MAISON NEWS: The tomb which Jay Gould has had built for him has angels on the windows. It suggests the fact that those angels will be the only ones with which he will ever come in contact. Jay is nothing if not sensible.

The New York Legislature has consumed two days in discussing the question of work on the crumbling ceiling of the State House. The cost of the discussion would probably more than pay the expense of the work required. New York is not the only State whose patriots make the people pay for their mas.

REPRESENTATIVE DUBINAH, of Illinois, has introduced a bill in Congress appropriating $150,000 for the construction of an air ship to convey passengers and freight through the air. This is supposed to be Dr. DeLussant's flying machine, of which mention has been made. Congress will hardly let it fly off with $150,000.

Mrs. BELVA LOCKWOOD may have to contend for the nomination of her party. Two formidable rivals have lately sprung up. They are Mrs. Dow, the Dover street, President, who reduced the fare on her lines, and Mrs. Salter, the Mayor of a Michigan town, who is making it very warm for people who defy the law. This is a work of disappointments, and Mrs. Lockwood must bear her share of them.

SEVANNAH NEWS: The suspicious Republicans are afraid the Democrats will manage to get a majority of the State elections in Congress by ordering new elections in contested districts. What causes the timidity that has lately overtaken the Republicans? They see a Democratic ghost in every shadow. However, let there fears be allayed in this instance. The Democrats are not expecting the election of a President to be thrown into the House, and if they were they would decide contests strictly on their merits.

An Excursion on the C. & M.

Below we copy a portion of a long and interesting article which appeared in Sunday's Telegraph, giving an account of the excursion last Saturday. While our space forbids mentioning the long list of distinguished gentlemen, who comprised the party, we must not fail to note Mr. Alexander Brown, of the firm of Brown & Sons, bankers, of Baltimore, and also connected with the two great banking firms of Brown Bros. & Co., New York, Philadelphia and Boston, and Brown Shipley & Co., London and Liverpool. This gentleman has recently become interested in the Covington and Macon railroad, and last Saturday took his first ride over the road.

"As announced in our columns yesterday, a party consisting of several distinguished visitors and quite a number of the leading citizens boarded the north bound train on the Covington and Macon railroad at 10:20 yesterday morning. The party was taken in charge by Col. B. G. Macon, Mayor, Craig and Chauncy Palmer, and S. B. Stoner, officers of the road, with Mr. John Crawford, chief of cuisine of the Hotel Lanier, who had a bountiful supply of the good things of life in the forward compartment of the gentlemen's car.

At Bradley's Mr. J. R. Van Buren boarded the train, and he brought with him as a souvenir a real Georgia gourd, fashioned into the shape of a water dipper, well calculated to awaken many delightful memories in the minds of the happy travelers.

A short halt at the little town of Grays, which has sprung up like magic within the space of six months, and then the journey was resumed. Everybody on board expressed their delight at the smoothness of the road, and as the engine began to patter along at the rate of forty miles an hour, over a road that, less than a year ago, was made of corn ridges and patches of woods.

"At Round Oak another short halt was made, and the Messrs. Hunt, prominent farmers of that community, got aboard.

At every stopping place the travelers were greeted with loud cheers and the waving of hats by the enthusiastic citizens, while ever and anon the flutter of a cambric handkerchief from the window of some fine old Middle Georgia Mansion attested the interest which the ladies took in this triumphant ride. At a few minutes past noon the train rolled into the fair town of Monticello, and the excursionists were greeted by the leading men of the town, who turned out in force, as they always do, to extend a welcome to their Macon friends and to the distinguished visitors from abroad.

The object of this trip was to emphasize the interest which the people of Macon feel in the extension and completion of this enterprise, and to demonstrate, not alone to Mr. Brown, but to the entire world, that Macon is in hearty sympathy with everything that will add to her prosperity; and that the community at large will foster, encourage and protect capital from wherever it comes. As such the demonstrations of approval and satisfaction were overwhelming.

Never before has there been a finer gathering of representative people to sanction this enterprise with their approval. The universal expression on the lips of every individual was one of pleasant surprise. They had expected to find a fine line of road running through a progressive country; but the most sanguine did not expect to be carried over an entirely new road at the rate of forty miles an hour, with as much comfort and safety, and through a country of such richness and possibility. For the building of this road men might have come out of the air, and the stream of life might have flown on forever, and the world might never have known that there existed so fine a virgin as has been opened up by this fine road.

At Monticello the crowd dispersed, and some were exchanging congratulations with the study citizens of that thriving town. The good people turned out en masse to welcome their friends, and there was an exchanging of reminiscences and war stories, and several gentlemen of middle age and grave deportment laughed and talked, and cracked jokes just as old veterans are wont to do. Major Weekes told of how he had been in a few miles of Monticello; Capt. Dunlap told of how he used to go swimming in Murder creek, years and years ago. Dr. J. G. McHenry mentioned that his wife had gone to school there in the years ago, and even scraped up an acquaintance with a distant relative of a family with whom she was connected, and so on down the long list. A friend remarked that Mr. Sam Coleman looked ten years younger and laughed more than he had in six years before.

Col. Ross was as jubilant as a three-year-old, and Dr. J. S. Baxter's usually dignified countenance took on a youthfulness beyond description. Everybody was happy. Everybody had reason to be happy, because they met present witnesses and partakers of the enjoyment of a triumph that was as much to their honor and glory as to that of the citizens of the good town where guests they were. Among the distinguished gentlemen who came to extend a cordial welcome to the town were Mr. N. B. White, Mr. Henry McCreary, Dr. Marshall, Col. Ed. H. Col. Preston, the patriarch, and father of two as noble sons as ever did or ever will honor Jasper county as their birthplace. A number of the excursionists went to the Meriwether House on invitation of the citizens of Monticello, where they had a most elegant lunch set in their honor.

The return trip was most enjoyable. Although the train failed to leave as early as anticipated. Conductor Whitehead gave an order to the engineer to let the train go, and the train was rolling away at a rate of speed not often attempted on old and settled lines. Part of the way we ran at a rate of fifty miles an hour, and at 4 o'clock we landed in Macon without jolt or jar, or any apprehension of accident."

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Eighteen young men of Mountain Home, Ark., swore off from the tobacco habit on the first of the present year. Whoever returns to the habit is to be ducked in a pond of water.

A boy was born with two mouths in St. Paul the other day. When he attains manhood he will be able to out-talk any Minneapolis man regarding the relative advantages of the two cities.

The Australian Minister of Public Instruction has issued a decree forbidding the use of small printed books in public schools, as the cause of the near sightedness so prevalent among the school children.

A Census has been begun of the French carrier pigeons. They are regarded now as of such importance in the event of war that all owners are obliged to report their pigeons under a maximum fine of 2,000.

A member of the Kentucky Legislature has introduced a bill prohibiting the marriage of tramps, vagrants, gamblers, drinkards and persons of bad temper in that state. He probably expects to create for the model young man a corner in the matrimonial market.

A good woman in Deer Isle, Me., chaperoned a baby's sueque for a church fair. The sueque was raffish and she took a share and won. She offered it to the fair again if they'd give her a change. She won again. If the fair had kept on she would, too.

A fashion paper tells of a remarkable wedding in London recently, where the bride was attended by a lot of little girls clad in black velvet frocks, red stockings, black shoes, red cloaks and red three cornered hats, trimmed with black velvet, and carrying red bouquets tied with red and black ribbons.

Some of the young people of Cairo, Ill, had a candy-pulling the other evening, and everybody was having a jolly time until suddenly the house cat slipped from the shelf above the stove and fell into boiling molasses. It put such a damper on the entertainment that the party soon broke up. The cat died.

W. R. Gaines, of Clarence, Mo., saw a cow more than a month ago, and after searching in vain for her came to the conclusion that she had been stolen. A few days ago, while he was pulling straw from a stack, his hands came in contact with an animal's tail, and following it up he found that it belonged to his long lost cow. The cow appeared none the worse for her long imprisonment.

A Scotch terrier owned by C. Graphe of Watertown, Wis., came at a glance detect a bogus silver dollar from a genuine one. A few days ago he was taken to a bank and a handful of good dollars mixed with bad ones was placed in a pile on a table. The dog jumped on the table, scattered the money with his paw and quickly picked out all the good dollars. The bad ones he would not touch.

Probably the most remarkable railroad in the world is that running from Gloggnitz to Loosening near Vienna. It is only twenty-five miles in length and cost over $7,000,000. It begins at the little station of Gloggnitz, at an elevation of 1,000 feet, and from there the train, hauled by two powerful locomotives, winds round and round over some fifteen double viaducts and through as many tunnels. It creeps along precipices affording glimpses of some of the wildest scenery in Europe. Its terminus, Loosening, is at an elevation of 5,300 feet.

A precious stone of much interest is an opaque white hydrophane discovered in Colorado. The finder has named it "magic stone" because as usual with this mineral, it possesses the property of becoming absolutely transparent if water is dropped slowly on it from one to three minutes. It is so porous that it will absorb its own weight of water. It quickly recovers its opacity. The finder suggests that the stone be used for seals, rings, and scarfs, as by reason of its opacity it would completely conceal portraits, mottos, or mementoes, which would be brought to view by the desired by the application of a little water.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

MR. E. C. HARDMAN, Local Editor.

Col. E. C. Machen's Victory.

The injunction case of the C. and M. which has been pending for the last few months, has finally been settled, and the road will be pushed on to Athens at a rapid rate. Col.
E. C. Machen was untiring in his efforts to place the road on its feet, and "proved his faith by his works" as will be seen from the following item clipped from Wednesday's Tel-graph.

"Actions to the adjournment and while the orders were being written out, Col. E. C. Machen turned over to Capt. F. S. Johnson two checks, one for $17,069.18, and the other for $7,950.82, on Alexander Brown & Sons, Baltimore, signed by E. C. Machen, and endorsed by Alexander Brown. These checks represented the required $25,000, as previously agreed upon, were cashed by J. C. Plant, and so the stipulations of the agreement were carried out to the letter."

All along the line we hear rejoicing over the termination of the injunction case against the C. & M. road in its favor, and to know that the road will now progress rapidly.
The truth is Col. Machen with Col.
Alexander Brown has accomplished the greatest financial feat known in the history of this country and their names will be cherished by the people along the line of this road, as benefactors to our section. They saw the intrinsic value of this road and that it was a safe and sure investment and they did not hesitate to invest their money in it. All praise to Messrs. Machen, Alexander Brown and their associates.

We copy the following from the Jasper County News.
The fire works displayed last night at Mrs. A. B. White's in the honor of the victory and success of the C.
& M. road, were most heartily enjoyed by all of our citizens. The marvelous feat of Messrs. Machen, Alexander Brown, Finkel, and the C. & M. Rail Road!"

CLINTON LOCALS.

Capt. Ross is not so well as he has been.
Our communication from Franks will appear next week.
Maude and Wallis Hardeman are visiting friends in Macon this week.
Col. Hardeman paid a professional visit to Buena Vista last week.
Mrs. M. A. E. Penn, of Monticello, is visiting Mrs. John Morgan, near Grays.
The bright days since the 20th have been a boon, and the sunshine is as welcome as can be. May it continue!

The moon was much observed Saturday evening. The eclipse was more plainly perceived than at any previous time.

Reports from Mrs. Finney, of Haddock's, are very discouraging, as her many sincere friends in Clinton.
She grows weaker all the while.

D. P. Griswold is in Clinton making necessary repairs upon R. V.
Hardeman's boiler. Pratt is an expert machinist and knows just what to do with an engine.

Alex McKay spent Friday and Saturday in town examining applicants for teachers license. We understand several of the colored applicants stood up splendidly.

The eulogy upon Chancellor Mell, in Saturday's Telegraph by Col. N.
E. Harris is a gem of heartfelt sentiment and is a beautiful tribute to a great man, most eloquently expressed.

We see that Maj. A. W. Gilson, a well known and former outstanding merchant of Macon, has received another lucrative position in Washington city, from Congress, at a salary of $2,000 per annum.

A gretta green marriage would have taken place in this county "so rumor has it," had not the tender years of the prospective bride for-bidden the worthy Ordinaries issue-ing the license. Thereby ye Reporter has been cut off an item.

Master Ross Holsenbeck celebrated his tenth birthday last Friday evening by having an enjoyable party, at his home. The little one had a fine time, and a nice supper.
Ross is a bright boy, and one very popular with his playmates.

Mr. Smith, wife of Rev. Wesley F. Smith, who served our church in 1886 and now stationed at Culver-ton, visited Mrs. Finney last Saturday. She is a dear and excellent woman, and her friends in Clinton would have been glad to have her visit them.

The Headlight is promised some rich "reminiscences" of the early and festive order by an old citizen of Clinton now living in Macon. The writer (to be) is a most piquant writer with Malcomb Johnston's keen sense of the ridiculous. We await them impatiently.
Will Meeks of Coffee county one day last week killed the famous Jones county-bell buzzard. The letters C. E. are on his belt, below these are engraved "Jones Co., Ga.
1886." This buzzard has been noticed by the Georgia press for last four or five years. Mr. Meeks has the bell in his possession. Who believed him? Let us know.

ITEMS FROM STEVEN'S POTTERY.

Mr. John T. Sammers will make Baldwin County his future home.
He has recently moved from Jones County.

It has been predicted that the present year will be a favorable one for crops. We trust the predictions may prove true.

Mr. J. W. Black and family have moved to their future home in Preston, Webster County. We regret exceedingly to lose such citizens and wish them much success and prosperity.

We are pleased to note that Master Ben Finney, a son of the widow Tom Finney is improving very rapidly from a wound received from one of his shoulders recently from a gun shot.

No locomotive is complete without the headlight, neither is a household. Send and get the Jones County Head Light. It will afford good light for the whole family and lighten your pocket but very little.

Mr. R. W. Bloodworth was the lucky man, of the Dubington Volunteers. He wore off the blue ribbon at our prize shooting the 25th inst. Mr. Lewis McCollars was the second best. Mr. H. T.
T. was the third. The boys all did well.

Mr. W. C. Stevens, one of the firm of the noted Stevens Bros., of the famous toast was the victim of pneumonia. More anon.

FOR THE GIRLS.

A Bit of Experience and Advice.

When twenty three years ago, we "launched our frail bark upon the matrimonial sea," we thought we were about as smart as the average girl, and fully capable of undertaking the responsible position of housekeeper to a financially crippled young confederate soldier, who by the way kept health and brain. But, alas! little dreamed we of the many mysteries connected with housekeeping, and nothing knew we of that most essential part, in fact most important to the masculine idea, the art of cooking. This branch of our education had been mostly fearfully neglected. We soon discovered that the dear man cannot retain his senecity and amiability while breakfasting upon half-cooked unsavory steak or fowl, weak and muddy coffee with poorly made biscuit. No wonder he soon grows not only dyspeptic but despondent and irritable, while the poor, and feeble-minded young housekeeper wonders why the dear "cook" (or half-cooked) right? and soon began to believe her John or Tom or Joe "never did love her any how," or he wouldn't "toss" so!
We have told this theory, plain, and too well know "whereof we speak." We want to detail a little of our experience in the art cuisine. Limerick now as it appears, but distressingly grievous to us then. We would quote Owen Meredith's apt words in Lucille apropos the subject but our memory has grown weakly poor with all the very incident upon a tutelage of twenty years in kitchen, lore. This poet "ditches the nail" when he says we "can't live without cooks." Nothing pleases and appeases a man more than an appetizing well prepared meal, and we count that woman fortunate indeed who knows how to prepare or have prepared a well-cooked meal, be it ever so plain or frugal.
Bear you in mind that we don't believe it woman's whole duty to be a cook, and slave away her best and brightest hours in a hot kitchen over a steaming pot, old no we deem her endowed with mental powers too valuable for such menial service, but opine that she should be thoroughly familiar with the culinary art, that she could instruct those to whom she delegates the important duty of preparing the many dishes and de-lectables demanded by a family. We have never heard of more bitter tears than those that bathed our then young cheeks, one day in 1866. And why face? Just this, and old it was awful to us then. We had been presented with a splendid piece of pickled beef, a piece which properly prepared, would have tickled the palate of an epicure, but which we proceeded to murder in the following manner, a mode which we think was never heard of before. Why, we actually put it to boil in a pot of water without soaking over night, and then added it to the pot about three quarts of dried corn field peas. This for a family of three, myself, husband and the servant. Had not the salty water so soon permeated and hardened the peas, we think there would have been enough of them in that little kitchen to have fed half the cows in the settlement, though alas! the sequel proved the "longer they cooked the harder they grew," and being forced to make way with them somehow, we had the "mess of pot-age" (or rather the pot of message?) dumped into the cow lot, where they lay for days a monument, as it were, to our ignorance, so salty the hills and cows just turned their nose up at them. Then again, when our good husband hunter, when our many beautiful green-bronzed winged ducks from a successful raid upon the pond near our home, and expatiated at length upon the excellency of baked duck with apple jelly, we could in our minds eye see already before the nimble brown and dressed fowls, and donning an immaculate beruffled and be-bibbed apron we proceeded to the kitchen to help prepare the mallards. We began the fearful task without sending them in boiling water and liked never to have them in shape for cooking. With our nice white apron all rumpled and soiled, our richness worn threadbare, we wished that never a duck was killed, and we wished it harder and louder before they were baked for dinner, and felt we looked upon the dry looking carcasses that they were but a frightful homily upon baked duck that no one could eat, and yet it had taken so many hours hard work to prepare them. If we had only just known how to cook! Do girls, in your leisure hours step in the old cook room and take "a dot" or two every day. It may seem "awful" pissy and dull but learn the art, it will pay you in the end a hundredfold. What a treasure a good smart economical wife can prove to a man, if he knows how to cook!!! If we were a gentleman candidate for matrimony the first question we would propound to our "best girl" after she had consented to link her destiny with ours, would be: "Do you know how to cook?" and supplement by saying: "I don't learn how before you marry!"

FROM HADDOCKS.

Editor HEADLIGHT.—At this time there is an all pervading sadness throughout our little village. "The old hooteth" "The whangdoodle mourneth" for "The Band is busted," and the Haddock's Harmonica Club is a thing of the past. Our only solace is to recall the many hours of pleasure derived from that magnifcent Quartette. Never again will the village and district be awakened by music so melodious, so enchanting. Hot ashes and scalding water need never more have a place near the open window, but will be relegated to the back yard. The watch dog will do no more snarling, nor the moon be brought to bay as an offset to soothing music.
Want of appreciation in the way of cake and wine caused the collapse.
"Twas not unfrequently said that personal palatability of this eatery, when assembled under moon light, brought to mind the noted Tombston of far-away Venice.
We regret the departure of Mr.
Will Lester, who goes to seek the land of cheap boarding houses. Lerdy Holt expected to accompany Will, but the Railroaders are not selling return tickets. He wasn't as brave as his partner, who burned his ships behind him by buying a single ticket.
Ed Lester after some months with Messrs. Finney Bros., will tickle the soil for a large crop.
Likewise Will Moughen retires from John Anchor's house, where he was the idol of the fair. In lieu of smiles and sugar plums, it will be the caressing of one of the long eared.
The Guano trade has already set in, and those who live a great distance have commenced to haul.
Last season marked the era of perfect collections in this branch to the utter surprise of dealers. I heard our largest dealer say that every ton was paid. Heretofore, it has been the rule, to make it last or not at all.
A lad citizen in the person of Moss Blount colored, came to grief last week in the Justice Court.
Moss has hankered after a place on the chain gang for some time, and it is now more than probable that he will be gratified. From his promisuous murderous actions he seemed to include the officers, spectators, witnesses and all present, as he pointed a shot gun in the door of the court room. In duance vice, he thinks people are getting mighty particular about going society.

In ancient days all roads led to Rome; with us, all muddy, slushy deep hole roads lead to the Haddock's.
Will the gentlemen of the Board of Commissioners bid us to this matter or allow them to grow a little worse and then become impassable. Mr.
Editor allow a suggestion, and that is urge upon the county the necessity of good highways, even to taxation.
"FRESH."

Any person who will get us up a club of ten subscribers (to be sent

Planters Read.

We have this day contracted with Messrs. JOHN MERRYMAN & Co to sell, at all stations on the C. & M. Railroad, their —CELEBRATED BRAND OF GUANO—

Merryman's A. D. Bones,
Merryman's GEORGIA TEST.

We can say without any fear of contradiction that Merryman's Fertilizers are to-day, as they have been for 30 years, at the very top in excellence, and the perfect satisfaction they give to planters.

While most of the popular brands on the market in past years have changed the grade of their goods by lowering their grade, Merryman has continually improved. We do not make these statements at random.
We refer to any planter in Jones and Jasper counties who have used Merryman's Guano, and will stake our reputation on the result.

—WE ALSO HANDLE—

SOLUBLE BONE DUST

for composting, which is the highest grade acid on the market. We sell cheaper acid phosphates; also Kainit, and are agents for the Macon Oil & Fertilizer Company for the sale of their Cotton Seed Meal.

We can give low prices on these goods, and are ready to deliver now.
Our Agents will call on the good people of Jones and Jasper counties, and we will trust their orders.
