SAMUEL FORREST POTTENGER graduated at Kentucky University, 1888; University of Ohio, 1889; Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle, 1891; Auditor of the American Insurance Company of Louisville, Ky.; Public Accountant and Auditor at Louisville, Ky.; Legal Accountant in the Corporation Tax Division of the United States Treasury.

Lineage

The POTTENGOERS claim descent from Walter LE POTAGER of England, b. circa 1270. This family has been seated in Berkshire since the Norman Conquest, and several of the name have served in Parliament and occupied high judicial positions in Great Britain, notably Rt. Hon. Lt.-Gen. Sir Henry POTTINGER, who was created a baronet for his long service as political resident and for some time regent in Cutch and Sind, envoy to China and superintendent of the British trade there, privy councillor, etc. The name is found in Scotland and Ireland as well as in England long before it appears in America. The connection between the POTTENGOERS of Great Britain and those of the United States has not been established, but the first of the name in this country is JOHN POTTENGER, who emigrated to the province of Maryland in Aug. 1665. There is nothing in the records to indicate the country of his birth except a reference in the probate proceedings of Prince George's Co., Md., made by the immigrant's eldest son to property "both here and in England," and the executors of this son's will praying for "further time till they have accounts from Great Britain." The immigrant was a large landholder; owned numerous slaves; a man of prominence and influence, and a staunch Presbyterian. His home place was called "Major's Lot," which was on Collington branch of the Patuxent, five
