Agricultural.
Farmer John.

Should you meet farmer John in the city?
You'd call him a country greenhorn.
You might look upon him with pity.
Or perhaps with a feeling of scorn.

His great heavy boots, minus blacking, His straw hat with wide, ample brim,
With green and white both lacking,
And his bronzed face puzzled and grim.

The tops set aside as he passes, And glance at their stately plucked feet.
And lip their dispraise to the ladies, They happen to meet in the street.

O! come from the dust of the city, Leave palace, and scepter and throne, Put by both your stork and your pig, Till you see good farmer John's home.

Far back from town's noise and bustle, Where meadows and pastures are wide,
Where leaves on the apple trees rustle,
And comfort and pleasure abide.

Where acres with beauty lie teeming, And promise large produce to bring,
A pleasant white farmhouse is gleaming, And farmer John reigns as its King.

How chagrined is his face as he nears it,
From that spot which he wore in the town;
A broad smile breaks over and clears it,
From puzzled expression and frown.

His good wife stands ready to greet him With a smile that thrills his through heart,
And all are so happy to meet him, Though only a bright day apart.

His deep voice grows sweet and lower,
As baby lips press his brown cheeks, He is happy, he asks for no more,
He is loved—what more need he ask?

His boys and his girls are so merry,
The table so full and so white,
And all are so happy and cheery, He envies no ruler his might!

O! ye, with city notions, Think of something more precious and sweet,
Than grateful and elegant notions,
In walking the close, dusty street.

Facts about Life.
It is singular how much method has been discovered in the seeming irregularities of life.

Things that appear the most casual occur with wonderful order when the aggregate is taken into account. Take, for instance, the height of man. Wind influence has on long been known.

We know whether we are fature or unfortunate in this respect? Facts show that one's height does affect one's days, and all men live longer than short ones.

Marriage, too, affects longevity. Favorably? Yes; married men live longer than single men.

One's profession has an important relation to life. Thus, out of one hundred of each of the following professions, the number of those who attain their seven-tieth year is: among clergymen, 42; farmers, 40; traders and manufacturers, 33; soldiers and clerks, 32; lawyers, 29; artists, 28; professors, 27; physicians, 24.

It seems that those who lead us kill themselves more rapidly than others.

The average duration of life is 33 years. One fourth of the born die before they reach the age of 7 years, and the half before the 17th year. Out of 100 persons only 6 reach the age of 60 years, and only 1 in 1,000 reaches the age of 100 years.

Out of 500 only 1 attains 80 years. Out of 1,000,000 living persons, 320,000 die annually, 91,000 daily, 3,780 every hour, and 60 every minute; and still the population of the earth increases.

The known tongues which men speak amount to 3,004.

It seems from these facts that the two great events of life are being born and dying. After the turning rest.

A Lesson in Politeness.
A friend of Dean Swift's one day sent him a turbot as a present, by a servant lad who had frequently been on similar errands but had never received anything from the dean for his trouble. Having gained admission, he opened the study-door and, putting down the fish on the floor, cried out rudely, "Master has sent you a turbot!"

"Young man," said the dean, rising from his easy-chair, "is that service?" Let us see. The

the way you deliver a message?
Let me teach you better manners.
Sit down in my chair, we will change places, and I will show you how to behave in future.

"The boy sat down, and the dean going out, came up to the door, and making a low bow said, "Sir, master presents his kind compliments, hopes you are well and requests your acceptance of a small present."

"Does he?" replied the boy.
"Return him my best thanks, and there's half a crown for yourself."
"The dean, thus caught in his own trap, laughed heartily, and gave the boy a crown for his ready wit."

The teacher as well as a scholar received a lesson worth time. That boy certainly, he enough to make his way in the world. The dean was a fun and we have no doubt enjoyed the boy's conduct.

Home Manners.
Good manners are not learned by arbitrary teaching so much as acquired from habit. They grow upon us by use. We must be courteous, agreeable, civil, kind, gentle and womanly at home, and then it will soon become a kind of second nature to be so everywhere. A converser at home hegets a habit of roughness which we cannot lay off, if we try, when we go among strangers. The most increaseable people we have ever met in company are those who are perfectly agreeable at home. Home is the school for all the best things, especially good manners.

EDISON PHONOGRAPH.
MONDAY TEN MINUTES LECTURE.
PART II.

BY PROF. LYNA, REPORT THE PUPILS OF MARIETTA FEMALE COLLEGE.

In part of the series of lectures on this "acoustical marvel of the century" the endeavor was made to explain its mechanism and operation and to point out the delicate complexity of its effects in a way to awaken an interest in the laws of acoustics, and in the onward march of science. The present paper will treat of the future of this wonderful ventriloquist, for so, in a certain sense it is, being able to arrest and fix all kinds of sound; to preserve them as long as metals may hold their properties, and to give them forth again in all their original qualities.

Regarding from a scientific point of view there are subtle questions about it that only trained physicists can appreciate.
Mr. Edison, by this invention has done for sound what M. Daguerre did for light, made it possible to fix and retain the most fleeting impressions. The fact, though, is established and must be made the most of. A machine as simple as a coffee mill hears (?) a speech or a song and gives it back, unaltered and unimpaired in true, it being an iron tongue which speaks, but its intonations, inflections, pauses and quality, are rendered with such astonishing fidelity that a listener can hardly believe his senses, or escape from the suspicion that there is some ventriloquist hocuspocus about it or some little Hop-"o-my Thumb concealed somewhere. We have studied and learned much about the marvelous properties of cold iron, magnetism, and electric wire, and here we have the lesson repeated with still greater emphasis, that we must raise our estimate of the powers and potencies of "mere dead matter."

One of our enterprising grocers seeming to think that the Phonograph may have something to do with New Orleans cabbage and Tennessee butter asks: "But how can this wonderful invention be applied so as to be of any

sheet of tin-foil, or other plastic material, receiving the impressions of sound will be stereotyped electrotyped so as to be multiplied and made durable. The indler will be made of a material plastic when used, and be considered afterwards. Thin sheets of starch, or of various combinations, which often serve as a would be of this character. The provided thus for the consid-erability of the phonograph how very easy to make the land by Lager from Mrs. Schoenthal, and Chemistry from the Junior class of the Marietta Female College.

All these sights will be common everyday experience within a few years.

But these are some of the private explanations. For public uses, we shall have galleries where phonotype sheets will be preserved as photographs and books now are. The utterances of great speakers and singers will there be kept for a thousand years. In these galleries, spoken languages will be preserved from peculiarities of pronunciation, dialect, and brogue. What if accident Rome or Athens had produced an Edison? There would have been no difficulty in reproducing the grand orations of Cicero or Demosthenes delivered with unsurpassed eloquence. The musical tones of Homer would again be heard singing the praises of heroes. As we now go to see stereopticon, we shall go to public halls to hear treasures of speech and organ brought out as loud or even louder than when first uttered by the truly great ones of earth. This will be a truly great stimulus to ambition; for life, being but a span, excellence will be striven for in order that posterity may hear and know us.

In public exhibitions, also, we shall have reproductions of the sounds of nature, of voices fami-lar and unfamiliar. Nothing will be easier than to catch the sound of the waves on the beach, the roar of Niagara, the hum and discords of the streets, the warbling of mocking bird or the chant of the nightingale and the rolling of the thunder either of Zeus or of the battlefield. The conditions for increasing the sound are so simple that there can be no doubt of any desirable extension in that direction.

Any dayman troubled with cows having sore teats should use plenty of linsed oil before and after milking. He will find but few, if any, sores about his cows' teats if this be done. Many cows that are bickers would be delighted to be milked if a little linsed oil was used on the teats

An awning has been erected over the entrance to the Post Office—we presume for the benefit of those who go after their mail two hours before train time.

The boys are going to get their steamer, contrary to the wishes of some. The Council at their last meeting appointed a committee to bargain for one.

The weather turned extremely cold last Friday night and on the following morning the ground was frozen to quite a depth. Ice was plentiful and it was feared that the fruit was injured. A thorough examination by our fruit growers has proven however that very little if any was killed.

Go To Lindly & Barnes and see the new and fashionable goods.

J. J. NORTHCUTT & SON

Are Now Receiving at their handsome new store, their stock of Spring and Summer, staple and fancy Dry Goods, which have been bought recently in Baltimore, Philadelphia, and New York by Mr. J. J. Northcutt. These Goods were bought at the very lowest possible prices and we propose selling them as low for cash as goods of the same style and quality can be bought at retail anywhere—which is the only way in which we can compete with merchants in our own and neighboring towns.

We take occasion here to say, that as one of our firm has been trying for thirty five years to make a living by upright and honest dealing, we think we are entitled to a share of the trade of our citizens, and we promise them to use every exertion to please them both in prices and quality of goods.

Very Respectfully,

J. J. NORTHCUTT & SON.

Great Reduction In Prices.

Knowing that very many of the people of this country feel the need of dental work, who owing to the high prices asked for the same and the scarcity of money, cannot afford it, I have determined to do what I can to bring the price of all to do this I will put in Gold Fillings from 25 cts. to $1.00. I will work on time when requested, or on any responsible parties.

Having an office built and fitted up especially for my business and supplied with first-class instruments and apparatus I am prepared to perform all operations on the teeth in the best manner possible. Remember, I guarantee my work. I also manufacture a Superior Tooth Powder for cleaning and beautifying the Teeth, for purifying the breath and inflamed gums.

Don't forget the place, office in McCleary's Building, South-west corner Public Square.
