

A map of Paulding County published in 1896, by M. D. West, which is of special interest to historians and genealogists because it shows the location of old schools, post offices, district courthouses, mines, roads and grist mills long since discontinued also churches, family residences and other things of interest.