THE FIELD AND FIRESIDE.

Marietta, Oct. 18, 1877.

The Marietta Paper Manufacturing Co. has just received the best of New England paper, at lowest prices. A. ANDERSON, Agent.

The Cotton Crop.—It is now almost a certainty that the cotton crop of this year will fall largely short of the previous year, 1876. The crop of that year fell short of the one previous, and the visible supply, even to this date, is behind last year largely. Prices will undoubtedly rise higher.

SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE.—Hon. S. P. Randall was nominated on the first ballot for Speaker of the House of Representatives at the Democratic caucus in Washington on the 15th. Congress met on the 16th inst.

Keep your Trade at Home.—This, the Merchants of Marietta, keep stocks of every of goods fully equal to, if in advance of, the demand. They must purchase on the best terms, and sell on close margins. They must, also, purchase at the lowest possible rates every article for which a market can be found, and brought by the producer to the city for sale. On this principle, Marietta can compete with any City, and grow rapidly in the trade.

We write this, believing that no city has a more liberal class of merchants, and because we fear people living near us who care nothing for our cotton and other products. We are satisfied that there is no good reason for this, and the error can be corrected. The people can be satisfied of the fact that they can no better anywhere, either in buying or selling, than in Marietta.

Mining in Georgia. The gold mines of North Georgia are now exciting the attention due to this rich, gold-bearing region. Scarcely now employed on a scale commensurate with the ability, and improved mining will soon produce results not surpassed in the mining history of California.

Surface mining for gold in times past has paid well in this section, and that vein mining will do so, can admit of no doubt, when we have the capital and skill. At present, however, researches are more directed to copper mining. Near Dallas, Paulding county, we learn that the ore has been reached at sixteen feet. Near the Lost Mountain there is every probability of reaching it at sixty feet, and near Marietta no doubt is entertained of exposing it much nearer the surface than the mines at Duck Town.

Worked, with exceeding gratification, the progress of these enterprises, feeling as we do, assured, that there is no richer mineral region in the world than the micaeous state formation of northern Georgia.

Since writing the above, we learn that Asbestos of an excellent quality and in extensive beds has been developed some six miles south-west of Marietta.

Our Wars. Chief Joseph and his band, it seems, has been captured by Gen. Miles, in the defiles of the Rocky Mountains, and nothing is left of the Indian war except Sitting Bull and his band of Sioux up in the British possessions. In the meantime, the Mexican war has been looming up, and late accounts inform us that the Mexicans have invaded Texas, leaving very little room to hope for an avoidance of a conflict which will operate very disastrously for Mexico.

Disbanding. The Republican Party was formally disbanded at a meeting of the Executive Committee in Atlanta on Wednesday last. What

Send the Best Man. The party Press urge the importance of sending the best man to the next Legislature to perfect the re-organization of the State under the new Constitution. In the meantime, the Democracy of parts of lower Georgia are dividing the honors—black and white.

The Capital Question. No effort is spared to induce the people to locate permanently the Capital at Atlanta; but a great many persist in holding that legislation would better represent the people in a quiet little town like Milledgeville. They seem to have an idea that the location in Atlanta would result in that city becoming the State of Georgia.

The Fairs. This is the season for those annual gatherings in County and State of what is known as Agricultural Fairs. They may be made at some remote period in the future, beneficial to the farmer; but, as yet, they have not lessened the toil, improved the skill, or gladdened the eye, to any great extent, on the hard road he travels.

Ohio Democratic. The State election in Ohio has resulted in the success of the Democrats by some 28,000 majority, with a Democratic majority in both houses of forty-one on joint ballot.

Resumption. Parties are still dreadfully mixed up on the resumption question, a large portion of the Democracy clamoring for the repeal of the Resumption Act. They need not bother themselves about that. It is quoted at 102, and will be at par with the currency before the Resumption Act goes into effect. In effect, we already have a convertible specie currency.

The Working Men. It is said that the Democratic victory in Ohio was owing to the working men who left the Republican party in large numbers. Certainly they are becoming a powerful element in our National politics. In New York, they have just held a convention, and it is worth while to note the purposes of the organization. In their platform, they have resolved, first, in favor of a convertible paper and specie currency. Second, that labor has a perfect right to an equal share of the wealth it creates. Third, taxation, according to the amount of property owned, with discrimination in favor of unproductive property. Fourth, gratuitous administration of justice in all courts of law. Fifth, bureaus of labor, State and National, offered by laborers. Sixth, State control of all railroads, lines, rates of charges only to cover cost and repairs, with a reasonable profit to stockholders. Seventh, the abolishment of unnecessary offices, and the reduction of exorbitant salaries. Eighth, the imprisonment at hard labor; debarred from holding office, voting or witnessing in courts, and excluded from executive clemency all guilty of defalcations in office or bribery of electors or legislators.

The New York Democracy. The State Convention lately assembled, adopted the following practical resolves: "No currency inconvertible with coin. Steady steps towards specie payments. No steps backwards." And the following among re-forming generalities: "Revenue reform; a tariff for revenue only; no government partnership with protected monopolies. Home rule to limit and localize, most jealously, the few powers entrusted to public servants, municipal, state and federal; no centralization; equal and exact justice to all men. We declare that it is through the operation of just laws, favoring no one class at the expense of another, a stern refusal on the part of legislative bodies to yield to the schemes of grasping monopolies and the decrease of public expenditures and taxation to the lowest possible point, that the laboring classes of the country (with whom the Democratic party has always strongly and intelligently sympathized) are mainly to find effectual and permanent relief."

[COMMUNICATED.]
The Next Senator. I shall commence where Cobb ended, because the term for which Hon. E. P. Howell was elected has not expired. In 1868, when Major W. T. Wain was elected by the citizens of Cobb county, he had to surrender his term as Senator by the force of the bayonet. Under the new constitution of the State, the present Senator has to yield by force of the constitution. Fulton county had the honor of having a Senator for the three last terms, and we were very ably represented. Shall Cobb or Clayton counties be out again, and give way to Fulton? Cobb must think there are no good, true and able men in Cobb county who are capable of representing the people of the district. Let every fair thinking man be the judge of this, and not the few who are arranging to distribute the honors of the district.
FAIR PLAY.

[COMMUNICATED.]
A Few Words for Homefolks. I was much amused, and just a little irritated, in reading the effusion of J. Cotton Lynes, a week or two since, in the Marietta Journal. Will you permit me to pay my respects to him through the medium of your columns? He seems to be a gentleman of keen observation, and though but a stranger amongst us, has made quite a discovery, to him no unfortunate circumstance, and if we were all to agree with him, the inhabitants of our fair little city might hide their heads for shame.

Just listen to him! poor unfortunate citizens of Marietta. You were not aware that our beloved "home" was infested with such a class of ignorant, illiberal men and women but if ignorance is bliss it is folly to be wise; however we must thank the learned Professor for opening our eyes. Poor old fogies, why do you "cry down the independent" disciples of young professionals, the fops of those ancient worthies, whom the worthy and erudite Professor seems to think, ought to be worshipped? O ye "centenarians," how can ye be so tenacious of your "foggy" ideas?

The "river of mind" whether it will or no, is coursing its way over sands of time, and "Progress" is written on every wave. A few more literary acquisitions to our society, and we shall be engulfed, overwhelmed. Sad will be our reflections when we look over into the elysian fields; the higher plane of the "river of mind" and remember how the "river of time" has obstructed the youth of our day in what we deemed their mad career, and held up to them the example of our fathers, and mothers of Revolutionary fame.

True they did not make railroads nor erect telegraphs, and thousands of other inventions never entered their brain, but we will not strip them of all their honors; as long as the United States remains, a monument of their bravery and untiring persistent endurance of woes untold. I presume not many of them were conversant with Latin, Greek, and French, and probably might have been called "old fogies" in their day. We will take heart then, and not be ashamed to be in the same category, as the young bloods of the present day. It will take a good many Professors, Presidents of Colleges &c., to make us old fogies think little, and speak slightly of "Experience." We regard her (if you will allow a feminine) with peculiar tenderness, and love. She is our "alma mater" and worthy of all the honors we can possibly bestow upon her head. And many an illustrious person whose name we find recorded in history, has bowed his acknowledgments to her, as he moved through life, "invention weighs down Experience." Fieldsticks! What is an "invention" pray, till "Experience" proves its worth?

An ill directed "genius" who is taught to ignore the "light of other minds" may puzzle his brains to insanity—lose his money and life, and leave nothing but an undeveloped "invention" to record his rashness, and foolishness, in "striving to make the iron hot," without force or fire. He had better have spent his time in looking at a "mirage," and studying to find out what a mirage was. He would have found it a beautiful and instructive subject, only being a "genius" he might have fancied it a reality, and pursued it, "path or no path" before consulting books, folks again shouting themselves "hoarse in applause of these very men who have brought desolation and woe to every household, and to the future."

SCENE THE THIRD.
Street in the Capital in 1877.
ENTER NAME.
First Citizen—Well, Jack, what have witnessed many a thrilling scene, and now our "bruisers" are being up for monuments, and peace is once more restored—our glory for the present and our hope for the future.
Second Citizen—Yes, we should feel grateful that we was no worse. As I predicted, the old politicians have worked themselves back into leadership, and surely nothing can surpass their impudence, or the stupidity of the people. Here comes Mr. Ben. Brown and Ben Hill guests at the banquet given to President Hayes, and there Ben told that one construction placed upon the words of the Federal constitution, declaring that instrument to be "the supreme law of the land."

"There can be only one supreme law," said Ben, and in saying so, admitted for himself and Joe that secession was treason. But never mind, the people are now for peace and the Union, and Joe and Ben know which way the wind blows. So let them reap where they did not sow, so they can no more bring rain upon our people.

Check Anderson Triumphs.
AT THE GRIFTIN FAIR.
From the correspondent of the Atlanta Constitution, we extract the following:
GRIFTIN, Ga., Oct. 12.—In the contest for a premium of $5 for the best single harness horse, Mr. C. K. Anderson's mare, Ida, won, she having gained most grace by her actions in the eyes of the judges, among the competitors, for that premium. The attention of all present was directed to the stallion race, which was called promptly at 2 o'clock. This race was two miles, and repeat—best three in five. There were three entries, Mr. Clint Taylor, of Atlanta, entered as Belmont; Mr. Chuck Anderson, of Marietta, entered Belmont; and Mr. H. L. Travis entered John Kimble Jackson. The purse was $200 to the first horse and $50 to the second. Upon a toss Belmont second and John Kimble Jackson on the outside. The first heat was exciting, and much cheering was done as Belmont, a beautiful little animal, passed under the string, and won the first heat, making the two miles in 6:55. The second heat was called, after an interval of fifteen minutes. This heat was trotted, and given to Storm, Time, 5:53. Mr. Long, the driver of Belmont in this heat, claimed to have been fouled by the driver of Kimble Jackson. The rules of the Griftin Fair, who set the pole to Belmont—placing Storm second and Kimble Jackson third. The third heat was then trotted,

SCENE THE SECOND.
A street in the Capital of Georgia in 1867.
ENTER SAME CITIZENS.
First Citizen—Well, Jack, what of the night?
Second Citizen—We are approaching the finale. Joe Brown and Aleck Stephens begin to feel it in their homes. Ben Hill holds out, never knowing just when to shift his sails, and looks with doubt and dread and apparent indignation upon the defection of Joe and Aleck from the cause of the Southern Confederacy. Joe is for changing somehow or other the programme of the war, and Aleck is for terminating it by negotiation. They are both excellent political "weather-cocks," and show very clearly that the popular sentiment after four years of devastating war, is awakening to the fact that we have committed a great blunder.

First Citizen—What is to be the end of it?
Second Citizen—We will soon see. Be sure, these politicians will right themselves before the people, and you will see the good no path" before consulting books, folks again shouting themselves "hoarse in applause of these very men who have brought desolation and woe to every household, and to the future."

and won by Kimble Jackson. Time 5:55. A proposition was then made by the "Kimble" Jackson men to give the race to Belmont, and to divide the first money. Mr. Anderson said that he would not agree to any such proposition. That he would not let other heat and either win the race and take the whole money, or lose it and get none. Mr. Travis declined to let Kimble go in the fourth heat, therefore it was called and trotted by Belmont and Storm. Belmont won the heat in 6:07. The race was then given to the small bay stallion, Belmont, amid great enthusiasm. Belmont is a very young animal, being only five years old. His pedigree shows close family connection with Glencoe, Black Hawk, Goldsmith Maid, and other horses that have won great reputation on the turf.

The War.
LONDON, Oct. 13.—Nothing has been heard from the Russians about the latest battle in Armenia since the bulletin dated the 9th, which stated that the Turks had abandoned most of their positions and begun to retreat in consequence of the occupation of new positions by the Russians. From the private and official reports received through Constantinople it appears that Mukhtar Pasha, possibly in consequence of fighting from the 2nd to the 4th, thought it advisable to occupy a less extended line, and with his right wing, which stood near Sarbatan, holding the advanced position on the Russian flank, and retired to Hadjivert and Vesni koi. The line occupied by the Russians on the spurs of Aladj Dag was a very formidable one, most of the positions being well high and impregnable in front; but it extended at least from the 17th to the 19th, and it would have required an army much larger than Mukhtar Pasha's, all told, about 35,000 or 40,000 men, and it was clearly the plan of the Russian attack to break through this long line, especially as the Russian position on the right, extending to Sarbatan and Kizil Tepe, left a gap between the right and left, where a road from Alexandropolis, by Galizan, Sarbatan and Hadjivert, skirts away down towards Vesnikoi and Kizil Tepe. It was according to this movement, while this movement was being effected on Tuesday morning that the Russians commenced an attack in strong force with sixty pieces of artillery, with Turkish guns and two columns of infantry speedily took up position and a duel between heavy cannon took place all along the line from Khidjan to Adjik.

The battle raged from afternoon till an hour and a half after midnight, when the Russians, despite being frequently reinforced during the conflict, were thoroughly beaten and retreated under the cover of darkness with a loss which Mukhtar estimates at 12,000 killed and wounded. On Thursday night the Turks remained encamped on the 17th, and the following morning successfully accomplished a movement to Aladjdag, which the enemy had attempted to frustrate.
