From the New York Morning Cou Reflections on the character and Pub lic Services of Andrew Jackson."

A pumphlet under this title has been published by Mr. Hopkins, 19 Nassau street. It is written with considerable ability, setting forward the claims of Georgea Debeau the claims of General Jackson, in a very clear and forcible manner.

As a specimen of this work, we extract the following passage.

"That a mere self-taught military ommanders placed in exigencies of the most alarming difficulties and embarrassment, and yet effecting such mighty plans; infusing into his army his own firm and dauntless spirit; risking life and character, in a con-flict which seemed hopeless from the fearful odds arrayed against him; pledging his private fortune to raise funds for the maintenance of his suffering troops, mostly made up of un-trained militia, and manfully meet-ing a host of ruthless invaders at the very threshhold, overpowering and consuming them as it were with a tempest of fire; then, at the proper moment, (after patiently submitting to a penalty of 1000 dollars for the honor of achieving his unexampled exploit,) resigning his command and retiring to his farm, with no other compensation than the bare thanks of his country, is, I undertake to say, a case unparalleled in the history of war fare either ancient or modern."

From the New York Morning Course Reflections on the character and Public Services of Andrew Jacks

A pamphlet under this title has been published by Mr. Hopkins, 19 Nassau street. It is written with onsiderable ability, setting forward the claims of General Jackson, in a very clear and forcible manner.

As a specimen of this work, we ex-tract the following passage.

"That a mere self-taught military commander, placed in exigencies of he most alarming difficulties and embarrassment, and yet effecting such mighty plans; infusing into his army his own firm and dauntless spirit; risking life and character, in a co flict which seemed hopeless from the fearful odds arrayed against him; pledging his private fortune to raise funds for the maintenance of his suffering troops, mostly made up of un-trained militia, and manfully meeting a host of ruthless invaders at the very threshhold, overpowering and consuming them as it were with a tempest of fire; then, at the proper moment, (after patiently submitting to a penalty of 1000 dollars for the honor of achieving his unexampled exploit,) resigning his command and retiring to his farm, with no other compensation than the bare thanks of his country, is, I undertake to say, a case unparalleled in the history of war fare either ancient or modern.

That Mr. Adams did give him a written pledge to that effect, which has been so currently alleged, Mr. Webster does not pretend to deny, but even palintes the act; his cause of com-plaints is, that Mr. Adams has not performed his engangement, & there-fore, in will not support him at the fore, he will not support min and the control of support in his business; did he suppose, that any reliance could safely be placed in any pledge which hit. We hope, however, that in deserting Mr. Adams this disappointed gentleman has no idea of oining the Jackson party; because, we can assure him, after the sample he has exhibited of his looseness and inconsistency of principle on the tariff question, we do not think he would be an honorable or useful acquisition to any cause. ---

PRACTISED STATESMEN.-Let men of humble or moderate circumstances—let the "common people" (as the elder Adams calls "laborers, husbandmen and merchants in general"—who he says are "defined to Ilabor") reflect upon the Adams doc-Arine about practised statesmen. If none but those who have been educated abroad, or have had a training in European courts, are to be prompted to our high trusts, it follow that all those high trusts will be monopelized by a few,—a very few aristocratic families. None but a few rich and powerful families can send their sons abroad, or obtain for them stations at the courts of Europe. It this is to be the prevaiting doctrine, the spirit of republicanism is gone—the form of a free government is not worth preserving. We may as well have a monarchy at men of humble or moderate circummay as well have a monarchy at once. The principles upon which John Quincy Adams' claims to the ency are maintained by his party, are those of the rankest aris-tocracy: they are at war with the fee-lings and injurious to the interests of great mass of the people, and suicidal to the hopes and interests weak enough to support him. It is a charming doctrine for the very rich and the noble families, whom the elder Adams says "are qualified for superior stations," but it sets on edge the teeth of the rest of the com-

WASHINGTON, MARCH 27, 1828.

THE indisposition of the Editor prevents his attending to the duties of his charge this week. -

WE draw the attention of the ers of our village to the approaching season; when we may, in all reason, look for the prevailence of disease in a greater or less extent, and suggest the propriety of their adopting some measare whereby every nuisance may be removed from within their jurisdiction.—Would it not be advisble to appoint a Committee, making it their duty to visit the premises of each individual, and report every thing of an offensive nature, that it might be removed, and the persons in whose occupancy they were, made pay for it!- In vain may we look to the country and visit mill-ponds with destruction, if we suffer filth to remain in all parts of our town.

MR CRAWFORD'S LETTER, L'MICH has been suit about a letter having been written by Mr. Crawford to Mr. Clay, in which he stylened "the most housenble opinion of him, and approved his vote given for Mr. Adams."—To those who have an acquaillisance with Mr. Crawford, it is useless to say one word on the subject; and, shey may thinky the moise of use h and misrepresentation, quite unnecessary; but, as it has been industributly disconlated by the administer sorts. culated by the administration party, in order, if possible, to raise their fallen friend, to give the ssertion of the United States' Telegraph, which it publishes by authority, "that the report, as cir-culated by the coalition presses, is a FALSEHOOD" From the manner in which we know Mr Craw ford has expressed himself, relative to Mr. Clay ve do not yet believe, that he has written a let er approxing of his conduct, and, if he has, language, and under his own signature.
The people are too well acquainted with the orruption of the present administration to give credence to bare assertions; they must we proof, before they will be made to be ieve sentiments so opposite to those that have been expressed by the gentleman in question. ore, heaped censure without reserve upon the ead of Mr. Crawford, and, finding that all their efforts to establish their charges proved a rtive, and, that after each investigation, he nity, more and more pure, they have now seized pon him as a vindicator of the foul deeds of their loved Secretary .- We copy the following :

Old Habits Revised - We under tand that the young gentlemen and Harvard University, Cambridge, who supported Mr. Adams' adminiflactured liniteristy, Cambridge, who supported Mr. Adams, administration, on the 22d instant Washington's birth day, burnt General Jackson in effigy. This is the spirit that was manifested in the reign of the clier Adams; and it seems forcak out in the same places as in tisse days. Harvard University is the fountain head of Junoism. It is there that the routh are initiated into the mysteries, imbued in the creed, and fanglit the practices of the aristocraes. When we consider principles disseminated from that college, we do not wonder that other institutions are superceding it in public estimation, as they have long since excelled it in utility.

This is the same politicaliterary almastater from whose bosom Messra. Adams and Everett inbibled their theoretical Demodracer and their practical Torryiss.

The packet ship Work, Capt. De Cost, arrived here yesterday from Liverpool, whence she sailed on the 24th of June. We have received by her Liverpool papers to that date London to the evening of the 23d in clusive. The accounts from Constantinople are to the 31st of May at which time, as will be seen by our extracts, it was strongly believed that the Divan would not only accept the Convention of the 6th of July, but would enter into negotiation with Russia. It was even said that the French and English Ambassi had been requested to return to Constantinople to negotiate on the Greek question.

The advices from Lisbon are to the 16th, and from Oporto to the 15th of June, which are favorable to the cause of the Constitutionalists. Aletter from the former place published in a London paper says, that "Don Miguel knocked down his elder sister last week, and she now bears the marks of his brutality on her arms and feet. He has 500 per-sons now in prison on mere suspici-on; 300 are dismissed officers. Every family is in terror."

German papers to the 17th furnish accounts from the East, in which it is stated that the fortress of Brailaw had been taken by storm on the 29th of May; the resistance was very obstinate as the Turks would neither give nor take quarter. Some doubt, however, is thrown on this statement, particularly since the ac-count of the late mock battle.

LONDON, June 23. Gity, Twelse o'clock - What we stated for some time past, that the Porte wished to renew the negotiations, and that Stratford Canning was going to return to Corfu, appears to be confirmed this morning in consequence of which the con market has improved nearly # per cent, on the opening price; and the French funds coming higher has also contributed to this rise.

According to letters from the Morea means were adopted to improve and secure a national Revenue, and it was expected that Ibrahm and the Egyptians who had long been in-active, would at length be compelled to re-embark for Alexandria.

ST. PETERSBURGH, June 4. The Petersburgh Journal of this cate, contains a bulletin from the Camp before Brailaw, which gives an account of the arrival of his Ma jesty in the camp, and of the pro-ceedings till the 26th of May. On the 24th the Emperor ascended a hill at the out-posts, in order to indufge of the effects of the mortars placed in a battery on the left of the position. Soon after a body of Turks, preceded by a white flag, appeared; it was a flag of true from the Pacha, who came to return thanks, for his Majesty's generosity in releasing the prisoners. On dismissing the the prisoners. On dismissing the flag of truce, the Emperor commissioned him to tell the Pacha that the longest time granted him to capitulate was till three o'clock the following morning, after which the parrison could expect no terms. A battery of 24 guns having been orected in the night on the right of the army, opened its fire at day break.

His Majesty immediately went to see the effects, when the enemy obsee the effects, when he enemy observing from the number of officers assembled on the spot that the Emperor was probably there, began to fire from 24 pounders at the bill on which his Majesty stoods several of the balls fell at the foot of the hill. From the London Sun of June 23. Private letters from Lisbon state, that Don Miguel, in his utter desthat Don higues, in us utter des-pair of raising a "Grand Army," had ordered all the shop-keepers to turn out and join his standard, to march to Oporto, but he was answered by them rather ironically; that they had no objection to go, provided they were allowed to appoint their own officers. Miguel thinking, perhaps, that he might not be of the number, declined their proposition.

The news from Oporto gives a complete answer to the fallacious statements from the Lisbon Gazettes under the direction of Miguel. The Provisional Junta had received advi-certiat Almeida, containing several regiments of the line, besides militia, had declared in favor of the Constitution.

It is said that the Provisional Go vernment at Oporto are going on with great stability and decorum. They have sent despatches to Patriotic Generals, inviting their return Saldanha, Stubbe, and Villa Flor, have by this time arrived, and join-ed the army, among whom their presence must be hailed with raptu-

The vessels sent from Lisbon to lockade Oporto, had prevented the entrance of a number of vessels, a-mongst which was the John Oranco, of Liverpol. On seeing this, two English trigs of war, which were lying in the Douro, sailed out to denand an explanation on the subject: when, it seems, the Portuguese commandant consented to allow English yessels to enter and leave the parbour; but it was supposed that all other vessels would be stopped. The Petersburgh Journal of this cate, contains a bulletin from the Camp before Brailaw, which gives an account of the arrival of his Majesty in the camp, and of the pro-ceedings till the 26th of May. On the 24th the Emperor escended a hill at the out-posts, in order to indulge of the effects of the mortars placed in a hattery on the left of the posi-tion. Soon after a body of Turks, preceded by a white flag, appeared; it was a flag of truce from the Pacha. who came to return thanks for his Majesty's generosity in releasing the prisoners. On dismissing the flag of truce, the Emperor commis-sioned him to tell the Pacha that the longest time granted him to capitulate was till three o'clock the following morning, after which the garrison could expect no terms. nttery of 24 guns having been rected in the night on the right of the army, opened its fire at day break, His Majesty immediately went to see the effects, when the enemy ob-serving from the number of officers assembled on the spot that the Emperor was probably there, fire from 24 pounders at the

especially of late employed in the cure of diseases, are such as entitle it to a high rank among modern improvements. The opinion long entertained in its favour, by many of the judicious, a thorough experience has now demonstrated to be well founded: and with the number and ariety of its salutary achievements. its reputation is daily increasing.

It must be evident to every discor ng mind, that the present prevailing practice of medicine, which rejects this botanical aid, is at variance with our nature and with our happiners. Mercury, the Loncet, and the Knife, are chiefly relied upon, by physicians and surgeons of the present day, for the removal of almost all the diseases incident to the human body, notwithstanding the effects of these deletorious agents, are evidently fatal to multitudes. Deeply impressed with these facts and with a view of reforming the science and practice of medicine, an individual of this cr-ty in the year 1827, procured a lot of ground and erected a handsome tution denominated the United States

Infirmary, expressly for employing a reformed system of practice in the reformed system of principle of treatment of diseases; the remedial resources being chiefly derived from the country of the co

the past success, and of benefitting fature generations, an irrepressible desire has been felt, that measures common rate with the importance of the ob et should be taken, to promulgate this valuable system of practice, and thereby improve and reform the no ble & important science of medicine.

After reflecting for years upon the rudent and successful method of ef-icting so desirable an object, it has been deemed expedient to establish MEDICAL SCHOOL, with coment teachers, where students a board and instruction in fully qualified to practic us branches of the bea
