they think proper. I give to my Wife all the household and Kitchen furniture that she had at the time we were married, also all she has bought made and repaired that come by her and after her decease or marrying any other man I lend to my Wife two daughters during their lives and give to their children four negroes whose names are as follows: Dick, Jacob, Rachel & Milkey Together with their increase if either of them should die without issue I give it to the other Children and if both should die without issue my Will and desires is that of their parts should be equally divided between my Wifes brother Samuel Richardson and her Sister Mary Rogers children in case my Wife should die before myself I give all the household and Kitchen furniture I possess to her two children I give to my Wife's two daughters all my money and title that I have to my part of the Rents of Richard Sharp's dead Land after the decease of my Wife I lead to my two daughters, Sarah B. Watt, and Mary C. Jones during their lives and give to their Children all of my estate that has not been given her before to be equally divided between them so as for each one's Children to have one half of either of my daughters should die, and leave no living child, my Will and desire is that the others Children should the half of my estate at the decease of both of my two daughters, if the managers of the estate of Richard Sharp's dead should call on me
