ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The authors wish to thank the South Carolina Historical Society (SCHS) for their encouragement and support of this research effort and for graciously allowing John Wilson to nearly monopolize the use of one of the microfilm readers at their Research Library, for several hours at a time, on a near daily basis. Special thanks go to Mr. Alexander Moore, Ph.D., SCHS Director, Mr. Stephen Hoffius, SCHS Director of Publications, and Mr. Peter Wilkerson, SCHS Archivist, for the valuable input, helpful suggestions, and kind comments given to us regarding the overall research project and this publication.

The South Carolina Historical Society is a private, non-profit organization dedicated to the preservation and study of South Carolina history. The Society is headquartered in the historic Fireproof Building, 100 Meeting Street, Charleston, South Carolina, 29401, and offers an excellent Research Library both to its membership, on a no charge basis, and to the general public, on a minimal daily fee basis.

One of the finest collections of Civil War manuscripts in the Country is housed at the South Carolina Historical Society, in addition to a wealth of other books, manuscripts, and letters relating to Genealogy, South Carolina, Colonial, and Early American History, and Slavery related subjects.

For additional information regarding memberships or public use of the SCHS Research facilities, write to the South Carolina Historical Society at the address noted above or phone the organization at 1-803-723-3225.

The authors would also like to thank Ms. Catherine Sadler, Director of the Charleston Library Society, and Ms. Virginia Matthews, Special Materials Cataloger, Thomas Cooper Library, University of South Carolina, for providing very helpful information to us regarding early South Carolina newspaper holdings and for the kind words expressed in our behalf regarding this work.

Special additional thanks go to family members Jack and Sandy Wilson for their many words of encouragement and helpful thoughts and suggestions given towards the development of this work.

INTRODUCTION

THE EARLY SOUTH CAROLINA NEWSPAPERS

For the purposes of this published research work, the Early South Carolina Newspapers are considered to be those South Carolina newspapers published in Charleston, South Carolina starting in the year 1732 and continuing through the year 1782.

These early newspapers are known to hold a wealth of information for people interested in pursuing research into Genealogy and Colonial/Early American History and provide us all with an accurate glimpse of life in South Carolina and America during the early days of our country.

The names and publication years of the early South Carolina newspapers are as follows:

South Carolina Gazette, 1732-1775
Gazette of the State of South Carolina, 1777-1780
South Carolina Gazette and Country Journal, 1765-1775
Charlestown Gazette, 1778-1780
South Carolina Weekly Gazette, 1758-1764
South Carolina and American General Gazette, 1764-1781
Royal South Carolina Gazette, 1780-1782
Royal Gazette, 1781-1782

The large majority of issues of these early newspapers were physically kept and safeguarded for the enlightenment of future generations and, today, the majority of the saved original issues of these newspapers are owned and held by the Charleston Library Society in Charleston, South Carolina. Other institutions and individuals, such as the South Carolina Historical Society, for example, are known to have smaller physical holdings of the early South Carolina newspapers as well.

Over recent years, these newspapers have been microfilmed to both insure their continued survival for future generations and to allow this valuable national resource to be available to researchers residing in other parts of the country.

Today, these early South Carolina newspapers may be found on microfilm in many Libraries and Research institutions throughout the United States. Please see Appendix A, starting on page 249, to view an extensive listing of Libraries and Research institutions across the United States that are known to hold these early South Carolina newspapers on microform.

ABOUT THE ESCN DATABASE REPORTS

The Early South Carolina Newspapers (ESCN) Database Reports are designed to be an easy-to-use quick reference resource for individuals to utilize when pursuing research into topics found with the early South Carolina newspapers. These Reports are the published results of completed research efforts to date, by publication year, into the contents of the early South Carolina newspapers by John H. Wilson, a retired Federal Government worker, who has held an avid interest in reading and history all of his life.

After returning to the Charleston, South Carolina area in 1992, Mr. Wilson initially conducted research on early Toolmakers of South Carolina for the Early American Industries Association and heavily utilized the early South Carolina newspaper microfilm archives of the South Carolina Historical Society for much of the Toolmakers research.

During the course of that research, Mr. Wilson became adept at reading the "Old English" style of print commonly used in the early South Carolina newspapers, which often is found to be confusing to read by the majority of English speaking peoples of modern day. Note: This confusion is mainly due to the fact that the "Old English" character of "s" is very similiar in appearance to the modern day English character of "f."

After completing the research noted above, Mr. Wilson began to research and compile data on the contents of local articles and advertisements found within the early South Carolina newspapers, in the hopes that he might be able to create a useful and easy-to-comprehend body of quick reference information for individuals to utilize when pursuing research on Genealogy and/or History related subjects within the early South Carolina newspapers.

A relational computer database was developed by his son, Gary S. Wilson, to support this research project. This database is known as the Early South Carolina Newspapers (ESCN) Database and provides a relational input and search structure for the acquisition and management of data found within the early South Carolina newspapers, as researched and compiled by the elder Mr. Wilson. The ESCN Database is capable of managing up to 16 million records and may be searched and sorted using a variety of relational formats.

ESCN Database Reports are compiled and published at the completion of research into a particular newspaper title for a given publication year. As of the date of this publication, the overall research project continues today and this and other ESCN Database Reports represent the published results of all research efforts completed on the early South Carolina newspapers by publication years to date.

PURPOSE AND USE OF DATABASE REPORTS

GENERAL PURPOSE OF THE ESCN DATABASE REPORTS

The ESCN Database Reports are designed to provide quick reference data on the contents of local news articles and advertisements found in the early South Carolina newspapers. Each ESCN Database Reports publication references a particular newspaper title and a particular publication year of that newspaper, such as the South Carolina Gazette for publication year 1732, for example. Quick Reference data is provided in the following subject classifications:

1. Individual names and associated data.
2. Company names and associated data.
3. Shipping & Maritime articles and associated data.
4. Slavery related articles and associated data.

Note: Articles dealing strictly with National or Foreign news subjects are not referenced in this research work.

Each of the general subject classifications noted above has been organized into a separate Listings Report format. These four individual Listings Reports make up the overall ESCN Database Reports for the indicated newspaper publication year. We trust the ESCN Database Reports will assist interested researchers to quickly locate articles or advertisements that contain relevant information per their particular sets of search criteria.

NEWSPAPER AND YEAR REFERENCED IN THIS PUBLICATION

This ESCN Database Reports publication references local news and advertisements found in the South Carolina Gazette newspaper, published in Charleston, South Carolina, in the year 1749.

Note: In the year 1749, the weeks of January 2 to January 19 of the South Carolina Gazette are missing and were not found on microfilm and the newspaper was not published from January 30 to February 25.

HOW TO USE REPORT INFORMATION

With the sole exception of the Slavery Related Listings Report, all Listings Reports noted above show record listings sorted and displayed in alphabetical order by their major search criterion (Individual names, for example). Simply search the alphabetical record listings within these Listings Reports to determine if your search criterion (JONES [last] Albert [first], for example) is included within the listings displayed. In the case of the Slavery Related Listings Report, record listings are sorted and displayed by publication date first.

Of course, the publication date is included in all Report record listings. Once you have located a listing of interest, simply note down the publication date, ask Library Staff for assistance in locating the microfilm archive for the newspaper and publication year desired, and then scroll through the microfilm until you reach the matching publication date. The article or advertisement containing the data shown in the listing will be found within the newspaper edition published on that particular date.

Note: Most of the early South Carolina newspapers were not published on a daily basis, but rather on a weekly, bi-weekly, or some other time period basis. The publication date noted in the Report listings is always the first date of any combined period date shown in the paper. For example, if the South Carolina Gazette displays a combined period date of March 1 - March 6, 1732 for a particular newspaper edition, the date noted within the Report listings would be March 1, 1732.

As noted previously, Appendix A, beginning on page 249, provides a listing of Libraries and Research institutions across the United States, where the early South Carolina newspapers may be found on microfilm. This listing is not intended to be comprehensive, but rather is intended to provide general holdings information regarding these newspapers, by State, for the various geographical areas of the United States. Check with library staff to determine if the early South Carolina newspapers are available on microfilm at your local library.

Appendix B, starting on page 255, contains a Glossary of Uncommon Words, providing definitions for various Old English and/or Early American words often found in these Reports, that may be unfamiliar to modern day readers.

Researchers who are searching for articles and advertisements that deal with specific occupations and/or subjects should consult the Occupation and Subject Indices, starting on page 257 of this publication, to quickly locate page references within the ESCN Database Reports that contain data records meeting their particular search criteria.

ESCN DATABASE SPECIAL SEARCH SERVICE

ESCN Database Reports offers a Special Search of its database records to the general public on a small search fee basis. Search fees are based on the number of matching records found for the user-defined search criteria and certain search restrictions apply.

This service is frequently utilized by individuals searching for newspaper publication data on specific surnames, for example, such as genealogists researching a particular family history. Other types of Special Searches are also available, however, such as a search for individuals having a particular occupation or perhaps a search for newspaper articles that deal with a certain subject matter.

Readers of the ESCN Database Reports publication who wish to learn more about this Special Search Service should contact ESCN Database Reports, 997 Johnnie Dodds Boulevard #615, Mt. Pleasant, South Carolina, 29464.

CORRECTION

The publication date noted in Report listings found in this book is always the LAST date of any combined period date that may have been shown in the newspaper. If the date shown in the newspaper was March 1 - March 6, 1732, the date shown in the listings would be March 6, 1732.

EXPLANATION OF LISTINGS REPORTS

UNDERSTANDING THE LISTINGS REPORTS

As indicated in the discussion regarding Purpose and Use of Database Reports, there are four (4) separate Listings Reports utilized within the ESCN Database Reports publication. These are the Individual Name Listings Report, Company Name Listings Report, Shipping and Maritime Listings Report, and the Slavery Related Listings Report. Each of these Listings Reports utilizes a slightly different format for the display of data records meeting the primary search criteria needed for inclusion within a particular Report.

In all cases, the first field displayed in a record listing within any of the Reports is either an Individual Last Name, a Company Name, a Ship Name, or a Slavery article Reference Name, depending upon the type of Listings Report used. These primary fields are displayed using all uppercase letters, to allow for easy identification of the field and its contents.

The publication date, as mentioned previously, is displayed in all record listings and utilizes a date format of MM/DD/YYYY. For example, January 5, 1732, is displayed as 01/05/1732. Additionally, the type of article where the data was found is always provided, immediately preceding the publication date.

INDIVIDUAL NAME LISTINGS REPORT

The Individual Name Listings Report provides the last name, followed by first name (if known), and other associated data (such as address and occupation of the person, when known) of individuals whose names appear within the early South Carolina newspapers. If the first name is unknown, "???" will appear immediately following the last name displayed. Additionally, there is always at least one (1) and up to three (3) article subjects noted in each record listing, to provide readers with information regarding the subject matter of the article or advertisement being referenced.

Note: Readers will often find different spellings for what are likely the same last or first names within the Individual Name Listings. This is how the names were displayed within the newspaper and no attempt has been made by the author to assume a particular correct spelling for any particular name. Additionally, the publishers of the newspaper often used a variety of abbreviations for various first names and those abbreviations are shown in the ESCN Database Reports as they appeared within the newspaper.

Individual Name Listings Report example:

BINFORD, Thomas (Charleston, SC), Merchant General Advertisement, 01/12/1732
Article Subjects: Sales/Merchandise, Financial Affairs, and Relocations.

COMPANY NAME LISTINGS REPORT

The Company Name Listings Report is almost identical to the Individual Name Listings Report format, but provides a Company Name and Type of Business field, if known, rather than an Individual Name and Occupation field. This Listings Report provides information regarding easily identifiable Company Names (such as Reed & Allen, for example) that are found published within the early South Carolina newspapers.

Of course, readers should be aware that many names found within the Individual Name Listings Report may also represent an ongoing business, where an individual is doing business on a sole proprietorship basis, for example.

Company Name Listings Report example:

MATTHEWS & RANDAL, (Pon Pon, SC), Merchant General Advertisement, 10/14/1732
Article Subjects: Sales/Land, Sales/General, and Rice.

SHIPPING AND MARITIME LISTINGS REPORT

Because of the historical and economic significance associated with South Carolina's Shipping and Maritime activities, the Shipping and Maritime Listings Report was developed to provide information on several fields of data regarding shipping and maritime related articles or advertisements published within the early South Carolina newspapers. The Ship Name is always provided in the record listings associated with this Report. The Type of Ship, Crewmember Name Reference, and Arrival or Departure information is provided in record listings whenever available.

We should note that this Listings Report is used to report any type of shipping or maritime related news. For example, information regarding Military Ships and their activities, Commercial Fishermen, Shipping Commerce, and other Maritime activity is provided within this Listings Report, whenever such information is found published within the source newspapers being researched.

Shipping and Maritime Listings Report example:

LOYAL NANCY (Brigatine) Cleared for Departure to London Customs House Notice, 04/15/1732
Shipmaster: Francis Bennett.

SLAVERY RELATED LISTINGS REPORT

Due to the large interest and historical significance associated with the subject of Slavery, the Slavery Related Listings Report was developed to provide quick reference information regarding published articles or advertisements containing data relating to the subject of Slavery.

Since such articles or advertisements normally did not provide the full name of a slave, the name referenced within a record listing in this Report is usually a reference name associated with the slavery article, such as a slave owner, a shipmaster transporting slaves, or perhaps an auctioneer involved in the sale of slaves. If the name referenced is that of the actual slave, the occupation field will show "Slave."

Records displayed within this Listings Report will provide information regarding the number of slaves noted whenever available, and will also provide particulars regarding the slaves, if available. These particulars might note whether skills, prices, or names were mentioned within the article, whether the slave origin is known, and whether the slave is being sold or auctioned. If the article indicates the slave being discussed was born in this country, the Slave origin field will indicate "Native Born."

Slavery Related Listings Report example:

BAMPFIELD, Elizabeth, (occupation unknown), notes 1 slave General Advertisement, 11/25/1732
Skills noted. For Sale or Auction. Slave origin: Native Born.

EARLY SC NEWSPAPERS MICROFORM HOLDINGS BY STATE

The geographical listing shown below provides readers with locations across the United States where the early South Carolina newspapers are known to be held on microform. These listings include University and College Libraries, Public and Private Libraries, and State Historical Societies.

The name of the main library, when available, is provided in all University and College listings; however, readers should be aware that many Universities and Colleges have more than one library on campus. Check with the staff at the main library indicated within the listing, to determine which library on campus holds the microform of these early South Carolina newspapers.

Please note that this listing is not intended to be all inclusive and readers should also check with local libraries in their own geographic area, to determine if the early South Carolina newspapers are available on microform in those locations. Note: These newspapers may be catalogued by individual newspaper names (see Introduction of book) or may be catalogued as a collection of miscellaneous early newspapers from South Carolina.
