William Clark, Guardian of Henry H., John, William and Jincy Clark, minor children of said WILLIAM CLARK, dated May 2, 1814. Isaac Thrasher, surety. Note by Editor: The only occasion for a father being appointed guardian for his own children, is when they have an inheritance or legacy coming to them from some other person's estate. The petition for appointment in such cases would show the nature of the inheritance or legacy and value and from whom derived, but is never shown in the Guardian's bond.

John K. Binford, Guardian of Penina Strong, orphan of ELIJAH STRONG, dated Sept. 5, 1814. William Ogilvie and John Ector, sureties.

William Starnes, Guardian of William P. Starnes, minor of WILLIAM STARNES, dated Oct. 19, 1818. Samuel Jackson, surety. Editor's Note:

The absence of the word "deceased" after the father's name, would seem to indicate that this was a case where the father, in life, was appointed guardian of his own child. Of course, it is unnecessary to show the word "deceased" where the minors are denominated as "orphans" since they could not be orphans if the father were living.

John Nunnally, Guardian of William Appling, orphan of WILLIAM APPLING dated Nov. 2, 1818. George W. Moore and Thomas Wells, sureties.

Richard Cox, Guardian of Letitia Johnson, orphan of JAMES JOHNSON, dated Nov. 2, 1818. David Holmes, surety.

GEORGIA COURTHOUSE RECORDS - CLARKE COUNTY

EDITOR'S NOTE: This county was formed in 1801 from Jackson County, which in turn was taken several years before from Franklin County. Parts were added from Greene County in 1802 and 1807; part detached and added to Madison County 1811, and another part to Oglethorpe County 1813; a part was added to Madison, 1829; and in 1875 when Oconee County was created it was nearly all taken from Clarke. Watkinsville was for many years the county-seat of Clarke County, but the county-site was moved to Athens in the 1850's. After Oconee county was made, Watkinsville which had been included in the new county, was made a county-site again. The county records seem to be all intact.

The GGM Editor is indebted to good friend, collaborator and subscriber, Mr. J. E. (Jack) Ladson, Jr., of Vidalia, for the contribution of some of the records of Clarke County, furnished from his rather vast collections of Georgia courthouse records.

BOOK "A" OF MARRIAGES

(This book is indexed, or rather, arranged alphabetically by the first or Christian name of the groom, and not by the surname. It was evidently written and arranged from the original licenses long after the marriages were performed and probably about the time the next book was commenced in 1815. It does not contain a record of the licenses and of the returns on them, but only the date of the marriage and the names of the grooms and brides, with the grooms' names arranged in the unusual alphabetical order just mentioned. GGM give the list out of this book in the manner listed therein; the book covers the period 1805-1815.
