MUSTER-ROLL of Dragoon Co. "G." 1st Reg. Va. Cav. of Amelia County, Virginia
IN THE WAR IN DEFENSE OF VIRGINIA, 1861-1865.

NAMES	WHEN AND WHERE MUSTERED	BY WHOM	WHEN COMPANY WAS MUSTERED IN	REMARKS
Co. "G." Roster of the Amelia Dragoons, which constituted Co. "G." 1st Reg. Va. Cav. from the beginning to the end of the war. The Amelia Troop was organized about 15 yrs. prior to the war between the States, and was mustered into service of the Confederate States at Ashland, Va. on the 9th of May 1861. Maj. Col. (afterwards Maj. Gen.) R. S. Ewell. It was ordered to Winchester and assigned to Col. J. E. B. Stuart's 1st Reg. Va. Cav. and was designated Co. "G."

This Co. participated in all of the principal battles fought by the Army of Northern Va., besides many Cavalry engagements, from the first battle of Manassas to Appomattox C. H. The history of the first Reg. of the first brigade is its history. For it helped to make it, and wherever praise is bestowed on Gen. J. E. B. Stuart or his army, it reflects credit on Co. "G." to which in conjunction with the other Companies composing the first Reg., Gen. Stuart used to say he was largely indebted for his military achievements and promotion. We should each and every one feel a pardonable pride in having been associated with such a Reg., and with Commanders who bore so honorable a record, and filled so bright a page in history.

Roster of Officers and members.

Meisiger, Saml. S. Capt. at the start - resigned July 21st 1861. Accidentally wounded in the foot by pistol shot. Incapacitating him for active service.

Irvine, Charles R. 1st Lieut at the start; promoted Capt. July 21st 1861, promoted Maj. of the Reg. July 16, 1863. He was with, and an inseparable part of the Co. from the beginning and to him more than to any other man its officers. Even after he became Maj. of the Reg. the men still looked to him as the head of Co. "G."

MUSTER-ROLL of of Amelia County, Virginia.
IN THE WAR IN DEFENSE OF VIRGINIA, 1861-1865.

NAMES.	WHEN AND WHERE MUSTERED.	BY WHOM.	WHEN COMPANY WAS MUSTERED IN.	REMARKS.
J. M.	2 nd Lieut. at the start, promoted 1 st Lieut. July 21, 1861.			and held the office until May 1862. He was a good soldier and efficient officer.
Robert	2 nd Lieut. at the start.			Resigned at Ashland in May 1861.
Wm. R.	Elected 2 nd Lieut. in May 1861. Appointed asst. surgeon of the Reg. in May 1862.			Was detailed by Gen. Lee to attend to the wounded on the battlefield at Sharpsburg. He was a brave and capable officer - was afterwards imprisoned in Fort Mifflin.
Frank W.	Elected 1 st Lieut. at Yorktown in 1861.			Promoted Capt. July 16, 1863. Wounded in the Valley Campaign in 1864. He was one of the best men in the Co. and very popular with all who knew him. Like Paul, he towered above the rest physically, but was the most genial and companionable of men. Himself brave, he appreciated that quality in others, and was quick to detect & reward it.
Henry Allen	Elected 2 nd Lieut. in May 1862.			Promoted 1 st " July 16, 1863. A worthy officer, a good soldier and excellent man.
Richard D.	Elected Lieut. in May 1862 - promoted 2 nd Lieut. July 16, 1863.			Wounded at Cedar Creek. He had a valiant spirit in a weak body. No better man, braver soldier, nobler spirit - ever rode to battle.
Thom.	Elected 1 st Sargt. at reorganization, promoted to 2 nd Lieut. One of the most quiet, and the most resolute of men; hard to know, and when known still harder to forget.

History of Co. "C" - 23 rd Va. Inf. Vol.
This Co. was organized as a volunteer Co. by Andrew V. Scott. who became its Capt. In 1861 it was among the first to offer its services to the State. Upon inspection, however, it was reported it was found to contain too many boys under age and small to enter service. It was therefore disbanded, but reorganized almost immediately, rejected members and recruiting was sent to the Gen. Camp of Instruction in Richmond. Soon after, the 2nd Reg. of Inf. was organized at Mr. B. Talliaferro, Col. and 1st Lieut. Co., as well as the 1st Lieut. Co., formed a part of it and became "C."

It was placed under Brig. Gen. Rott. Garnett and took part in the battle of Rich Mt. and most of the Reg. captured. It was also in the battle at Cambridge, Ind. in which two men were wounded - Geo. M. Lockett being the first man lost from Amelia Co.
In 1861 the Co. became a part of J. J. Jackson's command, following him in all of his campaigns under his direct, afterwards it was commanded by Gen. Ewell.
After the first year it was re-organized with the following officers:

Company was ordered out in April 1864 and ordered to Petersburg to meet attack on that place. From Petersburg & Maltooy to protect the Bridge on the Appomattox River and Flat Creek. Spent several months there guarding these bridges - Ordered to form our regiment at the High Bridge and to Kingston, N.C. to meet a raid on the R.R. then running from Richmond to Kingston. Returned to High Bridge and spent in winter there. I was transferred to the 3rd Co. Richmond Hospital about last of Dec. '64 or the 1st Jan. '65, and know nothing of the company after that time.

REMARKS.

Beverly Holcombe Robertson, 4
No. 1431 Class of 1849

Died, November 12, 1910, at Washington, D.C. Aged 82

General Robertson, one of the distinguished cavalry officers of the Army of Northern Virginia, died at his residence in Washington, November 12th. He was one of the type of military men whose education and training began with West Point, prolonged by campaigns and skirmishing with the red men of the western plains, concluded his military career with the stirring scenes of the Civil War.

Son of Dr. William H. Robertson, he was born at The Lake in Amelia County, Virginia, June 5th 1827. He was graduated at West Point in the Class of '49 and was assigned as Second Lieutenant to Col. Chas. W. Mayo's Company E, Second Dragoons, stationed at Socorro, New Mexico. After six months at the Carlisle Cavalry School, he joined his regiment in 1850 in the Territory of New Mexico, where he remained three years, scouting and skirmishing among the Apache, Comanche and Navajo Indians. In the summer of 1855, he commanded Company E, Second Dragoons, in an expedition against the Sioux. He saw active engagements with the Sioux, Apaches and the Indians along the La Platte River and was commended for gallantry on more occasions than one. He was mentioned for exhibiting marked bravery in the Battle of Ash Hollow, when, with 350 soldiers, he held at bay a band of Indians numbering 3000 till reinforcements arrived.

Genl. Robertson took part in the Battle of Blue Water (Mame-to-nak-pala) fought September 30th, against the Brule Sioux under Little Thunder. (An incident of this portion of his western military life is related by Patrick M. Eneaney of this city, who served with Genl. Robertson in the Nebraska campaign, and who states on one occasion the Brules to the number of thousands put the number of troops on their mettle. The battle was one no member of the Second Dragoons ever forgot. They fought the Indians stubbornly from four o'clock in the morning till five o'clock at night. The Indians persisted, but the overwhelming number of horsemen finally had to yield to the faithful, well organized charge of Company E on the firing line.)

Col. Philip H. George took immediate command of all the mounted troops in his order, especially complimented Company E, Second Dragoons, in the battle with Little Thunder, and Genl. Robertson was made adjutant of the regiment till promoted to Captain in 1861. When Col. George received orders to relieve Albert Sidney Johnston in Utah in 1860, Genl. Robertson accompanied him as Assistant Adjutant-General, remaining in that Department until early in June, 1861, when he resigned from the U.S. Army, and was commissioned Colonel of Cavalry in the Volunteer Confederate States Service. He organized the Fourth Virginia Cavalry, which he commanded till the death of General Sherman, whom he succeeded as Brigadier-General, relieving Stonewall Jackson in the Shenandoah Valley.

Genl. Robertson commanded Jackson's Cavalry in the fight with Pope at Shiloh. Mountain, was in the raid which captured Poplar Hill. Dr. wagon train at Cattle Station, commanded a brigade at the Second Battle of Manassas, and fought the Battle of White Hall. (He has left interesting notes of the battles in which he participated from this time on (for which I wish I had space) till the Gettys- burg Campaign, where he did able service against General Pleasanton and later in the war commanded the coast line assigned to him between Charleston and Savannah, also in- teresting facts in regard to the en- gagements on John's Island and at Woney Hill. (At the close of the Civil War, or a few years after his return from Memphis, General Robertson came to Washington and engaged in the real estate busi- ness. He held a high and honored position in many years among men of business and of affairs of this city and socially was one of the most loved and popular of men. He did very quietly in his own home his body returned to be owned in Amelia County, Virginia. His wife who was Miss Virginia Neville Johnston, a cousin of General Joseph E. Johnston, and a famous southern beauty, left him four sons. Two, Lieut. Churchill Robertson, U. S. A., and Julius Robertson dying some years ago; Mrs. Henry Robertson, at present Consul General to Peru, and John C. Robertson, professor of languages at St. Stephen's College, Manhattan, New York. A touching tribute to the memory of General Robertson was the presence at his funeral, from St. John's Church, of his troopers who were in his old regiment during the Indian wars.
