INTRODUCTORY

GAZ

Many interesting facts relating to the Lumpkin family of Georgia, are recorded upon the pages that follow; though the writer does not claim the record to be complete.

It was the intention to include in this narrative all the sons, and the only daughter of John Lumpkin, (born 1762), and his wife, Lucy Hopson; and the two succeeding generations; but owing to the fact that satisfactory information could not in some instances be obtained; some lines have of necessity been omitted.

Mrs. E. B. Spalding of Savannah, Georgia, has been an enthusiastic and generous contributor, and doubtless knows more of the family history than any other. She is great grand daughter of Gov. Wilson Lumpkin, sister of the late Judge Pope Barrow, of the East Judicial Circuit; who was one of the most highly esteemed citizens of the State.

The record as here given is of course only a synopsis; there having been several members of the family; whose careers in life would easily furnish material for a volume.

It is a time honored customs with our best people; to record in the Family Bible; the dates of births and deaths, as they occur in the Family Circle. There are some families more highly endowed than others; more favorably situated in life, whose intellectual gifts, as well as attainments in life, call for a more extended recognition. Among the Lumpkin family and connections, have been many of this favored class.

Mrs. W. L. Peel of Atlanta, died Feb. 1923. She had been for years collecting data, and planning a family history, to consist of two volumes. I brought to her attention, the fact; that I had compile much information relating to the Lumpkin family, and suggested that she use my Mass as part of her work, and as a contribution from me. After examination, she readily accepted my proposition, and but for her untimely death; the work as here recorded would have appeared in her family volumes.

The information here given, will be invaluable to the future chronicler of the family.

On pages 236 and 395, "Whites Statistics of Georgia", much information relating to the Lumpkin family may be found.

The Lumpkin Family

There have been no records, found so far, ante-dating the time of Col. Jacob Lumpkins arrival in Virginia. On the Mattapony river in King and Queen County, St. Stephens Parish, there is an old Church, built perhaps as early as 1690, known as "Mattapony Church". A marble slab lies near the north door of this Church, which is inscribed as follows;

The inscription on the grave of Jacob Lumpkin is Latin, and if the same has been correctly copied, is defective. The translation is as follows:

JACOB LUMPKIN

Died on the 14 day of September 1708, 64 years of age.

A leader of soldiers; conqueror of the enemy.

Conquered by death.

May peace be with him; you shall live.

Eternal rest for the buried.

This grave has been visited by other members of the family; and though diligent search made for a "Thomas" among the Virginia Records, the name does not appear except at a later date.

Gov. Lumpkin speaks of "Dr. Thomas Lumpkin" as having been the first American ancestor, and the one from whom all others are descended; it is evident that he knew of Jacob, and that he came from England; how then could Thomas be ancestor of all the family in America.

The Public Records of King and Queen County have twice been destroyed by fire; once in 1828, again in 1864, and for this cause, all information relating to the earlier Lumpkins has been lost. The first family after Jacob of whom there is authentic record consisted of three brothers; George, Joseph, and Anthony Lumpkin. They were born about 1725, and lived in Pittsylvania County, Va. They were perhaps grand children of Jacob, the pioneer. George Lumpkin married Mary Cody, daughter of James Cody, and his wife Sarah Womack. They reared three sons; John, George, and Robert; and one daughter, Mary; named for her Mother. This daughter married Col. John Wilson and remained in Virginia. They left many descendants who rank among the best people of the State. The family chart will be found elsewhere in these writings.

John Lumpkin, son of George, was born in Virginia, 1763; married Lucy Hopson, came to Oglethorpe County, Georgia, 1784.

The home of Col Lumpkin (very near) was known as "Newington".

The foundation walls of his residence may still be seen from the Church door. He was evidently a man of wealth and station, and doubtless preceded by a line of honorable ancestors before coming to America. Traditions says, the stone that covers his grave was brought from England; the work of inscribing having been done after its arrival in America. He was born during the Cromwellian Era, and reached his majority soon after the accession of Charles, Second.

There is a question of much interest as to the one upon which they are to some extent divided, as to the first American ancestor. Some contend that it could be no other than Jacob Lumpkin, while others are skeptical upon this point.

As the matter stands at present; the writings of Gov. Wilson Lumpkin furnish the only clue, and this is not satisfactory.

When he was about seventy years of age; he addressed a letter to his daughter, Mrs. Alden; as he says, "for the purpose of giving some family history that he had not previously recorded". Several members of the family have a copy of this letter. In it he refers to the old grave, the marble slab &c; and gives other details that make the identification complete. He says further, "my father once visited this grave; for the purpose of ascertaining the correct method of spelling the family name". He says further; "so far as I had means of ascertaining; this individual is progenitor of all the Lumpkin family in America.

Gov. Lumpkin was intimately associated with both his father and grandfather during their lives; and must have learned from them much of the family past: in the letter to Mrs. Alden he says, "my grandfather gave me many interesting details about the ancestry of our family. This grandfather; George Lumpkin, was born about 1725, and about ten years after the death of Jacob Lumpkin. When Gov. Lumpkin spoke of the grave in Virginia; there is little doubt about his having in mind, Jacob Lumpkin, and unwittingly substituted the name of Dr. Thomas Lumpkin.

Dr. Thomas Lumpkin may have been the intervening link between Jacob and George. It is clearly evident that some of the descendants of Jacob Lumpkin went to the Pittsylvania section; and this perhaps accounts for the limited information that we have of the one or two generations that succeeded him.

The incscription on the grave of Jacob Lumpkin is Latin, and if the same has been correctly copied, is defective. The translation is as follows:

JOHN LUMPKIN

Son of Geo. Lumpkin and his wife, Mary Cody.

By Lucian Lamar Knight.

The Meson Academy, Lexington, Ga. was founded as the Academy of Oglethorpe County, but on Nov. 27th, 1807, became Meson Academy in honor of a wealthy townsman, Francis Meson, who bequeathed to the school a large estate. At the same time the following Board of Trustees was chosen to govern the School: John Lumpkin, Wm. Harris Crawford, Benj. Baldwin, Geo. Phillips, John Luckie, Obadiah Jones and Thomas W. Cobb, (uncle of Howell Cobb.)

Mercer University at Penfield, Green Co., Ga., was founded 1832, first called Mercer Institute. Dr. Billington M. Sanders, first Principal. Associated with Dr. Sanders as instructors, were, John O. McDaniel, J. F. Hilyer, J. W. Ataway, W. D. Cowdry, A. Williams and S. P. Sanford.

John Lumpkin was a member of the Executive Committee under whose oversight the school was established.

The celebrated Convention of 1798 at Louisville, Ga., framed the State Constitution under which Georgia lived for seventy-five years. Some of the Delegates:

Glynn County—John Burnett, John Cooper, Thomas Spalding; McIntosh County—John Houston McIntosh; Oglethorpe County, John Lumpkin, Thomas Duke.

Georgia, 1827-1838.

From Removal of the Cherokee Indians from Georgia

By Wilson Lumpkin.

"I am a native of Virginia, and was born in Pittsylvania County, January 14, 1783. When I was one year old my father removed to Georgia and settled in that part of the State then known as Wilkes County, now Oglethorpe County. My parents were of English descent on both sides and the birthplace of them and their ancestors for several generations past.

My mother's maiden name was Hopson. My parents had ten sons and only one daughter.

Eight of the ten sons as well as the daughter lived to form matrimonial connections and rear families of children. I was the second son and called after the husband of my father's only sister, Col. John Wilson, of Pittsylvania County, Virginia. My father and his father, George Lumpkin, settled on Long Creek in the year 1784.

My father had a good business education, wrote well, and was active and ready in the transaction of various branches of business.

Blessed by nature with a fine commanding person, upwards of six feet high and perfectly erect in his carriage; naturally fluent in speech, polite, courteous, and exceedingly popular in his deportment and social intercourse. Rather excitable in his temperament, yet he had sufficient command of his feelings to control his temper when his judgment deemed it proper and expedient to forbear.

During a long public life in various County Offices, few men ever maintained a more uniform popularity; although sometimes censured and blamed as a Public Officer, yet upon due investigation he never failed to rise higher in the public esteem.

He was for many years, acting Magistrate, or Justice of the Peace, in Wilkes County.

After the creation of Oglethorpe County, 1794, he was for many years, Judge of the Inferior Court; was a Member of the Legislature which passed the Rescinding Act of the Yazoo Fraud; a Member of the Convention which framed the present Constitution of Georgia; was elected a Jeffersonian Elector of President and Vice-President; was many years Clerk of the Superior Court of Oglethorpe County, besides in many trusts too tedious to mention.

These different positions always brought within reach of the family, a knowledge of many local public matters which were not accessible to many of the rising generation of that day.

In his home were found more Newspapers, books and reading matter, than was common to families of that period in similar circumstances; in other respects few men retained so large a share of popularity through life in their respective spheres than he did. From the first settlement of the County to this day, he and his immediate descendants have maintained as much character and influence in the County of Oglethorpe as has fallen to the lot of any other whatever.

My mother was a woman of great strength of mind, deeply imbued with the religion of the Bible, with which Book she was so familiar as to need no Concordance to find any passage of Scripture she desired.

At a very early age I paid great attention to all that was said by grown people, especially the aged. I have often sat quietly when a small boy, at my mother's feet, and heard her detail the hazardous experiences through which my maternal Uncle, Col. Joseph Hopson passed through the War of the Revolution, in Morgans Rifle Corps, in which he served a Captains command.

LETTER OF GOV. WILSON LUMPKIN TO HIS DAUGHTER, MRS. ANN ALDEN.

Athens, Ga., Oct. 20, 1852.

My dear daughter,

After I shall see my last of earth, some of my descendants may feel some interest in knowing something of the genealogy of our family; such things as I have not recorded; a few of which I will now append, in the form of a letter addressed to you.

Unimportant and commonplace as these things may appear to others; there may one yet unborn, who like myself would willingly dwell on the pages of the past.

In the History of England I find the name of Lumpkin, and though not conspicuously enrolled upon the pages of fame, I find nothing of reproach. Indications of mind utility and industry; may be described from the little I have seen of the name "Lumpkin" as an English name.

Among the early settlers of Virginia, I find the name of Dr. Thomas Lumpkin, who settled in King and Queen County in the old Dominion, in the Sixteenth Century. He brought with him from England, a small marble Tablet, or tombstone, to be placed on his grave, and there it stood a few years ago, unimpaired by time. I had a copy of the inscription taken from this stone, but it is now mislaid or lost, and I cannot now be accurate as to dates, etc.

From this individual, as far as I have been able to ascertain, have descended all the Lumkin family of the United States, some of whom are to be found in many of the States of our great and widely extended confederacy.

My father was probably a great grandson of Dr. Thomas Lumkin. My father in his youth on a visit to the coast of Virginia, visited the tomb of this, our first American ancestor. One motive of his visit, was to settle a disputed issue between my Grandfather and his brother, Joseph (my old schoolmaster) in regard to spelling the name "Lumpkin". My grandfather left out the "p". My fathers visit to the grave settled the controversy, the "p" was in it, and so we have all spelled the name ever since, (excepting my grandfather) who continued to leave the "p" out to the day of his death, in writing his name.

My grandfather gave me many interesting details concerning our ancestry, which I deem it unnecessary to reiterate here, suffice to say, while we have no royal blood, or aristocratic blood to boast of, I am content to know that we have no reproach or taint from our progenitors. If there be anything to produce a blush, it must be sought for in the present generation, of which I leave others to make up the record.

The Lumpkins, like all other families, have doubtless peculiar traits of character, but it would not become me to dwell upon these distinguishing traits, whether to our credit or discredit as a family. I feel that I may be allowed to say, industry and honesty are common traits in the Lumpkin family.

The reason why few of them have become wealthy, is neither for want of industry, talent, or vigilant care; it is because they are not disposed to hoard; but rather to enjoy the fruits of their industry. Allow me to state; many of my fathers family in early times, were remarkable for their gigantic proportions and physical power. My grandfather had a brother by the name of Anthony, who had twelve sons, all born of one mother. None of them were under six feet in height; their average weight being over two hundred pounds, yet none of them carried any surplus flesh. I have seen four of these giant sons of old Uncle Anthony, and truly they were most extraordinary men in physical appearance and power.

The Lumpkins have been a most prolific race of people. My grandfather however, lost most of his children in infancy.

He reared but three sons and one daughter who reared families of children; all of whom, except my father, continued to reside in Virginia to the close of their lives; except one of my father's brothers who came to Georgia at a later period of life, and died there.

The maiden name of my grandmother Lumpkin was Cody, and she like all the rest of those days, was a most excellent woman; just what the best of women should be. The Cody family of Warren County were her near relations; and upon investigation you will find them to be a highly respectable and meritorious family of people.

My grandfathers three sons were named; Robert, George, and John; and his daughter, Mary, after her mother.

Henry Hopson was the father of my mother, and his wives name was Martha Neville. My grandparents on my mother's side; made some pretensions to aristocratic blood, but I never had the patience or humility to investigate such pretensions; and this contempt of mine for royal blood and pretensions, prevented me from investigating the ancestral families, prevented me from investigating the ancestry of my mother as it was my duty to have done. On these high pretensions, my mother was disinherited for marrying my father, and yet my mothers marriage proved to be more advantageous to her than that of anyone of her brothers and sisters, whose matrimonial connections were formed with the entire approbation of their parents. However they both possessed great intrinsic worth of character; lived in and left the world with unblemished reputations, and both members of the Baptist Church in good standing; leaving a large Estate to be divided amongst the children; except my mother, who was disinherited for marrying against their approbation.

LUCY HOPSON LUMPKIN POPE

She was the daughter of Gov. Wilson Lumpkin, and his first wife, Elizabeth Walker; was born Feb. 23, 1803. Died Aug. 1838. She was married to Middleton Pope, Nov. 27, 1820. He was born May 2, 1794. Died Nov. 21, 1850; was son of Henry Augustine Pope, born Aug. 6, 1760. Died Dec. 9, 1807, and his wife Clara Hill, born Aug. 9, 1763. Died Nov. 16, 1798.

The subject of this sketch, was in many respects a remarkable woman; force of character and strong native intellect were hers in a marked degree, and these traits combined with an unselfish nature, peculiarly fitted her for the duties of wife and mother and the rearing of a happy home.

The successful career of her husband, owed much to a happy and beautiful home life, and the inspiration gathered from a knowledge of the fact, that his success would be shared by a worthy and affectionate wife.

Only one child, a daughter, came to gladden this home. but in her, with the numerous grandchildren that came later, a source of happiness and serenity was found that doubtless added many years to the natural span of life. Death came in the Eighty Sixth year of her age.

SARAH ELIZA POPE BARROW

She was the only child of Middleton Pope and Lucy Hopson Lumpkin. Born Oct. 17, 1821. Died Sept. 13, 1855. Married David Crenshaw Barrow, Oct. 23, 1838. He was born 26, 1816. Died March 18, 1899. Was son of James Barrow and Patience Crenshaw.

The tributes to this noble woman, written by those who personally knew her, attesting her shining virtues, her exemplary life, her intellectual gifts, show her to have been indeed a rare combination; and it is not a matter of surprise that those who were reared under her motherly care, so well sustained the family reputation. She was a gentle but strong character, deeply religious, a devoted daughter, wife and mother, and kind mistress.

Children of David C. Barrow and Sarah E. Pope.

MIDDLETON POPE BARROW

Born Aug. 1839. Died Dec. 23, 1903.

He married his first wife, Sarah Church Craig, March 5, 1867. She was the daughter of Lieut. Col. Lewis Stevenson Craig, U. S. A., and Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. Alonzo Church, for forty years President of Franklin College, (afterward, University of Georgia).

His second wife was Cornelia Jackson, to whom he was married, June 24, 1884. She was daughter of Gen. Henry R. Jackson, C. S. A., and Cornelia Davenport, his first wife.

He was graduated from The University of Georgia, A. B., 1859, sharing first Honor; it was then called, Franklin College; and from Lumpkin Law School 1860, B. L.

With Lamar Cobb as partner he was practicing Law at Athens, Georgia, when the State seceded from the Union. He promptly answered the call for Volunteers and joined The Troup Artillery, April 1861.

He saw service with that Company in Virginia as Lieutenant. Afterward until the close of the War, was A. D. C. on the Staff of Major General Howell Cobb with the rank of Captain.

After the close of the War, he resumed the practice of Law at Athens; was a Member of the State Legislative Body, and of the Constitutional Convention of 1878; and was U. S. Senator in 1882.

He changed his residence to Savannah, Ga., in 1892, and at the time of his death was Judge of the Superior Court, Eastern Judicial Circuit.

Judge Barrow was learned in the Law, and possessed in high degree the judicial temperament.

He was at the time of his death, Second V. P. General of The Sons of the Revolution, by right of his Grandfather, James Barrow, who enlisted as a Private in the Regiment of Col. Jethrow Sumner, North Carolina Troops of the Line. The Regiment was ordered to Pennsylvania, 1777. He was at the battle of Brandywine and Germantown, and the entire winter at Valley Forge.

Judge Barrow was one of the best known men of Georgia, and popular wherever known. An upright Judge, a model citizen.

JAMES BARROW

Born March 26, 1841. Was killed at the battle of Olustree, Fla., Feb. 20, 1864. He was never married.

He first attended the Ga. Military Institute, at Marietta, but afterward received an appointment to West Point through Senator Alex H. Stephens.

When Georgia seceded, he resigned, and was appointed Lieutenant of State Troops by Gov. Joseph E. Brown.

He was wounded at the Battle of Dam No. 1, in Virginia, April 16, 1862, and upon return to service, received the appointment of Adjutant General, on the Staff of Major Gen. Howell Cobb, where he remained until appointed Lieutenant Colonel of 64th Regiment, Georgia Volunteers, in 1863.

In an obituary written by Gen. Cobb, he says: "It fell to the lot of our noble young friend, with the colors of his Regiment in his hands, rallying and leading his troops to victory, to fall and fill a soldiers grave. He fell with his Country's flag in his hands, his Bible in his bosom, and died a soldiers death with a Christian's hope."

THOMAS AUGUSTINE BARROW

Was born March 25, 1843. Died Jan. 11, 1897. Married first, Feb. 8, 1872, Jennie Turner.

Married second, Sept. 27, 1882, Alice Hand.

He was a member of the Junior Class, University of Georgia, when the State seceded, at which time he volunteered and was assigned a place with the Troup Artillery.

He served for a time in Virginia with that Company; afterward on the Staff of Gen. T. R. R. Cobb, and later was made Adjutant of Hood's Battalion of Cavalry, holding this position until the close of the War.

He was ordained a Minister of the Baptist Church in 1889, at his home, Pelham, Georgia, and was the beloved Pastor of that Church until his death.

As a speaker he was eloquent, earnest and convincing; as a man and citizen, he exemplified in his life the high principles of faith, love and duty that he urged upon others. He was kind and unselfish by nature, always a friend to the friendless.

His life closed as he had lived, honored and respected by the community.

DAVID C. BARROW, JR., JUNE 1925.

Remarks by Dr. Andrew M. Soule in his report to Trustees.

"And now we come to the parting of the ways. For eighteen years I have been permitted to keep step with Chancellor Barrow; to counsel with him as occasion required; to share his burdens, and participate in his rejoicing; to gather wisdom from his maturity; to learn the importance of self control and the necessity of exercising consideration towards those who are unfair; and to drink withal deeply at the privileged well of sympathy and understanding. They have been eighteen beneficent years. I view their swift passage with great satisfaction as well as keen regret. They seem more to me than words can ever portray.

I cannot again hope to pass through pastures so rich and lush and so deliciously pregnant with sweet and alluring memories of good fellowship, loving consideration and charity that knew no limit. Georgia and Georgians have been blessed by the presence of a great and honorable man in their midst, a scholar, philosopher and friend in the finest accepted sense of that word. No nobler trinity of qualities ever adorned the life of any man. It is with extreme sadness and something of despair that I think about facing the tomorrows that are yet to come. I can say of a truth of my distinguished friend and councillor, that he "touched nothing that he did not adorn." My association with him will always constitute a blessed and enduring memory, on that account."

DAVID CRENSHAW BARROW, SR.

He was born July 26, 1815. Died March 18, 1889. Married Sarah Eliza Pope Oct. 23, 1838. He was the son of James Barrow and Patience Crenshaw, his wife. His daughter, Mrs. Ella Patience (Barrow) Spalding, has this to say of him, "My desire is to inform all who read this sketch, what manner of man he was; a cultured, upright, God fearing man, whose high sense of duty to self and fellow man, was greater than that of anyone I have ever known. There is no way to estimate the influence for good, of his character and example, to his children, grandchildren and to all who came within the sphere of his influence. He was not in the least stern, gloomy or dictatorial, quite the contrary. He was kind and most pleasant in intercourse with others; loved a joke, loved to see people happy and enjoy themselves; had a generous heart; stern only to wrong doers or wrong doing. While he did not seek or desire public office, was a man of strong convictions, and ever ready to meet the demands made upon him by his fellow citizens. He was a member of several important Conventions; among them, the Georgia Secession Convention, the one that nominated Breckinridge and Lane, was for years Vice-President of the Ga. Agricultural Society, Trustee of the University of Ga., and of the Lucy Cobb Institute, always greatly interested in the cause of education, and fulfilled his duty to his Church.

MARTHA LUMPKIN COMPTON

The name of Gov. Lumpkin's second wife was Annis Hopkins. She was a lady of northern birth; a descendant of Stephen Hopkins of Rhode Island, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

She was born Feb. 18, 1790, and the marriage took place Jan. 1, 1821.

They reared three children that lived to maturity, 1st, Samuel Hopkins Lumpkin, born Oct. 7, 1821. Died a student of the University of Georgia; was a youth of brilliant promise. 2nd, John Calhoun Lumpkin, born Dec. 2, 1824; married Susan (Whitehead) Rosseau, no issue. 3rd, Martha Wilson Lumpkin, born Aug. 25, 1827. Died Feb. 1917. She married Thomas M. Compton, Dec. 18, 1878, no issue.

Mrs. Martha Wilson (Lumpkin) Compton, was buried in Atlanta, the City having given a lot in Park View Cemetery.

Her Executor, Hon. Geo. M. Napier, had a suitable Monument placed over her grave, the inscription on same, (as per her request) was written by her grandnephew, Chancellor David C. Barrow, of Athens, and is as follows: In this spot set aside by the City, is buried

Wife of

THOMAS M. COMPTON

Daughter of

Governor Wilson Lumpkin

And his wife

Annis Hopkins Lumpkin

In honor of this lady Atlanta was once named Marthasville

Samuel H. Lumpkins monument, Athens, Ga.

Sacred

To The Memory Of

SAMUEL HOPKINS LUMPKIN

Son of Wilson and Annis Hopkins Lumpkin, who died the 18th day of February 1839, in the 18th year of his life.

He was gifted by nature with talents of a high order; these had been cultivated from infancy with assiduity and success, which placed him with the first youths of his age in elegant and useful attainments. As a member of the Junior class of Franklin College, his amiable and virtuous deportment, and the fidelity and ability with which he discharged all his duties, had endeared him alike to the Faculty and his fellow students and secured to him their esteem and admiration.

In him were blended in rich profusion the best qualities of the head and the heart, which aided by cultivation had formed a character of unsurpassed purity and refinement. As a son he was all that his fond parents desired. To them it is enough to have had such a son. To his family his loss is irreparable.

The regret felt at his death by all who knew him is the best eulogy on his character.

A mother's eyes are dimmed with tears,
Deep Anguish fills a father's breast,
The lovely hope of future years,
In dreamless sleep hath sunk to rest.

PREFACE

This history of the removal of the Cherokee Indians from Georgia is taken from two M S S volumes in my possession, entitled "Incidents connected with the life of Wilson Lumpkin", illustrated from selections from his speeches and Official writings, written and compiled by himself in the seventieth year of his age, 1852.

The volumes are such as were used for Deeds and Mortgages and contain thirteen hundred and seventy-five pages of closely written matter; some of which are on miscellaneous subjects.

The writing is very clear and distinct, and there are hardly any erasures or corrections. It is almost entirely in his handwriting.

(SIGNED)

Wymberly Jones DeRenne.

These volumes were published and copywrited by Mr. DeRenne 1907. The manuscript volumes are in the Wymberly Jones DeRenne Georgia Library, at the home of the DeRenne family, Wormsloe, Chatham Co., Ga., purchased from Mrs. Martha Lumpkin Compton, through a New York Agency. The manuscript volumes are highly valued by him, and kept in a safe.

This Library contains every History of Georgia purchasable, all maps, pamphlets etc., pertaining to the history of Georgia, from the earliest Colonial times. To house this invaluable collection, he built a fireplace library upon the immediate grounds of his home, "Wormsloe".

The family are descendants of Noble Jones, who came over with Oglethorpe, 1733.

The following extracts are taken from the two Volumes (Published Edition) presented to Chancellor D. C. Barrow, by Mr. DeRenne.

Vol. I pages eleven and twelve.

My father being Clerk of the Superior Court, I had frequently in my School days at times when at home been put pretty closely for weeks together, to copying various writings appertaining to the Clerks Office, and became very familiar with the Laws of Georgia, and could readily draw up in due form, Deeds, Wills, Bills of Sale, Mortgages, etc.

From 16 to 18 was devoted to the Clerks Office, or to laboring in, or superintending my father's farm; during which period I had access to books in which I became deeply interested, and availed myself of every hour of time which could be spared from business.

I read Josephus, Plutarch, Rollin, Gibbon, Hume and many other useful books; Blackstone, I had been reading before. I read Smith's Wealth of Nations, Vattel and Paley's Philosophy, with deep interest, and then became an unwavering convert to Free Trade.

My time was devoted to home duties; continued to do occasionally heavy jobs of writing for my father who was still Clerk of the Superior Court. A portion of the twentieth and twenty first years of my age were spent in teaching school, in a house built by my neighbors near my residence.

Before the school year closed had upwards of forty scholars.

On the first Monday in October 1804, I was elected a member of the Legislature of Georgia, by a vote of the people of Oglethorpe County, extraordinary for its approach to general consent. I was thus without the slightest seeking on my part, transferred by the popular voice from my school house to the halls of the Legislature. The presiding officer of the house, Abram Jackson, of Burke County (Brother of our distinguished James Jackson (Gen) and a man of more than ordinary qualifications for the station with which he was honored. Gov. Milledge filled the Executive Chair; Mr. Jefferson, President.

The following is copied from the writings of John T. Boifeuillet in the Macon Evening News:

In 1842, eighty years ago the doors of the Georgia State Sanatorium were thrown open for the admission of the first insane inmates.

I have read that the first reference of any kind to the necessity of establishing an institution for the care of the insane in Georgia, is to be found in the Annual message of Gov. Wilson Lumpkin addressed to the Senate and House of Representatives of the Statte of Georgia, Nov. 4. 1832, as follows:

"While our thoughts have turned to the abodes of the unfortunate, I would avail myself of the occasion most earnestly to invite the serious attention of the Georgia Assembly to another class of individuals who are to be found in every community, and who deserve to be among the first objects of Legislative care and attention. I allude to Idiots, Lunatics and insane persons of every description. Every Government possessing the means, should without hesitancy or procrastination, provide suitable Asylums for these most distressed and unfortunate human beings,"

There is no record of any action following this recommendation.

MRS. E. B. SPALDING-1922

My grandfather, Middleton Pope was essentially a private citizen. He was a man of fine business ability, of sterling integrity and honor, and generous nature. I do not remember him, being only two years of age at the time of his death, but grandpa has talked to me, and I know how my father honored him and he in turn honored my father.

He was a successful Planter, and left much Real Estate, part of which he had inherited from his father. His personal property amounted to nearly one hundred thousand dollars, as appraised at his death. Under the will, my father was sole Executor, with authority to sell all, or any part of his property, to change investments, etc., at will. In spite of his wealth he lived quietly, with ostentation or show; but with every comfort; surrounded by his devoted family.

The next time I visit Athens, will send you the inscription on Uncle Sammy's tomb, which is quite long. It is in the old Cemetery, not far from the Chancellor's residence on the campus.

The three pictures sent you were the children of the Annis Hopkin's marriage; a handsome oil painting now the property of Mrs. Peel, left her by Aunt Mattie. The portrait of grandpa was painted while he was a member of the Senate. There is a very fine picture of him as Governor, of which I have a copy, I think a steel engraving. The oil portrait of which I sent you the small wood cut, Aunt Mattie left to the State.

Brother David bought from her a miniature, painted I think, in Washington.

Aunt Mattie should have been buried in Athens beside her father, but there was no choice, she directed where she should be buried, in her will.

ELIZABETH WALKER LUMPKIN

In a letter addressed to Mrs. Lucy Hopson Lumpkin Pope, (his daughter) Gov. Wilson Lumpkin says, "You are apprised that your mother's maiden name was Elizabeth Walker." She was born in Wilkes County, Ga., April 19, 1786. Her father was Rev. Sanders Walker, a Baptist Minister of highly respectable standing. He passed through a life of extensive usefulness for upwards of three score years and with a spotless and unblemished character. He never said to the naked, "Be ye clothed," or to the hungry, "Be ye fed," without lending a helping hand to their necessities.

Your grandmother's maiden name was Sarah Lamar. She married first a Mr. Cinquefield, by whom she had an only daughter, after a few years of widowhood she married your grandfather Walker, in very many respects, she was the most perfect Scripture model of a woman that I have ever known.

FROM LETTER OF MRS. E. B. SPALDING

I have just read a sketch of Grandpa Lumpkin's early life, relating much to his father, John Lumpkin, written by himself. He says: "My parents had ten sons and one daughter. Eight of the ten sons, as well as the daughter, lived to form matrimonial connections and rear families. I was the second son and called after the husband of my father's only sister, Col. John Wilson of Virginia, her name was Mary, named for her mother. The extract is taken from his manuscript volume, now the property of the DeRenne family. Mr. DeRenne bought the mass from Aunt Mattie, and stored them in his Historical Library of Georgia, at Wormsloe, his home, near Savannah.

In writing for information about Aunt Martha's family, it might be well to call her, Aunt Patsy, as well as Martha; I refer to Aunt Martha Calloway.

I will send the Barrow record book to you soon: with some changes one of these is the date of my brother's election as Chancellor of the State University, which was June 1906. Walter B. Hill died Dec. 28, 1906, brother David was elected at the next Commencement.

Brother has placed a monument over Gov. Lumpkin's grave. I saw it when in Athens two years ago. It is a handsome and enduring memorial of granite.

I am sending you the long looked for list of John and Lucy Hopson Lumpkin's ten sons. Thomas Jefferson must have been the eighth one who married, since Robert and Neville died young.

I thank you for the Calloway record; I remember the Shelton Olivers; the home place was eight miles from Lexington. The Olivers lived nearer Lexington in the old home of Wm. H. Crawford; they were people of means and held themselves very high.

Now about the Camak family at Athens. The two sons of the late Mrs. James Camak, Sr., Louis and James, live in the beautiful old Camak home. I wished to get a picture of the place to send you. The house was built and the place beautified by Dr. James Camak's father, who came originally from Milledgeville. All the family have passed away but these two young men and Jamie's little son. Jamie's wife was Miss Smythe of Augusta. The little boy lives with his grandmother Smythe, but she brings him up on occasional visits to his father.

While in Athens, I inquired about the graves of Chief Justice Lumpkin and his wife. They are buried near the big central monument, but no small stones mark their graves, and their names are not on the big monument.

A daughter of Jacob Lumpkin (1644-1708) is said to have married a Braxton, of the Carter Braxton family; who was one of the "signers" for Virginia.

I would like to read the letter of Mrs. Lewis Walker, of Milton, N. C., great granddaughter of Col. John Wilson of Virginia: How did you get in touch with her?"

My nephew thinks Grandpa Wilson Lumpkin gave the land for the Athen's Cemetery, but says the facts can be ascertained through brother David, who is Chairman of the Trustees of the Oconee Cemetery.

That was a fine tribute to grandpa by Mr. Mell. You doubtless know of Samuel Olive who was President of the State Senate. He is a descendant of Samuel Lumpkin, son of John Lumpkin, and nephew of Samuel Lumpkin, one of the associate justices of the Supreme Court of Georgia. His mother, Mrs. Lucy Lumpkin Olive, lives with him in Augusta, Ga.

The package containing the book, "History and Antiquities of Kilkenny", and the Coat of Arms of the Cody-Archdeacon family received, and I cannot express my appreciation to you of same. I will copy from the book, and will have a copy made of the beautiful "Arms". It is an ancient one, dating back many centuries. It's having no motto, I am told, indicates one of the oldest; and some of the insignia indicating a Crusader.

Granpa Lumpkin's Plantation, or rather, what was left of it, was sold by Aunt Mattie to the University of Georgia, and it forms part of the campus extension. The Agricultural Department is situated there. The large building which is used for the Forestry Department, was built almost against his stone house. There is some talk of razing the old home, what a shame it would be.

Grandpas house faced the opposite direction from the cemetery. The driveway, nearly one fourth of a mile in length I should say, ran down to Lumpkin Street, one of the principal streets of Athens, which runs almost the entire length of the city. One entered a gate from Lumpkin street and drove along until at the end was a second gate, and there among the cedars was the house. The driveway divided here, continuing right and left, and in front of the house were flower beds and shrubbery. It was so dignified and simple as to be very impressive. I remember that at the left of the steps there was a bed of Valley Lillies.

The older part of what is known as "Oconee Cemetery" was part of Gov. Lumpkin's Plantation, then being just outside the city limits, and along the Oconee river. Additional land was afterward acquired on the opposite side of the river, which is here spanned by a bridge, making the new part accessible. The land is extremely rugged and hilly on both sides of the stream, though picturesque, and the location ideal for a cemetery.

Passing through the gate at the front entrance, the driveway continues straight ahead for a short distance, then diverging to the right and left, encircles the hill.

Upon the crest of this hill he reserved a large circular lot to be used as a family burial place. While retaining its circular contour, the size of the lot seems to have been greatly curtailed, thus destroying his original plan.

Standing in this lot and facing the entrance, to the left, the hill falls to a small running stream; on the other side of which another hill rises high and steep. On the top of this hill, his stone residence is situated.

I am enclosing some letters from Mrs. Hale which I think will be of interest to you. You will notice in one she says, "I spent a whole week in Richmond searching the records for a Thomas Lumpkin, but found no Thomas till 1790."

If you find any items that you think would be of interest to Cousin Lucy Peel, you might give them to her.

The extract from "Removal of the Cherokees" is taken from portions of Gov. Lumpkin's two MSS Volumes which Mr. DeRenne bought from Aunt Mattie. His father began the Historical Library relating to Georgia, and he continued it. Once or twice they have published books from manuscript; not for sale but for private circulation. My brother David had a copy that Mr. DeRenne gave him, from which I copied is all relating to the family in general. In the remainder he tells of his life, his first public service etc. I had the Manuscript Volume in hand a year or so ago through my nephew Craig, found "House Building" and copied it. We have Mr. DeRenne's permission to publish it.

Did you ever write to Mrs. Green? Cousin Miriam Hale admires her so very much; so did Mrs. Sims who knew them both, became friends while Mrs. Sims was living in St. Louis. Mrs. Sims is related to me through both Popes and Hills.

Do you notice that George Lumpkin, first, willed all of his personal property to his grandson William? This confirms the record that William was the eldest son of John Lumpkin, second. Mrs. Green of St. Louis is a descendant of William Lumpkin. Did I send you her address? Mrs. Hale and Mrs. Green are both prominent in the D. A. R.

You express surprise that no one has recently visited the grave on Mattapony River to confirm the commonly accepted statement that the name as there inscribed is Jacob Lumpkin; this, Mrs. Hale of St. Louis did (descendant of Jack Lumpkin) and wrote me of her trip. She gave the inscription on the tomb and sent a picture of the church. Besides this I have a copy of Bagby's "History of King and Queen" who gives the full Latin Epitaph and the name as Jacob.

There is not a shadow of doubt as to Jacob Lumpkin having been the progenitor of the Georgia family, that is the descendants of George and John Lumpkin, and the intervening generation between Jacob and George having been Dr. Thomas Lumpkin. Grandpa Wilson Lumpkin must have had this information. You recall that he states his memoranda had been lost, and that he might be incorrect as to dates etc, but that we are descendants of the individual buried at the church on the Mattapony River.

"Aunt Patsy" as mentioned is Martha Lumpkin Callaway, the only daughter of John and Lucy Hopson Lumpkin. They lived in Wilkes County at their plantation home, in quite a handsome brick house. They had a summer home in Buncombe County, North Carolina, and sometimes made visits there, riding across the country in their carriage. Grandma Pope told me about them and she was always spoken of as, "Aunt Patsy" which you know is a diminutive of Martha."

FROM LETTER OF MRS. E. B. SPALDING WHILE AT ATHENS, GA., 1922.

I think it is well that you will write the Cody article for Mrs. Peel's forthcoming book, for you know it, and your writing is clear and concise. I am glad she asked you to do this, and very glad that she will give you credit for same.

Brother David has had Uncle Sammy's remains placed beside his father's grave in the Athen's Cemetery.

As soon as I have opportunity, will get the inscription and send it to you; also some more information about the lot.

I am enclosing some extracts from Gov. Lumpkin's book, "Removal of the Cherokees" from which you will see it was not his father, John Lumpkin, but himself, who was a member of Congress in 1804, and Commissioner of the Cherokees.

Mrs. William Green resides in St. Louis. Mrs. Sims informed me that she is a very lovely woman, and quite prominent in D. A. R. circles. Her husband is in some way connected with the "Missouri" or "St. Louis" school for the blind, perhaps President. Mrs. Hale may be able to give you her address.

According to the John Wilson record as given by Mrs. Lewis Walker, of Milton, N. C.: Mary Lumpkin was born 1749, died 1827, at 78 years of age. So George Lumpkin, her father, must have been born not later than 1730, and she his first born. George received a Land Grant in Amelia County, south side of Appomattox River, Sept. 20, 1748. That may have been the year of his marriage.

Gov. Lumpkin says his grandfather had a large number of children born, but reared only four. John Lumpkin must have been one of the younger, as his wife was born May 17, 1764 (church record) and he in 1762.

Gov. Lumpkin was President of the Board of Trustees of The University of Georgia at the time of his death. I think he esteemed his service on that board for so many years, one of the highest honors of his life. His memorandum book is now the property of E. K. Lumpkin, of Athens, Ga., who is a grandson of Judge Joseph Henry Lumpkin, and he also has the bust that was made while Gov. Lumpkin was a member of the United States Senate.

FROM MRS. P. H. HALE, 4102 WESTMINSTER PLACE, ST. LOUIS, MO.

In the year 1690, Jacob Lumpkin was granted land for importing eleven Whites and three Negroes to Virginia. I had record of another grant, and importation by him, but have mislaid it; I feel sure some of these were of his family.

I am a direct descendant of David Stokes and his wife, Sarah Montfort, of Virginia and Carolina. William Stokes, my great grandfather lived in Wilkes County, Ga. I am named for William Stoke's daughter, who was the wife of William Strong, of Virginia, a soldier of the Revolution; my mother was daughter of Jack Lumpkin, (son of John Lumpkin) Mary Ann Susan Lumpkin, (Mrs. James Madison Strong).

I have visited the tomb of Jacob Lumpkin at the old church on the Mattaponi River in Virginia. The inscription is in Latin, but there is no horses head on it, nor has there ever been one.

I had some pictures made of it, one of which I sent to Mrs. Peel; one with myself standing beside it, my hand resting on the rail; I also sent her a picture of the old church. I think Dr. Thomas Lumpkin of King and Queen County, must have been the father of Geo. Lumpkin and others. Somewhere I have a lawsuit against Dr. Thomas Lumpkin by a patient.

I have gone over these matters with Mr. Lyon G. Tyler and others in Virginia. This gentleman was instrumental in restoring the tomb. He said the tracing was the original. It is a very large slab, lying flat. The Virginia Society has put a nice iron railing around it.

I have Stokes and Strong Wills. The Strongs go back to 1755 in Hanover County, Virginia. My father was born near Athens, Ga. His grandfather's will is that of a gentleman, and most beautifully worded.

The records show that James Cody resided on the Capon river, in Virginia. It was decided at a term of court, to build a good road to the Cody place. "Cody's Castle" is also mentioned. (from Cartnell's History of Virginia).

The following is from James H. Medley, Clerk of Court, Halifax County, Virginia, July 8, 1918:

I find from the records that George Lumpkin of the Province of North Carolina, and Mary Lumpkin, his wife, conveyed land in this county. He had grants to land in this county in 1761. He bought a number of grants in this county that had been taken out by others in 1766.

Mrs Thomas Sloan (nee Anna Lumpkin) of Arkadelphia, Ark., is a descendant of Jonathan Ragan. I have a copy of his will, dated April 6, 1813, Oglethorpe County, Ga. She is also a lineal descendant of William Lumpkin, eldest brother of Gov. Wilson Lumpkin.

REV. GEORGE LUMPKIN

Was one of the eight sons of John Lumpkin and his wife, Lucy Hopson, and measured fully up to the family standard. He was born April 5, 1788, in Oglethorpe County, Ga.

His first wife was Sarah Pope. She was sister of Middleton Pope, who married a daughter of Gov. Wilson Lumpkin. They had one son, John Henry Lumpkin, born June 12, 1812, died June 6, 1869. This son, John Henry Lumpkin, located at Rome, Ga., and was one of the leading lawyers of the State. He was Judge of the Superior Court several terms, and also represented his district in Congress, and by a very narrow margin missed the nomination for Governor just prior to the War of the Sixties. His first wife was a Miss McCombs of Milledgeville, by whom he had a son, Anthony, who died early, also a daughter, Madeline, who married Joseph Gerdine of Athens, Ga., no issue. Judge Lumpkins second wife was a native of Tennessee, by whom he had two children; one of these, a son was named Samuel, his wife after death of her husband, returned to her native State taking the two children with her. Judge Lumpkin also had a brother, Frank, who died unmarried in Little Rock.

Rev. Geo. Lumpkin's second matrimonial venture occurred 1822, when he married Miss Francis Calloway, she did not live long. No issue.

His third wife was Lucy Davis; their children as follows:

Angelina Lumpkin; Matilda Lumpkin, married Milner; Sarah G. Lumpkin, married Varner; Dr. George Lumpkin, married Janie; Martha E. Lumpkin, married Burnett Moore.

Children of Martha E. Lumpkin and Burnett Moore: Geo. Burnett Moore, married Hattie Boswell; Thomas Cobb Moore, married Lucy Hall; Clem Grant Moore, Sr married, Lula Gunn; Sallie Moore died young; Lucy Orphelia Moore, married Jos. N. B.; Martha E. Moore (Patti), married, Leonidas T. Thomson; Rebecca Moore, married Julius W. M. Children of Thomas Cobb Moore and Lucy Hall: George Burnett Moore; Gladys Moore, married Loyd Barrett of Barnsville; Clem Grant Moore, Jr.; John Hall Moore.

MRS. WILLIAM LAWSON PEEL.

From the Atlanta Constitution. Feb. 1923.

Mrs. W. L. Peel, prominent in Atlanta's social, musical and civic circles, died last night at her home on Peachtree road after an illness of about three months duration.

Mrs. Peel was daughter of the late Gen. Phil R. Cook, of the Confederate Army, and afterward Secretary of State.

Her brother, Phil R. Cook, also deceased, held the position of Secretary of State for many years after his father's death.

She was born in Schley County, on Nov. 13, 1849, and received her college education at Wesleyan.

On April 22, 1874, she married Col. William Lawson Peel, for many years one of Atlanta's leading Bankers, and President of the Atlanta Music Festival Association.

Mrs. Peel is survived by her husband and three daughters, Mrs. Phinzy Calhoun, Mrs. W. H. Kiser and Mrs.

Stephen Watts, of Charlottesville, Va.

Work For D. A. R.

Next to her family, Mrs. Peel's interests were chiefly concerned with the progress of the Joseph Habersham Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

This Chapter was founded years ago at a meeting in her home and she was one of the original members.

Among other titles she held in the work of the D. A. R. were, Honorary Life Regent of the Habersham Chapter, Ex-Regent of the state organization, and ex-vice President general of the National Association.

It was through her efforts that Georgia today observes Georgia Product's day once a year, this affair being staged at the Auditorium-Armory, under the auspices of Habersham Chapter. Through the establishment of such a dinner, Georgia products have been brought prominently to the front, and a larger market created for them in this and other States.

Her Work for Home

Years ago she conceived the idea of building a home for the Habersham Chapter. She sponsored numerous entertainments to raise funds for this purpose, and her work was finally crowned with success. The home was erected at the corner of Piedmont Avenue and Fifteenth street, and stands there today as a monument to her energy and her influence in the ranks of her organization.

Members of the Chapter stated early Saturday morning when information of her death was announced, that they had intended to obtain the next State Convention of the D. A. R. for Atlanta, the meeting to be held at the Chapter House largely as a tribute to Mrs. Peel, and that in all probability the plan would be carried through, even though the guiding spirit of the enterprise will not be here to take part in the proceedings of the organization she loved so well in her life.

Work In Other Lines.

Although her work for the D. A. R. was her greatest love, the interest of no woman in Georgia covered so wide a variety of subjects.

Her contributions to the editorial columns of the Constitution on many subjects have been read with the deepest of interest. She wrote on timely subjects of the day, and in many cases her articles resulted in steps of benefit to the City.

Ever since the time that Atlanta first enjoyed Grand Opera, she has been one of the leaders in making this one of the big social events of the season.

Entertainments given by Col. and Mrs. Peel always were features of the week.

War Time Efforts.

When America entered the war on the side of the Allies, she was named President of the Atlanta chapter of the National League for Women's Service, and did valuable work in this connection.

Soon, however, she resigned this post in order to do service entailing a greater cost, through the Habersham Chapter. She gave numerous entertainments to raise funds for the boys and sponsored social affairs for them.

Mrs. Peels last illness began last November. Several times during the last month she had sinking spells; when her death was considered only a matter of hours. Her remarkable recuperative powers proved astonishing to her Doctors. Until the end she kept up her interest in her family and in affairs of organizations dear to her. Friday, it was apparent that her end was not far off, and death came about midnight.

A REMARKABLE WOMAN.

(Lucy Cook Peel)

From The Atlanta Journal Feb. 1923.

The death of Mrs. William Lawson Peel, takes away one of Georgia's most remarkable women.

For nearly a half century she has been an active factor in the social and civic life not only in Atlanta, but of the State.

She was in every way a most remarkable woman. Possessing indomitable energy, she was ever ready to throw the tremendous driving force of her personality back of any movement in which she was interested. Her will and determination thrust aside all obstacles standing in the way of the end sought. She made up her mind what she wanted to do, outlined her program and did it, and her achievements were such as to often surprise the public in completing undertakings that seemed impossible of fulfillment.

Her life was a direct illustration of the truth of the adage, "Where there is a will, there is a way."

Mrs. Peel was a born leader of men as well as women. Anyone coming under the influence of her personality was swayed by it. She led by the power of the driving force of her energy. No more remarkable woman has lived in Georgia since the War between the States.

Her counsel will be missed in all the affairs in which she was interested and the scope of her activities led into all branches of civic, church and social life.

The sympathies of the whole State will be extended to her noble husband, Col. W. L. Peel, long one of Atlanta's leading citizens, and to her three daughters, all of whom are active factors in the activities of the communities in which they live, and all inheriting the splendid qualities of their parents.

Mrs. Peel is grandniece of Gov. Wilson Lumpkin, and daughter of Gen. Phil Cook of the Confederate Army.

Her brother, Phillip R. Cook, held the position of Secretary of State for many years after his father's death. She is granddaughter of Henry Hopson Lumpkin.

John Lumpkin, my great grandfather, selected the site for the old Court House in Lexington, Ga., my former home, and when the old building was razed to make place for the present one, his name was found on papers in the old corner stone. I regret that I did not secure copies of same.

John Lumpkin and his wife (mother of Martha and his ten sons) are buried down near Buffalo Creek, a few miles from my father's old plantation. Their graves are not marked.

His talents, energy and sterling character, brought success in his chosen field, and he was recognized as one of the best lawyers in the state.

At the commencement of hostilities in the Sixties, he organized "Cobb's Legion", and with other Patriots prepared to meet the common enemy and invader of their homes. He was killed at Fredericksburg, Dec. 13, 1862.

Intellectuality and brilliancy of mind were common attributes of the Cobb family. Major Gen. Howell Cobb was a brother, but much older.

MILLER GRIEVE

On page 60 of Rev. Geo. G. Smith's History of Georgia, he writes as follows: Miller Grieve, a sturdy Scotchman, came to this country a youth, and died in it at an honored old age. He had a daughter, Callender, who became the wife of Chief Justice Joseph Henry Lumpkin.

He was a man of great worth, and strong mind; a whig of the olden time, when the "Recorder" and the "Federal Union" were the rival political papers of the State.

CHIEF JUSTICE JOSEPH HENRY LUMPKIN.

He was the first Chief Justice of Georgia, appointed during the Administration of Gov. Crawford, the two Associates having been, Eugenius A. Nisbet and Hiram Warner. He was born Dec. 23, 1799. His wife's maiden name was, Callender Grieve, daughter of Miller Grieve and his wife, Marion McHenry Grieve. Tradition says: the maiden name of Miller Grieve's bother was Callender Miller.

The maiden name of Judge E. K. Lumpkin's wife (Athens Ga.) was Mary Bryan Thomas. She is daughter of John G. Thomas and his wife, Susan Agnes Carr. John G. Thomas is son of John Sherod Thomas and his wife, Mary Neyle.

HON. HOKE SMITH.

He was born at Newton, North Carolina, Sept. 2, 1855. He was the son of Hosea Hildreth Smith, (A. B., L. L. D.) and Mary Brent (Hoke) Smith. He moved to Georgia in 1872 and studied law while teaching school. He was admitted to the bar when seventeen years of age in 1873, and practiced in Atlanta from 1873 to 1893, and from 1896 to 1907.

He married Birdie Cobb, daughter of Gen. Thomas R. Cobb, Dec. 19, 1883, her death occurred in 1919, and five years later, on Aug. 27, 1924, he married Mazie Crawford.

He has four children, a son, Marion Smith, and three daughters, Mrs. Mary Brent Ransom, Mrs. Lucy Hoke Smith Simpson and Mrs. Callie Hoke Smith Pratt.

He was a delegate to the Democratic State Concession 1882, President of Young Men's Library of Atlanta, 1881-1883, President Atlanta Board of Education 1896-1907, Delegate to Democratic Convention 1892, Secretary of the Interior during President Cleveland's Administration, 1893-1896, Governor of Georgia, 1907-1909, while serving a second term as Governor, was elected U. S. Senator 1911, was re-elected for the term, 1915-1921. He then resumed the practice of law in Washington, D. C. then returned to Atlanta.

While Governor of Georgia, the Convict Lease System was abolished, State College of Agriculture was founded, the first State-wide Prohibition Law in a Southern State was passed, and general educational reforms.

While U. S. Senator, he was Chairman of the Committee on Education and Labor, and served on various other Committees.

JOSEPH HENRY LUMPKIN, JR.

He was the son of William Wilberforce Lumpkin and Luisa King, and grandson of Chief Justice, Joseph H. Lumpkin.

He graduated with high honor from the State University, and acquired the distinction of having been the best Latin and Greek scholar at the University. He was born at Athens and was graduated 1875.

He was admitted to the Bar in 1876, and in 1882 was appointed Supreme Court Reporter. He resigned this office 1888, and 1893 was appointed Judge of the Atlanta Judicial Circuit; succeeding Judge Marshall G. Clark.

Judge Lumpkin's mind inclined to literature, and as a writer he had gifts of a high order. He traveled extensively. Upon the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Alexander Stephens, 1912, the occasion was celebrated at Liberty Hall, his old home, and Judge Lumpkin was requested to deliver the address; which he did. This writer has a copy of that address, given me by Mr. Bridges Smith, fifteen years afterward.

LUCY COBB

Was the eldest daughter of Gen. T. R. Cobb and his wife Marion McHenry Lumpkin and named for her mother's sister, Mrs. Lucy Gardine.

She was born 1844 at Lexington, Ga., the home of her grandfather, Judge Joseph Henry Lumpkin, and died at the tender age of thirteen years.

Lucy was a child with rare and unusual gifts. She inherited a fine personality, and coupled with this, her refined and unselfish nature, endeared her to all with whom she became associated.

She passed from the stage of existence in 1857; mourned and lamented by the family as well as a host of friends, as, "a rose, a budding rose, blasted before its bloom".

When the City of Athens planned to build a female college and the name for same was being discussed; it was suggested and carried that in commemoration of Gen. Cobb's little daughter, the college be known as "Lucy Cobb Institute". Many of Georgia's brightest women have been educated at this school, and where found, they take pride in alluding to this fact.

EDWIN KING LUMPKIN

He is the eldest son of W. W. Lumpkin, deceased, and his wife, Mariah King, daughter of Gen. Edwin King, of Marion, Ala., for whom he was named.

His father and mother had but two children; Edwin K. and Joseph Henry. The latter moved to Atlanta later in life; became Judge of the Superior Court, and later an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Georgia.

The paternal grandfather, was Judge Joseph Henry Lumpkin, who was the first Chief Justice of the Georgia Supreme Court, who remained in office until his death, about twenty years afterward.

E. K. Lumpkin graduated from the State University in 1873, being quite young at the time, as a Civil Engineer, and followed that profession several years. In 1877 he married Mamie B. Thomas, a granddaughter of W. A. Carr, one of the pioneer settlers of Athens, Ga. After his marriage he studied law, and was admitted to the Bar, Spring of 1879. He became one of the strongest lawyers of that section of Georgia, and there was not much litigation of importance in which he was not more or less concerned. He never sought office, and took little interest in politics.

At the present time, himself and wife are both living and enjoying good health. They have reared nine children, five girls and four boys, all of whom are living.

The eldest daughter, Louise, married S. C. Upson, a lawyer of prominence living in Athens; the second, Susan, married H. C. Todd, then a prominent lawyer of Saratoga Springs, New York, later of New York City; third, Marion, married Capt. J. K. Walbridge, of Saratoga Springs, New York, the owner and publisher of the Saratoga daily; fourth, Mamie, married first, H. W. Atkinson, then of Athens, but later of Baltimore, Maryland; and afterward married C. M. Weeks of Washington, D. C.; fifth, Callie, married Dr. R. M. Goss, a prominent physician and surgeon of Athens, Ga.

Edwin King, married Elizabeth Dowdle, now living in Richmond, Indiana where he is engaged in the practice of law. Joseph Henry is a lawyer, unmarried, and lives in Athens; Geridine, who married Gussie Cason, is a lawyer, lived formerly in Athens, but now practicing in Miami, Florida; Bryan C, the youngest, is unmarried, is associated with the Athen's Banner-Herald. There are fourteen grand children.

LIEUTENANT JORDAN GIVEN MEDAL

Freinds of Col. and Mrs. Harvie Jordan here and over the wide area of their extensive friendship, are deeply interested in the great honor that has just been conferred upon their son Lieutenant Clarence Lumpkin Jordan, who on the 11th at the Cavalry Armory at Philadelphia, was decorated with the distinguished service medal for service in the world war.

The presentation was made by Major Chas. M. Huir, commanding officer of the Third Army Corps. The medal citation says, "Clarence L. Jordan, First Lieutenant Ordnance Department, United States Army, displaying great technical ability, sound judgement, exceptional zeal and energy, he successfully assured at all times efficient and adequate storage, protection and issue of all classes of ammunition at the front, contributing materially to the success of the American Expeditionary Forces in France."

In making the presentation, General Muir said, "Lieutenant, I want to tell you that we folks up in the line appreciated and honored your work. It was a great source of confidence and comfort to know that no matter how far or how fast we advanced, you would always have plenty of ammunition ready for us to use. It was a job of which you may be proud—a job the entire Army will always appreciate.

At the same time, Major William G. Price, of the 28th

Division was awarded the medal of the Legion d'Honneur, on behalf of the French Government.

In retiring after the ceremonies, Gen Price put his hand on Lieutenant Jordan's medal and said, "Lieutenant, when you think of this, just remember this is all Marshall Foch has, all that Earl Haig has, all that the King of the Belgians has; it is the best we have, live up to it."

When war was declared on Germany, Lieutenant Jordan declined to enter a training camp, stating to his father that he felt that his place was at the front at once.

He went immediately to France and enlisted in the French Army. He was placed in the Ordnance Department and served there six months. When the first American Army arrived, he was at once transferred to the American forces. On account of his experience in this work and his acquaintance with the French language, he was at once put in charge of the Ordnance Department and for fifteen months, was in full command and authority. It is stated that for his entire period of service his record shows the highest efficiency.

When Lieut. Jordan left America he was under 21 years of age, and the consent of Col. Jordan was necessary for his entrance into the French army. He was given a certificate of honor by the French government upon his retirement to enter the American army, and was cited by Gen. Pershing for his great service.

Extracts from Letter of Mrs. Harvie Jordan.

You seem to be interested in the younger generations of the Lumpkins, Cousin Frank and Annie Gerard Lumpkin of Columbus are charming. His father was not my father's first cousin, but one of his best friends. Woofter of Athens, Ga., was Callender's line, my

My son Clarence L. Jordan has recently been awarded the "Distinguished Service Medal" for work overseas. (see clippings enclosed) He wrote verses from France which I have had put in book form, will send you a copy. Aunt Sue Gerdine's death was sad, but we could not grieve, she had been a great sufferer. She leaves a family of splendid men and women. There are seven children, all married but two girls and one son, Dr. Linton Gerdine. If you are a Methodist, watch out for my Methodist Uncle, Bishop W. B. Murrah, my mother's brother. His home is in Memphis, Tenn.

The daughter of John Henry Lumpkin (Rome) was named Madeline, and was my father's cousin and first wife. She lived only a short while and had no children. I do not know the name of John Henry Lumpkin's second wife. My mother is Rebecca Murrah.

You say the original of "Gerdine" was "Girardin", and of Huguenot origin; please tell me where you found this item. Dr. Tyler refers to the Historical Writings of Louis H. Girardin, of William and Mary College, 1805.

I am in correspondence with Cousin Miriam Hale (Granddaughter of Jack Lumpkin) in regard to the parents of Henry Hopson. Mrs. Peel and Mrs. Spalding, both state that Wm. Hopson, father of Henry, married Susan Ragland. Mrs. Hale asks for proof, and says if she does not get it, will not include the item in her book. By not including this marriage, she would be right in saying, "She alone of the Lumpkin family is descended from the Raglands".

Excerpts from Letters of Mrs. Lewis Walker of Milton, North Carolina.

Dear Mr. Cody,

The information that I send you relating to Col. John Wilson of Virginia, who married Mary Lumpkin, only daughter of Geo. Lumpkin and his wife, Mary Cody, is correct, most of it having been copied from the Bible of Col. Wilson by his granddaughter, Mrs. Agnes McGill. Mrs. Compton was in error as to the date of Mary Cody's birth. I have lengthened out the record of some families in whom I thought you might be interested.

Mrs. R. A. James, Sr., was Annie Wilson, and the owner of "Dan's Hill". Her address is Danville, Virginia. She might give you some items of interest. I wrote to a cousin for some of the enclosed information. She had the Clerk at Chatham, to copy from the records for her. It is shown that my great grandfather, Col. John Wilson, was appointed Captain by the King, and later, Colonel, by the Governor.

Some of my records were destroyed recently when we lost our house by fire. I sent some of them to Mrs. Sloan, requesting that she copy and return mine, but so far have not received them.

If I can get a picture of the Cody "Arms" showing the colors, my sister will make a copy for me.

The Wilson and Hairston families here often married cousins. They are wealthy, owning much land in Henry and Pittsylvania Counties.

I cannot recall the name of Uncle George's wife. John Wilson lived at "Dan's Hill" five miles from Danville, Va. The old residence was destroyed by fire; the present one is a brick structure with thirty-two rooms. It was built by Uncle Robert Wilson and is owned at present by his grandson, Robert Wilson James. Last year he had it done over, but not changed. His mother, who lives in Danville, has sent back the furniture, portraits, etc. You had better come up and make the acquaintance of your Virginia kin. They have beautiful homes.

My great grandmother was Mary Lumpkin, daughter of Geo. Lumpkin and Mary Cody, his wife. I have a lovely portrait of Grandma Mary, and also of my grandmother, Martha Moore Wilson Cunningham.

Col. John Wilson and Mary Lumpkin were married, April 2, 1767. Their home was "Dan's Hill", Pittsylvania County, Va.

Col. Wilson took part in the Revolutionary War, as shown by the records at Chatham, Va. He was born 1740, died May 21, 1820. His wife, Mary Lumpkin, died Jan. 4, 1827, in the 78th year of her life. They are buried in the family grave yard at Dan's Hill. There are no monuments.

 Was son of George Lumpkin (a brother of Gov. Lumpkin) and his first wife, Sarah Pope, a sister of Middleton Pope. He was Judge of the Superior Court, Congressman several terms, and missed by only a narrow margin, in a warmly contested race for Governor of Georgia.

His first wife was Miss McCombs, of Milledgeville. They reared two children, Anthony and Madeline, who left no issue. Judge John Henry Lumpkin's second wife was a lady from Tennessee, who after the death of her husband, returned to her native state with their two children.

The Gubernatorial Campaign in which Judge Lumpkin participated, came off about the beginning of the war between the States. There were four good men in the race of about equal strength. John H. Lumpkin, Hiram Warner, H. J. Lamar and William H. Styles. Failing to nominate, a committee was appointed who brought in the name of Joseph E. Brown.
