THE PROCEEDINGS

OF THE

FIRST ASSEMBLY OF VIRGINIA,

Held July 30th, 1619.

INTRODUCTION.

The documents herewith presented are printed from copies obtained from the Public Record Office of Great Britian. When the question of the boundary line between Maryland and Virginia was before the Legislature of the latter State, in 1860, Colonel Angus W. McDonald was sent to England to obtain the papers necessary to protect the interests of Virginia. He brought back "nine volumes of manuscripts and one book containing forty-eight maps" (see his report, Virginia Legislative Documents, No. 39, 1861.). The volumes of manuscripts contained, upon an average, 425 pages each, and were filled with valuable historical documents, of many of which no copies had ever been seen on this continent since the originals were sent from the Colony of Virginia. In a conversation with the writer, held soon after his return from England, in March, 1861, Colonel McDonald stated that having obtained copies of all the documents relating to the question of the boundary line which could be found, and having more money left of the appropriation made than was needed to pay the expenses of his return home, he decided to devote the surplus to obtaining copies of papers relating to the early history of the State, without reference to the question of the boundary line. This statement will, we presume, satisfactorily account for the presence in his collection of such papers as do not relate to the subject upon which he was engaged. That he was well qualified to select such papers is evident from an examination of the list which he made out.

During the occupation of the State capitol building by the Federal troops and officials, after the surrender of the Confederate authorities in April, 1865, a very large quantity of the official documents filed in the archives of the State were removed from that building, and at the same time four of the nine volumes and the portfolio of maps above mentioned. Nothing has been heard from any of them since. In 1870, the question of the boundary line being again before the Legislature of Virginia, the Governor sent the Hon. D. C. De Jarnette upon the same errand that Colonel McDonald had so well performed, and the result was the obtaining of such papers as he could find relating to the subject under consideration, including duplicates of some of those which though useful in this connection, are included in the five volumes remaining of those collected by Col. McDonald; also, charters of great length, but which are to be found in print in the histories and statutes of the State, andmany of the miscellaneous papers which Colonel McDonald had copied under the circumstances above named. Among the latter is the account of the first meeting of the Assembly at Jamestown in 1619. When Colonel McDonald visited the State Paper Office (as it was then called) in 1860, this great repository of historical materials had not been thrown open to the public, and he tells us in his report that it was "twenty days after his arrival in London before he could obtain permission to examine the archives of the State Paper Office." A year or two afterwards all of the restrictions which had existed were removed, the papers arranged chronologically, and an index made by which they could be referred to. Farther, W. Noel Sainsbury, Esq., one of the officers of what is now called the Public Record Office, had published a calendar of all the papers relating to the British colonies in North America and the West Indies, from the first discoveries to 1660 (soon be followed by another coming down to the period of the independence of the United States), which contains a brief abstract of every paper included inthe above named period, so that enquirers upon subjects embraced in this calendar can by reference see what the office has on file relating to it, and obtain copies of the documents required, at a much less cost than a voyage to England. Acting upon this knowledge, the Library Committee of the Virginia Legislature has made a contract with Mr. Sainsbury for copies of the titles and copious abstracts of every paper in the Public Record Office, and other repositories, which relates to the history of Virginia while a Colony. All of which he proposes to furnish for about £250, being less than one-half the cost of either of the missions sent, which have obtained only a small fraction of the papers which we are to receive. He is performing his work in a most satisfactory manner; so much is he interested in the task that he has greatly exceeded his agreement by furnishing gratuitously full and complete copies of many documents of more than ordinary interest. Yet notwithstanding the known facilities afforded by the British Government and its officials, Mr. De Jarnette complains that he was refused permission to examine the Rolls Office and the State Paper Office (see his report, Senate Documents Session 1871-'2, p. 12); and further, on page 15, he informs us that the papers which he obtained "had to be dug from a mountain of Colonial records with care and labor." His troubles were further increased by the fact that "the Colonial papers are not arranged under heads of respective Colonies, but thrown promiscuously together and constitute an immense mass of ill kept and badly written records," ib, p. 22.

The reader will infer from the preceding remarks that the State has two complete copies of the record of the proceedings of the first Assembly which met at Jamestown, viz: the McDonald and the De Jarnette copies, and also an abstract furnished by Mr. Sainsbury. Bancroft, the historian, obtained a copy of this paper, which was printed in the collections of the New York Historical Society for 1857. We have therefore been enabled to compare three different versions, and in a measure, a fourth. The De Jarnette copy being in loose sheets, written on one side only, was selected as the most convenient for the printer, and the text is printed from it. Where this differs from either of the others the foot notes show the differences, and when no reference is made it is because all of them correspond.

When these papers were submitted as a part of the report of the Commissioners on the Boundary Line a joint resolution was adopted by both houses of the Legislature authorizing the Committee on the Library to print such of the papers as might be selected, provided the consent of the Commission could be obtained. Application was made to allow the first and second papers in this pamphlet to be printed but it was refused. The Commission having been dissolved the Committee on the Library have assumed the responsibility and herewith submit this instalment of these interesting documents, which were written before the Colony of Maryland was known, and all of which, save the first, were never before printed.

The Report of the proceedings of the first Assembly is prefaced with the introductory note published with Mr. Bancroft's copy, to which a few notes explanatory have been added. Trusting that this instalment of these historical records of the Ancient Dominion will be acceptable to the students of our early history, and sufficiently impress the members of the Legislature with their value to move them to make an appropriation sufficient to print all that has been obtained, this is

Respectfully submitted,

INTRODUCTORY NOTE.

Virginia, for twelve years after its settlement, languished under the government of Sir Thomas Smith, Treasurer of the Virginia Company in England. The Colony was ruled during that period by laws written in blood; and its history shows how the narrow selfishness of despotic power could counteract the best efforts of benevolence. The colonists suffered an extremity of distress too horrible to be described.

In April, 1619, Sir George Yeardley arrived. Of the emigrants who had been sent over at great cost, not one in twenty then remained alive. "In James Citty were only those houses that Sir Thomas Gates built in the tyme of his government, with one wherein the Governor allwayes dwelt, and a church, built wholly at the charge of the inhabitants of that citye, of timber, being fifty foote in length and twenty foot in breadth." At Henrico, now Richmond, there were no more than "three old houses, a poor ruinated Church, with some few poore buildings in the Islande." "For ministers to instruct the people, he founde only three authorized, two others who never received their orders." "The natives he founde uppon doubtfull termes;" so that when the twelve years of Sir Thomas Smith's government expired, Virginia, according to the "judgements" of those who were then members of the Colony, was "in a poore estate."*

From the moment of Yeardley's arrival dates the real life of Virginia. He brought with him "Commissions and instructions from the Company for the better establishinge of a Commonwealth heere."† He made proclamation, "that those cruell lawes by which we" (I use the words of the Ancient Planters themselves) "had soe longe been governed, were now abrogated, and that we were to be governed by those free lawes which his Majesties subjectes live under in Englande." Nor were these considerations made dependent on the good will of administrative officers.

"And that they might have a hande in the governinge of themselves," such are the words of the Planters, "yt was graunted that a generall Assemblie shoulde be helde yearly once, whereat were to be present the Gov and Counsell wh two Burgesses from each Plantation, freely to be elected by the Inhabitants thereof, this Assemblie to have power to make and ordaine whatsoever lawes and orders should by them be thought good and proffitable for our subsistance."

In conformity with these instructions, Sir George Yeardley "sente his summons all over the country, as well to invite those of the Counsell of Estate that were absente, as also for the election of Burgesses;" || and on Friday, the 30th day of July, 1619, the first elective legislative body of this continent assembled at James City.

² This document is the third in this collection. It is printed from the copy obtained by Col. McDonald.-ED.

In the relation of Master John Rolfe, inserted by Captain John Smith in his History of Virginia,* there is this meagre notice of the Assembly: "The 25 of June came in the Triall with Corne and Cattell in all safety, which tooke from vs cleerely all feare of famine; then our gouernor and councell caused Burgesses to be chosen in all places, and met at a generall Assembly, where all matters were debated thought expedient for the good of the Colony."

This account did not attract the attention of Beverley, the early historian of Virginia, who denies that there was any Assembly held there before May, 1620.†

The careful Stith, whose work is not to be corrected without a hearty recognition of his superior diligence and exemplary fidelity, gives an account of this first legislative body, though he errs a little in the date by an inference from Rolfe's narrative, which the words do not warrant.

The prosperity of Virginia begins with the day when it received, as "a commonwealth," the freedom to make laws for itself. In a solemn address to King James, which was made during the government of Sir Francis Wyatt, and bears the signature of the Governor, Council, and apparently every member of the Assembly, a contrast is drawn between the former "miserable bondage," and "this just and gentle authoritye which hath cherished us of late by more worthy magistrates. And we, our wives and poor children shall ever pray to God, as our bounden duty is, to give you in this worlde all increase of happines, and to crowne you in the worlde to come wth immortall glorye."§

A desire has long existed to recover the record of the proceedings of the Assembly which inangurated so happy a revolution. Stith was unable to find it; no traces of it were met by Jefferson; and Hening, and those who followed Hening, believed it no longer extant. Indeed, it was given up as hopelessly lost.

Having, during a long period of years, instituted a very thorough research among the papers relating to America in the British State Paper Office, partly in person and partly with the assistance of able and intelligent men employed in that Department, I have at last been so fortunate as to obtain the "Proceedings of the First Assembly of Virginia." The document is in the form of "a reporte" from the Speaker; and is

^{3 &}quot;These Burgesses met the Governor and Council at Jamestowon in 1620, and sat in consultation in the same house with them as the method of the Scots Parliament is." "This was the first Generall Assembly that ever was held there."—Beverley.—Eo.

[&]quot;And about the latter end of June (1619) he (Sir George Yeardley, Governor,) called the first General Assembly that was ever held in Virginia. Counties were not yet laid off, but they elected their representatives by townships. So that the Burroughs of Jamestown, Henrico, Bernunda Hundred, and the rest, each sent their members to the Assembly" * * * * * and hence it is that our lower house of Assembly was first called the House of Burgessee," Sith, p. 160. "10 May, this year (1620), there was held another Generall Assembly, which has, through mistake, and the indolence and negligence of our historians in searching such ancient records as are still extant in the country, been commonly reported the first General Assembly," lb. p. 182. We do not see that Sith "errs" even "a little in the dato." Rolfe says, "The 25 of June came in the Triall with Corne and Cattell in all safety, which took from us cleerely all fears of famine, then our gonernor and councell caused Burgesses to be chosen in all places, and met at a generall Assembly," Smith, p. 126. Stith says, "And about the latter end of June called," &c., Stith, p. 180. Neither intimate when the Assembly md, only that the governor called them in the latter part of June.—En.

more full and circumstantial than any subsequent journal of early legislation in the Ancient Dominion.

Many things are noticeable. The Governor and Council sat with the Burgesses, and took part in motions and debates. The Secretary of the Colony was chosen Speaker, and I am not sure that he was a Burgess.6 This first American Assembly set the precedent of beginning legislation with prayer. It is evident that Virginia was then as thoroughly a Church of England colony, as Connecticut afterwards was a Calvinistic one. The inauguration of legislative power in the Ancient Dominion preceded the existence of negro slavery, which we will believe it is destined also to survive. The earliest Assembly in the oldest of the original thirteen States, at its first session, took measures "towards the erecting of" a "University and Colledge." Care was also taken for the education of Indian children. Extravagance in dress was not prohibited, but the mininters were to profit by a tax on excess in apparel. On the whole, the record of these Proceedings will justify the opinion of Sir Edward Sandys, that "they were very well and judiciously carried." The different functions of government may have been confounded and the laws were not framed according to any speculative theory; but a perpetual interest attaches to the first elective body representing the people of Virginia, more than a year before the Mayflower, with the Pilgrims, left the harbor of Southampton, and while Virginia was still the oldest British Colony on the whole Continent of America.

GEORGE BANCROFT.

⁶ The Secretary of the Colony and Speaker of the first Assembly was John Pory. If he hed been one of the Burgesses his name would have appeared with the others. Through the influence of the Earl of Warwick he was made Secretary to the Virginia Company. Campbell says, "He was educated at Cambridge, where he took the Master of Arts in April, 1610. It is supposed he was a member of the House of Commons. He was much of a traveller, and was at Venice in 1613, at Amsterdam in 1617, and shortly after at Paris." "Sir George Yeardley appointed him one of his Council."—Campbell, p. 139. The record shows that he acted as the presiding officer of the first Assembly, whether ex officio or hy selection is not stated. It will be seen that a typographical error in Bancroft's pamphlet makes his name Povy. In Smith's General Historie there is a paper styled "The observations of Master John Pory, Secretarie of Virginia, in his travels;" it gives an account of his voyage to the eastern shore.—Smith, p. 141. Neill says of him, "John Pory was a graduate of Cambridge, a great traveller and good writer, but gained the reputation of heing a chronic tipler and literary vagsbond and sponger." When young he excited the interest of Hakluyt, who, in a dedication to the third volume of his, remarks: "Now, hecause long since I did foresee that my profession of Divinitie, the care of my family, and other occasions, might call or divert me from these kind of endeavour, 1, therefore have, for these three years last past, encouraged and gathered in these studies of Cosmographia and former histories my honest, industrious and learned friend, Mr. John Porey, one of speciall skill and extraordinary hope, to perform great metters in the same, and beneficial to the Commonwealth." "Pory, in 1600, prepared a Geographical History of Africa, but he soon disappointed the expectations of his friends."

A letter from London, dated July 26, 1623, says: "Our old acqueintance, Mr. Porey, is in poore case, and in prison at the Terceras, whither he was driven by contrary winds, from the north coast of Virginia, where he had heen upon some discovery, and upon his arrival he was arraigned and in danger of being hanged for a pirate." "He died about 1635." For further particulars from contemporary authorities, ese Neill's History of the Virginia Company of London. Alhany, Munsell, 1869.—ED.

The most convenient place we could finde to sitt in was the Quire of the Churche Where Sir George Yeardley, the Governour, being fett downe in his accustomed place, those of the Counsel of Estate sate nexte him on both handes, excepte onely the Secretary then appointed Speaker, who fate right before him, John Twine, clerkes of the General affembly, being placed nexte the Speaker, and Thomas Pierfe, the Sergeant, flanding at the barre, to be ready for any fervice the Affembly shoulde comaund6 him. But forasmuche as men's affaires doe little prosper where God's service is neglected, all the Burgesses tooke their places in the Quire till a prayer was faid by Mr. Bucke, the Minister, that it would please God to guide and sanctifie all our proceedings7 to his owne glory and the good of this Plantation. Prayer being ended, to the intente that as we8 had begun at God Almighty, fo we8 might proceed wth awful and due respecte towards the Lieutenant, our most gratious and dread Soveraigne, all the Burgesses were intreatted to retyre themselves into the body of the Churche, wch being done, before they were fully admitted, they were called in order and by name, and fo every man (none ftaggering at it) tooke the oathe of Supremacy, and then entred9 the Affembly. At Captaine Warde the Speaker tooke exception, as at one that without any Comiffion or authority had seatted himfelfe either upon the Companies, and then his Plantation would not be lawfull, or on Captain Martin's lande, and fo¹⁰ he was but a limbe or member of him, and there could be but two Burgeffes for all. So Captaine Warde was comanded to abfente himfelfe till such time as the Affembly had agreed what was fitt for him to doe. After muche debate, they refolved on this order following:

An order concluded by the General affembly concerning Captaine Warde, July 30th, ¹¹ 1619, at the opening of the faid Affembly.

At the reading of the names of the Burgeffes, Exception was taken against Captaine Warde as having planted here in Virginia without any authority or comiffion from the Trefurer, Counfell and Company in Englande. But confidering he had bene at so great chardge and paines to augmente this Colony, and had adventured his owne person in the action, and since that time had brought home a good¹² quantity of fishe, to relieve the Colony by waye of trade, and above all, because the Comission for authorising the General Assembly admitteth of two Burgesses out of every plantation wth out restrainte or exception. Upon all these considerations, the Assembly was contented to admitt of him and his Lieutenant (as members of their body and Burgeffes) into their society. Provided, that the faid Captaine Warde, wth all expedition, that is to fave between this and the nexte general affembly (all lawful impediments excepted), should procure from the Trefurer, 13 Counfell and Company in England a comiffion lawfully to eftablish14 and plant himselfe and his Company as the Chieffs15 of other Plantations have done. And in cafe he doe neglect this he is to stande to the cenfure of the nexte generall affembly. To this Captaine Warde, in the prefence of us all, having given his confente and undertaken to performe the fame, was, together wth his Lieutenant, by voices of the whole Affembly first admitted to take the oath of Supremacy, and then to make up their number and to fitt amongst them.

This being done, the Governour himselfe alledged that before we proceeded any further it behooved us to examine whither it were fitt, that Captaine Martin's Burgeffes shoulde¹⁶ have any place in the Affembly, forasmuche as he hath a clause in his Patente weh doth not onely exempte him from that equality and uniformity of lawes and orders wer 17 the great charter faith are to extende 18 over the whole Colony, but also from diverse such lawes as we must be enforced 19 to make in the General Assembly. That clause is as sollowesth: Item. That it shall and may be lawfull to and for the said Captain John Martin, his heyers, executours and assignes to governe and comaunde all suche 20 person or persons as at this time he shall carry over with him, or that shalbe 21 sente him hereaster, free from any comaunde of the Colony, excepte it be in ayding and assisting the same against 22 any forren or domestical enemy.

Upon the²³ motion of the Governour, discussed the same time in the affembly, enfued this order following:

An order of the General Affembly touching a clause in Captain²⁴ Martin's Patent at James Citty, July 30, 1619.

After all the Burgesses had taken the oath of Supremacy and were admitted into the house, and all sett downe in their places, a Copie of Captain²⁴ Martin's Patent²⁵ was produced by the Governor ²⁶ out of a Clause whereof it appeared that when the general²⁷ affembly had made fome kinde of lawes requifite for the whole Colony, he and his Burgeffes and people might deride the whole company and chuse whether they would obay²⁸ the fame or no.* It was therefore ordered in Courte that the forefaid two Burgeffes should wth drawe themselves out of the affembly till fuche time as Captaine Martin had made his perfonall appearance before them. At what time, if upon their motion, if he would be contente to quitte and give over that parte of his Patente, and contrary therunto woulde submitte himfelfe to the general forme of governemente as all others did, that then his Burgesses should be readmitted, otherwife they were utterly to be excluded as being spies rather than34 loyal Burgeffes, because they had offered themselves to be affistant at the making of 35 lawes weh both themselves and those whom they reprefented might chuse whether they would obaye³⁶ or not.

Then came there in a complainte against Captain³⁷ Martin, that having sente his Shallop to trade for corne into the baye, under the commaunde of one Ensigne Harrison, the saide Ensigne should affirme to one Thomas Davis, of Paspaheighe,³⁸ Gent. (as the said Thomas Davis deposed upon oathe,) that they had made a harde voiage, had Hitherto Mr. Davys upon his oath.

Furthermore it was fignified from Opochancano to the Governour that those people had complained to him to procure them justice.⁴⁰ For w^{ch} considerations and because suches of the Colony w^{ch} should have leave to trade in the baye hereafter, and for prevention of the like violences against the Indians in time to come, this order following was agreed on by the general assembly:

A fecond order against Captain Martin, at James citty, July 30, 1619.

It was also ordered by the Affembly the same daye that in case Captaine Martin and the ging of his shallop would43 not throughly answere an accusation of an outrage comitted against a certaine Canoa of Indians in the baye, that then it was thought reason (his Patent,44 notwthstanding the authority whereof, he had in that case abused) he shoulde45 from henceforth take leave of the Governours of as other men, and should putt47 in security, that his people shall comitte no such48 outrage any more.

Upon this a letter or warrant was drawen in the name of the whole affembly to fumon Captaine Martin to appeare before them in forme following:

By the Governor49 and general affembly of Virginia.

Captaine Martine, we are to request 50 you upon fight hereof, with all convenient speed to repaire hither to James citty to treatt and conferre wth us about some matters of especial importance, wth concerns 52 both us and the whole Colony and yourself. And of this we praye you not to faile.

their duties were described to the life.

Having thus prepared them, he read over unto them the greate Charter, or comiffion of priviledges, orders and lawes, sent by Sir George Yeardley out of Englande.55 Which56 for the more ease of the Committies, having divided into fower books, he read the former two the fame forenoon for expeditious⁵⁷ fake, a fecond time over, and fo they were referred to the perufall of twoe Comitties, weh did reciprocally confider of either, and accordingly brought in their opinions. But fome man may here objecte to what ende we should presume to referre that to the examination of Comitties weh the Counfell and Company in England⁵⁸ had already refolved to be perfect, and did expecte nothing 59 but our affente thereunto?60 To this we answere, that we did it not to the ende to correcte or controll anything therein contained, but onely in case we should finde ought not perfectly squaring wth the ftate of this Colony or any lawe wen did presse or binde too harde, that we might by waye of humble petition, feeke to have it redreffed, especially because this great Charter is to binde us and our heyers for ever.

the perusall of those twoe bookes. And whereas the Speaker had propounded fower severall objects for the Assembly to consider on: namely, first, the great charter of orders, lawes and priviledges; Secondly, which of the instructions given by the Counsel in England to my lo: la: warre, 62 Captain Argall or Sir George Yeardley, might conveniently putt on the habite of lawes; Thirdly, what lawes might iffue out of the private conceipte of any of the Burgesse, or any other of the Colony; and lastly, what petitions were 63 fitt to be sente home for England. It pleased the Governour 64 for expedition 65 sake to have the second objecte 66 of the sower to be examined & prepared by himselse and the Non-Comitties. Wherin after having spente some three howers 67 conference, the twoe Committies 68 brought in their opinions concerning the twoe former bookes, (the second of which beginneth at these wordes of the Charter: And for smuche as our intente is to establish one equall and uniforme kinde of government over all Virginia &c.,) 69 went the whole Assembly, because it was late, deferred to treatt 70 of till the next morning.

SATTURDAY, July 31.

The nexte daye, therefore, out of the opinions of the faid Comitties,71 it was agreed, thefe72 Petitions enfuing should be framed, to be prefented to the Treasurer, Counsel & Company in England. Upon the Comitties'73 perufall of the first booke,74 the General75 Assembly doe become most humble suitours to their lops and to the rest of that honble Counfell and renowned Company, that albeit they have bene pleafed⁷⁶ to allotte unto the Governor⁷⁷ to themfelves, together wth the Counfell of Estate here, and 78 to the officers of Incorporations, certain lande79 portions of lande to be layde out wthin the limites of the fame, yet that80 they woulde vouchfafe alfo,81 that82 groundes as heretofore had bene granted by patent to the antient⁸³ Planters by former Governours that had from the Company received comiffion⁸⁴ to to doe, might not nowe after so muche labour and coste, and so many yeares habitation be taken from them. And to the ende that no man might doe or fuffer any wrong in this kinde, that they woulde favour us fo muche (if they meane to graunte this our petition) as to fende us notice, what comiffion or authority for graunting of landes they have given to eache85 particular Governour in times paste.

mitties86 out of the fecond book is. That the Treasurer87 & Company in England would be pleafed wth as muche convenient speed88 as may be to fende men hither to occupie their landes belonging to the fower Incorporations, as well for their owne⁸⁹ behoofe and proffitt as for the maintenance of the Counfel90 of Estate, who are nowe91 to their extream hindrance often drawen far from their private busines and likewife that they will have a care to fende92 tenants to the ministers of the fower Incorporations to manure their gleab, to the intente that the allowance they have allotted them of 200 G.93 a yeare may the more eafily be raifed.

The thirde Petition humbly presented by this General Assembly to the Treasurer, Counsell & Company is, that it may plainely be expressed in the great Comission (as indeed it is not) that the antient Planters of both fortes, viz., fuche as before Sir Thomas Dales' depart94 were come hither upon their owne chardges,95 and fuche also as were brought hither upon the Companie's coste, maye have their fecond, third and more divisions successively in as lardge and free manner as any other Planters. Also that they wilbe pleased to allowe to the male children, of them and of all others begotten in Virginia, being the onely hope of a posterity, a single share a piece, and shares for their issues or of for themselves, because that in a newe plantation it is not known whether man or woman be the more necessary.

Their fourth Petition is to befeech the Treasurer, Counsell & Company that they would be pleafed to appoint a Sub-Tresurer97 here to collecte their rents,98 to the ende that99 the Inhabitants of this Colony be not tyed to an impossibility of paying the same yearly to the Treasurer in England, and that they would enjoine the faid Sub-Treafurer not precifely according to the letter of the Charter to exacte mony of us (whereof we have none at all, as we have no minte), but the true value of the rente in comodity.

The fifte Petition is to befeeche the Treasurer, Counsell & Company that, towards the erecting of the University and Colledge, they will fende, when they shall thinkero it most convenient, workmen of all fortes, fitt for that purpose.

The sixte and laste is, they wilber pleased to change the favage name of Kiccowtan, and to give that Incorporation a newe name.

These are the general Petitions drawen by the Comitties out of the two former bookes wen the whole general affembly in maner and forme above102 fett downe doe most humbly offer up and prefent103 to the honourable construction of the Treasurer, Counsell and Company in England.

These petitions thus concluded on, those twoe Comitties broughte me¹⁰⁴ a reporte what they had observed in the two latter bookes, w^{ch} was nothing else but that the perfection of them was suche as that ¹⁰⁵ they could finde nothing therein subject to exception, only the Governors ¹⁰⁶ particular opinion to my felse in private hathe bene as touching a clause in the thirde booke, that in these doubtfull times between us and the Indians, it would beehoove ¹⁰⁷ us not to make as ¹⁰⁸ lardge distances between Plantation and Plantation as ten miles, but for our more strength ande security to drawe nearer together.

At the fame time, there remaining no¹⁰⁹ farther scruple in the mindes of the Affembly touching the faid great Charter of lawes, orders and priviledges, the Speaker putt the fame to the question, and so it had both the general affent and the applause of the whole affembly, who, as they professed themselves in the first place most submissively thankfull to almighty god, therefore so they commaunded the Speaker to returne (as nowe he doth) their due and humble thankes to the Treasurer, Counsell and company for so many priviledges and savours as well in their owne names as in the names of the whole Colony whom they reprefented.

This being difpatched we fell once more 110 debating of fuche inftructions given by the Counfell in England to feveral 111 Governors 112 as might be converted into lawes, the last whereof was the Establishment of the price of Tobacco, namely, of the best at 3d 113 and the second at 18d the pounde. At the reading of this the Assembly thought good to fend for Mr. Abraham Persey, the Cape marchant, to publishe this instruction to him, and to demaunde 114 of him if he knewe of any impediment why it might not be admitted of? His answere 115 was that he had not as yet received any suche order from the Adventurers of the 116 in England. And notwest standing he sawe the authority was good, yet was he unwilling to yield, till suche time as the Governor 117 and Assembly had layd their commandment upon him, out of the authority of the foresaid Instructions as followeth:

By the General Affembly.

We will and require you, Mr. Abraham Perfey, Cape Marchant, from this daye forwarde to take notice, that, according to an article in the Instructions confirmed by the Treasurer, Counfell¹¹⁸ and Company in Englande at a general quarter courte, both by¹¹⁹ voices and under their hands¹²⁰ and the Comon feall,¹²¹ and given to Sir George Yeardley, James citty out of the faid General Affembly, July 31,¹²⁶ 1619. At the fame¹²⁷ the Inftructions convertible into lawes were referred to the confideration of the above named Committies,¹²⁸ viz., the general Inftructions to the first Committie¹²⁹ and the particular Inftructions to the fecond, to be returned by them into the affembly on Munday morning.

Sunday, Aug. 1.

Munday, 130 Aug. 2.

Captain John Martin (according to the fumons fent him on Fryday, ¹³¹ July 30,) made his perfonall appearance at the barre, whenas the Speaker having firft read unto him the orders of the Affembly that concerned him, he pleaded lardgely for himfelf ¹³² to them both and indevoured ¹³³ to answere some other thinges ¹³⁴ that were objected againft ¹³⁵ his Patente. In fine, being demanded out of the former order whether he would quitte that clause of his Patent ¹³⁶ w^{ch} (quite otherwise then Sir William Throckmorton's, Captain Christopher Dawnes' ¹³⁷ and other men's patentes) exempteth himselffe and his people from all services of the Colonie excepte onely in case of warre against ¹³⁸ a forren or domesticall enemie. His answere ¹³⁹ was negative, that he would not infringe any parte ¹⁴⁰ of his Patente. Whereupon it was resolved by the Affembly that his Burgesse should have no admittance.

To the fecond order his answere was affirmative, namely, that (his Patent¹⁴¹ notwithstanding) whensoever he should fend into the baye to trade, he would¹⁴² be contente to putt in security to the Governour ¹⁴³ for the good behaviour of his people towardes144 the Indians.

It was at the fame time further ordered by the Affembly that the Speaker, in their names, fhould (as he nowe doth¹⁴⁵) humbly demaunde¹⁴⁶ of the Treafurer, Counfell¹⁴⁷ and Company an exposition of this one clause in Captaine¹⁴⁸ Martin's Patente, namely, where it is saide That he is to enjoye¹⁴⁹ his landes in as lardge¹⁵⁰ and ample manner, to all

The leaft the Affembly can alledge againft this claufe is, that it is obfcure, and that it is a thing impoffible for us here to knowe the Prerogatives of all the manours in Englande. The Affembly therefore humbly befeeche¹⁵² their lopps ¹⁵³ and the reft of that hon^{ble} houfe¹⁵⁴ that in cafe they fhall finde any thing in this or in any other parte of his graunte wherby that claufe towardes the conclusion of the great charter, (viz., that all grauntes afwell of the one forte as of the other refpectively, be made wth equall favour, & graunts¹⁵⁵ of like liberties & imunities¹⁵⁶ as neer as may be, to the ende that all complainte¹⁵⁷ of partiality and indifferency¹⁵⁸ may be avoided,) might ¹⁵⁹ in any forte be contradicted or the uniformity and equality¹⁶⁰ of lawes and¹⁶¹ orders extending over the whole Colony might be impeached, That they would be pleafed to remove any fuch hindrance as may diverte out of the true courfe the free and¹⁶² publique current of Juftice. Upon the fame grounde and¹⁶³ reason their l^{0ps}, together with the

Upon the same grounde and reason their lops, together with the rest of the Counsellies and Company, are humbly befought 165 by this general 166 affembly that if in that other clause web exempteth Captaine 167 Martin and his people from all fervices of the Colony &c., they shall finde any resistance against 168 that equality and 169 uniformity of lawes and orders intended nowe by them to be established over the whole Colony, that they would be pleafed to reforme it.

In fine, wheras¹⁷⁰ Captaine¹⁷¹ Martin, for those ten shares allowed him for his personal¹⁷² adventure and¹⁷³ for his adventure of £70 besides, doth claim 500 acres a share, that the Treasurer, Counsell and Company woulde vouchsafe to give notice to the Governour¹⁷⁴ here, what kinde¹⁷⁵ of shares they meante he should have when they gave him his Patent,¹⁷⁶

The premiffes about Captaine Martin thus refolved, the Committies¹⁷⁷ appointed to confider what instructions are fitt to be converted into lawes, brought in their opinions, and¹⁷⁸ first of some of the gene-

By this prefent Generall Affembly be it enacted, that no¹⁸¹ injury or oppression be wrought by the Englishe¹⁸² against¹⁸³ the Indians whereby the prefent peace might be disturbed and antient quarrells might be revived. And farther¹⁸⁴ be it ordained, that the Chicohomini are not to be excepted out of this lawe; untill either that suche ¹⁸⁵ order come out of Englande, or that they doe provoke us by some newe injury.

Against Idlenes, Gaming, durunkenes & excesse in apparell the Affembly hath enacted as followeth:

First, in deteftation of Idlenes¹⁸⁶ be it enacted, that if any men be founde to live as an Idler or renagate, though a freedman, it shalbe ¹⁸⁷ lawfull for that Incorporation or Plantation to w^{ch} he belongeth to appoint him a M^r to ferve for wages, till he shewe apparant signes of amendment.

Against gaming at dice¹⁸⁸ & Cardes be it ordained by this present assembly that the winner or winners shall lose all his or their winninges and lose both winners and loosers shall forsaicte¹⁹⁰ ten shillings a man, one ten shillings whereof to go to the discoverer, and the rest to charitable & pious uses in the Incorporation where the saulte¹⁹¹ is comitted.

Against drunkenness be it also decreed that if any private person be found culpable thereof, for the first time he is to be reproved privately by the Minister, the second time publiquely, the thirde time to lye in boltes 12 howers in the house of the Provost Marshall & to paye his see, 192 and if he still continue in that vice, to undergo suche severe punishment as the Governor 193 and Counsell of Estate shall thinke fitt to be inflicted on him. But if any officer offende in this crime, the first time he shall receive a reprooff from the Governorur, the second time he shall openly be reproved in the churche by the minister, and the third time he shall first be comitted and then degraded. Provided it be understood that the Govern 194 hath alwayes 195 power to restore him when he shall, in his discretion thinke fitte.

Against excesse in 196 apparell that every man be ceffed in the churche for all publique contributions, if he be unmarried according to his owne apparrell, if he be married, according to his owne and his wives, or either of their apparell.

As touching the inftruction¹⁹⁷ of drawing fome of the better difposed of the Indians to converse wth our people & to live and labour amongst¹⁹⁸ them, the Assembly who knowe¹⁹⁹ well their dispositions thinke it fitte to enjoine,²⁰⁰ least to counsell those of the Colony, neither utterly to rejecte them nor yet to drawe them to come in. Provided that good 202 guarde 203 in the night be kept upon them, for generally (though fome amongft many may proove 204 good) they are a moft trecherous people and quickly gone when they have done a villany. And it were fitt 205 a housewe builte for them to lodge in aparte 206 by themselves, and lone inhabitants by no meanes 207 to entertaine them.

Be it enacted by this present affembly that for laying a surer foundation of the conversion of the Indians to Christian Religion, eache towne, citty, Borrough, and particular plantation do obtaine unto themfelves by just means a certaine number of the natives' children to be educated by them in true religion and civile course of life—of web children the most towardly boyes in witt & graces of nature to be brought up by them in the first elements of litterature, so be fitted for the Colledge intended for them that from thence they may be sente 299 to that worke of conversion.

As touching the busines of planting corne this prefent Affembly doth ordaine that yeare by yeare all & every householder and householders have in store for every servant he or they shall keep, and also for his or their owne persons, whether they have any Servants or no, one spare barrell of corne, to be delivered out yearly, either upon sale or exchange as need shall require. For the neglecte²¹⁰ of w^{ch} duty he shalbe²¹¹ subjecte to the censure of the Govern²¹² and Counsell of Estate. Provided alwayes that the first yeare of every new man this lawe shall not be of ²¹³ force.

About the plantation of Mulbery trees, be it enacted that every man as he is featted²¹⁴ upon his divifion, doe for feven yeares together, every yeare plante and maintaine in growte²¹⁵ fix²¹⁶ Mulberry trees at the leaft,²¹⁷ and as many more as he fhall thinke conveniente and as his virtue²¹⁸ & Industry shall move him to plante, and that all suche persons as shall neglecte the yearly planting and maintaining of that small proportion shalbe²¹⁹ subjecte to the censure of the Governour & the Coun-fell of Estate.

Be it farther²²⁰ enacted as concerning Silke-flaxe, that those men that are upon their division or fetled²²¹ habitation doe this next ²²² yeare plante & dresse 100 plantes, w^{ch} being sounde a comedity, ²²³ may farther be increased. For hempe also both Englishe & Indian, and for Englishe²²⁶ flax & Anniseeds, we do²²⁷ require and enjoine all householders of this Colony that have any of those seeds²²⁸ to make tryal thereofe the nexte season.

Moreover be it enacted by this present Affembly, that every householder doe yearly plante and maintaine ten vines untill they have attained to the art and experience of dressing a Vineyard either by their owne industry or by the Instruction of some Vigneron. And that upon what penalty soever the Governor 229 and Counsell of Estate shall thinke fitt to impose upon the neglecters of this acte.

Be it also enacted that all necessary tradessmen, or fo²³⁰ many as need shall require, suche²³¹ as are come over fince the departure of Sir Thomas Dale, or that shall hereafter come, shall worke at their trades for any other man, each²³² one being payde according to the quality ²³³ of his trade and worke, to be estimated, if he shall not be contented, by the Governor and officers of the place where he worketh.

Be it further ordained by this General Affembly, and we doe by these presents enacte, that all contractes²³⁴ made in England between the owners of lande and their Tenants and Servantes w^{ch} they shall sende²³⁵ hither, may be caused to be duely²³⁶ performed, and that the offenders be punished as the Governour²³⁷ and Counsell of Estate shall thinke just and convenient.

Be it established also by this present Assembly that no crafty or advantagious means be suffered to be putt in practise for the inticing awaye the Tenants or²³⁸ Servants of any particular plantation from the place where they are seatted. here for a lawe²⁵⁵ among the reft of our lawes. The w^{ch 256} order is as followeth:

Upon the 26257 of October, 1618, it was ordered that the Magazin258 should continue during259 the terme formerly prefixed, and that certaine²⁶⁰ abuses now complained of should be reformed, and that for preventing of all Impositions save the allowance of 25 in the hundred proffitt, the Governor 261 shall have an invoice as well as the Cape Marchant, that if any abuse in the fale of the262 goods be offered, wee, 263 upon Intelligence and due examination thereof, shall fee it correctede. And for the incouragement²⁶⁴ of particular hundreds, as Smythe's hundred, Martin's hundred, Lawnes' hundred, and the like, it is agreed that what comodities are reaped upon anie of these General²⁶⁵ Colonies, it shalbe lawefull for them to returne the fame to their owne adventurers. Provided that the fame²⁶⁶ comodity be of their owne growing, wth out trading wth any other, in one entyre lumpe and not difperfed, and that at the determination of the jointe stocke, the goods then remaining in the Magazin²⁶⁷ fhalbe²⁶⁸ bought by the faid particular Colonies before any other goods weh shall be sente by private men. And it was moreover ordered that if the lady la warre, the Lady Dale, Captain Bargrave and the rest, would unite themselves into a fettled269 Colony they might be capable of the same priviledges that are graunted to any of the forefaid hundreds. Hitherto the order.

All²⁷⁰ the general Affembly by voices concluded not only the acceptance and observation of this order, but of the Instruction also to Sir George Yeardley next preceding the fame. Provided first, that the Cape Marchant do²⁷¹ accepte of the Tobacco of all and everie the Planters here in Virginia, either for Goods or upon billes of Exchange at three shillings the pounde the beste, and 18d the second sorte. Provided also that the billes be only payde in Englande. Provided, in the third place, that if any other besides the Magazin²⁷² have at any time any necessary comodity went the Magazine doth wante, it shall and may be lawfull for any of the Colony to buye273 the faid necessary comodity of the faid party, but upon the termes of the Magazin²⁷⁴ viz: allowing no more gaine then 25 in the hundred, and that with the leave of the Governour. Tuesday, Aug. 3,284 1619.

This morning a thirde²⁸⁵ forte of lawes (fuche as might proceed out of every man's private conceipt²⁸⁶) were read and referred by halves to the fame comitties²⁸⁷ w^{ch} were from the beginning.

This done, Captaine²⁸⁸ William Powell prefented to the Affembly a petition to have juftice againft a lewde²⁸⁹ and trecherous servante of his who by falfe accufation given up in writing to the Governo⁷²⁹⁰ fought not onely to gett²⁹¹ him depofed from his government of James citty and utterly (according to the Proclamation) to be degraded from the place and title of a Captaine, but to take his life from him also. And fo out of the faid Petition forang this order following:

Captaine William Powell prefented a Petition to the generall ²⁹² Affembly againft²⁹³ one Thomas Garnett, a servant of his, not onely for extreame neglect of his bufineff to the great loff ²⁹⁴ and prejudice of the faid Captaine, and for openly and impudently abufing his house, in fight both of Mafter and Miftreffe, through wantonnes²⁹⁵ wth a woman fervant of theirs, a widdowe, but alfo for falsely accufing him to the Governor²⁹⁶ both of Drunkenes &²⁹⁷ Thefte, and befides for bringing all²⁹⁸ his fellow fervants to teftifie²⁹⁹ on his side, wherein they juftly failled³⁰⁰ him. It was thought fitt by the general affembly (the Governour himfelfe³⁰¹ giving fentence), that he fhould ftand³⁰² fower dayes with his eares nayled to the Pillory, viz: Wednesday, Aug. 4th, and fo likewife Thurfday, fryday and Satturday³⁰³ next following, and every of thofe fower dayes should be publiquely whipped. Now, as touching the neglecte of his worke, what fatisfaction ought to be made to his Mr for that is referred to the Governour and Counfell of Eftate.

The fame morning the lawes abovewritten, drawen out of the inftructions, were read, and one by one thoroughly examined, and then paffed once again³⁰⁴ the general³⁰⁵ confente of the whole Affembly.

This afternoon the committies brought in a reporte, what they had done as concerning the third forte of lawes, the difcuffing whereof fpente the refidue of that daye. Excepte onely the confideration of a petition of Mr John Rolfes againste Captaine John Martine³⁰⁶ for writing a letter to him wherein (as Mr Rolfe alledgeth) he taxeth him both unfeemly³⁰⁷ and amisse of certaine thinges³⁰⁸ wherein he was never faulty, and besides, casteth some aspersion upon the present government, wen is the most temperate and justes³⁰⁹ that ever was in this country, too milde, indeed, for many of this Colony, whom unwoonted 311 liberty hath made insolente and not to knowe 312 themselves. This Petition of Mr Rolfes' was thought fitt to be referred to the Counsell of State.

WEDENSDAY, Aug. 4th.

This daye (by reason of extream heat, both paste and likely to enfue, and by that meanes of the alteration of the healthes of diverse of the general Affembly) the Governour, who³¹³ himselse also³¹⁴ was not well, resolved should be the last of this first session; so in the morning the Speaker (as he was required by the Affembly) redd over all the lawes and orders that had formerly passed the house, to give the same yett one reviewe³¹⁵ more, and to see whether there were any thing to be amended or that might be excepted againste. This being done, the third forte of lawes wen I am nowe coming³¹⁶ to sett downe, were read over throughly³¹⁷ discussed, wen, together wth the sormer, did now passe the laste and finall consente of the General³¹§ Affembly.

A third forte of lawes, fuche as may³¹⁹ iffue out of every man's private³²⁰ conceipte.

All these lawes being thus concluded and confented to as afore-faide⁴⁰⁴ Captaine Henry Spellman⁴⁰⁵ was called to the barre to answere to certaine misdemeano⁷⁵ layde to his chardge by Robert Poole, interpretour, upon his oath (whose examination the Governo⁷ sente into England in the Prosperus), of weh accusations of Poole some he acknowledged for true, but the greattest⁴⁰⁶ part he denyed. Whereupon the General⁴⁰⁷ Assembly, having throughly heard and considered his speaches, did constitute this order following against him:

Aug. 4th, 1619.

This day Captaine Henry Spelman408 was convented before the General Affembly and was examined by a relation upon oath of one Robert Poole, Interpreter, what conference had passed between the faid Spelman409 and Opochancano at Poole's meeting with him in Opochancano's courte. Poole chardgeth him he spake very unreverently and maliciously against 410 this present Governt, 411 wherby the honour and dignity of his place and person, and so of the whole Colonie, might be brought into contempte, by weh meanes what mischiefs might ensue from the Indians by disturbance of the peace or otherwise, may eafily be conjectured. Some thinges of this relation Spelman confessed. but the most parte he denyed, excepte onely one matter of importance, & that was that he hade informed Opochancano that wthin a yeare there would come a Governor 412 greatter then413 this that nowe is in place. By wch and by other reportes it feemeth he hath alienated the minde of Opochancano from this prefent Governour, and brought him in much difesteem, both wth Opochancano414 and the Indians, and the whole Colony in danger of their flippery defignes.

The general affembly upon Poole's teftimony onely not willing to putt Spelman to the rigour and extremity of the lawe, w^{ch} might, perhaps both fpeedily and defervedly, have taken his life from him (upon the witnefs⁴¹⁵ of one whom he muche excepted againft) were pleafed, for the prefent, to cenfure him rather out of that his confeffion above written then⁴¹⁶ out of any other prooffe. Several and sharpe punishments were pronounced againft⁴¹⁷ him by diverse of the Affembly, But in fine the whole course⁴¹⁸ by voices united did encline to the most favourable, w^{ch} was that for this misdemeanour⁴¹⁹ he should first be degraded of his title of Captaine,⁴²⁰ at the head of the troupe, and should be condemned to performe seven yeares service to the Colony in the nature of Interpreter to the Governour.

This fentence being read to Spelman he, as one that had in him more of the Savage then of the Christian, muttered certaine wordes to himselse neither shewing any remorfe for his offences, nor yet any thankfulness to the Assembly for theire sofavourable censure, weh he at one time or another (God's grace not wholly abandoning him) might wth fome one fervice have been able to have redeemed.*

This day also did the Inhabitants of Paspaheigh, alias Argall's towne, prefent a petition to the general affembly to give them an absolute dischardge from certaine bondes wherin they stand bound to Captain Samuell Argall for the paymt of 600G,421 and to Captain William Powell, at Captaine Argall's appointment, for the paymt of 50^G 422 more. To Captaine Argall for 15 skore acres of wooddy ground, called by the name of Argal's423 towne or Paspaheigh; to Captaine Powell in refpect of his paines in clearing the grounde and building the houses, for wch Captaine424 Argal ought to have given him fatisfaction. Nowe,425 the general affembly being doubtful whether they have any power and authority to dischardge the said bondes, doe by these presents⁴²⁶ (at the Instance of the said Inhabitants⁴²⁷ of Paspaheighs, alias Martin's hundred people) become most humble sutours to the Tresurer, Counsell and Company in England that they wilbe428 pleafed to gett the faid bondes for $600^{G\,429}$ to be cancelled; for asmuche as in their great comiffion they have expressly and by name appointed that place of Paspaheigh for parte of the Governor's 430 lande. And wheras Captain 431 William Powell is payde432 his 50G wch Captaine433 Argall enjoined the faide Inhabitantes to prefente him with, as parte434 of the bargaine, the general affembly, at their intreaty, do become futours on their behalfe, that Captaine Argall, by the Counfell & Company in England, may be compelled either to restore the said 50G 435 from thence, or else that restitution therof be made here out of the goods of the faid Captaine Argall.

The last acte of the Generall Assembly was a contribution to gratifie their officers, as followeth:+

Aug. 4th', 1619.

It is fully agreed at this generall⁴³⁶ Affembly that in regarde of the great⁴³⁷ paines and labour of the⁴³⁸ Speaker of this Affembly (who not onely439 first formed the same Assembly and to their great ease & expedition reduced all matters to be treatted of into a ready method, but also his indifpolition notwth ftanding wrote or dictated all orders and other expedients and is yet⁴⁴⁰ to write feverall bookes for all the Generall⁴⁴¹ Incorporations and plantations both of the great charter, and of all the lawes) and likewife in respecte of the dilligence of the Clerke and sergeant, officers thereto belonging. That every man and manservant of above 16 yeares of age shall pay into the handes and Custody of the Burgesses of every Incorporation and plantation one pound of the best Tobacco, to be distributed to the Speaker and likewise to the Clerke and sargeant of the Assembly, according to their degrees and rankes, the whole bulke whereof to be delivered into the Speaker's handes, to be divided accordingly. And in regarde442 the Provost Marshall of James citty hath also given some attendance upon the said Generall Assembly, he is also to have a share out of the same. And this is to begin to be gathered the 24th of February nexte.

In conclusion, the whole Affembly comaunded⁴⁴³ the Speaker (as nowe he doth) to prefent their humble excuse to the Treasurer⁴⁴⁴ Counfell & Company in England for being constrained by the intemperature of the weather and the falling sick of diverse of the Burgesses to breake up so abruptly—before they had so much as putt their lawes to the ingrossing. This they wholly comited to⁴⁴⁵ the fidelity of their speaker, who therin⁴⁴⁶ (his conscience telles him) hath done the parte⁴⁴⁷ of an honest man, otherwise he would be easily sounde⁴⁴⁸ out by the Burgesses themselves, who wth all expedition are to have so many bookes of the same lawes as there be both Incorporations and Plantations in the Colony.

In the feconde place, the Affembly doth most humbly crave pardon that in so shortest a space they could bring their matter to no450 more perfection, being for the present enforced to sende home titles rather then lawes, Propositions rather then resolutions, Attemptes then Acchievements, hopingtheir courtesy will accepte our poore indevour, and their wisedome wilbe451 ready to supporte the weaknes of this little flocke.

Thirdly, the General Affembly doth humbly befeech⁴⁵² the faid Treasurer,⁴⁵³ Counsell & Company, that albeit it belongeth to them onely to allowe or to abrogate any lawes w^{ch} we shall here make,⁴⁵⁴ and that it is their right so to doe,⁴⁵⁵ yet that it would please them not to take it in ill parte if these lawes w^{ch} we have nowe brought to light, do passe currant⁴⁵⁶ & be of force till suche time as we⁴⁵⁷ may knowe their farther pleasure out of Englande: for otherwise this people (who nowe at length have gotte⁴⁵⁸ the raines⁴⁵⁹ of former fervitude into their owne swindge) would in shorte time growe so insolent, as they would shake off all government, and there would be no living among them.

EDITORS' NOTE.

The paper from which this document is printed is to be found in the first volume of the McDonald papers. It is such a census of the inhabitants of the colony as the historical student would like to see made out at several other periods of our colonial history. We can find no legal enactment requiring such a census to be taken, and no order to that effect, save in the Instructions to Governor Wyatt, dated 24th July, 1621, where, among other things, he is directed "To make a catalogue of the people in every plantation, and their conditions; and of deaths, marriages and christenings."—Hening, Vol. I., p. 115.

The entries are as brief as possible, no middle names are given, and foreigners are entered according to nationality, or not more than one name allowed them. Not the least curious is the small number of negroes. Rolfe states, "About the last of August (1619) came in a Dutch man of warre that sold us twenty Negors" (Stith, p. 126), and nearly five years after, when this census was taken, there were but twenty-two in the Colony.

"The neck between Rappahannock and York rivers, within which Pamunkey Neck is included. "The neck between York and James rivers," &c., &c.—Beverly, Book IV., chap. ii.

This list being made up at James city this neck might be the one nearest to that place, and therefore the last one named by Beverly would be the one referred to; but inasmuch as in this Ms. list it follows immediately after the College land, and in the list of Burgesses for 1629, occupies the same position, it is not improbable that it refers to the peninsula opposite Henrico, known on all the maps of the State as Farrar's island, and which has been made an island in reality by the completion of the canal begun by the United States army during the late civil war and afterwards finished by the engineer department of the same, under the direction of Col. W. P. Craighill. Hening reports Serit Sharpe a Burgess for this place in 1629, and Serjeant William Sharp is named in the text as living there in 1626.

† West & Sherlow Hundred.—Sir Thomas Dale annexed to New Bermuda "many miles of champion and wood land ground in several hundreds, by the names of Nether Hundred, Shirley Hundred," &c.—Stith, p. 124-'5; Smith, General Hiftorie, 1627, p. 111. Hening names Burgesses (1629) from Shirley Hundred island and Shirley Hundred maine, and among the latter is the name of John Harris, which appears in the text.—Hening Vol. 1., p. 138.

The name of Shirley appears on the Fry and Jefferson map only at the place where the same is now located, opposite Bermuda Hundred, and well known as the residence of Hill Carter, Esq. A short distance below is an island not named on that map, but on modern maps as Eppes island, which we may presume was Shirley island. We do not find the name of West in the connection except in a paper entitled John Rolfe's relation to the State of Virginia, written in 1616, in which we learn that West and Shirley Hundred was about thirty-seven miles above James citie, which corresponds with the location above named. See Virginia Historical Register, Vol. I., p. 110.

^{*} Jordan's Jorney .- Hening reports William Popkton as Burgess for this place. I do not find it on Fry and Jefferson's map, but Jordan's Point is there, and this is situated a short distance below City Point and is well known by the same name at the present time.

^{*} Chaplain's Choise.—This place and Jordan's Journey were represented in 1629, by Walter Price, according to Hening, and with only a fair allowance for the orthographical inaccuracies of the time and of different copyists, it is not impossible that the Walter Priest of the text is the same person. I can find no clue to its location, but it is reasonable to suppose it was near Jordan's Point.

[†] James Citie.—This birthplace of our State, eighty miles below Richmond, is now the property of a gentleman of New York city, who has the ground cultivated. During the war the soil was thrown up into fortifications, and pieces of armor, sword hilts, calthorps, gold, silver and copper coins were found. All that remains of the city is a portion of the brick tower which belonged to the church which attracts the attention of travellers on the river with an interest similar to that of Mount Vernon on the Potomac Though visited by very few persons, yet the relic-hunters have removed all of the tombstones, and have attacked what remains of the church tower.

* The Glass House.—We find frequent references to but no notice of the erection of this building. Smith, in his account of the attempt to murder him by the Dutchmen in 1608, says, "They sent Francis, their companion, difguifed like a Salvage, to the Glaffe-houfe, a place in the woods neare a myle from Iames Toune," &c., Smith attempted to apprehend him, but he escaped, and after he had sent "20 flot after him; himfelf returning from the Glaffe Houfe alone," when he encountered the king of the Paspa heigh whom he defeated and "led him prifoner to Iames Toune and put him in chaynes." Smith (1627) pp. 83, 84.

Stith says after the return of Newport from his expedition of discovery up James river "No sooner were they landed but the Prefident (Smith) difperfed as many as were able, fome to make Glaß and others for Pitch," &c.; and in 1609, "And now the Colony pursued their business with alacrity and fuccess. They made three or four lasts of Tar, Pitch, and Soap ashes and produced a trial of glas," &c., &c. And in 1621, speaking of the subscriptions opened in England, he says, "The third roll was for a glass furnace to make heads, which was the current coin in the Indian trade; and one Captaine Norton, with some Italian workmen, was fent over for that purpose." See also Stith, pp. 95, 97, 197, 198. As the names of Vincentio and Benardo appear in the text, we may infer that some of the Italian workmen survived the massacre of 1622.

† Archur's Hoop.—Archer's Hope creek on Fry and Jefferson's map empties into James river but a short distance below Jamestown, and in the Particulars of Land in Virginia, referred to in note on page 37, Archer's Hope is named.

† Hogs Island.—This is set down on Smith's and all succeeding maps. It is six or-eight miles below Jamestown island, and its name being unchanged, is very well known at the present time. In the text John Utie is named as one of the inhabitants, and his name appears in Hening as one of the Burgesses in 1629 from "the plantations between Archer's Hope and Martins Hundred," which corresponds with its location.

^{*} Martin's Hundred.—Martin's Hundred is located on Fry and Jefferson's map between Hog island and Mulberry island, and on a small stream called Skies creek, on the north side of James river. In the proceedings of the Assembly in 1619 it is referred to as Paspaheigh's, alias Martin's Hundred, see ante p. 30 In the "Particulars of Land in Virginia," before mentioned, we read, "Martin's Hundred, containing 80,000 acres, part planted." Captaine Martin was made president by Capt. John Smith in 1609, but he did not desire the position and resigned. At the Assembly in 1619, he and the privileges named in his patent, and certain charges against him of unfair dealing with the Indians occupied no little attention.— See ante, pp. 12 and 13. For further particulars in regard to his attempts at imposition on the Company and like charges, the reader is referred to Stith, pp. 219, 220, 221.

[†] Warwick Squrake.—It is difficult to decide upon either the spelling or the pronunciation of this word. On Smith's map it is located on the south side of James river, and about fifteen or twenty miles below Jamestown, and is spelt Waraskorack, and on page 59 he spells it Waraskoyack; Fry and Jefferson locate

Smith on the night of the 29th of December, 1608: p. 85. In the "Particulars of Land," McDonald Ms. above referred to, it is spelt as shown in the following extract: "Warofquoiacke Plantation conteyning downewardes from Hogg island, 14 miles by the ryver side," &c., &c., p. 313.

Hening has it Warrosquoiack, Vol. I., p. 149. In 1634 "the country divided into eight shires," and this being one of them. Hening there spells it Warrosquyoake. Vol. I., p. 224.

At the meeting of the Burgesses in 1629 it was represented as two districts or hurroughs, viz: the upper parte and the lower parte, each having three delegates, and the text shows that of these Thomas Willohouy of the upper and Adam Thoroughgood of the lower part were living there in 1626.

EDITOR'S NOTE.

The reader will perceive that the foregoing list of the dead reports only those who had died "since April last" (1622), consequently does not include the victims of the Indian massacre, which occurred on the 22d of March of that year. The number which fell by that diabolical conspiracy, as reported by Smith, amounted to 347, and in his Generall Historie, at page 149, he has a list of the numbers murdered at different places. Neil copies from the Records of the Virginia Company (now in the Congressional Library at Washington) a list of their names—see his "History of the Virginia Company," pp. 339-346—and considering that it is proper to annex this to the list preceding we herewith give it. The total corresponds with the statement in Smith's Historie.

The number of deaths in the census list shows a mortality amounting in one year to upwards of twenty per cent. of the whole population, exceeding the number which fell in the massacre by twenty-four. The fullest details of this and many other matters relating to the Colony while under the Virginia Company, can be found more fully shown in Neil's History of the Virginia Company than in any other work we have seen,

"Here following is fet downe a true lift of the names of all those that were massacred by the treachery of the Sauages in Virginia, the 22nd March last.

A BRIEFE DECLARATION

OF THE

PLANTATION OF VIRGINIA

DURINGE THE FIRST TWELVE YEARES, WHEN SIR THOMAS SMITH WAS GOVERNOR OF THE COMPANIE, & DOWNE TO THIS PRESENT TYME.

BY THE

ANCIENT PLANTERS NOWE REMAINING ALIVE IN VIRGINIA.

PREFACE.

The next paper presented in this collection is a copy of the one from which Mr. Bancroft quotes in his introductory note to the meeting of the first Assembly, referring to it as "MS. in my possession." This is printed from the copy among the McDonald papers, and with its title and endorsements no intimation is given as to the date of its preparation, its author or authors, to whom it was addressed, or the use intended to be made of it. These questions are, however, answered almost entirely by reference to the entries in "Sainsbury's Calendar of State Papers," which, on pp. 65-'6, has the following: "1624. July. Petition of Gov. Sir Francis Wyatt, the Council and Assembly of Virginia to the King. Have understood that his Majesty, notwithstanding the unjust disparagement of the Plantation, has taken it under his especial care; intreat that credit may not be given to the late declarations presented to his Majesty concerning the happy, but indeed miserable, estate of the Colony during the first twelve years (of Sir Thos. Smythe's government), nor to the malicious imputations which have been laid upon the late government. Inclose the true state of both, and earnestly request that the present government may be continued. Pray that the King's tender compassion will not allow them to fall into the hands of Sir Thos. Smythe or his confidents." Signed by Sir Fran. Wyatt, Capt. Fan. West, Sir George Yeardley and eighty-six others. Inclose.— "Brief Declaration of the Plantation," &c., giving the whole title of this paper, verbatim, and a copious abstract of its contents. The earliest account of the horrors it relates is to be found in Smith's History, p. 105, in what is called "the examinations of Doctor Simons." This writer gives full details of the straits to which the Colonists were reduced and the expedients to which they resorted to appease hunger in 1609; adding, after the statements in regard to eating the Indian who had been buried several days and their eating "one another boyled, and stewed with rootes and herbes," the account of the man who "did kill his wife, powdered her, and had eaten part of her before it was known," and adding with a grim humour, "now whether shee was better roasted, boyled or carbonado'd, I know not, but of such a dish as powdered wife, I never heard of." His statements are copied, with more or less variation, by Beverley, Stith, Kieth and Burke, but not one of them go into the disgusting and improbable details named in the "Brief Declaration." Campbell also reports the stories, but adds, in regard to the wife murderer, "upon his trial it appeared that cannibalism was feigned to palliate the murder," p. 93. Neill quotes from the Records of the Virginia Company, "The Tragical Relation of Virginia Assembly," which was transmitted to England about 1621; this was intended as a reply to a petition of Alderman Johnson and others, who had represented to the King that the reports in regard to Sir Thos. Smith's management were false, and desiring an investigation. These petitioners were members of a faction which desired to break up the Virginia Company. In the Relation of the Assembly, Smith is charged with all the cruelties to the Colonists which are mentioned in this "Brief Declaration"; torturing and starving to death being the punishments for minor offences; and asserting their confidence in the truth of these statements by concluding it with these words: "And rather to be reduced to live under the like government we desire his Ma^{ties} commissioners may be sent over wth authoritie to hange us." This is signed by thirty members of the General Assembly, including among the names, those of George Sandys, the poet, traveller and Secretary of the Colony, and Raph Hamor, the chronicler.—See Neill, pp. 407–411.

There is another reference to this starving time (as it is called) and its accompanying horror, which should not be allowed to pass without notice. As above stated, the worst state of affairs was reported to have existed in 1609, and in the next year a pamphlet with the following title was issued, "A true declaration of the estate of the Colonie of Virginia, with a refutation of such scandalous reports as haue tended to the disgrace of so worthy an enterprise. Published by aduise and direction of the Councell of Virginia. London, 1610." The writer of which, after referring to the slanders which had been circulated in regard to Sir Thos. Smith's government, and especially of the story of the wife-eater, says, "Sir Thomas Gates thus relateth the tragedie," and then follows a long passage to the effect that "one of the companie mortally hated his wife," and having killed her and secreted her body after cutting it into peices; when it was found out he said she died and he had hid her to satisfie his hunger, and had fed daily upon her, but upon searching his house they found a large quantity of provisions.—See Forcer tracts, Vol. III. The writers of the "Brief Declaration," and the "True Declaration," must have seen this statement published ten or twelve years before they wrote, and it is a little remarkable that they should have persisted in repeating a story which was far from being well authentitiated, especially as the true statement did not need this addition to increase the odium incurred by the mismanagement of Sir Thos. Smith, the evidences of which are herein set forth.

Stith reports the stories of the Indian "that had been slain and buried" being taken up and eaten, and "so did several others, one another that died," and also that of the man who "killed his wife and powdered her up, and eat the greater portion before it was discovered;" and adds, for many years after it was "remembered by the name of the starving time," p. 116-117. For many particulars nowhere else given, see Neill's History, pp. 407-411.

Volume 3, No. 21, I.

A Breife Declaration of the Plantation of Virginia duringe the first Twelve Yeares, when Sir Thomas Smith was Governor of the Companie, & downe to this present tyme. By the Ancient Planters nowe remaining alive in Virginia.

Wheras in the beginninge of Sir Thomas Smith's twelve yeares government, it was published in printe throughout the Kingdome of Englande that a Plantation should be settled in Virginia for the glorie of God in the propogation of the Gospell of Christ, the conversion of the Savages, to the honour of his Majesty, by the enlargeinge of his territories and suture enrichinge of his kingdome, for which respects many noble & well minded persons were induced to adventure great sums of money to the advancement of soe pious & noble a worke, who have from the very first been frustrate of their expectation, as wee conceive, by the misgovernment of Sir Thomas Smith, aiminge at nothinge more then a perticular gaine, to be raised out of the labours of such as both voluntarilie adventured themselves and were otherwise sent over at the common charge. This will cleerely appeare in the examination of the first expedition & severall supplies in the tyme of his government.

The first Plantation in Virginia confisted of one hundred persons, so slenderly provided for that before they had remained halfe a yeare in this new Collony they fell into extreame want, not havinge anything left to sustein them save a little ill conditioned Barley, which ground to meal & pottage made thereof, one small ladle full was allowed each person for a meale, without bread or aught else whatsoever, so that had not God, by his great providence, moved the Indians, then our utter enemies, to bringe us reliefe, we had all utterlie by samine perished. How unable so small a companye of people, so poorely sent over, were to make way for such as shoulde followe, may easily be judged.

The first supplie beinge two shippes, the John & Francis & Phenix, with one hundred & twenty persons, worse every way provided for then the former, arrived heere about eight or nine months after & sound the Collony consistinge of no more then forty persons (of those) tenn only able men, the rest at point of death, all utterly destitute of howses, not one as yet built, so that they lodged in cabbins & holes within the grounde; victualls they had none, save some small reliefe from the Indians, as some yet living weare seelinge witnesses, neither were we for our future and better maintenance permitted to manure or till any grounde, a thing in a new Plantation principally to be regarded, but weare by the direction of Sir Thomas Smith, and his officers heere, wholly imployed in cuttinge downe of mafts, cedar, blacke wallnutt, clapboarde, &c., and in digginge gould oare (as fome thought) which beinge fent for England proved dirt. These works to make retorne of present proffit hindered others of more necessary consequence of Plantation.

After this first supplie there were some sew poore howses built, & entrance made in cleeringe of grounde to the quantitye of soure acres for the wholl Collony, hunger & fickness not permitting any great matters to bee donne that yeare.

The fecond fupplie was a ship called the Mary Margett, which arrived here nine months after, about the time of Michaellmas, in her fixty perfons, most gentlemen, few or no tradesmen, except some Polanders to make Pitch, tarre, potashes, &c., to be retorned for present gaine, foe meanly likewife were these furnished forth for victualles, that in leffe then two monthes after their arrivall, want compelled us to imploye our time abroad in trading with the Indians for corne; whereby though for a time we partly relieved our necessities, yet in Maye followinge we weare forced (leavinge a fmall guarde of gentlemen & fome others about the prefident at James Towne) to difperfe the wholl Collony, fome amongst the Salvadges but most to the Oyster Banks, where they lived uppon oysters for the space of nine weekes, with the allowance only of a pinte of Indian corne to each man for a week, & that allowance of corne continued to them but two weekes of the nine, which kinde of feeding caufed all our fkinns to peele off, from head to foote, as if we had beene flead. By this time arrived Captaine Samuell Argall in a fmall Barque, with him neither fupplie of men nor victualls from the Company; but we understandinge that he had some small provisions of bread and wine, more then would ferve his owne companie, required him and the master of the Barque to remaine ashoare whilst we might bring his sailes ashoare the better to assure us of his ship & fuch provisions as coulde be spared, whereunto he seemed willingly to condescend. Those provisions, at a small allowance of Biskett, cake, and a fmall measure of wine or beere to each person for a Daye some what relieved us for the space of a month, at the end of which time arrived the thirde fupplie, called Sir Thomas Gates, his fleet, which confifted of feaven shippes & neere five hundred persons with whom a fmall proportion of victuall, for fuch a number, was landed; howfes few or none to entertain them, fo that being quartered in the open feilde they fell uppon that fmall quantitye of corne, not beinge above feaven acres, which we with great penury & fufferance had formerly planted, and in three days, at the most, wholly devoured it.

These numbers, thus meanly provided, not being able to subfift and live together weare soone after devided into three parties and dispersed abroad for their better reliefe. The first under commande of Captaine Francis West to feat at the head of the River; a fecond under commande of Captaine John Smith, then President, at James Towne, & the other, with Capt. John Martin, in the River at Nanfamun, which divisions gave occasions to the Indiens treacherously to cutt off divers of our men & boates, and forced the rest at the end of fixe weekes, havinge spent those small provisions they had with them, to retire to James Town & that in the depth of winter, when by reason of the colde, it was not possible for us to endure to wade in the water (as formerly) to gather oysters to fatisfie our hungry stomacks, but constrained to digge in the grounde for unwholesome rootes whereof we were not able to get so many as would fuffice us, in respect of the frost at that season & our poverty & weakness, fo that famine compelled us wholly to devoure those Hogges, Dogges & horses that we re then in the Collony, together with rates, mice, fnakes, or what vermin or carryon foever we could light on, as alfoe Toadstooles, Jewes eares, or what els we founde growing upon the grounde that would fill either mouth or belly; and weare driven through unfufferable hunger unnaturallie to eat those thinges which nature most abhorred, the flesh and excrements of man, as well of our owne nation as of an Indian, digged by fome out of his grave after he had laien buried three daies & wholly devoured him; others, envyinge the better state of boddie of any whom hunger had not yet so much wasted as there owne, lay waight and threatened to kill and eat them; one amonge the rest flue his wife as she slept in his bosome, cutt her in peeces, powdered her & fedd uppon her till he had clean devoured all partes faveinge her heade, & was for foe barbarouse a fact and cruelty justly executed. Some adventuringe to feeke releife in the woods, dyed as they fought it, & weare eaten by others who found them dead. Many putt themfelves into the Indians' handes, though our enemies, and were by them flaine. In this extremitye of famine continued the Collony till the twenteth of Maye, when unexpected, yet happely, arrived Sir Thomas Gates & Sir George Somers in two fmall Barques* which they had built in the Sommer Islands after the wreake of the Sea adventure wherin they fett forth from Englande, with them one hundred perfons barely provided of vittel for themselves. They founde the Collony consistinge then of but fixty persons most famished and at point of death, of whom many foone after died; the lamentable outcries of theirs foe moved the hartes of those worthies, not being in any forte able long to releive their wantes they foone resolved to imbarque themselves & this poore re mainder of the Collonye, in those two pinnaces & two other small Barques then in the River, to fett faile for Newfoundland where they might releive their wants & procure one fafer passage for Englande. Every man, glad of this resolution, laboured his uttmost to further it, fo that in three weekes we had fitted those barques and pinnaces (the best we could) & quitted James Towne, leaving the poore buildings in it to the spoile of the Indians, hopeinge never to retorne to re-possess them. When we had not failed downe the River above twelve miles but we espied a boat which afterwards we understoode came from the right Honourable Lorde La Ware, who was then arived at Point Comfort with three good shipps, wherin he brought two hundred and fifty persons with some store of Provisions for them; but by reason he founde the Collony in fo great want was forced to put both his owne people & the rest of the Collony to a very meane allowance, which was feven pounde of English meale for a man a weeke, & five pounds ... for every woman, without the addition of any victuall whatfoever, except, in the stead of meale, we took valuablie either pease or oatmeale. Uppon the arrival of that boat, Sir Thomas Gates understandinge from the Lord La Ware, that his Lordship was arrived with commission from the Company to be Gov^r & Capt. Gen¹ of Virginia, & had brought men & provisions for the subsistinge & advancing of the Plantation, he the very next daye, to the great griefe of all his Company (only except Capt, John Martin), as winde and weather gave leave, retorned his whole company with charge to take possession againe of those poore ruinated habitations at James Towne which he had formerly abandoned; himselffe in a boate proceeded downeward to meete his Lordship who, making all fpeede up, arrived fhortly after at James Towne. The time of the yeare being then most unseasonable, by intemperate heat, at the end of June his people fuddenly fallinge generally into most pestilent difeases of Callentures and seavors, not lesse then one hundred & fifty of them died within few moneths after, & that chiefly for want of meanes to comfort them in their weak estates. The residue alsoe disabled by reason of sicknes could performe nothing that yeare to the advancement of the Collony, yet with the help of those people which had arrived with Sir Thomas Gates, together with some of the ancient Planters, who by use weare growen practique in a hard way of livinge, two fmall forts weare erected neare the rivers mouth at Kicoughtun, encompassed with fmall younge trees, haveinge for houfing in the one, two formerlie built by the Indians & covered with bark by them, in the other a tent with fome few thatcht cabbins which our people built at our comming thether. We founde divers other Indian Howses built by the natives which by reason we could make no use of we burnt, killinge to the number of twelve or fourteene Indians, & possessinge such corne as we founde growinge of their plantinge. We remained there untill harvest, when we reaped (besides what we spent) about the quantitie of one hundred and fiftie bushells of corne, which, by order from the Lord La Ware, was transported to James Towne.

His Lordship intendinge to fend up certain forces to march towardes the mountaines for the discoverie of gold or filver mines at the end of October, sent his Patents to Captaine Yardley and Captaine Holcroft, commanders of those two forts at Kicoughtan, wherin his Lordship gave order that they should be forthwith abandoned & the people with all fpeede to be brought to James Citie, there to prepare for his intended march.

At that time there arrived a fmall ship called the daintie, with twelve men & one woman, fome little provision of victuall, two or three horses & some other slight necessaries for the Collony. Soon after we fett forward for our intended march, havinge for our leaders Captaine Edwarde Brewster & Captaine George Yeardley, being in number one hundred perfons, furnished with all such necessary provisions, as the Collony at that time out of its poverty was able to provide. This defigne was hindered by reason of the unfortunate loss of all our chieffe men skillfull in findeinge out mines, who weare treacherously slaine by the Salvadges (inviteinge them ashoare to eat victualls which they wanted) even when the meate was in theire mouthes, they careinge only to fill their bellies, forefaw not to prevent this danger which befell

This injury we revenged for the prefent (as we coulde) by killinge fome Indians and burninge many houses, but by reason of this disaster we proceeded not farther on our journey then the head of the River, where we fpent about three moneths doinge little but induringe much; his Lordship was there in person for the most part of that time, but his difease of body groweinge much upon him he resolved to retire to James Towne, givinge order that the fort which we had built there shoulde bee quitted and the troupe drawn downe, which accordingly was done. His Lordship then in regarde of his fickness was advifed to putt to Sea in his ship, the Delaware, to seeke remedie in some other parts for the health of his bodye. At his going he left Captaine George Percie Deputie Governor, the people (remaining under his command) provided for three months at a fhort allowance of victuals. The calamities of thefe times would not any way permit workes of great importance to bee performed, fith that we did was as much as we coulde doe to live and defende our felves.

The Plantations helde at his Lordships departure were only James Towne and Pointe Comforte, where was a small Fort senced with Pallifadoes, in it one flight howse, a store and some sew thatcht cabbins, which fhortly after by cafualtie was burnt with fire; fome few great ordinance were flenderlye mounted at James Towne and Pointe Comfort.

A fortnight after his Lordship's departure arrived a small ship called the Hercules, with fome thirty people and fome provisions for them. The twelfe of May followeinge arrived Sir Thomas Dale with three ships and three hundred persons, his provisions for them of such qualitie (for the most part) as hogges refused to eat, some whereof were sent backe to England to testifie the same, and that the rest was not better was justified upon oath before the Honoble the Lorde Cheife Justice of the Common Pleas, at Guilde hall in London, by Sir Thos. Gates & two other gentlemen.

Sir Thomas Dale, takinge into confideration the precedent times not to have fucceeded accordinge to the greedy defire of Sir Thomas Smith, prefently imployed the general Colony about the lading of those three ships with such freight as the country then yealded, but a little before the ships were readie to depart, Sir Thomas Gates arrived with three ships and three carvills, with him three hundred persons meanly provided with victualls for fuch a number. In this fleet, to our remembrance, arrived fixtie cowes and fome fwine; it was his care to dispatch those shipps and carvills fraighted (as aforesaid) to the neglect of workes of greater importance. Sir Thomas Dale imediately uppon his arrival, to add to that extremitye of miferye under which the Collonye from her infancie groaned, made and published most cruell and tiranous lawes, exceeding the ftrictest rules of marishall discipline, which lawes were fent over by Sir Thomas Dale to Sir Thomas Smith by the hande of Mr. William Starchey,* then Secretarie to the State, and were retorned in print, with approbation, for our future government, as in divers bookes yet extant more fully appeareth.

At Michaellmas then next followinge, Sir Thomas Dale removed himfelf with three hundred perfons for the buildinge of Henrico Towne, where being landed he oppreffed his whole companye with fuch extraordinarye labors by daye and watchinge by night, as maye seeme incredible to the eares of any who had not the experimentall triall thereof. Wante of houses at first landinge in the colde of winter, and pinchinge hunger continually bitinge, made those imposed labours most infusferable, and the best fruits and effects therof to be noe better then the flaughter of his Majesty's free subjects by starveinge, hangeinge, burneinge, breakinge upon the wheele and shootinge to deathe, some (more than halfe famished) runninge to the Indians to gett reliefe beinge againe retorned were burnt to death. Some for stealinge to satisfie their hunger were hanged, and one chained to a tree till he starved to death; others attemptinge to run awaye in a barge and a shallop (all the Boates that were then in the Collonye) and therin to adventure their lives for their native countrye, beinge discovered and prevented, were fhott to death, hanged and broken upon the wheele, besides continuall whippings, extraordinary punishments, workinge as flaves in irons for terme of yeares (and that for petty offences) weare dayly executed. Many famished in holes and other poore cabbins in the grounde, not respected because sicknes had disabled them for labour, nor was their fufficient for them that were more able to worke, our best allowance beinge but nine ounces of corrupt and putrified meale and halfe a pinte of oatmeale or peafe (of like ill condition) for each perfon a daye. Those provisions were sent over by one Winne, a Draper, and Caswell, a baker, by the appointment (as we conceave) of Sir Thomas Smith. Under this Tiranus Government the Collony continued in extreame slavery and miserye for the space of sive yeares, in which time many, whose necessities ensoreed the breach of those lawes by the strictness and severitye therof, suffered death and other punishments. Divers gentlemen both there and at Henrico towne, and throughout the wholf Collonye (beinge great adventurers and no trendes or alliance to Sir Thomas Smith) weare feeling members of those generall calamities, as far forth as the meanest fellow sent over.

^{*} Mr. Strachey, sailed with Lord Delaware on the 1st of April, 1610, and arrived at the Capes on the 15th of May. He remained about two years. He left a well written manuscript account of his observations, with this title: "The Hiftorie of travaile into Virginia Brittania, * * * gathered and discovered as well by those who went first hither, as collected by William Strachey, Gent., the first secretary of the Colony;" which, edited by R. A. Major, Esq., of the British Museum, was published by the Hakluyt society in 1849.

The buildings and fortifications of that Towne, or thereabouts, were noe way extraordinary, neither could want, accompanied with bloode and crueltie, effect better.

Fortification against a foreign enemy there was none, only two or three peeces of ordenance mounted, and against a domestic noe other but a pale inclosinge the Towne to the quantitye of foure acres, within which those buildings that weare erected, coulde not in any man's judgement, neither did stande above five yeares and that not without continuall reparations; true it is that there was a Bricke Church intended to be built, but not soe much as the foundation therof ever finished, but we contentinge our selves with a church of wood answerable to those houses. Many other workes of like nature weare by him donne at Henrico and the precincts therof, but so slightly as before his departure hence, he himself saw the ruine and desolation of most of them.

Sir Thomas Gates likewise in his time erected some buildinges in and about James Towne, which by continual cost in repaireinge of them doe yet for the most part in some sort remaine.

A framed Bridge was alsoe then erected, which utterly decayed before the end of Sir Thomas Smith's government, that being the only bridge (any way foe to be called) that was ever in the country. this time in all these labours, the miserye throughout the wholl Collony, in the fcarcitye of foode was equall; which penurious and harde kinde of liveinge, enforced and emboldened fome to petition to Sir Thomas Gates (then Governor) to grant them that favor that they might employ themselves in husbandry, that therby they and all others by plantinge of corne, might be better fed then those supplies of victual which were fent from Englande woulde afforde to doe, which request of theirs was denied unlesse they woulde paye the yearlye rent of three barrels of corne and one monthe's worke to the Collonye, although many of them had been imployed in the generall workes and fervices of the Collony from the beginninge of the Plantation, which harde condition of Tenantship was then accepted rather then they woulde continue in those generall fervices and employments noe waye better then flavery. Most part of the time that Sir Thomas Gates and Sir Thos. Dale governed we were at warre with the natives, fo that by them divers times were many of our people flaine, whose blood Sir Thomas Dale neglected not to revenge, by divers and fundry executions, in killinge many, cuttinge downe and takinge away their corne, burninge their houses, spoiling their weares, &c.*

In this time alfoe the two fortes, fort Henry and fort Charles, at Kicoughton, were againe erected with fuch buildings as were formerly expressed, not fortified at all against a forreine enemye, and against the Indian that common order of a pale or pallifadoe.

The fupplies fent out of Englande while Sir Thos. Gates and Sir Thos. Dale governed were thefe; a fmall barque called the John and Francis, which brought few men and lefs victual; the next a fmall ship called the Sarah, with the like number of men and victuall; the next ship called the Treforer, wherin came Capt. Samuell Argoll, bringinge with him to the number of fiftie good men, which ship and men were wholly imployed in Trade and other fervices for relevinge of the Collonye; the next ship, called the Elizabeth, with about thirteene persons, for them little provision; the next the same Elizabeth came againe, with some small store of provisions only; in her Sir Thos. Gates went for

A little before the departure of Sir Thomas Gates many of the ancient planters (by the inftigation of Sir Thomas Dale), uppon the promife of an absolute freedome after three yeares more to be expired (havinge most of them already ferved the Collonye fix or feaven yeares in that generall flavery) were yet contented to worke in the buildinge of Charles Citty and Hundred, with very little allowance of clothinge and victuall, and that only for the first yeare, being promised one moneth in the yeare, and one daye in the weeke from Maye daye till harvest, to gett our maintenance out of the earth without any further helpe; which promife of Sir Thos. Dale was not performed, for out of that fmall time which was allowed for our maintenance we were abridged of nere halfe, foe that out of our daily taskes we were forced to redeeme time wherin to labour for our fustenance, therby miferably to purchase our freedome. Yet so fell it out that our State (by God's mercy) was afterwardes more happie then others who continued longer in the aforementioned flaverye; in which time we built fuch houses as before and in them lived with continual repairs, and buildinge new where the old failed, untill the maffacre.

For matter of fortification in all this time, were only foure peeces of ordinance mounted for our defence against the natives. Soone after we weare feated at Charles Hundred, Sir Thomas Dales resolved of a journey to Pamonkey River, there to make with the Salvadges either a firme league of friendship or a present warre; they percieving his intent inclined rather for peace (more for feare then love) which was then concluded betwixt them. That donne we retorned to our habitations, where great want and scarcitye, oppressed us, that continuinge and increasinge, (our first harvest not yet being ripe) caused in many an intended mutinye, which beinge, by God's mercy, discovered, the prime actors were duly examined and convicted, wherof sixe beinge adjudged and condemned were executed.

After this, arrived for fupply a fmall ship called the John and Francis, with about twenty persons and little or noe provisions for them. The next ship, called the Tresorer, arived heere with the number of twenty persons and as little provisions as the former, in which ship after many other designes were effected by Sir Thos. Dale, as makinge spoile of the Keschiacks* and Wariscoyacks, impaling some necks of Lande, for defence against the Salvadges, and in sissing for our reliefe, &c., he departed from Virginia, and left the Government to Captain George Yardley, under whom the Collony lived in peace and best plentye that ever it had till that time, yet most part of the people for that yeare of his Government continued in the generall services following their labors as Sir Thos. Dale left them by order.

At Michaelmas followinge arrived a fmall ship called the Susan, her lading (beinge the first Magazin) confistinge of some necessary provisions of clothinge, as our wants required, which goods were sould by Sir Thos. Smith's factor, as we suppose, for a sufficient proffit, ex-changinge with us their commodities for our Tobacco.

At Christmas then followinge, just occasion beinge given by the Indians of Chiquohomini in many and feverall kindes of abufes, and in deridinge of our demandes, wherunto they had formerly agreed and conditioned with Sir Thomas Dale to paye us yearlye tribute, viz: a bushell of corne for every Boweman, for which, by agreement, we were to give to each man one peece of copper and one iron tomahawke, and to the eight chiefe men each a fuit of redd cloth, which clothes and truckinge stuffe we esteemed of more worth then their corne. These and the like groffe abuses moved our Governor, Captaine George Yeardley, to levye a company of men, to the number of eighty-four, to bee revenged uppon those contemptuous Indians, which he, accordinge to his defire, fully executed, and returned home with the spoile of them; concludinge, before his departure from them, a more firme league in appearance than formerly was, for that it continued unviolated almost the space of two yeares; our people freely travelinge from Town to Towne (both men, women and children) without any armes, and were by the Salvadges lodged in their houses, every way kindly intreated and noe way molested.

In March followinge, our three yeares' time beinge expired, as it was our due, we of Charles Hundred demanded our long defired free-dome from that common and generall fervitude; unto which request Captaine George Yeardley, freely and willingly affented, to our great joy and comfort. Yet remained the most part of the Collony in the former fervitude; part of whom were farmers, the rest imployed in such workes as Sir Thomas Dale gave order for before his departure.

We that were freed, with our humble thankes to God, fell cheerfully to our perticular labours, wherby to our great comfort, through his bleffinge, we reaped a plentifull harveft.

In May followinge arived Captain Samuell Argoll with commiffion to be Governor. He brought with him to the number of a hundred persons, partly at the charge of the Company and partly at the charge of private adventurers; with them was brought a very little provision for that nomber. At his arrival heere he founde the Collony in all parts well flored with corne, and at Charles Hundred a granery well furnished by rentes lately raised and received from the farmers, which corne he tooke poffession of, but how it was imployed himselfe can best give an account. Whilest he governed, the Collony was slenderly provided of munition, wherby a first proclamation was made for restraint of wastinge or shooting away of powder, under paine of great punishment; which forbiddinge to shoot at all in our peeces caufed the loffe of much of oure corne then growinge uppon the grounde; the Indians perceivinge our forbearance to shoote (as formerly) concluded thereuppon that our peeces were, as they faide, ficke and not to be used; uppon this, not longe after they were boulde to prefume to affault fome of our people, whom they flew, therin breakinge that league, which before was fo fairly kept.

Duringe his time of Government most of the people of the Collony remained (as formerly) in the common fervice, their freedome not beinge to be obtained without extraordinary payement.

The next ship that arrived heere was the George, sett forth, as we supose, at the charge of private adventurers, but came soe meanly provided with victuall, that had not we, the old Planters, relieved them most of them had been starved. The next ships, called the Neptune and Treasurer, arrived in August sollowinge, set out at the charge of the Right Honoble the Lord Laware, his noble affociates, and some other private adventurers. The people weh arived were soe poorely victualled that had they not been distributed amongst the old Planters they must for want have perished; with them was brought a most pestilent disease (called the Bloody flux) which infected all most all the whole Collonye. That disease, nothstanding all our former afflictions, was never knowne before amongst us.

The next fupply weare two fhips called the William & Thomas and the Guift, which arived in Januarie; the Guift beinge fett forth at the charge of the Societie of Martin's Hundred, the other by the Magazin and fome private adventurers.

The next, a small ship called the Elinor (sett forth at whose charge we know not), arived heere in Aprill after, and in her Capt. Samuell argoll, leaving his Government, flipt himfelfe for Englande. Whatfoever els befell in the time of his Government we omit to relate, much beinge, uppon our oathes, alreadie fufficiently examined and our anfwers fent for Englande.

By all which hath heertofore beene faide concerninge this Collony, from the infancie therof and untill the expiration of Sir Thomas Smith's government, may eafily be perceived and plainly understood what just cause he or any els have to boast of the flourishing estate of those times, wherin so great miseries and callamities were indured, and foe few workes of moment or importance performed, himfelfe beinge justly to be charged as a prime author therof, by his neglect of providinge and alloweinge better meanes to proceede in fo great a worke, and in hindering very many of our frendes from fendinge much releife and meanes who beinge earnestly solicited from hence by our letterswherin we lamentablie complained unto them-have often befought Sir Thomas Smith that they might have leave to fupplie us at their owne charge both with provision of victuall and all other necessaries, wherin he utterlie denied them fo to doe, protestinge to them that we were in noe want at all, but that we exceeded in abundance and plentie of all things, fo that therby our frendes were moved both to defift from from fendinge and to doubt the truth of our letters, most part of which weare by him usually intercepted and kept backe; farther giveinge order by his directions to the Governor heere, that all men's letters should be searched at the goinge away of ships, and if in anye of them weare founde that the true estate of the Collony was declared, they were prefented to the Governor and the indighters of them feverely punished; by which meanes noe man durst make any true relation to his frendes of his owne or the Collonye's true estate; neither was it permitted to anye to have paffe to goe home, but by force were kept heere and employed as we have faide (fave fome few), one of whom receved his paffe from the Kinge, and that closely made up in a garter, least it should have been seized uppon and he kept heere notwithstandinge. Those whom their frendes procured their passe in open courte from the Companye were, by private direction, nevertheleffe made staye of, others procuringe private letters having been lett goe.

We must also noat heere, that Sir Thos. Dale, at his arivall finding himself deluded by the aforesaid protestations, pulled Capt. Newport by the beard, and threatninge to hange him, for that he affirmed Sir Thos. Smith's relation to be true, demandinge of him whether it weare meant that the people heere in Virginia shoulde feed uppon trees.

Soe may we heere conclude, as fome have concluded for him, to what great growth of perfection (with the expence of that feaventie thousand poundes) the Plantation was advanced in the time of his 12 years' government, but whether, as it is faide, he be to be praised for the managaing of these affaires, with much unanimity, moderation, integritie and judgment, we leave it to cenfure.

At the end of this twelve yeares arived Sir George Yeardley to be Gov^r and founde the Collony in this eftate and thus furnished, vizt: For fortification against a forreign ennemie there was none at all; two demy culverin only were mounted uppon rotten carriages and placed within James Citty, fitter to shoot downe our houses then to offend an ennemie. At Charles Hundred, which were mounted by Sir Thos. Dale, two demy culverin and one facre; fortifications against a domestique enimie very mean. For Forts, Towns and Plantations he founde these: James Citty, Henrico, Charles Citty and Hundred, Shirley Hundred, Arrahattock, Martin Brandon and Kicoughton, all weh were but poorely housed and as ill fortified; for in James Cittie were only those houses that Sir Thom. Gates built in the time of his government, with one wherin the Gov^r allwayes dwelt, an addition beinge made therto in the time of Captaine Saml Argoll, and a church, built, wholly at the charge of the inhabitants of that cittie, of Timber, beinge fifty foote in length and twenty foot in breadth; at Paspahayes alsoe weare some few flight houses built; at Henrico, two or three old howses, a poore ruinated church with fome few poore buildings in the Island; Coxen Dale and the Maine and att Arrahatocke one house, at Charles Cittie fixe howses much decayed, and, that we may not be too tedious, as these, foe were the rest of the places furnisht.

For people then alive about the nomber of foure hundred, very many of them in want of corne, utterlie destitute of cattle, swine, Poultrie and other Provisions to nourish them.

For Barques, Pinnaces, Shallops, Barges and Boates he founde only one olde Frigott, which belonged to the Sommer Islandes, one olde Shallopp built in Sir Thos. Dale's time, one boat built in Sir Sam'l Argoll's time, with two small boates belonginge to private men. For munition a very small quantitye, the most part thereof beinge very bad and of little use. For ministers to instruct the people he founde only three authorized, two others who never received their orders.

For staple commodities at his arrivall he founde none as foot save only Tobacco. The natives he sounde uppon doubtfull termes, neither did we ever perceive that at any time they voluntarilie yealded themselves subjects or servants to our Gracious Soveraigne, neither that ever they tooke any pride in that title, nor paide they at any time any yearly contribution of corne for the sustentiation of the Collony, nor could we at any time keepe them in such goode respect or correspondencie that they and we did become mutuallie helpfull or profitable, each to other, but to the contrary, whatsoever at any time was done uppon them proceeded from sear without love, for such help as we have had from them have been procured by sworde or trade. And heere can we noe way approve of that which hath lately beene saide in the behalfe of Sir Thos. Smith, by some of his new frendes, that a flourish-inge plantation in Virginia, erected in the time of his 12 yeares government, hath fince been diffroyed through the ignorance of fucceedinge Governors heere, for that by what we have already faide all the worlde may judge in what a flourishinge estate it was, and to what growth of persection it was advanced, at the arivall of Sir Geo. Yeardley to be Gov^r here, it beinge then in our judgements, that were members of the colony, in a poore estate.

The whole 12 yeares expired.

Aprill, 1619.—Arived Sir Geo. Yeardeley, bringing certain commissions and instructions from the Company for the better establishinge of a Commonwealth heere, wherin order was taken for the removing of all those grievances which formerly were suffred and manifested the fame by publishinge a Proclamation that all those that were residend heere before the departure of Sir Thos. Dale should be freed and acquitted from fuch publique fervices and labours which formerly they fuffered, and that those cruell lawes by which we had soe longe been governed were now abrogated, and that we were now to be governed by those free lawes which his Maty's subjects live under in Englande. And farther that free libertie was given to all men to make choice of their dividents of lande and, as their abilities and meanes wd permitt, to poffesse and plant uppon them. And that they might have a hande in the governinge of themselves, it was granted that a general assemblie fhould be helde yearly once, wherat were to be prefent the Gov^r and Counfell with two Burgeffes from each Plantation freely to be elected by the inhabitants thereof; this affembly to have power to make and ordaine whatfoever lawes and orders should by them be thought good and proffittable for our fublistance. The effect of which proceedinge gave fuch incouragement to every perfon heere that all of them followed their perticular labours with fingular alacrity and industry, foe that, through the bleffinge of God uppon our willinge labors, within the fpace of three yeares, our countrye flourished with many new erected Plantations, from the head of the River to Kicoughtan, beautifull and pleasant to the spectators, and comfortable for the releife and succor of all fuch as by occasion did travaile by land or by water; every man giveinge free entertainment, both to frendes or others. The plenty of thefe times likewife was fuch that all men generally were fufficiently furnished with corne, and many alsoe had plenty of cattle, fwine, poultry and other good provisions to nourish them. Monethly courtes were held in every precinct to doe justice in redressinge of all small and petty matters, others of more confequence beinge referred to the Govi, Counsell and Generall Assemblie. Now alsoe were begunne and fett a foote the erectinge of Iron Workes, plantinge of vines and mulberrie trees for the nourishinge of filke wormes; a trial made for filke graffe tillage for English graine, gardeninge, and the like, which gave great hopes of prefent and suture plenty in their severall perticulars, wherin no doubt but much more had been effected had not great fick-nes and mortalitie prevented.

Those yeares fallinge out to be generally contagious through this continent, the people also fent over arrived heere at the most unseasonable time of the yeare, beinge at the heat of Sommer, and divers of the ships brought with them most pestilent insections, wherof many of their people had died at Sea, soe that these times also of plenty and libertie were mixed with the calamities of sickness and mortalitie.

In October, 1621, Arived Sir Fras. Wyatt, Knight, with commission to be Gov^r and Capt. Gen¹ of Virginia. He ratified and confirmed all the afore mentioned liberties, freedomes and priveledges, to our great happines and content; the country alfoe flourished and increased in her former proceedinges, as iron workes, plantinge of vines and mulberrie for filke, &c. A ship alsoe was fent to the Summer Islandes for such commodities as that place afforded, as Potatoes, Fig Trees, Orange and Lemon Trees, and fuch like, many of which prosper and growe very likely to increase. But amidst this happines was the Hande of God fett against us, in great part, no doubt, for the punishment of our ingratitude in not being thankefull but forgettfull that by his mercye we were delivered from fuch bondage and calamitie as before time we had fuffered. Justly likewife were we punished for our greedy defires of prefent gaine and proffit, wherin many showed themselves infatiable and covetous; we beinge too fecure in truftinge of a treacherous enimie, the Salvadges, they, whilest we entertained them frendley in our houses, tooke their opportunities and fuddenly fell uppon us, killing and murdering very many of our people, burninge and devastinge their houses and plantations, this happeninge uppon the two and twenteth of March followinge (1622), stroocke fo at the life of our wellfare by blood and fpoile, that it almost generally defaced the beautie of the wholl Collonye, puttinge us out of the way of bringinge to perfection those excellent workes wherin we had made foe faire a beginninge.

This deadly stroake being given to the great amazement and ruine of our State, caused our Governor and Counsell, withall speede, for the safetie of the rest (lest the Indians shoulde take courage to pursue what they had begunne), to re-collect the straglinge and woefull Inhabitants, soe dismembered, into stronger bodies and more secure places. This enforced reducement of the Collony into sewer bodies, together with the troble of warre then in hande, caused the year following a slender harvest to be reaped, wherby we weare constrained to relye upon hopes for our reliefe by shippinge out of Englande, and by trading with the more remote Salvadges, most part of which supplies from Englande unfortunately miscarried by the waye, the Salvadges, likewise, from whome we hoped to have helpes by trade, proved our most treacherous ennemies, cunninglye circumventinge and cruellie murderinge such as were employed abroade to gett reliefe from them, by all which mifaccidents we fell that yeare into great want and fcarcitye; which fince, by the bleffinge of God, through our fupplies we have had from the Company, together with a plentifull harveft, hath bene abundantly reftored. Our Gov^r, Counfell and others have ufed their uttermoft and Chriftian endeavours in profequtinge revenge against the bloody Salvadges, and have endeavoured to reftore the Collonye to her former profperitye, wherin they have ufed great diligence and industrye, imployinge many forces abroade for the rootinge them out of feverall places that therby we may come to live in better securitie, doubtinge not but in time we shall clean drive them from these partes, and therby have the free libertie and range for our cattle, the increase of whom may bringe us to plentie, and maye alsoe more freely goe on againe with setting up those staple commodities which we hoped by this time to have brought to good perfection.

For the fupplies of shippinge, men, cattle and provisions that have arived heere since Sir Thomas Smith left his government we can not now well reckon up, they beinge manye, but must referre you to the printed bookes and to the Lifts and Invoices retorned by Sir Geo.

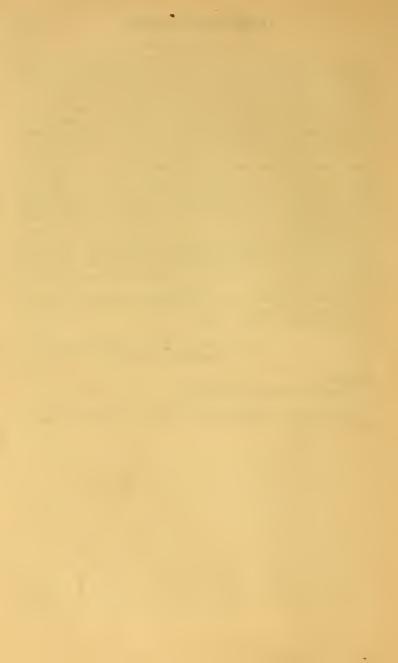

Yeardley.

For the State of the Collony at this prefent we leave to the report of fuch commissioners as are nowe fent over by the Right Hon. the Lordes of his Ma^{tie's} privile counsell.

This being reade in the Genl Affemblie received full approbation.

PREFACE.

The three succeeding papers are printed from the De Jarnette collection. The first is a census in gross without any details of sex, age or social condition. In these respects it lacks the interest which one feels in the list made out in 1623.

In February, 1623, there were living in the Colony 1277 persons, and including 371 who had died during the preceding year, i. e. since April, 1622; it is evident that the greatest number of inhabitants during the year ending February 16, 1623-not including those murdered in the the massacre—amounted to 1648; and in 1634, eleven years afterwards, they amounted to 5,119, being an increase of 3,471, or an average of about 315 per annum, by birth and immigration. Accustomed as we are to the rapid growth of new countries this seems but a small increase, but when it is remembered that they made the voyage in sailing vessels only, and that it then not unfrequently lasted three or four months, we have little cause for wonder.

The next paper is a copy of a letter from His Majesty Charles II., to the Governor, Sir Wm. Berkeley, returning his thanks for a present of silk grown in Virginia. The first settlers were very anxious for success in this department of industry, and the House of Burgesses in 1657-'8 passed a law offering a premium of 5,000 pounds of tobacco to any one who made "100 pounds of wound silke in any one year," and in the next session, 1658-'9, the premium was made 10,000 pounds of tobacco for 50 pounds of "wound silke." We have frequently heard repeated a tradition to the effect that Charles II. wore a robe made of Virginia silk at his coronation. The circumstance of which this document is evidence, is probably the nearest approach to any thing of the sort that ever occurred, and hereafter this with the foolish and groundless story of one of the Lees going to see him when an exile at Breda, to offer him a crown and a refuge in Virginia, must be consigned to that oblivion which is likely, soon, we hope, to receive many of the mythical legends which have heretofore passed current for the history of Virginia.

The third is a list of the parishes and their ministers in 1680, the number of the latter showing that the people were poorly provided for in this respect, and that some of the parishes had no ministers. This deficiency was, however, in a measure provided for by the appointment of "readers" under the operation of acts passed February 1632-'3, by which if a minister's curé "is so large that he cannot be present on the Saboth and other holy days. It is thought fit That they appoint deacons for the readinge of common prayer in their absence;" and further, in March, 1661-'2, it was enacted "That every parish not haveing a minister to officiate every Sunday doe make choice of a grave and sober person to read divine service at the Parish church."—Hen. Vol. I., p. 208; Vol. II., p. 46, 54.

ADDENDA.

The following additions to the text and notes are suggested as explanatory, without being considered superfluous.

Page 16.—"The sixte petition, to change the sauage name of Kicowtan," was granted. In 1621, Treasurer Sandys in his report to the Company informed them that the name had been changed to Elizabeth Cittie.—Neill's history, page 178.

Page 25.—The word "howes" inserted in connection with various kinds of dogs, is our modern word hoe; Smith has it hows on page 86, and howes on page 162.

Page 29.—Capt. Henry Spelman, was the third son of the distinguished antiquary, Sir Henry Spelman, of Conghan, Norfolk, England. He was about twenty-one years of age when he came to Virginia, in 1609, for which he accounts as follows: "Beinge in displeasuer of my frendes, and desirous to see other countryes. After three months' sayle we cum with prosperus winds in sight of Virginia." Afterwards he says, "I was carried by Capt. Smith, our President, to ye Fales, to ye litell Powhatan, wher, vnknowne to me he sould me to him for a towne called Powhatan,"—Spilman's Relation, pp. 15, 16. Dr. Simons, in Smith's General Historie, says: "Captain West and Captain Sickelmore sought abroad to trade; Sickelmore, upon the confidence of Powhatan, with about thirty other as careless as himselfe, were all slaine; onely Jeffrey Shortridge escaped, and Pokahontas, the King's daughter, saued a boy called Henry Spilman, that lived many yeeres after, by her meanes, among the Patawmokes;" this occurred in 1609.—Smith, p. 105. He remained with the Indians but little more than one year, for in 1610 Capt. Argall being sent to the "river Patawmoke to trade for corne," where finding him, used Spelman's influence to secure the loading of his vessel with corn, and Spelman returned with him to Jamestown.—Smith, p. 108. Spelman adds, "and brought into England," p. 221. We then lose sight of him until he is arraigned before the Assembly at Jamestown in 1619 (ante p. 29) He makes his final appearance in 1623, when we are told, he was sent with a bark and twenty-six men to "trucke in the River Patawmek," where at some place, the name of which was to his companions unknown, he landed with twenty-one of his companions, when the savages made hostile demonstrations "and presently after they" (the five left in the bark) "heard a great brute amongst the Saluages ashore, and saw a man's head thrown downe the banke, whereupon they weighed Anchor and returned home, but how he was surprised or slaine is vncertaine."-Smith p. 161. Spelman wrote a short account of his observations while among the Indians, and it laid in obscurity until the sale of Dawson Turner's library, in 1859, when it was bought by Mr. Joseph Lilly and, by accident, again lost; and at the sale of Mr. Lilly's library, in 1871, it was again discovered and purchased for James F. Hunniwell, Esq., who has had one hundred copies printed for private circulation.

Spelman was not the only Englishman with the savages. In the same year that Spelman was sold for a town, or saved by Pocahontas—whichever version being correct—Admiral Newport gave Powhatan a boy, named Thomas Salvage, in exchange for "Na-montack, his trustic scruant." Spelman says Savage was murdered by the Indians, but there is a tradition that he lived nearly all his life with them; became possessor of a tract of land on the eastern shore by gift and that it remained in his family until within the last ten years, when it was sold by some of his descendants then living in Philadelphia. The authority for this statement is obtained in correspondence with Hon. Hugh B. Grigsby, LL. D., President of the Virginia Historical Society.

Page 39.—To note to Jordan's Journey it may be added that a reference to this place is doubtless made when Smith says: "After the massacre many of the inhabitants fortified themselves against other attacks, and Master Samuel Iorden gathered but a few about him at Begger's Bush" (the title of one of Fletcher's comedies) "where he fortified."-Smith, p. 150; Campbell, p. 164.

Page 47.—The following may be added to the note on Glass House: "For glass they," the Indians, "knowe not, though the country wants not sal-sodiack enough to make glasse, and of which we have made some store in a goodly house sett up for the same purpose, a little without the island where Jamestown stands."—Strachey's Virginia Brittania (1612), p. 71. "To take care of Capt. Wm. Norton and certaine Italians sent to sitt a glass house."—Instructions to Sir Francis Wyatt (1621), Hening I., p. 116.

Page 47.—To note on Warwick-Squrake add: "In the autumn of 1607, Capt. Smith, with "six or seaven in company," went to Kicoughtan to get food from the Indians by trade. On his return he discovered the town and county of Warraskoyack."—Smith,
