Beginning with the letter "E." the remaining part of this list is the work of Mr. Wm. L. LeConte, of Atlanta, one of the most careful of investigators. It is all based upon actual certificates of service, on file in the office of Secretary of State.

Mr. LeConte was born December 28th, 1838, in Liberty County, Ga. His paternal stock was French Huguenot. Guillaume LeConte, his ancestor, came to America in 1698, after fifteen years' service in the armies of William of Orange. The family settled in St. John's Parish—now Liberty County—Georgia, in 1760. His father, William LeConte, was the elder brother of the distinguished scientists, John and Joseph LeConte.

His mother was Sarah A. Nisbet, of a Scotch-Irish family which settled in North Carolina, about 1750. His great-grandfather, John Nisbet, was a member of the first Constitutional Convention of North Carolina; his grandfather, Dr. James Nisbet, helped make the Georgia Constitution of 1798, and his uncle, Eugenius A. Nisbet, was a member of Congress, a Supreme Court Justice, and a delegate to the Secession Convention. He also wrote the Ordinance of Secession, which separated Georgia from the Union.

Mr. LeConte was born in Liberty County, but on the death of his father, the family removed to Macon, where he grew up. He was educated at Franklin College (now the U. of G.), and Oglethorpe, receiving his A.B. degree from the latter in 1858.

He served through the late war, coming out as Adjutant of the 66th Georgia Regiment. He married, in 1866, Miss Virginia Trimble, of whom union there were two sons, James A. and the late Dr. J. N. LeConte.
