Christmas is in the air. can feel it in every inspiration. and hear it in the ring of a million merry voices. You may discern it in the very step of all mankind as they pass and repass on their accustomed ways. The boy and the girl go with a skip and a hop; the young man and young lady searcely touch the walks; the business man goes with an energy and briskness even greater than is his wont; the shuffle of the old is steadier, and there is a suggestion of vigor again. And in the faces, verily, one must be blind not to see it in every face. In the very young it is exuberance of joy, in the face of youth, it is pleased anticipation; and the face of the middle aged wears a wreath of half grown smiles above all the cares of business. But it is in the faces of the nged, where you eatch the sweetest expression, as they sit and dream idly of the pleasant Christmases they pent long ago; they live in the past, and the present but turns the leaves of memory to the scenes of other

The hum of business and strife of men is lost, as the Christmas chimes ring out, far out, until the whole earth resounds; and white winged peace outstretches her wings over all, and good will to men aboundeth in every heart.

Hon. R. T. Nesbitt, State Conmissioner of Agriculture, has made his department a success financially, as it is now more than self sustaining, and has done more than all his predecessors to make it what it should be in every other respect. His monthy re ports have been published by the s throughout the state, and are read by the farmers with great interest. We should be glad to see Commissioner Nesbitt rs-elected next fall.

The school bill authorizing the quarterly payment of public school teachers, was the best thing our late legislature did.

If you want to be popular at Christmas time just learn to play the fiddle.

These are "stilly nights," and they are busy running out "Christmas cheer."
