The Work of the Institution is most comprehensive in character. It benefits the young by investing their savings in annuities and by helping them as Funds permit in their annual payments, by providing them with a temporary home and free registration, by which they can obtain engagements; also a Holiday Home, and by assisting them when in difficulties. To the old it offers temporary help, a settled income by the provision of free annuities, and a home for their declining years. Further, it suggests a means whereby, through the payment of an Annual Subscription they can claim the special consideration of the Society should necessity in later years compel them to seek its assistance.

NEARLY 2,000 Governesses are assisted Annually.

The Annual expenditure exceeds £20,000.

To maintain the present work

£12,000

is annually required from voluntary sources, including Legacies, which the Institution is compelled to spend.

Donations of Stock or money sufficient to establish an annuity will be funded, the amount bearing the Founder's Name, and the patronage, if he wish it, reserved to him for life. In this way the founder may benefit not only his nominee, but also all governesses who may subsequently enjoy his annuity.

Membership consists in the payment of an Annual Guinea, or of Ten Guineas in one sum; or in the case of a Governess Member, of not less than half-a-guinea per annum. Subscribers are entitled to vote for Annuities in the proportion of one Vote for each Annual Half-Guinea not in arrears, and one Life Vote for each Donation of Five Guineas.

PREFACE.

DURING the past year, which has witnessed the end of the Great War and the complete triumph of the Allied cause, many changes have been occasioned by the bestowal of a great number of well-merited honours, mostly for services in connection with the War, by the demobilization of a large part of the Naval, Military and Air Forces, by the sale of many estates and by the General Election and the changing of the names of numerous constituencies.

The deaths occasioned directly or indirectly by the War amount to a total of 982, including H.H. Prince Maurice of Battenberg; 21 Peers; 62 heirs apparent and 5 eldest, elder or only sons of heirs apparent of Peers; 18 heirs presumptive and 6 eldest, elder or only sons of heirs presumptive of Peers; the husband of a co-heiress presumptive of a Peer, and the elder son of a Peer's daughter and only child; 1 Privy Councillor; 45 Baronets; 76 heirs apparent and 4 eldest, elder or only sons of heirs apparent of Baronets; 17 heirs presumptive and 9 eldest, elder or only sons of heirs presumptive of Baronets, and the husband of a Baronet's daughter and only child; 7 Knights; 213 other heads of families; the husbands of 13 heads of families; the step-father of the head of a family; 444 heirs apparent and 12 eldest, elder or only sons of heirs apparent; 7 heirs presumptive and 14 eldest, elder or only sons of heirs presumptive, and the husbands of 3 heiresses presumptive of other heads of families; while the fate is still unknown of 2 Baronets, 3 heirs apparent of Baronets (one now a Baronet, if living), 2 heads of families, and 6 heirs apparent of heads of families.

The Editor has again to express his gratitude for a vast amount of information most courteously sent to him on the forms returned and in reply to questions, and would more especially thank the wives, widows and mothers of Officers for the information so generously furnished by them.

It has been his duty to note since the last publication the deaths of H.R.H. Prince John, youngest son of H.M. The King, of 55 Peers (including 1 Spiritual Peer and 2 Life Peers), of 9 wives, 26 widows (including the widow of a Life Peer), 8 heirs apparent, and 2 heirs presumptive, of Peers; the Baronies of Beresford of Metemmeh, Colchester, Courtney of Penwith, Forrest, Nicholson and Rathmore have become extinct; 8 Privy Councillors (other than Peers, Baronets, and Knights), 85 Baronets, 14 wives, 39 widows, 19 heirs apparent, and 16 heirs presumptive, of Baronets have died; 16 Baronetcies have become extinct; the deaths have occurred of 2 Dames of the Order of the British Empire, of 171 Knights, of 42 wives, and 70 widows of Knights, and of 456 other heads of families, 72 wives, 83 heirs apparent, and 8 heirs presumptive of other heads of families.

The Editor will always receive with the greatest gratitude any corrections, and will adopt, as far as possible, any suggestions which may be addressed to him, to the care of the Publishers, Messrs. Spottiswoode, Ballantyne & Co. Ltd., 1 New-Street Square, London, E.C. 4, and would suggest to any persons who may wish to use the work as a directory that it is advisable to read the notice as to postal addresses on page 1. The annoyance of having circulars returned by the Post Office may thus in many cases be avoided.

September, 1919.

EXTRACT FROM THE

PREFACE TO THE FIRST EDITION.

IT is impossible for me to send forth to the Public this work—the result of more than two years' constant labour and research—without acknowledging in terms of gratitude the kind and generous assistance which I have received from almost every quarter, in answer to the circulars which I have issued to the present representatives of the highest families in the three kingdoms, whether numbered among the 'titled' or the 'untitled' aristocracy, who, with few exceptions, have freely communicated to me the information which I requested at their hands. Here and there, it is true, my applications have been met with a refusal on the part of those who were most nearly interested; but even in these cases I have endeavoured to keep faith with the public, by instituting private inquiries among local friends and correspondents, and by consulting a large library of useful books of reference. By these means I have been enabled to produce a volume which, in spite of numerous imperfections, embraces the whole of the titled, and by far the largest portion of the untitled aristocracy of the three kingdoms, and may, therefore, fairly lay claim to be styled, in common parlance, a 'Dictionary of the Upper Ten Thousand.'

I am well aware that such a book as this must always remain, in one sense, imperfect in a country like our own, where, mainly owing to the influence of trade and commerce, individuals and families are continually crossing and re-crossing the narrow line which severs the aristocracy from the commonalty. But I can safely promise that, as often as a new edition of the 'COUNTY FAMILIES' shall be called for, the book shall be found in a state more nearly approaching completion, by the constant addition of fresh families to the roll of its contents, and by carefully noting the various changes wrought day by day by the silent operation of births, marriages, deaths, and preferments, in the families whose names I record.

It is to be hoped that the public and subscribers to the work will pardon such errata as they may find on referring to their names; and they will further oblige me if they will kindly communicate to me those errors, through my Publishers, in order that they may be rectified in future editions. When they call to mind that every separate entry involves a statement of from five to fifty facts, inclusive of dates, the public will be able to realize some portion of the labour of an Editor in preparing such a work as this for the press.

I have not chosen the title of this work without deliberation. I have called my book a MANUAL OF THE TITLED AND UNTITLED ARISTOCRACY, and have accordingly arranged both these orders under a single alphabet, because I remember the words of James I., that 'the king, though he can make a noble, cannot make a gentleman,' and because the bearing of arms, not of titles, has ever been considered as the distinctive mark of true noblesse.

ORDER OF PRECEDENCE AMONG WOMEN.

The general rule is that unmarried females take their rank from their fathers, married ladies and widows from their husbands, if superior in rank to themselves; but the wife or widow (while a widow) of a peer, if by birth of superior rank to her husband, takes only the precedence of her husband. The widow of a peer or baronet takes precedence while a widow of the wife of the existing peer or baronet. When there are widows living of two or more holders of any title, they take precedence inter se, according to the priority of their husbands in the succession.
