

THE FIELD AND FIRESIDE.

MARIETTA, JULY 11, 1878.

A slight shower Monday.
New wheat ninety cents to $1.
Peaches and cherries market.
Three city arrests since last issue.
Two deaths in the city since Thursday last. Both colored.
A goodly number of visitors in and about the city.
SOME speaking is the order of the day.
Those who know, say that it has not been a good money year.
MARIETTA seems to be on the rise.—A dramatic company and a school, Tuesday, July 8th.
Car-jockey was in town Sunday.
There will be a Children's Meeting at the Methodist Church on Sunday morning next.
The Found Party proposed by the pupils of the Marietta High School will be given on tomorrow evening at the residence of Prof. V. E. Manger. We speak for it, and will be glad to see the directors of the children's fund, Mrs. Manger.

Mr. Jos. Clinton returned from Tennessee, where he has been attending court, last Friday.
The degree of A. B. was conferred upon A. B. Vaughan, Jr. by the University at the closing exercises of Mercer University.
We would call attention to the card of Prof. Seals, who is now prepared to give or repair pianos and organs to the satisfaction of all who patronize him.
Capt. New W. Powell, of the Atlanta Cavalry, spent Sunday evening in Marietta. Capt. Powell is ever welcome here, and we have heard several complimentary remarks made upon his eloquence and grace.
Winchester, Wis., before this week from the pen of the "Camp," equate of our city, is "before this week," and presents many beautiful thoughts and amusing incidents. It is a work of humor and sentiment. The book can be secured at J. S. Nichols' news depot.

Col. Lickfield, of Avoorth, knows the direct way to a man's heart that is a hungry man's. He keeps a first class hotel.
To all those who do not receive their paper regularly, we would ask that they inquire the cause of delay of their post master and advise us immediately.
Some action should be taken towards clearing up and otherwise improving the appearance of the conference every. It is becoming overrun with weeds and other wild growth.
A mile-cloped with a wagon last week. No serious damage.
MARIETTA FIRE COMPANY No. 1, in the contest on the 4th, in Atlanta, took the prize offered for the best non-made fire made by our boys was $25, second. The prize was $50 in gold. We congratulate them on their success. They have shown to the public that they can worthily hold the position of city protectors.

Mr. John Shiley, of Augusta, has returned from college at Lexington Ky., and is spending vacation in Marietta.
Mr. Geo. Leake was in the city Tuesday.
We learn from farmers that copious rains have fallen in Powder Springs and Oregon districts of late.
We would like to have a good correspondent at each of the county precincts.
"SALUD—ABUND—WADLES"
Justice Court was in session at this place Friday and Saturday last.
The colored minstrels of Atlanta gave an entertainment in McClellan's hall, Monday night.
Mr. Wm. M. Regalade, editor of the DeKalb County News, was in the city Tuesday. He speaks encouragingly of DeKalb.
The first load of water melons was brought to this place last Tuesday by Mr. Wm. Robertson, from his farm near Soap Creek.
SUNDAY'S shower brought out the grass.
ATLANTA produced a stabbing affray on the 4th.
We engage to do job work at this office in as neat and satisfactory a manner as can be done at any establishment in the South, and at prices so low that others cannot compete.

MANY farmers are buying the Brighton guano for their turpentine crops. Noting better can be found upon the market.
The Agricultural Club of Lost Mountain, will be here, give a grand picnic the last of this month. Arrangements are being made to present prominent speakers for the occasion.
Seals was so unfortunate as to be killed by accident a few days since it was that, that the living forgotten his plow-horse to the bars of the pen and returned in quest of the one thousand Mexican dollars. While about the horse became frightened at a man passing with a bundle of straw, decamped, injuring him in such a manner as to cause a severe him of the untold agonies he endured. This is the third or fourth animal the Professor has lost since residing in Cobb.

The students return. The thoroughfares leading into all the towns and villages along the line of the W. & A. Railroad were thronged with people of all colors and conditions, hurrying forward in order to take the trains for Atlanta or Chattanooga, as they chose.
The depot, hotel and all other available standing room, at Marietta, was crowded until not another could be found for the impatient assembly. The first train to Atlanta carried an immense number, compact mainly of negroes. This motley legion filled the coaches until not another one could be admitted. Many, rather than be left behind, climbed to the car-tops and even then a large number remained to anxiously await the arrival of the next conveyance. During the morning several trains rolled into this place en route for Atlanta, and though they were sufficiently filled, yet many were hustled in and took an over-crowded position. Had this multitude been composed of whites the list of departures would not have been so large, but the negroes, who have been informed that large crowds were assembled at all the stations between this place and Atlanta, but whether or not they obtained passage we have not been informed.

Marietta's demonstrations were not of an over-exaggerated character. No riders were to be seen upon the streets, and though business was attended with a little delay, yet it is a pleasure to reflect that we were not rushed and jostled by an excited and over-crowded mass of human beings, to a third of whom could not define the nature of the day or of the expected things there. The brought back many of the sight-seers, some satisfied, others not, and many who treasured by the knowledge that during the day they had not acted as the one hundred and second anniversary of the nation's independence.

THE GLOBE DRAMATIC COMPANY.—This troupe gave a series of entertainments at this place this week, opening Monday night with the society play, entitled "Rose Cottage." The characters were produced by artists who fully understood their role. Ed Clifford as "Mortimer Theophilus Muggs" successfully part adopted, and the others equally as well, and altogether deserve the encomiums heaped upon them by the press. Our citizens have upon such occasions complained of the dullness of Marietta, and its want of amusements. This week has been a most profitable night in which to witness the performances of this celebrated dramatic company. They have now no room for further complaint, as these artists, certainly proved themselves worthy of the position of the theatre. They played three nights, giving the characters, such as "Rose Cottage," "Lauretta Borgia" and "Oliver Twist," highly amusing farces. In justice to the troupe, we will say they executed themselves, drawing and pleasing the audience, and they did their whole duty. Should they ever visit Marietta again, we hope they will receive a better support.

These mills are situated on the banks of the Chattahoochee, at the mouth of Vickery's creek and upon the old site of the "Ivy Mills." In close proximity to Roswell and fourteen miles from Marietta. The factory is a large three-story building, with ample space for any amount of available machinery. The dam is a solid stone structure and has one of the most substantial abutments connected therewith of any place of any size of the kind in the South. The power cannot be estimated, owing to the number of substantial reservoirs formed above these mills by the Roswell Factory and other immense artificial bodies, which require a large amount of water to propel their extensive machinery.
The Laurel Mills are now turning out some excellent fabrics in wool, and are building up such a thriving trade that new machinery will soon be added in order to supply the market with their goods, which have gained an enviable popularity. The company controlling these mills consists of some of the most influential and energetic citizens of Cobb. The President, Col. J. S. Wood, has long been known as a manufacturer, having established and given notoriety to some of the largest manufacturing in the South. No one need feel a hesitancy in ordering goods of them to be manufactured. All orders will be attended to with promptness and all possible care taken as to shipment. Read advertisement in this issue.

BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS.—A special to the Georgia (Tex.) News of the 4th inst. from Concha, says: Kerber, of this county, reports to Judge J. M. McKinnon, at El Paso, Mexico, and Kerr, dwelling at El Paso, Mexico, and Kerr, petitioned the Chihuahua government to cross over to aid in the rescue of De-state troops. The prisoner Kerber, Apaches has implicated some prominent Americans in the December riot.

The first bale of new cotton has arrived in New York, and was sold on 3d instant, at auction at the cotton exchange. It was middling, and brought 20 cents. It was grown in Texas.

The celebration of the centennial of the battle and massacre of Wyoming began at the village of Wyoming on 3d inst. It will be continued for several days.

The Fourth of July was generally observed throughout the country. In the city of Washington, it was quietly celebrated; in Philadelphia, the observance was very general; at Wyoming, the centennial of the battle of Wyoming was grandly commemorated. A procession four miles long was reviewed by Mr. Hayes.

The Republican Festival in Paris. The republican festival in Paris last Sunday, according to the telegraphic reports, must have been in many respects the most splendid which even that city of fetes has known in all its gay existence. The commissions established in the city for the purpose of organizing musical societies and orchestras to perform from four to six, and again from eight to ten, on gayly decorated stands, to see that the residents hung out flags by day and illuminated their houses by night, to dress the streets with lanterns, evergreens and triumphal arches, and to establish fairs during the two days of rejoicing. The public monuments were to be draped with flags and illuminated; there were to be fireworks, a grand open air concert in the gardens of the Tuileries of six hundred performers, while the night was to be made glorious with electric lights, millions of gas-jets and Chinese lanterns, illuminated fountains, fire balls and pyrotechnic display. Two hundred bands, bright with lights and flags, and bearing bands of music or choruses of singers dotted the lakes in the Bois; the gigantic captive ball on the Tuileries hung over the city and paled the stars with its electric light; the garbison was turned out for a torch-light procession, and finally the great statue of the republic, at the Trocadero, was solemnly inaugurated in the presence of the most distinguished of the visitors who new through Paris. The success of the exposition was assured before this dazzling spectacle was decided upon, for the receipts and the attendance have surpassed all the calculations of the administration.—to the great disappointment of the imperialists and triggerers, who had been prophesying and hoping for a failure, which should reflect disgrace upon the Republican managers of the enterprise and make the disgusted Parisians sigh for the dynasty which gave them the fete of 1867. This festival, and one still uncompleted, which is appointed for the beginning of August, will unquestionably give a great way towards popularizing even with the luxury middle classes, the third Republic, the price of which was so cruelly threatened only six short months ago. Newman's Morning News.
