ending, for my wife, for the purpose of clearing my children living, I cannot now afford to give, except at intervals, the landscape, from nature and land. I am anxious to convey with spirit, the very best will and talent, ready working and representing my entire talent, which might have been done under my pen. In writing, which I have been able to do before and sent this twenty fourth day of May in the year of our Lord, eighteen hundred and eighteen. Henry Wheaton

John of Georgia } William Ward, being duly sworn, deposes and testifies, that he is a subscribing witness to the foregoing last will and testament of Henry Austin deceased, that he saw the said testator duly signed and the same in his presence of him the said deponent, and of Blamney Greaves and Washington Wrenn the other two subscribing witnesses, and that the said testator appeared, at the time, to be in his perfect senses.

In the name of just laws, I love freedom, of the state of justice and beauty of Liberty, wisdom, being considerably advanced in years, and knowing that life is always uncertain, and had, soon or later, I must bid a final adieu to this world, and to all its concerns, do make my last will and testament in witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal, and command my
