The New York Sun advises the democrats in congress to stand together. The Sun is right. Unless the democrats stand together, the party will be defeated this fall.

After a rest of a year or more, Mr. B. M. Blackburn has resumed management of the Madisonian and will make that journal one among the best in the State. Editor Blackburn is a journalist of wide experience.

CIVIL SERVICE | COMMISSIONER Oberly has six handsome daughters, but no son. He is the last male representative of his family. His sister, who is dead, left no son, and his only brother never married. When Mr. Oberly died and his daughters take the names of their husbands, the family name will become extinct.

LIFE-SIZE PLASTER BUSTS of August Spies are having a wide sale in Chicago. The bust is from a cast of his face taken after death. Plaster impressions of the faces of the executed Anarchists were taken by an unknown sculptor just before the funeral. No bust of Lingg was obtained. He was already too busted, as it were.

The suggestion has been made that Congress should provide pensions for the families of postal clerks killed on duty. This is another attempted raid on the Treasury. What Congress ought to do is to increase the number of leap years. Every other year ought to be leap year, and the government ought to offer a premium to the sex making in its turn the best record in securing life partners. In many instances wives literally support their husbands, or, as a well known divine has put it, husbands board with their wives. If there were more marriages perhaps there would be fewer able-bodied men who have to be supported by the government.

The Act passed by the last legislature to revise and consolidate the Common School laws of the State provides that tax collectors shall issue a separate bill for poll taxes, and turn them over to the County School Commissioners. In accordance therewith the Comptroller General has issued a circular letter to the collectors from which we quote the following:

It has just come to my knowledge that an Act of the last legislature to amend, revise and consolidate the Common School laws, "provides that Tax Collectors shall issue separate bills on Dec. 20th of each year, for poll tax," "specifying in each bill that it is for the poll tax that year, and shall at once turn them over to the County School Commissioners of his county, taking his receipt therefor, and shall at the same time furnish the President of the County Board of Education with a list of the bills so turned over."

The famous Arbuckle-Campbell breach of promise suit was concluded in New York yesterday in favor of the plaintiff, who receives by the verdict $45,000 of the $104,000 damages asked for.

The suit is a novel and interesting one. Charles Arbuckle, the defendant, is fifty years of age and is immensely wealthy, having made a fortune out of the well known Arbuckle coffee establishment. In 1882 he became desperately attached to Miss Clara Campbell, now thirty-eight years old, and if the letters he wrote her at that time and later, rightly expressed his emotions, he had about as bad a case as there is on record, and it is no wonder that Miss Juliet Campbell was horrified and shocked to the extent of $100,000 when she found that her great American Romeo came to the conclusion that he did not want to marry. His plea was a striking one. He admitted his promise of marriage, but says he made it at her request. The jury thought Miss Campbell's affections had been trifled with to the extent of $45,000, and rendered a verdict accordingly. Look out for a rise in the price of coffee.—Atlanta Constitution.

A TRIP FROM TWIGGS TO JONES.

On Thursday, Dec. 23rd 1887, I left home and loved ones for a short visit to my native county, and to see relatives and friends. I took dinner Thursday with a good brother, a bachelor, John Wood, on the Myrick place, seven miles from Gordon. He says he is happy (that is, if a bachelor can be happy). I went on my way rejoicing, by Griswoldville and Pitts Chapel, and spent a pleasant night with my old friend, Jas. W. Slocumb. Bro. S. is not only one of the solid men of Jones, but one of the noblest christians I ever met. I was glad to meet his family again and talk of other days. In passing the Chapel, sad memories came up, yet they were mixed with pleasant recollections. Sad when I contrasted the present with the past. Twenty-five years ago when Bro. Christian and McGhee were there and had one of the greatest revivals ever known in all that county. In fact the revival resulted in building the church. I thought too of Bro. Pitts, Slocumb and others who have gone to their reward. But for Bro. Pitts the Church would not have been built, there and then, and his death was a calamity to Methodism in Jones, and especially to the community in which he lived. No beggar ever went empty from his door. He was an intense Methodist. Pleasant memories were called up because it was at this Church I was licensed to exhort, by Dr. W. F. Cook, Oct. 15, 1881. And it was here I was licensed to preach, July 22, 1882. Rev. R. W. Hightam was on the District, as Presiding Elder, a good portion of Friday was spent at and around Morton's Station on the C. & M., visiting relatives, Willie A. Price and Sallie P. Wheeler. In the afternoon I went on through Clinton and out by Gray's to my dear old friend's, R. H. Bonner's, near Haddock. It was raining and cold, but the light of Bro. S.'s countenance, and the grasp of his hand and hearty welcome by his good wife, soon made me forget the unpleasant surroundings outside. Saturday, it rained most of the day, but late in the afternoon we went down to Haddock. Saturday night, I spent at the comfortable home and with the kind family of my old friend (and now brother) J. D. Anchors. From Clinton to Haddock, I passed the place where I was first married, and where our eldest boy, Ross, was born and where I taught school several years. Sunday morning, Christmas Day, a few of us were at old Fortville Church. I went on to the "Ridge," where I took dinner and spent a pleasant hour at the home of M. H. Morton, Esq. I found Mr. M. and his good wife as pleasant and accommodating as ever. Sunday p. m. I stopped with bro. Winters a little while and enjoyed their warm fire. Here I met uncle and aunt, Mr. Nivens and wife. I had left an appointment to preach in Clinton Sunday night. I spent a pleasant hour after service, with Bro. W. H. Holsenbeck and his pleasant home. I spent the night with Judge Ross. He and his wife have a way of making anyone feel free, easy and perfectly at home. Monday morning, after getting a box of nice things, that a good friend and brother sent wife and the children for Christmas, I put out for Macon. I stopped over for dinner with Bro. Stripling and his kind family, where I have spent many pleasant hours. Monday was Christmas day in Macon and the noise, the noise. Monday night I fed the service at Jones Chapel, Macon, Bro. J. G. Harrison pastor. This is his second year, and all are highly pleased with him.

Among the improvements in Jones I noticed the Hazzard, and the C. & M. R. R., which is in a fine condition and doing a fine business. I had heard of Jones county's new paper, but had never seen a copy. I confess it exceeded my expectations, by far, in its mechanical get-up, and general appearance. I did hope to meet the Editor but my time was limited. Long may it live, and increase in its number of subscribers and usefulness. The "Romances of Jones County" are carefully prepared and very interesting indeed. J. S. L.

A granddaughter of Charles Dickens does a flourishing business with a type-writer. Fifty years ago the scriptures were circulated in 136 languages now they are circulated in 280.

Kalamazoo, Mich., is acquiring quite an enviable reputation for its celery, of which this season 20,000-30,000 bunches were shipped.

A number of young ladies in Hastings, Neb., met in council one day last week and passed resolutions declining to attend balls with the young men unless the latter consent to supply them with invitations to the opera occasionally.

It is estimated that pin factories in New England turn out, yearly, 10,800,000,000 pins, and that other factories in the States bring the number up to 18,000,000,000. This is equal to about one pin a day for every inhabitant of the United States.

A warning against wearing full beards comes from Burlington, N. J. Gen. Abraham Post, of that city, was talking with a friend near a cigar stand, when his beard came in contact with the cigar-lighter. Before the fire could be extinguished his face was badly burned.

A rattlesnake was discovered carrying off a half-grown turkey near Waukegan, Fla., and two dogs were set upon it. It struck both animals and both died, but the turkey was released unharmed, which is proof that snakes do not poison their own food. The snake killed was 6 feet 7 inches long and had fifteen rattles.

Berlin will soon be the most brilliantly illuminated city in Europe. The electric light is being fitted all along the Unter den Linden, and the Leipziger Strasse, which is upward of a mile in length, is already illuminated throughout by electricity, which is to be introduced into all the principal streets and squares.

San Francisco has more representatives in the United States Senate than any two other cities in the country. The California Senators Stanford and Hearst have residences in San Francisco, as have also the Nevada Senators Stewart and Jones. Stewart practices law at the San Francisco bar and Jones is a member of the San Francisco Exchange.

A half-breed Indian has taken possession of a tract of land near Perryville, N. Y., and insists upon living there. He says that he owns the land, because his fathers of the Pequot tribe never gave up their title to it. He has resented all efforts to make him more so, and has shot dogs that have been set on him, and says that he will defend his right to the woods with his rifle against all comers.

On a farm in Covington, Tenn., a few days ago, a white oak tree was felled, and on cutting into it about three inches from the surface, a hole was discovered in which was found a bunch of hair, driven in by a wooden peg. The hair was a genuine African kink, but was red and black in color. It is supposed, from the thickness of the wood and bark which had grown over the peg, that the hole was bored and the hair deposited at least thirty years ago. No doubt it was the work of a woodoo negro.

A fine glass vase, just discovered in an Etruscan tomb at Bologna, is of a sea-green color, like a soda water bottle, thick and of a unique form, with two handles. It is nine inches high and without ornamentation. There is not a single defect, flaw, crack or chip about it. With it was found an ivory chair, made after the fashion of a modern camp stool, having all its screws and rivets still in perfect condition, and a small casket containing beads and some very elegant articles in bronze. The articles are supposed to date from the fifth century.

We call attention of teachers to the notice of the county school commissioner in this issue which gives the date for the examination of teachers. The state school commissioner, under the present law, fixes the days for examination of applicants for public schools, and no examinations will be held on other days than those designated.

A $25,000 suit for damages has been filed at Atlanta in the office of the Superior Court for W. H. Dooly against the Georgia Pacific Railway Company. In the complaint it is alleged that the plaintiff, whilst discharging his duties as a conductor, was thrown from the train operated on the track and was seriously injured. His right eye was cut, his eye-lid was split, five teeth were knocked out, his jawbone broken, his chin was cut, his hand was cut in seven places, his left arm was dislocated at the shoulder, two ribs were fractured, a hole was punched in his right thigh, nine bones worked out of his face, his leg became stiff, and his entire body was smashed and bruised.

Congressman James H. Blount passed through Atlanta last week on his way to Washington City.
He was seen at the Kimball House by a reporter of the Atlanta Journal, to whom he said, in answer to question:
"I cannot say yet what the chances are for the passage of a bill for revision of the tariff. The committee have not been appointed yet.
When they are appointed we can form an idea of what will be done, and I prefer to make no predictions at this time."
"Has the President's position strengthened or weakened the chances of Democratic success?" he asked.
"I should say without hesitation the message has strengthened it."

CLINTON LOCALS.

The family of Wm. Spear have moved from the old Bowen home to Tenth and Square, Macon.

Mrs. Irene Stewart of Pine Ridge neighborhood is visiting Maude Hardenham this week.

Mr. Jack Roberts, of Hawkins Dist., has slaughtered this winter thirty seven fine hogs. Who can beat this?

Mrs. James Finney of Haddocks is quite critically ill. Dr. S. C.
Putney and J. Hardenham are closely attending her.

Mrs. Graves returned home Tuesday from Haddocks. She reported Mrs. Finney, who she was called to see, as some better.

Mrs. Jace Visccher is visiting her numerous friends and family in the county. She spent the day in Clinton at Mrs. Morgan's last week.

Drs. J. F. and R. B. Barrow have removed their stock of drugs from the old brick building to the store house, occupied last year by H. J.
Stewart, Jr.

Mrs. R. B. Barrow is spending the week in Macon with her uncle P. S.
Johnson on College St. She will resume her school duties on the 23rd of the month.

Miss Maggie Belle Chiles, who attends school in Monticello, and had a month's vacation for Christmas holidays has been spending some time in Macon with relatives.

Capt. Ross was a glad to learn is improving. He issued for the month of December 1887 twenty seven marriage licenses, most of these to the colored population.

In our list of Rev. M. A. Phillips preaching appointments we omitted the one at St. Lukes Chapel, (near Mr. T. R. Striplings) services will be held there the first Sabbath, afternoon of each month.

The busy hum of our mill is hushed for awhile, the whistle and histle is much missed, (likewise the cries). Near 10,000 bushel of meal was ground by Anderson during the year 1887.

We see in Saturdays Telegraph that Judge James T. Gantt of Clinton, Missour, is visiting his sister Mrs. Massey of Maconville. Judge G— is an old Clinton boy who has many friends in the county that are proud to know he is "building a record" in the west.

Milas Towles, a worthy colored hand employed with the construction force of the C. & M. R. R. was seriously hurt on the leg, last Wednesday, while assisting in repairing the break in the road near Cedar creek. He is getting able to hobble around a little now.

The HEADLIGHT endorses most heartily the following from the Macon News, as we consider Col.
Folsom the finest local writers in the State. His language is always chaste and expressive: "We congratulate our neighbor, the Telegraph, on adding to its staff so competent and popular a writer as Mr.
M. M. Folsom. He will be a brilliant and valuable assistant to the old reliable and ever efficient Bridges Smith. The pair make a dandy team. Folsom is an untiring worker, and as a reporter, has no superior in the State. His happy sketches will prove a charming addition to the columns of our esteemed contemporary, and will be a sparkling feature possessed by no other paper in Georgia. Prosperity and happiness to Montgomery Folsom in his new quarters."

REMINISCENCES OF JONES COUNTY.

BY MRS. E. G. H.

Since the "mysterious murder" which was published in the issue of Jan. 7th has been read, Dr. Jas. F.
Barrow, our esteemed townsman, who by the way is our local authority on all notable events in the history of the old County for past fifty years, by a wonderful gift of memory never forgetting dates, &c., informs us that our history of the murder, "so far as it goes" is correct but we were mistaken as regards the murderer not being discovered. After leaving the town of Clinton, the peddler drove on to Macon, where he replenished his stock of goods, laying in quite a quantity of jewelry. While he was thus engaged he was watched by three white men, who found the route he contemplated taking on his return, and managed to start ahead of him. On his overtaking them, they asked for seats in his wagon.
Unsuspectingly he obliged them thereby meeting his doom. It was quite late in the afternoon when he started from Macon, and by the time they passed the mill on Walnut creek it was quite nightfall.
Having taken an unused and lonely road, everything was auspicious for the accomplishment of the murderous plans of the fiendish trio. The peddler was therefore killed by them, his pockets, purse and pack rifled, the body hid in the log, the assassins got in the wagon and hurriedly drove from the spot, where in solitude they imagined all traces of the crime were hidden.

However, by very skillful detective work, the case was worked up, and one of the men, James Jones, (Dr. B. thinks was the name) "spotted" in South Carolina. My father (D. N. Smith) had just been elected as Sheriff of Jones County and was sent to Charleston for the murderer. He was caught and brought by him to Clinton, placed in jail and at his trial, termed States evidence, was convicted of murder and sentenced to ten years in the Penitentiary. It was never known what became of him after his time expired. He described his confederates but they could never be found.

AN OLD TREE.

From my sitting room window, as I look over the brown and winter seared fields and patches, over grey fence rows and leafless tree tops, my eye rests upon one lonely tree—a Lombardy poplar. This tree, the last of its kind around the old town, stands like some grim sentinel in its tall dignified and perfect solitude, to guard the ground where once stood a comfortable and (in the "days of its glory") a handsome residence, to which led avenues of beautiful shade trees. There lived the family of Mr. Cook, father of Mr. Geo. W. Cook, now a most promising business man of Atlanta.
The first wife of Mr. Cook, Sr., while standing in her front veranda one afternoon with her baby boy in her arms was by an unlooked-for stroke of lightning killed, while the baby was but slightly shocked.
Mr. Cook after her death married an English lady, of fine education, who was the mother of Mr. Geo. Cook of Atlanta, and also of Mrs. Wade Gossity of Jasper county.

The old Cook homestead was bought many years ago, torn down and the timbers and lumber used in an addition to the house now owned and lived in by Radford Turner.
Not a vestige of the buildings remains and naught but the poor lonely old poplar tree now marks the place where once the old Cook home stood.

Public School Teachers.

NOTICE is hereby given that I will be in Clinton on the 27th and 28th of January 1888, for the purpose of examining applicants for teachers licenses. Examination will be had on no other days. This notice is in compliance with instructions from the State School Commissioner.
Govern yourselves accordingly.
This the 7th of Jan. 1888.
A. B. S. McKAY,
County School Commissioner.

Dentistry.

Dr. R. A. JONES
RESIDENT DENTIST, Having permanently located at work at REASONABLE RATES. His inspection guaranteed. A liberal portion of his private patronage estimated. Office up stairs over Dr.

I have established a branch office at Gray's Station and will serve my friends at that place the first week in each month. 21

FROM BRADLEY.

News is scarce.
Mrs. Joe Morcor is still sick. We hope however she will soon recover.
The boys around this place, enjoyed an old-fashioned rabbit hunt a few days ago.
Messrs. Joe Jolly and T. F. Bradley say as it is leap year they would like to get married this fall.

We are glad to learn that Mr.
John Bradley, Sr., is much better.
He will ride out this evening for the first time since he got hurt.
Perhaps he wants to see and consult the widow again.

My advice to every one is to stay at home and work hard and subscribe for the HEADLIGHT. We all think it is an excellent paper and return many thanks to the good publisher and editors for furnishing the people of Jones with a paper they have long been wishing for. Every citizen of the county should be a subscriber. I will increase its subscription list by sending it to my sweetheart.
Jan. 9th 1887. SAMS.

In New Jersey an effort is making to have beer sold to the retail consumers by weight, whereby one would not be charged anything to speak of for the froth. It would sound funny to ask for a pound of beer, instead of a pint—so funny that no one in this generation is likely to hear very much of it.

Planters Read.

We have this day contracted with Messrs. JOHN MERRYMAN & CO. to sell, at all stations on the C. & M. Railroad, their —CELEBRATED BRANDS OF GUANO—

Merryman's A. D. Bones, Merryman's GEORGIA TEST.

We can say without any fear of contradiction that Merryman's Fertilizers are to-day, as they have been for 30 years, at the very top in excellence, and the perfect satisfaction they give to planters.

While most of the popular brands on the market in past years have changed the grade of their goods by lowering their grade, Merryman has continually improved. We do not make these statements at random.
We refer to any planter in Jones and Jasper counties who have used Merryman's Guano, and will stake our reputation on the result.

—WE ALSO HANDLE—

SOLUBLE BONE DUST

for competing, which is the highest grade sold on the market. We sell cheaper acid phosphates; also Kainit, and are agents for the Macon Oil & Fertilizer Company for the sale of their Cotton Seed Meal.

We can give low prices on these goods, and are ready to deliver now.
Our Agents will call on the good people of Jones and Jasper counties, and we will trust receive their orders.

INVITES EVERYBODY TO THE EXPOSITION STORE, 114 MULBERRY STREET, MACON, GA.

With a business eye to the fact that times are hard, and hard cash scarce, prices of cotton low, our buyer has visited the Eastern markets, supplied with hard cash, and at last has returned with a large and elegant

Stock of Dry Goods, Clothing,

SHOES, HATS, CAPS, NOTIONS, TRUNKS, VALISES, LADIES' AND GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS, RUBBER GOODS, UMBRELLAS and an elegant line of

MILLINERY

These goods have been bought direct from the factories for hard cash and at the lowest cash prices. He also has attended the large sheriff sales and bought from under the auctioneer's hammer at his own price a large quantity of goods which enables us to offer our goods at lower prices to the consumer than even other merchants have to pay for them.
