

I Thomas Murray of Alexandria in the District of Columbia do make and publish this my last will and testament, hereby revoking all former wills by me made.

First I give to my daughter Margaret my lot adjoining Sullivan gardens, to her and her heirs forever.

Secondly I desire that my dwelling house on Duke street in the town of Alexandria, be sold to the best advantage, by my Executors hereinafter named, and out of the monies arising from such sale that they retain the sum of one hundred dollars, to be carefully applied towards the education of my son Thomas Jefferson Murray, the balance to be applied to the payment of all just claims against me.

Thirdly I give to my daughter Margaret and my son Thomas Jefferson all the residue of my property whatsoever, and wheresoever, to be equally divided between them.

I appoint my trusty friends John Cochran and William Veitch, executors of this my last will and testament recommending to their care under all circumstances my dear children. In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand & seal this 12th day of January 1821.

Signed, sealed, published and declared by Thomas Murray to be his last will and testament in the presence of us & by us subscribed in his presence in attestation thereof.

District of Columbia Set

Be it remembered that on this 12th day of February 1821 before me Alexander Moore Register of Wills for the Town and County of Alexandria in the District of Columbia came Thomas Murray Junior, William White and Jonathan Wallace witnesses to this last will and testament of Thomas Murray deceased and proved the same in due form of law. And on the 13th day of the same month and year William Veitch one of the Executors named in the said will qualified with oath and gave bond and security according to law, and Letters Testamentary were granted him. John Cochran the other executor named therein renounced his appointment and refused to act.
