 James Frazer, called David Woods, & the thirty four Acres I had of Ben: Wood together with her Choice of any Ten Negroes I may see disposed off and also as much of my household furniture and Stocks of any kind as she may think proper to choose, provided, that in such Choice she do not exceed in value the third part of the whole of the Slaves, Stocks and furniture, and after her death all the said Slaves with their increase (if any) together with the sold and the money arising by such sale equally divided (in like manner as is herein before mentioned) amongst all my Children and their legal should be desirous to purchase a part of this last tract of Land
