GOWER.—The once independent district of Gower, to use the old historic Welsh name, is that peninsula of the coast of South Wales formed by Swansea Bay to the east, and an inlet of Carmarthen Bay to the west, being part of the county of Glamorgan, about fifteen miles long, and from five to eight wide: the coal fields of Glamorgan do not extend into this district, and to its different geological composition is attributed its rural character; its shores consist of rugged and rocky cliffs, chiefly of limestone, which assume picturesque and romantic shapes and the small islets called the Mumbles, near Oystermouth, at the south-west extremity of Swansea Bay, have long been noted as a striking feature of seacoast scenery. The Worms Head, the most westerly extremity, consists of two high rocks, extending a mile from the mainland, the outermost rising to the height of 200 feet. Mumbles Head, a bold rocky promontory, is to the southward, with a lighthouse at the entrance of Swansea Bay: westward is Langland Bay, and further west Oxwich Bay and Port Eynon Bay, where the coast abounds with caves. The Gower peninsula is exactly opposite to Ilfracombe and Lynton, on the North Devon coast, and is quite visible across the Bristol Channel at a distance of twenty-five miles. On Cefn Bryn, a bold eminence about twelve miles from Swansea, in this district, is a cromlech, called "Arthur's Stone," consisting of a stone fourteen feet long, weighing several tons, supported on other stones, and sometimes called the "Stone of Sketty," from a place of that name adjacent: near Cefn Bryn the last Welsh lord of Gower fell in an engagement (1108) with the Earl of Warwick. It may be noticed, as an interesting historical fact, that the rustic and seaside population of this district are not Welsh people by race, but descendants of a colony of Flemings, refugees to England under the early Plantagenet Kings, transplanted hither by Royal policy to hold this piece of country against the Welsh nation. King John granted the whole of Gower to William de Braose, and it afterwards passed to the family of Earls of Huntingdon, and thence to Sir Charles Somerset, whose descendants have much property here, the Duke of Beaufort being lord paramount of the liberty or seignory. In the time of Henry VIII. Gower was incorporated with Glamorgan; it now forms a separate petty sessional division and union: within the peninsula and on its borders are the castles of Swansea, Oystermouth, Pennard, Penrice, Oxwich, Landewy, Cheriton, Webley and Loughor.

GOWERTON is a village, and under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894," has been formed into a civil parish; it has stations on the Great Western and London and North Western railways; it is 6 miles west-north-west from Swansea, 2 east-south-east from Loughor and 208 from London, in the Gower division of the county of Glamorgan, hundred of Swansea, petty sessional division of Swansea, union and county court district of Llanelly, rural deanery of East Gower, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The rapid rise of this village is due to the extensive steel works of Messrs. Baldwins Limited and the numerous collieries in the neighbourhood. The church of St. John, erected in 1881, as a chapel of ease to Loughor, at a cost of £2,700, is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, vestry, organ chamber, south porch and a western turret containing one bell: the chancel was beautified and three stained windows inserted in 1886 by Col. J. Roper Wright, and in 1900 the chancel was lined with marble and a marble reredos erected at a cost of £1,000, also the gift of Col. Wright: there are 350 sittings. The registers date from the year 1881. The Rev. Griffith Morris Williams L.Div. of St. David's College, Lampeter, has been curate in charge since 1912. There are Welsh Calvinistic, Congregational and Baptist chapels. A new English Congregational chapel was erected in 1899 at a cost of £1,300; it will seat 360. A new cemetery for Gowerton parish only, containing 10 acres on Stafford Common, was opened in 1901. The Conservative Club here was erected in 1885, at a cost of £2,000. The county police station was erected in 1893; there are two cells. The Swansea Rural District Council erected in 1902 two hospitals for infectious diseases at GARGOCH, at a cost of about £4,000; there are 34 beds. A sale of live stock is held every alternate Tuesday. The area is 2,538 acres of land and 6 of water; rateable value, £20,491; population in 1911, 2,748.

Cefnystyle is a hamlet of Gowerton, about 1½ miles distant, beautifully situated on the slope of a hill, from the summit of which may be obtained picturesque views of the neighbourhood. There is a mission church here in connection with St. John's church, Gowerton.

GUMFRESTON is a small parish, $\frac{1}{2}$ miles west of Tenby station on the Pembroke and Tenby branch of the Great Western railway, in the county of Pembroke, Castle-martin hundred, Pembroke union and county court district, rural deanery of Castlemartin, archdeaconry and diocese of St. David's. The church, supposed to have been named in honor of St. Lawrence, is a curiously built Norman or Flemish edifice of stone, consisting of chancel, nave and north transept, at the end of which is a heavy square embattled tower 60 feet high and containing one bell: in the transept is a hagiogscope and a sepulchral recess, and on the north side of the nave an apse-like recess containing a singular and massive font of Early English character: there are remains of a rood loft and the western porch contains a stoup, apparently formed from a still more ancient font: the building will seat 100 persons: in the churchyard are three ancient and famous springs, two of which are chalybeate. The register dates from 1653, but there are entries of burials and marriages relating to this parish in the Tenby registers from 1750. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £131, with 26 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Sir Thomas Charlton Meyrick bart. K.C.B. and is at present (1919) vacant. The area of the parish is 1,653 acres; rateable value, £1,366; population in 1911, 83.

HVERFORDWEST

HVERFORDWEST is a town, and a county of itself, the chief town of Pembrokeshire, a market town, municipal borough, and the head of a union and county court district, with a station on the Great Western railway, 252½ miles from London, and 251 by road, 144 west-by-north from Bristol, via New Passage, 162 from Gloucester, 62½ west from Swansea, 16 west from St. David's, and 8 north from Milford Haven, in the hundred of Rhos or Roose, Roose petty sessional division, and in the rural deanery of Roose, archdeaconry and diocese of St. David's.

Haverfordwest (or as it is called in Welsh, "Hwlfordd"), a supposed corruption of the word "Aberfordd," which denotes the junction of the two waters called Duglede (now named Dauleddau, Cleddau, or Cleddy), was once the capital of the possessions of the Flemings, who were driven from France early in the 12th century, and were settled here and in the district of Rhos, by Henry I. The town is irregularly built, and, from being placed on an eminence in the midst of a richly wooded and highly cultivated country, presents a very picturesque appearance.

The river, a tidal one, is navigable up to the quay for vessels of 150 tons burthen, and is crossed by two stone bridges, leading from and into the town, both of which are free: the new bridge was erected some few years since in the place of an old drawbridge. The wooden bridge, belonging to the Great Western railway, is so constructed as to lift in the centre, so as to allow vessels to pass without dismasting.

The Town received various privileges from Rich. II and by Edw. IV. in 1483, confirmed 27 Hen. VIII. (1535-6). It was constituted a county of itself, besides acquiring municipal government, and the right of representation in Parliament: James I. confirmed to the borough its existing privileges, and also extended its county boundaries, and this charter continued in force until the passing of the "Municipal Corporations Act, 1835" (5 and 6 Wm. IV. c. 76), under which the Municipal body was remodelled, and now consists of a mayor, four aldermen and twelve councillors (four of whom go out of office every year), a sheriff and assistant officers; the mayor and his predecessors are justices of the peace. The borough has a commission of the peace and by virtue of its being a county of itself has a separate court of quarter sessions. The town also enjoys the privilege, obtained by a grant from the crown when the county of Pembroke was a palatinate, of having its own lord lieutenant, and is the only town in Great Britain so favoured; from 27 Hen. VIII. (1535-6), the borough of the town and county of Haverfordwest, in conjunction with Narberth and Fishguard, formerly sent one member to Parliament, but under the provisions of the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885" (48 and 49 Vict. c. 23), the representation was merged in that of the Pembroke and Haverfordwest Parliamentary district. Under the "Representation of the People Act, 1918," the borough has for parliamentary purposes merged into that of the whole county.

The assizes are held here in the spring and autumn, and the place is celebrated for its numerous maiden assizes; the petty sessions are held for the county and also for the town fortnightly; this place is included in the thirty-first circuit of towns under the County Court Act, which court is held monthly in the Shire Hall.

The streets, the most important of which are very steep, are well paved and drained and are lighted with gas by the corporation; the town is supplied with water from reservoirs, of which there are two, both belonging to the Urban Sanitary Authority, under a local Act: the supply is derived from springs called the "Old Fountain," in the centre of the town and supplying the lower level, the higher parts being supplied by means of a pumping station on the banks of the Cleddau, at Crowhill, from whence the water is conveyed to a reservoir at Portfield. Haverfordwest is considered a very healthy place, and there are a number of gentlemen's seats in the vicinity. There are some good shops, but the town is chiefly dependent upon the agricultural neighbourhood for support: a considerable trade is done in corn, butter, seeds and manures, as well as in malting, brewing, currying and timber.

The town comprises the parishes of St. Martin, St. Thomas, St. Mary, and Prendergast, each having a church, and the parishes of Furzy Park and Portfield and Cartlett, which are without churches.

St. Martin's, the oldest church in the town, belonged probably to the castle around which the old town was situated, and a traditional rhyme perpetuates its place as the mother church:

“ St. Martin's bell rang many a knell
When St. Mary's was only a furzy hill.”

It stands on an eminence considerably above the level of the street, and was formerly much larger than at present, but now consists of chancel, with vestry on the north side, nave, south aisle, south porch, with parvise and inner stair, and a tower at the north-west angle with a widely splayed out base, a plain parapet, carried on corbels, and a small modern spire which replaced the old one at the restoration in 1869. There are 2 bells in the tower, the smaller one being a sanctus-bell, removed from its original position at the junction of the chancel and nave. The entrance door is Transition-Norman and is the oldest existing portion of the building; the chancel retains a crocketed piscina and three plain sedilia, on the south side of the chancel arch; the nave is Geometrical and Perpendicular, and has two arches opening to the south aisle. The organ, placed at the west end of the church, formerly belonged to the Cathedral Church of St. David; it was presented by the Dean and Chapter in 1881 and has been remodelled by Voyles, of Bristol, at a cost of £250: the east window is stained; a stained window was added to the lady chapel in 1909, the gift of the late Mr. Percy Arden: there are 450 sittings. The churchyard is thickly planted with pine trees, and part has been laid out as an ornamental flower garden in commemoration of the Diamond Jubilee of Her late Majesty Queen Victoria. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1721; marriages, 1729. The living is a perpetual curacy, in the gift of five trustees, net yearly value £200, and held since 1908 by the Rev. Arthur Baring-Gould M.A. of Magdalen College, Oxford. The tithes, which belong to the improprator, are valued at £325.

St. Thomas church, in the upper part of the town, is an edifice of stone in mixed styles, and consists of chancel, with north vestry, nave, north aisle, with three Late Decorated windows in gables, north porch, and a remarkably tall and plain western tower with an embattled parapet carried on small corbels, and a stair turret at the north-east angle; the tower contains one bell: the north aisle was added in the year 1881: there are three stained windows, the east window being a memorial to the Rev. Thomas Horn, a former rector, and the south and west windows to members of the Lort-Phillips family: in the north aisle is an ancient tombstone, to Richard the Palmer, supposed to date from the 13th century: the church was partially restored in 1855; in 1880-81 a more complete restoration was effected, at a cost of £1,338, and in 1890-91 the tower was restored at a further cost of about £205: there are 400 sittings. The churchyard is spacious and surrounded with trees. The register of burials dates from the year 1710; marriages 1713, and baptisms 1714. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £223, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's; the Rev. John Morgan Price B.A. Lampeter, is curate in charge.

The church of St. Mary, standing on a terrace excavated at the top of the steep slope on which the High street is built, is, though awkwardly placed, a very fine embattled structure in the Early English and Perpendicular styles, the roofs having been raised, clerestories added to the chancel and nave, and the north aisle rebuilt in the latter period; the church now consists of chancel, nave of six bays, north aisle of nine bays, extending along both the chancel and nave, south porch, level with the churchyard on that side, a very wide north porch, reached by a descent from the street and having a further descent of 13 steps to the floor of the church, and a very plain tower, at the west end of the south aisle, with a parapet carried on small corbels and a low pyramidal roof, and containing a clock and 8 bells. The chancel, of four bays, has a new tie-beam oak roof, erected at its restoration, when it was fitted with nine elbow stalls on each side, and others with traceried panels for the choir, all of oak: there is here a trefoil-headed piscina and the recessed arch of a tomb, richly carved, with the date 18 June, 1611; the brass eagle lectern was presented in 1889; the nave has a fine Early English arch separating it from the chancel, and four elegant arches of the same style, on clustered piers with carved caps open from it to the aisle; the clerestories throughout are lighted by large Perpendicular windows, and the nave roof, of oak, is carried on corbels, and its spandrels and bosses are elaborately carved; the west window is a good Early English triplet, deeply splayed; the western gallery, which projected far into the nave, was removed in 1889; the north aisle has seven large and good Perpendicular windows, and a timber-framed roof with restored bosses; the aisle opens to the chancel by two arches similar to those of the nave arcade, and by a larger arch, eastward of these, in the same style, but now filled by the front of the organ, part of the old case of which, facing the aisle, is carved and gilt; the north porch is Early English and has been rebuilt; on each side the inner doorway of the south porch are two trefoiled niches, and at the west end of the nave is a wide arch opening into the lower stage of the tower; this has good lierne vaulting, with a circular opening in the centre, and carved bosses; the stained east window was erected in 1894, by Mrs. Orpen, in memory of her father, the Rev. James H. A. Philipps M.A. rector from 1858, and there is one placed by him to his mother, and others to George Philipps esq. F.R.C.S. d. 9 March, 1863; to the Rev. James Thomas, vicar here, and for many years head master of the Grammar school, and to Sir Henry Mathias kt. d. 25 Feb. 1832, some time high sheriff of Pembrokehire; the window on the south side of the nave was inserted in 1913 by Miss Douglas Willan to the memory of her father. The church contains numerous mural monuments to the Philipps family, of Pictou Castle, including one over which is suspended a helmet with crest and mantling, and a sword, and there are brasses to Sir Richard Bulkeley Philipps, bart. and baron Milford, d. 3 Jan. 1867, and Eliza (Gordon), his wife, d. 24 March, 1852, and one with kneeling effigies and arms to John Davids, d. 11 Sept. 1651, and Sage, his wife, d. 4 Feb. 1654; at the west end of the nave, in a recess on the south side is a low tomb, with a much mutilated effigy in a long dress; from the girdle depends a bag or wallet, on which are carved (apparently) 3 scallop shells, or possibly three eagles displayed, it is usually regarded, however, as the figure of a pilgrim; the head rests on a lozenge-shaped cushion; there are inscribed slabs or tablets to Elizabeth, wife of Richard Kneethell, d. 28 Nov. 1609; Balthazar, d. 1619, and Hugh, d. 1624, her sons, and to James Scourfield, gent. d. 12 March, 1614, and Margaret, his wife, d. 23 Sept. 1627, with a shield of arms. At the west end of the aisle stands a finely carved bench-end, with figures of St. Michael or St. George and the Dragon, the latter having three heads; the upper part of the poppy head displays the royal shield of the Tudors, surmounted by a coroneted mitre: another fragment of carved wood, perhaps once part of a screen, represents a lion clinging to a stalk bearing a rose, and below this is another rose and a female figure. The colours of the late Pembrokehire Militia hang over the chancel arch. There is also a stone confessional. The church underwent some repairs in 1844; in 1887 the north aisle was restored, and the chancel in 1889, the total cost of the last two restorations amounted to £4,000, the organ was at the same time removed to the north aisle and refitted at a cost of £520; in 1905 the nave roof was completely restored: a new pulpit has also been presented: the nave has been refloored and tunnelled to make provision for a heating system, the old high pews have been removed, a central aisle made, opening out a blind window in the south end of the nave and restoring the tower vestry arch: in 1912 the church was reseated in oak in memory of the Rev. J. H. Davies M.A. vicar 1902-11: there are 900 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1678; marriages, 1699; burials, 1683. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £231, with residence, in the gift of Sir Charles Edward Gregg Philipps bart. and Lady Philipps, of Pictou Castle, and held since 1911 by the Rev. Tudor Owen Philipps L.Th.Darh.

The vicarage house, in Hill lane, was purchased in 1903, the cost being defrayed by subscriptions, aided by grants from the Diocesan Fund and Queen Anne's Bounty.

The Catholic church, in Dew street, dedicated to St. David and St. Patrick, and erected in 1872, is a building of stone, and affords 120 sittings. Bethesda Baptist chapel, Spring gardens, was built in 1769, enlarged in 1816, and restored in 1842: the present chapel, commenced in 1878, and opened in 1880, is of stone, and will seat 950. The Albany Congregational chapel, Hill street, was erected in 1652, rebuilt in 1841 and restored in 1890, and has 500 sittings. The Congregational Tabernacle, Tabernacle row, was erected in 1790 and restored in 1874, and has 750 sittings. The Meravian chapel, originally in Quay street, was removed to St. Thomas green in 1765; the present building was opened in 1773 and has 150 sittings. The English Wesleyan chapel, Chapel lane, was built in 1771, rebuilt in 1818, enlarged in 1835 and reopened in 1881, after undergoing extensive alterations: there are 800 sittings. The Salvation Army barracks are in Holloway: sittings 150.

The Haverfordwest cemetery of two acres was formed in 1838, at a cost of £1,000 and is under the control of a burial board of 9 members.

The Shire Hall, in High street, is a fine structure of the Ionic order: there is a spacious court-room, in which the assizes are held, and will hold 900 persons.

Under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1888" (51 and 52 Vict. c. 41) the county police now act in the town, in lieu of the former local force. The county police station is at the castle.

The Masonic Hall, in Picton place, erected at a cost of about £2,000, and opened in 1872, consists of a great hall, with ante-room and entrance hall on the first floor, and a ledge room with ante-room on the second floor: the basement is occupied by a banqueting room with offices. The hall is used for lectures and concerts, and will hold about 500 persons.

The Temperance Hall, in St. Mary's street, erected in 1888, is a building of stone, used for public meetings, temperance and general lectures &c. and will seat 600 persons.

The Corn Market, in Hill street, is a substantial edifice of Welsh sandstone. The Provision Market, in Market street, built by the corporation in 1826, is well arranged, separate divisions being kept for different commodities, of which every kind is well represented; Saturday is the market day; monthly cattle market held second Tuesday in each month; the old fish market is now used as a local milk depot.

Fairs are held on the following days:—Second Tuesday in January; second Tuesday in February; third Tuesday in March; second Tuesday in April, May, June (wool and stock), July and August; September 6, and third Tuesday in September; October 5 (hiring); third Tuesday in October; second Tuesday in November and December.

The Corporation Slaughter Houses are in Milford road, and have every necessary appliance for the efficient slaughtering of cattle.

The Fire Brigade, formed in 1890, has a station in Hill street, and is provided with one manual engine, one fire-escape, a hose reel &c.

The "Balfour" Constitutional Club in Quay street, is well supplied with newspapers and periodicals, and there is also a fine billiard room &c.

The Liberal Club, in Tower hill, was opened in 1913.

The Pembroke County Club, in High street, was opened in 1877, and contains card, billiard, smoking, reading and luncheon rooms; it is also open to visitors, who must be non-resident in this county. There is also a Fat Stock Society.

The St. Thomas' Parish Reading Room and Club, St. Thomas' green, was founded in 1892, in connection with the church work of that parish.

A South African War Memorial in the form of a Celtic cross was erected at the top of High street in 1904, at a cost of £480.

The Pembroke-shire County Hospital, on St. Thomas' green, was established in 1859, and contains 20 beds.

The public charities are numerous, and include the following:—Sir John Perret knight of Harroldston, near Haverfordwest (once lord lieutenant of Ireland), gave, by a deed dated 20th September, 1580, extensive property for the improvement of Haverfordwest, the average yearly rental of which is upwards of £350, which is laid out in public improvements, and the funds are managed by trustees. William Vaver, by deed dated 22nd July, 1607, in the 4th year of James I. gave house property for the weekly relief of poor, decayed tradesmen, being burgesses of Haverfordwest: the income is paid to 12 persons in weekly sums of 5s. each by the trustees. Thomas Lloyd, of Kilkiffyth, Pembrokeshire, by deed dated 22nd November, 1613 (while for the second time high sheriff of the county), gave certain property, for the purpose of founding and erecting a free grammar school in Haverfordwest. The present yearly value is about £109. John Millward esq. of Birmingham, by his will dated the 10th of June, 1654, devised "Hens Farm," in Berdesley, in the county of Warwick, thus:—one-third towards the maintenance of the grammar school at Haverfordwest; one-third for the support of a scholar at Brasenose College, Oxford, taken from Haverfordwest and King Edward's school, Birmingham, alternately, and the other one-third to King Edward's school. The value of the third portion is about £560 yearly. James Hayward, by will dated November 6th, 1646, left land, the annual rent of which amounts to £28, for distribution amongst the poor. The property given by Mr. Millward originally comprised about 46 acres, which has been since reduced by sales realizing £12,000 to railway and canal companies and others, to 35 acres now let on a building lease to Sampson Lloyd esq. for £800 a year; the old rental was no more than £30 a year. The average yearly value of Lloyd's charity is £109, the one-third of Millward's payable to Haverfordwest school has increased to about £560 a year. Mrs. Elizabeth Nichols, on the 25th August, 1663, left £6 annual rent on land for the poor. Richard Howell, by deed dated 4th December, 1697, left £15 yearly for the same purpose. Owen Phillips, on the 10th November, 1719, bequeathed 40s. yearly to the minister of St. Mary's, for preaching two sermons on Ash Wednesday and Ascension Thursday, and the interest of £40 for the poor of the town who could repeat the Lord's Prayer and the Ten Commandments. Mrs. Elizabeth Llewellyn gave the interest of £10 yearly to the minister of St. Mary's to preach a sermon on Good Friday. Miss Mary Llewellyn, in 1739, left £100, the interest to be given to the poor, with the exception of 20s. yearly, which was for the minister of St. Mary's. Rebecca Flaerton (1744) left £10 to be paid to poor widows, nominees of Robert Prust, but this charity has ceased since 1786. An anonymous donor, in 1751, sent to the Rev. George Phillips £100 for investment, the interest to be expended in support of poor insolvent debtors confined in gaol in the town. Martha Bowen (1749) left £50 to the minister of St. Mary's, to be expended by him for the relief of the poor. William Fortune (1764) bequeathed £100 for investment, the interest to be used in relieving the poor. Joseph Fortune, on the 24th March, 1802, left £5 yearly, to be paid to the poor at Christmas. Thomas Roch, on the 3rd July, 1707, left £6 yearly for the relief of poor children of the parishes of St. Mary's, St. Martin's and St. Thomas'. Hannah Fortune, 6th December, 1824, gave £5 yearly for the relief of the poor at Christmas. William Middleton, merchant, of London, left £200, the interest of £100 to the minister of St. Mary's, and of the other £100 for setting out four apprentices yearly. John Laugharne gave £20 per year to the minister of St. Mary's for reading prayers every day and instructing children in the catechism. William Wheeler left £10 for use of the poor. William Meyer gave 30s. yearly for the poor. Mrs. Sibble Paramour left the interest of £10 to be expended yearly in purchasing bread for the poor at Christmas. William Bowen bequeathed 10s. yearly to the minister of St. Mary's for preaching a sermon on Easter Sunday, and 12s. yearly for the poor.

The castle, which appears to have originally occupied the whole of a rocky ridge on the north side of the hill on which the town is built, still "forms a conspicuous and imposing object, towering above all the surrounding buildings and overlooking the town"; it is supposed to have been built by Gilbert de Clare, first Earl of Pembroke, during the 12th century, and was surrounded by strong crenellated walls, pierced by four gateways, three of which remained in a nearly perfect state till the beginning of the nineteenth century. In the reign of Henry IV. it was successfully defended by Thomas FitzAlan, Earl of Arundel K.G. against the French auxiliaries of Owain Glyndwr: during the Civil war it was garrisoned for the king by Sir John Steyne bart. of Prendergast, but on the approach of the Parliamentary forces was abandoned, and its ordnance and military stores thereupon fell into the hands of the enemy: the chief portion now remaining is the lefty keep, from which rises a tall flagstaff; within the precincts stand a block of modern buildings, formerly used as a county prison, but now occupied in part only by a section of the county police force. The castle, since the reign of Henry VII. has belonged to the crown.

The priory of St. Mary and St. Thomas the Martyr was founded by Robert de Hwlford, second holder of the lordship of Haverfordwest before A.D. 1200, for Black or Austin Canons: the remains, now in a state of absolute decay, may be seen from the bridge, and stand on the bank of the river, at a short distance from the town; the portions still extant comprise the transept and choir (1225) of a cruciform aisleless church, originally 160 feet in length by 88 feet in breadth, measured across the transept; portions of the lofty arches supporting the central tower remain, and there are some good lancet windows. At the Dissolution there were six canons, and revenues estimated at £133.

The Pembrokehire pack of fox-hounds is kept in the neighbourhood. Residing here are several breeders of the famous Sealyham terriers.

The Golf Links, through the courtesy of the trustees of the Haverfordwest Freeman, are situated on the Portfield racecourse, within half a mile of the town.

The following are the area, rateable values and the population of the various parishes:

	Area.	Rateable Value.		Population in 1911.
		1919.	1911.
Cartlett	25	£756	280
Furzy Park and Portfield	649	1,210	308

£17,890

† Including 9 officers and 119 inmates in the Poor Law Institution.

The population of the municipal and parliamentary (contributory) borough in 1911 was 5,919, viz.—Furzy and Portfield, 308; Prendergast, 1,123; St. Martin, 1,500; St. Mary, 1,114; St. Thomas, 1,594, and Cartlett, 280.

The population of the ecclesiastical parishes in 1911 was:—St. Martin, 1,710 (which includes the hamlet of St. Martin); St. Mary, 1,114; St. Thomas-the-Martyr, 1,722 (which includes the hamlet of St. Thomas).

Parish Clerks.

St. Martin, George Scornfield, City road
 St. Thomas, William George Lloyd, 2 Bush row, St. Thomas' green
 St. Mary's, J. W. Phillips, Portfield house

Under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894" (56 and 57 Vict. ch. 73), the following civil parishes were constituted from parts of ancient parishes outside the municipal area:—Hamlet of St. Martin, from St. Martin; area, 1,840 acres of land, 2 of inland water, 1 of tidal water and 33 of foreshore; assessable value, £1,117; population in 1911, 210. Hamlet of St. Thomas, from St. Thomas; area, 728 acres; assessable value, £686; population in 1911, 123. North Prendergast, from Prendergast; assessable value, £957.

Skomer and Midland Islands form a detached part of the hamlet of St. Martin parish.

FURZY PARK and Portfield form a parish. The principal landowners are the trustees of the Haverfordwest Freeman and the Rev. John Bowen Rowlands M.A. rector of Hubberston, and the Haverfordwest Corporation. The soil is clay; subsoil, sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and roots. This parish is reputed to be extra-parochial for ecclesiastical purposes.

PRENDERGAST parish is 1 mile north from Haverfordwest station, rural deanery of Dungleddy, and archdeaconry and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. David, rebuilt (with the exception of the tower) at a cost of £2,000, in 1868, is an elegant structure, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel with north aisle, nave, north aisle, south porch and an ancient western tower containing 2 bells; in the chancel is an inscribed brass, erected by the parishioners, to the late Canon Francis Foster, who, in 1866, presented a handsome reredos to the church, as a memorial to his brother: there are 320 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1696; marriages, 1697. The living is a rectory, net income £242, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1913 by the Rev. Gwilym Smith B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The Rectory House was built in 1870, at a cost of £1,500. The Welsh Baptist chapel, erected in 1857, was superseded by a building, erected in 1890, with 550 sittings; the old chapel is used as a Sunday school.

The English Baptist chapel was erected in 1861, and will seat 300, but is now used as a mission room. The cemetery, at Portfield, comprising one acre, was formed in 1859 and is under the control of a burial board of 9 members. The Reading and Recreation Rooms form a handsome stone building in the Elizabethan style, and are well supplied with current literature. Scotchwell is the seat of Louis Samson esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. The principal landowners are Sir Owen Henry Philipps Scourfield bart. Sir Charles Edward Gregg Philipps bart. E. Lloyd Davies esq. Miss Lloyd, the trustees of the late E. T. Massey esq. Mrs. Morgan Lloyd and Louis Samson esq. The soil is sandy; subsoil, rock. The land is chiefly in meadow and pasture.

NORTH PRENDERGAST is a civil parish, formed under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894," from that portion of Prendergast outside the municipal area. The area is 965 acres of land and 12 of water; assessable value, £957; population in 1911, 105.

COLLEGES & SCHOOLS.

The Grammar School, founded & endowed in 1613, by Thomas Lloyd esq. & further endowed in 1654 by John Milward esq. is now governed by a scheme of the Charity Commissioners, confirmed by Her Majesty in Council 28 June, 1880, with certain subsequent modifications which constitute it a county school under the "Welsh Intermediate Education Act, 1880," & controlled by the Central Welsh Board: Gen. Sir Thomas Picton G.C.B. a distinguished officer, slain at Waterloo, 18 June, 1815, was born in Pembrokeshire in 1758 & educated at this school; here also the Right Rev. William Lort Mansel D.D. Bishop of Bristol, 1808-20, received his education. The schoolhouse is a modern structure, in the Elizabethan style, at the bottom of Dew street: the number of scholars at present is about 120, including 20 boarders: extensive alterations were made in 1891, & again in 1908, at a total cost of about £4,000. There are two Milward exhibitions, value £50, tenable for four years at some university, open to pupils of this school; also a Joseph Thomas exhibition, value £32 per year; & six entrance scholarships, value £8 each, also six internal scholarships of £8 each, tenable for three years; William Owen's exhibition, founded in 1804, by Henry Owen esq. J.P. of Wityhush, in commemoration of his father; the yearly value is £25, in connection with this school, for pupils who are natives of the counties of Pembroke & Haverfordwest, who have received their primary education at some elementary school in these counties; the exhibition is tenable for 3 years for boys between 16 & 19 years of age; Cecil Lloyd Morgan M.A. of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, is head master, with six assistant masters

Tasker's Girls' School:—Mrs. Mary Tasker, by her will dated 22 August, 1684, gave the farm at East Dudwell (586 acres), in the parish of Camrose, now let in several separate holdings, which produce a rental of £282 10s. yearly, for the education & maintenance of poor children. Under a scheme of the Charity Commissioners in 1884 the foundation was converted into a high-class girls' school, & new buildings, with mistress's residence, were erected on Tower hill in 1890-91, at a cost of £2,500, exclusive of the site, from designs by Mr. Thomas Powis Reynolds, architect, of Haverfordwest, & opened Sept. 13, 1892: the buildings are intended to hold 100 girls, the present number of pupils being 87; the course of instruction includes the usual English subjects, Latin, mathematics, drawing, singing, needlework, domestic economy, natural science &c. Under the "Welsh Intermediate Education Act, 1889," a scheme was formulated 30th April, 1894, by which the management is now vested in the Pembrokeshire Education Committee; J. W. Phillips, clerk; Miss Gwendoline James B.Sc. head mistress, & 5 assistant mistresses

Public Elementary Schools.

Barn street (boys), erected in 1872 & enlarged in 1900, for 247 children; Griffith J. Griffiths, master; (girls), City road, erected in 1864, for 171 girls; Miss Ruth E. Evans, mistress; (infants), Dew street, erected in 1887, for 118 children; Mrs. Margaret H. Hancock, mistress Prendergast, built in 1876, for 120 boys, 120 girls & 120 infants; George Thomas, master; Miss R. D. Reece, mistress; Miss Margaret Rowlands, infants' mistress
 These two schools are controlled by nine managers; J. Griffiths, West Hook, Llangwm, clerk Barn street, built in 1848, for 141 boys & 143 girls; George James, master; Miss Maria Berkin, mistress; (infants), for 143 children; Mrs. Ellen E. Tamlyn, mistress
 This school is controlled by six managers; Rev. Arthur Baring-Gould M.A. 6 Picton place, correspondent

HAY

HAY is a market and union town, the head of a petty sessional division and county court district, with a station on the Hereford, Hay and Brecon section of the Midland railway, 16½ miles from London by rail, 20 from Hereford and 17 from Brecon; the Golden Valley railway to Pontrilas, which is now a branch of the Great Western Railway, starts from this place; the town is in the county of Brecon, hundred of Talgarth, rural deanery of Hay, archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. Hay is on the borders of the counties of Brecon, Radnor and Hereford, the town occupying rising ground on the south bank of the river Wye, which is here crossed by an iron bridge, connecting the counties of Brecon and Radnor, designed by Mr. W. E. Hughes, of London, and completed in 1864; it occupies the site of an older bridge, and cost between £7,000 and £8,000. The town was governed by a Local Board from 1865 until the "Local Government Act, 1894," established the present Urban District Council.

Under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894," the ancient civil parish of Hay was divided into two civil parishes, Urban and Rural, the former comprising the Urban District area.

The town has several main streets and some very good houses and shops; but the trade is purely agricultural. The streets are lighted with gas from works the property of the Hay Gas and Coke Co. Limited, and a few street lamps are lighted by electricity as also a number of houses and shops, from works owned by William Lillwall. There is an abundant supply of water from the Black Mountains, with a reservoir containing 100,000 gallons, and another at Cusop of 12,000 gallons, about half a mile from the town; the works, formerly belonging to a limited liability company, were purchased about 1895 by the Urban District Council.

The church of St. Mary is at the western extremity of the town, overlooking the river Wye, and was rebuilt in 1834, through the instrumentality of the Rev. Humphrey Allen, then curate; it consists of apsidal chancel, nave, south porch and a western embattled tower containing 1 bell; the chancel was altered and restored previous to 1870, at a cost of about £400; there is a very handsome pulpit, presented in 1879 at a cost of £180, by Francis Robert Trumper esq. who also gave the stained windows of the chancel; in 1888 a brass eagle lectern and Bible were presented by C. Griffiths esq. and an organ has also been provided at a cost of £400; choir stalls were presented and the chancel was paved in marble in 1912 in memory of Archdeacon W. L. Bevan, vicar of Hay 1845-1901; there are 760 sittings. The register dates from the year 1688. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £250, in the gift of Lord Glanusk C.B., D.S.O. and held since 1903 by the Rev. John Jeffreys de-Winton M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford, chaplain of the Hay union, and surrogate.

There is a Baptist chapel, erected in 1815, with 400 sittings, Calvinistic Methodist with 200, Congregational, built in 1804 with 250, Primitive Methodist with 150, and a Wesleyan chapel with 250 sittings.

The Parish Hall, in Lion street, erected in 1890, and presented to the parish by Archdeacon W. L. Bevan, vicar of Hay 1845-1901, consists of a central hall and three class rooms, and is used for meetings in connection with the Church of England.

The Cemetery, on the Brecon road, was opened in 1870, at a cost of £1,100, and consists of about three acres; there is no mortuary chapel; it is under the control of a joint committee appointed by the Hay Urban District Council and the Hay Rural Parish meeting.

The Poor Law Institution, in St. Mary's road, will provide for 70 inmates.

The Isolation Hospital was erected in 1912, and contains eight beds.

The Clock Tower, at the top of Broad street, is of stone, and was erected in 1884 at a cost of over £600.

The Town Hall is a building of stone, the basement of which serves as a cheese market and for other purposes.

The Market House, erected in 1833, belongs to the Urban District Council.

The principal hotels are the "Crown," the "Wye" (temperance) and the "Swan."

The National Provincial & Union Bank of England Limited and Barclays Bank Limited have branches here.

The Constitutional Club, in Market square, opened in October, 1893, is connected with the Hay branch of the Breconshire Conservative Association and has about 220 members.

The Hay and District Liberal Club, Hoel-y-Dwr, was opened in 1913, and has a membership of about 180.

The market is held on Thursday, chiefly for provisions; stock fairs are held on the last Thursday in every month and also on the last Thursday in August and September; the old May hiring fairs are held on May 17th and 18th.

The Drill Hall, in Lion street, is used for public meetings.

In 1832, Miss Frances Harley erected and endowed six almshouses in memory of her mother, the Hon. Mrs. Harley, for the reception of six poor women, each of whom receives the sum of six shillings weekly; in 1836 twelve more almshouses were erected in the Brecon road, and also endowed by Miss Frances Harley, as a memorial of her sister, Martha Harley, of Trebarried, for twelve poor women, each receiving the sum of six shillings weekly. Inhabitants of the counties of Brecon, Hereford and Radnor are eligible to these almshouses. Gwynne's almshouses, in St. Mary's road, erected and endowed by Miss Gwynne, of Hay Castle, for six poor persons, were rebuilt in 1878; the present income is £60 a year. The late Sir Joseph Bailey bart. left 10th May, 1856, the sum of £10 a year to the poor of this town.

The Boughrood Charity, founded by Rice Powell, in 1686, apprentices boys annually from Hay and several other parishes at a premium of £12. The Penoyre Charity is connected with the National school, and Goff's Charity furnishes an endowment to a British school, situated in Hoel-y-Dwr.

The principal residences are:—Wannderwen, the property of Roger P. Bishop esq. and The Castle, the residence of the Dowager Lady Glanusk.

Lord Glanusk C.B., D.S.O. who is lord of the manor, Col. Thomas Wood, Viscount Hereford D.L., J.P. and Roger P. Bishop esq. are chief landowners. The soil is principally clay; subsoil, various. The chief crops are wheat, barley, potatoes and pasturage. The area of the Urban Civil Parish and District is 356 acres of land and 16 of water; rateable value, £5,807; population in 1911, 1,603, including 4 officials and 45 inmates of the Poor Law Institution.

The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 1,744 (which includes part of Hay Rural civil parish).

Parish Clerk, Joseph Jay, 10 Church street, Hay.

The area of Hay Rural parish is 2,526 acres of land and 36 of water; rateable value, £2,556; population in 1911, 150.

HIRWAIN is 4 miles north-west from Aberdare, and has a junction station for Merthyr on the Neath and Pontypool Road section of the Great Western railway. In June, 1886, it was formed into an ecclesiastical parish from the civil parishes of Aberdare and Penderyn, Brecknockshire, and is in the hundred of Miskin, petty sessional division of Miskin Higher, union of Merthyr, rural deanery of Aberdare, and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. During the years 1802-3 a complete system of sewerage for Hirwain and Pen-y-wain was carried out at a cost of £30,000. The sewage is conducted by a main sewer down the valley to the irrigation farms, now in the hands of the Merthyr and Aberdare Joint Farms Committee, between Aberdare Junction and Pontypridd. St. Lleurwg church, formerly a chapel of ease, was erected in 1858, and consists of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and a western turret with one bell: in 1884 the church was thoroughly restored, a chancel added, and an organ provided, at a total cost of £835, and in 1908 it was further restored, and again in 1913, at a cost of £120: there are 380 sittings. The register dates from the year 1858. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £200, with residence in the gift of the vicar of Aberdare and held since 1917 by the Rev. David John Wills M.A. of Glasgow University. In 1889 a parish room was erected at a cost of £450, defrayed by public subscription. A cemetery of 7 acres was laid out in 1914 by the Aberdare Urban District Council at Bryn-y-gaer. Hirwain lake is a great artificial stretch of water. The population in 1911 was 3,569.

KENFIG or CYNFUG (otherwise Mawldm), is a parish on the Pyle and Porthcawl road, in the Aberavon division of the county of Glamorgan, $\frac{1}{2}$ miles west from Pyle station, on the Great Western railway, 4 miles west from Porthcawl and $\frac{7}{2}$ west from Bridgend, Newcastle hundred, Newcastle and Ogmere petty sessional division, Bridgend and Cowbridge union and Bridgend county court district, rural deanery of Upper Gronoath (eastern division), and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. This place was formerly a borough, governed by a portreeve, recorder and alderman. The corporation was abolished under the "Municipal Corporations Act, 1833" (46 and 47 Vict. c. 18), which came into operation 25 March, 1886. The interests of the burgesses are now vested in a committee or trust consisting of 12 members, appointed by a scheme framed under the Act by the Charity Commissioners, 4 from the Bridgend Rural District Council, 4 from Margam Urban District Council and 4 of the burgesses. Kenfig is one of the places forming the Swansea Parliamentary District. The church of St. Mary Magdalene is a building of stone in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, west porch and an embattled western tower, containing one bell, dated 1664: the font, of Early Norman date, is barrel-shaped on a low base, and its surface is carved all over with a sort of fish-scale pattern, and round the rim a cable moulding: the church was repaired and reseated in 1878, and in 1898 the chancel was rebuilt and a small vestry added, by Miss Talbot, of Margam Park: in the porch are floor stones to Edward Hopkin, 1642, and Thomas Hopkin, 1673: the church plate includes an ancient chalice, without hall-mark, and a paten of 1868: there are 100 sittings. On the south side of the churchyard is a stone erected to the memory of Elizabeth Frances, who died 19 Sept. 1890, aged 110 years. The register, incorporated with that of Pyle, dates from the year 1695. The site of the destroyed church of St. James was about 300 yards south of the castle. The living is a vicarage, annexed to that of Pyle, joint net yearly value £200, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1915 by the Rev. David John Arthur B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, who resides at Pyle. The principal charity is a sum of £10 yearly, divided between the poor of Pyle and Kenfig. The Town Hall is still standing: the ground floor is now a public house, known as the "Prince of Wales"; the upper storey, consisting of a large room, extending over the whole length of the building, is reached by a flight of stone steps, and contains an iron safe, in which are preserved the various charters granted to the borough, from the Norman period, and conferring upon the burgesses many important privileges. The silver mace of the corporation, which is in the custody of Mrs. Yorwerth, the landlady of the inn, is a miniature copy of a great mace of the 17th century, being only 1 foot, 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches long, and but 18 ozs. in weight, and its date is between 1696 and 1721, bearing the initials "G. R." and the national emblem: it consists of a plain shaft encircled at either end by a plain ring, and spreading out at the foot into a large fluted knob: the shaft supports a cup-shaped head, and is encircled by a coronet from which spring the arches of the crown, and surmounting these is an orb and cross: on the flat top of the head are the royal arms, with supporters: the words "Kenfig Borough" are engraved on the shaft. On the common is an extensive sheet of water, called "The Pool," which is being gradually filled by the shifting sand, carried by the wind, and threatening at times to smother up the whole place, as happened to the old town in the 16th century, when the ancient church and castle were buried; of the latter only a small portion, crowning the summit of a mound, is now visible, but the foundations are traceable southwards for about 45 yards, but the site of the town is a sandy waste. In the reign of Rich. II. Thomas Stradling was appointed constable of the castle for life. Capt. Andrew M. T. Fletcher is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is principally sand; subsoil clay and limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats, and the rabbit warren also yield a considerable income. The area is 2,543 acres of land, 84 of inland and 2 of tidal water and 367 of foreshore; rateable value, £3,498; the population in 1911 was 301. The number of electors on the parliamentary register in 1913 was 106.

There is a Congregational chapel. The principal charity is one left by Miss Vaughan. In the parish are the remains of an old British camp. Jordanston, the ancient seat of the Vaughans, is the residence of R. B. Prettyjohn. J. C. Yorke esq. J.P., H. Wathen Thomas esq. Thomas Beynon esq. Thomas Perkins esq. and David Rees esq. are the principal landowners. Chins clay of a superior quality has been discovered in the district. The soil is sand and clay; chief crops, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 1,918 acres; assessable value, £828; the population in 1911 was 145.

KIDWELLY is a municipal borough and civil parish, with a station on the main line of the South Wales section of the Great Western railway, about half a mile from the bay of Carmarthen, at the junction of the rivers Gwendraeth-fach and Gwendraeth-fawr, 8 miles north-west from Llanelly, 10 south from Carmarthen, 19 north-west from Swansea and 234 by the Great Western railway from London, in the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, hundred of Kidwelly, petty sessional division of Llanelly, Llanelly union and county court district, rural deanery of Kidwelly, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The town was first incorporated by a charter granted by Hen. I. subsequently confirmed and extended by Edw. III. Hen. VI. Hen. VIII. Jas. I. and Chas. II.; by the "Municipal Corporations (New Charters) Act, 1877" (40 and 41 Vict. c. 69), this charter was renewed; but in July, 1885, the town received a new charter of incorporation, which came into operation 9 Nov. in that year, and the Corporation now consists of a mayor, 4 aldermen and 12 councillors. A plentiful supply of pure water is provided by a spring in immediate proximity to the town. The church of St. Mary, formerly the church of the Benedictine priory, is an ancient cruciform building of stone, in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch and a tower with spire at the north-west angle, containing 6 bells: the chancel retains its original sedilia and a piscina, and there is also a piscina in the south chapel. There is a monument to Hugh Fisher esq.: the tower was struck by lightning in 1834, and the top of its lofty spire falling through the roof into the nave, caused great damage; but in 1885 the church was restored at a cost of £1782, and now affords sittings for 550 persons. The registers date from the year 1586. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £200, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1914 by the Rev. David Ambrose Jones M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford. The mission church of St. Teilo was built in 1892, and there are Baptist, Calvinistic Methodist, Congregational and Wesleyan chapels. A large hiring fair is held on the 29th October, and others of minor importance during the year. The Town Hall, erected in 1877, at the expense of the Corporation, is an edifice in the Gothic style, and contains a spacious hall on the upper floor which is used for magisterial business, and at other times for meetings and entertainments, besides two ante-rooms on the same floor for committee meetings &c.; the basement contains a market place, police cells, public reading room and an institute. The public slaughter house, a substantial stone building, was built by the Corporation. The works of the Kidwelly Tin Plate Company Limited, about a mile from the town, are connected with the Great Western railway by the Gwendraeth Valleys mineral railway, and there are several collieries, brick, sand and cement works. On rising ground, overlooking the town, stand the extensive ruins of the castle, built in the 14th century, and still an imposing structure, the remains being in an excellent state of preservation, with some apartments still entire, as well as the noble western gateway, a fine example of castellated architecture of the Decorated period; some of the drum towers at the angles yet retain their vaulting, and there is an apsidal chapel; from the battlements good views can be obtained of Carmarthen bay and the country on either side of the Towy. The Benedictine priory of St. Mary, founded in 1130, by Roger, Bishop of Salisbury, Lord Chief Justice and Lord Treasurer (1107-40), was a cell of the mitred abbey of Sherborne, founded by Bishop Wulsin in 998, and refounded by Bishop Roger in 1122, the abbot having a stall at Salisbury: at its dissolution, Kidwelly Priory had a yearly income of £29, with two monks only: some vestiges of the building stand not far from the church. About three miles distant is Glyn Abbey. The trustees of Earl Cawdor, who is a minor, are lords of the manor. The trustees of the late Major John Vaughan Colby (d. 1919) are the principal landowners. The chief crops are wheat, roots, barley and oats.

By Local Government Board Order No. 16,241, which came into operation March 25th 1884, the civil parishes of Kidwelly St. Mary Within and Without, were amalgamated under the name of Kidwelly St. Mary.

By Local Government Board Order No. 32,498, dated Oct. 1, 1895, that part of Kidwelly St. Mary civil parish formerly known as Kidwelly St. Mary Without was added to Llandefellog, Llangendeirne, Pembrey and St. Ishmael civil parishes.

The area of the parish and municipal borough is 2,817 acres of land, 27 of inland water, 37 of tidal water and 284 of foreshore; rateable value, £10,458; the population in 1901 was 2,285 and in 1911, 3,033. The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 3,324.

KIFFIG (or Cyffig) is a large parish extending southward and eastward from Whitland station on the Carmarthen and Milford section of the Great Western railway, about 16 miles west from Carmarthen and 6 from Narberth, in the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, Derlys hundred, Narberth union and county court district, Llanbido petty sessional division, and in the rural deanery of St. Clear's, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Kiffig is an ancient building of stone in the Norman style, consisting of nave, north aisle and a western tower: in 1891 it was restored, at a cost of £700, and now affords 200 sittings. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £79, with residence, in the gift of the vicar of Laugharne, and held since 1903 by the Rev. John Thomas Evans B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, who is also vicar of Marros. There is a Baptist chapel at Bwlchgwynt, erected in 1756 and renovated in 1904. The area is 4,720 acres of land and 13 of water; rateable value, £3,054; the population in 1911 was 351 in the civil parish and 265 in the ecclesiastical parish.

KILGERRAN (or Cilgerran) is a parish on the river Tivy or Teifi, with a station on the Whitland and Cardigan section of the Great Western railway, 26 1/2 miles from London, 3 south from Cardigan, and 69 northwest from Swansea, in the county of Pembroke, Kilgeran hundred, and petty sessional division, union and county court district of Cardigan, rural deanery of Emlyn, archdeaconry of Cardigan and diocese of St.

David's. The church of St. Llawddog is an ancient building of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, double nave, west porch and a western tower containing 3 bells: there are marble monuments to Abel Anthony Gower esq. late of Glandovan, d. 1 Oct. 1837; Sir Erasmus Gower knt. Admiral of the White, d. 21 June, 1814; and his sister, Letitia Bowen, late of Glandovan; to John Lloyd esq. of Kilrhiwe, d. 11 July, 1657; James Lloyd esq. his brother, d. 1707; Griffith Griffith, surgeon, who perished, with all on board H.M.S. Constance, in a gale off the coast of Ireland, 21 April, 1822; Mrs. Margaret Owen, of Rhusayson, d. 23 Feb. 1716; and to Abel Gower esq. of Glandovan, d. 26 March, 1783: all the windows except two on the south side are stained, and there is a memorial window to Capt. Colby, 98th regiment, of Flynnon, Rhoysylwen, killed by a tiger at Rawul Pindi, India, 27 March, 1852, and to his sister, Mrs. Eliza Bearcroft, of Meer Hall, Worcestershire, given by their mother, Mrs. Colby, of Rhoysylwen: the church was repaired in 1885, and affords 350 sittings: in the churchyard on the south side of the church is a monument 8 feet high, 1½ feet wide and about the same in thickness, formed of the hard grey stone of the neighbouring Preseley Hills and inscribed:—"Tregussai Fihl Macutreni Hic Iacit"—(the body of) Tregussus the son of Macutrenus lies here. The register dates from the year 1708. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £260, including 7 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1914 by the Rev. John Jenkin Jones, of Durham University. There are Congregational, Baptist and Calvinistic Methodist chapels. Here are slate quarries, but the inhabitants are chiefly occupied in agriculture. The river affords good salmon fishing. Kilgerran Castle, now ruinous, stands on the edge of a steep promontory and is surrounded by beautiful river and woodland scenery. Castle Malgwyn, the seat of Capt. Erasmus William Gower J.P. is a fine old mansion standing on a sloping eminence above the banks of the Teifi, and commanding a fine view of the picturesque village of Llechryd. Sir Martine Owen Mowbray Lloyd bart. is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Lewis Howard Lloyd esq. and Capt. E. W. Gower, but there are several small freeholders. The soil is a dark brown loam on a subsoil of clay and slate. The chief crops are barley, oats and grass. The area is 2,681 acres of land, 9 of inland and 12 of tidal water and 7 of foreshore; rateable value, £2,866; the population in 1911 was 940.

Rhoshill is a hamlet 1½ miles from Kilgerran. Parish Clerk, John Daniel Bowen. Clerk to Kilgerran Local Pension Sub-Committee, S. Jones, Blaenffynnon, Tregryu, Llanfrynach, Breconsh. KILYBEBYLL (Kilybehill, or Cilybehill) is a parish, on the eastern side of the Swansea valley, opposite Pontardawe, from which it is separated by the river Tawe, 9 miles north-east from Swansea and 5 north from Neath, in the Neath petty division of the county of Glamorgan, Pontardawe petty sessional division and union, Neath county court district, rural deanery of Upper Gro-Neath (western division), archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. Pontardawe station on the Midland railway is in this parish. The church of St. John, built in 1868, is an edifice of Welsh sandstone, in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a low embattled western tower, believed to be the original one, and dating back to 1129, containing 3 bells: there are 130 sittings. The register dates from the year 1747. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £280, with residence and 13 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1919 by the Rev. George Aubrey Baile B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. St. John the Baptist's chapel of ease at Alltwen, erected in 1866-8, at a cost of £1,500, by the late Howel Gwyn esq. is an edifice of red brick with stone facings, consisting of chancel, nave, and north porch and has one bell; an organ was provided in 1887: there are 230 sittings. At Alltwen, Rhos and Danygraig are Congregational

KNIGHTON

KNIGHTON is a parish and market town near the river Teme, on the borders of Salop, in the county of Radnor, hundred of Knighton, the head of a petty sessional division, union and county court district and the place of session for the bankruptcy court of Leominster, in the rural deanery of Clyn, archdeaconry of Ludlow, and diocese of Hereford, with a station on the Central Wales

section of the London and North Western railway, 194 miles from London, 10 from Radnor, 20 from Newtown, 13 from Bishop's Castle, 5 from Backnell, 6 from Presteigne and 17 from Ludlow; the local line is connected with the main line via Craven Arms Junction, on the Shrewsbury and Hereford railway, and via Llandovery with other railways, thereby making the most direct route between the central and northern counties of England and South Wales. There is also a junction at Bullth Road (or Liechryd) with the Cambrian railway.

A Local Board of Health district was formed here in 1850, and the sanitary arrangements of the town were managed by it until the "Local Government Act, 1894," established the present Urban Council, the district of which has been extended to include the whole parish.

By Local Government Board Order No. 32,456, dated April 1, 1895, the rural part of the former civil parish of Knighton was added to the Urban District and constituted the civil parish of Knighton.

The town stands on an eminence rising boldly from the southern bank of the river Teme, and at the head of a deep vale, sheltered by surrounding hills of lofty elevation, crowned with timber of luxuriant growth, and commanding extensive and finely varied prospects over the adjacent country. The town is lighted with gas by a company formed in 1852, and is supplied with water from works the property of the Urban District Council; the supply is obtained from springs on the Upper Woodhouse farm and Cwm-Mor-Dingle. The parish has almost everywhere an undulating surface, but the lands, notwithstanding the loftiness of their elevation, in some parts are mostly enclosed and cultivated.

Knighton, together with Cefnlllys, Knucklas, Rhyader and Presteign, and the borough of New Radnor, formerly constituted the Radnor Parliamentary district, returning one member to Parliament, but under the provisions of the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885" (48 and 49 Vict. c. 23), this district was abolished, and the representation of the town merged in that of the county.

The church of St. Edward is a building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and a western tower containing 6 bells and a clock; the nave and aisles were rebuilt, the tower restored and a south porch added in 1877, at a cost of upwards of £4,500, and in 1892 a vestry was added at a cost of £300, as a memorial to the late James Coverton esq. M.D.: in 1899 a new chancel and organ chamber were built from designs by the late Mr. J. L. Pearson R.A., F.S.A. and a stained east window erected at a cost of over £3,000; there are 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1600. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £265, with 98 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Earl of Powis, and held since 1915 by the Rev. Thomas

The cemetery, about 2 acres in extent, was formed in 1878 at a cost of £1,400; it is under the control of the Knighton Urban District Council.

The Sheep Market, about 2 acres in extent, in rear of the Norton Arms hotel, will hold 6,000 sheep. The market is held every Thursday and is well attended. Fairs are held monthly for the sale of stock.

The "Norton Arms" and the "Swan" are the principal hotels.

The charities consist of Woodburn's endowment, 4 almshouses, and some other minor gifts.

The celebrated Clawdd Offa (Offa's Dyke), which stretched from Chester to the Wye and guarded the frontiers of Mercia, runs close above the town. Caer Caradoc, about three miles north-east from hence, where there are remains of an immense British encampment, is supposed to have been the last refuge of Caractacus. Bryn Glas, on which a battle was fought between Owen Glendower and Sir Edmund Mortimer, is about three miles south-east from the town.

Knighton is a good centre for hunting, being within easy reach of three packs of hounds.

The kennels of the Teme Valley Foxhounds are at Brook house; the pack, comprising 20 couples, hunts on Tuesdays and Fridays during the season; Sir Henry W. A. Ripley bart. and Sir Robert Henry Green-Price bart. joint masters.

The Cottage is the residence of Sir Francis Edwards bart. B.A., D.L., J.P.

The principal landowners are the trustees of the Green-Price settled estates, Charles Coltman Rogers esq. and Sir Frederick Richard Powlett Milbank bart.

The soil is gravel; subsoil, various. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips.

The area of the civil parish and Urban District is 3,657 acres of land and 7 of water; rateable value, £10,862. The population in 1911 was 1,886, including 5 officers and 56 inmates of the Poor Law Institution.

LAMPETER

LAMPETER, or Lampeter-Pont-Stephen, originally "Llanbedr" (the church of St. Peter), is a parish and municipal borough and assize town, in the county of Cardigan, with a station on the Great Western railway and a junction for Aberayron. Lampeter is the head of a union and county court district, 264 miles from London and by road 20½; 20 from Llanedwery, 13 from Aberayron, 22½ from Carmarthen, 24 from Aberystwyth and 19 from Newcastle Emlyn, in the hundred of Moyddyn, petty sessional division of Upper Moyddyn, rural deanery of Lampeter, archdeaconry of Cardigan and diocese of St. David's; it stands on the right bank of the river Teify, which, at the end of Bridge street, is crossed by a bridge supposed to have been built in the 12th century. The town is lighted with gas by a company formed in 1867, and supplied with water by the Corporation from a reservoir at Troedrhwi, with a capacity of 40,000 gallons. The earliest charter of incorporation is that of Henry VI, which recites others of the reign of Edward II. The borough was scheduled in the "Municipal Corporations Act, 1883" (46 and 47 Vict. c. 18), as a place to which the "Municipal Corporations Acts" might be applied, but it continued to be governed by a confirmatory charter of George III, dated 1814, until 1884, when the town received a new charter of incorporation dated 15 July in that year, and the corporation consists of a mayor, 4 aldermen and 12 councillors. Under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894" (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73), the ancient parish of Lampeter has been divided into Urban and Rural, being respectively the portions within and beyond the borough. The church of St. Peter is a building of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle and a western tower surmounted by a short steeple and containing one bell, and has seven stained windows: there are 370 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1605; marriages, 1739. The living is a vicarage, net income £390, with 80 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1910 by the Rev. David Timothy Alban B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. St. Mary's chapel of ease is at Maestri, and at Pentrebach is St. John's Mission Church. The Congregational chapel will seat 800 persons, the Wesleyan 350, Calvinistic Methodist 400, Baptist 260, and Unitarian 400. The Town Hall, in High street, erected in 1882-2, at a cost of £4,000, is an edifice of brick and stone and the private property of the Harford family: it is fitted with a court house and the usual offices; the building is surmounted by a small tower containing a clock with four dials. The Cardiganshire County Council hold their meetings here. The market is held at the back. The Victoria Memorial Hall, in Bryn road, was erected in 1907 on a site given by David Lloyd esq. late town clerk. The cattle market is held on Tuesday; there is also a market on Friday; a market is held on the first Monday in each month; there are also several fairs (principally cattle) taking place on the following dates: January 14th, February 4th, March 11th, April 19th, May 6th, 7th and 8th (horse fair), June 11th, July 8th, August 15th, September 15th, October 19th, November 16th and December 22nd. There are branches of Lloyds Bank Limited, London Joint City and Midland Bank Limited, National Provincial and Union Bank of England Limited and Barclays Bank Limited. "Y Llan," a Welsh church paper, is published here every Friday, and "Yr Haul" and "Peri y Plant," the first day of each month. A fountain was erected in Harford square in 1862 by the late J. S. Harford esq. of Peterwell. About 1½ miles west of the town is a nine hole golf course. Major John Charles Harford D.L., J.P. and Mrs. Hughes are the principal landowners.

The area of the municipal borough and Urban parish is 1,632 acres of land and 22 of water; rateable value, £7,796; the population in 1911 was 1,802, including 3 officers and 32 inmates in the Poor Law Institution.

The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 2,193 (which includes part of Lampeter Rural civil parish).

Sexton, Jenkin Jones.

The area of the rural parish is 4,384 acres of land and 14 of water; rateable value, £2,681; the population in 1911 was 391.

ST. DAVID'S COLLEGE.

St. David's College, begun in the year 1822, & opened March 1st, 1827, is an extensive quadrangular structure, erected chiefly by the exertions of Dr. Thomas Burgess, Bishop of St. David's from 1803 to 1825; George IV. while Prince Regent, gave £1,000; a grant was also obtained from Parliament of £6,000, the remainder being chiefly collected through the instrumentality of the Bishop. The College, which is incorporated by Royal charter, has the power of conferring the degrees of B.A. & B.D. & has attached to it scholarships & exhibitions of the annual value of over £590, being four of £30, two of £21, six of £20, & others ranging in value from £18 6s. 8d. to £8 5s. yearly. The value of the scholarships is partly realised to students by giving them the use of furnished rooms, attendance & dinners in Hall. An Affiliation Student-ship Fund has been formed with the view of assisting deserving students, who wish to avail themselves of the Affiliation Scheme to the Universities of Oxford &

Cambridge, & a sum of £100 a year is also set apart for this purpose, from the W. Dillwyn Llewelyn Trust, endowed by Sir John T. D. Llewelyn, of Penllergare, the studentships being known as the "Dillwyn Llewelyn Memorial Studentships." The college has been admitted by the Universities of Oxford & Cambridge to the privileges of an affiliated college. (A.) Affiliation to Cambridge.—Students who have resided three years at St. David's College, & have obtained honours in its final examination, are excused from the previous examination at Cambridge, & are allowed to graduate after two years' residence only, on condition of their taking a tripos examination. All who have not passed in algebra at Lampeter are required to do so at Cambridge. The algebra in ordinary responsions does not qualify. (B.) Affiliation to Oxford.—The principal advantage of affiliation to Oxford is that it allows a student who obtains honours either in moderations or in the second public examination to take his degree after two years' residence, instead of at least three, & in the case of some honour schools, practically four years' residence. Affiliated students in all cases have to take honours both at Lampeter & Oxford. They may proceed after two or three years' residence at Lampeter. They rank on matriculation at Oxford as students beginning their fifth term. They must reside two years at Oxford. Those students who proceed after two years at St. David's College obtain the status of junior affiliated students, & are exempted from responsions, but have to pass moderations or take one of the equivalent examinations before proceeding to their final honour examination, & in all cases have to show a sufficient knowledge of Greek. Those students who proceed after three years obtain, like graduates of other universities, the status of senior affiliated students at Oxford, are exempted from moderations as well as responsions, & take only the final honour examination, but (unless they take Literæ Humaniores or Theology) have to pass a supplementary examination in Greek. The library contains about 50,000 volumes. Visitor, the Lord Bishop of St. David's.

LAMPETER VELFREY is a parish in the county of Pembroke, and in the vale of Lampeter, on the southern road from Whitland to Narberth, 3 miles west from the Whitland station on the Carmarthen and Milford section of the Great Western railway and 3 east from Narberth, and in the hundred of Narberth, union, petty sessional division and county court district of Narberth, and in the rural deanery of St. Clears, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Peter is a building in the Transitional style, consisting of chancel, nave and south aisle, with a fine arcade: it was restored during the period 1851-83, under the direction of Mr. J. P. Seddon, architect, and affords 250 sittings. The registers of baptisms and burials date from 1779; marriages from 1755. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £308, with 33 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1901 by the Rev. Thomas Lewis B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. There are two Congregational chapels, and a Baptist chapel at Glanrhyd, erected in 1811, which has 250 sittings. A sum of £120 per annum, left by Dr. Jones in 1698, is distributed annually. Tavernspite is the site of an hospitium once belonging to Whitland Abbey. Wilfred H. P. Lewis esq. the trustees of the late Canon Edmund E. Allen M.A. (d. 1898), Clement F. B. Allen esq. and H. Seymour Allen esq. D.L., J.P. are principal landowners. The area comprises 5,788 acres, of which 5 are water; rateable value, £7,186; the population in 1911 was 912 in the civil parish and 721 in the ecclesiastical parish.

LAMPHEY is a parish and small village in the county of Pembroke, with a station on the Pembroke and Tenby section of the Great Western railway, and is 2 miles south-east-by-east from Pembroke, 8 from Tenby and 251 from London, in the hundred and petty sessional division of Castle Martin, Pembroke union, county court district of Pembroke Dock, and in the rural deanery of Castle Martin, and archdeaconry and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Tyei or St. Faith is an ancient building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch, and an embattled western tower containing

4 bells: the south transept forms a chapel belonging to the Morisons of Portclew: the chancel retains a piscina, and there are three stained windows and several mural monuments; the church was restored in 1870, and affords 210 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from 1806; marriages 1755. The living is a vicarage, net income £134, including glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1028 by the Rev. Thomas Jones, who is also rector at Hodgeston. Lamphey Court, the seat of Charles Ronald Mathias esq. is a fine mansion of stone, standing in a well kept park, in which also are the extensive and ivy-covered ruins of the palace, erected, in part at least, by the celebrated Henry de Gower, bishop of St. David's 1328-47, and partly by the Earl of Essex; the varied styles of the work show that the fabric as a whole belongs to widely different periods. Bishop Gower having erected the great hall, which has an almost unique open arcaded parapet and is 76 feet long by 20 wide, and the square tower; the remains also comprise another apartment 60 by 20 feet, and the chapel, attributed to Bishop Vaughan, 1509-22, the east window of which is nearly perfect: visitors are permitted to view the ruins. Charles R. Mathias esq. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil and subsoil are partly red sandstone but mostly limestone. The chief crops are oats and barley, but some land is in pasture. The area is 1,991 acres of land and 50 of foreshore; rateable value, £3,219, and the population in 1911 was 268.

Parish Clerk, George Williams.

LANDORE, see Swansea.

LAUGHARNE, a Roman station under the name of "Denetia," was called by the British "Dyfed" and "Abercoran;" it subsequently received the name of "Tal-lachar" and in 1291 was called "Tallacharn;" the place was formerly a municipal borough and a seaport, but the sand heading back the mouth of the river has become blocked up; it is now a township and parish in a valley at the mouth of the river Taff, flowing into Carmarthen Bay, with a ferry to Llanstephan: the township is 5 miles south from St. Clear's station on the Carmarthen Junction and Whitland section of the Great Western railway, 4 from Llanstephan and 14 from Carmarthen and 259 from London, in the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, Derllys hundred, St. Clear's petty sessional division, Carmarthen union and county court district, rural deanery of St. Clear's and archdeaconry and diocese of St. David's. The water supply is drawn from springs: the place is lighted with oil lamps.

Laugharne became a corporate borough at a very early date and a charter of privileges was granted in the reign of King John by Guy de Brian, the elder, then lord of the place, and on his death in 1307, his son, Guy de Brian, the younger, granted a new charter to the burgesses, confirming the customs and privileges enjoyed under the previous charter and empowering them to elect a portreeve at Easter and Michaelmas. The corporation, as still existing, consists of a portreeve, alderman, recorder, foreman of the jury, jurymen and constables, who nominally act under the charter of de Brian, but all corporate acts are practically controlled by various customs and certain bye-laws enacted by a grand jury of the burgesses from the 10th year of Queen Anne (1711-12). In 1835, and for some years previously, the jury of burgesses elected the portreeve, but he is now chosen by ballot by the majority of the resident burgesses, and in practice is generally retained in office for one year: the 20 jurymen elected each year choose one of their number as foreman, two as common attorneys and four as constables. The corporation do not now exercise any civil or criminal jurisdiction, their functions consisting solely in the management of their corporate property, which comprises both lands and tenements and is of considerable value.

The Municipal Corporations Act, 1883 (46 and 47 Vict. c. 18) specially provides, in section 20 (1), that in the event of a charter not being granted to Laugharne, the property of the corporation shall continue to be held, managed and enjoyed as heretofore, in like manner as if a scheme of the Charity Commissioners, in pursuance of the Act, had so provided, and that for such purpose the corporation shall continue undissolved in like manner as if it were constituted by the said scheme. (2), That the corporation, subject to the approval of the Charity Commissioners, may sell all or any of their property, and after compensating or saving the rights of any person in such property, existing or prospective, may pay the proceeds to any public authority in the locality, to be applied by such authority for the benefit of the inhabitants of the place. Meetings of the corporation are held fortnightly at the town hall.

The church of St. Martin is an ancient cruciform building of stone, originally of the Early English period, but now chiefly Perpendicular, and consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, transepts and an embattled central tower, with a turret at one angle known as "the king's seat;" in the tower are 6 bells, four of which date from 1729, but the 3rd and 4th were recast in Aug. 1872, at the cost of W. Norton esq.: the east wall of the chancel is relieved on the interior by a series of niches and there are also sedilia and a piscina, and another piscina in the south transept: one small hagioscope exists in the porch is a stoup and over it a niche: the north porch has been destroyed, but the walled-up arch remains: the stained east window is a memorial to the late John Berkett Wienholt esq. and at the west end is another memorial window to the late W. Norton esq.: on the north side is another containing a royal head, assigned to Edward III. the royal arms, and the arms of Guy de Brian: the organ was presented in 1819 by Vice-Admiral John Laugharne R.N.: the memorial stones in the church are very numerous: in the sacristy is an altar tomb of stone, with the quartered arms of Brian, but destitute of any inscription, and in the north transept, or "Palmer's aisle," within a recessed arch, is a female effigy of the 14th century: on the south side of the chancel is a memorial to Sir John Powell kt. justice of the Common Pleas and King's Bench and one of the judges presiding at the trial of the seven bishops, who died at Exeter, 7 Sept. 1666, and was here buried: there are also memorials to Sir Thomas Powell, of Broadway, bart. son of the judge, d. 22 Aug. 1720 and Elizabeth (Mansell) his 1st wife, d. 8 June, 1697; to Vice-Admiral John Laugharne, d. 11 Oct. 1819; Capt. Morgan Laugharne R.N. d. 1810; Capt. John Laugharne R.N.; Capt. William Laugharne R.N. d. 1856, and others of this family from 1682; Sir Sackville Crowe bart. of Llanherne and Anne (Rouse) his wife, d. 13 Dec. 1679; Arthur Bevan esq. recorder of Carmarthen and 14 years M.P. for that borough, d. 6 March, 1742; the Rev. Nathaniel Bevan M.A. rector of Llanillo, d. 10 May, 1725; the Rev. John Williams, 30 years vicar, d. 28 July, 1829; Lieut.-Col. John Ravenscroft, Royal Carmarthen militia, d. 13 June, 1800; Penoyser Watkins esq. d. 1791 and Mary (Lloyd) his wife, d. 1762; Matthew Pryce, d. 14 March, 1720; and to the Philipps family, 1734-48; in the porch are monuments to Katherine Sare or Saer, ob. 22 July, 1690, and Elizabeth (Bayly) wife of William Bynon, ob. 13 June, 1679: the church plate includes a paten given by Capt. William Laugharne and there is an ancient cope: the church was restored in 1873-4 at a cost of £3,000, when the tower was lowered: in the course of the work the foundations of an earlier church were met with beneath the floor of the nave: part of the effigy of a lady and a stone with a cross carved on it, probably of the 11th century, were also found: there are 400 sittings, of which 100 are free, and a special pew for the use of the corporation. The churchyard is very full of tombs and memorial stones and has also some large yew trees, planted in 1720. In 1913 a lych-gate was erected at the expense of Miss Ellen Wienholt, of Bournemouth (and formerly of Laugharne Castle), in memory of her sister, Mary Frances Wienholt. The register dates from the year 1639. The living is a vicarage, with the rectory of Llansadwrn annexed, joint net income £340, with 23 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Winchester, and held since 1802 by the Rev. John Thomas M.A. of Jesus College, Oxford.

There is a Baptist chapel (Bethel) at PLASHET, 1½ miles distant, erected in 1861, with 150 sittings and another at BWLCHNEWYDD, 2 miles distant, erected in 1803, seating 200 persons; a Calvinistic Methodist chapel; three English Congregational chapels, founded in 1704, with 400 sittings, and a Wesleyan chapel, erected in 1810.

The Town Hall is an ancient structure with a clock tower and has a large room for meetings; the ground floor was formerly used as a market. There is a public reading and recreation room.

The Municipal Insignia consist now only of the corporate seal, dating from the 17th century; it is circular and bears the arms of Brian or de Brienne, viz. or, 3 piles in point az. these being the arms of Guy de Brian, who granted the town its first charter.

Cockle gathering is a local form of industry here; various charters were granted at different times for markets and fairs, including one by William III. but they are not now held.

The charities include £400 left by Capt. William Laugharne; Matthew Warren also left an annuity of £2 12s.; Mrs. Mary Griffiths left £52 to be applied in buying weekly 12 penny loaves to be distributed to 12 poor widows; Mrs. Jane Morgan, £52, the interest to be also given in bread to the poor; Elizabeth Foster left the interest of £150 for the education of the poor, and the interest of £1,800 to pay the organist's salary was left by Miss T. Laugharne; Mrs. Wingrove left a sum of money to provide teaching and clothes for eight choir boys; Mrs. Letitia Cornwallis left £100, the interest thereof to be given in money to the poor; Miss Theodosia Laugharne left the interest of £300 to Morgan Davies, a relative, after whose death it was directed to be applied in building a school of industry, but it is now expended in defraying the expense of teaching sewing and knitting &c. in the school; Zacharias Thomas left £4 to be paid out of his estates to the poor.

Laugharne Castle, the ruins of which stand near the shore, was built at the beginning of the 11th century on the site of a Roman fortification, and coins of the Emperor Carausius, who, in Britain, assumed the title of "Augustus," A.D. 287, have been found on the spot; the early history of this fortress is obscure, but it appears to have been altered and enlarged at different times, especially by Sir John Perrot K.B. a native of Pembrokeshire, and a reputed son of Henry VIII. and in 1583 Lord Deputy of Ireland; the principal courtyard measured about 35 by 18 yards, and the fabric itself, as represented in still existing prints, was an extensive embattled pile, with numerous square and circular towers, and in the curtain wall were several gatehouses, one of which stood near the present bridge; another spanned the road below Mariners' Corner; there was a third by the sea and a fourth stood across the road near the church gates; the fortress was dismantled during the Civil War in 1644, but as a ruin is still in good preservation; the castle has been owned by the Starke family for several centuries, and the present owner, Mrs. Ravenscroft Starke, occupies the Castle House, which stands in the adjoining grounds. Llanmiloe, the seat of Morgan Jones esq. J.P. lord of the manor, is on the side of a hill overlooking Carmarthen Bay; the Worms Head, Lundy and Cady Isles can be seen on a clear day from here. Morgan Jones

esq. J.P. and Herbert Eccles esq. J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is red earth; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are barley and oats. The area of the parish is 5,717 acres of land, 5 of inland and 31 of tidal water and 1,495 of foreshore; rateable value, £4,189; township, 3,056 acres of land, 4 of inland and 388 of tidal water and 3,779 of foreshore; rateable value, £4,903.

The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 1,453 (which includes Laugharne township and Llansadwrn civil parishes).

The population in 1911 was, parish 377, and township 936.

LLANBADARN-FAWR is a village and an extensive parish on the road from Aberystwyth to Rhayader, 1 mile south-east from Aberystwyth railway station, 208 from London by road, 27 west from Llanidloes, and 30 north-west from Rhayader, in the county of Cardigan, hundred of Geneu'r-Glyn, Aberystwyth union and county court district, petty sessional division of Lower Geneu'r-Glyn, rural deanery of Llanbadarn-Fawr, archdeaconry of Cardigan and diocese of St. David's. The townships of Issayndre and Uchayndre constitute the village of Llanbadarn-Fawr. The church of St. Padarn, or Paternus, once the cathedral of the ancient see of Llanbadarn-Fawr, which existed from about A.D. 516 till the close of the 8th century, was destroyed by the Danes when they invaded Wales in 988, and rebuilt in the 11th and 13th centuries; it is now a stately and very spacious cruciform building almost entirely in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch, a massive embattled central tower, with a low octagonal spire, and containing a clock and eight bells, 6 of which were cast in 1749; the other two were added in 1886: the windows are mostly lancets, and at the ends of the transepts and at the west end are arranged one and two; the east window is a memorial to Mrs. Edwyna Powell, of Nant-Eòs, and was inserted by her son George: there are seven other stained windows, including the three western lancets, filled with stained glass by the parishioners in 1894, in memory of the Rev. John Pugh, curate here, 1856-61, vicar, 1861-93, and a white marble tablet erected in 1666 to John Jones, who raised a regiment in defence of King Charles; others to the Powell and Pryse families, and a floor slab inscribed to Lewis Morris, antiquary and poet, d. 11 April, 1765: in the north transept is a Celtic cross, and a memorial cross to Lieut. Padarn, both dating from 1550: the font dates from the 12th century, and has an octagonal arched basin: the pulpit was presented by the Rt. Rev. W. Basil Jones D.D. Bishop of St. David's 1874-97, in memory of his mother, and the organ in 1884 by the late Sir Pryse Pryse bart. D.L., J.P. (ob. 1906): the church was restored in 1884-5 at a cost of £8,500, under the direction of Mr. John P. Sedden, architect, and affords 700 sittings. The register dates from 1672, the earlier ones having been destroyed by Cromwell's troops. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £260, with glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1914 by the Rev. David Jones B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, rural dean and surrogate. Issayndre, Uchayndre and Vaynor Upper cemetery of 2½ acres was formed in 1898 at a cost of about £450. The cemetery is under the control of a joint committee. Capt. Edward Athelstane Lewis Powell esq. J.P. is lord of the manor, and the Aberystwyth Corporation, Roderick Clement Richardes esq. J. T. Morgan esq. D.L., J.P. the Earl of Lisburne J.P. Lewis Thomas Loveden esq. and Major Hugh Edward Bonsall J.P. are the principal landowners. The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 2,517.

LLANBEDR is a small parish and village, near the confluence of the rivers Grwynefechn and Grwynefawr, in the county of Brecknock, and is 7 miles from Abergavenny and 5 from Gilwern stations on the London and North Western railway, 2 from Crickhowell, 9 from Brynmaur, and 161 from London, in the hundred, petty sessional division, county court district, and union of Crickhowell, and in the rural deanery of Crickhowell, archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. Since the year 1865, the village has been almost entirely rebuilt. The church of St. Peter is an ancient edifice of stone in the Gothic style of the 14th century, and consists of chancel with aisles, nave, south porch, and a tower containing 5 bells. It was repaired in 1865 and 1897, and affords 200 sittings. The registers date from the year 1675. The living is a rectory, with the chapelry of Patricio, or Partrishow, annexed, joint net income £190, with 36 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Duke of Beaufort, and held since 1914 by the Rev. Thomas Cyril Wyndham Lewis B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. A new rectory house was erected in 1905, at a cost of over £2,000. There is a Calvinistic Methodist chapel, erected in 1884, to seat 120. A sum of £25 yearly, left in 1725, by the late Ann Herbert, is applied to educational purposes. The Duke of Beaufort is lord of the manor. T. A. Browne-Davies esq. and Lord Glanusk C.B., D.S.O. are the principal landowners. The soil is gravel; chief crops, barley, oats and pasturage. The area is 3,799 acres of land and 14 of water; rateable value, £1,995; the population in 1911 was 228 in the civil parish and 339 in the ecclesiastical parish (which includes Grwynefawr, Grwynefechan and Patrishow civil parishes).

The church of St. Peter is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, and a turret containing two bells: the church was rebuilt in 1885 at a cost of £600 and affords 103 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1726; marriages, 1754. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £100, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1913 by the Rev. William Jenkin Jones. At PAINSCASTLE there is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1834, seating 200 persons, and a Baptist chapel, built in 1836, with 350 sittings. Of the castle, which gave its name to this parish and hundred, only the mound and moat now remain. Walter W. Baskerville esq. who is lord of the manor, Major Walter de Winton and Pery Vaughan-Morgan esq. are the principal landowners. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley, roots and pasture. The area comprises 3,775 acres of land and 25 of water; rateable value, £2,030; the population in 1911 was 158.

LLANBISTER is a parish and village, on the river Ithon, in the county of Radnor, 5½ miles from Llanbister Road station, 5 miles north-west of Dolau station and 7½ north of Penybont station, all on the Craven Arms and Carmarthen section of the London and North Western railway, 17 north-by-west from Builth, and 11 west from Knighton; it is in the hundred of Knighton, union, petty sessional division, and county court district of Knighton, and in the rural deanery of Melineth Sub Ithon, archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Cynllo, standing on rising ground, is an ancient building of stone in the Norman and Early English styles, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, and an eastern tower containing 3 bells; the peculiar position of the tower at the east end has prevented the opening of an east window, and two ascents, of 10 and 6 steps respectively, lead to the south porch, which retains a niche for a holy water stoup; there is a fine oak roof; some remains of the rood screen, and an old chest dated 1616. The gallery of black oak bears the date July 7, 1716, and the initials of the churchwardens, and there are several monuments to persons of note, and a memorial stone inscribed to Thomas Bowen, gent. d. 2 January, 1680, et. 100: the pulpit is a good old fashioned "three-decker," with a sounding-board; the church was restored in 1908 at a cost of £2,000, when the windows on the north side were reopened; the church affords 300 sittings. The register, including Abbey Cwm-hir, dates from the year 1684. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £250, with 65 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1918 by the Rev.

Llandilo Grabau, Llanstephan & Llows. The area is 31,415 acres; population in 1911, 2,333.

LLANBLETHIAN, see Cowbridge.

LLANBOIDY is a parish and village, in the county of Carmarthen, 6 miles north from Whitland junction station and 3 east from Llanglydwen station on the Whitland and Cardigan branch of the Great Western railway; petty sessions, formerly held here, are now held at Whitland, but the petty sessional division is still called Llanboidy; the parish is in the hundred of Derllys, union and county court district of Narberth, and in the rural deanery of St. Clears, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Brynach is an edifice of local stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, transepts, nave, west porch, and turret containing one bell and a clock, placed in 1878 by public subscription: there are four stained windows to members of the Powell family, of Maesgwynne. The church was restored in 1878, and affords 300 sittings. The earliest register dates from 1752 to 1792, but is not continued regularly until 1813. The living is a vicarage, net income £200, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1905 by the Rev. Evan Thomas B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. There is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1800, with 250 sittings. A large market hall, built by the late W. R. H. Powell esq. M.P. is used for public meetings, concerts &c. to which a public reading room is attached; a drinking fountain has been erected in memory of the late W. R. H. Powell esq. Clynwynne is the seat of William Lewis-Phillips esq. B.A., J.P. who with Miss Yelverton is the principal landowner. The chief crops are oats, barley and root crops. The area comprises 10,670 acres of land and 21 of water; rateable value, £10,436; the population in 1911 was 1,330 in the civil parish and 965 in the ecclesiastical parish. Post, M. O. & T. LLANBRADACH is a mining village and ecclesiastical parish, formed in March, 1904, from the parishes of Caerphilly and Ystradgynaf. The village, which has a station on the Rhymney railway, is 2½ miles north-west from Caerphilly and 10½ north from Cardiff; it is in the Caerphilly division of the county of Glamorgan, hundred of Caerphilly, Lower Caerphilly petty sessional division, Pontypridd union and county court district and in the rural deanery of Caerphilly and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. The church of All Saints was partly erected in 1807, at a cost of £3,000, and is a building of stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, vestry and a tower containing 8 bells: the chancel and tower were added in 1909 at a cost of £3,500: there are sittings for 517 persons. The baptismal register dates from the year 1899, and the marriage register from 1904. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £290, with residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1903 by the Rev. Edwin Edwards. Here also are Welsh Baptist, Congregational and Calvinistic and Wesleyan Methodist chapels. The population in 1911 was 4,998.

LLANCFARFAN and LLANVITHYN

LLANCFARFAN is a parish and village, near the Bristol Channel and on the river Carfan, a feeder of the Taw, the latter forming the western boundary of the parish. The main road between Cardiff and Swansea passes through the upper part of the parish, which is 2 miles east from St. Athan Road station, on the Llantrissant to Aberthaw branch of the Taff Valley railway, 5 south from Peterstone station on the Cardiff and Swansea section of the Great Western railway, 4 south-east from Cowbridge, 9 south-west from Cardiff, and 5 north-west from Barry, in the Llandaff and Barry division of the county of Glamorgan, Dinas Powis petty sessional division and hundred, union and county court district of Cardiff, rural deanery of Barry and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. There are several springs of very good water here. The church of St. Catwg, or Cadocus, is an ancient and interesting building of stone, in the Norman style, consisting of chancel with aisles, nave, south aisle, & a chapel annexed to the south aisle, porch and an unbuttled western tower containing 4 bells: the south arcade of the nave has four Early Pointed arches springing from square piers, with broadly chamfered angles, the caps being Early English, with the dogtooth ornament; in the north wall is a Late Perpendicular window of two lights, and the rood stairs remain in this wall also; the place of the rood left is shown by two square-headed windows; the church was restored in 1877-8, at a cost of £690, and the tower and bells in 1890-1, at a further cost of £570; there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1619. The living is a vicarage, net yearly income £230, including 15 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1913 by the Rev. Thomas Thomas B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. There is a Baptist chapel, erected in 1822, with 200 sittings, and a Wesleyan chapel in the village, and Calvinistic Methodist and Congregational chapels in the upper part of the parish. There are remains of a college founded here by St. Cadocus about A.D. 500, and of a building in which it is said that Dubritius, the first Bishop of Llandaff, lived, and there are other ancient remains called "Castle Ditches" and several wells, said to have marvellous healing powers, and supposed to have been blessed by Dubritius. Mrs. Jones is lady of the manor. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners and Jesus College, Oxford, are the principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, blue lias. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats; the area is 4,776 acres of land and 8 of water; rateable value, £5,536; the population in 1911 was 446.

LLANCYNFELIN is a parish in the county of Cardigan, on the road from Aberystwyth to Machynlleth, 3 miles from Nyulas station, on the Cambrian railway, and 9 north-north-east from Aberystwyth station, on the Cambrian and Great Western railways, hundred, union and county court district of Aberystwyth, petty sessional division of Upper Genuer-Glyn, rural deanery of Llanbadarn fawr, archdeaconry of Cardigan, and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Cynvokin, restored in 1845, is an ancient building of stone, consisting of nave, aisles, transept, south porch, and a small turret, containing 1 bell. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1770; marriages, 1754; & burials, 1772. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £200, with 1 acre of glebe, and residence, in the gift of Basil Jones esq. and held since 1910 by the Rev. Evan Morgan Davies L.Div. of St. David's College, Lampeter. There are Wesleyan and Calvinistic Methodist chapels. The Cletwr Valley in this neighbourhood is a great attraction to visitors, and about a mile west is Bedd Taliesin, the reputed burial place of the famous Welsh bard, Taliesin, who flourished in the 6th century. Sir Lewes Thomas Loveden Pryse bart. and the Misses Jones are the chief landowners. The soil is clayey. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 5,109 acres of land, 5 of inland and 155 of tidal water and 1,259 of foreshore; rateable value, £3,121; the population in 1911 was 683.

LLANDAFF.

INCLUDING ELY AND FAIRWATER.

THE City of Llandaff, standing on a table-land south of the river Taff and about 2½ miles south-west of Cardiff, in the Llandaff and Barry division of the county of Glamorgan, is a place of high antiquity, the head of a bishop's see and a parish in the hundred and petty sessional division of Kibbor, Cardiff union and county court district, and in the rural deanery, archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. The city is lighted with gas from works the property of the Cardiff Corporation. The water supply, which is exceptionally pure and plentiful, is brought direct from the Breconshire beacons. New water works for Cardiff, Llandaff and the district were completed, and an opening ceremony held on Sept. 14, 1892. There is a thorough system of drainage, with ample flushing power by means of automatic tanks. The Glamorganshire canal passes through the parish. Llandaff station on the Taff Vale railway is 1 mile north-west from the City, and Ely station, on the Great Western railway, is 1 mile south-west. A church is said to have existed here from the period when Christianity was first introduced; and it may also be mentioned as an interesting incident in the history of Llandaff, that in A.D. 1187, when Europe resounded with the din of preparation for the third crusade, Baldwin, Archbishop of Canterbury, publicly proclaimed here, in person, the glory of taking the Cross and marching to the rescue of the Holy Sepulchre; the English stood on one side and the Welsh on the other, and many persons of each nation took the sacred ensign. The Archbishop and his company remained here one night, and on the following morning, having celebrated mass in the cathedral, they pursued their way to Margam.

The diocese of Llandaff comprises most of the county of Glamorgan, the exceptions being the deaneries of East and West Gower, which are in St. David's diocese; it also includes Monmouthshire and small portions of the counties of Brecon and Hereford.

The Cathedral of SS. Dubricius and Tello is situated to the north of the village-city, at the foot of a steep ridge rising abruptly from the pleasant meadows forming the valley of the Taff, which flows gently towards Cardiff at a short distance from the east end of the building; the cathedral is completely shut in on the south and west by the hill; on the other sides it is open to the low ground, but the approach from the south is always striking from the suddenness with which, on reaching the edge of the descent, the whole structure bursts upon the view. The present cathedral owes its origin to Bishop Urban (1107-33) who, according to the "Liber Landavensis," found here, on his accession to the see, a small church, about 40 feet long, with aisles and an apse; on the site of this ancient fabric, in April, 1120, he began to build the new cathedral, the nave of which, according to Mr. Freeman, "survives in the present presbytery, while the lady chapel occupies the site of his chancel": in the Early English period the church was extended westward as far as the present west front, which, together with the arcades of the nave, and the lancet work of the nave and choir are probably not earlier than 1220, and were begun by Bishop Henry de Abergavenny (1193-1218) and completed by his successor, William de Goldcliffe (1219-30): the chapter house dates from the same period but somewhat later; the lady chapel belongs to the Early Decorated period, and was most likely the work of Bishop William de Brewse, or Bruce (1266-87); and in the Later Decorated period the presbytery, with the walls, doors and choir aisles, was rebuilt, it is believed, by Bishop John de Monmouth (1296-1323), Bishop Urban's grand Norman arch, opening from the lady chapel into the presbytery, being retained intact: the Perpendicular north-west tower was erected in 1485 by Jasper Tudor, Earl of Pembroke, afterwards Duke of Bedford, and paternal uncle to Henry VII.: the Early English south-west tower remained unaltered, and subsequently became a ruin: about the middle of the 16th century the church seems to have been allowed to fall into decay, and in 1575 was absolutely ruinous: Bishop Godwin (1601-17), the author of the hook "De Præsulibus Angliæ," partly at his own expense, repaired the fabric, but during the Civil War it was shamefully desecrated, a portion being converted into an almshouse, the choir used as a cattle pen, one aisle as a stable and the font devoted to the feeding of swine: in 1649 the revenues of the cathedral were seized and the building remained in an entire state of neglect till after the Restoration, when some slight repairs were effected, but in 1717 the south tower was "open within from the top to the bottom," and the church being generally in a "sad and miserable" condition, it was proposed by some to remove the See to Cardiff: in 1720 the battlements of the north tower fell and destroyed the aisle roof, and in 1723 part of the south tower and above 50 feet of the nave also gave way, and eventually the western half of the nave became a picturesque ruin, ivy-grown, and open to the sky, until its restoration in 1857: about 1732, a Mr. Wood, of Bath, at the request of the Chapter, who had raised a fund of £7,000 for the repair of the cathedral, surveyed the building; and, under his auspices, instead of restoring the church in its integrity they proceeded to erect within its venerable walls an absurd Italian building, of debased character, which until 1843 occupied the presbytery, choir and a portion of the nave: the west front, projecting into the nave at the fourth bay from its western end, being "surmounted by a pediment, at either end of which rose a vase, carrying an urn"; "the choir was completely boxed in and plastered, the arcades on each side filled up," and the superb Norman arch concealed in the same manner, but the anomaly, even at that time, excited the most indignant and contemptuous criticism: in 1835-6 the Rev. H. Douglas, then precentor, at his own cost restored the east window of the lady chapel, but the more active work of restoration began in 1843, under Dean Bruce-Knight, who completed the lady chapel, and the work was continued by his successor, Dean Conybeare, under whose superintendence the incongruous structure of wood was wholly removed, and the presbytery, choir and a portion of the nave, having been carefully restored, the eastern part of the cathedral was reopened on the 16th April, 1857: the latest and chief work of the restoration was effected by Dean Williams, who carried it to completion, with great energy and liberality, and the remainder of the fully-restored cathedral was re-opened in July, 1869. The work was carried out from the designs of the late Mr. John Pritchard and Mr. Seddon, the total cost exceeding £30,000. The cathedral, as now restored, consists of an eastern lady chapel, presbytery and choir with aisles, chapter house south of the choir, nave with north, south and west entrances and two western towers, that at the south-west angle being crowned with a lofty spire: the central portion of the west front is of three stages, of which the lowermost has only the entrance doorway, consisting of two narrow round-headed arches, supporting between them the figure of a mitred saint—probably S. Dubricius or S. Tello—within a vesica, the whole being inclosed by a semi-circular arch on clustered shafts; the second stage contains three lights, divided by slender lancet niches, and in the third is a single light, with a blind arcading on either side: the north-western tower, about 105 feet in height, is in part Early English, the details of this period being very skillfully united to the Later Perpendicular; it consists of three stages, with a stair-turret at the south-west angle, and on the opposite side holdy projecting buttresses, many times divided; the whole of the rich panelled parapet with its crocketed pinnacles and the spirelet of the turret are new and cost about £6,000; this tower contains a magnificent peal of 8 bells, placed here in 1880 by public subscription, as a memorial to Dean Williams, who died in 1877; the tenor in D flat and weighing 23½ cwt. being the old bell which had previously hung in the tower for upwards of 150 years; in 1881 a clock with carillons was added by public subscription in memory of Dean Blossie; the carillons play 7 different tunes, a fresh one being substituted every 24 hours at midnight, and played every third hour: of the south-west tower, the greater part of which was removed in 1756, only a fragment remained in 1857, and it may therefore be regarded as wholly new;

it is built of various kinds of oolite and is also of three stages, with massive buttresses at three angles terminating in open canopies with pyramidal roofs, the former including figures of SS. Peter and Paul and of the late Bishop Ollivant, and immediately above the south aisle roof is a range of arches with seated figures of the evangelists; the upper stage is finished by a machicolated cornice and open parapet, rising slightly higher than that of the other tower, with small pinnacles at the angles; behind these are crocketed pinnacles of larger size, and above all rises an octagonal spire, richly banded, with dormers at the base, the total height being 195 feet 7 inches: the nave is of six bays, the piers being angular in shape, with clusters of three shafts attached to their principal faces; there is no triforium, but the main arcade, both in the nave and choir, is surmounted by a clerestory of coupled lancets in each bay, only one of which remained at the time of the restoration: within the clerestory is a wall passage, with arched openings to the nave; the aisles of both nave and choir were rebuilt in the Late Decorated style, and the windows have reticulated tracery under ogee headings; each aisle has large north and south doorways of Late Norman character towards the west and smaller Decorated ones eastwards: the open wood roofs of the nave, choir, aisles and presbytery are wholly new, that of the nave and choir being continuous: there are several stained windows, the central light of the west window being a memorial to the late Dean Conybeare, 1845-57: the choir is of two bays, separated from the nave by a low wooden screen, inlaid with texts and monograms; the stalls as well as the bishop's throne are also of inlaid wood, chiefly teak, the latter having a lofty enriched pyramidal canopy, with figures of the doctors of the Latin church and of Anglican reformers and panels carved with subjects from the New Testament by the late Mr. Edward Clarke, who also executed the whole of the wood and stone carving throughout; the whole of the stonework, designed by Mr. Pritchard, was executed by workmen resident in Llandaff: the pulpit is of Caen stone and various marbles, and its panels bear sculptured figures from designs by Mr. Woolner: the font, presented to the cathedral by the late Dean Williams, was designed by Mr. Seddon and has an arched round the bowl, filled with subjects from the history of Noah: the organ, completed and opened in 1861, was built by Messrs. Gray and Davison, under the superintendence of the late Rev. Sir F. A. G. Ouseley bart, and has a triple row of keys and 38 stops; a lofty modern arch divides the choir from the presbytery, which is of two bays; the north side is Early Decorated having been wholly rebuilt, but on the south side some remains of windows and other portions of Bishop Urban's church are still extant: the principal feature of this part of the building is the very fine and massive Norman arch opening from the presbytery into the lady chapel; it is of four orders, the exterior moulding, consisting of continuous octofolled circlets, studded with roundels, being probably unique: the ancient Decorated reredos, consisting of a long series of arched niches, was found in a shattered condition on removing the stonework which formerly encumbered the walls, and the fragments have been set up in the north choir aisle; the new reredos which now occupies the lower portion of this arch is of Caen stone, with side shafts of polished marble, and is divided into three arched compartments, with triangular crocketed heads terminating in finials: the three spaces thus enclosed have been filled by the late Mr. Dante Gabriel Rossetti with very fine original paintings of the Nativity, and David as a Shepherd and as a King; above, in the tympanum of the central arch, is an "Agnus Dei," encircled by a vine: on the south side are four modern sedilia, designed by Mr. Pritchard, with rich gabled canopies, exquisitely carved: the lady chapel of five bays is vaulted in stone, the vaulting being carried on shafts of Purbeck marble, with carved bosses at the intersections; the east window of five lights, designed by Mr. Pritchard, contains the arms of the Rev. H. Douglas, then preacher, the Rev. J. M. Traherne, chancellor, and the Rev. W. Bruce Knight, chancellor and afterwards dean; below the window is a deep recess, and on either side of it an arcade of six arches in double tiers: the chapter house, restored in 1867, and entered from a vaulted bay in the south aisle of the presbytery, is a square building with a roof of four bays or divisions, supported by a single round pillar in the centre; the upper story has been rebuilt in an octagonal form, with a conical roof of the same shape, supporting on its apex a small figure of the archangel Gabriel: the stained glass is throughout modern, but some of the windows, especially in the south aisle, where the richly coloured figures are set in a delicate grisaille, are admirable in their effect: the principal monuments are the following:—in the lady chapel an altar tomb with recumbent effigies in alabaster to Christopher Mathew (1500) and his wife (1526); the male figure is in armour and the other has a head-dress of gilt lace; on the sides of the tomb are mutilated figures of "weepers;" there is also a mural brass to Bishop Coplestone (1828-49) and a much worn mitred effigy of Bishop de Brews, who was buried here in 1287; in the presbytery, a sepulchral recess on the south side, dating from about 1200, with the mitred effigy of a bishop in encharistic vestments of the Early Decorated period, has long been regarded as the tomb of St. Teilo: on the north side is the tomb of Bishop Marshall (1478-96), with effigy, mitred and bearing a staff; on the sides of the tomb are escentheons, with emblems of the Passion, and in the arch eastward is the fine monument erected to the late Bishop Ollivant, consisting of a marble effigy in full episcopal robes, executed by H. H. Armstead B.A. placed on a richly-carved Caen stone base, by W. C. Clarke; the whole was executed from the designs of the late Mr. John Pritchard, architect: on the north side of the presbytery is an effigy supposed to represent S. Dubricius, placed in 1857 in a recess said to be the tomb of Bishop Bromfield (1301); here also is an emaciated female figure in a winding sheet; at the east end of this aisle is an altar tomb, with alabaster effigy, to Sir David Mathew, who was standard-bearer to Edward IV. at the battle of Towton, March 20, 1461, and was murdered at Neath by the Turbervilles, with whom he was at variance: in the south aisle of the presbytery is a muffled effigy said to represent Christian, wife of John Lord Audley: on the north side of the nave is a very fine altar-tomb of alabaster, with effigies to Sir William Mathew (1528) and Janet his wife (1530); the knight is fully armed and at his head are figures of a lion and a monk with rosary; the sides of the tomb are adorned with highly wrought niches, containing figures; the effigies on this and the preceding tomb have been attributed by Mr. Wyndham to Cellini: in a mural recess in this aisle is the figure of an unknown bishop, and there is also a memorial to Henry Thomas, of Llwyn Madoc, Brecknockshire, eighteen years chairman of quarter sessions, who died in 1863; another unidentified episcopal effigy lies at the east end of the aisle; recessed in the north wall behind the organ is a recumbent marble effigy of the late Dean Vaughan; above the doorway leading from the presbytery to the south aisle is a life-size bronze statue of Bishop Lewis; the two last named effigies were the work of Sir W. Goscombe John R.A. The colours of the old 1st, now known as the 1st Battalion of the Welsh Regiment, are deposited in Llandaff Cathedral; these colours, removed from Wrexham church, were carried at the Alma and Inkerman, and under them 32 officers and 1,168 men were either killed in action, died of wounds, or invalided; there are now hanging in the Cathedral the colours carried by the regiment in the American, and Burmese, and Afghan campaigns; the extreme length of the cathedral, including the lady chapel, is 245 feet; width, 70 feet, and height, 65 feet; the lady chapel, which was redecorated in 1913, being 54 feet long by 25 feet wide and 36 feet in height: a bell-tower or campanile of the 13th century once stood on the high ground at no great distance from the west front, and some fragments of the lower arches still remain in the precincts and underlying part of the foundations of a cottage opposite the old city cross. The subordinate collegiate buildings had wholly disappeared, when the present deanery and canons' house were built from designs by the late Mr. Ewan Christian, architect to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners: the western part of the cathedral, being considered unsafe, was repaired in 1888-9 at a cost of about £3,000, when the whole of that portion was strengthened and two pillars rebuilt.

The cathedral is also a parish church with registers dating from 1724. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £297, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1878 by the Ven. James Rioa Buckley B.D. of St. David's College, Lampeter, arch-deacon of Llandaff, chaplain to the Bishop of Llandaff, and surrogate.

All Saints' church, Gabalfa road, a chapel of ease to the Cathedral church, built in 1890 and consecrated Jan. 28, 1891, is an edifice of Pontypridd stone, with Bath stone dressings, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, choir, south porch and a south-west turret containing a clock and one bell: the vestries and organ chamber are formed out of the quasi transepts by open screens, with crimson hangings at the back. The east window is a memorial to the late Bishop Lewis and his wife. The two east choir windows are stained: there are 250 sittings.

Here is a Welsh Calvinistic Methodist chapel, built in 1858, with 200 sittings, an English Primitive Methodist chapel, built in 1877, with 150 sittings, and in Belle Vue crescent, a Congregational chapel, built in 1905, seating 150 persons. For other places of worship, see p. 467.

An additional burial ground of 6½ acres was made in 1859, at a cost of £2,000, under the control of the Dean and Chapter, but is now closed by order of the Home Office under certain modifications. The cemetery adjoining the Cathedral church is 8 acres in extent, and is under the control of a burial committee of the Llandaff Parish Council.

Llandaff Fields, about 70 acres in extent, were purchased by the Cardiff Corporation in 1898 from the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for a recreation ground.

The Police Station in Bridge street was erected in 1859. Petty sessions are held here every Monday at 11 a.m.

The Llandaff Working Men's Club and Institute, erected in 1867, supported by members' and other subscriptions, has now over 35 members.

Here is an iron foundry.

The old stone Cross, on Llandaff Green, was restored in 1897, and the venerable remains of the Bishop's Palace, adjacent, give an aspect of antiquity and picturesqueness to the city of Llandaff. The palace, or rather castle, was built by Bishop Urban about the year 1127; he occupied it for a short time only before his death; it then became the residence of successive bishops until the year 1402, when it was destroyed, according to tradition, by Owen Glendower; the ruins consist only of the lower stage of a massive gatehouse, consisting of the entrance gateway, flanked by huge square towers with chamfered angles, and some fragments of walls; the modern palace, called "Bishop's Court," is a substantial mansion with a small domestic chapel of good design; the library is filled with some of the ornamental wood work of the Italian choir erected within the cathedral by Mr. Wood in 1751, and on the staircase is a picture on panel of the "Assumption of the Virgin," which formed part of the episcopal throne erected by Bishop Marshall in 1480; in the garden are the two urns which stood on the western front of Mr. Wood's building.

Baynton House is the residence of William Henry Newton esq. and The Court of Mrs. Insole.

Thomas George Cartwright esq. J.P. is lord of the manor.

The principal landowners are the Marquess of Bute, the Earl of Plymouth G.B.E., P.C., C.B. the Dean and Chapter of Llandaff, the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, Mrs. Insole, T. G. Cartwright esq. J.P. and the Taff Vale Railway Co.

The soil is loam and gravel; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, clover and roots.

By an Order in Council, gazetted August 11, 1911, part of Llandaff ecclesiastical parish, containing 1,265 population at the census of 1911, was taken to form part of the new ecclesiastical parish of St. Luke, Canton.

Parish Clerk, Charles Perry.

Sexton, Ernest Knowles.

ELY is a hamlet attached in 1871 for ecclesiastical purposes to the parish of Caerau, and is 1 mile south-west, with a station on the Cardiff section of the Great Western railway, 158 miles from London. The church of St. David, a chapel of ease to Caerau, built in 1871, is a plain building of local stone, in the Gothic style, and consists of chancel, nave, north porch and a western turret containing one bell: there are 230 sittings. The Rev. David Lewis Marsden B.A. of St. David's, Lampeter, and vicar of Caerau, officiates. A parish room was erected in 1897. Here is a Wesleyan chapel, erected in 1910 at a cost of £3,500, seating 750. Races are held here four times a year: there is a grand stand on the course. Here are two breweries and a jam factory. Llandaff and Dinas Powis Rural District Ely Isolation Hospital was built in 1907 at a cost of £15,000, and will hold 32 patients

PAIRWATER is a hamlet, 1 mile south-west from Llandaff, and a mile north-west from Ely station. In this hamlet is the Cardiff Tuberculosis Hospital, the Welsh National Memorial to King Edward VII. which was opened in July, 1913, and contains 60 beds.

GABALFA, a hamlet, 1½ miles north-east from Llandaff and 2 north from Cardiff, was formed into an ecclesiastical parish in 1876. The church of St. Mark is a building of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch and a western turret, containing two bells: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1876. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £230, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1906 by the Rev. Richard William Evans, of St. Bees. The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1901 was 1,200, and in 1911, 3,207.

Pontcanna, a hamlet adjoining Canton, 1 mile south-east, is included in the postal district of Cardiff.

LLANDDAROG is a parish and village in the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, 3 miles south-by-east from Llanarthney station on the London and North Western railway (Craven Arms to Carmarthen), and 6 east-by-south from Carmarthen, in the hundred of Iscennen, petty sessional division, county court district and union of Carmarthen, and in the rural deanery of Llandilo, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Twrog is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, transept, south porch and tower with a fine spire, containing one bell. The church affords 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1732. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £310, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1919 was repaired in 1885 at a cost of £600, and affords 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1615. The living is a rectory, with that of Pendine annexed, joint net yearly value £131, with 2 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the trustees of the late William Beauclerc Powell esq. and held since 1914 by the Rev. Richard Wilson Phillips M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge, who resides at Pendine. In digging foundations for a house here, in 1841, an urn of rude construction was found, full of earth and containing bones. There is no lord of the manor. Messrs. John W. Harries, David J. Harries and Benjamin J. Harries are the landowners. The soil is red earth; subsoil, rock. The chief crops are barley and oats. The area is 610 acres; assessable value, £588; the population in 1911 was 17.

LLANDEUSANT is a parish in the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, on the river Sawdde, and on the road between Llangadock and Trecastle, 8 miles east-by-south from Llangadock (or 7 by mountain roads), 9 miles south-west from Treacastle, the nearest railway station being at Llangadock on the Lanelly and Llandoverly branch of the London and North Western and Great Western joint railway. It is in the hundred of Perwedd, petty sessional division of Llangadock, union and county court district of Llandovery, and in the rural deanery of Llangadock, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's.
 The church of SS. Simon and Jude is an Early English building of stone, consisting of chancel, transept, nave, north aisle, porch and a belfry containing one bell: it was restored in 1886 at a cost of £1,100, and affords about 300 sittings. The registers date from the year 1784; the earlier registers are said to have been partially destroyed by fire. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £150, with 2 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and has been held since 1012 by the Rev. David Evans L.Div. of St.

 David's college, Lampeter. There are two Methodist chapels. In the eastern portion of the parish, at the foot of the highest spur of the Black Mountains, is a clear lake about a quarter of a mile long, and abounding in trout and eels. J. G. Moore-Gwyn esq. is the principal landowner. The area is 15,171 acres of land and 59 of water; rateable value, £4,655; the population in 1911 was 485.

LLANDEW is a parish and village on the river Honddu, 12 miles north-east from Brecon station, on the Midland and Brecon and Merthyr railways, in the county of Brecknock, Merthyr hundred, petty sessional division of Merthyr, county court district of Brecon and union of Brecknock, and in the rural deanery of Brecon (first part), archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's.
 The church of St. David is a remarkable cruciform building of stone in the Early English Lancet style, of which it is a very early and highly interesting example, and may also be described as a miniature reproduction of the priory church of Brecon, though even plainer in the severity of its architectural character: it consists of chancel, transepts, nave, aisles and a low central tower with pyramidal roof, containing 2 bells: the transepts are walled off from the crossing, and entered by low open arches: all the windows are narrow lancets, those at the east end forming a triplet: the chancel, transepts and tower were restored in 1894, at a cost of £1,121, and in 1900 the nave, which had long been disused, was also restored, at a cost of about £500, and affords 150 sittings: the churchyard is spacious, and has a lych gate at the entrance. The register dates from the year 1709. The living is a vicarage, net income £200, with 9 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Archdeacon of Brecon, and held since 1908

 by the Rev. Richard Meredith Jenkins, of Queen's College, Birmingham. There is a Welsh Methodist chapel.
 In the road north-east of the church, and by the wall of the vicarage grounds, is a well or spring. The manor is attached to the Bishopric of St. David's, and there was once a castellated mansion here, of which some traces remain in the vicarage grounds. The principal landowners are Lord Tredegar, Sir John Talbot Dillwyn-Llewellyn bart. and David Jones esq. The soil is stiff marl; crops, wheat, barley and oats. The area is 2,601 acres; rateable value, £2,812; the population in 1911 was 204.

LLANDEWI (or Llandewy) is a parish and village in the county of Glamorgan, on the high road from Swansea towards the Worms Head, 10½ miles west from Killoy station on the Swansea and Gowerton section of the London and North Western railway, 14½ west from Swansea, and 28½ from London, in the Gower division of the county, Swansea hundred and county court district, Gower union and petty sessional division, and in the rural deanery of West Gower, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. David is a building of stone in the Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western tower with saddle-back roof, containing one bell: the church was restored in 1879 by the late C. R. M. Talbot esq. M.P. and again in 1905 by Miss Talbot, of Penrice Park, his daughter, and affords 109 sittings. The registers date from the year 1718. The living is a vicarage, with the rectory of Knelston annexed, joint net income £150, including the glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1914 by the Rev. Harry Winn Heavisdie B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. Llandewi Castle, now a farm house, was for centuries one of the residences of the bishops of St. David's. Lady Blythwood is lady of the manor. The soil is loam; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and roots. The area is 2,010 acres; rateable value, £1,266; the population in 1911 was 120 in the civil parish and 192 in the ecclesiastical parish (which includes Knelston). LLANDEWI ABERARTH UPPER is a parish including a village called ABERARTH. The parish is in the county of Cardigan, and near the mouth of the river Arth, which here falls into Cardigan Bay. Under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894," the parish was reconstituted from that part of the ancient civil parish not included in Aberayron Urban District: it is 1 mile north-east from Aberayron station on the Lampeter and Aberayron branch of the Great Western railway, 14 miles from Lampeter and 23 from Cardigan; it is in the Lower Iar hundred, union, county court district and petty sessional division of Aberayron, rural deanery of Glyn Aëron, archdeaconry of Cardigan and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. David is a building of stone, in the Gothic style of the 13th century, consisting of chancel, nave and an embattled western tower containing one bell: there are 300 sittings. The registers date from the year 1737; and include those of the chapelry of St. Alban.

The living is a vicarage, with the chapelry of St. Alban Tyglyn, net income £285, with glebe (£5), and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1919 by the Rev. John Thomas B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, who resides at Llandewi vicarage, Aberayron. There is a Calvinistic Methodist chapel. Lieut.-Commander Alban Lewis Gayne R.N., C.B. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is loamy; subsoil, gravel and slate. The chief crops are barley, wheat and oats. The area is 3,909 acres of land, 15 of water and 117 of foreshore; assessable value, £1,529; population in 1911, 512 in the civil parish and 462 in the ecclesiastical parish. Post & M. O. LLANDEWI ABERGWESSIN is a parish and village in one of the wildest parts of the county of Brecon, on the river Gwessin, from which it takes its name, and near the confluence of that stream with the river Iwron, 14 miles west from Builth station on the Cambrian railway, and 3½ miles north-east from Swansea, Builth hundred, union and county court district, Llanwrtyd petty sessional division, rural deanery of Builth, archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. David, formerly attached to Llanavon Pwyr, was pulled down in 1886. The register dates from the year 1738. The living, with Llanfihangel Abergwessin, is a vicarage, joint net yearly income £200, with 10 acres of glebe, and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1914 by the Rev. William Jones B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, who resides at Llanfihangel Abergwessin. The inhabitants are chiefly employed in sheep farming. Cornelius Powell esq. and J. J. Hope esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is various: subsoil, gravel and rock. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots. The area is 10,510 acres of land and 27 of water; rateable value, £597; the population in 1911 was 50. Llanwrtyd is the nearest Post, M. O. & T. Office, about 5 miles distant. LLANDEWI BREFFI is a village on the river Breff, and a parish in the county of Cardigan, 1 mile east-by-south from Pont Llanio station, and 3½ south from Tregaron station, both on the Great Western railway, in the hundred and petty sessional division of Penarth, county court district of Lampeter, union of Tregaron, and in the rural deanery of Ultra Aëron, archdeaconry of Cardigan, and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. David, founded as a collegiate church in 1287, by Thomas Becke, then bishop of St. David's, is an ancient building of stone, originally cruciform, but now consisting only of a chancel, nave, west porch, and a central embattled tower, containing one bell. The church was repaired in 1874 at a cost of £530, and affords 400 sittings. The registers date from the year 1765. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelry of Llanbadarn Odwyn annexed, net yearly value £200, including 450 acres of glebe, in the gift of and held since 1801 by the Rev. Thomas Davies B.D. of St. David's College, Lampeter, and surrogate. There is a Calvinistic Methodist chapel, with 800 sittings, and a Congregational chapel, built in 1903, with 250 sittings. A cemetery of 2 acres was formed in 1894 for the parish, at a cost of £200; it is under the control of a Burial Board Committee of the various sections of the parish. In the parish are stone quarries, and traces of lead mines also exist. The late Thomas D. Jones esq. of Waen-fawr, bequeathed £100 per annum to the parish. The College, founded here in 1287 by Bishop Becke, contained, at its dissolution, a precentor and 12 canons; the remains of the buildings stand close to the village on the south. The Bishop of St. David's is lord of the manor. Wilmot Inglis-Jones esq. D.L., J.P. is the principal landowner. The soil is gravel; chief crops, barley and oats. The area and rateable value are comprised under the different townships, which are shown below; the population of the parish in 1911 was 1,718.

LLANDEBIE (or Llandybie) is a populous parish in the eastern division of the county of Carmarthen, on the road from Llandilo-Fawr to Llanelli and Swansea, with a station on the Llanelly and Llandovery branch of the Great Western railway, 5 miles south from Llandilo, and 14 east from Carmarthen, in the hundred of Iscennen, petty sessional division and county court district of Llandilo, union of Llandilo-Fawr, rural deanery of Llandilo, archdeaconry of Carmarthen, and diocese of St. David's. The village is lighted by electricity from Llandebie and District works. The church of St. Tybie, restored in 1892, is an ancient building, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, north and south porches, and an embattled tower, containing 3 bells. There are 400 sittings; the register dates from 1695. The living is a vicarage, net income £300, with 1 acre of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1912 by the Rev. David William Thomas M.A. of Jesus College, Oxford. There is a Baptist chapel near Derwydd, seating 250. There is a Congregational chapel in the village, erected in 1895, with 300 sittings, and also Wesleyan Methodist, Calvinistic Methodist and Baptist chapels. At Penygroes there is a Congregational chapel, built in 1825, seating 500, and there are also Calvinistic Methodist and Baptist chapels. Saron Baptist chapel, erected in 1814, has 500 sittings. In the parish are tinplate works and collieries, and mining and lime quarrying and burning are also carried on. Human remains were discovered in 1813 in a cave on Dinas Hill in this parish. Derwydd, or more fully Y Derwydd, Iscennen, stands in a park of about 50 acres, and is the seat of Alan Stepney Stepney-Gulston esq. D.L., J.P.; it was pronounced by the Cambrian Archaeological Society in their 1892 visitation to be the oldest inhabited house in Carmarthenshire, dating probably from the latter half of the 12th century (1156). Glynhir is the seat of Arthur Edmund Du Buisson esq. J.P. The trustees of Lord Cawdor (who is a minor) are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are Lord Dynevor, Lady Howard, A. E. Du Buisson esq., A. S. Stepney-Gulston esq. and W. N. Jones esq. The land is chiefly under pasture. The area is 10,120 acres of land and 80 of water; rateable value, £24,296; the population in 1911 was 6,771 in the civil parish.

By Local Government Board Order No. 44,159, which came into operation April 1st, 1903, part of Llandebie was taken to form the Ammanford civil parish and Urban District, full particulars of which will be found at p. 85.

The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 5,607.

LLANDEFELIOG is a parish, in the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, on the Gwenddwrth river, 3 miles north-east from Ferryside railway station, 3½ north from Kidwelly, and 5½ south from Carmarthen, hundred of Kidwelly, Carmarthen union, county court district and petty sessional division, and in the rural deanery of Kidwelly, archdeaconry of Carmarthen, and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Maelog is an ancient building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel with north aisle, nave, transepts, south porch, and a western turret containing 3 bells: there are 250 sittings. The registers date from the year 1695. The living is a vicarage, with the chapel of Cwmfrwd annexed, net yearly value £210, with residence, in the gift of Mrs. Lowry, of Lee-on-the-Solent, and held since 1919 by the Rev. John Jones Davies. The mission church of St. Ann, at Cwmfrwd, about 3½ miles north, is a small building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, north transept, south porch, and a western turret containing one bell: it will seat 120. There are also Welsh

Congregational, Welsh Calvinistic Methodist and Welsh Independent chapels, and a Welsh Baptist chapel at Idole, erected in 1900, with 180 sittings. Mansel's charity produces £3 yearly, £1 of which is devoted to educational purposes by the County education authorities, and the remainder is distributed to the poor on Easter Monday. There is also a charity connected with the Congregational chapel at Penygraig, amounting to £5 yearly. Upland is the seat of Arthur O. Davies esq. J.P.; Gelli-Deg, of Lieut.-Col. Edward Charles Jennings J.P. and Glan Rhyd, of Mrs. Rudman-Saunders. The trustees of Earl Cawdor, who is a minor, are lords of the manor; the principal landowners are A. O. Davies esq., Augustus Brigstocke esq., Lieut.-Col. E. C. Jennings and Mrs. Rudman-Saunders. The soil is loam; subsoil, red sandstone; the chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and roots, the soil being well suited for the cultivation of all kinds of roots. The area is 8,609 acres of land, 13 of inland, 99 of tidal water and 17 of foreshore; rateable value, £11,368; and the population in 1911 was 1,019 in the civil parish and 993 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By Local Government Board Order, No. 32,498, dated Oct. 1, 1895, part of Kidwelly St. Mary civil parish was added to Llandefeilog.

Norman door and several monuments: the church was entirely rebuilt in 1890 at a cost of £1,000, and affords 144 sittings. The registers date from the year 1732. The living is a vicarage, annexed to that of Llanfihangel Rhydythion, joint net yearly value £240, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1902 by the Rev. Frederick Owen Thomas M.A. of Jesus College, Oxford, who resides at Llanfihangel Rhydythion. A sum of £2 10s. is distributed annually to the poor. There are Calvinistic Methodist and Primitive Methodist chapels. An entrenched camp called the "Gaer," supposed to have been occupied by Cadwallader in the 8th century, stands on a hill in this parish, and there is another at Castell-cwm-Aran. Sir Frederick Richard Powlett Milbank bart. is lord of the manor, and Lord Ormathwaite is the principal landowner. Soil is clay. Principal crops are oats and turnips, and much land under pasture. The area comprises 7,905 acres, of which 39 are water; rateable value, £4,189; the population in 1911 was 378.

LLANDILO, LLANDILO-FAWR and LLANDYFEISANT.

LLANDILO is a town in the parish of Llandilo-Fawr, on the road from Brecon to Carmarthen, and on the north bank of the river Towy, and with stations on the Great Western and London and North Western railways; it is 230 miles from London, 33 west from Brecon, 69 north-west from Cardiff, 15 north-east from Carmarthen and 2½ north from Swansea, 19½ from Llanelly, 91 from Bristol, 23 from Neath, and 12 from Llandovery; Llandilo is head of a petty sessional division, union and county court district. In the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, hundred of Cayo, Iskenmen and Perfedd, rural deanery of Llandilo, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. Under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894" (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73) the ancient parish of Llandilo Fawr has been divided into Urban and Rural, the former being the Urban District area, and the latter the remainder of the old parish. The "Local Government Act of 1895" (21 and 22 Vict. c. 98), was adopted by a part of the parish (known as The Villa, Llandilo), April 29, 1895, and it continued to be governed by a Local Board of 9 members until the "Local Government Act, 1894," established the present Urban District Council of 15 members: the town is lighted with electricity from works the property of the Urban District Council, and supplied with water from a spring at Llandyan, and capable of supplying 60,000 inhabitants; it is under the control of the Urban Council. The bridge across the Towy, erected in 1848, consists of a single arch, having a span of 145 feet, the height being 4½ feet; the entire length of the bridge is 365 feet, and the total cost was over £22,000. A good view is obtained from the bridge in both directions. The parish church of St. Teilo, Llandilo-Fawr, is an edifice of stone, mostly in the Decorated style, and consists of nave, north aisle, south transept, and an embattled tower of Perpendicular date; the tower was thoroughly restored in 1883, a portion of the upper stage being taken down and rebuilt, and the interior thoroughly renovated: the clock, presented by the late David Pugh esq. M.P. of Manoravon, and erected in 1887, strikes the quarters and hours on three new bells, provided at a cost of nearly £600; there are now 6 bells: in the church are memorial windows to Edward Robert Wood esq. d. Sept. 27, 1876; John Lewes Thomas J.P. of Caeglas, d. Oct. 5, 1875, and to David Prothero M.D. d. 1860: the church was rebuilt during the period 1848-51, under the direction of the late Sir G. Gilbert Scott kt. at a cost of about £4,724, and was thoroughly restored in 1904-5 at a cost of £2,500; there are 700 sittings, of which 350 are free. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1720; marriages, 1683; burials, 1679. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £250, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1903 by the Ven. Robert Williams M.A. of Merton College, Oxford, who is also vicar of Llandyfeisant, Archdeacon of Carmarthen, rural dean of Llandilo, examining chaplain to the Bishop of St. David's and surrogate. The chapel of ease at LLANDYFAN, is a stone building in the Early English style, consisting of chancel and nave, and built at the sole expense of a former Dowager Lady Dynevor and Mrs. Du Buisson; in 1891 the belfry was restored and other improvements made, at the cost of W. Du Buisson esq. J.P. of Glynhir: there are sittings for 200. In the chapel grounds is a remarkably full stream of water issuing out of a rock,

Public Elementary School (mixed), built in 1859, for 80 children; Albert Robert Lane, master and discharging 1,250,000 gallons per day, and which now supplies the town with water; it was formerly regarded as a "holy well," possessing curative qualities, to which in ancient times, and even so recently as the year 1843, many persons suffering from paralytic affections, and other disorders were accustomed to resort. The chapel of ease of St. John, MAESTELLO, built in 1903 by the Misses Mansel, of Maestello, has sittings for 200. Ebenezer Baptist chapel, in Ebenezer street, is a stone building, erected in 1829, and rebuilt in 1878, at a cost of £900, and will seat 450. The Calvinistic Methodist chapel, in New road, is a building of stone in the Romanesque style, erected in 1874, and has sittings for 600. The Congregational chapel, Ffairfach, is a large structure of stone and plaster, built in 1860, and will seat 700. There is a Congregational chapel at Capel Isaac, founded in 1650, which has 367 sittings; one at Penybanc, erected in 1833, seating 250 persons, and another in Crescent road, built in 1900, with 600 sittings. The Public Hall and Literary Institute, formerly a Calvinistic Methodist chapel, acquired for its present purpose in September, 1892, at a cost of upwards of £450, was remodelled in 1909; the library comprises about 1,800 volumes, and there are reading and billiard rooms. J. W. Nicholas esq. in 1894, presented the committee with books to the value of £100. The principal hotels are the "Cawdor Arms" and the "Castle." The Victoria Jubilee Memorial Drill Hall, in Crescent road, erected in 1887 at a cost of £1,000, is a substantial edifice of stone, comprising an armoury, magazine, and office for the sergeant-instructor, and a reading room for the volunteers, and is also let for entertainments and public meetings. There are five branch banks, viz.: Lloyds Bank Limited, also the Capital and Counties branch of Lloyds Bank Limited, Barclays Bank Ltd. the National Provincial and Union Bank of England Limited, and the London Joint City and Midland Bank Limited; there is also a Savings Bank, established in 1817. The principal trade is in corn and flour, but there are also two small tanneries, timber and saw mills and a cheese manufactory. The general market is on Saturday, and there is a market for fat and store cattle, sheep and pigs every Monday, and for fat and store cattle, fat and store sheep and lambs every Tuesday between the 2nd Tuesday in May and the last Tuesday in June. Fairs are held February 20th, the Monday before Easter for cattle, pigs, flannels &c. May 5th and 14th, June 21st, July 28th, August 23rd, September 25th, October 28th, November 12th and 22nd, for horses, horned cattle &c. and the Monday before Christmas Day, for horses, horned cattle, pigs and Welsh flannels; all cattle and horse fairs followed next day by a pig fair. When the dates fall on a Sunday, the fair is held on the following Monday. A golf club was established in 1909, and a nine hole course has been laid out about half a mile north-east of the town; there are about 100 members. Dynevor Castle, the seat of Lord Dynevor D.L., J.P. a large and handsome quadrangular building, was erected in 1600, and improved and enlarged in 1858; it contains, amongst other objects of interest, two curiously decorated oak chairs, said to have been used by Sir Rhys ap Thomas; the park of 700 acres, studded with magnificent Spanish chestnuts and sturdy oaks, incloses on the south-west the ruins of the old castle, comprising portions of the towers with their apartments and stairways; from the top of the old castle may be seen Golden Grove, the seat of the Dowager Countess Cawdor, the ruins of Dryslwyn Castle, Grongar Hill and Nelson's Tower. Tregib is the residence of Capt. Henry Erasmus Edward Philipps D.L., J.P.; Taliaris Park, the seat of Humphrey Lee Peel esq. stands in a park of 150 acres; Glanbrydan Park is the seat of Owen Lewis Harries esq. About 4 miles from the town is the source of the river Lwchwr and its wonderful cave, from which an immense quantity of water flows at all times of the year, and which undoubtedly is one of the most wonderful stream sources in the country; many opinions are held as to the correct source, but the prevailing conjecture is that the water flows through a subterranean passage from the Carmarthenshire Van, about 10 miles distant. On the banks of the Lwchwr, and not far from the cave, are the remains of the oldest iron works in Wales, known as "The Forge." The neighbourhood is historically interesting as being the scene of a battle fought in 1282 between Edward I. and Llewelyn the Great, in which the royal army, commanded by the Earl of Gloucester and Sir Edmund Mortimer, achieved a decisive victory. Some 4 miles south of Llandilo is the very remarkable ruined castle of Carreg Cennan, easily reached from Derwydd Road station, and which is the most remarkable of the feudal remains in the country. The principal landowners are the trustees of Earl Cawdor (who is a minor), Lord Dynevor, Owen Lewis Harries esq., Mervyn Lloyd Peel esq., and Charles William Mansel Lewis esq., and there are a number of smaller owners. The soil is loam; subsoil, rock. The chief crops are grass, wheat, barley and oats. The area of the Urban parish and district is 304 acres; rateable value, £7,803; the population in 1911 was 1,931. The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 4,035.

By Local Government Board Order No. 57,596, which came into operation April 1st, 1912, part of Llandilo-Fawr Rural parish was taken to form the new civil parish and Urban District of Cwmaman.

The area of Llandilo Rural civil parish as reduced is 26,500 acres; rateable value, £25,450; population in 1911, 4,470.

MANORDILO is an ecclesiastical parish formed in 1905. The church of St. Paul, at Caledfwich (which is of historic interest on account of the fact of its having been built by Roman Catholics), was formerly a chapel of ease, and is a cruciform building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, north and south transepts, vestry and organ chamber; in 1888-90, through the munificence of the late John Crow Richard-son esq. J.P. of Glanbrydan Park, the chapel was enlarged and greatly improved, at a cost of nearly £1,400; the west window, erected in 1904, is to his memory; the east window is a memorial to Lieut. Alfd. Jn Richardson, 5th Dragoon Guards, who suddenly died when on duty with his regiment at Umballa, in India, in 1887; there is also a memorial window to the late Captain Lewis J.P. and Mrs. Mirehouse, of Capel Issa; the church contains a carved screen and a reredos; on the north and south walls are two paintings, copies of Murillo's "Annunciation" and the "Holy Family;" the church affords 300 sittings; the churchyard, in which burials had previously taken place, was consecrated by the Lord Bishop of St. David's, Oct. 16, 1888. The registers of baptisms and marriages date from 1865. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £244, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1905 by the Rev. Evan Thompson Jenkyns B.A., LL.B. of the Royal University of Ireland. The population in 1911 was 490. Here is a school belonging to the Church Orphanage Corporation, and providing for 17 girls.

LLANDYFEISANT is a parish half a mile west from Llandilo, bounded on the south and west by the river Towy, in the hundreds of Cayo, Iskennen and Perfedd, union and county court district of Llandilo-Fawr, rural deanery of Llandilo, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Tywi, delightfully situated in Dynevor Park, is an edifice of stone, in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, western porch with bell turret above containing 2 bells: in 1877 it underwent a thorough renovation, at a cost of £1,860, when it was recreated; in 1899 a new vestry was added, and the bell turret re-erected at the sole expense of the 6th Lord Dynevor (d. 1911); there are 200 sittings: in the early part of this century the foundations of some Roman walls were discovered in the churchyard, and it is conjectured that the church was built on the ruins of a Roman temple. The register dates from the year 1755. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £140, including glebe, in the gift of Lord Dynevor, and held since 1903 by the Ven. Robert Williams M.A. who is also vicar of Llandilo-Fawr, Archdeacon of Carmarthen, rural dean of Llandilo, exsuoiling chaplain to the Bishop of St. David's and surrogate. Lord Dynevor and Miss Williams are the principal landowners. The soil is rich loam; subsoil, rock. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats and pasture land. The area is 935 acres of land and 36 of water; rateable value, £1,466; population in 1911, 148. Letters through Llandilo, which is the nearest money order & telegraph office

LLANDISSILIO GOGO, see Llandysilio Gogo.

LLANDOUGH, formerly a civil parish, was in 1902 known as Penarth. Full particulars are given with with Cogan and Penarth formed into a civil parish. Penarth.

LLANDOUGH, near Cowbridge, formerly a civil parish, now forms part of the civil parish of Llanfair, under which place full particulars are given.

LLANDOVERY and LLANDINGAT.

LLANDOVERY is a municipal borough, market town and township, and head of a union and county court district, on the river Towy, at the confluence of the rivers Gwytherig and Bran, the latter joining the Towy about 1 mile below the town, with a station on the Great Western and London and North Western Joint railway, 212 miles by rail from London, 80 north-west from Cardiff, 50 west from Brecon, 36 north from Swansea, 86 south-east from Aberystwith and 26 north-east from Carmarthen by railway, is the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, civil parish of Llandingat, hundred of Perfedd, and rural deanery of Llangadock, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The town received a charter in 1484 from Richard III. afterwards confirmed by Queen Elizabeth, but on the passing of the "Municipal Corporations Act, 1835" (5 and 6 Wm. IV. c. 76) the Corporation was remodelled, and now consists of a mayor, 4 aldermen and 12 councillors. The town is partly paved and lighted with gas by a company formed in 1862, and is supplied with water from works at Coynant about 7 miles east of the town, the property of the Corporation. The church of St. Mary, about half a mile north of the town on a site of a Roman camp, was formerly the parish church for Llanfair-ar-y-Bryn, but that parish having been formed into a separate ecclesiastical district and a new church built, this church now serves as a chapel of ease to the parish church of Llandingat; it is a plain building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and an embattled tower at the west end, containing 2 bells; the tower was restored in 1907; there are 330 sittings. On the north side of the churchyard stands a handsome and massive granite monument erected in 1887 at a cost of £400, raised by public subscription, to the memory of Rev. William Williams, a celebrated Welsh hymn writer, who died in 1792. The Williams Pantycelyn Memorial chapel (Calvinistic Methodist) is a building of stone in the Gothic style, erected in 1887 at a cost of £3,200, and will seat 300. Salem Congregational chapel, founded in 1797, has 640 sittings. Ebenezer Baptist chapel, erected in 1844, will seat 450. The Town Hall, standing in the centre of the town, was erected in 1857, and is a substantial edifice of stone; the basement is used as a corn market, and also partly appropriated for police cells; above are the county court office, the judge's room and the offices of the town clerk, as well as a large room in which the petty sessions and guardians' meetings are held. The Municipal insignia consist only of a corporate seal, which is circular and of modern date, and bears the triple feather badge of the Prince of Wales. The meat market house adjoins. The chief business of the town consists in supplying the agricultural district around with household commodities, and there is a small brewery. Here are three banks, viz.: branches of Lloyds Bank Limited, of the National Provincial and Union Bank of England Limited and Barclays Bank Limited. The weekly market is held on Fridays. Fairs for horses and cattle are held here monthly on January 16th, February 16th, March 24th, April 17th, May 15th, June 19th, July 8th, August 10th, September 8th, October 22nd, November 16th and December 15th; any of the above days falling on a Sunday, the fair is held on the following Monday, except the fair fixed for the 8th of July, which will in such event be held on the next preceding Saturday; if April 17th is Good Friday the fair is held on the 16th; on the 18th if the 17th is Easter Monday and on the 19th if the 17th is Easter Sunday; the day following each of the above (except the 16th of February and the 8th of July) is for the sale of sheep and pigs. On the south side of the town, crowning a small eminence on the west bank of the river Bran, are the remains of the castle, now but a fragment, and covered with ivy. The area of the municipal borough (which comprises the civil parish of Llandingat Within) is 1,240 acres of land and 26 of water; rateable value, £7,601; the population in 1911 was 1,993, which includes 3 officials and 15 inmates in the Poor Law Institution.

LLANDINGAT is the parish, and includes the town of Llandovery. Under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894," the ancient civil parish of Llandingat was divided into two parishes, Within and Without, the area of the former being co-extensive with the municipal borough of Llandovery. The church of St. Dingat is a plain edifice of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, north porch and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells; the church was restored in 1882 at a cost of £582, and again in 1905 at a cost of £2,591; the tower was repaired in 1900 at a cost of £650; the church affords 500 sittings. The register dates from the year 1733. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £250, with residence and 17 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1911 by the Rev. David Edmondson Owen B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The vicarage house was rebuilt in 1913. Llwyn-y-Brain is the seat of John Carbery Pugh Vaughan-Pryse-Rice esq. D.L., J.P. The trustees of Earl Cawdor, who is a minor, are lords of the manor. J. C. P. Vaughan-Pryse-Rice esq. Ivor Elystan Campbell-Davys esq. J.P. and the trustees of the late J. P. W. Gwynne-Holford are the principal landowners. The soil is various; subsoil, clay, rab and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and green crops and a large area of woodland.

The area of Llandingat Without civil parish is 6,846 acres of land and 108 of water; rateable value, £3,472; population in 1911, 474.

Telych, 2 miles east; Forest, 3 north, and Ystrad, 2 south, are hamlets.

In 1886 a system of drainage was carried out, at a cost of £7,000. The town is well supplied with drinking water from a pure spring which flows out of a huge mass of trap rock on a neighbouring hill near Llanfawr Quarry, and is lighted by electricity from works built in 1897, and the property of a company.

Under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894" (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73) the ancient civil parish of Llandrindod has been divided into two, Urban and Rural, the former consisting of the Urban area.

The wells or springs of mineral water, for which this place is famous, are known to have been in use for medicinal purposes for at least 200 years; Dr. Wessel Linden, an eminent German physician, who visited the place in 1754, subsequently wrote a treatise on the waters, in which he described the place as "the Montpellier of Great Britain," and says of the springs: "I have seen and tried several medicinal waters in various parts of Europe, and have read of many more, but as yet I have not met with any of the same kind that surpass those at Llandrindod." Not many years since this place was a barren common, but the efficacy of its waters, the mildness and unquestionable salubrity of its climate, and its position in an open country surrounded in the distance by mountain scenery, have procured for it an ever-increasing popularity, and the number of visitors now amounts to about 75,000 a year. It has been found very useful as a place of residence for those suffering from incipient lung disease, as well as for others whose constitutions have been tried by residing in tropical climates, being completely sheltered from the east winds by the high range of hills called Radnor Forest, well known for the famous breed of sheep reared on them. The waters and baths are considered to be particularly efficacious in cases of liver complaint, dyspepsia, gout, rheumatic gout, rheumatism, calculus, kidney diseases and general debility. Completely fitted bath rooms are attached to the pump rooms, and revolving shelters are placed in all parts of the town.

The following analysis of the mineral waters was made by Horace Swete M.D., F.C.S. of Worcester.

Report by Professor Wanklyn, 1889, of the sulphuretted spring in the Old Pump Room.

Llandrindod sulphur water contains a little more than one volume of sulphuretted hydrogen gas, and the extreme sensitiveness of the water to the action of atmospheric air was noted; whilst the water will keep for any length of time if in bottles quite full and properly closed, it loses its virtues if exposed to the air.

The specific gravity of the water is 1.00522. One gallon contains:

Carbonate of Lime.....	73 grains
Sulphate of Lime.....	1'0 "
Chloride of Calcium.....	47'2 "
Chloride of Magnesium.....	5'6 "
Chloride of Sodium.....	235'9 "

In 1893 two mineral springs were discovered by Mr. Thomas Heighway in the park, and of these careful analyses were made in 1894 and 1896, by Dr. Horace Swete F.C.S. public analyst for the counties of Worcester and Radnor, and Mr. Raymond Ross, of the Society of Public Analysts, at the Laboratories, Shrub Hill, Worcester. The analysts reported these waters to be very similar to those previously examined by Dr. Swete, but that both of them, while possessing the same constituents, are very much stronger as regards those matters likely to produce a beneficial effect when taken as medicine and they append the following analyses:—

An examination of the residue from 10 gallons of water shows the presence of a radio-active body, which I have no doubt is radium.

(Signed) George Embrey F.I.C., F.C.S.

Public Analyst for the City & County of Gloucester.

Mr. Thomas Heighway, who spent much time in investigations of the waters of the neighbourhood in 1905, discovered a very important water in the park.

A sample of this water was sent to Mr. George Embrey, F.C.S. public analyst for the city and county of Gloucester, in January, 1906, who reported that he found, amongst other ingredients, over ten grains of lithium and thallium in the gallon.

This, we believe, is the strongest water in Europe in lithium salts, and cannot but have a beneficial effect in gout and rheumatism, and fully accounts for the vast improvement in gouty cases derived from a course of this water.

The principal hotels are the Gwalia, the Metropole, the Highland Moors, the Pump House and the Rock.

Beautiful views of the surrounding country are afforded from the summit of "Little Hill," an eminence easy of ascent, and near here are the ruins of Abbey Cwmhir, the scenery of the Wye, Cefnlllys Castle, and a remarkable cascade, known as "Water-break-its-neck"; there are also in the immediate neighbourhood various remains of antiquity, such as Druidical circles, tumuli, Roman roads and encampments.

A recreation ground of 4 acres in extent is contiguous to the Park grounds, and was opened in 1900. In 1912 a pavilion was erected in these grounds at a cost of £7,000, and will seat 1,500 people.

The church of the Holy Trinity is a building in the Decorated style, erected in 1871, at a cost of £2,457, exclusive of internal fittings, the principal donor being E. Middleton Evans esq. who also gave the site; it consists at present of chancel, nave and aisles, and will seat about 500 persons: in 1897 it was enlarged and extended westward, at a cost of £1,300, and in 1903 a north aisle was built as a memorial to E. Middleton Evans esq. at a cost of £3,300, with accommodation now for 1,000 persons. In 1909 an eastern extension was built, at a cost of £4,400. The old parish church of Llandrindod, situate on an eminence 1 mile south-west, has also been restored at a cost of £800. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1734; marriages, 1757. The living is a rectory, with that of Cefnlllys annexed, net income £265, with 40 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1895 by the Rev. Richard William Frederick Singers-Davies, rural dean of Melineth-ultra-Ithon and surrogate and canon (2nd curial) of St. David's.

For other places of worship, see pp. 495 and 496.

The cemetery, at the junction of Ithon and Brookland roads, and about 2 acres in extent, was formed in 1894, at a cost of £900; it is under the control of the Urban District Council of 12 members acting as the burial board.

The County buildings, in High street, were erected in 1909. The meetings of the County Council and the sittings of the county and petty sessions courts are held here.

A Public Library was erected in 1911 at a cost of £1,600, provided by the late Andrew Carnegie esq. of Skibo Castle, N.B.

The Albert Hall, erected in 1898, is a large structure of red brick, capable of seating 1,000 persons, and is let for concerts &c.

The Victoria Hall, erected in 1897, is used for public meetings, theatrical entertainments and as a cinematograph theatre, and will seat 400 persons.

Here are three banks, Lloyds Bank Limited, Barclays Bank Ltd. and the London Joint City and Midland Bank Limited.

One newspaper, "The Radnorshire Standard and Central Wales News," is published here every Saturday; Radnorshire Standard Co. Ltd. proprietors and publishers.

The Llandrindod Wells Hospital and Convalescent Home, established in 1880, and enlarged in 1883 by the addition of a second wing, has beds available for twenty-two patients; the number of patients in 1912 was 297.

The trustees of the late Edward Middleton Evans esq. J.P. are the chief landowners, and Mr. James Miller Gibson-Watt J.P. is lord of the manor.

The area and rateable value of Llandrindod Wells Urban District is, Llandrindod Urban, 398 acres of land and 18 of water; rateable value, £11,470; Cefnlllys Urban, 1,093 acres, inclusive of 14 of inland water; rateable value, £17,533. The population in 1911 was, of the former, 730; of the latter, 2,049.

The population of the Wards in 1911 was:—East, 661; North, 849; South, 730; West, 539.

The area of the Llandrindod Rural parish is 2,311 acres of land and 10 of water; rateable value, £1,812; the population in 1911 was 283.

CEFNLLYS (pronounced Kaven-leece) has, under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894," been formed into two parishes, comprising the portions inside

LLANDULAS is a parish and village in the county of Brecon, and on the border of Carmarthenshire, in a mountainous district, and on the river Dulas, from which its name is derived. The road from Builth to Llanfowey passes near the village, 4 miles south from Llanwrtyd, and 48 north-east from Swansea, in the Builth hundred, Builth union and county court district. Llanwrtyd petty sessional division, and in the rural deanery of Builth, archdeaconry of Brecon, and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Mary is a building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, north porch, and a belfry containing one bell. The church was repaired in 1871, at a cost of £200, and affords 90 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1729, and marriages from 1785. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £54, in the gift of Viscount

St. Davids Viscount P.C. Tir Abad; S & 3 Richmond terrace, Whitehall S W 1; & National Liberal S W 1; Devonshire S W 1; Reform S W 1; & Wellington clubs S W 1, London FARMERS.

LLANDYSILIO EAST and WEST, see Llandissilio East and West.

LLANDYSILIOGOGO is a parish in the county of Cardigan, pleasantly situated on the shores of Cardigan Bay, $\frac{3}{4}$ miles south-west from New Quay, 10 south-west from Aberayron, 12 north-west from Llandysilio station, and about the same distance from Newcastle Emlyn terminal station, both on the branch from Pencader junction of the Great Western railway, and 282 from London. The parish includes the village of Llywyndafydd and the hamlets of Nanterius, Penbont and part of Talgareg, and is in Moyddyn hundred, Aberayron union, county court district and petty sessional division, and in the rural deanery of Glyn Aeron, archdeaconry of Cardigan and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Tysilio is a building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, transept, north porch and a tower containing 1 bell: the church was restored in 1890, and affords 200 sittings. The registers date from the year 1765. The living is a vicarage, net income £200, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1910 by the Rev. John Morgans B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The Mission church of St. Mark, situated near the middle of the parish, on the Cardigan road, is a building of stone and consists of chancel, nave and a turret containing one bell. Here is also a Mission hall, built in 1908. There are Baptist, Calvinistic Methodist, Independent and Unitarian chapels. Henry, Earl of Richmond (afterwards Hen. VII.), is said to have passed one night at a farm at Llywyndafydd, when on his way to Bosworth Field in Aug. 1485. At Caer Wedros, as well as at other places in the neighbourhood, are remains of ancient camps. The land is mostly held by small freeholders. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley, and some of the land is under pasturage. The area comprises 10,207 acres of land, 2 of water and 11 of foreshore; assessable value, £2,859; the population in 1911 was 935 in the civil and 590 in the ecclesiastical parish.

The Ecclesiastical parish of Capel Cynon is included in this parish for civil purposes.

LLANDYSSIL (or Llandysyll) is a small town and parish in Cardiganshire, bounded on the east and south by the river Teifi, which here divides the county from Carmarthenshire, and has a station on the branch line from Pencader junction of the Great Western railway, which now terminates at Newcastle Emlyn. The town is 248 miles from London, 40 south from Aberystwyth, 18 east from Cardigan, 18 north from Carmarthen and 42 north-west from Swansea; in the hundreds of Troedysar and Moyddyn, petty sessional division of Llandysilio, Newcastle, in Emlyn union and county court district, rural deanery of Sub-Aeron, archdeaconry of Cardigan, and diocese of St. David's: it is lighted with oil lamps, and is supplied with water from wells. The church of St. Tyssul is an edifice of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisle and an embattled western tower containing 4 bells: the church was restored in 1874, at a cost of £2,330, and affords 450 sittings: on a stone, forming part of the entrance to the churchyard, is an inscription of the 6th century. The register dates from the year 1722. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £270, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1915 by the Rev. Thomas Madoc Jones B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, and surrogate. St. David's chapel of ease, erected in 1886, at a cost of £1,050, stands on the banks of the river Cllettwr, about 3 miles from Llandyssel; St. John's church, on the same river, is about 5 miles from Llandyssel. St. Ffruids is in the vale of Cerdin and about 3 miles from Llandyssel. There are Baptist, Wesleyan, Congregational, Calvinistic Methodist and Unitarian chapels. In the parish are several small woollen factories and yarn spinners; a market is held every Tuesday for the sale of farm produce and stock. The "Porth" is the principal hotel. The principal seat is Waunifor, the property and residence of Charles Lloyd esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. Sir Martineu Owen Mowbray Lloyd bart. D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor, the principal landowners being Mrs. Lewes and Charles Home Lloyd Fitzwilliams esq. J.P. The soil is loamy; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and potatoes. The area is 17,511 acres of land and 55 of water; rateable value, £13,286; the population in 1911 was 2,744.

LLANEDY is a village and parish in the county of Carmarthen, being separated from Llandilo-Talybont by the river Lougher, which also here separates the counties of Carmarthen and Glamorgan; it is in the Llanelly division of the county, Carmarthen hundred, Llanelly petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Kidwelly, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Edith is a plain building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave and a western tower containing one bell: there are sittings for about 300; attached to the church is a small mortuary chapel. The register dates from the year 1709. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £360, including 104 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1914 by the Rev. Evan Thomas M.A. of Durham University. The church of St. David, Hendy, a chapel of ease to St. Edith's, is a plain building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, vestry and tower containing one bell, and has sittings for 300; the Rev. Tudor Owen Hughes B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, has been curate since 1919. The church of St. Edmund's, Tycoeros, built in 1914, is a building of stone in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave, vestry and tower containing one bell: there are sittings for 300; the Rev. Daniel Jones B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, is curate in charge. There is a Congregational chapel, founded in 1712, having 500 sittings, a Baptist chapel, built in 1849 to seat 300, and a Calvinistic Methodist chapel here. There are tinplate works and collieries in the parish. The trustees of the late Sir William Robert Clayton, 6th bart. (d. 1914); the trustees of Earl Cawdor (a minor), who are lords of the manor, and Lady Howard are the principal landowners. The soil is clay and gravel; subsoil, rock. The principal crops are wheat, barley, oats and roots; the area is 5,630 acres of land, 70 of water, 23 of tidal water and 30 of foreshore; rateable value, £13,022; the population in 1901 was 2,889 and in 1911, 3,900.

LLANELLY

LLANELLY is a municipal borough, market and union town, seaport, contributory to the Carmarthen district of boroughs, head of a county court district and extensive parish, in the Llanelly division of the county of Carmarthen, hundred of Carmwallon, rural deanery of Kidwelly, archdeaconry of Carmarthen, and diocese of St. David's, with a station on the main line of the South Wales section of the Great Western railway; the London and North Western Railway Co. also have running powers to Llanelly, thus affording railway communication to all parts of the kingdom; the distance from London is 200 miles by the Great Western railway; from Bristol, 97 miles; from Carmarthen, 19 miles south-east; from Neath, 16 miles west; and from Swansea, 11 miles west. A small river, called the Burry, gives its name to the bar and the river as high as Llanelly: about 3½ miles below, on the same side, are the harbours of Burry Port and Pembrey.

Under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894" (56 & 57 Vict. c. 73), the ancient parish of Llanelly has been formed into two, known as the Urban and Rural, the former comprising the Urban District area and the latter the remaining portion.

The town was originally governed by a portreeve and burgesses, later by a local Board of Health, displaced in 1894 by an Urban District Council. The government of the town, by a charter obtained on the 14th August, 1913, is now vested in a corporation, consisting of a mayor, six aldermen and 18 councillors, and for municipal purposes the borough is divided into three wards.

About £150,000 have been expended in the construction of water works, and in forming two reservoirs, with a capacity of 430,000,000 gallons, by damming up the river Lliedi, which flows through the town, and there is a constant supply of water to every house, laid on from mains at high pressure. The town is well paved and drained, and is lighted with electricity by a company from their power house at the Harbour. There is a Fire Brigade in the town, under the Corporation, having a superintendent, engineer and 22 men, with stations in Old market, Hall street and New Dock road.

By an Act of Parliament, passed in 1878, the Harbour was vested in a body of Commissioners, consisting of the members of the Urban District Council and 8 ex-officio members, but under the provisions of a later Act, passed in 1904 the Harbour was removed from the control of the Urban Council. An extensive breakwater, on the south side of which stands a lighthouse, protects the harbour from westerly gales. The limits of the port for customs purposes, by Treasury Warrant under the "Customs Act, 1846" (9 and 10 Vic. c. 102), extend from Whitford Point (Glamorganshire) to Saundersfoot (Pembrokeshire), including the river Burry; fishing boats and their implements to be distinguished by the letters L.A. In 1900 only one fishing boat was registered as belonging to the port.

There are four docks. The North dock, 9½ acres in area, 1,000 feet long and 400 feet wide, has an entrance 53 feet wide; the Great Western dock with entrance gates 31 feet 6 inches wide; the Copper Works dock with entrance gates 32 feet wide. The docks are equipped with quick acting hydraulic hoists and cranes, so that cargoes can readily be loaded and discharged, and have direct railway communication with the Great Western, the London and North Western, the Llanelly and Mynydd Mawr and the Burry Port and Gwendraeth railways. The Carmarthenshire dock is a tidal dock, situated near the North dock, in which vessels can lie aground dry at low water for painting or light repairs. Vessels of a draught up to 20 feet, according to the height of tide, can be dealt with at the docks.

The number of vessels dealt with at the docks of the port in 1913 was 1,136, of a tonnage of 493,338 tons. The trade is in the export of coal, tinplates and galvanized sheets, and the import of pig and scrap iron, timber, copper &c. The area is 5,606 acres of land and 8 of water; rateable value, £1,045; the population in 1911 was 60.

Sexton, John Morgan Price.
 Letters received through Talgarth, Breconshire, which is the nearest post, money order & telegraph office. The children of this parish attend the school at Talgarth iron, timber, copper &c. The total value of all exports in 1912 was £128,602, of which £128,000 was coal, coke and manufactured fuel, and of imports £203,508, £129,308 being pig iron.

Here are steel, tinplate, chemical, brick and tile and earthenware works, steam saw mills and a brewery. There are many collieries in the neighbourhood. In 1913, 308,983 tons of coal were exported.

The Custom House, in New Dock road, built in 1893, at a cost of about £3,000, from the designs of Mr. J. B. Morgan, architect, is of buff brick and local stone, and contains, in addition to the Customs offices, the stores of Messrs. Margrave Brothers, who have also large bonded stores adjoining. The amount of revenue collected in 1918 was £20,800.

The church of St. Ellyw is a plain building of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts and an embattled western tower, containing an illuminated clock and 6 bells; a former curious feature of the church was a small turret of stone, immediately over the chancel arch, for a sanctus bell, which has been restored: the chancel contains some interesting monuments to the families of Vaughan, Stepany, Mansel, Chambers and Child. The church was restored in 1905; there are 500 sittings. The register dates from the year 1684. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £500, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1904 by the Rev. David Watcyn Morgan B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, rural dean of Kidwelly and canon-residentary of St. David's, and surrogate.

All Saints', in Goring road, a chapel of ease to St. Ellyw, erected in 1873-4, at a cost of £8,300, is a building in the Early English style, from designs by the late G. E. Street esq. R.A. consisting of chancel, clerestory, nave and aisles: there are several stained windows: the church was enlarged in 1887, at a cost of £2,960, and affords about 800 sittings.

St. Alban's, in St. Alban's road, a chapel of ease to St. Ellyw, was erected in 1915 at a cost of £13,000, in the Early English style: there are sittings for 700, with a crypt accommodating 400.

The Mission Room, Furnace, erected in 1888-9, at a cost of £520, is a building of stone, and will hold 150 persons.

St. Paul's is an ecclesiastical parish formed in 1846; the church is a building of stone, in the Gothic style, erected in 1857 from the designs of the late Sir George Gilbert Scott R.A. and consists of chancel, nave, south aisle, chapel, south porch and a western belfry containing one bell, and was thoroughly restored in 1879, at a cost of £715, when a brass tablet was placed in the church, in memory of Mrs. Louisa Jones, wife of the vicar: the service is conducted in Welsh: there are 500 sittings. The register dates from the year 1857. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £320, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of the diocese, and held since 1904 by the Rev. David Davies B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter.

The Memorial Mission Room was built in 1877-80, at a cost of £1,428, also in memory of Mrs. Jones, and is used for parochial meetings.

St. Peter's, a chapel of ease to St. Paul's, is a building of stone, in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles: there is a stained window in the chancel, presented by the late Sir John Stepany Cowell-Stepney M.P. (d. 1877): the church was restored in 1878, by the parishioners, at a cost of £725; in 1892 extensive alterations were made and in 1894 two stained windows erected to the Rev. David Daniel Jones B.D. vicar 1876-1893, and to Mrs. Davison, a generous benefactress to the parish: there are 1,060 sittings.

St. Peter's Hall and Sunday school, built in 1884, and enlarged in 1892, at a total cost of £1,702, is the largest hall in the town, and will seat 1,000 persons.

Christ Church, New Dock, is an ecclesiastical parish formed in 1912 from the parish of St. Paul; the church, erected in 1886-7 as a chapel of ease to St. Paul's, at a cost of £3,503, is a building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of a chancel, nave, aisles, organ chamber and vestry, south porch, and a Decorated west door, and a small tower, containing 6 small bells: there is a spacious font for immersion as well as an asperion font: the church affords 500 sittings. The register dates from the year 1912. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £200, in the gift of the Bishop of the diocese and trustees, and held since 1913 by the Rev. David Jones B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. Christ Church school was erected in 1886, at a cost of £800, together with a house, in which the church caretaker lives. The school room will seat 450 and is licensed for divine service, but has not been used for that purpose since the new church of St. David was built in 1892.

St. John's Church, Marine street, a chapel of ease to St. Paul's, is a building of stone, in the Gothic style, erected in 1887, at a cost of £1,262, and consists of chancel, nave, vestry, south porch, and a turret containing one bell: the east window is stained: and there are about 350 sittings.

St. Barnabas, in Llewellyn street, a chapel of ease to St. Paul's, was erected in 1872, and converted to its present use in 1881-7, at a cost of £501: it is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, and a western turret, containing one bell, and will seat 250 persons.

St. David's, in New Dock road, erected in 1892, at a cost of £1,805, is a chapel of ease to Christ Church, and is a plain building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, vestry and a western turret containing one bell: the east window of three lancets is stained and there are 400 sittings.

Mutes Mission, Parish hall, near the parish church, is used for service.

The Catholic church of St. Mary is in Lloyd street, and there are also Baptist, Calvinistic Methodist, Congregational, Presbyterian and Wesleyan chapels; most of these are large stone buildings. The Park Congregational chapel, erected in 1839, is a building in the Gothic style, and has a tower with spire, and will seat 580.

The cemetery, in connection with the Parish and All Saints' churches, is on the old road, about a quarter of a mile from the parish church; it is of about 1½ acres in extent and surrounded by a stone wall, and under the management of the vicar and churchwardens; there is a keeper's house close by. Llanelly cemetery, 1 mile distant, was provided in 1850, by subscriptions from various Nonconformist congregations; it is about 8 acres in extent, and is under trustees and managed by a committee representing the various Nonconformist bodies in the town.

The Town Hall, erected in 1894, in the Park, on ground belonging to the Corporation, at a cost of £14,000, from the designs of Mr. Williams Griffiths F.S.I. architect, Llanelly, is a handsome building of hammer-dressed local stone, with Bath stone dressings, in a free Classic style: the main hall, 53 by 36 feet, and 36½ feet high, is decorated with Corinthian and Ionic pilasters, and has a fine ribbed and coved ceiling and a large gallery on the first floor: it is well arranged for judicial business, and on each side are rooms for judges, barristers &c.: within the building are also the several town offices, county court, and a council chamber; the front is surmounted by a clock tower containing an illuminated clock with three dials.

No municipal insignia of the ancient corporation now appear to exist, but the new municipality have received from Heralds' College, as the gift of the Mayoress (Lady Howard), a grant of arms and a badge.

The Athenæum, in the centre of the town, is a building in the Italian style, erected by public subscription in 1857, from the designs of Messrs. Wilson and Wilcocks, of Bath; part of the building is allotted to the public library, founded in 1898, and now comprising 12,500 volumes: there is also a reading-room. Another portion of the Athenæum is occupied by the Chamber of Commerce, which also has an excellent reading-room, and there is a room 60 feet by 30, which is used for lectures or concerts. A wing, known as the "Nevill Memorial," is used for various lodge and other meetings; the whole premises now belong to the Corporation, by whom they are held in trust for the town.

The Parish Hall, in Church street, adjoining the old vicarage, and used in connection with the churches of St. Eli and All Saints, is an edifice of brick and stone, erected in 1887, to commemorate the Jubilee of Queen Victoria, from designs by Mr. James Buckley Wilson, architect, and will seat about 450 persons; it stands on a part of the old vicarage garden, given in the time of the late Canon Williams.

The Y.M.C.A. Hall, in Stepnay street, was opened in 1911.

The Market, covering three acres, in the centre of the town, is both extensive and convenient, and is well supplied; it contains a large market hall, built in 1888, and in 1895 an area measuring 220 feet by 150 was covered in, at a cost of £5,000; the market days are Thursday and Saturday: the fairs are held on Ascension Thursday, September 30th and October 1st.

The Hospital was first established in premises on the Bigyn road, but in 1885 the main part of the present hospital, in Marble Hall road, was erected on a site given by the late William Thomas esq. of Wellfield, at a cost of £3,200. In 1894 the male ward was considerably enlarged and a new ward for ophthalmic cases added; and subsequently extensions were made for the staff and servants. In 1903 a sum of £1,000 was expended on the erection and equipment of a new operating theatre, and in 1905 a children's ward was erected by Mrs. H. C. Buckley, as a memorial to her husband, the late Dr. Henry Child Buckley, at a cost of over £1,100. There are now in all 40 beds. The hospital is under the control of a general committee of governors, consisting of the trustees, the members of the ladies' committee, the clergy and ministers of the town and district, the medical practitioners in the town, and representatives of the employers and workpeople of each subscribing firm; but the management of the institution is delegated to a select committee.

Parc Howard and Mansion House, presented to the town by Sir Stafford Howard, contains an area of about 33 acres. The Parc has been tastefully laid out as a pleasure ground, and contains tennis and croquet lawns and a bowling greens; there is also a band stand and a dancing green constructed for the use of the public. Bands play upon three evenings in the week during summer months.

A plot of land about 15 acres in extent was purchased by the late Local Board at an expense of between £3,000 and £4,000 for the purposes of a public park, on part of which the new Town hall stands.

Stradey Castle is the seat of Charles William Mansel Lewis esq. B.A., D.L., J.P.

The area of the Urban parish and District is 2,069 acres of land, 35 of inland water, 54 of tidal water and 594 of foreshore; rateable value, £133,387; the population in 1911 was 32,071, including 7 officers and their families and 213 inmates in the Poor Law Institution, and 49 officers and inmates in the Llanelly Hospital.

The population of the wards in 1911 was:—No. 1, 10,730; No. 2, 13,188 and No. 3, 18,183.

The area of the Rural parish is 15,664 acres of land, 63 of inland water, 254 of tidal water and 1,270 of foreshore; rateable value, £53,125; the population in 1911 was 11,681.

The population of the ecclesiastical parishes in 1911 was:—St. Ellyw, 26,368 (including 220 persons in the Poor Law Institution); St. Paul, 11,538 (including 110 persons on board vessels), and Christ Church, 4,542.

LLANELLY (near Abergavenny) is a parish, in the county of Brecknock, consisting of the villages of Blackrock, Llanelly Hillside, Clydach, Darenfelen, Gilwern and Maesgwartha, and has two stations on the London and North Western railway, viz. Clydach, 3 miles from Brynmawr and 5 from Abergavenny, and Gilwern, 4 from Brynmawr and 4 from Abergavenny; it is in the hundred and union of Crickhowell, Tredegar county court district, rural deanery of Crickhowell, archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Ellwy is an ancient edifice of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle and a western tower, with pyramidal spire, containing 6 bells: the tenor is said to be of very early date, and was dedicated to the patron saint: there are sedilia and a piscina, and old oak communion table, quaintly carved and dated 1624: the church was restored in 1868 and repaired in 1910: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1701. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £296, with residence, in the gift of the Duke of Beaufort, and held since 1914 by the Rev. Edward Albert Trevillian Roberts B.A. of Jesus College, Oxford. There is a chapel of ease at Blackrock, a mission room in the hill district of Llanelly, and another at Gilwern. The Tyr Hooper charity, derived from the rent of a farm and interest of £200 Consols, of the present value of £25 annually, is distributed by the Brynmawr Urban District Council and Llanelly Parish Council to the poor not in receipt of parish relief. There is also a charity of £4 annually. Llanelly was once a busy mining district, but there are no works of any kind at present, except limestone quarries and lime kilns at Clydach. The limestone here yields 97 and 98 per cent. of lime. Ty Mawr is the residence of Mrs. Crawshaw, and Pant-y-beilian is the property and residence of Lieut.-Col. Llewelyn Partridge D.S.O. The Duke of Beaufort is the principal landowner. The soil is clay on limestone and carboniferous formation; crops, grass and roots; the lower parts of the parish are well wooded. The area is 4,476 acres of land and 53 of water; rateable value, £10,098; the population in 1911 was 3,458 in the civil and 3,470 in the ecclesiastical parish.

LLANFIHANGEL-ABERCOWIN is a parish in the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, on the main road from Carmarthen to Tenby, including at its eastern extremity the village of Bankyfelin; it is 6 miles west from Carmarthen and 3 south from St. Clears station on the Carmarthen and Whitland section of the Great Western railway, in the hundred of Derllys, petty sessional division of St. Clears, union and county court district of Carmarthen, and in the rural deanery of St. Clears, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Michael is an edifice of stone, built in 1848 in a central part of the parish, consisting of chancel, nave, west porch and a turret containing one bell: the font is of great antiquity, bearing features of pre-Norman date, and was brought from the old church together with the English bible dated 1680, Welsh bible 1690, English prayer book 1768 and Welsh prayer book 1770, and an old chalice said to date from 1574: the church was restored in 1886, and affords 146 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from 1729; marriages, 1754; burials, 1831. The living is a perpetual curacy, net yearly value £300, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1882 by the Rev. William Davies, of St. David's College, Lampeter, who resides at St. Clears. At the southern extremity of the parish, at the confluence of the rivers Cowin and Taf, are the ruins of the old parish church of St. Michael, now known as the Pilgrims' church, in consequence of a legend connected with pilgrims who are supposed to lie buried there; the old churchyard and the pilgrims' tombs, monumental slabs and effigies, some of which are supposed to date from the 8th century, have been put in order by means of a fund raised for their preservation. There is a Calvinistic Methodist chapel at Bankyfelin. A sum of £10 is distributed yearly to the poor under the bequest of Lady Drummond in the 17th century. The principal landowners are the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, Alfred Stephens esq. J.P. and Richard R. Carver esq. Chief crops are hay and roots. The area is 5,310 acres of land, 25 of water, 25 of tidal water and 19 of foreshore; rateable value, £7,956; the population in 1911 was 868 in the civil and 861 in the ecclesiastical parish.

LLANFIHANGEL-AR-ARTH is a parish and large village, and the head of a petty sessional division, in the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, with a station at Bryn Teify and a junction station at Pencader, on the Great Western railway, 12 miles north-north-east from Carmarthen, 12 south-east from Lampeter, 20 from Cardigan and 260 from London, in the Cathing hundred, union and county court district of Newcastle Emlyn, and in the rural deanery and arch-deanery of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Michael is an ancient building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle and a small turret containing one bell: some portion of the communion plate dates from 1547: the church was restored in 1873, and affords 250 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from 1787; marriages, 1756, and burials, 1791. The living is a vicarage, net income £201, with residence, and 66 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1887 by the Rev. John Thomas Hughes, of St. Aidans. There is a Calvinistic Methodist chapel at NEW INN and a Congregational chapel at GWYDDRUG, erected in 1898, with 200 sittings. A battle is said to have been fought here in 1039 between Hywell or Howel and Gruffydd ap Llewellyn. A Roman road passes through the parish, and there are remains of Roman camps and several barrows. Two Roman inscribed monumental stones have been found here. The principal landowners are Mrs. Lloyd, J. W. Hughes Esq. lord lieutenant of the county, and Captain William Lewis. The soil is light loam; subsoil, slate. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 16,556 acres of land and 46 of water; rateable value, £9,811; the population in 1911 was 1,959.

Railway Station, Bryn Teify.—Jn. Evans, station mstr

PENCADER is a village in this parish, with a station which is the junction of the Great Western railway, and of the branch, via Llandyssil, to Newcastle-Emlyn. St. Mary's church, re-erected in 1881, at a cost of £610, as a chapel of ease to the parish church, has sittings for 120 persons. A church room to seat 150 persons was built in 1907 at a cost of £300. Services are held on Sundays at 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. Bethel Calvinistic Methodist chapel, built 1908, has 360 sittings; Hebron Baptist chapel, erected in 1831, will seat 250 persons; Moriah Baptist chapel, built in 1867, has 250 sittings. The old Congregational chapel, founded in 1650, is now used as a public hall, and a new chapel to seat over 600 was built in 1906. The woollen manufacture is carried on here, and there are several large-mills for weaving and spinning which employ most of the inhabitants. Henry II. is said to have passed a night here in 1162, on the occasion of his meeting with Rhys ap Gruffydd, Prince of South Wales. Gwastod Abbot is the residence of Benjamin Evans esq.

LLANFIHANGEL BEGUILDY (generally known as Beguildy) is an extensive parish in the county of Radnor, on the river Teme; the village is 6 miles north-west from Knucklas station on the London and North Western railway, and 8 north-west-by-west from Knighton, in the hundred of Knighton, union, petty sessional division and county court district of Knighton, and in the rural deanery of Melineth Sub Ithon, archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Michael is an ancient edifice of stone, dating from the close of the 12th century, and up to 1885, though in a ruinous condition, consisted of chancel, nave and south porch. In 1885 the Ecclesiastical Commissioners rebuilt the chancel at a cost of £1,000, and in 1896 the nave, south porch and screen were restored at a cost of £1,600; the tower was at the same time taken down. The fine oak tracered screen with roof loft is of Perpendicular date; the 3 bells, dated 1661 and 1664, are at present temporarily hanging in the churchyard: there are sittings for 250 persons. The registers date from the year 1703. The living is a vicarage, net income £250, with 14 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1893 by the Rev. John Pughe Morgan M.A. of Jesus College, Oxford. The vicarage house was built in 1886, at a cost of £1,500. The church of St. Peter, CRUGYBYDDAR, erected in 1858 as a chapel of ease to the parish church, is an edifice of stone in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave, north porch and a heltry containing one bell: the church was restored in 1912 at a cost of £300: there are sittings for 120 persons. There is a Baptist chapel at VELINDRE, erected in 1852, with sittings for 250 persons, also Wesleyan and Primitive Methodist chapels in the parish. A charitable bequest in 1741, by the Rev. Dr. Davies and the Rev. Vavasour Griffiths, produces £3 11s. 4d. per annum for distribution to the poor. The trustees of the Norton estate are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are the Right Hon. Sir Horace C. Plunkett P.C., K.C.V.O. George Mathews esq. Thomas Hedley Harris esq. Edward Harris esq. and the trustees of Millington Hospital, Shrewsbury. The soil is clay and loam. The crops are oats and turnips, but the land is principally in pasture. The area is 16,704 acres of land and 33 of water; rateable value, £6,804; the population in 1911 was 783.

CRUGYBYDDAR, 3 miles north-west; Velindre, 2 miles north-west; Duthlas, 2 miles south, and Llainau, 4½ miles south, are hamlets in this parish.

LLANFIHANGEL CWM-DŪ, generally known as Cwmdu and originally called Ystradyw, is a large and scattered parish in the county of Brecknock, and on the Rhiangoll stream, a tributary of the Usk, and is 5 miles north-east-by-east from Taly Bont station, on the Brecon and Merthyr railway, $4\frac{1}{2}$ north-west from Crickhowell, 7 south from Talgarth, and 162 from London, in the hundred, union, county court district and petty sessional division of Crickhowell, and in the rural deanery of Crickhowell, archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Michael is an ancient edifice of stone, in the Gothic style of the 14th century, partly rebuilt in 1830, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, two south porches, and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells, east in 1719; there are several features of interest in and about the church, including a carved roof screen, and the shaft of a cross now supporting a sundial; the church was restored in 1909 under the direction of Mr. F. Baldwin F.S.A. architect, of London; there are 232 sittings. The registers date from the year 1718. The living is a rectory, net income £350, including 52 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Duke of Beaufort, and held since 1914 by the Rev. William Arvon Davies B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. There is also a Mission church at Bwlch with 12 sittings, and a Calvinistic Methodist chapel to seat 250, and a Congregational chapel at CWMHROS, founded in 1785, which has 220 sittings. In the parish are six almshouses, erected by the late Miss Aon Williams, of Cwm Dû, for six poor women, each of whom receives 5s. weekly; and there is also a sum of £24 rs. 3d. yearly for distribution to the poor, and another of £1, charged on Penrheol farm, and given to the oldest maid who does not claim parish relief. The distribution of these moneys is governed by three trustees. Lord Glanusk's charity is distributed to the poor of this parish in kind. At Gaer, or Coed-y-Gaer, are remains of a Roman camp, and on the Briang mountains are traces of British hut dwellings. The Duke of Beaufort is lord of the manor, and Lord Glanusk C.B., D.S.O. the trustees of the late James Price W. Gwynne-Holford esq. (d. 1916) and the Earl of Ashburnham are the principal landowners. The soil is gravel and sand; subsoil, sandstone. The chief crops are barley, oats, and roots, with some wheat, but the land is mainly in pasture. The area of the civil parish is 9,930 acres, of which 37 are water; rateable value, £6,505; the population of the civil parish in 1911, inclusive of Tretower, was 840, and of the ecclesiastical parish, 533.

The parish is divided into four hamlets, viz. Blaenau, Cenol, Cilwch and Tretower.

BWLCH is a small villare, partly in this parish and partly in those of Llanstffraid and Cathedine.

Tretower is an ecclesiastical parish formed in 1882 from Llanfihangel Cwm-Dû, and will be found under a separate heading.

LLANFIHANGEL GENEUR GLYN is an extensive parish in the county of Cardigan, 6 miles from Aberystwyth station on the Cambrian railway, and 215 from London by road or 236 by rail, in Geneur Glyn hundred, Aberystwyth union and county court district, petty sessional division of Upper Geneur Glyn, and in the rural deanery of Llanbadarn Fawr, archdeaconry of Cardigan and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Michael, rebuilt in 1885-6, at a cost of £1,950, on the site of the ancient Norman church, is an edifice in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, porch and a turret with spire, containing one bell: there are 289 sittings. The registers date from the year 1735. The living is a vicarage, net income £290, with 11 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1904 by the Rev. Zacchaeus Meyrick Davies B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, who resides at Cyfoeth-y-Brenin. St. David's, Talybont, a chapel of ease to the parish church, was erected in 1909. There are two Calvinistic Methodist chapels, one Wesleyan and one Congregational. There is a charity of the yearly value of £12 for the education of the children of the parish. Near the church are Roman remains and some Roman roads traverse the parish. The manorial rights belong to the Crown, and the principal landowners are Sir Lewis Thomas Loveden Pryse bart. and Miss Lewis. The soil is sandy. The chief crops are barley and oats. The area is 19,820 acres; the population in 1911 was 2,577.

is a monument, executed in 1815 by Sir Francis Chantrey, and erected to Mariame, only child of Thomas and Jane Johns, who died in 1811: the monument includes a group representing the parents standing by the couch of their dying child, and there is an inscription: the north transept is reserved for the Hafod family: the rest of the church affords 200 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1773; marriages and burials, 1774. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £200, and residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1900 by the Rev. Thomas Noah Jones, of St. Bees. A chapel of ease was erected at Devil's Bridge in 1896; it is an iron structure consisting of nave only and will seat 100 persons. There are two Calvinistic Methodist chapels. Between Devil's Bridge and Eglwys Newydd, at an altitude of over 1,000 feet, is an arch spanning the road; it serves no purpose, and bears no inscription, but it is presumed that it was erected to commemorate the jubilee of George III. Hafod is the seat of Thomas James Waddingham esq. D.L., J.P. The celebrated Devil's bridge and Mynach falls are in this parish; for descriptive particulars see Aberystwyth. The Crown is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are the Earl of Lisburne and Thomas J. Waddingham esq. The soil is loam; subsoil, shale. Chief crops, barley and oats, but most of the land is pasture. The area of the parish is 16,555 acres of land and 65 of water; rateable value, £3,012; population, 1911, 854, and of the ecclesiastical parish of Eglwys Newydd, 563.

LLANGAMMARCH is a parish in the county of Brecon, with a station (Llangammarch Wells) on the Central Wales section of the London and North Western railway, and is situated within a charming tract of hilly and well watered country, through which flows the river Irfon, a celebrated trout stream: the parish comprises the townships of Penbualt and Trefils, and is 4 miles east from Llantwryd and about 8 west from Builth, on the road from Builth to Llandoverly, in the hundred, union, petty sessional division and county court district of Builth, and in the rural deanery of Builth, archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Cadmarch is a building of stone in a Modern Gothic style, repaired in 1890 at a cost of £200, and consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and a belfry containing 1 bell: an old Celtic stone cross was found about 1900; one half is built into the west wall and the other into the vestry wall. The register dates from the year 1763. The living is a rectory, net income £180, with 3 acres of globe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1908 by the Rev.

John Evans M.A. of Durham University. There is a Baptist chapel here, erected in 1847, seating 150 persons, and two Methodist chapels. Mrs. Margaret Jones bequeathed £7 a year for the poor and £12 yearly for educating poor children.

Llangammarch Wells, including the Barium springs (the only springs of the kind in the kingdom), the pump house, lake, baths and hotel, extend along the valley, through which the picturesque river Irfon flows on its way to join the Wye. The springs rise through clefts in a mass of rock close to the river, into which they formerly ran to waste; a well has been constructed upon the rock, and machinery erected for elevating the water to the baths and to provide a supply for drinking purposes: the flow of water is equal to 500 gallons per twenty-four hours; it possesses a peculiar saline taste, is quite neutral to test paper, very slightly opalescent, and contains practically no carbonic acid in solution. The Lake Hotel stands on the slope of the Epynt hills, surrounded by ornamental grounds. The Cammarch hotel is close to the railway station. The following analysis of the water drawn from the Barium springs, expressed in grains per gallon (70,000 grains) is by Dr. Dupré:—

Chloride of barium	6 7/49
“ “ sodium	186 2/100
“ “ calcium	85 1/160
“ “ magnesium	20 1/100
“ “ lithium	0 8/47
“ “ ammonium	0 2/62
Alumina and silica	3 3/49
Total mineral matters	302 6/8

Lord Glanusk C.B., D.S.O. is lord of the manor. Stanley P. M. Bligh esq. J.P. Frederick Griffiths esq. and E. H. Greenly esq. D.L., J.P. are the principal landowners. Here are the kennels of the Llangammarch foxhounds; Lieut. A. T. Wilson R.N. and H. R. L. Holden esq. are joint masters. The soil is various; subsoil, gravel and rock. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots. The population of the parish in 1911 was 736.

LLANGEINOR is a parish, between the rivers Ogmere and Garw, with a station on the Llynvi and Ogmere section of the Great Western railway, and a joint station (Betws Llangeinor) on the Port Talbot Railway and Docks Co. 6 miles north from Bridgend station on the Great Western railway, in the Mid division of the county of Glamorgan, Ogmere hundred. Newcastle and Ogmere petty sessional division, Bridgend and Cowbridge union and county court district, rural deanery of Upper Gronoeth (eastern division) and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. The church of St. Ceinwyr is a building of stone, in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and an embattled western tower, containing one bell: there are tablets to Richard Jenkins esq. of Pantynawel, and his daughter Elizabeth, wife of Popkin Traherne esq. of Coytrahen; the church was restored in 1894 by Miss Olive Talbot at a cost of about £3,000, to whom a stained east window has since been placed by the parishioners. The register dates from the year 1740. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £220, with residence, in the gift of the trustees of the late Miss E. C. Talbot, and held since 1916 by the Rev. Hugh Thomas M.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge, who resides in Ogmere Vale. There is a Welsh Baptist chapel at Tyle-gwyn, erected in 1843, with 400 sittings. The principal charities consist of the interest of £127, given in 1800 by the Rev. Joseph Hoare D.D. prebendary of Westminster, which is divided annually, and also the interest of £40. Llangeinor is divided into several large and populous hamlets, the inhabitants of which are mostly employed in the collieries in the parish. Abergarw brewery at Brynmenin is also in this parish. The manorial rights are held by the Duchy of Lancaster; the Duchy and the Earl of Dunraven and Mountearl K.P., P.C., C.M.G. are the principal landowners. The soil is gravel; subsoil, gravel and mineral. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 6,532 acres of land and 20 of water; rateable value, £59,092; and the population in 1911 was 16,311; the population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 11,684, including the parts of the Ogmere and Tiarw valleys in the parish (which see).

LLANGELER is a parish in the county of Carmarthen, 5 miles east-by-south from Newcastle Emlyn, and $\frac{1}{2}$ from Heullan station, with a halt at Pentre Court, on the branch from Pencader of the Great Western railway to Llandysill and Newcastle Emlyn; it is in the Carmarthen division of the county, hundred of Elvet, union, county court district, and petty sessional division of Newcastle Emlyn, and in the rural deanery of Emlyn, archdeaconry of Cardigan, and diocese of St. David's. The parish, pleasantly situated on the road from Cardigan to Carmarthen, embraces a portion of the picturesque vale of the Teifi, and includes the village of Drefach, where the manufacture of flannel is extensively carried on. The church of St. Celer, erected in 1860, on the site of a former church, is a plain building of stone, consisting of chancel and nave, and a turret containing one bell; there are 450 sittings. The registers date from the year 1704. The living is a vicarage, net income £200, including 51 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1910 by the Rev. Henry Jones B.A., B.D. of St. David's College, Lampeter. There are two mission chapels, St. Mary's, at Capel Mair, opened in 1899 and St. Iago's, opened in 1903. Saron Congregational chapel, founded in 1792, will seat 500. Siloh Congregational chapel, erected in 1889, will seat 200. There are also Baptist and Calvinistic Methodist chapels. Llysnwydd is the seat of William Lewes esq. J.P. who is the principal landowner. The soil is light loam; subsil. slate. The chief crops are oats and barley.

The area is 8,153 acres of land and 40 of water; rateable value, £7,885; the population in 1921 was 1,960.

DREFACH is a village containing some woollen factories. Here is a Baptist chapel, founded in 1793, with 600 sittings.

LLANGENAU (or Llaugenny) is a parish in the county of Brecknock, and on the road from Crickhowell to Abergavenny, 2½ miles north from Gilwern station, on the Merthyr, Tredegar, and Abergavenny section of the London and North Western railway, 1½ south-east from Crickhowell and 5 north-west from Abergavenny, in the hundred, petty sessional division, county court district and union of Crickhowell, and in the rural deanery of Crickhowell, archdeaconry of Brecon, and diocese of St. David's. The village of GLANGRWYNEY is included in this parish. There are two parish bridges, and an iron toll bridge crossing the Usk. The church of St. Cennau is an ancient building of stone, in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch, and a belfry containing 2 bells: in the church is a tablet to the memory of the late J. A. Doyle esq. The church was restored in 1894, and affords 300 sittings. The registers date from the year 1740. The living is a perpetual curacy annexed to the rectory of Llangatock, joint net income £675, with 30 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Duke of Beaufort, and held since 1913 by the Rev. Richard Mervyn Cole-Hamilton M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford, and hon. chaplain to the union, who resides at Llangatock. There is a mission church at GLANGRWYNEY, served from Llangenanau, and also a Baptist chapel. Howell's charity was originally a bequest of land of the value of about £5 a year; it was charged with a dose of 12s. for the poor, the surplus to be divided between the repairs of a bridge and church expenses; the land, together with the timber on it, was sold and the proceeds invested in Consols yielding an income of about £10 yearly, two-thirds of which is applied to relieving the parish of its county road rate and one-third towards church expenses; the bridge was subsequently taken over by the county. The Sugar Leaf mountain, from which extensive views may be obtained, is in the parish. Here are paper and cardboard mills. In the park of Court-y-gollen is a maenhir (long stone); the mansion was destroyed by fire in 1909. The Duke of Beaufort is lord of the manor, and together with Mrs. Sandeman and Lord Glanusk C.B., D.S.O. are the principal landowners. The soil is gravel. The area is 2,779 acres of land and 37 of water; rateable value, £3,974; the population in 1911 was 394.

LLANGENDEIRNE (or Llangydeyrn) is a parish and village in the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, on the road from Carmarthen to Llanelly, 5 miles south-east from the former town and 4 south-by-east from Carmarthen Junction station on the South Wales section of the Great Western railway, in the hundred of Kidwelly, petty sessional division, county court district and union of Carmarthen, and in the rural deanery of Kidwelly, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Cyndeyrn is a building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel with aisles, nave, north aisle, south and west porches and a western tower containing 3 bells. About 1880, when the church was restored, 395 human skeletons, arranged in three layers, were discovered under the floor of the church; they were unmutated, and apparently not those of persons slain in battle: there is a piscina, also two water stoups, and a communion cup bearing the date 1505; there are 400 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1735; marriages and burials from 1736. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £200, including 67 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1908 by the Rev. Lewis Davies B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. There is a Congregational chapel at Crwbin, erected in 1829, with 350 sittings, and one at Pontyberem, erected in 1876, seating 650. There is a Baptist chapel in the village, founded in 1797, seating 360, with a branch chapel at Bancfosfelen; and another at Pedair Heol; there is also a Calvinistic Methodist chapel. The Goldtrap bequest, left in 1784, produces £21 per annum, and is devoted to scholarships in the County schools. Capel Dyddgen, an ancient and now ruined chapel, stands in the middle of a field, near which is a cavern, and about two miles south from the village. Charles H. L. Fitzwilliams esq. D.L., J.P. Mrs. Rudman and Lt.-Col. E. C. Jennings are the principal landowners. The soil is loam. Chief crops, wheat, barley and oats. The area is 12,316 acres of land and 29 of water; assessable value, £11,942; the population in 1911 was 3,232 in the civil and 3,162 in the ecclesiastical parish.

Pontyates is partly in this parish and with Pontenry, Carway and Minke will be found under the former heading.

LLANGUICKE (or Llangiwg), 10½ miles from Swansea, is a very extensive and populous parish. The civil parish includes the hamlets of Cwmgorse, Gwaun-Cae-Gurwen, Lower Brynamman, Rhydyfro, Taigrwaith and Ynysmudw, also the populous villages of Ystalyfera and Pontardawe, of which the two last mentioned will be found under separate headings. The parish is on the western side of the Swansea valley, on the road from Swansea to Brecon, and extends to the boundary of the county of Glamorgan where it adjoins Breconshire and Carmarthenshire; the distance from Swansea to the nearest part of the parish is 8 miles, but to the extreme limit 13 miles; it is in the Neath division of the county of Glamorgan, Pontardawe petty sessional division and union, Neath county court district, rural deanery of East Gower, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's: the Swansea Canal runs through some parts of the parish. The church of St. Ciwg, standing on the top of a hill, is an ancient building of stone in the Norman style, consisting of nave, south porch and an embattled western tower with pinnacles, containing 2 bells: in 1812 it was new-roofed, and several alterations made: there are 150 sittings. A Welsh service is held here on Sundays in the afternoon. The register dates from the year 1740. The living is a vicarage, net-yearly value £371 with glebe (£114), in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1913 by the Rev. Joel Jenkins Davies B.A., B.D. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The vicarage house, at Pontardawe, built in 1870, commands extensive views up and down the valley and of the hills opposite. There is a Congregational chapel at Gwrhyd, erected in 1856, seating 250 persons; one at Rhiwafw, erected in 1891, with 200 sittings, and one at Ynysmudw, rebuilt in 1904, seating 800 persons, and a Swedenborgian chapel at Ynysmudw. The Duke of Beaufort is lord of the manor. Pleming R. D. A. Gough esq. Herbert Lloyd esq. Henry Nathaniel Miers esq. Mrs. Jones and Howell Jeffries esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is sand; subsoil, clay; chiefly pasture land. The area is 12,553 acres of land and 121 of water; rateable value, £54,287; the population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 6,911 (which comprises parts of Llanguicke and Rhyndwygildach civil parishes); the population of the civil parish in 1901 was 12,376, and in 1911, 19,344, including 6 officials and 72 inmates in Pontardawe Poor Law Institution.

LLANINA is a parish in the county of Cardigan, on the shore of Cardigan Bay and near the harbour of New Quay, and is 15 miles north-west from Llandyffyl station on the Great Western railway, 5½ south-west from Aberayron, 15 north-west from Lampeter, 20 north-east from Cardigan and 282 from London, in Moyddyn hundred, Aberayron union, county court district and petty sessional division, and in the rural deanery of Glyn Aeron, archdeaconry of Cardigan and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Ina, rebuilt in 1850, is an edifice of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave and porch: there is one bell, and the church affords 20 sittings. The registers date from the year 1780, previous to which date they are incorporated with those of Llanarth. The living is a vicarage, annexed to that of Llanarth, joint net income £240, in the gift of the

LLANISHEN is a parish on the high road from Caerphilly to Cardiff, with a station on Rhymney (Great Western) railway from Cardiff to Merthyr Tydfil, 176 miles from London, 4 north from Cardiff, 12 west from Newport and 3 north-east from Llandaff, in the Llandaff and Barry division of the county of Glamorgan, Kibbor hundred, Cardiff union and county court district, Kibbor petty sessional division, rural deanery of Caerphilly and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. This place now forms a fashionable suburb to the town of Cardiff, and a number of good houses have been erected here. The parish church (dedicated either to St. Isan or St. Dionysius), is an ancient building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch, and an embattled western tower with pinnacles containing 6 bells: the stained east window of the old chancel is a memorial to Wyndham William Lewis esq. late of The Heath and New House in this parish: there is also in the old chancel a reredos of alabaster, given in 1904 by the late William Henry Lewis, of this parish, in whose memory a carved screen was erected in 1908 by his widow and children: on the floor of the old chancel is a brass inscribed to Mathew Pritchard, gent. a benefactor to the parish, ob. 19 Jan. 1623: the east window in the new chancel was the gift of Mr. and Miss Tinker, of this parish, in memory of their father and mother: the church was thoroughly restored and a new aisle added in 1872-3, at a cost of £1,705, and was further restored in 1893: in 1908 it was again enlarged, and a new vestry built at a cost of £2,400: the church affords about 400 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1752; burials, 1761; marriages, 1754. The living is a vicarage, net income £76, with 3 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Earl of Plymouth and Lord Wharton alternately, and held since 1910 by the Rev. Richard Lewellin Hlys daff, and held since 1903 by the Rev. Thomas William Jones B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, who is also a surrogate. The principal charity is a sum of 27s. The Marquess of Bute is lord of the manor, and the Earl of Dunraven and Mountearl K.P., P.C., C.M.G. is the principal landowner. The soil is red loam; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are barley and wheat. The area is 1,077 acres; rateable value, £824; and the population in 1911 was 94 in the civil and 1,598 in the ecclesiastical parish.

M.A. of Clare College, Cambridge. There are Wesleyan and Baptist chapels here, and a small Baptist chapel at Thornhill. The principal charities include one given in 1669 by Edward Morgan, mayor and alderman of the city of Bristol, and amounting to £2 12s. yearly, which sum is distributed in money to the poor of the parish of Llanishen. The charity of Mary Lewis, for the parishes of Llanishen and Lisvane, a tithe rent-charge, present value £33 13s. 1d. is devoted partly to education and partly to apprenticing the poor children of the two parishes. Mathew Pritchard, gent. left, in 1623, 12s. 4d. to be distributed every year on Good Friday, but this charity is now lost. The Cardiff Corporation Waterworks are locally in this parish. The Marquis of Bute is lord of the manor. Lord Tredegar, the Earl of Plymouth G.B.E., P.C., C.B., W. D. Clark esq. and Mrs. Murray-Thripleand are the principal landowners. The soil is loam; subsoil, limestone and sandstone. The chief crops are oats, wheat, barley and turnips, but a large portion of the land is in pasture. The area is 3,040 acres of land and 100 of water; rateable value, £26,403; the population in 1911 was 1,733.

LLANPUMSAINT is a parish and village in the county of Carmarthen, on the river Gwili, 6 miles north from Carmarthen, with a station on the Carmarthen and Newcastle Emlyn branch of the Great Western railway, in the hundred of Elvet, petty sessional division, county court district and union of Carmarthen, and in the rural deanery and archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Celynen and four other saints (whence the name "Llanpumsaint") is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, and a turret containing one bell: the chancel has a low side window: there is a stone altar slab, 7 feet long, bearing five incised crosses: the church plate includes a chalice, with the inscription "Poculum ecclesie de Llanpumsaint, 1574:" the church was repaired in 1832, at a cost of £800, and affords 91 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1776, and of marriages and burials from 1754. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, with glebe (£106) and residence, in the gift of the vicar of Abergwili, and held since 1877 by the Rev. Joseph

Lloyd B.D. of St. David's College, Lampeter, rural dean of Carmarthen and prebendary of St. David's. There are Baptist, Calvinistic Methodist and Congregational chapels. The charities arising from the bequest of Thomas Lloyd, amount to £2 per annum. In the parish are two woollen factories. LLANRHIDIAN is a parish on the sea-shore near the mouth of the river Burry and is divided into two portions, known respectively as "Higher" and "Lower Llanrhidian." Llanrhidian Lower is 3 miles west from Llanmorlais station on the London and North Western railway, 5 miles from Penclawdd station on the same line and 11 from Swansea, in the Gower division of the county of Glamorgan, Swansea hundred, petty sessional division and union of Gower, county court district of Swansea, rural deanery of West Gower, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Rhidian is an ancient building of stone, partly in the Norman style, and consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and an embattled western tower containing one bell: the church was repaired in 1858, and has since undergone a thorough renovation: there are 300 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1730; marriages, 1793. The living is a vicarage with a chapel of ease usually called Llanymwydd, at Penclawdd, net yearly value £213, with 1½ acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Lord Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1909 by the Rev. John Davies, of St. Bees. There are Calvinistic Methodist chapels at Llanrhidian, Llanmorlais and Crofty, and a Welsh Congregational chapel at Three Crosses, founded in 1700, with sittings for 600 persons. Webley Castle, standing on a hillock overlooking the Burry river, is the ruined shell of a castellated mansion with irregular towers; it was partially restored in 1912-15. Near the church are the remains of the old stone stocks, and an ancient stone with carved figures of deities, with a cross between them, which was found at some depth, has been fixed in the porch of the church. On an eminence called "Cefyn Bryn," which is partly in this parish, is a cromlech known by the name of "King Arthur's stone;" the upper stone, 14 feet in length, 7 feet 9 inches in depth, is supported by eight monoliths, and underneath is a spring of clear water. There are also remains of an encampment here. The Duke of Beaufort, who is lord of the manor, the Earl of Dunraven and Mountearl K.P., P.C., C.M.G. Major Sir Robert Armine Morris bart. Lady Blythwood, Rear-Admiral Algernon Walker-Heneage C.B., M.V.O. and Lady Lyons, of Kilvrough, are the principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, limestone and coal. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. Llanrhidian Higher has an area of 4,992 acres of land, 3 of water, 195 of tidal water and 3,759 of foreshore; rateable value, £10,634; the population in 1911 was 4,199. Llanrhidian Lower, 5,598 acres of land, 4 of inland and 74 of tidal water and 2,854 of foreshore; rateable value, £2,874; the population in 1911 was 458. The population of the ecclesiastical parish of Llanrhidian in 1911 was 4,657.

LLANSANNOR (or TL, s) is a small village and parish on the river Thaw, $\frac{1}{2}$ miles west from Ystrad-Owen station on the Llantrisant to Abothaw branch of the Taff Vale railway, 3 miles north from Cowbridge, 6 east from Bridgend and 14 west from Cardiff, in the Pontypridd division of the county of Glamorgan, Cowbridge hundred and petty sessional division, Bridgend and Cowbridge union and county court district, rural deanery of Gromesth Lower (eastern division) and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. The church of St. Senewyr is a building of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a small western tower containing 2 bells: in the church is the effigy of a cross-legged knight in armour: the nave was reeated in 1850 and the chancel in 1875, and both were again reeated in 1910: there are 120 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1726; marriages and burials, 1750. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £210, with residence, in the gift of Herbert S. Watson esq. and held since 1909 by the Rev. Frederick Richard Williams M.A. of University College, Oxford, who is also vicar of Penllnys. A charity derived from the parish of St. Mary Hill produces £2 10s. yearly. Llansannor Court, the seat of Herbert S. Watson esq. J.P. is a handsome mansion in the Elizabethan style. Herbert S. Watson esq. J.P. John F. Griffith esq. H. Radcliffe esq. and W. H. Mathias esq. J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is clay and limestone; subsoil, various. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,810 acres; rateable value, £1,726; the population in 1911 was 178.

LLANSANTFFRAID is a parish in the county of Cardigan on Cardigan bay, about 3 miles south-west from Llanrhydyd Road station on the Great Western railway, 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-east from Aberayron station on the Lampeter and Aberayron branch of the Great Western railway, and 11 south-by-west from Aberystwyth, in Ilar hundred, Aberayron union, county court district and petty sessional division, and in the rural deanery of Glyn Aeron, archdeaconry of Cardigan and diocese of St. David's. Under an order of the Local Government Board, in 1884 Gilfach was transferred from Llansantffraid to Llandewi Aberarth. The church of St. Bridget is a plain building of stone, in the Early English style of the 13th century, consisting of chancel, nave, and an embattled tower, containing one bell: there are 400 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1796, marriages 1754, and burials 1813. The living is a vicarage, net income £207, with 6 acres of glebe, and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1918 by the Rev. William Ilar Edwards A.K.C.L. At NEBO, about 2 miles distant, is a chapel of ease, built in 1913 to seat 200 persons. There is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1805, with 200 sittings, and a Calvinistic Methodist chapel. Major John Lloyd Hughes J.P. is the principal landowner. The soil is light loam; subsoil, slate. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The area is 4,701 acres of land, 6 of water, 1 of tidal water and 184 of foreshore; assessable value, £2,619; the population in 1911 was 893 in the civil and 943 in the ecclesiastical parish.

LLANON is a thriving village in this parish, on the road from Cardigan to Aberystwyth, and contains some remains of monastic buildings. Here is also a Congregational chapel, erected in 1866, seating 200 persons.

LLANSANTFFRAID CWMDAUDDWR is a parish and scattered village, in the county of Radnor, near the confluence of the rivers Wye and Elan, closely adjoining to Rhyader; it is 15 miles south from Llanidulues, in Rhyader hundred, union, and petty sessional division, rural deanery of Melineth-ultra-Ithon, archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Brides, which replaced a very ancient church, was erected in 1865 at a cost of about £2,200, and is a plain structure of native stone, with Bath and freestone dressings in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, south porch and a western tower with spire, containing one bell. There are 10 stained glass windows, including two memorial windows to the late T. Prickard esq. one to Nathan Prickard esq. of Dderw, and another to the Oliver family; the chancel screen of wrought iron was erected by the tenants to commemorate the marriage of Miss Oliver, of Rhydoldog, with the late Major-Gen. John Ramsay Sladen R.A. (Bengal), D.L., J.P.; the reredos includes a finely carved reproduction by Forsyth, of Worcester, of "The Last Supper," after the picture by Leonardo da Vinci: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1682. The living is a vicarage, net income £250, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1807 by the Rev.
William Gabe Lic.Div. of St. David's College, Lampeter, and surrogate. In Elan Valley is a small chapel in connection with the parish church, and seating 120 persons.
Price's charity of £500, founded in 1719, yields £64 17s.
yearly, £2 ros. of which is given to the vicar for preaching five sermons yearly in Welsh, called "Jacob's Sermons." £50 yearly from this charity is devoted to the schools, to which a scholarship is attached. At Hir Nant, a remote part of the parish, is a sulphurous spring.

The Vale of Nantgwilt, in this parish, at the junction of the rivers Elan and Claerwen, one of the most charming valleys in Great Britain, has been submerged beneath the waters of a series of lakes, formed in 1906 for the purpose of supplying water to the City of Birmingham, nearly eighty miles away. Upwards of 45,562 acres of land have been acquired in this neighbourhood by the Corporation of Birmingham under an Act of Parliament; all which land drains into the river Elan above a point known as "Caban Cŏch," where a series of great masonry dams have been now constructed.

Six impounding reservoirs, capable of storing 18,000 million gallons, and yielding 73 million gallons daily to Birmingham, part of which have been constructed at Caban Cŏch, Pen-y-gareg, Craig-gŏch and Dol-y-mynn, and contain 7,540, 1,320, 2,000 and 1,500 million gallons respectively. These reservoirs were formed by the erection in each case of a massive wall of masonry in cement across the valley, founded on solid rock. The aqueduct conveying the water starts from Careg-ddu, and passing under the Foel in a tunnel, emerges a little distance below Caban Cŏch dam. It consists for half its whole length (73½ miles) of a brick and concrete structure, 9 feet in diameter, of which 13½ miles are in tunnel, and 23 miles follows in syphons. There are 17 tunnels in all, the longest being 4½ miles. The first instalment of the work, estimated to cost about three and a half millions sterling, was carried out under the personal supervision of the late Mr. James Mansergh
M.Inst.C.E., F.G.S. for the Corporation of the City of Birmingham. Dderw, situated on a hill, commanding a splendid view of its neighbourhood, is the residence of Gilbert Prickard esq. Rhydoldog is the property of Mrs. Sladen. The Lewis Lloyd family own part of the manor of Grange, and of the manor of Cantref, Maelynydd, the Corporation of Birmingham, who own the rest of this manor, and the trustees of the late Rev.
W. E. Prickard M.A. are the principal landowners. The soil is sandy clay; subsoil, stone and sand. The chief crops are wheat and roots, but the land is chiefly pasture. The area of the parish is 31,945 acres of land and 227 of water; rateable value, £53,533; the population in 1911 was 602.

LLANSANTFFRAID-IN-ELVEL is a parish in the county of Radnor, on the road from Builth to New Radnor, 5 miles north-east from Builth Wells station on the Cambrian railway and 8 miles south-west from the New Radnor terminal station on a branch of the Great Western railway, in the hundred and petty sessional division of Colwyn, Builth union and county court district, and is in the rural deanery of Elwel, archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Alfael, or Elfrida, previously a small edifice consisting of chancel and nave, with a ruinous tower, was rebuilt in 1895 at a cost of £900 and contains 2 bells. The register dates from the year 1813. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelry of Betws Disserth annexed, joint net income £170, in the gift of the Bishop of St.

David's, and held since 1915 by the Rev. Henry John Evans L.Div. of St. David's College, Lampeter. A Church hall was erected in 1913, in memory of the late James Vaughan esq. Lord Glanusk C.B., D.S.O. is the lord of the manor, and the trustees of the late James Vaughan esq. J.P. are the principal landowners. The land is chiefly pasture. The area is 4,717 acres; rateable value, £1,944; the population in 1911 was 217 in the civil and 302 in the ecclesiastical parish.

LLANSANTFFREAD-JUXTA-USK is a parish in the county of Brecknock, on the banks of the river Usk, half a mile from Talybont station, on the Brecon and Merthyr railway, 6 south-east from Brecon, 30½ north from Cardiff, and 183 from London, in Pencelly hundred and petty sessional division, Brecon union and county court district, and in the rural deanery of Brecon (third part), archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Bridget, or St. Bride, erected in 1885 by the late J. P. Gwynne-Holford esq. of Buckland, at a cost of £2,618, is a cruciform building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch and an octagonal turret, containing one bell: there are 150 sittings, of which 50 are free. The east window is stained and represents the Ascension. There is still preserved here the font from the old church. A beautiful marble monument was erected in 1896 on the inside of the nave, and contains the following inscription and the Vaughan arms:—

"In late but reverent remembrance of a sweet Psalmist of Israel, Henry Vaughan M.D. (known as the Silurist), of Newton by Usk, in this parish, who died 23rd April, 1695, aged 73 years, and was buried in this churchyard.

He that hath left life's vain joys and vain care, Hath got an house where many mansions are."
Silese Scintillaus.

There are several marble monuments in the church to the Jones family, and a brass tablet to Col. Henry Holford Stevenson. The registers date from the year 1718. The living is a rectory, net income £205, with 25 acres of glebe, and residence, in the gift of the Earl of Ashburnham, and held since 1914 by the Rev. William Lloyd B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. There is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1831, with 180 sittings. The poor's land produces £0 yearly. Scethrog, as the western part of this parish is called, derived its name from Brochwell-Ys-cythrog, one of the princes of Powys, and still includes a small group of houses called by this name, about half a mile from which, by the main road to Brecon, stands a pillar stone, about three feet in height, with a mutilated inscription, of which only the word "Victorini" is now legible, but the tradition is that it commemorates a son of Victorinus, slain, it is said, in a neighbouring dingle, called "Cwmgleaned" (the valley of slaughter). The Roman road from Caerlleon to Gaer, near Brecon, passes through the parish, from which a fine view is afforded of the majestic range of the Brecknockshire beacons. Buckland is a modern red sandstone mansion, situated in a beautiful park overlooking the river Usk, and is the seat of Mrs. Gwynne-Holford. An interesting feature in connection is that the late Col. Gwynne-Holford, an old Waterloo veteran, had the trees laid down on Buckland Hill to represent the squares of infantry and troops of cavalry at Waterloo. The trustees of the late James Price William Gwynne-Holford esq. (d. 1916) are lords of the manor and principal landowners. The soil is fertile and productive, and consists of loam and sand, with a gravel subsoil. The chief crops are corn and roots, and a considerable portion is under pasturage. The area is 2,209 acres, of which 57 are water; rateable value, £2,920; the population in 1911 was 185.

BWLCH is a small village partly in the three parishes of Cwmdud, Cathedine and Llansantffread-Juxta-Usk.

Post Office, Scethrog.—Miss Florence Clarke, sub-postmistress. Letters through Ewch, Breconshire & through Brecon. The nearest money order & telegraph office is at Talybont-on-Usk, 2 miles distant. The children of this parish attend the schools at Cathedine, Llangasty & Talybont

LLANSAWEL is a parish and village on the Cothi, in the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, 5 miles north-by-west from Talley Road station on the Llanelly and Llandovery branch of the Great Western railway and 9 east-by-south from Llanybyther station on the Great Western railway, 10 north from Llandilo-Fawr and 11 west from Llandovery, in the hundred of Caio, petty sessional division of Llandovery, county court district of Llandilo, union of Llandilo-Fawr, rural deanery of Llangadock, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The village is supplied with excellent water from a natural spring at Plyn Sawel. The church of St. Sawel, an ancient building, consists of chancel, nave, transept, porch and a tower containing one bell: it was restored in 1887 at a total cost of £1,491, and affords 120 sittings. The register dates from 1700. The living is a vicarage annexed to that of Caio, joint net income £170, with 2½ acres of glebe, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1014 by the Rev. Griffith Jones B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, who resides at Caio. The Rev. Isaac Edwards B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, has been curate in charge since 1915. There is a Calvinistic Methodist chapel, built in 1749, seating 500, and a Congregational chapel, erected in 1869, seating 250 persons, and a public hall with reading room and library. On Dinas Hill is an ancient camp. Edwinstford is the seat of Sir James Hamlyn Williams Williams-Drummond bart. who is the principal landowner. The mansion, an edifice of stone in the Gothic style, stands in a large park of 410 acres, watered by the river Cothi. The soil is gravel. Chief crops, oats and hay. The area is 10,250 acres of land and 61 of water; rateable value, £4,679; the population in 1911 was 583.

LLANSFYDDID is a parish in the county of Brecknock, on the south bank of the Usk, 2 miles south from Aberbran station, on the Neath and Brecon railway, and 2 south-west from Brecon, in the hundred of Devynock, Merthyr petty sessional division, Brecon county court district, union of Brecknock, and in the rural deanery of Brecon (second part), archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Cattwg is a building of stone, erected in the 13th century, and consists of chancel, nave, porch and a belfry containing 1 bell: the pulpit has a finely carved sounding board: the stained east window is a memorial to the Morgan family; the west window was erected to the late Colonel Pearce, of Ffrwdgrech; the south window was erected in 1913 to the memory of Col. and Mrs. Morgan and their son. The church was restored in 1880 at a cost of £800, and the interior has since been renovated at the sole expense of the late Col. J. Morgan, of Brecon. There are 200 sittings, of which 100 are free. The church is surrounded by 13 yew trees which are supposed to date from the 5th century. The churchyard contains a handsome mausoleum which is the burial place of the Pearce family of Ffrwdgrech. There is also an ancient stone which marks the burial place of Aulach, one of the princes of Breconshire. The register dates from 1699. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £84, with 7 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Marquess Camden, and held since 1884 by the Rev. Thomas Griffiths L.Div. of St. David's College, Lampeter. Cefn Parc is the residence of Penry John Murray, and Bolgoed of Lieut.-Col. Stuart Williams Morgan D.L., J.P. Lord Tredegar is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are Lieut.-Col. S. W. Morgan, Capt. J. D. D. Evans, Miss Williams and the Rev. Arthur Garons-Williams. The soil is red loam. Crops, wheat, oats, barley, turnips and potatoes. The area is 1,813 acres of land and 21 of water; rateable value, £1,762; the population in 1911 was 152 in the civil and 229 in the ecclesiastical parish, which includes Modrydd.

LLANSTEPHAN is a village and parish in the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, near the confluence of the rivers Taff and Tovey, flowing into Carmarthen Bay, on the right bank of the Tovey, near its mouth, about 8 miles south-west of Carmarthen, and can be reached by ferry boat (1 mile) from Ferryside station on the Great Western railway; hundred of Derllys, Carmarthen petty sessional division, union and county court district, and in the rural deanery and archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The village is situated at the foot of a hill, on the top of which stand the ruins of Llanstephan Castle. There is a pathway along the high cliffs, between the Castle hill and St. Anthony's, where is the celebrated St. Anthony's Well, and a good main road leads on to Laugharne Ferry, 3 miles distant. Water is supplied by two reservoirs, about a quarter of a mile from the village, and containing about 10,000 gallons each. The streets are lighted by oil lamps. The church of St. Stephan (Ystyphan) is a cruciform building of stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, with north aisle and chapel, nave, transepts, south porch, and a fine embattled western tower of Norman date with a turret containing 8 bells: the lower stage of the tower forms a western entrance: the chancel retains a piscina: in the north chapel are various tombs and monuments to the Lloyd and Mearns families, late of the Plas and of Laques, in this parish: under the arcade between the chancel and chapel are two ruined tombs, also to the Lloyd family, dated 1622 and 1670; and in the chancel are marble monuments to the families of Lloyd, Morris and Howell: on the south wall of the nave is a memorial to the late Rev. Benjamin Evans, 46 years vicar, d. 1889; here are also monuments to the Parnall family, including one to Henry Parnall esq. churchwarden, who in 1875, restored and resented the church and improved the churchyard at his own expense, and also presented the bells at a cost of £1,200, besides leaving various bequests: in the porch is a handsome memorial to him, erected by the parishioners and friends: the church had been previously repaired by Mrs. Elizabeth Lloyd, of Laques: there are several stained windows: in the north transept is a hagioscope, and a stomp in the south porch and over the doorway a niche: in 1887 alterations were made in the chancel, and a new organ provided at a cost of £400: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1749, incomplete, and from 1813 complete. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £195, including 110 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1915 by the Rev. John Rowland-Thomas B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The Baptist chapel was built in 1833 and rebuilt in 1866. The Calvinistic Methodist chapel, rebuilt in 1871, will hold 250 persons. There is also a Congregational chapel, erected in 1865, with sittings for 250 persons. A peasants fair is held on the 8th of August. The charities include Mrs. Moore's, of £6 9s. yearly, which is distributed by the vicar at Christmas to the deserving poor. The late Henry Parnall esq. left £3,000, the interest of which is expressly applied to secure an efficient choir in the parish church. Llanstephan Castle is mentioned as early as 1199, the first year of King John, when both it and the village belonged to the Camville family. The ruins of this once powerful stronghold occupy an imposing position on the lofty cliffs at the estuary of the Taff and Tovey, overlooking Carmarthen Bay. Hardly any remains of the interior can now be traced, but the outer walls and some of the towers and forts are still standing, and afford extensive views, both seaward and inland. Some authorities attribute the construction to Uchtryd, Prince of Meirion, in 1138, but it was more probably erected by the Norman invaders, who took possession of Glamorgan-shire in 1070, under Robert Fitzhamon. In 1180, Biys-ab-Gruffydd, throwing off his allegiance to Richard I. took possession of this castle, with these of St. Clear's, Abercwan and Laugharne. In 1257 the Lords of the Marches, in the course of a military raid upon this part of the country, took the castles of Carmarthen, Llanstephan, and Laugharne, and burned them. The famous chieftain Glyndwr, in 1403, destroyed the castles of Laugharne and St. Clear's, but does not appear to have injured Llanstephan. St. Anthony's Well, in private grounds at the foot of the Castle hill, is one of the "Wishing Wells" of Wales; it is arched over, and above the well is a niche, once enclosing an image of the saint. It was at one time held in great estimation on account of the reputed healing virtues of its waters, which were supposed to be miraculous. Sir Owen Philipps G.C.M.G. who is lord of the manor, Edward H. Morris esq. and Mrs. Lamb are the chief landowners. The soil is red sandstone. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 5,138 acres of land, 152 of tidal water and 852 of foreshore; rateable value, £6,736; the population in 1911 was 1,081, including 319 in the ecclesiastical district of Llanybri, which is given under a separate heading.

LLANTRISANT.

WITH BRYN SADDLER, PONTYCLUN AND NEW MILL.

LLANTRISANT is a small town and very large parish in the Pontypridd division of the county of Glamorgan, with a station on the Great Western and Taff Vale railways, 181 miles (by rail) and 170 miles (by road) from London, 11 north-west from Cardiff, 10 north-east from Bridgend, 8 north-east from Cowbridge and 5 south from Pontypridd, in the hundred of Miskin, petty sessional division of Pontypridd, union and county court district of Pontypridd, and in the rural deanery of Llandaff, archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. The Taff Vale branch line to Cowbridge and Aberthaw starts from here.

The town, romantically situated on the road from Cowbridge to Merthyr, in a pass over a mountainous ridge between two lofty hills, takes its name from the fact that the church was dedicated to the three saints—St. Iltyd, St. Gwyno, and St. Tyfodwg. The ascent to Llantrisant is steep, but affords striking and perpetually varied prospects, on account of the circuitous course of the road, and on reaching the churchyard a magnificent view of the Vale of Glamorgan is presented.

The town obtained a charter in 1426, from Richard (Beauchamp), 5th Earl of Warwick, creating a municipal government, the Corporation consisting of a portreeve, 12 aldermen and 475 burgesses, of whom, however, only 175 are entitled to the franchise; certain freemen having also the right of voting at the election of a member of parliament for Cardiff. This charter also confirmed several charters granted on previous occasions, the first mentioned being one by Hugh-despenser, Lord of Glamorgan, and others in 1346, 1397 and 1424. The Corporation was abolished by the "Municipal Corporations Act, 1833" (46 and 47 Vict. c. 78), and its property is now administered by a Town Trust.

The town is well drained.

Water is supplied by the Pontypridd and Rhondda Joint Water Board from their works near Mardy.

All magisterial functions within the borough are now exercised by the county magistrates. The county police also act within the borough.

The church of St. Iltyd, St. Gwyno, and St. Tyfodwg, is an ancient building of stone, originally Norman, of which but little now remains, and most of the present building, including the tower, belongs to the 15th century; the fabric consists of chancel, nave, north and south porches and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells: in the church is the effigy of a knight of early date, said to represent Cadwgan Fawr: it was restored in 1873 at a cost of £2,700, and in 1894 the tower and west end of the nave were restored at a cost of about £1,100; there are 333 sittings. The register dates from the year 1728. The living is a vicarage, net yearly income £338, with residence and 16 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1905 by the Rev. David Thomas Griffiths M.A. of Jesus College, Oxford, who is also vicar of Talygarn, rural dean of Llandaff, and surrogate.

St. Paul's district church, near Llantrisant station, erected in 1895, at a cost of £1,700, is a building of local stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, and a ball cote, over the chancel arch, containing 2 bells; the Rev. John Jones Davies L.Div. of St. David's College, Lampeter, has been curate in charge since 1916, and resides at Pontyclun; the church will seat 300.

A cemetery of 5 acres was formed in 1909 at Tonyrefail, in this parish, at a cost of £3,500. Another cemetery of 10 acres, at a cost of £5,500, is to be formed for the Llantrisant Ward during the year 1914.

The town derives its chief support from the tinplate and coal works in its immediate neighbourhood.

The market, formerly held every Friday, is now discontinued, and the site is now occupied by a police station.

Fairs are held on the 13th February, 12th May, 12th August and 29th October.

The charities amount to about £16 a year.

The freemen of the borough hold a court leet in a building belonging to the Marquess of Bute, situated within the borough, and called "the Town Hall," to the use of which they claim a right.

The Board of Charity Commissioners for England and Wales, in pursuance of powers given them by the Municipal Corporation Act, 1883, have approved a scheme for the application of the property of the late Corporation under the title of the Llantrisant Town Trust. The trust property comprises 284 acres of common land, and £535 19s. 6d. New Consols. The insignia of the defunct corporation consists only of a mace, which is of silver, and 20½ inches long; the shaft is plain, and has a cylindrical base, inscribed "Edmund Hughes, Portvire;" the mace-head is semi-globular and has a double circlet of quatrefoils and fleur-de-lis; it also bears the arms of the Earl of Pembroke, and the date 1633; on the flat top are the royal arms and cypher of Charles I.

Llantrisant Castle, of which only a small part now remains, was formerly a place of great renown and is supposed to have been erected by Gwrgan ab Ithiel, Lord of Glamorgan, and to have been repaired, if not rebuilt, by Einon ab Collwyn after the invasion of Robert Fitzhamon, at the time of the Norman Conquest; in the time of Edward I. the castle was undoubtedly in the possession of Gilbert de Clare, commonly called the Red Lord; when and by whom the castle was demolished is uncertain, some attributing its destruction to Llewellyn Bren in 1315, and others to Owen Glyndwr in 1404. The castle grounds have been laid out for the use of the public, at the cost of the Marquess of Bute.

About a mile from Llantrisant is an ancient camp, supposed to mark the site of the battle of Rhiwsaeson A.D. 873, in which the Welsh were victorious; about two miles south-east of the town are the remains of an ancient castle.

Miskin Manor, the seat of Lt.-Col. Sir Rhys Williams bart. D.S.O., M.P., K.C., J.P. and Taly-y-garn House, the seat of Wyndham Damer Clark esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. are the principal residences. Castella House, formerly a noted mansion, is now occupied as a farmhouse. Yn-ys-y-Plwm is now (1919) unoccupied.

The Marquess of Bute, who is lord of the manor, The Earl of Plymouth G.B.E., P.C., C.B. Col. A. V. H. Vaughan-Lee M.V.O. Viscount Wimborne P.C. George H. Pritchard and Edward Llewellyn esqs. Lt.-Col. Sir Rhys Williams bart. D.S.O., M.P., K.C., J.P. Morgan Stuart Williams esq. Harris Whitting esq. and Wyndham Damer Clark esq. M.A., D.L., J.P. are the principal landowners.

The soil is principally gravel; subsoil, various. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots, with some pasturage.

The area of the parish is 14,155 acres of land and 54 of water; rateable value, £78,742; the population of the parish in 1901 was 10,001, and in 1911 was 15,048, and the contributory borough, 2,432.

The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 17,586.

The number of electors on the parliamentary register in 1919 was 9,000.

By Local Government Board Order, No. 30,001, that part of Llantrisant civil parish in Pontypridd Urban District was, in 1894, taken to form the new civil parish of Pontypridd, and by Local Government Board Order, No. 32,664, dated October 1st, 1895, a further part was added to the civil parish of Ystradyfodwg.

Parish Clerk, Thomas John.

BEDDAU is 2 miles north-east. Bryn Sadder is a village 2 miles south-east. Croesvaen is 2½ miles south-east. Pen-y-coedcae, 3½ miles north-east.

MISKIN is a village 2 miles south. A new stone church of St. David has been erected in the Early English style, at a cost of £6,300, from the designs of Mr. Bruce Vaughan; it is cruciform in plan and has a western tower. In the church is a window to the memory of Judge Gwilym Williams: there are seats for 100 persons. There is also an iron church, erected in 1878, now used as a Sunday school. At Pontyclun, in this parish, is the Llantrisant railway station.

TALYGARN is 2½ miles south-west and 1 south-west from Llantrisant station. The church of St. Ann, at Talygarn, erected in 1890, by George Thomas Clark esq. of Talygarn House, at a cost of £5,000, is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a south tower containing two rooms: the stone pulpit and stained east window are memorials to Ann Price Clark, who died in 1885; the church affords 90 sittings. The register dates from the year 1900. The living is a perpetual curacy, net yearly value £54, in the gift of Jesus College, Oxford, and held since 1910 by the Rev. David Thomas Griffiths M.A. of that college, who is also vicar of and resides at Llantrisant.

Tonyrefail, with Coedely, Gilfach Goch and Thomas Town, form an ecclesiastical parish, and will be found under a separate heading.

DINAS, formerly in Llantrisant parish, is now in the civil parish of Ystrad-y-fodwg, and in the newly formed ecclesiastical parish of Dinas and Pen-y-graig, under which place full particulars will be found.

LLANTWIT FARDRE or VARDRE is a parish and village in the Pontypridd division of the county of Glamorgan, bounded on the east by the river Taff, with two stations on the Cowbridge branch of the Taff Vale railway, 11 miles from Cowbridge, 4 miles from Pontypridd, and 12 from Cardiff, in the hundred of Miskin. Llantrisant petty sessional division, Pontypridd union and county court district, and in the rural deanery, archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. Water is supplied by the Pontypridd and Rhondda Joint Water Board from their works near Mardy. The church of St. Ithyd is a building of stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, vestry, south porch and a western tower containing one bell: the church was restored in 1854 at a cost of £560, and in 1894 was renovated and memorial windows erected in the chancel at a cost of £300: there are 220 sittings. The register dates from the year 1626. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £253, with residence, in the gift of the vicar of Llantrisant, and held since 1880 by the Rev. John Jenkins B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The Mission hall in Church Village was erected in 1912, at a cost of £1,100. At NEWTOWN is a Mission hall, erected in 1914 on a site given by Mrs. Maud Mary Williams. Here is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1851, with 500 sittings, and Calvinistic Methodist and Wesleyan chapels. The Public Library was erected in 1906, at a cost of about £1,750, towards which the late Andrew Carnegie esq. of Skibo Castle, N.B. presented £1,500. The Pontypridd Rural District Council Isolation Hospital was erected in 1904. The Cottage Homes, in connection with Pontypridd

The register dates from the year 1571, and from this date to 1810 and was printed in 1888. The living is a rectory, net income £140, with 73 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Henry Radcliffe esq. J.P. and held since 1807 by the Rev. Thomas Cynon Davies B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The charities amount to about £14 yearly. The ruins of Llantrithyd Place, formerly the seat of the Aubreys, are still standing. Llantrithyd House, the property of Henry Radcliffe esq. J.P. lord of the manor and principal landowner, is now occupied by Maj.-Gen. Trevor Bruce Tyler B.A. (ret.) C.B., C.S.I., J.P. The soil is clay and gravel; subsoil, mineral strata. The land is chiefly in pasture, but wheat, barley and oats are grown. The area is 1,433 acres; rateable value, £1,608; the population in 1911 was 138.

LLANTWIT-JUXTA-NEATH, see Neath.

LLANTWIT MAJOR or Lan-Iltyd-Fawr, anciently Caer Wrgan, is an ancient town and parish, formerly of some importance, about one mile from the Bristol Channel, with a station on the Vale of Glamorgan railway, 5 south from Cowbridge, 9 south-east from Bridgend and 16 west-by-south from Cardiff, in the Pontypridd division of the county of Glamorgan, Cowbridge hundred and petty sessional division, Bridgend and Cowbridge union and county court district, rural deanery of Gro-Neath Lower (western division), and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. An efficient scheme for the water supply of the town was carried out by the District Council in 1905. A charter was granted this town by Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Gloucester, as Lord of Glamorgan.

St. Iltyd, or Ilutus, the celebrated monk-professor, founded here, A.D. 508, a school or college, which continued to flourish for 700 years with growing strength and reputation, its pupils exceeding at one time 2,000 in number; it is stated to have been the first Christian school in Britain, and the place at which St. David, Gildas, the historian, Paulinus, bishop of Leon, and Sampson, archbishop of Dol, received their education. The site of the early collegiate church and other conventual buildings was on the north side of the churchyard. The present church of St. Iltyd, or Ilutus, dates from the 12th century, with subsequent additions of the 13th century, and consists of chancel, nave, lady chapel (now in ruins), aisles and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells; there is a handsome carved stone reredos, and a circular carved stone font, probably of the 9th century; in the church is a tablet to Matthew Voss, ob. 1534, aged 129, as well as some of the most ancient monuments of the early British church in existence; there is also the recumbent effigy of a civilian, c. 1350, and another of a lady, c. 1580, wearing an embroidered dress, ruff and high pleated hat with a small feather; above the right shoulder is the bust of an infant in a tight fitting cap and ruff, the inscription, now mutilated, is probably to the wife and child of Richard Hopkins; the church was partially restored in 1888, at a cost of over £1,000, and in 1900 the restoration was recommenced and completed in 1905 at an outlay of nearly £3,000; the church affords 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1721, the older records being lost. The living is a vicarage, with the rectory of Lisworney annexed, joint net yearly value, £240, including 10 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1913 by the Rev. Richard David B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The Baptist chapel, in Commercial street, erected in 1823, is of stone, and will seat 400 persons. The Calvinistic Methodist chapel, in The Lanes, affords 200 sittings. The Congregational chapel, in Coluhz street, rebuilt in 1905, seats 350; Bethesda'rro Welsh Congregational chapel, erected in 1800, has 200 sittings; the Wesleyan chapel, in Wesley street, built in 1847, is of stone, and will seat 250 persons. The Town Hall or Church Loft, erected by Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Gloucester, is an ancient edifice of stone, with a small turret containing one bell, inscribed: "Ora pro nobis sancte Iltute"; the clock was presented to the town in 1887, by the late Mr. William Thomas, of Ivy House. Markets are held on Monday. Fairs were formerly held on February 24, June 22, and September 28, but now only on June 22. Charities:—Daniel Jones of this parish sud of Beaupré, in the parish of St. Hilary, by his will dated 21st November, 1840, directed his executors to purchase stock in the £3 per Cent. Consolidated Bank Annuities, now producing a yearly dividend of £16, for the use and benefit of the poor of the parish of Llantwit-Major for ever, to be divided at the discretion of three trustees, either in money or clothing, bedding and firing, half at Whitsuntide and half at Christmas. Robert Powell, formerly of Wilton, in this parish, executed a deed, in which he charged the sum of £3 10s. upon some houses at Sigginstone and two fields called Lay Ucha and Lay Issa, containing 3 acres, as an annual benefaction to be paid to 12 widows in equal proportion once a year, by the Parish Council. William Thomas, of Ivy House, in this parish, by his will dated August 24, 1886, left £50 in trust to invest the same and to apply the income thereof every Christmaside, between 12 widows of the said parish, who shall not be in receipt of parochial relief. On the sea coast are two British camps, and many Roman coins and human skulls have been found. In 1888 the tessellated pavement of a Roman villa was discovered in a field called "Caer Wrgan," near here, together with some 43 human skeletons and also the remains of three horses.

The Ham, a mansion in the Elizabethan style, built in 1862, on the site of the old house, is the residence of Robert Henry Williams esq.; Dimlands is the residence of Tudor Crawshay esq. D.L., J.P. The Marquess of Bute is lord of the manor. I. B. Nicholl esq. H. Radcliffe esq. Mrs. J. D. V. L. Nicholl-Carne, Isidore Vachell esq. and Mrs. E. T. Lloyd are the principal landowners. The soil is clay and limestone; subsoil, various. The chief crops are barley, oats and pasturage. The area is 5,118 acres of land, 2 of water and 259 of foreshore; rateable value, £10,745; the population in 1911 was 1,189 in the civil and 1,321 in the ecclesiastical parish.

LLANULID, see Cray.

LLANVEDW is a portion of the parish of Michaelston (Monmouthshire), included in the Llandaff and Barry division of the county of Glamorgan, and is a township in the hundred of Caerphilly, petty sessional division of Caerphilly Lower and Cardiff union, Newport county court district. It is one mile north from Church Road station, on the Newport and Pontypridd section of the Great Western railway, 13 east from Pontypridd and about 6 west from Newport. Ruperra Castle, situated here, and built in 1626, is the seat of Lord Tredegar. Cefn Mably, the ancient residence of the Kemeys family, is now the property and residence of Lord Wharton, and stands in a fine position overlooking the Bristol Channel and the Somersetshire coast; the mansion, built in the form of the letter T, contains a large oak-panelled hall with three fireplaces, and a dancing gallery, adjoining which is a priest's room, with a confessional: there is also a chapel, and a large apartment, containing an oak table formed of a huge plank, 2 feet 9 inches in width, 6 inches thick and 42 feet 8 1/2 inches long, to which an additional plank, 9 feet long, has been united, the whole of the timber having been furnished from a single tree in the park: during the civil war, when the house was besieged by the Parliamentary forces, this room was occupied by the garrison: relics of the conflict are still occasionally met with, and cannon balls have been dug up in the adjacent shrubberies: the mansion contains many objects of interest, including some antique Elizabethan bedsteads, ancient weapons, a black jack, a curious bumper glass 3 feet 9 1/2 inches long, and many family portraits: several hiding places still remain in the building to evidence the insecurity of the times in which Cefn Mably was erected. The area is 2,434 acres of land and 19 of water; rateable value, £1,989; the population in 1911 was 244. Letters through Cardiff. Wall Letter Box, at Cefn Mably Bridge. since 1005 by the Rev. Edward Lincoln Lewis B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, who is also vicar of Manerwon and rural dean of Fishguard, and resides at Goodwick. There are also Calvinistic Methodist, English Congregational and English and Welsh Baptist chapels. A cemetery of 2 acres has been formed at a cost of £200; it is under the control of the Haverfordwest Rural District Council. Llanwnda Point (Carreg Gwastad) is celebrated in history for the landing in 1797 (February 7) of 1,400 French troops under General Tate, who for several days committed serious havoc, but finding no support, immediately surrendered on the arrival of the militia under Lord Cawdor. In the neighbourhood are numerous Druidical remains, the most remarkable being three cromlechs standing in a line, one erect and the other two overturned; and there is a rock called "Garn Fawr," on which are the remains of an ancient British camp. Hugh Thomas esq.

is lord of the manor. The land is mostly owned by small freeholders. The soil is clay and light loam; subsoil, dark loam. The chief crops are barley, oats and swedes. The area is 5,851 acres of land, 2 of water and 115 of foreshore; assessable value, £10,454; the population in 1911 was 2,612.

GOODWICK is a populous village in the parish of Llanwnda, about 1 mile north-west from Fishguard. On account of the purity of the water it has a high reputation as a bathing place, and is consequently much frequented by visitors during the summer months. Extensive harbour works and a breakwater were erected in 1908 by the Great Western Railway Co. in connection with the new route to the south of Ireland, via Rossclare, on the coast of co. Wexford. For an extended account see Fishguard. The sands stretch for about a mile, and the rock hill above is prettily sprinkled with houses; the climate is so genial that the myrtle and other delicate plants may be found in full bloom during the depth of winter. Gas and water are supplied from the works of the North Pembrokeshire Gas and Water Co. at Fishguard. The church of St. Peter, erected in 1913 at a cost of £6,400 to replace an iron structure, is a building in the Late Decorated style, and consists of chancel, ambulatory, south aisle and a tower: the choir stalls are carved oak: there are 400 sittings. Here is a Calvinistic Methodist and a Baptist chapel, and there is a coastguard station between here and Fishguard, and two lifeboats. There is a post office wireless telegraphy station at Pencw.

The parish church of St. Gwynno is a very ancient building of stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western belfry containing 2 bells: the church was restored in 1895-4 at a cost of about £3,000, by the late Miss Olive Talbot, of Margam, who died October 6, 1894, and affords 100 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1717; marriages, 1735. The living is a vicarage, with Ynyssbwll annexed, net yearly value £315, with residence, in the gift of the vicar of Llantrissant, and held since 1910 by the Rev. Thomas Evan Griffiths B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. A description of the parish church of Llanddewi appears under Pontypridd. Here is the Mountain Ash Infectious Diseases Hospital, erected in 1890 at a cost of £2,000, with 12 beds. The Marquis of Bute, who is lord of the manor, Lord Aberdare, Nixon's Navigation Co. Limited, Lord Wharton, The Earl of Plymouth G.B.E., P.C., C.B. Mrs. Ann Williams David, Robert T. Crawshaw esq. and Col. A. V. Haoning Vaughan Lee M.V.O. are the principal landowners. The comprised in Upper and Lower Gwnnws; the population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 793.

GWNWNWS (Upper and Lower) are townships in the parish of Llanwnws, their areas being:—Upper, 6,229 acres of land and 42 of water; rateable value, £1,707; population in 1911, 537; Lower, 3,185 acres, 17 of which are water; rateable value, £873; population in 1911, 193.

The village of Pontrhydfendigaid, the names for which are inserted under Caron Uwch Clawdd (or Strata Florida) is partly in the township of Gwnnws Upper.

soil is gravel; chief crops, barley, oats and hay. The area comprises 10,407 acres of land and 97 of water; rateable value, £181,747; the population in 1901 of the civil parish was 31,093, and in 1911 was 42,246, the ecclesiastical district of Llanwnno having 15,088 persons.

Part of Llanwnno is included in Merthyr Tydfil parliamentary borough.

By Local Government Board Order No. 32,001, that part of Llanwnno civil parish in Pontypridd Urban District was in 1894 taken to form part of the new civil parish of Pontypridd, and by the Local Government Board Order No. 32,664, dated October 1, 1895, a further part was added to Ystradfydwg civil parish. By Local Government Board Order No. 33,652, dated March 25, 1896, that part of Llanfabon civil parish in Mountain Ash Urban District was added to Llanwnno civil parish.

YNYSSWBWL is 3 miles north-east of Pontypridd, and has a station on the Taff Vale railway. Christ Church, erected in 1886, at a cost of £1,483, is attached to the vicarage of Llanwnno. A Mission church and hall was erected in 1911 at a cost of £1,600, to seat 500 persons. There is a Welsh Baptist chapel, erected in 1886, with 750 sittings, and an English Baptist chapel, erected in 1887, seating 350, an English Congregational chapel, erected in 1896, seating 200, and a Welsh Congregational chapel, erected in 1887, seating 600; also Calvinistic Methodist and Wesleyan chapels. The Lady Windsor Workmen's Institute, Ynysybw, erected in 1904, at a cost of £4,500, contains library, reading rooms, temperance bar and public hall, which will seat about 700. Here are three collieries.

ABERCYONON is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1908 from Llanwonno and Pontypridd civil parishes; it will be found under the letter A.

LLANWRTHWL is a parish at the northern extremity of the county of Brecknock, close to the Radnorshire border, from which it is separated on the north and north-east by the river Wye, and on the west and north-west by the smaller streams of the Claerwen and Eian; it is half a mile north from Doldowld railway station on the Cambrian railway, $2\frac{1}{2}$ south from Rhyader and $2\frac{1}{2}$ north-west from Brecknock, in Builth hundred, county court district and petty sessional division, Rhyader union, rural deanery of Melineth-ultra-Ithon, archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Llanwrthwl, rebuilt in 1875 at a cost of over £2,000, is a small and plain edifice of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, and a small turret, containing one bell: there is a font and stoup of the 12th century and a memorial window to the Rev. John Eagles M.A. erected in 1874 by his daughter, Mrs. Graham-Clarke, of Procester Manor, Glos.: there are sittings for 150 persons. The register dates from the year 1713. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £320, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1919 by the Rev. John William Jones M.A. of St.

John's College, Cambridge. Here is a Congregational chapel. The principal charities, of £43 derived from the interest on funded property and rents of land, in the parish, are distributed yearly in January to the poor. A huge "Maen hir," or longstone, weighing about six tons, stands in the churchyard. Glanrhôs is the seat of Leonard John Graham-Clarke esq. M.A., J.P. A great portion of this parish is common land;
 the principal landowners are the Corporation of the City of Birmingham, Major J. M. Gibson-Watt, the trustees of the late Rev. William Edward Prickard M.A. of Dderw, and L. J. Graham-Clarke esq. The land is chiefly pasture. The area is 20,046 acres of land and 123 of water; rateable value, £9,460; and the population in 1911 was 417.

LLANWRTYD (or Llanwrtyd Wells) is an extensive village and parish, in the county of Brecon, with a station on the Central Wales section of the London and North Western railway, $23\frac{1}{2}$ miles from London, 96 from Birmingham, 60 from Shrewsbury, 34 from Llanidloes, 11 west from Builth and 33 north-west from Brecon, in the hundred and petty sessional division and union of Builth, county court district of Llandreryn, rural deanery of Builth, archdeaconry of Brecon, and diocese of St. David's.

By Local Government Board Order No. 49,011, dated April 1, 1907, the ancient parish of Llanwrtyd has been divided into two parishes, viz.: Llanwrtyd Urban and Llanwrtyd Without. The Urban parish is governed by an Urban District Council of nine members, formed in 1907.

The parish is on the river Irfon (a very celebrated trout stream), in the midst of wild and picturesque mountain scenery, diversified with rocky peaks, caves and waterfalls. From the top of the Garn, a noted spot here, may be seen the Carmarthenshire and

Brecon beacons, the Black Forest, Radnorshire Hills, the valleys of Eian and Claerwen, with the cone of Drugarn rising above. The chief interest of the place, however, lies in the celebrated sulphur and chalybeate springs existing here; of the former kind, there are three which discharge a great body of water, and are regarded as the strongest sulphur springs in the Principality. The Dolcoed Hotel, in the grounds of which one of these springs rises, is a convenient residence for visitors, to whom the springs and grounds are free. The Abernant Lake Hotel stands in its own pleasure grounds. A sulphur spring has been discovered within the grounds of the hotel, and by analysis its medicinal properties have been strongly recommended. The lake is supplied with a number of boats and an electric launch. It is fed from the waters of the Irfon, and has an average depth of from 3 ft. 6 in. to 4 ft. A pavilion has been erected and will hold 400 people. There are also three springs at the Victoria Wells ground, discovered by the use of the diving rod. A new sulphur spring has been discovered recently by Mr. J. G. Heighway. There are also several small hotels. From the accompanying analysis made by Professor Attfield, it appears that the water of the sulphuric spring contains in an imperial gallon of 70,000 grains, 15 cubic inches of hydro-sulphuric acid gas, and salts in grains and decimal parts as follows:—

	Grains.
Chloride of potassium	1'692
Chloride of sodium	60'782
Chloride of magnesium.....	0'871
Chloride of calcium	13'486
Sulphate of calcium	0'827
Carbonate of calcium	2'005
Oxide of iron	0'043
Silica.....	1'323
Lithium, barium, bromine, iodine, nitrates	Traces

Total grains per gallon..... 81'029

There are also chalybeate springs containing the following chemicals:—Chloride of sodium, sulphate of soda, sulphate of magnesia, sulphate of alum, carbonate of soda, carbonate of acid and oxide of iron in large quantities. The saline waters are forwarded to the pump rooms twice daily, from Builth wells, but the chalybeate waters are often made saline by adding a spoonful of common salt.

The church of St. David, near the hamlet of Clawdd-Madog, restored in 1861, at a cost of £800, is an ancient edifice of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a turret containing one bell: there is a marble tablet to Commodore Lloyd, a native of this parish: there are 250 sittings. The church of St. James, situated in the village, and built in 1897, at a cost of £1,600, consists of chancel, nave, south porch and a turret containing one bell: there are 300 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1748; marriages, 1772. The living is a vicarage, net income £200, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1908 by the Rev. John Edward Lloyd B.D. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The Baptist chapel, rebuilt in 1910 at a cost of £2,800, will seat 450 persons. The Congregational chapel was first founded in 1693; the present building, erected in 1868, is an edifice of native stone, with Ruscon brick dressings, and will seat 260 persons. The Calvinistic Methodist chapel, erected in 1808 and rebuilt in 1867, was enlarged in 1907, and has 700 sittings. The principal landowners are Ivor E. Campbell-Davys esq. and John Elystan Lloyd esq.

The area of the Llanwrtyd Urban District and civil parish is 1,648 acres; assessable value, £4,524; the population in 1911 was 753.

The area of Llanwrtyd Without is 8,843; assessable value, £1,508; the population in 1911 was 213.

Sexton, William Blewitt.

CLAWDDMADOG, adjoining the church, and Llechweddor, 1½ miles south-west from the church, are hamlets.

LLANYBRI, formed into an ecclesiastical parish in 1852, from Llanstephan, is a small village of primitive appearance, on the summit of the hills, and affords fine views of Carmarthen Bay and a large extent of country, including the Preselly mountains, Laugharne town, Tenby and other places, and during the summer months it is much frequented by visitors. Llanybri, called the "Marble Town," is said to have been inhabited about two centuries ago by Flemish weavers. It is about 7 miles south-west from Carmarthen, and can be reached by ferry boat to Llanstephan (thence about 2 miles) from Ferryside station on the Swansea and Carmarthen section of the Great Western railway, in the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen, hundred of Derllys, Carmarthen petty sessional division, union and county court district, and in the rural deanery and archdeaconry of Carmarthen, and diocese of St. David's. LLANYBYTHER is an extensive parish and small market town on the river Teify, with a station on the Great Western railway. The parish is in the county of Carmarthen, and is 5½ miles south-west from Lampeter, 10 from Llandysill, and 17 from Carmarthen; it is in the Lampeter union and county court district, Lower Cathingon petty sessional division, rural deanery of Lampeter, archdeaconry of Cardigan and diocese of St. David's. The river Teify is here crossed by a bridge, and there is good fishing. The church of St. Peter is an ancient building of stone, in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, and a tower containing one bell. The church was restored in 1895 at a cost of £1,100, and affords 200 sittings. The living is a vicarage, net income £165, including 233 acres of glebe, and residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1892 by the Rev. John Morris M.A. of Jesus College, Oxford, who is also vicar of Llanwenog. There is a Baptist chapel at Aberdaur, founded in 1742, with 700 sittings, and a Welsh Calvinistic chapel at Rhydcwmeran. Abergorlech Congregational chapel, founded in 1662, will seat 300. Llidiadenog Congregational chapel, founded in 1749, has 200 sittings. Rhydybont Congregational chapel, founded in 1715, and rebuilt in 1911 at a cost of £1,700, will seat 450. In the parish is an ancient well, locally known as "Pffynon Gereidig." Here is a sanatorium, erected in 1908, the foundation stone of which was laid by H.R.H. Princess Christian, and which now belongs to the King Edward VII. Welsh National Memorial Association for the Prevention. Treatment and Abolition of Tuberculosis. Markets are held at this place on the first and third Mondays of each month, and stock fairs on April 26, July 21, November 1 & 21; and sheep and the first Monday in September (noted for breeding ewes); sheep fairs October 30 and 31 and November 20; and a wool fair on July 17; the sheep fairs are considered among the best in Wales. There are several woollen factories in the neighbourhood. Col. Herbert Davies-Evans J.P. (lord lieutenant) is the principal landowner. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are barley and oats. The area is 9,926 acres of land and 29 of water; rateable value, £5,077; the population in 1911 was 1,173 in the civil parish and 1,066 in the ecclesiastical parish. Clerk to Parish Council, David Evans.

Since the passing of the Education Act, 1902, the dividends of this endowment have not been paid out by the trustees, but have been allowed to accumulate. A scheme is about to be formulated by the Board of Education for the regulation of this endowment

LLAWHADEN is a large and scattered parish and small village, in the county of Pembroke, the village occupying the summit of a steep cliff at the base of which flows the east Cleddau river. It is 4 miles south-west from Clynderwen station on the Great Western railway, 4 north-west from Narberth and 8 east-north-east from Haverfordwest, in Dungleddy hundred, Narberth union, county court district and petty sessional division, and in the rural deanery of Dungleddy and archdeaconry and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Aidan, which stands below the cliff, on the bank of the river, is an ancient structure, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, west porch and a tower on the south side, now covered with ivy and containing 3 bells: there are 230 sittings. The registers date from the year 1654. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelry of Betherston annexed, joint net income £470, with 45 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1917 by the Rev. Thomas Jones L.Div. of St. David's College, Lampeter. There is a Congregational chapel (Bethesda), founded in 1797, which has 360 sittings; also Baptist and Calvinistic Methodist chapels. There is a woollen factory at Gelly. On the summit of a cliff, and immediately above the church are the ruins of Llawhaden Castle, once a residence of the Bishops of St. David's, but dismantled, it is said, by Bishop William Barlow (1536-48); the fine towered gateway remains, and part of the chapel, and the moat, though much filled up, is still perfect. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. The principal landowners are Sir Charles Edward Gregg Phillips bart. J.P. and Mrs. Thursby-Pelham. The soil is shaley with blue rag; subsoil, various. The chief crops are oats and barley, and a considerable portion is under pasturage. The area is 4,589 acres of land and 21 of water; rateable value, £4,578; the population in 1911 was 431 in the civil parish, and 623 in the ecclesiastical parish (which includes Blethemerston).

LONLAS, see Llansamlet.

LOUGHOR is a parish, and until 1886 an ancient municipal borough, with a station on the South Wales section of the Great Western railway, about 2 miles west from the Gorseion station of the London and North Western railway and one from Bynea station of the Llanelly railway, 7 miles north-west from Swansea, 4 east from Llanelly, and 221 by rail from London; it is contributory to the parliamentary borough of Swansea, in the Gower division of the county of Glamorgan, hundred and petty sessional division of Swansea, Llanelly union and county court district, rural deanery of East Gower, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. Loughor originally comprised two civil parishes, Loughor Borough and Loughor Parish, but under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894" (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73) the borough portion is now called Loughor and the parish portion is known as Gowerton. The government of the now extinct borough was vested in a portreeve, twelve aldermen and an unlimited number of burgesses, but the corporation was abolished by the "Municipal Corporations Act, 1883" (46 and 47 Vict. c. 18), which came into operation 25 March, 1886. No municipal insignia now appear to exist, but there was a borough seal, circular in form and bearing a shield of arms, viz. 3 birds, 2 and 1, and in chief a portcullis, and at the foot the word "Llwhwr." The river Loughor, which bounds the borough on the western side, is also the boundary of the counties of Glamorgan and Carmarthen; it is crossed here by a substantial wooden bridge upwards of two hundred yards in length. The church of St. Michael is a plain but ancient edifice of stone in the Early Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, vestry, and a belfry with one bell: the church was restored in 1885-6 at a cost of £2,000, and affords 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1717; the older registers are illegible. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £200, with residence and 8 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1911 by the Rev. Hugh Rees B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. There are several collieries in the neighbourhood, and tin works are situated close to the bridge on the Carmarthenshire bank of the river. Fairs are held here on the first Monday in June and Oct. 10th, the latter of which is a large horse fair. The ruins of an ancient castle, believed to have been built by Henry Beaumont, Earl of Warwick, in the year 1099, are still standing; in 1115 it was destroyed by Rhys Ap Gruffydd, Prince of South Wales, but was rebuilt by Hugh de Spencer in the reign of Edward I. The remains of a Roman encampment exist at Carngeoch. Within the borough is a house called "the Sanctuary," formerly appurtenant to the manor of Millwood or St. John's, near Swansea, which belonged to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem

The Duke of Beaufort is lord of the manor; the principal landowners are Miss Iltid Thomas and Morgan John Thomas esq. The soil is alluvial; subsoil, gravel and rock and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and swedes. The area is 1,248 acres of land, 4 of water, 41 of tidal water and 318 of foreshore; rateable value, £12,485; the population of the parish and parliamentary borough in 1901 was 2,543, and in 1911, 4,118.

The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 6,866 (which includes Gowerton).

The number of electors on the parliamentary register in 1914 was 796.

MAESTEG, INCLUDING LLANGYNWYD AND CWMDU.

MAESTEG is a large, populous and straggling district, with a station on the Llynvi and Ogmore branch (South Wales section) of the Great Western railway, and one on the Port Talbot railway, 198 miles by rail from London, 68 from Bristol, 28 from Cardiff, 9 south-east from Neath and 8 north-west from Bridgend by rail and 9 by road; it is in the Ogmore division of the county of Glamorgan, and in the civil parishes of Cwmdau and Higher Llangynwyd, hundred of Newcastle Higher, petty seasonal division of Newcastle and Ogmore, Bridgend and Cowbridge union and county court district, and in the eastern division of the rural deanery of Upper Gwent, and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff.

Maesteg was, by Order in Council of 5th June, 1858, constituted a district under the "Public Health Act, 1848" (11 and 12 Vict. c. 63), and its affairs were administered by a Local Board, but an Urban District Council has been formed, under the "Local Government Act, 1894" (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73). By Order in Council of Sept. 13, 1894, the district was divided into three wards, and in April, 1903, it was again divided into four wards, termed respectively Caerau, Nantffyllon, and east and west, each ward represented by four members.

The town is lighted with gas by the Urban District Council, and is supplied with water by means of pipes from springs and wells.

The church of St. Cynwyd, LLANGYNWYD, is an ancient building of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells: the church was restored in 1893, by the late Miss Olive Talbot, at a cost of over £3,000: there are 160 sittings. The register dates from the year 1662. The living is a vicarage, with the curacies of Maesteg and Baiden (an ancient chapelry) annexed, net yearly value £266, with 2 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1913 by the Rev. Morgan Henry Jones B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, and surrogate.

St. Michael and All Angels' church, St. Michael's road, erected in 1898 at a cost of about £8,000, as a memorial to Miss Olive Talbot, is a building of stone in the Early English style consisting at present of chancel, nave and the base of a tower: the church contains an organ and affords 600 sittings. It has been consecrated and is licensed for marriages. The Rev. Morgan Henry Jones B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, is vicar.

CAERAU is an ecclesiastical parish formed from St. Cynwyd, Llangynwyd, by an Order in Council gazetted November 11th, 1911. The new parish is co-extensive with the civil parish of Llangynwyd Higher.

The church of St. Cynfelyn, Caerau, erected in 1910 at a cost of £4,300, is a building of stone, consisting of chancel and nave: there are 600 sittings. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £200, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1911 by the Rev. Bees Davies L.Div. of St. David's College, Lampeter.

St. Cynfelyn church, erected in 1899, is a structure of brick, consisting of chancel and nave, and a small turret containing one bell: it is now used as a mission hall.

St. David's church, at MAESTEG, erected in 1852, is a building of stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel and nave, and a small turret containing one bell: it will seat about 240 persons. The Rev. Morgan Henry Jones B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, has been vicar since 1912.

The church of St. Peter, SPELTER, erected in 1887 at a cost of £1,200, is a building of stone, in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, and a small turret containing one bell: there are 200 sittings: the Rev. George Thomas, of St. David's College, Lampeter, has been curate since 1918.

The church of St. Mary the Virgin, GARTH, erected in 1892, at a cost of £2,500, by the late Miss Olive Talbot, is a building of stone, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, organ chamber and vestry, and a small turret containing one bell: there are 240 sittings: the Rev. Thomas Henry Jones L.Div. of St. David's College, Lampeter, has been curate since 1919.

Coytrahan Mission church is a corrugated iron structure, erected in 1896; services are conducted by Mr. T. Butler, lay reader, under the supervision of the vicar of the parish.

The Catholic church, erected in 1908, and dedicated to Our Lady and St. Patrick, is a building of stone in the Gothic style, with sittings for 430 persons.

For Nonconformist places of worship see pages 607 and 608.

There is a cemetery for the parish of Llangynwyd, formed in 1881 at a cost of £2,500, which comprises an area of 4 acres; it is under the control of a burial board of 9 members.

The Town Hall is a building of stone in the Elizabethan style, erected in 1880 at a cost of £5,000: the hall will seat 1,200 persons: it contains a semicircular stage with entrances from the retiring room.

The Workmen's Hall and Institute, erected in 1909, by the Garth Colliery workmen, at a cost of £3,000, contains, besides a reading room, library &c. a large hall and a billiard room.

The Church Institute at Garth, opened in 1895, and erected at a cost of £450, contains a reading room and library.

Maesteg derives its chief support from the collieries in the neighbourhood, which give employment to the greater part of the inhabitants. The principal works are the extensive collieries of the North's Navigation Collieries (1889) Limited and Elders Navigation Collieries Limited.

The market is held every Saturday behind the Town Hall.

The Maesteg and District Cottage Hospital is in Neath road.

Near the village of Llangynwyd are the remains of an ancient castle; and in the neighbourhood there are several encampments, one of which is about a mile west of the church.

The trustees of the Gnoll Estate, Neath, are lords of the manor, and the Earl of Dunraven and Mountearl K.P. Capt. Fletcher, Sir Humphrey Mackworth bart. Onslow Powell Traherne esq. J.P. Mrs. Gwynn, Mrs. Nicholl, Mrs. Llewellyn, Col. John Picton Turbervill. North's Navigation Collieries (1889) Limited, and Col. Henry Lewis are the principal landowners.

The soil is principally gravel and loam; subsoil, various. The chief crops are wheat, barley, potatoes and pasturage.

CWMDU (which includes Maesteg) is a civil parish. The area is 4,197 acres of land and 13 of water; rateable value, £47,833; the population in 1901 was 8,706, and in 1911, 12,597.

MAINDY, see Cardiff.

MANORBIER is a parish and village in the county of Pembroke, pleasantly situated on the shore of Carmarthen bay, with a station 1 mile north, on the Pembroke and Tenby branch of the Great Western railway. The village, which stands above an inlet of the coast, at the head of a steep ravine, is 5 miles south-west from Tenby, 6 west from Pembroke, and 267 from London, in the hundred of Castlemartin, Pembroke union and petty sessional division, Pembroke Dock county court district, and in the rural deanery of Castlemartin. archdeaconry and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. James, which stands on a declivity, overlooking the castle, is an ancient cruciform structure in the Norman, Early English, and later styles, but irregular in plan, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, transepts, south porch, and an embattled tower, dating from the close of the 13th century, and which stands between the north transept and the chancel, and contains 3 bells: the chancel, rebuilt on the site of the Norman chancel, is 15th century work, contains an effigy of a warrior; the south transept, and the aisle on that side, are of the same period: the north transept was originally Early English, and afterwards extended: the Norman nave is divided from the aisles by rude arcades, simply formed by cutting through the ancient nave walls: during 1918 and 1919 five stained glass windows were inserted to commemorate the services rendered by natives of the parish during the Great War. The church was restored in 1867, and affords 300 sittings. The registers of baptisms and burials date from the year 1753, marriages 1758. The living is a vicarage, net income £227, with 30 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Christ's College, Cambridge, and held since 1914 by the Rev. Percy Rigby B.A. of that college. There is a Baptist chapel, erected in 1850, Congregational in 1802, and Wesleyan in 1886. Manorbier Castle, erected in the reign of Henry I. or Stephen, is still a fortress of considerable extent, and has not been materially altered since the latter years of the Tudor period, when its defences were substantially improved. It belonged in the 12th century and later to the family of de Barri, and subsequently to the Windsors, of whom was Sir William de Windsor, baron Windsor, and husband of the beautiful but notorious Alice Perrers or Piers; during the latter part of the 18th century it was occupied by Sir Richard Phillips, 1st baron Milford, and was leased to J. R. Cobb esq. of Brecon, who effected numerous repairs; the castle is the residence of Mrs. Gwynne-Hughes. Here was born, in 1147, Gerald de Barri (Giraldus Cambrensis), sometime archdeacon of Brecon, and well known as a historian and topographer; he died about 1220. Sir Charles Edward Gregg Phillips bart. who is lord of the manor, Viscount St. Davids P.C. Sir Thomas C. Meyrick bart. K.C.B. and John Frederick Lort Phillips esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is various; subsoil, limestone and red sandstone. The chief crops are oats, barley and roots. The area is 3,620 acres of land, 3 of water and 126 of foreshore; rateable value, £5,605; the population in 1911 was 630.

Jauston is a hamlet 1 mile north-west.

MANORDIVY, or Manordeifi, is a parish in the county of Pembroke, on the river Teifi, 2 miles from Kilgerren station, on the Whitland and Cardigan railway, 3½ south-east from Cardigan, 6½ south-west from Newcastle Eadyn, and 276 from London, in Kilgerren hundred, Cardigan union, Cardigan county court district, Kilgerren petty sessional division, and in the rural deanery of Emlyn, archdeaconry of Cardigan, and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. David is an ancient edifice in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, porch, and a turret containing a bell; there are 300 sittings. This ancient church is now used as a mortuary. Another church has been erected subsequent to the year 1805. There is also a mission church at Abercych. The registers date from the year 1725. The living is a rectory, net income £300, including 40 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1914 by the Rev. Isaac Harries Williams L.Div. of St. David's College, Lampeter. Holy Trinity chapel of ease, erected in 1872, by the late Mrs. Saunders Davies of Pentre, at a cost of £3,000, stands in the centre of the parish, close to the mansion of Pentre, but is not now used for public worship. There is a Baptist chapel at Cilfowr, also one at Abercych, and a Calvinistic Methodist chapel at Newchapel. Here wood turning is carried on. Pentre is the seat of Arthur Picton Saunders Davies esq. D.L., J.P. Flynone, of Col. Cecil J. H. Spence-Jones C.M.G., D.S.O., D.L.L. J.P. and Clyntew, of Thomas Edward Lewis-Bowen esq. J.P. The principal landowners are A. P. Saunders Davies esq. T. E. Lewis-Bowen esq. Capt. Erasmus William Gosw and Mrs. Cecil Spence-Jones. The soil is light loam; subsoil, slate rock. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 4,413 acres of land and 30 of water; rateable value £35,528; the population in 1911 was 606.

MARACROSS is a parish on the Glamorganshire coast at a point immediately opposite Porlock, on the coast of Somerset, and is 8 miles south from Bridgend station on the Great Western railway, and 6 south-west from Cowbridge station on the Llantrisant to Abertthaw branch of the Taff Vale railway, in the Pontypridd division of the county of Glamorgan, Ozmor hundred, Bridgend union and county court district, Newcastle petty sessional division, rural deanery of Grometh Lower (western division) and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. The church of Holy Trinity, supposed to have been erected in the early part of the 12th century, is an ancient building of stone in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western saddleback tower containing 2 bells: the chancel arch, a doorway and the font are interesting examples of the Norman style, and there is a lowside window: the church was restored in 1895, at a cost of £875, and affords 100 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1730. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £160, with 57 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Llandaff, and held since 1916 by the Rev. Sydney Thomas B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, who is also perpetual curate of Monkash. Nash Point, a dangerous promontory on the coast, and the limit in this direction of the ports of Swansea and Cardiff, has two lighthouses. Godfrey H. J. Williams esq. J.P. and Henry Radcliffe esq. J.P. are the principal landowners.

The soil is clay; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 978 acres of land and 108 of foreshore; rateable value, £1,021; the population in 1911 was 95.

MARGAM is an extensive parish, delightfully situated under a wood at the base of the Mynydd Margam and on the high road between Neath and Bridgend, being 9½ miles south from the former and 9 north from the latter, 3½ miles south from Aberavon, 3 south from Port Talbot station on the Great Western railway and 186 miles by road from London, in the Aberavon division of the county of Glamorgan, hundred of Neath, petty sessional division of Aberavon, Neath union and county court district, rural deanery of Upper Gorseath (eastern division), archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. The parish includes Port Talbot, which will be found under a separate heading. Margam was governed by a Local Board until the "Local Government Act, 1894" (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73) established an Urban District Council. The district under the Act was divided into three wards, viz. Eastern, Central and Western, but in March, 1901, a new ward, called the "North ward," was formed. Previous to the 13th century this place was called Pendar, or the Oak Summit. The church of St. Mary is a building in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave and aisles, and a bellry containing 2 bells: it was restored in 1873; there are many handsome monuments to the Mansel family and one to the late Theodore Mansel Talbot esq.; the church has five stained windows, and affords 350 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1672; marriages, 1686. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £212, in the gift of Capt. Andrew Mansel Talbot Fletcher, and held since 1880 by the Rev. Zachæus Paynter Williamson, of St. Aidans, and rural dean of Upper Gorseath (eastern division). There is a mission room at Morfa-Beulah Calvinistic Methodist chapel at Groes, built in 1838, is an octagonal building of stone, and will seat 200; there is another Calvinistic Methodist chapel at Water street. Margam Urban District Sanatorium was erected in 1896 at a cost, including furnishing, of £3,200, and will hold 34 patients. In the parish are several monoliths, one of which is eight feet high and bears an inscription in rude and imperfect characters. Here are remains of a Cistercian abbey, founded by Robert Fitz-Hamon, Earl of Gloucester, July 31, 1147: the west front exhibits three windows above a recessed portal: the nave, Late Norman, retains a portion of its arcade and a few fragments of the east end are also left: the unique chapter house, Late Early English, is 50 feet in diameter and has 12 sides, with a vestibule of 3 alleys, 28 feet long: the nave was of six bays, and the total internal length 272 feet: part of the common house and the undercroft of the infirmary are still standing: King John, with his troops, when on the march to Ireland, was entertained here. About a mile from the abbey was a convent of nuns, called Eglwys Nunydd, or the Nuns' Church; at the dissolution of the abbey it was sold to Sir Rice Mansel knt; it afterwards came into the possession of the Talbots, heirs to the Mansels, and is now occupied as a farmhouse. Margam Abbey is the seat of Capt. Andrew Mansel Talbot Fletcher; the mansion is a handsome structure in the Tudor style, built in 1830; the park is seven miles in circumference, and has been long celebrated for its pleasure grounds; the principal feature is the Orangery, which owes its origin to a shipwreck near here of a vessel conveying from Portugal a consignment of orange and lemon trees, and, being stranded, the plants became the property of the lord of the manor. From the top of the hills a view of the beautiful Bay of Swansea may be obtained, and the character of the scenery generally, from its rich woodlands and mountains, is picturesque in the extreme. Capt. Andrew Mansel Talbot Fletcher is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is various, having underneath it the coal measures. The land is chiefly in pasture. The area is 18,144 acres of land, 273 of water, 23 of tidal water and 926 of foreshore; rateable value, including Port Talbot, £99,808; the population in 1901 was 9,014 and in 1911, 14,713, including 316 on board vessels.

The population of the wards in 1911 was—Central, 3,948; East, 783; North, 1,769; West, 8,213.

The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 711.

MERTHYR DOVAN (or Dyfan) is a village on the shores of the Bristol Channel, 1½ miles north-west from Cadoxton station on the Barry railway, 1½ miles from Barry, and 7 west from Cardiff, in the Llandaff and Barry division of the county of Glamorgan, Dynas Powis hundred and petty sessional division, Cardiff union and county court district, rural deanery of Barry and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. This is not now a separate civil parish, it having for those purposes only been amalgamated with that of Barry. The church of St. Dyfan is a small building of stone in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western tower containing 3 bells: the church was restored in 1857 at a cost of £500, including a new roof and windows, and has since been resecated, and in 1909 the tower was restored: there are now 70 sittings. The register of marriages dates from the year 1754 and baptisms and burials 1813. The living is a rectory, net income £236, in the gift of Mrs. Jenner, and held since 1903 by the Rev. David Weatherill L.Th. of Durham University, who resides at Barry. Near Merthyr Dovan church is a cemetery of 3½ acres, formed at a cost of £350, and enlarged in 1892 to 12 acres 2r. 20p. at a cost of £1,700; it is under the control of the Barry Urban District Council, and has a mortuary chapel, erected in 1893 at a cost of £1,200, and a caretaker's house, built at a cost of £500 in 1891. St. Paul's church is in Barry. The principal charities, left by John Richards, of Barry, and the Rev. Edward Powell, of Brynhill, have been consolidated by the Charity Commissioners for £2 3s. yearly, which is distributed to the poor at Christmas in bread. Mrs. Jenner is lady of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is clay; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat and oats, but the land is mostly in pasture. The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 5,512, which includes Holton and part of Barry.

MERTHYRMAWR is a parish on the river Ognore and with large sand-hills bordering on the sea, 2½ miles south-west from Bridgend station on the Great Western railway, in the Ognore division of the county of Glamorgan, Ognore hundred, Bridgend and Cowbridge union and Bridgend county court district, Newcastle and Ognore petty sessional division, and in the rural deanery of Upper Gorneath (eastern division) and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. The church of St. Teilaw is a building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western turret containing 2 bells: there are 120 sittings. In 1900 there was discovered in the churchyard a stone, bearing the inscription, "Pauli filii," and a large and deeply-cut character resembling the Greek capital letter Omega: a final and several ancient crosses were also met with. The register dates from the year 1749. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £714, with residence, in the gift of the Archdeacon of Llandaff, and held since 1890 by the Rev. Morgan Evanson B.Sc. of the University of Glasgow. A vicarage house was erected in 1896 at a cost of over £1,100. Here are the ruins of Candleston Castle. Merthyrmawr House is the seat of Lieut.-Col. John Ilyd Dillwyn Nicholl D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is sandy clay; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are barley, oats and pasturage. The area is 2,801 acres of land, 13 of water, 11 of tidal water and 221 of foreshore; rateable value, £2,178; the population in 1911 was 189 in the civil parish, and 147 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By Local Government Board Order No. 46,365, dated April 1st, 1905, part of Coity Lower was added to Merthyrmawr, for civil purposes.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.

ABERCANAID, ABERFAN, CYFARTHFA, DOWLAIS, MERTHYR VALE, HEOLGERRIG, PEN-Y-DARRAN, PLYMOUTH, TREHARRIS AND QUAKER'S YARD, TROED-Y-RHIW, TWYN-Y-RODYN AND TYDFIL'S WELL.

MERTHYR TYDFIL, or Merthyr Tydvil, is a parliamentary, municipal and county borough, market and union town, the head of a county court and bankruptcy court district, and a populous parish, hundred of Caerphilly, and in the rural deanery of Merthyr Tydfil, and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff; it is distant from London by railway, via Cardiff, 184 miles, from Bristol, by the Bristol and South Wales railway, 64 miles, Cardiff 24, Swansea 30, Neath 18, Aberdare 5, Pontypridd 12 and Llanelli 39; the junctions of the Vale of Neath railway with the Great Western railway (proper), with which it was amalgamated by Act of Parliament in 1866, are at Neath and Swansea. The Brecon and Merthyr line also runs into the Great Western railway station here and exercises running power as far as Rhydear junction, a distance of about half a mile, being the place at which the former line joins the latter. The Mid Wales railway joins the Brecon and Merthyr line at Talyllin, the Great Western at Maescymmer and the Rhymney railway at Bargoed. The Brecon railway runs from Brecon to Newport. There is also the Taff Vale railway extending from Merthyr Tydfil to Cardiff, which has junctions at Aberdare, Pontypridd, Llantrisant and Walnut Tree Bridge. The Great Western railway station is now a joint station and a terminus for the following companies, viz., the Great Western Railway Company, the Taff Vale Railway Company, the Rhymney Railway Company, the London and North Western Railway Company and the Brecon and Merthyr Railway Company.

Merthyr Tydfil is situated in the highest part of Glamorganshire, among rough, bleak mountains. The neighbourhood abounds with heaps of cinders, the refuse from the mines; those at the junction of the Taff and Morlais command a fine view of the town and the vale; some of these cinder heaps, having cooled and consolidated, have been built on. From this spot may be seen Dowlais, the grounds belonging to the Pen-y-Darran House, Cyfarthfa Castle, and the iron works, with the romantic scenery of Cefn-Coed-cymmer, the town of Merthyr, and the hills near Quaker's Yard. The celebrated geologist De la Beche described the growth of Merthyr Tydfil as more rapid than that of any town in the United States. The locomotive engine constructed by Richard Trevethick is said to have been first started on the old Merthyr Tydfil tram road in 1804, having been patented by Messrs. Vivian and Co. in 1802; it was then stated to have drawn ten tons of bar iron at the rate of five miles an hour, but did not come into anything like general use for the carriage of goods till ten years afterwards. The usual mode of transmitting goods and iron was formerly by canal, but the Taff Vale railway opened from Merthyr to Cardiff on the 1st of May, 1847, and the Rhymney railway, opened to Dowlais Iron and Steel works in 1873 and to Cyfarthfa works afterwards, have become the great connecting link between the iron works and the Cardiff Docks; there are however three other railway companies which connect Merthyr with the principal towns and ports in the kingdom. Great improvements have been made from time to time in the manufacture of iron and steel, every requisite for the reduction of the ore (nearly all of which is now imported from Spain) being found on the spot. The scene within the iron works at night is very interesting; the immense fire give a lurid hue to the faces of the workmen and cause them to present a most ghastly appearance; while the noise of the blast and steam rolling mills and of the massive hammers worked by steam machinery precludes the possibility of speakers being heard. The government of the town, by a royal charter granted 6th June, 1905, is now vested in a corporation, consisting of a mayor, eight aldermen, and 24 councillors, and for municipal purposes the borough is divided into eight wards.

By a Provisional Order, dated May 2nd, 1907, and confirmed by Local Government Board's Provisional Orders Confirmation (No. 8) Act (Edward VII. c. 158), the town was made a County borough on April 1st, 1908.

The town has a commission of the peace, granted 18th July, 1908, and a Police Force, established Sept. 30, 1908.

The water supply is obtained from a gathering-ground, chiefly mountain moorland, of nearly 5,000 acres, on the southern slopes of the Breconshire Beacons, in the old red sandstone formation. The impounding reservoirs are in the county of Brecon, and consist of:—The Pentwyn reservoir, having a top water area of 100 acres, and capacity of 346 million gallons, constructed in 1858; the Lower Neuadd reservoir, having a capacity of 75 million gallons, constructed in 1876; the Upper Neuadd reservoir, having a water area of 60 acres, and a capacity of 345 million gallons; Taf Fechan reservoir, now (1919) in course of construction, will have a capacity of 3,300 million gallons. The sewerage works were completed, at a cost of £104,100, by the late Local Board. The town is lighted with gas supplied by the Merthyr Gas Company, formed in 1836 and incorporated in 1863, and also by electricity.

The parliamentary borough of Merthyr Tydfil includes Aberdare, part of the parish of Llanwanno, and part of the parish of Vayner in Breconshire, and returns two members to Parliament.

The parish church of St. Tydfil in the Lower High street, originally built in the 14th century, was enlarged in 1807, and the western tower rebuilt and heightened in 1829, when also the interior was furnished with galleries: on the removal of a portion of the old church, a stone coffin was found in the foundations, containing a skeleton of great size. In 1895 the church was restored and the tower almost entirely rebuilt from designs by and under the direction of the late J. L. Pearson esq. R.A. at a total cost of £8,000, and is now an edifice in the Romanesque style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, organ chamber, vestries and a tower containing 8 bells, the gift of the 1st Lord Merthyr (d. 1914) and seven other donors: at the south-east angle of the nave is an inscribed stone of a date not later than the 9th century, and there is another ancient grave stone in the churchyard, where also several persons of note have been interred: the church now affords 800 sittings, and the services are conducted in Welsh and English. The register dates from the year 1640. The living is a rectory, with St. David's annexed, net yearly value £1,200, with residence, in the gift of the Marquess of Bute, and held since 1885 by the Rev. Daniel Lewis, of St. David's College, Lampeter, who is also a surrogate.

The church of St. David in High street, erected during the incumbency of the Rev. George Martin Maber, as a chapel of ease to the parish church, is a building of stone in the Gothic style, from designs by the late Sir Mathew Digby Wyatt kt. consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south and west porches and a western turret containing one bell: there are nine stained windows, one of which is a memorial to the late Mrs. Edwards; another was given by the 1st Lord Merthyr, in memory of his mother and sister: there are sittings for 1,250 persons, of which 950 are free. The register dates from the year 1847.

At Merthyr Vale there is a mission room seating 300, and served by the Rev. Thomas Evans B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, who is curate in charge.

The church of Tydfil's Well is a building of stone, consisting of nave and sanctuary and has 300 sittings.

St. Mary's Catholic church, at Penydarran Park, erected in 1893-4, at a cost of £5,000, and enlarged in 1904, at a cost of £3,000, is an edifice in the Early English style; consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and transepts; there are three altars: the church affords 800 sittings. The building on George Town, formerly used as the church, erected in 1850, but not consecrated, is now utilized as a section house.

The Presbyterian chapel, High street, is a building of stone, seating 750 persons.

The Presbyterian chapel, Elizabeth street, Dowlais, also of stone, has 400 sittings. The Jewish Synagogue is at the top of Thomas Town, facing High street.

For other places of worship see pages 625 and 626.

A cemetery at Cefn-coed-cymmer was formed in 1859 and comprises an area of 40 acres; the Ffrwd cemetery, comprising 50 acres, at CEFN, was opened in 1905; the cemetery at Aberfan was formed in 1877, and comprises an area of 6 acres; Beechgrove cemetery was formed in 1888 and contains 3 acres, the whole being under the control of the Merthyr Corporation. The Jewish cemetery is at Cefn-coed-cymmer.

The Town Hall, which stands in the High street, is a structure of red brick with terra cotta dressings in the Renaissance style, from designs by Mr. Ernest Arthur Johnson F.R.I.B.A. of Abergavenny and Merthyr, and was erected in 1896-8 at a cost of about £23,000, and contains various public offices, the county court offices, county court and vestry hall &c.

The Temperance Hall, in John street, erected in the year 1852, has a gallery and fixed platform, and will hold upwards of 900 people.

The Drill Hall was built by public subscription in 1866, at a cost of £2,000.

The Merthyr Library, Church street, has upwards of 6,000 volumes and a special reference library. The Central Reading Rooms are in the Arcade, High street.

The Merthyr Constitutional Club, situated in Masonic street, contains a large reading room and billiard, card, lecture hall and committee rooms &c. and has about 300 members.

A market is held on Saturday for provisions and is well attended. The Market Hall is a very large building, erected at the joint expense of the late William Thomas and William Meyrick esqrs. Fairs are held in the town on March 18th, June 18th and November 18th.

The Theatre Royal and Opera House was built in 1893-4 by a company, on the site of the old wooden structure, at a cost of £8,000; it will seat 1,800 persons.

At Merthyr Vale is one of the largest collieries in South Wales, belonging to Nixon's Navigation Company Ltd.; the output is upwards of 16,000 tons per week.

There is also an iron foundry and brewing and flannel weaving are also carried on here.

Lloyds Bank Limited (Brecon Old Bank), Barclays Bank Ltd, National Provincial and Union Bank of England Limited and the London Joint City and Midland Bank Limited have branches here.

The principal hotels and posting houses in the town are the "Bash" and the Central hotel.

The Plymouth iron works and collieries, to the south of Merthyr, were purchased in 1863 of the representatives of Mr. Anthony Hill and are now carried on by Hill's Plymouth Co. Limited; they consist of three separate works, viz. Plymouth, Pentrebach and Duffryn. In connection with the iron works are six collieries, yielding on an average upwards of 2,000 tons per day. At the South Duffryn pits are an immense pumping engine and two pairs of large air compressor engines. Electric power is very extensively used at these collieries for lighting, pumping and haulage; the electric lighting is also extended to the adjoining village of Abercanaid.

Merthyr General Hospital, founded in 1887, is a structure of red brick in the Queen Anne style, erected at a cost, including the site and furnishing, of £6,000. An accident receiving ward was added in 1897 at the cost of Sir William Thomas Lewis bart. G.C.V.O. afterwards 1st Baron Merthyr (d. 1914); in 1907 the large ward was extended and a children's ward added. There are 42 beds.

Lord Colum E. Crichton-Stuart is lord of the manor.

The principal landowners are the Earl of Plymouth G.B.E., P.C., C.B. Crawshaw Brothers, Cyfartha Ltd. Guest, Keen and Nettelfolds Limited, Lord Lambourne P.C., C.V.O. the trustees of the late Richard Christopher Thomas esq. (Court Estate), and Mackintosh (Estate); Lieut.-Col. Stuart Williams Morgan, trustees of the Mardy Estate, Messrs. Fothergill and Seddon, joint owners, the Rev. Daniel Lewis, as rector of Merthyr, in respect of glebe land, and the Rev. Llewelyn M. Williams, rector of Dowlais.

The soil is clay; subsoil, loamy.

Merthyr Tydfil parish comprises Abercanaid, Cyfartha, Dowlais, George Town, Heolgerrig, Pen-y-darran, Pontmorlais, Plymouth, Thomas Town, Troed-y-Rhiw, Twyn-y-rodyn, Tydfils Well, Merthyr Vale, Trebarris and Quaker's Yard.

The area of the civil parish and borough is 17,500 acres of land and 261 of water.

The borough is divided into 8 wards, viz. :-

Included in the total population was 597 inmates and 48 officials and their families in the Poor Law Institution, 60 in the general hospital and 89 in the South Wales and Monmouthshire Short Term Industrial School.

The population of the ecclesiastical parish of Merthyr Tydfil (St. Tydfil with St. David) in 1901 was 22,382, and in 1911, 28,927.

The area of the parliamentary borough is 17,761 acres; the population in 1911 was 143,849, viz., Aberdare, 50,830; Mountain Ash and Llanwunno (part of), 26,455; Merthyr Tydfil, 63,621 and Vaynor, Brecon (part of), 2,963.

DOWLAIS, 2 miles north-east, was formed into an ecclesiastical parish in 1837, and has stations on the Great Western, Rhymney and London and North Western railways, and a station at Dowlais Top, on the Brecon and Merthyr railway. The church of St. John, founded by the late Sir John Guest, was restored and enlarged in 1894 at a cost of £4,500, under the direction of Mr. E. A. Johnson, architect, of Aberavenny, and is now a fine structure of Llanaeioch blue pennant stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, aisle, south porch and a western turret containing one bell: the new aisle was the gift of E. P. Martin esq. in memory of his father, for 25 years churchwarden; the expense of re-building the nave was borne by the first Baron Wimborne (d. 1914). There are several memorial windows and tablets to the Guest, Menelaus, Richards and Martin families; the pulpit was the gift of Mr. D. James: a new organ was provided in 1905 at a cost of £500: there are 800 sittings. The register dates from the year 1839. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £230, in the gift of the Marquess of Bute and held since 1889 by the Rev. Llewelyn Morgan Williams, of St. Aidans, rural dean of Merthyr Tydfil, and surrogate. St. Michael's church, PENGARNDU, erected in 1894, from the plans of Mr. E. M. Bruce Vaughan, architect, consists of chancel, nave, west porch, and a bell turret: there are 200 sittings, and attached is a library and institute for working men. The church, at Pant, also erected in 1895, from the plans of Mr. E. M. Bruce Vaughan, consists of chancel, nave, organ chamber, and west porch: the chancel and memorial windows were erected at the sole cost of the sons and daughters of the late W. Jenkins esq. of Consett Hall, Durham; the site was the gift of Edward Davies esq. of Bassaleg, and the Dowlais Iron Co.: there are sittings for 350 persons. The Welsh church, erected in 1871 by the Dowlais Iron Company, consists of chancel, nave, south aisle, transept, north porch and a central bell turret and will seat 1,000 persons. St. Luke's Mission church, Gellyfaelog, is an iron building, erected in 1903, and has sittings for 500 persons.

The Catholic church, dedicated to St. Lilyd, and founded in 1846, by the Rev. James Carroll, was rebuilt in 1893 at a cost of £3,590, on the same site, from the plans of Mr. Edward Kirby, of Liverpool, and is an edifice of red brick and terra cotta, consisting of sanctuary, nave and transepts; in the sanctuary is a magnificent altar and reredos, executed in Bere stone and marble; it stands 27 feet in height, and cost over £300; the new church was solemnly opened by the Right Rev. Bishop Hedley, 16 December, 1894, and will seat 700 persons. The Presbyterian church is a stone building and affords 800 sittings. The cemetery, at Pant, opened in 1860, consists of about 21 acres, and is under the control of the Merthyr Tydfil Corporation. The Oddfellows' Hall buildings, in Upper Union street, built in 1878, comprise a spacious hall, assembly room and ante-rooms, conveniently arranged and licensed for dramatic performances; the large hall will seat 1,200 persons, and is used as a music hall. Horse and cattle fairs are held at Tynywain, Dowlais Top, on May 13th, the first Monday after Trinity, September 2d and September 24th. The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1901 was 17,142, and in 1911, 18,112.

CYFARTHA, a quarter of a mile north-west from Merthyr Tydfil, is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1816. Christ Church, in George Town, on a lofty eminence, and erected in 1857, is a structure in the Decorated style, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a western turret containing one bell: there are 600 sittings. The register dates from the year 1857. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £207, with residence, in the gift of the Crown and the Bishop of Llandaff alternately, and held since 1914 by the Rev. Edward B. Davies B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, and surrogate. The Cyfartha works and collieries are the property of Messrs. Crawshaw Bros.

Cyfarthfa, Limited. Near the Cyfarthfa iron works is the northern extremity of the Glamorganshire canal, 568 feet above the sea level; it was navigable in the year 1793 only for about 12 miles from Cyfarthfa to New-bridge, but in 1795 it was made navigable for another 12 miles to Cardiff, and in June, 1798, it was opened to the sea. Formerly a railroad from Merthyr Tydfil ran parallel with the canal, but on the opposite side of the river and terminated at the basin. Cyfarthfa Castle, late the residence of the Crawshaw family, was purchased by the Corporation, in 1908, for £18,500, including the park of about 600 acres, overlooking the iron works and the town of Merthyr. It was built in 1825 by the late William Crawshaw esq. of Caversham Park, at a cost of £30,000. It is proposed to use the main reception rooms as an art gallery and museum, and the rest of the building as a secondary school for 500 boys and girls. Behind the Castle tower is Morlais height, with the remains of a very ancient fortress, once the seat of the Princes of Brecon; beyond are the Welsh hills. A fine pond of 6 acres faces the Castle. The population in 1911 was 6,795.

PEN-Y-DARRAN, 1 mile north-east, is an ecclesiastical parish formed in 1871. The church of St. John is a plain building of stone, consisting of nave and a turret containing one bell; a crypt extending under the whole length of the church was cleared out in 1895 for the use of the Church Lads' Brigade: the chancel was rebuilt in 1904 at a cost of £2,500, a new vestry added and a new altar erected in the side chapel: there are 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1861. The living is a perpetual curacy, net yearly value £275, with residence, in the gift of the rector of Merthyr Tydfil, and held since 1891 by the Rev. Daniel Evans, of St. David's, Lampeter, and surrogate. St. Mary's Mission church is an iron building, erected in 1902-3, and having 200 sittings. A parish room and mission hall was erected near the church in 1893-4; it includes reading and billiard rooms, and will seat 300 p-sons. Radcliffe Hall, erected under the auspices of the Forward Movement Committee, was opened by Miss Ethel Radcliffe, daughter of Mr. Henry Radcliffe, of Penarth, after whom the hall is named. The building, which has cost £2,350, will seat 700, and the schoolroom 400. The population in 1901 was 5,697, and in 1911, 9,893.

ABERCANAID is $\frac{1}{2}$ miles south. St. Peter's church, Abercanaid, is a small building of stone, consisting only of chancel and nave; the Rev. John Charles Keupthorne Buckley L.Div. of St. David's College, Lampeter, has been curate in charge since 1918. Merthyr Vale is 5 miles south; Pen-yr-Heolgerig is three-quarters of a mile north-west; Pontmorlais is a continuation of High street, Merthyr; Plymouth is 1 mile south; Twyn-y-Rodyn is a quarter of a mile east, and Tydfils Well three-quarters of a mile north.

There are stations on the Taff Vale railway at Merthyr Vale and Quaker's Yard, and on the Great Western and Rhymney at Abercanaid, Aberfan and Treharris.

TREHARRIS is a large modern village and township, formed into an ecclesiastical parish by Order in Council, May 22nd, 1900, from the parishes of Merthyr Tydfil and Gelligaer: the village stands on an elevated site above the river Taff, with a station on the Great Western railway (Pontypool and Neath section) and a joint station at Quaker's Yard junction (Taff Vale, Rhymney and Great Western railways), 1 mile distant, 176 miles from London, $\frac{7}{8}$ miles south-east of Merthyr Tydfil, 6 north of Pontypridd and $\frac{7}{8}$ miles south-east of Aberdare, in the county borough of Merthyr Tydfil. The place is lighted with gas, supplied by the Quaker's Yard Gas Company: there is also here a balancing reservoir belonging to the Cardiff Corporation Water Works. The church of St. Matthias, erected in 1896, at a cost of £3,500, on a site given by Lord Lamhourne, is a building of stone in the Gothic style, and consists of nave, north aisle, porch, and turret containing one bell, and will seat 365 persons. The living is a vicarage, yearly value £286, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1912 by the Rev. James Thomas L.Div. of St. David's College, Lampeter. St. Mary's chapel of ease, TRELEWIS, erected in 1886-7, at a cost of £1,100, is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, and a turret containing one bell: it will seat 250. There are several Dissenting chapels. The County Police Station, in Edward street, erected in 1885, affords quarters for a superintendent and 4 constables, and the Borough Police Station, in Perrott street, for a sergeant and 4 constables. The Public Hall and Institute, in the centre of the village, was built in 1892, at a cost of £3,300, and has a gallery and a stage, cloak rooms and dressing rooms: the building also includes a reading room, library, recreation and committee rooms, and a music hall. The library and reading rooms are supported by contributions deducted monthly from the workmen's wages: the library contains about 2,500 volumes. The Free Library and Reading Rooms, presented by the late Andrew Carnegie esq. (d. 1919), in Perrott street, were erected in 1909, at a cost of £2,500: the building is of red brick with white stone dressings. The cemetery of 5 acres belonging to the Merthyr Tydfil Corporation was opened in 1888, and is near Quaker's Yard railway station. Coal mining is almost the sole industry: the colliery pit here, which is being worked by the Ocean Coal Co. Limited, is said to be the deepest in South Wales, being 755 yards in depth. Glyn Bargoed House is the residence of William Watkin Leigh esq. J.P. The "Royal" is the principal commercial hotel. Lord Lambourne P.C., C.V.O. Alfred Thomas esq. Mrs. Evans and Thomas Prichard esq. are the chief landowners. The population in 1911 was 7,157.

BEDLINO is an ecclesiastical parish formed by an Order in Council, gazetted 28th June, 1912, from the parish of St. Matthias, Treharris. The parish is co-extensive with that part of Gelligaer formerly in Treharris ecclesiastical parish. The church of St. Cadoc, erected in 1912 at a cost of about £3,000, is a building of blue pennant stone, and consists of a Norman apsidal chancel with nave and vestries. The register dates from the year 1912. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £200, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1916 by the Rev. David Davies B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The population in 1911 was 4,810.

TROEDYRHIW is situated in the ecclesiastical parish of Pentrebach, 3 miles south-east from Merthyr, with a station on the Taff Vale railway, in the county borough of Merthyr Tydfil, hundred of Caerphilly. The ecclesiastical parish of PENTREBACH was formed in 1860 from that of Merthyr Tydfil. The church of St. John the Baptist, erected in 1852, is an edifice in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, transepts and a western turret containing one bell: in the chancel is a memorial window to the late Anthony Hill esq. d. 2 Aug. 1862: the church has 400 sittings, all free. The register dates from the year 1860. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, with residence, in the gift of the Church Patronage Society, and held since 1891 by the Rev. Peter Williams, of Queen's College, Birmingham, and surrogate. St. David's church, which seats 280 persons, is used for Welsh services only. There are also Baptist, Calvinistic Methodist, Congregational and Wesleyan chapels. The population of Pentrebach ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 8,699.

MICHAELSTON-SUPER-AVON with CWMAVON.

MICHAELSTON is a parish, divided into the townships of Higher and Lower Michaelston, 1½ miles north-east from Aberavon, 2 miles north-east from Port Talbot railway station, on the Newport and Swansea section of the Great Western railway, 7 miles south from Neath and 18½ from London, in the Aberavon division of the county of Glamorgan, hundred of Neath, petty sessional division of Aberavon, Neath union and county court district, rural deanery of Upper Groncath (western division) and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. The river Avon runs through the parish, which is surrounded by hills varying from 1,200 to 1,400 feet high. The parish church of St. Michael, Cwmavon, which has been enlarged, is an edifice in the Norman style, and consists of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and a small embattled western tower, with spire, containing 2 bells; in the chancel is a fine stained window, erected by the parishioners; the stone altar slab appears to have been formerly a tombstone; the old font was found in a rubbish heap in 1911 and replaced in the church; the church was restored in 1850 at a cost of £900, again in 1897 at a cost of £300, and was again restored and redecorated in 1910, in memory of Dr. Edward and Mrs. Pratt, by their daughter, Mrs. Bankes-Williams, wife of the present vicar; there are 350 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1875; marriages, 1786. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, with residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1890 by the Rev. David Bankes-Williams B.A., B.D. of St. David's College, Lampeter, and surrogate. A piece of land of about 1½ acres was given by the 7th Earl of Jersey (d. 1915) in 1885, for an additional burial ground. All Saints', Cwmavon, a chapel of ease to St. Michael's, is a structure of Welsh sandstone, with Forest stone dressings, erected in 1855, at a cost of £6,000, from the designs of the late Mr. J. Pritchard, architect, of Llandaff, and consists of chancel, nave, south aisle, south porch and a lofty eastern tower of Forest stone, containing a very fine bell, manufactured at Cwmavon at a cost of about 60 guineas; the organ was presented by a gentleman connected with the copper works, and the reredos was given by the parishioners; a new east window was inserted in 1906; there are 900 sittings; the church was restored in 1910 by the present vicar; a chancel screen was presented in 1914 in memory of the late Mrs. Watkin Morris; there is also a Mission Room in connection with the church, which was built in 1890; it is a stone building and will seat 850 persons. The Earl of Jersey is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is sand and gravel; subsoil, coal and ironstone. Wheat is grown and there is some land in pasture. The area is—Michaelston Lower, 580 acres of land and 8 of water; Michaelston Higher, 2,400 acres of land and 10 of water; rateable value, £6,730, the population in 1911 was—Higher 1,297, and Lower 5,538, which is the part of the parish included in the Swansea District parliamentary division. The population of the ecclesiastical parish of Michaelston-super-Avon in 1911 was 6,281 (which includes Higher and Lower Michaelston and parts of Aberavon and Glyn-corrwg).

Parish Clerk, John Leyshon Thomas, 3 Michaelston terrace.

CWMAVON is a village in this parish, in Michaelston Lower township, 2 miles north from Port Talbot, with a station on the Rhondda and Swansea Bay railway; it is almost entirely occupied by collieries and tinplate works. The village is supplied with gas and water from works the property of the Neath Rural District Council. An additional supply of water from Ystradfellte was provided in 1912. The Tinplaters' Institute, erected in 1894, has a billiard room attached. The Miners' Institute was converted from the Old Tynnen schools, which were acquired for that purpose in 1911.

Pwllgwlaw is a hamlet in this parish, about three-quarters of a mile north.

PONTRHYDYFEN is a village, in Michaelston Higher township, 1½ miles north from Cwmavon, and has a station on the Rhondda and Swansea Bay railway. There is a viaduct of five arches across the river at this place, connecting this parish with that of Margam. A new conventional district has been formed here from St. Theodore's, Port Talbot, and includes portions of St. Theodore's, Cwmavon and Baglan. The Rev. Evan Adams Evans B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, is the priest in charge. The stipend is £180 a year, with a residence. The Jerusalem Calvinistic Methodist chapel here was erected in 1826, and rebuilt in 1845 and 1876, and will seat 800 persons. Here is also a Baptist chapel, erected in 1856 and rebuilt in 1906, with 400 sittings.

MICHAELSTON-SUPER-ELY is a parish on the river Ely and the Cowbridge road, half a mile from St. Fagan's station on the Cardiff and Bridgend section of the Great Western railway, 4 miles west from Cardiff and 3 from Llandaff, in the Llandaff and Barry division of the county of Glamorgan, Dynas Powis hundred, Cardiff union and county court district, St. Nicholas petty sessional division, rural deanery, archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. The church of St. Michael is an ancient building of stone, in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, transept and a western tower containing a clock and one bell: there is an ancient font and some of the windows are stained.
The church was restored in 1863, and again in 1909 under the direction of Mr. Kempson, architect, and affords 44 sittings. The register of marriages dates from the year 1754; baptisms, 1761; burials, 1702.
The living is a rectory, with St. Bride's-Super-Ely annexed, joint net yearly value £304, with 170 acres of glebe here, in the gift of Mrs. Traherne, and held since 1909 by the Rev. David Jenkins B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, who resides at St. Bride's. Mrs.

Traherne is lady of the manor. The Earl of Plymouth
G.B.E., P.C., C.B. and Capt. John Glynn Richards Houfroy J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, limestone. The land is chiefly pasture.
The area is 489 acres of land and 3 of water; rateable value, £3,226; the population in 1911 was 58 in the civil parish and 169 in the ecclesiastical parish (which includes part of Peterston-super-Ely and St. Bride's-super-Ely).

MILFORD HAVEN, with HAKIN.

MILFORD HAVEN (or Old Milford), so called from its position on one of the finest harbours in the world, is a town in the county and parliamentary district of Pembroke, and with a terminal station on a branch of the Great Western railway, 257 miles from London by road, 282 by the Great Western and 308 by London and North Western railway, 8 south from Haverfordwest, 6 north-west from Pembroke, 32 from Carmarthen and about the same distance from Cardigan, in the hundred and petty sessional division of Roose, union and county court district of Haverfordwest, rural deanery of Roose, and archdeaconry and diocese of St. David's. It was formed into an ecclesiastical parish in 1801 from Steyn-ton parish, excepting the portion called Hakin, formerly in the parish of Hubberston, but formed into a separate civil parish in 1894, under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894," known as Milford. At the same date Hakin was constituted a civil parish under the name of Hakin. The town was formerly governed by a board of Improvement Commissioners, consisting of 15 members, but under the above-mentioned Act the town is under the control of an Urban District Council of the same number of members. Old Milford and Hakin form together the urban district; they are separated by water, but connected by a bridge: the town consists chiefly of three streets, Charles street, Hamilton terrace and Robert street, all of which are parallel to each other on a slope descending almost to the edge of the haven, but the town has of late years grown considerably, a number of new streets having been made. It is lighted by gas from works at Old Brewery, and supplied with water from works owned by the Urban District Council; a new water storage reservoir was constructed at Ford way in 1892, and enlarged in 1899, and now has a capacity of 3 million gallons; the water is pumped from thence into the original reservoir on the Priory road, which has a capacity of 400,000 gallons;
the filter beds and pumping station are at Priory; the supply is derived from springs rising near Robeston West.

A promenade occupies the entire length of Hamilton terrace, from which a gentle descent leads to the water; it commands fine views of the haven, with its shipping, the fortifications at the entrance, and part of the Irish Channel can be seen in the distance. Owing to its natural position, Milford is considered remarkably healthy, the broad expanse of the beautiful haven causing a gentle breeze even in the hottest weather. There are no sands here, but at the village of Herbrandston, a short distance westward, sands of a firm and beautiful description are met with, which, combined with romantic scenery and a salubrious atmosphere, make this a favourite resort for both visitors and townpeople.

Milford was formerly a very considerable port; its position on a land-locked natural harbour, capable of holding an immense fleet with an entrance upwards of a mile in width, an ample depth of water, unobstructed by any bar, and communicating at once with the Atlantic, designates this in an especial manner as the natural port for the west of England, and particularly for communication with America. The extensive docks here were at first partially constructed at an immense cost and then left in an unfinished state for many years, but afterwards completed at a total cost exceeding £1,000,000, and include a graving dock, 600 feet long; a fish dock was also opened early in 1889. The fish trade has considerably increased of late years, and in 1899 19,000 tons of fish were dispatched.

Milford port extends from Saundersfoot (limit of the port of Llanelli) to St. Justinian's Chapel, near St.
David's Head (limit of the port of Cardigan).

The church of St. Catharine, at the east end of Hamilton terrace, and erected by the Hon. C. F.
Greville, is an edifice in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, vestry, and a western tower containing a clock and 8 bells: the foundation stone was laid by Admiral Lord Nelson, when on a visit to Sir William Hamilton: his lordship presented to the church the truck of the mainmast of the French ship

“L'Orient,” sunk at the battle of the Nile. There is also here an Egyptian porphyry urn, presented by Bishop Pocock: the church was enlarged and restored in 1907 at a cost of £6,000: there are 700 sittings. The register dates from the year 1808. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1894 by the Rev. Edmund John Howells B.D. of St. David's College, Lampeter, and surrogate. A new vicarage was built in 1900 at a cost of £2,400. The Mission Church of St. Peter the Fisherman, in St. David's road, erected in 1896, is a structure of iron and zinc, with a parish room, and will seat 300 persons. The Catholic church, dedicated to St. Francis of Assisi, is in Priory road. The Baptist chapel, in the North road, erected in 1878-9, at a total cost of about £3,000, is an edifice of blue limestone, with Bath stone dressings, and has an apse and vestries in the rear: there are 720 sittings. The Congregational chapel, in Charles street, erected in 1911, has 600 sittings; the Calvinistic Methodist chapel, in Hill street, Hakin, was built in 1840, and has 300 sittings; the Wesleyan chapel, in Priory road, erected in 1857, seats 300, and that at Hakin point 250. A cemetery of 2½ acres was formed in 1880 at a cost of £1,500, and contains a mortuary chapel; it is controlled by the Urban District Council.

The Market house in Charles street, built under the powers of a private Act of Parliament obtained by Sir William Hamilton in 1790, belongs now to the Milford Haven Estate. The Masonic Hall, in Hamilton terrace, a building of stone, will hold 650 persons, and is licensed for theatrical and musical performances, lectures &c. The Lord Nelson hotel, opened at the close of the last century, overlooks the haven; and in the spacious ball-room attached, Lord Nelson and Lady Hamilton frequently danced: an original painting of the famous admiral remained for some time in a panel at the end of the room, but having received some damage, it was removed and presented by the Hon. Fulke Greville to the Admiralty, and is now in the gallery at Greenwich Hospital.

The fishermen and Seamen's Institute and Reading Room, in Charles street, is for the sole use of sailors and fishermen. The St. Andrew's Waterside Church Mission has a well-appointed room, with a library attached, in Charles street, for the use of the fishermen. The Trafalgar Institute for Seafarers, erected at a cost of £2,000, is also in Charles street. The area of Milford Haven Urban District is: Milford, 536 acres of land, 1 of inland water, 2 of tidal water and 92 of foreshore; assessable value, £11,422; Hakin, 341 acres of land, 3 of tidal water and 76 of foreshore; assessable value, £3,377; the population in 1911 was 8,000, of whom 4,863 were in Milford (including 149 on board vessels) and 1,536 in Hakin, including 95 on board vessels and 4 military and 9 other inmates of Fort Hubberston.

The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 4,807.

MOUNT is a parish in the county of Cardigan, on the shores of Cardigan bay, $\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Cardigan station, on the Whitland and Cardigan branch of the Great Western railway, 4 from Aberporth, and $\frac{1}{2}$ from Cardigan, in Troedyraur hundred, Cardigan union and county court district, Troedyraur (Lower) petty sessional division, and in the rural deanery of Sub Aeron, archdeaconry of Cardigan and diocese of St. David's. This place has a fine sandy beach, affording an extensive and lovely prospect of Cardigan bay, the Carnarvonshire coast and Bardsey island. The church of the Holy Cross, which occupies a lonely site at the foot of a hill called "Y. Poel," is a plain but ancient edifice of native stone, consisting of chancel and nave and a belfry, containing one bell: the east window exhibits curious carving, and the entrance doorway is of Norman date: the windows on the side towards the sea have been blocked up: the roof is of massive timber framing; there is a font of green stone and a chalice of Latin brass. The church was re-seated in 1853, when a new two-decker pulpit with a sounding board, and a reading desk were added; there are 80 sittings: the services are wholly in Welsh. The registers date from 1813. The living is a vicarage, net income £80, in the gift of the trustees of the late Edward Hugh Culley esq. and held since 1912 by the Rev. John Jones B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, who is also vicar of Verwick, and resides at St. David's Cottage, Gwbert-on-Sea. Half way between the church

Williams esq. the principal landowner, is a handsome mansion in the Italian style; there is supposed to be a passage leading from the grounds to St. Dogmael's Abbey. The soil is light loam; subsoil, rock. The chief crops are barley, oats and some pastures. The area is 1,022 acres; rateable value, £699; the population in 1911 was 51.

MOUNTAIN ASH

MOUNTAIN ASH is a town and an ecclesiastical parish, formed from the civil parishes of Aberdare and Llanwanno in 1863; it is in the Aberdare division of the parliamentary borough of Merthyr Tydfil, hundred of Miskin, petty sessional division of Higher Miskin, Merthyr Tydfil union, Aberdare county court district, rural deanery of Aberdare, and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff, and was governed by a Local Board from 1867 until the "Local Government Act, 1894," established the present Urban District Council; it is in the Aberdare valley and is environed on both sides by the mountains, which rise to a considerable height and afford fine views of the valley and surrounding country. Mountain Ash has two stations, one on the Aberdare branch of the Taff Vale railway and the other on the Pontypool and Swansea branch of the Great Western railway; it is 4 miles south-east from Aberdare, 18 north-east from Cardiff and 178 from London by road and 163 by the Great Western railway. The town is supplied with water from works at Clydach Valley and Darranlas, the property of the Urban District Council; there are two reservoirs of 12,000,000 and 3,000,000 gallons respectively. The gas works are situated at Penrhwiweiber; they were erected in 1887 and are the property of the Urban District Council. The church of St. Margaret, erected in 1862, chiefly at the expense of the late John Bruce-Pryce esq. of Duffryn, Cardiff, at a cost of about £4,500, is a building of stone in the Gothic style, consisting of apsidal chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and an east tower containing 6 bells: an organ was erected in January, 1875, at a cost of £300; in 1884 the church was enlarged at a cost of £1,000, and in 1898 further enlarged at a cost of £3,000; there are 900 sittings. The register dates from the year 1862. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1914 by the Rev. John Llewelyn Croft L.Div. of St. David's College, Lampeter, and surrogate. St. Dyfrig's mission church, at Newtown, was built in 1887, at a cost of £510, and affords 240 sittings. St. Hltyd's mission church at Cefn-pennar, was built in 1904, at a cost of £900, and has 240 sittings; attached is a reading room. MISKIN is an ecclesiastical parish formed from the parish of St. Margaret by Order in Council dated July 19, 1910. The church of St. John the Baptist, erected in 1909, built in stone in the depressed Gothic style, consists of nave, north and south aisles, chancel, organ chamber and vestries. The register dates from the year 1910. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £200, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1916 by the Rev. Joshua Llewellyn Davies B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. St. David's Welsh mission church, Miskin, built in 1887, at a cost of £1,650, is an edifice in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, north transept and a baptistery for adults; there are 310 sittings. The Catholic chapel here is dedicated to Our Lady. The cemetery, of 3 acres, was formed in 1865, the land having been given by John Bruce-Pryce esq.; it contains two mortuary chapels of stone, in the Gothic style, with a turret containing one bell, and is under the control of the Urban District Council, acting as the Burial Board, who have purchased a plot of ground measuring 2½ acres to enlarge the cemetery, and who also have two other cemeteries at Abercynon and Ynysyawl. The old Town Hall, erected in 1864, at a cost of £1,000, is the property of the Urban District Council; but a new Town Hall was erected in 1904, at a cost of £4,500. There are three branch banks in the town, viz. Barclays Bank Limited, Lloyds Bank Limited, and the London Joint City and Midland Bank Limited. St. Teilo's parish hall and club rooms, at Miskin, was built in 1890, at a cost of £700, and enlarged in 1892, at a cost of £500; is also used for Sunday school and children's service; it contains billiard, reading and recreation rooms; there are also reading rooms in Miskin road. Nixon's Workmen's Institute, Library and Public Hall was erected in 1899, at a cost of £8,000, by the workmen of Nixon's Navigation Collieries. The building contains library, reading, lecture, and other rooms, and has also a large theatre, seating 1,500 persons, which is let for public entertainments, theatricals &c.; there is also a billiard room, gymnasium and games room; the sittings of the magistrates, the board of guardians and the county court are also held here. In the basement is a good swimming bath, 54 feet in length. The St. Margaret's Young Men's Club was opened in 1912; the building site, which was the gift of Lord Aberdare, contains billiard and reading rooms. The Cottage Hospital, in Granville terrace, erected in 1897 by Lady Aberdare, has 17 beds and a cot; about 12 patients are treated annually; the hospital is supported by subscriptions. The Hospital for Infectious Disease Llanwanno road, was erected in 1892, at a cost of £1,900, and has 12 beds. The Victoria Pleasure Ground and Park, given to the town by Lord Aberdare and the overseers, and opened in 1897, is 7 acres in extent pleasantly situated on the hill side overlooking the town, and has been tastefully laid out at a cost of £1,700. There are also pleasure grounds at Penrhwiweiber containing about 4½ acres and opened in 1908. Duffryn House is the seat of Lord Aberdare, D.L., J.P. The principal landowners are Lord Aberdare, Henry Seymour Allen esq. D.L., J.P. and Lord Wharton. The soil is principally clay; subsoil, various Chief crops, oats, potatoes, roots and pasturage. The Urban District is co-extensive with the civil parish of Llanwanno, and comprises 10,407 acres of land and 97 of water; rateable value included with Aberdare the population in 1901 was 31,093, and in 1911 was 42,246.

The population of the wards in 1911 was: Abercynon 9,109; Darranlas, 6,417; Duffryn, 5,613; Miskin, 7,142; Penrhwiweiber, 8,816; Ynysyawl, 5,149.

The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 13,634.

The population of Miskin ecclesiastical parish in 1911 was 5,832.

PENRHWICEIBER is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1897; it is 1½ miles south-east from Mountain Ash, and has stations on the Great Western and Taff Vale railways. St. Winfred's church, erected in 1883, at a cost of £1,900 is an edifice of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel with south aisle, transepts and nave; the pulpit is of Bath stone; the church was enlarged in 1888, at a cost of £700, and affords 410 sittings. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £180, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1904 by the Rev. John Richard Jones, of the University College of North Wales, at Bangor. Here is a church hall, erected 1910, at a cost of £1,412, used for Sunday school, social gatherings &c. The ground floor is used as a young men's club. The Workmen's Institute and Public Hall was built in 1888, at a cost of £2,000, and consists of reading and billiard rooms, and a library of over 1,000 volumes. A small hall, a branch of the Nixon's Workmen's Institute, was erected in 1907, and contains a reading room and hall. There is also a large hall capable of seating 600 persons, which is let for public meetings &c. and is supported by deductions from the wages of the workmen of Nixon's colliery; addition were in 1900 carried out at a cost of nearly £1,000. The population in 1911 was 9,723.

MOYLGROVE, called in Welsh "Trewyddel," is a parish and village on the north-east coast of the county of Pembroke, 5 miles south-west from Cardigan station on a branch from Whitland junction of the Great Western railway, and 5½ from Newport, in Kemmes hundred, Cardigan union and county court district, Cemmes petty sessional division, and in the rural deanery of Kemmes. The archdeaconry of Cardigan and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Andrew, restored in 1866, is an edifice of stone, consisting of chancel (rebuilt at the restoration), nave, aisles, south transept and a western tower with spire, containing 2 bells: in the church are monuments to the Rev. D Morgan, a former vicar, and to Messrs. E. E. and Owen Phillips: there are 150 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1771; marriages, 1781; burials, 1783. The living is a vicarage, net income £162, with glebe (£176), and residence. In the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1896

the Bishop of Llandaff, who provides a clergyman to conduct an occasional service. The Bishop of Llandaff is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is clay; subsoil, carboniferous limestone. The chief crops are oats and barley. The area is 339 acres; rateable value, £278; the population in 1911 was 17.

MYDDFAI (or Mothvey) is a parish and village in the Carmarthen division of the county of Carmarthen and on the river Towy, 3 miles south-east from Llandovery station and 5 north-east from Llangadog station, both on the Claven Arms and Llandilo branch of the London and North Western railway, in the hundred of Perwith, petty sessional division, county court district and union of Llandovery, and in the rural deanery of Llangadock, archdeaconry of Carmarthen and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Michael is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a belfry containing one bell: the church was restored in 1874 at a cost of £803, and further restorations were effected in 1877, costing £31, and in 1886 at a cost of £102: there are now 280 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from 1655; burials, 1653; marriages, 1654. The living is a vicarage, net income £200, with 6 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1914 by the Rev. David Jonathan Evans B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. There are three Congregational chapels, one (Seion) in the village, erected in 1816, seating 300; another (Sardis) in the Lower Hamlet, founded in 1780, which has 200 sittings, and another (Byleyrhiw), erected in 1876, seating 130; also a Methodist chapel. A sum of £18, arising from a bequest of Morgan Owen, Bishop of Llandaff 1640-60, is annually distributed to the poor. The trustees of Earl Cawdor, who is a minor, are lords of the manor. James P. W. Gwynne-Holford esq. and Mrs. Betty are the principal landowners. The soil is clay. Chief crops, wheat, barley, oats and roots. The area comprises 11,768 acres of land and 103 of water; rateable value, £3,571; the population in 1911 was 602.

NANTMEL is a parish, in the county of Radnor, on the river Dulais, and on the high road from Rhayader to New Radnor, 4 miles from Penybont railway station on the London and North Western railway, 4½ from Rhayader, and 4½ from Llandrindod Wells, in Rhayader hundred, union, county court district and petty sessional division, Malineth-ultra-Ithon rural deanery, archdeaconry of Brecon and diocese of St. David's. The church of St. Cynllo, originally built in the 6th century and re-erected in the 12th century, is a plain building of stone, largely rebuilt in 1792; in 1881 it was new-roofed and reseated at a cost of £2,000, and consists of chancel, nave, porch, and a low embattled tower containing 6 bells: there is a memorial window to Dr. Connop Thirlwall, Bishop of St. David's, 1840-74; the church affords 246 sittings. In the churchyard are several yew trees. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1742; marriages, 1754. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £260, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. David's, and held since 1912 by the Rev. Godfrey Wolfe B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. In connection with the parish church there is a mission church and school on Yfa common and an iron church at the Ganfbron, built at a cost of £700, and now in the ecclesiastical parish of Rhayader. The Baptist chapel, built in 1761, enlarged in 1826, and entirely rebuilt in 1882, affords 250 sittings; there are also Methodist and Congregational chapels. Charities to the amount of £7 10s. arising from two farms, are distributed annually by the five trustees appointed by the parish council to the poor of the parish. Lake Llyngwyn is a fine semicircular piece of water, situated in the centre of the parish, and is a mile in circumference. Bryntrion, the property of Mrs. Robert Wharton Lewis-Lloyd, is now (1910) unoccupied, and Cefnfaes is the residence of John Corrie Carter esq. LL.B., J.P. The principal landowners are Mrs. Sladen and Major James Miller Gibson-Watt B.A. The soil is sandy clay; subsoil, stone and sand. The chief crops are wheat and roots, but the land is principally pasture. The area is 16,862 acres of land and 72 of water; rateable value, £13,122; the population in 1911 was 1,042, including 4 officers and 41 inmates in Rhayader Poor Law Institution, in the civil parish, and 583 in the ecclesiastical parish.

NARBERTH and ROBESON WATHEN.

NARBERTH is a pariah, market and union town, upon a river tributary to the East Cleddau, navigable to Blackpool, 3 miles from the town and flowing into Milford Haven, with a station on the Pembroke Dock and Whitland section of the Great Western railway, 1 mile east, 253 from London, 143 north-by-east from Pembroke, 10 west from Haverfordwest, and 11 north from Tenby; it is in the county of Pembroke and the head of a petty sessional division and county court district, in the archdeaconry of Narberth, rural deanery of Narberth and archdeaconry and diocese of St. David's. Narberth, in conjunction with Fishguard and Haverfordwest, were in 1833 formed into the Haverfordwest parliamentary district, under the "Reform Act, 1832" (2 and 3 Wm. IV. c. 45), and returned one member to Parliament, but under the provisions of the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1845" (48 and 49 Vict. c. 25), this district was reconstituted and enlarged, and is now in the Pembroke parliamentary district.

By Local Government Board Order No. 43,786, which came into operation April 1st, 1902, part of the civil parish of Narberth North was constituted the civil parish and Urban District of Narberth, and the town is now governed by an Urban Council of 12 members.
