My grandfather Williamson lived in Alabama when he first came to this country from England. Wild animals were all around the house at night. They had so far to go for water, that he would bring it before he went to work in the morning.

He later moved near Stephens, Ga. He was a big farmer with several children. A diphtheria caught up with them. It was bad, and he buried three children in one grave with it. He had thirteen children.

He was a very fine man, liked very much by all who knew him. He gave all of his children a home near him.

He was a very fine man, liked very much by all who knew him. He gave his children all a home near him. He was a member of the Baptist Church and took an active part in it. He had a large apple orchard and made apple wine to sell, but the church would not let him sell it. He could not get anyone to work the farm in his later years.

He was married three times. His first wife was Farple. The other two, I do not know.

This was written by Mrs. Charlotte Elizabeth Young Smith in Sept. 1957. She was 86 years old at the time.
