Bullitt county court January 18th 1826

Lucy Williams for again produced in open court the paper as the will of Zealy Williams Sr^r deceased and asked the court to reconsider the former order made this day on the subject of said will. And thereupon the court took up the motion and Eliza Collings a witness was sworn in court who made that the paper now in court was made by said Williams Sr^r his last will and testament and subscribed by said Williams as such and himself and others as witnesses and that said paper contained the whole will of said decedent except the names of said decedent and witnesses Isaac Collings and Archibald Collings were sworn as witnesses in court and sworn that they believed said paper was the true last will and testament of decedent except the names aforesaid. All these witnesses swore that the testator was in his proper senses when said paper was executed and that he decedent was capable of executing such a paper whereupon said court received said will as fully proved as above and ordered that the same be recorded as the last will and testament of decedent Zealy Williams Sr^r which said will is truly entered of record as aforesaid. In my said office. Att. Noah C. Summers clerk
