Love and Folly while at achool,
Quarrelling on this or that,
He call'd her a silly feel,
She call'd him a saney brat.

Love strikes Folly with his blow, Folly in a fury flies, And, in vengeance of the blow, Scratches out poor Cupid's eyes.

Venus, all in tribulation,
To the courts of Jove repaire;
And as a just compensation,
Jove his sov'reign will declares:

Since he's blind, "the god decreed,
"And since folly made him so,
"She the erring boy shall lead,
"She his guide where er he go." ver since, as in a tether,
She has been the urchin's guide;
They are always found together,
Love, and Folly at his side.
