

"Our Ambition is to make a Veracious Work, Reliable in its Statements, Candid in its Conclusions, and Just in its Views."

VOL. I.

GRAY, GEORGIA, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1888.

NO. 44.

A system of tactics worked out by General Ferrier is to be tried in the French army.

M. De Lesseps persists in the promise that the Panama Canal will be finished in two years.

A society of people favorable to Canadian independence is being formed in Toronto, Ontario.

A French electrician says he will soon be able to produce a thunder-storm whenever demanded and in the district desired, and the cost won't exceed $3.

The London and Northwestern Railway has decided, "in deference to the prejudices of its American customers," to institute the system of checking baggage.

The Government ornithologist at Washington estimates that the surplus in the United States Treasury would not suffice to pay the present bounty for exterminating the English sparrows in New York State.

One does not attribute much filial sentiment to the red men, says the Independent. But Ioan Dog, the big medicine man of the Sioux, finding his mother dead the other day, sent a bullet through his heart.

The Chicago Journal of Commerce states that three newborns of that city, guilty of no misdemeanor, were arrested last week at their request and released. The Bridewell. Their reason for wishing to go there, as stated to the police justice, was that they wanted to learn a trade.

This year is the bicentenary of Alexander Pope's birth. The eminent English poet was born on May 22, 1688. Mr. Labouchere, of London Travel, occupies Pope's villa at Twickenham and has thrown the house open to the public in honor of the author of the "Essay on Man."

When the President of France is elected it is for seven years.

The police from Vienna, besides the honor which will attach to his name, if he has been a wise magistrate, be will be a rich man.

The expression "dark horse," now in such general political use, first occurred in Lord Beaconsfield's "Young Duke." Here is the paragraph: "The first favorite was never heard of, the second favorite was never seen after the distance point, all the test-ones were in the rear, and a dark horse, which had never been thought of rushed past the grand stand in sweeping triumph."

One of the ship's chronometers at the United States Navy Department has a history. It was used by Captain Hall on the Polar, which was crushed and sunk by two icebergs off Littleton Island, in 1872, and was put in a cask on the main land by the Buddington party. There it remained until 1876, when it was found by the British ship Discovery and taken to London, and later returned to the United States.

The Italian Government has devised what may be a useful plan for diminishing the number of "duels." Duels in Italy is allowed under certain conditions, and it is supposed that many duels are due to the fear of those challenged that if they do not fight they will be treated as cowards. In future any Italian who kills a countryman a coward because the latter will not fight will be made to pay an extremely heavy fine.

A visitor from Manchester, England, is astonished at the high average maintained in every social circle in the United States. He is reported to say: "The working classes in whom I am most interested are morally, mentally and materially in advance of the similar classes in any European country. Physical comfort is the primary desire of the latter, but he cannot live anywhere else so comfortably as in the United States."

A St. Louis physician says: "The quinine habit is gaining strength every day. Dizziness, that you hear incessantly people complaining of in these days, can be traced to the excessive use of quinine. The good effects, that it is nearly always certain of, are lost by excessive doses. The quinine habit, also, also produces congestion of the ear and vibration of the auditory nerves. The growing habit of taking quinine for neuralgia and other like complaints, without consulting a physician, is altogether reprehensible. It may cause very serious results. Many cases of deafness are produced by overdoes and long-continued use of the drug."

FLOWING OUT THE CORN.

The dew is dried from off the freshened

The birds have finished all their morning

And, when their callow nestlings needs,

With tireless wings fit through the bright

stream.

The cattle in the fields have ceased to graze,

And stand, knee deep, amid the cooling

stream.

Chewing their kuds with drowsy, half-closed

eyes.

Whistling at flies that in the sunlight

gloom,

While patiently and slow, this John plows

the corn.

Along the furrowed rows John blows the

corn.

The sheep have left the hill-side's sultry slope,

And, peaceful lying 'neath the elm tree's

shade,

Stare dream of a farther landscape where

"Green pastures" and the "still waters"

glide.

The suns lightly not their noisy work,

Field lilies scarcely ring their scarlet bells,

The tide of ripening grain, with shimmering

light,

Like that of the great ocean heaves and swells.

With secret thought, half fear, half hope

Along the furrowed rows John plows the

corn.

While a bright-hued insect sounds his horn.

Along the furrowed rows John plows the

corn.

The fragrance of the field and woodland blend with the odors of the fresh-turned

leaves.

The world-like whispers of the rustling

leaves.

Speak to his heart of happier days than his; but dreams of mortals, though however fair,

Sometimes have wakings even far more bright.

For, lo! sweet Polly Plynn comes down the lane.

And, as she comes, the furrowed rows

glance toward the lane John furrows

the corn.

And tries to frame some well-set speech to gather.

The while bewildering words all pouring toward

Prosaic comments on the "crop" and

"weather."

Doesn't say: "Yes!—the loveliest glow

On our fair face the secret may betray!"

No! if we watch her gaze that looks away

For the fields beyond, another way!

"Woe, Billy! Woe!" And patient horse

Is there an artist who can paint a scene

Equal to that of Love's first row dawn

Lives there of the poet who can tell the apture of two spirits wholly one?

The birds and butterflies—let us just say this:

A beautiful youth and winsome, blushing

maid

But never told what John so awkward

and slow

But, in reply, what pretty Polly said:

"Not him! Billy! Woe!" And patient horse

and plow

Stand idly in the half-turned furrow now.

THE RIGHT OF WAY.

Referring to the right of way of the Covington and Macon through Athens our correspondent from that place writes as follows: It is reported that a gentleman connected with the Richmond and Danville railway stated that if Athens would do her part towards giving Col. Machen a right of way through the city that he would induce his company to subscribe $10,000 to the fund. It would be of great interest to the Richmond and Danville to have connection with the Covington and Macon road as it would bring a great deal of the Florida travel over that line, it being the shortest and by far the most pleasant route between the north and the Land of Flowers—Tel.

At the meeting of the State Farmers' Alliance, recently held in Macon the following resolutions offered by A. T. Pope, of Oglethorpe county, were adopted: Whereas, the Bagging trust which is now seeking to so wickedly oppress the farmers of the cotton States in the article of bagging and other articles of consumption—Resolved That the Farmers' Alliance, of Georgia, hold their cotton in the seed so far as practicable until the oppressor is broken and urge all cotton farmers and Alliance men of other States and other parties that are being oppressed by this combination to unite with us, against this combination and trusts that are so wickedly oppressing us. Resolved, That these resolutions be given to the press for publication. The following resolution offered by Hon. I. F. Livingston, of all the leading papers, Resolved, That the thanks of this, the Georgia State Alliance be, and are hereby tendered the Hon. Breckinridge, of Arkansas, Morgan, of Mississippi, Simmons, of North Carolina, and others now moving in our national Congress looking to the relief of cotton planters from the oppression and wicked conduct of the bagging trust.

The Covington and Macon Rail Road has a remarkable history, and is an imperishable monument to the pluck, energy and judgement of E. G. Machen. There has been times since the beginning of this road when no enterprise had more friends and times when no enterprise had fewer friends. Reported bankrupt, sold out, transferred, and dead, even past resurrection, had more promises made to it and fewer of them complied with, than any other enterprise in the country. But notwithstanding all this, she stands in her own shoes, in her own right and in the hands of her original projector and builder, with her promises fully complied with and her stocks and bonds worth one hundred cents in the dollar. Thus has she come to develop and better the country, through which her trains pass. One other noted fact in the history of this enterprise is that it has developed the fact that a stranger has come among us, who gives his parole promise to pay the debts of another to the amount of over three hundred thousand dollars, and has redeemed that promise to a jot and tittle. That stranger is E. G. Machen the developer. It needs no sign manual seals and official attestations to bind him to his promises, even to pay the debts of another. Citizens of Bibb, Jones, Jasper, Morgan, Oconee and city of Athens, this enterprise is worthy of our initiation.—Jones County News.

PUBLISHER.

Mr. B. F. Adams, a prominent citizen of Eatonton, died the morning of the 5th inst.

William Pitt Eastman, founder of the thriving town of Eastman in Edge county, this state, died suddenly in New Hampshire the other day.

Read the advertisement of Mr. J. B. Bailey in this issue. He proposes to sell you goods as cheap as you can buy them in Macon, and thus save you the time and expense of going elsewhere for him a trial.

It is said that Mr. C. F. Simon will leave soon to accept a position on the M. & C. railroad tendered him by Mrs. Gould, formerly Charles, who is going to leave.—Eatonton.

Our advertising columns will be in the way of the new advertisement of Mr. W. T. Womack, East Macon. He deals largely in farmers' supplies and general merchandise, having been in the business a number of years is fully competent to handle your cotton and deal fairly with you. And furthermore he is a Jones county man, which alone would entitle him to a liberal share of patronage from his native county.

A TERRIBLE PICTURE.
The people of Macon are well acquainted with the Rev. Dr. J. O. A. March, formerly pastor of the Mulberry Street Methodist church in this city. Said he yesterday, those who smile at yellow fever could experience the sensation of a yellow fever. Once, I have had the fever twice, once at Tampa and once at Key West. If ten thousand cross cut saws were run on the backbone the pain could not be worse. It is a terrible thing for a city to be cursed with the plague. All business is suspended every day. Every door has a yellow banner suspended from it and every house on the streets is a baneful protection.
