DANIEL AND SARAH STAPLES VAUGHN

Daniel Vaughn was born October 9, 1750¹, the son of Alexander and Jane Vaughn and in 1799 married Sarah Staples, daughter of Stephen and Mary Starke Staples. Sarah Staples was born May 5, 1782. in Virginia, Hanover

Daniel Vaughn bought his first tract of land in Warren County in 1805 and his next tract in Columbia County in 1811. (Deeds on record at Appling, Columbia County, Ga.)

In "Early History of Georgia Wilkes County", we find where he was one of the executors of the estate of Stephen Staples.

He lived with his family in Columbia County, Georgia, until about 1831 when he became a citizen of Twiggs County, Georgia, (formerly Wilkinson County). During his residence in Columbia County he was a Lieutenant in the Georgia Militia and served in the War of 1812.

After moving his residence to Twiggs County, Georgia, Daniel Vaughn bought large tracts of land on Gum Swamp and Rocky Creek. He also had lands in Twiggs County which had been granted his father, Alexander Vaughn.

His home was near Mt. Zion Baptist Church on the road leading from Old Shady Grove precinct to Mt. Zion Church and on to the Savannah Road.

When Daniel Vaughn moved to Twiggs County his entire family went with him. Alexander, his eldest son moved on to Dale County, Alabama, and another son, James, moved to Russell County, Alabama. His brother, James Vaughn, settled on a large plantation in Houston County, Georgia. His other children, after marrying, lived in Twiggs and nearby Counties. Some of the descendants of Daniel W. Vaughn who moved to Pulaski County, Georgia, when he married in 1832 went to Texas and one of them, James D. Vaughn, became a prominent lawyer and Judge there.

During the years Daniel Vaughn had now become a wealthy planter and slave owner, and devoted his time to his large farming interests and to the welfare of his children and grand-children, serving as guardian, administrator etc.

WILLIAM T. AND SARAH SANDERS VAUGHN

William T. Vaughn was born May 6, 1821. Cal. Co. Ga.

Sarah Sanders Vaughn was born 1823 (?) Twiggs Co. Ga.

After the death of his father and mother, William T. Vaughn became the administrator of his father's estate. The letters of administration were issued to him by Lewis Solomon, Ordinary of Twiggs County, Georgia.

The estate being a large one consisting of lands, slaves, money, etc., it required some time to wind up its affairs, and William T. Vaughn had in possession at the time of his death many receipts and other papers involving settlement of the estate.

One unique document shows the manner in which the slaves were divided among the eight heirs-at-law of Daniel Vaughn. The names of the slaves were written on numbered pieces of paper - the numbers representing the total of the heirs. The pieces of paper were shaken up in a hat and were drawn by the heirs. I quote here one of the many receipts held by William T. Vaughn as administrator:

"Georgia, Twiggs County, Dec. 16, 1854.

Received of William T. Vaughn, Administrator of the estate of Daniel Vaughn, deceased, one negro fellow named Peter, being a legal distribution share of the negroes of said estate belonging to Julia Ann Harrison, her distribution share of said negroes.

D. S. Harrison."

There were many more of these receipts, representing cash money and slaves.

Having married Sarah Sanders on March 19, 1844, William T. Vaughn had established his residence in Twiggs County and had begun the accumulation of property, lands and slaves. After the death of his father and mother he came into possession of large holdings of land and became one of the largest land-owners in Twiggs County at that time. In addition to his holding in Twiggs County, he had large acreage in other counties. In Colquitt County he returned to Daniel S. Cooper, Tax Receiver, 1470 acres of land. He also made returns in Early, Thomas, and Montgomery Counties.

In 1860 came the War Between the States and by the end of 1863, the Confederacy was fighting almost at its door. I note the following among papers of William T. Vaughn which is very interesting: "Received of W. T. Vaughn one slave, Fred, to work on defences at Savannah, Aug. 31, 1863.

W. H. Stokes
Sheriff."

On March 5, 1863, Sarah, wife of William T. Vaughn died and he afterwards married a widow, Mrs. E. Herring, sister of his first wife, and aunt by blood of all the children. (Married Elizabeth Sanders Herring, wife of William Herring, June 5, 1863).

After the war was over conditions were such that he decided to move to North Georgia where conditions were better due to the fact that only a few negroes lived in that section. He bought a home in Gainesville, Hall County, Georgia, and moved there with this wife and small children. He remained in Gainesville for a few years and then returned to his plantation home in the Shady Grove District of Twiggs County. Here he spent the remainder of his long and useful life. He gave to each of his children a home during his life time.

In Church matters, he was a Missionary Baptist and was a pioneer member of Old Highland Baptist Church, Twiggs County, Georgia. He died in March 1901 - buried at New Vaughn Cemetery on highway between Clayton A. Vaughn home and the home of John S. Vaughn. His second wife, Elizabeth Herring Vaughn, died several years prior to his death and is buried at Old Vaughn Cemetery on Highland Creek.

JOHN S. VAUGHN AND MAMA ARMSTRONG VAUGHN

John S. Vaughn, born Feb. 11, 1851. TWIGGS COUNTY, GEORGIA
Mama A. Vaughn, born May 27, 1853. Bibb Co, Ga.

John S. Vaughn and Mama J. Armstrong were married March 25, 1875 and took up their residence in Twiggs County, Georgia, where they resided until their deaths.

John S. Vaughn became a leading farmer, merchant and developer in his community. In addition to operating large farming interests, he operated a large country store, steam ginmery, grist mill, saw mill, and other enterprises. He was known as being very liberal and accomodating to his neighbors and friends. He had the reputation of controlling his labor easily and satisfactorily, and the Atlanta Journal carried at one time a special article about his large farming interests. In 1892 he was elected a member of the General Assembly of the State of Georgia and was re-elected in 1894.

He owned about 2,000 acres of land in one body and had one of the best farm homes in the County. He took an active part in the County as a citizen, being a large tax-payer and served often as Chairman of the County Grand Jury. He also served on the Federal Jury. His wife, Mama Armstrong Vaughn, died March 11, 1889, and is buried in the old Vaughn cemetery on Richland Creek near the old Sanders place, now owned by Joe Vaughn. John S. Vaughn was a member of the Methodist Church.

The name of John S. Vaughn and his wife and children can be found in the "Mansions of Georgia". Practically all Georgia libraries have one of these books. I quote from this book: "John S. Vaughn, an ex-Representative of the legislature and present Postmaster, merchant and farmer at Vaughn's Store (P. O. Twiggsville) Twiggs County, Georgia, was born in the same County February 11, 1851. He has spent his entire life in agricultural pursuits and deserves much credit for the success which has attended him. He operated landed interests aggregating 1,000 acres (1895). In 1894 he became the nominee of his party for the Legislature and was easily elected over his Populist opponent. He is a Democrat of the old school and is doing his County credit in the important position to which he was chosen. Mr. Vaughn has been married twice. Mama J. Armstrong became his wife March 11, 1875, and to them were born six children, four of whom are living: John H.; Herschel J., Sallie E.; William T. The mother of the children died March 25, 1889, and January 13, 1891. Mr. Vaughn married his present wife, Susie E., daughter of Felix Johnston of Twiggs County. Surrounded with an interesting family, with political honors and financial success attending him, Mr. Vaughn has much to look forward to in life. - Southern Historical Association, Atlanta, Georgia, 1895."

John S. Vaughn died Feb. 24, 1924.

Buried Cemetery, Jeffersonville, Ga.

Clayton A. Vaughn was born Feb. 13, 1849.

Sarah Johnston Vaughn was born

Clayton A. Vaughn spent his entire life in Twiggs County, Georgia. He was married twice, the first time to Miss M. V. Campbell who did not long after their marriage. His second marriage was to Sarah Johnston A. 22, 1869. She was the daughter of Felix A. Johnston, a prominent Twiggs County farmer. They began their residence in the Shady Grove District of Twiggs County where they resided during their long and useful lives.

Clayton A. Vaughn was engaged throughout his life in agricultural pursuits and was considered one of the best farmers in the County. He operated his farm on the road leading from Shady Grove precinct toward Cary Cochran very successfully for many years. He afterwards took up his residence at the William F. Vaughn home-place to provide the comforts of home and family to his father whose wife had died and there was left alone.

In politics he was a life long Democrat and was elected and re-elected Tax Collector of the County for several terms in which office he was known for his kindness and courtesy. He was a splendid liver and his people who were guests in his home recall the excellent table fare which always prevailed at meal time.

As a citizen, he was always interested in the good of his Country, State, and County, and fulfilled well his obligations as tax-payer, served on the Grand and traverse jurors on many occasions. He believed in the Brotherhood of Man and the Fatherhood of God.

He and his wife walked along through life with the good will, respect and confidence of their neighbors and friends.

Of the children born to them only three now are living - Mrs. Nellie Floyd, Fannie Moore Vaughn, and Norman Vaughn.

He and his wife were long members of Mt. Zion Baptist Church which is situated not far from the place where Clayton A. Vaughn's grand-father Daniel Vaughn lived. In this church he was a Deacon.

Clayton A. Vaughn died

Sarah Johnston Vaughn died

They are buried at the New Vaughn Cemetery, near their home.
