Lucy McLanahan

The last will and testament of Lucy McLanahan made this 1st day of August 1854, I desire that my Grand daughter the children of my son Charles be supported out of the proceeds of my estate, until they shall be otherwise provided for either by the receipt of a sufficient amount for this purpose from the estate of their Grand father White or in some other way I wish also a sufficient sum retained to send the youngest to some good boarding school for two years, I wish also the college expenses of their brother John Henry to be paid for the next two sessions at Hapton Sidney College, including necessary clothing &c. I also desire that the means be provided out of my estate, to defray all necessary expenses of his brother, Gilbertson at some good school for two years, on his return from California, if he desires it, and employs his time at school profitably in the estimation of his teachers. Finally, with respect to the children of my son Charles, I desire that in the division of what may remain of my estate, the portion to which he would be entitled, be divided equally among his children, they to receive their fathers part and all my other children to receive for themselves an equal share of what may remain.
It is my wish that my sons Dupuy & Granville shall not be separated from their wives, and that in the division or disposition of the surplus, the dictates of humanity as far as possible, be complied with, in attention to their wishes, and avoiding the separation of husbands & wives & relatives.

by herself as she may think proper, not subject to the controul of her husband, and also that a sufficient sum of money be retained in the hands of my executor, to support my two old servants, Nelson and Willy, as long as they may live, In order, that Ellen and her children may not be separated from her husband, who belongs to Henry Hurt, I desire provided she wishes it, that they be sold
