 18th April, 1807, m. Hannah, daughter of — Milburne, of the city of Durham, and by her, who died 7th August, 1761, aged forty-six, left at his demise, 17th December, 1775, aged sixty-eight, with three daughters, Hannah, Mary, and Dorothy, who all died unmarried, one son,

Robert-Wemyss Spearman, esq. who d. 5th March, 1793, aged forty-four, and was buried at Crossgate, Durham. He married in 1774, Mary, daughter of William Featherstonhalgh, esq. of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and had issue,

William, b. in 1775, late colonel of the 2nd dragoon guards.

Mary, m. to Cæsar Moreau.

1. Dorothy, died unmarried.

1. Esther, baptized 19th April, 1653, m. to John Milburne, esq. of Chirton, in Northumberland.

II. Alice.

Robert Spearman d. 27th January, 1657-8, was buried at Tynemouth, and succeeded by his eldest son,

JOHN SPEARMAN, esq. of the city of Durham, baptized 16th January, 1645, a sound and judicious lawyer and antiquary, and thirty years under-sheriff of Durham. In 1678, he purchased the manor of Thornley, and in 1686, a moiety of the manor of Hetton-le-Hole, in Durham. He m. 3rd November, 1663, Elizabeth, daughter and co-heiress of Richard Whitfield, esq. jun. alderman of Durham, and had issue,

1. George, baptized 1st January, and buried 4th February, 1664-5, in Durham Abbey.
- II. Michael, died in the lifetime of his father, and buried 14th December, 1686, s. p.
- III. Francis, baptized 26th January, 1669, and buried 22nd September, 1678.
- IV. JOHN, baptized 28th March, 1672, of Hetton-le-Hole, in the county of Durham, a justice of the peace for that shire, m. 10th July, 1694, Anne, eldest daughter and co-heir of Robert Bromley, gent. of Nesbitt, in Durham, and left at his decease, in March, 1724-5, with four daughters, who died without issue, a son, JOHN-SPEARMAN, esq. of Hetton-le-Hole, who d. s. p. in 1746. He sold the Hetton estate (where one of the most extensive collieries in the north of England has since been opened) to the Countess Dowager of Strathmore. He also disposed of an estate at Washington, in Durham.

- v. Robert, b. 7th July, 1673, died in infancy.
- VI. GILBERT, of whom presently.

1. Elizabeth, baptized 30th April, 1667, m. 4th July, 1687, to Michael Mickleton, esq. of Crook Hall, near Durham.

- II. Dorothy, baptized 29th June, 1670, m. to Mr. Serjeant John Cuthbert, recorder of Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Mr. Spearman died 21st September, 1703, aged fifty-eight. His sixth son,

GILBERT SPEARMAN, esq. of the city of Durham, of Thornley, and subsequently jure uxoris of Bishop Middleham, in the palatinate, barrister-at-law, baptized 17th August, 1675, m. first, in 1697, Mary, dau. and co-heiress of Robert Bromley, gent. of

Nesbett, in the county of Durham, and by her, who died 23rd January, 1700, aged twenty-six, had four sons,

John, buried 27th September, 1699.

Gilbert, buried 25th April, 1701.

John, buried 13th October, 1702.

ROBERT, heir.

He wedded secondly, 1st September, 1701, Margaret, daughter and sole heiress of Robert Pearson, esq. of Bishop Middleham, by Mary his wife, sister of Charles, Viscount Cullen, and had four sons and two daughters, viz.

Charles, who d. 20th June, 1725, aged nineteen, buried at White Westham, in Essex.

Theophilus, buried 23rd March, 1708-9.

Francis, baptized 22nd September, 1702, buried on the 13th of the following month.

George, of Bishop Middleham, a justice of the peace for Durham, baptized 23rd April, 1714, m. Anne, daughter of Ralph Sneyd, esq. of Bishton, and dying in April, 1760, left two daughters, his co-heirs, PARKER, OF WHITEWAY.

PARKER, MONTAGU-EDMUND, esq. of Whiteway, in the county of Devon, b. 22nd January, 1807, s. his father in March, 1830.

Mr. Parker is in the commission of the peace, and a captain in the North Devon militia.

Lineage.

The PARKERS are a very ancient Devon family, seated as far back as the close of the 14th century, at North Moulton, in that shire.

EDMUND PARKER, esq. whose will bears date, 18th May, 1611, espoused Dorothy, daughter of Sir Clement Smith, knt. of Little Baddow, in Essex, chief baron of the Exchequer, and had one son and four daughters, viz.

JOHN, who m. Frances, daughter of Jeronemy Mayhew, esq. of Boringdon, in Devonshire, and had, with other issue, a son,

EDMUND, heir to his grandfather.

Frances.

Jane, m. to John Norleigh, esq. of Norleigh.

Elizabeth, m. to Walter Harlewin, esq.

Mary, m. to George Drake, esq. of Whitcombe.

Mr. Parker was s. at his decease by his grandson,

EDMUND PARKER, esq. of North Moulton, b. in 1593, who m. Amy, youngest daughter of Sir Edward Seymour, bart. of Bury Pomeroy, and had several children, of whom EDMUND, became heir; and William, of Hoberton, ancestor of the two families of Parker, raised to the baronetcy. Mr. Parker dying about 1649, was s. by his son,

EDMUND PARKER, esq. of North Moulton, and Boringdon, b. in 1613, father of GEORGE PARKER, esq. of Boringdon, who inherited in October, 1691. He m. first, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Fowell, bart. of Fowellscombe, but that lady dying issueless, in 1691, he espoused secondly, Ann, daughter of John Buller, esq. of Morval, and had three sons, viz.

Edward, who d. unm.

JOHN, his heir.

Francis, of Blagdon, in Devon, who had three daughters, the eldest, Anne, m. to John Baring, esq. M.P. of Mount Radford; the second, Elizabeth, first, to Thomas Baring, esq. of Larkbeer,* and secondly, to William Spicer, esq. of Wear; the third, to John Fryer, esq. of Exeter.

BARRY, OF LEMLARA.

BARRY, GARRETT-STANDISH, esq. of Lemlara, in the county of Cork, a magistrate and deputy lieutenant, s. to the estates and representation of the family on the demise of his father, Standish Barry, esq. in April, 1823. Mr. Barry is the first Catholic member of parliament elected by the county of Cork since the Act of Emancipation in 1829, restored the Catholics to their constitutional rights.

Lineage.

This branch of the once potent name of BARRY, so influential under the successive Lords Barry, the Viscounts Buttevant, and the earls of Barrymore,* has enjoyed large possessions in the county of Cork, ever since the first incursion of the Anglo-Normans, in the time of HENRY II. Many of their green acres have indeed fallen to the spoiler—and of the old Catholic families, which may not similarly complain?—in the confiscations, political and religious, that so frequently, and so ruthlessly visited the land of their adoption from the accession of the house of TUDOR, to the extinction of the house of STUART. Those that remain, however, confer on the proprietor, by their title deeds, an inheritance of six hundred years at least, transmitted through a continuous and unbroken succession of two-and-twenty generations.

GARRETT* BARRY, who resided at Leam-

* The christian name of GARRETT (Gerard or Gerald), so prevalent in this and every other branch of the Barrys, is derived from the celebrated GIRALDUS CAMBRENSIS, or Gerald (Barry), of Wales, who, in 1185, accompanied Prince JOHN, afterwards King of England, as his secretary, to Ireland, where his nephews permanently

lary, (then so written) in the county of Cork, temp. RICHARD II. married the daughter of Poer, of Shangarry, allied to the Lords Le Poer, and dying about the year 1390, was s. by his son,

JOHN BARRY, who espoused the daughter of O'Nunane, of Castleishane, a very ancient Irish name, and had a son and heir,

GARRETT BARRY, father, by his wife, — White, of Imokilly, of

DAVID BARRY, of Leamlary, who wedded a daughter of Barrett,† of Ballincolly, and had a son,

JOHN BARRY, who espoused Catherine Roche, of the noble house of Fermoy, and was s. by his son,

GARRETT BARRY, of Leamlary, whose wife was Ellen M'Cartie, of Tuadrommun. His son, established themselves. Philip, the younger of the two, who founded the great power of the family, was the first man, says Cambrensis, that was wounded in the conquest of Ireland, and was also the first who ever manned a hawk in the island. Giraldus wrote the Topography of Ireland, which forms part of Camden's historical collection, Anglica, Normannica, &c. printed at Francfort, 1603, in folio. This work of Cambrensis is not very flattering, and has, therefore, given little satisfaction to the natives. An elaborate refutation, under the title of Cambrensis Eversus, and assumed name of Gratianus Lucius, appeared in 1662, folio, from the pen of the Very Rev. John Lynch, catholic archdeacon of Tuam, a very rare volume, as all catholic publications of the 17th century are become, from the intolerance of the dominant party, and consequent peril of circulation, or possession. Rarity is an element of value, and it is a literal fact, that several of these books would now produce more than their weight in gold; such as the same Lynch's Icon Kirovani, (of which the late Mr. Heber has left, what is supposed to be an unique copy), his Alithinologia, (in the library of the Right Hon. Thomas Grenville) and Bishop French's Bleeding Iphigenia. In 1825, Mr. Grenville paid Mr. Thorpe, the bookseller, at least twenty-five guineas, for a tiny volume, Threnodia Hiberno Catholica, which the previous possessor had picked up at a stall for sixpence, but it had cost Mr. Thorpe £20. at an auction, in December, 1824.

As for Giraldus Cambrensis, although in the preceding 8th and 9th centuries, we have undoubted proof (Bede and others) that Ireland was the seat of learning, and refuge of piety, yet the inroads of the Danes, and internal wars, had probably so barbarized it during the two or three intervening centuries, as to make his description not much overcharged. Tasso, in allusion to Ireland, at nearly the same period, or the first crusade, says—(Gier. Lib. Canto I. xxxiv.)

“Questi de l'alte selve hirsuti monda
La divisa dal mondo ultima Irlanda.”

† The family of BARRETT, originally English, acquired considerable power, and conferred its name on one of the baronies of the county of Cork, in describing which, Dr. Smith relates an anecdote, sufficiently expressive of the enduring alienation of the ancient Milesian race, from even

JOHN BARRY, of Leamlary, distinguished by the epithet of Laidhir, or the stout, m. Isabel Nagle, of Moncanimic, and had a son, GARRETT, his heir. By a grant from CHARLES I. in the 12th year of his reign (1636), the family estates were confirmed to this proprietor, to whom the same monarch granted also a “release on account of alienations without license,” in consideration of £10. and in 1663, the commissioners passed a decree in his favor, declaring him an innocent papist. All these documents are in the present Mr. Barry's possession. John Barry was s. by his son,

GARRETT BARRY, esq. of Leamlary, or Leamlara, who obtained from CHARLES II. a confirmatory grant of Leamlary, in consideration of £10. composition money, by a deed (in the possession of Mr. Barry) in the 36th year of that sovereign's reign. This gentleman wedded 12th November, 1708, Eleanor, daughter of Thady Quin, esq. of Adair, in the county of Limerick, (father of Valentine Quin, the great grandfather of the present earl of Dunraven, and ancestor maternally of the marquis of Headfort,) and had issue,

* "General Stack," says a writer, in the Gentleman's Magazine, "was an Irishman by birth, and his life was full of adventure. In his youth he was one of the aides-de-camp of Louis XV. and went to America with General Lafayette. He was on board Paul Jones's ship le Bonhomme Richard, when she took the Serapis, Captain Pearson. He afterwards went to the East Indies with the Marquis de Bouillé, and there distinguished himself in supporting the honor of the flag under which he served. At a later period he was the companion in arms of Clarke, afterwards Duke de Feltre. He then commanded the regiment of Dillon, in the Irish Brigade, to which he adhered until the revolution, when it ceased to exist. He was subsequently at Coblenz with Charles X. then Count d'Artois. He afterwards entered the service of his native country, and was one of Buonaparte's détenus, first remaining a prisoner at Riche, for three years, and afterwards at Verdun; nor was he finally liberated until the restoration, in 1814. Ten years previously he had been confined in the Château de Vincennes, on suspicion of secret service to England, and was in that celebrated fortress when the Duc D'Enghien was executed there. He momentarily expected, and was fully prepared to share the fate of that lamented prince, when, only half an hour before the appointed time a countermand was received. At the period of his promotion to the rank of major-general in the British service, Catholics were not eligible to hold a higher commission than that of colonel, and an official letter was written to Stack, from the Horse Guards, to know if he were of that religion; his answer was short and plain:—

Sir,—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, and beg to acquaint you, for the information of His Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief, that I am of the religion that makes General Officers, and have the honor to be your obedient servant,

EDWARD STACK, Major General.

† Dr. Hanmer, in his History of Ireland, published by Sir James Ware, with Spenser's Campion, &c. Dublin, 1632, in folio, narrates a strange story of this family, which, though variant in circumstances, is not much dissimilar in cause and purpose from that of the Châtelain de Coucy, et Gabrielle de Vergy, Dame de Fayel, sung by the troubadours in the Crusades, and dramatized as an opera, on the French stage. It has been omitted in the republication of Hanmer, Dublin, 1809.

The barons of Galtrim, in Meath, were not peers of parliament, nor of royal creation. The title was originally conferred by Edward Mortimer, earl of March and Ulster, son of Lionel, duke of Clarence,* and Palatine of Meath, in 1379, when he also elevated to the same rank, Pettyt, baron of Mullingar, and Nangle, baron of Navan. In the south a similar power was exercised by the earls of Ormonde, as Palatines of Tipperary, from whom the Purcells derived the title of Loughmoe, &c. In counties palatine, the counts, or earls, says Dr. Smith, had jura regalia, and by their own authority appointed their vice-comes, or sheriff, and all other subordinate officers, who acted in their lord's name. This jurisdiction embraced all delinquencies, except the four pleas, viz. burning, rapes, forstal, and treasure found, which were cognizable only by the king's judges, but none of the king's writs were of force in the liberty of the counts palatine, except of errors or appeal. The barons created by them held their lands by the tenure of grand serjeantry, nor could an heir enter into possession without having livery out of the chancery of the palatinate. The privileges of the palatinate of Desmond, where the knights of Glyn, of Kerry, and the White knights, were thus created, were enjoyed, until 1576, and those of Ormond, or Tipperary,† down to GEORGE I. when they were abolished by act of parliament. In England, nearly the same privileges were attached to the palatinates of Chester, Durham, and Lancaster.‡

A branch of the Hussey family resided at Courtown, in the county of Kildare, from which sprang the late Edward, Earl Beaulieu, husband of the celebrated Duchess of Manchester. A junior branch settled in Kerry, under the auspices of the earls of Desmond, who gave them a grant of a considerable tract near Dingle, where they built a castle, which was eventually forfeited, and is now the property of the Knight of Kerry. PETER BODKIN HUSSEY, esq. barrister, is the representative of this branch.

* See SPENCER'S View, page 23, (1809) where he confounds this duke, who was third son of EDWARD III. with George, duke of Clarence, brother of EDWARD IV.

† SPENCER, page 46, paints in vivid colours, the abuses of this quasi regal power, which in his time, however, was confined to the palatinate of Tipperary.

‡ Sir James Ware, in a valuable note to Spenser's View of Ireland, describes in detail the division of property made by Prince JOHN, then earl of Morton, and under him, by Sir Hugh De Lacy, to their followers. De Lacy had the distribution of Meath. To Misset he gave Luin, and to Hussey (or Hose) Galtrim. Sir James Ware exhibits the charter of HENRY II. See also CAMBRENSIS lib. i. cap. 28.

Lineage.

The first recorded ancestor of this family
WILLIAM HELWISH, or ELWES, of Askham, in the county of York, married the daughter of — Livesey, of Lancashire, and had four sons, namely,

EDWARD, of Askham.

John, of Worlaby, in Lincolnshire, father of SIR GERVASE ELWAIES.†

lieutenant of the Tower, at the time
SIR THOMAS OVERBURIE, was murdered there.

Thomas, of Hubblethorpe, in Lincolnshire.

GEOFFREY.

Mary, m. to Thomas —, of London, merchant.

† OVERBURIE was committed to the Tower through the machination of the Countess of Essex, afterwards the notorious wife of Robert Carr, Earl of Somerset. And, writes Sir Anthony Weldon, "Having him now fast in prison, Herodias, by pleasing her Herod, must also ask and have his life; to that end, they preferred Empusides (one Richard Weston) to be servant to SIR GERVASE ELWAIES, then lieutenant of the Tower. This gentleman was ever held wise and honest, but unfortunate in having that place thrust upon him without his thought; he was also so religious, as few in the court did equal him; so wise, as he obtained the character of wise Sir Gervase Elwaies, yet neither could his wisdom, nor the opinion of his religion and honesty, prevent that fate, he was so ignorant of the plot, as never dreamt of any such matter, until one day, as it should seem, Weston being told, Elwaies did know whereof he was preferred unto him to wait on Overburie; he asked the lieutenant whether he should now do it, Elwaies asked him what? Weston at that being somewhat abashed, Elwaies espied it, presently said, no, not yet; for he did believe there was something known to Weston; instantly he hasted away (being a little before dinner) and went into his study, and sent to Weston to come unto him, examining him of the meaning of that question; at last, by fair means and threatening together, got the truth; then Elwaies, as he well could, laid before Weston the horridness of the fact, the torments of hell . . . that Weston, falling on his knees, said, O Lord, how good and gracious art thou, and thy mercy is above all thy works; for this day is salvation come to my soul, and I would not for all the world have such a sin upon me: giving the lieutenant humble thanks, that had been the instrument of saving his soul, by putting him off from so foul intentions." The ultimate fate of Overburie is well known,—he was put to death by Weston and another ruffian, named Franklin, partly by poison and partly by violence. The affair was hushed up, and remained for some years undiscovered, until "it happened," says Dugdale, "that the Earl of Shrewsbury, in conference with a counsellor of state, recommended the lieutenant of the Tower to his favor, as a man of good parts, and one who desired to be known to him. The counsellor answered, that he took it as a favor from the lieutenant that he should desire his friendship, but added, that there lay upon him a heavy imputation for Overburie's death, whereof he wished that gentleman should clear himself, which being related to the lieutenant, he was stricken with it, and said, to his knowledge some attempts were made against Overburie, but that the same took no effect. Which being told to the king, he willed the counsellor to move the lieutenant to set down in writing what he knew of that matter, as he accordingly did. Whereupon certain of the council were appointed to examine and find out the truth. From Weston somewhat being found, he was made prisoner. Mistress Turner and Franklin, the preparers of the poison, being examined, confessed everything; whereupon all braking forth, this Earl (Somerset) and his lady, and also the lieutenant were committed. But Weston at his first arraignment stood mute, yet afterwards was induced to put himself on the trial of his country, and being found guilty, suffered death at Tyburn. Mistress Turner and James Franklin were in like sort executed. The lieutenant, who had winked at their doings, being judged accessory to the crime and condemned, suffered death also, expressing great penitency."

Of Turner, Weston, and Franklin, Weldon observes, "Mrs. Turner's day of mourning being better than the day of her birth, for she died very penitently, and showed much modesty in her last act, which is to be hoped was accepted by God. When Lord Chief Justice Coke pronounced sentence of death on this unhappy woman, he said,—"That as she was the first inventress and wearer of yellow starched ruffs and cuffs, so he hoped she would be the last that wore them, and for that purpose strictly charged she should be hanged in that garb, that the fashion might

Sir Gervase, who represented the county of Suffolk in Parliament, died in May, 1705, and was s. by his grandson,

SIR HERVEY ELWES, second baronet, M.P. for Sudbury, in the reign of Queen ANNE, who died unmarried, 22nd October, 1763, when his estates passed to (the son of his sister, Amy Meggot) his nephew,

JOHN ELWES, esq. afterwards so well known as ELWES, the Miser, and so distinguished for integrity, generosity, and parsimony. Of this singular person, Capt. Topham, of the Horse Guards, published a life soon after his decease, which in an animated and interesting detail exhibits one of the most extraordinary characters perhaps to be found in the whole range of British biography. From that work we make no apology for freely extracting. "It is curious," says the biographer, "to remark how Mr. Elwes contrived to mingle small attempts at saving with objects of the most unbounded dissipation. After sitting up a whole night at play for thousands, with the most fashionable and profligate men of his time, amidst splendid rooms, gilt sofas, wax lights, and waiters attendant on his call, he would walk out about four in the morning, not towards home, but into Smithfield, to meet his own cattle, which were coming to market from Thaydon Hall, a farm of his in Essex. There would this same man, forgetful of the scenes he had just left, stand in the cold or rain, bartering with a carcass butcher for a shilling. Had every one been of the mind of Mr. Elwes the race of innkeepers must have perished, and post chaises have returned back to those who made them; for it was the business of his life to avoid both. He always travelled on horseback. To see him setting out on a journey was a matter truly curious: his first care was to put two or three eggs, boiled hard, into his great coat pocket, or any scraps of bread which he found; baggage he never took; then mounting one of his hunters, his next attention was to get out of London into that road where turnpikes were the fewest. Then stopping under any hedge where grass presented itself for his horse, and a little water for himself, he would sit down and refresh himself and his horse together. The chief residence of Mr. Elwes, at this period of his life, was in Berkshire, at his own seat at Marcham. Here it was that he had two sons born, who inherited the greater part of his property, by a will made about the year 1785. On the death of his uncle Mr. Elwes came to reside at Stoke, in Suffolk. Bad as was the mansion house he found here, he left one still worse behind him at Marcham; of which the late Colonel Timms used to mention the following proof. A few days after the colonel went thither, (on a visit to his uncle) a great quantity of rain fell in the night; he had not been long in bed before he felt himself wet through, and putting his hand out of the clothes, found the rain was dropping through the ceiling upon the bed; he got up and moved the bed, but he had not lain long before he found the same inconvenience. Again he got up, and again the rain came down. At length, after pushing the bed quite round the room, he got into a corner where the ceiling was better secured, and he slept till morning. When he met his uncle at breakfast, he told him what had happened,—‘Aye, aye,’ said the old man, ‘I don’t mind it myself, but for those who do, that’s a nice corner in the rain.’ On coming into Suffolk it was that Mr. Elwes first began to keep fox hounds, and his stable of hunters at that time was said to be the best in the kingdom. The keeping fox hounds was the only instance, in the whole life of Mr. Elwes, of his ever sacrificing money to pleasure, and may be selected as the only period when he forgot the cares, the perplexities, and the regrets which his wealth occasioned. But even here everything was done in the most frugal manner. Scrub, in the Beau’s Stratagem, when compared with Mr. Elwes’s huntsman, had an idle life of it. This famous huntsman might have fixed an epoch in the history of servants; for, in a morning, getting up at four o’clock, he milked the cows, he then prepared breakfast for Mr. Elwes, or any friends he might have with him, then, slipping on a green coat, he hurried to the stable, saddled the horses, got the hounds out of the kennel, and away they went into the field. After the fatigue of hunting, he refreshed himself by rubbing down two or three horses as quickly as he could, then running into the house to lay the cloth and wait at dinner, then hurrying again into the stable to feed the horses, diversified, with an interlude of cows again to milk, the dogs to feed, and eight hunters to litter down for the night. What may appear extraordinary, the man lived for some years.” Captain Topham winds up his relation thus—“Mr. Elwes expired without a sigh, on the 26th November, 1789, and he appears to have hastened the catastrophe by the miserable manner in which he both lodged and fed,—a truckle bed, and an egg, a mouldy piece of pie, or meat, that had become putrid, generally forming his chief sustenance. Mr. Elwes, as one of the commoners of England, in three successive parliaments, maintained a conduct which purer times might have been glad to boast, and which later times may be proud to follow. The minister that influenced him was—his conscience. He obeyed no mandate but his opinion. He gave that opinion as he held it to be right. In one word, his public conduct lives after him pure and without a stain. In private life he was chiefly an enemy to himself. To others he lent much—to himself he denied everything. In the pursuit of his property, or the recovery of it, I have not in my remembrance one unkind thing that was ever done by him. But that great object which rises highest in the view out of the prospect of his varied life, let me again enforce upon this page,—that object is, the insufficiency of wealth alone to confer happiness, for who, after the perusal of the life of Mr. Elwes, shall say—I am rich, and therefore I shall be happy. Such be the wreath that my humble hand strews over his grave, a wreath where flattery has not furnished one single flower; but not wholly unadorned is it, for it is the tribute of truth! as such I give it to his memory, and at a moment when praise or blame can effect him no more.” The Gentleman’s Magazine in noticing Topham’s work observes,—“That it should be possible for avarice to be personified in a human being will not appear strange after the perusal of these memoirs of a man who imbibed it with his mother’s milk, studied it under his uncle, practised it during a course of seventy-five years, in every action of his life, and fell a martyr to it at last.” The same journal announces his decease in the following paragraph. “At Marcham, Berks, John Elwes, esq. M.P. for that county. He had exceeded the age of fourscore; and a more respectable member never sat in parliament. His property in land and money was immense. The former devolves to his nephew, the son of the late Col. Timms, of the Horse Guards. This is estimated at £7000 per annum. The latter to the amount of some hundreds of thousands, excepting a few legacies, is equally divided between his two sons. Mr. Elwes had during Lord North’s administration been offered an English peerage; but as, under circumstances, it could not have been hereditary, he very disinterestedly declined it. Great part of the Circus Buildings, Seymour Street, &c. were his property. Till within a short time of his decease, he exhibited a fine head of an old man, in the true interesting style of Rembrandt. His countenance resembled much that of the Calais monk, so beautifully pictured by Sterne. Mr. Elwes was a man of clear perception, sound judgment, and unshaken integrity. In such high estimation was he held for his love of justice, that numberless disputes amongst his constituents and others, which would have been decided by courts of law, were left to his sole arbitrament; and his determination was sure to be thoroughly satisfactory to the judicious. Yet, notwithstanding his great and good character, he was a man (respecting himself) of an extraordinary penurious or singular turn. About twenty-five years ago, he would travel a whole day, viz. from his seat in Berkshire to London, on horseback without baiting. He at that time was not only in the habit of gaming very high, but also lent large sums on mortgage to an eminent builder. The money he lent was supplied by instalments, as the work was carried on. It happened, that on a Saturday a payment became due, and the builder went to his house in Marlborough Street; finding it shut up, he enquired at the gaming-house he belonged to, and was informed that he certainly was in town. (Mr. Elwes at this time kept not even a man or maid servant to attend upon him.) The builder, being distressed, went back to Marlborough Street, but could gain no admittance. At last, he applied to the landlord of the public-house adjoining, for leave to get over the garden wall, which he obtained, and by that means entered the house, went up stairs, and found Mr. Elwes in his bed, in such an ill state of health, as not to be able to get out, and nothing near him but part of a halfpenny roll, and a glass of water. The builder procuring a chair, had him conveyed to his own house, near Portman Square, where he continued to lodge and board for several years afterwards. It is probably from this circumstance of necessity that the life of this valuable man was extended to so late a period."

HUNTLEY, OF BOXWELL.

HUNTLEY, The Reverend RICHARD WEBSTER, A.M. of Boxwell Court, in the county of Gloucester, b. 2nd April, 1794, m. at St. George's, Hanover-square, 8th July, 1830, Mary, eldest daughter of Richard Lyster, esq. of Rowton Castle, M.P. for Shropshire, and has one son, RICHARD-FREVILLE, b. 15th December, 1833.

Mr. Huntley, late a fellow of All Souls College, Oxford, served the office of proctor for that university in 1825. He succeeded his father 16th October, 1831 and is in the commission of the peace for Gloucestershire.

Lineage.

The HUNTLEYS are descended from a family seated at Hadnock, in Monmouthshire, two miles from the forest of Dean.

JOHN HUNTLEY, of the Rye, near Gloucester, (who appears from coincidence of name, time, and county, to be the same John Huntley who was son of Elizabeth, sister and heir of John ap Adam, son of another John, the only surviving male branch of the family of John, Lord ap Adam, whose barony became extinct in 1309,) left, by Margaret Andrewes, his wife, a son,

JOHN HUNTLEY, of Standish and Boxwell, living 34th HENRY VIII. He married Alice, dau. and co-heir of Edmund Langley, of Siddington, and widow of Thomas Endon; and secondly, a lady named Joan, but of what family is not recorded. By the first he had two sons and a daughter, viz.

1. GEORGE, of Frocester, who died in 1580, leaving, by Catherine his wife, daughter of John Walsh, of Sodbury, a son and heir,

JOHN HUNTLEY, of Frocester, who m. Jane, daughter of Sir Edward Karne, knt. of Glamorganshire, and was s. by his son, SIR GEORGE HUNTLEY, knt. of Frocester, who married Eleanor, daughter of Sir William Winter, knt. of Lindley, and died 23rd September, 1622, having had issue,

1. WILLIAM, who m. Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Edward Read, esq. of Yate, but died s. p.
2. Edward, born in 1624, died issueless.
3. George, died s. p.

1. Jane, m. to Giles Foster, esq. of Dronock.

2. Elizabeth, m. to John Abraham, esq. of Juxon, county of Hereford.

3. Eleanor, living unmarried in 1634.

Sir George Huntley's sons dying all issueless, his estate at Frocester was purchased by the ancestor of Lord Ducie.

II. HENRY, of whom presently.

1. Ann, m. to Henry Baskerville.

The second son,

HENRY HUNTLEY, esq. of Boxwell, whose will bears date 1556, wedded first, Elizabeth, daughter of William Throckmorton, of Tortworth, and had two daughters, Frances, the wife of John Bowser, of Tortworth, and Elinor. He married secondly, Eleanor, daughter of John Rufford, and had (with a daughter Margaret, and a younger son, Edmund, a military officer, who married Bridget, widow of John Nanfan, esq. of Barnsley, and daughter and heir of John Kemeys, esq.) a son and heir,

GEORGE HUNTLEY, esq. who acquired the manor and free-warren of BOXWELL, in Gloucestershire, temp. JAMES I. by purchase from Sir Walter Raleigh, grantee from the crown. He espoused Constance, daughter and coheir of Sir Edward Ferrars, of Rivington, in the county of Warwick, and had issue,

JOHN, who married first, Frances, dau. of Sir John Conway, knt. and had John, a military officer, who left no issue. He wedded, secondly, Elizabeth Vaughan, but died s. p. in the lifetime of his father.

George, buried at Boxwell, 14th April, 1576.

William, of Nailsworth, who married 25th July, 1600, Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Morgan, esq. and widow of Richard Read, esq. and had an only daughter, Constance.

MATTHEW.

Constance, baptized at Boxwell, 13th January, 1583, married first, in 1599, Captain Nicholas Baskerville, and had a daughter,

Mary Baskerville, married to her first cousin, Hannibal Baskerville, esq. of Sunningwell. (See vol. i. page 91.)

Mrs. Baskerville espoused, secondly, Sir John Sidney, and had issue.

Elizabeth, married to Thomas Guy, esq.

The youngest son and eventual heir,

MATTHEW HUNTLEY, esq. of Boxwell, married twice. By his first wife, Jane Algini, he had a son, MATTHEW, his heir; and by his second wife, Frances, daughter of Sir George Snigge, knight, Baron of the Exchequer, GEORGE, successor to his brother, several other sons who died issueless, and four daughters—Alice, married 4th November, 1649, to John Wynyard, esq. of Westminster; Frances, who died unm.; Anne, the wife of Thomas Smith, gent.; and Margaret, of George Lyte, esq. of Leighterton. Mr. Huntley died in 1653, was buried at Boxwell, 3rd October in that year, and succeeded by his son,

MATTHEW HUNTLEY, esq. baptized at Boxwell in 1613, at whose decease, without issue, the estates devolved upon his brother,

GEORGE HUNTLEY, esq. of Boxwell, who wedded Silvester, dau. and heir of Edward Wykes, esq. of Wells and Shiplate, in Somersetshire, and by her, who died 25th February, 1675, had issued, MATTHEW, his heir; Henry, died in infancy; Wykes, LL.B. rector of Boxwell, married and had children; and Henrietta. The eldest son,

MATTHEW HUNTLEY, esq. of Boxwell, was summoned by the heralds at the visitation in 1682. He married Elizabeth, dau. of John Chandler, esq. of Aldermanbury, and eventually one of the coheirs of the Rt. Rev. Dr. Chandler, bishop of Durham, by whom he had issue,

i. RICHARD, his heir.

ii. Matthew, b. in 1693.

i. Rose, b. in 1691.

ii. Elizabeth, married to T. Johnston, merchant, of Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

* By the Lady Mary Gower, his wife, eldest daughter of John, first Earl Gower.

Lineage.

"The ancestors of the different families of the name of PATRICK who now hold property in Ayrshire (says Robertson), were settled, and held situations about the monastery of Kilwinning, long prior to the Reformation." John Patrick attests, as a notary public, a charter connected with the church, dated 19th July, 1459, afterwards ratified in parliament; and William Patrick is a subscribing witness to a tack of the teinds of Dalry, granted by Alexander, commendator of Kilwinning, to John Hamilton, in 1549. The PATRICKS, becoming early converts to the Protestant religion, joined the reformers under the Earl of Glencairn; and some of them, accompanying the expedition to the north of Ireland under Hugh Montgomery, of Broadstane, afterwards Viscount Ardes, who, as expressed in his patent from JAMES VI. 'brought a colony of Scots into Clandebora and Ardes toward the increase of the restored religion,' settled in that country, where their descendants still possess property, near Derry."

JOHN PATRICK (son of William Patrick, who obtained a grant of the lands of Overmains, near Kilwinning, from the monastery) acquired by charter, in 1605, the estate of Byres, in Ayrshire, and subsequently part of the lands of Dalgargen. He died in 1638, leaving five sons,

1. HEW, his heir.
11. Robert, infest in part of Dalgargen.
- III. James, infest in another part of Dalgargen in 1638, who married Agnes Finlay, and left six sons, all of whom after his death assumed the surname of KILPATRICK, viz.
 1. THOMAS, his heir.
 2. Hew, minister of Cumnock.
 3. John, of Castleton.
 4. James, minister of Pennycuik, in Mid Lothian, whose daughter,

Christian, married Sir John Clerk, bart. of Pennycuik.

5. Robert, a writer in Edinburgh.
6. William, minister of Antrim, Ireland.

The eldest son,

THOMAS KILPATRICK, a merchant, acquired the lands of Dalga from his cousin, James Patrick, of Overmains, and also the lands of Whitehirst. He married in 1666, Janet, daughter of John Park, of Mosscollock, and was succeeded by his son,

JOHN KILPATRICK, for some time settled as a merchant in Elsinneur, who married first, Miss Morris, of Kilmarnock, and by her had two sons, JOHN, his heir, and William, who died s. p. He wedded secondly, in 1713, Anna, daughter of Alexander Hamilton, brother of Hamilton of Grange, by whom he had a daughter, HELEN. His elder son,

JOHN KILPATRICK, succeeded in 1733, but died without issue, when the representation of this branch devolved on his sister, HELEN KILPATRICK, who married her cousin, JAMES PATRICK, esq. of Byres.

- IV. John, infest in 1638 in part of Byres, who married Agnes Dockson, of Doura, in Kilwinning parish, and had two sons,

1. JAMES, heir to his father in 1670, whose son,

JAMES PATRICK, esq. was living (a child) in 1697. He was s. by his son,

JAMES PATRICK, esq. of Byres, who m. his cousin, Helen Kilpatrick, of Dalga and Whitehirst, and left, with a daughter, the wife of Captain Hannah, a son and heir, JAMES PATRICK, esq. of Byres, Whitehirst, and Dalga.

2. ROBERT, who was tenant on the farm of Clincart on the estate of Blair. He married, and had a daughter, Barbara, the wife of John Conn, and a son,

JOHN PATRICK, of Clincart, father of

ROBERT PATRICK, living in 1715, who purchased the lands of Burnhouse, in Beith, Ayrshire. He died in 1771, and was succeeded by his son, ROBERT PATRICK, who acquired, in 1764, the lands of Ward and Thirdpart, in the parish of Dalry. He m. Margaret, daughter of Robert Montgomery, of Broadlie, and left, with two daughters, six sons, viz.

ROBERT, of Wards, who married in 1810, Jean, daughter of John Kirkwood, of Kersland, and has issue.

JAMES, of Thirdpart.

John, who died in 1803.

Hugh, who died in Jamaica in 1805.

David, farmer in Ward.

v. Alexander, who married Joanna, only daughter of William Greg, esq. of Ballygellie, in the county of Antrim, Ireland.

The eldest son,

HEW PATRICK, succeeded his father at Overmains in 1638. He married Janet Craufurd, and had three sons, viz.

JAMES, his heir, of Overmains, whose retour is dated 13th April, 1658. He appears to have alienated his patrimony, and to have died without issue.

ROBERT, of whom presently.

Hew, a clergyman, who is a subscribing witness to a charter of the lands of Trearne, 7th November, 1663.

The second son,

ROBERT PATRICK, acquired from Hugh, Earl of Eglington, the lands of Waterside, in the lordship of Giffen, and parish of Beith, Ayrshire, which grant was confirmed by a charter from the crown, dated 31st August, 1663. He married, and had three sons,

Mr. Wingfield, who is in the commission of the peace and lieutenancy for the county of Rutland, succeeded his father 14th June, 1773.

Lineage.

"Wingfield," saith Anstis, in his elaborate Register of the order of the Garter, "is a manor with an half ruined castle, in Suffolk, which, as Mr. Camden writes, gave both a name and a seat to a large family in those parts famous for their knighthood and ancient nobility; but though in all probability the name might be originally taken from thence, yet till some further discoveries be made, it may be doubted whether it was the seat of this family before the time of Sir John Wingfield, since the patronage and advowson of that place was in Sir Richard Brews, in 1302, 1323, and 1329."

There are pedigrees of the WINGFIELDS, which give them possession of the castle of Wingfield, in the time of the CONQUEROR, but there is nothing to substantiate the fact.

ROBERT DE WINGFIELD, living in 1087, was father of

JOHN DE WINGFIELD, whose son,

ROBERT DE WINGFIELD, wedded Joan, daughter of John Falstaff, or Fastolf, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS DE WINGFIELD, who left, by Alice, his wife, daughter of Nicholas de Weyland, a son and heir,

JOHN DE WINGFIELD, who m. Anne, daughter of Sir John Peache, and had four sons, namely,

i. Roger, } both died issueless.

ii. Giles, }

iii. JOHN (Sir).

iv. Richard, lord of the manor and patron of the rectory of Denington. in Suffolk, anno 1342. His son,

SIR WILLIAM WINGFIELD, was patron of the same church, in 1349, and 1355, and sate in parliament for Suffolk, in the 2nd, 6th, 7th, and 10th RICHARD II. He married twice, but died s. p. 1st July, 1398, and was buried at Denington, near Framlingham, under a grave stone in the chancel, ornamented with his effigy in armour, the feet resting on a lion.

The third son,

SIR JOHN DE WINGFIELD, espoused the daughter and heir of — Honeypot, and had issue,

i. JOHN (Sir), a soldier of high reputation in the martial reign of EDWARD

III. and chief counsellor of the Black Prince, many years before 1355, when he accompanied that illustrious Plantagenet upon the expedition to Languedoc, so amply detailed by the old chronicler, AVESBURY, who has preserved some letters of Sir John Wingfield, descriptive of the military operations during the campaign, and from whom they have been published, by HOLINGSHEAD. Of the irruption into Languedoc, Sir John gives a very circumstantial narrative in two of those letters, one addressed to a "Right Honourable Lord," whose name is not mentioned; the other to Sir Richard de Stafford, knt. one of his companions in arms. This is dated from Leybourne, 22nd January, and that from Bourdeaux, the Wednesday before Christmas, "We follow him from Bourdeaux, through Armagnac to Plaisance, and to St. Matan, 'a town as large as Norwyche,' to Toulouse and Casca-son, 'greater, stronger, and finer than Everwyk (York),' to Narbonne, 'little less than London, and lying upon the Sea of Grece.'

In 1355, Sir John Wingfield had a grant of free warren, in Wingfield, Silham, Esham, Trisingfield, Weybrede, Surfield, and Saxmondham, in Suffolk. He m. Alianore,* daughter of Sir Gilbert de Glanville, and had an only daughter and heiress, KATHERINE, m. to Sir Michael de la Pole, first EARL OF SUFFOLK, (see BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Peerage.)

II. THOMAS (Sir).

III. William, living in 1378.

The male line of Sir John Wingfield, the ELDEST son failing, the family was continued by the SECOND son,

SIR THOMAS WINGFIELD, who acquired, before the 38th EDWARD III. by his marriage with MARGARET, daughter and heir of WILLIAM BOVILE, and widow of William Carbonel, the lands of Letheringham, in Suffolk, in the church of which place, himself and several of his descendants lie interred. Sir Thomas made his will, 17th July, 1378, wherein he directs, that he be buried in the choir of that priory, and that the sum of £46. 13s. 4d. be expended on his funeral. He devises to his, amongst other bequests, twelve silver spoons and six pieces of plate, inscribed with the coat armour of BREWS,* on condition that those articles should not be sold or alienated, but remain with his heirs for ever. By the heiress of Letheringham, Sir Thomas had a daughter, Margaret, m. to Sir Thomas Haddell, and a son, his successor,

SIR JOHN WINGFIELD, of Letheringham, M.P. for Suffolk, in the 7th RICHARD II. who received the honor of knighthood, and presented to the Free Chapel of Stradbroke, in 1389. He m. Margaret, daughter of Sir Hugh Hastings, knt. of Elsing, in Norfolk, and had a son,

SIR ROBERT WINGFIELD, of Letheringham. This gentleman m. Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Russell, knt. of Strens- ham, in the county of Worcester, and had issue,

ROBERT, his heir.

William.

Anne.

Margaret, a nun.

He d. 3rd May, 1409, and was s. by his elder son,

SIR ROBERT WINGFIELD, of Letheringham, M.P. for Suffolk, in the 6th HENRY VI. from which monarch he had received two years before, the honor of knighthood, at Hereford. Sir Robert became steward to John de Mowbray, DUKE OF NORFOLK. He m. Elizabeth, daughter and co-heir of Sir Robert Gousell,† of Hoveringham, by whom he had issue,

I. JOHN (Sir), of Letheringham, sheriff of Norfolk and Suffolk, in the 23rd HENRY VI. and again in the 12th EDWARD IV. He was made a knight of the Bath, at the Tower of London, in 1461, and in 1477, was joined in commission with the bishop of Bath and Wells, and others, to treat with the ambassadors of France, at Amiens. Sir John espoused Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Fitz Lewis,

* Another proof of the soundness of Mr. Anstis's supposition.

† By his wife, the LADY ELIZABETH FITZ-ALAN, (Sir Robert Gousell was her third husband), eldest daughter of Richard, tenth EARL OF ARUNDEL, and sister and co-heir of Thomas, ELEVENTH EARL. This lady had previously married WILLIAM DE MONTACUTE, only child of William, second earl of Salisbury, and became a widow, by the accidental death of her husband, in a tilting at Windsor, in the 8th RICHARD II. by the hand of his own father. She wedded, secondly, Thomas de Mowbray, earl marshal and duke of Norfolk, and her eldest daughter, the Lady Margaret Mowbray, marrying Sir John Howard, the great wealth and high honours of the Mowbrays and Fitz Alans, eventually centred in the Howards

* Of this lady, ANSTIS observes that "there is an appearance she was daughter of Sir Richard de Brews, who not only presented to several churches immediately before the advowsons thereof came into this family, but the same lady, being co-executrix to her husband's will, ordered on the foundation of the collegiate church, at Wingfield, in 1362, prayers for the soul of Sir Richard de Brews, there named immediately after the father and mother of her deceased husband."

knt. of West Horndon, in Essex, and dying in 1481, left (with three daughters, Anne, the wife of John Erchingham; Elizabeth, a nun; and Catharine, married to Robert Brewes), twelve sons, viz.

WINGFIELD, OF ONSLOW.

WINGFIELD, JOHN, esq. of Onslow, in the county of Salop, b. 18th July, 1769, m. 17th October, 1811, Mary-Anne, only daughter of the late Rev. John Roche, of Shrewsbury, rector and lord of the manor of Clungunford.

This gentleman, who s. his father 10th August, 1818, entered the army in 1788, and after serving twenty years in the 4th regiment of Dragoons, retired, in 1808, with the rank of lieutenant-colonel. Colonel Wingfield was high sheriff of Shropshire in 1824, and is now (1834) mayor of Shrewsbury.

Lineage.

ANTHONY WINGFIELD, of Glossop, in the county of Derby, is called in the family pedigree (we quote Blakeway's Sheriffs of Salop) sixth son of Sir Robert Wingfield, of Letheringham, and consequently uncle to the twelve brothers. Mr. Anstis states the sixth son of Sir Robert to be Sir Henry, who was seated at Orford; and we have a very full account of the will of William Wingfield, Sir Robert's fifth son, in which he mentions his brother Thomas, his nephews, and niece, Humphrey, Robert, and Anne, and others, and his great nephew, Edmund; but gives no hint of any brother Anthony, or the descendants of such brother. But Sir Henry, of Orford aforesaid, had a son, Robert Wingfield, of Upton, in the parish of Castre, in the county of Northampton, ancestor of the Wingfields of Upton, Orford, and of Tickencote, in Rutlandshire, and he may have been father of Anthony. Anthony's son,

WILLIAM WINGFIELD, of Ashley Hey, in Derbyshire, was father of

WILLIAM WINGFIELD, of Ashley Hey, whose son,

THOMAS WINGFIELD, removed to Loughborough, in the county of Leicester, and engaged in commercial pursuits. He left a son,

THOMAS WINGFIELD, who, settling in Shrewsbury, became a burgess in 1608, and eventually an alderman. He served the office of bailiff in 1617 and 1623, and of mayor in 1640. Mr. Alderman Wingfield wedded a daughter of John Hunt, uncle of Col. Thomas Hunt, and had two sons,

SAMUEL, his heir.

John, who purchased the estate of Alderton, in the parish of Great Ness, Salop. His son and heir,

JONATHAN, was father of

THOMAS WINGFIELD, esq. who was s. by his son,

THOMAS WINGFIELD, esq. who alienated the Alderton estate. He m. Alicia, daughter and co-heir of Methusalem Jones, esq. of Underdale, in Salop, by Mary his wife, daughter of Thomas Wingfield, esq. of Preston Brockhurst, and died 22nd May, 1801, aged eighty, having had issue,

1. THOMAS, who m. Ann, daughter of William Griffiths, esq. of Woodgate, in Shropshire, but died s. p. 19th August, 1812.

2. John, in holy orders, vicar of Montford, in Salop, and of St. Issey, in Cornwall, who wedded Martha, sister of the late James Humphreys, esq. of Lincoln's Inn, barrister-at-law, and dying 8th September, 1830, aged seventy-five, left issue,

CHARLES, who m. 22nd September, 1819, Anna, second daughter of Peter Whitfield-

Brancher, esq. of Oxford.

Mary.

1. Alicia, died 19th
March, 1800.

The elder son of Alderman Wingfield,

SAMUEL WINGFIELD, esq. was admitted a member of Magdalen College, Oxford, in 1623, and of Gray's Inn, in 1637. He m. a daughter of Sir Richard Prince, of the Abbey Foregate, in Shrewsbury, high sheriff of Shropshire in 1627, and seated himself at Preston Brockhurst; of this acquisition Gough, in his History of Middle, gives the following account. "The parliament, after bringing King CHARLES to the block, voted that all persons who had adhered to the king's party should be proceeded against as traitors to the commonwealth of England. But there came a little sprinkle of mercy for them; which was, that every such person should be acquitted on paying a certain sum of money for his composition; and now Sir Vincent Corbett, of Moreton Corbett, who had been a loyal subject to his majesty, was put to pay a great sum for his ransom; for raising whereof he sold several lands in Preston Brockhurst, and, among the rest, one very good farm (which had been held for several generations by the family of the Dawsons, gentlemen of good account) to Mr. Wingfield, of Shrewsbury, who pulled down the hall, and built there a fair hall of free stone, and therein his son, Thomas Wingfield, esq. now dwelleth." Mr. Wingfield (the purchaser of Preston Brockhurst) was s. by his son,

THOMAS WINGFIELD, esq. of Preston Brockhurst, in the parish of Shawbury, who served the office of high sheriff of Shropshire in 1692. He m. Anne, daughter of William Borlase, esq. of Great Marlow, Bucks, by his wife, the daughter of Chief Justice (Sir John) Banks, whose lady distinguished herself by her intrepid defence of Corfe Castle against the parliamentary forces, and had (with other issue) a son and successor,

BORLASE WINGFIELD, esq. of Preston Brockhurst, who espoused Ellen, sister of Sir Rowland Hill, bart. sheriff of Shropshire in 1732, and had issue,

ROWLAND, his heir.

Borlase, in holy orders, A.M. rector of Bolas, in Salop.

Jane, m. first, in 1753, to Anthony Kynnersley, esq. of Leighton, and secondly to John Ashby, esq. of Linches, in the county of Salop.

Mary, m. to John Rocke, esq. of Trefnanney, in the county of Montgomery, and of Shrewsbury.

Margaret, m. to Edmund Littlehales, esq. of Shrewsbury.

The elder son and heir,

ROWLAND WINGFIELD, esq. of Preston Brockhurst, b. in 1728, was educated at Westminster School, and admitted of Oriel College, Oxford, in 1746. This gentleman purchased the estate of Onslow, in Shropshire, (formerly the property of the noble family of Onslow, which thence derived its name and title) and served the office of high sheriff of that county in 1753. He wedded 23rd June, 1764, Mary, sixth daughter of Sir Walter Wagstaffe Bagot, bart. of Blithfield, in Staffordshire, by the Lady Barbara Legge, his wife, eldest daughter of William, Earl of Dartmouth, and by her, who died 21st March, 1813, had four sons and two daughters, viz.

1. JOHN, his heir.

11. Charles, M. A. of Trinity College, Cambridge, now of The Gro, near Newtown, in the county of Montgomery, rector of Llanllwchaearn, in that shire, b. 24th August, 1770, m. 27th January, 1829, Emma, fourth daughter of the late Richard Jenkins, esq. of Bieton, and sister of Richard Jenkins, esq. now a director of the East India Company, and late M.P. for Shrewsbury, and has issue,

1. John, b. 14th November, 1829.

2. Charles-George, b. 21st April, 1833.

1. Emma-Mary-Anne.

111. Rowland, M. A. of Christchurch College, Oxford, now of Rhysnant, in the county of Montgomery, vicar Rhuabon, in Denbighshire, b. 11th February, 1775, m. 5th September, 1799, Margaret, only daughter and heiress of Clopton Prhys, esq. of Llandrinio Hall, in Montgomeryshire, and has three sons, viz.

1. Clopton-Lewis, b. 9th July, 1800, m. 12th January, 1833, Jane-Eliza, eldest daughter of Colonel Michell, commanding the royal artillery, Upper Canada, and has a son, Walter-Clopton, b. 16th October, 1833.

2. Watkin, b. 7th June, 1803.

3. Rowland, b. 15th June, 1808.

ton Brockhurst,* in order to increase his property in the immediate neighbourhood of his mansion.

Seat—Onslow, near Shrewsbury.

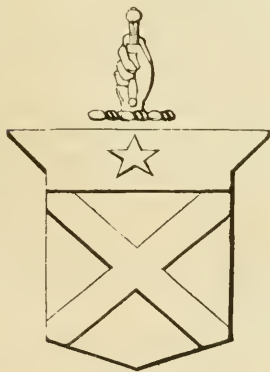

* By this sale an opportunity was afforded to, and embraced by, the present Sir Andrew Corbet, bart. to purchase, and thereby restore to the estate from whence it had been severed by the exactions of the anti-monarchy men of the seventeenth century, this portion of the patrimony of his ancestors.

BRUCE, OF KENNET.

BRUCE, ROBERT, esq. of Kennet, in the shire of Clackmannan, b. 8th December, 1795, m. 12th April, 1825, Anne, eldest daughter of the late William Murray, esq. of Touchadam and Polmaise, in Stirlingshire.

This gentleman, a captain in the Grenadier Guards, served in the Peninsula and at Waterloo. He succeeded his father in July, 1808; and, as heir male and of line to Sir Robert de Bruys, of Clackmannan, who died in 1405, claims to be the chief of all the Bruces in Scotland. He is a deputy lieutenant for the county of Clackmannan.

Lineage.

ROBERT DE BRUS, a noble Norman knight, the first on record of this great and patriotic family, attending the conqueror into England, was of such high estimation, that WILLIAM, after the victory at Hastings, commissioned him to subdue the northern parts of England. He first possessed the manor and castle of Skelton, in Yorkshire, and Hert and Hertness, in the bishopric of Durham, and soon increased his property in the former shire to such an extent that before the end of the conqueror's reign, he had acquired no fewer than ninety-four lordships in that county.

The eldest branch of his descendants, the Lords of Skelton,* expired, in the male line, with Peter de Brus, who died without issue, temp. EDWARD I. leaving his four sisters, Margaret, the wife of Robert de Roos; Agnes, of Walter de Fauconberg; Lucy, of Marmaduke de Thweng, and Laderine, of John de Bellew, his co-heirs, (See BURKE'S Extinct Peerage). From a younger son of Robert de Brus, son of the Norman knight, sprang the Scottish BRUCES, the Bruces of Annandale, the illustrious progenitors of ROBERT BRUCE, King of Scotland.

SIR ROBERT DE BRUYS, of Clackmannan, descended from a scion of Annandale, obtained from King DAVID BRUCE, son of King ROBERT, a charter "dilecto et fideli consanguineo suo Roberto Bruis" of the castle and manor of Clackmannan, dated 9th De-

* Henry de Percy had in marriage with Isabel, daughter of Adam de Brus, fourth Lord of Skelton, the manor of Lokin-field, near Beverley, in Yorkshire, for which he and his heirs were to repair to Skelton Castle every Christmas day, and lead the lady of the castle from her chamber to the chapel to mass, and thence to her chamber again, and after dining with her, to depart.

cember, 1359. Sir Robert died about the year 1390, and was s. by his son,

SIR ROBERT DE BRUYS, second baron of Clackmannan, who wedded a daughter of Sir John Scrimgeour, of Dudhope, and died in 1405, leaving two sons, DAVID (Sir), his successor, and third baron of Clackmannan.

THOMAS.

To his second son,

THOMAS DE BRUYS, Sir Robert granted the lands of Wester Kennet, Pitfolden, and Cruickitlands, in the shire of Clackmannan, by his charter wherein Thomas is designed, dilectus filius meus, dated 8th May, 1389, confirmed by another under the great seal from King ROBERT III. dated 18th February, 1399. The Laird of Kennet died temp. JAMES I. and was s. by his son,

THOMAS BRUCE, of Kennet, who obtained from John Bruce, fourth baron of Clackmannan, grandson of Sir Robert, a charter of confirmation, dated 2nd May, 1428, of all the lands contained in the previous grant. He died about the close of the reign of JAMES II. and was s. by his son,

DAVID BRUCE, of Kennet, who wedded Agnes Redhach, and had a son, DAVID, his heir. This laird d. in the beginning of JAMES the Fourth's reign, as appears by a perambulation of the marches, wherein is mentioned Agnes Redhach, relict of the deceased David Bruce, of Kennet, &c. dated 17th May, 1496. His son and heir,

DAVID BRUCE, of Kennet, living in the reign of JAMES IV. and JAMES V. married and had two sons, PATRICK, his heir, and Thomas, to whom he gave part of his lands, which appears by a sasine, from this David Bruce of Kennet, to his son, Thomas, of some rigs of land on the south side of Kennet Hill, dated 24th April, 1543. Soon after David Bruce died, and was s. by his son,

PATRICK BRUCE, of Kennet, who was infeft in the lands of Wester Kennet, Pitfolden, and Cruiket, as heir to his father, 26th May, 1547. His elder son,

JOHN BRUCE, of Kennet, dying shortly after his father, without issue, the estates passed to his brother,

ROBERT BRUCE, of Kennet, served heir 13th June, 1556, who m. a daughter of Andrew Kinniumont, of that ilk, an ancient family in Fifeshire, and had an only daughter and heiress,

MARGARET BRUCE, of Kennet, who wedded Archibald Bruce, son of the deceased David Bruce,* of Green, and had a son,

ROBERT BRUCE, of Kennet, served heir to his mother, 6th February, 1589. He espoused by contract, 30th July, 1599, Elizabeth, daughter of Alexander Gall, of Maw, in Fifeshire, and left a son and successor,

ROBERT BRUCE, of Kennet, who acquired, in 1642, the lands of Easter Kennet from Sir Robert Bruce, of Clackmannan, by whom they had been purchased from John Hay, of Easter Kennet, for the behoof of the said Robert. He likewise obtained a charter, dated in 1648, of the barony of Shanbody, comprehending the lands of Hartshaw, Craigton, Gartlet, and all in Clackmannanshire. Robert Bruce wedded Agnes, daughter of Patrick Murray, of Perdwie, by Margaret Colville, his wife, daughter of Lord Colville, of Culross, and had issue,

I. DAVID, his heir.

II. Alexander, who got from his father in patrimony, the lands of Gartlet, by charter dated 2nd March, 1670.

I. JOHN, of Clackmannan.

II. Edward (Sir), ancestor of the Earls of JAMES BRUCE, of Kennet. This gentleman, adopting a military life, obtained, when very young, by his merit alone, the command of a company of foot, in the service of the Marquess of Brandenburg. In 1688, he attended the Prince of Orange to England, in 1689 was appointed captain in the Earl of Leven's regiment of foot, and eventually, after serving many years with high reputation, attained the rank of brigadier-general. He wedded, in 1690, Mary, daughter of Sir Alexander Swinton, of Mersington, one of the senators of the college of justice, second son of Sir Alexander Swinton, of that Ilk, and had issue,

- i. ALEXANDER, his heir.
- ii. James, advocate before the court of session and master of the mint. He married and had children.
- iii. William-Henry, captain R.N. who espoused an English lady, but died issueless.
- iv. John, a churchman, m. Jean, dau. of James Bruce, of Powforls, and had issue.
 - i. Alice, m. to George Dundas, of Dundas, (see vol. i. p. 645.)
 - ii. Mary.
 - iii. Jean, m. to John Edgar, esq. advocate, and had issue.

Brigadier-General Bruce died in August, 1728, and was s. by his son, ALEXANDER BRUCE, of Kennet, who served several campaigns with reputation in Flanders, during Queen Anne's wars, and was appointed, in 1715, major of the regiment raised, in support of the government, by the town of Glasgow. He married in 1714, Mary, second daughter of Robert Balfour, fourth Lord Burleigh, by the Lady Margaret Melville his wife, daughter of George, Earl of Melville, and had issue to survive infancy,

ROBERT, his heir.

Margaret, m. to Sir Lawrence Dundas, bart. of Kerse, and had issue.

Major Bruce died in 1747, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT BRUCE, esq. of Kennet, an eminent lawyer, appointed, in 1764, one of the senators of the College of Justice, under the title of Lord Kennet. He espoused, in 1754, Helen, daughter of George Abercromby, esq. of Tullibody, and sister to General Sir Ralph Abercromby, by whom he had six sons and two daughters, viz.

- i. ALEXANDER, his heir.
- ii. Lawrence-Dundas.
- iii. James.
- iv. Thomas.
- v. Ralph.
- vi. Burnet.
- i. Mary.
- ii. Margaret, m. to Walter Watson, esq. of Southfield, in the county of Edinburgh.

Lord Kennet was s. by his eldest son,

ALEXANDER Bruce, esq. of Kennet, who m. 15th February, 1793, Miss H. Blackburn, daughter of Hugh Blackburn, esq. of Glasgow, and had issue,

- i. ROBERT, his heir.
- ii. George-Abercromby, b. 8th March, 1799, died in the West Indies, March, 1817, unmarried.
- iii. Hugh, b. 10th January, 1800, advocate at the Scottish bar.
- iv. Lawrence-Dundas, b. 16th November, 1800, midshipman, died at Deptford, in November, 1817, unmarried.
- v. William, of Leith, born 8th April, 1807.
- i. Helen.
- ii. Margaret.

Alexander Bruce died in July, 1808, and was s. by his son, the present ROBERT BRUCE, esq. of Kennet.

TATE, OF BURLEIGH PARK.

TATE, MARY, of Burleigh Park, in the county of Leicester, and of Langdown, in the parish of Dibdin, Hants.

Miss Tate inherited the estates upon the demise of her father in 1822.

Lineage.

This family is mentioned in deeds relating to Coventry, as early as the reign of HENRY III.; and in the church of St. Michael, in that city, was a chauntry, founded by one of them, called Tate's Chauntry, the priest of which was paid yearly by the company of Dyers, in London.

JOHN TATE,* of Coventry, held lands in the reign of RICHARD II. at Whitley, near that town, which continued with his descendants for many generations. He was succeeded by his son,

JOHN TATE, of Coventry, who had also lands near Coleshill, in Warwickshire. He left, by Margaret, his wife, two sons,

THOMAS, his heir.

John (Sir), knt. sheriff of London, in 1464, and lord mayor, in 1473, who was father of John, citizen and mercer, who died in 1507, and was buried at the church of St. Dunstan's in the East, leaving, by Elizabeth, his wife, two sons, Robert.

Thomas.

The elder son,

THOMAS TATE, was styled of Calais, merchant of the Staple. He left two sons,

1. ROBERT (Sir), knt. sheriff of London, in 1481, and lord mayor, in 1488, who held the manor of Stockbury, in Kent, and founded a chauntry at Allhallows Barking, where he was buried. He wedded Margery, daughter of Richard Wood, mayor of Coventry, (by Margery, his wife, who married secondly, Sir William Taylor,† knt. lord mayor of London) and by her, who died in 1511, and was interred at Allhallows Barking, left issue,

1. JOHN, his heir.

2. Richard (Sir), knt. ambassador from HENRY VIII. who had a grant of the Cluniac cell, at Monks Horton, in Kent, at the dissolution. He d. 27th March, 1554, s. p. and was buried at Allhallows Stayning.

3. Robert, held lands at Wantage, Chaddleworth, &c. in the county of Berks. He d. s. p. in 1508.

1. Margery.

2. Bridget, m. to John Paucefort, esq. of Hasfield, in the county of Gloucester, (see p. 75) and was mother of Eleanor, who m. her cousin, Bartholomew Tate, esq.

3. Elizabeth, m. to John Beaufoy, esq. of Edmonscote, in Warwickshire, and died in 1516, leaving issue.

Sir Robert's son and heir,

JOHN TATE, esq. of Clerkenwell, had lands at Woolley, parish of Chaddleworth, &c. in the county of Berks. He m. Margaret, daughter of — Fitzherbert, esq. and had issue,

Francis, } who both died s. p.
Jeremy, } and thus terminated the male line of Sir Robert.

* This pedigree is principally compiled from a MS. volume, begun by MAWSON, Portcullis, and continued by WARBURTON, Somerset Herald, at whose death it was probably sold.

† Knighted in the field by EDWARD IV. for opposing Falconbridge.

Margaret, m. to Edward Tyrrell, esq. of Beches, in Essex, and d. in the Tower of London, without issue.

John Tate died in 1521.

11. JOHN (Sir), of whose line we are about to treat.

The second son,

SIR JOHN TATE, knt. sheriff of London, in 1485, and lord mayor, in 1496, was knighted, by HENRY VII. at the foot of London bridge, for service done against the rebels at Blackheath. He m. Magdalen, daughter of — Harpden, of Wales, and by her, who d. in 1517, had issue,

1. THOMAS, who left, by Elizabeth, his wife, one son, Anthony, who d. s. p. and a daughter, Margaret, the wife of Rowland Lytton, esq. of Knebworth, governor of Boulogne, (see vol. i. p. 447).

11. ANTHONY.*

111. BARTHOLOMEW (Sir), made heir to his father's lands.

Sir John Tate died 1514, and was buried at St. Anthony's Church, Threadneedle Street, to which he was a great benefactor. His third son,

SIR BARTHOLOMEW TATE, knt.† inherited his father's landed estates, was vice marshal of Calais, and received the honour of knighthood from HENRY VIII. He purchased the monastery and lands of De la Pré Abbey, in the county of Northampton, soon after the dissolution. He m. Anne, daughter of Lawrence Saunders, of Harrington, in Northants, and relict of — Wadham, esq. by whom he had issue,

1. BARTHOLOMEW, his heir.

11. ANTHONY, ancestor of the TATES OF BURLEIGH, of whom hereafter.

Sir Bartholomew died in 1533, and was s. by his son,

BARTHOLOMEW TATE, esq. of De la Pré Abbey, M.P. for Coventry, in 1572, who m. first, his cousin, Eleanor, daughter of John Pauncefoot, esq. of Hasfield, by whom he had no issue; and secondly, Dorothy, daughter of Francis Tanfield, esq. of Gayton, in the county of Northampton, by whom, who died in 1591, he had four sons and four daughters, viz.

1. WILLIAM (Sir), his heir.

11. Francis, of the Middle Temple, baptized 1560, M.P. successively for Northampton and Shrewsbury, a learned lawyer and antiquary, d. in 1617, s. p.

111. Bartholomew, } died young.
111. Lewis,

1. Dorothy, m. to Robert Tanfield, esq. of Gayton, and had issue.

11. Jane, m. to Richard Fitzherbert, esq. of Shilton, in the county of Leicester, and had issue.

111. Anne, m. to Sir Thomas Tresham, knt. of Newton, in the county of Northampton, and had issue.

111. Martha, m. to Sir John Ouseley, knt. of Courtenhall, in the county of Northampton, and had issue. The present SIR GORE OUSELEY, bart. is a descendant of this marriage.

Bartholomew Tate died in 1601, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM TATE, knt. of De la Pré Abbey, and of Whitley, in the county of Warwick, M.P. for Corfe Castle, in 1592, who m. at Hackney, in 1597, Elizabeth, eldest daughter (and co-heir with her sister, Mary,) of Edward, eleventh and last Baron Zouche, of Haryngworth, St. Maur, and Lovel of Cary,* and by her, who died in 1617, had issue,

* This ancient and noble family was descended in the male line from the sovereign princes of Brittany. CONAN le Tort, Count of Rennes, slain at the battle of Conquereux, in 992, married into the house of Anjou, and became the root of the several branches. The representation of the elder branch, or immediate line of Brittany, was carried by females through the houses of Cornuailles, Thouars, and Dreux, to the house of Bourbon, and to this belonged the celebrated EARL ALAN, who having married the daughter of the Conqueror, commanded the Reserve, at the battle of Hastings, and received the honour of Richmond, together with other extensive grants. A younger son of Conan, Count of Rennes, became the ancestor of the line of Porhoët and Josselin, the castle at which latter place was built by his son. Eudo, his grandson, viscount of Rennes, and count of Porhoët, accompanied the Conqueror, and from him descended the Princes of Rohan and Soubise, of whom the French genealogists observe,—"qu'il n'y a gueres de maisons, quelques grandes qu'elles soient, qui puissent se flatter d'établir une origine, et une descendance telle que celle ci-dessus rapportée de la maison de Rohan."

Alan de Porhoët, Count of Brittany, one of the grandsons of Eudo, having intermarried, about the time of HENRY II. with the heiress of Ashby, in the county of Leicester, adopted the surname of SOUCHE, or ZOUCHE, signifying the root or stock of a tree, by reason of his becoming the founder of an English family. Camden notices this in the

† See his letter to Wolsey concerning a supply of waggons, &c. for the expedition to Picardy, under the Duke of Suffolk, in 1523. (Caligula E. 1. 28.)

Thomas Powle, clerk of the crown, comptroller of the Hanaper, and high-steward to Queen Elizabeth, of the Essex lands, d. in 1601, aged 88, having married Jane Tate, of an ancient family. She died in 1577, aged 57. (Stowe.)

following line, applied to William la Zouche, Archbishop of York:

"Et pater invictus sicco de stipite dictus."

The elder branch, which was seated at Ashby-de-la-Zouche, became extinct in the male line, in the reign of EDWARD II. but a co-heirship passed through the baronial family of St. Maur, by marriage to the Zouches of Harringworth. The coat of the Zouches, of Ashby, is thus recorded in the roll of Carlaweroc, in 1300;

"Aleyn de la Zouche tresor
Signefioit ke fut brisans
Sa rouge baniere o besans
Car bien sai kil a spendu
Tresour plus ke en bourse pendu."

Eudo, a younger son of Alan la Zouche, of Ashby, (grandson of Alan de Porhoët, Count of Brittany, and grandfather to Alan, who was at the siege of Carlaweroc) having intermarried with Milicent de Cantalupe, heiress of Harringworth, in the county of Northampton, and niece of St. Thomas de Cantalupe, the canonized bishop of Hereford, became the ancestor of the Barons Zouche, of Harringworth. His descendants flourished for many generations, as peers of the realm, forming high alliances, holding vast possessions, but without attaining any great political pre-eminence in public life, if we except William la Zouche, the archbishop of York, who defeated the Scots, at Nevill's Cross, in 1342, son of the first lord; and Edward, the last lord, who, as warden of the Cinque Ports; a counsellor of state, and ambassador to Scotland, was a distinguished person at the courts of ELIZABETH and JAMES. William, the fifth lord, was with HENRY V. in France, and John, his grandson, having fought on the side of the one usurper, at Bosworth, was attainted and deprived of all his possessions by the other. The title and estate of Harringworth, &c. were ultimately restored, but Totnes castle, and other extensive properties, were alienated for ever, and the principal share of the plunder fell to Richard Edgumbe, esq. the new sovereign's favourite. George, Lord Zouche, the father of the last lord, is recorded by the grateful pen of Ben Jonson. He was the last of his race buried at Harringworth; and every vestige of the castellated mansion, the chapel and the monuments has been long since swept away. The very ruins have perished, and there is neither "tower" wherein the "owl may sing her watch song," nor stone on which the "spider may weave his web."

The magnificent living of the last lord, who was a distinguished patron of learned and scientific men, and the greatest horticulturist of his day, assisted, as his letters testify, to disencumber the family of its remaining possessions, and having

Sir William died in 1617,* and was succeeded by his son,

ZOUCHE TATE, esq. of De la Pré Abbey, born in 1606, M.P. for Northampton, in 1640. This gentleman took part against the crown, and was the mover of the self denying ordinance, in 1644. WILLIAM TATE, esq. of De la Pré Abbey, given his daughters a pittance of £2000 a piece, he endeavoured to secure an inheritance in the male line for his splendid mansion of Bramshill, in Hampshire, by bequeathing it to his cousin, Sir Edward Zouche, of Woking, in Surrey, the dissolute favorite of JAMES I. Soon after, as might be expected, Bramshill was sold, and the family fell into obscurity.

The barony remained in abeyance between the two daughters of the last lord. The last Mr. Tate, of De la Pré, on finding that he was the lineal representative of Lord Zouche's eldest daughter, and that of the youngest daughter no descendants could be traced, had prepared to petition for a resumption of the title, which was given, in 1816, to Sir Cecil Bishopp, bart. the representative of his eldest sister and co-heir. He possessed also an equal claim, which was not advanced, to the baronies of St. Maur, and Lovell of Cary.

* There is an altar tomb with a canopy surmounted by a crest, on the south side of the chancel, at Hardingstone, probably to the memory of Sir William, who left £100 for that purpose. The arms are obliterated and the brasses are gone.

† This was a very ancient family, and is now represented by Earl Howe. Sir William Allington, of Horseheath, is stated to have fallen at Bosworth, in combat with Richard. A marriage with the Argentines brought the manor of Wymondley, in Herts, into the family, which conferred the privilege of presenting the first cup to the king, at the coronation banquet. This manor was alienated soon after the death of the last Lord Allington.

* There would appear to be some confusion in this part of the descent. Warburton's book makes Bridget Tate the widow of Joshua Sacheverell, the father of the well-known Dr. Sacheverell. Now, as Henry Tate, of Burleigh, was born in 1653, and Dr. Sacheverell, in 1672,—that is impossible. It will be seen from the following monumental inscription, in the nave of Salisbury cathedral, to be equally unlikely, that Bridget Tate re-married Sacheverell's father:

Edward, m. the dau. of George Windham, of Wantage, and had issue.

JOSEPH, of whom hereafter.

Thomas, of the Inner Temple, b. 4th March, 1622, m. Judith, daughter of Sir William Boothby.

Timothy, in holy orders, b. 12th October, 1628, rector of Drayton, m. first Lettice, daughter of John Buckburg, and secondly, Frances, daughter of John Richardson, esq.

The third son,

JOSEPH FOX, esq. b. 27th February, 1617, held a major's commission in the army serving in Ireland. He m. the Honourable Thomasine Blayney, widow of Sir Henry Pierce, bt. and dau. of Henry, second Lord Blayney, by Jane his wife, dau. of Gerald Moore, Viscount Drogheda. By this lady he had, with four daughters, Penelope, wife of Hugh Morgan, esq. of Cotleystown, Mary, Jane, and Catherine, a son and successor,

HENRY FOX, esq. who espoused first, Jane, dau. of Robert Oliver, esq. of Clonodfoy, and had several sons, who all died young. He wedded secondly, in 1691, the Hon. FRANCES LANE, daughter of Sir George Lane, of Tuske, in Roscommon, principal secretary of state in Ireland, created Viscount Lanesborough, and sister and heiress of James, Viscount Lanesborough, who d. in 1724. By her Mr. Fox had issue,

Henry, who died young.

GEORGE, heir to his father.

James, who d. 22nd October, 1753, without issue. To this gentleman his grandmother, Viscountess Lanesborough, the youngest daughter of Richard, fifth Earl of Dorset, devised by her will, dated 8th December, 1719, all her Surrey estates, in remainder to Sackville-Fox, her youngest grandson. Mr. James Fox lies interred in the church of East Horsley, where his monumental inscription records that "he enjoyed a private life, endowed with all the qualifications requisite to adorn a public station. He was generous to the poor, kind to his dependants, and affable to all his acquaintance."

Sackville, who m. Ann, daughter of — Holloway, esq. of Birmingham, and dying 1st December, 1760, left a son, JAMES, heir to his uncle.

Denny-Henrietta, d. young.

Jane.

Frances.

Anne.

Mr. Fox was s. by his eldest son,

GEORGE FOX, esq. M.P. for the city of York, who inherited by will the great estates of Lord Lanesborough, and assumed by act of parliament, 22nd March, 1750-1, in accordance with the testator's injunction, the additional surname and arms of LANE. He wedded, in 1731, Harriet, daughter and sole heiress of the Right Hon. Robert Benson, Lord Bingley,* and was created on the extinction of his father-in-law's peerage, in May, 1762, BARON BINGLEY, of Bingley, in the county of York. His lordship had an only son, ROBERT, b. 5th August, 1732, who m. first Mildred, daughter and heir of John Bouchier, esq. of Beningborough, and secondly, the Lady Bridget Henley, eldest dau. of Robert, Earl of Northington, lord chancellor of England, but predeceased his father, issueless, in May, 1768. His widow m. secondly, Hon. John Tal-mash.

Lord Bingley d. in 1772, and having survived his only child, devised his great estates in England and Ireland to his nephew,

* ROBERT BENSON, Baron Bingley, was son of Robert Benson, esq. of Wrenthorn, in the county of York, by Dorothy his wife, dau. of Tobias Jenkins, esq. son of Sir Henry Jenkins, of Grimstone, county of York, knt. whose lady married, secondly, Sir Henry Bellasis, of Brancepeth Castle, county of Durham. Mr. Benson was eminently distinguished in several parliaments, and particularly in that of 1710, when he represented the city of York. He was appointed a commissioner of the treasury, subsequently Chancellor of the Exchequer, and upon his resignation created, 21st July, 1713, BARON BINGLEY. His lordship afterwards proceeded to the Spanish court, as ambassador from Queen ANNE, and eventually became Treasurer of the Household to GEORGE II. For these eminent services he obtained by grant from the crown a large tract of land in Yorkshire, called Bramham Moor, whereon he erected the magnificent mansion of Bramham Park. The grounds, which were planned by an Italian, are curiously beautiful, very extensive, and opening into a fine deer park. His lordship m. the Lady Elizabeth Finch, daughter of Heneage, Earl of Aylesford, and dying 9th April, 1730, left an only daughter, HARRIET, inheritor of her father's vast possessions, m. as in the text, to GEORGE FOX LANE, esq.

JAMES FOX-LANE, esq. of Bramham Park, in the county of York, M.P. for Horsham. This gentleman married 23rd July, 1789, Hon. Marcia-Lucy Pitt, youngest daughter of George, Lord Rivers, and had issue,

i. GEORGE, his heir.

ii. William-Pitt, m. 31st December, 1817, Caroline, sister of George Sholto Douglas, Earl of Morton, and died in 1832.

iii. Sackville, M.P. for Helston, m. 22nd June, 1826, the Lady Charlotte - Mary - Anne - Georgiana Osborne, only daughter of George, present and sixth Duke of Leeds.

iv. Thomas-Lascelles, in holy orders.

i. Marcia-Bridget, m. 5th August, 1815, to the Hon. Edward-Marmaduke Stourton, who assumed, upon inheriting the VAVASOUR estates, the surname and arms of that ancient family, and having been created a BARONET is the present HON. SIR EDWARD MARMADUKE VAVASOUR, of Haslewood. Lady Vavasour died in 1829.

Mr. Fox Lane died in 1825, leaving his very extensive estates strictly entailed upon his eldest son, GEORGE LANE FOX, esq. of Bramham Park, their present possessor; and devising three hundred thousand pounds first to his widow and then to his younger children, in addition to their marriage settlements. He was a gentleman so highly respected in the county of York, where he resided with princely hospitality, that during his last illness the newspapers of Leeds were stopped to announce his state of health. He lived upon habits of intimacy with his late majesty, who, when Prince of Wales, frequently sojourned at Bramham on hunting parties. There is still preserved at Bramham, a correspondence between Mr. Pitt and Mr. Fox Lane, wherein the minister offers to renew the Bingley peerage, and Mr. Fox Lane replies that "he being one of the very few old English families—a commoner (not a trader) of high birth and fortune, piqued himself upon that."

Arms—Quarterly, first and fourth, a chevron between three foxes' heads erased gu. for Fox; second and third, arg. a lion rampant gu. within a border sa. on a canton of the first, a harp and crown or, for LANE.

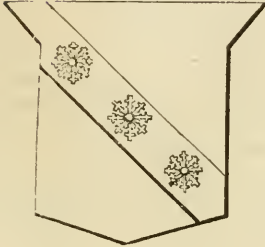

Estates—In Yorkshire, Dorsetshire, and near Lanesborough, in Ireland.

Town Residence—12, Albemarle Street.

Seats—Bramham Park, near Wetherby, Bramham House, near Bingley, where the family has resided since the destructive fire at Bramham Park, which swept away so much old aristocratic magnificence. A house in Bingley, a large market town in the west-riding, which chiefly belongs to Mr. Lane Fox, and the Court, near Lanesborough, Ireland.

THORNTON, OF BROCKHALL.

THORNTON, THOMAS-REEVE, esq. of Brockhall, in the county of Northampton, b. 14th February, 1775, m. 31st January, 1799, Susanna, daughter and heir of Peter John Fremeaux, esq. of Kingsthorpe, and has issue,

- i. JOHN.
- ii. Thomas-Cooke.
- iii. William.
- iv. Edward.

- i. Maria.
- ii. Eleanor.

Mr. Thornton succeeded his father in 1790. He is a magistrate and deputy lieutenant for the county of Northampton, and was its high sheriff in 1798.

Lineage.

The THORNTONS were originally settled at Newnham, in Northamptonshire, but, on the acquisition of Brockhall, they availed themselves of its superior situation, and deserted their former residence.

JOHN THORNTON, of Newnham, acquired that estate, in marriage with Lettice, sister and heiress of Thomas Newnham, of Newnham, who was son of John Newnham, of Newnham, living in 1469, whose father, Thomas Newnham, wedded Lettice,* heiress of Thomas Thorpe, of Newnham. By the heiress of Newnham, (who died in 1556), John Thornton had a son and successor, HENRY THORNTON, of Newnham, who m. Anne, daughter of William Wilmer, of Ryton, in the county of Warwick, and by her, who wedded secondly, in 1516, Richard Chaplin, of Welton, had two sons and three daughters, viz.

BARRON, OF BELMONT.

BARRON, HENRY-WINSTON, esq. of Belmont House, in the county of Kilkeny, and of Glenanna, in the county of Waterford, b. 15th October, 1795, m. 1st May, 1822, Anna-Leigh-Guy, daughter of the late Sir Gregory, and sister of the present, Sir Gregory-Osborne Page Turner, bart. and has issue, HENRY-PAGE-TURNER, b. 27th December, 1825.

Emily-Frances.

Mr. Barron, who succeeded his brother in 1818, is representative in parliament of the city, and a magistrate and deputy lieutenant for the county of Waterford.

Lineage.

The BARRONS, now so widely dispersed throughout the county of Waterford, are a branch of the great house of Offaley, and were formerly BARONS OF BURNCHURCH,* in the neighbouring county of Kilkenny.

MAURICE FITZGERALD, the first knight of Kerry, known generally as the Black Knight (third son of John Fitzgerald, by Honora O'Connor his wife, and lineally descended from Gerald, Lord of Offaley, son of Maurice, who founded the Fitzgerald family in Ireland) was the common ancestor of the Fitzgeralds of Alloone, in the county of Kildare (now extinct), of the Fitzgeralds of Cloyne, Seneschals of Imokilly, and of the Fitzgeralds of Gurteens. The last branch, who were BARONS OF BURNCHURCH,† retained for several years a station of rank and influence in Kilkenny, but involved in the troubles which marked the early part of the seventeenth century, they were forced to abandon their native shire and to settle in the bordering county of Waterford, where to escape the rancour of persecution, and to elude its vigilance, they assumed instead of their patronymic (the name of FITZGERALD was at that time in more than ordinary disfavour with the ruling powers) the cognomen‡ of BARON or BARRON only.§

* Those titular BARONS, to be found in England and Ireland, owed their dignity to the counts palatine, who had the power of conferring such honours in their several palatinates, under the royal seignory, which they enjoyed by grants from the crown. In England were the Barons of Halton, Malpas, and Kinderton, created by Hugh Lupus, Earl of Chester. The Barons of Walton, in Lancashire, and of Hilton, in Durham. In Ireland, the Barons of Skreene, Navan, and Galtrim, of the county of Meath. The Barons of Narvo and Rabane, of Kildare; the Barons of Neville, of Wexford; the Barons of Savage and Musset, of Ulster; the Barons of Loughmoe, of Tipperary, and the BARONS OF BURNCHURCH, of Kilkenny. See Davis's Reports, page 65; Tighe's Stat. Surv. of the County of Kilkenny, p. 637, and the family of Barry in this volume, page 456.

† The following epitaph is on a member of the Burnchurch family:—

Hic jacet . . . GERALDINE, alias BARRON, Dominus de Burnchurch, et Anastasia Sine leger, uxor ejus; qui obiit primo die Februarii, MIIIIIXLV (1545) quorum animabus propitiatur Deus.

‡ The Fitzgeralds obtained by their ultra patriotism the designation of Hibernis ipsis Hiberniores.

§ The FITZGERALDS of Clonamery, styled Barons of Brownsford, were a collateral branch of the Burnchurch family, and assumed the name of Baron for a similar reason. This branch held lands, by military tenure, under the Earls of Desmond, as appears by inquisition taken at Kilkenny 17th September, 1622, (Rolls Office, Dublin). A monument still remains, at Innistogie, bearing the following inscription: "Orate pro animabus David Geraldine, dicti Barron de

By the Patent Roll of the 39th Queen ELIZABETH, it appears that her majesty confirmed on 7th July, 1597, to Edward Fitzgerald, of Rathsullagh, gent. various properties in different parts of Ireland, amongst others, the rectory or parsonage of BURNCHURCH, with the lands, tithes, &c. of Bewper, (in later documents called Piper) the estate of the late monastery of Kells; and by an inquisition taken at Thomastown, 18th August, 1623, the possessions annexed to the baronial castle of Burnchurch were two mills, twenty-four acres of arable land, wood, underwood, and pasture of great extent, &c. in Burnchurch, Bwolye, Crokersgraige, Heberdstown, Dansginspidogy, and Athytibbot, all in the county of Kilkenny, held under the king in capite "per servitium militare," (Roll's Office, Dublin).

That the Burnchurch branch of the Fitzgeralds had produced many distinguished characters authentic records and their monuments still extant fully attest. "Milo Barron, alias Fitzgerald," says Sir James Ware in his Bishops of Ireland, "an Augustin canon and prior of Innistock, was consecrated Bishop of Ossory in 1527, but held his priory by dispensation until the visitation of religious houses, at which time he surrendered it by deed to King HENRY VIII. He was called BARON as being of that branch of the Fitzgeralds who were palatine barons of Burnchurch, in the county of Kilkenny, originally created by the earl palatine of those parts the Earl of Desmond. Before he was advanced to the bishopric he added a new steeple and cloister to his priory. After his consecration he went to his episcopal palace at Kilkenny, and made a present of a pastoral staff and marble table to his cathedral. He died full of years, in 1550 or 1551, of grief, and was buried with his people in the monastery of Innistock." The same historian also particularizes Roland Barron, alias Fitzgerald, who was consecrated Archbishop of Cashel in 1553, and died in 1561. Nicholas Barron, another of the family, was mitred Abbot of Jerpoint in 1618. He made several grants to the Roths of Kilkenny.

RICHARD FITZGERALD, alias BARRON, of Burnchurch, who lost the estates under Cromwell's forfeitures, appointed at his decease his father-in-law, Robert Forstall,* guardian to his two children, who both d. s. p.

Brownsfoord. Obiit 14th Aprilis, 1621, et Johanna Morres ejus uxoris."

* The following is an extract from the will, dated 7th July, 1645, of this Robert Forstall, now in being: "My will is that my grand-children, Garrett and Öner Barron, alias Fitzgerald, is goods, chattels, and household stuff, which lyeth in my hands, my wife to have the managing of them during her life."

This last baron's nephew, (the son of his brother, Edward)

CAPTAIN JAMES BARRON, alias FITZGERALD, having served under the Prince de Condé in France, returned to Ireland with Colonel Dempsey and others after the restoration of CHARLES II., and petitioned (see Treasury Office, Dublin) for a restoration of the barony and lands of Burnchurch,* but his claim was rejected, as were the claims of innumerable other sufferers in the royal cause, (the petition is to be seen, p. 661, Reports of Commissioners of Records, Dublin). He subsequently settled in the county of Waterford, and there married Slany Ny Brian,† dan. of Donald More O'Brien, of Cummerragh, by whom he had issue, which spread themselves over the county of Waterford, and relinquishing entirely the old name of FITZGERALD, assumed that of BARON. Amongst those were two sons, viz.

I. WILLIAM, whose male line is extinct.

His great granddaughter,

FANNY BARRON, marrying — Bagge, esq. left a dau. FANNY BAGGE, who wedded Thomas Wyse, esq. of the manor of St. John's, Waterford, and was mother of THOMAS WYSE, esq. late M.P. for the county of Tipperary.

II. PIERCE.

The younger

PIERCE BARRON, esq. of Garrahillersher, in the county of Waterford, m. in 1697, Mary, daughter of Thomas Fitzgerald, esq. of Kilcanvoy, in the same shire, by Mary his wife, daughter of Philip Hore, esq.† of Shandon, and had issue,

I. PIERCE, of Fahagh, who died s. p.

II. JAMES, of Carrick Barron, who m.

* The baronial castle of Burnchurch, with its appurtenances, comprising 1065 Irish acres, was granted to Col. WILLIAM WARDEN. The eventual heiress of the WARDEN family, ANNE WARDEN, conveyed Burnchurch in marriage to Major Francis Flood, great grandfather of the present JOHN FLOOD, esq. of Flood Hall. The grant was enrolled 9th August, 1666.

† Sir Terence O'Brien, bart. left a jointure to his kinswoman, Slany Ny Brian, who was married to James Barron; and this jointure was confirmed to her by certificate amongst the decrees of Innocents, in the reign of CHARLES II.

There was no restoration made to the O'Briens of Cummerragh of any part of their possessions. They had forfeited the entire parish of Kelrosenta, the chief portion of which became the property of the Osborne family. The O'Briens of Cummerragh were a branch of the Thomond family, and possessed the castles of Cummerragh and Abbey-side, in the county of Waterford.

‡ Two members of this family represented Dungarvan, and another the city of Waterford, in the parliament of JAMES II., in which also sat for the borough of Innistioige, Edward Barron, alias Fitzgerald.

Miss Power, heiress of the Georges-town estate, in the county of Waterford, and from this marriage lineally derives the present

The third son,

JOHN BARRON, esq. born in 1726, wedded in 1750, Miss Donovan,* whose ancestors possessed extensive estates in the counties of Cork and Kerry, but had been deprived, in times of catholic persecution, of their ancient inheritance. By this lady, Mr. Barron had issue,

I. PIERCE, his heir.

II. John, who m. Miss Barron, of Carrick Barron, and left at his decease, in 1803, an only surviving son, the present

PIERCE-GEORGE Barron, esq. a magistrate and deputy lieutenant for the county of Waterford, who m. Catherine, daughter of the late Cornelius Bolton, esq. many years M. P. for Waterford, by Catherine his wife, daughter of Sir Lucius O'Brien, bart. of Dromoland, and has three daughters, Eliza, Catherine, and Mary Anne.

HUNTER, OF HUNTERSTON.

HUNTER, ROBERT, esq. of Hunter, or Hunterston, in the county of Ayr, a magistrate and deputy lieutenant for that shire, b. in 1799, inherited the estates and representation of this ancient family at the demise of his father in 1826. Mr. Hunter is an advocate at the Scottish bar.

Lineage.

"This surname," says Robertson, "is obviously derived from the chase. Before the use of fixed family names, as at present, professional and personal distinctives appear very generally to have been adopted; hence the multiplicity of appellatives so originating. In reference, however, to names allusive to the pursuits of the field—exercises common to all in the more early periods of history—something more special would seem implied, thus to confer par excellence, such distinctions, in all probability the possession of an appropriate hereditary office. The famed superiority of the Normans, in all venatic accomplishments, would doubtless recommend many individuals of that people, after their settlement in the neighbouring kingdom, to the notice of the Scottish princes and barons. From all that can now be gathered of the history of times so remote there is reason for concluding this to have been the case. Such persons, then, coming amongst a rude people, would naturally be distinguished from their country and pursuits. In the castles and domains of the great barons, who were lords of entire bailiwicks, appropriated frequently for the accommodation of the sovereign, various offices, exclusively belonging to the sports of the field, existed. John le Hunter de la Foreste de Paisley, and Hugh and Richard, the hunters of Strag-rife, appear in the Rag. Roll. Caled iii. p. 118; as also does Aylmer de la Hunter of the county of Ayr, supposed to have been an ancestor of the family."

Two ancient families of the name of HUNTER, existed in Scotland for many centuries, HUNTER, of Polinood, in Tweeddale, now extinct, and HUNTER of Hunterston, the present chief of the Hunters.

Of the Hunterston line Craufurd states that he had "very carefully perused their writs," and that "from charters they appear to have had at least a part of the estate they still possess in Cunninghame, while the

Morvilles were lords of that country, as far back as the reign of ALEXANDER II.* In the remarks on the Rag. Roll, it is stated that in an ancient bounding charter, the lands of Arnele-Hunter, adjoining to Hunterston, are bounded with "terris NORMANI VENATORIS," the presumed ancestor of the family before us. The first in the pedigree of whom any certain record now remains,

WILLIAM HUNTER, obtained a charter from ROBERT II. "Willmi. Hunt-totam ter'am de Arnele cumpt que fuit Andre Campbell militis . . . apud St' Welyne sedo. die. Maij. anno rgni. nri Q'rto (1375). The lands here alluded to appear to have been part of the barony of Arnele, from which they were subsequently distinguished as Arnele Hunter. They are now called Campbelton, and are still possessed by Hunterston.

The son, or more probably the grandson, of this William Hunter, another

WILLIAM HUNTER, of Hunterston, acquired by sasine, dated 4th March, 1452, the lands of Highlees, in the parish of Dalry, Ayrshire, from Andrew Linn of that ilk. He was s. by his son,

ARCHIBALD HUNTER, of Hunterston, father, by his wife, Jane Craufurd, of the family of Crosby, of

JOHN HUNTER, of Hunterston, who m. Margaret, fourth daughter of John, second Lord Cathcart, by Margaret, daughter of Sir William Douglas, of Drumlanrig, and left a son and successor,

ROBERT HUNTER, of Hunterston, infeft on the 5th September, 1517, in the island of Lamash, who m. Margaret Craufurd, also of the Crosby family, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT HUNTER, of Hunterston, who obtained the Isle of Little Cumbra, 31st May, 1527, the lands of Annanhill, 22nd November, 1531, and had also on the 6th December, 1535, a charter from the crown of the five merk land of Campbellton. He married Janet, daughter of Montgomery, of Giffen, and relict of John Craufurd of Craufurdland, (see page 232) and had with a daughter, who married John Craufurd, of Giffordland, a son and successor,

MUNGO, or QUINTEGERN HUNTER, of Hunterston, served heir to his father in 1540, who m. a daughter of James Hamilton, of Torrance, and falling at Pinkie, 10th September, 1547, left (with other issue from whom descended, it is presumed, the present WILLIAM-FRANCIS HUNTER ARUNDELL, esq. of Barjarg and Abbotshill,)* a son and successor,

ROBERT HUNTER, of Hunterston, one of the Ayrshire gentlemen who subscribed the band in defence of the reformed religion, 4th September, 1562, and acquired the lands of South Kames, on the Isle of Bute, for which he had a charter from the crown, dated 29th November, 1578. He wedded Margaret, daughter of Thomas Craufurd, of Auchnemes, by Marion, daughter of Montgomery, of Hazlehead, (see vol. i. p. 553,) and had two sons,

ROBERT, his heir.

Francis.

Jean, who m. the Rev. Robert Cunningham, minister of Barnweil, brother to Hugh Cunningham, of Carlung, and had two daughters,

Hunterston was s. by his son,

ROBERT HUNTER, of Hunterston, returned heir to his father, 23rd May, 1593, in the lands of Campbellton, Annanhill, and Highlees. This gentleman espoused a daughter of Provost Peeblis, of Irvine, but having no issue, he settled his estates on the husband of his niece, Jean Cunningham,

PATRICK HUNTER, son of William Hunter, of Banbury Yards, and great grandson of Mungo Hunter, of Hunterston, as appears from a charter now in the possession of the family, dated 27th September, 1611. By his marriage with Jean Cunningham, Hunterston had (with two daughters, the elder m. to Alexander Cunningham, of Carlung, and the younger, Jean, to David Kennedy, of Balmaclanachan and Craig) three sons, namely,

I. ROBERT, his heir.

II. Henry, minister of Dromore, who died without issue.

III. FRANCIS, supposed to have been ancestor of the HUNTERS of Long Calderwood. Of this family was the celebrated physician, Dr. William Hunter, of London, born at Easter Kilbride, in Lanarkshire, in 1718, whose grandfather is stated to have been a younger son of Hunterston. For its magnificent museum, the university of Glasgow is indebted to the liberal donation of this gentleman, whose early education was acquired in that college. Dr. Hunter died in London, 30th March, 1783. His brother, JOHN HUNTER, one of the most eminent surgeons of the age, was born in 1728, and died also in London, (where he had long practised with unrivalled reputation) 16th October, 1793. A full and interesting account of these distinguished descendants of the house of Hunters-

* From the Hunters, of Abbotshill, derive the HUNTERS, of Doonholm, now represented by Andrew Hunter, esq. of Bonnytown, the HUNTERS, of Thurston, whose chief is the present James Hunter, esq. of Thurston, and the HUNTERS of Brownhill, of whom Sir David Hunter-Blair, bart. of Blairquhan, is the head.

ton is given in the Encyclopædia Britannica, vol. x. p. 669-674. Their sister, Jane, wedded the Rev. James Baillie, minister of the kirk of Shotts, and afterward professor of divinity in the University of Glasgow, by whom she was mother of the late eminent Dr. Baillie, physician to the king, and JOANNA BAILLIE, the very celebrated author.

Patrick Hunter, whose name appears among those of other gentlemen in the committee of war for Ayrshire during the troubled times of 1647, was fined £600 in 1662, by one of Middleton's arbitrary acts. He was s. at his decease by his eldest son, ROBERT HUNTER, of Hunterston, served heir of conquest to his younger brother, the Rev. Henry Hunter, in 1674. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of William Craufurd, of Auchnames, by Anna his wife, dau. of Sir Coll Lamont, of Ineryne, and had four sons, viz.

- i. PATRICK, his heir.
- ii. Robert, who acquired, by purchase, in 1686, the lands of Kirkland, in the vicinity of Kilbride, Ayrshire. He m. in 1675, Margaret, daughter of John Hamilton, of Grange, in Ayrshire, and left a son and successor,

ROBERT HUNTER, of Kirkland, who purchased a part of the lands of Drumelling, adjacent to his own. He wedded Margaret, daughter of Baillie Munro, of Irvine, and left (with two daughters, Margaret, wife of William Cunningham, of Monktonhill, and Elizabeth, of John Boyd, of Carlung) a son and heir,

GEORGE HUNTER, esq. of Kirkland, who m. first his cousin, Dorothea, dau. of John Boyd, of Carlung, and had with several other children, who died young, a son, ROBERT, his heir. He wedded secondly, Mary, daughter of Cunningham, of Monkton Hill, and had a daughter, Dorothea. His son,

ROBERT HUNTER, esq. of Kirkland, espoused, in 1791, Jane Boyd-Cunninghame, eldest daughter of John Boyd, of Carlung, and by her, who d. 24th March, 1825, had issue,

SCOTT, OF BETTON.

SCOTT, GEORGE-JONATHAN, esq. of Betton Strange, in Shropshire, and of Peniarth Ucha, in the county of Merioneth, b. 23rd April, 1807.

This gentleman, who succeeded to his paternal estates when he had scarcely entered his fifth year, inherited likewise, before the completion of his fifteenth, the extensive possessions of his great-uncle, Richard Scott, esq. of Shrewsbury. He served the office of high sheriff for Merionethshire in 1833.

Lineage.

This family of SCOTT, which was originally seated in Kent, has long been connected with the municipal and local transactions of the town of Shrewsbury, and with the service of their country in the most distant regions of the globe.

RICHARD SCOTT, esq. the first of the family who settled in Shropshire, was born in 1544, and died in Shrewsbury in 1628, having had, by Mary, his wife, one son and two daughters, viz.

ISAAC.

Mary, married to Thomas Rocke, gent. of Shrewsbury.

Anne, married to Edward Montgomery, gent. of Shrewsbury.

The son,

ISAAC SCOTT, esq. b. in 1584, m. Miss

Elizabeth Stephens, of Shrewsbury, and had, with other issue,

i. RICHARD.

ii. BENJAMIN, of whom hereafter, as immediate ancestor of the present family of Betton.

The eldest son,

RICHARD SCOTT, esq. b. in 1617, married, in 1637, Mrs. Elizabeth Brinsley, of London, and had (with another son, who died young, and three daughters)

i. JONATHAN, his heir.

ii. Richard, of Shrewsbury, born in 1648, married, in 1670, Susannah, daughter and coheir of John Gardner, gent. of Shrewsbury, and died in 1693, leaving issue,

1. JONATHAN, successor to his uncle.

2. JOHN, continuator of the male line.

1. Elizabeth, married to Robert Phillips, gent.

2. Susannah, married to Robert Lathrop, gent. of Shrewsbury.

iii. Nehemiah, of Shrewsbury, who was twice married, but died without surviving male issue.

Richard Scott took an active part in the troublesome period in which he lived, on behalf of the unfortunate CHARLES I.; and when the parliamentary faction obtained the executive power, he felt the effects of their tender mercies, being fined and otherwise annoyed by the commissioners, whose especial employment it was thus to mulct and punish those gentlemen of property who had given undoubted proofs of their loyalty to the king and zeal in the cause of kingly government, under the most adverse circumstances. He died in 1662, and was s. by his eldest son,

JONATHAN SCOTT, esq. of Betton, born in 1647, mayor of Shrewsbury in 1689, who m. in 1672, Miss Elizabeth Stone, but dying without issue, in 1716, was succeeded by his nephew,

JONATHAN SCOTT, esq. of Betton, who m. Mrs. Ann Farmer, and had issue,

Jonathan, who died unmarried in the lifetime of his father.

ELIZABETH, married to her relation, Captain RICHARD SCOTT.

Susan, married to Thomas Owen, esq.

Anne, married to John Twiss, gent.

Mr. Scott died, leaving no male issue, in 1746, when his estates passed to his daughters as coheirs, while the representation of the family devolved on his brother,

JOHN SCOTT, esq. who m. first, Rebekah, daughter of George Elfred, esq. of The Hoo, in Sussex, and had two daughters, who both died young. He wedded secondly, Dorothy, daughter of Captain Timothy Waring, by whom he had, (with other issue, who d. unm.)

JOHN, of Shrewsbury, who m. Miss Lydia Draycot, and had one son and two daughters, viz.

JOHN, of Eyton, who wedded Miss Sarah Corall, and died in 1828, aged 84, having had issue,

1. CHRISTOPHER, who m. Miss Jennins, eldest daughter of Stephen Jennins, esq. of Dennerville, in Shropshire.

2. Jonathan, an officer in the East India Company's Service.

3. John, an officer in the same service, d. in 1810.

1. Mary, m. to Captain Henry Scott.

2. Sarah, m. to William Coupland, esq.

3. Anne.

4. Susannah.

Susannah, m. to Thomas Baker, esq. of Shrewsbury.

Sarah, m. to William Coupland, esq. of Shrewsbury.

Mr. Scott, sen. married, thirdly, Dorothy, daughter of Adam Waring, esq. of Woodcot, in the county of Salop, and had, by her, with a younger son, Nehemiah, who died unmarried,

JONATHAN SCOTT, esq. of Shrewsbury, who m. Mary, daughter of Humphrey Sandford, esq. of the Isle, in the county of Salop, and had five sons and a daughter, viz.

1. JOHN, who assumed upon inheriting the extensive estates of his relative, Richard Hill Waring, esq. (grandson of Adam Waring, esq. before mentioned), the name and arms of WARING. This gentleman was a major in the Honourable East India Company's Service, and by his talents and activity acquired the confidence and esteem of the celebrated WARREN HASTINGS, then governor of the presidency in which he was stationed, and when subsequently Mr. Hastings was impeached by the House of Commons, Major Scott Waring, who at the time was M. P. for Stockbridge, was one of his most zealous supporters. He m. first, Elizabeth, daughter of Alexander Blackrie, esq. of Bromley, Kent. and had issue, Edward Scott-Waring, esq. of the Hon. E. I. C. Civil Establishment, who m. Mary, relict of Captain Smith.

Charles Scott-Waring, esq.

Anne Scott-Waring, m. to Henry Read, esq.

Eliza Scott-Waring, m. to Rev. George Stanley Faber.

Major Scott-Waring married secondly, Miss Mary Hughes, and had by her, a son, John Thurlow Scott-Waring, and a daughter, Augusta. Major Scott-Waring d. 5th May, 1819.

11. Richard, who also entered the East India Company's Service, and distinguished himself in the war in the Carnatic, where he commanded the 26th battalion of Bengal Sepoys, under Sir Eyre Coote, when engaged against the celebrated Hyder Ali Khun; subsequently having attained the rank of lieutenant-colonel, he commanded the same corps, under Earl Cornwallis, in the war with Tippoo Sultaun. Colonel Scott wedded, first, Miss Frances Jarrett, but had no issue. He married secondly, Miss Camack, daughter of John Camack, esq. of Green Mount, in the county of Louth, by whom he had, with three daughters, one son, Richard-Hastings, of the Hon. E. I. C. Civil Service, on the Bengal Establishment, who m. at Meerut, 16th February, 1829, Grace, youngest daughter of the Rev. H. Fisher, chaplain on that station.

111. Jonathan, b. in 1753, who received the rudiments of a classic education, at the Royal Free Grammar School of his native town, which he left for India, at the age of twelve years. Here he acquired an intimate and eminent degree of knowledge in the history and languages of the East, and became a captain in the H. E. I. Company's Service. Like his elder brothers, his abilities and meritorious conduct gained him the esteem and patronage of his superiors: being well versed in the Persian language, he was appointed Persian secretary to the governor of Bengal, (Warren Hastings, esq.) and elected a member of the Asiatic Society of Calcutta. On his return to England, he received the appointment of Oriental Professor in the Royal Military and East India Colleges, &c., and the University of Oxford conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

He m. Anne, daughter of the Rev. Daniel Austin, M.A. rector of Berrington, in Salop, by whom he left, at his decease, 11th February, 1829, an only surviving child, Anna-Dorothea, m. 29th October, 1827, to William Richard Stokes, esq. of Shrewsbury. Dr. Scott published several interesting and admired works connected with the history and general literature of the Eastern world.

- iv. Folliott, who m. Miss Mary Brookman, and had a son and daughter, namely, Jonathan, and Dorothy, the wife of James Saxby, gent.
- v. Henry, now of Shrewsbury, who also entered the service of the East India Company, and held a distinguished post on the Bengal Establishment. He married Mary, daughter of John Scott, esq. of Eyton, and has, with several daughters, an only son, Henry.

- i. Dorothy, m. to Henry Stokes, gent. of London.

Thus terminating the elder branches of this family by their existing members, we proceed with that of the present proprietor of BETTON.

BENJAMIN SCOTT, esq. the second son of Isaac Scott, esq. of Shrewsbury, and of Elizabeth Stephens, his wife, was baptized at St. Julians, Shrewsbury, 20th September, 1631, and when of sufficient age sent out to Barbadoes. He m. Miss Susannah Brerewood, and had issue,

- i. RICHARD, of the island of Barbadoes, who m. Eliza, daughter and co-heir of John Halt, esq. of the county of Berks, and had a son, Richard, who died young, and a daughter, Elizabeth, m. to — Warrior, esq. of the island of Antigua, and afterwards of Eltham, in Kent.

11. BENJAMIN.

The second son,

BENJAMIN SCOTT, esq. born at Barbadoes, in 1665, became eventually of Eltham, in Kent. He m. Mary, another daughter and co-heir of John Halt, esq. of the county of Berks, and had (with children who died young),

- i. BENJAMIN, who married, but left no surviving issue.

- ii. RICHARD, of whom presently.

- iii. Charles, major in the army, who d. at Minorca, unm.

- i. Mary, m. first, to — Flowerdew, gent. and secondly, to John Hutley, gent.

- ii. Elizabeth, m. to Major John Quinchant, who fell in the service of his country, at the battle of Fontenoy, 11th May, 1745.

Benjamin Scott died at Eltham, in 1718. His second son,

RICHARD SCOTT, esq. b. in 1695, embraced a military life, and attained the rank of captain in that distinguished corps, the Old Buffs. He wedded, in 1728, his relative, Elizabeth, eldest daughter and co-heir of Jonathan Scott, esq. of Betton, near Shrewsbury, and died in 1767, leaving issue,

RICHARD, his heir.

Jonathan, who was twice married, but d. without issue.

Elizabeth, d. unm.

The elder son,

RICHARD SCOTT, esq. b. in 1731, inherited the Betton estates. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of the Rev. Thomas Gough, rector of Cardeston, in Shropshire, and had issue,

GEORGE, his heir.

Richard. This gentleman, so many of whose relatives distinguished themselves in the foreign service of their country, attached himself to the no less honorable pursuits of commerce, and sustained with great credit and success the character of a British merchant. He purchased the manors of Whitley and Welbatch, and the estate of Underdale, near Shrewsbury, as well as Peniarth Ucha, in Merionethshire; the whole of which devolved, at his decease unmarried, in 1821, on his great nephew, the present GEORGE JONATHAN SCOTT, esq. of Betton.

Jonathan, who entered the military service of his country, attained the rank of major, and d. (on his passage home from the East Indies), in 1803, unm.

Dorothy, m. first, to Charles Champion Crespigny, esq. M.P. for Aldborough, Suffolk; and secondly, to Sir John Kane, bart.

Mr. Scott died in 1770, and was s. by his eldest son, (then a minor),

THE REV. GEORGE SCOTT, of Betton, b. in 1756, who m. in 1778, Lucretia, daughter of Charles Cockburn, esq. of Brentford, captain in the Old Buffs, and had issue,

GEORGE-JOHN, his heir.

Richard, now of Shrewsbury, B.D.

Mr. Scott died in 1799, and was s. by his elder son,

GEORGE-JOHN SCOTT, esq. of Betton, b. in 1779, who m. 6th July, 1802, Anne, daughter of William Morse, esq. of Drayton Green, Middlesex, and by her, (who wedded secondly, Francis Wolford, esq.) had issue,

GEORGE-JONATHAN, his heir.

William, an officer in the 6th Dragoon Guards.

Emily, died young, in August, 1809.

Mr. Scott d. 29th May, 1811, and was s. by his elder son, the present GEORGE-JONATHAN SCOTT, esq. of Betton and Peniarth Ucha.

COOKSON, OF WHITEHILL.

COOKSON, JOHN, esq. of Whitehill, in the county of Durham, b. 9th March, 1773, inherited the estates upon the demise of his father in 1831. Mr. Cookson is a deputy lieutenant for the palatinate.

Lineage.

This family came originally from Settle, in Yorkshire, where it held the same paternal inheritance for upwards of three hundred years, by the alternate names of Brian and Robert; see pedigree of Cookson, in Thoresby's History of Leeds.

WILLIAM COOKSON, the immediate ancestor of the Cooksons, of Whitehill, had two sons,

ISAAC, of whom presently.

William, who espoused Miss Cracken-thorpe, of Newbiggin, in Cumberland, and had,

CHRISTOPHER, who assumed the surname of Crackenthorpe.

William, D.D. canon of Windsor.

The elder son,

ISAAC COOKSON, came to reside in Newcastle-upon-Tyne, as a merchant adventurer, about the year 1670. He there purchased considerable property, and erected a spacious mansion. He was interred in St. Nicholas' church, in that town, where also lie the remains of Hannah, his wife, and was s. by his only son,

JOHN COOKSON, esq. who purchased, in 1745, the estate of WHITEHILL, in the palatinate of Durham. He espoused Elizabeth, eldest daughter and co-heir of Thomas Lutwidge, esq. of Whitehaven, in Cumberland, by whom he acquired landed property in that county,* and had issue,

1. ISAAC, his heir.

11. John, barrister-at-law, who m. Hannah-Jane, daughter and co-heiress of William Reed, esq. of Halliwell, in Durham.

* An old document, in the possession of the COOKSON family, states that Adam de Blencowe was standard bearer at the battles of Cressy and Poitiers, under command of William, Baron de Greystock, who, as an honorary reward for his "good and vaillant" service, did immediately after the battle of Poitiers, make him a grant of his own arms, to be thenceforth borne on a band pointed with the paternal coat, "as a monument to posterity of y^e esteem he had for him."

† This family has long held possessions in the county of Northumberland, "In the reign of Charles the First, Edward Cooke, esq. resided at Amble New Hall. He had 17 children (eight sons and nine daughters), and estates at Amble, Togstone, Newton on the Moore, Brainshaugh, Blackmoor, Low Newton, and Eastfield, which estates he divided amongst five of his sons, leaving money portions to the rest of his children." To John, his eldest son, he left Amble and Togston; and from him descended the family of Cooke, now represented by Mrs. Isaac Cookson, of Meldon Park. He left Blakemoor to his second son, Edward, who resided in Newcastle-upon-Tyne, was a barrister-at-law, a distinguished antiquary and recorder of Berwick-upon-Tweed. To his son, William, he devised Brainshaugh; and from Joseph, is descended the Cooks of Newton.

OWEN, OF TEDSMORE.

OWEN, THOMAS-BULKELEY, esq. of Tedesmore Hall, in the county of Salop, b. 16th July, 1790, m. 25th March, 1824, Marianne, daughter of the Rev. Edward Thelwall, of Llanbedr Hall, in Denbighshire, and has issue, BULKELEY-HATCHETT, b. 3rd October, 1825.

Thomas-Mainwaring-Bulkeley, b. 15th November, 1826.

Marianne-Eliza-Frances.

This gentleman succeeded at the decease of his father, the late Bulkeley Hatchett, esq. 23rd August, 1830, and adopted the surname of OWEN as heir to a branch of that family.

Lineage.

This family descends in a direct line from HYWEL Dda, or the Good, the celebrated legislator, who, on the death of his father, CADELL, (son of RODERIC the Great) in 907, became prince of South Wales, and in six years afterward, at the decease of ANARAWD, prince of Gwynedd, (anno 913) attained the dignity of LORD PARAMOUNT, from which he ascended the throne, as KING of all Wales, in 940, on the death of IDWAL VOEL. Hywel directed his attention to the revision of the laws, and consulted not only the learned amongst his own subjects, but repaired twice to Rome, to consult the wise and learned there in pursuing this, the first object of his reign. He finally succeeded in establishing a code deemed so just and equitable as to obtain for the giver the designation of Dda, and his name is joined with those of PRYDAIN and DYNNWAL, in the Historical Trials of Wales as "The three good Princes of Britain."

Third, or according to some pedigrees, second, in descent from HYWEL, was GRONO, lord of Têgengl, (as most of the present Flintshire, was at that period called), who was son of Einion ap Owen ap Hywel Dda, or by some authorities, brother to Eimion, and son of Owen ap Hywel, Dda. He m. Edelfleda, daughter of the earl of Mercia and Chester, and widow of the valiant Edmund Ironside, king of the Saxons, and had a son,

EDWIN, lord of Têgengl, who connected by father and mother, with the most powerful chieftains of North Wales and Mercia, became one of the principal leaders of his countrymen, and the head or stock of one of the fifteen tribes of North Wales. The arms assigned to this distinguished captain, and which are borne (in chief or quartered) by all its descendants, are "argent, a cross fleury engrailed sable, between four Cornish choughs ppr," which ensigns, English and Welch writers consider to have been those of his mother, Edelfleda, and of her paternal family, the earls of Mercia. Edwin resided at Llys Llaneurgan (the present Northop, in Flintshire), he espoused Ewerydd, sister of Bleddyn ap Cynfyn, prince of Powys, and left several sons, the second of whom,

UCHDRYD, supported his cousin Cadwgan, son of Bleddyn ap Cynfyn, in his numerous enterprizes; and when in the latter part of the eleventh century, Cadwgan obtained the rule of a part of the principality of Powys, he granted to Uchdryd the lordships of Cyveilioc, Mowddwy, Meirion, and Penllyn, upon condition that he (Uchdryd) and his descendants should upon all occasions support the grantor and his heirs. From that period to this the descendants of Uchdryd have retained estates in Cyveilioc, and have ranked amongst the principal gentlemen of that part of which is now called the county of Montgomery. The eldest son of Uchdryd,

MEREDITH, had several sons, of whom, according to some authorities, IDNERTH, surnamed Benfras, was one, although others make Idnerth, son of Uchdryd, and brother of Meredith. This IDNERTH, married Eva, daughter and heir of Cadwgan Vychan, lord of Maesbrook, whose arms were, "Az. a boar's head couped arg. tusked or, and langued gules," which ensigns Idnerth and his descendants added (on a chief) to the arms of their ancestor, EDWIN, Prince of Tégengl, and having been thus adopted, these arms continue to be borne by the posterity of Idnerth, to the present time. Idnerth's son,

LLES, or LLEWELYN, resided in Maen Gwynedd, as that portion of the town of Machynlleth is still called, where the old mansion of the family, now denominated Maengwyn, is situated, and where they resided before their removal to Llanllo, long the seat of the Owens. Seventh, or by some pedigrees, eighth, in direct descent from Lles, was

IEUAN, surnamed Caereinion, who wedded Agnes, daughter and heir of Meredith Goch, of Caereinion, and their son,

MADOC, also of Caereinion, adopted instead of the arms of IDNERTH, Benfras, the following, viz. "Arg. a lion rampant, and a canton sa." which his descendants have likewise at different periods, either quartered or assumed, although some of them omit the canton. Several of the English heralds assign the original adoption of this coat to Madoc's son,

GRIFFITH, the father of

OWEN AP GRIFFITH, of Llanllo, near Machynlleth, who m. first, Isabel, daughter and heir of David Lloyd Middleton, and had two sons, viz.

I. DAVID LLOYD AP OWEN, of whom presently.

II. HOWEL AP OWEN, from whom the family of OWEN, of Woodhouse.

He wedded secondly, Gwenhwyvar, eldest daughter and co-heir of Thomas Ireland, esq. of Oswestry, by whom (who m. after his decease, Meredith ap Richard, gent.) he had two other sons, namely,

III. THOMAS OWEN, serjeant-at-law, who left an only dau. URSULA, his heir.

IV. RICHARD OWEN, of Shrewsbury, draper and merchant, ancestor of the family of OWEN, of Condover.

The elder son of the first marriage,

DAVID LLOYD AP OWEN, m. Thomasine, second daughter and co-heir of the above-mentioned Thomas Ireland, esq. and younger sister of his father's second wife; by this lady, he had, with four daughters, an only son and heir,

JOHN AP DAVID LLOYD, of Machynlleth, who, by his wife, Matilda, daughter of Hugh ap Ieuan, esq. of Mathafarn, had, with other issue,

OWEN AP JOHN, otherwise OWEN JONES, master of arts, and incumbent of Machynlleth, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of Owen ap Howel Goch, esq. by her he had, with five daughters, an only son and heir,

ROWLAND OWEN, (the surname by adoption) who served the office of sheriff for the county of Montgomery, in 1611. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Pughe, esq. of Mathafarn, and was s. at his decease, by his eldest son,

THOMAS OWEN, esq. of Llanllo, who wedded Joyce Pughe, of Mathafarn, and was father of

ROWLAND OWEN, esq. of Llanllo. This gentleman m. Barbara, daughter of Lumley Williams, esq. of Ystmycollwyn, and had, with other issue,

THOMAS OWEN, esq. of Llanllo, who wedded first, Anne, daughter of Sir Thomas Powell, knt. of Llechwedd Dyrys, in the county of Cardigan, one of the judges of the court of King's Bench, and had two sons,

1. THOMAS, who inherited Llanllo, and was sheriff of the county of Montgomery, in 1726. He m. Anne, youngest daughter and co-heir of Cornelius Le Brun, esq. of Nanteos, in Cardiganshire, and had, with two daughters,

1. ROWLAND, of Llanllo, who m. Miss Frances Philipps, of the county of Carmarthen, but died s. p. 15th January, 1738.

2. THOMAS, who inherited Llanllo, at the decease of his brother, and m. Anne, daughter of Lewis Edwards, esq. of Talgarth, in the county of Merioneth, by whom he had issue,

The third son of Thomas Owen, who lived to an advanced age, (only son of the second marriage).

HUGH OWEN, M.D. of Shrewsbury, where he resided professionally, until his cousin, in the seventh degree, MRS. SARAH OWEN, last of the family of Woodhouse, made a deed of gift of the Woodhouse estate in his favor, whither at her request he removed, and devoted himself to agricultural pursuits, particularly to breeding horses and cattle. He was gored to death however, by a favourite bull, about sixteen months before the decease of his benefactress. This melancholy event occurred on the 28th June, 1764, Doctor Owen being then fifty-six years of age. He had previously made a will, by which he bequeathed Woodhouse back to Mrs. Sarah Owen, who, on the 14th of the next August, made a new settlement of the property, (see OWEN, of Woodhouse). To Doctor Owen's other property his sister,

MARTHA BULKELEY-HATCHETT, succeeded, and her husband, RICHARD BULKELEY-HATCHETT, erected the mansion-house, at Tedsmore, on her property. She had issue by Mr. Hatchett, who died at the age of eighty, on the 15th December, 1800,

1. BULKELEY HATCHETT, of Ellesmere, b. 15th May, 1750, who succeeded his younger brother, in TEDSMORE.

THE REV. HUGH OWEN, M.A. minister of St. Julians, Salop, and afterwards official of the royal Peculiar of St. Mary's, in the town of Shrewsbury, also Archdeacon of Salop, in the diocese of Lichfield, prebendary of Lichfield and Sarum, and Portionist of Bampton, in the county of Oxford. This gentleman was a profound English antiquarian, and deeply skilled in ecclesiastical and general history. "Some account of the ancient and present state of Shrewsbury, 1808," a work of great merit, several papers in the Gentleman's Magazine, and a "History of Shrewsbury, 1825," which the archdeacon and his learned friend, the Rev. John Brickdale Blakeway, just lived to bring to a close, remain monuments of his wide research and acute discrimination. With a mind richly stored with general knowledge and great taste, with a memory abounding in choice and interesting anecdotes, the archdeacon's powers of conversation were of a high order, relieved by an unfailing vein of good humour. In the performance of his professional duties he was faithful, pious, learned, and laborious. As a preacher, he was able and impressive, with a clear and powerful voice, while his delivery was solemn, earnest, and persuasive. Inviolably loyal to the throne, he was a sincere and warm advocate of constitutional liberty. This estimable person died 23rd December, 1827, and his remains, in the following January, were deposited in the cemetery of St. Julian's, Salop, amid the deep affliction of his relations, friends, and parishioners. The shops were closed during the day, and many of the neighbouring gentry and the inhabitants of the town attended in deep mourning.

OWEN, OF CONDOVER.

OWEN, EDWARD-WILLIAM-SMYTHE, esq. of Condober, in the county of Salop, m. Charlotte-Maria, sister of John Madocks, esq. of Vron-lw, and Glanywern, M.P. for the Denbighshire Boroughs. This gentleman, whose patronymic is SMYTHE, succeeded to the Condober estates upon the demise of his uncle, 30th January, 1804, and assumed in consequence the surname and arms of OWEN. He was high sheriff for Shropshire in 1819.

Lineage.

RICHARD OWEN, youngest son of Owen ap Griffith, of Llundlo, by his second wife, Gwenhwyvar, eldest daughter and co-heir of Thomas Ireland, esq. (refer to p. 510) was a draper and merchant in Shrewsbury, he married Mary, daughter and co-heir of Thomas Ottley, esq. of that town, and had (with other issue) a son,

THOMAS OWEN, esq. of Condober, in Shropshire, an eminent lawyer and excellent man, who was one of the judges of the Common Pleas. His son and heir,

SIR ROGER OWEN, knt. of Condober, was, in 1597, chosen a representative in parliament for the borough of Shrewsbury, in 1601, knight of the shire for the county of Salop, and in 1604 appointed high sheriff thereof. Sir Roger was an eminent scholar, and corresponded with the most learned men of his time. Dying without issue male, he was s. by his brother,

SIR WILLIAM OWEN, knt. of Condober, high sheriff of Shropshire, in 1623, who m. Ellen, daughter of Sir Robert Needham, knt. of Shavington, and dying in 1662, was s. by his eldest son,

ROGER OWEN, esq. of Condober, b. in 1611, who wedded Alice, daughter of Gilbert, Lord Gerard, and by her, who remarried Henry Heylin, esq., he was father of

The only son and heir,

NICHOLAS-OWEN SMYTHE, esq. of Con-dover, assumed, in pursuance of the will of his great grandmother, Letitia Barnston, who died 10th August, 1755, the surname and arms of OWEN. He wedded Henrietta-Jemima, dau. of Chauncey Hare Townsend, esq. of Bruce Castle, in the county of Middlesex, but dying without issue, 30th January, 1804, devised his estates to his nephew, Edward-William Smythe Pemberton, esq.

who, having adopted the surname of OWEN, is the present EDWARD-WILLIAM-SMYTHE
OWEN, esq. of Condovery.

Tresswell, Notts, the ancient seat of the Hawksmores.

Seats—Grebby Hall, near Spilsby; and Kexby Grange, near Gainsborough.

MYTTON, OF HALSTON.

MYTTON, JOHN-FOX, esq. of Halston, in the county of Salop, b. 20th November, 1823, succeeded his father on the 29th March, 1834.

Lineage.

This family, of importance for several centuries in the county of Salop, is presumed to have taken its surname from the village of MITTON, in the parish of Fitz, about four miles from the town of Shrewsbury. The name occurs in old records, spelt differently, Mitton, Motton, Mutton, and Mytton, and in those we trace its influence to the beginning of the fourteenth century. In the Tallage Roll of Shrewsbury, anno 1313, WILLIAM DE MUTTON is one of the persons of property who is rated for his goods. In 1360, THOMAS DE MUTTON was bailiff of Shrewsbury, and in 1373, REGINALD DE MUTTON, the immediate ancestor of the family before us, filled the same municipal office, and at the close of that year was chosen to represent the borough in parliament.

The first person named in the pedigree is SIR EVERARD DE MUTTON, kn. whose son,

ALDRED DE MUTTON, was father of SIR HUGH DE MUTTON, knt. who is stated to have been slain in battle, in the time of the Empress MAUD. Sixth in descent from Sir Hugh's son,

ROGER DE MUTTON, was

HAUKYN DE MUTTON, father of the

REGINALD DE MUTTON, who represented
Shrewsbury in parliament, in 1373. This Reginald m. the heiress of Sir Hams Vaghan, or Vaughan, lord of the manor of West Tilbury, in Essex, son of Sir Thomas Vaghan, lord of the manor of Stepney, a family possessed of considerable property in the town and vicinity of Shrewsbury. When RICH-ARD II. visited Shrewsbury, and held his parliament there, Reginald de Mutton advanced him as a loan, the considerable sum, in those days, of forty marks, and by a writ, dated 10th August, in the 21st year of that reign, the king acknowledges this service of his beloved and faithful "Reginald de Mitton," and promises "in good faith," to repay the same in the quindene of the ensuing Easter.
By his first wife, the heiress of the Vaughans,
Reginald had two sons,

THOMAS MITTON, his heir.

John Mitton, m. Alice —, and died without issue. His will is dated on the eve of St. Mary Magdalen, 1451.
Reginald wedded secondly, Eleanor, sister of Thomas le Skinner, of Shrewsbury, and by her, was father of

RICHARD (Sir), who m. Margaret, daughter and co-heir of Sir Adam Peshall, knt. of Weston under Lizard, and in her right acquired that estate.*

Reginald de Mutton was living until the year 1413, as appears by deeds, and at his

a son, EDWARD, his successor. He m. secondly, Mary, daughter of John Cotes, esq. of Woodcote, and had another son and two daughters. He was
s. by his elder son,

EDWARD MYTTON, esq. of Weston, anno 1632.
This gentleman m. first, Elizabeth, daughter of James Weston, esq. of Lichfield, and had a son, EDWARD. He wedded, secondly, Cecilia, daughter of Sir John Skevington, bart. of Fisherwick.
He was s. at his decease, by his son,

EDWARD MYTTON, esq. of Weston, who m.
Cecilia, second daughter of Sir William Skeving-ton, of Fisherwick, bart. and left an only child and heiress,

ELIZABETH MYTTON, of Weston, who espoused Sir Thomas Wilbraham, bart. of Woodhey, in the county of Chester, and had three daughters, (coheirs to their father and mother) viz.

ELIZABETH WILBRAHAM, m. to Sir Thomas
Middleton, bart. of Chirk Castle.

GRACE WILBRAHAM, m. to Lionel, earl of Dysart, and great grandmother of Louisa, mother of the three succeeding earls,

HENRY, RICHARD, and THOMAS, with the last of whom, the EARLDOM and minor honours expired, in 1762. (See BUNKE's Extinct Peerage.) She was also mother of four daughters, viz.

1. Mary, who d. unm.
2. Elizabeth, m. to James Cocks, esq.
and d. s. p.

3. ANNE, m. to SIR ORLANDO BRIDGE-
MAN, bart. and had a son,

SIR HENRY BRIDGEMAN, bart. who was advanced to the peerage as BARON BRADFORD, in 1794, and was s. in 1800, by his son, daughter and heir of William Burley,* esq. of Malehurst, in the county of Salop, and by her the Myttons obtained considerable accession of property. Of the marriage there was an only son,

THOMAS MITTON, esq. M.P. for Shrewsbury, in 1472, who further raised the family by marrying Eleanor, youngest daughter and co-heir of Sir John Burgh, knt. lord of Mowddwy, in the partition of whose estates, the lordship of Mowddwy, obtained by his ancestor, Hugh Burgh, in marriage with Elizabeth, daughter of John, lord of Mowddwy, was allotted to the said Thomas Mitton.† This Thomas was sheriff of Shropshire in the last year of the reign of EDWARD IV. and remained in office during the subsequent short period of life permitted to the infant son of that monarch, so that on the assumption of the sovereignty by RICHARD III. he was still sheriff, and arrested in his official capacity, near Shrewsbury, Henry de Stafford, duke of Buckingham, then charged with being a rebel and traitor to the king. For this "good and acceptable service," RICHARD, styling him, "our trusty and well beloved Squier Thomas Mitton," rewards him with a grant of the castle and lordship of Caves, at that time worth £50 per annum, parcel of the said duke's possessions, which, however, were subsequently restored by HENRY VII. to the young duke of Buckingham. Thomas Mitton served the office of bailiff of Shrewsbury, nine times, and it was his fortune to be so invested when HENRY, of Richmond, approached Shrewsbury, on his route from Milford Haven, to meet his rival, RICHARD, at Bosworth field. Having encamped at Forton Heath, near Mitton, about five miles distant from the town, the earl of Richmond despatched messengers to summon its surrender. When these heralds arrived at the foot of the Welsh bridge (the only approach on that side), they found the place in a position of defence, the gates shut, the portcullis let down, and the bailiffs within ready to give their answer. The senior bailiff, for that year was Thomas Mitton, described, in the old Manuscript Chronicle, which relates the event, as "a stout wise gentleman," who responded, that he knew the earl for no king, nor did he recognize any sovereign, but "only Kynge Richard whose lyfftenants he and hys fellowe weare : and before he should entre there, he shoulde goe over hys belly, meaninge thereby that he would be sleyne to the grounde and so to roon over him before he entryd, and that he protestyd vehemently upon the othe he had taken." A long parley ensued; the earl of Richmond himself arrived; but Mitton continued resolute, and the same authority states that the earl of Richmond "returnyd wyth hys compagne backe agayn to Forton," where he passed the night. On the morrow the negotiation with the bailiffs was resumed, and the earl assured the magistrates that he did not mean to hurt the town, or any of its inhabitants, but only desired to pass on to try his right to the crown. We are further informed, that Mitton began to yield; but to reconcile that course to the oath he had just pledged against the entrance of Richmond into Shrewsbury, he adopted the ingenious device of lying down upon the ground, and permitting the earl to step over him! Richmond thus entered Shrewsbury, and was received with great rejoicing; indeed he counted many firm friends and supporters in Shropshire. This well-timed submission to the earl of Richmond, secured for Thomas Mitton the favour of HENRY VII. in as high a degree as he had previously enjoyed that of the usurper RICHARD. By his first wife, Eleanor Burgh, this shrewd Burgess had, with three daughters, an only son, WILLIAM, his heir. He m. secondly, Anne, daughter of the Lord Strange, of Knockin, and relict of Jeffrey Kyffin, esq. by whom he had two other sons, Sir Adam Mytton, knt. and Alan Mytton, and two daughters. Dying in 1504 he was s. by his eldest son, for ninety-nine years; and as these lands formed part of the estates recently sold,* it may be presumed that, on the dissolution of the monasteries, the successor of William Mitton obtained a grant thereof in fee from the crown. The public situations which he himself filled, with the fact of his uncle, by the half blood, Sir Adam Mytton, having been bailiff of Shrewsbury seven times, Burgess in parliament for the same place four times, sheriff of Shropshire, in 1554, and one of the council of the Marches of Wales, are sufficient to show the great influence which the family must have exercised at this period in public affairs. Mr. Mitton m. Cicely, daughter of Sir Henry Delves, knt. by whom he had one son and two daughters. Dying in 1512, he was s. by his son.

WILLIAM MITTON, esq. who removed his abode to a mansion house on his estate in Coton, one of the suburbs of Shrewsbury, from the ancient residence of the Vaughan family, in the centre of the town, where his predecessors had resided from the time of the marriage of Reginald de Mutton with the heiress of Sir Hams Vaghan. Mr. Mitton was three times bailiff of Shrewsbury, and was elected in 1491, to represent the borough in parliament. In addition to his patrimonial estates, he held the lands of Monk Meole and Monk Eye, near Shrewsbury, from the Abbey of Buildwas, by indenture dated, 21st April, 22nd HENRY VII.

RICHARD MYTTON, esq. This gentleman also resided in Shrewsbury, and was chief steward of the manor of Church Stretton, &c. for John, Lord Lumley, in 1562. He was thrice married, by his first wife, Anne, dau. of Sir Edward Grey, knt. of Enville, he had (with five daughters) ten sons, of whom three only married, and left issue, namely,

1. EDWARD, the eldest son, described of Habberley, in the county of Salop, and afterwards of HALSTON, an estate which he obtained by exchange with Alan Hoord, esq. who had purchased it from the crown. Halston, prior to the dissolution of the monasteries, and the abolition of the privileged military orders was a commandery belonging to the knights of St. John, of Jerusalem, held by gift of one of the Fitzalans, earls of Arundel. Edward Mytton, on acquiring Halston, took up his abode there, and it has since continued the chief seat of the family. He m. Anne, daughter of Sir Edward Greville, knt. of Milcote, in the county of Warwick, by whom he had, with four daughters, three sons, viz.

1. EDWARD, b. in 1553.
2. Richard, m. Anne, daughter and co-heir of — Peate, esq. of Kettleby, in the county of Leicester, and had ten sons and ten daughters.
3. Lewis, m. Ursula, another daughter and co-heir of — Peate, of Kettleby, and had two daughters.

Edward Mytton died in 1568, his father then living, and was s. by his eldest son,

EDWARD, of Halston, who wedded Anne, daughter of Reginald

Corbet, esq. of Stoke-upon-Tern, in Salop, one of the judges of the court of King's Bench, and by her (who m. secondly, Sir William Leighton, knt.) left at his decease, in 1583, in the lifetime of his grand-father, two sons, (he had other issue), viz.

1. RICHARD, of Halston, b. in 1577, who inherited the estates of the family at the death of his great grand-father.
2. Peter, of London, merchant, m. Mary, daughter of Rowland Lee, of the same city, also a merchant, and had three sons and one daughter.

II. John, ancestor of the MYTTONS, of Garth and Penylan.

III. Thomas, M.P. for Shrewsbury, in 1554, who m. Margaret, daughter of Sir Edward Greville, knt. and had issue.

Mr. Mytton's second wife was —, daughter of Jenkin Pigott, esq. of Rhuddlan, in North Wales, and by her he had a son,

JENKIN, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Thomas Pool, and had a son,

Richard Mytton, alias Mutton, of Rhuddlan, father, by Elin, his wife, dau. of John Conway, esq. of Peter Mutton, who married first, a lady named Magdalen; and secondly, Margaret, dau. of Sir William Griffith, of Penrhyu; by the former he had a son and successor,

John Mutton, who wedded first, Catherine, dau. of Piers Mostyn, esq. and had a dau. Jane, the wife of Thomas Evans, esq. of Northop. He m. secondly, Anne, dau. of Griffith ap Evan, and had by her, a son,

SIR PETER MUTTON, knt. of Llanerch, chief justice of North Wales, who m. Eleanor, dau. of Edmund Williams, esq. and relict of Evan Griffith, esq. and had two daughters, his co-heirs, ANNE, the wife of ROBERT DAVIES, esq. of Gwysaney, (see p. 276) and ELEANOR, of Kenrick Eyton, esq. of Eyton.

By his third wife, Eleanor, the wealthy heiress of George Harborne, esq. recorder of Shrewsbury, (she had previously been married to Richard Beeston, esq.) he had, Adam, (Sir), recorder of Shrewsbury, who m. first, Jane, daughter of Lan-

Jane, m. first, to Edward Ireland, esq. of Salop; and secondly, to Thomas Higgin, D.D.

Isabel, m. to Thomas Walter.

Richard Mytton lived until the year 1591, and in that year the Manuscript Chronicle of Shrewsbury, thus records his death:—"This yeare and the 28th day of November, Master Rycharde Mytton, esq. called The Gentle Master Mytton, and alderman of Salop, who had been six tymes bayllyff of the towne, was solemnly buried, being about an hundred yeares old." His third wife, who survived him ten years, has also a high character in the same Chronicle:—"The 30th day of January, 1602, being Sundaye, departed thys lyfe the worthy Mrs. Elnor Mytton, late wife of Mr. Rycharde Mytton, Esquire. She was buried the Thursdaye following verely solemnly, being of the full age of 90 yeares. She was of greate birthe, and verely good to the poore; vertuous and godly. She wold dayley pray most devoutly, three whole houres before noone, and three whoale houres in the afternoon, & never stoore but those tymes upon her knees. The God of Peace, no doubt, hath received her to His merceye. Amen!" Richard Mytton outlived his eldest son, as well as the heir of his eldest son, and prior to his death, was surrounded by a numerous progeny of great grand children. By one of whom, the grandson of Edward, of Halston,

RICHARD MYTTON, esq. of Halston, he was succeeded. This gentleman m. Margaret, daughter of Thomas Owen, esq. of Conover, one of the judges of the Common Pleas, and had a son and daughter,

THOMAS, his heir, b. in 1608.

Sarah, m. to Sir Edward Acton, bart. of Aldenham Hall, in the county of Salop, ancestor of the present Sir Ferdinand Acton.

Mr. Mytton, who was sheriff of Shropshire, in 1610, was s. at his decease, by his only son,

THOMAS MYTTON, esq. of Halston, one of the few Shropshire gentlemen who joined the parliamentary standard against King CHARLES, displaying in the cause which he had espoused the most undaunted bearing, tempered with the greatest humanity. As early as August, 1643, he held the rank of colonel, and seized the town of Wem, the first place in Salop, which the parliamentarians possessed. In the following June he wrested Oswestry from the royalists, and in the beginning of 1645, he made himself master of Shrewsbury. The next year, he writes to the parliament, under date of June 15th, 1646, that he was devoted to reducing to obedience, "the rocky and mountainous country of Caernarvonshire."

In the April of that year, he took Ruthin, in the county of Denbigh, and Conway, and was subsequently promoted to the rank of major general. In the line of politics which he adopted, General Mytton was probably influenced by his connection with Sir Thomas Myddelton, of Chirk Castle; they married two sisters, and the two brothers-in-law went exactly the same length in opposition to the king, and no further. Their hostility was levelled against prerogative—so despotically strained in the early part of Charles's reign—but they never contemplated the total prostration of the monarchy, or sought the destruction (personally) of the monarch. They were anti episcopalians, (though General Mytton gave a generous and an anxiously repeated testimony to the merits of Archbishop Williams) for they admired a systematic hierarchy on the Presbyterian model, but when the ulterior views of the Independents began to be disclosed, they retired in disgust; and if the general had survived to the restoration, there is little doubt that he would likewise have gone hand in hand with his brother-in-law, (who acted with so much zeal as to endanger his life) in promoting that great and salutary measure. General Mytton m. in 1629, Margaret, daughter of Sir Robert Napier, of Luton, in the county of Bedford, and had a son, RICHARD, his heir. He was sheriff of Shropshire, in 1645, and chosen knight of the shire for the same county, in 1654. He died in London, was buried in St. Chad's Church, Shrewsbury, (the place of sepulture of his ancestors) on the 29th November, 1656, and s. by his son,

RICHARD MYTTON, esq. of Halston, who m. Rebecca, daughter of Roger Kynaston, esq. of Hordley, in the county of Salop, and had two sons, namely,

RICHARD, his successor.

JOHN, his heir, b. 3rd March, 1768. Rebecca.

He died in 1783, and his son,

JOHN MYTTON, esq. a minor, inherited the estates. This gentleman wedded, 13th October, 1795, Harriett, third daughter of William Mostyn Owen, esq. of Woodhouse, in the county of Salop, and left at his decease, 8th September, 1798, with a daughter, Harriet-Rebecca. (who m. 27th March, 1817, John Hesketh Lethbridge, esq. eldest son of Sir Thomas Lethbridge, bart. and died in 1826, leaving issue), a son and heir,

JOHN MYTTON, esq. of Halston, b. 30th October, 1796, who received his education at Westminster School, and thence obtained a commission in the 7th regiment of Hussars, in which he remained while that distinguished corps formed part of the army of occupation in France, on the fall of NAPOLEON. He was afterwards major in the North Shropshire Yeomanry Cavalry, and he represented Shrewsbury in the last parliament of the reign of GEORGE III. He was sheriff of Shropshire, in 1823. He m. first, 21st May, 1818, Harriet-Emma, eldest daughter of Sir Thomas Tyrwhitt-Jones, bart. by whom, who d. 2nd July, 1820, he had one daughter, Harriet-Emma-Charlotte. Mr. Mytton wedded, secondly, 29th October, 1821, Coroline-Mallet, sixth daughter of Thomas Giffard, esq. of Chillington, by his wife, the Lady Charlotte Courtenay, sister of the earl of Devon, (see vol. i. page 208), and had four sons and a daughter, namely,

JOHN-FOX, his heir, b. 20th November, 1823.

Mr. Mytton inherited, when scarcely two years of age, the family estates, comprising the manors, &c. of Halston and Habberley, in the county of Salop; the manors of Bicton and Monk Meole, with extensive property adjacent to the town of Shrewsbury; the ancient mansion of the family of Vaughan, in the centre of that town,—ALL the old patrimony of his family, much of it derived from the Houses of Vaughan, Tour, Pride, &c. into which his ancestors had married; with the extensive manor or lordship and estate of Dinasmowddry, in the county of Merioneth, which had descended to him from the ancient Princes of Powys, through the intermarriage of his ancestor, with the youngest daughter and co-heir of Sir John Burgh. Invested with such an ample fortune, and endowed with abilities of no ordinary description, Mr. Mytton unhappily lacked in an extraordinary degree that one great qualification—without which, the most unbounded means are insignificant, and the finest talents worthless—PRUDENCE. Entering upon the turf, he became connected with parties and transactions which soon involved and eventually alienated a great portion of this fair inheritance, and undermining his own naturally herculean constitution, hurried him to a premature grave, on the 29th March, 1834, in his thirty-eighth year. He was s. by his eldest son, JOHN FOX MYTTON, esq. now of Halston.

MYTTON, OF GARTH AND PENYLAN.

MYTTON, RICHARD-HERBERT, esq. of Garth, in the county of Montgomery, b. 2nd December, 1808, m. at Calcutta, 15th May, 1830, Charlotte, youngest daughter of Colonel Macgregor, military auditor-general, and has a son and heir, b. 9th September, 1832, and a daughter.

Mr. Mytton inherited the estates at the demise of his father, 21st February, 1828.

Lineage.

JOHN MYTTON, esq. the second son of Richard Mytton, of Shrewsbury, by Ann, his first wife, daughter of Sir Edward Grey, knt. of Enville, was seated at Pontyscowryd, in the county of Montgomery (see p. 520). By his first wife, Mary, daughter and heir of Lawrence Cole, gent. of London, he had an only dau. Ellen, and by his second wife, Anne, dau. of John Barnes, gent. of Salop, he had, with other issue, his heir,

RICHARD MYTTON, esq. of Pontyscowryd, whose eldest son,

JAMES MYTTON, esq. of Pontyscowryd, married Eleanor, daughter of Edward Jones, esq. of Sandford, in the county of Salop, and by her (who wedded secondly, Humphrey Hughes, esq. of Gwerclas, in Merionethshire) had a daughter, Elizabeth, the wife of Charles Hughes, gent. of Bryntangor, and a son and successor,

RICHARD MYTTON, esq. of Pontyscowryd, high sheriff for Montgomeryshire in 1674, who m. Bridget, daughter of George Devereux, esq. of Vaynor, in that county, and left, with a daughter, Catherine, who wedded Edward Lloyd, esq. of Aberbechan, a son,

RICHARD MYTTON, esq. of Pontyscowryd, who espoused Dorothy, daughter and heiress of Brochwel Wynn, esq. of Garth, in the county of Montgomery, (see family of WYNNE at foot) and had a son, DEVEREUX, his heir, and a daughter, Catherine, m. to Edward Devereux, Viscount Hereford. Mr. Mytton, who served the office of high-sheriff of Montgomeryshire, in 1730, died in 1773, and was s. by his son, DEVEREUX MYTTON, esq. of Garth, who m. Anne, daughter of Richard Jones, esq.

Family of Glynne, of Garth.

This very ancient family was lineally descended from Brochwel, Prince of Powys, the commander of the British forces, under Cadvan, in the memorable battle fought with the Saxons, under Ethelred, King of Northumberland, near Chester, in the year 603. Eighteenth in descent from Brochwel, was

SIR GRUFFYDD VYCHAN, second son of Griffith ap Ieuan, who held considerable possessions in Powysland, derived from his ancestors, and subject to those feudal customs claimed as of right by the Lords of Powys, then the representatives of the ancient princes of that division of the principality. According to the statements of Welsh genealogists and historians, Sir Gruffydd Vychan was created knight-banneret at the battle of Agincourt. He probably commanded (under the Lord Powys) the quota sent from his own district in the general levy from Wales, and as he received the honour of knighthood in the company of Sir David Gam, and his brave relatives, Sir Roger Vaughan and Sir Watkin Lloyd, who died on the field of battle, it may be presumed that Sir Gruffydd Vychan shared with them in the exploit of rescuing their sovereign from a very perilous situation. In the case of Sir Gruffydd Vychan, and also in the cases of others who obtained distinction at Agincourt, we observe their families in a short time rising to consideration and importance in their respective neighbourhoods. Sir Gruffydd Vychan, soon after that event, was called Lord of Burge-din, Treflydan, Garth, and Gaerfawr, though he had commenced his career as a second son of Gruffydd ap Ieuan ap Madoc ap Cadwgan Wenwys, a minor chieftain in Guilsfield; and his descendants in various branches continued, for many years after his decease, persons of consequence and influence in the county. About the latter end of the year 1417, two years after the battle of Agincourt, Sir Gruffydd Vychan, and his elder brother Ieuan, were parties to a deed, now in the possession of Mr. Mytton, of Garth, whereby Edward de Cherlton, then Lord of Powys, granted them several privileges for assisting in taking Sir John Oldecastle, Lord Cobham, who was captured by them and others within the lordship of Powys, and subsequently conducted to London, by Sir John Grey (afterwards Lord of Powys) who had married Joan, the eldest daughter and co-heir of Edward de Cherlton. Notwithstanding his services to the Lords of Powys, there is sufficient authority for stating that their faithful soldier, Sir Gruffydd Vychan, was put to death (by decapitation) under a mandate of Henry Grey, Lord of Powys, for having refused to obey an order to perform some feudal service, and this atrocity was committed in direct violation of a safe conduct that had been granted to him. Sir Gruffydd Vychan must at this time have been far advanced in years, for at the period of the battle of Agincourt, where he gained his honourable distinction, Henry Grey, Earl of Tankerville and Lord of Powys, was not born; and the iniquitous putting to death of the hoary warrior, the companion in arms of his father, Sir John Grey, Earl of Tankerville, and of his grandfather, Edward de Cherlton, Lord of Powys, in many a well fought field, was in all probability the violent act of an unbridled youth, on a supposed affront to his baronial dignity.

Lineage.

OSBERTUS DE AYNOSDALE, the first ancestor of this family on record, had three sons, viz. ROBERT, his heir; Roger, to whom Gilbert de Garston gave a bovaté of land in Garston, anno 1199; and Richard. To the eldest son,

ROBERT DE AYNOSDALE, JOHN, earl of Moreton, gave, in 1155, Great Crosby, to be his forester, and on his accession to the throne confirmed the grant. Robert was father of

SIR ADAM DE AYNOSDALE, to whom William de Ferrers, earl of Derby, gave four bovates of land in Crosby, which he had previously held by the service of stewardship, rendering ten shillings per annum. Sir Adam witnessed a deed made to William, the son of Henry de Walton, concerning four bovates of land in Crosby; and he obtained from Albrera, the daughter of Henry, the son of Matthew de Garston, in her widowhood, one bovat of land in Garston, with a fourth part of the fishing on the river Mersey. Sir Adam's son,

SIR ROBERT BLUNDELL of Crosby, gave to Allan, the son of Allan Norras (Norreys), all his land in Watton Dale, Breck, and Bold, for six marks, which the said Allan had lent him. In the 5th EDWARD I. Sir Robert made over to his son, Nicholas, all his lands in Annosdale, now called Ainsdale, saving to himself, Shipwreck, a valuable appendage, in those days, to an estate on the coast, and likewise all his rents in Ravensmeales and Liverpoole, still reserving the produce of Shipwreck. He m. Maud, daughter of Agnes Bowler, (who possessed lands in Bishop's Castle, Ledbury, &c. temp. HENRY III.) and had a son, the said

NICHOLAS BLUNDELL, who granted to William Bray, for 30 shillings, one hawke of land in Walcoate, which William once held of Nicholas for twelve years, at five shillings rent. In the 10th EDWARD I. Nicholas Blundell enfeofs Richard, Parson of Septon, in all his lands in Lancashire, except those which Symon de Walton held in Great Crosby; and the same Richard reenfcoffed the said Nicholas, Margery, his wife, and Nicholas, the son of David, in the said lands, and in 1296, Symon de Walton gave to Nicholas Blundell, and his heirs, all his lands and tenements in Great Crosby, with homages, reuts, services, wardships, reliefs, escheats, &c. to hold of the chief lords. By his wife, Margery, or Eleanor, Nicholas had three sons, DAVID, his heir; Nicholas, whose marriage was granted to Richard Holland; and William, who wedded Joan, daughter of Griffith de la Lee. The eldest son,

DAVID BLUNDELL, espoused Agnes Molineux, living his widow 4th EDWARD II. and had, with two younger sons, William and Richard, an heir,

NICHOLAS BLUNDELL, who gave to Richard de Lund, all his right in the lands of Great Crosby, which Richard, the clerk, had of the gift of Agnes, his mother, 4th EDWARD III., and he also granted, in the 6th of the same reign, to Henry de Moorhouse, and Margery, his wife, a parcel of land in Little Crosby, lying near to the Moorhouses, called Crosby Meadow, to be held of the chief lord. He m. Ellen, daughter of Richard Holland, who was to keep her during his life, and had, with two younger sons, John and Richard, and a daughter, Alice, the first wife of Blundell, of Ince, a successor,

HENRY BLUNDELL, living 26th HENRY VI.

who wedded Ellen, daughter of John Page, of Thornton, and had two sons, Nicholas, and

RICHARD BLUNDELL, who flourished under EDWARD IV. He m. Margery, daughter of Henry Scarisbrick, and had two sons, NICHOLAS and Henry, by the elder of whom,

NICHOLAS BLUNDELL, he was succeeded. The only daughter of this Nicholas,

ALICE BLUNDELL, dyiug without male issue, her uncle,

HENRY BLUNDELL, inherited. He married Joan, daughter of Robert Ditton, who had lands released to him by Henry and Nicholas Blundell, 12th EDWARD IV. The son and heir of this marriage,

NICHOLAS BLUNDELL, wedded the daughter of Samlesbury, of Samlesbury, and was succeeded by his son, NICHOLAS BLUNDELL, who held lands in Little Crosby, and Ince Blundell, in the 8th HENRY VIII. He m. Margaret, daughter of Henry Scarisbrick, of Scarisbrick, and had, with four younger sons, Thomas, Hugh, and George, and a daughter, Alice, a successor, HENRY BLUNDELL, of Crosby, who held messuages, and lands in Thornton, of Vivian, the son of Robert de Ersam (Urmsom), in Sockage, by the rent of ten shillings. He m. first, a daughter of Heiton, of Heiton, and had one son and two daughters, viz.

Edward, who appears to have died young.

Elizabeth, m. to Robert Frazakerley.

Alice, m. to — Orton.

He wedded secondly, Agnes, daughter of Sir Richard Bold, of Bold, in Lancashire, and dying in battle in Scotland, left a son and successor,

JAMES BLUNDELL, esq. of Crosby, living 31st HENRY VIII. who held the manor of Little Crosby, of Sir William Molyneux, by knight's service, rent 4*d.*, messuages, lands, and tenements in Great Crosby, of the king, as duke of Lancaster, in socage by fealty, rent 10 shillings; lands and tenements in Ditton, of the king, by rent three shillings and sixpence, and a red rose on St. John the Baptist's day; lands and tenements in Ince Blundell, of James Blundell, in socage; lands and tenements in Bold, of Sir Richard Bold, knt. in socage, by fealty rent eight shillings, with divers other possessions, under Langton, Molyneux, Butler, &c. He espoused Margaret, daughter of Butler, of Rawcliffe, and left, with two daughters, Jane and Anne, who both died issueless, a son,

HENRY BLUNDELL, esq. of Crosby, who m. Agnes, daughter of Sir William Leyland, knt. of Morlies, and was father of

of Stretton, in Cheshire, and had issue, WILLIAM, his heir; Richard; James; and Jane, the wife of — Maddison. Richard Blundell died in 1567, and held at his decease, the manor of Little Crosby, Moorhouses, and Ditton; 200 messuages; 40 cottages; 20 tofts; 1 dove-house; 1 wind-milne; 200 gardens; 100 orchards; 1000 acres of lands; 200 acres of meadow; 1000 acres of pasture; 400 acres of woodland; 500 of heath and ling; 500 acres of marsh; 500 acres of turbury; 200 mossett, forty shillings rent per annum; in Crosby Parva, Moorhouses, Ditton, Great Crosby, Ince Blundell, Thornton, Bold, Liverpool, &c. The manor of Little Crosby was held of Richard Molyneux, esq. by knight's service, rent fourpence, and the manor of Ditton, as before stated, by the service of one red rose at the feast of St. John the Baptist. Richard Blundell d. a prisoner as a Catholic recusant, in Lancaster Castle, 24th ELIZABETH, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM BLUNDELL, esq. of Crosby, b. in 1560, who was imprisoned for five years, and payed sundry fines for recusancy. He espoused Amelia, daughter of Edward Norreys, esq. son of Sir William Norreys, of Speke, who died 14th CHARLES I. and brother of Sir William Norreys, K.B. slain at Musselborough. By this lady, who died in 1631, he left at his demise, in 1638, with two daughters, Anne, the wife of — Gillibrand, and Margaret, who d. s. p., a son, NICHOLAS BLUNDELL, esq. of Crosby, who m. Jane, daughter of Roger Bradshaigh, esq. of Haigh, and had two sons and six daughters. He died in 1631, and was s. by his elder son, WILLIAM BLUNDELL, esq. of Crosby, who had his thigh broken at the siege of Lathom House, fighting on the royal side. Of the sufferings and services of this gentleman, during the civil war, the following extract from a letter of his, addressed to Mr. John Warmer, and dated, Crosby Hall, 2nd May, 1687, gives an interesting account;— "The importunity of friends and my own slender fortune with ye great number of children that depend on my family, do incline me to petition ye king for som small advantageous employment upon a civil account. And tho' I cannot pretend to any great degree of merit, yet it is my opinion y^t there are few alive at ye present of thos that served ye king at ye beginning of our civil wars in 1642 that suffer'd so much for the crown and acted so little for it as I have don. I designed to have acted more; I set up my rest upon it and ventured my all. My equipage then for ye warre was for above my fortune. But in ye first day of my service, and before I had mustred ye 100 Dragoons w^{ch} I was, by commission, raising, I lost ye use of my limbs, by a shot, and could never recover them since to make them sufficiently able for ye fatigue of war. Upon this there followed ye plunder of almost all my goods and ye sequestration of my lands, w^{ch} was continued for ten years. My lands were then sold by an act of parliament! yet were they happily bought by friends, wth money provided by me, for my behouf. After I was lamed in ye war, tho' I could not use a sword, I was 4 times made a Prisoner and payed my ransom twice: And my estate being bought, as above said, I paid ye 10th part of ye Revenue, by an arbitrary law of Cromwells for sundry years

Signed W. B.

This gentleman, who was formerly of Roath Castle, in Glamorganshire, sold that estate, in 1830, to John M. Richards, esq. and purchased his present residence in 1832.

Lineage.

The KEMPES* were seated at the manor of Olantigh, in Wye, in the county of Kent,

* The word "Kempe" signifies a combatant or man at arms: it is used frequently in that sense antecedently to the reign of EDWARD IV. and are supposed, by some, to be of Norman origin. They became eventually dispersed throughout the south of England, and several branches, all bearing the same coat armour, but differenced in the crest, have maintained the highest respectability.

JOHN KEMPE, a younger son of Thomas and Beatrice Kempe, of Olantigh, who was born in 1380, and educated at Merton college, Oxford, obtained distinction in the time of HENRY V. by whom he was appointed chief justiciary of Normandy, and sent ambassador to treat with Ferdinand of Arragon for a league of perpetual amity, and for the marriage of the daughter of that prince with the king. He was afterwards nominated successively, within five years, to the sees of Rochester, Chichester, London, and York; in 1439, created cardinal, by the title of St. Balbinia, which was changed to St. Rufina, and eventually became archbishop of Canterbury, and twice chancellor of England.

One branch of the Kempes of Olanteigh, an estate which remained in their possession until 1607,* is represented by the present THOMAS READ KEMPE, esq. of Kempe Town, near Brighton, and from another, settled at Lavethan, in the parish of Blisland, Cornwall, descends the present William Kempe, esq. of Teign Villa.

RICHARD KEMPE, of Lavethan, in 1500, (grandson of Edmund Kempe, citizen of London, third son of Sir Thomas Kempe, knt. of Olanteigh), wedded Grace, fifth daughter of John Boscawen, esq. of Tregothnan, (which family is now represented by Edward Boscawen, earl of Falmouth), and left a son and successor,

WILLIAM KEMPE, esq. who m. a daughter of Thomas St. Aubyn, esq. of Clowance, living, very aged, in 1620, by Zenobia, his wife, daughter of John Mallet, esq. of Wolley, in Devonshire, and had a son and heir,

BELLEW, OF STOCKLEIGH COURT.

BELLEW, JOHN-PRESTWOOD, esq. of Stockleigh Court, in the county of Devon, b. 19th July, 1803, m. 8th May, 1827, Mary-Ann, daughter of William Hancock, esq. of Wiveliscombe, in Somersetshire, and has had issue,

JOHN-FROUDE.

Mary-Prestwood, d. in infancy.

Louisa-Philippa.

Fanny.

Mr. Bellew succeeded his father 17th June, 1826.

Lineage.

This ancient family, which is supposed to be of Italian origin, the name still existing in Italy, was founded in England, by Belleau, or De Bella Aqua, a Norman baron, who appears on the roll of Battel Abbey, as marshal to the CONQUEROR's army. His descendant, JOHN DE BELLA AQUA, or BELLEWE, was lord of Carlton, in Yorkshire, and married Laderina, one of the three co-heiresses of Peter de Bruce.

The Belles, of whom there were eighteen knights in a direct line of succession, and who were renowned in the wars of the middle ages, settled in Ireland, at Bellewstown, in the county of Meath, and in the adjoining county of Louth, &c. in 1470. From SIR RICHARD BELLEW, knight of the garter, descended Sir John Bellew, of Willystown, ancestor of the BARONETS of Earneath; of MICHAEL DILLON BELLEW, esq. of Mount Bellew, in the county of Galway; and of Sir Christopher Bellew, knt. whose eldest son, Sir John, was created BARON BELLEW, of Dulech, a title, which expired in 1772, with John, the fourth lord, whose male representative is Captain Frances John Bellew, H. C. S. great grand-nephew of Patrick, son of Mathew Bellew, of Rogerstown, and nephew of John, the first lord. The branch immediately before us, was established in Devonshire, by JOHN BELLEW, lineally descended from Roger Bellewe, of Bellewstown. He wedded temp. EDWARD IV. Amy, eldest daughter and co-heir of John Fleming, esq. (of the very ancient house of Fleming, of Bratton Fleming), by his wife, the daughter and co-heir of Martin Ferrers, descended from Henry Ferrers, who held the manor of Beer Ferrers, in the county of Devon, in the reign of EDWARD II. and had his castle there. The parts of the ancient inheritance of the Flemings, of Bratton Fleming, which fell to the share of Bellew, by this marriage were principally Alverdiscott, or Alscot, in the hundred of Fremington; the Barton of Ash, anciently Esse, in the manor of Santon and Halsdon, now Halstone, in the parish of Dolton, all in the county of Devon, (see Ridsen's Survey and Lyson's Britannia). By the co-heiress of Fleming, John Bellew, had a son and successor,

PATRICK BELLEW, of Alverdiscott, in Devon, who m. Ann, daughter of John Dennys, esq. of Orleigh, in that shire, and had, with other children, who appear to have died issueless, three daughters, Elizabeth, the wife of William Henslow, of Horwood; Julian, of — Compton, of Somersetshire; and Anne, of John Barry, of Winscott, a son and heir.

HENRY BELLEW, esq. of Alverdiscott, who wedded Alice, daughter and heir of William Colebrooke, by Jane, his wife, daughter and heir of Robert Calley, esq. of Chymney, and had two daughters, Joan, m. to John Hanford, of Penyton; and Elinor, m. first, to John Butler, and secondly, to John Anderton, of Andenton, and a son and successor,

WILLIAM BELLEW,* esq. of Ash Rogus, in Bampton, in Devonshire, who m. Anne, daughter of Sir Hugh Stukely, of Aston, in that county, and had (with several other sons and daughters) Elizabeth, the wife of Simon Sloley, of Sherwell; Philippa, of

John Addington, of Bideford; Alice, of Stephen Braddon; and Agnes, of John Dobb, of Upcott, and a son,

HENRY BELLEW, esq. of Stockley English, in the county of Devon, living in 1564, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Anyas Chichester, esq. of Arlington, and had issue,

Henry, of Hunsham, in the county of Devon.

Margaret.

Anne, m. to William Philippe, gent. of Alverdiscott.

The second son,

PHILIP BELLEW, esq. of Stockleigh Court, succeeded to the estate upon the demise of his father, in 1597.† He wedded Joane Quicke, of Stockly Pomeroy, and had, with other children, a daughter, Elizabeth, born in 1612, the wife of — Furze, esq. of Torrington, (to whom she conveyed Halston, in Devonshire), and two sons, HENRY and WILLIAM, successive heirs.

The elder,

HENRY BELLEW, esq. of Stockleigh Court, b. in 1614, married Jane Burgives, but dying without issue, in 1696, was succeeded by his brother,

WILLIAM BELLEW, esq. of Yarnscombe, who m. Rose Hill, and had three sons,

Philip, who died in the lifetime of his father, unn. in 1698.

HENRY, heir.

William, who m. Anna Eyre, or Ayre, of Torrington, and had three sons and four daughters, namely,

1. William, of Mount Stamp, near Exeter, who m. Miss Sarah Poole, but died s. p.

1. Elizabeth.

2. Rose, m. to Henry Besley, esq.

3. Anna, m. to the Rev. Daniel Cooper.

4. Sarah, m. to Henry Moore, esq. of Plymouth.

William Bellew died in 1700, and was s. by his son,

HENRY BELLEW, esq. of Stockleigh Court, who married, and had one son,

Henry, who m. Sarah, only daughter and heiress of Nicholas Pope, gent. of Crediton, and d. in 1711, s. p.

Mr. Bellew surviving his only child, was s. at his decease, in 1719, by his nephew,

* This William was the last of the family who lived at Ash. The Bellews had resided at Alverdiscott and Ash, for many generations, "whence removing (saith Ridsen) they made their residence in Lincolnshire." This possibly may be true of one brother, but Ridsen was evidently mistaken in speaking thus of the family generally.

† From this period to the present time, the inscriptions in the church of Stockleigh, are regularly continued.

HENRY BELLEW, esq. of Stockleigh Court. This gentleman espoused Frances, daughter of William Barbor, esq. of Lary and Raleigh, in the county of Devon, by his wife, the heiress of Poyntz, of Northcote and Bettadown, and had, with other issue, who died unm.

- I. WILLIAM, his heir.
- II. HENRY, successor to his nephew.

KELSO, OF KELSOLAND.

(BoW of Dankeith.)

KELSO, WILLIAM, esq. of Dankeith, in the county of Ayr, formerly major of the 23rd Light Dragoons, and now colonel of the royal regiment of Ayrshire militia, m. 30th August, 1784, Susanna, daughter of William Fergusson, esq. of Doonholm, and has had issue,

JOHN, who d. unmarried.

WILLIAM, captain in the East India Company's Service Fleming, an officer of Dragoons.

Elizabeth, m. John H. Martin, esq. of Glencree, in Wigtownshire, and has issue.

Margaret.

Mary-Susanna.

Eleanora.

Colonel Kelso inherited the estates upon the demise of his father in 1781.

Lineage.

The Kelsos, one of the most ancient families in Ayrshire, came originally, it is stated, from Normandy, and that traditional origin is sustained by the fact that Yuelsoe is a surname still preserved in the province.

HUGO DE KELSO, the first of the name mentioned in the public records of Scotland, appears in the Ragman Roll anno 1296, and is called by the Continuator of Nisbet "ancestor of the Kelsos, of Kelsoland." In 1328, Andrew de Kelcho, a son of Kelsoland, prior of the abbacy of Paisley, occurs in a deed of submission about that period, to which he was a party; and in 1403,

JOHN DE KELCHO, or KELSO, dominus de Kelsoland, with the consent of his eldest son, gave in donation the lands of Langley Bank, situated between Kelsoland and Largs, to the church of St. Mary, at Paisley, by a deed of mortification, dated 5th January. The said eldest son,

JOHN DE KELSO, wedded Elizabeth Livingston, presumed to have been of the house of Callendar, and was succeeded by his grandson,

THOMAS KELSO, of Kelsoland, who had a charter from JAMES II. of those lands as oye (grandson) and heir of the late John Kelso, of Kelsoland, dated 4th September, 1444. He espoused a daughter of Boyle, of Kelburn, whose family at the same time intermarried with the house of Kelsoland, and had a son and heir,

JOHN KELSO, of Kelsoland, father, by his wife, a daughter of William Stewart, of Fynock, second son of William Stewart, of Bute, grandson of King ROBERT II., of

THOMAS KELSO, of Kelsoland, designed in a charter from JAMES V. in 1521, "filius et hæres Joannis de Kelso de Kelsoland." His son and successor,

THOMAS KELSO, of Kelsoland, infest, as heir to his father, in 1536, m. a daughter of Frazer, of Knock, and left a daughter, Giles, the wife of Hugh Crawford, of Cloverhill, and a son, FORTESCUE, OF FALLAPIT.

FORTESCUE, WILLIAM-BLUNDELL, esq. of Fallapit, in the county of Devon, b. 31st May, 1816, succeeded his father in July, 1821.

Lineage.

"FALLAPIT," says LYSONS, in his Magna Britannica, "was for several descents the property and residence of a family of that name, whose heiress married Sir Henry Fortescue, lord chief justice of the common pleas in Ireland: she was his second wife: their descendants in the male line inherited and resided at this place above five hundred years."

The family originated in England with SIR RICHARD LE FORTE, one of the leaders in the CONQUEROR'S army, who had the fortune to protect his chief at the battle of Hastings, by bearing before him a massive shield, and hence acquired the addition of the French word "escue," a shield, to his surname. Sir Richard's son, SIR ADAM FORTESCUE, who had also a command at Hastings, obtained from his royal master grants of Wymondeston or Winston, and other lands in the county of Devon.

From him lineally descended

WILLIAM FORTESCUE, of Winston, whose name appears as a subscribing witness to numerous charters and deeds in the time of EDWARD III. He m. Isabella, sister and co-heir of Thomas Beauchamp, of Ryme, in the county of Dorset, and widow of Richard Branscomb, by whom he had two sons, namely,

- I. WILLIAM, who inherited Winston.
- II. JOHN (Sir), one of the heroes of Agincourt, and appointed, in 1424, governor and captain of Meaux and Brie. He m. Eleanor, daughter and heir of William Norreis, esq. of Norreis, in Devon, and had issue,

1. HENRY (Sir), chief justice of the court of common pleas in Ireland, anno 1426. This learned person married, first, Joan, daughter of — Wood, of Wood, and had a son, JOHN, who founded the family of FORTESCUE, of WOOD, which terminated in an heiress, ELIZABETH FORTESCUE, who m. Lewis Fortescue, esq. of Preston.

Sir Henry married, secondly, the heiress of FALLAPIT, of FALLAPIT, in Devon, and had another son,

RICHARD, of Fallapit, who m. Margaret, daughter of Robert Hill, of Shilston, in the same county, and was s. by his son,

JOHN FORTESCUE, of Fallapit, who m. Margaret, daughter and heir of William Hingston, of Wonnell, and left an only daughter and heiress, ELIZABETH FORTESCUE, of Fallapit, of whom hereafter as wife of LEWIS FORTESCUE, one of the barons of the exchequer.

2. JOHN (Sir), CHIEF JUSTICE OF ENGLAND in 1442, ancestor of the Extant EARLS FORTESCUE, and extinct EARLS OF CLERMONT, and of the FORTESCUES, of Buckland Filleigh, (see p. 545.)
3. Richard, progenitor of the Fortescues of Punsburn, in Herts, of Saldon, in Bucks, and of Faulkborne, in Essex. This last estate was acquired by the Fortescues in marriage with the heiress of Montgomery, and remained in their possession until sold, in

* Those grants were confirmed to the family by King JOHN, in the 10th year of his reign.

1637, by William Fortescue, esq. to the family of Bullock.

The elder son,

WILLIAM FORTESCUE, of Winston, m. Ma-bella, daughter of John Falwell, and had a son and successor,

JOHN FORTESCUE, of Winston, who m. Joan, daughter and heir of John Preteston, of Preteston, or Preston, and had three sons, viz.

- i. JOHN, of Winston, who m. Isabella, daughter of Thomas Gibbins, esq. of Fenton, in Devon, and had (with a daughter, Johanna, who m. first, Thomas Cotterell, of Washbourne; secondly, John Prideaux, of Orchard; and thirdly, Richard Troublefield) a son and heir,

THOMAS, of Winston. This gentleman m. Florence, daughter of Thomas Bonville, of Camrally, in the county of Devon, and left issue,

1. THOMAS, of Winston, whose only daughter and heiress, by his wife Cicely, daughter of Richard Strode, of Newnham, in Devon, JOAN FORTESCUE, married Edward Babington, of Wyke, in the county of Worcester.

2. William, of Moreley, in Devon, who m. Catherine Walsh.
3. Henry

1. Aquila, m. to Robert Ashford, of Wonnell.
2. Eliza, m. to John Barnhouse.
3. Isabella, m. to Anthony Honichurch.
4. Johanna, m. to William Heale, of Cornwood.

- ii. William, of Preston, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Champenowne, but his line is now extinct.

iii. JOHN.

The third son,

JOHN FORTESCUE, esq. of Spirelston, in the county of Devon, m. Alice, daughter of John Cookworthy, and had four sons, viz.

1. RICHARD, of Spirelston, whose line ended in an heiress,

REBECCA FORTESCUE, the wife of George, younger brother of Henry Fortescue, esq. of Buckland Filleigh.

- ii. Nicholas, groom porter to King HENRY VIII. This gentleman purchased, in 1543, the manor of Wethell, in Warwickshire, and d. 28th August, 1549. His grandson,

JOHN FORTESCUE, esq. of Wethell and Cokehill, was compelled to pay the sum of £234 as composition for his estate in the troublesome times of CHARLES I. Wethell was sold about the year 1695 by his son, William Fortescue.

III. LEWIS.

The youngest son,

LEWIS FORTESCUE, esq. being bred to the bar, was successively one of the readers of the Middle Temple, sergeant at law, and a baron of the exchequer. He was raised to the bench about the close of HENRY VIIIth's reign. JOHN-DICKER, of Widmouth Villa, near Stratton, Cornwall, b. 3rd August, 1789, M.A. of Oriel College, Oxford, major of the North Devon Yeomanry Cavalry, and captain of the South Devon regiment of Militia, a magistrate and deputy lieutenant in Devon and Cornwall.

Mr. Fortescue espoused, secondly, in 1818, Sarah-Bridget, daughter and co-heir of James Marwood, esq. of Sutton, in Devonshire, and widow of Henry Stevens, esq. of Cross, in the same county, by whom, now deceased, he had no issue.

This gentleman is in the magistracy and lieutenancy for Devonshire and Cornwall. He is lieutenant-colonel of the North Devon Yeomanry Cavalry, and lieutenant-colonel of the Tonnidge Local Militia. He was twice nominated sheriff for Devonshire, but excused, being receiver-general of taxes for the county.

Lineage.

SIR JOHN FORTESCUE, knt. younger brother of HENRY FORTESCUE, chief justice of Ireland, and second son of Sir John Fortescue (see p. 541), was called, in 1430, to the degree of serjeant-at-law, and, in 1441, constituted king's serjeant; the next year he was made lord chief justice of England, being an especial favourite of King HENRY VI. to whom he was eventually lord chancellor. In April, 1463, he embarked with QUEEN MARGARET, PRINCE EDWARD, and many persons of distinction, who followed the fortunes of the House of Lancaster, at Bamburg, and landed at Sluys, in Flanders. Remaining several years in exile, he composed his celebrated treatise "De Laudibus Legum Anglæ," which will remain an everlasting monument of his great talents and profound legal knowledge. He subsequently returned to England, and was taken prisoner at Tewkesbury, but obtaining a pardon from the successful monarch, he was permitted to retire to his seat, at Ebrington, in Gloucestershire, where he passed the remainder of his life, free from the cares and remote from the dangers of a court. The Chief Justice m. Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Miles Stapleton, and was s. by his son,

MARTIN FORTESCUE, esq. of Ebrington, who wedded Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Richard Deynse, of BUCKLAND FILLEIGH, and Weare Giffard, both in Devonshire, by whom (who m. secondly, Sir R. Pomeroy, knt.) he had two sons, viz.

JOHN, from whom the EARLS FORTESCUE. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.)

WILLIAM.

The second son.

WILLIAM FORTESCUE, esq. who was of Buckland Filleigh, that estate being settled upon him by his mother, m. Maud, daughter and heir of John Atkyns, esq. of Milton Abbot, in Devonshire, and had three sons, JOHN, Edward, and James, and two daughters, Margaret and Jaquetta, the latter married to William Dennis, esq. of Southcorne, Devon. 11. Faithful (Sir), a soldier of high reputation, who served several years in Flanders, and was commissioned by the lords of council, in the time of ELIZABETH, to raise men and arms for Tilbury camp, in the memorable era (1588) of the ARMADA. Sir Faithful Fortescue died about the year 1608, at the advanced age of 96, leaving, (with several daughters, one of whom lived to be 102) three sons, viz

1. John, of Northam, in Devon, who died in 1662, leaving a son,

John, of Parkham, in the same county, who died temp. GEORGE I. leaving two sons, John and William.

2. Faithful, like his father, of the profession of arms, and brought up to the art of war in the same school, that of Flanders, where he served for seven years. When visiting his cousin, Sir Faithful Fortescue, in Ireland, he happened to attend a review, or general muster of the army, (horse and foot) on the Curragh of Kildare, by the Lord Lieutenant Ormonde, and at the request of Sir Faithful, as coming recently from Flanders, was permitted by His Excellency, to draw up the whole line in battle array, which executing with great martial skill, the lord lieutenant conferred a captain's commission on him in the field. After the breaking out of the rebellion, he fled into Scotland, and thence made his way into England, where he joined the royal standard, and served in several engagements. Upon the restoration he resumed his station in Ireland, and died there at the age of 82, leaving a son, Faithful, a lieutenant in the army, who was dead in 1691.

LLOYD, OF GLOSTER.

LLOYD, HARDRESS, esq. of Gloster, in the King's County, b. about the year 1782, inherited the estates upon the demise of his father.

This gentleman, who was for some years lieutenant-colonel of the South Down militia, represented the King's County in parliament (for which he is a magistrate, deputy and vice lieutenant) from 1807 to 1816.

Lineage.

This family derives from SANDDE HARDD, (or Alexander, the handsome) son of Cadrod Hardd, a chieftain resident in the Isle of Anglesey at the commencement of the tenth century. Sandde entered the service of the princes of Powys, and obtained as a reward for his valour in numerous conflicts with the Saxons extensive grants of land in the district now called Denbighshire. Third in descent from Sandde was YNYR, who is styled in ancient manuscripts YNYR of YALE, from his possessions within the territory of Yale, where he was a chieftain of some importance. His son, LLEWELYN AP YNYR, distinguished himself in the battle of Corwen, fought against the English, anno 1165, and had a grant of the township of Gelligynan, with a coat of arms, under the following circumstances: while in conversation after the battle with the prince, who had commanded in chief, he accidentally drew his left hand smeared with blood across his sword, and left the marks of his four bloody fingers; which the prince observing, ordained that he should carry similar marks on his shield, whence himself and his descendants subsequently bore; paly of eight, argent* and gules.

EVAN LLOYD, esq. of Yale, described in the inscription on his monument in Llanarmon Church, North Wales, as "one of the deputy lieutenants, custos rotulorum and justice of the peace in Denbighshire, a captain general in the service of his Majesty King CHARLES in Ireland, son and heir of Sir John Lloyd, knight-banneret and grandson of Sir Evan Lloyd, knight-banneret, (the twelfth of his race lineally descended from Ynyr of Yale), and the tenth of his house of the name of Lloyd," m. Mary, daughter and co-heir of Sir Richard Trevor, knt. and had issue,

1. JOHN, of Yale, a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the county of Denbigh, m. first, Margaret, daughter of Sir Bevis Thelwall, knt. and, secondly, Eleanor, daughter of Sir William Jones, knt. of Castellmarch, one of the judges of the king's bench, and widow of John Price, esq. of Rhiwlas. By his first wife, John Lloyd had a son and heir,

SIR EVAN LLOYD, of Yale, who was created a BARONET in 1646. He wedded Anne, daughter of Sir Charles Williams, knt. of Llangibby, and was succeeded by his son,

SIR EVAN LLOYD, second baronet of Yale, who m. Mary, daughter and co-heir of Rees Tanat, esq. and dying 6th April, 1700, left an only surviving daughter and heiress,

WALROND, BETHELL, esq. of Dulford House, in the county of Devon, b. 10th August, 1801, m. by special license, in St. James's-square, 10th November, 1829, the Lady Janet St. Clair Erskine, only daughter of James, present Earl of Rosslyn, and has had issue, HENRY, b. 30th July, 1830, baptized in Clifford-street, in the parish of St. James, Westminster, 3rd September following, d. 19th August, 1831.

Harriot, b. 10th March, 1832.

Another daughter.

This gentleman succeeded at the decease of his brother, on the 21st May, 1819. He represented the boroughs of Sudbury and Saltash successively in parliament.

Mr. Walrond, as one of the co-heirs to the ancient BARONY OF WELLES, petitioned the King, in 1832, that his majesty would be graciously pleased to terminate the ABEYANCE in his behalf, which being referred to the attorney-general, a report followed in favour of the claims of the petition, and so the matter at present rests.

Lineage.

This is the second branch of the family of WALROND, of BRADFIELD, in the county of Devon, founded by OSMOND WALROND, younger son of John Walrond, of Bradfield, and brother of Humphrey Walrond, of the same place, who m. Emlyn, daughter of — Buckthought, of Devonshire, and had three sons, viz.

HUMPHREY, his successor.

Roger, named in the will of his elder brother, in 1577, m. Agnes, daughter of John Mansell, and had James, Nicholas, and Roger.

William, of Fysett, named in the will of his brother, Humphrey, in 1577, m. Margaret Dolman, and was father of William and Henry.

The eldest son,

HUMPHREY WALROND, esq. of Sea, in the parish of Ilminster, and county of Somerset, one of the masters in chancery, wedded first, Elizabeth, daughter and co-heir of John Brokehampton, of Sea, by whom he had, with three other children, who all died without issue, HENRY, his heir. He m. secondly, Katherine, daughter of Sir John Popham, but that lady died s. p. about 1593. Humphrey Walrond died in 1580, and was s. by his son,

HENRY WALROND, esq. of Sea, admitted of the Inner Temple, London, 15th June, 1562, named in the will of his cousin, Humphrey Walrond, of Bradfield, in 1586,

m. Elizabeth, daughter and co-heir of William Devenish,* esq. of Hellingleigh, in the

* Through this alliance, Mr. Walrond, of Dulford, established his co-heirship to the BARONY OF WELLES, now in abeyance.

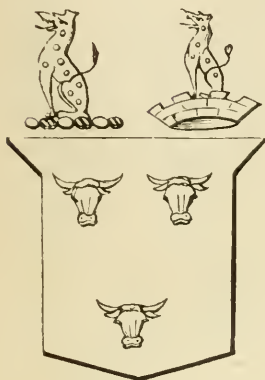

LIONEL, LORD WELLES, K.G. (grandson of Sir John Welles, knt. and Margaret, his wife, daughter of John Lord Mowbray, by Elizabeth, daughter and sole heiress of John Lord Segrave, and MARGARET PLANTAGENET, duchess of Norfolk, granddaughter of EDWARD I.) was summoned to parliament from the 10th to the 30th of HENRY VI. His lordship married, first, Joan, daughter and heiress of Sir Robert Waterton, knt. and had issue,

RICHARD (Sir), who m. Joane, daughter and heir of Robert, Lord Willoughby de Eresby, and was summoned to parliament in her right, as LORD Willoughby, from 26th May, 1455, to 28th February, 1466. Lord Willoughby and Wells, who was attainted and beheaded in 1469, had issue by the heiress of Willoughby, ROBERT (Sir), who d. s. p. He was beheaded and attainted at the same time as his father. For an account of this gallant soldier, see BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Peerage.

JOANE, m. to Sir Richard Hastings, who was summoned to parliament as RICHARD HASTINGS DE WELLES, but d. s. p. in 1503.

ELEANOR, eldest daughter and co-heir of county of Sussex, lineally descended from King EDWARD I. and had three sons, viz.

HUMPHREY, his heir.

William, of Islebrewers, in the county of Somerset, compounded for his estates during the civil wars, in 1646, by the description of William Walrond, esq. of Wells. He died 24th August, 1662, aged above four score, leaving issue, and was buried in Wells cathedral.

Henry.

Mr. Walrond died 18th February, 1616, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

HUMPHREY WALROND, esq. of Sea, who wedded Elizabeth, daughter of Humphrey Colles, esq. of Barton, in the county of Somerset, by Elizabeth, his wife, sister of Thomas, Lord D'Arcy, and had five sons and two daughters, viz.

I. HUMPHREY, his heir.

II. Maurice, citizen of London, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of Gilbert Harrison, esq. sometime sheriff of London, and dying in 1639, left issue. He was buried in the church of All-hallows, London.

III. Edward, admitted of the Middle Temple, in 1624.

IV. John.

V. George, living in 1632.

I. Katherine.

II. Elizabeth, m. to Henry Sydenham, esq. of Cholworthy.

The eldest son and heir,

HUMPHREY WALROND, esq. of Sea, succeeded his father, 17th February, 1621. This gentleman fought under the royal standard in the civil war, served actively in most of the engagements against the parliamentary forces, and was esteemed of so much importance as to be one of the hostages demanded and given up at the surrender of Bridgewater.* By the royalist composition papers, preserved in the state paper office, (vol. viii. No. 405), his property appears to have been sequestered upon the ground of his being taken in arms against the parliament, and amongst the documents there is an original petition bearing date, 28th November, 1645, addressed "To the Honourable Committee of Parliament for Compositions," signed by the said Humphrey Walrond, which states that he was then a prisoner in the Gatehouse, at Westminster, having, as he alleged, been taken upon the surrender of the garrison of Bridgewater, to Sir Thomas Fairfax, when all his goods were seized, and his estates sequestered, that he was then deeply indebted, and had nothing left to support himself, or "to give a livelihood to his destitute wife and ten children," and praying to be admitted to make his composition for the freeing of his person, estates, and goods. These documents further show that on the following day he took and subscribed to the solemn league and covenant of the three kingdoms, and by a schedule of his estates and effects, that he was then seized, inter alia, of the mansion house, Lionel, Lord Welles, m. Sir Thomas Hoo, knt. Lord Hoo, and Hastings, K.G. chancellor and treasurer of Normandy, by whom, who died 33rd HENRY VI. she had three daughters, her co-heirs, viz.

ELEANOR, m. to Sir James Carew, knt. of Bedington.

JANE, m. to Sir Roger Copley, knt.

ELIZABETH, m. to Sir John Devenish, knt. of Hellingleigh, in Sussex, and had a son,

RICHARD DEVENISH, esq. of Hellingleigh, who m. Fides, daughter of Sir Robert Litton, knt. and was s. by his son.

THOMAS DEVENISH, esq. of Hellingleigh, who m. Anne, daughter and co-heir of William Fawke, esq. of West Hampnett, in Sussex, and was father of

WILLIAM DEVENISH, esq. of Hellingleigh, living in 1570, who m. Cicely Juxon, and left a daughter and co-heir,

ELIZABETH DEVENISH, m. as in the text, to HENRY WALROND, esq. of Sea, direct ancestor of the present BETHELL WALROND, esq.

MARGARET, second daughter and co-heir of Lionel, Lord Welles, m. to Sir Thomas Dymoke, knt. who was beheaded with his father-in-law, Lord Welles, in violation of the solemn pledge of EDWARD IV.

CICELY, third daughter and co-heir, m. to Sir Robert Willoughby, knt.

CATHERINE, fourth daughter and co-heir, m. to Sir Thomas De la Luna, knt.

Lionel, Lord Welles, espoused secondly, Margaret, sister and heir of Sir John Beauchamp, of Bletsoe, and widow of John, earl of Somerset, and by her had one son, JOHN, created VISCOUNT WELLES. His lordship m. Lady Cicely Plantagenet, daughter of King EDWARD IV. but d. s. p.

The rolls of parliament shewing that, in the first year of HENRY VII. a statute had passed finally reversing all acts of attainder or forfeiture, which had ever been enacted against the BARONY OF WELLES, BETHELL WALROND, esq. M.P. presented a petition to his majesty, in May, 1832, praying for a termination in his favour of the abeyance of the said barony, which petition being referred by his majesty to the attorney general, a report was made in favour of Mr. Walrond's claim, but no further proceedings have since been taken.

Lineage.

This family having derived the estate of Aspley from the SADLIERS, and representing through the female line one of the branches of that eminent house, we shall deduce the Sadlier line until it merges in that of Moody.

From an ancient family seated at Hackney, in the county of Middlesex, sprang

SIR RALPH SADLIER, knt. who was born there to "a fair inheritance," in the year 1507. This eminent man, who afterwards pursued so distinguished a course, was educated under the unfortunate minister of HENRY VIII. Cromwell, earl of Essex, and acted sometime as that nobleman's private secretary. He became known thus, and through his political writings to the king, who appointed him master of the great wardrobe, a promotion most propitious to the future fortunes of Sadlier, as in removing him from the immediate service of the FAVORITE, it saved him probably from participating in that unhappy person's fate and fall. In about four years after his appointment to the wardrobe, (30th HENRY VIII.) he was sworn of the privy council, and constituted one of the secretaries of state, and he subsequently continued to enjoy the full confidence of his royal master, by whom he was deputed on missions of importance into Scotland, both in times of peace and war. On his death bed HENRY named Sir Ralph Sadlier (he had become a knight before this) in his will, one of the privy council which he instituted to assist the sixteen persons whom he had appointed regents during the minority of his son and successor, EDWARD VI. Soon after the accession of EDWARD, hostilities having recommenced with Scotland, the Protector SOMER ET, at the head of an army, invaded that kingdom; and Sir Ralph Sadlier held the important post of treasurer to the forces. In this expedition Somerset fought and won the great battle of Musselburgh, on the 10th September, 1547, and tradition states, that Sir Ralph Sadlier seized with his own hand, in the brunt of the fight, the royal standard of Scotland. For this exploit, and his courageous bearing throughout the whole conflict, Sir Ralph was made a knight banneret, with Sir Francis Bryan and Sir Ralph Vane, on the field of battle, by the Protector; and the standard of Scotland, after his decease, was placed by his monument in the chancel of the church of Standon, in the county of Hertford, one of the principal manors granted to him by HENRY VIII. The pole, plated with iron, as high as a horseman's sword could reach, stood there when Clutterbuck wrote his history of Hertfordshire, and probably remains there still. During the reign of Mary, Sir Ralph withdrew into private life, and lived at Standon, where he erected a new manor house on the site of the old one. When ELIZABETH came to the throne, he was recalled to the privy council, and employed by her majesty in services the most confidential and of the highest importance. He represented the county of Hertford in her first parliament, and was engaged by the queen on an embassy to Scotland, in support of the reformation there, and to uphold the protestant nobles in their struggle with Mary, of Lorraine, the QUEEN REGENT. In furtherance of these objects he visited the English camp before Leith, in April, 1560, and was a party to the treaty of Leith, by which Elizabeth secured for her Scottish allies, the free exercise of their religion, their liberty, and their properties. On the death of Sir Ambrose Cave, (10th Elizabeth) Sir Ralph was constituted chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster, and in 1568, when ELIZABETH issued a commission to hear the cause of Mary, Queen of Scots, pleaded at York, he was joined with the dukes of Norfolk and Suffolk, to compose the tribunal. After the ill-fated Mary had been removed (January, 1584-5) to the castle of Tutbury, Sir Ralph was appointed governor, where enjoying the sport of hawking, to which he was attached, he allowed his royal captive to participate in the amusement, and for that purpose to accompany him some distance from the castle. The circumstance reaching ELIZABETH, produced a serious remonstrance, in rejoinder to which the governor "admits that he had sent for his hawks and falconers to divert the miserable life which he passed at Tutbury, and that he had been unable to resist the solicitation of the prisoner, to permit her to see a sport in which she greatly delighted." But he adds, "that this was under the strictest precautions for the security of her person,"—and he declares to the secretary, "that rather than continue to hold an office which subjected him to such misconstruction, were it not more for fear of offending the Queen, than the dread of punishment, he would abandon his present charge, even on the condition of rendering himself prisoner to the tower, for the remainder of his life—and concludes, "that he is so weary of life that death itself would make him most happy."

Sir Ralph m. Margaret Mitchell, a laundress in his first patron, the earl of Essex's, family, in the lifetime, though absence of her husband, Matthew Barré, a tradesman in London, presumed to be dead, and he procured an act of parliament to legitimize his children by her. Those children were,

1. THOMAS (Sir), who inherited Standon, and was sheriff of Hertfordshire, in the 29th and 37th ELIZABETH. He had the honour of entertaining for two nights, at Standon, King JAMES I. and his suite, in his majesty's progress from Scotland, in 1603; of which visit the following note is made in a rare tract, entitled, "The true narration of the Entertainment of his Royal Majestye from the time of his departure from Edenbrough till his receiving at London, 1603." "The 30th day being Saturday, his majestye took his journe towards Standon, to Sir Thomas Sadlers, and by the way the Bishop of London met him, attended by a seemley company of Gentlemen, in tawny coats and chains of gold. At Sir Thomas Sadlers, his Majestye was royally entertained for himselfe and his kingly traine; nothing being wanted the best desired, nor the meanest could demande,—there his Majestye stayed Sunday, before whom the Bishop of London preached." Sir Thomas Sadlier espoused first, Ursula, daughter and co-heir of Sir Henry Sherrington, knt. but had no issue. He m. secondly, Gertrude, dau. of Robert Markham, esq. of Coatham, Notts. and had a son and daughter, viz.

RALPH, his successor.

Gertrude, m. to Sir William Aston, of Tixall, K. B. created by CHARLES I. Lord Aston, of Forfar, and her son, WALTER, second Lord Aston, inherited STANDON, at the decease of his uncle, Ralph Sadlier.

the great lawyer, SIR EDWARD COKE, lord chief justice of England, "with whom (saith an old writer) he lived in good correspondence 59 years in the same house, yet, according to the tradition of the neighbourhood, never bedded her." Dying without issue, he devised the lordship of Standon,* with other estates in the county of Hertford, to his nephew, Walter, second Lord Aston, and they continued vested in his lordship's descendants until the death of his great-grandson, James, fifth Lord Aston, who left two daughters, his co-heirs,† viz.

III. Jane, m. to Edward Bashe, esq. of Stanstedbury, also in Hertfordshire.

IV. Dorothy, m. to Edward Eltrington, esq. of Borstall, in Essex.

Of Sir Ralph Sadlier,† BUCHANAN speaks as "Eques notæ virtutis, qui (1559) Bervici publicis muniis præfectus erat." He was of the privy council more than forty years, and during the greater part of that time one of the knights of the shire for the county of Hertford. He died at Standon, on the 30th March, 1587, in the 80th year of his age, leaving behind him twenty-two manors, several parsonages, and other great estates, in the counties of Hertford, Gloucester, Warwick, Buckingham, and Worcester. Of which he had settled the manor of Dinsley, upon his second son,

EDWARD SADLIER, esq. who thus became "of Temple Dinsley, in the county of Hertford." This gentleman m. Anne, daughter and co-heir of Sir Richard Leigh, knt. of Sopwell, near St. Albans, in the county of Hertford,§ and dying on the 4th April, in the 26th ELIZABETH, in the lifetime of his father, left issue,

* In the chancel of the church of Standon, the burying place of the family, against the south wall is a monument for Sir Ralph Sadlier, with the effigies of himself in armour, of his three sons and four daughters, with three inscriptions, in Latin verse, in English verse, and in English prose; against the north wall is another for Sir Thomas, with the effigies of himself in armour, his lady, son, and daughter, and an epitaph in English prose. There are several inscriptions for various members of the Aston family, but no notice is taken of this Ralph Sadlier; there is, however, the following epitaph on his wife:

"Here lyeth the body of Anne Coke, eldest daughter of Sir Edward Coke, lord chief justice of the Common Pleas, by his first and best wife, Bridget Paston, daughter and heir of John Paston, esq. of Norfolk. At the age of fifteen she was married, in 1601, to Ralph Sadlier, of Standon, in Hertfordshire. She lived his wife 59 years and odd months; she survived him, and here lies in assured hope of a joyful resurrection."

Sir Henry Chauncey says of Ralph Sadlier, that "he delighted much in hawking, and hunting, and the pleasures of a country life; was famous for his noble table, his great hospitality to his neighbour, and his abundant charity to the poor." And old ISAAC WALTON mentions him thus: "To-morrow morning we shall meet a pack of otter dogs of noble Mr. Sadlier's, upon Amwell Hill, who will be there so early, that they intend to prevent the sun rising."

† These co-heirs sold the manor and estate of Standon, in 1767, to William Plumer, esq. of Blakesware.

‡ The following coat of arms was granted to Sir Ralph Sadlier, by Christopher Barker, Garter, by his letters patent, dated 14th May, in the 34th HENRY VIII. party per fesse azure and or, gutty, and a lion rampant, counterchanged, in a canton of the last a buck's head caboshed of the first. Crest, on a wreath, a demi lion rampant azure, crowned with a ducal coronet or. Motto, "Servire Deo Sapere."

§ HENRY VIII granted, in the 30th year of his reign, to Sir Richard Leigh, knt. the sight of the priory of Sopwell, in the county of Hertford. Sir Richard was son of Richard Leigh, of Herts, by Elizabeth Hall, his wife, niece of Edmund Dudley, and great grandson of John Leigh, or Lee, of Fulworth, or Tidleworth, in Sussex, by his wife, the daughter of Sir Roger Lewknor, knt.

O'CONNELL, OF DERRYNANE ABBEY.

O'CONNELL, DANIEL, esq. of Derrynane Abbey, in the county of Kerry, barrister-at-law, and king's council, holding rank, by patent of precedence, immediately after the first serjeant at the bar in Ireland; member of parliament for the city of Dublin, b. 5th August, 1775, m. 3rd June, 1802, his cousin, Mary, daughter of Edward O'Connell, M.D. of Tralee, and has issue,

- i. MAURICE, M. P. for Tralee, m. in 1832, Miss Scott, only daughter of Bindon Scott, esq. of Cahircon, in the county of Clare, and has one daughter.
- ii. Morgan, M. P. for the county of Meath.
- iii. John, M. P. for Yougal.
- iv. Daniel.
- i. Ellen, m. to Christopher Fitzsimon, esq. of Glancullen, M. P. for the county of Dublin.
- ii. Catherine, m. to Charles O'Connell, esq. M. P. for the county of Kerry.
- iii. Elizabeth, m. to Nicholas Joseph French, esq. of Fort William, in the county of Roscommon.

Mr. O'Connell succeeded his father in 1809, and inherited the estates and representation of the family at the decease of his uncle, Maurice O'Connell, esq. in February, 1825. Before his election by the city of Dublin, the learned gentleman represented in succession the counties of Clare, Waterford, and Kerry. He was chosen by the freeholders of Clare, for the first time, while Roman Catholics were yet excluded from parliament, and he took his seat, after a second election, as member for the same county, in the session immediately succeeding that in which the Catholic Relief Bill had received the royal assent.

Lineage.

The surname of O'Connell, according to the authority of Irish writers,* emanated from CONAL GABHRA, an ancient prince of the royal line of HEBER, son of MILESIUS; from whom likewise the districts of Upper and Lower Connelloe, in the county of Limerick, acquired their denomination;—

districts, originally the lands and abode of the family before us, as chiefs of the Sept O'CONNELL. Thence they removed to Ive-ragh, in the western extremity of Kerry, and there for a considerable time enjoyed the rank of Toparchs. The rebellion of 1641, however, transplanted the O'Connells, with many other victims of that disastrous event, to the county of Clare.

Omitting anterior generations which ascend to a remote antiquity,† we shall commence with

† The details which follow are derived from family papers, confirmed by historical references, and verified by accurate dates, and from a work, entitled "Mémoires Généalogiques de diverses familles qui prétendent aux honneurs de la Cour." The long and rigid exclusion of Catholics from places of honour and emolument in their native land, forced the bold and aspiring amongst them to seek in foreign climes a more active and a more impartial sphere of action. Hence, in foreign archives alone were to be found those vouchers of illustrious descent, which at home would be memorials of spoliation, and incentives to perse-

AODH, or HUGH O'CONNELL, lord and chief of the clan, who appears joined with his two sons, Hugh and Jeffrey, in a commission issued by EDWARD III. anno 1337, empowering them to reduce some refractory tribes in the county of Limerick, which had refused submission to the terms on which Hugh, and his sons had acknowledged the royal authority. He was s. by the elder son,

HUGH O'CONNELL, second of the name, and chief of the Sept, who was long at hostility with his neighbours, the Geraldines, in defence of his possessions. From his union with Marguerita, daughter of Mahon Menevy O'Brian, Prince of Thomond, and his wife, Una, daughter of Feidlim O'Connor, Prince of Corcumruadh, in Clare, sprang

JEFFREY O'CONNELL, successor to his father, and chief of his nation, as he is specially designated in an order on the Irish Exchequer from EDWARD III. anno 1372, in his favour, for thirty marcs. RICHARD II. retained this Jeffrey near his person and remunerated his faithful services by various donations. His wife was Catherine, daughter of O'Connor, dynast of Traht-y-Connor, by whom he had, with other issue, a son,

DANIEL O'CONNELL, similarly distinguished as chief of his sept, in a treaty entered into by himself and his son, in 1421, with James Fitzgerald, seventh earl of Desmond, known for his pious foundations. Daniel espoused Honora, daughter of O'Sullivan Beare, Lord of Dunboy, Beare, and Bantry, in the county of Cork, and had a son,

HUGH O'CONNELL, third of that name, who had been a party to the above treaty of 1421, and succeeded as captain of his sept. The honour of knighthood was conferred on him by Richard Nugent, seventh baron of Delvin, then invested with a high military command, and afterwards lord deputy of Ireland. In 1490, he obtained from HENRY VII. an order on the Irish Exchequer for twenty pounds sterling, in consideration of the eminent services rendered by him in the province of Munster. By his wife, Mary, daughter of M'Carthy More, Prince of Desmond, he left

MAURICE O'CONNELL, lord of his sept, who, with his two brothers, espoused the pretensions of Perkin Warbeck, in opposition to HENRY VII. but promptly recalled to his allegiance, he received the royal pardon on the 24th August, 1496, with cution. "Proprium humani ingenū est odisse quem læseris." Thus it was that the mind and nerve of Ireland were so often arrayed in the camp and council of hostile nations against the best interests of that to which by position, blood, and affinity, she was so indissolubly allied,

Maurice, 10th earl of Desmond, who had been engaged in the same rebellion. He wedded Juliana, daughter of O'Sullivan More, lord of Dunkerran, in Kerry, by whom he had two sons, viz.

MORGAN, who experienced the royal grace in 1496. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of O'Donovan, lord of Cloucahill, in the barony of Carbery, and county of Cork, and predeceasing his father, left a son, Hugh, successor to his grandfather.

Hugh, who appears to have d. issueless.

Maurice was succeeded by his grandson,

HIGH O'CONNELL, fourth of that name, and, like his predecessor, styled the chief of his sept, in a treaty entered into with Lord Leonard Grey, lord justice, and subsequently, lord deputy of Ireland, on the 22nd January, 1535. He espoused More O'Brien, daughter of Sir Teige O'Brien, of Bally Corig, in the county of Clare, descended from the noble houses of Thomond, and (maternally) of Desmond. By her, he left,

MORGAN O'CONNELL, of Bally Carbery, who had been sent, as hostage, by his father, in execution of the said treaty of 1535. On the 10th October, 1542, he made his submission to HENRY VIII. engaging for himself, and his heirs male, to pay a crown rent of twenty-pence Irish, as a nominal tribute, and recognition of that monarch's sovereignty. By EDWARD VI. he was appointed, under a royal writ of 20th December, 1550, high sheriff of the county of Kerry.* He m. Hellen, daughter of Donald M'Carthy, Prince of Desmond, and was succeeded by his son,

RICHARD O'CONNELL, chief of his name, who made a submission of his territory of Bally Carbery, in the barony of Iveragh, to QUEEN ELIZABETH, and obtained from that sovereign a regrant thereof, with all its seigniorial dependencies and appurtenances, in recompense of his signal services, against the rebels of Desmond. He m. Joan, dau. of Callaghan M'Carthy, esq. of Carrigamuck, by his first wife, Sheela, or Julia, daughter of Teige M'Owen M'Carthy, of Drishane, and had a son and successor,

MAURICE O'CONNELL, of Bally Carbery, second of that name, who was appointed, 10th February, 1586, high sheriff of Kerry. During the rebellious disturbances of the Earls of Desmond, he conducting himself peaceably, and dying on the 24th July, 1607,

* The Earls of Desmond, as Palatines of Kerry, also nominated sheriffs (the vice-comes, or sheriff, being the deputy of the earl) with certain limitations, however, of jurisdiction, and the royal appointment was of course, the superior dignity.—See Note, under family of Barry.

The elder son,

JEFFREY O'CONNELL, succeeded as lord of Bally Carbery, and by letters mandatory of JAMES I. was constituted high sheriff of the county of Kerry. He wedded Honora, daughter of Mac Crohan, chief of that name, and lord of Letter Castle, in the barony of Iveragh, and left, at his demise, 25th April, 1635, four sons, viz.

i. MAURICE, who having forfeited his property in the civil war of 1641, received as a partial indemnity, estates in the county of Clare. He espoused Catherine, daughter of Richard Barrett, of Barrett's Country, in Cork, and had four sons, all distinguished in the profession of arms.

† Some portion of this unforfeited property, still in the hands of Mr. O'Connell, is free from all chieftly, imposts or crown charge, a very unusual circumstance, and demonstrative of the antiquity of possession.

He signaled himself at the siege of Derry, in 1689, as well as at the battles of the Boyne and Aughrim, in 1690 and 1691, after the latter conflict he retired with his shattered regiment to Limerick, and was comprehended in the capitulation of that city. - v. Daniel Count O'Connell, b. in August, 1743, entered the French service in Lord Clare's regiment of the Irish Brigade, in 1757, and made his first campaign in the seven years war. He subsequently distinguished himself at the capture of Port Mahon, in 1779, and in 1782, at the grand attack on Gibraltar, where he was severely wounded. Adhering to Louis XVI. until that unhappy prince was immured in the Temple, he then emigrated to England, and was appointed in 1793, colonel of the 6th Irish Brigade, a command which he retained until that corps was disbanded; but his religion, which had forbidden even the first step, now again interposed a barrier to his further advancement in his country's service. In 1814, on the resumption of the French crown by the Bourbons, he was restored to his military rank of general, and colonel commandant of the regiment of Salm Salm, and named Grand Cross of the order of St. Louis,—honours, of which merit,*

* In the year 1787, the French Government having resolved that the ART of WAR should undergo revision, a military board was formed, comprising four general officers and one colonel, for that purpose. The colonel selected was O'Connell, then commanding the Royal Suedois regiment, who was esteemed one of the most scientific officers in the service. Without protection or favour, he had risen to a colonelcy before he had attained his fortieth year. But a few meetings of the board had taken place, when the superior officers, struck with the depth and accuracy of information, great military genius, and correct views displayed by Colonel O'Connell, unanimously agreed to confide to him the redaction of the whole French military code; and he executed the arduous duty so perfectly, that his tactics were those followed in the early campaigns of revolutionized France; adhered to by Napoleon; and adopted by Prussia, Austria, Russia, and England.

For this remarkable circumstance in the life of Count O'Connell the author is indebted to his friend James Edward Devereux, esq. of Carigmenan, in the county of Wexford, who had been on the closest habits of intimacy with the count for several years.

The eldest son,

RICHARD FRANK, esq. of Pontefract and Campsal, b. in 1593, wedded Anne, daughter of Bernard Ellis, esq. recorder of York, and had two daughters,

ANN, who m. 16th February, 1652-3, Edward Ashton, esq. of Clubeliffe, in Methley, grandson of the Rev. Edward Ashton, rector of Middleton, in Lancashire, and had two sons and as many daughters, viz.

EDWARD ASHTON, heir to his maternal grandfather.

MATTHEW ASHTON, successor to his brother.

Ann-Ashton.

Margaret-Ashton.

JANE, m. to John Pelham, esq. of Hull. Richard Frank was succeeded, in accordance with a settlement he had made, by (the son of his elder daughter) his grandson,

EDWARD ASHTON, esq. who assumed, upon inheriting Campsal, &c. the surname and arms of FRANK. He m. his cousin Ann, daughter of John Pelham, esq. of Hull, but leaving an only daughter, Anne, who wedded Sir George Tempest, bart. of Tong, and died in 1746 (see vol. i. p. 291), the estates, at his demise, devolved upon his brother, MATTHEW ASHTON, esq. who also assumed the surname and arms of FRANK. This gentleman, born 8th May, 1655, resided, previously to inheriting the family property, at Hamburgh, where he married Ann, daughter of Thomas Ashwin, of that city. By her, who died 7th October, 1745, he had two sons and five daughters, viz.

- i. RICHARD, his heir.
- ii. Francis, B.C.L. commissary and official for the archdeaconry of Suffolk, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of Walter Bacon, esq. of Earham, Norfolk, and had, with two daughters, who d. young, two sons, viz.

1757.

Mr. Frank died at Campsal, 22nd March, 1717, and was s. by his elder son, RICHARD FRANK, esq. of Campsal, recorder of Pontefract and Doncaster, one of the earliest members of the Society of Antiquaries, and the intimate associate of most of the distinguished antiquarians of his day, particularly of Dr. Ducarel and Dr. Burton of York. The former inscribed one of his tracts to Mr. Frank, and the latter dedicated the Monasticon Eboracensense to Lord Willoughby and Mr. Frank.

"He was not merely," says Hunter, in his History of Doncaster, the country gentleman attached to these pursuits, and disposed to assist those who were more actively engaged in them: he was himself a diligent labourer, and one who carefully preserved the collections made by others. He seems to have meditated to prepare a topographical history of the West Riding, for which purpose he transcribed the portions of Torre's labours, which relate to this part of the diocese; he collected what could be found in Dodsworth; he transcribed Hopkinson's pedigrees, and he formed a large collection of church notes from the West Riding churches, and of miscellaneous information respecting the townships which compose it. These now remain in the library of Campsal, monuments of his industry and of the peculiar turn of his mind."

Mr. Frank married Margaret, third and youngest daughter and co-heir of Robert Frank, esq. of Pontefract, M.P. but died without issue, 22nd May, 1762, aged 64, and was buried at Campsal, with the following inscription from the pen of Dr. Ducarel:

Sacred to the memory of Richard Frank, of Campsal, esq.
Recorder of the corporations of Pontefract and Doncaster, in the county of York,
and fellow of the society of Antiquaries of London.
He was an unbiassed and upright magistrate,
a lover and encourager of learning,
a faithful friend, and a most affectionate husband:
beloved by rich and poor,
because his chief delight was in doing good.
He departed this life universally lamented

May 22, 1762, aged 64.

Margaret, his disconsolate widow, erected this monument 1763.

At the demise of this learned antiquary without children, the estates passed to his nephew,

BACON FRANK, esq. of Campsal, a justice of the peace, and for many years chairman of the quarter sessions, who served the office of high sheriff for the county of York in 1777, and was vice-lieutenant of the West Riding during Lord Fitzwilliam's lieutenancy in Ireland. He wedded Catherine, daughter and heir of John Hoare, esq. of Pontefract, by Elizabeth his wife, daughter and co-heir of Robert Frank, esq. M.P. of the same place, and had issue,

ASHE, OF ASHFIELD.

ASHE, WILLIAM-WELLESLEY, esq. of Ashfield, in the county of Meath, m. in 1828, Maria-Walker, only daughter of George Haigh, esq. of Halifax, descended from an ancient Scottish family, and had one son and one daughter, both of whom died in infancy.

This gentleman, a captain in the army, served with distinction for many years in the East Indies, in Africa, and in various other foreign stations, in His Majesty's 41st, 65th, and 93rd Highland regiments. Captain Ashe inherits a portion of the Ashfield estates, and is next heir in remainder to the other portion.

Lineage.

The ancient and eminent family of ESSE, ASHE, or D'ESSECOURT, which came over with WILLIAM the Conqueror, appears by certified extracts under the seal of Ulster king of arms,—by the authority of the Herald's College,—and from the pages of our old historians,* to have held large estates in the county of Devon, so early as the eleventh century; and the line is deducible through more than eighteen generations.

SIR OLIVER D'ESSE or ASHE, living towards the close of the thirteenth century, was of knightly degree in 1326, and a person of high consideration. His second son,

HENRY ESSE or ASHE, espousing, temp. EDWARD II. the daughter and heiress of Richard Fornyson, acquired, with other lands, the demesne and manor of Sowton, alias Clyst Fornyson, in Devon, and had a son and successor,

RICHARD ESSE or ASHE, of Clyst Fornyson, father of

BALDWIN ASHE, of Clyst Fornyson, whose son,

JOHN ASHE, of Clyst Fornyson, married and left a son, his successor,

WILLIAM ASHE, of Clyst Fornyson, to whom succeeded his son,

JOHN ASHE, of Clyst Fornyson, father of

NICHOLAS ASHE, of Clyst Fornyson, who wedded Joanna, daughter of Anthony Pollard, of Harwood, in Devon, and had three sons, namely,

1. RICHARD, who inherited the estate of Clyst Fornyson, and marrying Prudence, daughter of John Rudgely, of London, left, with a daughter, Anne, wife of Nicholas Osborn, of Keneford, in Devon, a son and heir,

HENRY ASHE, of Clyst Fornyson, who espoused Loveday, daughter of Richard Moyle, of St. Augustine's, in Cornwall, and had a daughter, Prudence, m. to Oliver Mainwaring, and a son, RICHARD ASHE, esq. who, by his wife, Anne, daughter of Andrew Geere, of Havitree, had three daughters, ANNE, died young, URSULA, and PRUDENCE.

* PRINCE, in his "Worthies of Devon," gives the following account of the Ashes:—

"The very ancient and genteel stock of the name of Ash, otherwise Esse, derived its name, saith Mr. Hooker, from the river Esse, a more ancient compellation thereof than Ex, by which it is called at present, as if this family was more ancient in this shire than the present name of the river, from which our famous city and several hamlets do fetch their pedigree, as Exeter, Exminster, and Exmouth.

"There were, many ages back, divers eminent knights and persons of quality of this name and lineage in this city, whose ancient seat was at Ralph Ash, or Esse Ralph, now corruptly Rose Ash, in the north parts of this city near South Molton, which was so called from the old lord thereof, Sir Ralph de Ash or Esse, who had his habitation there and at Thurboron, another seat of the family, near Holsworthy, in the reign of HENRY III. in whose reign the said Sir Ralph was high sheriff for Devon for seven years together. This Sir Ralph descended from Wagenus de Esse, who had his habitation in the beginning of the reign of HENRY II. whose ancestors flourished well in those parts from the first coming into England of WILLIAM the Conqueror (bow long before is uncertain); as his posterity did down to the time of EDWARD III. or, as the last author tells us, to that of RICHARD II. which is upwards of 300 years, and then Margaret, one of the daughters and heirs of Sir Allan de Esse, knt. brought Thurboron and several other lands unto her husband, one of the ancient and honourable progeny of Giffords. A younger branch of this family and name is still living in genteel degree at Soiston (formerly called Clist Fornyson, from the ancient family of Fornysons, the owners of it), three miles from Exeter on the London road.

"However, what is not a little remarkable, out of this house of Soiston hath issued several eminent families of great reputation, by which we see these Ashes, like trees planted by rivers, flourish and spread well where they like the soil.

"As to the arms of this ancient family, I have little more to add, only the testimony of Mr. Wescot in relation to them, that the well known ensigns of generosity belonging to them are quartered by so many families of this county and none more. They are found blazoned, not only in divers ancient houses, but also in windows of several churches, as Crediton, St. Mary Ottery, Bury Pomeroy, and elsewhere."

II. THOMAS, of whom presently.

III. James, who m. Anne, daughter of John Walrond, of Bovey, and had issue. From this James Ashe sprung

JOHN ASHE, esq. of Westcombe, in the county of Somerset, living in 1634, who wedded Anne, daughter of Thomas Strode, of Huxton Mallet, and had (with two daughters, Alice, the wife of John Pitt, esq. of Melcombe Regis, and Margaret, of John Mansel, of Weymouth,) a son and successor,

JAMES ASHE, esq. of Freshford, in Somersetshire, who m. Grace, daughter of Richard Pitt, esq. of Melcombe Regis, and had, with two daughters, five sons, viz.

1. JOHN, of Freshford.*
2. EDWARD, of London, M.P. for Heytesbury, 16th CHARLES I. who m. Elizabeth, daughter of Christopher Woodward, esq. and had a son and heir,

WILLIAM ASHE, esq. of Heytesbury, who died in 1713, leaving by Anne, his wife, daughter of Alexander Popham, esq. M.P. of Littlecott, (refer to page 200,) two sons, whose posterity became extinct, and one daughter,

ELIZABETH, who wedded PIERCE A'COURT, esq. of Ivychurch, and was great-grandmother of WIL-LIAM A'COURT, now LORD HEYTESBURY.

3. JOSEPH, of Twickenham, created a BARONET in 1660,* in consideration of loyal services rendered to the crown. Sir Joseph married Mary, daughter of Robert Wilson, esq. and dying 15th April, 1686, aged sixty-nine, left, with four daughters, who d. s. p.

JAMES (Sir), second baronet, who d. s. p.

CATHERINE, m. William Wyndham, esq. of Felbrigg, in Norfolk, (see vol. i. p. 161,) and was great-grandmother of the celebrated statesman, WILLIAM WYNDHAM.

Mary, m. to Horatio, Viscount Townshend.

Anne, m. to Lord Fairfax, whose daughter m. his grace the Duke of Buckingham.

4. Jonathan, a merchant in London, whose daughter, Rebecca, m. Sir Francis Vincent, bart. M.P. for Surrey, ancestor of the present SIR FRANCIS VINCENT, bart. of Stoke D'Aubernon.

5. Samuel, of Langley Burrell, Wilts, ancestor of the Ashes of that place.

The second son of Nicholas Ashe, of Clyst Fornyson, by Joanna Pollard, his wife,

THOMAS ASHE, esq. having married the daughter and heiress of Nicholas Bailey,

* This gentleman sate in several parliaments in the reign of CHARLES I. and during the Commonwealth, when he experienced much favor from the PROTECTOR, but could not be prevailed upon to be one of the king's judges. At his decease his landed estate was estimated at £6000 a year, and he divided it amongst his sons. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Davison, esq. of Freshford, by Anne, his wife, daughter of Henry Chivers, esq. of Quelferford, in Wilts, and had issue,

1. JAMES, of Fifield, Wilts, whose son was seated at Heywood.
2. John, of Telfent, Wilts, who had the manor of Beckington, in Somersetshire. He d. without issue.
3. Edward, of Freshford, who left an only daughter and heiress.
4. Samuel, of Challots, in Wilts.
5. Joseph, of Longstreet, Wilts.
6. Benjamin, of Westcombe.

7. Jonathan, who obtained from his father the barony of Clanwilliam, in the county of Tipperary, and from him descends the present REV. TREVOR LLOYD ASHE, of Ashgrove, in the county of Limerick.

1. Ann, m. to Sir John Shaw, bart. of Eltham, Kent.

2. Grace, m. to Paul Methuen, esq. of Bradford and Bishops Canning, in Wilts, direct ancestor of the present PAUL METHUEN, esq. of Corsham, M.P. for Wilts (see vol. i. p. 394).

3. Hester, m. to Samuel Creswick, esq. of Hanham.

4. ———, m. to John Barnard, esq. of Surrey.

5. Mary, m. to Jacob Self, esq. of Beanaere.

* Grounding his claim upon this creation, Captain Wellesley Ashe proposes to petition for a revival of the baronetcy.

1. THOMAS (Sir), his heir.

II. Nicholas, of Newtown, in Meath, married and had two sons and one daughter, namely,

1. HENRY, of Moyrath, who left at his decease (with two daughters, Elizabeth, wife of Oliver Nugent, esq. of Correllstown, in Westmeath, and Mary, m. to — Cuffe, esq. of Lord Desart's family,) an only son, NICHOLAS, of whom presently as successor to his great uncle, SIR THOMAS ASHE.

2. Richard, of Somerstown, in Meath, who m. Alice, daughter of the Right Rev. Lewis Jones, D.D. Lord Bishop of Killaloe, and sister to Sir Theophilus Jones, knt. by whom he left at his decease, 21st June, 1659, with a younger son, Richard, of Moyderry, WILLIAM, of whom hereafter, as heir of entail to his cousin, NICHOLAS ASHE, esq.

1. Thomasine, m. to John Malone, esq. of Trim.

III. John, to whom his brother Sir Thomas gave Talbot's Castle, and St. John's Abbey, near Trim, likewise Moyvally and Dromshill, in Cavan. He wedded Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Casey, esq. and dying 29th April, 1636, was buried in the church of St. Patrick at Trim. His son and successor,

THOMAS ASHE, esq. of St. John's, married, first, Jane, daughter of Walter White, esq. of Richerstown, in the county of Kildare, and secondly, a daughter of Captain Richard St. George, of Athlone. By his first wife he left three sons, namely,

1. THOMAS, of St. John's, who m. first, in 1685, Mary, daughter of Thomas Carr, esq. and by her had an only son, Thomas, who d. s. p. He wedded secondly, in 1697, Sarah, daughter of John Bligh, esq. of Rathmore, in the county of Meath, and relict of Petre Westenra, esq. Thomas

Ashe died 28th January, 1722, having made his will eleven days previously, wherein he mentions his relation, Richard Ashe, of Ashfield, and names him his executor.

2. St. GEORGE, D.D. successively Lord Bishop of Cloyne, Clogher, and Derry, who espoused Jane, daughter of Sir George St. George, bart. of Dunway, in the county of Galmore, and dying in 1718, left one son and one daughter, viz.

St. GEORGE, who d. s. p.

ELIZABETH, who m. Sir Ralph Gore, bart. of Manor Gore, and from this marriage sprung the present Sir Ralph Gore, bart. and the Earls of Ross. (See BURKE's Peerage and Baronetage.)

3. Dillon, D.D. died without issue. His will was dated 10th July, 1712, and proved in 1716.

The eldest son of Thomas Ashe, the first settler in Ireland,

SIR THOMAS ASHE, of St. John's and of Dromshill, in the county of Cavan, was knighted at Dublin Castle by Sir George Carew, Lord Deputy, on St. James's day, 25th July, 1603, on the occasion of the coronation of JAMES I. He died without issue, 14th October, 1626, and was s. by his grandnephew,

NICHOLAS ASHE, esq. of Moyrath, born in 1608, at whose decease without issue in 1656 (his will, dated 9th October, 1655, was proved 6th February, 1656), the estates were inherited by the heir of entail, his cousin,

WILLIAM ASHE, esq. of Summerstown (son of Richard Ashe, esq. and Alice, his wife, daughter of Lewis Jones, D.D. Bishop of Killaloe), who wedded, first, Martha, daughter of — Leigh, esq. and by her had one son and four daughters, namely,

1. RICHARD, his heir.

1. Mary, m. to Edward Crofton, esq. of Clonard, in Meath.

II. Martha, m. to Joseph Fish, esq. of Kilcullen.

III. Alice.

IV. Elizabeth.

Mr. Ashe espoused, secondly, Mary, daughter of Dudley Colley, esq. of Castle Carbery, and sister of Henry Colley, esq. great grandfather of Richard, Marquess Wellesley, K.G.; of William, Baron Maryborough; of Arthur, Duke of Wellington;

* The castle of St. John, now one of the most ancient and splendid ruins in Ireland, many acres in circumference, was once the temporary residence of royalty, King JOHN of England having held his court there.

and of Henry, Lord Cowley. By this lady he had one son, Dudley, and a daughter, Mary, who m. one of Lord Darnley's family. Mr. Ashe, whose will was dated 11th May, 1681, and proved 27th March, 1682, died in the latter year, was buried at Trim, and succeeded by his son, RICHARD ASHE, esq. of Ashfield, in the county of Meath, who represented the borough of Trim in parliament. He married Anne, daughter of — Deane, esq. and had five sons and three daughters, viz.

i. JOSEPH, his heir.

ii. Dillon.

iii. St. George, lieutenant-general in the East India Company's service.

iv. Thomas.

v. Richard-Lovat, who m. Anne, dau. of Dudley Loftus, esq. of Killian, of Lord Loftus's family, and died without issue.

HUDDESTON, OF SAWSTON.

HUDDESTON, RICHARD, esq. of Sawston, in the county of Cambridge, b. in 1768, succeeded his father in April, 1808.

Mr. Huddleston was major of the Cambridgeshire Militia during the greater part of the war with revolutionized France. He is now (1834) high sheriff for the counties of Cambridge and Huntingdon, and a magistrate and deputy lieutenant.

Lineage.

This branch of the ancient family of HODELSTON, or HUDDESTON, of Millum Castle, in Cumberland, became fixed in Cambridgeshire some time in the fifteenth century through an alliance with the once potent house of NEVIL, which it now partly represents.

According to the York Manuscript, the HODELSTONS derive their name from Hodelston in Yorkshire, where they were seated for several generations antecedently to the CONQUEST. The pedigree begins with an ADAM, and proceeds, through four subsequent descents (JOHN, son of Adam, RICHARD, son of John, RICHARD, son of Richard, all in Saxon times), to

NIGEL DE HODELSTON, who gave to the abbey of Selby two carrucates of land and a half in Millum, and part of his tythe in Hodelston with the soccage, &c. Witnesses, THOMAS, Archbishop of York; WILLIAM, the Deane; and WILLIAM, Treasurer. This Nigel had two sons, viz.

GILBERT (Sir), living in the time of HENRY II., who, with consent of ROGER, his son, gave to the monks of St. Clement, in York, "that whole meadow which is under their habitation." "In the Red Book of the Exchequer, in the charter of Roger, Archbishop of York, these whose names follow, with many others after them, are said to hold of the said archbishop, viz. William, Earle of Albemarle, holdeth 3 knights fees; Henry de Lacye, two knights fees; Roger de Moibrai, one third part; Herbert, son of Herbert, 3 knights fees; GILBERT, the son of NIGEL, 11 knights fees, w^{ch} Nigel is stock ancestor to the Huddlestons."

REGINALD.

The second son,

REGINALD DE HODELSTON, was father of

RICHARD DE HODELSTON, living in the 7th of King JOHN, and in the 12th of HENRY III., who confirmed to the monks of St. Clement all that his uncle, Sir Gilbert, had given to them, sealed with the arms of Hodelston:—Motto, Sigillum dom. Richardi de Hodelston. This Richard was s. by his son,

JOHN DE HODELSTON, Lord of Hodelston, who m. Sybel, daughter of Laurence, son of Richard de Kirkbie, and had two sons,

JOHN (Sir), of whom presently.

Adam (Sir), member of parliament, 3rd EDWARD II.

By an ancient deed the Lady Sybel de Hodelston was endowed in the manor of Quittington, with appurtenances, &c. in the 34th of EDWARD I. The eldest son and heir,

SIR JOHN DE HODELSTON, Lord d'Any's, was summoned to a council at Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and ordered, on the 26th September, in the 26th of EDWARD I. to attend the king at Carlisle with horse and arms, in the record of which he is styled a baron (see Appendix to the Peerage Report). He was also one of the great council, who subscribed in 1301, the celebrated letter to Pope Boniface VIII. declaring "that their king was not to answer in judgment, for any rights of the crown of England, before any tribunal under heaven, &c. and that by the help of God they would resolutely, and with all their force, maintain against all men." To this important document were affixed the hands and seals of arms of 104 of the earls and barons, amongst whom JOHN DE HODELSTON was the 89th. Sir John assisted at the celebrated siege of Karlaverock, anno 1300, in the train of the Earl of Lincoln. He m. temp. HENRY III. JOAN, daughter and sole heiress of ADAM DE BOIVIL, Lord of Millum,* in Cumberland, and had four sons, RICHARD, his heir, Adam, John, and Robert. Sir John Hodelston claimed free chase between the waters of Eske and Dudene, also Infangenthef in Millum, Seton, Booth, Kirkstanton,† &c. He was s. by his eldest son,

SIR RICHARD DE HODELSTON, Lord of Millum, living 13th EDWARD II. who m. Alice, daughter of Richard Troughton, and was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN HODLESTON, knt. Lord of Millum, who had permission to hold a market on every Wednesday at his manor of Bothill, in the county of Cumberland, and for a fair to be holden in the same place four days in the evening, and on the day of the exaltation of the Holy Cross, and the two days following; witnessed by William Talbot, steward of the King's Palace at Westminster, 24th October, 21st EDWARD III. Sir John Hodleston was one of the collectors of the tenth and fifteenth granted by the laity of Cumberland to the king, and he obtained, according to Lysons, license in 1335 to embattle his mansion at Millum.

* The Lords of Milhum or Millum were in olden times persons of great power, and amongst other immunities enjoyed exemption from the sheriff's jurisdiction, and the power of life and death over their vassals. Denton, writing in 1688, says, "That the gallows stood on the hill near the castle, on which criminals had been executed within memory."

GODARD DE MILHUM, vel DE BOIVIL, who built Milhum Castle, in Cumberland, in the time of WILLIAM the Conqueror, granted lands to the abbey of St. Mary of Furneys, by the following record in the book of that monastery. "To all Christian people, &c. Godard de Boivil, greeting, &c. Know you y^t I have given and granted to God and the abbey of St. Mary of Furneys, &c. for the safety of my soule, and of all my ancestors, a certain carrucate of land in Coupland Fossam, with all the appurtenances, &c. His son,

ARTHUR DE MILHUM, was grandfather of

ADAM DE BOIVIL, Lord of Millum, who released his whole right in the church of Millum and abbey of Furneys, anno 1230, and whose only daughter and heiress, JOAN DE BOIVIL, became, as in the text, the wife of SIR JOHN DE HODELSTON.

† Some of these privileges appear to have been re-conferred at different times. A patent under the great seal of England, 41th ELIZABETH, granted free charter to William Huddlestone, esq. for his manor of Millum, Seton, &c. and the moiety of all felons' goods, or condemned persons, which confirmed a patent formerly granted to John Hu-

JOSEPH HUDDLESTON, of Farrington, in Lancashire. This gentleman married Eleanor, daughter of Cuthbert Sisson, of Kirkbarrow, in Westmoreland, and left a son and heir, ANDREW HUDDLESTON, from whom the Huddlestons of Hutton-John.

The elder son,

ANTHONY HUDDLESTON, Lord of Millum, m. Mary, daughter of Sir William Barrington, knt. and was s. by his son,

III. WILLIAM (Sir).

The youngest son,

SIR WILLIAM HUDDLESTON, knt. espoused the lady ISABEL NEVILL, fifth daughter of John, MARQUESS OF MONTACUTE. This lady, on the death of her brother George, duke of Bedford, divided with her four sisters as his co-heirs, the large possessions which had belonged to the MARQUESS OF MONTACUTE, her father, to SIR EDMUND INGLESHTORPE, her maternal grandfather, and to JOHN TIPTOFT, EARL OF WORCESTER, her maternal great-uncle, as fully set forth in the ancient partition made on the 4th of July, 17th of HENRY VII. in the hands of the present Mr. Huddleston. Lady Isa-

WILLIAM HUDDLESTON, lord of Millum, M.P. temp. ELIZABETH. This gentleman m. Mary Bridges, of Gloucestershire, and was father of

FERDINAND HUDDLESTON, esq. of Millum, who represented the county of Cumberland in parliament in the 21st of JAMES I. He m. Jane, daughter of Sir Ralph Grey, knt. of Chillingham, and had nine sons, all of whom were officers in the service of King CHARLES I. WILLIAM, the eldest, was made a knight banneret—of him more presently. JOHN, was colonel of dragoons. FERDINAND, major of foot. RICHARD, lieutenant-colonel of foot, was slain in the Minster-yard, York. RALPH, captain of foot. INGLEBY, captain of foot. EDWARD, major of foot. RUPERT, captain of foot; and JOSEPH, captain of horse. The eldest son and heir,

SIR WILLIAM HUDDLESTON, lord of Millum, raised a regiment of infantry for the royal cause, and clothed and paid it during the whole of the war. For this good service, and his great personal bravery at the battle of Edge Hill in retaking the royal standard, he was made a knight banneret by King CHARLES on the field. He m. Bridget, daughter of Joseph Pennington, of Muncaster, and was s. by his son,

FERDINAND HUDDLESTON, esq. lord of Millum, who m. the daughter of Peter Hunley, of London, merchant, and left an only daughter and heiress, MARY HUDDLESTON, who became the wife of Charles West, Lord Delawar, and d. without issue. On the decease of Ferdinand, the representation of the family reverted to

RICHARD HUDDLESTON, son of Colonel John Huddleston (second son of Ferdinand Huddleston and Jane Grey). This gentleman wedded Isabel, daughter of Thomas Huddleston, of Bainton, in the county of York, and was s. by his son,

FERDINANDO HUDDLESTON, whose son and heir, by his wife Elizabeth, daughter of Lyon Falconer, esq. of Rutlandshire,

WILLIAM HUDDLESTON, esq. became lord of Millum, at the decease of Lady Delawarr. This gentleman wedded Gertrude, daughter of Sir William Meredith, bart. and left an only daughter and heiress, ELIZABETH HUDDLESTON, of Millum Castle, in the county of Cumberland, who m. Sir Hedworth Williamson, bart. and was grandmother to the present Sir Hedworth Williamson. See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.

bella's portion comprised fifteen manors or estates, amongst which were those of SAWSTON and DERNFORD, still the property and abode of the family. By the co-heir of the Montacute branch of the great family of NEVILL (which see at foot), who survived him, Sir William had two sons, viz.

1. JOHN (Sir), heir.

11. Richard, who wedded first, Margaret, daughter and heir of Sir William Smith, of Elford, in Staffordshire, and had two daughters, Lucy, m. to John Brooke, of Haslen, in Staffordshire.

Anne, m. to John Bowles.

He m. secondly, Sybel, daughter of — Crofts, and had a son,

Richard, who m. the Hon. Isabel, Lady Wenman, widow of Sir Richard Wenman, and elder daughter and coheir of John Williams, BARON WILLIAMS, of Thame. This Richard Hodleston was living in the 18th of ELIZABETH.

The elder son and heir,

SIR JOHN HODLESTON, knt. of Salston, m. the Honorable Dorothy Sutton, daughter of Edward, Lord Dudley. He was sheriff of the counties of Cambridge and Huntingdon in the third of RICHARD III. and was s. at his decease by his son,

SIR JOHN HODELSTON, knt. privy counsellor to Queen MARY, vice-chamberlain to King PHILIP, and captain of His Majesty's guard. This gentleman enjoyed in a pre-eminent degree the confidence of his royal mistress, as evinced on the proclaiming of Lady Jane Grey, when her majesty repaired privately to Salston, and that she might the better disguise herself rid behind Sir John's servant to Framlingham Castle. "Besides other great boones," saith Fuller, "Queen MARY bestowed the bigger part of Cambridge castle, then much ruined, upon him, with the stones, whereof he built his fair house in this county." Sir John m. Bridget, daughter of Sir Robert Cotton, knt. of Lanwood, in Cambridgeshire, and had issue,

EDMUND (Sir), his successor.

Alice, m. to Sir Thomas Lovel, knt. of East Harling, Norfolk.

Sir John Hodelston died 4th November, 1557, and was s. by his son,

SIR EDMUND HODELSTON, knt. of Salston, in the county of Cambridge, who m. Dorothy, daughter and heir of Henry Beconsall, esq. of Beaconsall, in Lancashire, and had one son and four daughters, viz.

Family of Nevil.

The following details of the family of NEVILL, now partly represented by the Huddlestons, are from BURKE's Extinct and Dormant Peerage.

GEOFFREY DE NEVILL, grandson of Gilbert de Nevil, one of the companions in arms of WILLIAM the Conqueror, married Emma, only daughter and heir of Bertram Bulmer, Lord of Sheriffhutton, and left an only daughter,

ISABEL DE NEVIL, who espoused Robert Fitz-Maldred, Lord of Raby, and had a son, Geoffrey Fitz Maldred, who adopting his maternal surname and inheriting the estates, became

GEOFFREY DE NEVIL, of Raby, and was father of

ROBERT NEVIL, Lord of Raby and Branspeth in the 41st HENRY III. who m. Ida de Bertram, and was succeeded by his grandson,

RALPH NEVIL, Lord of Raby and Middleham, who died in 1331, leaving, by Euphemia, his first wife, daughter of Sir John de Clavering, a son and successor,

RALPH NEVIL, second baron, summoned to parliament from the 20th November, 1331, to 20th January, 1336. His lordship wedded Alice, daughter of Hugh de Audeley, and was succeeded at his decease in 1367, by his eldest son,

SIR JOHN NEVIL, third baron, summoned to parliament as Lord Nevil of Raby from the 24th February, 1368, to 28th July, 1388. He m. Margaret, eldest daughter of Henry, Lord Percy, and was father of

RALPH NEVIL, fourth baron. This nobleman took a leading part in the political drama of his day, and sustained it with more than ordinary ability. His lordship was created Earl of Westmoreland, invested with the great office of Earl Marshal of England, and made a knight of the garter. By Joan de Beaufort, his second wife, daughter of John of Gaunt, King of Castile, the earl left at his decease, in 1425, with other issue, a son,

RICHARD NEVIL, who espoused the Lady Alice Montacute, daughter and heir of Thomas, Earl of Salisbury, Vice-Regent of France, by Alice, his wife, daughter and co-heir of Thomas Holland, Earl of Kent, and had the EARLDOM OF SALISBURY revived in his person by letters patent dated 4th May, 1442. Her ladyship inherited the old baronies of Montacute and Monthermer, which had been so long in her family. The earl, by the heiress of the Montacutes, had, with six daughters, as many sons, of whom the eldest, RICHARD, the Stout Earl of

* By his wife, Elizabeth, daughter and co-heir of Peter Hoskyns, esq. of Ibberton.

Warwick, became second Earl of Salisbury, and distinguished in history as the King Maker; while the third,

SIR JOHN NEVIL, was summoned to parliament as Baron Nevil of Montague in 1460. He subsequently joined his brother in raising EDWARD IV. to the throne, and was first created Earl of Northumberland, but resigning that title became MARQUESS OF MONTACUTE. Again, however, deserting his colours, he fell in the attempt to restore HENRY VI. His lordship married Isabel, daughter and heir of Sir Edmund Inglethorpe, kn. by Jane, his wife, sister and co-heir of John Tiptoft, Earl of Worcester, and had issue, one son and five daughters,

GEORGE, who was created DUKE OF BEDFORD in 1469, but d. s. p. in 1483, leaving his five sisters his co-heirs.

ANNE, m. to Sir William Stonor, of Stonor, in Oxfordshire.

ELIZABETH, m. to Lord Scrope, of Upsall.

Mr. Staunton succeeded his father in 1811. He is a magistrate and deputy lieutenant of the county of Warwick, and was formerly captain in the 1st regiment of life guards.

* The ancient family of Perrott (the founder of which came out of Normandy with Duke WILLIAM, and whose son Stephen settled in Pembrokeshire, and m. Eleanor, lady of Yestington, fourth in descent from Howel Dda, king of South Wales) became extinct in the last century in the persons of four co-heiresses: 1, Elizabeth, m. to — Sparrow, esq.; 2, Catherine, m. first, to R. Whitehall, esq. and secondly, to John Parker, esq.; 3, Susanna, m. to William Standert, esq.; and 4, Jane, m. to the Rev. George Underwood, D.D.

Lineage.

This family, which appears to have come originally from Nottinghamshire, was settled at Longbridge, in the county of Warwick, previously to the year 1450, where it has ever since remained in a direct male succession. The name occurs differently written at different periods, and has been indiscriminately used, STANTON, STAUNTON, and sometimes STANETON, and STAWNTON. The STAUNTONS of Staunton, in Nottinghamshire, were seated there in the time of EDWARD the Confessor, and the connexion of this family with that, is thus stated in THOMAS's Edit. of Dugdale's Warwickshire, vol. ii. page 665, "A branch of the family of Staunton, of Staunton, in Nottinghamshire. They give for their arms, arg. two chevrons sable; and those of Warwickshire the same, with the addition of a border. This coat they took from Albany, Lord of Belvoir, who bore for his arms, or, two chevrons and a border gules; as holding lands by the tenure of Castlegard, by keeping and defending a tower in the castle of Belvoir, which is to this day called the Staunton Tower."*

THOMAS STAUNTON, of Longbridge, and Margery, his wife, by a decree in possession of the family, bearing date of 1461, had lands released to them in Longgebrugge, Hampton Curley, and Shirburne.

JOHN STAUNTON, of Longbridge, and Matilda, his wife, were admitted into the religious fraternity of the Gild of St. Anne, of Knolle,† in the county of Warwick, anno 1493.

THOMAS STAUNTON succeeded the above John, and is the first who appears in the visitation of the county of Warwick, in 1619. He was s. by his son,

JOHN STAUNTON, of Longbridge, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of Townesend of Wales, and had issue,

- i. THOMAS, his successor.
- ii. Thomas, bearing the same name as his elder brother, and is described as an "ancient captain in the Irish wars." He purchased, in the 18th ELIZABETH, the manor and advowson of Wolverton, in the county of Warwick. He m. first, Susanna, widow of Thomas Fisher, of the Priory, Warwick, and thus became possessed of the Deanery there. He wedded secondly, Mary, eldest dau.

—, m. to Barnaby Holbache.

Elizabeth, m. to Edward Badger.

Judith, m. to HAMMET SADLER, who appears to have been an intimate friend of SHAKESPEARE, as he was Godfather to the poet's only son, who was called after him, and his wife, Judith, Godmother to the poet's youngest daughter, named also after her. He was a subscribing witness to Shakespeare's will, and had a legacy of "twenty-six shillings and eightpence, to buy him a ring."

Margaret, m. to Thomas Masters, esq.

This gentleman devised his estates to his son, under the proviso "that once every yeare on the feast of Pentecost, he and his heires for ever shall call together his sisters and their children, and generations for the time being, to Longbridge, to make merry with him and them." He was s. in 1610, by the said son,

HUMPHREY STAUNTON, esq. of Longbridge, who, by Joane, his wife, left one son and five daughters, viz.

* See Vol. I. page 528.

Jane.

Beatrice.

Hindley-Leigh, b. 7th October, 1796.

Mr. Philips succeeded, under the will of his father, to the estates of that gentleman, at his decease, 2nd February, 1824. He is a deputy-lieutenant for the county of Chester, and in the commission of the peace, but does not act as a magistrate: he is indefatigable, however, in promoting works of public utility in his vicinity.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the old Staffordshire family of PHILIPS, of HEATH HOUSE, founded by NATHANIEL PHILIPS, esq. of Manchester,* who was born on the 15th of February, 1693, and baptized at Checkley on the 25th of the same month. He m. 13th January, 1729, Elizabeth, eldest daughter and co-heir of John Burton, esq. of Derby, and had three sons, viz.

1. NATHANIEL, of Manchester, merchant, b. 30th January, and baptized 1st March, 1730, m. Hannah, daughter of William Barrow, of Salford, merchant, and dying in June, 1766, left NATHANIEL, of Nottingham, some time resident at Philadelphia, b. 1st April, 1765, living unm. in 1834.

William, b. 8th October, 1766, d. unm. 28th February, 1827, and interred at York.

Alice, b. 21st July, 1763, d. 15th June, 1794, unm.

II. John, d. in infancy.

III. JOHN.

Mr. Philips died 26th May, 1776, his wife died four days previously, they were both buried at St. John's Church, in Manchester, he on the 28th May, and the lady on the 25th. His youngest son,

JOHN PHILIPS, esq. b. 7th, and baptized 26th June, 1734, purchased in 1777 the estate of Bank Hall, in the township of Heaton-Norris, and county of Lancaster. He m. 29th January, 1761, Sarah, daughter of George Leigh, esq. of Oughtrington Hall, in Cheshire, and by her (who died 3rd February, 1809,) had issue,

1. JOHN-LEIGH, of Mayfield, near Manchester, lieutenant-colonel-commandant of the first regiment of Manchester and Salford Volunteers, b. 23rd November, 1761, and died on the 23rd June, 1814, deplored beyond the common expression of public feeling, so universally acknowledged were his public services, so general his talents and acquirements, and so philanthropic the whole tenor of his life. To his unremitting and benevolent exertions for a space of nearly twenty years, during which he had

* Third son of Nathaniel Philips, of Heath House, and his wife, Elizabeth, the daughter and heiress of John Stubbs.

filled the offices of chairman and treasurer, the Manchester Royal Infirmary is in a great measure indebted for its present state of prosperity. When he undertook those offices he found the governors disunited, and the charity declining; his firmness, independence, and courtesy soon, however, restored harmony, and eventually placed the institution on the most solid basis. As lieutenant-colonel-commandant of the Volunteers his abilities were not less conspicuous, the regiment mustering, when reviewed by the Duke of Gloucester, above 1150 men; its efficiency, and the unanimity which pervaded officers and privates, were entirely attributable to the talent he possessed of "rendering discipline engaging, and authority amiable," as expressed on one of the superb testimonials of attachment and respect presented to him by his officers upon two distinct occasions. He was an encourager of painting, and his taste for the fine arts is thus adverted to in the Introduction to Carey's "Critical Description of the Procession of Chaucer's Pilgrims," published in 1808, and addressed to Mr. Philips. "Your unassuming taste, thorough acquaintance with the beauties of the ancient and modern schools, and classic collection of engravings and pictures, are spoken of in every part of the empire as an honor to the great manufacturing town in which you have fixed your residence." But the gift he possessed in the most prominent degree, was that of discovering genius; and amongst his virtues, that of rewarding it. The late Wright, of Derby, James Heath, R.A., Mr. Shepherd, curator of the Botanic Garden at Liverpool, emerged from obscurity, and each rose to eminence under his auspices. Similar instances of almost paternal kindness to young artists of promise frequently occurred. His extensive gardens were always accessible to the lovers of botany. His collection of insects, sold by his executors, and purchased by a number of spirited individuals, has become the nucleus of the Manchester Natural History Society. Mr. Philips m. in 1787, Miss Caroline Penny, of Manchester, and had surviving issue,

* NATHANIEL-GEORGE PHILIPS was a young man of great promise and of more than ordinary talents. Inheriting his father's taste for the fine arts, he abandoned the profession of physic, to indulge, to wanton, in his favourite pursuits of music and painting—in the former he acquired excellence as an amateur—in the latter, as a professional landscape painter. He visited Italy in 1824, and resided at Rome for three years, where his paintings and drawings of Italian scenery achieved so high a reputation that he had the honor of being chosen a member of St. Luke's Academy, in the vacancy occasioned by the then recent decease of Fuseli.

county of Hereford, and has issue.
(See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.)

Mr. Phillips died at the advanced age of ninety, on the 2nd of February, 1824, and devised his landed property to his fourth son, the present FRANCIS PHILLIPS, esq. of Bank Hall. The decease of this highly valued and respected person is thus recorded in the Gentleman's Magazine. "Died, 2nd February, 1824, in his ninetieth year, John Phillips, esq. of Bank Hall, near Stockport, Cheshire. Gifted with a mind of peculiar vigour and acuteness; and uniting, with high classical attainments, great experience of mankind, he was eminently qualified for his important public functions. If inflexible integrity, and cool dispassionate judgment; if a knowledge the most intimate, and an administration the most impartial, of the laws of his country attach value to the magistrate, they were the acknowledged characteristics of Mr. Phillips. To the division of the county to which he belonged, of which he was the pride and ornament, his loss is irreparable. His remains were deposited, February the 11th, in the family vault at Didsbury. He was deputy-lieutenant for the county of Chester, justice of the peace for the counties of Lancaster and Chester, and chairman of the bench of magistrates at Stockport." A line engraving by HORSBURGH, executed in that artist's best manner, from a most able and characteristic three quarter length portrait by ALLEN, preserves to his family and friends a lasting memorial of this highly gifted and accomplished gentleman.

Arms, &c.—See PHILIPS, of Heath House.

Estates—A small patrimonial freehold at Nether Tean, near Cheadle, in Staffordshire; Bank Hall estate, situate on the north bank of the Mersey, in the township of Heaton Norris, and county of Lancaster, purchased in 1777 by the late John Phillips, esq. from Ann Briarley; and several adjoining tracts of land since acquired also by purchase. The Cressbrook estate on the river Wye, township of Litton, and county of Derby, bought in 1812 from the late Samuel Simpson, esq. being at the junction of Monsal and Millar's Dale, so justly celebrated for picturesque scenery. Lands recently purchased in the parish of Cheadle, in the county of Chester.

MORRALL, OF PLAS YOLYN.

MORRALL, WILLIAM, esq. of Plas Yolyn, in the county of Salop, late captain in the 9th Foot, m. Miss Sarah Thomas, and has an only child,

ELIZABETH-ESSEX, m. to William Legh Hilton, esq.

Mr. Morrall, who is a magistrate for Shropshire, succeeded his father 2nd July, 1822.

Lineage.

The Morralls have been seated in Salop from an early period, and they now represent the very ancient family of EDWARDES, of Kilhendre, which had resided in Dudleston, antecedently to the date of any existing records.

TUDOR TREVOR, described in all the genealogical MSS. of the Principality, as chief or head of the tribe of the marches, was ancestor of IDDON SAIS, Lord of Dudleston, whose descendant in the tenth degree,

HUGH AP EDWARD, of Kilhendre, a merchant of eminence in London and Shrewsbury, assumed, according to the English custom, the surname of EDWARDES. This opulent citizen acquired, on the 14th December, 1549, from King EDWARD VI. a considerable portion of the tenements in Shrewsbury, which had formerly belonged to the dissolved College of St. Chad, in that borough, and in 1551, principally through his influence at court the grant was obtained, under which was founded the Royal Free Grammar School of Shrewsbury, now one of the most celebrated Royal foundations for education in Great Britain. This Hugh Edwardes married Alice, dau. of Thomas Keile, of Baikler, in Dorsetshire, and had two sons, TIMOTHY, his heir.

Thomas, of Shrewsbury, who died 19th March, 1634, aged seventy-nine, leaving, by Anne, his wife, daughter and heir of Humphrey Baskerville, esq. of London, and relict of Stephen Duckett, a son and heir,

SIR THOMAS EDWARDES, of Shrewsbury, who was created a BARONET, 21st March, 1644, and from whom lineally descends the present

SIR HENRY EDWARDES, bart. of Shrewsbury. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.)

The elder son,

TIMOTHY EDWARDES, esq. of Kilhendre, espoused Alice, daughter of Adam Colefox, of Merrington, in Salop, and had a son and successor,

FRANCIS EDWARDES, esq. of Kilhendre, who m. Mary, daughter of John Figes, esq. of Twemlows, in Shropshire, and was father of

THOMAS EDWARDES, esq. of Kilhendre, who wedded Frances, daughter of John Aldersey, esq. of Aldersey and Spurstow, in Cheshire, and had one son and two daughters, viz.

THOMAS, his heir.

Judith, who m. in 1669, JOHN MORRALL, esq. of Plas Yolyn, and had a son, EDWARD MORRALL, of whom presently, as inheritor of the estates of the EDWARDESSES.

Frances.

Mr. Edwardes was succeeded by his son,

THOMAS EDWARDES, esq. M.D. of Kilhendre, (nineteenth in descent from Tudor Trevor), who m. Anne, fifth dau. of Watkin Kyffin, esq. of Glascoed, in the county of Denbigh, and had two daughters, Frances and Anne, both of whom dying unmarried, (the last survivor, Frances, in 1730), the estates devolved by entail on

EDWARD MORRALL, esq. of Plas Yolyn, who then became also "of Kilhendre." He wedded Elizabeth, daughter of Edward Dymock, esq. of Willington and Penley, in the county of Flint, and dying 16th January, 1741, was succeeded by his eldest son,

JOSIAH MORRALL, esq. of Plas Yolyn and Kilhendre, who m. Margaret, sister of the late Sir Edward Lloyd, bart. of Pengwern, by whom he had six daughters, but leaving no male issue, the estates were inherited by his brother,

WILLIAM MORRALL, esq. of Plas Yolyn and Kilhendre. This gentleman espoused Susanna, daughter and heiress of John Ber, esq. of Wendlebury, in Oxfordshire, and was succeeded, at his demise, 11th March, 1756, by his son,

CHARLES MORRALL, esq. of Plas Yolyn, who sold the Kilhendre estate in 1800. He m. Frances, only daughter of William Challnor, and sole heiress of her brother, William Challnor, esq. who died during his sheriffalty for Salop in 1800. By this lady, who died 7th December, 1823, Mr. Morrall had issue,

I. WILLIAM, his heir.

II. Charles, of New Hall, in Shropshire, residing in Chester, a magistrate for the latter county, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of William Boates, esq. of Liverpool, and has an only child, Emily.

III. Edward, lord of the manor of Trayan, Shropshire.

IV. Cyrus, of Liverpool, merchant, who m. Margaret, daughter of the Rev. Richard Owen, M.A. of Bodsilyn, in Carnarvonshire, and had issue,

1. Cyrus, of Brazenose College, M.A. who m. Emily-Jane, dau. of the Rev. Francis Blackburne, M.A. late rector of Weston supra Mare.

2. John-Charles.

1. Margaret.

v. Thomas, who died unm.

VI. Robert, of Plas Warren, Salop, who m. Margaret, daughter of Michael Richardson, esq. of Liverpool.

VII. Henry, in holy orders, of Brazenose College, M.A.

VIII. Philip, who died unm.

IX. John, in holy orders, M.A. late fellow of Brazenose College, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of William Harding, of Liverpool, merchant.

1. Frances-Esther, m. to Thomas Jones, esq. of Llanerchrûgog Hall, Denbighshire, and has two sons and two daughters.

Mr. Morrall died in 1822, and was s. by his eldest son, the present WILLIAM MORRALL, esq. of Plas Yolyn.

Frances-Elizabeth, m. to Henry Hordern, esq. of Dunstall Hall, Staffordshire.

Eunna, m. the Rev. Benjamin Lucas Cubitt, a younger son of the Norfolk family.

Mr. Holyoake succeeded his uncle, Francis Holyoake, esq. in 1796, and his father, Thomas Holyoake, esq. in 1800.

* The LYTTETLONS of Studley Castle, in the county of Warwick, and of Naunton Court, in Worcestershire, were a branch of the great and distinguished stock of Lyttelton of Frankley.

JOHN LYTTETLON, esq. of Frankley, living in the reign of HENRY VIII. wedded Elizabeth, daughter and co-heir of Sir Gilbert Talbot, of Grafton, by Anne, his wife, daughter and co-heir of Sir William Paston, by Anne, his wife, third sister and co-heir of Edmund Beaufort, Duke of Somerset, grandson of JOHN of GAUNT, Duke of Lancaster. By this lady he had issue,

- i. JOHN, ancestor of the noble family of LYTTETLON.
- ii. Edward, who m. the Lady Elizabeth Talbot, daughter of Walter Wrottesley, esq. of Wrottesley.
- iii. Gilbert.
- iv. Anthony, of Abbot Salford, Wilts.
- v. ROGER, of whom presently.
- vi. George, counsellor at law, who died in 1600, and lies interred under a splendid monument in Bromsgrove Church.
- vii. Thomas.
- i. Margaret, died unmarried.
- ii. Anne, m. to Edmund Newport, esq. of Hanley Williams.

The fifth son,

ROGER LYTTETLON, esq. was seated at Groveley, in King's Norton parish, Worcestershire. He wedded Elizabeth, daughter of John Stanley, of West Bromwich, and was ancestor of the LYTTETLONS OF STUDLEY CASTLE, in the county of Warwick, and of Naunton Beauchamp, in Worcestershire. The representative of which branch of the family, in the eighteenth century,

PHILLIPS LYTTETLON, esq. of Studley Castle, and Naunton Court, married 25th June, 1723, Dorothy, daughter of Robert Bloxham, esq. of Great Alne, in Warwickshire, and died 15th July 1763, aged seventy-five, leaving issue,

- i. PHILLIPS, of Studley Castle, born in 1729, died unmarried in 1809.
- ii. Robert, b. 20th April, 1731, a captain in the Warwickshire militia, m. Leonora, only daughter and heir of — Rutland, gent. of Richmond, and died in 1782, leaving an only daughter and heiress,

DOROTHY-ELIZABETH, m. as stated in the text, to FRANCIS HOLYOAKE, esq. of Tettenhall and Morton Bagot, and has issue, in whom the representation of this branch of the Lyttelton family is now vested. She died in June, 1811.

- iii. John, born in 1735, died unmarried in 1813.
- i. Elizabeth, died unmarried, 1778.

Lineage.

The family of HOLYOAKE has for more than two centuries possessed considerable landed property in the county of Warwick.

JOHN HOLYOAKE, esq. who resided in the mansion-house of Morton Bagot, and enjoyed estates in that and the adjoining parishes, purchased in 1640 from Sir Robert Sherpeigh and Jane, his wife, the manors of Morton Bagot and Nethersteed, together with the advowson and a farm. He married and had three sons, namely,

i. THOMAS.

ii. John, whose only daughter and heiress (to whom he gave an estate in Spinal, called St. Giles's), ELIZABETH HOLYOAKE, wedded Thomas Berkeley, esq. of Spetchley, great-grandfather of the present Robert Berkeley, esq. of Spetchley (see vol. i. p. 469).

iii. William, three years a student at Baliol College, Oxford, and afterwards, for twelve years, resident member of Lincoln's Inn. He died without issue.

The eldest son,

THOMAS HOLYOAKE, esq. of Morton Bagot, married and had issue,

i. JOHN, mayor of Warwick in 1699, who wedded, first, Miss Susannah Green, and had two daughters, Elizabeth, who d. s. p. and Susannah, the wife of — Hopkins, esq. He espoused, secondly, Elizabeth Hopkins, sister to his daughter's husband, but, having no issue by her, he granted in 1706 to her brother, Thomas Hopkins, in fee, the reversion of the manor of Morton Bagot, with the advowson and one farm. Accordingly, upon the decease of Mr. Holyoake, that part of Morton Bagot devolved on Mr. Hopkins, and remained separated from the Holyoake possessions until restored to the family in 1778 by Francis Holyoake, esq. who purchased it in that year.

ii. WILLIAM, of whom presently.

iii. Thomas, who d. s. p.

The second son,

WILLIAM HOLYOAKE, esq. was father of several children, of whom the eldest,

JOHN HOLYOAKE, esq. devisee of his great uncles John and William, wedded, 29th November, 1720, Elizabeth, daughter of Court Dewes, esq. of Mappleborough Green, in the county of Warwick, and had by her, who died in 1774, aged eighty, two sons and one daughter, viz.

i. THOMAS, his heir.

Mathew-Forde, captain in the 3rd Dragoon Guards.

Elizabeth-Anne.

Anne-Margaret.

Charity-Isabella.

Jane-Emily.

Mr. Beauman succeeded his father, 13th December, 1802. He is a magistrate for the county of Wexford, and was its high sheriff in 1821.

Lineage.

The BAUMANS, originally of Bohemia, where they possessed considerable property, expatriated themselves in consequence of the persecutions to which, as Lutherans, they had been exposed on the expulsion of the ELECTOR PALATINE, and took refuge in various parts of Germany and Holland.

MELCHIOR CHRISTOPHER BAUMAN, accompanying General de Ginkell, to whom he was nearly allied by marriage, into Ireland, settled in the county of Wexford, anno 1691.* He married and had two sons, viz.

JOHN, his heir.

Francis, who m. a sister of the Comte de Serans, and settled at Nantes, in Bretagne. His descendants subsequently possessed considerable estates there, but are now extinct in the male line.

The elder son,

JOHN BAUMAN, esq. of the county of Wexford, wedded Margaret, daughter of Edvary Barry, esq. of Rathrush, in the county of Carlow, and had issue,

JOHN, his heir.

Barry, who died young.

Mary.

Margaret.

Mr. Bauman died in 1761, and was s. by his son,

JOHN BAUMAN, esq. of the county of Wexford, who altered the spelling of the family name from Bauman to BEAUMAN.

* Another member of the family,

The Rev. JOHN BAUMAN, a native of Prague, came to England about the year 1646, with ample testimonials from many of the principal German divines. He died circa 1668, leaving one daughter, then of tender years, who afterwards married Daniel Doddridge, of London, and was mother of the celebrated PHILIP DODDRIDGE, D.D. the very eminent dissenting divine.

He m. in 1758, Anne, daughter of Edmond Rice, esq. of Ahere, in the same shire, and by her, who died 10th May, 1812, had issue,

i. JOHN-CHRISTOPHER, his heir.

ii. Edward-Barry, who died in 1800 in India.

iii. Michael, a captain in the Madras Artillery, m. Mary, daughter of General Wahab, and had several children, of whom the only survivor is,

Edward-John-Barry Beauman, esq. of Furness, in the county of Kildare, a justice of the peace, who m. 29th March, 1833, Elizabeth, daughter of George Moore, esq. of Kippine, in Wicklow, and has one daughter.

Captain Michael Beauman, who held the situation of superintendent of the arsenals at Madras, was lost on his passage home from India, on board the Lady Dundas Indiaman in 1809.

iv. William, of Rutland Square, Dublin, m. in 1796, Charity, sister of Sir Henry French Barrington, bart. and has issue, John, in holy orders, vicar-choral of St. Patrick's Cathedral, and vicar of Julianstown, in the county of Meath, died unmarried 15th April, 1828.

Anne, m. 9th October, 1827, to the Rev. Brabazon William Disney, rector of Stackallen, in Meath.

Maria, m. 19th March, 1819, to John Kennedy, esq. of Johnstown-Kennedy, in the county of Dublin, and died 7th November, 1828, leaving five sons and one daughter.

v. Francis, captain R.N.

i. Margaret, m. to Barry Lawless, esq. of Cherrywood, in the county of Dublin, and died in March, 1818, s. p.

ii. Anne, m. to William Talbot, esq. of Castle Talbot, in the county of Wexford.

iii. Mary.

Mr. Beauman died 13th December, 1802, and was s. by his eldest son, the present JOHN-CHRISTOPHER BEAUMAN, esq. of Hyde Park.

Motto—Fortiter.

Estates—In the counties of Wexford and Wicklow.

Seat—Hyde Park, county Wexford.

his Theatrum Orbis Terrarum, Antwerpia 1595, and republished, with improvements, about fifty years ago in Dublin. The O'Gradys diverging in process of time from the parent stock of Kilballyowen, spread into the various collateral branches of Cappercullen, Elton, Grange, Lodge, Rahau, Cahir, Mount Prospect, &c. preserving in all the highest degree of respectability and allying with many of the most eminent of the nobility of their native land—the Marquises of Lansdowne, Donegal and Headfort, the Earls of Ilchester and Dunraven, Lord Kinsale, &c.

In the interval between 1276 and 1310, the chieftainship of the sept vested in

DONALD O'GRADY, who fell in battle, in 1309, leaving a son,

HUGH O'GRADY, of Kilballyowen, lands acquired the same year in marriage with the daughter and heiress of O'Kerwick, chief of Aniah Cliah, and which have since remained the principal residence of his descendants. His son and heir,

WILLIAM O'GRADY, of Kilballyowen, espoused Elizabeth Fitzgerald, daughter of the knight of Glyn, and was father of

DANIEL O'GRADY, of Kilballyowen, whose son, by his wife, the daughter of O'Hine, Lord of Cahinelly Castle,

GILLYDUFF O'GRADY, of Kilballyowen, wedded Eleanor, daughter of William Verdon,* of Kilmallock, in the county of Limerick, and had a son and successor,

MATHEW O'GRADY, of Kilballyowen, who m. Alicia, daughter of Thomas Fitz Gibbon, the White Knight, and left a son, DONOGH O'GRADY, of Kilballyowen, whose wife was Margaret, daughter of Sir Thomas Browne, knt. of Camas, in the county of Limerick. By an extant deed, bearing date 1612, Donogh O'Grady made a settlement of his estates on his three sons,

DARBY, Morrogh, and Brien. He was s. by the eldest,

DARBY O'GRADY, of Kilballyowen, who espoused in 1633, Faith, daughter and co-heir of Sir Thomas Standish,† of Lancashire and of Bruff, in the county of Limerick, by whom he left three sons,

1. THOMAS, his heir.

11. Standish, progenitor of the family of ELTON and CAPPERCULLEN, from a younger branch of which descend Henry Deane Grady, and Henry Grove Grady, esqrs.

III. Darby, of whom nothing is known.

The eldest son,

THOMAS O'GRADY, of Kilballyowen,‡ m. first, Frances, daughter of John Anketill, esq. by the Lady Lucy Touchet, daughter of Mervin, Earl of Castlehaven; and secondly, as appears by a deed of settlement made therein in 1680, Ellice, daughter of John Walsh, esq. of the county of Tipperary, and relict of — Everard, esq. of the same shire. By his first wife he had JOHN, his heir; and Thomas, from whom spring the branches of Rahau and Grange. The elder son, JOHN O'GRADY, of Kilballyowen, wedded first, in 1698, Catharine, dau. of Thady Quin, esq. of Adair, in the county of Limerick, great-great grandfather of the present Earl of Dunraven, and had one son, THOMAS, his heir. He m. secondly, Honora, daughter of Major General Patrick Allen, of St. Wolstans (see p. 365), and left, by her, three sons and two daughters, viz.

1. Standish, who m. Honora, daughter and sole heiress of Jeremiah Hayes, esq. of Cahir, in the county of Limerick, and had issue,

1. John, of Cahir, high sheriff of

* In the cathedral church of Kilmallock (called, from the beauty of its ruins, the Palmyra, or Tadmor, of Ireland), are the remains of a monument erected over the Verdon family, one of whom represented the town in the Irish parliament of 1613. Another monument in the same church bore the following inscription: "D. Walterus Coppinger, eques auratus, hoc funeris et amoris monumentum posuit, A.D. 1627, Domino Johanni Verduno, ejusque relictae. D. Alsonae Haly, &c. Surgite mortui, venite ad judicium." This monument was esteemed one of the best in Munster. On the top was an emblem of the resurrection, a man rising from the grave at the call of an angel sounding the last trumpet. In the back ground, a cross resting on the Rock of Faith, its base decorated with flagree work encircled in a wreath of olive branches, emblematical of man's salvation and the joys of heaven. (See Ferrar's Limerick, p. 445.) The family is extinct in the county.

† In consequence of this alliance, the name of Standish has become very general, not only in the direct and collateral descendants of Dermot, but, by intermarriages, in many other families, the Barrys of Lemlara (see p. 459), the Halys, the Harrisons, &c.

‡ We may here allude to a tradition, applicable to this period, and long prevalent in the family, which ascribes to one of its members, then a student at Oxford, the celebrated antithetic Latin line, descriptive of the first miracle recorded of our Saviour, in the conversion of water into wine, at the marriage in Cana of Galilee: "Vidit et erubuit, lympha pudica, Deum," which has been inelegantly dilated, in the English version, into

"The modest water, awed by power divine, Confessed its God, and blushed itself to wine."

We by no means vouch for the authenticity of this tradition; for there are other claimants, we are aware, to the composition. Non nostrum est tantas componere lites.

2. Darby, of Mount Prospect, who served the office of sheriff for the county of Limerick in 1785. He m. Mary, daughter of Collector Smith, of Limerick, and had a very numerous offspring, the eldest of whom,

STANDISH O'GRADY, was raised to the peerage as VISCOUNT GUILLAMORE in 1831. His lordship, who inherited Cahir, upon the demise of his uncle, John, was high sheriff of Limerick in 1790. He m. Katherine, second dau. of John Thomas Waller, esq. of Castletown, and has issue (See BURKE's Peerage).

- II. James, who m. Miss Honora Scanlan, and was ancestor of the O'GRADYS of Ballingarry.

- III. Patrick, died unm.

- I. Lucy, m. to Mathew O'Hea, esq. of Kilkeran, in the county of Cork.

- II. Mary, m. to William Haly, esq. of Ballyhaly, in the county of Cork.

O'Grady was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS O'GRADY, of Kilballyowen, who m. in 1718, Anne, daughter of John Horrish, esq. of the Grange of Ballyboholl, in the county of Dublin, (the original name, it is said, was Birmingham, afterwards hibernized into Mc Yeores, and finally made Horrish), by whom he left five sons and one daughter, viz.

1. JOHN, his heir.

- II. Darby, who served for a long time in India, and on his return to Ireland, married Miss Rose Segrave, of the ancient house of Cabragh, in the county of Dublin, and has issue,

- III. Gilbert, an officer in the French service.

- IV. Denis, an officer in the Austrian service.

- V. Standish, m. in 1750, Eliza, daughter of Edward Deane, esq. of Dangan, in the county of Kilkenny, and of Terrenure, in the county of Dublin, member in the Irish Parliament, by whom he had an only son, the present John O'Grady, esq. of Harstongestreet, Limerick.

- I. Mary, m. to Henry Harrison, esq. of Castle Harrison, and had issue.

The eldest son,

JOHN O'GRADY, of Kilballyowen, was the first of his house who conformed to the established church. He m. in 1751, while residing at Ballinschola, during the life of his father, the Hon. Mary Elizabeth De Courcy, eldest daughter of Gerald, twenty-fourth lord of Kinsale, (See BURKE's Peerage), and had, with several daughters, a son and successor,

GERALD DE COURCY O'GRADY, of Kilballyowen, who espoused Eliza, daughter of John Thomas Waller,* esq. of Castletown, in the county of Limerick, who for many years represented that shire in parliament, and had issue,

- I. John Thomas, lieutenant in the 11th Light Dragoons, who died r. p. in Spain, 8th October, 1811, while serving in the Peninsular war.

- II. GERALD DE COURCY, successor to his father.

- III. John Waller, formerly in the R.N. now residing at Fort Etua, in the county of Limerick, a magistrate for that county.

- IV. John De Courcy, a clergyman of the established church.

- I. Mary-Elizabeth, relict of Alexander Rose, esq. capt. R.N.

- II. Dorothea, m. to the Rev. Henry Lefroy, younger brother of Thomas Lefroy, M.P. for Trinity College, Dublin.

- III. Isabella, m. to her cousin, Standish Harrison, esq. of Castle Harrison, in the county of Cork.

Gerald De Courcy O'Grady died in 1812, and was s. by his eldest surviving son, the present O'GRADY.

Lineage.

Few pedigrees in the British empire, if any, can be traced to a more remote or a more exalted source than that of the Celtic house of M'Carty; and, making every allowance for the exaggeration of Celtic descents generally, it cannot be contested that, when reduced to fair and admissible limits, they, as comprising the very oldest deducible family records, command a prominent, perhaps the most prominent, place in European genealogy. The most ancient existing families of France, of Spain, of England, do not venture to pursue their line beyond the barbarian chiefs who conquered their countries,—the Franks, the Visigoths, and Normans,—from the sixth to the eleventh centuries. Of the English many, as shown in this and the other works of the author, can prove contemporaneous origin with the CONQUEST in 1066, or even an anterior Saxon descent, but the pretensions of other nations to more remote antiquity are wholly untenable, because entirely unsubstantiated. The MONTMORENCYS, who by general consent are placed at the head of the French HAUTE NOBLESSE, and who arrogate the title of PREMIER BARON CHRÉTIEN,† rest this proud assumption upon no solid foundation. The first of the name distinguished in history, BOUCHARD, LE BARBU, or the Bearded, lived, according to Hainaut, about the year 1028, and from that period until the close of the eighteenth century, when the Duke de Luxembourg, the last male representative of the second branch died, no house in France was more illustrious in rank and achievement.§ In a similar position, during nearly the same interval, were the Fitzgeralds, the † Clovis died in 511.

‡ The motto of the family is "Dieu aide au premier Chrétien."

§ The direct line failed in 1632, when Henri (II.) Duc, Pair et Maréchal de Montmorency, was beheaded at Toulouse, and his immense inheritance passed to his sister, the Princesse de Condé, mother of the Grand Condé, of whose descendants it made, in the last century, next to the Orleans branch of the royal blood, (to whom it has lately devolved) the largest proprietors in France. The house of Condé did not previously possess above one hundred thousand livres a year. "Il n'y a plus de Montmorency" says Montgaillard, "que du chef des femmes," the Luxembourg branch, a collateral one, which succeeded the main stock in 1632, having expired, as above, in or about 1790, but the present Montmorencys (Laval) do not admit this. In Ireland, the Lord Frankfort, and others of the name of MORRIS have lately resumed their original name, as they allege, of MONTMORENCY.

During nearly every reign from PHILIP I. (1060) the Montmorencys were constables of France, until that dignity was suppressed under Louis XIII. in 1627.

Burkes, and the Butlers, in Ireland. The Abbé de Montgaillard, a most competent judge, thus speaks on the subject, (Histoire de France, tome i. p. 103.) "Sans nul doute, la généalogie de la famille Bouchard ou Montmorency est de toutes les généalogies françaises, celle qui présente le plus d'illustration; mais elle ne remonte pas tout à fait à l'an 1000 . . . Il n'y a pas même une seule famille française dont la généalogie prouvée remonte jusqu'à l'usurpation de Hugues Capet (987). . . . Les Montesquieu ont voulu démontrer qu'ils descendaient en ligne collatérale de Clovis,* mais ils comptent à peine trois cents ans de noblesse." Previously to the revolution of 1789, the peers of France, including those of the blood royal, and seven prelates, scarcely exceeded fifty in number. The eldest creation was that of Usez, conferred by CHARLES IX. in 1572, posterior, by nearly a century, to that of Norfolk, in England, (1483). The great houses of La Tremouille, la Rochefoucault, Noailles, Richelieu, Villeroi, and many others, however illustrious for three or four hundred years were not at all distinguished by great antiquity. This is fully established by the celebrated memorial of the parliament of Paris, in the minority of Louis XV.; a curious document, drawn up for the purpose of rebuking the overweening pretensions of the peerage, which are analyzed and reduced to their real value. The Tremouilles, although mentioned by Froissart in the preceding century, were little known before the reign of CHARLES VII. (1422-1460); nor the Rochefoucaults, historically, prior to that of FRANCIS I. in the following century. The others are still more modern. The chief of the Rohans derives through female descent, as do probably the present Montmorencys, and certainly the Richelieus. The family of Levi (Mirepoix) modestly claims kindred with the VIRGIN MARY; and the name would indicate a Jewish origin, of which, however, they would be little proud but for such an association.† Many others, such as the Clermont-Tonnerre,‡ La-Vaugayon, Cossé-Brissac, &c. were scarcely less absurd in their assumptions, as displayed in the memoirs of the Duc de Saint-Simon, no small portion of which, and they extend to twenty volumes, is devoted to this topic, without however impairing, in public estimation, a work preeminent amongst those productions of which France is so justly proud. The same tests might be applied, and similar results deduced, in reviewing the Spanish, Portuguese, Belgian, and German nobility. In Spain—of whose grandees§ it was arrogantly said, "Principibus ventions of fraud. As for the Greeks and Romans it is pretty certain that no family embraced an extent of eight hundred years: neither the Heraclidæ or Pelopidæ of Greece, nor the Valerii, Æmilii, Furii, Corneli, Fabii, Claudii or Julii of Rome. From Codrus to Miltiades and his son, Cimon, five or six centuries intervened; and of the great Roman names few can, with certainty, be traced beyond the destruction of Alba Longa, 652 years, or even the expulsion of Tarquin, 507 years before the Christian era, nor later than a century after it. Many of the plebeian families were as ancient as the patrician. "Pomponius Atticus ab origine ultimæ stirpis Romanæ generatus," says Cornelius Nepos, of Cicero's most intimate friend, whom he represents as of the family of Numa, that is, about 650 years of antiquity. One of the last of the Valerii was the infamous Messalina; see Gibbon's Dissertation on the Ancian Family, Chap. xxxi. with a review of the Roman senators of the fourth and fifth centuries, as also the more recent dissertations, for so his history may be called, of Niebühr, on the uncertainty of the Roman annals.

‡ FRANÇOIS DE CLERMONT TONNERE, Bishop of Noyon, under LOUIS XIV. so often mentioned by Madame de Sévigné, La Bruyère, and other contemporary writers, carried the vanity of birth to such an excess, as to become the object of universal ridicule and sarcasm, even in that age. An epigram describes the haughty prelate as disdaining to associate with the ignoble inmates of heaven; it ends thus:—

"On dit qu'entrant en paradis
Il fut reçu vaille que vaille
Et qu'il en sortit par mépris
N'y trouvant que de la canaille."

§ The origin of the GRANDEZA, or rank of GRANDEE, is very uncertain. Spanish writers generally refer it to the thirteenth century, under ALPHONSO X. or the Wise, who conferred it on the most numerous Ricos Hombres, as those who affected nobility were then denominated; and so little lavish were his successors of the honour, that, for a period of 250 years from ALPHONSO to CHARLES I. (the emperor CHARLES V.), not more than twenty-nine families were raised to the rank. Others, however, and among these the Duc de St. Simon, himself a grandee of the first class, maintain that the distinction originated with CHARLES in the commencement of his memorable reign (1520), although it is acknowledged that the higher titles of nobility previously existed. That

* Gaillard, Histoire de Charlemagne, quoted by Gibbon, vol. v. p. 141. 4to. with a sarcastic note of admiration. (!)

† It is probable that the Portuguese Jews can produce evidence of the remotest antiquity. Not so the northern Israelites of Poland and Germany, whose parentage is more problematical. (Bassage, Hist. des Juifs, Amst. 1735.) Voltaire, for reasons easily understood, vaunts the matchless pedigree of Mahomet, but in a country, where letters were then so little cultivated, it could hardly have any other support than tradition. (Dict. Philos. article Généalogie.) It is therefore not less apocryphal than the much derided genealogies of the Welch and Irish, before the light of history could dispel the illusions of pride, or inprestant et regibus æquiparantur,"—none can trace beyond the tenth century, or before the reign of FERDINAND I. It were more correct probably to name the times of FERDINAND III. and his son, ALPHONSO the Wise, two centuries later, nor in Portugal previous to HENRY OF BURGUNDY, who died of Duke appears, however, not to have been known until the fifteenth century. In 1445, JOHN II. of Castille created John Alphonso de Guzman Duke of Medina Sidonia for life, but in 1460 HENRY IV. made the rank hereditary, and it is now the first of Castille.

On instituting or restoring the Grandeza, CHARLES granted it to no more than sixteen noblemen, and equalized the rank to that of the PRINCES of Italy, and of the ELECTIONS in Germany, which, however, the latter have never admitted; nor was it until the accession of PHILIP V. to the throne of Spain that the grandeas of his kingdom were recognized in France as parallel to the "Ducs et Pairs." There are four classes of this order, distinguished by a variance of ceremonial at court; and all, with the exception of the fourth, which is of more recent formation, entitled to be covered in the royal presence—a privilege enjoyed, in the British empire, solely by the lords Kinsale. In other respects there exists no substantial difference; nor does the title of duke, in the first class, rank higher than that of marquis or count in the same class. The Duke d'Escalome, chief of the illustrious house of D'Acuña, is better and preferably known as Marquis de Villena, because the marquise is the first of Castille. The Marquises of Astorga, of Ayetone, and Aigular, or the counts of Benevente and Lemos, would gain no elevation by being made dukes.

Some of these noblemen combine in their persons several titles. The Duke of Medina Cæli accumulates, through various inheritances, no less than eleven grandezas. This great family was founded by Bernard, natural son of Gaston de Foix, surnamed Phœbus, from his beauty, and one of the heroes of Froissard, though guilty of the murder of another, and only legitimate son. Bernard married the heiress of La Cerda, whose name he assumed, and in 1368 the title of the family, Conde de Medina Cæli, was conferred on him. In 1491 his descendant was created a duke by FERDINAND and ISABELLA.

The grandeza is not only heritable through females, but actually now enjoyed otherwise by few. The dukes of Medina Sidonia, of Frias (who is hereditary constable of Castille), of Escalome, and of Ossuna (both D'Acuña), boast of a continuous male filiation, with some others, for above three centuries. The dukedom of Medina Sidonia, by the patent of creation in 1460, is transmittable to the illegitimate in case of failure of the legitimate line; but the contingency has not yet occurred. A daughter of this powerful house, Lucia de Guzman, married the Duke of Braganza, and by him, who was raised to the throne of Portugal in 1640, as JOHN V. was mother of Catherine, wife of our CHARLES II.

In the early part of the last century the number of grandeas was 112; at its close there were 129, of whom about one-third were of foreign blood,—Italian, French and Flemish, with one only of

in 1112; notwithstanding the allegations of the MEDINAS, Sidonia and Cæli, (the former of whom glories in having given birth to St. Dominic) the ARCOS,§ the ALBAS, INFANTADOS, MENDOZAS, MELLOS, &c. The Portuguese proverb says, "MELLO, con Don, et MENEZES sin elle, Nas fazei caso delle."

English extraction, the Duke of Liria, whose ancestor, the Duke of Berwick, by the victory of Almanza, in 1707, secured the crown of Spain to the Bourbons, when he, an Englishman, commanded the French, and Lord Galway, a Frenchman (Ruvigni), led the English to battle. The coincidence is remarkable.

The noble catalogue presents other names of enduring lustre and renown, while some are "damned to everlasting fame." Veragua is the descendant of Christopher Columbus. Sessa represents Gonsalvo de Cordova the GREAT CAPTAIN. Balbazez springs paternally from the celebrated Spinola, and maternally from the great Doria. The ancestor of the Marquis de Santa Cruz commanded the Spanish Armada in 1588; and those who have perused the pages of Robertson, and seen or read Otway's "Venice Preserved," must be familiar with the names of Pescara and Bedmar. Alva and Gandia, on the other hand, are associated with no favourable recollections, the former as the sanguinary instrument of religious persecution under PHILIP II., and the latter representing the family and bearing the hateful name of Borgia, although even this family is not without a redeeming member in the person of FRANCIS BORGIA, whose virtues entitled him to be canonized.

§ At the close of the seven years' war, (1762) and forming, as it were, an episode of that great contest, hostilities commenced between Spain and Portugal. In the regiment of Ultonia, which fought on the side of Spain, was a young Irish officer, whom, on being left for dead on the field of battle, the followers of the camp were, as usual, about to despoil, when he cried out, that he was the Duc d'Arcos. The hope of a reward or ransom saved his life; but on his return to Madrid, he was commanded into the presence of the Duke's widow, and interrogated why he had presumed to usurp her husband's name? "Madame," replied he, "if I had known a more illustrious one I would have sought its protection." The presence of mind evinced, both in assuming the name in the hour of danger and in his apt reply to the haughty duchess, ensured him this lady's special favor, as her influence did his rapid advancement in public life. This young officer was the celebrated Count O'Reilly, (of the family of BALLYMORRICE, in the county of Longford), who commanded the African expedition under CHARLES III. of Spain, and was governor of Louisiana, ambassador to the court of France, &c. The Irish regiment of Ultonia has long been distinguished in the Spanish service. The present General Saarsfield, commander-in-chief for the young Queen ISABELLA II. commenced his military career in it, when commanded by Col. Richard Anketill, of Limerick, brother to the late and uncle to the present Mrs. Roche of that city. (See vol. i. p. 671.)

In Flanders and the Netherlands, the AREMBERGS, the CRÖIS, EGMONTS, BREDE-RODES, &c. may be placed in the same class, and even in Germany, WITEKIND, the Saxon, is the boundary of ancestral assumption. GUELPH, the German patriarch of our royal family, lived in the eleventh century, but the private families of Germany can rarely trace so far back. In Italy, indeed, loftier pretensions appear sustainable, especially those of the patricians of Venice, amongst whom the ELLETORALI, or twelve families which elected the first DOGE, in 709, enjoyed preeminent distinction, although in antiquity of descent less illustrious than those inscribed in the BOOK OF GOLD, at the founding of the city. Those, Voltaire deems entitled to the first grade in European nobility, ascending as they did, to the fifth or sixth century. The houses of MASSIMI, URSINI, FRANGIPANI, COLONA, &c. at Rome, anteceded, perhaps, any in France, Spain, or Germany, but after strict investigation and poising the facts fairly in the balance of historical criticism, few of the continental nobility will be found superior in origin, if parallel to the O'BRIENS, the O'NEILS, the M'CARTYS, the O'CONNORS, of Ireland, whose progenitors were sovereign princes on the arrival of the English, in 1172. No epoch is better attested than the reign of BRIAN BOROMHE, the conqueror of the Danes, at the decisive battle of Clontarf, on the 23rd of April, 1014. This monarch was coeval with HUGUES CAPET, which, without further retrogression (and many prior generations could be indisputably established) would place his descendants in a coincident line with the royal houses of Europe, of the greatest antiquity—even with the Bourbons, incontestably the oldest of all. Brian's posterity numerous and unquestionably exist, as do the representatives of the other Irish princes, whose claims are as demonstrable by reference to authenticated testimony as any historical event of the era.

The present proprietor of Carrignavar is the chief of his name, and representative of the eldest existing branch of the once sovereign house of the M'Carthys, the most illustrious, as Dr. O'Brien emphatically observes, of all those families, whose names begin with MAC, and who, at the period of the English invasion in 1172, swayed the sceptre of Cork and Desmond, or South Munster, as they had occasionally done of the whole province, from time immemorial. The M'Cartys trace their origin to HEBER, the eldest son of Milesius, King of Spain, through OLLIOLL OLIUM, King of Munster, in the third century; but the first who bore the appellation of M'CARTY, or son of CARTACH, was the grandfather of DIARMOD M'CARTY MORE, whom the English found in possession of Cork, and who swore fealty, gave hostages, and subjected his kingdom to HENRY II. (Sir James Ware's Annals, p. 7). Diarmod was slain by Theobald Butler, founder of the house of Ormond, in 1186. His successors were DONALD, CORMAC FIONN, DONALD ROE, DONALD OGE, and CORMAC, all of whom were distinguished as M'CARTY MORE (or GREAT), an adjunct continued in this senior branch, until 1536, when DONALD M'CARTY MORE, the seventh in descent from the eldest son of the last mentioned Cormac, was created EARL OF GLENCARE, in Kerry,* on resigning his estates to Queen ELIZABETH, from whom he again received the investiture of them, "to hold of the crown of England in the English manner." This stock of the M'CARTY MORE is EXTINCT for more than a century; but the above CORMAC MORE had a second son, DERMOD, first feudal lord of Muskerry, and founder of that potent house, who was killed by the O'Mahonys, in 1367. From him sprung in succession, as lords of Muskerry,† TEIGE, CORMAC, who died in 1374, TEIGE, 1448, CORMAC Laidhir (the Stout) 1494, CORMAC OGE Laidhir, who defeated the earl of Desmond, at the battle of Morne Abbey, in 1521, and died in 1536, TEIGE, who died in 1565, as DERMOD died in 1570. His son

CORMAC, lord of Muskerry, a nobleman of great influence and power, could raise, as stated by Dr. Smith, a thousand men at

* The EARL OF GLENCARE, or GLENCARE, sat in the parliament held at Dublin, 26th April, 1584, but he soon resigned his title, which he considered a badge of servitude, and resumed the native distinction of M'CARTY MORE, in which, as he left no male issue, he was succeeded by his son-in-law, and chief of another branch of the name, SIR DONOGH M'CARTY Reagh, whose male line also expired with his grandson. The Earl of Kenmare, Mr. Herbert, of Mucruss, and O'Donoghue of the Glyns, are the presumed representatives of this ancient sept in the female line.

† The descendants of this first lord are not here enumerated in the variety of transverse successions derived from the law and custom of Tanistry, which constantly interrupted the line of primogeniture here preferably pursued, and which prevailed in Ireland, until condemned in the reign of JAMES I. "as a lewd and barbarous usage," (Sir John Davies's Reports, p. 23). "Tanistry," says Dr. O'Brien, "was the law of regal succession, by virtue of which, the oldest and most experienced of a family were entitled to succeed to the sovereignty or lordship immediately after the reigning prince or lord, in whose lifetime the Tanist was commander and chief general of the forces." Vallancey (Collectanea, Vol. i. No. 3.) shews that this custom was prevalent in France, during the rule of the first Dynasty, or Merovingian race, and elsewhere. An old and curious pedigree, in Mr. M'Carthy's possession, compiled at the close a call. His residence was the castle of Blarney; in addition to which, he possessed the castles of Kilcrea and Macroom (Pacata Hibernia, c. 17, and McGeoghegan, tom. iii. p. 613). He died in 1616, leaving two sons,

1. CORMAC OGE, lord of Muskerry, THE FIRST VISCOUNT, as stated by some writers. He died in London, anno 1640, and was s. by his son,*

DONALD, first EARL OF CLANCARTY, so created in 1658, or 1660. His lordship, who commanded the king's forces in Munster, against Cromwell, wedded the Lady Eleanor Butler, sister of James, first duke of Ormond, and had, with two daughters, three sons, viz.

1. CHARLES, who lost his life in a sea fight against the Dutch, 3rd June, 1665. He had married Lady Margaret Burke, daughter of Ulick, marquess of Clanrickarde, but d. v. p. and s. p.
2. CALLAGHAN, who succeeded his father as EARL OF CLANCARTY. His lordship m. Elizabeth, daughter of the earl of Kildare, and left a son and successor,

DONALD M'CARTY, EARL OF CLANCARTY, who forfeited the immense estates of the family, equivalent at this day to £200,000 per annum, for his adhesion to King James II. His lordship wedded Elizabeth, second daughter of Robert Spencer, earl of Sunderland, and had two sons, whose male line is now EXTINCT, and one daughter, Charlotte, m. to John West, seventh Lord De la Warr.

3. JUSTIN, created VISCOUNT MOUNT CASHELL, who m. the Lady Arabella Wentworth, second daughter of Thomas, the ill-fated earl of Strafford but d. s. p.

II. DONALD, or DANIEL.

The second son of Cormac,

DONALD or DANIEL M'CARTY, built the castle of Carrignavar, and founded the present family, thence so designated. He was s. by his son,

CHARLES (CORMAC) M'CARTY, esq. of Carrignavar, who wedded Catherine, daughter of David Roche, seventh Viscount Fermoy, and had a son,

DANIEL, who m. in 1683, Elizabeth, daughter of Toby Mathew, esq. of Thurles, and widow of Pierce Butler, sixth Lord Cahir, by whom he left at his decease, in 1692, during the life time of his father, two sons,

CHARLES, successor to his grandfather.

Daniel, who m. Miss Grace Fitzgerald, and had a son,

DANIEL, heir to his uncle.

Charles M'Carty was s. at his demise, by his grandson,

CHARLES M'CARTY, esq. of Carrignavar, who m. Lucy, daughter of Morgan Kavanagh, esq. of Borris, whose ancestors had been princes of Leinster, but dying without issue, in 1761, he was s. by his nephew,

DANIEL M'CARTY, esq. of Carrignavar, who espoused, in 1751, the Hon. Elizabeth Geraldina de Courcy, daughter of Gerald, twentieth-fourth Lord Kingsale, (see BURKE'S Peerage), and had issue,

JUSTIN, his heir.

ROBERT, successor to his brother.

Elizabeth, m. to Maurice Unjacke Atkin, esq. of the county of Cork.

Mr. M'Carty died in 1763, and was s. by the elder son,

JUSTIN M'CARTY, esq. of Carrignavar, at whose decease, s. p. in 1775, aged twenty-four years, the estates devolved on his brother,

ROBERT M'CARTY, esq. of Carrignavar. This gentleman m. in 1784, Jane, daughter of Joseph Capel, esq. of Cloghroe, by which alliance, that estate, formerly in the possession of the M'Carty family, but transferred by female inheritance to the Capels, was restored to the original owners. By of the 17th century, forcibly exemplifies the effects of this national usage, founded on the principle of Detur Digniori, and seniority of age, not of descent or representation; for the lordship of Muskerry generally passed to the brother, preferably to the son; and, on several occasions, the lord in possession was excluded with his sept, "for that he," says the pedigree, "loved his ease, and was unable to defend or offend his neighbours by the sword." Such, too, was the case with the Rois Faineants of France, and other kings of more recent date.

* He left also a daughter, ELENA M'CARTY, who wedded John Power, and from this marriage descended DAVID POWER, esq. of Corheen, whose only daughter and heir, FRANCES POWER, espoused RICHARD TRENCH, esq. of Garbally, in the county of Galway, and had a son, WILLIAM-POWER-KEATING TRENCH, esq. of Garbally, M.P. for the county of Galway, who was elevated to the peerage of Ireland, as EARL OF CLANCARTY, in 1803. See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.

this lady Mr. M'Carty had two sons and a daughter, viz.

JUSTIN, his heir.

Joseph, who d. unm. in 1821.

Elizabeth, m. in 1811, to Joseph Deane Freeman, esq. of Castlecor, in the county of Cork. (See that family.)

Mr. M'Carty died in 1823, and was s. by his son, the present JUSTIN M'CARTY, esq. of Carrignavar.

* * Nichols, in his Irish Compendium, (Lond. 1727), thus exhibits the titles of the Clancarty family. "Summoned to parliament, as lord of Muskerry, in the county of Cork, in 1495, 10th HENRY VII. baron of Blarney, in the same county, by summons, the 20th ELIZABETH (1578), and created viscount of Muskerry, and earl of Clancarty, in 1660, 12th CHARLES II." In the next paragraph, however, this author represents CORMAC, (son of the above Cormac Oge), who died in 1640, as the first lord, viscount and earl, which involves a manifest contradiction; for he transfers to the father what he had previously ascribed to Donald, his son. If, nevertheless, he be correct in regard to the summons either of HENRY or ELIZABETH, it is clear that Mr. M'Carty, of Carrignavar, is inheritor of the original title of MUSKERRY, or Blarney, as representative of the said Cormac Oge, Lord of Muskerry, who d. in 1616, by his second son Daniel, all the descendants of the eldest son Cormac, who d. in 1640, and was father of Donald, earl of Clancarty, being extinct.

This is a branch (the Drishane) of the M'CARTYS of Muskerry, founded by

WRIGHT, OF KILVERSTONE.

WRIGHT, JOHN, esq. of Kilverstone, in the county of Norfolk, b. 23rd January, 1781, m. 17th April, 1809, Frances, youngest daughter of the Rev. Zachariah Rose, rector of Broughton, in Northamptonshire, and sister of John Capel Rose, esq. of Cransby.

Mr. Wright, who is in the commission of the peace and deputy lieutenancy of Norfolk, succeeded his father 12th February, 1793.

Lineage.

The WRIGHTS of Kilverstone, one of the oldest families in Norfolk, and contemporaneous with the Bedingfelds, Jerninghams, Pastons, and Woodhouses, have been seated in that county time immemorial. Owing, however, to the destruction of deeds and other documents, which were lost, with a great portion of the ancient property, by the negligence and dishonesty of guardians in long minorities, their descent can only now be authentically traced to the time of HENRY VII.

THOMAS WRIGHT, living in that reign, was father of

JOHN WRIGHT, who died, seised of the manors of Tindalls and Rowses, in East Laxham, Norfolk, in the 32nd of HENRY VIII. He married and had two sons, EDMUND, his heir; and Nicholas, who wedded Anne, daughter and co-heir of Edmund Beaupre, of Beaupre Hall. The elder,

EDMUND WRIGHT, of Sutton Hall, in Brent Bradfield, Suffolk, who m. first, Catherine, another daughter and co-heir of Edmund Beaupre, of Beaupre Hall; and secondly, Jane, daughter and co-heir of Sir Thomas Russell, brother to John, first Earl of Bedford, by the heiress of the family of Jervoyse, of Sutton Hall. By his second wife, Edmund Wright had issue,

- i. William, who d. s. p.
- ii. Edmund, of Little Buckenham, in Norfolk, and of Thwayt, in Suffolk, m. first, a daughter of Lord Eure, and widow of Sir John Salvin, of Yorkshire, but had no issue. He wedded, secondly, Frances, daughter of Sir John Spring, knt. of Lavenham, in Suffolk, and had six daughters, viz.

1. —, m. to — Reeve, esq. of Thwait.
2. Frances, m. to Thomas Bell.
3. Milicent, m. to John Thruston, of Hoxne.
4. Anne, m. to Sir John Heigham, knt. of Barrow.
5. Bridget, m. to Robert Rolf, of Hadley.
6. Mary, m. to William Downes, of Bodney.

- iii. George, Lord of Little Buckenham in 1572, m. at St. Pancras, London, 20th July, 1542, Dorothy, daughter of Edmund Monne, esq. of the Inner Temple, and had two sons and two daughters, viz.

1. William, of Winchester, m. Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Strangways, son and heir of Sir Giles Strangways, and had William, Dorothy, Anne, and Amy.
2. Edmund, of Kingshay, Oxfordshire, m. Dorothy, daughter of Richard Baak, of Hadenham, in Bucks.
1. Eleanor, m. to Richard Coulthorp, of Kingshay.
2. Cicely, m. to Robert Maule, of Suffolk.

- iv. THOMAS, of whom presently.

v. Edward, died at sea.

1. Bridget, m. first, to Henry Chitting, esq. of Wortham; and secondly, to George Waller, esq.

The fourth son,

THOMAS WRIGHT, esq. of Weeting, in Norfolk, wedded Agnes, daughter of — Fisher, of Witchingham, and had, with three other sons, who d. s. p. a successor,

THOMAS WRIGHT, esq. of Kilverstone,* in Norfolk, by whom the present hall was erected. He m. Jane, dau. of John Jermy, esq. of Depeden, in Suffolk, by his second wife, Anne, dau. of Sir Robert Drury, of Hausted, in the same shire, and Mary, his wife, daughter of Sir Lionel Talmash, of Helmingham. By this lady he had three sons and three daughters, viz.

1. THOMAS, his heir.

† This lady is interred at Kilverstone with the following inscription:

"Here lyeth interred Anne, eld. dau. of Geo. Vilett, esq. of Pinkney, &c. &c.

A mother who with every grace was blest,
With all the ornaments of Vertue drest,
With whatso'ere Religion recommends,
The best of wives, of mothers, and of friends,
And tho' by death her body's turned to dust,
'Tis fitt we still commemorate the just.
'Twas here she did adore the highest Lord,
Who to her soul great comfort did afford;
'Twas here she did, with joy and content,
Receive God's holy word and sacrament;
Since then she loved this sacred place so well,
'Tis very meet that here her name should dwell."

GREGOR, OF TREWARTHENICK.

GREGOR, GORDON-WILLIAM-FRANCIS, esq. of Trewarthenick, in the county of Cornwall, b. 2nd October, 1789, m. 20th June, 1814, Loveday-Sarah, only daughter of Francis Glanville,* esq. of Catchfrench, in the same shire, by Loveday-Sarah, his wife, daughter and co-heiress of William Masterman, esq. of Restormel, and has issue,

FRANCIS-GLANVILLE, b. 3rd September, 1816.

Jane-Frances.

Georgiana-Mary.

Elizabeth-Glanville.

This gentleman, whose patronymic is BOOKER, assumed by letters patent in 1826, the surname and arms of GREGOR, Mrs. Booker having the preceding year inherited, by bequest from the last of the Gregor family, the estate of Trewarthenick, in Cornwall.

Lineage.

About the middle of the seventeenth century, we find the Gregors resident at Truro, of which town William Gregor was mayor in 1677, and at that period the family seems first to have settled at Trewarthenick, where

FRANCIS GREGOR, esq. resided, in 1720. His descendant, another

FRANCIS GREGOR, esq. of Trewarthenick, served the office of sheriff for Cornwall in 1788, and was returned, in the subsequent year, after a severe and protracted contest, member of parliament by that county, which he continued to represent for sixteen years. He m. first, Catherine, dau. and co-heiress (with her sister, Loveday-Sarah, wife of Francis Glanville, esq. of Catchfrench, and mother of the present Mrs. GREGOR, of Trewarthenick), of William Masterman, esq. of Restormel, but had no issue, either by this lady, or by his second wife, who survived him. He died 12th July, 1815, when the following panegyric appeared in the Cornwall Gazette. "It is with sincere regret that we announce the death of Francis Gregor, esq. which took place at his seat of Trewarthenick, on the 12th instant in the fifty-sixth year of his age. . . . For nearly seventeen years he represented his native county in parliament, where he attached himself to no party, although he generally supported the measures of Mr. Pitt; but upon all occasions he voted to the best of his judgement, for the good of his country. His time and his talents, during his parliamentary attendance, were wholly devoted to the service of the state, and the peculiar interests of his constituents, exhibiting in himself a bright example of senatorial virtue, and at the same time reflecting lustre on this

* The family of Glanville is of remote antiquity, and distinguished in the legal annals of England. Towards the close of Queen ELIZABETH's reign

JOHN GLANVILLE was raised to the bench, as one of the judges of the court of Common Pleas. He died 27th July, 1600, leaving two sons and four daughters, viz.

1. FRANCIS (Sir), of Kilworthy, whose granddaughter and heir conveyed the estate of Kilworthy to her husband, Ambrose Manaton, esq.
2. JOHN (Sir), serjeant at law, recorder and M. P. for Plymouth, and speaker of the House of Commons. From this learned person, lineally descends the family of GLANVILLE now seated at CATCHFRENCH, in the county of Cornwall.

1. Mary, m. to Sir John Estcourt, knt.

2. Dionysia, m. to Thomas Polwhele, esq. of Polwhele, ancestor of the present Rev. Richard Polwhele, of Polwhele, the historian and poet.

3. Alice, died unmarried.

4. Joan m. to Sampson Hele, esq.

county, which had the fortune to possess and to select such a man by her free and unbiassed choice."

Col. Gregor, who commanded the second, or Roseland regiment of Local Militia, was succeeded by his brother,

THE REV. WILLIAM GREGOR, vicar of Creed, born at Trewarthenick, 25th December, 1761, a gentleman of high mineralogical reputation, of whom the following account is extracted from "Polwhele's Biographical Sketches." "In the year 1780, Mr. Gregor was admitted at St. John's College, Cambridge, and on taking the degree of Bachelor of Arts, in 1783, realized the expectations which had been formed of his talents, his name being classed high in the list of academical honours. In 1790 he married Charlotte-Anne, only daughter of Edward Gwatkin, esq. of Bristol, and had one daughter, CHARLOTTE-ANNE. Through the interest of his wife, Bishop Ross, to whom she was related, presented him, in the year 1793, to the rectory of Bratton Clovelly, near Oakhampton, in the county of Devon; this was a subject of very considerable satisfaction, not from the revenue which it promised, but as enabling him to obtain, by exchange, the rectory of Creed, near Trewarthenick, the seat of his ancestors, and the residence of a brother, to whom he was most affectionately attached. The most refined accomplishments of his mind were of the highest order. As a painter, he was a master. The beautiful productions of his pencil, which are chiefly landscapes, are distinguished by the judicious distribution of light and shade. He also etched with considerable freedom. In the science of music he was equally an adept, and performed with taste and feeling the manly compositions of Handel and Corelli. The knowledge of these acquirements, however, and the advantages which attended them, were confined to the circle of his friends and acquaintance. It is of those higher energies I would speak, that have extended the boundaries of mineralogy, discovered new treasures in our county, and assigned to the name of Gregor an honourable distinction in the history of science. His various contributions to analytical mineralogy, are sufficient to entitle him to a place in the very first class of analysts; indeed, it must be acknowledged, that for scrupulous accuracy, and elegant simplicity in his operations, he scarcely had an equal, a talent which rendered him eminently successful in correcting the errors or supplying the defects of other chemists."

"It was the acute feelings consequent upon the death of his brother that first undermined his health and sowed the seeds of a fatal disorder. He had naturally a delicate constitution; and a life of intellectual labour was but ill adapted to give elasticity to the frame or vigour to its functions. It was not long after the death of Mr. Francis Gregor, that the symptoms of a pulmonary disease first appeared; and its ravages soon became so determinate, that every exertion of medical skill was ineffectual in opposing the disorder. In the more advanced stage of the complaint, he visited Penzance, in the hope of obtaining from its mild and genial breezes, a pause, at least, from the rapidity of its deadly march. But alas! how vain the hope; no power could quench

' that fever at the core,

Fatal to him who bears, to all who ever bore '

The day of his life was now drawing to its end; and, as it had been distinguished by unclouded sunshine, so did its evening close with the sweetest serenity. On 11th July, 1817, at his house of Creed, the spirit of this great and good man departed. Celebrated as a chemist throughout Europe, but in his own neighbourhood as a divine, in him we lost," adds Mr. Polwhele, "the faithful parish priest, the enlightened magistrate, the hospitable country gentleman, the lively companion, the cordial friend."

Mr. Gregor's only daughter and heiress,

CHARLOTTE-ANNE GREGOR, of Trewarthenick, the last of the Gregor family, dying unmarried, in 1825, bequeathed her estates to LOVEDAY SARAH, daughter of Francis Glanville, esq. of Catchfrench, and niece of Catherine Masterman, who wedded the testator's uncle, Francis Gregor, esq. M.P. This lady (Loveday Sarah Glanville), married, as already stated, GORDON-WILLIAM-FRANCIS BOOKER, esq. (son of Thomas Booker, esq. of the 53rd regiment, by the Lady Catherine Gordon, his wife, youngest daughter of Cosmo, third Duke of Gordon), who assumed in 1826, the surname and arms of GREGOR, and is the present possessor of TREWARTHENICK.

THOMAS HENSHAW, esq. b. in St. Mary Magdalen parish in 1618, entered University College, Oxford, in 1634, and after continuing there five years without taking a degree, became of the Middle Temple. At the commencement of the civil wars, he joined the king at York, but coming to London on his majesty's service, he was committed to custody, from which he was discharged on giving bail not to return to the king's army. He proceeded immediately on his liberation to Holland, whence having made a campaign with the Prince of Orange, he travelled through France, Spain, and Italy. After the death of King CHARLES, he procured permission to come home; and, returning to the Temple, was called to the bar, but did not practice. On the restoration, he was constituted

He d. 6th April, 1748, and was s. by his son,

FREDERICK HALSEY, esq. of Great Gaddesden, who was appointed, in 1768, commissary-general of the allied army in Ger-

French or Latin secretary and gentleman of the privy chamber to the restored monarch, and subsequently held the same station in the courts of King JAMES and King WILLIAM. In 1672, he was secretary to the Duke of Richmond, then ambassador to Denmark; and, upon the decease of that nobleman, he was accredited envoy extraordinary to the court of Copenhagen, in which important capacity he remained there two years and a half. Mr. Henshaw is known in the literary world by his History of Saltpetre, and of making Gunpowder; his Epistle to the Reader in Doctor Skinner's Dictionary, 1671, to which he made additions marked H. He also translated Lemedo's History of China, folio, 1655. He m. ANNE, only daughter of Robert Tipping, esq. of Twadley, in Kent, and died, aged eighty-two, at Kensington, in 1699, where he was buried, and has a monument. His only daughter and heir,

ANNE HENSHAW, became, as stated in the text, the wife of THOMAS HALSEY, esq.

BULLOCK, OF FAULKBOURN.

BULLOCK, JONATHAN, esq. of Faulkbourn Hall, in the county of Essex, m. in 1811, Margaret, daughter of the Reverend Andrew Downes, eldest son of Robert, Lord Bishop of Raphoe, and grandson of Henry, Bishop of Derry, and of Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of the Very Reverend Dr. Thomas Wilson, Dean of Carlisle. By this lady, Mr. Bullock has had issue,

- i. John Josiah, b. in February, 1812, d. unm. December, 1833.
- ii. Edward Andrew, b. in April, 1813, d. in October, 1817.
- iii. HENRY.
- iv. Walter Trevelyan.
 - i. Elizabeth-Anne.
 - ii. Henrietta-Maria.
 - iii. Margaret Emily.
 - iv. Ellen-Rosetta.

Mr. Bullock, who served for several years as captain in the 1st Dragoon Guards, succeeded his father in January, 1832. He is a magistrate and deputy lieutenant for the county of Essex.

Lineage.

Whence this ancient family originally came, cannot now be ascertained. Of its earliest members were Richard Bullock, living in the time of HENRY III. (whose great grandson, Gilbert Bullock, married Anne, daughter and heiress of Thomas Nevile, esq. of Barkham, in Berkshire), and Dr. William Bullock, clerk, one of the negotiators of the peace between England and Scotland in 1335, on the part of the Scots. In the 12th of HENRY VI. among those returned as gentlemen occur the names of Robert Bullock, of Bedfordshire; Thomas and Richard Bullock, esqrs. of Berkshire; William Bullock, of Derbyshire; and John

Bullock, of Norfolk; and among the learned persons of the age in which they lived, we find Henry Bullock, D.D. fellow of Queen's College, and vice chancellor of Cambridge, 1523, (an excellent linguist and general scholar, intimate with Erasmus, whom he calls his master, and who styles him in his letters, DOCTISSIMUS BOVILLUM), and George Bullock, master of St. John's, Cambridge, vicar of St. Sepulchre's, and prebendary of Durham.

The Faulkbourn branch derive from the Bullocks of Berkshire.

ROBERT BULLOCK, of Herburghfield, or Arborfield, in that county, who used the arms now borne by the Essex family, was sheriff of Berkshire and Oxfordshire in the 8th of RICHARD II. He d. in 1405, leaving a son,

THOMAS BULLOCK, of Arborfield, who wedded Alice, daughter and heir of William Yeading, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT BULLOCK, of Arborfield, father, by Eleanor, his wife, of

GILBERT BULLOCK, who m. Margaret, daughter of William Norris, of Bray, ancestor of the Barons Norris, of Rycote, and had a son,

THOMAS BULLOCK, esq. who m. Alice, daughter of John Kingsmill, one of the justices of the King's Bench, and had, with six daughters, as many sons, viz.

i. RICHARD, of Arborfield.

ii. Thomas.

iii. George, of Uckfield.

iv. John.

v. WILLIAM.

vi. Gregory.

The fifth son,

WILLIAM BULLOCK, esq. espoused Elizabeth, daughter and heir of Ralph Bellet, of Moreton, in Cheshire, by Elizabeth Moreton, of Moreton, his wife, and had, (with several younger sons, from one of whom, Andrew, the Bullocks of Thornborough, in Berkshire, descended) his successor,

JOHN BULLOCK, esq. the first of the family who settled at Great Wigborough, in Essex, where he died, 10th February, 1595, and was buried in the chancel of the church there. He left, by Anne, his wife, who died 20th January, 1615, two sons, EDWARD, his heir; and Henry, who died 13th June, 1609, leaving an only child, Henry, who d. s. p. in 1628. The elder,

EDWARD BULLOCK, esq. married Joane, daughter of John Collen, of High Laver, in Essex, and died about the year 1601, possessed of considerable estates. His son and successor,

SIR EDWARD BULLOCK, of Loftes, in Great Totham, Essex, b. about the year 1580, received the honour of knighthood from KING JAMES I. 3rd July, 1609, and about the year 1637, purchased from John Fortescue, esq. the manor and estate of FAULKBOURN, in Essex, where he established himself, and where his descendants have ever since resided. He m. the eldest daughter of Thomas Weldor Wyld, esq. of Glazeley-shall, Salop, and had an only son, EDWARD. Sir Edward died in 1644, was interred at Witham, and s. by his son,

EDWARD BULLOCK, esq. of Faulkbourn, who m. Mary, daughter of Sir William de Grey, knt. of Marton Hall, Norfolk, and had, (with two younger sons, Robert and William, and a daughter, Barbara, the wife of Hamon L'Estrange, esq. of Barton Mere, in Suffolk), his successor,

EDWARD BULLOCK, esq. of Faulkbourn, who wedded Elizabeth, daughter and heir of William Bolton, esq. of Ullenhall, in the county of Warwick, and had issue,

i. EDWARD, his heir.

iii. George, } who all died s. p.

iv. William,

v. John, of Peter House, Cambridge, and the Inner Temple, London, who was chosen in 1700, M.P. for Malden, served long as an upright magistrate, and was deputy to two successive lords lieutenant. He wedded first, Rachel, daughter and co-heir of Sir Mark Guyon, knt. of Coggeshall and Dynes Hall, and relict of Thomas Guyon, esq. by whom he had one son and a daughter, viz.

John, of King's College, Cambridge, who died unm. aged twenty-three.

RACHEL, eventually sole heiress of Dynes Hall, Essex, an estate purchased from her executors, by Henry Sperling, esq.

Mr. John Bullock, m. secondly, Hannah-Maria, daughter and co-heir of Samuel Keck, esq. master in chancery, which lady survived him. During the latter part of his life he resided at Clapham, and died there.

i. Elizabeth, m. to Mordaunt Crache-rode, gent. of St. Paul's, Covent Garden, and d. in 1693.

ii. —, m. to George Abbot, esq.

iii. Dorothy.

The eldest son,

EDWARD BULLOCK, esq. of Faulkbourn Hall, of Trinity College, Cambridge, and of Gray's Inn, London, was elected member of parliament for Essex in 1698, and for Colchester in 1705. He m. first, Elizabeth, eldest daughter and co-heir of Sir Mark Gnyon, knt. of Coggeshall, but had no issue; he wedded secondly, Mary, daughter of Sir Josiah Child, of Wanstead, and had four sons and two daughters, viz. EDWARD, his heir; JOSIAH, successor to his brother; Richard, D.D. rector of Streat-tham, Surrey, and vicar of Christchurch, London; John; Mary, b. 6th July, 1694; and Emma. The eldest son,

EDWARD BULLOCK, esq. of Faulkbourn Hall, b. 22nd September, 1695, of King's College, Cambridge, dying without issue, was s. by his brother, JOSIAH BULLOCK, esq. of Faulkbourn Hall, who m. Hannah, youngest daughter of Sir Thomas Cooke, knt. and had two sons and a daughter, viz.

Edward, who died young.

JOHN, successor to his father.

ELIZABETH, who m. Jonathan Watson, esq. and had three sons and two daughters, viz.

1. JONATHAN-JOSIAH-CHRISTOPHER WATSON, who inherited the BULLOCK estates upon the demise of his uncle.

2. Christopher Watson, lieutenant colonel of the 3rd Dragoons.

3. John Watson, in holy orders.

1. Mary Watson, } who both

2. Elizabeth Watson, } married, but died without issue.

Mr. Bullock died 29th February, 1752, and was s. by his son,

Lieut. Col. JONATHAN BULLOCK, of Faulk-bourn Hall, member for Essex in many successive parliaments, who m. in 1763, Miss Elizabeth Lant, but dying without issue, in 1809, the estates devolved on (the eldest son of his sister) his nephew,

JONATHAN-JOSIAH-CHRISTOPHER WATSON, esq. who thus became "of Faulkbourn Hall," and assumed, in 1810, the surname and arms of BULLOCK. He m. Miss Juliana-Elizabeth Thomas, niece and heiress of Elizabeth Lant, wife of Lieut. Col. Bullock, and had issue,

i. JONATHAN, his heir.

ii. John, in holy orders, rector of Radwinter, in Essex, a widower, with issue.

iii. Charles, who m. 11th May, 1807, Harriet, daughter of Thomas Humphrey Lowe, esq. of Bromsgrove, in the county of Worcester, by Lucy, his wife, elder daughter and co-heir of Thomas Hill, esq. of Court of Hill, in the county of Salop, M.P. for Leominster (see vol. i. p. 654), and has issue,

GALE, OF SCRUTON.

GALE, HARRIET, of Scruton Hall, in the county of York, succeeded her father in 1821. Miss Gale m. in 1816, Lieutenant-Colonel Foster Lechmere Coore,* of Firby, in the North Riding of the same shire, and has one son and four daughters, viz.

HENRY Coore.

Mary Coore.

Sophia Coore.

Augusta Coore.

Charlotte Coore.

* This gentleman, who is eldest son of John Coore, esq. and Ann Lechmere, his wife, succeeded, in 1821, his uncle, Colonel Thomas Coore, whose father, Foster, son of Alderman Thomas Coore, of Liverpool, married in 1736, Eleanor, only daughter of John Heaton, esq. of Firby.

Lineage.

The family of Gale, which has contributed so much to adorn the list of British Antiquaries, was of importance in the North and East Ridings of Yorkshire, early in the sixteenth century.

JAMES GALE, the first named in the pedigree, was seated at Thirtoft, near Scruton, in the hundred of East Gilling and North Riding, anno 1523. His son and heir,

OLIVER GALE, of Thirtoft, wedded Ellen Marshall, of Richmond, and had, with another son, James, who married, and resided some time in Spain,*

GEORGE GALE, esq. lord mayor of York, in 1534 and 1546, who died 2nd July, 1557, leaving, by Mary, his wife, daughter of Robert Lord, of Kendal, two sons and six daughters, viz.

- i. ROBERT, or FRANCIS, his heir.
- ii. Thomas, who died issueless.
- i. Isabella, m. to Ralph Hall, lord mayor of York.
- ii. Anne, m. to Robert Peacock, lord mayor of York.
- iii. Alice, m. to Christopher Clapham, esq.
- iv. Dorothy, m. first, to John Rokesby, esq. and secondly, to Sir Thomas Fairfax, father of Thomas Lord Fairfax.
- v. Elizabeth, m. to Thomas Garbray, of Beverley.
- vi. Ursula, m. first, to Sir William Malory, of Studley; and secondly, to Henry Belasis, esq.

The eldest son,

ROBERT, or FRANCIS GALE, esq. of Akeham Grange, in the county of York, in 1590, espoused Anne, dau. of William Clapham, esq. of Beamsley, and widow of Mr. Thwaite, of Marston, by whom (who m. secondly, John Ingleby, esq. brother of Sir William Ingleby, of Ripley), he left at his decease, two sons and a daughter, viz.

- i. ROBERT, of Akeham Grange, who m. a daughter of Mr. Dutton, and had (with two younger sons, Matthew and George), a successor,

ROBERT, of Akeham Grange, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of William Langdale, and had issue,

1. Francis.
2. Robert, living in 1667, who m. Anne, daughter of Edmund Thorold, esq. of Hough on the Hill, Lincolnshire.

3. John.

1. Barbara, m. to Richard Mallet.

2. Jane.

3. Mary.

ii. JOHN, of whose line we have to treat.

i. Mary, second wife of Thomas Meynell, esq. of North Kilvington. (See vol. i. p. 404.)

The second son,

JOHN GALE, esq. of Scruton, wedded Jane, eldest daughter of John Frank, esq. of Pontefract, and by her, who died in 1624, had four sons and two daughters,

- i. CHRISTOPHER, his heir.
- ii. Ralph, citizen of London, who left two daughters.
- iii. John, b. in 1601, who was in the low country wars, under Count Mansfield, in the time of JAMES I. and resided many years at Farnley Hall. He m. Joanna, daughter of Miles Dodson, esq. of Kirkby Overblows, and had three sons, MILES, Henry, and Francis; of whom the eldest,

Miles, A.M. was in holy orders, and rector of Kighley, anno 1712. He m. Margaret, daughter of the Rev. Christopher Stones, D.D. chancellor of York, and had issue, Christopher, attorney general and chief justice of North Carolina, who m. Sarah, relict of Governor Harvey, and had a son, Miles; and a daughter, Elizabeth. Thomas, rector of Linton, who had a son, William. Edmund. John. Mary.

i. Margaret.

ii. Dorothy.

John Gale died in 1624, and was s. by his eldest son,

CHRISTOPHER GALE, esq. of Scruton, b. in 1597, who m. Frances, daughter of — Conyers, of Holthy, and by her, who died in 1656, left at his decease, an only surviving child,

THE REV. THOMAS GALE, D.D. a divine critic and antiquary of distinguished erudition. He was born at Scruton, in Yorkshire, in 1636, and received his education at Westminster School, and at King's College, Cambridge, taking the degree of B.A. in 1658, and that of M. A. in 1662. In 1666 he was appointed Greek professor in that university, and in 1671, published a collection of the ancient Mythological Writers, entitled "Opuscula Mythologica Ethica et Physica, Græcè et Latine," 8vo. In the next year he obtained the mastership of St. Paul's School, London, "in which situation," says Dr. Whitaker, "he was employed to write the inscriptions now remaining* on the monument, of the great fire; which, by no fault of the writer, 'like a tall bully, lifts its head, and lies,' in imputing that great calamity to a party, whom all reasonable men now acknowledge to have had no participation in the fact." While holding this laborious station, of which he continued to discharge the duties for the space of twenty-five years, he found leisure to publish editions of several Greek authors, and among others, that on which his reputation as a Greek scholar and critic principally rests, his Herodotus. In 1675, he accumulated the degrees of B.D. and D.D. at Cambridge, and in the following year was made a prebendary of the Metropolitan Cathedral. In 1677 he was elected a fellow of the Royal Society, which, at that period, comprehended men of virtue of every description; and in 1695, deservedly removed to the deanery of York, a dignity he enjoyed not quite five years.

Dr. Gale wedded Barbara, daughter of Thomas Pepys, esq. of Impington, in the county of Cambridge, and by her, who died in 1689, had four sons and a daughter, viz.

i. ROGER, his heir.

ii. Charles, in holy orders, rector of Scruton, who m. Cordelia, daughter of Mr. Thomas Thwaites, of Burrell, and by her, who died in 1721, he left issue, at his decease, in 1738.

1. Thomas, rector of West Rounton, and of Scruton, who m. Eleanor, daughter of George Crowle, esq. of Fryston, and died 7th July, 1746, s. p.

2. Charles, d. s. p.

3. Samuel, also d. without issue.

4. Roger, who m. Jane, daughter of — Conyers, esq. and had several children.

iii. Samuel, b. 17th December, 1682, at the time of decease one of the land surveyors of the customs. This gentleman, a reviver of the Society of Antiquaries in 1717, and its first treasurer, was well versed in the antiquities of England, and on that subject left many valuable collections behind him, but printed nothing in his life time, except "A History of Winchester Cathedral," London, 1715, begun by Henry, Earl of Clarendon, and continued to that year, with cuts. He died, universally regretted, 10th January, 1754, and was interred in St. George's parish, Queen-square, of which Dr. Stukeley was rector. His valuable library and esteemed collection of prints were sold subsequently by auction.

iv. Thomas, who d. s. p.

i. Elizabeth, who m. the Rev. WILLIAM STUKELEY, rector of All Saints, Stamford. This celebrated antiquary, born at Holbeach, in Lincolnshire, 7th November, 1687, received his early education at the Free Grammar School of his native town, and thence removed in 1703, to Bennet College, Cambridge, where he took the degree of Doctor of Medicine in 1719. In the following year he was admitted a fellow of the College of Physicians, and subsequently chosen a censor thereof. In 1726, he settled, as a medical practitioner, at Grantham, in Lincolnshire, where he acquired great reputation; but severe attacks of the gout induced him to relinquish his profession, and to enter into holy orders. He died 3rd March, 1765. Dr. Stukeley was a learned, indefatigable, and ingenious antiquary; but the bold and fanciful nature of some of his speculations exposed him to censure and ridicule, not wholly undeserved. His principal works are "Itinerarium Curiosum; or, an Account of the Antiquities and Curiosities of Great Britain," 2 vols. fol.; "An Account of Stonehenge;" "The History of Carausius," &c. &c.

Dr. Gale, whom Drake, no liberal panegyrist, styles "the Good Dean," died 28th April, 1702, was interred in the middle of the choir of his own Cathedral, and succeeded, in the lands and advowson of Scruton, which he had purchased in 1688, from Sir Abstrubus Danby, by his eldest son,

ROGER GALE, esq. of Scruton, b. in 1672, the well-known author of the "Registrum Honoris de Richmond." This eminent person represented the borough of North Allerton in three parliaments, and at the termination of the last was appointed a commissioner of excise. He was likewise the first vice president of the Society of Antiquaries, and treasurer to the Royal Society. He married Henrietta, daughter

FOSBROOKE, OF SHARDLOW AND RAVENSTONE.

FOSBROOKE, LEONARD, esq. of Ravenstone Hall, in the county of Derby, barrister at law, inherited the estates at the demise of his father, in 1830.

Lineage.

The FOSBROOKES, who are supposed to have derived their surname and origin from Fosbrooke in Staffordshire, were settled at Cranford, in Northamptonshire, early in the reign of RICHARD II., where they acquired, and for several centuries possessed, considerable estates. These lands were alienated some time in the reign of CHARLES II., and about the same period the more immediate ancestors of this branch of the family removed to Shardlow, or the neighbourhood. In 1631 we find Leonard Fosbrooke and Robert Fosbrooke described as of Nottingham, gentlemen, lessees under the Earl of Huntingdon, of Wilne Ferry, on the river Trent.

JOHN FOSSEBROKE was seized of lands in Barton, Segrave, Raundes and Cranford, and, as patron, presented to the living of Cranford in 1391. His widow also presented to the same living in 1403. They had a son,

JOHN FOSSEBROKE, who married Maude, a lady of the noble house of Stafford, who was dry nurse to KING HENRY IV., and left at his decease, in 1418 (7th of Henry V.), a son,

EDWARD, or GERRARD FOSSEBROKE, of Cranford, father of

ROBERT FOSSEBROKE (sometimes, but erroneously, called John), who wedded Elena, daughter of John Boverton, and had three sons; John, who died 7th April, 1517, s. p.; Henry, who also d. issueless, and RICHARD. He died himself seized of lands in Cranford, with the manor called Curzon's Manor, and the advowson of St. Andrew's church. His third, but only, son, to leave issue,

RICHARD FOSSEBROKE, wedded Juliana, daughter of William Kinsman, of Lodington, in the county of Northampton, and was succeeded at his decease, in 1541, by his son,

JOHN FOSSEBROKE, who was sixteen years of age at the time of his father's decease. He married twice; by his first wife, Dorothy, daughter of Robert Dewell, of Little Gedding, in the county of Huntingdon, he had four sons, and as many daughters. The eldest son,

WILLIAM FOSSEBROKE, was lineal ancestor of

LEONARD FOSBROOKE, esq. of Wilne Ferry, in the county of Leicester, who purchased an estate at Shardlow, in Derbyshire, where he erected the present Shardlow Hall, in 1684, and he subsequently bought the lands of Booth Hall, in Sawley, in the same county. He espoused Dorothy Blackwell, of Nuneaton, Warwickshire, and had issue,

- I. LEONARD, his heir.
- II. Theodore, b. 11th April, 1674.
- III. John, b. 27th July, 1680.
- IV. Benjamin, b. 13th November, 1683.

I. Ann, b. 30th August, 1670, m. to Gabriel Hebb, gent. of Rempstone.

II. Elizabeth, b. 24th July, 1672.

III. Dorothy, b. 21st February, 1686.

Mr. Fosbrooke died at Booth Hall, 22nd February, 1709, aged 66, was buried at Sawley, and succeeded by his son, LEONARD FOSBROOKE, esq. of Shardlow Hall, b. 6th January, 1668, who m. 22nd June, 1693, Susanna, daughter of William Muggleston, gent., of Tonge, and had two sons and three daughters, viz.

III. Susanna, b. in 1701, m. to Robert Fletcher, gent. of Oldgraves, and d. in 1759.

He died at Highgate, near London, 9th March, 1719, was buried in Aston Church, and succeeded by his son,

LEONARD FOSBROOKE, esq. of Shardlow Hall, who augmented his estates by purchasing the manors of Seagrave and Ravenstone, with several other extensive properties in the counties of Leicester and Derby. He m. in 1724, Penelope, only daughter of Thomas Burgh, esq. of Coventry, barrister-at-law, and had issue,

This gentleman, whose patronymic is BARTELOTT, assumed, by sign manual, the additional surname and arms of Smyth, upon inheriting the estates of that family.

Lineage.

The BARTELOTTS are said to have come into England with WILLIAM the Conqueror, and to have fixed their residence at a place called La Ford, in the parish of Stopham, Sussex.

Some time in the fourteenth century,

JOHN BARTELOTT, son of Adam Bartelott, m. Ivan, elder daughter and co-heiress, (with her sister Elizabeth, the wife of Robert Palmer), of William Stopham, descended probably from the Saxon proprietor, and by her left at his decease, in 1428, a son and heir,

JOHN BARTELOTT, of Stopham, who wedded Joan, daughter and heir of John Lewknor, by the daughter and heir of D'Oyley, and, dying in 1453, left, with a younger son, Thomas, of Billingham, whose descendants became extinct in 1580, a successor,

RICHARD BARTELOTT, of Stopham, father, by Petronell, his wife, daughter and heir of — Walton, of

JOHN BARTELOTT, of Stopham, who m. Olivia Arthur, of London, and was s. at his decease, in 1493, by his elder son,

JOHN BARTELOTT, of Stopham, who wedded Catherine Dawtreay, but having no issue the estates passed at his demise, in 1525, to his brother,

RICHARD BARTELOTT, esq. of Stopham. This gentleman espoused Elizabeth, daughter of John Gates, and had (with three other sons, from the youngest of whom descended the Bartelotts of Ernley),

WILLIAM BARTELOTT, esq. of Stopham, who died in 1601, leaving by his wife Ann, daughter of Giles Covert, esq. of Hascombe, in Surrey, a son and successor,

ROBERT BARTELOTT, esq. of Stopham, who m. Mary, daughter of John Apsley, esq. of Thakeham, and had two sons and a daughter, viz.

RICHARD, his heir.

Henry, feodar of Sussex in 1634, m.

Anne, daughter of John Marlett, esq. of Itchenfield, and had, with two daughters, Anne and Mary, two sons, HENRY, of whom presently.

William.

Dorothy, m. to Owen Onely, esq. of Pulborough, in Sussex.

The elder son,

RICHARD BARTELOTT, esq. of Stopham, b. in 1564, wedded, first, Mary, daughter of

Richard Covert, esq. of Slaugham, by whom he had two sons, WALTER, his heir, and William, of Wisborough Green, who died in 1666. He m. secondly, Rose, daughter of Richard Hatton, esq. of Thames Ditton, Surrey, and had two sons and a daughter. He died in 1614, and was s. by his eldest son, WALTER BARTELOTT, esq. of Stopham, who m. Mary, daughter of John Middleton, esq. of Horsham, and by her, who died in 1626, left five daughters, his co-heirs, viz.

- I. FRANCES, m. to the Rev. J. Lawrence, rector of Stopham.
- II. MARY, of whom presently.
- III. ANNE, m. to Theodore Walker, esq.
- IV. JANE, m. to Christopher Coles, esq. of Pulborough.
- V. BARBARA, m. to Richard Mille, esq. of Gresham.

The second daughter and co-heir,

MARY BARTELOTT, espoused her cousin, HENRY BARTELOTT, esq. son of the feodar of Sussex, and had two sons, of whom the younger, Henry, of Fittleworth, d. in 1710, and the elder,

WALTER BARTELOTT, esq. of Stopham, in 1702. He had married Anne, daughter of Thomas Bettesworth, esq. of Halnaker, and by her, who died in 1690, had a son and successor,

WALTER BARTELOTT, esq. of Stopham, who m. first, Isabel, daughter of the Rev. Edmund Barker, D. D. rector of Buriton, Hants, and secondly, Mrs. Mary White, of Steyning, a widow, who died in 1725 s. p. By his first wife, who d. in 1707, Mr. Bartelott had one son,

WALTER, in holy orders, prebendary of Chichester and rector of Rottendeau, who predeceased his father, leaving, by Barbara, his wife, daughter of the Rev. GEORGE SMYTH,* of Binderton, in Sussex, a son,

WALTER, heir to his grandfather.

* The manor and estate of Binderton, in Sussex, was granted by John, Lord Lumley, to his seneschal,

WILLIAM SMYTH, esq. of London, who erected the first mansion house at Binderton. He was progenitor of THOMAS SMYTH, esq. of Binderton, who, about the year 1680, began to rebuild the old house, removed the chapel of Binderton which was adjoining it, and erected the present at a more convenient distance. But this having been done without the consent of the ordinary, Bishop John Lake refused to consecrate it, and it is now in decay. Thomas Smyth d. in 1687, aged sixty, and was s. by his son,

THE REV. GEORGE SMYTH, of Binderton, who d. in 1711, aged eighty-three. He m. first, Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Peckham, esq. of Estates—In Sussex.

Seat—Stopham, originally erected in the reign of ELIZABETH, was nearly rebuilt in a modern style in 1787. "In the small church of Stopham," says Dellaway, "the windows have been ornamented with stained glass, exhibiting imaginary portraits of individuals of the Stopham and Bartelott families, with escocheons of many quarterings. These are said to have been removed from the great window of the old hall, and were the work of one Roelandt, a Flemish glass-stainer, whose name appears on them. The pavement is almost entirely composed of large slabs of Sussex marble, inlaid with brass figures and memorials of the Bartelotts, from the date of their original establishment at Stopham, and which forms one of the most complete series of monumental brasses in the county of Sussex. A very singular addition has been subsequently made of other figures, in small, of the issue of the several marriages, all of them in the dress peculiar to the age of CHARLES I."

Little Green, and had one son and two daughters, viz.

Thomas, who d. in 1720, aged thirty-one.

NORCLIFFE, OF LANGTON.

NORCLIFFE, NORCLIFFE, esq. major of the 18th Hussars on half pay, b. at York, 24th Sept. 1791, m. 24th June, 1824, Decima-Hester-Beatrix, 3rd daughter of John Robinson Foulis,* esq. second son of Sir Wiliam Foulis, bart. and by her, who died 3rd February, 1828, he has one son, THOMAS, b. 17th June, 1825.

Major Norcliffe succeeded his father in the representation of the family, June, 1820, but will not inherit the principal estates until the demise of his mother.

Lineage.

The first of the family we find recorded is NICHOLAS NORCLIFFE, father of JOHN NORCLIFFE, styled of Barsland in 1541, whose son,

STEPHEN NORCLIFFE, left a son,

THOMAS NORCLIFFE, who was buried at Nunnington, in Yorkshire, in 1616. In 1607 he had a grant of arms, now amongst the family papers. By Elizabeth, his wife, daughter and heir of Robert Ealand, of Carlinghow, he had six sons and two daughters, viz.

- i. Francis, aged thirty-six, in 1612, d. s. p.
- ii. THOMAS (Sir).
- iii. Stephen.
- iv. John.
- v. Marmaduke.
- vi. William.

i. Barbara, m. to William Conyers Savile, of Welborne.

ii. Dorothy, m. to William Hurst, of Acklam Grange.

The eldest son, to leave issue,

SIR THOMAS NORCLIFFE, knt. barrister, of the Middle Temple, purchased Langton, in the county of York, anno 1618. He wedded Catharine, daughter and co-heir of Sir William Bamburgh, bart. of Howsham, and had, with five daughters, as many sons, viz.

Anthonina, m. to John Hatfield, esq. of Laughton, in Yorkshire.

Frances, m. to Nicholas Richards, of Westminster.

* By Decima Hester, his wife, daughter of Sir Christopher Sykes, bart.

Sir Thomas died 6th January, 1669, and was s. by his only son,

SIR THOMAS NORTHCLIFFE, knt. of Langton, who was born deaf and dumb, in February, 1640. He married Frances, daughter and sole heir of Sir William Vavasour, bart. of Copmanthorpe, and by her (who wedded secondly, Moses Goodyear, an Aleppo merchant, and died in 1731, aged seventy-seven), had issue,

- I. FAIRFAX, his heir.
- II. Richard, lieutenant R.N. who died in 1697, in the West Indies.
- III. Thomas.
- I. Alatheia.

Sir Thomas Norcliffe died in 1682, and was s. by his eldest son,

FAIRFAX NORCLIFFE, esq. of Langton, lieut. col. of the 1st regiment of Dragoons, who served the office of high sheriff for Yorkshire in 1700, and 1715. He m. in 1693, Mary, daughter and co-heir of Thomas Hesketh, esq. of Heslington, and by her, (who died in 1739), had four sons and one daughter, namely,

- I. THOMAS, his heir.
- II. William, d. unm. 1708-9.
- III. Richard, d. at Hull, 1757.
- IV. Fairfax, a lieutenant of Dragoons, b. in 1704, who m. Faith, daughter of Callisthenes Brooke, esq. of Gateforth, and had, by her, who d. in June, 1733, an only child, Fairfax, b. 5th June, and d. 16th July, 1733. He d. himself in 1739, and was buried with his wife and child, in Ripon Minster.

- I. Frances, who m. Sir John Wray, bart. of Sleningsford, (see family of WRAY) and died in 1770, in her seventieth year, leaving issue,

1. SIR CECIL WRAY, bart. M.P. for Retford, and subsequently for Westminster, who d. s. p. in 1805, entailing his property in Lincolnshire, failing male issue of his cousin, Sir William Wray, on his nephew, John Dalton, esq. second son of his second sister, who now possesses it.

2. John Wray, d. in 1748.

1. MARY WRAY, heiress to her uncle, THOMAS NORCLIFFE, esq.
2. Isabella Wray, who m. John Dalton, esq. of Sleningsford, and died in 1780, leaving, with two younger sons and two daughters, for whose names, marriages, and issue, see pedigree of DALTON, of Sleningsford, vol. i. p. 528,

THOMAS DALTON, of whom presently, as successor to his aunt, and inheritor of the NORCLIFFE estates.

Fairfax Norcliffe died in 1720, and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS NORCLIFFE, esq. of Langton, who was born at Heslington, in 1694, and died at his house in York, in 1768, unmarried, in his seventy-fourth year. He left his property to his nieces in succession, and their heirs, in strict entail, taking the name of Norcliffe, and the arms of that family in the first quarter. He was accordingly succeeded by his elder niece,

MARY WRAY, daughter of Sir John Wray, bart. by FRANCES NORCLIFFE, his wife; she espoused, in 1769, Sir James Innes, bart. who assumed the surname and arms of NORCLIFFE, as by will obliged. Lady Norcliffe predeceased her husband (who became Duke of Roxburgh in 1812), on the 20th July, 1807, and was s. by her nephew,

THOMAS DALTON, esq. eldest son of John Dalton, esq. by Isabella, second daughter of Sir John Wray, bart. This gentleman assumed, upon inheriting Langton, by sign manual, dated August, 1807, the surname and arms of NORCLIFFE. He was born at York, 31st December, 1756, and entering the army obtained a troop in the 11th Dragoons. He was afterwards lieutenant-colonel of the York Volunteers. He m. in 1784, Ann, only daughter and heir of William Wilson, esq. of Leeds, and had issue,

- I. NORCLIFFE, his heir.

Family of Wray

The family of WRAY was anciently seated in the bishopric of Durham, and subsequently possessed estates in Richmondshire, in the county of York. The first who resided at Glentworth, in Lincolnshire, was

SIR CHRISTOPHER WRAY, knt. lord chief justice of England, descended from John Wray, of Richmond. This eminent person, who served for Boroughbridge, in all the parliaments called by Queen MARY, was, in the subsequent reign, chosen Speaker of the House of Commons, and eventually constituted LORD CHIEF JUSTICE of the Queen's Bench. He m. Anne, daughter of Nicholas Girlington, esq. of Normanby, in Yorkshire, and had issue,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Isabel, m. first, to Godfrey Foljambe, esq. of Walton, sheriff of Derbyshire, 31st ELIZABETH; secondly, to Sir William Bowes, knt. of Barnard Castle; and thirdly, to John, Lord D'Arcy, of Aston.

Frances, m. first, to Sir George St. Paul, bart. of Snarford; and secondly, to Robert Rich, Earl of Warwick.

Sir Christopher Wray died 8th May, 1592, leaving the character, says an old writer, "of an upright judge; for though he respected every man in his proper station, when he was off the bench, when he was on it, he had no such regard for the greatest of men, so as to bias his judgement. He sat on that bench seventeen years, and filled it with great credit to himself and satisfaction to others; his piety, probity, charity, and justice, rendering him revered by the greatest men of that age, and his death generally lamented. Her Majesty, Queen ELIZABETH, had so just a sense of his merits and services, that she gave him the profits of her coinage, till he had built that noble house, now remaining at Glentworth."

Sir Christopher was succeeded by his only son,

SIR WILLIAM WRAY, who received the honour of knighthood from Queen ELIZA-BETH, was chosen in the last parliament of her Majesty's reign knight of the shire for the county of Lincoln, and created a BARONET, 25th November, 1612. He wedded, first, Lucy, eldest daughter of Sir Edward Montague, knt. of Boughton, and had, with five daughters, ten sons, of whom two only arrived at maturity, viz.

JOHN, his successor.

Edward, groom of the bed-chamber to King CHARLES I. who m. Elizabeth, only daughter and heiress of Francis, earl of Berkshire, and Baron Norris, of Rycote, and had an only child,

BRIDGET, m. first, Edward Sackville, esq. second son of Edward, Earl of Dorset, by whom she had no issue; and secondly, Montague Bertie, Earl of Lindsey, by whom she was mother of JAMES BERTIE, who inherited in her right, the barony of NORRIS, of Rycote. He was afterwards created EARL of ABERDON, honours enjoyed by his descendant Montagu, EARL of ABERDON.

Sir William Wray espoused secondly, Frances, relict of Sir Nicholas Clifford, and daughter of Sir William Drury, of Hawsted, in Suffolk, lord deputy of Ireland, by whom he had two sons, viz.

CHRISTOPHER, who received the honour of knighthood from King JAMES, and served in several parliaments. He m. Albina, second daughter and co-heir of Edward Cecil, Viscount Wimbledon, third son of the Earl of Exeter, and had four sons, viz.

1. WILLIAM (Sir), of Ashby, born about the year 1625, who was advanced to a BARONETCY, 27th June, 1660. He m. Olympia, daughter of Sir Humphrey Tuf-ton, bart. and had four sons and four daughters, viz.

CHRISTOPHER (Sir), second bart. of Ashby, of whom hereafter, as inheritor of the more ancient title upon the demise of his cousin, Sir John Wray, of Glentworth.

Sir John Wray was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

SIR JOHN WRAY, third bart. of Glentworth, who married first, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Henry Willoughby, bart. of Risley, and widow of Sir Simon D'Ewes, bart. of Stow Hall, by whom he had no issue. He wedded secondly, Sarah, daughter of Sir John Evelyn, knt. of Westdean, and by her, who espoused secondly, Thomas, Viscount Fanshaw; and thirdly, George, Viscount Castleton, had an only daughter and heiress, ELIZABETH, who m. the Hon. Nicholas Sanderson, eldest son of Sir George Sanderson, bart. Viscount Castleton, and had a son, WRAY SAUNDERSON, esq. of Glentworth, who m. Mary, eldest daughter of Lewis Watson, Earl of Rockingham, but died s. p.

Sir John Wray dying without male issue, the baronetcy devolved on (the grandson of his uncle, Sir Christopher Wray) his cousin,

SIR CHRISTOPHER WRAY, second bart. of Ashby, who then became fourth bart. of the more ancient creation. Dying, however, issueless, the patent his father had obtained from CHARLES II. expired, while the old baronetcy of Glentworth reverted to (the son of his uncle, Edward Wray, esq.) his first cousin,

SIR BAPTIST EDWARD WRAY, fifth bart. at whose demise also s. p. the title was inherited by his uncle,

SIR DRURY WRAY, sixth bart. b. in Lincolnshire, 29th July, 1633. This gentleman m. Anne, dau. and heir of Thos. Casey, esq. of Rathcannon, in the county of Limerick, by Bridget, his wife, daughter and co-heir of Sir John Dowdall, knt. and had, with several daughters, three sons, CHRISTOPHER, his heir; William, who pre-deceased him; and CECIL, successor to his brother. Sir Drury died 30th October, 1710, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR CHRISTOPHER WRAY, seventh bart. who was in arms for King WILLIAM, at the battle of the Boyne, served afterwards in the wars of Flanders, Spain, and Portugal, as lieutenant colonel in General Farrington's regiment, and eminently distinguished himself at the attack of Ostend. In 1710 he was again preparing to go to Spain, and being at Portsmouth, to embark with the fleet, died there, unmarried, 21st November, 1710, and was succeeded by (the grandson of his uncle, Cecil) his cousin,

SIR JOHN WRAY, eighth bart. of Slensingford, who wedded FRANCES, eldest daughter of FAIRFAX NORCLIFFE, esq. of Langton, as already stated in the Norcliffe descent.

MIDDLETON, OF LEAM.

MIDDLETON, MARMADUKE-MIDDLETON, esq. of Leam, in the county of

Derby, and of Morthen, in Yorkshire, b. 17th August, 1771, m. first, 12th August, 1801, Mary-Ann, daughter of Robert Athorpe Athorpe, esq. of Dinnington, in the latter shire, and has had,

JOHN-CARVER, b. 9th August, 1803, who, upon attaining his majority, assumed the surname of ATHORPE, in place of Middleton, in pursuance of the will of his maternal uncle, Thomas Athorpe, esq. to whose estates at Dinnington and elsewhere in the county of York he succeeded. He m. 8th February, 1831, Mary, daughter of Thomas Gibbon Fitzgibbon, esq. of Ballyseeda, in the county of Limerick, and granddaughter of Sir Henry Osborne, bart.

Marmaduke, b. 15th May, 1810.

Mary-Ann Carver, who died 15th February, 1817.

Mr. Middleton wedded, secondly, 11th June, 1822, Martha, daughter of Anthony Dawson, esq. of Azerley, near Ripon.

This gentleman, whose patronymic was CARVER, assumed, upon coming of age, the name and arms of MIDDLETON, in pursuance of the testamentary injunction of Jonathan Oxley, of Leam. He succeeded his father in 1807. He is a magistrate and deputy lieutenant for the county of Derby, and was a high sheriff in 1808.

Lineage.

The family of CARVER have long been settled in the county of York. In the south aisle of the choir of the cathedral church a monumental inscription records the death of Marmaduke Carver, who was chaplain to Sir Thomas Osborne (afterwards Duke of Leeds), when high sheriff for the county, in the following words; "Lector si Pietatis amator, si Doctrinæ estimator, scias quantus sub hoc lapide thesaurus situs est, Marmaducus Carver, Ecclesiæ Hartilluncis Rector, Cronologie et Geographiæ scientissimus, Linguarum peritus, concionando prepotens; hic scilicet, qui cum scriptis ad invidiam usque, verum terrestri paradisi locum orbi monstrasset, ad cœlestem quem predicando Auditoribus commendaverat, cujus aduentu ingenti desiderio tenebatur moriendo translatus est, die Aug. 1665." William-Dutton, b. 13th October, 1830.

Mr. Napier is a magistrate and deputy lieutenant for the county of Meath, and has served the office of sheriff.

Lineage.

This family claims descent from the ancient Scottish EARLS OF LENOX, (raised to that dignity by King MALCOLM III. about the year 1057) and the claim is sustained by the following certificate of SIR ARCHIBALD NAPER, knt. of Merchiston, deputy treasurer of Scotland, and of the privy council to King CHARLES I., enrolled in the College of Arms, by SIR WILLIAM SEGAR, knt. Garret, at the desire of Sir Robert Napier, knt. and baronet, of Luton Hoo, in the county of Bedford.

"Know ye, that I, Sir Archibald Napier, of Merchiston, in the kingdom of Scotland, knt. deputy treasurer, and one of his majesty's privy council there, for as much as my entirely beloved kinsman, Sir Robert Napier, of Luton Hoo, in the county of Bedford, knt. and baronet, being desirous to be informed of his pedigree and descent from my house, I have, to satisfy his lawful and laudable request, herein declared the truth thereof, and the original of our name, as by tradition from father to son, we have generally, and without any doubt received the same. That one of the ancient Earls of Lenox, in Scotland, had issue three sons, the eldest succeeded him in the Earldom of Lenox, the second, whose name was Donald, and the third, named Sillerist. —, the then King of Scots, having wars, did convocate his lieges to the battle, amongst whom that was commanded was the Earl of Lenox, who, keeping his eldest son at home, sent his second son to serve for him, with the forces that were under his command: this battle went hard with the Scots, for the enemy, pressing furiously upon them, forced them to lose ground, until at last they fell to flat running away, which being perceived by Donald, he pulled his father's standard from the bearer thereof, and valiantly encountering the foe, being well followed by the Earl of Lenox's men, he repulsed the enemy, and changed the fortune of the day, whereby a great victory was got. After the battle, as the manner is, every one advancing, and setting forth his own acts, the king said unto them,—Ye have all done valiantly, but there is one amongst you who hath na-peir, and calling Donald unto his presence, commanded, in regard of his worth, service, and augmentation of his honour, to change his name from Lenox to Naper, and gave him the lands of Goffurd, and lands in Fife, and made him his own servant; which discourse is confirmed by sundry of my old evidences and testimonies, wherein we are called Lenox als Naper; after this the earldom of Lenox, for want of heirs male, went to daughters, the elder whereof was married to Sir John Mentith, of Rosky, who was Earl of Lenox during his natural life; and the younger was married to Allen Stewart, Lord Darnley, of whom is descended the king's majesty, the Dukes of Lenox, and divers other nobles of Scotland. Sir John Mentith had two daughters, the first married to — Haddon, of Glengis, and the second was married to John Naper, of Rosky and Merchiston, being the son of Sir Alexander Naper, of Merchiston, descended from Donald aforesaid; amongst them there was great strifes and controversies for the title and honour of Lenox, but the revenue was divided amongst them, and I hold some land to this day in Lenox, which came to my ancestor by the same division; as also certain lands which did anciently belong to the said Sir John Mentith, for Sir John Mentith, according to the laws and customs of the country, enjoyed the honour for his life, and left the same to descend to the said — Haddon, of Glengis; for Naper, of Merchiston, besides his marriage, bore his ancient arms, surname, and descent from the house of the Earls of Lenox, for the Lord Darnley was in the king's special favour and inclination, which being known unto Naper, of Merchiston, being then in the king's service, he relinquished his suit, and is said got Blair-inwades for that cause; but I do find, that he did give his part of the fishing of Levin, and the Watermouth of Inch Tavenock, with the patronages for some churches, for Blair-inwades. And for further testimony for the affection of the said Napers, of Merchiston, the Lords Darnley did, in recompence of their relinquishing their claim to the dignity of Lenox, tie themselves and their heirs to support and maintain the said house of the Napers and their heirs, in all just occasions and engagements, as by ancient evidences is manifested. The said SIR JOHN NAPER, of Merchiston and Rusky, had issue, Archibald, father to Sir Alexander, who had issue, Sir Alexander, and James, and John, hereafter mentioned; Sir Alexander had issue, Sir Alexander, who had issue, Sir Archibald and Alexander; Sir Archibald had issue, Sir John and Sir Alexander; Sir John was my father; Alexander, second son of Sir Alexander, and brother of Sir Archibald, my grandfather, as aforesaid, having spent the greatest portion of his youth in foreign parts, came into England in the time of King HENRY VII. and had issue the aforesaid Sir Robert Naper, knt. and baronet, Richard Naper, of Linford, now living, and divers other sons and daughters. JOHN, aforesaid, coming into England in the time of King HENRY VII., and first planting himself at Swire, in the county of Dorset, had issue, 1. Edward, of Oxford and Swire, aforesaid. 2. Nicholas Naper, of Tintinhall, in the county of Somerset. 3. James, of Midlemershall, in the county of Dorset. From the eldest brother are descended the Napers of Oxford; the third brother, JAMES, of Midlemershall, was father of SIR ROBERT NAPER, of Midlemershall, some time lord chief baron of Ireland, and father of SIR NATHANIEL NAPER, now living. This James had divers other issues, being grandfather to John Naper and Robert Naper, esqrs. of Puncknoll, in the county of Dorset, and divers other of that stem, now living in that country. Nicholas Naper, of Tintinhall, in the county of Somerset, esqrs. hath also divers issues. These things being found by me, as aforesaid, causeth me, out of the natural affection and love which I bear to my living cousins, Sir Robert Naper, knt. and bart., Sir Nathaniel Naper, and the rest of my said kindred in England, to testify and give allowance to them, to bear my arms, supporters, and crest, with their due differences, as their lawful right and ancient inheritance, and do hereby acknowledge them to be kinsmen of my blood, and branched from my house, according to due proof, as is above declared. In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal of arms. Dated the First day of June, ann. dom. MDCXXV."

JOHN NAPIER, esq. a younger son of Sir Alexander Napier, knt. of Merchistoun, the common ancestor of the LORDS NAPIER, of the Napiers, baronets, of Luton Hoo, and of the Napiers or Napers, (of whom we are about to treat) came into England in the reign of HENRY VII., and settled at Swyre, in the county of Dorset, where he lies interred. He m. Anne, daughter of John Russel, of Berwick,* and had issue,

- I. EDWARD, of Swyre, in Dorset, and of Holiwell, in Oxfordshire, who m. a daughter of Sir John Peyto, of Wavesham, in the latter county, and had issue.
- II. JAMES, of whom presently.
- III. Nicholas, of Tintinhull, in Somersetshire.

The second, or by some accounts the third, son,

JAMES NAPIER, esq. of Baglake, or Punknoll, in the county of Dorset, espoused a lady named Hilliard, and had three sons, viz.

- I. JOHN, of Baglake.
- II. WILLIAM, of Punknoll.
- III. ROBERT (Sir), of Middlemarsh.

The youngest son,

SIR ROBERT NAPIER, an eminent lawyer, was constituted by Queen ELIZABETH, lord chief baron of the Exchequer, in Ireland, in 1593. and received the honour of knighthood. In the 34th of the same reign, he purchased the estate of Middlemarsh, in Dorsetshire, and in 1606, was high sheriff of the county. He m. first, Catherine, daughter of John Wareham, esq. and by her had an only daughter, Anne, the wife of Sir John Ryves, of Damory Court. He wedded, secondly, Magdalen, daughter of Sir Anthony Denton, of Oxfordshire, by whom, who died in 1635, he had a son, NATHANIEL, his heir. Sir Robert died in 1615, was buried at Mintern, and s. by his son,

SIR NATHANIEL NAPIER, of More Critchell, who was certified by the instrument above, to be of the kindred and blood of Sir Archibald Napier, of Merchiston. This gentleman was knighted by King JAMES, at Newmarket, in 1617, and subsequently served as high sheriff and member of parliament for the county of Dorset. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of John Gerard, of Hide, and by her, who died in 1624, had six sons and two daughters, viz.

- I. GERARD (Sir), M. P. for Wareham 3rd CHARLES I., and Melcombe Regis in the 16th of the same reign. This gentleman, who was created a BARONET in 1641, distinguished himself during the civil wars under the royal banner, and lost more than ten thousand pounds in the service of his ill-fated monarch. His estates in the counties of Dorset and Kent were sequestered in 1645, and he was disabled from representing Melcombe. During the exile of CHARLES II. he sent to his majesty 500 broad pieces by Sir Gilbert Talbot, who detained them, for which Sir Gerard, after the restoration, arrested him; but Sir Gilbert owning the receipt, was, by the king's mediation, forgiven, and Sir Gerard was ordered a number of deer annually out of the new forest, without fee. Notwithstanding his persecution and his severe losses, Sir Gerard increased considerably his paternal inheritance, and had the honour of entertaining the king and queen at More Critchell, when the court removed to Salisbury from the plague, in 1665. He wedded Margaret, daughter and co-heir of John Colles, esq. of Barton, in the county of Somerset, and was s. at his decease, in 1672, by his son,

SIR NATHANIEL NAPIER, bart. of More Critchell, who resided for eight or nine years during his father's life-time, at Edmondesham, in the county of Dorset. Sir Nathaniel's granddaughter,

DIANA NAPIER, having married Humphrey Sturt, esq. of Horton, son of Sir Anthony Sturt, her son, HUMPHRY STURT, esq. of Horton, M. P. for Dorsetshire, eventually inherited the estates of the Napiers, of More Critchell, (see family of STURT, of More Critchell).

- II. Robert, of Punknoll, who died in 1686, leaving issue.
- III. John, d. s. p.
- IV. JAMES, of Lougherew, of whom presently.
- V. Nathaniel.
- VI. Henry.
- I. Magdalen, m. to — Clarke, esq. of Hampshire.
- II. Elizabeth, m. to Humphrey Walrond, esq. of Sea (see p. 558).

Sir Nathaniel Napier built the mansion at More Critchell, which was destroyed by fire in 1742, and died in 1635. His fourth son,

JAMES NAPER, esq. espoused the daughter

Mr. Turville succeeded his father on the 12th June, 1777. He is in the commission of the peace for Leicestershire.

Lineage.

The family of TOURVILLE, or TURVILLE, is of Norman extraction, and the name may be found on the roll of Battle Abbey: but from which of the ten seignories of TOURVILLE, in the duchy, the patronymic is derived cannot now be ascertained.

Soon after the conquest of England the Tourvilles became extensive proprietors in the counties of Warwick and Leicester: being lords, in the former, of the manors of Pailington, Herdeberwe, Bedworth, Chelmeceote Fulbrooke, and Nuneaton; and giving, in the latter, their name to the manor of Normanton-Turville, the original seat of the family.

WILLIAM DE TOURVILLE, the companion in arms of the CONQUEROR, and the first settler in England, was s. by

RALPH DE TOURVILLE, who was living in the time of HENRY I. and was father of

WILLIAM DE TOURVILLE, who was s. by

SIR HAMON DE TURVILLE, knt. of Normanton-Turville, in the county of Leicester, living temp. HENRY II. His son,

HUGH DE TURVILLE, of Normanton-Turville, was living in the 20th of HENRY III. 1235, and was s. by

RALPH DE TURVILLE, of Normanton-Turville, who held, in 1297, four and a half knights' fees in Normanton, Brokenhall Park, Thurleston,* Croft, Walton, Overleigh, Sywddeby, Seithby, and Saxilby, all in the county of Leicester; and in the same year granted the church of Croft to the abbey of St. Mary, in Leicester. In the 10th of EDWARD III. 1336, the lands of Nettlebed were bestowed by the Turvilles on the same monastery. Ralph was s. by

HUGH DE TURVILLE, of Normanton-Turville, to whom KING EDWARD III. granted, by charter dated 21st March, 1337, liberty of free warren in his demesne lands of Thurleston. He m. Cecily, daughter of —, and was father of

RICHARD DE TURVILLE, of Normanton-Turville and Thurleston, who m. in 1400, the daughter and heir of SIR WILLIAM FLAMVILLE, knt. of Aston-Flamville, in the county of Leicester, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD DE TURVILLE, of Normanton-Turville, Thurleston, and Aston-Flamville,

* In the church at Thurleston are several monuments to the Turvilles.

who wedded Margaret,* daughter of Edmund Bouge (and sister of Benjamin Bouge, of Thurleston, who d. s. p. in the 14th of HENRY VI. 1435-6), and had a son and successor,

WILLIAM TURVILLE, of Normanton-Turville, &c. who m. Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Fowlhurst (who was sheriff of Leicestershire in 1433-4), and sister of Sir Robert Fowlhurst, knt. by whom (who d. 14th October, 1476,) he left at his decease in 1457 (he was buried at Thurleston,) a son and successor,

JOHN TURVILLE, of Normanton-Turville, &c. who wedded Katharine, daughter of Sir Thomas Staunton, of Bonnington, in Nottinghamshire, and sister and co-heir of Thomas Staunton, of Staunton Harold, in the county of Leicester, and had issue, WILLIAM (Sir), his successor.

John.

Anne.

Elizabeth.

Agnes, m. to Thomas Rolleston, of Leigh.

He d. in 1506, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM TURVILLE, knt. of Normanton-Turville, Thurleston, and Aston-Flamville, who was appointed, by writ of King HENRY VIII. dated 30th January, 1534-5, one of the commissioners for taking the ecclesiastical survey of the county of Leicester. He had licence from the same monarch to enclose his park at Normanton. He m. first, Helen, daughter of Sir John Ferrers, knt. of Tamworth, in the county of Warwick, and had

JOHN, who wedded Mary, daughter of Thomas Findorn, of Findorn, in the county of Derby, and was ancestor of the TURVILES OF NORMANTON-TURVILLE, whose line totally expired on the death of ELIZABETH TURVILLE, the last of the family, who was buried in the vault at Thurleston, in September, 1776.

Sir William Turville wedded, secondly, Jane, eldest daughter of Sir John Warburton, knt. of Warburton and Arley (see p. 2), and by her had issue,

GEORGE, of whom presently.

Michael, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Humphrey Bradburne, knt. of the Hough, in the county of Derby, and died without issue in 1577, buried at Aston-Flamville.

Elizabeth, m. to Sir Humphrey Bradburne, knt. of the Hough, in the county of Derby.

Mary, m. to — Waldron, of Oadeby, in the county of Leicester.

Anne, m. to — Swillington.

Sir William d. 2nd July, 1552, and was buried at Aston-Flamville. He gave the manor of Aston-Flamville and other lands to his elder son by his second wife,

GEORGE TURVILLE, who thus became "of Aston-Flamville." He m. first, Anne, dau. of John Sheldon, esq. but by that lady had no issue. He espoused, secondly, Margaret, daughter of Sir John Hynde, knt. of Madingley, in Cambridgeshire, by whom (who d. in 1569) he had

HENRY, his heir.

Thomas, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of William Wright, of Nuneaton, in the county of Warwick, and left issue. He was buried at Aston-Flamville.

John, d. in 1606.

Elizabeth, m. to William Lister, esq. of Somerby.

Anne, m. to George Savage, of Walton in the Wolds.

He was s. by his eldest son,

HENRY TURVILLE, esq. of Aston-Flamville. This gentleman m. Anne, daughter of William Cooke, citizen of London, and had two sons, GEORGE, his successor, and Francis, who died 4th August, 1638, without issue. He was high sheriff of Leicestershire in the 26th of ELIZABETH, anno 1584; and dying in 1615-16 (he was buried at Aston-Flamville on the 16th of February in that year), was s. by his elder son, GEORGE TURVILLE, esq. of Aston-Flamville, b. in 1580, m. 23rd February, 1599, Anne, daughter and co-heir of John Martin of Poole House, by whom (who d. in 1658) he had three sons and two daughters, viz.

HENRY, his successor.

William, of Willoughby, in the county of Leicester, m. Mary, daughter of the Rev. John Prestgrave, rector of Broughton Astley, and left issue at his decease in 1669. He was buried on the 10th September in that year.

Pole, who settled at Tenby, in Pembroke-shire, m. Mary, daughter of Peregrine Stephen, and widow of John Alleyn, of Gresley, in the county of Derby. The will of this Peter Turville is dated 16th February, 1685, it was proved on the 5th August in the next year.

Dorothy, m. to George Smith, esq. of Ashby.

Mary, d. unm.

He died in 1671, aged sixty-nine, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM TURVILLE, esq. of Aston-Flamville, who m. first, Catharine, daughter of Sir Francis Englefield, bart. of Wotton Bassett, in the county of Wilts;† and had issue,

* SIR CHARLES SMITH was elevated to the peerage, 31st October, 1643, as BARON CARRINGTON, and created Viscount Carrington on the 4th November following. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Carril, knt. of South Hasting, in Sussex, and had (with five daughters) two sons, viz. FRANCIS, second viscount, at whose decease, in 1705, the honours became extinct, and CARRIL, mentioned above. See BURKE'S Extinct Peerage.

† The ancient family of ENGLEFIELD derived its surname, according to CAMDEN, from the town of Englefield, or Englesfeld, in the county of Berks, of which it is said to have been possessed in the second year of King EGBERT, two hundred and sixty-four years before the Norman conquest, at which time was an oratory, as appears by a terrier of the land belonging thereto, where it is called CANTARIA DE ENGLEFIELD.

SIR JOHN DE ENGLEFIELD, Lord of Shiplake, Ascott, &c. died in the 4th of EDWARD I. His grandson,

SIR ROGER ENGLEFIELD, was one of the knights in parliament for Berkshire in the 6th of EDWARD II. as was his grandson,

SIR JOHN ENGLEFIELD, in the 22nd of RICHARD II. The male line of this gentleman failing in the third generation, the estates came to the descendant of his brother,

Both interred at Aston-Flamville.

He was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM TURVILLE, esq. of Aston-Flamville, born and baptized there, 25th May, 1667, m. Frances, daughter of Charles

PHILIP ENGLEFIELD, who m. Alice, daughter of Walter Rossale, and sister and heir of Sir John Rossal, knt. by whom he acquired the Isle of Rossal, Udlington, Eton, and Yeagden, in Salop. His elder son,

PHILIP ENGLEFIELD, esq. was high sheriff of Berkshire in the 8th of HENRY VI. He was s. by his brother,

ROBERT ENGLEFIELD, esq. who d. in the 13th of EDWARD IV. and was s. by his grandson,

SIR THOMAS ENGLEFIELD, who received the honour of knighthood in 1496, on the marriage of Prince ARTHUR, son of HENRY VII. He was chosen speaker of the House of Commons, and made justice of Chester, in the 19th of the same king's reign. He was also elected speaker of the first parliament called by King HENRY VIII. He was s. by his only surviving son,

SIR THOMAS ENGLEFIELD, who served the office of sheriff for Berks and Oxfordshire in the 11th of HENRY VIII. This gentleman being bred to the bar, was constituted, in the 18th of the same reign, one of the justices of the Court of Common Pleas. He d. in 1537, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR FRANCIS ENGLEFIELD, sheriff of Berkshire and Oxfordshire at the death of HENRY VIII. and the first year of EDWARD VI. This gentleman was one of the chief officers in the Princess MARY's family, and was one of those sent for by the Protector SOMERSET and council, to forbid their hearing mass, or having it celebrated in the princess's house; but refusing to obey, and submitting rather to any punishment, he, with Sir Robert Rochester, Sir — Walgrave, and Dr. Francis Mallet, the princess's chaplain, was committed for many months to prison. On the accession of MARY to the throne, Sir Francis was called to the privy council, made master of the wards, and obtained a grant of the manor and park of Fulbrook, in the county of Warwick, part of the lands of the attainted Dudley, Duke of Fortescue, esq.* of Husband's Bosworth, in the county of Leicester, and had issue,

Northumberland. He was knight for Berkshire in every parliament of her majesty's reign. His attachment to the faith of his fathers forced him, however, when ELIZABETH became queen, to expatriate himself; and, in the sixth year of her majesty, being convicted and attainted of high treason, all his manors, lands, and vast possessions, became forfeited. By this act of power the estate of ENGLEFIELD, which had been seven hundred and eighty years in the family, was wrested from it. He m. Catherine, daughter and heir of Sir Thomas Fettiplace, of Compton Beauchamp, in the vale of Berks, but dying without issue, the line was continued by his brother,

JOHN ENGLEFIELD, esq. Lord of Wotton Bassett, in the county of Wilts, whose son and heir,

FRANCIS ENGLEFIELD, esq. of Wotton Bassett, was created a baronet in 1612. He m. Jane, daughter of the Hon. Anthony Browne, eldest son of Anthony, Viscount Montague (see BURKE's Extinct Peerage), and had several children. He was s. by his eldest surviving son,

SIR FRANCIS ENGLEFIELD, second baronet, who m. Winifrid, daughter and co-heir of William Brooksbury, esq. of Sholeby, in the county of Leicester, by whom he had one son and three daughters, viz.

FRANCIS (Sir), who s. his father as third baronet. He m. Honora, daughter of Henry O'Bryan, Earl of Thomond, by whom (who wedded, secondly, Sir Robert Howard, of Vasterne, in Wilts, sixth son of Thomas, first Earl of Berkshire,) he had no issue. The baronetcy passed at his decease to his uncle, SIR THOMAS ENGLEFIELD, and eventually became EXTINCT in 1822.

Helen, m. to Sir Charles Waldegrave, bart. and was mother of the first Lord Waldegrave (see BURKE's Peerage and Baronetage).

Mary, m. to Sir George Browne, K.B.

CATHARINE, m. to WILLIAM TURVILLE, esq. of Aston-Flamville, as in the text.

* CHARLES FORTESCUE, esq. of Husband's Bosworth, m. Frances Bodenham, by whom (who d. in 1697) he left at his decease, at Brussels, in 1684, a daughter, FRANCES, the wife of WILLIAM TURVILLE, and a son, his successor,

CHARLES FORTESCUE, esq. of Husband's Bosworth, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of — Login, esq. of Idbury, in Oxfordshire, and left at his decease, in 1732 (will dated 1730, and proved 1732), an only son,

FRANCIS FORTESCUE, esq. of Husband's Bosworth, at whose decease s. p. the estates passed to his only sister, MARIA-ALATHEA FORTESCUE, who died unmarried in 1763, when HUSBAND'S BOSWORTH devolved on her cousin and heir-at-law, WILLIAM TURVILLE, esq.

i. CARRINGTON-FRANCIS, his heir, b. 9th March, 1689-90, m. Elizabeth, daughter of — Doughty, esq. of Suarford, in the county of Lincoln, by whom he had an only son, GEORGE, who died at Brussels, 5th October, 1735, in his eleventh year. This Mr. Turville sold ASTON-FLAMVILLE in 1746 to Shuckburgh Ashley, esq. and died 29th October, 1749. He was buried with his son in the old church of the English nuns at Brussels; as was his wife, Elizabeth Doughty.

ii. CHARLES, of whom presently, as continuator of the line.

iii. Henry, b. 13th April, 1697.

iv. Pole, died an infant in 1698-9.

v. John, buried at Aston-Flamville 24th March, 1739, s. p.

vi. James, b. in August, 1700, buried at Aston-Flamville, 17th July, 1720, s. p.

Mr. Turville died in March, 1702-3, and was s. at ASTON-FLAMVILLE by his eldest son, CARRINGTON-FRANCIS TURVILLE, esq. who alienated the same, and died without issue, as stated above. The second son,

CHARLES TURVILLE, esq. m. Mary, daughter of Anthony Salvin, esq. of Croxdale, in the county of Durham, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM TURVILLE, esq. who m. Mary, daughter of Henry Bolney, by whom (who d. 8th December, 1788, and was buried at St. Pancras, Middlesex,) he had a son, FRANCIS-FORTESCUE, his heir.

On the decease of his cousin, MARIA-ALATHEA FORTESCUE, 21st May, 1763, Mr. Turville inherited, as heir-at-law, the estate of HUSBAND'S BOSWORTH, in the county of Leicester, and other estates and manors in the counties of Northampton, Bucks, and Oxford. He d. 12th June, 1777, was buried at Stapleton, in the county of Gloucester, and succeeded by his son, the present FRANCIS-FORTESCUE TURVILLE, esq. of Husband's Bosworth.

Arms—Gules, three chevronels vairy: quartering FORTESCUE; azure, a bend engrailed arg. cotized or.

- III. Charlotte-Augusta.
- IV. Cassandra-Maria.

Mr. Meadows, who was presented in the year 1804 to the rectory of Bealing Magna, succeeded his father, 16th October, 1824.

Lineage.

The ancient family of MEADOWS has been settled in the enjoyment of lands at Witnesham, in Suffolk, since the reign of HENRY II., and from a younger branch springs the noble house of Manvers.

WILLIAM MEADOWS, of Witnesham, dying at Rushmere in 1588, left, by Agnes his wife, whom he had married in 1558, two sons, viz.

- I. WILLIAM, his heir.
- II. Daniel, of Chattisham, b. at Rushmere, in 1577, who purchased, in 1630, from Sir Robert Hitcham, the lordship of Witnesham. He died 7th September, 1651, and left, inter alios, a fifth son,

SIR PHILIP MEADOWS, born in 1625, who was Latin secretary to the LORD PROTECTOR, knight-marshal of the palace, and knight of the Order of the Elephant of Denmark. In 1656, he was sent ambassador to the court of Portugal, and in the following year to that of Denmark. At the treaty of Roschild, he was appointed mediator between Denmark and Sweden, and to the latter he was subsequently accredited ambassador. Sir Philip

m. in April, 1661, Constance, second daughter and co-heir of Francis Lucy, esq. by whom he left at his decease, 16th February, 1718, with three daughters, a son and successor,

SIR PHILIP MEADOWS, also knight-marshal of the palace, who died at Brompton, 5th December, 1757, leaving by Dorothy his wife, sister of Hugh, first Viscount Falmouth, three sons and five daughters, of whom the third son,

PHILIP MEADOWS, esq. b. at Vienna, in 1708, wedded Frances, only daughter of William Pierrepont, Viscount Newark, and sister and heir of Evelyn, second Duke of Kingston, by whom he left at his decease, in 1781, with other issue, a son,

CHARLES MEADOWS, esq. who assumed, upon inheriting the Kingston estates, the surname of PIERREPONT only, and was elevated to the peerage, in 1796, as Viscount Newark, and subsequently raised, in 1806, to the dignity of EARL MANVERS. (See BURKE's Peerage and Baronetage.)

The elder son and heir of William Meadows, of Witlesham,

WILLIAM MEADOWS, was born in 1559, and married Grigil, daughter of — Mynter, esq. of Witlesham Hall,* and by her, who died in 1639, had three sons, viz.

* Mr. Meadows purchased this mansion from his father-in-law, and made it the place of his abode.

* The BREWSTERS were seated at Wrentham in the time of EDWARD VI., and they rose to great importance under the protectorate of CROMWELL. The male line expired in 1797, when the venerable mansion and estates fell to this FRANCES, the wife of John Meadows, who was aunt of the last proprietor, HUMPHREY BREWSTER, conjointly with his first cousin, JOHN WILKINSON, esq.

MICHEL, OF DEWLISH AND KINGSTON RUSSELL.

MICHEL, JOHN, esq. of Dewlish and Kingston Russell, both in the county of Dorset, a lieutenant-general in the army, b. in 1765, m. first, Elizabeth, daughter of Pierce Crosbie, esq. of Ballyburgh, in Kerry, and, secondly, 29th September, 1803, Anne, eldest daughter of the Honorable Henry Fane, of Fulbeck, in Lincolnshire, second brother of the late Earl of Westmoreland. He has issue,

- i. John.
- ii. Charles.
- iii. Henry.
- i. Augusta.
- ii. Caroline.
- iii. Charlotte.

The general, who succeeded to the estates upon the demise of his father, is a deputy lieutenant for the county of Dorset.

Lineage.

"This family," says Hutchins, "derive their descent from Gilbert de Aquila, sometimes styled Gilbert Magnus, or, in Saxon, Michel, who came over with WILLIAM the Conqueror, and settled at Michelam, now Mitcham, in Surrey. Some branches were seated at St. Columb, in Cornwall,* from John, a younger son of the last of which, that of Kingston Russell, is descended."

JOHN MICHEL, esq. (son of another John Michel, who died in 1612) resided, in the reign of ELIZABETH, at Dalwood, in Stockland parish, where the arms of the family appeared on a window of the chapel. He settled at Longbridy, in Dorsetshire, about the year 1600, and died in 1639, possessed of the manor and farm of Kingston Russell, a moiety of the farm and manor of Longbridy, Harmshay in Marshwood, lands at Dalwood, and in the county of Devon. Anne-Elizabeth, m. to Lancelot Lee, esq. of Coton Hall, Salop, and died in 1759.

Caroline, m. to the Rev. Harry Lee, D.D. warden of Winchester, and d. in 1773.

Mr. Michel died in 1739, and was s. by his elder son,

JOHN MICHEL, esq. of Kingston Russell, at whose decease, unm. in 1742, the estates and representation of the family devolved on his brother,

DAVID ROBERT MICHEL, esq. of Kingston Russell, who m. first, Grace, daughter of John Ayscough, esq. of St. Thomas in the East, Jamaica; and secondly, Eleanor, daughter of Edward Poore, esq. a Welch judge, M.P. for Sarum. By the former, who d. 23rd November, 1777, he had issue,

i. JOHN, his heir.

ii. Charles-William, who m. Mary, relict of Colonel Strickland, and daughter of Edmund Rolfe, esq. of Heacham, in Norfolk.

iii. David, who died in 1779.

iv. Doily, lost on board the Guardian, in the South Seas, in 1791.

v. Christopher, a military officer.

* This gentleman, who was son of Richard Bingham, esq. and Jane, his wife, daughter of Sir Arthur Hopton, of Witham Abbey, in Somersetshire, was, during the civil war, colonel of a regiment, governor of Poole, and commander at the last siege and demolition of Corfe Castle.

† Sir David Heckstetter, who first changed the o in his name to e, died in 1721, and was buried in Southgate chapel, where an epitaph is engraven to his memory.

As the lineal descendants of the Heckstetter family, the Michels have a claim to great honours and distinctions in Germany, by virtue of the following grant from the Emperor Maximilian :

“ Wee, Maximilian, by the grace of God, chosen Emperour of the Romans, ever august, of Germanie, Hungarie, Dalmatia, Croatia, and King, Duke of Burgundie, &c. &c. Do declare, and by these our letters made known to all men for us and our successors in the empire, that although the Roman Imperial Majestie, so long as like the sun, by its perfection, it doth shine upon and brighten all ranks and dignities of men, shines gloriously enough of itself, nevertheless its property is known by so much the more fully, and the beams of this enlightening star are spread abroad so much more wide and farr by how much the more graciously it doth bestow its favours upon the people thereof. And although, by the power of that imperial highness and majesty, to which by the providence of Almighty God we are called and crowned, as also by our natural goodness and clemency we are ready at all times to advance the honour, dignity and profit of all and singular the loyal subjects of us and the holy empire, and to provide for them; nevertheless our imperial mind is much more ready to exalt the estate and condition of such, by whose extraordinary skill, diligence and virtue the honour of the holy Roman empire is augmented and nobility itself, by those who obtain it, is adorned.

“ We therefore taking into consideration, and weighing in our mind not only the honesty, uprightness, wisdom, industry, grateful behaviour, experience of affairs, and other virtues, wherewith we have found to be indued, Ambrose, John, James, George, William and Sigismund HECKSTETTERS, brothers and brothers sonnes, faithful friends of us and of the empire, but also their acceptable, commodious and accurate services (which the said Ambrose hath done also for our own person, when we were held captive in the lower parts of Germanie), and his brethren and cousins-german have performed, and daily, without intermission doe performe to us, Whereupon that some fruit of this their integrity, vertue and loyal services may, as worthily it ought, redound unto them, it has pleased us to honour with this singular favour and indow with privilege the said Ambrose, John, James, George, William, and Sigismund Hockstetters, that all and every of them, their lawfull and rightly begotten heires, and heires of their heires, in a perpetual generation and succession, of either sex, should be received into the number and register of noble persons, and of those who are rightful companions in the exercise of tilting, and worthy the honour of knighthood, with whom they are accounted, conformed and joynd as though by their ancestors on both sides they had been born truly noble, and rightful companions in the exercise of tilting, and worthy of the knightly order."

The grant proceeds to assign to this distinguished family coat armour, and to confer the dignity of Baron Burkwalden, as well as many immunities and privileges in the empire, to the heirs male and female of the said brothers Hockstetter for ever. The Hockstetters still remain in Germany in full possession of their ancient honours.

i. Frances, d. unmarried in 1829.

ii. Susanna, m. to Henry Locock, esq. of London, and has issue.

Mr. Smyth, who resides at the rectory, Great Linford, and is a magistrate for the county of Buckingham, succeeded to his father's manor and estate of Annables in 1789.

Lineage.

About the commencement of the fifteenth century,

JOHN SMYTH, of Hacthorp, in Lincolnshire, married Joan, daughter and heiress of Robert Willarby, by Isabel, his wife, daughter and co-heir of John Oteby, son of Sir Randolph Oteby, knt. and was direct ancestor* of

ROBERT SMYTH, who wedded, early in the sixteenth century, Eleanor, daughter and co-heir of William Lilborne, and had, with a younger son Henry, and a daughter Elizabeth, the wife of William Ustwarth, a successor, CHRISTOPHER SMYTH, esq. lord of the manor of Annables, in the county of Hertford, temp. Queen ELIZABETH. He m. Margaret, daughter of John Hide of Aldbury, and had two sons and four daughters, viz.

i. THOMAS, his heir.

ii. NICHOLAS, successor to his nephew.

i. Jane, m. to George Rotheram.

ii. Maudlin, m. to Chief Justice Edmund Anderson.

iii. Alice, m. first, to — Robson, of London, and, secondly, to — Fortescue, esq. of Salden.

iv. Elizabeth, m. to — Ralegh, of Warwickshire.

Christopher Smyth was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS SMYTH, esq. of Annables, who m. Joan, daughter of — Collett, and was father of

SIR GEORGE SMYTH, knt. of Annables, who wedded Judith, daughter of Sir Rowland Lytton, knt. of Knebworth, sheriff of Hertfordshire, 36th ELIZABETH, and by her (who married, secondly, Sir Thomas Barrington, bart. of Barrington Hall, in Essex, and d. in 1657, aged 65) he had one son, George Roland, and one daughter, who both died unmarried. The manor of Annables reverted, at his decease, to his uncle,

NICHOLAS SMYTH, esq. who espoused Katherine, daughter of William Gardiner, of Southwark, and had, with several other children, who died s. p. a daughter Frances, m. to William Tucker, and a son,

EDMUND SMYTH, esq. of Annables, one of the Clerks of his Majesty's Council, in Ireland, who m. Grace, daughter of John Percival, esq. of Kingsale, and had issue,

i. THOMAS, his heir.

ii. EDMUND, successor to his brother.

In the thirteenth, fourteenth, and fifteenth centuries the Smyths resided at Acthorpe, a hamlet in South Elkington. Also in Northamptonshire.

Residence—The Rectory, Great Linford, Bucks.

PRYCE, OF GUNLEY.

PRYCE, The Reverend HENRY MOSTYN, of Gunley, in the county of Montgomery, inherited the estates and representation of this ancient family upon the demise of his father, 20th October, 1832.

Lineage.

This family lineally descends from GWYDDNO GARANHIR, prince or lord of Cantref Gwaelod, the whole of whose territory was inundated by the sea in his life time, and it now forms a part of the present Cardigan Bay, though that portion of the sea still retains its ancient name of "Cantref Gwaelod." Ninth in descent from Gwyddno Garanhir was SITSYLLT, the son of Ednowain, which Sitsyllt had a son, named EINION, who held in capite, the lands between Dyvi and Duwlas (being then part of the hundred of Estimanner and Cantred, of Merioneth), from Llewelyn Vawr and Llewelyn Vychan, the sons of Meredith ap Conan ap Owen-Gwynedd, Prince of North Wales, then Lords of Merioneth. Some difference taking place between Einion and the Lords of Merioneth, he fled to the Lord of Powys, to whom he made a surrender of the said lands, and did fealty and homage to him for the same, thereby placing himself under the Lord of Powys for protection; in consequence of which, the lands so surrendered have ever since formed part of the district of Cyveiliog, in Powys, though they were previously a part of Estimanner, in Merioneth and North Wales, as appears by two inquiries, the one taken in the time of EDWARD III. and the other in the reign of HENRY VI.

EINION AP SITSYLLT, resided at Mathafarn, in Cyveiliog, now part of the county of Montgomery. His descendant in the fifth degree,*

HUGH AP WATKIN, obtained the estate of Gunley, in marriage with Margaret, daughter and heiress of David Lloyd ap Griffith ap Ririd, and was s. by his son,

MORRIS, of Gunley, who wedded Agnes, daughter of John Clibri, and was father of REES AP MORRIS, of Gunley, whose son, by Alice, his wife, daughter of John Middleton, gent.

RICHARD AP REES, or RICHARD PRYCE, the surname of Pryce being thus formed, ap Rice or ap Rees, which is synonymous. He m. Alice, daughter of John Tipton, gent. of Asterley, and left a son and successor, EDWARD PRYCE, esq. of Gunley, who wedded Jane, daughter and heir of Richard ap Owen, esq. of Llwyn Melyn, and had two sons, viz.

RICHARD, his heir.

SURTEES, OF REDWORTH.

SURTEES, ROBERT, esq. of Redworth, in the palatinate of Durham, m. at Chester le Street, 24th October, 1811, Elizabeth, daughter of Isaac Cookson, esq. of Whitehill (see p. 507), and has issue,

ROBERT-LAMBTON, of Trinity College, Cambridge, b. 20th December, 1812.
 Henry-Edward, b. in 1819.
 Charles-Freville
 Margaret-Caroline.

Mr. Surtees, who succeeded his father in 1803, is in the commission of the peace and a deputy lieutenant for the county palatine of Durham.

Lineage.

This family is supposed to be derived from the ancient and knightly, but now extinct, house of Surtees of Dinsdale, on the banks of the Tees, seated there from a period approaching very nearly to the Norman era, but as no records or evidences have yet been discovered attesting the descent, the pedigree* properly commences with

EDWARD SURTEES, gent. of Broad oak, in the parish of Ovingham, Durham, who died in 1656, leaving by Margaret Coulson, his wife, niece and heir of Mr. Alderman Robert Surtees, of Durham, two sons, viz.

1. GEORGE, of Cronywell, in Durham, who died in 1683, and was father of Edward and George, who both d. s. p. and of

ROBERT, whose third son (his two elder, George and Edward, died unmarried),

ROBERT, was father of

ROBERT SURTEES, esq. of the city of Durham, and of Cronywell, who died 16th May, 1808, aged thirty-seven, leaving by Margaret Robinson, his wife, an only daughter and heir-ess, ANNE SURTEES, m. to Henry Smales, esq. of Durham.

II. ROBERT, of whom we have to treat.

The younger son,

ROBERT SURTEES, of Ryton, who m. in 165., Catharine, daughter and co-heir of John Hauxley, esq. of Crawcrook, in the palatinate, left, with several daughters, two sons, HAUXLEY, who married Anne Watson, of Silksworth, and d. in 1719, s. p. and EDWARD, of whom presently. Robert Surtees, of Ryton, (of whose prudence and probity a very favourable idea has been entertained by his posterity,) devises by his will, dated 10th June, 1700, his copyhold

Cuthbert Surtees, of Ebchester, by his will, which is dated 23rd August, 1622, "desires burial in the quier of Ebchester Church." His son, Anthony Surtees, purchased the estate of Milkwell Burn, in the palatinate (which is still in the possession of his descendant), in 1626. He had issue, Robert, his heir; and Anthony, of Hollingside, who d. s. p. Robert, baptized 23rd September, 1633, married, in 1663, Isabel Newton, and was father of Anthony Surtees, of Milkwell Burn, whose eldest son, Robert Surtees, was father of Robert Surtees, esq. (who died 5th July, 1811, aged sixty-nine), and grandfather of the present land in Hedgefield and Rytonhaugh to his grandson, Surtees Bowrey; his lands in Medomsley, and his undivided lands in Crawcrook, which himself and John Stevenson, gent. bought of Ralph Carnaby, gent. of Chollerton, and French's Farm, to his son, Edward Surtees; and half his lands in Crawcrook Fell, Westcrofts, Broadlane, &c. lands in Crawcrook, bought of Thomas Swinburne, esq. of Gray's Inn, lands at Naysfold and Entersteel, in the parish of St. Oswald's, in Hexhamshire, and at Embleton Hall, in the parish of Sedgely, to trustees for his son, Hauxley Surtees, for life, and, failing his issue, to Edward; to Hauxley Surtees his copyholds in Wickham; £100 to his daughter, Ann Surtees; £50 each to his grand-daughters, Ann and Catherine Newton; £100 each to his daughters, Isabel (who afterwards married William Watson, of Silksworth, in the county palatine of Durham, the father of William Watson, esq. of Silksworth, who d. s. p. in 1763,) and Catharine; £20 to the poor of Ryton Quarter; to his nephew, Ralph Ord, the house at Ryton Loaning Head; personal property to his daughters equally.

His second but only son to leave issue,

EDWARD SURTEES, esq. purchased the estate of Mainsforth, in Durham, from the Hutton family in 1708. He wedded, 27th June, 1693, Jane, youngest daughter and co-heir of George Crosier, esq. of Newbiggen (see family of CROSIER at foot), and had issue,

i. ROBERT, his heir.

ii. George, of Mainsforth, baptized 18th May, 1698, who, in 1744, purchased for £4400 the manor of Graystones (formerly belonging to the Killinghalls), which, in 1761, he settled on his nephew Robert (son of his brother, Hauxley Surtees). He died unm. in 1769, leaving also Mainsforth to his nephew Robert.

iii. Crosier, of Merrysheals, in Northumberland, m. Jane, daughter of Ralph Hodgson, esq. of Alwent, and had issue,

1. Edward, d. young in 1741.

2. CROSIER, of Merrysheals, who married his cousin, JANE SURTEES, and continued the male line of the family: of him hereafter.

1. Elizabeth, m. to Richard Sherwood, esq. of Staindrop and Snow Hall.

2. Jane, m. to Joseph Raine, esq. of Batsford, in Gloucestershire.

iv. Hauxley, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, merchant adventurer, who m. Miss Elizabeth Steele, and died in 1753, leaving two sons, viz.

1. George, who d. s. p.

2. Robert, who had Mainsforth, Graystones, and other property, by gift of his uncle, George Surtees, esq. He married, in 1761, Miss Dorothy Steele, and was father of

ROBERT SURTEES, esq. F.S.A. of Mainsforth, "the historian of Durham," b. in the Bailey, Durham, 1st April, 1779, married, in 1807, to Anne (living at Mainsforth in 1834), daughter of Ralph Robinson, esq. of Middle Herrington, in the county palatine of Durham. He d. s. p. at Mainsforth on the 11th, and was buried at Bishop-Middleham on the 14th Feb. 1834, aged fifty-four. Mr. Surtees' chief literary undertaking was his celebrated History of the County Palatine of Durham,—a work of almost unequalled magnificence, truly designated by Dr. Dibdin (in his Bibliographical Decameron) as a "princely folio," and which will always be regarded as a splendid monument of the judgment, taste, and indefatigable industry of its highly-gifted and lamented author. The first volume of this great work appeared in 1816, the second followed in 1820, and the third in 1822. He did not live, however, to complete the fourth and concluding volume, which has been some time in the press. Few have ever enjoyed a larger share of public respect and private affection than this estimable and excellent man. It may be truly said of him, that he was admired, honoured, and beloved by all who had the good fortune to be acquainted with his profound erudition, his elegant and classical mind, his splendid talents as an antiquary, his truly noble character as an English country gentleman, and his native goodness of heart, which was manifested in every action of his life, towards men of all ranks, sects, and opinions. He was a person of the most amiable and virtuous habits, upright in his principles, straightforward in his conduct, generous in his hospitality, unostentatious in his charity, his breast was full of the "milk of human kindness," and he died as he had lived, a devout and exemplary Christian,—“Blameless and pure, and such was his renown.”

v. James, captain of dragoons, who d. unm. in 1775.

- i. Catherine, m. to Robert Newton, esq. of Hauxwell, Northumberland.

Mr. Surtees m. secondly, in 1715, Dorothy, daughter of Thomas Burleton, esq. and widow of Richard Reed, of Stranton, and had two sons and a daughter, who all died issueless. He died in 1744, aged eighty-four, and was succeeded by his eldest son, ROBERT SURTEES, esq. of Redworth, born at Newbiggin, 12th May, 1694, who espoused, 2nd August, 1744, Dorothy, second daughter of Thomas Lambton,* esq. of Hardwick, by Dorothy, his wife, daughter of Calverley Bewicke, esq. of Close House, and had, with two sons, Edward and Robert, who died in infancy, two daughters, viz.

DOROTHY, m. first, to William Norton, esq. of Coatham Hall Garth, nephew and heir to Sir William Dalston, of Acornbank; secondly, to the Rev. Richard Bowser, of Bishop Auckland; and thirdly, to John Whitfield, gent.

* The Lambtons of Hardwick were a branch of the great and ancient stock of Lambton of Lambton.

SIR WILLIAM LAMBTON, knt. of Lambton, b. in 1589, colonel of a regiment of foot, and captain of a troop of horse, in the service of CHARLES I. was slain at Marston Moor. He married twice; by his first wife, Jane, third daughter of Sir Nicholas Curwen, knt. of Worlington, he left, with other issue, HENRY, who succeeded at Lambton, and was direct ancestor of the present John George, EARL OF DURHAM. Sir William Lambton had, inter alios, by his second wife, Catherine, daughter of Sir Henry Widdrington, knt. of Widdrington, a son,

SIR THOMAS LAMBTON, knt. b. in 1623, colonel of all the horse in the bishoprick, and subsequently, under Cromwell, governor of the Leeward Isles. He m. in 1660, Margaret, daughter of Nicholas Freville, esq. of Hardwick, and by her, who wedded, secondly, Nicholas Conyers, esq. of Borolby, had a son and successor, JANE, m. to her cousin, CROSIER SURTEES, esq. of Merrysheales.

Mr. Surtees died 6th March, 1785, aged ninety-one, and was s. by his nephew and son-in-law, Elizabeth-Charlotte.

This gentleman, after having passed through the university (Trinity College, Cambridge), entered his majesty's 9th regiment of Lancers, but marrying early in life, retired on half pay. He succeeded his brother, 26th February, 1818, and is in the commission of the peace and deputy lieutenancy of the county of Fife. He is also major of the Fifeshire Yeomanry Cavalry.

Lineage.

The WHYTES, of Scotland, originally of France, are said to derive from the noble family of LES BLANCS, in that kingdom; their armorial bearings being nearly similar. The learned Sir James Dalrymple mentions one Viniet-Albus, or Whyte, witness in a charter of King EDGAR to the church of Durham, about the year 1106, and we find it stated in Fordun's Scotchchronicon, vol. i. p. 368, that Johannes Quhite, or Whyte, one of the canons of St. Andrews, was elected prior thereof, 20th May, 1236. He built the dormitory, the refectory, and the great hall, in a very noble manner, and died 1258.

Certain it is that there were free barons of the name in Fife, Perth, and other shires, many centuries ago, particularly the WHYTES of Maw, Lumbenny, &c. in Fife.

MATTHEW WHYTE, of Maw, living in the times of JAMES III. and JAMES IV. had a charter under the great seal, dated 22nd June, 1492, to "Matthew Whyte, de Maw, terrarum de Kilmaron." His son, ROBERT WHYTE, got a confirmation under the great seal. "Roberto Whyte de Maw, terrarum de Littleton, in vice comital de Fife, super cartam sibi factam per Joannem Wenys de eodem, &c. &c." 18th February, 1504. This Robert left two sons,

DAVID, his heir.

Henry, a churchman, successively rector of Finhaven and Dean of Brechin, was appointed one of the fifteen senators of the college of justice, when that court was constituted in 1533, Vid. Lord Haile's Cat. of the Sen. of the Coll. of Justice, and Scot's Acts of Parl. instituting that court. He acquired a considerable estate by several charters under the great seal, to "Magistro Henrico Whyte, Decano Brechinen, &c." dated in 1532-33-38 and 39. All those lands thus acquired he bequeathed to his brother and nephew.

The elder son,¹

DAVID WHYTE, of Maw, who was also designed "of Lumbenny," in Fifeshire, having obtained that estate from his brother Henry, married, and had two sons, viz.

ROBERT, who had a charter under the great seal, dated 7th November, 1541, to "Robert Whyte, de Maw, et Catharina Melvill, ejus sponse terrarum, de Alway, &c. in the county of Stirling."

JOHN.

David Whyte d. in 1538, and was s. in a considerable portion of his lands by his younger son,

JOHN WHYTE, who, upon the resignation of his uncle Henry, obtained a charter under the great seal, dated 19th July, 1539, to "Johanni Whyte, filio quondam Davidis Whyte, de Maw, et Lumbenny, patri magistris Henrici, &c. terrarum de Kincothil, Lumbenny, Ballingall, Balgady, &c." all in the county of Fife. He m. Eupham, daughter of Michael Balfour, of Burleigh (which appears by two charters under the great seal, dated, both, in 1541), and had three sons, Henry, JOHN, and Michael, a merchant in Kirkcaldy. (Contemporary with John, of Lumbenny, lived Robert, who had a charter under the great seal, "Roberto Whyte, de Blandhill et Majoriæ Pitcairn, ejus sponse, terrarum de Gilgarston, &c." in Perthshire, dated 10th February, 1531. The second son,

JOHN WHYTE, a merchant, of Kirkcaldy, in the time of Queen MARY, acquired considerable wealth, and became possessed of a wadset on the estate of Bennoch, in 1580. He died towards the close of the reign of King JAMES VI. leaving a son and successor,

ROBERT WHYTE, one of the most eminent merchants of Kirkcaldy, then a place of considerable trade, and the first provost of that royal burgh. This opulent citizen purchased part of the lands of Abbotts Hall, near Kirkcaldy, and the whole estate of BENNOCH, whence his descendants have since been chiefly designated. This Robert Whyte was appointed one of the committee of estates, by parliament, in 1647. He wedded, first, Janet Tennent, heiress of Powran, and had one son, JOHN, his heir. He espoused, secondly, a daughter of Law, of Dunnikier, and had an only daughter, Isabel, who m. James Whyte, esq. He d. in 1667, and was succeeded by his son,

JOHN WHYTE, esq. of Bennoch, who m. first, Jane, daughter of Thomas Melvill, esq. of Murdocairny, younger brother of John, third Lord Melvill, of Raith,* and had two sons and a daughter, namely,

ROBERT, his heir.

John, a merchant, who acquired the lands of Ballo, in Fifeshire, which he devised to his daughter, the wife of the Rev. Mr. Adam, minister of the Gospel at Kirkcaldy.

Agnes, d. unmarried.

He wedded, secondly, Catherine, daughter of Sir David Arnot, of that Ilk, but had no other issue. He d. in 1695, and was s. by his elder son, ROBERT WHYTE, esq. of Bennoch. This gentleman m. in 1697, Jean, daughter of Anthony Murray, esq. of Woodend, in Perthshire, and had issue,

GEORGE, } successively "of ROBERT, } Bennoch."

Jean, m. to Ramsay, of Balmain, and had a daughter,

Jean Ramsay, who m. John Adam, esq. of Maryburgh, the father of the present Right Hon. William Adam, lord chief commissioner of Scotland.

Helen, m. to Andrew Melville, esq. of the family of Carnbec, and was mother of General ROBERT MELVILLE, of Strathkinness

He d. in 1714, and was s. by his elder son, GEORGE WHYTE, esq. of Bennoch, who died in 1728, and was s. by his brother,

ROBERT WHYTE, esq. of Bennoch, a physician of high reputation, and professor of medicine in the University of Edinburgh, in 1747. In 1761 Doctor Whyte was appointed first physician to the King of Scotland, and elected in 1764 president of the royal college of physicians, at Edinburgh. He m. first, — daughter of William Robertson, of Newbigging, and widow of Mr. Melville, of Cairney, by whom he had two sons, who both died in infancy. He wedded, secondly, Louisa, daughter of James Balfour, esq. of Pilrig, and had fourteen children, of whom three sons and three daughters survived infancy, viz.

ROBERT, his heir.

JOHN, successor to his brother.

Melville, d. unmarried.

Louisa, m. to William Rouet, esq. of Auchindonan.

Jean, m. to her cousin, John Balfour, esq. of Pilrig.

Martha, m. to Major Wilson, of the royal artillery.

This eminent man died in 1766, and was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT WHYTE, esq. of Bennoch, who died at Naples, unmarried, in 1776, and was s. by his brother,

JOHN WHYTE, esq. of Bennoch, born 27th February, 1755, who assumed the surname and arms of MELVILLE, upon succeeding, by deed of entail, to the estates of Strathkinness, at the decease of his cousin, General Robert Melville, in 1809. He wedded, 21st April, 1781, Elizabeth, the youngest daughter of Archibald M'Gilechrist, esq. of North Bar, in the county of Renfrew, and had issue,

ROBERT, his heir,

JOHN, successor to his brother.

Elizabeth.

Louisa.

Margaret, m. 4th July, 1815, to George Holmes Jackson, esq. of Glenmore, in the county of Waterford, and died in 1829, leaving three sons and four daughters.

Jane.

Mr. Whyte Melville died in May, 1813, and was succeeded by his son, ROBERT WHYTE MELVILLE, esq. of Bennoch and Strathkinness, born 12th August, 1794, at whose decease, unmarried, at Geneva, 26th February, 1818, the estates and representation of this ancient family devolved on his brother, the present JOHN WHYTE-MELVILLE, esq. of Bennoch and Strathkinness.

BYTHESEA, OF WEEK HOUSE.

BYTHESEA, The Reverend JOHN LEWIS, of Week House, in the county of Wilts, inherited the estates at the decease of his father, in 1783.

Lineage.

The origin of this singular surname is accounted for, by the tradition, that an infant discovered on the sea side, was designated from its perilous position, by the person, a man of fortune, who found it, and who forthwith adopting, eventually bequeathed his estate to the foundling. This tale may or may not be correct, but we have names somewhat similar, BYWATER, BYLAND, for instance, which are not similarly explained; no matter, however, when or how their patronymic was acquired, the Bytheses have now for more than three centuries maintained a station of high respectability, and have allied themselves with many of the most ancient and honourable families.

The first MAYOR of Axbridge, appointed under the charter of ELIZABETH, dated 22nd February, 1598, was a JOHN BYTHESEA, and in the corporation records* of that borough, the family is mentioned as the oldest and most respectable there.

SANDFORD, OF SANDFORD.

SANDFORD, THOMAS-HUGH, esq. of Sandford, in the county of Salop, eventually succeeded his father, who died 13th November, 1822.

Lineage.

The ancient family of SONTFORD, SONFORDE, or SANDFORD, of Sandford, came into England with the CONQUEROR, and the name of the gallant Norman, by whom it was founded, is written on the roll of Battle Abbey.

FULLER (Worthies of England) in a note upon Nicholas de Sandford, who was sheriff of Shropshire, in the time of RICHARD II., observes,—“This ancient name is still extant, at the same place, in this county, in a worshipful equipage well fare a dear token thereof, for in the list of such as compounded for their reputed delinquency in our late civil wars, I find Francis Sandford, esq. of Sandford, paying four hundred and fifty-nine pounds for his composition, yet I believe the gentleman begrudged not his money, in preservation of his own integrity, acting according to the information of his conscience, and the practice of all his ancestors. I understand that the said Francis Sandford was very well skilled in making warlike fortifications.”

The pedigree begins with the soldier of the CONQUEST,

THOMAS DE SANDFORD, who obtained, as a part of the spoliation, the lands of Sandford, in Shropshire. His son,

SIR THOMAS DE SANDFORD, was living in the reign of HENRY I. and was father of

RALPH DE SANDFORD, whose son,

SIR RICHARD DE SANDFORD, was father of

SIR RALPH DE SANDFORD, who lived in the time of King JOHN, and having zealously embarked in the cause of the barons, his estates were confiscated in the eighteenth year of the king's reign, but restored when his party attained the ascendant, for we find his son,

SIR RICHARD DE SANDFORD, styled Lord of Sandford and Rothall. He died in the 33rd of HENRY III. and was s. by his son, ROBERT DE SANDFORD, who held Sandford by serjeanty, in the 56th year of the same reign. His son and successor,

SIR RALPH DE SANDFORD, wedded Alice, daughter of Wolfric of Quixhull, and sister of Adam Venator, by which marriage he acquired the estate of Wrixhall, and had two sons, namely,

WILLIAM (Sir), who m. Agnes, daughter of Ralph Hord, of Walcot, but appears to have left no issue. He was distinguished in the wars against Llewelyn and David, Princes of Wales, and his good services are acknowledged by deed of Bogo de Chovil, Lord of Whitechurch, dated in 1303.

RICHARD.

Sir Ralph d. in the first year of EDWARD II. and two years afterward, his second and only surviving son,

RICHARD DE SANDFORD, styled “Lord of Sandford and Rothall, son and heir of Sir Ralph de Sandford,” paid fifty shillings for his relief. He m. Agnes, sister of Robert de Say, of Morton Say, and had two sons and a daughter, viz. RICHARD, his heir, Peter, and Isabel. He d. in the first year of EDWARD III. and was succeeded by his elder son, RICHARD DE SANDFORD, Lord of Sandford, who had, by his wife, Isabel, four sons, viz.

NICHOLAS, his heir.

Stephen.

Richard (Sir), who was knighted on the morning of the battle of Shrewsbury, (1403) and slain in that conflict. A representation of Sir Richard, and of the other two knights who were knighted with him, and killed in the same battle, was preserved for many years, on a painted window in the church of Battlefield, near Shrewsbury. Of that window the family possess a copy.

Peter.

He d. in the 21st year of EDWARD III. aged forty-one, and was s. by his eldest son, NICHOLAS DE SANDFORD, who m. Alice, third daughter of William Boteler, first BARON BOTELER, of Wenme, and great aunt of the Hon. Elizabeth Boteler, who m. Sir Robert Ferrers, and conveyed the barony of Wenme into the family of Ferrers. By this lady he had issue,

RICHARD, his heir.

Griffin, father of William de Sandford, who was living in 1470.

Nicholas, of Calverhall, in Salop, ancestor of the family of SANDFORD OF THE ISLE OF UP ROSSALL, near Shrewsbury, (see page 670.)

Nicholas Sandford, who was sheriff of Shropshire in the 9th of RICHARD II. died in the 3rd of HENRY V., and was s. by his eldest son,

RICHARD SANDFORD, of Sandford, who m. MAUDE, daughter and heiress of — Banaster, of Hadnal, in the county of Salop, and was s. by his son,

JOHN SANDFORD, of Sandford. This gentleman wedded first, Elinor, daughter and co-heir of William Styche, of Styche, but had no issue. He m. secondly, Julian, dau. of Robert Corbet, of Morton Corbet, by whom (who re-married Hugh Peshall) he had a son, his successor, at his decease, 30th of HENRY VI.,

RICHARD SANDFORD, esq. of Sandford, b. about the year 1448, who wedded first, Jane, daughter and co-heir of Humphrey Peshall, esq. of Knightley, in the county of Stafford, but that lady dying without issue, he espoused secondly, Jane, daughter of William Bromley, esq. of Mitley, in Salop, and had several children. He died in the 12th of HENRY VIII. and was s. by his eldest son,

HUGH SANDFORD, esq. of Sandford, who m. Jane, eldest daughter of John Dod, esq. of Cloverley, by his second wife, Elizabeth Egerton, (see vol. i. p. 297) and had issue,

RICHARD, his heir.

ROBERT, who s. his nephew, and continued the family.

George, who resided in Nottinghamshire.

Elizabeth, m. to John Barker, esq.

He d. in 1530, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

RICHARD SANDFORD, esq. of Sandford, who m. Maud, daughter of John Mainwaring, esq. of Ightfield, in Salop, and had two sons, GEORGE, his heir, and Richard, who d. s. p. He died himself in 1532, and was s. by the elder,

GEORGE SANDFORD, esq. of Sandford. This gentleman m. Jane, daughter of Richard Grosvenor, esq. of Eaton, in the county of Chester, by whom (who re-married Sir William Hollis, knt.) he had no issue: dying thus in 1563, the estates reverted to his uncle,

ROBERT SANDFORD, esq. who became "of Sandford." He married Isabel, daughter of William Egerton, esq. of Betley, in the county of Stafford, and dying in the 40th of ELIZABETH, was s. by his eldest son,

ARTHUR SANDFORD, esq. of Sandford, who m. Anne, daughter of Francis Kynaston, esq. of Oteley, in Salop, and had several children. This gentleman was a zealous royalist, and served and suffered with many of his family* in the cause of

* His brother, THOMAS SANDFORD, commanded the regiment of Firelocks, which formed part of the army brought by Lord Byron into Cheshire, from Ireland, towards the close of 1642. He conducted the siege of Hawarden Castle, near Chester, and the following is a copy of the summons he sent to the garrison :

"To the Officer commanding at Hawarden Castle, and his consorts there :

"Gentlemen,

"I presume you very well know or have heard of my condition and disposition, and that I neither give nor take quarter; I am now with my firelocks, who never yet neglected opportunity to correct rebels, ready to use you as I have done the Irish, but loth I am to spill my countrymen's blood, wherefore by these I advise you to your fealty and obedience towards his majesty, and show yourselves faithful subjects, by delivering the castle into my hands for his majesty's uses, in so doing you shall be received into mercy, but otherwise, if you put me to the least trouble or loss of blood to force you, expect no quarter for man, woman, or child. I hear you have some of our late Irish army with your company, they very well know me, and that my firelocks used not parley. Be not unadvised, but think of your liberty, for I vow all hopes of relief are taken from you, and our intent is not to starve you, but to batter and storm you, and then hang you all, and follow the rest of that rebel crew. I am no bread and cheese rogue, but as ever, a loyalist, and will ever be whilst I can write a name.

"T. SANDFORD,

"Nov. 28, 1643."

"Capt. of Firelocks.

"I expect your speedy answer this Tuesday night, at Broadlane Hall, where I now am your neighbour."

The castle surrendered on the 4th December, 1643. From Hawarden, Sandford marched upon another fortress, Beeston Castle, situated on the summit of a high and rocky hill, and deemed almost impregnable. This he took by surprise, having scaled the walls with only eight men. The commander was afterwards put to death by General Fairfax, for suffering the garrison thus to fall. The strength of the place may be conjectured from the fact, that being then garrisoned by the royalists, it subsequently stood a siege of more than twelve months before it capitulated. From Beeston, Captain Sandford, having again joined Lord Byron, marched to Nantwich, and was killed on the 22nd January, 1643-4, in an unsuccessful attempt to take that town by storm. The royalists were driven back by Sir Thomas Fairfax, who thus, in a despatch to Cromwell, describes the affair;

"I desire your pardon, that I have not given your excellency an account before this of the great mercy God hath shown us in giving us a happy victory over the Irish army, to the total ruin of their foot and purchase of their chief commanders. Upon the 21st January, I marched from Manchester towards Nantwich, to relieve that town, with 2500 foot and 28 troops of horse. The the king. After an unsuccessful attempt to defend Shrewsbury, in 1645, against the parliamentarians, he was made prisoner, with his second son, Robert, and many other gentlemen of the county. He died the same year, and was succeeded by his eldest son,

FRANCIS SANDFORD, esq. of Sandford, the gentleman mentioned by Fuller, as "now lately well skilled in making warlike fortifications." He was born in 1587, and admitted of Oriel College in 1602. In the civil wars he adhered, like his father and gallant uncle, to the king, and was appointed, 20th March, 1642, chief engineer in the counties under the command of Arthur Lord Capel, then lieutenant-general of the royal forces in the western district of England. The Sandford estates were sequestered by parliament, and after their retention for some years, while it appears the family endured deep distress, they were restored on the payment of £459. as composition. Francis Sandford m. Elizabeth, daughter of Caldecot Chambre,* esq. of Williamsote, in the county of Oxford, and resided much at the Castle of Carnow, in the county of Wicklow and half barony of Shelalagh, in Ireland, which his father-in-law had purchased from King JAMES I., until driven by the Irish rebellion to take refuge on his Shropshire patrimony. He d. in 1653, and left four sons, viz.

III. FRANCIS, b. at Carnow, in 1630, a celebrated genealogist, who was LANCASTER HERALD in the reign of CHARLES II. and is known as the author of the "Genealogical History of the Kings of England," published in 1677. He attained reputation as an antiquary, and his life is given in CHALMER'S Biographical Dictionary. He m. Margaret, daughter of William Jukes, esq. of Battington, in the county of Montgomery, and relict of William Kerry, esq. and d. in 1693, leaving an only surviving son, first encounter we had was with a party of theirs, upon the forest of Delamere, where about thirty were taken prisoners; about six miles further they maintained a passage (Banbridge) against us, with about two hundred men. I caused some foot and dragoons to be drawn out to force it, which, by God's assistance, they did in half-an-hour's space, and they took a major and some prisoners. Having advanced every side, and the soldiers and townsmen as stoutly defended themselves for an hour or more, very great valour was shown upon both sides, but at last the enemy fled away as fast as they could, leaving their scaling ladders and wood kids they had brought with them, some arms, and a hundred dead bodies behind them, whereof Captain Sandford was one, who was killed upon the spot, where one of his firelocks was sore wounded and brought into the town, but died quickly. The town soldiers had the pillage of them all, and their arms; and lost but six common men. There was found in Capt. Sandford's pocket, when he was stripped, a paper containing the order of the assault for taking the town. The field word was, God and a good cause. A letter was also found upon him, dated 13th January, in these words:

"To the officers, soldiers, and gentlemen in Nantwich.

"Gentlemen,

"Let these resolve your jealousies about religion. I vow, by the faith of a christian, I know not one papist in our army; and, as I am a gentleman, we are not Irish, but true born English, and real protestants born and bred. Pray mistake us not, but receive us into your fair esteem. And know we intend loyalty to his majesty, and will be no other than faithful to his service. This believe from your

"T. SANDFORD."

Another was found dated the 15th instant.

"Gentlemen,

"Mr. Drum can inform you that Acton church is no more a prison, but now free for honest men to do their devotion therein. Wherefore be persuaded from your incredulity and resolve, God will not forsake his anointed. Let not your zeal in a bad cause dazzle your eyes any longer, but wipe away your vain conceits that have too long led you into error; loth am I to take the trouble of persuading you into obedience, because your erroneous opinions do most violently oppose reason among you, but if you love your town accept of quarter, and if you regard your lives work your safety, by yielding your town to Lord Byron for his majesty's use. You now see my battery is fixed, from which fire shall eternally meet you day and night, to the terror of your old and females, and to the consumption of your thatched houses. Believe me, gentlemen, I have laid aside my former delay, and am resolved to batter, burn, and storm you. Dont wonder I write you, having officers in chief about me, it is only to advise because I have some friends among you, for whose safety I wish you would accept Lord Byron's condition, for he is gracious and will charitably consider you. Accept this as a summons, that you forthwith surrender your town, and by that testimony of your fealty to his majesty you may obtain favour. My firelocks you know have done strange feats by night and by day, and hourly we will not fail in our visits to you; you have not yet received my alarm, wherefore expect suddenly to hear from

Estates—In the county of Salop. The direct ancestor of the present family acquired the estates of Sandford, &c. at the conquest. The name of Sandford appears on the roll of Battle Abbey, and the returns of the jury of inquest upon the death of each proprietor, for many centuries after the decease of RICHARD I., are in the possession of the family. In the reign of EDWARD II. the jury return the lands held by Sir Ralph de Sandford in capite, and that he was bound at his own cost to supply an armed horseman for defence of the castle of Montgomery during a war with the Welsh. The estates of the Sandfords were much impaired during the contest of the roses, and latterly in the time of CHARLES I. when the family having taken an active part in support of the royal cause, their possessions were sequestered and heavy fines imposed.

The whole manor of Sandford and some adjoining property still remain.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the ancient Salopian family of SANDFORD, of Sandford, see page 667.

NICHOLAS SANDFORD, of Calverhall, third son of Nicholas Sandford, Lord of Sandford, obtained, in 1426, a grant to himself and his son, Thomas, of the Lee, near Whitchurch, and that estate continued with his descendants until sold in 1746 by Humphrey Sandford, esq. high sheriff of Shropshire in 1787. Nicholas's son, the said

THOMAS SANDFORD, of the Lee, living 33rd HENRY VI. and 5th EDWARD IV. was father of

WILLIAM SANDFORD, of the Lee, who married Sibilla, daughter and co-heir of Sir Fulke Springseaux, knt. of Plash, sheriff of Salop in 1447,* and thus added to his patrimony the manor and estate of Edgton, in Shropshire, still possessed by the family. He d. about the year 1509, leaving a son,

RICHARD SANDFORD, written of Alselde, in the parish of Condovery, living in 1519 and 1547, who wedded Jane, daughter of William Bromley, grandfather of Sir Thomas Bromley, knt. lord chancellor, and of Sir George Bromley, knt. justice of Chester. Richard Sandford died circa 1550, and was s. by his son,

GEORGE SANDFORD, of the Lee, Edgton, and Alselde, b. about 1500, espoused Anne, daughter of William Ottley, esq. of Pitchford, in the county of Salop, which estate became, owing to the failure of heirs male in the family of Ottley, upon the demise of Adam Ottley, esq. in 1807, the property of the Earl of Liverpool. George Sandford died about the year 1584, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD SANDFORD, esq. of the Lee, Edgton, and Bayston, who removed to the Isle of Up Rossall, near Shrewsbury, on his marriage with Margaret, daughter of Humphrey Plowden, esq. of Plowden,† and sister to the celebrated EDMUND PLOWDEN. That eminent lawyer, being entrusted with the administration of his early friend and patron, Sir Francis Englefield's Shropshire estates, of which the Isle of Up Rossall formed a part, placed his brother-in-law, Richard Sandford, in a tenement there, and obtained from the nephew and heir of Sir Francis a promise of a lease of the same to Richard's son, his nephew, Humphrey Sandford. Richard Sandford had by Margaret Plowden, his wife,

i. HUMPHREY, his heir.

ii. Andrew.

i. Alice, m. to John Cole.

ii. Mary, m. to Randall Lloyd.

iii. Barbara, m. to Francis Kynaston, of Shotton.

iv. Dorothy, m. to Thomas Jukes.

v. Katherine, m. to Thomas Borington.

Richard Sandford died in 1588, was buried at Lydbury, 13th February, and s. by his son,

HUMPHREY SANDFORD, esq. of the Isle of Up Rossall, Edgton, &c. b. in 1543, who m. Anne, daughter of Francis Lascelles, esq. and sister of Sir Thomas Lascelles, of Brakenburgh, in the county of York, and had one son, HUMPHREY, his heir; and Anne, m. to Richard Gibbons, of Shropshire. Mr. Sandford appears to have been a person of courage, address, and activity, for, being secretary to Sir Francis Englefield, whose estates were confiscated, and who was forced to quit the kingdom on account of his attachment to MARY STUART, he conducted, at the hazard of his life, the correspondence of Sir Francis with his family and friends in England. He died in 1611, was buried at Lydbury on the 8th July, and s. by his son,

HUMPHREY SANDFORD, esq. of the Isle of Up Rossall, b. 8th June, 1580, who wedded Jane, daughter of Edward Giffard, esq. of the White Ladies, and by her, who was buried at Fitz-March, 25th March, 1671, he had, with other issue,

RICHARD, his heir.

Matthew, baptized 10th October, 1625, who died in 1691, leaving by Mary, his wife, whom he had married in 1657, a son,

HUMPHREY, successor to his cousin.

Adhering to the ancient faith, Mr. Sandford suffered sorely during the civil wars, and was ruthlessly plundered by the parliamentary authorities, as shown in his petition to the committee of parliament appointed to sequester the royalists in Shropshire, in which he calls himself "an old, sick, and lame man, of the age of sixty-six years and

* By Margaret, his wife, daughter and heir of John Wynnesbury, descended from Simon de Winsbury, and Anna, his wife, daughter of Roger de Edgton.

† The Sandfords, by this marriage, are descended from the ancient family of Rossall, formerly proprietors of the Isle of Up Rossall. It appears from the History of Shrewsbury and Blakeway's Sheriffs that SIR JOHN DE ROSSALL died without issue, and that his estates passed to his two sisters, the one married to Englefield, and the other to Sturry, of Shrewsbury. The latter obtained part of the estate, called to this day Down Rossall. Sturry's descendant, John Sturry, by Anne Corbett, his wife, was father of Elizabeth Sturry, the wife of HUMPHREY PLOWDEN, esq. of Plowden, and mother of MARGARET PLOWDEN, m. to RICHARD SANDFORD, esq.

upwards." He died 25th March, 1654, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD SANDFORD, esq. of the Isle of Up Rossall, who "conformed, as I apprehend," says Blakeway, in his Sheriffs of Salop, "to the established religion." He m. first, Frances, daughter of Sir William Owen, of Condoover, sheriff of Shropshire in 1623 (see p. 515), and had by her two daughters. He wedded, secondly, Anne Hussey, and by her, who died 30th March, 1686, had two sons and two daughters, viz.

- i. RICHARD, his heir.
- ii. HUMPHREY, successor to his brother.
- i. Sarah, m. to John Brickdale, esq. alderman of Shrewsbury.
- ii. Jane, m. to Richard Davenport, esq. of the Hays, near Oswestry, and d. 21st January, 1703.

Mr. Sandford died in 1669, was buried at Condoover, and s. by his son,

RICHARD SANDFORD, esq. of the Isle of Up Rossall, who married Frances, daughter of Edward Brooke, esq. of Church Stretton, and had issue,

Mr. Sandford died himself on the 26th July in the same year (1676), and was succeeded by his brother,

HUMPHREY SANDFORD, esq. of the Isle of Up Rossall, b. in 1650, fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. This gentleman, who devoted his time to literary pursuits, died unmarried in 1712, and devised his estates to his cousin-german,

HUMPHREY SANDFORD, esq. of the Isle of Up Rossall, b. in 1658, who m. in 1688, Elizabeth, daughter of William Evans, esq. and by her, who died in 1727, aged sixty-four, left at his decease in 1734, aged seventy-six, a son and successor,

HUMPHREY SANDFORD, esq. of the Isle of Up Rossall, b. in 1689, who wedded 13th January, 1717, Rebecca, daughter of Job Walker, esq. of Ferny Hall, Shropshire, by Rebecca, his wife, daughter of Thomas, Lord Folliott, and sister to Henry, the last Lord Folliott, who died in March, 1715-16. By this lady Mr. Sandford had issue,

- i. HUMPHREY, his heir.
- ii. Folliott,
- iii. Job,
- iv. Richard,
- v. Henry,

1. Rebecca, died unmarried.

- ii. Mary, who m. Jonathan Scott, esq. of Shrewsbury, and was mother of six children; the eldest, assuming the surname of WARING, was the late MAJOR SCOTT-WARING, who died in 1819. (For an account of the SCOTT family, see p. 504.)

- iii. Anne, m. to the Rev. Daniel Austin, of Berrington, near Shrewsbury.

Mr. Sandford d. 25th March, 1741, and was s. by his son,

HUMPHREY SANDFORD, esq. of the Isle of Up Rossall, b. in 1718, who espoused, in 1746, Elizabeth, only child and heiress of Hugh Jones, esq. and grand-daughter of Edward Jones, esq. mayor of Shrewsbury at the proclamation of the first sovereign of the house of Hanover, by whom he had issue,

- i. Humphrey, b. in 1747, d. in 1777 unmarried.

- ii. FOLLIOTT, his heir.

- iii. Edward, b. in 1753, captain in the East India Company's service, who m. in 1797, Miss Mary Viner, and died in 1802, leaving two sons, Edward, b. in 1801, and William, b. in 1802.

- i. Elizabeth, who died unmarried.

- ii. Frances, who m. the Rev. George Holland, M.A. of Tenbury, Worcestershire, and rector of Hanwood and Mindtown, in the county of Salop, by whom she had an only child, Frances Holland, m. to the Rev. Humphrey Sandford, eldest son and heir of the present Folliott Sandford, esq. of the Isle.

- iii. Barbara,
- iv. Susanna,
- v. Charlotte,

} who all died unm.

Mr. Sandford was high sheriff of Shropshire in 1787, and, after enjoying the family estates for more than half a century, died 31st July, 1791, in the seventy-third year of his age. "Upon this event," says Mr. Blakeway, "the following character of the deceased proprietor appeared in the papers, and is supposed to have been written by his nephew, Major John Scott, who took the addition of WARING to his name, and was well known for his steady attachment to Mr. Warren Hastings. 'Mr. Sandford inherited from his father, half a century ago, one of the compactest estates, and one of the most beautiful spots in this kingdom, being very nearly surrounded by the river Severn. He added considerably to the value of it by purchasing the tithes, and by draining one of the largest pieces of water in the county. He is succeeded in his estate by his eldest surviving son, Mr. Folliott Sandford; he has left five daughters and a second son, Captain Edward Sandford, who has been two-and-twenty years in the East India Company's service at Bengal, and now commands a battalion of sepoys on that establishment; where Mr. Sandford had also four nephews, two of whom are returned to England, Major John Scott, member for Stockbridge, and Captain Jonathan Scott, of Netley Cottage, in the county of Salop; the third, Captain Richard Scott, who has been twenty-three years in India, distinguished himself in the last war in the Carnatic, where he commanded the 26th battalion of Bengal sepoys, under Sir Eyre Coote, and is now the head of the same corps, under Earl Cornwallis; the fourth, Lieutenant Henry Scott, is fort-adjutant of the garrison of Chunar: a very remarkable and uncommon instance of five persons of one family surviving so many years' military service in the torrid zone."

Mr. Sandford's eldest surviving son and successor is the present FOLLIOTT SANDFORD, esq. of the Isle of Up Rossall.

* The Meyseys are said to have come over from Meysey, in Brittany, with the Conqueror, who gave them Hampton Meysey, Marston Meysey, &c. which continued in the family until the reign of RICHARD II. when those lands were supposed to be sold upon the acquisition of Shakenhurst. It appears in the Red Book of the Bishopric of Worcester, that the family are of great antiquity in Gloucestershire; for we read that Godfrey de Meysey held of Bishop Theulfus, (who was consecrated A.D. 1113, and died in 1123) two hides at Bebury, in Eblington, and afterwards gave those hides to Geoffrey de Every, father of Robert, with his daughter in marriage. The Meyseys after settling in Worcestershire, were of considerable note, and matched with the principal families in the county.

JOHN MEYSEY, esq. of Shakenhurst, was representative of the family at the close of the seventeenth century, and grandson of Francis Meysey, esq. of Shakenhurst, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Anthony Pembruge, esq. of Wellington, son of Thomas Pembruge, esq. by Jane, his wife, daughter and co-heir of William Baskerville, of Wotton, (see vol. i. p. 90). Margaret, m. to William Hussey, esq. of Glasgow.

Mr. Wright succeeded his father 20th April, 1806.

Lineage.

This family, one of remote antiquity in the North of England, has been settled for centuries in the county of York.

JOHN WRIGHT, of Plowland, in Holder-ness, wedded at the close of the fourteenth, or in the beginning of the fifteenth century, Alice, daughter and co-heir of John Ryther, son and heir of Gilbert Ryther, who died seized of Alford Well and Sutton, and grandson of Sir William Ryther, knt. By this lady he had a son and successor,

ROBERT WRIGHT, of Plowland, who espoused, first, Anne, daughter of Thomas Grimston, esq. and grand-aunt of Sir Marmaduke Grimston, high sheriff for Yorkshire in 1598, by whom he had a son, WILLIAM, his heir. He married, secondly, Ursula, daughter of Nicholas Pudston, esq. of Haybon, and had two other sons and three daughters, viz. John, Christopher; Ursula, the wife of John Constable, of Hatfield, Alice, and Martha. The eldest son,

WILLIAM WRIGHT, of Plowland, wedded the daughter of — Thornton, and had (with another son, Robert, of Foston, born in 1572, who married, and had issue)

FRANCIS WRIGHT, of Sowerby, in the county of York, who m. the sister of Henry Markham,* and was father of

FRANCIS WRIGHT, of Bolton-on-Swale in the county of York, who died about the year 1651, leaving, by Grace, his wife, daughter of — Beckwith, esq. of Aldborough, in the same shire, one son and three daughters, viz.

FRANCIS, his heir.

Elizabeth, m. to Frinian, alias Ninian, Anderson, of Gales, in Yorkshire.

Jane, m. to John Palliser, of Kirby Wiske, also in Yorkshire.

Grace, m. to Thomas Meryton, esq. of Castle Levington, in the same county, son of George Meryton, D.D. Dean of Peterborough, and subsequently of York.

* This gentleman's son and heir, Henry Markham, esq. died s. p. and divided his property, at Bolton, between his cousins, Francis Wright, of Sowerby, and another Francis Wright, also his own cousin.

His only son,

THE REV. FRANCIS WRIGHT, D.D. of Bolton-on-Swale, espoused Anne, daughter of the Very Rev. George Meryton, Dean of York, and, by her, who died 29th March, 1670, had six sons and two daughters, namely,

- I. Francis, who died s. p.
- II. GEORGE, heir to his father.
- III. Thomas.
- IV. Richard.
- V. Christopher.
- VI. William.

I. Anne, m. to Thomas Hewardine of Maltby, and died 5th October, 1671, leaving issue.

II. Grace, m. to — Blakiston, of Old Malton, in Yorkshire.

Dr. Wright died in 1655, and was succeeded by his eldest surviving son,

GEORGE WRIGHT, esq. of Bolton-on-Swale, born in 1629, who m. first, Beatrice, daughter of James Mauleverer, † esq. of Arncliffe, in Yorkshire, by Beatrice, daughter of Sir Timothy Hutton, of Marske, (by his wife, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir George Bowes, of Streatham, in the county palatine of Durham, the knight marshall, who suppressed the great northern rebellion, headed by the potent earls of Westmoreland and Northumberland, temp. Queen ELIZABETH.) and had issue,

- I. Francis, aged 7, in 1665, died 22nd September, 1684.
- II. George, of Bolton, born 10th August, 1662.
- III. Richard, b. 5th July, 1664.
- I. Anne, aged nine years, in 1665.
- II. Beatrice, aged six years, in 1665.

Mr. Wright wedded, secondly, a lady named Margaret, but of what family is not recorded, and left at his decease, 6th June, 1674, another son,

† He was great-great-grandson of Sir William Mauleverer, knt. of Arncliffe, by Jane, daughter of Sir John Conyers, of Sockburne, in Durham. This ancient family, which but recently became extinct, was descended, in a direct male line, from Sir Richard Mauleverer, knt. who came into England with William the Conqueror, by whom he was appointed master of the forests, chases, and parks north of Trent.

JOHN WRIGHT, esq. of Bolton-on-Swale, proprietor of estates at Bolton-on-Swale, Greenbury, Ellerton, Scorton, and in the parish of Catterick, in the county of York, and of property at Newcastle-on-Tyne. He m. Margaret Greatehead, and, by her, who died 4th August, 1748, had issue to survive infancy,

- I. JOHN, his heir.
- II. Thomas, b. 20th December, 1737.
- III. Francis, b. 5th August, 1739.
- IV. Baines, b. 26th April, 1743.
- V. Richard, b. 29th July, 1748.
- I. Elizabeth, m. to William Pennyman Consett, esq. of Normanby, in Yorkshire.

II. Martha, b. 30th June, 1744.

Mr. Wright died 11th June, 1748, and was succeeded by his eldest son, JOHN WRIGHT, esq. of Bolton-on-Swale, who m. Miss Eleanor Page, by whom, who died in 1822, aged ninety-five, had two sons and four daughters, viz.

- I. JOHN-EDWARD, his heir.
- II. George, b. 11th May, 1771, who m. a daughter of — Griffith, esq. of St. Asaphs, in Wales, and dying about the year 1807, left two sons, Edward-Baines, b. 20th March, 1805, died in March, 1825.
George-Nathan, b. 21st March, 1806.

- I. Eleanor, m. 27th March, 1793, to John Nicholson, esq.
- II. Barbara-Crowe.
- III. Margaret, m. 13th November, 1788, to the Rev. John Dehane.
- IV. Sarah-Harriett, died an infant, 27th March, 1775.

Mr. Wright died at Leeds, 20th April, 1806, and was s. by his son, the present JOHN-EDWARD WRIGHT, esq. of Bolton-on-Swale.

IRVINE, OF DRUM.

IRVINE, ALEXANDER, esq. of Drum, in the county of Aberdeen, b. 4th October, 1754, m. 31st December, 1775, Jean, only daughter of Hugh Forbes, esq. of Schivas in the same county, by whom he has four sons and a daughter, viz.

ALEXANDER, b. 10th January, 1777, s. in 1807, to the estate of Schivas, as heir to his cousin, Miss Frances Forbes. He m. in December, 1816, Margaret, dau. of the late James Hamilton, esq. and has three sons and a daughter.

Charles, of London.

Hugh, died in 1829. This gentleman was a landscape painter.

Francis, capt. in the East India Company's service, m. in 1815, Frances-Sophia, dau. of the late John Herbert Harrington, esq. and has one son and two daughters. Christian.

Mr. Irvine, who is a deputy lieutenant in Aberdeen, inherited the estates at the decease of his father in 1761.

Lineage.

The name of IRWIN, IRWYN, or IRVINE, appears to have been of long standing in the south and south-west of Scotland.

A member of the family of Irwin early acquired the lands of Bonshaw, in Dumfriesshire, which his descendants still possess; and when ROBERT BRUCE took the field against EDWARD I. for the crown of Scotland, he appointed

WILLIAM DE IRWIN of that line, but whether its chief or not has not been ascertained, his armour-bearer, gave him his own device or arms, when Earl of Carrick, viz. "three holly leaves," and made him a grant by charter under the great seal of the forest of DROM, or DRUM, in Aberdeenshire. This William occurs also as grantee of the lands of Whiteriggs and Redmires, on the resignation of Gilbert de Johnston, under a charter of DAVID BRUCE, dated 10th of February, in the third year of that king's reign. He was s. by his son,

ALEXANDER IRVINE, of Drum, who m. the second daughter of Sir Robert Keith,* great marishall, and his wife, Margaret, daughter of Sir Gilbert Hay, lord high constable, and was s. by his son, ALEXANDER IRVINE, of Drum, who was a commander of the Lowland forces at the battle of Harlaw, anno 1411, where he and M'Lean of Dowart, the ancestor of Coll, having fought together, were both killed.

M'Lean was lieutenant-general under Donald of the Isles. Alexander Irvine was s. by his brother,

ALEXANDER IRVINE, of Drum, who changed his Christian name upon inheriting, a precedent for which alteration being established by King ROBERT III. whose baptismal name had been JOHN. This laird of Drum was one of the commissioners deputed by the states of Scotland to treat concerning the ransom of JAMES I. and was knighted by that monarch in 1424. He m. Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Robert Keith, great marishall of Scotland. This lady had been first wedded to his deceased brother, to adjust a feud which had for some time subsisted between the families, such a proceeding being, it is said, enjoined by the states of the kingdom; but the ceremony only having taken place, Alexander, the elder brother, recommended her to his successor, should he himself fall at Harlaw. The lady brought him the lands of Strachan, in Kincardineshire, which were conferred by his father-in-law, Sir Robert Keith, and he acquired, by charter under the great seal, in 1446, the lands of Learnay, on the resignation of John Halyburton. He had two sons,

1. ALEXANDER, his heir.

II. —, to whom he gave the lands of Whiteriggs and Redmires, and who had a charter from the Earl of Huntly of the lands of Beltie, having distinguished himself at the battle of Brechin in 1452, under that nobleman, against the Earl of Crawford. From this gallant person descend the Irvines of Lenturk, and the Irvines in Germany.

The elder son,

ALEXANDER IRVINE, of Drum, was infest in his father's lifetime in the lands of Lonmay, Savock, Corskellie, and Cairness, in Buchan. He m. Abernethy, daughter of the Lord Saltoun, and was succeeded by his son, ALEXANDER IRVINE, who, in 1457, was infest in the lands and forestry of DRUM, and lands of Lonmay. This laird m. first, Elizabeth, third daughter of Alexander, Lord Forbes, and had, with a daughter, married to Lesley of Wardhouse, three sons, viz.

ALEXANDER, his successor.

Richard, of Craigton, from whom the Irvines of Hilltown.

Henry, ancestor of the Irvines of Kingcausie.

He wedded, secondly, — Lindsay, and had eight daughters, seven of whom were married, namely, the eldest to Cout of Westercourt; the second to Chalmers of Strichen; the third to Skene of that Ilk; the fourth to Ogston of Fettercairn; the fifth to Ross of Auchlossen; the sixth to Crawford, of Fornet; the seventh to Duguid, of Auchenuive.

The eldest son,

ALEXANDER IRVINE, got a charter from his father, in 1499, of the lands of Forglen in favour of himself and Janet Allerdyce, his wife; and in 1506 he had a charter under the great seal of the lands of Drum, Lonmay, Auchendore, and Tarland. By the abovenamed Janet, only daughter of Allerdyce of that Ilk, he had (with two daughters, the elder married to the Laird of Balbigno, the younger to Fraser of Mutchels, the predecessor of Lord Fraser) a son and heir, ALEXANDER, who had the lands of Forglen, to which he got a gift of nonentris, dated 4th December, 1527, bearing to be given "on account of DRUM, his said son and their friends, their good and thankful service done to the king in searching, taking, and bringing his rebels to justice." He m. Elizabeth Ogilvie, daughter of the Laird of Findlater, and falling at the battle of Pinkie, anno 1547, his father then living, left six sons and three daughters, viz.

ALEXANDER, successor to his grandfather.

William, of Ardlogie.

Robert, of Tillylair, from whom the Irvines of Fortrie.

Gilbert, of Colairlie, predecessor of Murthill and Cults.

JAMES, a knight of Malta, ordained by the grand master, prior of the order in Scotland.

John, d. young.

Janet, m. to Gordon of Abergeldie.

Elizabeth, m. to Seton of Mel-drum.

Margaret, m. to Cheyne of Arnage.

The laird was succeeded at his decease by his grandson,

ALEXANDER IRVINE, who got a charter under the great seal, on the resignation of his grandfather in 1553, of the lands of Drum, Lonmay, Lairnes, Auchendore, Tarland, &c. He m. the Lady Elizabeth Keith, second daughter of William, Earl Marishall, and had five sons and four daughters, viz.

I. ALEXANDER, who succeeded him.

II. Robert, of Fornett and Moncoffer; line now extinct.

III. James, of Brucklaw, predecessor of Saphock, extinct.

IV. William, of Beltie, extinct.

V. JOHN, of Artamford, who m. Beatrix, daughter of Irvine of Pitmurchie and Lumphanan, by whom he had eight sons, who all died without issue, except JAMES, the second, who by a transaction with his eldest brother, succeeded to the estates, and became

JAMES IRVINE, of Artamford. He wedded Anne, daughter of Keith of Ravenscraig, by whom he had, with another son who died young, and two daughters, Anne, m. to Elphinstone of Glack, and Beatrix, m. to Dalgarno, of Millhill, a son and successor, JAMES IRVINE, of Artamford, second substitute in the entail of DRUM. This gentleman married, in 1673, Margaret, daughter of James Sutherland, of Kinminilly, by whom he had five sons and one daughter, viz.

ALEXANDER, who sold ARTAMFORD to his brother William, and bought CRIMOND in 1703. Of this gentleman hereafter, as inheritor of DRUM.

William, who bought ARTAMFORD from his brother.

Robert.

Thomas, of Auchmunziel.

Charles, was already engaged as a merchant in the first establishment of the Swedish East India Company.

Margaret, m. to Hugh Rose, of Clava.

I. —, m. to Hay of Ury.

- II. —, m. to Keith of Craig Inver-rue.
 III. Elizabeth, m. to James Ogilvie, of Boyne.
 IV. Margaret, m. to Gilbert Menzies, of Pitfodles.

There is extant, in the family charter chest, a holograph bond by King JAMES VI. to DRUM for 500 merks, dated at Dalkeith, 27th November, 1587, and payable at Whit-Sunday thereafter. This laird of Drum was s. by his son, ALEXANDER IRVINE, of Drum, who obtained from his father, in 1583, a charter of the lands and barony of Drum, lands of Whiteriggs, Lommay, &c. and a charter of confirmation from King JAMES VI. He m. the Lady Marion Douglas, daughter of Robert, Earl of Buchan. There is a discharge by the Earl of Morton for 10,000 merks of the sum of 20,000 merks, payable by Drum to him in case of his lady's succeeding to the earldom of Buchan, in which event the said Earl of Morton makes the sum to be paid him only 10,000 merks. This is dated 14th November, 1605. Of the marriage were two sons and five daughters, viz.

ALEXANDER, heir.

Robert, of Fidderate, now extinct.

Margaret, m. to Sir George Ogilvie, of Dunlugas, afterwards created Lord Banff.

Isabella, m. to Urquhart of Leathers.

Janet, m. to Sir William Douglas, bart. of Glenbervie, from which marriage the present SIR KENNETH DOUGLAS.
See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.

Anne, m. to Sir John Ogilvie, of Inverquhar.

Mary, m. in 1628, to Sir Robert Graham, of Morphee.

This laird founded four bursaries of philosophy and two of divinity, at the Marshall College of Aberdeen, and four at the grammar school, which are all presented by the family. His lady endowed an hospital in Aberdeen for poor burghesses' widows and daughters, of which the patronage is with the town council. Drum was s. by his elder son,

SIR ALEXANDER IRVINE, of Drum, sheriff principal of Aberdeen, who got from his father, in 1617, a charter of the lands of Kinmuck, and in 1621, another of the lands of Forglen. He m. in the former year, Magdalen, eldest daughter of Sir John Scrimzeour, of Diddup, knt. constable of Dundee, and had issue, draught.

Jean, m. to George Crichton, brother of Lord Frendraught.

Margaret, m. to Charles, Earl of Aboyne.

Sir Alexander had a patent from King CHARLES I. creating him Earl of Aberdeen, which the breaking out of the rebellion prevented from passing the great seal. His losses by the civil wars were considerable, himself and his sons having zealously espoused the royal cause. His third son, Robert, died in prison in Edinburgh, where he and his eldest son were also long in confinement: the latter was condemned to death, the execution of which was only stopped in consequence of Montrose's victory at Kilsyth. Sir Alexander was eventually succeeded by him, the said

The laird wedded, secondly, Margaret Coutts, and had, with Charles, who d. young, three daughters, Katharine, m. to John Gray.

DRUM, with his father and brothers, as already stated, was actively engaged in upholding the royal cause, and suffered in consequence incarceration, expatriation, and confiscation. At the restoration of the monarchy the peerage was offered him, but declined on his part unless the patent bore the date of that granted to his father. The more probable reason, however, for his declining so high a distinction was the reduction of his fortune. One of his estates, that of Kelly, in Angus-shire, he sold to Lord Panmure. In 1613 he executed an entail, in form of a procuratory of resignation of his estate holding of the crown, including the baronies of Drum and Cromar, and some other lands for new infeftment "to himself and the heirs male of his body, whom failing, to the heirs of tailie, to be contained in any writing under his hand." In pursuance of this procuratory, King CHARLES II. granted a charter under the great seal, containing a novodamus of the whole estate holding of the crown. In this charter, after mentioning the services of the first of the family under ROBERT BRUCE, and those of his successors at Harlaw, and on other occasions, appears the following clause: "Spectate vero in recentioribus instantiis fidelium et alacrium servitorum et perpessimum tum patris domini Alex^r Irvine de Drum tum prænominati Alex^r Irvine nunc de Drum sui filii, qui nuperis calamitatum et rebellionis temporibus fidelium suorum anecessorum nomina meruerunt; idque fidissima eorum et tenacissima Illustrissimi Nostri Patris Caroli Primi sempiternæ memoriæ, nostrisque rebus adhesionem, in arctissimis nostris difficultatibus et angustiis; adeo ut non nuleat, carceres, fortunarum ruinæ, excommunicatio, exilium, nec sentitiæ in eorum vitam late, præsertim dicti Alex^r in quem sententia lata fuit, et illico fuisset executæ, si non providenti Deo, fidus noster tunc temporis commissarius et Præfectus Montisrosarum Marchio, eum in arce nostrâ Edinburgina, ubi in arcta custodia jacebat, in libertatem asseruisset; neque innumeræ aliæ crudelitates, oppressiones et devastationes prævalentes tunc rebelles, in ipsius et patris sui familias et fortunas late commissæ, nec ullæ aliæ severitates et difficultates, aut dura eorum temporum pericula, eos unquam deterrebant; nec ullæ quæcunque suasiones aut illecebræ eos unquam deviare fecerunt a sincera ista fide et zelo, quibus erga personam et prærogativam Regiam usquam claruerunt."

In 1687 the laird executed a nomination of heirs of entail, failing heirs male of his own body, to the IRVINES of Murthill, Artamford, and Cults, and their heirs male in order. IRVINE of Saphook was nearest heir male, failing the entailor's own, but was, from some dislike, entirely omitted. The laird died the same year, and was succeeded by his eldest son, ALEXANDER IRVINE, of Drum, who m. Margaret Forbes, daughter of Forbes of Auchreddie, and d. in 1696 without issue. In him failed the male line of the family from father to son. By this circumstance the succession opened to the eldest son of Alexander Irvine, of Murthill, the first nominee under the entail, who had died four years before the last laird,

ALEXANDER IRVINE, of Murthill, who thus became laird of Drum. He married Jean, the entailor's third daughter, and had

ALEXANDER, his heir.

Margaret.

Helen, m. to Gordon, of Durlathers.

This gentleman sold Murthill, and also the lands of Strachan, which had not been included in the entail. He d. in 1720, and was s. by his son, ALEXANDER IRVINE, of Drum, who had the misfortune, sometime after his accession, to become insane. He was cognosed in 1731, and d. in 1735 unmarried, when he was s. by his uncle and tutor,

JOHN IRVINE, of Drum. Sometime before the accession of this gentleman, means had been devised to defeat the entail and to sell the greater part of the estate, which at last was effected in 1737, during his possession. He m. Katharine, daughter of Robert Fullerton, of Dudwick, but dying in 1737, without issue, the male line of the Murthill branch became extinct. The succession then opened to the descendants of JOHN IRVINE, of Artamford (refer to issue of ALEXANDER of Drum, who inherited, in 1553, and his wife, the Lady Elizabeth Keith), and devolved upon his great-grandson,

ALEXANDER IRVINE, of Crimond, who thus became "of Drum." In 1744 he likewise became heir of line to the entailor by the death of IRVINE of Saphook, without male issue. He m. in 1698, Isabel, daughter of Thomas Thomson, of Faichfield, by whom he had,

James, who pre-deceased his father, unmarried.

ALEXANDER, eventual heir.

ALEXANDER, his successor.

Charles, a major-general in the army, who m. Diana, dau. of Sir Alexander Gordon, bart. of Lesmore, and had three sons, now deceased, and five daughters, of whom the second, Mary, m. the Rev. Charles Wimberley. General Irvine d. in 1819.

Motto—Sub sole sub umbra virens.

Estates—DRUM, in Aberdeenshire, and Kinnmuck. The present laird sold Crimond, in 1815, to Michie Forbes, esq.

Seat—DRUM. The house of Drum was built in 1619; adjoining is a large tower, of much older, but uncertain date. From its corresponding in almost every respect with edifices erected during or before the thirteenth century, and from there being no document respecting it in the family archives, it is probable that the tower existed before the estate came into the possession of the IRVINES, and that it was one of those forts found in royal chases. It is in repair.

Legh, of Lyme.

SIR PIERS LEGH, knt. younger son of Robert Legh, of Adlington, who d. temp. RICHARD II. and of Matilda, his wife, dau. and co-heiress of Sir John de Arderne, knt. married in November, 1388, Margaret,* only daughter and heiress of Sir Thomas Danyers, knt. of Bradley, and obtained by this alliance, a grant of the lands of Hanley, now Lyme, in Macclesfield. Ormerod, in his History of the Palatinate, thus speaks of this acquisition; "When the flower of Cheshire chivalry were engaged under their earl, the BLACK PRINCE, at the battle of Cressy, Sir Thomas Danyers, was, pre-eminently distinguished above the rest of that chosen phalanx, and in the most hazardous part of the battle, most probably when King EDWARD refused his succours, and bade 'his boy win his spurs and the honour of the day for himself,' the said Sir Thomas relieved the banner of his earl, and took prisoner the chamberlain of France, Tankerville. For this service, the Black Prince, as earl of Chester, settled on him an annuity of forty marks per annum, issuing out of his manor of Frodsham, until a convenient grant of land of the value of £20 per annum could be made. In the 21st RICHARD II. it was finally settled that this estate should be 'the lands of Hanley, in Macclesfield forest,' which that sovereign (who in this year assumed the title of PRINCE OF CHESTER) accordingly granted to the daughter of Sir Thomas Danyers, and her third husband, Piers Legh."

Sir Piers Legh appears to have been knighted about the time of the grant, but lived only two years to enjoy it, for in 1399, when the insurgent forces of the duke of Lancaster advanced into Cheshire, Sir Piers was seized upon by that nobleman, and in consequence of his well known attachment to his ill-fated sovereign, beheld at Chester, 1st August. He left two sons,

PETER (Sir), his heir.

John, escheator of Cheshire, 12th HENRY VI. who m. Alice, daughter and heir of John Alcocke, of RIDGE, and founded the family who remained seated at Ridge, in the palatinate, until 4th GEORGE II. when Francis Legh, the then possessor, suffered a recovery of, and surrendered, the estate to William Norton, of Buxton, whose daughter, Anne Norton, bequeathed it to her great nephew, William Smyth, esq. professor of modern history in the university of Cambridge. Francis Legh, the last of Ridge, left a son, Thomas, of Macclesfield, who m. Hannah, dau. of Alderman John Hooley, of that town, and had issue.

The elder son of Sir Piers,

SIR PETER LEGH, of Lyme, knt.-banneret, accompanying King HENRY to France, distinguished himself in the wars of that valiant prince, and met his death wound on the field of AZINCOURT, of which he died soon after at Paris. His remains were brought over to England, and interred with his father, of Macclesfield. Sir Peter had wedded Joan, daughter and heiress of Sir Gilbert Haydock, of Haydock, a Lancashire knt. of ancient descent and extensive possessions, by whom he left a son and successor,

SIR PETER LEGH, knt. of Lyme and Haydock, who enrolling himself under the banner of York, in the wars of the Roses, received the honour of knighthood, at the battle of Wakefield. He m. Margaret, daughter of Sir Richard Molyneux, of Sephton, and dying in 1478. (Inq. p. m. 18th EDWARD IV.) was s. by (the son of his only son, Peter Legh, of Haydock, by Mabell, his wife, daughter and heiress of Sir James Croft, of Dalton) his grandson,

SIR PETER LEGH, of Lyme and Hadock, knight banneret, who wedded in 1467, Ellen, daughter of Sir John Savage, of Clifton, and left at his decease, 11th August, 1527, with two younger sons, James and John, and a daughter, Margaret, the wife of Lawrence Warren, of Poynton, his successor,

PETER LEGH, esq. of Lyme and Haydock, born 11th of HENRY VIII. who m. first, Margaret, daughter of Nicholas de Tyldesley; and secondly, Jane, daughter of Peter Gerard, of Bryn; by the latter he had two daughters, Cecilia, the wife of Thomas Butler, of Bewsey, and Anne; by the former, a daughter, Jane, m. to Thomas Gerard, of Bryn; and a son,

SIR PETER LEGH, of Lyme and Haydock, one of the Cheshire gentlemen, knighted at Leith, by the Earl of Hertford, in 1544, who succeeded his father, 4th December, 33rd of HENRY VIII. He m. Margaret, daughter of Thomas Gerard, esq. of Bryn, in the county of Lancaster, and had issue,

1. PETER, who predeceased his father in 1570, leaving, by Catherine, his wife, dau. of Sir Thomas Venables, Lord of Kinderton, with two younger sons,

* She had been twice married previously; first, to John de Radcliffe, s. p. and secondly, to John Savage, whose son inherited Clifton, and the bulk of his mother's estates.

Thomas and Edward, and a daughter, Elizabeth, the wife of Lathom, of Parbold, PETER (Sir), successor to his grandfather.

Sir Peter Legh was s. at his decease by his grandson,

SIR PETER LEGH, knt. of Lyme, who represented the county of Chester in parliament, 43rd of ELIZABETH, and was its high sheriff in 1595. He m. first, Dorothy, daughter of Sir Richard Egerton, of Ridley, widow of Richard Brereton, of Tatton, but had no issue. He wedded secondly, Margaret, daughter of Sir Gilbert Gerard, knt. master of the rolls, by whom (who died 3rd July, 1603, aged thirty-three, and to whom there is a curious monument in the parish church of Fulham) he had,

- i. PIERS, } successive inheritors.
- ii. FRANCIS, }
- iii. Radclyffe, d. an infant.
- iv. Thomas, D.D. rector of Sephton and Walton, in Lancashire, who m. Lettice, daughter and co-heiress of Sir George Calveley, knt. of Lea, and by her, who died 14th October, 1648, aged thirty-eight) had issue to survive youth.

RICHARD, successor to his uncle. Dorothy.

Frances-Posthuma, m. to Richard Brooke, esq. of Norton.

Margaret, m. to John Arderne, esq. of Alvanley.

Sir Peter Legh* died in 1636, and was s. by his eldest son,

PIERS LEGH, esq. of Lyme, who married Anne, daughter of Sir John Saville, of Howley, in the county of York, and had one son and three daughters, viz.

Peter, who fell in a duel, in 1640, and died s. p.

Frances, m. to Mauger, son of William Vavasour, esq. of Weston, in the county of York (see vol. i. p. 54).

Margaret, m. to Thomas Brathwaite, esq. of Ambleside, in Westmoreland.

Elizabeth, m. to Richard Standish, esq. of Duxbury.

Piers Legh, outliving his only son, was s. by his next brother,

FRANCIS LEGH, esq. of Lyme, who wedded Anne, daughter of Sir Edmund Fenner, knt. of Hampton, in the county of Oxford, but dying without issue, the estates and representation of the family devolved on his nephew,

RICHARD LEGH, esq. of Lyme, b. in 1634, "This gentleman's mother," saith Ormerod, "being co-heiress of the Calveleys, the quarterings of the hero of Auray and Navarete, were appropriately united to the shield which had been borne in Agincourt, and graced by honorary trophies from

* The following curious extract from the journal of Wilson, the historian, relates to what happened to himself, when on a visit to this Sir Peter Legh, at Lyme.

"Sir Peter Lee, of Lime, in Cheshire, invited my Lord one summer to hunt the stag. And having a great stag in chase, and many gentlemen in the pursuit, the stag took soyle; and divers (whereof I was one) alighted and stood with swordes drawne, to have a cut at him as his coming out of the water. The stags there being wonderfull fierce and dangerous, made us youtbes more eager to be at him. But he escaped us all. And it was my misfortune to be hindred of my coming nere him, the way being sliperie as by a fall; which gave occasion to some who did not know mee, to speake as if I had falne for feare. Which being told mee I left the stag, and followed the gentleman who first spake it. But I found him of that cold temper, that, it seemes his words made an escape from him, as by his denial and repentance it appeared. But this made mee more violent in pursuit of the stag, to recover my reputation. And I happened to be the only horseman in when the dogs set him up at bay; and approaching nere him on horseback, he broke through the dogs and run at mee, and tore my horse's side with his hornes, close by my thigh. Then I quitted my horse and grew more cunning (for the dogs had set him up again), stealing behind him with my sword, and cut his ham strings, and then got upon his back and cut his throate; which as I was doing, the company came in and blame my rashness for running such a hazard."

MARTHA-ANNE, of whom hereafter.

1. Elizabeth.

2. Anne.

Mr. Legh, of Lyme, was succeeded at his decease by his son,

PETER LEGH, esq. of Lyme, living in 1728, who espoused his cousin, Frances, only daughter and heiress of Piers Legh, esq. of Birch, but having no issue, he settled his estates in 1723, upon his four nephews; the eldest surviving of whom,

PETER LEGH, esq. b. in 1706, became "of Lyme." He wedded Martha, only daughter and heir of Thomas Benet, esq. of Salthrop, in Wilts, and by her, who died 21st June, 1787, had three daughters, viz.

1. HARRIET, who m. Robert Vernon Atherton Atherton, esq. of Atherton and Bewsey, and had, with a son, Atherton Legh Atherton, who d. s. p. in 1789, three daughters, namely,

11. ELIZABETH, m. first, to James Anthony Keck, esq. of Stoughton Grange, in the county of Leicester, sometime M. P. for Newton, by whom she had issue; and secondly, to William Bathurst Pye, esq. who assumed, by sign manual, the surname of BENET.

111. ESTHER, who died unm. 20th June, 1809.

Mr. Legh dying without male issue, 20th May, 1792, was succeeded at Lyme, by his nephew,

THOMAS PETER LEGH, esq. of Golborne, who thus became also "of Lyme." This gentleman represented the borough of Newton in parliament, and was colonel of the Lancashire Fencible Cavalry. Never having married, he suffered a recovery to bar all contingent interests in the greater part* of his Cheshire property, and settled by will the estate of Lyme, with its numerous dependencies, in the counties of Chester and Lancaster, on his illegitimate son, THOMAS LEGH, esq. for life, and the heirs male of his body, with similar remainder to his second illegitimate son, William, and further remainder to his niece, Charlotte Anne Ormerod, and the heirs male of her body, and other remainders over. Colonel Legh died at Peers Hill, Barracks, near Edinburgh, 7th August, 1797, leaving a sister and heiress, HERNE, OF MAIDENHEAD.

HERNE, SIR WILLIAM, knight, of Maidenhead, in the county of Berks, born 5th December, 1745, m. first, Sophia, daughter of J. Hillebrant, esq. who died in 1814, and secondly, Mary-Frances, widow of George Stevenson, esq. of Binfield Place, in Berkshire, who died in 1824.

This gentleman, who was bred to the law, having been chosen alderman of the Castle Baynard ward, was, in 1797, elected sheriff of London, on which occasion he had the unusual honour of being opposed by a nobleman, in the person of the present Earl of Lauderdale. Sir William received the honour of knighthood during his shrievalty, and a few years afterwards withdrew from public life, retiring to Maidenhead, and is a deputy lieutenant for the county of Berks.

Lineage.

Mr. Alderman RICHARD HERNE, of an ancient family in the city of London, was elected sheriff in 1618. His son and successor,

NICHOLAS HERNE, married, and had two sons, viz.

BASIL, his heir.

Nathaniel (Sir), knt. alderman, and in 1674, sheriff of London, who married Judith, daughter of Sir John Frederick, Lord Mayor, and had, with other issue, a son,

DEANE-FREEMAN, OF CASTLE COR.

FREEMAN-DEANE, JOSEPH, esq. of Castle Cor, in the county of Cork, b. 28th October, 1783, m. 24th August, 1811, Elizabeth, only daughter of Robert M'Carty, esq. of Carrignavar (see p. 611), and has issue,

- i. EDWARD.
- ii. Robert.
- iii. Joseph.
- iv. Matthew.
- v. Justin.
- vi. Richard.
- vii. William.
- i. Jane.
- ii. Mary.
- iii. Isabella.
- iv. Elizabeth.
- v. Ellen.

Mr. Deane Freeman, who succeeded his father on the 25th March, 1826, is a magistrate and deputy lieutenant for the county of Cork, and served the office of high sheriff in 1811. At the installation of the Knights of St. Patrick in 1809, he was an esquire to the Earl of Shannon.

Lineage.

The family of DEANE is an ancient one in Ireland, and has long possessed large estates in various parts of that kingdom. Previously it was of consideration in England, and held lands in the counties of Gloucester and Northampton. So early as the fifteenth century we find Dr. Deane, Archbishop of Canterbury, and other members of the family, receiving proofs of royal favour, and acquiring, in Ireland, property of great extent and value. In the following century, Richard Deane was Bishop of Ossory, and at the same period, the estates which have descended in a direct and unbroken succession to the present Mr. Deane Freeman were possessed by his progenitors. During the civil wars, in England, the family of Deane embraced the popular principles of the day, in a great measure impelled to that course by the influence and example of their English relations. Admiral Deane, a person of considerable influence, ability, and enterprize, joined with great zeal the anti-monarchical party in the house of commons, to which he was returned for the county of Gloucester, was one of those who signed the death warrant of the unfortunate CHARLES, and shortly after lost his own life in the great action fought with Van Tromp. His influence decided the political course of his Irish kinsmen, and accordingly his cousin,

JOSEPH DEANE, esq. of Cromlin, joined CROMWELL, and was appointed major of cavalry in the parliamentary army. His courage, sagacity, and fidelity soon attracted the attention and engaged the confidence of his celebrated commander, from whom he received a confirmation of his original estates, besides grants of vast accessions to them in the counties of Dublin, Wexford, Kilkenny, Cork, and Waterford. Major Deane was the only son of Edward Deane, of Cromlin, and was b. 2nd February, 1623, he m. 8th February, 1652, Elizabeth, dau. of Maurice Cuffe, esq. of Quin, in the county of Clare, direct ancestor of the Earls of Desert, and had one son and a daughter, viz.

JOSEPH, his heir.

Elizabeth, who m. first, to Henry Grey, esq. of Dublin, and secondly, in July, 1677, to Sir Donatus O'Brien, bart. of Dromoland. By the latter (it was the second marriage of Sir Donatus) she had, with two daughters, who d. unmarried, one son, Henry O'Brien, esq. who wedded Susanna, daughter and co-heir of William Stafford, esq. of Blatherwyck Park, in the county of Northampton, and had issue, (see O'BRIEN, of BLATHERWYCK).

Major Deane was s. at his decease by his only son,

JOSEPH DEANE, esq. of Cromlin, who espoused Elizabeth, daughter of the Right Rev. John Parker, Archbishop of Dublin, and had two sons, viz.

EDWARD, his heir.

Joseph, who adopted the legal profession, and acquiring great reputation, was sworn a privy counsellor, and appointed lord chief baron of the Irish exchequer, on the 14th October, 1714. He m. Margaret, dau. of the Hon. Henry Boyle,* of Castle Martyr, by the Lady Mary O'Brien, daughter of Murrough, Earl of Inchiquin, and died 4th May, 1715, (he was buried in the Earl of Cork's vault, at St. Patrick's, Dublin) leaving large estates (which were devised to him by his father, and which were not settled on his elder brother, Edward) to his five daughters, his co-heirs, viz.

1. ELIZABETH, who m. in 1722, Hayes St. Leger, fourth Viscount Doneraile, but d. without issue.
2. BARBARA, who m. Arthur Hill, uncle to the Earl of Hillsborough.
3. MARY, who m. John Bourke, esq. of Palmerstown, created in 1785, Earl of Mayo.
4. CATHERINE, who m. 7th December, 1735, John Lysaght, first Lord Lisle.
5. MARGARET, m. to John Fitzgerald, Knight of Kerry, M. P. for Dingle.

The elder son,

EDWARD DEANE, esq. sate in parliament, together with his son, in the year 1712, and in several succeeding sessions, for the borough of Ennisteoge, which remained in the Deane family for a century and a half. His son and heir,

COL. EDWARD DEANE, M. P. inherited the estates of Terrenure, in the county of Dublin, and of Dangan, in the county of Kilkenny. He wedded Miss Bushe, daughter of Gervas Bushe, esq. of Kilfane, by the Hon. Miss Wandesford, daughter of the Lord Castlecomer, and had, with three daughters, two sons, namely,

EDWARD, who represented, in conjunction with his father, the family borough of Ennisteoge, in the parliament assembled in 1746, and who, in consequence of some angry words which passed in the house of commons, fought a duel with Col. Pigott, ancestor of Sir George Pigott, bart. of Knapton, and was killed.

JOSEPH, heir to his father.

Col. Deane was s. at his decease by his only surviving son,

JOSEPH DEANE, esq. of Terrenure and Cromlin, in the county of Dublin, who was returned to parliament by the borough of Ennisteoge, in 1762, his father, Col. Edward Deane, having previously retired from public life. In 1769, he offered himself a candidate for the county of Dublin, and was returned upon the independent interest, with Anthony, Lord Brabazon. He was subsequently appointed colonel of the county of Dublin Volunteers, and occupied that distinguished position in the glorious year of 1782. In 1778, he stood a very close and heated contest with the Right Hon. Luke Gardiner for the county of Dublin, and upon being defeated by a very small majority, reproached the electors in these words:—"Ungrateful men! is this my reward for having always voted against government, whether they were right or wrong!?" Upon his defeat in Dublin, he immediately offered himself for the county of Kilkenny, and was returned without opposition. He m. first, a sister of Sir Marcus Hill, bart. but that lady dying soon after without issue, he wedded secondly, Jane, only daughter of WILLIAM FREEMAN, esq. of Castle Cor. in the county of Cork, by Jane his wife, third daughter of Sir Matthew Deane, bart. of Dromore, in the same shire, and had by her an only son,

EDWARD, his heir.

Col. Deane espoused thirdly, Miss Green, daughter of Col. Green, of Greenville, and had by her four sons and five daughters, viz.

John-Berkley, of Berkley Forest, who m. Miss Nutson, an heiress, and has several children.

Joseph, of Stokestown, who m. Miss Drake, of that place, and had issue.

William, who d. unmarried.

Amias-Ferdinand, late captain in the 96th regiment.

Col. Deane, upon his third marriage, retired from public life, and left the family residence at Terrenure for Berkley Forest, an estate devised to him by his relative, — Berkley, esq. He died in 1801, and was succeeded in his entailed estates by his eldest son, EDWARD DEANE-FREEMAN, esq. of Castle Cor, b. 9th Jan. 1760, who had previously, upon the demise of his maternal uncle Matthew Freeman, esq. inherited the large estates of the Freeman family, in the counties of Cork, Kerry, Limerick, and Tipperary, and had assumed, by sign manual, the additional surname and arms of FREEMAN. Mr. Deane Freeman, who thus became the possessor of the united estates of Deane and Freeman, early showed a predilection for the residence of his maternal ancestors. He was a person of distinguished talents, fascinating manners, and inestimable worth. His early education was superintended by the Very Rev. Dean Berkeley, and at Christ Church, Oxford, to which he was admitted a gentleman commoner in 1777, he gave promise of a splendid career in public life. Having, however, formed an early attachment to Miss Plummer, a lady of great beauty, he married her, when he attained his full age, in 1781, and relinquishing the pursuits and objects of ambition, devoted himself to domestic life, to the enjoyment of literature, and fulfilling the duties of a landlord, a magistrate, grand juror, and resident gentleman. He was frequently solicited, by the leading and influential freeholders of Cork, to stand for the representation of that county in parliament; but he steadily resisted the opportunities which his father's borough, or his own popularity and fortune presented. In 1797, he filled the office of high sheriff for the county of Cork, and was generally, when he attended, foreman of the grand juries.

By Mary Plummer, his wife, daughter of Richard Plummer, esq. of Mount Plummer, in the county of Limerick, and Ellen, only daughter of Thomas Bruce Brudenell,* esq. Mr. Deane Freeman had issue,

- i. JOSEPH, his heir.
- ii. Matthew, who died under age, 6th April, 1802.
- iii. Richard, in holy orders, rector of Ardnagerhly, in the county of Cork, m. Ellen, only daughter of the Rev. Rowland Davies, and has five sons and five daughters.
- iv. Edward.
- v. William, barrister-at-law, and chairman of the county of Kerry.
- vi. John.
- i. Jane, married to the Rev. Sackville Robert Hamilton, rector of Mallow, second son of the Right Hon. Sackville Hamilton, (grandson of Lord Boyne) by Arabella his wife, daughter of the celebrated Bishop Berkeley.
- ii. Ellen, who died unmarried.
- iii. Mary, m. to Major Thomas Poole, of the 39th regiment.

Mr. Deane-Freeman, in the spring assizes of 1812, was visited with a paralytic stroke, while performing his duties as foreman of the county of Cork grand jury, and at that time was addressed by the members of that body in terms of the most flattering respect. Thenceforward, his illness removed him from the discharge of any active office, though he survived the attack for several years. He died 25th March, 1826, and was s. by his eldest son, the present JOSEPH DEANE-FREEMAN, esq. of Castle Cor.

Families of Freeman of Castle Cor, and of Deane of Dromore.

The Freemans have been in possession of Castle Cor for about two centuries. It originally belonged to a fraternity of Cistercian monks, and is probably amongst the most ancient properties any religious community possessed in Ireland. The Monasticon Hibernicon states that the last mention of it appears in a plea roll of the 30th EDWARD I. about the year 1301, and it is very probable that about that period the monastery was allowed to fall into decay; the ruins are still to be traced in the centre of the noble deer park which extends itself before the eastern front of the present mansion; it is obvious from the deep and regular lines of the fosses, that the monastery was fortified, but, as well as any judgment at this remote period can be formed, the architecture must have been of a very rude character; a few, and only a few, fragments have survived the effect of time, and those are unconnected masses; part of a window which has lately been dug out of the ruins is of the Saxon style; underneath the building runs, for a considerable distance, a large cavern, whether natural or artificial is not ascertained; with this gloomy spot many superstitions are connected, amongst others, it is supposed that the Irish prince, to whose violence the destruction of this religious house is attributed, is chained, in the form of a cat, in golden fetters, to the rocks at the end of the cavern, and no superstitious peasant would venture at midnight near the place, as at that hour the prince is allowed to assume his natural form, and move through the dark trees which have grown amid the ruins; these trees alone evince the antiquity of the edifice, and the remote period of its decay. They are of various descriptions, sycamore, ash, and oak, and of immense size; one, an old oak, stands on the site of the chancel, and is fifteen feet in girth, against its trunk a huge piece of ivy grows, measuring seven feet round, and not appearing to have in the least affected the health or vigour of its noble supporter. The park can likewise boast of some of the largest oak trees in the south of Ireland, one measuring twenty-four feet in circumference.

The house of Castle Cor, in which the family of Deane Freeman now resides, was built about the middle of the seventeenth century, by JOHN FREEMAN, esq. It was erected on the ruins of an ancient castle, which stood something less than a quarter of a mile to the west of the monastery. The present mansion is large and commodious, and placed nearly in the centre of an improved and extensive demesne. John Freeman died about the year 1690, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM FREEMAN, esq. of Castle Cor, who espoused Miss O'Callaghan, of Bantyre, of the ancient house of O'Callaghan, of Clonmeen, and sister to Edward O'Callaghan, esq. ancestor to the Lords Lismore. By this lady he had one son, his successor, PORCH, OF EDGARLEY.

PORCH, THOMAS PORCH, esq. of Edgarley, in the county of Somerset, b. 7th March, 1808, m. 16th December, 1830, Jane, only daughter of Edward Barber, esq. of Barston, in Warwickshire, and has issue, JOHN-ALBERT, b. in 1833.

Maria-Jane.

This gentleman, whose patronymic is REEVES, assumed, by sign manual, 8th December, 1830, in pursuance of the testamentary injunction of his maternal grandfather, whose estates he inherited, the surname of PORCH only.

Lineage.

The family of REEVES has been settled at Glastonbury, in the county of Somerset, for many generations; and in the public register of Streat, about two miles from that town, mention is made of one, Robert Reeves, being married at the village cross, to Elizabeth Cribb, of Glaston, on 7th November, 1657.

PETER REEVES, a man of property, and one of the most respectable inhabitants of Glastonbury; according to the phrase of those times, "lived on his own and died on his own." The bulk of his possessions devolved on his two eldest sons, Henry and William, whose descendants are now extinct, but a small estate near Hartlake bridge, in Somersetshire, was inherited by his third son,

JOSEPH REEVES, who m. about 1740, Sarah, daughter of Mr. William Swanton,* whose only son, another

JOSEPH REEVES, gent. wedded Joanna, daughter of George Phippen, gent. of Northwotton, by Martha, his wife, daughter of John Fry, esq. originally of Martock, who died in 1784, aged eighty-four. By this lady, Mr. Reeves left a daughter, Sarah, married to John Bull Emery, esq. who died in 1831, and a son and successor,

JOHN FRY REEVES, esq. who purchased about the year 1825, the abbey at Glastonbury.† He married in 1807, Maria, daughter of the late Thomas Porch, esq. of Wells, in the county of Somerset, who acquired the Edgarley estate ‡ about half a century

† "About sixty-three years after the incarnation of our Lord (we quote Dugdale's traditionary account) St. Joseph, of Arimathea, accompanied by eleven other disciples of St. Philip, were despatched by that apostle into Britain, to introduce in the place of barbarous and bloody rites, long exercised by the bigotted and besotted Druids, the meek and gentle system of Christianity. They succeeded in obtaining from Arviragus the British King, permission to settle in a small island, then rude and uncultivated, and to each of the twelve was assigned for his subsistence, a certain portion of land, called a hide, comprising a district, denominated to this day, THE TWELVE HIDES OF GLASTON. They enjoyed all the immunities of regal dignity from ancient times, and the first establishment of Christianity in this land."

The execution of the last abbot, the pious and inoffensive RICHARD WHITING, in 1539, by the despot who then filled the English throne, was followed by the plunder of the monastery, the dispersion of its inmates, the escheat of its vast possessions, and the complete and final dissolution of the establishment, and the noble buildings, after having been thoroughly despoiled of every thing valuable or portable, were left to sink into unprotected decay.

In 1825, John Fry Reeves, esq. purchased the abbey enclosure, together with the ruins.

‡ It is situated two miles from Glastonbury, and is a tything belonging to the parish of St. John.

ago. Edgarley (a corruption of Edgar's lea, lea, the old Saxon word for pasture, being still in use, "Now fades the glimmering landscape o'er the lea,") was anciently the seat of King Edgar, who enriched the monastery at Glastonbury, by several munificent grants of land.* At the time of the purchase of Edgarley it possessed a hall of great antiquity, known by the name of St. Dunstan's Hall, but Mr. Porch, unconscious of so valuable a relic, gave orders for its destruction, which were too fatally carried into effect. The present building, however, preserves many pieces of sculpture which once decorated the walls of the ancient edifice, and amongst these the wolf† is predominant. By Maria, his wife, Mr. Reeves has issue,

i. THOMAS PORCH.

ii. John-Frederic, b. in 1810, of Taunton.

* One of the chapels in the north transept of the abbey church was dedicated to St. Edgar, and is still extant.

† It is an historical fact that Edgar extirpated the wolves from that part of the country.

iii. Orlando, b. in 1815.

iv. Archibald, b. in 1817.

i. Julia-Maria.

Mr. Reeves' eldest son inherited from his maternal grandfather, Thomas Porch, esq. who died in 1812, the estate of Edgarley, and assuming in 1830, that gentleman's surname, is the present THOMAS PORCH PORCH, of Edgarley.

Arms—Arg. between three wolves' heads erased, a chev. engrailed gu. surmounted by another plain or, charged with a battle axe erect between two bows stringed, each surmounting two arrows in saltire, barbs downwards sa. for PORCH, borne quarterly with the ensigns of REEVES.

Crest—A mount vert. thereon a wolf passant, in the mouth an arrow, the barb downwards, the dexter forepaw holding a bolt stringed, all ppr. for PORCH. The REEVES crest is likewise borne.

Motto—Cordi dat robora virtus.

Estates—In Somersetshire.

Seats—The Abbey, Glastonbury and Edgarley, both in Somersetshire.

BALDWIN, OF CORK.

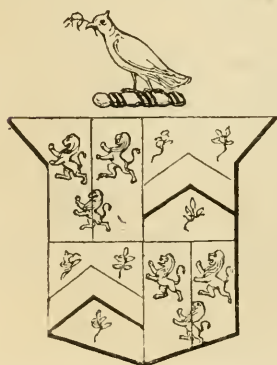

BALDWIN, HERBERT, M. D. of Cork, M. P. in the present parliament for that city, m. first, Miss Barbara Dunne, and has by her one surviving daughter, namely,

Mary Anne, m. to John O'Sullivan, esq. of Bere, in the county of Cork.

Dr. Baldwin wedded, secondly, Miss Herrick, and has a son,

HERBERT, born in April, 1822.

Lineage.

The first of this family who came to Ireland, or, at least, to the south of that kingdom, were two brothers, who settled there in the reign of Queen ELIZABETH; the elder of whom was ranger of one of the royal parks, and married to the daughter of HERBERT, of Powis, a house ennobled under that title, and illustrious under those of Pembroke, Montgomery, and Cherbury (see BURKE'S Extinct Peerage). From this alliance the christian name of Herbert has been transmitted in the family, which has also continued to quarter the arms of Herbert with those of Baldwin. These two brothers purchased property, and fixed their residence in the vicinity of Bandon, in the county of Cork; the elder at Mossgrave (in Irish Garranacomtig); the younger at Lisnagart. The former left three sons.

- i. Walter, who died unmarried.
- ii. Herbert, of whom presently, and,
- iii. Colonel James Baldwin, who, in 1678, purchased from the celebrated Valentine Greatrakes, the present family estate of Clohina, which he bequeathed, by will, dated 1683, to his nephew, HERBERT, the second son of his brother, HERBERT BALDWIN, esq. of Currovoidy, who married Mary, daughter of Dr. Dives Downes, afterwards (1699, 1709) lord bishop of Cork and Ross, and had three sons and two daughters.

- i. Henry.
- ii. Herbert.
- iii. Walter.

- i. Mary, m. to Colonel Foot, of Mallow.
- ii. Elizabeth, m. to John Ware, esq.

Of the sons, Henry and Walter are the progenitors of several considerable families in the county of Cork.

The second,

HERBERT BALDWIN, esq. who, as above-mentioned, inherited the estate of Clohina, under the bequest of his uncle, Colonel James Baldwin, married, in 1689, Mary, daughter of Colonel Hungerford, of the Island, near Clonkitty, of the eldest branch of the Irish Hungerfords, who assume to be the male representative of the ancient English barons of that name. By this lady he had issue,

- i. JAMES, his heir.
- ii. Herbert, who died s. p.
- iii. Richard, whose son Richard, married Miss Germain, of Affadown.

Herbert Baldwin was succeeded at his decease by his eldest son,

JAMES BALDWIN, esq. who wedded, in 1726, Elizabeth Langton, of Bury, in the county of Limerick, niece of Colonel Nicholas Colthurst, of Ballyally, and cousin-german to Sir Nicholas Colthurst, bart. the husband of Lady Charlotte Fitzmaurice, daughter of Thomas Earl, of Kerry. By her, Mr. Baldwin, at his decease, in 1776, left two sons and two daughters, viz.

- i. JAMES, his heir.
- ii. Herbert, M.D. who m. Miss Collis, and had, inter alios, a son, Michael, M.D. who wedded Miss Shea, and had two sons and two daughters, viz.

George Baldwin Shea.

Herbert Baldwin Shea.

The two daughters are nuns in the Ursuline convent, at Cork.

- i. Anne, m. to Mr. Thomas Olliffe, of Cork. Their son, the late Joseph Olliffe, esq. espoused Miss M'Carthy, of Sunville, and dying, in 1831, left six sons and a daughter, namely, Joseph, Charles, Henry, Thomas, James, Washington, and Anne.

- ii. Mary, m. to Charles M'Carthy, esq. the lineal representative of the ancient family of Drishane.

The elder son,

JAMES BALDWIN, esq. married, in 1763, Mary, daughter of Daniel O'Connell,* esq. of Derrinaue, in the county of Kerry. (see p. 568), and left, at his decease, three sons and five daughters,

- i. WALTER.
- ii. CONNELL.
- iii. HERBERT.

- i. Elizabeth.

- ii. Alice, m. to Matthew Minhear, esq. descended in the female line from the celebrated Sir Matthew Hales.

- iii. Mary-Anne.

- iv. Anne, m. to Major Broderick.

- v. Bridget.

Mr. Baldwin's third son is the present Dr. HERBERT BALDWIN, M.P. for Cork.

Arms—Quarterly, first and fourth for BALDWIN, arg. a chev. ermine between three oak branches ppr. second and third, for HERBERT, party per pale, az. and gu. three lions rampant, arg. armed and langued, or.

Crest—A dove with the olive branch ppr.

Motto—Est voluntas Dei.

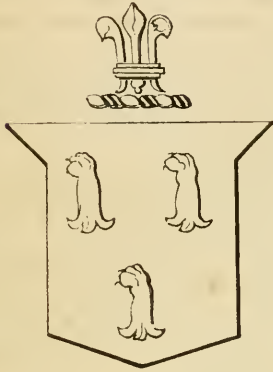

Estate—Clohina, in the barony of West Muskerry, county of Cork, purchased, as appears by the title deed in Dr. Baldwin's possession, in 1678 (30th CHARLES II.), by Colonel James Baldwin, from Valentine Greatrakes, esq. of Affane, in the county of Waterford. In 1686, JAMES II. confirmed the possession by patent. The property had originally formed part of the great estates of the Earl of Clancarty, from whom it was purchased by the family of Greatrakes. This VALENTINE GREATRAKES, of Affane, born in 1628, was the celebrated person who was supposed to cure various maladies by merely stroking the parts affected, of whom the philosophic Boyle makes special and honourable mention, and of whom a particular account will be found in the Philosophical Transactions of 1699. His own letter to Boyle (1666, in 4to. and in Boyle's Works) is a memorable proof of self-delusion, but his philanthropy was unequivocal; for he spent his income in charity.

NEWDEGATE, OF HAREFIELD.

NEWDEGATE, CHARLES-NEWDIGATE, esq. of Harefield Place, in the county of Middlesex, b. 14th July, 1816, succeeded his father 23rd April, 1833.

Lineage.

This family, whose name was written variously Niwudgate, Niwodegate, Newdigate, and Newdegate, possessed from time immemorial to the beginning of the reign of CHARLES I. the manor and lands of Newdegate, in the county of Surrey.

The first ancestor upon record,

JOHN DE NIWUDEGATE, living in the 14th of KING JOHN, left by Agnes, his wife, three sons, RICHARD, William, and Robert. To the eldest,

RICHARD DE NIWUDEGATE, as appears by an ancient deed, William Yonge granted for homage and service half a yard of land, and by another dateless charter of William Testardus, he held other lands. He wedded Alicia, daughter of William de Horley, and had three sons, JOHN, William, and Peter. The eldest,

JOHN DE NYWDEGATE, living temp. HENRY III. granted by deed to Galfred de la Wytecrofte the land which Norman de la Bere and Mabilia, his wife, gave to the said Galfred in Nywodegate. He espoused a lady named Agnes, and left a son and successor,

WILLIAM DE NYWDEGATE, who added to the estate several lands, which he obtained by grants from Henry Kymer and William Eglaff, situated in the parishes of Newdegate and Chorlewood. He was living in the 17th of EDWARD I. for in that year Thomas de la Lynde assigned to him his woods in Lynde. His son and heir,

SIR HENRY DE NEWDEGATE, knt. who flourished in the reign of the first EDWARD, wedded Catherine, daughter and co-heir of Sir Nicholas Malmains, knt. and was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

JOHN DE NEWDEGATE, who died without issue, when the representation of the family devolved on his brother,

WILLIAM DE NEWDEGATE, living in the 7th of EDWARD II. who m. the daughter and heiress of John Echingham, and had four sons, JOHN, Richard, Robert, and William. The eldest,

JOHN DE NEWDEGATE, espoused, about the 3rd of EDWARD III. a lady named Agnes, but of what family is not recorded, and had three sons, viz.

- I. WILLIAM, who succeeded his father in the manor and lands of Newdegate. This gentleman was high sheriff for Surrey and Sussex in the 25th of EDWARD III. and was several times returned knight of the shire by the former county. He m. Amicia —, and died about the 1st of RICHARD II. leaving a son and successor,

JOHN, who succeeded to Newdegate, &c. estates which remained in the possession of his male descendants until the year 1612, when

THOMAS NEWDEGATE, esq. of Newdegate,* died, leaving by Mary, his wife, who married, secondly, Hen. Darell, esq. two daughters and co-heirs, namely,

MARY, m. to William Steper.

ANNA, m. to William Smythman.

- II. JOHN, of whom presently.

- III. Thomas, to whom his father, by a deed of the 7th of EDWARD III. gave

* This estate, after Mr. Newdegate's decease, was sold to Mr. Bugden, and remained vested in the Bugden family until 1807, when it was purchased from Thomas Bugden, esq. by Charles, Duke of Norfolk. The ancient mansion of the Newdegates has been reduced to a farm-house.

his tenements called Hullond for his life, remainder to his brother John for life, with remainder to William and his heirs.

The second son,

SIR JOHN NEWDEGATE, served in the wars in France under EDWARD III. received the honour of knighthood, and had a fleur-de-lys given him for his crest. He married Joanna, daughter of William de Swanland, and heiress to her brother, William de Swanland, of HAREFIELD, in the county of Middlesex. By this lady, Sir John acquired that manor and estate, and had a son and successor,

JOHN NEWDEGATE, of Harefield, who m. first, Elizabeth, daughter of Walter Knoll, of Crawley, and Margaret, his wife, to whom, by deed of entail, dated 7th HENRY V. the manor of Downe, in the hundred of Godalming, Surrey, is devised for her life, with remainder to Elizabeth, her daughter, for her life, remainder to William Newdegate, son of the said Elizabeth, and his heirs. By her he had two sons, WILLIAM, his heir, and Thomas. He espoused, secondly, Catharina, daughter and heiress of Roger Chambers, and had by her a daughter, Margaret, wife of — Castlemain. John Newdegate was succeeded at his decease by his son,

WILLIAM NEWDEGATE, Lord of the manor of Harefield, &c. who wedded Editha, dau. of John Bowett, of Surrey, and by her, who died 10th September, 1444, left at his decease, 36th of HENRY VI. a son and successor,

JOHN NEWDEGATE, Lord of Harefield, in Middlesex, and of Crawley, in Surrey, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Yong, one of the justices of the Common Pleas, 5th EDWARD IV. and sister and heiress of Thomas Yong, of Bristol. By this lady (who d. 4th HENRY VII.) he had a son,

JOHN NEWDEGATE, of Harefield, who, studying the law at Lincoln's Inn, was advanced to the dignity of the coif, 18th November, 2nd HENRY VIII. and in three years after impleaded John, Earl of Oxford, for the manor of Bachesworth, in Herts, as heir to the Swanlands. In the 12th of HENRY VIII. he had the honour to be appointed king's sergeant. He wedded Amphelicia, daughter and heiress of John Nevill, of Sulton, in the county of Lincoln, and had issue,

- i. JOHN, his heir.
- ii. Silvester, } knights hospitallers of
- iii. Duncan, } St. John's in Jerusalem.
- iv. Sebastian, who, upon his wife's death in 1524, became a Carthusian monk, and, in the 27th HENRY VIII. suffered for opposing the king's supremacy.

i. Barbara, m. to John Clogg, of Exon, and was interred in Brackenbury chapel.

ii. Jane, m. to Sir Robert Dormer, of Wenge, in Bucks, ancestor of the Earls of Carnarvon and Barons Dormer of Wenge.

iii. Mary, a nun at Syon, in Middlesex.

iv. Dorothy, m. to Leonard Chamberlayne, of Shireborn, in Oxfordshire.

v. Sybil, a nun at Holywell, Middlesex.

Mr. Sergeant Newdegate was succeeded by his eldest son,

JOHN NEWDEGATE, esq. of Harefield, born 6th HENRY VII. who m. Anne, daughter and heiress of Nicholas Hylton, esq. of Cambridge, and had issue,

i. JOHN, his heir.

ii. George, a monk at Chertsey.

iii. Anthony, of Hawnes, in Bedfordshire, d. in 1568.

iv. Francis, of Hanworth, in Middlesex, b. 11th HENRY VIII. who was one of the gentlemen of the household to the Protector SOMERSET, whose widow, the daughter of Sir Edward Stanhope, knt. of Shelford, he married.

v. Thomas.

vi. Nicholas, of London.

vii. Robert, b. 20th HENRY VIII.

i. Amphelicia.

ii. Anne, m. to William Gardiner, esq. of Grove.

iii. Rosa.

John Newdegate obtained in the 34th of HENRY VIII. by deed of Robert Tyrwhitt, the manor of Moor Hall, in Harefield, with the rectory and peculiar jurisdiction, which, by the gift of his ancestors, had belonged to the knights hospitallers of St. John's; and, on the dissolution of the monasteries, had been granted by that monarch to Tyrwhitt. Mr. Newdegate died in 1545, and was interred at Harefield, where are an altar-tomb of grey marble, with a canopy of the same, and beneath, his effigy in brass kneeling, with his eight sons, and his wife also kneeling, with her five daughters.

The eldest son and successor,

JOHN NEWDEGATE, esq. of Harefield, M.P. for Middlesex in 1571, 1573, and 1574, espoused, first, Mary, daughter of Sir Robert Cheney, knt. of Chesham Boys, in the county of Buckingham, by whom he had one son, JOHN, his heir; and secondly, Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Lovett, esq. of Astwell, in the county of Northampton, and relict of Anthony Cave, esq. of Chicheley, Bucks. He was s. by his son,

JOHN NEWDEGATE, esq. of Harefield, who exchanged in 1586 the manor and lands of Harefield with Sir Edmond Anderson, knt. chief justice of the Common Pleas, for the estate of Arbury, in the county of Warwick, where Sir Edmond had just erected a quadrangular stone mansion upon the site of the dissolved priory of Erdbury, in Warwickshire, which he had obtained of the heirs of the Duke of Suffolk; who, upon their dissolution, had a grant of this and many other religious houses by the favour of his royal master. Mr. Newdegate married, first, Martha, daughter and heiress of Anthony Cave, esq. of Chicheley, in Bucks, and had six sons, JOHN, Francis, Henry, Robert, Charles, Carew, and three daughters, Elizabeth, Griselda, and Mary. He wedded, secondly, Mary Smith, by whom he had one son, Henry, of Hampton, to whom he gave the manor of Little Ashted, in Surrey. He had a third wife, Winifred Wells, of the county of Stafford, who survived him, and resided in her jointure-house, called Brackenbury, a capital messuage in Harefield, with about four hundred acres attached, which at her death descended to Sir John Newdegate, not being included in the exchange. John Newdegate died in 1592, and was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN NEWDEGATE, knt. of Arbury, in Warwickshire, and of Brackenbury, in Harefield, Middlesex, b. in 1570, who wedded Anne, eldest daughter of Sir Edward Fitton, knt. of Gawsorth, in the county of Chester, and had issue,

1. JOHN, his heir.
11. Richard.
1. Mary-Letitia, m. to — Bolton.
11. Anne, m. to Sir Richard Skeffington, of Fisherwick, in Staffordshire, and was mother of John Skeffington, Viscount Massarene. She died in 1618.

Sir John died 12th April, 1610,* and was succeeded by his son,

JOHN NEWDIGATE, esq. of Arbury, born in 1600, the first of the family who wrote the name with an i. He served the office of high sheriff for Warwickshire in the 1st of CHARLES I. Dying, however, without issue in 1642, the estates devolved on his brother,

RICHARD NEWDEGATE, esq. of Arbury, who had studied the law with eminent success, and was, at the time of inheriting, in high practice at the bar. He was subsequently advanced to the dignity of serjeant-at-law, and was appointed on the 2nd June, 1654, one of the three new judges then made. In this station, he maintained the same unsullied reputation which had previously distinguished his career, for on the question of the sale of the crown lands, he hesitated not to declare, that no title could be made to them; and upon the north circuit at the assizes at York, where many of the cavaliers were arraigned for high treason, the Earls of Bellasis and Dumfries, Colonel Halsey, and others, he acquitted them all, declaring from the bench that there was no law that made it high treason to levy war against a Lord Protector. Thus exciting Cromwell's indignation, Judge Newdegate was dismissed from his place; but reinstated as chief justice of the Upper Bench in 1659. In 1677, at the instance of the Duke of Ormond, Colonel Halsey, and others, KING CHARLES created him a BARONET, and at the same time remitted the services or sums usually paid on granting the patent.

Mr. Serjeant Newdegate espoused, in 1631, Juliana, daughter of Sir Francis Leigh, K.B. and sister of Francis, Earl of Chichester, by whom he had surviving issue,

1. RICHARD (Sir), his heir.
11. Robert, of Hillingdon, who m. first,

* Sir John Newdegate was interred in Brackenbury Chapel, under a monument of white and purple marble with columns, at the top of which are the arms of Newdegate, with quarterings underneath: he is represented in white armour, kneeling, and his lady opposite to him, in the same posture, with a desk with books between them; over them a death's head with wings, and this inscription on black marble:—

Sir John Newdegate, knt. was buried the 12th April, 1610.

Underneath him are two young men in cloaks kneeling, and three young women underneath her, and this inscription in gold on black marble:—

In funeribus Johannis Newdegate, militis
Cui in connubio stabili juncta fuit Anna
Edwardi Fitton militis filia promogenita
Non mirum si sorte loqui didicere sepulchra
Conditur hoc tumulo Religionis honos,
Si taceant lapides et non tibi carmina cantent,
Hoc potius mirum non didicisse loqui,
Non tamen hoc loquitur flebit tua funora tantum,
Marmor guttatim flebile flumen erit.

Here Wisdom's jewel, Knighthood's flower,
Cropt off in prime and youthful bower;
Religion, meekness, faithful love,
Which any Hart might inly move.
These ever lived in this Knight's brest,
Dead in his Death with him doth rest;
So that the marble self doth weep,
To think on that which it keepe.
Weep then whoe'er this stone doth see,
Unless more hard than stone thou bee.

Frances, daughter of Thomas Harri-son, esq.; and secondly, Juliana, daughter of Robert Beale, esq.

- iii. Thomas, of Lewes, in Sussex, and of Hawton, Notts, who, by his wife, Charitie, daughter and heiress of Stephen French, of Lewes, had two sons, Richard, of the Inner Temple, b. in 1680, and d. in 1745; and John, of the Six Clerks' Office, who died in 1740.

- i. Anne, m. to German Pole, esq. of Radborn, in Derbyshire.

- ii. Mary, m. to Sir George Parker, bart. of Willington, in Sussex.

Sir Edmond Anderson had conveyed the manors of Harefield and Moor Hall to Alicia, Countess Dowager of Derby, who resided at the Place House in great splendour, where she was honoured with a visit by Queen Elizabeth, and received her majesty with the pomp and pageantry of the times. Of the heirs of the countess, Sir Richard Newdegate, the serjeant, purchased back the ancient estate of his ancestors in 1674. He also added to his possessions the castle and manor of Astley, and the manor of St. John's in Jerusalem, both in Warwickshire. He died in 1678, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR RICHARD NEWDIGATE, second bart. of Harefield and Arbury, M.P. for Warwickshire in 1681 and 1685. This gentleman wedded, first, Mary, daughter of Sir Edward Bagot, bart. of Blithfield, in the county of Stafford, and had (with several other sons, who died young or unmarried,)

- i. RICHARD, his heir.

- ii. Francis, b. in 1684, who settled at Nottingham, and married Milliscent, daughter of German Pole, esq. of Radbourne, in the county of Derby, by whom he had one son and one daughter, namely,

FRANCIS, who m. Elizabeth, daughter of General Pole, but died without issue.

MELLISCENT, who wedded Christopher Parker, esq. of Salford Priors, in the county of Warwick, and had three sons, viz.

1. Robert Parker.

2. Francis Parker, of Hallam, in Derbyshire, who assumed, in pursuance of the testamentary injunction of his uncle, the surname and arms of NEWDIGATE. He wedded Frances, daughter of Ralph Sneyd, esq. of Keel, and had one son, FRANCIS NEWDIGATE, esq.

3. Charles Parker, who m. Jane, daughter of Sir John

Anstruther, bart. of that ilk, and died 24th April, 1795, leaving issue,

FRANCIS PARKER, esq. of Arbury, in Warwickshire, who assumed the surname of NEWDIGATE, instead of Parker, on inheriting the estate of Hallam, in Derbyshire, from Mr. Newdigate, of Bath. This gentleman has also a life interest in the Warwickshire estates, which will eventually pass to the present MR. NEWDIGATE, of Harefield.

- v. Jane, m. to Samuel Boys, esq. of Hawkhurst, in Kent.

- vi. Juliana, m. to Robert Glegg, esq. of Gayton, in Cheshire.

- vii. Elizabeth, m. to Abraham Meur, esq.

Lady Newdigate dying 14th September, 1692, Sir Richard married, secondly, Miss Henrietta Wiggington, but by her, who espoused after his decease Sir Francis Windham, bart. of Trent, had no issue. Sir Richard died 4th January, 1709, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR RICHARD NEWDIGATE, third baronet, of Harefield and Arbury, b. in 1668, who married, first, in 1694, Sarah, daughter of Sir Cecil Bishopp, bart. of Parham, in Sussex, but by her, who died a short time after her marriage, in her twenty-seventh year, had no issue. He espoused, secondly, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Roger Twisden, bart. of Bradburne, in Kent, and had to survive youth two sons and three daughters, viz.

1. EDWARD, } successive baronets.
- ii. ROGER, }

1. Elizabeth, m. the Honourable John Chichester, only brother of the Earl of Donegal.

ii. Mary, m. to Charles Palmer, esq. of Ladbroke, and had issue.

iii. Juliana, m. to John Ludford, esq. of Ansley Hall, and had issue.

Sir Richard died at Arbury in 1727, aged fifty-nine (his widow surviving until 1765), and was s. by his son,

SIR EDWARD NEWDIGATE, fourth baronet, of Harefield and Arbury, who died in minority in 1734, and was succeeded by his only surviving brother,

SIR ROGER NEWDIGATE, fifth baronet, of Harefield and Arbury, b. 30th May, 1719. This gentleman, of whom a copious memoir, from the pen of Archdeacon Churton, appeared in the Gentleman's Magazine of 1807, received his education at Westminster School and at University College, Oxford. He subsequently made the tour of France and Italy, and soon after his return was unanimously elected knight of the shire for the county of Middlesex in 1742. In 1749 he received the degree of LL.D. at Oxford, and in the following year was returned to parliament by that university—a honour he continued to enjoy until advanced age and declining health compelled him to retire, after thirty-five years' service in parliament, from public life.

Sir Roger espoused, first, in 1743, Sophia, daughter of Edward Conyers, esq. of Copp'd Hall, in Essex, by Matilda, his wife, daughter of William, Lord Lempster; and secondly, in 1776, Hester, daughter of Edward Mundy, esq. of Shipley, in the county of Derby, but died without issue, 23rd November, 1806. At his decease, the Warwickshire estate devolved on (the grandson of Sir Roger's first cousin, Milliscent Newdigate,) FRANCIS PARKER, esq. who had previously assumed the surname of NEWDIGATE. This gentleman has, however, but a life interest in these estates, which will pass ultimately to the present Mr. Newdegate, of Harefield.

Sir Roger Newdigate's Middlesex property was inherited by another grandson of his said cousin, Milliscent Newdigate,

CHARLES-NEWDIGATE PARKER, esq. of Harefield, who assumed upon inheriting the surname and arms of NEWDEGATE* only. This gentleman wedded, 15th April, 1815, Maria, daughter of Ayscough Boucheret, esq. of Willingham, in the county of Lincoln, and dying 23rd April, 1833, left an only son and successor, the present CHARLES-NEWDIGATE NEWDEGATE, esq. of Harefield.

Arms—Gu. three lions' gambes erased arg.

Crest—Fleur-de-lys arg.

Motto—Confide recte agens.

Estates—In Middlesex.

Seat—Harefield Place. In the survey of Domesday, the name of this parish is written Herefelle; in other ancient records, Herfeld, Herefelde, and Herfield. Harefield in the Saxon is literally "hare field."

"The parish of Harefield," says Lysons, "lies in the hundred of Elthorne, and forms the north-west angle of the county of Middlesex; being bounded on the north by Rickmansworth, in Hertfordshire, on the west by the river Colne, which separates it from Denham, in Buckinghamshire, on the south by Hillingdon, and on the east by Ickenham and Rislop. The village is pleasantly situated on rising ground, three miles from Uxbridge and eighteen from London. The manor of Harefield is thus described in the Survey of Domesday: 'Richard, son of Gilbert, the Earl of Brion, holds Herefelle, which is taxed at five hides. The land is five carrucates, two hides are in demesne, on which there are two ploughs. The villans have three ploughs. The priest has one virgate, there are five villans who hold a virgate each, seven bordars who have five acres each, and one bordar who has three acres, there are three cottars, and three slaves, two mills yielding 15 sh. rent, four for the cattle of the manor and pannage for 1200 hogs, the total annual value is £12, it was only £8 when entered upon by the present owner; in King Edward the Confessor's time (being then the property of the Countess Goda) it was £14. Richard, son of Gilbert, Earl of Brion, was sometimes called Richard Fitz-Gilbert, sometimes Richard de Tonbridge, and sometimes Richard de Clare; from him it seems to have descended to Alice, daughter of Geoffrey, and granddaughter of Baldwin de Clare.'

"By a quo warranto, bearing date 1284, it appears that Roger de Bacheworth was then lord of the manor of Harefield, and that he and his ancestors had enjoyed it time immemorial, paying a small quit rent to the honor of Clare. Sir Richard de Bacheworth, in the year 1315, granted the manor to Simon de Swanland, who married the elder daughter and co-heir of his brother Roger. This Sir Richard afterwards took upon himself the habit of the knights hospitallers, and his wife Margaret assumed the veil. William, son of Sir Simon de Swanland, had three sons, two of whom died in their infancy, and the third left no issue. Joanna, the only daughter, married JOHN NEWDEGATE, who was afterwards knighted and served in the French wars under EDWARD III.

"In the year 1585, John Newdegate, esq. the eighth in lineal descent from Sir John who married Joanna Swanland, ex-

* Sir Roger made it a point that his heir should spell the name Newdegate, as anciently written.

changed the manor of Harefield, with Sir Edmund Anderson, lord chief justice of the Common Pleas, for the manor of Arbury, in Warwickshire, which has ever since been the principal seat of the family. Sir Edmund Anderson, in 1601, sold Harefield to Sir Thomas Egerton, lord keeper of the great seal, his wife Alice, Countess Dowager of Derby, and Lady Anne, Lady Frances, and Lady Elizabeth Stanley, her daughters. The lord keeper died in 1617, being then Viscount Brackley; the Countess of Derby in 1637. Lady Anne Stanley, the eldest daughter, married Grey, Lord Chandos; and, after his death, Mervin, Earl of Castlehaven. She survived her mother ten years; and, on her death, George, Lord Chandos, her eldest son by her first husband, inherited the manor of Harefield, pursuant to the deed of 1601. Lord Chandos died in February, 1655, having bequeathed it by will to his wife Jane; in the month of October following, Lady Chandos married Sir William Sedley, bart.; Sir William died in 1656, and in 1657 his widow took a third husband, George Pitt, esq. of Strathfieldsay, in the county of Southampton; having vested all her estates, by a deed bearing date 1673, in Mr. Pitt and his heirs, he, in conjunction with his trustees, in the month of February, 1675 (his lady being still living), conveyed by bargain and sale the manor of Harefield and More Hall to Sir Richard Newdegate, bart. serjeant-at-law, son of Sir John Newdegate, and grandson of John Newdegate, who had exchanged them with Sir Edmund Anderson. Having been thus restored to the Newdegate family again they have continued in it ever since. It is remarkable that this manor (with the exception of a temporary alienation) has descended by intermarriages and a regular succession, in the families of Bacheworth, Swanland, and Newdegate, from the year 1284; when, by the verdict of a jury, it appeared that Roger de Bacheworth and his ancestors had then held it from time immemorial.

"Harefield Place, near the church, was the ancient mansion-house of the lords of the manor; and has been, for many years, a seat of the Newdegate family. After the alienation before mentioned, it became the successive residence of Lord Chief Justice Anderson and the Lord Keeper Egerton. The Countess Dowager of Derby, wife of the lord keeper, and with him joint purchaser of the manor, continued to reside here during her second widowhood. Here she was honoured with a visit from Queen Elizabeth, whom she received with all the pomp and pageantry of those days. Sir Roger Newdegate was once possessed of an account in manuscript of this visit,* with a collection of the complimentary speeches with which, as was customary on such occasions, she was addressed. Her majesty was first welcomed at a farm-house, now called Dew's Farm, by several allegorical persons, who attended her to a long avenue of elms leading to the house, which obtained, from this circumstance, the name of the Queen's Walk. Four trees of this avenue still remain, and the greater part were standing not many years ago. It was at Harefield Place also that Milton's Arcade was performed by Lady Derby's grandchildren; that great poet, during the time he lived at Horton with his father (from 1632 to 1637), was, it is probable, a frequent visitor at Harefield. After the death of the Countess of Derby, Harefield Place was inhabited by George, Lord Chandos, her grandson. This nobleman, during the civil war, attached himself to the royal cause, and behaved with great gallantry at the Battle of Newbury, having three horses shot under him. When the republican party had established themselves in power, he was obliged to pay a heavy composition for his estates. He then retired to Harefield, where he spent the remainder of his life in great privacy. Dr. John Conant, a celebrated preacher and divine, resided with him as his domestic chaplain; and, during his residence there, preached a voluntary lecture on a week day to a numerous congregation at Uxbridge. Harefield Place was burnt down about the year 1660. Tradition says that the fire was occasioned by the carelessness of the witty Sir Charles Sedley, who was amusing himself by reading in bed. It is probable he was on a visit to his sister-in-law, Lady Chandos. The foundations of the old mansion may be traced at a little distance above the site of the present house, which was formed by uniting the two lodges with an intermediate building. This was done by Sir Richard Newdigate, the second baronet, whose widow resided in it several years, it being her jointure-house; it was for some years also the residence of Sir Roger Newdigate, the last baronet."

* This account has since been found, and is now in the possession of the family.

SELBY, OF BIDDLESTON.

SELBY, WALTER, esq. of Biddleston, in the county of Northumberland, b. 2nd November, 1822, succeeded his father 23rd February, 1833.

Lineage.

The SELBYS have been seated time out of mind in Northumberland;* but, by a fire which unfortunately occurred in the year 1721, at Allenton, the parish in which they usually resided, the greatest part of their deeds and evidences were destroyed, and they are thereby deprived of the means of ascertaining with more exactness the remote line of their ancestry. The following grant, however, copied from the original, which has been preserved from destruction, shows beyond doubt that they derive from Sir Walter de Selby, who flourished in the reigns of HENRY III. and EDWARD I. as the lands thereby given to the said Sir Walter have continued uninterruptedly in the possession of his descendants, and are enjoyed by them to this day.—“Edwardus Dei Gratia Rex Scotorum omnibus fidelibus nostris ad quos præsens carta pervenerit salutem in Domino Sempiternam. The castle yielded on the 5th of October, and the Scottish prince, enraged at the check his progress had received, immediately ordered the gallant Sir Walter to be beheaded. In the time of RICHARD II. Biddlestone was held by JAMES DE SELBY, who had two sons, Alexander de Selby, and Ralph de Selby, a monk at Westminster, one of the barons of the Exchequer, and a privy counsellor to Kings HENRY IV. and HENRY V. This learned monk lies interred in Westminster abbey, under the following monumental inscription: “Here lyeth entombed the body of Ralph Selby, descended from the ancient family of the Selbies of Bittelsdun, in the county of Northumberland, a Monk of the Fraternity, a learned doctor in the civil and canon law, and one exceedingly beloved and favoured by Kings HENRY IV. & V. in the eighth year of whose reign he departed this world, anno 1420.—

* At a very early period the barony and manor of Prenderlath, on the Scottish border, was possessed by the Selbys.

Ralph's eldest brother, Alexander Selby, was father of John Selby, possessor of Biddleston, temp. HENRY VI. and of a daughter Mary, the wife of Thomas Hagerston, esq. of Hagerston. In the time of HENRY VII. John Selby held Biddleston, and in the following reign that estate was possessed by

SELBY, OF EARLE.

SELBY, THOMAS, esq. of Earle, in the county of Northumberland, b. 15th May, 1756, m. 30th September, 1812, Ann, daughter of Walter Rowland, Burgess of Berwick, and has issue, CHARLES. Leopold.

Anne.

Mr. Selby, succeeded his nephew in 1804.

Lineage.

The SELBYS, of Earle, derive, it is supposed, from a younger son of the ancient house of Biddleston. The estate of Earle was acquired by

WILLIAM SELBY, esq. who wedded, in 1698, Mary, one of the three daughters* and co-heirs of Robert Swinburne, esq. of Earle (of the Capheaton family), and had by her, who m. secondly, — Ilderton, esq. of Ilderton, a son and successor,

CHARLES SELBY, esq. of Earle, who m. Elizabeth Dun, alias Le Brun, a lady of French extraction, and had issue,

William, }
Charles, } who died unmarried.

Edward, who left at his decease one daughter, now living, and one son,

CHARLES, who inherited the Earle estate, but died unmarried in 1804, when it passed to his uncle, the present proprietor.

THOMAS, now of Earle.

Jane, m. first, to Dr. William Ormston, of Henderside Park, secondly, to Michael Pearson, esq. of Matfer, and, thirdly, to George Silvertop, esq. of Ministeracres.

Elizabeth, m. to Daniel Wilkinson, esq. of Felton, and left three sons.
Barbara.

Mr. Selby, in the rising of 1745, sent a man and horse to aid Prince Charles, and himself and servant assisted in conveying a sum of money, in louis d'or's from the Highlands to London, in the following year, but for this service, refusing to accept any remuneration, he was complimented with a piece of plate, from the prince then in France. Mr. Selby's youngest, but only surviving, son, is the present THOMAS SELBY, esq. of Earle.

Arms—Barry of eight sa. and or.

Crest—A Saracen's head.

Motto—Semper sapit suprema.

Estate—Two-thirds of the manor, or reputed manor of Earle, or Yardhill, in Northumberland.

Seat—Earle, near Wooler.

* Another of the daughters married William Selby's brother.
