(That is to say) first I give unto my beloved wife Jenny Stone the tract of land on which I now live with all its appurtenances, and also a negro girl by the name of Hannah and forty pounds in property such as she shall choose during her natural life, and further my will and desire is that she shall also have and peacefully enjoy possess or enjoy all the rest of my estate both real and personal during her widowhood but subject to the following legacies, whereas I have heretofore given to my eldest Daughter (Sally Ritchey) about thirty five pounds in property so my will and desire is that the rest of my children shall respectively have the same amount when they come of age or get married - beginning at my next Daughter (Nancy) and so forth but my will in this case is that if in the judgement of my hereafter named Executors, these legacies cannot be spared at the aforesaid time without disturbing the remaining part of the family that shall none of them have it in their power to claim the same until the youngest of them shall come of age - I also desire that my Nephew Francis Moore shall have of my estate when he comes of age a horse with twenty pounds and a new saddle provided he should live in the family until that time - and further my desire is that if in case my widow should see cause to marry again that William Stone and Henry Moore whom I hereby and appoint and ordain Executors of this my last will and testament shall pursue such measures as to them under the laws of this state shall appear best as to same and equally divide my estate amongst my children or their heirs.
