MACON, Ga., January 24.—Justice L. Q. C. Lamar died last night at 8.30, at the residence of Mr. W. H. Virgin, in Vineville, where he was visiting.

His death was unexpected, though he has been in bad health for some time.

The immediate cause of his death was Bright's disease coupled with heart failure.

Yesterday afternoon he was in the city and called at the office of Colonel Park. He returned to Mr. Virgin's home, accompanied by Dr. Fivellen. He ate a hearty supper. Dr. Fivellen had left the house but a little while when Mr. Lamar was seized with violent pains and soon died. The attack was a severe one and the pain he experienced was excruciating.

Dr. Parlier, his physician, reached him but a few moments before he expired, and was beyond medical aid. He died with his head resting on his arm-in-law, Mr. Virgin's lap. The spirit passed away just before he breathed his last.

Mr. Lamar was endeared to the people of Macon by the ties of marriage, and was greatly beloved and admired by everybody. His death has cast a gloom over the city. Justice Lamar's remains will be interred at Milledgeville by the side of those of his father, as he requested. His body has been embalmed, and his funeral arrangements will not be decided upon until his children from Mississippi arrive tomorrow.

Gordon's Tribute to Lamar.

FOR GEORGIA HE EXPRESSED IN THE SENATE HIS REGRET.

From Our Own Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, January 24.—The national democracy mourns the death of Justice Lamar today. Never has a public sorrow been deeper or more sincere. Senator Wallah, of Mississippi, announced his death with appropriate references. Senator Gordon followed in these impromptu remarks:

"Mr. President, this is not the occasion for any extended remarks in reference to the distinguished dead, but I do feel impelled to say that Georgia, especially sympathizes with her sister state of Mississippi in the deep sense of the loss we have sustained. Justice Lamar's life began in Georgia and his distinguished ancestry made a part of her history.

"Around his name in early manhood were clustered the hopes of our people, and they have naturally followed his career with the deep interest that would attach to a career so illustrious, so brilliant, so exceptionally beneficial to his country. As a mother weeps so Georgia weeps at the death of this great man.

"Sir, it was my fortune to know him and love him. It is the fortune of Georgia to have given to this union the man who has just passed away with an immortal glory around his name and with the blessing of his entire countrymen of every section to follow him."

On motion of Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, the senate then adjourned.

Grief in Mississippi.

THE STATE OF WHICH HE WAS THE CHIEF MINISTER BAYARD WRAPPED IN MOURNING.

Special to The Journal.

JACKSON, January 24.—The announcement here last night of the death of Col. L. Q. C. Lamar, of this state, judge of the supreme court of the United States, has opened. Justice Fuller announced Justice Lamar's death in a few words, saying: "It again becomes my melancholy duty to announce the death of a member of this court. Justice Lamar died at Macon, Ga., last evening 8.30 o'clock. No business will be transacted. The court will adjourn until Monday next."

The court cried at once declared court adjourned.

THE COURT TO ATTEND THE FUNERAL.

The justices, with few exceptions, will attend the funeral of Justice Lamar. Marshal Wright has telegraphed to Macon, Ga., to ascertain when and where the funeral services and interment will take place and will make arrangements for the members of the court to attend.

Justice Field, who is in feeble health, and perhaps some other justices, will remain here, but the majority of the court will make the trip. Justice Lamar has a daughter living in Rockville, Ind., married to a chemist, also named Lamar, who will probably go with the members of the court. Two nephews of the justice also reside here.

THE SENATE ADJOURNS.

The vice-president laid before the senate a communication from Chief Justice Fuller announcing the death of Justice Lamar. After eulogistic remarks by Senators Wallah and Gordon, on motion of Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, the senate as a mark of respect to the late justice adjourned. The republican senators after adjournment went into caucus.

IN THE HOUSE.

The house refused to agree to the motion to take the sundry civil bill, the fight against it being made by friends of the bankruptcy bill, the vote stood: Yeas 107; Nays 177.

Then, as a mark of respect to the memory of the late Justice Lamar, the house adjourned.

IN THE UNITED STATES COURT.

AN ADJOURNMENT TAKEN ON ACCOUNT OF JUSTICE LAMAR'S DEATH.

Shortly after the meeting of the United States district court this morning, Judge William T. Newman presiding, Mr. Hoke Smith arose and moved an adjournment of the court, out of respect to the memory of Associate Justice L. Q. C. Lamar of the United States supreme court, who died at Macon last night.

Judge Newman announced that the court would stand adjourned until after the funeral, the time for which had not at that hour been fixed.

The judge also announced his intention of attending the funeral, and stated that he would appoint a committee to attend the funeral and a committee to draw up appropriate resolutions in honor of the memory of the distinguished dead, at a later hour.

The committee appointed to attend the funeral are as follows:

Mr. Hoke Smith, ex-Mayor John T. Gunn, Judge John L. Hall of Griffin, ex-Congressman N. J. Hammond, Judge Joel Brauharn of Rome, Hon. J. B. Estes of Macon, Hon. A. B. Erwin of Athens, Judge Howell Cobb of Athens, Judge M. H. Blanford of Columbus, Hon. W. A. Little of Columbus, ex-Special Agent F. Garrard of Columbus, Hon. Henry Jackson, Hon. J. M. Pace of Covington, Hon. F. M. Longley, Hon. I. E. Shubert of Dalton, Hon. T. Warren Alken, of Carrollville, President of the Senate A. M. slights majority on the supreme bench in the face of the early approaching democratic rule by an overwhelming majority.

The democratic exceptions any that it be right that he should take all the advantages that circumstances give him. The republicans, with but few exceptions, say that he will certainly fill the vacancy and that he ought to do so.

Mr. Harrison is not the man to let any accidental, providential or "unearned advantage" slip by, and it is believed ten to one, that he will fill the vacancy.

The democratic cannot prevent the confirmation of his appointee without republican assistance and the president will be too wise to appoint any one to whom Quay, Cameron, Wolcott, or any republican not in harmony with him will object. He would like to give this life berth to his old law partner, Attorney-General Miller. But Miller's appointment would never be confirmed.

The south is entitled to this appointment, but it is not probable that location will be regarded by the president.

WHY NOT MR. BAYARD?

NO MAN STANDS HIGHER WITH MR. CLEVELAND.

HE MADE A MODEL SECRETARY OF STATE.

Foreign Questions Are Now to be Settled That Existed in 1884.

The Close Friendly and Political Relations Between the President-Elect and His Former Secretary of State.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NEW YORK, January 24.—There has been a great deal of gossip of every kind about every imaginable sort of public man in the ut most united effort now being made by the American people, especially that part of it engaged in newspaper work, to assist in the making of the new cabinet.

The great mass of this has been of the most irresponsible character. Scarcely a public man of any kind has been able to come to the city without being put down as once as a candidate for a place in the president's cabinet.

But with all this talk and writing little attention has been given thus far to the man thus far talked of for this office has been Mr. Phelps of Vermont, formerly minister to England.

In addition to his name there has been occasionally mentioned Ex-Postmaster-General Don M. Dickinson, in connection with what generally looked upon as the leading cabinet office.

THOMAS B. BAYARD.

It seems strange that in all this discussion almost no attention has been given to the name of Thomas F. Bayard, of Delaware, secretary of state under Mr. Cleveland's first administration. Bayard has been mentioned for this office or a new place, but Mr. Bayard's name has for some reason almost, by common consent, been omitted from this important place. This is the more strange, too, when it is known that, everything considered, the relations of the president-elect and his secretary of state were quite as close as any two men ever associated in public places. Both before and since each has always spoken of the other in the warmest terms of commendation, personally as well as politically.

CLEVELAND'S OPINION OF BAYARD.

Mr. Cleveland has always expressed the highest confidence in Mr. Bayard, and no eulogium has been too lofty for him to pronounce on his ability, character and patriotism. He has been known to declare many times, both before and since his last election, that if he had the power to hunt the whole world for a man never fitted for this important post a man of higher impulse or of greater ability or character than his former secretary of state. It must be remembered that the president elect looks upon the reformation of the abuses of our government as a duty of the most important work entrusted to him.

Mr. Bayard's consistent record on this important question had known thoroughly the value of his advice on this and kindred questions being upon a successful administration of the government finances.

THE SAME FOREIGN COMPLICATIONS.

reappointment to his old place. He has been a movement in this direction, no more than he did in 1885, when without solicitation or application on his own part he was chosen for this important post.

It may be said with truth, that Mr. Bayard has perhaps seen his old chief less during the past four years than almost any other one of his chosen advisers, who live within a reasonable distance of New York.

AND NOW WHY NOT MR. BAYARD.

Stranger things might therefore happen than a determination on the part of the president elect to select again as secretary of state his old time associate and friend.

The fact that Mr. Bayard is today at Mr. Cleveland's house at Lakewood is certainly as good an indication that the president elect is looking in that direction as many of those upon which other cabinet prognostications are based. The president-elect came up from Lakewood this morning on an early train and went at once to his office in the Mills building.

MR. BAYARD THE PRESIDENT'S GUEST.

The whole of his time was taken up by interviews, none of which had been postponed from last week, owing to his absence from the city.

He returned to Lakewood early in the afternoon in order to meet Mr. Bayard and his wife on the train which was to bring them to the city.

It is not probable that he will return to the city before Saturday, even if he does at all during the present week.

ON THE WAY TO ASHEVILLE.

Governor Altgeld Going There for His Health.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., January 24.—Governor Altgeld, accompanied by State Treasurer Ramsey, Dr. Charles Fagan and J. M. Keeler, of Chicago, left Springfield this morning in a special car over the Ohio and Mississippi railroad for Asheville, N. C., where they will remain for some time.

Recovered from his nervous ailment which has confined him to his home since he was inaugurated two weeks ago.

Mr. Altgeld will probably follow his husband in a short time. The party will reach Asheville, N. C., tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The governor said this morning just before he stepped into his carriage that he felt much better than any day since his inauguration.

RENOUNCED HIS FAITH.

A Catholic Priest Weds His Cousin and Is Ex-Communicated.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., January 24.—The Rev. Father John Charles Fagan, who for the past several years has had charge of the Roman Catholic church at Baynes, Ky., has renounced his faith and is now excommunicated.

Wednesday last Father Cullen married his cousin, Annie Cullen, of Wapakoneta, Ohio.

The ceremony was performed in Cincinnati, and the couple came to this city, stopping at the Hotel Victoria, where the bridegroom registered as "John Cullen and wife." Father Cullen was barely thirty-three years of age, but has been a priest thirteen years.

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., January 24.—For fear of arrest J. W. Hyams, the world's champion liar who victimized the people of the whole country by his origin of the alleged Bakerfield lynching riot, has slipped the town, leaving his hotel in the lurch to the amount of his board while here.

The report current that he was at any time and in any way, connected with the Daily Comet in this city is untrue.
