The Will of Joseph Anderson having been ~~presented~~ proven before two Justices of the Superior Court of said County in vacation Now Comes Richard Roddenberry and Robert Roddenberry and others their Caveat against the admission of said pretended Will to record & also against the proof thereof upon the following grounds to wit That said Joseph Anderson was at the time of the execution of said pretended will non compos mentis and was not of sound and disposing mind and memory.

So That the said Joseph Anderson was influenced by Moses Anderson principal legatee & executor in said Will mentioned by his importunate importunities & entreaties to execute said pretended will & yielded to said importunities to obtain quiet & repose

So That the mind of the said Joseph at the time of the execution of said pretended Will was weak & imbecile so much so as to yield to the fraudulent devices which said Moses used to induce said Joseph to make the unjust and unreasonable disposition of his property as contained in said pretended Will That the said Joseph Anderson was imposed upon by the fraudulent representations of said Moses of and concerning the nature of the Caveat & under such imposition was induced disenfranchise these Caveators

For that the said Joseph Anderson did not execute said Will fully. And said Joseph Anderson was, illiterate & his mind impaired, that he could not understand the import & effect of said Will.

That said putative Will was run over to said Joseph Anderson.

That at the time of the execution of said Will the mind of said Joseph Anderson was so weak & so much impaired, that he could have been influenced by the temporary credulity of any of his children to have made a Will giving to them his property - and all this the said Caveators are ready to prove & maintain & verify wherefore they pray Judgment of the Court.

GAR

Joseph

Sworn of before a Notary, for Caveators

Now Anderson executor of said ~~Will~~ Anderson comes into Court and in answer to the grounds of the Caveat of the said Richard Roddenbury and Robert Roddenbury Caveators and says that the said Joseph Anderson was of sound mind disposing mind and memory at the time of the execution of said Will, that he fully understood the meaning and import of the said Will, that he executed said Will freely and voluntarily, without any compulsion, undue influence or coercion, and in pursuance of & accordance with oft repeated declarations for years prior to the execution thereof that no fraudulent practices, devices or representations of any nature or things person or persons whatsoever were used by any person or persons to induce said Joseph Anderson to execute said Will, either before or at the time of making said Will; that said Joseph Anderson was well acquainted with the meaning & import, true & effect of language acts and himself understood, and to understand the disposing character of said Will and that he executed said Will in his presence, under his direction & approbation, and was not in his living days, made and acknowledged by him in presence of the witnesses thereto subscribed, wherefore the said Now Anderson says that the said Will is good and valid in law and ought to be allowed to stand as proved & be admitted to record and of this, he prays judgment of the Court.

That is to be proved by the Caveators

The said Caveat having been called up for a hearing and testimony & argument of counsel heard, it is ordered by the Court that the Will of Joseph Anderson be admitted as a good and valid Will and be admitted to record.
