At Roanoke County Court, January 21st. 1899.

The last will and testament of David Dyerle, which was admitted to probate, on the first day of this term, was this day again produced in Court by the devisees, Wm W. Dyerle and Maggie C. Bushong, by their Counsel, upon the question of the collation and revocation of the 3^d devise, which is in the words and figures following, to-wit: I give to my sister Juliana Deaton all my interest in my Father's tract of land which she lives on at her death four hundred dollars or one half of the worth of the land to be paid to my half brother John Dyerle (lives in Ill. And thereupon W. W. Ballard and F. H. Chalmers were severally examined upon oath and testified that the words, "This I blot out", written on and across the said devise, in said will, were in the handwriting of David Dyerle, the testator, and, thereupon, it is ordered, that so much of the said order entered upon the first day of this term as required the said will to be recorded as a whole, be modified so that said will be recorded in accordance with the testimony this day produced in Court.
