THE FIELD AND FIRESIDE.

MARIETTA, JULY 18, 1878.

MARIETTA NOTES.

Local news is scarce.
Cora selling at 55 cents.

"Honi soit qui mal y pense."
What shall the harvest be?

Hot weather for stamping it.
Lester men are rather demonstrative.

Cool us down with a pound of ice.

Some little excitement prevails among the politicians.

The dramatic company appeared in Cartersville Monday night.

Subscribers are coming in rapidly for the campaign paper.

Dr. J. M. Goss, left for Lexington, Friday last.

Some of the farmers are the hindhand in the corn crops.

Hon. R. O. Combs will, we learn, address the citizens of Cobb place, within a few days.

We are again under obligations to Preston Butler for treats of excellent ice cream.

The dramatic company played "Oliver Twist" Friday night for the benefit of the "MARIETTA REFUGEES."

And "here, goes five dead cocks in the pit."—J. E. Brown.

Nothing better for turnips than the "Brighton" fertilizer. For sale at risk-off by R. M. Goodman.

Brimly & Myers have burned the brick for their new chair factory.

The pound party given by the pupils of the Marietta High School, at the residence of the principal, Mr. V. E. Mangor, on Friday evening, was a success in every particular.

We learn that the Lost Mountain Agricultural Society have decided on the 31st of this month as the day for their picnic.

Gen. W. T. Wofford will address the citizens of Floyd county, at Rome, on Saturday next, advocating the re-election of Dr. Panton to Congress.

A party consisting of several young ladies and gentlemen from this place, went down to Smyrna Monday last to attend a croquet party. Invitations were sent them by that clever and deserving gentleman, Capt. Albert Smith.

It was our pleasure while in Atlanta, a few days since, to meet Dr. J. B. O'Neil, of Marietta.

This gentleman evidently takes but little interest in the present political excitement, being occupied with the advancement of Georgia's agriculture.

C. H. C. Willingham, of the Cartersville Free Press, evidently means business. Look out for a red hot Felton paper.

A large club of subscribers was gotten up in Cartersville last Thursday.

We thank the citizens who are aiding us in our efforts to sustain justice.

Judge Lester was met at the train on his return from Cartersville Thursday night, by a band and torch-light procession. He was carried to the place in a sedan chair by enthusiastic boys and then proceeded in a lengthy speech to demolish Felton.

We are in receipt of the report of the Commissioner of Agriculture for June.

The candidates for Congress from this district held another discussion at Dalton on Saturday. Wonder if there was as much brimstone emitted as heretofore.

We are authoritatively informed that work will be resumed on the N. & G. Railroad August 1st. Under the management of a good company it will doubtless prove a success, our best wishes.

A gentleman from Oregon informs us that a majority of the farmers of that district have already agreed to use their minds to vote for Dr. Felton at the coming election, and further states that it will be useless for any one to attempt to win them over to the unionist. His head is level. They'll do it.

The firemen paraded Monday evening. Why not lay a little of the dust while you are at it?

Mr. B. E. Perry had his hand crushed in the machinery at the Paper Mill, last week.

Col. E. H. Paine, returned to this place from Louisville, Ky., last Monday.

See Sallie and Hattie Sparks, formerly of Mazon, coming to Marietta.

Wm. H. Sparks, of New England at Col. Atkinson's, would not have found a situation, in point of the advantages of society.

City will be crowded to hear Tombs' speech. Look out for announcement of the day when it will be addressed you.

And "here goes five dead cocks in the pit."—J. E. Brown.

The supply of ice in this town is slim. It is cool enough, or is your mind absorbed with political interests to such an extent that you are invulnerable to the effects of heat? If this be true we know of some who had best lay in a supply of the political line preparatory to evacuating this mundane sphere.

J. A. G. Anderson, has the finest mare and colt in the state. His fast horses are on the track undergoing a thorough training.

In this issue will be found the programme of the picnic to be given on the 31st of this month by the Agricultural Society of Lost Mountain. Connected therewith will be seen a list of the names of the speakers invited to attend, and the subject of lecture. A third time is anticipated, and under the control of a committee composed of some of the best farmers in that section we believe it will be a success.

The Job work turned out at this office is giving entire satisfaction. We do it cheaper and better than can be done elsewhere.

A citizen of this place has a lamp that is so constructed that it must be wound up like a clock before it can be induced to burn.

We had come to the conclusion that we had lost all our country correspondents, but only by one they are returning. Excuse for non-appearance in the past few issues: "Nothing is a lie."

"Oh! consistency thou art a jewel!"

We have seen a specimen of the lamp sent to be placed upon our streets, for the accommodation of our citizens and all others enlightened.

Our efficient Mayor and Councilmen are determined to give us every advantage that can be kept town. Thus far their efforts have been conducive to greater comfort and beauty, and it's long we expect to hear of a move on foot to improve our water-works and to the fullest extent render our city fire-proof.

And "here goes five dead cocks in the pit."—J. E. Brown.

At a bankrupt sale on Tuesday last, the gin-house and mill, property of Maj. A. Howell, of this place, was sold, bringing the sum of $2,350. The property was bought by Mr. Albert Howell of Atlanta.

A big barbecue is spoken of as something to come off in the near future.

Prepare for the eclipse on the 29th. Smoke some glass and construct a telescope from your own ginno horn and your grandmother's spectacles.

Cobb is felt on all sides, Lester is the son of his glory, and Wadell is the son of his glory.

MARRIED.—On Tuesday last at the residence of the bride, Mr. J. B. O'Neil, Rev. Dr. Thomas of North, officiating. Mr. J. D. White of this place, to Miss A. O'Neil of Cherokee. Our best wishes for future happiness and prosperity attend the couple.

Judge Lester delivered an address at the court house Tuesday night, dwelling lengthily upon his war record. He was followed by Col. J. H. Wadell, who devoted the main part of his discourse to Judge Lester's claims upon the suffrages of the people.

The Pastor begs every member of the Methodist Church to attend service next Sunday morning. A question of great importance is to be discussed. It does not involve money.

Dr. Wm. H. Felton will deliver the commencement sermon of the Little River High School, at Tricolumn, on next Sunday 21st.

Rev. J. P. Dunham, Chaplain of the House of Representatives, while on a tour of the Hon. A. H. Stephens, a few days since, was informed by a gentleman that his opinion of Dr. Felton was, that "he is the best qualified man the people of the Seventh District ever had as a Representative and that Congress cannot do well without him."

John Keeley, of Atlanta, has again sent his bill-poster to Marietta, advertising from house to house his stock of goods. Will we have to submit to this all the time? We would advise Mr. John Keeley hereafter to patronize our printing establishments as a medium for advertising his colored stock and bargains he has to offer the citizens of Marietta; or if his bill-poster comes around again with his yellow posters, we'll try to make him pay taxes for doing so. Our city council will be on the look out for your Mr. Poster.

Our merchants here are taxed for carrying on their business, and the trade which goes to Atlanta knows all about Mr. John Keeley's bargains without his sending yellow bills twice a month to this place. We don't care how often Mr. Keeley goes to New York and brings back new bargains. Good for him if he can get them. But don't send yellow posters to our city and advertise your bonanza without paying taxes. Look out with your yellow posters.

There are a lot of little pin feathered lawyers and counter squirts around town, with the wax still soft behind their ears, who are hopelessly wrestling in the meanly stage of politics.

Lost Mountain.

Crops are looking well, but we fear, if we don't get a shower in a few days, the hot weather will materially injure them in this neighborhood.

Farmers are generally about doing nothing, and the time will soon come when we will get under some pleasant shade and talk about Felton and Lester, but we all voted for Felton before, and we will have to do so again. We are satisfied our county-man will have a majority polled against him in his own county. We think he ought to be satisfied with the office he now holds, and also think he would have better resign than to go with the ring of Ringgold, or, at least, should have resigned before his announcement as a candidate against our veteran, Dr. Felton, as by the way, the crime and politics should not mingle under the same canopy.

We are having some sickness among children about here. Mr. V. L. Goodwin buried a little girl, four years old, at Midway church, on the 15th. We think our dear sympathy to the bereaved relatives.

Mr. J. Jackson and Uncle Nels' watermelon patch is full of large, juicy melons, and are like his goods, good. They will be ready by the day of the Farmers' Picnic. Come out, Doc.

Lost Mountain Pic-Nic.

A GATHERING OF FARMERS.

There will be a Grand Farmers' Pic-Nic at Lost Mountain, Cobb county, on the 31st of July instant, under the supervision of the Lost Mountain Agricultural Society, to which all are especially invited to come with their families. For speakers, Mr. G. G. Gidditt, Dr. Felton, Judge Van Wyck, and others, are expected. Programme for the day: Gov. Gidditt, first speech, 10:10 a.m.; subject Agriculture, Judge Van Wyck, 11:10 a.m.; subject Education, Dinner, 12:20 p.m.; Dr. Felton, 2:30 p.m.; subject Finance of the Government, Wm. P. Ward, 3:30 p.m.; Chairman of Com. of Arrangements, 4:00 p.m.

The European Congress held its last sitting on the 12th inst. All the plenipotentiaries and all other members, it is said, were present in full dress, as at the opening of the Congress. The proceedings commenced at half-past two and ended at four o'clock. The treaty was signed by all the plenipotentiaries, alphabetically. The secretaries attended previously, at one o'clock in the afternoon, to affix the plenipotentiaries' seals to each copy. After the signature of the treaty, the plenipotentiaries of Prussia, Austria, and Bismarck, the plenipotentiaries of their indulgence. The proceedings terminated with a grand court dinner at the White Hall palace, Berlin.

The London Daily News has the following comment on the settlement of peace in Europe.—"The Congress has made changes in the transformation of Kansas, has removed long centuries of discontent; has pacified, as they hope, provinces which were torn by discussion and misrule, and has placed barriers between rival forms of incompatible bigots and many enemies of foreign intriguers, and it has abridged the powers of the party, it has given peace to Europe."

While negotiations were going on in the European Congress, England entered into a treaty with Turkey securing the title of Cyprus and the absolute control of the Euphrates valley, for which she guarantees the integrity of Asiatic Turkey. This must have immediately affected the formation of the treaty by the European powers.

Secession and Mr. Davis.

Secession is wrong. It is deleterious, disintegrating, contradictory, impossible. How can a government exist that acknowledges its "right" to secede? It has such a right all have it, and a nation's state is impossible. The truth is, no state has such a "right" to secede. It is to assert that a component part is more "right" than the whole. To assert this doctrine before the war was evil; to preach it to the post bellum south is frightful. Suppose Hampton, Lamar, Gordon, Hill and other leaders should feel it incumbent on them to trade their "right" as Mr. Davis called it, to the Republican government, the greatest of all political parties; suppose the press, the democratic party; suppose the people should advocate this "right" would a request to "not be considered as seeking to disturb such peace as we have, or to avoid the logic of events" avail us? On the contrary, the south would be the house and foot, and Mr. Davis, according to his curious logic, would be furnished with additional proof that secession, or the attempt to destroy a government, is one of the inalienable rights of man. Mr. Davis is now an old man, and his feeling, the prejudices, and perhaps some of the bitterness of a past age still cling to him. His position in the question is not based on reasoning and arguments the young south, the new south can listen to. As the teachings of Martin, Wade, Phillips and other extremists in the north are now discarded by the north, so must those of Mr. Davis be discarded by the south. Learned as he is, it seems necessary for him to have one more opportunity to show his lesson of silence.—Edinburgh Herald, December 1st.

How will this suit come who harp up on their war record?

There are a lot of little pin feathered lawyers and counter squirts around town, with the wax still soft behind their ears, who are hopelessly wrestling in the meanly stage of politics.

They are broken out all over, and seem and rant as loud and as strong as a piny woods shoot in gooseberry time. They are all for Lester, and no man is too gray for their pertness, and no person exempt from their impudence. Every farmer is pounced upon by these poppings just as if the whole future of the country was carried in their poor little nogins. These little fellows should have some one to look after them. Their mania should take them in hand, or else it will become necessary to have the marshal abate them as nuisances. The peace and good nature of our country friends has a limit, and that limit has been sorely tested. We hope this word of warning will be sufficient.

We wonder if the above from the (Ga.) Tribune wouldn't suit Marietta.

The Van Style Organ.

Hilberts there has been unsatisfied demand for Pianos Organ, which could combine purity, sweetness and variety of tone with a perfect action, enclosed in a rich and ornamental case, which could be sold at a very moderate price. After spending large sums of money in experimenting, Essey & Co. have at last succeeded in manufacturing an organ, which covers the whole ground. The action, by an ingenious and yet perfectly simple mechanism, has been rendered independent and cannot be affected like others by changes in the weather. A new and surprising method of design of case has been fashioned, and many other improvements have been made, and we are informed by G. F. Van Wyck, Essey's Managing Agent for the South, that in his experience of twenty-nine years, he has never seen such a universal favorite as this organ seems to be. He has sent it out on trial to be tested with other organs, and that not one has ever been tested; neither has he failed to sell it to any one who has ever seen it. Having done away with all bell agencies, Essey has determined to sell directly to the public, and to avoid the losses of all discount and commission.—Christian Intelligencer.

TURNIP SEED.—New crop, all kinds, warranted genuine, received at the Store of B. R. STRONG, July 4.
