

The Headlight.

THOS. R. PENN. : : Publisher.

Saturday, Saturday, February 18.

A young official of Clarke county makes it a rule to give 10 per cent. of all he makes to the church. There are a number of gentlemen in Athens who adopt the same policy.

Athenians are organizing a party to visit the Jasper Festival at Savannah next week. President Cleveland's presence in the city will result in excursions from all parts of the State.

In Atlanta the boot blacks are charged $2.50 a year as license for the privilege of blacking boots. In consequence they have formed a union, and now the price of a shine is ten cents.

The Republicans of Charleston are making extensive preparations for Fred Douglass' visit to that city in the early part of March. They want to rent the largest hall in the city for him to speak in. The date has not been fixed, but it will probably be March 7.

The Rhode Island Legislature has passed a bill in favor of free newspapers for members. That is, the State will pay for the members' education on public matters. It seems to be something of an imposition on Rhode Island, but it will probably be a saving to her. Newspapers can teach legislators a good many things.—Savannah News.

Some eastern genius has devised a machine for cleaning cotton seed of the lint adhering to it, by means of which the seed may be put in condition for shipment to Europe, where it will bring $25 a ton, while the price paid by the cotton seed oil monopoly is $7 to $8 per ton. This is an unexpected stumbling block in the path of the oil magnates.—Augusta Chronicle.

The will of Mrs. Otto Goldschmidt (worth about $200,000, it is estimated) has been presented to the New York State court, and the estate purchased out of the $100,000 settled on her by an American when she married is given to her husband. Several legacies are given Swedish universities for the education of poor students.

Gum chewing is said to have become almost as common among Congressmen as among school girls. Scores of them have lately acquired the habit. It was lately acquired by a new member from the West. One day he astonished some of his brother statesmen by inviting them to go out and indulge in a little gum chewing. They had probably been accustomed to indulging in something more exhilarating, but Congressmen rarely refuse anything that they don't have to pay for, and so they went. Now the man keeps a little gum stand near the main entrance to the House, does a thriving business, and many members are getting as particular in their choice of gum as in the brand of cigars they smoke.

Amos the burials in the city of Norwich, Conn., the other day, was that of an old and honored Laurel Hill avenue Plymouth Rock ben, who had flourished ten years under the name of "Spend," which is short for Splendid. She was a giant bird, weighing about fourteen pounds, and had made a big egg record. Had her owners been speculative zoologists they could have sold her eggs for ostrich eggs to collectors without much danger of being detected. She knew when it was meal time as well as a regular boarder, and came regularly for her food, calling for her meat once a day. Of a brood of forty she was the best altogether lovely. She always wanted a chat with her mistress daily, and when she was not feeling well would "cuss" to be held in her lap and rocked by plying her mistress's apron. She was appreciated not only for what she did, but also for what she knew. When she departed this life the queen of the brood was dead, and a royal burial was accorded her.—R.

ITEMS FROM STEVEN'S COTTERY.

Mr. J. R. Andrews is erecting a new dwelling which will be completed soon. We hope he will not be so unfortunate as to have the "fire fiend" visit him again.

The farmers are turning their attention to cotton in earnest, looking forward to a bright future which is seldom realized by many. The farmer treads the racket pretty well till fighting time comes, and then we are reminded of the darkies' saying: "Nought is nought, five is a figure, ell for de white man, and nuffin for the nigger." The merchant gets the cotton, the Sheriff the corn, the lawyer the cotton seed and the farmer gets his name circulated in his county paper.

We know of a certain young gent who is desirous of becoming the possessor of a first class buggy animal, one that can make a mile in three minutes. Now we don't know exactly what he is up to, but rather suspect that some of the girls have gone back on him and his only chance at revenge, is to ride her so fast that her brain will become addled. This is all right. It is rather monotonous around Haddon anyway, and goes when he gets that fine horse, some of the young ladies will propose a buggy ride. Leap-year you know.

Mr. C. L. Newton says he intends to make one bale of cotton to every one and a half acres of ground, or he will never plant any more cotton. This we presume will be his last year. He has however a large quantity of fertilizers, of his own make, and we hope his undertaking may prove a success. Mr. Joe Hardy says if he gets a bale to five acres he will be satisfied. Joe has come from behind the counter and is pulling the bell line over a male. May the jingle of the chains and plow-hoes drive dull care away until the clouds are cleared by a diamond, at the close of the year, of silver and gold.

HADDONCKS ITEMS.

The bright eyes of Miss Saline Woolfolk have beamed upon her friends at this place recently.

In lieu of there being no services at Fortville last Sabbath, Ed Coleman went to Macon to worship.

The handsome daughters of Mr. Joe Glawson have been spending a few days with their friends Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Norris at Oaklawn.

Owing to some hitch in the arrangements, Will Lester, instead of locating in the Halls of the Montezuma, has plumped himself to the Finney Bros.

There has been very little material upon which to build a correspondence lately, hence the apparent perfunctory style of recent essays. It is a source of much regret however, to have to chronicle more changes, more departures. Mess Will Middlebrooks and Charley Adler have shaken the dust of Haddoncks from their No. 10's and will find homes abroad. We wish the well young gentlemen. There is still much left us, for the one of all work, all emergencies, everybody's agent is still on deck. The genial Ed. C. is so indispensable to Haddoncks, that no matter what is wanted anywhere in reach, they simply call on the indefatigable for it. He doesn't "wails" like one who leads alone some banquet hall deserted, so many of his conferees now in search of the Eldorado. Ed can't be spared and may be forever with us. Besides he is our Lothario's and that again renders him a necessity.

We have a very unique village in that we are minus the usual characters found around Railroad stations and who form a part of the body politic. These we are without the pompous Ballif, the erudite and oracle ex-Judge the Demosthenes, whose kin all say with much pride should have studied law, for he uses other people's thunder to such an advantage, the miller who gets in on a bushel of corn and straight way lays out in candy and such like and still don't omit the half dozen chair warmers, who pass verities and occasionally salute one another, "well Judge, now Major, now Doctor who is the family confidant and the intimate friend of all, even to the individual who may have just dropped from the train. ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Strawberries are selling at twenty cents a quart in Florida.

The Japanese hitch a horse in the street by tying his forelegs together.

A Jersey City Butcher quarreled with another man and struck him with a sausage, breaking three of his ribs.

It is a growing custom in Germany to place Christmas trees on the graves of children. On many of them are burning tapers and rich decorations.

A house in New Jersey, which had been kept insured for eighty-nine years, burned up the other day between the lapse of one policy and the taking out of another.

The 7-year-old daughter of S. D. Duvall, of Owenston, Ky., the other day completed the task of eating one partridge a day for thirty consecutive days. Her father gave her $25.

A recording thermometer is the latest mechanical curiosity. It has a clockwork attachment, and records the stage of temperature at every hour and minute of the day for a period of eight days.

A Portland, Me., woman has read the Bible through eighty-five times; she is 75 years old and began when she was 7. She reads from the same book with which she first began, and has read it at least once every year.

A young man in Davenport, Ia., a drug clerk, is well off for grandparents. His present supply is nine: Two great-grandfathers, three great-grandmothers, two grandfathers and two grandmothers.

Over $50,000,000 worth of diamonds are sold yearly in New York. This does not include those worn by hotel clerks. The reported value of the diamonds alleged to have been stolen from star actresses aggregates a much larger sum.

Henry L. Miller, of Burlington, Ia., has a German Bible that was printed in 1522. It is still in its original cover and in very good shape. The lids are of wood, covered with leather. It is said that only thirteen Bibles of this edition were printed.

Farmers living near Bakersfield, Cal., built a jack-rabbit corral, shaped like the letter V, recently, and then scoured the fields on horseback, driving the animals before them into the trap. Then for two hours a general massacre of the pests took place, in which 5,075 of them were killed.

A new fashion in bookbinding is to have large sets bound in leather of different colors. A Boston man has just had Dickens bound in sixteen different colors, among them red, brown, orange, light and dark blue, lemon, fawn, maroon and black. Each novel was bound in an individual hue, the only duplication occurring when a story came in two volumes.

An Albany club has a curiosity in the shape of the first Republican ticket ever cast for State officers in that city. It was voted at the fall election of 1855. The ticket is printed in white on a black background, showing that the voters of that day had a fondness for the name "Black Republicans" bestowed upon them by their opponents. The ticket has been framed and presented to the Grant Club.

The only son of a tradesman in Paris was playing in his father's room when he perceived that the safe was open. It is a spirit of boyish fun he got into it. Presently the father came into the room, and before leaving his day's work locked the safe, the child keeping silent since the while. Soon the little fellow was missed; the police was called in and a hot and dry raked. Next morning the father opened the safe to find his son a corpse.

A cat whose general appearance indicated great feebleness and general ill-health walked into a drug store in Van Buren, Mo., the other day and began biting and scratching at a paper package of catnip. A quantity was poured on the floor, and the cat sat greedily, and rolled on the leaves. She was a daily visitor to the store, and got the medicine regularly, until all appearances she was quite well. This is the story as sent from Van Buren.

FROM BRADLEYS.

Mr. John Bradley is on a visit to Jacksonville, Fla., this week.

Dr. Jones and lady of Monticello, visited their sister Mrs. Bradley, of this place, last week.

The school at this place opened last Monday, and the good teacher, Mr. Waller, expresses himself as being highly pleased with his new situation.

We were sorry to hear of Mr. Curry's accident, that of falling in the creek, while crossing a foot log a few days ago, on his way to the old Hunt graveyard.

Several of our young men went out to the river on a fishing expedition last week. One caught two very fine fish one of which (a "scrapp" cat) weighed 15 lbs. Who can beat that?

We are glad to know the C & M. is doing such a good business, hauling fine stock from Wayside, to the Central City to secure mortgages. We got money on ours without shipping them.

A certain young gent, not a hundred miles away, went to Macon, the other day, got a jug of bait, and paid Pope's Ferry a flying visit. He failed to catch the big fish he intended, and when he returned home his hat and docket were gone. SAMBO.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Mrs. E. G. HARMEDAN, Local Editor.

The days are gradually growing longer.

The weather for the past few days has been "just lovely."

Miss Hattie Hunt, of Round Oak, visited Monticello this week.

Read the new advertisement of J. J. Mercer in today's paper.

Mrs. Mary Roberts, of Monticello, died last Thursday night of pneumonia.

The surveying corps are in Madison locating a line through the incorporate limits.

The next meeting of the State Agricultural Convention will be held in Newnan in August.

The Argus office is now connected with the outside world by a private telegraph line to the depot. No other weekly paper in Georgia can make such a boast.—Jackson Argus.

Messrs. J. W. Barron, of Round Oak, and John Bradley, of Bradley's, attended the State Agricultural Convention this week at Waycross, and will take in the Sub Tropical Exposition at Jacksonville, Fla.

The Enterprise factory, at Augusta, has in connection with it, a free school for the benefit of the smaller children of the operatives. While the parents are working there are 25 scholars being educated at the expense of the company.

It is proposed to organize in Easton a "tongue guard society," the object of which is to guard against saying anything improper to or about any one. Each officer to be punished by a fine of one cent. Wonder who will be president?—Putnam Enterprise.

A SAD ACCIDENT.

From the Jasper County News:
 Last Tuesday evening Lewis Edmond, col; about 30 years of age, was accidentally shot by Mr. Paul Roberts, son of our townsman, O. C. Roberts, who is employed as salesman in the store of W. A. Kelly & Co. of Macon. He had borrowed a pistol from Paul last Monday to carry with him on a trip to Social Circle, and on his return Tuesday evening went into the provision room to retrieve the pistol, and while in hands of its owner, it accidentally discharged, sending a ball into his bowels from which he died in a few moments. Paul regrets, as does the entire community, the accident very much.

THE BRILLIANT.

Biscuit Smith is now the presiding genius of THE BRILLIANT SALOON, the finest in Macon. He gives his customers the best to eat, best to drink, and furnishes free beds, doing more for his patrons than any man in Macon.

CLINTON LOCALS.

The weather is bright and spring like.

Farmers are busy sowing spring oats.

Col. Robert L. Berner, of Forsyth, was in town Monday.

Miss Emma Chiles is visiting Mrs. P. S. Johnson on College St. Macon.

Miss Maude Peon, of Monticello, spent last Saturday with her cousin, Miss Kate Morgan.

Mrs. Judge Johnson and son, Berner, have been spending some time in Macon visiting relatives.

Mr. T. W. Duffey of James Station was in town last Tuesday. His many friends in Clinton have always a welcome for him.

The school children had a Valentine pound party at the residence of Col. Hardean on Wednesday night, it was deferred from Tuesday night owing to the burial on the fourteenth. The many valentines and nice supper seemed to be enjoyed.

Mr. Charles S. Griswold, late of Dallas Texas, has returned with his family to James Station. It spends sometime with Mrs. P. T. Pitts.

He trusts the change of climate may be beneficial to him, as his health has not been good for some time.

Mr. William G. Morgan, the "oldest man" of the town, on his 83rd birthday (8th Feb'y) went by way of the C. & M. K. R. to Macon.

Morgan is in the full enjoyment of all mental capacities and has moderately good health. He and his estimable wife have the best wishes of the HEADLIGHT for a long continuance of their good lives.

The funeral services and burial of Mrs. James T. Finney took place Tuesday afternoon at the church and cemetery in Clinton was largely attended. Mrs. Finney had many warm friends in the country, and was universally loved and esteemed.

Rev. Wesley F. Smith of Calverton assisted by Rev. M. A. Phillips conducted the services. We noted a number of gentlemen and ladies of Haddock's in the congregation.

Mrs. Finney after a painful illness of more than five months duration died at her home at Haddock's on the morning of the 13th inst. She will be greatly missed by the community in which she lived.

A Tribute of Love to our Dear Friend, Mrs. Mary Park Finney who Died February 13th 1888.

We come to place upon thy new made grave gentle and lost one, just a simple heartfelt offering, and yet how frail and empty do words appear, when we try to perpetuate thy amiable traits of goodness and well remembered worth. Thou wert ever so sympathetic, so ready to assist the suffering. So ready to weave in the web of a daily life

A bright and golden filling, And God's will with a happy heart.

With hands that were deft and willing."

Alas! those sweet hands lie quietly folded now o'er the christian heart that ceases its pulsing. Those dear lips, from whence emanated words of cheer, and loving counsel are hushed in Deaths calmness. It seems but a yesterday that we robbed thee for thy bridal and yet a happy four years have passed since then, and now we place upon thy freshly mounded grave, sweet soon, thee garlands so fit and emblematic.

Violets, so like thine own sweet spirit, the perfume fingers while fades the "blue" away. Thou art gone indeed "beyond the sunset's radiant glow," but we hug to our hearts cherished memories of all thy quiet and winning character.

It is a blessed legacy left to those on earth, the life that thou didst live, it was a sublime reality of our religion to have lived the death that thou didst die. Thy gentle spirit, will still hover o'er the little home nest that is left "withered, daughterless, motherless. Every little trifle that thou hast touched will bring thee so fresh to mind and heart.

God comfort with his kindest providence the poor broken hearts that are left behind! We cannot, we would not forget thee, Mary, "whom to know was to love." We have been made better by thy life, made holier by thy Christian death!

AIR CASTLES.

Written for the "Headlight."

What are Air Castles? Ask any girl between the ages of fifteen and eighteen; she can tell you.

When Spring first dons her mantle of green; shakes out her golden hair, placing thereon a coronet of delicate pink and white blossoms; steals the choicest perfumes dame Nature can bestow; penetrates the darkest corners by a glance from her sweet bonny face, and makes even the most morose and crabbed of us thaw in her sunny presence, then,—then is the time a girl chooses for day dreaming and castle building.

Down in the orchard under a large apple tree is my place for such. I sit here negligently and dream of the handsome home I intend to own. I shall be generous, good, noble and true. Servants will come at my call. I intend to be a kind and sweet mistress, causing my servants to honor and love me. My dresses are to be as dainty as the pink and white petals which I shall do only fancy—

"Sister!" comes a child's treble voice on the spring air.

"What dear?" I answer sweetly, only half brought back to reality.

"I was acting on the acting—poor and tore my pants and 'busted' two buttons off my jacket. Sew 'em on!"

Dreams vanish in the air. I rise. I go. I sew, and darts for thirty minutes; out of patience, I jerk the thread; the perspiration streams from my brow; I lose my temper because the tear is three corners and there is not another piece of cloth like it in the house, and finally end the whole business by throwing the pants down and ordering the little brother to get another pair.

His eyes have a half wondering, half mischievous light as he raises them to me. I smile, repent of my ill humor, pick up the dilapidated faithful trousers, and mend them in fifteen minutes. No more dreams and building at present. I forget the needless but pleasant half hour under the apple tree. Life is full of realities; some pleasant, others wretched. Mine are mostly pleasant, almost as sweet as the construction of air-castles and far more profitable. Tea is over and we seek the front veranda, where the moon's soft rays fall without stint, making the fair spring night exquisite. The parlor windows are open, blinds stretched wide and some sweet melody played by skillful fingers floats out to me. It is Schubert's "Serenade," and sets me "castle building" directly.—I am in a ball room.

My card is already full. One for Lancers; another for this waltz still another for that polka and so on down the tablet names are written. My dress is of delicate blue mull, pearls my ornaments; white and pink roses my bouquet. Graceful is my form; small white hands are mine. "My face is fair and sweet; hair a golden brown; eyes blue as forget-me-nots; lips ruby red and nose like that of a Greek goddess.

"Your snub nose shows to great advantage in the brilliant moonlight," is a remark from my friend the forth of ordinary mortals with a bump. Ah! me. It is indeed true. Teen not dance; I am not graceful; my hands are neither white nor small; my hair a very common brown; as for my eyes, they are akin to a cat's. "Ah! me. Ah! me, then sighed she." So I go dreaming, dreaming; now a heroine, now this, now that. Finally the greatest idea of all strikes me. I shall be an authoress; my fame shall spread from continent to continent; from sea to sea. My articles shall bring me in $40 each. (It has ever been my ambition to have $40.) I seize pen, ink, paper, set to work and write with R. R. speed. My thoughts multiply faster than my fingers move. Air Castles! a noble subject. I write faster, faster still. Will my head burst with the ideas it contains? No! A blank. Each idea has left as swiftly as it came. I read over what I have written. Tears run silently down my cheeks and splash on the M. S. Evidently I was not built for an authoress. I lay down my pen. I retire for the scene, "A wiser and a sadder girl!"

"NORA."

ITEMS FROM BRADLEY'S.

Bradley's is on a regular boom." Mr. G. H. Waller has a fine school at this place.

A party of gentlemen think of going on a fishing frolic to Black Lake as soon as the weather is warm enough.

Mr. W. E. Dunwoody and son, from Macon, came out last Monday to take a hunt with Mr. Lee Barnes. They bagged fifteen partridges.

There was a valentine party at the residence of Mr. Wash Ross last night. Messrs. Will Bradley, Jim Berry and Tom Bradley attended.

Mr. Bee Walker says that he intends pulling the bell line over a male this year. If he will plant a tiny watermelon patch we will go to see him.

A stock company is being formed to grade Main street so as to run street cars from the C. & M. depot to Academy street. It will be of great advantage to the city and we hope to see the work completed before many months. It is said that some of our citizens will soon have telephone wires running from their places of business to their homes. Let the good work go on! We are advancing to the front in double quick.

Merryman's A. D. Bones,

Merryman's GEORGIA TEST.

We can say without any fear of contradiction that Merryman's Fertilizers are to-day, as they have been for 30 years, at the very top in excellence, and the perfect satisfaction they give to planters.

While most of the popular brands on the market in past years have changed the grade of their goods by lowering their grade, Merryman has continually improved. We do not make these statements at random. We refer to any planter in Jones and Jasper counties who have used Merryman's Guano, and will state our reputation on the result.

—WE ALSO HANDLE—

for composting, which is the highest grade acid on the market. We sell cheaper acid phosphates; also Kainit, and are agents for the Macon Oil & Fertilizer Company for the sale of their Cotton Seed Meal.

We can give low prices on these goods, and are ready to deliver now. Our Agents will call on the good people of Jones and Jasper counties, and we will trust receive their orders.
