plantation. Another

Moreover one quarter of a dollar to my friend Francis Mann out for two pounds of Bacon and he has lent me a Dictionary French and English worth three dollars.
Also two dollars to the mulatto woman Manette Tardieu for articles bought from her.

Nothing else in the world but the same hereabove specified and to the said persons to Mr. Maynard 20¢ for bread due on their tickets when they shall be needed. And the ground Rent which will be due to Mr. Mathew Wingard at the end of the quarter, which will amount to the sum of ten dollars. Nothing else in the universe, it is upon my honor the most deep and sincere that I make the oath before God and Man.

At Bonnaville, on Sunday, which I believe to be the 14th of May 1809.

Moreover forty and some dollars to Lewis Marchand for some articles he sold me during my illness, which I believe he has overcharged of nearly the half to John Feather 25¢ for a half gallon of gin.

I do hereby certify, the above to be the true meaning and translation of a piece of writing found among the effects of Peter Hebert, late of Savannah, deceased, as correct as the nature of the hand writing, misspelling and want of dictation of the same, in the best of my knowledge and abilities.
