

In our last paper we gave the letter of Vice-President to the Speaker of the House of Representatives. We this day list the names of the Committee appointed to investigate the subject to which letter refers. The charge of a participation in the Mix contract, by Major Vandeventer, is not new; neither is it for the first time that an allegation appeared in the papers, that Mr. Col. was acquainted with that circumstance. The fact of participation is admitted in a letter of Major Vandeventer published in the Washington Gazette, the successor of the Telegraph, on the 22d April, 1822; and the fact that his participation was with the knowledge of Mr. Sloan, and that the contract with Mitchell entered into without the usual notice given by public advertisements, was set in the report of the committee.

House of Representatives upon that subject, made at the close of the session, published about that time. We shall have occasion to republish the letter and its contents, with some observations on the subject, in our next. We cannot, however, refrain from the expression of our regret that the subject should have been brought before the public in this manner.

the subject should have been presented to Congress at a time when so much such important business is about to be before that body.

* * *

At the present, we will only observe that we think there is something in Mr. Sloan's communication to the House of Representatives very objectionable: as capable of being so construed, (how-intended,) as to assign a cause and to this occurrence which are entirely different from its true cause and origin.

[Nat. Journal.]

---

TROTTING MATCH.
A trotting match against time for a horse

(00) took place on Tuesday, on the ington Race Course, near this city, in the hours of 10 and 3 o'clock.
Conditions were, that the horse should times round the course, (a distance mile) in five successive hours—was performed in two minutes and and within the time.

gentleman in a sulky. In the 46th the horse broke into a canter; in the 47th he again trotted for three-quarters mile, and then cantered the remainder. The excitement among the spectators became intense the last two miles, and on his coming in winner, a general clamoration ensued, which alarmed the king; at the same instant, the bit and bridle were torn from the horse, and he ran with much violence to the city—the gentlemen being unprepared to restrain him, was thrown from the horse at a short distance from the course—on his feet, after dashing the vehicle in fragments, he ran through the city for some time.

one could be arrested. One or two men who were mounted, pursued first for some distance, but without ability of overtaking him. We also add, that the gentleman who was and who was at first reported to be killed, is not seriously injured.

[Chas. Courier.]

ERIAL CORRESPONDENCE.
National Intelligence contains a correspondence between Mr. Edward L. a (representative from Louisiana) Emperor Nicholas. Mr. L. had the late Emperor a copy of his Cri- de, accompanied with was accompanied with a sensible, somewhat complimentary letter. He died, and his successor, influenced by his desire to benefit the Empire, transmitted to Mr. Livingston a very long epistle, of which the following relation:—

the letter which you have written. If the Emperor Alexander, of memory, was still alive; if he had not suddenly snatched from the world the affection of Russia, he would have accepted with gratitude the work, the communication of which you intended for him. Interesting principles and his views, as deeply as I was with the necessity of my country the advantage of Law which it requires, I thank you both for the letter and which accompanied it. One of cases has been to attach to my and to place in your own hands

...the Commission charged
...the work undertaken by the ...Alexander. Acquainted with ...the Code which you transmitted to
...I immediately communicated to
...I cannot doubt that
...found in them.

offer you Sir, the assurance of most esteem. Moscow, 31st Aug.
G. NICOLAS.
EDWARD LIVINGSTON.

to a friend in the city of Middle-Connecticut, dated
GUAYAQUIL, October 6, 1821.
Bolivar has left Peru, and many of the Peruvians hope that he will never return. He has lately left Guayaquil for Orizaba. He now holds the title of for life, &c. &c. &c.

Peru, Upper Peru, and now of his power is calanted; his travels denote, and the and conveniences whences he His pleasure is known before of moment transpires: in fact, ing to be any thing but an man: his power is calanted.

...the Peruvians and Government ...than be ever obtained.

It is that power now and the impact of future knowledge particular importance may be for the early diagnosis of the disease. It would be desirable to forward studies on the present status of research on this disease to the National Cancer Institute.

