

I the said of our own free will and full power, calling to mind the mortal state of our body and the uncertainty of our life, have made Testament in the manner and form as follows to wit: I have given and bequeathed my loving affection Elizabeth Clark wife of mine and her just debts and all my estate in my her natural life so as she thinks proper with and also I nominate my Brother George Clark as Executor of this my last will and Testament and all other Wills heretofore made shall be null and void. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this the tenth day of January Eighteen hundred and Eleven.
