R. Do you believe the Democrats in Congress were really a band of the hills they were trying to have repealed?
J. This question has been anticipated by answer to the preceding one, but it may not be amiss to observe that the Democrats could have entertained but little fear of laws pending by means of whose existence they had recovered the entire South from radical misrule, and certainly they could not reasonably fear the abuse of power by a President who had, in defiance to the anathemas of his party, relieved the Southern States, and especially South Carolina and Louisiana, and who had not in a single instance permitted undue interference with elections North or South. On the contrary, he has shown unusual, not to say heroic, devotion to the constitutional government by withdrawing the troops from Louisiana and South Carolina and sending them to the distant frontier. Now was his conduct during the extra session altogether wanting in patriotic courage; for, notwithstanding the violent opposition of the Republican Senators—save one, Burnside—he approved the army bill as finally passed, and although it was unanimously to the advantage of the Republican party to protract the extra session, (so as to inflame the popular mind North), he accepted what the Democrats conceded, and permitted Congress to adjourn, with the assurance that, having discharged his duty as President, he would not attempt to force Congress into further initiating terms.

R. What was the real motive prompting the Republicans in the premises?
J. To create and spread the fear in the Northern mind that the brigadier generals of the South were about to take the Capitol and destroy the fruits of the war, and thus consolidate the North. They could have no ground of fear of any serious injury to the nation, had every political "rider" proposed by the Democrats become law, for the very good reason that they had still been left in control of nearly every Northern State; and as to the South, there was no hope for the Republican party with or without such a law.

During the year 1878 there were 2,709 medical students graduated from the fifty-nine colleges of the United States. As the statistics show that in this country an average of 500 people support one physician, there must be a constant supply of over 13, 000 patients who must pay the handsome sum of $1,578,000 a year, in order to allow each doctor only $2 a day.

(Questions answered Greenback member of Congress.) R. What good, if any, has resulted, or is likely to result, to the country from what the extra session did?
J. It has served to demonstrate clearly to the public mind the discrepancy and impracticability of the Republican and Democratic factions. It shows that they cannot change sides as partisan excuses shift. For instance the Democratic party abandoned, as it were, the consecrated ground of long and so heroically defended, by the Democratic party proper, against the various and un-old, an

Gen. Platt, the Greenback candidate for Governor of Ohio, has delivered the first sensible and patriotic speech of the opening campaign. He says that the money used to control elections has done more to destroy the country than it has done to benefit it; that these two parties are "a pair of class legislation right up and controlled to plunder the people through legislation. The nation will be received without a doubt by all reflecting and honest people. The old parties, differing in nothing but as to who shall distribute the spoils of the people, and operating as potential machines, under the manipulation of skillful, unscrupulous and selfish men; if liberty is restored, the people must be awakened to their great interests, or a worse tyranny, a money tyranny awaits them and will sink them to a lower depth of misery than was ever reached under European despotism.

Money does not seek investment in real estate or public improvements. It does not give activity to trade, and commerce is constrained, mainly, to frugal consumption. The resources of the country are greater than ever and more than ever promising of productive wealth. Where is the money? What is the matter? Col.
Ingersoll says that money is exceedingly sensitive and that there is a loss of confidence. This is a grave charge against the national Bank system. There is no just ground for its loss of confidence and its sensitiveness is cowardice when having the power to furnish an adequate currcncy to the country it withhold-the sinews of enterprise and leaves property and labor dragging upon the market. We believe in hard money, sound money, but it is just as important to have a circulation equal to the needs of the country.

We are gratified with the recognition awarded the Field and

AT THE LAUREL MILLS, ROSWELL, GA.

THESE MILLS are exchanging their goods for WOOL, with farmers and others, on the most liberal terms. We will take the wool of the fine line of the manufacture up to our custom, by the yard, into shags and bellies, or we will take the same, as shagwags, by the pound, at a rate, varying at the pleasure of the customer, from 10 to 15 cents. We will also take the most valuable types of wool, from Texas, living in the vicinity of Marietta and wishing their wool carried into rolls, or exchanged there for some other product. With wool we can return rolls or pools over a full year of charge. We are willing to let the largest of merchants to buy their stock direct from the factory. We pay freight and all wool shipped to us. All wool, Ga.
