Cardiff Corporation Waterworks.—Up to the year 1851 Cardiff was dependent for its water supply on water obtained from the canal, the river Taff, and a few pumps in different parts of the town. After an inquiry, held under the "Public Health Act, 1848" (11 and 12 Vict. c. 63), a company was formed under Act of Parliament in 1850 for the supply of the town and neighbourhood. The first works were constructed near the river Ely, about 3 miles from the Town Hall, water being pumped therefrom into a service reservoir, situate at Penhill, near Cardiff, from which it was supplied by gravitation throughout the town. In 1860 a gravitation supply was obtained from Lisvane, where a storage reservoir of 80,000,000 gallons was constructed, and at the same time a reservoir and pumping station at Cogan and another reservoir at Llandough, for the supply of Penarth. In 1879, the existing works of the company were purchased by the Corporation, for a sum of £320,000; subsequently further extensions were carried out at Ely, and an additional storage reservoir constructed at Llanishen, with a capacity of 317,000,000 gallons. In 1884 an Act was passed authorising the construction of three large reservoirs in the Taff Fawr valley, and up to the present time two reservoirs have been constructed, one of 345,000,000 gallons and another of 223,000,000 gallons. A conduit has also been laid down between the reservoirs in the Taff Fawr valley and the storage reservoirs at Llanishen and Lisvane, with balancing reservoirs intervening, and a number of service reservoirs and filter beds have also been constructed in further development of the scheme. The whole of the water supplied to the town and district of Cardiff is now derived from the Taff Fawr source; it is of excellent quality and suitable for all purposes required in a large city. The population of Cardiff is 183,000, and that of the adjoining districts supplied about 42,000, making a total of 225,000 persons depending upon the Cardiff Corporation water undertaking. The total cost of these works up to date has been about £1,430,000. The Corporation, having obtained powers under an Act of 1909 for the construction of further works in the Taff Fawr Valley, proceeded with the erection of a large impounding reservoir under contract in the year 1911. Shortly after the war commenced the works were stopped under request of His Majesty's Treasury; considerable litigation took place with the contractor in connection therewith, and the contract was determined in the spring of 1919. The Corporation are now carrying out the work by direct administration under the supervision of their own engineer, Mr. C. H. Priestley M.Inst.C.E. and it is hoped to complete in about three years from the present time (1919). The capacity of the reservoir will be 1,200,000,000 gallons. The estimated cost to complete, together with payments already made to the contractor, will be between £400,000 and £500,000.

Cardiff Gas Light and Coke Company was incorporated by Act of Parliament in 1837, further Parliamentary powers having been obtained in 1854, 1870, 1887 and 1906. The chief offices of the company are in Bute terrace, and branch offices and show rooms in Queen street, also at 35 Windsor road, Penarth. The works of the company are at Grangetown, between Cardiff and Penarth. The total length of the mains is now about 226 miles. There are 12,200 consumers and 3,538 public lamps. The company supplies gas to the city of Cardiff, and to Llandaff, Llandough, Penarth, St. Fagan's, Llanishen, Radyr, Whitchurch, Taff's Wells, Pentyrch, Nantgarw, Tongwynlais and Rumney.

The police force consists of one chief constable, one deputy chief constable, two superintendents, one acting superintendent, one chief inspector, one detective inspector, eleven inspectors, seven detective sergeants, three detective constables, two sergeants and seven constables. Jones, Richards and Budgen, architects, of Cardiff, is of red brick, and comprises three storeys, the ground floor being let off as shops and offices. The Cardiff Central Conservative Club is in St. John street. The Liberal Working Men's Club is in Wyndham arcade.

The principal hotels are the Park Hotel, Park place; the Angel, Castle street and Westgate street; the Queen's, St. Mary street, a large hotel; the Great Western, Great Western approach; and the Windsor and Mount Stuart hotels at the Docks; besides which there are several other good commercial hotels and inns.

There are smelting works, engine works, iron and brass foundries, shipbuilding and graving docks, a patent iron and steel rope manufactory, timber, coal and slate depots, flour mills, a ship biscuit factory, breweries, caoote and grease works, chemical works and railway wagon works; there are also brick, tile and drain pipe works; patent fuel establishments at Maindy and paper mills at Ely.

The Downais Iron Company's works (Gnest, Keen and Nettelfolds Ltd. proprietors), East Moors, were opened February 5th, 1891.

The "Western Mail" Buildings, in St. Mary street, erected to replace the old offices, burned down in June, 1893, are of red granite and brick, from designs by Messrs J. P. Jones, Richards and Budgen, architects, of Cardiff. The interior includes a spacious vestibule, open to the public, and also the Conservative club buildings and commercial and professional offices.

Hospitals and Charitable Institutions.—The King Edward VII. Hospital (Cardiff Infirmary) originated at a 'Gwent and Dyfed Royal Eisteddfod,' held at Cardiff Castle in August, 1834, under the patronage of Her late Majesty Queen Victoria, then Princess Victoria. The hospital, opened in 1857 and enlarged in 1866, was transferred in 1883 to a building on the Newport and Glossop roads, which cost £41,515, inclusive of furnishing; the hospital proper consists of four blocks, three devoted to the hospital proper and the front, or administrative block, facing the Glossop road; the central portion of this block is three storeys high, the sides forming two projecting wings of two storeys, and a tower rises to the height of 85 feet. In 1892 further additions were made at a cost of £11,774. An operating theatre has also been added; and in 1904-5 verandahs for the open air treatment were erected to each ward, the cost being borne by the first and last Viscount Tredegar. In 1903 the out-patients' department was remodelled at a cost of over £8,000, and in 1909 a new wing was added to provide 78 additional beds, as well as 10 beds for isolation cases. At the same time a pathological block was added and a gynaecological operating theatre. These additions cost £40,000. There are 322 beds. There are special departments for ophthalmic, gynaecological, ear, throat and nose cases, as well as an electrical "X Ray" department, and a massage department which is recognized as a training school. 2,830 in-patients and 16,303 out-patients were treated in 1918.

The Sanatorium, erected by the Corporation, at Canton, in 1893, consists of five pavilions, and an isolation block, affording accommodation for 116 patients; there are also administrative buildings, stables, steam laundry, disinfecting and other offices.

The Cardiff Institute for the Blind (Incorporated), in Longcross street, Newport road, was opened in March, 1869, at a cost of about £1,500 and enlarged in 1883 at a cost of £3,000, with Newbridge wall stone, and Bath stone dressings in the style of the Jacobean Renaissance, from designs by Mr. Edward H. Bruton A.R.I.B.A. architect, of Cardiff, and again in 1909 at a cost of £650; on the first and second floor is the basket-making workshop; on the ground floor is a room for making mats, cocoa-nut matting &c. for which eight hand looms are fixed.

The Sailors' Home, Stuart street, near the Butte Docks, is a fine spacious and well-ventilated building, arranged to hold 109 men, and was erected at the sole expense of the late Marchioness of Bute. Each seaman has a lock-up cabin or room to himself, and there is a library, reading-room, bagatelle table and hot and cold water baths.

The Royal Hamadryad Seamen's Hospital, in Hunter street, near to the moorings of the old "Hamadryad" hospital ship, is a structure of red brick, with stone facings, erected at a cost, including furniture &c. of £30,000, from designs by Mr. E. W. M. Corbett F.R.I.B.A.; a sum of £20,000 together with the site was given by the 3rd Marquess of Bute K.T. the remainder being raised by public subscription. On the ground floor are the Röntgen ray and anæsthetic rooms, operating theatre and wards for 18 beds; on the second and third floors are wards for 18 beds. The hospital was opened June 29, 1905, by the Marquess of Bute.

The Christian Home for Widows, Moira terrace, Adamsdown, was founded by John and Richard Cory.

Nazareth House, North road, is a home for the aged, infirm and infantile poor, and constitutes a branch of the Home of the Sisters of Nazareth, at Hammersmith; the aged poor are admitted without distinction of creed or country; the home depends for its support entirely on voluntary contributions. In 1898 a block of buildings was added on the east side; the lower floor comprises sitting-rooms, dormitories &c. and on the upper floor is a chapel, both for the inmates and the public, and served by the clergy of St. David's, Charles street. A new wing was added in 1909 at the cost of £6,000.

The Convent of the Good Shepherd, Ty-Gwyn road, Roath, erected in 1872, at the sole cost of the 3rd Marquess of Bute K.T. furnishes a home for penitent and destitute women, and is chiefly supported by the industry of the inmates. There is a small church attached, and the buildings are arranged to hold 150.

Cardiff Castle, one of the seats of the Marquess of Bute, is entered by a gateway, in immediate connection with the principal streets of the town. The greater portion of the edifice was modernized by the late Marquess of Bute, who converted it into a noble castellated mansion; the high octagonal tower on the left of the entrance, rebuilt in 1847, is known by the name of "Robert's tower," and is said to have been for twenty-six years the prison of the unfortunate Robert, Duke of Normandy, who was here immured by order of his brother, Henry I.; on one occasion he made an attempt to escape, in consequence of which it is said his eyes were cruelly put out, and the hapless prince lingered here until his death in 1134, when he was interred in the chapter house of Gloucester Cathedral; his tomb, with an effigy of oak, is in the north-east chapel. Large sums of money have been devoted to the restoration and maintenance of the fabric; the curtain wall, running from the entrance to the present clock tower, has been restored, and the parapet, with its embrasures and crenelles, substantially repaired and covered in, and it now affords a convenient mode of access to the clock tower at the south-west angle, which contains a set of private apartments for the lord of the castle, and is externally a good specimen of ornamental work; outside, about seventy feet from the base, each face of the tower is divided into three arched panels, the centre one being occupied by the clock face, while those on each side contain statues of Mars, Jupiter, Sol &c. the pedestals upon which they stand being carved with the signs of the zodiac, which they respectively govern; the whole is surmounted by a lead-covered roof decorated with tinned stars. In the interior of the tower the rooms are highly decorated. On a level with the great curtain wall is the winter smoking room, the prevailing colour of the walls being dark blue, relieved with figures painted in lighter colours; the upper part of the windows is filled with stained glass representing the deities from whom our Saxon ancestors named the days of the week; the vaulting is decorated with various celestial symbols; the remaining portion of the walls is adorned with figures expressive of the four seasons; the frieze of the elaborate chimney-piece is occupied by a series of groups illustrative of "love in winter"; whilst above stands the figure of a Cupid. The walls of the apartment above, used as a bedroom, are simply treated with outline figures on a white ground, suggestive of the precious stones and metals; the next apartment contains the clock, and above is the kitchen. The uppermost room, fitted up as a summer smoking room, has a tiled floor covered with representations of various animals; the chimney-piece, similar to that of the winter smoking room, is intended to illustrate "love in summer." The spaces between the windows are filled with tile work, painted with subjects from the legends of the zodiac. Above all is a gallery lighted by a clerestory, surmounted by a dome, divided into panels, in which are represented the four elements and the constellations. The grand staircase of the castle consists of two flights and leads from the entrance hall—on which level the library is situated—to the great hall. In the centre is a marble column, from which springs the groining of the roof; and on two sides of the landing is a gallery; the columns of the staircase are of marble and the steps of rose-coloured granite; from the grand staircase entrance is obtained to the banquetting hall, a noble room with a wainscot of carved walnut, above which are frescoes representing incidents in the life of Robert, Duke of Gloucester. A beautiful octagonal staircase, highly decorated, leads from the banquetting hall to the library and a private chapel; the latter, which is one of the most elaborately decorated portions of the castle, is lined with marble, diapered with enamelled shields, and the walls and ceilings are covered with illustrations from holy scripture. The altar represents the tomb of our Saviour, outside of which are the figures of the Roman guards, in bronze. On the left of the banquetting hall is Lord Bute's sitting room, the frieze of which displays the story of the local saint of the Isle of Bute. Beyond there is another magnificent apartment, surrounded by a colonnade filled with beautiful flowers and adorned with fountains; the walls are covered with paintings representing the trial of faith between Elijah and Ahab, and the doors are exquisitely wrought with inlaid work and ornamented in bronze.

The Sophia Gardens, on the west side of the river Taff, opposite the grounds of Cardiff Castle, were opened to the public in 1858, and are tastefully laid out as pleasure grounds, with a small sheet of water and a fountain, and form an agreeable promenade. Within the gardens is a very fine subscription bowling green; adjoining the Sophia gardens are the Sophia Recreation grounds, also open to the public; the whole being maintained by the Marquess of Bute. Roath Park, the site for which was presented by the 3rd Marquess, and opened in 1894 by the present Marquess (Earl of Dumfries), is 121 acres in extent, a portion is laid out with shrubs and flower beds; another portion is reserved for cricket, football, bowls &c. and a section is set apart as a botanical garden: beyond this a large lake has been formed, and is used for boating, and at the northern end of the lake is a "Wild Garden." In 1915 a memorial was erected on the lake at the expense of F. C. Bowring esq. J.P. to the memory of the late Captain B. F. Scott C.V.O., D.S.O., R.N. and his faithful companions, consisting of a clock tower in the form of a miniature lighthouse, about 40 feet high, surmounted by the model of a ship. Cathays Park covers 60 acres and contains the buildings of the University of Wales, the City Hall, the Law Courts, the County Hall and the new Technical College. Cardiff Arms Park, situated between Westgate and the river Taff, is devoted to cricket and football matches and athletic meetings. Victoria park, at Canton, is laid out with shrubs and flowers, and has a small ornamental lake; another recreation ground has been formed by the Corporation by the laying out of some six acres of Canton common. Howard gardens, Adamsdown square, Loudoun square, Plasterton gardens, Dispenser gardens, Moorland Road gardens, Clare gardens, Grangetown gardens, Llanbleddian gardens, Ruthin gardens, Senghennydd gardens (north and south), Windsor Esplanade gardens, Roath Village green, Splott recreation and Llandaff fields are also open to the public, and a park and recreation ground, 12 acres in extent, has been laid out at Canton by Mr.

Charles Thompson, and is maintained by him for the use of the public.

The Cardiff Raquet and Fives Court is in Westgate st. The population of Cardiff at the beginning of the last century was less than 2,000. CANTON is a populous suburb of Cardiff: St. John's is an ecclesiastical parish formed from the civil parish of Llandaff in 1858: the church, partly erected in the year 1853, at a cost of £5,000, on a site given by John Homfray esq. of Penllin Castle, is a building of stone in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, vestries, south porch and a central tower with spire, containing one bell: in 1857 the aisles were built, and in 1871-4 the tower and spire, chancel and clergy vestry were added, at a cost of £2,000, from the designs of Mr. John Prichard, the diocesan architect: the organ was built in 1887, and a handsome stone reared has been erected as a memorial to the Rev. V. Saulez, late rector: the church was completed in 1902, when two western bays, baptistery and the choir vestry were erected at a cost of £2,900: there are 667 sittings, of which 460 are free. The register dates from the year 1858. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £380, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1907 by the Rev. Henry John Williams M.A. of Oxford University. The parish of St. Luke was formed in 1911, out of that of St. John. The church, which was completed at the end of 1909, consists of nave, aisles and south porch: there are seats for 500 persons. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £240, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1911 by the Rev. Thomas John Richards L.Div. of St. David's College, Lampeter.

St. Catherine's is an ecclesiastical parish formed Sept. 1894, from St. John's: the church, in King's road, is an edifice in the Early Decorated style, begun in 1854, and finished in 1895, at a cost of about £12,000, and consisting of chancel, vestries, nave and aisles: slender stone pillars support wooden arches separating the nave from the aisles, and these carry a wooden roof, beautifully carved: the west window is stained: there are 750 sittings, 400 of which are free. The register dates from 1894. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £200, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1894 by the Rev. Joseph Baker M.A. of University College, Durham. For other places of worship see pp. 172 to 174. The memorial Hall of the Presbyterian Church of England, in Cowbridge road, was erected in 1894, at a cost of £3,000, in memory of David Davies, Llandinam, from designs by H. Faulkner and Sons, of Newport, and will hold 1,250 persons. The Presbyterian Church of England, at Roath Park, opened in 1900, and erected at a cost of over £13,000, is an edifice in the Decorated style from designs by Messrs. Habershon, Faulkner and Groves, and consists of nave, transepts, vestries and a tower with spire: the organ cost £1,500: the church affords 850 sittings. Attached to the church is a hall, seating 350 persons, and five class rooms, built in 1897 at a cost of £2,300: the total expenditure, including organ and furnishing, was £12,526. New Trinity Congregational chapel, Cowbridge road, was erected in 1894. The Wesleyan chapel, Conway road, erected in 1868-9, and since enlarged, will seat 1,100 persons; there is another Wesleyan chapel in Cowbridge road. The United Methodist chapel, Cowbridge road, was erected in 1898. The Synagogue, erected in 1866-7 at a cost of £5,764, in Cathedral road, is a building of stone in the Romanesque style, from designs by Mr. Delissa Joseph F.R.I.B.A. of London, consisting of a clerestoried nave with an apse, containing the ark, and flanked by octagonal staircase towers, leading to galleries: the porch is below the apse: the building will seat 241 persons on the ground floor, and 153 in the gallery. Fairs are held monthly.

Blackweir, 1 mile north; Maindy, 1½ north, and Grange-town, ¼ south, are suburbs.

ROATH is a pleasant north-eastern suburb of Cardiff. St. Margaret's (the parish church) was rebuilt in 1871, at a cost of £6,000, on the foundations laid down by Mr. Rees, and is a cruciform building in the Early English style, from designs by the late Mr. Prichard, architect, of Llandaff, consisting of chancel, with organ chamber, nave, transepts, south porch and a central tower containing one bell: the piers and arches which carry the tower, the chancel screen, pulpit and walls of the chancel are all rich with the various hues of alabaster. Bridgend and Forest of Dean stones, while the walls of the nave and transepts are faced with brickwork of various colours effectively arranged: an alabaster screen divides the organ chamber from the chancel: the Marquess of Bute's private mortuary chapel, formerly a plain plastered building, at the north-east corner, opening into the north side of the chancel and into the north transept, was rebuilt in 1833 with different richly coloured stones and alabaster: the windows are filled with stained glass and the chapel is separated from the church by metal screens: the east window and others are stained: there are 500 sittings. The register dates from the year 1731. The living is a vicarage, net income £192, without residence, in the gift of the Marquess of Bute, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Frederick John Beck M.A. Trinity College, Oxford, hon. canon of Llandaff, rural dean of Cardiff, precentor of Llandaff, chaplain to the Bishop, and surrogate. St. German's is an ecclesiastical parish, formed January 1, 1887; the church was built in 1883-4, in the Decorated or Middle Pointed style, from designs by Messrs. Bodley and Garner, architects, of London, and consists of chancel with aisles, nave, aisles and a flèche containing one bell: several of the windows are stained: the pulpit and chancel stalls are admirable specimens of carved oak: the nave roof was coloured and decorated in 1904: the church affords 1,000 sittings. The register dates from the year 1887. The living is a perpetual curacy, net yearly value £230, with residence, in the gift of Keble College, Oxford, and held since 1917 by the Rev. Charles John Smith M.A. of Pembroke College, Cambridge. The clergy house, south of the church was built in 1894, at a cost of £2,200. St. Martin's parish church, in Albany road, erected in 1901 at a cost of about £12,000, is of brick with stone dressings in the Gothic style of the 14th century, and consists of chancel, nave and aisles, and affords sittings for over 1,000 persons. The living is a vicarage, gross value £200, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1917 by the Rev. Henry Stephen Nicholl M.A. of Selwyn College, Cambridge. St. Francis' Mission church, in Singleton road, was erected in 1894, at a cost of £1,200: the site, which is of sufficient extent for a permanent church and parsonage, was given by the first and last Viscount Tredegar. The Wesleyan chapel, in Splott road, erected in 1898, at a cost of from £7,000 to £8,000, is of stone with Bath stone dressings, and will seat 800 persons. The (Church of England) Sisters of St. Margaret's, East Grinstead, have a House of Mercy in Church terrace, opened in 1882 for the reception of 20 females belonging to the principality. The Mackintosh Institute, founded in 1890 by The Mackintosh of Mackintosh and Mrs. Mackintosh, who fitted it up and gave it for the use of tenants on the estate, occupies the former buildings of Roath Castle, converted for this purpose, and contains rooms for all kinds of games, reading and writing rooms and a library; there is a gymnasium, bowling green and skittle alley: the grounds are used for lawn tennis and other out-door games: the members number about 500. The public abattoirs, with cattle and carcass markets attached, are situated in Cycle street, Roath, and Carmarthen street, Canton; at the former there is a siding in connection with the Great Western railway; the market days for cattle are Tuesday and Thursday.

Parish Clerk of St. Margaret, Edward Phillips.

THE PORT OF CARDIFF.

The Port of Cardiff is not only by far the most important port in the Bristol Channel, but has achieved the distinction of being the largest coal exporting port in the United Kingdom, and as regards total tonnage cleared is the third largest port in the country, London and Liverpool taking precedence, a pre-eminence attributable partly to its geographical position, but also in a high degree to the foresight and enterprise displayed by those upon whom has devolved the task of providing the magnificent dock accommodation. Its geographical situation is in addition particularly favourable for carrying on a large import and export trade, the Cardiff and Penarth Roads forming the safest anchorage in the Channel for shipping of the largest class. Besides these maritime advantages the port possesses convenience of access to all parts of the kingdom, more especially to the vast coal and iron producing centres of Monmouthshire and South Wales, being unquestionably the natural outlet for the increasing mineral produce and manufactures of the east part of Glamorganshire, in which are the populous districts of Merthyr, Dowlais, Aberdare and Rhymney, with which this port is connected by the Taff Vale railway, the Rhymney railway and Glamorganshire canal. Its advantages as a natural inlet are equally considerable. Wheat, flour, live and dead stock, cheese, bacon, fruit, vegetables, timber and deals, Spanish ore and provisions are amongst the most important of the imports, besides which it is the great emporium of the export potato trade, not only for Monmouthshire and South Wales, but also for the midland counties of England. The dock authorities have taken care to meet, and as far as possible to anticipate, the constantly increasing demands of the import trade upon their resources by the erection of public warehouses of enormous extent and capacity.

Statement of the trade of the port in 1908:—

IMPORTS, Iron ore, 739,899 tons; iron and steel of all kinds, 41,855 tons; timber, hewn and sawn, 1,268,733 loads; corn, grain &c. 6,065,100 cwts.; onions, 150,163 bushels; potatoes, 639,207 cwts.; meat, fresh and refrigerated, 152,651 cwts.; total value of all imports, £5,807,777. In 1912 the totals were: Iron ore, 746,100 tons; iron and steel of all kinds, 66,952 tons; timber, hewn and sawn, 1,168,057 loads; corn, grain &c. 5,304,700 cwts.; onions, 223,084 bushels; potatoes, 603,338 cwts.; meat, fresh and refrigerated, 150,649 cwts.; total value of all imports, £6,153,205. In 1918 the totals were: Iron ore, 684,050 tons; pig iron and iron work, 23,221 tons; timber and deals, 27,529 loads; pitwood, 242,431 tons; grain and flour, 161,117 tons; general merchandise, 274,105 tons; total, 1,412,453 tons.

EXPORTS.—In 1908 coal, coke and manufactured fuel was exported to the amount of 17,446,881 tons; bags and sacks, 47,440 dozen; iron and steel and manufactures thereof, 52,896 tons; total value of all articles, £13,760,690. In 1912 the amounts were: Coal, coke and manufactured fuel, 17,822,467 tons; iron and steel and manufactures thereof, 39,581 tons; bags and sacks, 108,717 dozen; total value of all articles, £13,913,682. In 1918 the exports were: Coal and coke, 6,129,835 tons; patent fuel, 441,962 tons; iron and steel rails and ironwork, 111,055 tons; general merchandise, 162,440 tons; total, 6,845,292 tons.

REGISTERED TONNAGE OF BRITISH AND FOREIGN VESSELS.

The number of sailing and steam vessels that entered the port in 1912 with cargoes and in ballast was 4,431 of 6,326,944 tons and 6,039 of 9,168,115 tonnage cleared.

In the general coasting trade the number of sailing and steam vessels that entered the port in cargoes and in ballast in 1912 was 8,741 of 4,278,637 tons and 7,555 of 1,931,906 tonnage cleared. In the intercourse between Great Britain and Ireland 1,096 vessels of 533,294 tons entered and 652 of 110,370 tonnage cleared.

In 1918 the number of steam vessels that cleared the port was 8,245 of 3,867,619 tons and of sailing vessels, 1,372 of 113,835 tons.

From the "Annual Statement of the Navigation and Shipping of the United Kingdom," prepared by the Board of Trade, it will be seen that Cardiff ranks as the largest port in the United Kingdom for "Shipping cleared foreign" in the year 1913. The clearances were as follows:—

Cardiff (including Barry and Penarth)	9,649,537 tons registered
London	8,291,125 " "
Liverpool	9,548,235 " "
Newcastle and North and South Shields ..	6,819,854 " "

For the export of coal, Cardiff is the first port in the world. Coal shipments, exclusive of bunker coal, for the year ending 31st December, 1913, were 19,328,833 tons; coal, coke and manufactured fuel shipments, coastwise and foreign: Cardiff (customs port), including Barry and Penarth, 20,095,051 tons; the Tyne ports, 13,619,502 tons.

Bute Docks.—This magnificent series of docks is unequalled in the world for the facilities afforded for the quick dispatch of coal steamers and merchant shipping generally. These are: West Bute dock, water area of 20 acres; East Bute Dock, 46 acres; Roath basin, 12 acres; Roath dock, 33 acres; the Queen Alexandra dock, 52 acres; and timber floats, 28 acres. The Bute docks, now the property of the Cardiff Railway Company, were wholly constructed by the third Marquess of Bute and his father at a cost approaching six millions sterling; the first, or West Bute dock, having been built at a cost of about £400,000, and opened in October, 1839; the East Bute dock in 1855; and the Roath dock, 1887. The statistics of each dock are as follows:—West Bute dock.—Entrance to basin, 45 feet wide; basin (area 1½ acres), 300 feet long, 200 feet wide; lock, 152 feet long, 36 feet wide; dock (area 18 acres), 4,000 feet long, 200 wide; quayage, 8,300 feet long; depth of water in dock, 19 feet and 13 feet; viz. 1.550 feet by 19 feet deep, 2.450 feet by 13 feet deep; depth of water on sill, ordinary spring tides, 28 feet 9 in.; neap tides, 18 feet 9 in.; there are 12 staiths for the shipment of coal; the ballast cranes (five in number) are capable of discharging 100 tons per hour; cranes (five in number) to lift 10 tons; graving dock, 235 feet long, 40 feet width of entrance, 12 feet deep. Bute East dock—sea lock, 220 feet long, 55 feet wide; basin (area 2½ acres), 380 feet long, 250 feet wide; inner lock, 200 feet long, 49 feet wide; dock (area 44 acres), 4,300 feet long, 300 and 500 feet wide, viz. 1,000 feet long by 300 feet wide, 3,300 feet long by 500 feet wide; quayage, 9,360 feet long; depth of water in dock, 25 feet; depth of water on sill of sea lock, ordinary spring tides, 31 feet 9 in.; neap tides, 21 feet 9 in.; there are 18 staiths in the dock and one in the basin for the shipment of coal, with the latest improvements in hydraulic machinery; there are three steam ballast cranes, capable of discharging 100 tons per hour, and hydraulic cranes are also used for discharging ballast; hydraulic cranes (36 in number) to lift from 2 to 20 tons; three graving docks, 400 feet long, 48 feet width of entrance, 17 feet deep; graving dock, 420 feet long, 60 feet width of entrance, 20 feet deep; graving dock 408 feet long, 48 feet width of entrance, 17 feet deep. Vessels can enter East dock via Roath basin, which has an area of 12 acres, is 1,000 feet long, 550 feet wide in centre. Quayage, 2,700 feet long; depth of water on sill, ordinary spring tides, 35 feet 9 in.; neap tides, 25 feet 9 in.; nine staiths for the shipment of coal, with the latest improvements in hydraulic machinery; also patent movable staiths and movable crane; graving dock, 600 feet long; entrance, 60 feet wide; spring tides, 23 feet 9 in.; neap tides, 13 feet 9 in. Public graving dock, in which shipowners may employ their own labour and find materials, is 600 feet long, with an entrance 60 feet wide. The Roath dock, the last of the series, opened 1887, for which powers were obtained in 1882, cost half a million sterling; the dock area is 33 acres; 2,400 feet long, 600 feet wide; depth of water in dock, 32 to 37 feet; quayage, 7,520 feet; cranes (33 in number) for discharging and loading vessels; the lock, the largest in the world, is 80 feet in width and 600 feet long between the gates, and has a depth of water over the sills of 35 feet at ordinary springs and 25 feet at ordinary neaps. There are cattle lairs, slaughter houses and chill rooms for the landing and slaughter of foreign cattle, and also good cold storage accommodation. The floating or pontoon dock is 360 feet long by 70 feet wide; the dock is fully equipped, and coal is shipped by the patent Lewis-Hunter coal cranes, and placed in the hold at three or more hatchways simultaneously, whilst general cargo and coal can be shipped at the same time by these cranes without moving the vessel, thereby giving ships the utmost despatch. On the quay side are warehouses and transit sheds, with railways alongside for the storage of general merchandise. There is also plenty of quay space for the storage of deals, iron ore &c. Ballast cranes and barges are provided for the discharge of ballast.

Queen Alexandra dock, opened on the 13th July, 1907, by His late Majesty King Edward VII. forms an additional walled dock of 52 acres, with a second deep water sea entrance to the Roath dock, making the area in one level 85 acres, with two independent sea entrances and exits, capable of being worked either as one dock or, if necessary, of being converted into two of 52 and 33 acres respectively, by a ship caisson placed in a communication passage, 90 feet in width. The dock is 2,550 feet in length, by 800 feet in breadth, with a depth of 50 feet from the coping. The sea lock is 850 feet in length, 90 feet in width, and has a depth of water over the sill of 42 feet at high water spring tides and 32 feet at high water neap tides. The entrance is well sheltered, and is in close proximity to the Penarth Roads, which afford the safest anchorage in the Bristol Channel. This dock not only provides for the largest vessels afloat, but is in communication with the docks belonging to the Cardiff Railway Company, with the exception of the Bute West dock. This communication removes the possibility of detention at neap tides, as vessels loading or unloading in either of the other docks can either enter from or leave for sea via the Queen Alexandra sea lock. The whole of one side, as well as the upper end of this dock, is devoted to the import and general export trade. Two large transport sheds have been erected in this dock, and provision made for the stacking of deals, pitwood &c. The cattle lairs and chill rooms are situate close to this dock, so that vessels using it can discharge their cattle alongside. There are also chill rooms for the storage of dead meat &c. into which vessels can discharge directly. Hydraulic and electric cranes are provided for the discharging and loading of general cargoes, and a 70-ton crane for heavy machinery &c.

For the American, Canadian and other cattle trade there is a commodious wharf with a depth of water at spring tides of 23 feet, and at neap tides of 15 feet. This wharf is provided with lairs for holding 450 head of cattle, and completely fitted slaughter-houses, the only ones in South Wales, have been erected, under the sanction of the Privy Council, on the north side of the Roath basin. There are extensive timber ponds with railway communication alongside to all parts of the kingdom. Since 1840 the size of vessels frequenting the docks has increased tenfold. Iron ore can be discharged from vessels at the rate of 100 tons per hour. Transit sheds are also provided for the loading and discharging of dry goods and provisions, at which berths equal despatch is given, and movable hydraulic cranes have been erected. Scarcely any docks can be more advantageously placed for the carrying on of a large import trade, the charges on vessels being from 20 to 30 per cent. less than those of the leading ports of Great Britain; while the Bunker rate on steamers at Cardiff shows a great reduction from the ordinary rates. In close proximity to the docks there are thousands of acres of land available for factories, at a very reasonable rental and for a long term of years, access to which can be had by rail direct from the ship's side, thus avoiding haulage and extra labour. Imports destined for the Midlands, for which Cardiff is the natural port, have the benefit of competitive railway communication with the London and North Western, Midland and Great Western railways. For a Transatlantic trade Cardiff is well situated, as the distance from New York is some 50 miles less than to Liverpool. Large transit sheds are available, as well as bonded warehouses. For goods required to be stored or warehoused there are excellent warehouses and commodious wharves, and for the convenience of merchants dock warrants are issued on all goods deposited in the dock-owner's custody. The Bute docks are connected with the railways; goods and minerals being loaded from vessels in the docks and from the warehouses into railway wagons and conveyed to London, Birmingham, Manchester, Leeds, Liverpool and all stations on the Great to Milford Haven, Swansea, and all stations on the Great Western, Taff Vale and Rhymney railways. There is also a regular weekly communication between the port of Cardiff and Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow, Greenock, Belfast, Cork, London, Hull and Cornwall, and daily steam service to and from Bristol, Burnham and other ports in the Bristol Channel; regular communication being maintained with France by means of large and powerful screw steamers to Bordeaux, also with the European ports, the Colonies and foreign countries all over the world.

THE UNIVERSITY COLLEGE OF SOUTH WALES AND MONMOUTHSHIRE.

This was founded in the year 1883, with the view of affording to students of both sexes in the southern division of the Principality, educational training of a high character. The College, opened 24 Oct. 1883, was incorporated in 1884, with the object of providing such instruction in all the branches of a liberal education as may qualify residents in the six counties of South Wales, & in the county of Monmouth, & elsewhere, to take degrees in arts, science, law & medicine at the University of Wales, or at any of the Universities of the United Kingdom; as well as to afford technical instruction & to promote higher education generally.

The course of instruction is of a varied & comprehensive character, including applied science & technology & medicine.

In 1889 the Drapers' Company, of London, gave £1,000 to the College Scholarship Fund, & now contribute £350 per annum to the engineering department. This department began work in 1890, & since that time its scope has been much enlarged in consequence of agreements with the counties of Monmouth & Cardiff, the County Councils of which, under the provisions of the "Technical Instruction Act, 1889," contribute £600 each per annum towards the higher technical department, receiving in exchange special rights of nomination. A similar agreement was in force with the county of Glamorgan until Sept. 1913, when it was terminated.

These counties also attach maintenance scholarships to the free scholarships.

The department for the training of teachers in elementary schools (day training college) was established in 1890 & during session 1918-19 had 158 students.

The Training School of Domestic Arts for South Wales & Monmouthshire, established in 1890. This school is under the management of a joint committee appointed by the Council of the City of Cardiff, the County Borough Councils of Merthyr and Swansea, the County Councils of Glamorgan and Monmouthshire, and the Council of the University College of South Wales and Monmouthshire. The school is under Government inspection & the Board of Education grants diplomas in cookery, laundry work & housewifery.

Scholarships are awarded every year by the College on the results of an examination held in April, & information respecting these & the County Free Studentships may be obtained from the Registrar.

For the accommodation of women students, Aberdare Hall, a hall of residence, has been provided. The principal is Miss Hnrribatt.

CARDIGAN

CARDIGAN, supposed to derive its name from Caredig, a chieftain of the province of Dimetia, is the capital of the county, a port, head of a union and county court district and a municipal borough, with a station on the Whitland and Cardigan branch of the Great Western railway, and 18½ miles west from Llandyssil terminal station of the branch of the same line from Carmarthen, 274 from London, 135 from Bristol, 22 from Aberystroyn, 38½ from Aberystwith, 29 from Carmarthen, 17 from Fishguard, 27 from Haverfordwest, 31 from Lampeter, 10 from Newcastle Emlyn and 33½ from St. David's, in the hundred of Troedyraur, petty sessional division of Cardigan, rural deanery of Sub-Aeron, archdeaconry of Cardigan and diocese of St. David's; the town is about 2 miles from the sea, on the river Teifi, a stone bridge of five arches connecting the counties of Pembroke and Cardigan; and a portion of the town stands on the Pembrokeshire side.

Under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1888," the ancient civil parish of St. Dogmaels, in the counties of Cardigan and Pembroke, was made into two parishes, that portion in the former being called St. Dogmaels Municipal, and in the latter St. Dogmaels Rural.

Cardigan, together with Aberystwith, Lampeter and Newcastle Emlyn, formerly constituted a parliamentary district, returning one member to Parliament, but under the provisions of the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885" (43 and 49 Vict. c. 23), the representation of the borough was merged into that of the county.

The town was first incorporated by Edw. I. whose charter was confirmed by succeeding monarchs; Hen. VIII. granted the borough a new charter, confirmed by Jas. I. and this remained in force until the passing of the "Municipal Corporations Act, 1835" (5 and 6 Wm. IV. c. 76), by which the Corporation was reconstituted, and now consists of a mayor, four aldermen and twelve councillors. The borough has a commission of the peace, and is under the care of the county police force. The town is well supplied with gas by the Cardigan Gas and Coke Consumers' Company Limited, formed in 1862; the works, situated at Netpool, were erected at a cost of £2,800. The water supply is derived amongst other sources from the Crugefa springs, 2 miles distant, and is furnished by the Corporation.

The shipping trade, which was once considerable, has of late years greatly diminished. The chief imports are coal, culm, manure and timber; the exports principally bricks and timber. There are several wharfs, and vessels of 150 tons may safely discharge here.

The limits of the port of Cardigan, which includes Fishguard, fixed under the Customs Act of 1846, extend from St. Justinian's chapel, near St. David's Head, to New Quay Head. Fishing boats and their implements are distinguished by the letters C.A.

There were no sailings or arrivals during 1918 from foreign ports. In the general coasting trade and that between Great Britain and Ireland, 700 sailing and steam vessels entered of 327,289 tons, and 709 cleared of 326,460 tonnage.

The number of fishing boats registered, under part IV. of the "Merchant Shipping Act, 1894," as belonging to the port, December 31, 1912, was 5, requiring 13 men and boys to work them, but 70 persons, other than regular fishermen, were occasionally employed.

The lifeboat "Elizabeth Austin," built in 1905 out of a legacy of the late Miss Elizabeth Austin, is kept at Penrhyn Castle, in St. Dogmaels parish.

The present church of St. Mary, with the exception of the chancel, which is Norman, dates from the year 1639; but there can be no doubt that a church formerly existed on the spot in connection with the adjoining priory; the building consists of chancel, nave, porch and an embattled tower containing 6 bells: the chancel is also embattled and decorated with pinnacles, and retains a piscina; the tower has stepped buttresses: the nave was rebuilt in 1702 and the tower in 1745, and the interior renovated in 1908, at a cost of £1,000. The organ was erected in 1877, at a cost of £440. A stained glass window was erected in 1910, in the south nave, to the memory of the late D. Griffith Davies esq. of Castle Green. There are 450 sittings, 209 being free. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £210, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1917 by the Rev. David Morgan Jones B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, and surrogate.

The Welsh Calvinistic Methodist chapel, Pendre, built in 1769, will seat 750 persons. Mount Zion English Baptist chapel, built in 1880, has 300 sittings. Bethania Welsh Baptist chapel, in William street, erected in 1847, is a building of stone of the Tuscan order, and has 900 sittings. The Capel Mair Welsh Congregational chapel, in Feidrair, originally built in 1803, rebuilt in 1831 and again rebuilt and enlarged in 1870, at a cost of £1,400, is of blue limestone, with Bath stone dressings, and will seat 700 persons. Hope English Congregational chapel, Pendre, erected in 1837 and rebuilt on a new site in 1880, affords 500 sittings.

A cemetery of 1½ acres was formed in 1876, at a cost of £900, and is under the control of the Corporation.

The Market Hall, erected in 1858, at a cost of nearly £6,000, is a building of stone, the ground floor and basements of which are appropriated to the market, held on Saturday; the upper floor comprises a Guildhall, council chamber and magistrates' room. The municipal insignia include two maces; the larger of these is of silver, 13½ inches in length, and has a cup-shaped head, surrounded by a circlet, and on the flat top are the royal arms of Charles I.; this mace was given by James Phillip in 1647; the smaller mace is 13 inches long, and similar in design to the other, but in much more perfect condition; it also has the royal arms on the top; the fine double seal of the borough, dating from 1250, is at present missing.

The Mechanics' Institution, now called the Cardigan Town Library, founded in 1847, is in St. Mary street.

The following fairs are held here:—Barley, the last Saturday in April, or on the 1st of May if it falls on a Saturday; wool, in June; hiring fair on November 10th, and goose and horse fair on December 22nd.

The principal hotels are the "Black Lion," in High street and the "Commercial" in Pendre.

The ruins of the castle, originally of great strength and importance, stand near the river bank; it is supposed to have been built about the year 1165 by Gilbert de Clare, but demolished by Rhys ap Gryffydd in 1166; in 1176 it was rebuilt by Rhys, Prince of South Wales, but in 1231 was again attacked and partly destroyed by Maelgwn, grandson of Rhys ap Gryffydd: it was afterwards restored, and during the Civil Wars was held by the Royalists, but was eventually taken and destroyed by the Parliamentary army: a mansion now stands on a portion of its site, and two bastions are the only portions of any consequence now remaining.

A priory of the Benedictine order in connection with and subordinate to the Abbey of Chertsey, in Surrey, formerly stood near the river; on its dissolution in the reign of Henry VIII. there were two monks only, and revenues valued at £13; its buildings were afterwards converted into private dwellings. Three miles up the river are the ruins of Cilgerran Castle, which is finely placed on a projecting mass of rock, overhanging the river Teifi: the principal portions now standing are two of the towers and the gate-house, dating probably from the 13th century: the scenery on the river banks between the castle and the town is grandly picturesque.

The area of the parish is 2,485 acres of land, 56 of foreshore and 100 of tidal water; rateable value, £10,198; the population in the civil parish in 1911 was 2,672, and in the ecclesiastical parish, 2,741. The area of the municipal borough is 4,928 acres; the population in 1911 was 3,578, which included 837 in St. Dogmaels Municipal parish.

CARMARTHEN

CARMARTHEN, the county town of the shire of that name and a county of itself since 1604, is a municipal borough, in the Carmarthen parliamentary division of the county and the head of a county court district and poor law union, with a station on the Great Western railway, 232 miles from London, 224½ by Great Western railway via the Severn tunnel, and 268 by L. and N.W. railway via Shrewsbury, 121 from Bristol via Neath and Swansea, 132 from Gloucester via Cardiff, 27 by road north-west from Swansea and 32½ by rail from the same, and about 9 miles from the sea, and in the rural deanery and archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's.

From Carmarthen junction station, about a mile distant, there is a branch of the Great Western railway passing through the town, and known as the "Carmarthen and Cardigan Branch."

The name "Carmarthen," or "Caerfyrddin," as it is called by the Welsh, is popularly supposed to be derived from the celebrated Welsh sage who flourished here about the middle of the 5th century, named Merlin Ambrosius, or Myrddin Emrys, but antiquaries are pretty well agreed that the name "Carmarthen," is formed from the Celtic words "caer" and "dun," signifying a hill-fort: and as the Maridunum of Antoninus or Moridunum of Ptolemy, the name seems to mean the "sea fort." In some of the old Welsh chronicles another derivation is assigned to the word, viz., "Caerfyrddyn," "the citadel of ten thousand," from "myrdd" a myriad, and "dyn" a man. Little is known of the early history of the place, but a Roman station is said to have been founded here as early as A.D. 70, the site of which is supposed to have been occupied by the castle and out-works.

The town was formerly surrounded by a high wall, with four fortified gates, the remains of which are now incorporated with the Joint Counties' prison. In the space now called "Nott square," Robert Farrar, or Ferrar, Bishop of St. David's, 1548-53, was burnt during the Marian persecution, 30 March, 1556.

The modern town of Carmarthen extends for about a mile and a half along the slope of Penlan Hill, on the north side of the river Towy, and is irregularly built, the streets converging towards the castle; from the summit of the hill, which is about 400 feet high, picturesque views are obtained of the neighbouring country watered by the Towy, with Carmarthen spread out below; on the opposite side of the river is Llangunnor Hill, also affording a fine prospect; but from Cystang Hill, Dryslwyn Castle, Grangar Hill, Dynevor Castle and Nelson's Tower may also be seen, forming, with the extensive surrounding district, a grand and striking panorama.

Carmarthen Bay, on the north side and near the entrance of the Bristol Channel, is bounded by Caldy Island on the west and the Worm's Head on the east, distant from each other about 13 miles. In the bay and about six miles from the mouth of the Towy, which here falls into the sea, lies a sand shoal, called "Burry Bar," on either side of which is a district rich in coal and minerals, extending many miles westward, and as far eastward as the boundary of the counties of Carmarthen and Glamorgan.

The Towy is a wide tidal stream, celebrated for its salmon and trout, and boats made of wicker-work and covered with pitched canvas, called "ceracles," are still used by the fishermen as by their predecessors centuries ago: the river is here crossed by an old but handsome stone bridge of seven arches: vessels of 300 tons burden can float up to the quay, which is roomy and conveniently situated.

Parliaments were held here at an early period, and in the reign of Edward I. this place was also the seat of the Chancery and Exchequer.

The borough has returned one member to Parliament since 27 Henry VIII. (1535-6), and since the passing of the "Reform Act, 1832" (2 and 3 William IV. c. 45), Llanelly has been a contributory borough in the election of a parliamentary representative.

The town was created a borough by King Henry II. but the earliest existing charter is that of Henry VIII. confirmed in 1604 by James I. who also made the borough a county of itself; it has therefore a jurisdiction separate from the shire, and possesses a sheriff of its own, who superintends the execution of all writs within its limits. The assizes are held here three times a year, also the quarter sessions, borough petty sessions for the county, and quarter sessions for the county of the borough on Mondays, presided over by the Mayor, and county sessions on Saturdays. The borough received a new charter from George III. dated 27 July, 1764, and this remained in force until the passing of the "Municipal Corporations Act, 1835" (5 and 6 William IV. c. 76), by which the Corporation was remodelled, and now consists of a mayor, six aldermen and eighteen councillors.

By the "Carmarthen Improvement Act, 1898," which came into operation July 25, 1898, the municipal borough was extended to include the civil parish of St. Peter Without; the two parishes within the borough being united and called St. Peter civil parish on April 1, 1901.

The town is well paved and drained, the streets are lighted with electricity, and gas is supplied from works erected in 1822. A new water supply was obtained in 1900 by a gravitation scheme at a cost of £40,000, the water being obtained from a reservoir in the Convil valley, formed by damming the springs flowing into the Cwm-tawel dingle, near Cenwil.

The houses of the old part of the town are unattractive, but a number of good villas have been erected in the outskirts.

The parish church of St. Peter is an ancient building of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north transept, south porch and a massive unbattled western tower, containing a clock and 8 bells: in the chancel is an altar-tomb, with effigies to Sir Rhys ap Thomas K.G.; it was formerly in the Grey Friars' church, to the south of Lammas street, but on the dissolution of the monastery was removed here, and restored by Lord Dynevor in 1866: there are also memorials to Bishop Ferrar, the Earl of Essex, Sir Richard Steele, the essayist, who died at Llangunnor, 1st September, 1729, and was buried here; and General Sir William Knott G.C.B. the distinguished Indian commander, who died at Carmarthen, January 1st, 1845, and whose remains rest in a vault in the chancel; the old colours of the 23rd Foot, or Royal Welsh Fusiliers, have also been placed here: there are seven stained windows and a very handsome brass lectern, representing the figure of an angel and presented in memory of Valentine Davis: the carved oak pulpit was the gift of Mrs. Lattimer Jones, in memory of carried out from the designs of Mr. Ernest Collier M.S.A. of Carmarthen, the whole of the stone being quarried and the work done by the staff and patients of the hospital. "Job's Well" is an out-station about 300 yards from the main building; an isolation hospital was erected on the estate in 1909 for four male and four female patients. There are now (1919) 305 male and 299 female patients.

At the entrance of the town from the west stands a plain quadrangular obelisk of grey limestone, about 60 feet high, erected to the memory of General Sir Thomas Picton, who was descended from an old Pembrokeshire family, and fell at Waterloo, 18 June, 1815, when in command of the fifth division: it occupies the site of a more elaborate column, erected to the memory of the same hero, but struck by lightning.

The Welsh Fusiliers' monument, dedicated to the memory of the officers and men of the 23rd Foot who fell in the Russian war, was erected at the expense of Colonel Lyons, of the 25th Queen's Own Borderers, and late Colonel of the 23rd, and his brother officers, and consists of a pedestal, inscribed with the names of all the officers and men belonging to the regiment who fell on the field of battle, or were cut off by disease during the campaign, and a tall shaft bearing the names of all the battles and sieges this distinguished regiment took part in, surmounting which is a plume of feathers in gilt metal, and the monument is surrounded with a cast iron railing in the form of crossed muskets. In front, on a massive carriage, is placed one of the Russian guns captured by the regiment on the heights above the Alma, Sept. 20, 1854.

In Nott square, elevated on a pedestal of granite, is a full length bronze statue of General Sir William Nott, attired in full uniform, with a military cloak. The statue was erected on the site of the old Market-cross, and removed on the completion of the new Market-place.

In Guildhall square is a monument, erected in 1905, to the memory of the Volunteers of the town who fell in the South African war.

Walter Devereux, first Earl of Essex of that family, was born here in or about December 1538; he was for some time known as Lord Ferrers, but in 1558 succeeded to the title of Viscount Hereford, and in 1572 was created Earl of Essex for his services against the Northern rebels: he died at Dublin, 22nd September, 1576.

The area of the borough of Carmarthen civil parish and municipal borough is 5,160 acres of land, 7 of inland water, 50 of tidal water and 13 of foreshore; rateable value, £44,271; the borough is divided into two wards for municipal purposes, respectively named Eastern Ward and Western Ward, which contained in 1911 a population of 4,929 in the Eastern and 5,292 in the Western Ward, and for County Council purposes into four divisions.  The Presbyterian College, on the Parade, is the continuation of the Academy founded by the Rev. Samuel Jones M.A. sometime Fellow of Jesus College, Oxford, & one of the two thousand ejected ministers of 1662; & is maintained & governed by the Presbyterian Board, London, founded in 1689. It is endowed in part by the will of Dr. Daniel Williams (1644-1715), by the Jackson trustees & the Berman trustees. The college exists for the purpose of educating young men for the Christian ministry among Protestant Nonconformists, & is open to students of all denominations without any profession of theological opinion being required. The course of study extends over three years, & prizes of considerable amount are offered for competition at the close of every session; students who require pecuniary assistance are also eligible for bursaries provided by trustees of various funds in England & Wales. Principal & Professor of Classics, Walter J. Evans M.A. Oxon.; Professor of Hebrew, Rev. Philemon Moore B.A.; Professor of Ecclesiastical History & Hellenistic Greek, Rev. Morris B.  The Grammar School was originally founded by letters patent of Queen Elizabeth, dated 1576, & the first school-house was built in Priory street, on the site now occupied by the Infirmary, from which place it was removed to a more suitable site in 1850. In 1879 the old foundation was reorganized as a first-grade school, under a scheme of the Charity Commissioners, & new buildings erected; these, completed in 1883, stand in grounds overlooking the town, & attached are large cricket & football grounds. The main building is of local stone, with dressings throughout of Forest of Dean stone & consists of a schoolroom 55 feet long by 22 feet wide & 18 feet high; there are also six large class-rooms, chemical laboratory & physical lecture room, workshop & a gymnasium, 70 by 31 feet. The present premises will hold 200 boys, but are so built as to be capable of extension westward. In 1894 the school was brought under the operation of the Welsh Intermediate Education Act, 1890, & is controlled by the Central Welsh Board. Head Master, Edwin S. Allen M.A. late open scholar of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge

The County Girls' School was opened in temporary premises in Quay street, in 1895. In 1896, new buildings adjoining the Grammar school were opened & provide for 200 pupils; on the upper floor are four large class-rooms, a geography & mistresses' rooms; on the ground floor there is a large assembly room, gymnasium, cookery class-room, laundry, chemical laboratory, lecture room & lavatories; in the grounds is a playground & workshop. This school is also controlled by the Welsh Central Board. Miss B. A. Holme M.A. head mistress, late open scholar of Girton College, Cambridge, & eleven assistant mistresses & two visiting masters
 Carmarthen High School for Girls (The), Wellfield road, the Lord Bishop of St. David's, president of the council; Miss E. J. Sutton B.A. principal
 The School of Art in Church lane, but previously in Parade road, was transferred in 1891 to new buildings of brick with freestone dressings, erected at a cost of £1,400, & consisting of an elementary room, antique & modelling rooms, master's private room & cloak rooms &c. The school is supported by a grant from the County Council of £350 a year, & there are at present 120 pupils attending the classes; Mr. William Jones A.R.C.A. Lond. master, certificated in advanced drawing, painting & architecture; Miss M. A. Jones, assistant mistress

CARON, see Tregaron.

CARON UWOH CLAWDD (or Strata Florida) is a parish and village in the county of Cardigan, with a station (2 miles from the village) on the Great Western railway, and is 6 miles north-by-east from Tregaron and 16 south-east from Aberystwyth: it is partly in the hundred of Iar and partly in that of Penarth, in the petty sessional division of Penarth, county court district of Lampeter and union of Tregaron, and in the rural deanery of Ultra Aeron, archdeaconry of Cardigan and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Mary, which stands within the ancient cemetery of the abbey, is a plain building of stone, consisting of nave only and has one bell; it was restored in 1875, and affords 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1750. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £200, in the gift of the trustees of the late Cornelius Le Brun Powell esq. and held since 1884 by the Rev. Evan Jones, of Queen's College, Birmingham. The Mission Church of St. David, at Pontrhydfendigaid, was erected by subscription in 1900, at a cost of £1,500, on a site given by the Earl of Lisburne. There are Calvinistic Methodist and Baptist chapels. The Cistercian abbey of Ystrad Flur, called at a later period, Strata Florida, appears to have been originally founded some time before 1097, and possibly by Rhys ap Tewdor, prince of South Wales, but during the Transitional and Early English periods it was rebuilt on a new site, and its endowments augmented by Rhys ap Gruffyd. In 1295, or thereabouts, the abbey was destroyed by fire. The excavations here were begun in Sept. 1847, by J. Davies esq. of Pant-y-fedwen, by permission of Col. Powell, of Nanteos, and certain portions of the site within the chancel and south transept were then uncovered for the visit to the abbey of the Cambrian Archaeological Association, but the systematic exploration of the ruins was not undertaken till 1886: in June of that year, Mr. Stephen W. Williams began the work carried on with much success during the years 1887-8, and resulting in many highly interesting discoveries; the portions of the monastery uncovered by Mr. Williams comprise the cruciform church, the sacristy, chapter house and cloister garth: traces of fire were met with in every direction, but the lower portions of the piers of the nave arcades were found in situ, and numerous carved capitals, including one of the early fabric of the 11th century, bosses, a monk's head and portions of a revelos, altar tombs and effigies, together with fragments of exquisite and unique floor tiles, were recovered and have been preserved; east of the south transept was the burying place of the monks, and here a number of grave slabs were met with, some of which retained small cross-shaped headstones, ornamented with Celtic knotwork patterns; the church, when perfect, consisted of choir, transepts, each with three eastern chapels, nave of seven bays, aisles, and a central tower; the cloisters and domestic buildings being on the south side: the total length of the church was 213 feet, and of the transept, 117 feet 3 inches, and of the nave, 132 feet 6 inches; the width across nave and aisles being about 60 feet. The principal portion now standing is a part of the west front, including the west doorway, a deeply recessed semicircular arch, with five orders of bold round moldings, handed at intervals with fillets terminating outwards in scrolls or foliage; the west end of the south aisle also remains, with a single pointed window. The cemetery is said to have been of great extent, and to have contained 39 yew trees, some of which still flourish; leaden coffins have been dug up within the area. Within the abbey and its precincts many Welsh princes and several noted bards were interred; in 1806 and 1807 two silver seals, one the seal of an abbot, and another bearing the arms of the abbey were ploughed up here. The Earl of Lisburne is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The chief crops are barley, oats and root crops and largely pasture. The area is 25,098 acres of land and 201 of water; rateable value, £2,789; the population in 1911 was 498.

The church of St. Michael is an ancient building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south chapel, south porch and an embattled tower on the south side containing 2 bells: the chancel retains a scullia; six of the windows are stained, and there is an ancient font; the floor of the church slopes from east to west to an unusual extent: the church was repaired in 1860, and affords 242 sittings, of which 160 are free. The registers date only from the year 1783, the earlier ones having been burnt. The living is a vicarage, net income £208 with 70 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the trustees of Earl Cawdor, who is a minor, and held since 1913 by the Rev. Alfred Saunders Jeremiah B.A. of Jesus College, Oxford. Flinston chapel, a small edifice, 2 miles to the south, and long desecrated and used as a farm building, was restored in 1903, as a memorial to William Francis, Alexander Frederick, and Ronald Robert Lambton, by their parents, Lieut.-Col. Francis and Lady Victoria Lambton: the building consists of nave and chancel under one roof, with a small chapel, now the vestry, on the north side, north porch and a western turret, containing 2 bells: the windows are all filled with stained glass. CEFN-COED-Y-CYMMER is a hamlet and large village in the parish of Vaynor and county of Brecknock, with a station on the Brecon and Merthyr railway, and is 2 miles north-west of Merthyr Tydfil and 1 from Cyfarthfa Castle, in the hundred of Pencelly, petty sessional division of Penderyn, union and county court district of Merthyr Tydfil, and in the rural deanery of Brecon (third part), archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. The river Taff runs near the village, and over it is a viaduct of 16 arches, designed and built by Alexander Sutherland esq. of Cefn, at a cost of £25,000; the span of each arch is 40 feet, and the height from the river to the parapet 120 feet. The church of St. John, a chapel of ease to Vaynor, erected at a cost of £2,500, is an edifice in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave and a tower with spire containing 6 bells; it affords 300 sittings, which are free. The mission church of St. Tudor, erected in 1889, is a plain building of stone, consisting of chancel and nave, and affords 260 sittings. There is a large cemetery here belonging to the Merthyr Tydfil Burial Board. A new church hall was erected here in 1905, at a cost of £1,000, for Sunday school purposes. In this hamlet is a stock-well belonging to the Cardiff Corporation. The Drill Hall, standing in lofty isolated masses of rock, standing out seawards, are in this parish, and the cliffs along the coast are resorted to in vast numbers from March to August by the elgways or razor-bills for breeding purposes. Several barrows were opened in 1886, when various interesting discoveries were made. Brownslade is the residence of Lieut.-Col. Francis William Lambton J.P. The trustees of Earl Cawdor, who is a minor, are lords of the manor and chief landowners. The soil is sand and limestone. Chief crops, oats and barley; much of the land is in pasture. The area is 8,111 acres of land and 3¼ of foreshore; rateable value, £3,467; the population in 1911 was 293.

CENARTH is a parish in the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, pleasantly situated on the river Teifi, and on the road to Cardigan, and is 3 miles west from Newcastle Emlyn terminal station, on the branch from Pencader junction of the Great Western railway, $\frac{1}{2}$ north-east from Boncath station, on the Whitland and Cardigan section of the same line, 7 south-east from Cardigan, and 21 north-west-by-north from Carmarthen, in Elvet hundred, Newcastle Emlyn union, county court district and petty sessional division, and in the rural deanery of Emlyn, archdeaconry of Cardigan and diocese of St. David's. The village is supplied with water from a perpetual spring. The church of St. Llawddog, rebuilt in 1870, is an edifice of stone consisting of nave with eastern apse, south porch, and a belfry containing 2 bells; there are 150 sittings: in the churchyard stands an ancient monolith, bearing a Celtic inscription, and known as the "Gelli-dywl stone." The registers date from the year 1701. The living is a vicarage, net income £130, with 2 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1911 by the Rev. John Robert Jones B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. There is a Congregational chapel, with 300 sittings. In the parish is a barrow or "tomen," standing in a field, known on this account as "Parc-y-domen." The river Teifi abounds with salmon and trout, and during the season an extensive fishery is carried on with coracles and nets. The scenery in the neighbourhood is very picturesque, and the Cenarth Falls especially attract a number of visitors. The trustees of Earl Cawdor (a minor), who are lords of the manor, and Charles Home Lloyd Fitzwilliams esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, soft slate. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 6,279 acres of land and 42 of water; rateable value, £3,679; the population in the civil parish in 1911 was 619, and in the ecclesiastical parish, 339.

By Local Government Board Order, No. 35,609, part of Cenarth civil parish was taken to form the new civil parish of Newcastle Emlyn.

CLYDACH BRECKNOCK, see Llanally (near Brynnaur).

CLYDACH, or Rhydwyclydach, is a parish and village, on the high road from Brecon to Swansea, with a station (Clydach-on-Tawe) on the Swansea and Hereford branch of the Midland railway, about 5 miles north from

Swansea; in 1847 it was formed into an ecclesiastical parish from the civil parishes of Cadoxton and Llanyfolach and is in the Neath division of the county of Glamorgan, petty sessional division and union of Pontardawe, Swansea county court district, and in the rural deanery of East Gower, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. John is a cruciform building of Welsh sandstone, in the Late Perpendicular style, and consists of chancel, nave, transepts, vestry and a small western bell cote containing 1 bell; the entrance is through the north transept; there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1847. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £260, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1903 by the Rev. Thomas Morris B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The church of St. Mary, erected in 1905, at a cost of £12,000, from designs by Mr. Bruce Vaughan F.R.I.B.A. of Cardiff, is a building of stone consisting of chancel with organ chamber and vestry, nave and a tower, and will seat 600 persons. There is also a chapel of ease to the church of St. John at TREBANOS, erected in 1912, to seat 300 persons. The remains of a British cross of the 6th century have been built into the east wall of the Unitarian chapel. At Carn Llechart stands a circular dolmen. Ynysspenllwch, the residence of Carl Langer esq. Pa.D., F.C.S. is an elegant mansion, standing in its own grounds, surrounded by trees and bounded on one side by the river Tawe; from the house and grounds can be seen the hills for a long distance on either side of the valley. The Duke of Beaufort is lord of the manor; the principal landowners are John Herbert Purdon Lloyd esq. J.P. and H. N. Miers esq. J.P. The soil is alluvial; subsoil, gravel. The area of the civil parish (Rhydwyclydach) is 7,636 acres of land and 68 of water; rateable value, £39,462; the population of the ecclesiastical parish (Clydach) in 1911 was 7,707, and of the civil parish, 6,994.

CRAIGCEFNPARC is a hamlet, 2 miles north of Clydach. There are Congregational and Baptist chapels, and extensive collieries belonging to the Graigola and Merthyr Co. Limited. CRAIG TREBANOS is a hamlet, 1½ miles north-east from Clydach.

CONWIL CAIO is a parish in the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, on the road from Llandovery to Lampeter, 7 miles north-west from Llanwrda station on the Llanelly and Llandovery section of the London and North Western railway, 10½ miles west by north from Llandovery and 10 south-east from Lampeter, in the hundred of Cayo, petty sessional division, county court district and union of Llandovery, and in the rural deanery of Llangadock, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Cynwil is a large and ancient building, dating from the 13th to the 15th century, and consisting of chancel, nave with two aisles, and a fine and massive embattled western tower containing 3 bells: the church was restored in 1891, at a cost of £1,760, and affords 300 sittings. The registers date from the year 1688. The living is a vicarage, with Llansawel annexed, joint net income £170, with 50 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1914 by the Rev. Griffith Jones B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. Bethel Baptist chapel, founded in 1741, has 740 sittings; Salem Baptist chapel, also founded in 1741, will seat 300 persons; there are Calvinistic Methodist chapels at Caio, Pumpsaint, Cwrtycadno and Cwmtwrch, and a Congregational chapel at Crugybar, founded in 1662, with 468 sittings. The bequests of Mrs. Lloyd Harries, of about £2 15s. yearly, and the Bwlchylgilwen charity of about £1 yearly, are distributed to the poor of the parish generally, and part of the Gellyddewi charity is given to members of the Calvinistic Methodist body only. There are five lending libraries. Gold mines (closed in 1911), situated on the hill facing Dolaucothy and Pumpsaint, are said to have been worked in this parish during the British and Roman periods. Two gold torques, a Roman intaglio on onyx and Roman chains with fibula as well as rings, and a large number of small coins have been found, and at Dolaucothy are two monumental stones with Latin inscriptions: one of these was erected to Paulinus, a saint of the 5th century, and tutor to St. David; excavations here have disclosed the remains of Roman baths and a villa. A large cromlech remained here in a perfect state up to the beginning of the century. On the hills of Mallaen and Craig Twrch are numerous barrows. Dolaucothy is the residence of Lady Hills-Johnes and stands in a large park. The manor is vested in the Crown. Sir James Hamlyn Williams Williams-Drummond bart. Lady Hills-Johnes, Col. Lloyd and John Morgan Davies esq. D.L., J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil varies much, and the land is chiefly under pasture. The area is 20,120 acres of land and 67 of water; rateable value, £9,707; the population in the civil parish in 1911 was 1,454, and in the ecclesiastical parish, 1,983.

COWBRIDGE, with LLANBLETHIAN

COWBRIDGE is a market town and municipal borough and parish, in the Pontypridd parliamentary division of the county of Glamorgan, with a station on the Llantrisant, Cowbridge and Aberthaw branch of the Taff Vale railway, distant 172 (by rail 187) miles from London, 12 west from Cardiff, 8 south from Llantrisant and 7 south-east from Bridgend, hundred and petty sessional division of its own name, Bridgend and Cowbridge union and county court district, rural deanery of Groneth Lower (eastern division) and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. The town consists principally of one long street stretching from east to west, and is divided by a small stream, over which there is a stone bridge of one large arch. It is lighted with gas by a company, and the drainage, though not complete, has already cost the corporation a considerable sum. The town is supplied with water from springs and wells.

In the year 1091 the town was encompassed with a stone wall, by Robert de St. Quintine, who also built the Castle of Llanblethian, of which well only one gateway now remains standing. A charter was granted to the town in 1682 by Charles II. confirming the privileges granted by previous sovereigns, and the Corporation formerly consisted of two bailiffs, twelve aldermen and twelve capital burgesses; there was also a mayor, who acted as constable of the castle, but was not recognised as a member of the Corporation, although acting as a magistrate within the borough. Under the provisions of the "Unreformed Corporations Act, 1835" (46 and 47 Vict. c. 18), the Corporation was dissolved, but on the petition of the inhabitant householders a new charter of incorporation was granted in March, 1887, and the town is now governed by a mayor, 4 aldermen and 12 councillors. The county coroner acts within the limits of the borough.

The church of St. Cross, COWBRIDGE, formerly a chapel to Llanblethian, is a building of stone, in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, north porch, and a fine embattled western tower, containing 8 bells: in the church is a memorial to Dr. Benjamin Heath Malkin M.A., F.B.A. the historian of South Wales, who was buried here: the church was restored in 1851 at a cost of £1,800, and again in 1894 at a cost of £800, and affords 640 sittings. The register of baptisms for St. Cross dates from the year 1718; marriages, 1754; burials, 1735.

The church of LLANBLETHIAN, standing on an eminence, is an ancient edifice of stone, partly Norman but with portions in the Gothic styles of the 14th and 15th centuries, consisting of chancel, nave, south transept, south porch and an embattled western tower with pinnacles, containing 6 bells: in the church is the recumbent effigy, apparently of a civilian, found in 1898, during the progress of excavations for drainage purposes, under the south-west buttress of the tower: the church was completely restored in 1907, at a cost of nearly £1,200, and affords 200 sittings. The registers of Llanblethian date from the year 1661. The living of Llanblethian, with Cowbridge and Welsh St. Donats, is a vicarage, net yearly value £250, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1917 by the Rev. L. J. Hopkin-James M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge, and rural dean and surrogate.

The Welsh and English Baptist chapel, Westgate street, erected in 1828, is a plain building of stone, with sittings for 320. The English Wesleyan chapel, Eastgate street, erected in 1880 at a cost of £1,650, is a building of stone in the Gothic style, and has 300 sittings. The Calvinistic Methodist chapel, in the Limes, is a building of stone, with sittings for 370.

The Town Hall and Market House, built by the Corporation many years ago, at a cost of £700, is a building of stone, situated in the High street, and will hold 350 persons. An Institute and Lecture hall was erected in 1895, at a cost of £700, of which £500 was given by the late Mr. Nathaniel Bird, of Cowbridge. A billiard room was added in 1913 at a cost of £200.

The market is held every Tuesday, and is purely agricultural. The great markets are held every fourth week, under the auspices of the Cowbridge and District Farmers' Co-operative Society, chiefly for cattle. Fairs are held the Tuesday before March 25th, May 4th, June 14th, Sept. 29th and the first Tuesday in December.

Here is a district lodge of the Manchester Unity of Oddfellows.

The charities (a list of which is in St. Mary's church) are as follows:—Mrs. Katherine Williams, by will, dated 27th November, 1682, bequeathed the sum of £100 to the town of Cowbridge, the interest to be yearly paid for the relief of the poor of the said town and for the apprenticing and advancement of children. Sir Leoline Jenkins, left, by will, dated 20th June, 1685, the sum of £20 once in every four years, towards apprenticing poor children or clothing poor people of the town of Cowbridge, at the discretion of the master of the Grammar School. Mrs. Mary Wilcox also left two closes of land in the parish of Llanblethian, the rent of which to be yearly distributed to the poor of the town of Cowbridge, at the discretion of the bailiffs. Mrs. Rebecca Wyndham likewise left, by will, the sum of £100, which, together with the interest thereof, purchased the moiety of a tenement of lands called Pencoed, in the parish of Llanilid, the profits of which to be applied towards apprenticing poor children of the town of Cowbridge, at the discretion of the minister and churchwardens for the time being. A house, near the Cross, in the town, one near the Weigh-house, and one near the Market place, and a field, called by the name of Tair Ew Hely Small-way, in the parish of Llanblethian, are charged with the yearly sum of 12s. each, which is left to be distributed in bread to the poor of the town on every Sunday after divine service, at the discretion of the churchwardens. Mr. Walter Williams, by a codicil to his will, dated 16th January, 1796, bequeathed the yearly sum of £4 for ever, to be issuing out of the rents and profits of a tenement of lands called "The Paddocks," situated in the Western Village of the town of Cowbridge, to be paid to the treasurer of the town, and to be distributed to the poor of the town and parish of Cowbridge, at the discretion of the bailiffs. On Nov. 24th, 1840, Daniel Jones, of Beaupre, in the parish of St. Hilary, in this county, by his will, directed his executors should purchase as much stock in Consols as would produce a yearly dividend of £10, for the use and benefit of the poor, the money either to be divided among them in equal moieties, one at Whitnuntide and the other at Christmas, by the minister for the time being, or to be laid out by such minister in clothing, bedding, or firing, for their use; the above stock stands invested in the £2½ per Cent. Consols. Mrs. Charlotte Malkin by will dated 19th March, 1845, left £100, the interest (about £2 13s. 4d. yearly) on which is applied for clothing for the poor. On December 11th, 1845, John Frauncies Gwyn, of Ford Abbey, in the parish of Thorncombe, in the county of Dorset, by his will, bequeathed to the parish of Cowbridge the sum of £200, in trust, the dividends thereof to be supplied in such manner as the minister and churchwardens shall think fit, for the benefit of the National school for boys of the three consolidated parishes of Cowbridge, Llanblethian and Welsh St. Donats; but this benefaction is now applied for the support of the Sunday schools of these parishes. Miss Eleanor Savours' charity of £200, invested in Consols, produces a yearly sum, which is divided amongst the poor of Cowbridge, at the discretion of the vicar, and a similar sum for Llanblethian. Mrs. Eliza Llewellyn, of Cowbridge, by her will dated 23rd June, 1870, left £100 upon trust, the produce to be divided amongst the poor.

The kennels of the Glamorganshire fox bounds are at Llandough, about a mile and a half south of Cowbridge; Robert Henry Williams esq. of The Ham, Llantwit Major, master. The pack hunts thrice weekly, Cardiff and Bridgend are convenient places for hunting visitors.

Crossways is the seat of Owen Williams esq. The Marquess of Bute, who is lord of the manor of Llanblethian and borough of Cowbridge; The Earl of Dunraven and Mountar K.P., P.C., C.M.G.; Capt. John Glyne B. Homfray J.P.; Mrs. Edmondies; E. Tudor Owen esq. J.P. and Owen Williams esq. are the principal landowners.

The soil is clay and gravel; subsoil, various. The chief crops are wheat, barley and pasturage. The area of the parish of Cowbridge is 85 acres; parish of Llanblethian is 3,250 acres and 13 of water; rateable value of Cowbridge, £4,042; of Llanblethian, £5,659. The population in 1911 of the parish and borough of Cowbridge was 1,167; parish of Llanblethian in 1911 was 745.

The number of electors on the parliamentary register in 1914 was 195.

ABERTHYN is 1 mile north-east. Here is a Welsh Calvinistic Methodist chapel.

MAINDY is 2 miles north-ly-east. Here is a Welsh Congregational chapel.

SCHOOLS.

The Grammar School, in Church street, founded in 1608, & endowed by Sir Leoline Jenkins, Judge of the Prerogative Court & Secretary of State in the reign of James II. was purchased by him of Sir Edward Stradling, of St. Donat's Castle, & subsequently devised to the principal, fellows & scholars of Jesus College, Oxford. He also founded, in connection with it, five monitorships, each of the present value of £16 10s. The scholarships & fellowships originally attached to the school are now thrown open to general competition; & English boys who have been educated in the school for four years enjoy equal advantages with the Welsh in competing for the fellowships & scholarships of Jesus College, Oxford. Entrance scholarships for boarders & day boys are awarded annually in December. The present building, together with a residence for the head master, was erected by the principal & fellows of Jesus College, Oxford, in the year 1847. The endowment of the school has, since January, 1883, been increased by £200 a year, & in 1891 there was a further augmentation of £200 a year on a scheme arranged by Jesus College, Oxford, & the Charity Commission. The interior arrangements of the school buildings have been much improved. The principals and Fellows of Jesus College, Oxford, form the governing body. R. Williams B.A. of Jesus College, Oxford, head master

Cowbridge County Secondary School for Girls, now a Secondary school under the Board of Education, was established in 1896, under the provisions of the "Welsh Intermediate Education Act, 1889," & is controlled by the Glamorgan Education Committee. The head mistress receives a limited number of boarders at the School Hostel. Scholars are also allowed to reside in apartments approved by the governors & under the supervision of the head mistress, or in the Hostel as weekly lodgers. Scholarships & Bursaries: County Scholarships, entitling the holders, if from a public elementary school, to total exemption from school fees, or if other scholars to total or partial exemption from school fees, are available from time to time under the direction of the governors. Bursaries, entitling the holders to travelling expenses to & from the school, & a contribution for school books, stationery & lodging expenses (if any) may be awarded by the governors to deserving candidates. County Exhibitions: County Exhibitions of the value of not less than £10 per annum, tenable at any university college or university, or other institution approved of by the Local Education Authority, are available for scholars of 16 years & upwards, who have been in the school for at least two years, or who are holders of County Scholarships. These exhibitions will be under the direction of the Local Education Authority. In 1909 the hostel was enlarged by the addition of two class-rooms, cookery room, gymnasium, laboratory & dormitory, at a cost of £4,000. Beyond the school is a large playing field, & the spacious grounds surrounding the school contain tennis courts & other accommodation for out-door exercise. Head mistress, Mrs. Ellen E. Forrester B.A. Wales, with five assistants & a special staff of competent travelling teachers appointed by the Local Education Authority. The school is managed by a body of ten governors, appointed by the Education Committee of the Glamorgan County Council; clerk to the Governors, William T. Gwyn, solicitor, Eastgate street, Cowbridge

COYCHURCH, see Pencoed.

CRAY, or LLANULID, is a large and scattered parish, originally part of the parish of Devynock, but formed into a separate ecclesiastical parish by an Order in Council in 1883, under the name of "Llanulid." It is on the river Cray and intersected by the road from Brecon to Swansea, has a station on the Neath and Brecon railway; the village is 183 miles from London by road, 12 miles south-west from Brecon and 3 miles south-east from Trecastle, in the Devynock division of the county of Brecon, Devynock hundred, union of Brecknock, county court district of Brecon, Devynock petty sessional division, rural deanery of Brecon (second part), archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. The church of St.
 Ild, erected in 1882-3, at a cost of £1,209, is an edifice of stone in the Early English style, from designs by Mr.
 Fowler, architect, and consists of chancel, nave, south porch and a turret containing one bell: there are 150 sittings. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £210, with residence, in the gift of the vicar of Devynock, and held since 1802 by the Rev. William Ogwen Davies, of St. Aidans. There is a Calvinistic Methodist chapel here. A large reservoir for the supply of water to the town of Swansea has been constructed in the Cray Valley, at a cost of £300,000, and comprises a concrete dam across the valley, and a tunnel, 3 miles in length, underneath the mountain and terminating at Nantyr-wydd, from which point the water is conveyed in pipes to Swansea. The dam is over a mile and a quarter in length and about 100 feet in height in the centre, and has a width at the base of 80 feet. The storage is over one thousand million gallons, and creates a water area of about 150 acres. Lord Tredegar is lord of the manor of the Great Forest and William Henry Rees Prichard esq. is lord of the manor of the Little Forest.

 Owen Price esq. J.P. and Robert McTurk esq. are the principal landowners. Pantysgallog, the residence of W. P. Rees esq. is a modern mansion of stone, beautifully situated on an elevated site above the river Usk, and surrounded with pleasure grounds of about 10 acres. This parish forms the greater part of the site of the once Great Forest of Brecon, but the land is now used for grazing purposes, which, with agriculture, forms the principal industry of the place. The soil is red earth; subsoil, the same. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and a considerable quantity of pasture land.
 The area is 11,862 acres of land and 38 of water; rate-able value, £16,999; the population of the civil parish of Cray in 1911 was 399, and of the ecclesiastical parish of Llanulid, 360.

CRICKHOWELL, with LLANGATTOCK

CRICKHOWELL is a market and union town, parish, head of a hundred, petty sessional division, county court district, in the county of Brecknock, 157 miles from London, 14 east from Brecon, 8 east from Talbot railway station on the Brecon and Merthyr branch, 12 south-east from Talgarth, 6 north-west from Abergavenny, 5 west from Govilon railway station and 4 west from Giltern, on the London and North Western railway, and in the rural deanery of Crickhowell, archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. A service of motor buses was opened between Abergavenny and Brecon, July 1st, 1905, by the Great Western Railway Company for mail and passenger service; several buses run daily during the week and two on Sundays, all calline at Crickhowell. The town lies in a most picturesque valley, on the banks of the river Usk, over which is a stone bridge of thirteen arches. The river is of considerable width at this part, and separates the parishes of Crickhowell and Llangatock. There is excellent trout and salmon fishing in the neighbourhood. The town is supposed to have derived its name from an ancient British fortress, called Crig Hywel, situated about two miles north-north-east of the town and formerly of great strength and importance. The Brecon and Newport canal passes through Llangatock, at a distance of about a mile from the town. The town is lighted with gas from works the property of Miss May William, and has an abundant supply of water from works in Llanbedr road, the property of the Rural District Council; the water is obtained from a spring on Ty-yn-y-wlad farm, and is stored in a reservoir with a capacity of 200,000 gallons.

Crickhowell is reputed to be a borough by prescription, but was scheduled by the Municipal Commissioners of 1876 as a place which either had not been municipal or had long ceased to be so. A bailiff is appointed annually by the lord of the manor. Courts leet and courts baron are held annually for the affairs of the manor. The lord of the manor also appoints a coroner for the hundred of Crickhowell.

The church of St. Edmund the Martyr, standing near the centre of the town, is an ancient building of stone, in the Transitional Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, transepts, south porch and a central tower, with spire, containing a clock and 5 bells: in the church are nine stained windows, one being the gift of Edward William Seymour esq.; the others are memorials respectively to the late Major Aylmer Somerset, the late Thomas Gratrex esq. the late Mr. Gabell, and to the late Mrs. Lucas, of Glanrafon, and there is one, presented by Mrs. Percy Davies, of Porth-mawr: the chancel retains a sedile, a piscina and ambury; in recesses in the chancel are the effigies of a knight in armour, and of a lady, supposed to represent Sir Grimbald de Pannecote and his wife: there is also a monument to Sir John Herbert, of Dan-y-Castell, and his wife Joan, who died in 1666: the church was restored in 1868 at a cost of £2,300: in 1882-3 a new organ was erected, the arches between the transepts and aisles were opened and the chancel restored, and in 1885 and 1889 further restorations were carried out, the total cost amounting to about £1,240: a new reredos has been placed as a memorial to the Rev. B. T. G. H. Somerset M.A. rector, 1874-93, and new choir stalls have been presented by Mrs. Percy Davies, in memory of her late husband: there are 500 sittings, 100 of which are free. The register dates from the year 1533. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £300, with 60 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Duke of Beaufort, and held since 1893 by the Rev. Henry Plantagenet Somerset M.A. of Queen's College, Oxford, rural dean of Crickhowell, and surrogate.

The church of St. Cattwg, at LLANGATTOCK (or Llangatwg), is an ancient building of stone, in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, aisles, two porches and an embattled western tower, containing 8 bells: there are memorial windows to the late Sir Joseph Bailey bart. d. 1858, and to his daughter, d. 1860, both presented by his widow, and others to the Rev. George Howell, late rector, Miss Savile, George Frederick Miles esq. Mrs. Anna Augusta Miles and Lady Tulloch: the church was restored and refitted in 1886, at a cost of £2,500, and affords 320 sittings. The register dates from the year 1703. The living is a rectory, with the chapelry of Llangenny annexed, joint net income £450, including 30 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Duke of Beaufort, and held since 1913 by the Rev. Richard Mervyn Cole-Hamilton M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford, and hon. chaplain to Crickhowell Union.

The curfew is rung at Crickhowell from Michaelmas to Candlemas.

There is a Baptist chapel, erected in 1839, with 300 sittings; Congregational (at Llangattock), founded in 1786, seating 450 persons; also Calvinistic Methodist and Wesleyan chapels.

The Cemetery, adjoining Crickhowell church, was opened in 1888, at a cost of £850, and enlarged in 1913; it occupies an area of 1½ acres; it is under the control of the Parish Council.

The Town Hall, in High street, is a building of stone, erected at the expense of the late Duke of Beaufort, lord of the manor, and is used for County Court business, Petty Sessions, the meetings of the Rural District Council and the Board of Guardians, and for manorial business; the basement is used as a market place. Clarence Hall, in Beaufort street, the first stone of which was laid in 1891 by H.R.H. the late Duke of Clarence K.G. was erected at a cost of £2,500, by the Crickhowell Public Hall Co. Limited. It is used for public meetings, entertainments &c. and will hold 800 persons.

The weekly market is held every Thursday, chiefly for provisions; there is also a monthly market on the second Thursday in each month. The fairs are held on May 12 and September 22. The granite fountain opposite the Market house, was erected in 1875, at a cost of £600, by the first Lord Glanusk and the inhabitants to the memory of Henry John Lucas M.D.; the water is supplied from a celebrated spring at Fynonness, and was conducted to the fountain at the expense of the first Lord Glanusk.

The Percy Davies Institution, in High street, was the gift of the late Mrs. Percy Davies, of Porthmawr, for the benefit of the inhabitants of the town of Crickhowell for ever, and comprises a library, coffee tavern, and reading and recreation rooms. At Llangattock are reading and recreation rooms, with a library, erected in memory of the late G. F. W. Miles esq.

The Dispensary, in High street, established in 1820, is supported mainly by voluntary contributions.

The charities include £500, left by the late Mrs. Bevan for the support of the National school, the interest to be used yearly; £500 by the late Miss Williams, of Cwmdun, the annual interest of which is applied towards the support of the Crickhowell Dispensary; £10 a year, left by the late Sir Joseph Bailey bart.; £3 a year, by the late Miss Latham, both for the relief of the poor; and £3 by the late John Williams, as a charge on a meadow called "Ton Glebe," and also known by the name of "Tyr-shon-Williams," to be paid on the 29th September and 22nd December, to two widows of the parish.

Crickhowell Castle, of which only a tower now remains, is supposed to have been originally founded by the Normans; it was inhabited in the 15th century by Sir Charles Somerset K.G. afterwards created Earl of Worcester, who married the only daughter and heiress of William Herbert, Earl of Huntingdon, from whom it has descended to the present proprietor, the Duke of Beaufort. "Crûg Hywel" or Howell's stronghold, mentioned by Leland as the Cragus Hoelinus, but now called by the inhabitants "Table Mountain," lies to the north of the town.

On Llangattock hillside is a remarkable cavern, called "Eglwys Ysen" or the "Church Cavern;" there are also several remarkable monoliths in this district, and the remains of a cromlech.

Glanusk Park, the seat of Lord Glanusk C.B., D.S.O. (lord-lieutenant of Breconshire), is a fine modern mansion standing in a park of about 300 acres, divided by the river Usk, and commands extensive and very beautiful views; here is the Penmyarth golf course of 9 holes; Llangattock Park, occupied by Mrs. Picton-Turbervill, has an area of about 400 acres; Dan-y-park House is the residence of Col. Robert Preston Sandeman J.P.; Porth Mawr, of Miss Solly-Flood; Llanyswg, of Gwilym Cristor James esq. J.P. and the Plas of Capel Aylett Branfill esq.

The Duke of Beaufort, who is lord of the manor, and Lord Glanusk C.B., D.S.O. are chief landowners.

The soil is sandy; subsoil, chiefly gravel. The land is chiefly pasturage, but some grain, potatoes and other roots are raised.

The area of the parish of Crickhowell is 1,937 acres of land and 22 of water; rateable value, £5,961; population in 1911, 1,232. The area of Llangattock, 8,070 acres of land and 77 of water; rateable value, £5,817; the population in 1911 was 959, including 10 officers and 102 inmates in Crickhowell Poor Law Institution.

CWMAMMAN, see Aberdare.

CWMAMMAN is a civil parish and Urban District, formed by Local Government Board Order No. 57,596, which came into operation April 1st, 1912. The parish is governed by an Urban District Council of 15 members. It is in the county of Carmarthen, hundred of Iscennen, Amman Valley petty sessional division, Llandilo county court district, Llandilo Fawr union, and in the rural deanery of Llandilo, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The parish is divided into two postal districts, Glanamman and Garnant, both of which places have a station on the Pantyffynnon branch of the Great Western railway. Glanamman is 12 miles south-east from Llandilo and 15½ north-east from Llanelli, and Garnant 13 miles south-east from Llandilo and 16½ north-east from Llanelli. The ecclesiastical parish was formed in 1843 from Bettwys, Llandilo Rural and Llanbedie parishes in Carmarthenshire, and Llangwg in Glamorganshire: the church is a plain edifice of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, and a turret containing one bell: it was restored in 1878 at a cost of £505, and again in 1892, at a cost of £100, and affords 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1843. The living is a vicarage, net income £290, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1910 by the Rev. William Williams B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, who resides at the vicarage at Garnant. The Baptists, Calvinistic Methodists and Welsh Congregationalists have two places of worship each. Bethel Congregational chapel, at Glanamman, has 850 sittings. The Baptist chapel at Glanamman was erected in 1844, and seats 450. There are coal mines in the parish, and tinsplate and galvanized iron sheets are manufactured. The principal landowners are Lord Dynevor D.L., J.P. Lady Howard and A. P. Saunders Davies esq. D.L., J.P. The area is 756 acres; rateable value, £11,139; population in 1911 was 4,971 in the civil parish and Urban District, and 11,611 in the ecclesiastical parish.

DEVYNOCK and SENNY BRIDGE.

DEVYNOCK is a civil parish comprising the townships of Cray, Glyn, Glyntawe, Maescar and Senny, in the county of Brecknock, Devynock petty sessional division and hundred, Brecknock union, Brecon county court district, rural deanery of Brecon (second part), archdeaconry of Brecon, and diocese of St. David's. The township of Cray was constituted a separate ecclesiastical parish in 1883, and called Llanulid. Glyn township was formed into a separate ecclesiastical parish in 1887 under the name of Llanilltyd. The village of Devynock stands principally within the township of Maescar, and is 180 miles from London by road and 190 by rail, and 9 west from Brecon, and has a station on the Neath and Brecon railway half a mile north-west. There is a good supply of water from works erected by the Brecknock rural sanitary authority (now the Rural District Council), in 1883, the water being drawn from a spring on the side of the neighbouring hill, and carried into Devynock and Senny Bridge by 3 in. cast-iron pipes from a tank at the source. The parish church of St. Cynog is an ancient building of stone in the Norman style, consisting of chancel with aisle, nave, north aisle, south porch and a western tower containing 6 bells; the font is Norman, and there are several memorial windows; the church was restored in 1888 and 1890 at a cost of £1,795, and affords 362 sittings. The register dates from the year 1606. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, including 3 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1919 by the Rev. James Jones B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, and rural dean of Brecon (part II.). The Congregational chapel, erected in 1865, will seat about 260. The Wesleyan chapel, built in 1809, and rebuilt 1830, has sittings for 150. There is also a Calvinistic Methodist chapel, and a Congregational chapel at BRYCHGOED, built in 1740, rebuilt in 1844, and renovated in 1876, and now seating about 250. The Baptist chapel, at Senny Bridge, erected in 1859, will hold about 150. The police station and magistrates' room, a building of stone, were erected in 1844, and enlarged in 1908. The Public Hall, at Senny Bridge, is used as a market hall and for entertainments. There is also a reading room and library, at Senny Bridge, established in 1887, by Miss E. A. Williams, and principally supported by her; the whole library contains 450 volumes. A weekly market is held at Senny Bridge, every Friday, and a stock market every Tuesday. A fair is held, at Devynock, annually on April 16th and 2nd Tuesday in July for cattle and sheep. There is a small woollen factory here, and a corn mill and saw mills. Some business is also done in coal, flour &c. at Senny Bridge. The principal charities are Sir John Davey's charity, for the education of the poor of Devynock and Yselydach; William Watkin's almshouses and Havard's or Nantyrwydd charity for the benefit of the poor in Senny and Maescar. The Baddege charity, amounting to about £38 a year, is distributed on St. Thomas's day to the poor of the parish. There are almshouses for five people, men and women, founded by Sir John Davey kt. alderman of London, in 1624, rebuilt by Howell Powell esq. of Cwmwysg and Rees Powell esq. of Penybont, in 1854. In the neighbourhood is an ancient British fortification called Cefn-y-Gaer; and on the banks of the Senny stand the remains of an ancient castle called "Castell Du." Glanwyske, half a mile west, is the seat of Roger Jeffreys-Powell esq. Llwyn-cyntefn is the seat of Mrs. Richard Garnons Williams. Lord Tredegar, who is lord of the manor, Miss Williams, of Penpont and the Rev. Arthur Garnons Williams are the principal landowners. The soil is red earth. The chief crops are oats, barley, wheat and cereals. The area of the entire civil parish of Devynock is 32,034 acres; population 1911, 1,780; the population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 1,020.

EGLWYSWRW is a parish and village in the county of Pembroke, at the foot of the Preeley mountains, on the road from Haverfordwest to Cardigan, and intersected by the river Gafren, 4 miles north-west from the Crymmych Arms station on the Whitland and Cardigan line of the Great Western railway, and 6 south-south-west from Cardigan, in Kemes hundred, Cemmaes petty sessional division, Cardigan union and county court district, and is in the rural deanery of Kemes, archdeaconry of Cardigan and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Cristiolus is an edifice of local stone, consisting of chancel, nave, porch, and a bellry containing one bell: there are memorial tablets dated 1779 and 1783 to John and Margaret Owen, of Berllan: the church plate includes a chalice dated 1574, also a paten of copper gilt, which is said to have ones formed a part of the private sacramental plate of the great Papal family at their Chigi palace, at Siena. The church was restored in 1855, at a cost of £775, and affords 1 sitting. The registers date from the year 1731. The living is a vicarage, net income £159, including 48 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1915 by the Rev. David Lewis Daniel L.Div. of St. David's College, Lampeter. There is a mission room, belonging to the church, also used for Sunday school meetings and entertainments. Here is a Baptist chapel, founded in 1838, with 100 sittings. The village contains a post office and a magistrates' room. The Kemes petty sessions are held here and at Newport on every alternate third Tuesday at 11 a.m. Meigan cattle fair is held in the village on the first Monday after November 22nd. In the parish is St. Mary's well and the remains of a British camp. There are also the ruins of two castles, one in the village and one at Llan-fair. At Court is the Manor House, now unoccupied, which was once the residence of David Martin, Bishop of St. David's in 1293. Sir Martene Owen Mowbray Lloyd bart. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is tight loam; subsoil, rock and clay; the chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area comprises 3,701 acres, of which 3 are water; rateable value, £2,688; the population in 1911 was 367. Post & M. O. & T. Office (letters should have Pembroke-shire added).—Mrs. A. EWENNY is a village and parish, now including Lampha, formerly a detached part of the parish of St. Brides Major, and also including a part of Coity Lower, added by Local Government Board Order, No. 46,305, dated April 1st, 1905: the village is on the river Eweny, and the old road from Cowbridge to Neath, and is about 2 miles south-east from Bridgend station on the Great Western railway, and 6 west from Cowbridge, the terminal station of the Taft Vale railway, in the Ogmere division of the county of Glamorgan, Ogmere hundred, Bridgend and Cowbridge union and county court district, Newcastle and Ogmere petty sessional division, rural deanery of Lower Groneath (western division), and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. The Vale of Glamorgan railway passes through this parish. The Priory church of St. Michael is an ancient cruciform building of stone in the Early Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, south transept, north aisle, restored in 1896, north porch and a massive embattled central tower, with small pinnacles at each angle, containing one bell: the church is 185 feet in length, by 33 wide, but the transept, originally 81 feet from north to south, has lost its northern arm, and the eastern chapels of the remaining south arm have also disappeared, the foundations only remaining: the simple and elegant tombstone of Maurice de Londres, c. 1150, still remains, and some part of the original pavement of the church: there are also monuments to the Carne family: the east window is stained, and there is a cylindrical Norman font: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1717. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £46, in the gift of Col. John Picton Turbervill, and held since 1800 by the Rev. Thomas Davies Bevan M.A. of Jesus College, Oxford. There is a Calvinistic Methodist chapel in the village, and a Baptist chapel at Corntown, erected in 1839, with sittings for 250 persons. Near the river Ewenny are the ruins of the Benedictine priory of St. Michael, founded here by William de Londres, whose son Maurice, in 1141, gave it as a cell to Gloucester Abbey: the gatehouse, several towers and part of the precinct wall, as well as the church, still remain, and a recumbent effigy of the thirteenth century, in mail armour, representing either Sir P. Turbervill or Sir Roger de Remi. Ewenny Priory is the seat of Col. John Picton Turbervill D.L., J.P., who is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is clay and red land; subsoil, blue lias and carboniferous limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and pasturage. The area is 2,740 acres of land and 11 of water; rateable value, £4,542; population in 1911, 357 in the civil and 286 in the ecclesiastical parish.

Corntown is a village half a mile south-east from Ewenny.

FERRYSIDE and ST. ISHMAEL.

FERRYSIDE is a village in the parish of St. Ishmael, about 4 miles north-west from Kidwelly and 8 south from Carmarthen, with a station on the Great Western railway, and about 214 miles from London; the village, which stands on the south-east bank of the river Towy, has attained a position of some importance as a place of resort for visitors in the summer season, on account of its pleasant situation in Carmarthen Bay.

St. Ishmael's is a parish near the mouth of the river Towy, 3 miles west-north-west from Kidwelly, in the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, Kidwelly hundred, Carmarthen union, county court district and petty sessional division, rural deanery of Kidwelly, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Ishmael, about 1½ miles from Ferryside, and 2½ miles from Kidwelly, is a building of stone, restored in 1861, and consists of chancel, nave, north aisle and south transept, and contains several stained windows. The register of baptisms and burials and marriages dates from the year 1560. The living is a vicarage, with the chapels of Llansaint and St. Thomas, Ferryside, annexed, net value £200, including 60 acres of glebe, and house, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1880 by the Rev. Richard John James B.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge.

The church of St. Thomas, FERRYSIDE, a chapel of ease to St. Ishmael's, erected in 1828 and restored during the period of 1872-8, at a cost of £3,263, is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle and transept: there are several stained windows. The chapel of ease at Llansaint, which stands on a hill about 2 miles east from the parish church, is of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and an embattled western tower containing one bell.

There are Welsh Baptist, Welsh and Calvinistic Methodist chapels at Ferryside, and Welsh Calvinistic Methodist and Congregational chapels at Llansaint.

The trustees of Earl Cawdor, who is a minor, are lords of the manor of Kidwelly, and the Brigstocke family are the chief landowners. The soil is sandy loam and old red sandstone; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and roots. The area of St. Ishmael civil parish is 4,585 acres, 142 of tidal water and 960 of foreshore; rateable value, £9,937.

FISHGUARD (locally Abergwain) is a parish, market town, seaport and a contributory parliamentary borough, in the county of Pembroke, 1 mile south-south-east from Fishguard and Goodwick station on the main line of the Great Western railway, 15 miles north from Haverfordwest, 6 north-east from Letterston, 25 north from Pembroke, 18 south-west from Cardigan, 45 north-west from Carmarthen and 27 from London, petty sessional division of Fishguard, county court district and union of Haverfordwest, and in the rural deanery of Fishguard and archdeaconry and diocese of St. David's. The town is divided into two parts (upper and lower), separated by the river Gwain, which is here crossed by a bridge of one arch; the Upper town is seated on a high rock commanding a good view of the harbour, which is in the form of a crescent, and its sinuous coast, consisting of projections endlessly varying in shape and height, is at once grand and beautiful. The view inland includes Pwccelly, the loftiest mountain in this county, being 1,735 feet above the level of the sea, together with hills of inferior height, many of which are crested with enormous masses of rock. The bay is very safe both for bathing and boating.

By Local Government Board Order No. 49,526, dated April 2, 1907, the ancient civil parish of Fishguard has been divided into two, North and South. Under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894," the North parish is governed by an Urban District Council of 15 members, formed April 1st, 1907.

The water supply, furnished by the North Pembroke-shire Gas and Water Co. is derived from springs, 6 miles distant, and carried by gravitation to filtering grounds and thence to the town; the water is of excellent quality. Fishguard, together with Pembroke and seven other places, forms the Pembroke and Haverfordwest parliamentary district, constituted in 1833, under the "Reform Act, 1832" (2 and 3 Wm. IV. c. 45), and returning one member.

The harbour of Fishguard, constructed by the Great Western Railway Company and opened for their Irish passenger, cargo and cattle trade in 1906, includes a breakwater, 2,000 feet long. By its service of turbine steamers with Rosslare (distant 62 miles), it forms the shortest sea passage with Ireland, and has been adopted as a port of call by the Cunard and Booth Steamship Companies. The harbour has a depth of 20 feet alongside the quay. The harbour works are now (1919) being completed.

The Elder Brethren of Trinity House have erected a lighthouse on Strumble Head at a cost of about £40,000; the light, which is of 400,000 candle power, is reflected for 40 miles through four bull's-eye lenses, from a height of over 200 feet; it gives four flashes in 15 seconds, and is worked on the "Kitson" system; in foggy weather two reports are given in quick succession every 10 minutes.

The church of St. Mary, erected in 1856, is a building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south vestry and a western bell turret containing one bell; there are 500 sittings. The register dates from the year 1790. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £230, with 9 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1910 by the Rev. David Davies B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The Catholic church of the Holy Name, together with a presbytery, is in West street. Hermon Baptist chapel, erected in 1807 and enlarged in 1907, will seat 750 persons; Tower Hill Calvinistic Methodist chapel has 500 sittings; the Tabernacle Congregational chapel, founded in 1790, seats 400. The Temperance Hall, erected in 1881 and enlarged in 1908, is used as a picture palace and for concerts and public meetings; it will hold 1,000 persons. The inhabitants are principally engaged on the harbour works and agricultural pursuits. The river Gwain abounds with salmon and trout. The market is held on Thursday in a convenient market house, and in the Town Hall petty sessions are held monthly. Fairs are held the first Thursday in each month and October 8th and 9th (hiring). The Commercial is the principal hotel. Carreg Cwastad Point, on the coast here, is famous as the scene of a French descent on Tuesday, February 1, 1797. This force, of about 1,400 men, established itself at Carn Unda, but meeting with no support, surrendered two days later to the militia under Lord Cawdor. Pentower, occupying a commanding position overlooking the bay, is the property and residence of Sir Evan D. Jones M.P., D.L., J.P. The principal landowners are Robert G. Chambers esq., J.P., James C. Yorke esq., J.P., Vincent James G. Johns esq., Sir Evan D. Jones bart., M.P., D.L., J.P. and Mrs. Walter L. Williams. The soil is gravel. The chief crops are barley, oats and swedes.

The area of Fishguard North parish and Urban District is 2,117 acres; assessable value, £6,978; and the population in 1911 was 2,862. The population in the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 3,150.

The population of the parliamentary contributory borough was 2,721.

The number of electors on the parliamentary register in 1913 was 513.

The area of Fishguard South parish is 2,000 acres; assessable value, £858; population in 1911, 258.

GARW VALLEY, see Ogmere Valley.

GELLYGAER (or Gellygaer) is a large and scattered parish and village, in the north-east of the county of Glamorgan; the village is 1½ miles west from Pengam railway station on the Brecon and Merthyr and Rhymney railways, 1½ north from Cardiff, and 14 south-east from Merthyr Tydfil, in the Caerphilly division of the county of Glamorgan, lower division of Caerphilly hundred, Lower Caerphilly petty sessional division (with the exception of the hamlet of Garthgynidr, which is in the Merthyr division), Merthyr union and county court district, rural deanery of Caerphilly, and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff.

Gellygaer is governed by an Urban District Council of 21 members, formed under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894," by Local Government Board Order No. 51,987, dated September 11th, 1908.

The ancient church of St. Cadocus, a building of stone in the Norman style, restored in 1867 at a cost of £1,665, consists of chancel, nave, north porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and one bell: it has sittings for 350 persons. The register dates from the year 1707. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £340, with 9 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Cambridge University, and held since 1890 by the Rev. Thomas Jesse Jones M.A. of Merton College, Oxford, canon of Llandaff, rural dean of Caerphilly, and surrogate. There is a Mission church at Gwerthonor, a Baptist chapel in the village, and numerous chapels throughout the parish. A complete Roman camp was discovered here in 1900. The offices of the Gelligaer Urban District Council, at Hengoed, were erected in 1897 at a cost of about £1,300. Waen fairs are held May 13th, Trinity Monday, September 2nd and 24th, 2nd Monday after the 10th October, and November 20th; and Gelligaer village fair on March 25th. The parish is connected with the East Glamorgan agricultural societies. Coal mining is almost the sole industry of the parish; in many parts the lower or steam coal seams have not yet been reached, and new coal mines are being developed. Nothing now remains of Gaer Castle but a mound, the stones of the fabric having been used for building purposes. The old Roman road passes through the village of Gelligaer. The principal landowners are the Marquess of Bute, who is lord of the manor. Lord Tredegar, The Mackintosh of Mackintosh and J. C. Hanbury esq. The soil is various; subsoil, coarse gravel. The chief crops are oats, barley and potatoes. The area is 16,654 acres of land and 118 of water; rateable value, £197,303; the population in 1901 was 17,242 in the civil parish and Urban District and 5,782 in the ecclesiastical parish, and in 1911 was 35,521 in the civil and 5,054 in the ecclesiastical parish.

The population of the wards in 1911 was:—Bargoed, 12,226; Bedlinog, 4,820; Fochriw, 3,994; Hengoed, 4,947; Pontllytyn, 4,982; Tirphil, 4,643.

GILFACH. 2 miles north and adjoining Bargoed on the south, is a growing village, with a halt on the Rhymney railway.

PENGAM is a village with a station on the Rhymney railway, 1½ miles south-east of Gelligaer. The village is partly in the parish of Bedwelty, Mon. Here is the Lewis Endowed Boys' school, now the Gelligaer County School for boys. Garthgynidr, 4 miles north; and Hengoed, 2 miles south-east, with a station on the Rhymney and Great Western railways, are hamlets; part of Hengoed was added, by Order in Council, to the ecclesiastical parish of Ystrad Mynach in 1890.

GLASBURY is a parish and village, situate on the banks of the Wye, in Radnorshire and Brecknockshire, 4 miles south-west from Hay, with a station on the Hereford, Hay and Brecon section of the Midland railway, in the hundred of Talgarth, Hay union and county court district, and in the rural deanery of Hay, archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. All Saints is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1882, and comprising the Radnorshire portion of Glasbury village, and it now constitutes the civil parish of Glasbury. The church, erected in 1882, at a cost of £2,000, is a building of stone in the Florid Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western belfry containing one bell; the stained east window is a memorial to Walter De Winton esq. and there are several other stained windows to different members of that family: the organ was presented by E. P. Vulliamy esq.: there are 220 sittings. The register dates from the year 1882. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £220, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Hubert George Griffith M.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford, and J.P. Radnor. Maesllwch Castle, the property and residence of Major Walter De Winton J.P. is a mansion in the castellated style, erected about 1820, the north wing having been added in 1874. The castle has well-proportioned towers and turrets and a massive embattled wall, and stands in a finely-timbered park, on a slope, overlooking the river Wye. The principal landowners are Mrs. Hore-Ruthven, who is lady of the manor, Viscount Hereford, Major Walter De Winton J.P. (lord of the manor of the Radnorshire side) and Mrs. Hamilton. The soil is red sandstone; subsoil, rock and marl. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, clover and turnips. The area of the Radnorshire civil parish is 2,863 acres of land and inland water; rateable value, £3,994; population in 1911, 494.
Sexton, John Marston.

GLASBURY, in Brecknockshire, is an ecclesiastical parish. The parish church of St. Peter is a building of stone in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and a fine tower with pinnacles, containing a clock and 8 bells, two new bells having being hung in 1903. It was restored and reseated in 1881, and in 1882 a fine wrought iron screen (the gift of the Vaughan-Morgan family) was erected: there are several memorial windows, and a reredos of mosaic and opus sectile, erected in 1894 as a memorial to the late Mrs. Wood, of Gwernyfed, by her children. A new organ was provided in 1910 by Capt. Archibald Glen Kidston, in memory of his father. The church affords 330 sittings. The register dates from the year 1636. The living is a vicarage, net income £196, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1883 by the Rev. Hugh Harries Gibbon B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The population of St. Peter's ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 569.

GLASGWM is a parish, and the village is situated in a deep valley entirely surrounded by mountains, 3 miles from the road from Builth to Kington and Presteigne, 8 miles west from Builth station on the Cambrian railway, and 10 from Kington (Herefordshire), in the county of Radnor, Colwyn hundred, Kington union, Kington county court district, Colwyn petty sessional division and in the rural deanery of Ewel, archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. The Edw river runs through a portion of the parish and then forms its western boundary. The church of St. David is an ancient building of grey stone with red stone facings, in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a turret containing one bell; it was thoroughly restored in 1891, and affords 90 sittings. The register dates from the year 1679. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelry of Colva and Rhulen attached, net income £397, with an acre and a half of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1907 by the Rev. Henry John Lorigo M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. Here is a Baptist chapel, and another at FRANKSBRIDGE, re-erected in 1909, with 400 sittings. Attached to the parish are three charities yielding about £11 yearly. In the parish are two ancient barrows, and the site of a camp. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners, Major Walter De Winton and Lord Glasulac C.B., D.S.O. who are lords of the manor, Sidney Beavan esq. H. W. Duff-Gordon esq. and Edmund Gustavus Bloomfield Meade-Waldo esq. are the principal landowners. The parish is mountainous, and the land is entirely pasture. GLYN, see Libanus.

GLYNCORRWG is a village and extensive parish, including the villages of Abergwynfi, Blaengwynfi, Cymmer and Blaengwrach; it is on the rivers Corrwg and Avan, with a station on the Port Talbot railway, 190 miles from London and 13 east from Neath, in the Aberavon division of the county of Glamorgan, Aberavon petty sessional division, Neath hundred, union and county court district, rural deanery of Upper Gronheaf (western division), and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. The parish is governed by an Urban District Council, under the provisions of the "Local Government Board Act, 1894," first constituted by Local Government Board Order No. 29,816, dated April 17, 1893. The village is lighted with gas from works at Cymmer, and supplied with good water from the hills, which is collected in a reservoir, the property of the Urban District Council. The church of St. John the Baptist, rebuilt in 1907, consists of chancel, nave, south porch, north aisle, and a turret containing two bells: there are 340 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1702; marriages 1813, and these include in part the register of Blaengwrach. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £186, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1901 by the Rev. Howell Jenkins B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. There are Baptist, Calvinistic Methodist, United Methodist (English) and Congregational chapels. Near the village are three collieries. The Earl of Dunraven and Mountearl K.P., P.C., C.M.G. who is lord of the manor, Owen Jenkins esq. and Philip Dunn esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, blue clay, and the land is nearly all in pasture. The area of the civil parish and Urban District is 13,927 acres of land and 60 of water; rateable value, £46,970; the population in 1901 was 6,452 in the civil and 4,002 in the ecclesiastical parish, and in 1911, 8,688 in the civil and 2,585 in the ecclesiastical parish.

The population of the Urban District wards in 1911 was: Abergwynfi and Blaengwynfi, 4,102; Cymmer, 2,521; Glyncorrrwg, 2,065.

By Local Government Board Order No. 31,580, dated Sept. 30, 1894, that part of Michaelston Higher civil parish in Glyncorrrwg Urban District was added to the civil parish.

GLYN-NEATH is a village and scattered district, included in the ecclesiastical parish of Aberpergwm, with a station on the Vale of Neath section of the Great Western railway, locally in the township of Blaengwrach, 2 miles from the village of Glyn Neath, 10½ north-east from Neath and 189 from London, in the Neath division of the county of Glamorgan and township of Neath Higher and parish of Cadoxton-juxta-Neath. The Neath canal, which terminates here, is 11 miles in length and 12 feet wide, and has 16 locks; it is the property of the Neath Canal Co. There is no church at Glyn-Neath. The nearest parish church is that of St. Catwg at Aberpergwm, a mile distant. There are Baptist, Calvinistic Methodist, Congregational and Wesleyan chapels. The most convenient centre for visitors to the splendid and romantic valleys and numerous fine waterfalls in this district is the village of Pont-Neadd-Fechan, usually called "Pont-Neath-Vaughan," 3 miles north-east from Glyn-Neath station. For an extended account, see under Pont-Neath-Vaughan. Not far from Resolven station, south-west of Glyn-Neath, and in the hamlet of Abergarwed, is the splendid waterfall called "Melin Cwrt," with a descent of about 80 feet. There are several good residences in the neighbourhood. Rheola, the seat of Lt.-Col. John Edwards Vaughan J.P. is pleasantly situated in a park of 50 acres. The private chapel in the grounds, erected by the late Nash Edwards Vaughan esq. in memory of his wife, is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave and a western tower with spire containing three bells; there are 250 sittings; the services are conducted by the vicar of Resolven, and the public are permitted to attend. The village is lighted by acetylene gas. There are four collieries here, and fire clay, silica fire brick and cement works. The principal landowners are the Earl of Dumraven and Moun-tearl K.P. Godfrey H. J. Williams esq. J.P., E. M. Whitting esq. and Lieut.-Col. John Edwards Vaughan. The soil is alluvium; subsoil, gravel and fireclay. The land is chiefly in pasture. The area of Neath Higher is 3,566 acres of land and 35 of water; rateable value, £14,568; the population in 1911 was 2,885.

GLYNTAFF, see Pontypridd.

GLYNTAWE or CALLWEN is an ecclesiastical parish formed in 1868 out of the township of Glynatawe and part of the civil parishes of Llywell and Devynock; it is seated at the source of the river Tawe, occupying both banks, and lies in a deep and picturesque valley, 1½ miles west from Craig-y-nos station on the Neath and Brecon railway, 14 north-east from Neath and 19 south-west from Brecon; it is in the county of Brecknock, Devynock hundred, Ystradgynlais petty sessional division, Brecknock union, Brecon county court district, rural deanery of Brecon (second part) and archdeaconry and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Callwen or Colwen, erected in 1893 at a cost of about £2,000 by Mrs. Gwyn, in memory of her late husband, is an edifice of Welsh sandstone in a modern Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, organ chamber, vestry, north porch and a turret containing one bell: three of the windows are stained: there are 175 sittings. The register dates from the year 1893. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £107, with 2 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of J. E. Moore-Gwyn esq. and held since 1890 by the Rev. David Hughes, of St. Bees. At Penwylt there are fire-brick and lime works and limestone quarries. In the neighbourhood are some Druidical remains, consisting of stones, and the limestone rocks contain caves of varying interest. Lord Trcdegar is lord of the manor. The principal land-owners are Joseph Edward Moore-Gwyn esq. and the Baroness Cederström. The soil is red earth. The land is chiefly pasture. The area of the township is 2,588 acres of land and 16 of water; rateable value, £1,739; the population in 1911 was 200.
