Lineage

CAPT. ROGER JONES, of London; b. 1625-35; came to Virginia in 1680, "as a servant under Lord Culpeper;" returned to London in 1684-85; became a merchant in London and d. at his home in Stepney, a suburb of London, in 1701; his will was proved at Somerset House; in it he desires "to be buried at Mansfield in the church of St. Martin in the Vintry, in the grave with my late wife Dorothy, daughter of John W. of Mansfield aforesaid, Esqre," mentions his sons Frederick and Thomas, and a silver tankard "belongs to my said son Thomas and was bought with the money given him by my Lady CULPEPER." The parish register of burials at Mansfield in 1701 contains this entry, "January 6th Capt. Roger JONES." The arms displayed by Capt. Roger JONES, his sons, and descendants, are the arms of AP JONES.

Nottinghamshire, which are set out with a pedigree of the family in the Heralds Visitations of Surrey, a branch of the family having settled at Streatham in Surrey. But Capt. Roger JONES and the family in America, so far as known, always bore these arms without the snakes. However, the present Garter King of Arms writing to one of the family under date of 10th August, 1911, says: "Seeing that it is highly probably that your ancestor Capt. Roger JONES came from the AP JOHN family, I certainly think it would be better for you to use the correct Coat, which includes the snakes, on your bookplate." It is a well known ancient Welsh coat and was first assumed by Moreiddig WARWYN, son or nephew of Bleddyn AP MAENARCH, lord of Brecon, who lost his life A.D. 1094, while defending his territory against the Normans. The modernizing of the surname John, which was anciently pronounced with the "o" long as in Jone, into Jones is a transition quite familiar to genealogists. Thus, Ap John, Ap Johnes, Ap Jones, Jones. An early allusion to this family in Virginia mentions the arrival of the brothers Frederick and Thomas Jones in the colony in 1702, as "the beginning of the Ap Jones' in Virginia," and one of their descendants made inquiry at the Heralds College "if any family of Ap Jones in Eng. or Wales bore by registered lineal descent a coat armour of an ancient Ap Jones." That is they recognized that they were descended from "an ancient AP JONES" and were trying to identify the particular family through their coat of arms. The first intimation we have of the arrival in the colony of the sons Frederick and Thomas is in an instrument dated 19th December, 1702, executed by Frances LITTLEPAGE, in which she releases her dower in 2,850 acres of land in King William County, "conveyed by my said husband Richard LITTLEPAGE to Frederick JONES and Thomas JONES, Gents," by deed of same date. Capt. Roger JONES of London and Virginia, b. 1625-35; d. 1701; m. (1st) Dorothy WALKER, b. 1642, dau. of John WALKER, Esq., of Mansfield, Notts; m. (2d), Priscilla ——— d.s.p. John WALKER's mother was Elizabeth DIGBY, sister of Sir John DIGBY; his aunt Margery WALKER, m. Simon STERNE and was the mother of the Archbishop of York; from this union also descended Laurence STERNE, the author of "Tristram Shandy."

- I. Frederick, the elder son, came to Virginia in 1702, had been a merchant in London, moved to North Carolina a few years later, settled at Edenton, and d. there in 1722; he was a Captain in the Indian Wars, was a Deputy Lord Proprietor, or Member of the Council of State, and became Chief Justice of the Colony in 1718; he left a landed estate of many thousand acres which he rigidly entailed on his three sons to the exclusion of his three daughters; his will is in the office of the Secretary of State at Raleigh and is sealed with his coat of arms, viz., a fesse between three children's heads, front faced, coupé at the shoulders, impaling the Arms of Harding (his wife was a Harding); Crest. a helmet, a boy's head as in the Arms.
- II. THOMAS, d. 1757.

THOMAS JONES, came to Virginia in 1702, became a wealthy merchant and planter of Williamsburg, Virginia; he was one of the Aldermen appointed when Williamsburg first became a city, and represented the College of William and Mary in House of Burgesses; when evidently advanced in years, he m. 14th February, 1714, Elizabeth (COCKE) PRATT, widowed dau. of Dr. Wm. COCKE, Secretary of State for the Colony under Governor SPOTSWOOD, whose wife was Elizabeth CATE sister of Mark CATESBY, the naturalist; there are preserved several letters written by him in 1728 to his wife who was then visiting in England, one of which, dated "Virginia July ye 22th: 1728," is in part as follows: "There is also three Bottles Bares Grease that yr Mother sent, and the Brass plates of the Chariot and Harness the new ones must be of the same dimensions to cover the places the old ones taken from; of which there must be four Coats, and two Crests for ye Chariot and Eight Crests for the Harness. One of the Brass Topps and the Sock Screws in of the Chariot being lost, I have put up in the Box one of the Topp a Pattern to get new ones made. I shall by some other opportunity send the Toppings for the horses, which must be put in Order and a New one made to replace the Sett.

"I have sent you a Copy of my Father's Coats, his own and that of his Mother, he having a right to the latter as she was an Heiress, and as he was the only living descendant from her, which should like better than the 'tother, on I am the younger Bror it may not be my Right to make my Option, or if it is, be improper, in which you may be informed at the Heralds Office near St. James Church Yard for ha: a Guinea or a Guinea you may also be informed what I think is proper to be given, I know my father gave one but 'tis now near thirty years agoe Since I saw it at a time when I took little notice of such things, which I thought you had best take down in writing. I am very willing to have the three Coats here described Vizt., JONES, HOSKINS, WALKER, and your own in one piece as I have Seen the first three here." In the folds of these letters was a slip of paper with the same handwriting, apparently the original memorandum entered in a book which was subsequently used as an account book, from which the "Crest" referred to in the letter was doubtless taken, and which was probably cut out of the book and placed with the letters later and reads, "The Arms of Capt. Roger JONES are thus Blazoned Vizt., The field Sable, a Fesse Or between three children's heads proper, which are quartered with the Arms of HOSKINS (his mother being an Heiress of that family) who beareth in a field party per Pale Azure and Gules a Cheveron engrail'd or between three Lyons Rampant Argent. His wife was the daughter of the family of Walker of Mansfield in the County of Nottingham whose field is Azure three Annulets between nine Cinquefoils Sable, for his Crest a Helmet a head proper." The description of the Hoskins' coat in this paper is incorrect, that the colors should be transposed and read "gules and azure," instead of "azure and gules."

In "Jones of Virginia," or "Capt. Roger JONES of London and Virginia, See his Antecedents" etc., second edition, 1912, by Judge L. H. Jones of Louisville, Kentucky, see half-tone facsimiles of this paper and letter, and of the conc part of Fred'k JONES' will (Edenton, 1722) showing his signature and seal of arms, also an enlarged halftone of the seal from a sketch made direct from the will at the College of Arms, London, and Facsimile of a letter to Judge JONES from the College of Arms inclosing the sketch and describing the seal as follows: "The coat as you are aware is that of AR JOHN impaling HARDING, viz., "A fesse between three childrens heads coupé at the shoulders, impaling: On a bend three martlets, a sinister canton charged with a rose between two fleur de lys. Crest: A child's head as in the Arms."

In 1706 Thomas Jones was in London, when he received a note from Lady CULPEPER, directed to him at the Virginia Coffee House, dated "Leeds Castle December the 19th, 1706," assuring him of a welcome to Leeds Castle "whenever you please to come here," (signed) "Yr affectionate friend and Servant, Mar Culpeper."

He was again in London, 6th December, 1712, and entered into a contract with Robert CARY, merchant, for a consignment of goods to him at Williamsburg, valued at £1464 sterling. He owned several plantations from which he shipped large quantities of tobacco to London and other ports; had many transactions with their merchants, extending through a period of many years, particularly with Edward Randolph and Company, London, their accounts showing large balances due, as large as £2179.2.10 sterling, in 1730. His children were all b. in Williamsburg, presumably, where he continued to reside until 1750 when he removed to Hanover County, and d. there 21st May, 1757; m. 14th February, 1725, Mrs. Elizabeth (COCKE) PRATT, b. 29th August, 1701, widowed dau. of Dr. Wm. COCKE, Secretary of State for the Colony (under Governor SPOTSWOOD), whose wife was Elizabeth CATESBY whose mother was Elizabeth JEKYLL, of the family that owned and occupied Castle Hedingham, County Essex, England.
