Codicil

I Catharine Davidson do make at a Codicil to my will the following change, to-wit, I desire that my home tract of land including the mill be sold after my death and that the proceeds of the sale of said land be equally divided between Pleasant Malone and Pudence Anderson and her children and that portion of the price of said land which I devised to Pudence Anderson and her children I hereby place in the hands of my said Executors to be held and managed by them as indicated in the foregoing part of this will. It is furthermore my will that if Pleasant Malone or G. W. Anderson shall think proper to buy my home place and mill when it is sold, that either of them is to have it on a credit of one, two and three years, that is to say that if either of them shall buy said place that they are to pay for the same in three equal annual payments of one third each year. I mean that if either the said Malone or Anderson shall buy said place that the one half of the price shall be paid to the other in three equal annual installments, if neither shall buy said land then it is my will that the purchaser shall pay the whole price of said land in one year from the time of the sale and the money divided as above indicated. It is furthermore my will that if Pleasant Malone shall never marry and have children then at his death all that I have devised to him is to go to the children of my brother Joseph W. Stockton and to be theirs absolutely and forever, witness my hand, this 31st day of October 1856.
