one of said subscribers John How can you write a will for me. I cannot answer now, Prudent therefore asked if he understood him in his proper sense he would tomorrow send for Joseph Hensley to write him a will if born earlier of before I get a will written I want you then to make oath and give testimony of this my last will and dying words: It is not in my mind to make any other will on earth giving anything to anyone else and the law must have a will for his family as he could make. He thus said so gave a bequest to John Say one hundred acres of land including the bank place running in to the Meanders of the h down to my house thence south as far as my purchase from Hammicks and thence running on as far as my purchase from Cooke & thence up to the line of that purchase so as to include one hundred acres of land, but I do not intend he shall have the log at little fort until he is twenty one years of age, but he may buy a cabin on it and live in it or get the profits of the place from that time and when he comes of age to have the useful little to the land besides such land I shall have enough for a new set of gunthard boys And subscriber state that they believe the said Marshallcy when he made said will was in his proper senses and that he died without making any other will and at his habitation above mentioned signed the 7th June 1844 John Jm Elizabeth ^{for}
